waiian Islands.

BEFORE JUDD, C. J., BICKERTON AND FREAR, IJ.

Upon a charge of "keeping a disorderly house, to wit, a house kept for the sale of intoxicating drink without license," a conviction cannot be sustained upon proof of a single act of sale, without proof of other facts or circumstances tending to show that the house was kept for that purpose.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY JUDD, C. J. The defendant was charged on the 9th of last June in the District Court of Henolulu with the offense of "keeping a disorderly house in Hono-lulu within three months last past, to wit, a house kept for the sale of intoxicating drink without license." It was agreed between the prosecution and defense that the case should be submitted on the evidence taken in the case of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands vs.

John Richards, heard by the District Court two days previous.

The evidence is substantially this: On the 31st of May last three persons, two of them detective officers, went into defendant's house in Nuuenu Valley called the "Half Way House," and each obtained a drink of whisky from a demijohn containing this liquor, delivered to them by the hands of one John Richards (who was a boarder at the house) and these persons paid for the same. The defendant Wery was at the time asleep in another room of the house. Richards was convicted in license, but was acquitted by the Hawaiian Jury at the last August of the following people: Term of the Circuit Court, First Circuit. The District Magistrate found the defendant Wery guilty and sen-tenced him to pay a fine of $10 and costs, whereupon he appealed to the Supreme Court on the point of law to convict him of keeping a house for the sale of intoxicating drink without license.

The statute is Chap. XLII of the Penal Code. It reads, Sec. 1. "Whoever shall keep a disorderly house shall be punished where no other resort for such purpose."

In the case before us there was no evidence either of the reputation of defendant's house as one kept for the sale of intoxicating liquor without license, or of any facts or circumstances tending to show that it was a house of that character, except the single instance of sale referred to. This might be an exceptional, isolated instance, and would not show that the house was "kept" for that purpose. It would require more than one act of sale or other facts or circumstances to prove that it was a house of that character. We therefore sustain the appeal.

This was all the "evangelist" would say. He closed his door and withdrew into the sanctity of his chamber, and wrapped about him, besides his dressing gown, cloak of injured innocence that seems to be impervious to the many rumors that are affeat concerning him. Whether or not he intends suing the papers that published the reports for libel, is known only to himself at present but from the mysterious "I will let them know soon enough," that he uttered, he evidently has deep designs to "get even" on some one.

CAMPING OUT PARTY.

A Hamakuan's Description of a

Trip up Maunakea. A camping-out party started from Kukaiau, Hamakua, for Maunakea. It consisted of a number of prominent citizens of this district; among the number were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Horner, of the Unakoa ranch : Mr. Robert Horner and the Misses Annie and Alice Horner, of Kukaiau; Mr. and Mrs. Eben Low and Miss Mary Low, of Puuhue; Mr. Wm. Horner and Miss Catherine Horner, of Kukuihaele; Mrs. Blacow, of Hamakua, and a number of other persons. guides, etc. President Dole, who for the past few days has been the guest of J. M. Horner, Esq., was expected to * be one of the party, but he pre-ferred the more quiet pleasures of riding among the cane fields and viewing the various industries to climbing mountains; he, however, regretted his choice when he missed. But I must return to these mountain climbers, and will say that it is generally agreed that this was the most enjoyable outing party drive over with comfort, but not that has been got up from this side wide enough for two vehicles to of the island. Indeed, they had pass. This is a great boon for everything in their favor—good those who are not at home on the pack-mules, good camping outfits and guides, and were also fortunate in having delightful weather. So there was nothing to do but enjoy the exhilarating ride, the invigorating breeze and the glorious scenery.

The first object of interest we meet on this journey is the forest, and I believe I may say without the least exaggeration that for magnificence, for luxuriance and for variety and beauty the Hawaiian forests will compare favorably with anything of the kind in the known world. The sight of so great a variety of trees, plants and the various hues of the foliage is so real a pleasure as never to be forgotten. Passing out of the forest we come to the plains; here we find the scenes varied and enlivened by the great number of wild animals. Here, too, if one is a hunter, he may have a shot at the wild boar, or a wild buil, or he may try the speed of his high bred steed

All these scenes are interesting, but the great attraction is to be Hilo people are delighted at the found at the top of Mauna Kea. Here the great natural curiosities. the great and bottomless lake, the caves and quarries where the ancient Hawaiians made their implements of war, are to be found. Even now may be found many of those ancient relics of barbarism. But wonderful and strange as they may appear, they are nothing when compared with the indescribable grandeur which spreads itself before the view, and which surrounds one on every side. It is doubtful

THE OLD TIME SUNDAYS.

The Difference Between Past and Present Sabbaths in Honolulu.

Arthur McDowell's gang of men working on the stranded steamer Miowera Sunday brought out from some of the old time sea captains who were watching the proceedings from the wharf a few stories of how strict the laws were here some thirty years ago about any work being done on Sunday. One said that it was against the law to bring in a foreign vessel on a Sunday, and he remembered that the captain of a German brigantine who anchored his ship off the harbor on Sunday was arrested and fined for the "offense." Hunting game and hiring horses on a Sunday was also prohibited, and altogether it was perhaps a novel sight for the old kamaainas, who were The first regular effort to instruct used to the old regime, to see

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The royalist organ, which at times has been obliged to pay its men off at the end of the week with a paltry $2 each and still claims it is libeled when called bankrupt, now objects to the use of the term "American" as used by Americans. Our esteemed Canadian contemporary is very careful, however, in enlarging its argument to declare that the revolution of last January was "a revolt against constituted authority." It is just as careful, forsooth, not to say that the late revolution was a revolt against a violation of the constitutional law of Hawaii by the ex-queen and her backers. Will our needy contemporary never learn that the nation's independence was not threatened when the "constituted authority" of royalty was overthrown, but when exroyalty attempted to overthrow the "constitutional authority" of these islands in last January?

There is certainly no objection to journalistic enterprise, but we feel like duty calls upon us to draw the line when our friend, the Star, publishes, without credit, a large portion of our special correspondent's account of the yacht race between the Vigilant and Valkyrie. This correspondence is paid for by the ADVERTISER and it looks to us as though "amateur" journalism demanded that its re-publication should be credited to this paper.

The public debt statement made by the minister of finance Thursday, relating to the debts paid off and the public works executed since the 17th of last January, is something unprecedented in Hawaiian history. The Provisional government has paid out, since it came into power, nearly a million and a quarter of dollars, and in the meantime, under perhaps the heaviest strain the country ever underwent or will ever undergo, the net increase of the public debt has been but $3,374.80. Can the adherents of royalty point to a like showing within a similar period?

President Dole formally resumed control of the Provisional government Thursday. He returns to his duties and his friends renewed in health and strengthened in his faith that the future of Hawaii must be onward. When he appeared in the councils Thursday he was greeted with a silent applause further than the booming of cannon. President Dole is not a hero, but he is a man among his fellow men. He is a republican who needs no of suspicion which follows ordinary elevation. Even his enemies cause he represents to a man.

The Holomua, to supply its dearth of brains, is at present engaged in the labor-saving task of publishing exclusively those portions of the debates of the school boys of the California and Leland Stanford universities, favorable to the royalist cause. Crude as these school-boy efforts are, they are much better than the usual effusions of royalist editors thrust upon the public. Probably the other side of the question is put quite as weakly as the royalist side; but of this we are unable to judge as the "other | vember 1st. side" will never be published in the sions has been spoken of in open session. The bare fact that as soon as anything is brought before a special session it at once becomes public property, either through the newspapers or upon the streets, is a strong argument against the continuance of special sessions. It is a question if the executive council should not handle all "special" matters solely. Of what avail is it to turn such over to the advisory council for consideration, if they are to be at once turned over to the public by individual members of the council? The proceedings of special sessions can reach the public in no way unless divulged by members. Members of the advisory council may protest they do not tell; still the doings of every special session are known on the streets within half an hour after adjournment every Thursday afternoon. It is safe to say that matters of private import never yet have reached the public through the members of the executive council. and this brings us back to the point that those matters which really require secrecy should be determined in executive council, and all others should be discussed in open session.

While on this point, we wish to state that all departments of the Provisional government should be open to the representatives of the press. At the present time there is but one bureau connected with the government that refuses this privilege to the press. We refer to the board of education. It is hard to see why the meetings of the board of education should not be as fully reported as those of the board of health. Members of the board of education have been spoken to on this point and they see no reason why the press should not be admitted to the meetings of that body. In fact there seems to be no good reason except the inheritance of exclusiveness which has been handed down from the monarchy The line to be subject to a number in the matter of running certain of conditions in favor of the governpublic bureaus. CHICAGO, Oct. 4, 1893,-October 31st will end one of the greatest expositions the world has ever seen or will be likely to see, and on October 9th will be shown one of the grandest pagents ever recorded in history. Artists are working hard on the designs for floats for Chicago day, as such will be observed on the 9th inst.; the drawing for that of the board of trade, representing commerce, is now undergoing its metamorphosis; it will soon be one of the most beautiful in the long line of gorgeous pageants. Commerce will be about thirty feet long and fifteen feet wide, pulled by thirty white horses covered with white satin trimmed with gold; they will be driven three abreast, each one will have a groom uniformed in white and gold. On each horse's head will be an incandescent electric light, and about three hundred and fifty of these lights will be strung along the lines of the float a few inches apart. On the corners of the float will be represented the different divisions of the country-the north by wheat, the south by cotton, the east by fruits and the west by corn. The U. S. S. Boston.

