The Minister also presented a report of the Finance Committee as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE.
HONOLULU, H. I., Feb. 1, 1894.
To the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Provisional Government.
The Finance Committee, to whom was referred the following petitions, respectfully report:
"That in the matter of the further grant to the Paradise of the Pacific the majority of the Committee are not in favor of such grant."
"That in the petition of A. N. Tripp, for salary as jailor, claimed by him, they find that the Legislature of 1892 voted the sum of $3000 for two years, or at the rate of $125 per month; that he drew for eight months, at $150, $1200, and for eight months at $112.50, $900, total, $2100; whereas he was only entitled to sixteen months at $125, $2000; and that he owes the Government $100.

"That in the matter of the petition of the Hawaiian Hardware Company, for refunding certain duties on cart-ridges that they desire to return to the United States, the Committee are of the opinion that in view of long-established precedent and effect that such a course might have on other lines of importation, they do not recommend the return of the duties."
S. M. DAMON, Chairman.

Mr. Morgan stated that as a member of the Finance Committee he had not favored discontinuing the subsidy to the Paradise, because it was advertising the islands, and political considerations should not enter into the question.

Mr. Emmeluth moved adoption of Mr. Morgan's minority report. Lost. Mr. Suhr came in during the discussion. A motion in favor of reconsideration being made and carried, Minister Smith said he had favored the appropriation in the legislature. It would expire in three months. The opposition to this appropriation was based on the fact that the editor of this paper was editing another paper which was doing everything in its power to injure the Government. Mr. Emmeluth was not championing either Mr. Godfrey or the royalists, but in justice to Mr. Godfrey it should be said that the Holomua had never been so decent as now, and the ethics of journalism permitted a newspaper man to find employment where he could get it. There were men working in the annexation press who would work for the other side. Mr. Williams has done as much for annexation as some of the blather-skites on our side.

The vote being a tie, President Dole said everybody should vote. The vote being again a tie it was called again.

The motion was lost eight to seven, and the motion to adopt the majority report was carried.
The second part of the report (relating to Tripp's pay) being read, Mr. Brown said he thought the committee had made a mistake. All of the officers of the Government had been paid at the rate fixed by the Appropriation Bill of 1890, for the first eight months of the biennial period. It had been his (the speaker's) mistake, who was Attorney-General at that time, that it was not put in the Appropriation Bill so that Tripp would have got his salary on the same basis as other Government officers.

Minister Damon said he had not been able to go behind the record. Attorney-General Smith explained that Tripp really got more than he was entitled to have, though he had the right to draw what he did. He moved that part of the report be approved. Carried.

The third part of the report (relating to return of duties) was adopted. The Minister of Finance then submitted the Postmaster-General's report on the Postal Savings Bank for the past year.

The Minister further stated in regard to the case of Mr. Girvin, that he had made personal arrangements with Mr. Girvin, and that his name for the appointment in the Postal Savings Bank had been withdrawn. This was done out of regard to the feeling of the community in regard to the appointment. He had sent for Girvin with the knowledge of the Executive. The Minister also explained the exchange of gold for silver which had been lately made by the Government. The transaction had netted the Government $618.75. It was hardly possible to lay down a hard and fast rule about silver and gold. There was too much silver in the country, and so it was constantly forced on the Treasury. He had insisted on policemen and others receiving small sums, being paid partially in gold.

Mr. Emmeluth said he could not see how the presence of a silver surplus in the country forced the Government to sell gold. He thought the gold should be paid out to the business community.

Mr. Brown said the transaction was legitimate and beneficial to the community, though he hardly approved of the Government selling gold.

Minister Damon said he should not favor it as a general principle, but the gold was there on special deposits which were payable in silver, and he had given the community a chance to get it.

Mr. Morgan presented a report on the resolution of the American League regarding Chinese, as follows:

HONOLULU, January 24, 1894.

To the Chairman of the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Provisional Government.

SIR—Your Committee to whom was referred resolutions of the American League in regard to Chinese immigration, beg leave to report that Under an Act of the Session Laws of 1892, "Conditional permits to enter this country may be granted by the Minister of Foreign Affairs for such Chinese, not exceeding 5000 in number, as shall be recommended by the Board of Immigration," etc. That under this Act the Executive of the Provisional Government have been authorized to grant permits for a suitable number of Chinese to enter this country as agricultural laborers on sugar and rice plantations; to relieve the threatened injury to these, our main industries, caused by the near expiration of contracts of Japanese laborers, and prevent stoppage of Japanese immigration.

The Committee feel that a rigid enforcement of the above law (with the amendment thereto empowering the Cabinet to make rules and regulations controlling Chinese immigration), confining these laborers to the agricultural labor for which they entered the country, will protect free labor from Chinese competition.