The Boston came briskly into port and went into Mission bay, anchoring off Mission rock says the San Francisco Chronicle of October 8. This part of the harbor is so seldom frequented except by large vessels that are in distress, either leaking or dismantled, or wish to lay idle at a safe anchorage, that the peculiar behavior of the Boston caused any amount of comment. All kinds of rumors were in circulation.

"Why did you anchor in this out-of-the-way place?" asked a re-porter of Captain Day, after the Boston had been boarded from a shore boat.

"Well," said the captain, settling himself back in his big arm-chair and smiling pleasantly, "I was here about five years ago in the Mohican, and I consider this part of the bay a safe anchorage. It makes no difference to me what is said; we are here.

"DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, HonoLult, October 19th, 1893.

Siz:-Referring to the immunity from official duties which I have enjoyed during the past few weeks by the considera tion of the executive and advisory council, I take pleasure in informing the council that it is now agreeable to me to again assume such duties.

In this connection I wish to call the attention of the council to the proposition which has been made by the cabinet to separate the offices of the president and minister of foreign affairs, and thereby relieve the president from the manage ment of the foreign office, and to ask their careful consideration of the proposed change.

Although the state of my health renders this measure somewhat important to me at the present time, I desire that the question shall be considered impersonal by, with the view of making the office of president as well as that of minister foreign affairs as useful an effective as possible.

SAMOA.

An Investigation to be Held in Apia-Notes.

The following news items are taken from the weekly Samoan Times and Herald, to hand per R. M. S. S. Monowai:

THE TROUBLE AT TUTULLA. On September 22 the Katoomba proceeded to Pago Pago, having on board Mr. Maben, secretary of state, and others representing the government. Immediately on arriving at Pago Pago on Friday, the Faipules went on shore and told the chiefs of that place to gather all their people together. They replied that they could not do so on Saturday, but by the following Monday morning they would have them present. On Monday when Captain Bickford and Mr. Maben went ashore they found that all were present excepting three chiefs of Leone who had not been properly notified. Captain Bickford then informed the chiefs present that he had communicated to the government the fact of their having told him that they were ready to come to Apin whenever required. The king's au-thority to the government representa-tives, notifying them that in order to have the matters in dispute thoroughly investigated, it was necessary to have the chiefs of both parties present in Mulinuu, was then read, also the order of the king to the chiefs of Pago Pago to immediately proceed to Apia by the men-of-war, so that the investigation might be proceeded with. They were informed that the Aunuu chiefs had already gone to Apia in the Buzzard, and that if they refused to Buzzard, and that if they refused to go peaceably sufficient force would be sent to compel them to obey the commands of the king. Leiato then replied on behalf the Pago Pago chiefs, stating that there was no intention of their part of violat-ing the promise made to Captain Bickford on his previous visit, and that they were ready to go on board the man-of-war when required. The the man-of-war when required. The captain then informed them that they were to come on board before sundown on that day. They requested permission to be allowed to bring a servant each with them to attend to their food and perform other necessary services during their stay at Mulinuu, which permission was granted. They were then cautioned to inform their people that they must be careful not to provoke quarrels nor commit depreda-tions, otherwise steps would be taken to punish the offenders. The chiefs then in presence of Captain Bickford and Mr. Mahen admonished their followers to keep quiet and be on their best behavior. A present of food was given to the captain and government representatives, after which they returned to the Katoomba. The chiefs came on board and remained all night. On the following morning they were transferred to the Sperber, which, with them and the government repre-

The chiefs came on board and the Aua and Fagatoga natives returned to Pago Pago the same day and commenced to rebuild their houses. At first they kept together and their guns were very much in evidence, but they were told by Captain Bickford and Mr. Maben that they must put their guns away and make no demonstration of a hostile character. No speech-making on the part of the natives was allowed in reference to the disturbances, they being informed that there was nothing for them to do but obey the King's orders, and that they would have an opportunity to justify themselves when the investigation took place. The Katoomba remained in Pago Pago for a few days to see the returned people were not interfered with, and to suppress any disturbances that might arise. No trouble was, however, anticipated. The investiga-tion into the causes of the trouble will take place in all probability during the ensuing week.

A resident of Pago Pago has informed us that the Leiata party are undoubtedly to blame for all that has occurred. That after promising to maintain peace they, while the Katoomba was yet in sight of Pago Pago, destroyed account trees which prodestroyed cocoanut trees which pro-duced over $600 per year. Also, that on another occasion they drove the Aunnu women, who were fishing ashore, and, after stripping them naked, marched them for about three they gave them two cocoanuts each and drove them into the sea, com-pelling them to swim to Aunnu-a distance of about a mile. Had a trader there not put off with his boat some of them would surely have been drowned. The man who was last shot was killed by an Aunnu man, whose wife he had outraged, so that the killing was, in this case, simply an act of revenge.

The North German Lloyd's steamship Karlsruhe took her departure re-cently for Europe via Australia. She had as passengers 270 officers and men from the Buzzard and Sperber. harbor at the time of her departure was a scene of great animation, owing to the cheering of the various crews and the music from the bands of the different war vessels.

We mentioned the fact recently of a stowaway having been landed from the Alameda, in defiance of the rules of the port. We are able to state that the gentleman referred to took his departure by the Mariposa on Wed-nesday considerably richer than when he arrived, he having stolen a gold brooch and a suit of clothes from a gentleman who has been supporting him for the last five weeks.

The Samoans are now paying their taxes at the rate of four shillings to the dollar. If such really is the case we have no hesitation in saying that a gross injustice is being done to foreign residents, who are being mulcted a loss on exchange in addition to be-ing forced to pay, while for a long time past the Samoans have been left to pay or not, just as they pleased. We will always contend that for all purposes in Samoa British currency is equal to the United States but if for-eign residents are compelled to pay in United States coin or lose the exchange the same should most certainly be applied to the Samoans. The measles epidemic is still raging fiercely, and as yet shows no signs of abating. The death roll is, we regret to say, increasing rapidly, especially outside the municipality, not a day passing without its being added to. As far as we have been able to learn already about 150 people have fallen victims, in most cases entirely through their own carelessuess in not carrying out the instructions given to them. The change in the weather has, as might have been expected, caused many deaths, and we trust for the sake of those suffering, and who may suffer, that fine weather may be experienced until our dread visitor has left us.

The non-arrival of the United States ship of war Philadelphia has caused great disapointment on the beach. Plenty of good dollars were expected to be left behind by this vessel on her departure, and therefore it may be readily understood that therein lay ample grounds for tribulation. To go beyond this filthy lucre view of the matter, and to soar into the realms of politics, intelligent people must regret extremely the order for Samoa being countermanded, as, perhaps, had she reached here, it might have been considered a good opportunity for joint action being taken to disarm the natives, a work that we all know is of the utmost importance.

For my part, I shall employ all possible ingenuity for making the undertaking a success. I do not know yet how many men I am going to employ. I shall use all the steam power available on board the steamer. The tug and one of Wilder's steamers will be out there to do the towing as soon as I have the gear ready. I will

"Yes; there will be no such thing as Sunday when I begin to do this work. I shall keep at it all the time until the steamer is floated." "How many scows are you going

The Steam Fishing Vessel U. S. Grant Sues John D. Spreckels.

The trial of the suit of the owners of the steam fishing vessel U.S. Grant against J. D. Spreckels & Bro. for salvage has been commenced before Judge Morrow in the United States circuit court. It is alleged by the plaintiffs that on May 21, 1893, at 3:30 o'clock in the morning, the Grant discovered a vessel sending up signals of dis-tress and rapidly drifting on the rocks near Point Diablo. The Grant went to the rescue and found the endangered vessel to be the John D. Spreckels, sugar laden, bound for this port. The Grant, its owners say, saved the John D. Spreckels at a great risk and towed the ship into port. For this they demand a sufficient sum to reimburse them for the risk taken and the trouble and expense incurred. The complaint values the John D. Spreckels at $50,000 and its cargo of sugar at $150,000.—S. F. Exam-

Admiral Skerrett will leave by the China on November 6th for San Francisco, where his flag will be transferred to the U.S.S. Boston. Just where he will be sent from there it is difficult to say, and the admiral himself is as much in the dark as anyone.

"I was greatly surprised to re-ceive orders to leave Honolulu," said the admiral Thursday afternoon. "I expected to be here for some time to come and do not know where I will be sent to. Captain Barker of the Philadelphia will be the senior officer in my absence."

On the subject of the San Fran-cisco service, the postmaster-general states in his report to parliament that the twelve months agreement concluded with the contractors will end in November next, and that & further renewal until November, 1894, will be arranged. It will be for the new parliament to determine what shall be the future arrangements for maintenance of mail communications with Europe. No further action has been taken by the United States postoffice toward establishing a fortnightly mail service between San Francisco, New Zealand and Australia, nor has it increased its contributions to the present service. Heavy American territorial transit charges are still enforced, and it is now doubtful whether any reduction will be se cured until the question is dealt with by the postal union convention, which is to meet at Washington in 1897. The San Francisco service shows a loss of £7,485 19s 2d for the year, as against £2,454 11s 11d for 1891, the difference being almost entirely due to increased payments for transit of homeward mails across America, and an Atlantic increase in the quantity of mail matter conveyed by San Francisco steamers has necessitated an assistant mail agent being sent by each vessel.—New Zealand Star.

Pronounced a Job.

The Canadian-Honolulu-Australian steamship line is hopeful that the British Admiralty will class their vessels for the navy as merchant cruisers, or nautical Mercuries. Therein the company is likely to be disappointed. There have been loud complaints of late against the whole policy of subsidizing merchant steamers upon taxes them in fact for their rivals. Already there is enough of this in England. During war time there would be no difficulty in chartering hundreds of merchant steamers at low rates. This kind of subsidy is pronounced a job by the British. -S. F. Call.

Another Steamer.

There is a possibility of another steamer being put on the Canadian-Australian line in the near future. The following dispatch to the New Zealand Herald is self-explanatory:

"London, Sept. 20 .- Mr. Huddart states that he is willing the steamers should call at Brisbane, prosubsidy to the line. He is con-vinced that the other governments made a port of call also, as soon as the third steamer is put on.'

Must Go to Jail.

A decision was handed down by the supreme court yesterday morning, which decided that Christian Gertz would have to serve out his six menths' sentence and pay the fine of $500, imposed by Judge Whiting for having opium in his possession unlawfully. Gertz had applied for a new trial on several grounds, but his petition was denied. An order was sent to the marshal yesterday, with instructions to take Mr. Gertz to jail and to enforce the payment of the fine.

OCTOBER 24, 1893.

THE GOVERNMENT'S BACKING.

The Provisional government stands in the position of a guardian of the political rights and liberty which were placed in its hands by the people in last January. The great mass meeting which preceded the overthrow of the monarchy represented the foreigners of Honolulu without distinction of nationality. They were moved by the necessity of political self preservation, and the power which was ultimately placed in the government's hands was derived through the action and with the consent of the taxpayers of Hawaii. It is therefore only with the consent and support of these citizens that the terms of the final settlement of the Hawaiian question can be justly consummated. We believe the Provisional government fully realizes this fact, and that should the proposition for annexation be held in abeyance for any reaannexation will be made without the consent, and after consultation with those supporting the government whose combination and resistance to the corruptions of the government possible.

As to the present intent and purpose of the foreigners of Hawaii haele. Her funeral took place there is no doubt. They did not on Sunday, 15th inst. from Kapugo into the annexation movement lena, her residence, and was atwith any idea of ever taking a hand from the plow. It would be fatal to the commercial and political interests of the islands to do so

The movement is backed by Englishmen, Germans, Portuguese and Americans, whose investments and homes are here. The annexation movement does not represent any one nationality, although a majority of its supporters are probably Americans and their descendants. Many of the most influential supporters are to be found among the English and German merchants and planters, while the Portuguese residents are almost to a man in lavor of the movement.

So long as the Provisional government carries out the trust placed in its hands it will receive the political and moral support of fully appreciate the fact that the Provisional government has given the islands the best and most economical regime the islands have had, with one brief exception, since the ante-Gibson days.

On the question of annexation the foreigners are virtually a unit. Outside of the few politicians who are putting themselves forward as leaders of the Honolulu natives, there are probably not more than a score of reputable citizens advocating the cause of ex-royalty. This fact is reported as having been deserted in itself significant. It shows the foreigners are as closely united as ever on the question of obtaining good government for Hawaii, and it also points to the fact that they are the power back of the Provisional government. The natives throughout the islands are already showing increased indifference to the restoration of the monarchy. This is perfectly natural. What the natives want is good times and poi; not politics and the tinsel of royalty.

A HOPELESS UNDERTAKING.

Those feeble-minded folk among us who fancy that the public sentiment in the United States can be rallied to the rescue of the vanquished and vanished Hawaiian menarchy afford a curious study in mental pathology. They remind us of the story of the classical simpleton "who tried to milk a he-goat into a seive." In the first place he got no milk, and in the second place, if he had got any the seive Office.

would not have held it. However much of the milk of human kindness the American people may possess, they will never "give down" for the benefit of a monarchial system which has gone 12-PAUE EDITION, to pieces through its own inherent weakness and rottenness. These bubble-blowers, and rainbow chasers, and seekers after fairy gold will learn in due time the magnitude of the task they have set for themselves, and will be sadder men, though it is unlikely that anything will ever make them wise. In the meantime, we extend to them that sympathy and commiseration which all right-minded people naturally feel for men who are spending their time and strength in a perfectly hopeless undertaking. Princess Kaiulani's Guardian.

Mr. Theophilus H. Davies of England, the guardian of Princess Kaiulani, claimant to the defunct throne of Hawaii, was among the visitors at the White House and it was naturally supposed that he would endeavor to enlist the president's sympathy in his ward's lost cause. It turned out, however, that he had merely called to renew a pleasant acquaintance with Private Secretary Thurber, formed when he and the princess were here in the spring. At least that is the explanation of his visit given at the White House. Mr. Thurber told a Star reporter that Mr. Davies had called to see him and had not gentlemen, that 90,000 is not popula-tion enough to constitute a sovereign, independent nation, levying war and the president. Temperance Beverages.

An English journal furnishes the following suggestions for non-alcoholic drinks:

"Stokos is prepared thus: Put from four to six ounces of fresh oatmeal, ground as fine as flour, into a pan, mix with a little cold water to the substance of cream, then add five or six ounces of loaf sugar and a fresh lemon cut in slices with the pips taken out; add a gallon of boiling water. Stir thoroughly while the water is being poured on. Use hot, warm or cold. The lemon may be omitted, or any other flavoring used instead. Costs 3d. a gallon, or five gallons 1s.; four lemons are enough for five gallons

"Cokos is a good nourishing drink, made as follows: Put four ounces of fresh fine ground oatmeal and four ounces of cocoa into a pan, mixed with a little cold water into a thin batter, then add six ounces of sugar, pour on a gallon of boiling water (stir while water is being added).

Take to the field in a stone jar.

Costs 4d. a gallon.

"Hopkos is a good harvest drink:
Boil one-half ounce of ginger (bruised) in one and one-half gallons of water for lons of water for twenty-five minntes; then strain and bottle, or put into a cask while hot; it will be ready for drinking when cold. It should be kept in a cool place. Dried horehound may be used instead of hops. Costs 3d. a gallon."

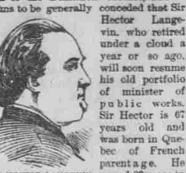

The inventor of "stokos," "cokos" and "hopkos" is Mr. John Abbey, of Normich who

His friends are now of the opinion that he was made a scapegoat in the McGreevy matter, and they are anxious for him to return to public life. Sir Hector has always been a loyal subject of the queen, and in a recent interview on the subject of Canadian independence and annexation he expressed himself as follows:

"I contend that independence for us means absorption. Some say that 'annexation could not take place otherwise than by a treaty made freely by both countries according to their mutual interests and wishes.' What freedom could independent Canada expect with its 5,000,000 of people from the United States and their 70,000,000 of population? am therefore of opinion that any treaty in such a case would be dictated to the weak nation by the powerful one.

"The annexation of our country to the United States would not promote the commercial prosperity or general welfare of Canada or of the province of Quebec. It would at once take away from us our best customer. The tariff of the United States would become ours. Our manufactories and industries would be in competition with those of the United States. Canada would be flooded with the manufactured goods of our great neighbors, and very soon our own manufactories and industries would disappear or fall into the hands of the Americans of the United States.

We are better off with our present position. We deal ourselves with our own tariffs. We may change them when we please. We have all the advantages of an independent state without its dangers and without many of its burdens. Annexation would mean that in case of war our soldiers would have to go to any part of the United States for their defenses. We would have to contribute to their army, navy, general administration of the Union and embassy and cousular expenses. My opinion is that instead of improving our position we would be worse off. When our population has increased to 25,000,000 or 30,-000,000, then may be the time to consider what changes may be made in our political position. A nation of 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 of people could not be absorbed as one of 5,000,000."

There's as much difference in the quality of fence wire as there is between a poor quality of paints and Hendry's Ready Mixed. American wire, the kind usually sold here, is not as good as the English or German, for that reason we do not keep it. We import ours direct from the manufacturers in Europe and it has given perfect satisfaction wherever we have sold it. Now about paints! When we conclude to add to our new lines, it is only after careful consideration. If the article happens to be new to this district we first investigate and ascertain the quality first and then the demand; on the other hand if the article is something already in the market and the tastes and needs of the people demand something better correspondence or interviews with the manufacturers give us the necessary information as to whether it may be improved upon Hendry's Ready Mixed Paint in the result of a conference. Like other storekeepers we have sold mixed Paints since this business was started, but they were for carriages, Hendry's Ready Mixed Paints are for high class interior or exterior decoration.