The Committee recommend that the regulations issued by the Minister of Foreign Affairs for the proper control and restriction of such Chinese immigrants, shall be so strong, clear and definite that no encroachment upon free labor can occur.

The Committee recommend that the present vagrancy laws be rigidly enforced, and if not far-reaching enough, be so amended that laborers whose contracts have expired be compelled to work or leave the country.

The Committee further recommend that the Government take early action to introduce also a more desirable class of immigrants than Asiatics.

Respectfully submitted,
JAS. F. MORGAN,
JNO. NOTT,
C. BOLTE,
Committee.

The report was accepted and placed on file.

Mr. Hatch reported for the Judiciary Committee, a bill separating the office of Minister of Foreign Affairs from the office of President, and recommended its passage.

The report was adopted.

The same committee reported a bill providing a salary of $10,000 a year for the President.

The bill was read for the first time. President Dole said he desired that the bill be discussed freely, and that he should not be present. The Council was of course familiar with the nature of the office and its duties, and also of the prospect of a change in the form of the Government, all of which bore on the question.

The Judiciary Committee asked for further time in the matter of an enlargement of the Council.

Mr. Brown said he thought the Council should take notice of the way in which the newspapers were speaking of members of the diplomatic corps and of the heads of foreign countries. He would like to know if the Executive Council had considered this.

The Attorney-General said the Government had considered the matter. The proper course was for diplomats to complain to the Government. One or two complaints had been made, and certainly there had been one or two publications lately which approached very near the border line.

President Dole said it was very difficult to control the press, impossible in some cases. The Government exercised more control here than in the United States. He had had occasion to remonstrate with editors some times and had always been courteously listened to. This tendency would break forth occasionally, particularly where political relations were so unusual and extraordinary as at present between Hawaii and the United States. This accounted for some expressions which had been used and which were regretted by all the members of the Government.

Minister Duncanson said there were some matters which required additional appropriation, and he would introduce an Act providing for the same. The bill appropriated $20,350.

The bill was read a first time.

The Attorney-General presented a bill providing for the licensing of all Chinese engaging in trade or mechanical occupations.

The bill is as follows:

An Act to Provide for the Licensing of Chinese who Engage in Trading or Mechanical Occupations in the Hawaiian Islands.

Be it enacted by the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands:

Section 1.—The term "Chinese" as used in this Act shall mean any person male or female wholly of Chinese or Mongolian birth or descent, whether born in China or elsewhere, and whether citizens or subjects of China or any other country.

Sec. 2.—No Chinese residing in the Hawaiian Islands on or after the first day of May A. D. 1894, shall engage in or carry on any trading or mechanical occupation in the Hawaiian Islands unless he shall have first obtained a license from the Government permitting him to engage in or carry on such trading or occupation, and no such license shall be granted to any Chinese who is not regularly engaged in such trading or mechanical occupation at the date of the introduction of this Act.

Sec. 3.—No Chinese who shall hereafter arrive in the Hawaiian Islands shall be granted a license to engage in or carry on any trading or mechanical occupation.

Sec. 7.—Each license granted to Chinese under the provisions of this Act shall be for one year, and shall be numbered, and state the nature of the trading or mechanical occupation in which the licensee is permitted to engage. Upon the expiration of any such license, a new license may be granted to the licensee, but only for the trading or mechanical occupation described in the previous license, and shall bear the same number of such previous license.

Each license shall state in full the name, age and residence of the licensee, and the date of his arrival in the Hawaiian Islands.

Sec. 5.—A fee of one dollar shall be paid for each license granted under the provisions of this Act.

Sec. 6.—The trading license granted under the provisions of this Act shall be deemed to be in the nature of an individual certificate of qualifications, and shall not relieve the person from the obligation to obtain a "merchandise license" before engaging in the business of selling goods, wares and merchandise as provided by law.

Sec. 7.—The Minister of the Interior, by and with the consent of a majority of the Cabinet, is hereby authorized and empowered to make and publish all such rules and regulations; and the same to alter, amend or rescind from time to time as may be deemed necessary or proper to carry out the aim, intent, object and provisions contemplated by this Act; and such rules and regulations and all amendments or alterations thereto, shall, after publication in one or more newspapers published in Honolulu, have the force and effect of law.

Sec. 8.—Any Chinese violating any provision of this Act, or of any rule or regulation published under the provisions thereof, shall be liable on conviction for the first offense to a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars or imprisonment at hard labor for a term not to exceed one month; and for any succeeding offense to a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or to deportation from the Hawaiian Islands.