The demand for improvements in fences resulted in our obtaining the agency for Jones' Locked Fence and in it you will find the strongest and most economical wire fence in the world. Six cents a piece for wire stays is more economical than redwood posts at 18 cents and yet the stays admirably fill the place of the posts. A mile of this fence a week is about our average sale.

MILLS ARRIVES.

THE NEW CONSUL-GENERAL COMES ON THE OCEANIC.

He is Uncommunicative on the Hawallan Situation at Washington.

As the steamer Oceanic steamed up the harbor Tuesday afternoon, a large crowd of people were congregated on the wharf, hoping for the arrival of either Minister Willis or Consul-General Mills, or both. The latter came, and, though he tried to avoid any demonstration, he could not help having his arm almost shaken off his body by the enthusiastic natives on the wharf.

As soon as the steamer docked, Consul-General Severance, Vice-Consul Boyd and Major Potter went on board to welcome Mr. Mills. As soon as he could make his way through the dense crowd on the wharf, Mr. Mills was driven to the consulate. The crowd followed him to the carriage, cheermany followed the carriage till it reached the consulate.

Mr. Mills was seen on the steamer, and said he was very glad to be here again. "I came very near missing the Oceanic, as the train I was on was twenty-four hours late, and I only arrived in San Francisco the day the steamer

'There is nothing new that I can tell you now. Everything is very quiet in Washington, as far as Hawaiian affairs are concerned. We had a splendid passage down, and I enjoyed every moment of it; but you may be sure I am most pleased to be on terra firma again.

One of the passengers stated that Mr. Mills had said that he would "have to see the Admiral as soon as he arrived in Honolulu." Whether in connection with matters pertaining to annexation or not could not be ascertained. Mr. Mills could probably say a good deal if he wished, but he evidently considers, as did Mr. Blount, that silence is golden.

BLAINE AND SPRECKELS.

Prior to the accession of Kamehameha III. as king of the Hawaiian Islands, all the land of the island kingdom were regarded as the property of the king, but, in 1840, Kamehameha made a tripartite division of them. One-third he retained as crown lands for the benefit of himself and his heirs, the other two-thirds were divided among the natives, or set aside as government lands for the purpose and now constitutes a part of the over a change of administrations sugar plantations.

He does not stand alone in his desire to elevate his country and its people, although there are selfish sugar planters who prefer large holdings, worked by Chinese serfs, to satisfy their individual lust for gain.

Secretary Blaine was alive to the situation, and the undesirability of a large Chinese settlement in Hawaii. In an official dispatch, dated December 1, 1881, addressed to Minister James M. Comly, he said: "The industrial and productive development of Hawaii is on the increase, and the native people, never sufficiently numerous to develop the full resources of the islands, have been supplemented by an adventitious labor element, from China mainly, until the rice and sugar fields are largely filled by aliens. The worst of this state of things is that it must inevitably keep on in increasing ratio, the native class growing smaller, the insular production larger and the immigration to supply the want of labor greater every year." In the light of subsequent events, these words seem almost prophetic. Dur-ing the decade since they were penned the native people have indeed grown fewer, the insular production has grown larger and the immigration, from China mainly, has grown greater every year. Mr. Spreckels knows this, and he dreads annexation worse than leprosy, because it would check this Chinese labor supply and diminish his saccharine profits. He cares as little for the "native element" as he does for the interests of the United ground that no action should be direction of annexation or the without the consent of the natives. nexation or a protectorate be subing and waving their hats, and mitted to a vote of all the natives, as well as foreigners, and that the future policy of the United States respecting Hawaii be determined by their decision. This, says our Washington contemporary, "practically means that the queen is to be restored to power, as she is said to be popular among the natives, and it will mean the further and Cook is not sur complete ascendency of Claus Spreckels." It is possible that the nature of Mr. Blount's report may have been correctly guessed at, but the conclusion drawn from it does not necessarily follow. It is quite likely that the kanakas, under present conditions, would vote against annexation, but that doesnot mean the restoration of the queen. The question, so far as known, is not to be submitted to vote. The question is simply whether the islands are to come under the control of the United States. If the people vote in the negative, the present government remains in control, unless the partisans of the queen are strong enough to overthrow it, which is not likely. Certainly it is not the business of the United States to help them. Probably, if the idea of annexation were were found hidden in the volumin-definitely abondoned, the Pro-ous folds of Chow's trousers, and visional government would set up a constitution with limited suffrage, and things would go on regardless of the wishes of the natives. The most desirable thing would be to have the present uncertainty in some way brought to an end. A LOST WILL.

Mr. Blaine not only saw the inevitable, he also suggested a remedy. He thought that "a purely American form of colonization in in such a case would meet all the phases of the problem." He sug-gested that the United States could supply "the necessary labor trained ip the rice swamps and cane fields of the southern states." It seems almost like an intervention of providence that Claus Spreckels should now come along with thoughts of this same southern labor, which he characterizes as the only well paid labor in the United States, and it is suggestive of former conferences between the statesman and the sugar planter.—Springfield Union.

Robert Brown, of Koolan, Hides His Now Last Testament.

A curious will case has just come to light. Some time ago John Cooke and Robert Brown, of Koolau, were great friends. Brown was the younger, but he made his will in favor of the elder man. That will he left in the possession of his heir, and thereby hangs a tale.

When Brown made his last will and testament in favor of Cook the latter was fully aware of the circumstance and kept the will in his desk, with the full consent of Mr. Brown. A few days ago Mr. Cook was called to Hawaii on business. He left word for Mr. Brown to go to his desk, where he kept his money, and to help himself to such sums as he saw fit.

Mr. Brown was taken sick and went to the Queen's hospital. Before going there he had been to Mr. Cook's house, and had, presumably, helped himself to the contents of the desk. While at the hospital he died.

When Mr. Cook went to Hawaii the will that Brown had made A Washington paper professes was safe in his desk. When he to have penetrated the secret of came back Brown was dead and the Mr. Blount's Hawaiian report. It will was gone from his desk. He asserts that Mr. Blount takes the did not, at the time, connect the disappearance of the will with Mr. taken by the United States in the Brown's sickness, and when he was asked by Mr. Eckart, of the establishment of a protectorate hospital, what he should do with the clothes of Mr. Brown, Mr. Cook The report is said to recommend said to burn them, as they were of that all questions relating to an- no use to him, or to anyone that he knew of.

Here was where Mr. Cook made his mistake. In the clothes that Mr. Brown wore was the will that he had made in favor of Mr. Cook, and the latter had ordered those same clothes burned; and burned they were, regardless of their val-

Now that the will is burned Mr. Cook is not sure whether he is the heir or not. If the witnesses to the will can be produced he will probably come into the property left by Mr. Brown; if not it will fall to his heirs if he has any, or to the government if no heirs can be found. The next time Mr. Cook is asked about clothing he will stop and | MORTONS HAIR OIL, & and & pints, think before he orders it burned.

A CHINESE SMUGGLER.

A Maunakea Street Chinaman Ties to Hide Opium in His Trousers.

Low Chow, a member of the Chinese firm of Boo Yuen Lung & Co., was arrested Wednesday, and charged with having opium in possession. Four tins of the drug he was a very weak Chinaman when he was searched at the sta-

Chow, with a brother Celestial, was observed by Officer Stone to be acting rather suspiciously on board the Oceanic Wednesday morning. They were watched by Officer Stone, who saw them buy eight tins of opium, and go into one of enough for Stone, however, for the officer followed him into the carriage, and drove at once to the police station. Chow made but little "kick," but protested his innocence. When he was searched, and the four tins found between his legs, he wilted at once.

Stone, the arresting officer, then started back to the wharf, to catch the accomplice. He was a little late, however, and although he found his man, he had had plenty of time to secrete the opium. He accompanied the officer to the station, and went on Chow's bonds.

As Accurate as Usual.

The editor of the Hawaiian Star has made a slight miscalculation in his article on the Midwinter Fair. He says that the number of people living in the bay district is about 375,000 souls. As a matter of fact, the population of the counties near enough to the city of San Francisco to permit their inhabitants to visit the fair and return to their homes the same day was nearly 700,000 in 1890, according to the census of that year, and will not be much less than 800,000 on the 1st of January, 1894. In addition, there are at least 200,000 people more to whom the fair will be easily and economically accessible. The writer made the mistake of ignoring the fact that nearly threefourths of California's population resides in the bay counties, or those immediately adjoining. - S. F.

12-PAGE EDITION

TUESDAY. OCTOBER 24, 1893

EDITORIAL CORRESPUNDENCE.

I saw Mr. Thurston in Chicago the day I left that city. October 1. and he said there was nothing new to report regarding our treaty or Hawaiian affairs.

He did not credit the story published in the papers regarding the recommendation said to have been made by Mr. Blount of submitting the question to a popular vote, and it certainly did not come from Secretary Gresham, or the president, as absolutely nothing has been made public by either of them respecting the report, and if it did so recommend, it could have no influonce on the action of the Provisional government.

The only remark that has been made by the president was in response to a senator who inquired of him if anything was likely to be done at the extra session regarding Hawaiian affairs. Mr. Cleveland replied, "Nothing whatever will be done until after our financial affairs

This is authentic, and means that nothing will be done at the extra session, or even at the regu-Isr December session, until after the silver and tariff questions are definitely disposed of. These are considered of paramount importance at Washington, and Hawaiian matters must lie in abeyance till the more important domestic questions are settled.

The only thing that remains for us is to firmly maintain the present position of Hawaiian affairs under the Provisional government and at once sit down on any attempt to force restoration of the monarchy from whatever source it may come.

THE SYMPATRY DODGE.

The Bulletin not being able to compete with its business rivals either under the defunct monarchy or the Provisional government is again reduced to playing the sympathy dodge in the hope of prolonging its lease on life, which its merits as a business concern or a newspaper would long since have closed with a period. The printing law under which the Provisional government has been letting government printing since last January is the same law under which all went "merry as a marriage bell" with the Bulletin when it was engaged in the pleasant task of sucking "treasury pap" under ex-royalty.

The Bulletin whines at the unjustness of the old law. We admit papers. The Bulletin mentions an that almost any thing pertaining to either the politics or business methods of the monarchy has been for years open to criticism and amendment. The printing law which was interpreted by the rule of favoritism in the open and barefaced manner under the monarchy, especially by the Gibson and National reform regimes, certainly needs the amendment which the Provisional government is proposing to give it through the resolution lately introduced by the minister of finance. Had the monarchy remained in power, which was impossible after its abuses, it is more than likely the law would never have been changed and the Bulletin would never have whined.

At present we intend only replying to the strictures of the Bulletin made against the ADVERTISER and the Hawaiian Gazette Company. When the merits of this "jobbery' or printing law, long in force under the monarchy, comes up for discussion the ADVERTISER will have something to say on the awarding of printing contracts under that law, as it was formerly interpreted, which will more than likely not be edifying to the royalists.

The Bulletin asserts that an in-printing expenses of the Provision- THEY ASKED RESTORATION. al government" since last January would show that the Hawaiian Gazette Company (owner of the ADVERTISER) simply lives and moves and has its being from the public funds." This statement we brand as a lie; this is the plain English of it, and when the Bulletin's attack is so evidently made from business jealousy, as in this instance, there is no necessity of mincing matters by seeking a more polite and less expressive epithet.

Perhaps the Bulletin, which is lately given to using the truth with such persistent frugality, will remember the time under the monarchy when a notice was posted in the interior office ordering that advertising was not to be given the ADVERTISER without the special order of the head of that department? This was before the Provisional government came into power, when the Bulletin had full swing on "treasury pap" under the National reform party; and vet, in 1892, the ADVERTISER had more advertising and subscription patronage than would have been necessary to buy twice over all the issued stock of the Bulletin Company at par value. If the Bulletin wishes to challenge this statement, let it produce its figures and they will be met with sworn statements.

This was under the monarchy, when neither the ADVERTISER nor weekly Hawahan Gazette were given a government job except when the law demanded it should be given to the papers of the largest circulation, or where it was necessary to have notices published on the other islands.

The ADVERTISER and the Hawaiunder the monarchy, and the same feat could just as easily be performed under the Provisional or any other government established in Hawaii, if any political change, such as the one which now appears to be swamping the Bulletin, should take established upon business and not political principles, and this fact is fully appreciated by the advertisers and the reading public of Hawaii, as our books will show when compared, in any year lately and in any department, with those of our bankrupt contemporary.

One other point. The Bulletin charges that the ADVERTISER, as one of "the organs," has been "gobbling up patronage without authority." We are under the painful necessity of again exchanging the lie direct with our contemporary. The ADVERTISER has a general bid for government advertising, and when its services are needed the government becomes its patron. Our prices are fixed, and special bids have never been made from this office to cut under other newsinstance where "the publication of the laws was given out to the lowest bidder" under the monarchy. Perhaps the less the Bulletin has to say about that piece of gross favoritism the better, as the bids referred to are still on record.

As already stated the pumping plant at the Makiki reservoir is now in working order and the pumps are throwing into the mains of the Honolulu water system some million and a half gallons daily, without running at their full capacity. The water is lifted one hundred and fifty feet to the reservoir. One of the good effects of this government work is that the surplus water is flowing into the Nuuanu reservoir which is some fifty feet lower than the one at Makiki. The benefits derived from the new work are being felt and appreciated throughout the city. The present improvement shows how much can be accomplished with the expenditure among naval officers. Brown is a of a small amount of public money, when political jobbery and favoritism are withdrawn from the conduction of public bureaus.

The Honokaa Sugar Co. elected the following officers yesterday President, F. A. Schaefer: vicepresident, J. Marsden; treasurer, J. Hoting; secretary, H. Renjes; vestigation "of the advertising and auditor, M. McInerny.

Now John F. Colburn Demands Indemnity for Needy Royalists.

Under date of Honolulu, September 12th, John F. Colburn, a member of the deposed Hawaiian queen's cabinet, writes to Cæsar Celso Moreno, of this city, as fol-

"I have refrained from corresponding with any one in regard to the revolution that happened in our country, owing to the position that I held in her majesty Liliuokalani's cabinet. We all anticiwould appoint some one whom he had confidence in to investigate and sift the matter to the bottom, and the gentleman that he did send, Mr. J. H. Blount, was the right man in the right place.

"He has given satisfaction to both parties. I think, that is, the way he has conducted himself and his investigations. What his report will be, or what he will advise as the best for Hawaii no one except those immediately connected with him knows. I, speaking for myself-and I know I am voicing the sentiments of the Hawaiian people and such foreigners as have not allowed themselves to be narrow-minded by the object of immediate personal gain-hope and trust and do pray that the president of the United States of America and his chief advisers will do what is right, tair, just, and equitable for us, considering that our queen has been deprived of her throne, loyal subjects of their queen and the country precipitated into the trouble and debt through the connivance and assistance of America's representative and naval commander, and the troops and guns of the good ship Boston.

"The Hawaiian people ask from America nothing more than what is right, and that is to restore things as they were January 17, 1893, and indemnify us for damian Gazette Company managed to ages. I care nothing for these get along without government aid people here, Thurston and the rest under the monarchy, and the of his missionary brethren and their followers. The United States government, through its representative and naval commander, did us the wrong. Had they not acquiesced in the crimes that the rebels planned, and not only lent their moral assistance, but their physical assistance, against all international courtesy, Liliuokalani place again. The ADVERTISES and and her government would be in Hawaiian Gazette Company are power today. Hawaii would be prospering as has been her wont, and peace and happiness would reign supreme.

"We are waiting patiently for the affair, and the sooner it is decided the better it will be for all funds of the republican party in concerned. If our fate is to be California, but how he expects this annexed against our will we will to help him with a democratic adhave to succumb then to the inevitable, and will take our poison like men, although it will be a big dose, but if Providence shall rule that 'right shall be might,' then I expect our political enemies will swallow their medicine as it becomes them.

"The Hawaiian queen and her loyal subjects are accepting the situation like Christians. they not receive their just reward?"-Washington Post, Sept.

ADMIRAL GEORGE BROWN.

He is Now in Command of a Navy Yard.

Commodore George Brown, who has been promoted to rear-admiral by President Cleveland, is now in command of the Norfolk navy yard. He is a native of Indiana and was appointed to the naval academy from that state. He served through the war with distinction. He was at Valparaiso at the breakout of the Balmaceda rev-

Admiral Brown has seen a vast deal of service in the Pacific. He was in command of the vessels in Hawaiian waters for a considerable period and was on friendly terms with ex-queen Liliuokalani. It will be recalled that it was through Admiral Brown's efforts that the United States was granted by the queen's government the use of Pearl river harbor as a naval coaling station.

Admiral Brown favors the establishment of a protecterate over the Hawaiian islands, believing, as he does, that the natives are incapable of self-government. His promotion meets with a great deal of favor democrat, but notwithstanding this is a very intimate friend of ex-President Harrison. Harrison appointed his son to the naval academy .- S. F. SPRECKELS GOT THERE.

But Somehow He Failed to Stay, and the Annexationists were Sorry to See Him Leave.

Washington, Sept. 25. - The Hawaiian question has again been brought to prominence by the recent visit to Washington of Mr. Claus Spreckels, who has come out as a strong anti-annexationist in order that he may continue to employ cheap coolie labor on his sugar plantations. He started a controversy with Hawaiian Minister pated that President Cleveland Thurston and got utterly routed, would appoint some one whom he and since then Mr. Spreckels has left Washington, much to the regret of those who favor annexation, because they knew that his presence did harm to his own cause. They were really sorry to see him leave town, because his utterances have so plainly and strongly ac-centuated the fact that annexation is not desired as a sugar conspiracy in any way, but that anti-annexation is the desideratum of Mr. Spreckels that he may establish a planters' plutocracy of the few in opposition to the desires of the Provisional government to make it strong in Washington as ever it was, but other prominent topics, and the uncertainty of how Mr. Cleveland will act, keep opinions from being expressed.

It was remarked that Mr. Spreckels did not appear before the ways and means committee when the sugar men had their hearing. He probably thought it best not to do so, as he might have been crossquestioned too closely by the com-mittee as to his diversified sugar interests. In recent years Mr. Spreckels has become known as a lobbyist at Washington, and, it is true, he generally finds some poli-tical henchman willing to do his bidding. One of these was ex-Senator Felton, who is said to owe his political advancement entirely to Spreckels. Mr. Felton's successor, Senator Perkins, is also a friend of the sugar monopolist, being, in fact, associated in business with him as a large stockholder and director in Speckels' steamship company; and no doubt Spreckels had something to say as to the appointment of the new California senator, who will not be able to help him much politically, because he has hardly acquired his politi-cal land legs. Spreckels has always had a great idea of his own influence and importance here, though few others have. He is a liberal contributor to the campaign ministration it is hard to say Should Mr. Cleveland decide against annexation, Spreckels will without any doubt take to himself the credit of having worked it and "fixed him."-New York Sun.

Among the passengers of the Oceanic are Pung Quong Yu and Wang Hung Ting, both Chinamen of high degree, who are returning to their native land. The San Francisco market is steady and unchanged.

will introduce in the house a resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five to investigate and report on the transactions of the sugar trust, with power to sit during the sessions of Congress, send for persons and papers, to secure the aid of the department of justice, and, if the facts warrant, report a bill to annul the trust's corporate existence.

A dispatch from Philadelphia dated the 6th says: An evening paper has the following from Philadelphia: "The fact that Louis Spreckels, a nephew of the Sandwich islands sugar king, is in charge of one of the departments of the new McCahn refinery, which will soon begin operations in this city, has given rise to a rumor that Spreckels is interested in the McCahn Sugar Refining Com-

A dispatch from Washington dated the 6th says: The Democratic members of the ways and means commit-tee acknowledge that some difficul-ties have now been reached. The frame-work of the bill before the ma-jority is understood to be the draft submitted by Secretary Carlisle. It is understood that it has been defin-itely determined that the sugar bounty bill shall be repealed. A proposition has been made to place half a cent a pound on raw sugars or take iff the same rate on refined sugars. It is generally believed by the Demo-cratic members, not only of the committee but of the house, that the increase of internal revenue taxes is a part of the administration plan.

Hawaijan Annexation.

A dispatched from Washington, dated the 4th, says: "Albert S. Willis, the new minister to Hawali, had an interview with Secretary Gresham at the state department this morning. He received his final instructions and completed arrangements for his departure for his post of duty. He will leave here this evening for San Francisco, whence he will sail next week for Honolulu. Consul-General Mills will join Mr. Willis at San Francisco, and they will make the trip from there together. The action of the administration in sending a new minister to Hawaii is taken by many persons as an indication that it does not expect a very speedy settlement of the Hawalian question, and there are a few who regard it as conclusive of the adoption of a policy adverse to annexation of the islands. Thurston, the Hawaiian minister, who came to Washington a short time ago, to look into the situation, has gone back to Chicago under the impression that his presence here will not be required for at least several weeks, so far as treaty negotiations are concerned. The president will probably make no communication to the senate on the Hawali-an obestion until after the silver repeal bill is acted upon, and there is no immediate prospect of the publication of Blount's special reports. The statement is made with authority that the Hawalians are convinced that both the president and the commissioner are opposed to annexation, and they are in doubt as to whether a protec torate is favored.

A dispatch from Washington, dated the 5th, says: "The nature of Mr. Biount's recommendation regarding the annexation question, says a morn ing paper, is to the effect that no ac-tion should be taken by the United States to annex the islands or establish a protectorate over them without the full consent of all the natives. The report recommends that all ques rioss revolved in annexation and the establishment of a protectorate should be submitted to the vote of all the natives as well as the foreigners, and upon their decision should rest the future policy of the United States re-

If Cleveland adopts the recommendation submitted, it practically means that the queen is to be restored to power, as she is said to be popular among the natives, each of whose votes is to be equal to that of a foreigner, and it will mean the further and complete ascendency of Claus Spreckels, the sugar king.

Albert Willis, the new minister to Hawali, was again at the state department today and had another conference with Scoreiary Gresham on Hawaiian matters. Subsequently the two went over to the White Rouse and saw the president. Willis had the mady received instructions from the cretary of state, but it was not until notice that he was able to get from the president a personal statement on the subject of his policy toward the Hawaitan islands. The statement which has been published with regard to the recommend-ation by Minister Riount, "That no action would be taken by the United States to annex the islands of Hawaii or establish a protectorate over it without the full consent of all the natives," was not credited at the Hawai-wallan legation. Evidently no action is expected immediately at that legation, as Alexander, the special com-missioner to negotiate the annexation of Hawali to the United States, is in the matter, expressed the opinion that the statement was without foundation.

The Financial Fight.

The Senate is still struggling with the bill repealing the Sherman silver-purchase act. The silver men still continue their efforts to prevent a vote, but it looks as though Voorhies and his anti-silver crowd will succeed in forcing a continuous session till a vote is taken. Neither side is confident of success, and it is believed that the gold men will have to accept a compromise or be defeated. Some of the Democratic leaders are talking compromise, but Cleveland is said to be out for repeal or nothing. It is believed the result will be known this week. It is rumored on good authority that Cleveland will issue gold bonds to the extent of $100,000,000 in order to bring the gold reserve up to the two hundred million point, so that cur-rency circulation will have a sound backing. The house would defeat a gold bond bill, but the President can issue bonds on his present authority. Carlisle denies the bond story, but it s believed just the same.

In the house the bill repealing the Federal election laws is sure to pass, A dispatch from Washington dated and there is now no doubt but that October 2d says: Henderson of Iowa the Geary Chinese law will be so changed as to make it worthless. It is not probable that the tariff bill will be taken up till after recess.

The Great Yacht Race.

The series of the great international eacht race between the American boat Vigilant and Lord Dunraven's Val-kyrie, began in earnest on October Two days previously a race had been attempted, but the wind was so light that it became a drifting match in which the English boat had the advantage. It was no race, however, as the time limit was not made. In the first real race the wind was light in which work the Vigilant was supposed to be the slowest. Still she got the lead and held it throughout the race, beating the Englishman handsomely by five minutes forty-eight seconds. The Valkyrie people had no complaint to make but said that in a strong breeze they could best the American. On the 9th inst. the second race was run. It began with a good breeze and ended in half a gale. This was what the Euglishmen wanted and some admirers of the American boat. who did not know her real qualities, were very nervous, particularly as the first stretch of the triangular course was beating to windward, in which the foreign boat is very strong. It transpired, however, that the yankee was also built for that kind of work, for she not only outsailed the Valkyrie but outpointed her in windward work, holding her course better than the keel boat. The Vigilant increased her lead to the turn where they came down on the wind and here it was feared the Vaikyrie would overtake the yankee, but on the contrary the white champion of the American flyers did better work still, and flew to the starting line twelve and one-half minutes ahead of the Valkyrie, which was left about two miles behind. Lord Dunraven was astounded at the performance of the American and ac-knowledged that there was no chance for his yacht in yesterday's race. The programme is for five races but if the Vigilant wins the next of the series it Vigilant wins the next of the series it will be three straight victories and will decide the race. The Englishmen have little hope of winning now, as they must take the next three races. The great contest is for the "Queen's Cup," which was first won by the schooler vach America, a center. schooner yacht America, a center-board boat, forty-three years ago. The English have crossed the Atlantic eight times to try and take the cup back but have always been beaten. The Valkyrie represents the English idea of a keel boat and the American is the ideal center-board, and the contests have always been between such boats. The Valkyrie is the best yacht yet sent over by the English and the Vigilant is without doubt the best work of American designers. The and in New York city business is suspended when the contests are on. It is estimated that the last race was witnessed by one million people. The next race will be sailed on the 11th and the Americans confidently expect

In the city liself, the shipping and coal interests suffered $100,000 loss and ather damages were fully $1,000,000, Below the city for 80 miles the devastation was drendful, rice and sugar plantations being destroyed, towns swept away and several bundred large and small vessels either sunk or cap sired. The loss of life to date is estimated at nearly 2000 and full reports will not be in for weeks, in some places rolled steamers found dead odies floating in the gulf by hundreds and in the marshes. There are hundreds of unburied bodies the effluvia from which it is feared will cause an epidemic or pestilence. In most cases identification of bodies was imresult and they were buried in great trenches in the same manner as during the rebellion after a great battle. The city of Mobile was left a complete wreck and Pensacola, Florida, was badly damaged. Nearly all the fine seaside resorts on that part of the gull were demolished. The tetal losses will amount to many millions.

THE EFFECT OF COLBURN'S LETTER.

"The Hawaiian queen and her loyal subjects are accepting the situation like Christians. Will they not receive their just reward?" This extraordi-nary statement and still more extraordinary question comes from John F. Colburn of Honolulu. Mr. Celburn was a member of the cabinet which went out of business when the Provisional government put an end to the countless forms of rascality that had been planted and nourished under the so-called "royal" supervision of the good-natured, but criminally-weak Kalakaua and his less amiable, but none the less vicious sister. It will doubtless be most pleasing to Minister Blount to know that his course while he was in Hawaii was perfectly in accord with the royalistic idea, but he will find it difficult to publicly assist Mr. Colburn in his evident mission, which seems to be the securing from the United States of financial recomthe United States of financial recom-pense for a lost job. Mr. Colburn tries to be deceitful, but is delightfully frank. He says in one breath that he voices "the sentiments of the Hawaiian people and such foreigners as have allowed themselves to be narrowminded by the object of immediate personal gain," and at the next expiration hopes and trusts and does "pray that the president of the United States of America and his chief advisers will do what is right, fair, just and equita-ble for us, considering that our queen has been deprived of her throne, loyal subjects of their queen and the coun-try precipitated into the trouble and debt through the connivance and as-sistance of America's representative and naval commander, and the troops and guns of the good ship Boston." He wants the situation as it was on the 17th of last January restored and demands indemnity of this govern-ment. Mr. Colburn must be a much more foolish specimen of humanity than can commonly secure admission to Hawaiian cabinets, if he imagines that the greatest of republics will lift a finger to replace a rotten and comic opera monarchy upon a tinseled throne. Neither the voicelessness of a minister who found in silence local reputation for wisdom nor the inflammatory and Inaccurate statements of one who wrote too much can convince this people that Hawali is any worse off under the provisional, but honest government that now controls the slands, than it was when the opium smoggiers and lottery sharks—represented for the present by Mr. Colburn -were acquiring vast wealth in defiance of law without regard to one of the least of those precepts upon which true morality rests. If the Hawalian queen and her loyal subjects—loyal only because of their self interest— had behaved like Christians for some time prior to January last there would have been no necessity for the assumption of power by those who risked their lives and their fortunes that a viscent government might be esta-blished. If Mr. Colburn lives until the United States puts mahogany-tinted or any color of royalty on the Blawstian throne, or pointons those who for malfeasance were property displaced he will break Methuselah's record into Imgments.-Washington

MR. DAVIES' IDEA.

He Quotes the Ex-Princess' Opinion of Mr. Ena.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 .- Theo. H. Davies, who is acting as guardian of the Princess Kaiulani, was a guest yesterday of the Brevoort house. He intends going to Washington today for the purpose of calling upon the president and Secretary Gresham to ascertain, if possible, what the United States proposes to do with Hawaii.

Mr. Davies said he had parted with the Princess in London. She will soon go to Germany to complete her education. "When I bade the princess farewell," continued Mr. Davies, "she recalled the fact that on the 16th of next mouth she would become of age, and asked whether the revolutionists in possession would consider her eligible to the Hawaiian throne. She thought it hard that only one of the committee of seventeen which now runs the Provisional government should be a native Hawaiian, and he a half-breed at that.

"She was anxious to know whether the question of annexation would be submitted to the people next February, when the biennial elections are due, and if the government would dare to call the elections. If the government does not call them it will confess that it is afraid to submit the case to a popular vote. If, on the other hand, the elections are called and annexation is a question to be voted for, you may depend upon it the antiannexationists will win. There are 9500 natives and only 4000 foreign voters on the islands. The natives would certainly be triumphant.

"I am told that the queen is being treated with constant disrespect, especially by certain inimical newspapers. I have prepared an article to send to the Hawaiian newspapers showing how ridiculous are the charges that the deposed queen is immoral and an idolatress. My pamphlet shows also the foolishness of annexation, and how the new government is trying to starve out the queen and princess by allowing them no money."

Mr. Davies will go from Washington to San Francisco, and sail for Honolulu.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.— There is one man who is firm in his belief that the Hawaiian islands will restore the reign of royalty, and that is Theo. H. Davies, who is at the Auditorium hotel, on his way to Honolulu. Mr. Davies is the guardian of the Princess Kaiulani, whom he has educated in England, and in whose interests he came to the United States last spring to protest against the annexation of

"The princess is now of age," Mrs. Harrison treats ladies for all de-said Mr. Davies today, "and after fects of face and figure. She is the heir to the throne of Hawaii, and I have not the slightest doubt of her one day ruling her people, and having all the advantages of civilization, and possessed of all the graces of true womanhood, she will establish the throne on a sound basis.

"The royalists of the islands are in the majority and the government will be restored. The annexationists are good people, but they made mistakes. The abuses they complained of could have been remedied in a constitutional manner. The Provisional government will pass away as soon as President Cleveland sends his message to Congress.

"There are unsurmountable obstacles in the way of annexation, the chief of which is the people of the islands do not want the overtures of the Provisional government, which will be refused, and the purposes for which it was created come to an end."

"Will not an independent government grow out of the provision-

"No. The people of the islands favor the monarchy, and they will go back to it. I can assure you I do not anticipate any trouble of a warlike character in the re-establishment of the throne. > VANCOUVER, B. C., October S .-Theo. H. Davies, ex-British consulat Hawaii and guardian of Princess Kainlani, arrived this evening and goes by way of San Francisco to Henolulu. He anticipates some change in the government there, and being on the scene will have a hand in what political movements take place. He expects that the queen will be restored eventually, and for that reason that the princess will not be introduced into the Hawaiian political arena.

She attains her majority October

15th, and will then be 18 years of age. It was intended that she should visit the islands on that occasion, and the royal government passed a vote for the expenses of her trip and commemorative festivities, but the establishment of the Provisional government put that out of the question, and the princess goes to Germany to learn that language and music.

Whitewashed Kanakas.

A missionary stationed at one of the South Sea islands determined to give his residence a coat of whitewash. To obtain this in the absence of lime, coral was reduced to powder by burning. The natives watched the process of burning with interest, believing that the coral was being cooked for them to eat. Next morning they beheld the missionary's cottage glittering in the vision was being tage glittering in the rising sun white as snow. They danced, they sang. they screamed with joy. The whole island was in confusion. Whitewash became the rage. Happy was the coquette who could enhance her charms by a daub of the white brush. Contentions arose. One party urged their superior rank; another obtained possession of the brush and valiantly held it against all comers; a third tried to upset the tub to obtain some of the precious cosmetic. To quiet the hubbub more whitewash was made, and in a week not a hut, a domestic utensil, a war club, or a garment but was as white as snow; not an inhabitant but had his skin nainted with grotesque figures; not a pig that was not whitened; and mothers might be seen in every direction capering joyously and yelling with delight in the contemplation of the superior beauty of their whitewashed babies. - S. On the P. M. S. S. Co.'s wharf McDowell had about twenty men building two Samson posts, each fifty feet long. The Samson posts were made by four 12x12 timbers being firmly lashed together with iron chains at both ends, while the the center was bound with strong ropes. Two 12x12 pieces, fastened with iron bands and chains, are placed at the lower ends of the posts at right angles, and these act as a shoe upon which the posts will stand near the sides of the steamer. Two posts of each of these sizes were finished last night, and will be taken out early this morning to the Miowera, with which assistance McDowell will attempt to raise the steamer until she sits in an upright position. Several more Samson posts will be made today, but heavy iron hands will be used in lashing the 12 x 12 timbers together instead of chains and ropes to facilitate the work. McDowell considered the work vesterday as being done very slowly, and he hopes to do better today. He will make the attempt to float the Miowera either tomorrow or Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. McDowell said vesterday that he had changed his mind and would not likely use scows for lifting purposes. He still refuses to give out the plans by which he intends to float the stranded steamer.

Gridfron and Beefsteak.

An American and an Englishman were one day sitting on the balcony of the house of the Anglo-American club in Brussels, passing the rather slow hours in a little friendly guying of each other. The Englishman sat facing the American flag, and the American sat facing the English flag. After a brief bull in the sharpshooting the Englishman came out with: "I say old man you can't imagine what your flag reminds me of." The American was serious.

"Well what is it!" "Why it reminds me of a duced big gridiron, don't you know."
The American smiled a sad smile and then said: "All right, Johnny. But what do you think your flag reminds me of?"

"Don't know." "Well, it reminds use of a darned big beelsteak that we can fry on our gridiron.-Boston Budget.

HOSOLULE, Oct. 18, 1880. Siz:-Referring to the immunity from official duties which I have enjoyed during the past few weeks by the consideration of the executive and advisory council, I take pleasure in informing the council that it is now agreeable to me to again assume such

In this connection I wish to call the attention of the council to the proposition which has been made by the cabinet to separate the offices of president and inhister of foreign affairs, and thereby relieve the president from the manage-ment of the foreign office, and to ask their careful consideration of the proposed change.

Although the state of my health renders this measure somewhat important to me at the present time, I desire that the question shall be codsidered impersonally, with the view of making the office of president as well as that of minister of foreign uffairs as useful and effective as possible.

I have the honor to remain,

The fall text of the Secision of the even of inquiry into the stranging of the harbor of Hopsiulo by large of the Minwest, showing the compleas extineration of Captain Stott, the court begs to offer the follows. The captain's certificate government as moster of a ressel has been removed to him, together with the most freed which should show a light to the reliability of the harbor entrance.

than be supposed. Secondly—That Captain Stott havthe east of the red was using a small starboard helm to bring them nearly together, as by sailing directions, when the sudden disappearence of the green light deprived him of his leading mark, and while so deprived of the green light he must have crossed the line of bearing, andigot too far to the west and stranded on the West side of the harbor entrance about forty-five feet from the outside buoy men of great experience as masters of steamers running in and out of Henoulu at all hours of the night as well as by day, proves indisputably that the green light is frequently obscured the Kinau or Likelike wharves (see plan No. 2.) On the 2d of October ast the British bank County of Merioneth was in such a position that the green light, being situated inshore of the wharf, struck on her masts or yards, the latter being squared at the time in such a manner as to prevent it from being seen from a ship having her marks nearly on in the entrance of the passage.

The contention of the harbor master that the green light was not obscured ship was already too far to be west is not in accord with the weight of evidence; but, were it so, it detracts very seriously from the value of the light if it be liable to become invisible without warning to a ship a few feet only to the west of the

By the evidence of the pilot, the Miowera was well to the eastward of ight; soon afterwards she was head on to his boat with a port helm. That the green light was obscured by some who state while it was invisible from the bridge it was plainly visible from the deck under the bridge, as was discovered after the ship grounded. Captain Davies, of the inter-island Wilder's steamship Claudine, testi-fies that he lost sight of the green light from the bridge of his to a number of his passengers on deck, and that this occurred the day before the stranding of the Miowers, the County of Merioneth being then in the same position as on the following

The court wishes to observe that the Miowers did not, nor should she have come within the limited range (ten iles) of the Barber's Point light, and that as there is no light on the eastward or Diamond Head side of the extrance there is no possibility of retting reliable bearings if the outline of the land be even partially hidden. All the witnesses agree that the sectric lights of the streets have the effect of reducing or diminishing the visibility of or "killing" the harbor red and green lights. In fact that these harbor lights whenever the electric lights are in operation do not show over more than a fraction of the range attributed to them, and thus we have the very remarkable fact that while the glare of the electric lights of the town is recognizable at a distance of The chief officer of the Miowera Pilot Macauley is of the opinion thirty five miles, the guiding lights of told me that they saw from the that the finding of the court of inquiry

THE COURT'S DECISION.

Captains and Filots Express Their Views as to Stott's.

The court was composed of Jas. H. Wodehouse, president, and Captains Freeth, Mist and Berry, found Captain Stott free from all ng got the green light well open to blame in the matter of the stranding of the Miowers and returned findings will be sent to London by the next steamer.

Opinion of the justice of the court's decision is much divided, but the general opinion especially among sea-faring men, is that the captain was wholly to blame for on the west side, while endeavoring captain was wholly to biame for with a port helm to turn the ship's the accident to his ship. One of head to see eastward. With regard the most important witnesses who to the disappearance of the green appeared before the court, said last knowledge of the harbor and channel. appeared before the court, said last Thursday:

The captain was given the best of all the evidence produced before by masts and spars, or even the the court, and it seemed to me that funnel of a vessel or vessels lying at none of the witnesses were asked any questions that could hurt him. I know I was not, and very good care was taken not to ask me my opinion of the accident.

"The case stands like this. The the pilot left the wharf accompanied by Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Mc-Veigh of the board of health, and Louis Kenake of the post office. It was impossible to get away sooner, for the boat had to be lowered and the lights made ready.

"When the pilot was half way out the ship was a mile and a half or two miles out to sea on the eastern or Diamond Head side of the entrance when he first saw her the channel. Just after the fourth starboard side-light and mast-head and next to last light was lit the pilot noticed that the red light on the port side of the ship was in intervening object is plainly proved sight. He immediately went out by the evidence of the pilot, and the to meet her and left the last lamp chief and the third officers of the ship, unlit. Before he could reach her unlit. Before he could reach her she had struck on the reef and was

It was Captain J. R. Macaulay who spoke referring to the wreck of the Miowers, and the recent finding of the court of inquiry which exonerated Captain Stott from all blame for the stranding of his ship.

Captain Macaulay was standing on the front perch of his cottage which stands on the southern slope of Punchbowl, and commands a sweep-Head to Barber's Point, and from where, as he explained to the ADVER-

In other words, he was at the channel entrance at the time he should have been leaving the boat Sensible of the imminence of Hawaiian annexation, good Americans will naturally wish to know something of their kanaka fellowcitizens' religious beliefs. Let them procure the Honolulu Diocesan Magazine of September 15th; they will find therein set forth with particularity "The Relation of Hawaiian Superstition to the True Faith." Our religion, observe, is "the true faith"-that is why we hold it: theirs is "superstition"-that is why we do not hold it. All the time that Putthuff was on the operating table, he kept reiterating the statement that Carlson was more surprised in my life," said Putt-huff, in describing the affair, "for Carlson and I have been good friends for a long time, and why he should have shot me is beyond me." While the doctor was working on the wounded man Detective Larsen went to the home of the accused man and arrested him. He did not seem surprised at the arrest, for he knew that Putthuff had shot himself. At the station he told his version of the affair, which is as follows:

He wanted me to come back in half an hour, and he said he would have something for me. The last thing he said to me was, 'Good bye, Carlson;

you won't see me any more.'
"When I came back half an hour later I saw Putthuff standing on the veranda, covered with blood. I asked him what he had done but he seemed rather dazed and said he did not know. I suspected at once that he had shot himself, and I went into his room and found the revolver on the bed. I gave it to a man who lives in the house and then I left. I was afraid to call a doctor for I thought I might be implicated in the shooting, as I had been with him all the morning and a part of the afternoon. I went home and then Mr. Larsen came after me.

While Carison was telling his story to the police, Putthuff heard his voice and jumped up from the stretcher on which he was lying. "Is that you, Carlson, —— you." he said; "why did you shoot me?" He started towards Carlson, but was stopped by an officer before he could reach him and taken back into the jail.

Carlson's name and address were taken, and he was released. Putthuff was locked up until the cause of the shooting could be ascertained. Carlson, who is a Swede, told a straight-forward story, and it is not believed that he had anything to do with the shooting.

The revolver that was used is a small one, self-cocking, and of American make. The cartridges are smaller than the chambers, and are of different sizes. The immigrants are being landed at the quarantine station. The barks Ceylon and Paul Isenberg both left during last Saturday for San Francisco. The former vessel had on board 500 tons of sugar while the latter had as ballast 600 tons of coal.

In explanation of the changes to be made in the rigging of the Louis at San Francisco, and possibly that of other vessels of her type, her captain and others interested state that the five-masted schooner is practically useless as far as sailing qualities are con-cerned. The five-master's sails cannot be set to draw well, and under the most favorable circumstances she cannot sail over four knots with the breeze astern. Sea captains claim that the days of the five-masted schooner are numbered.-Ex.

THE MASONIC ORDER.

Budrigis and Early Eistory, According to Various Accounts

Some Mesonic writers claim that the Masonic order was founded in Solomon's time. deriving its origin from the "Discresise fraternity of architects and builders en-graped in the construction of temples and theaters, a band of whom worked upon the temple. A community accepted origin is frund in the association of masons and builders during the middle ages. These associations had a regular government and ranged from country to country wherever they found churches to build. They exjoyed the special favor of the popes and were exempted from taxes and other burdens, from which comes the name "Free-Masons." Men of eminence, both kings and prelates, joined the order, and the practical store finally fell into abeyance.

Some writers claim that Masoury had its origin in 1846, being founded by an Englishman named Ashmole, from signs and symbols borrowed from the Knights Templars and Rosicrucians. In 1886 Sir Chrisopher Wren was appointed grand master of England, so that it must have had several lodges. In 1702 St. Paul's lodge of London was the only one or about the only one in England, and this lodge threw open the doors to other professions. In 1717 there were four lodges, and these formed the grand lodge. As thus organized it was transplanted to the continers. The first lodgs of America is said to be that organized in Boston in 1788.

The Largest Statue In Precious Metal. In the center of Montana's mineral exhibit at the Columbian exposition the chief of all attraction stands the silver statue of Justice, the largest figure ever cast in any precious metal, so far at least as revealed in the annals of history, ancient or modern. Justice stands with one foot on a globe, and the entire outline of the splendid and massive figure gives the idea of a forward movement. The goddess wears a tunic which drapes the figure from the swelling breast to a point just below the knee, but the sculptor's work has revealed every line of the nether limbs. The left arm bolds aloft the historic scales, and the right grasps firmly the familiar two edged sword, ed of mineral bearing rock. The whole has a heighth of 15 feet. The Jewelers' Circular, which illustrates and describes this interesting production, further notes the fact that the bandage has been removed from the eyes of Justice, who, for no satisfactory reason, has groped her way in darkness for 200 years or more. The first sculptors, the earliest painters, the primeval wood en-gravers, all depicted Justice with very wide

Statistics of Suicide.

Suicide statistics, as recently published by an English doctor, show that taking the entire population of the world there is an attempt made every three minutes on an average by some one to take his own life. It seems that Saxony is the quarter of the globe where suicide is the most popular, the ratio there being 400 suicides in 1,002,-000 deaths. Portugal, on the other hand, occupies the first place for infrequency of self destruction, the proportion there being only 16 to 1,000,000.