Provided, however, that the provisions of this Act shall not apply to Chinese engaged as domestic or agricultural laborers who shall perform mechanical work for their employers.

Sec. 9.—District Magistrates shall have jurisdiction to try all cases arising under this Act.

Sec. 10.—All constitutional provisions and principles in so far as they conflict with the provisions of this Act, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 11.—This Act shall take effect from the date of its publication.

The Attorney-General said the subject presented many difficulties and he hoped it would receive full consideration. The law might seem harsh but it was not unjust.

On motion of Mr. Emmeluth the bill was referred to a special committee of seven, of which the Judiciary Committee should form a part.

The Attorney-General stated that the Executive Council recommended the ordering of 25,000 more cartridges of the kind ordinarily used by the military.

The President appointed Messrs. Emmeluth, Nott and Suhr on the Chinese Committee.

At 2:50 the Councils went into Executive session.

Hood's Cures

Even When Called Incurable

Terrible Seige—Sciatic Rheumatism

Mr. Arthur Simon
Of Galata, Ohio.

"They said I was incurable, the doctors did, but the result has proven that Hood's Sarsaparilla was able to cure. I had Sciatic Rheumatism and was confined to my bed six months. Three physicians did not help me and

I was given up to die. When I was in this terrible condition, unable to move hand or foot, I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first bottle had a little effect, and while taking the second, I gained so rapidly that I could sit up in my chair. My system had been so run down by other medicine, that it took me quite a while to recuperate. By the time I had taken four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, I could walk around, and now, as I have taken six bottles, I am cured and can do a good day's work. I do not feel I can praise

enough." ARTHUR SIMON, Galata, Ohio.

National Cane Shredder

PATENTED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

The attention of Planters and Agents is called to the following letter from Mr. JOHN A. SCOTT, Manager of the Hilo Sugar Co., regarding the working of the National Cane Shredder, which he has just introduced into the Mill of that Company:

WAINAKI, HILO, HAWAII,
January 22d, 1894.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to yours of the 16th inst. regarding the National Cane Shredder furnished by the Universal Mill Co. of New York, and erected by the Hilo Sugar Co. this past season,

I would beg to say, that it has now been in operation day and night during the past three weeks working on plant cane, and also hard ratoons, and it is giving me the greatest satisfaction. The more I see of its capabilities, the better pleased I am that I put it in, as I am satisfied that it will repay the original outlay in a short time, in saving of labor, higher extraction, etc.

It is shredding from 350 to 400 tons of cane every 22 hours with the greatest ease, and it could shred a much larger quantity if necessary. It delivers the shredded cane in an even uniform feed to the three roller mill, which receives it without the intervention of any labor, and as the cane is thoroughly shredded or disintegrated it relieves the mill of a great deal of strain, thus reducing the liability of broken shafts, gearing, etc.

There is a saving of four (4) men daily on the mill, as only one man is required to regulate the amount of cane delivered by the carrier to the shredder. It has increased the extraction from 4 to 5 per cent.

The economical use of steam is generally a serious consideration in adding new machinery, as in most mills the boiler power is taxed to its highest limit, as it was in this mill, and any increased demand necessitated an additional boiler. But I find that the shredder and the three roll mill engines combined use no more steam than the three roll mill engine did when working on whole cane, while doing better work and more of it, and owing to the uniform feed on the mill, the engine demands very little attention.

The megass from the shredded cane makes superior fuel, and the firemen have less difficulty in maintaining a uniform pressure of steam than formerly.

I will be pleased to have a call from parties interested, as it is necessary to see the machine at work to fully appreciate its capabilities.

I remain, very truly yours,
(Sigs.) JOHN A. SCOTT,
Manager Hilo Sugar Co.

Plans for erection of these shredders may be seen at the office of the Agents, where prices and other particulars may also be obtained.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIAL.

Largely Attended in Spite of Stormy Weather.

The regular monthly entertainment and social of the St. Andrew's Church Association was held last evening in the Sunday school room, and, notwithstanding the stormy weather, was very largely attended. Captain H. W. Mist presided. After usual routine business, the following programme was presented:

Piano solo..... Mrs. P. H. Dodge
Song..... Miss McGrew
Duet, piano and violoncello..... Miss Von Holt and Mr. Wray Taylor
Reading..... Mr. P. H. Dodge
Vocal duet.....
Mrs. Van Vliet and Miss McGrew
Duet, piano and mandolin..... Miss Mollie Atkinson and Mr. Rooke
Song..... Miss von Holt, with violin obligato by Miss McGrew
Hand bell ringing by pupils of Mr. Armstrong Smith.

Every number was well rendered. Mrs. Van Vliet's and the Misses McGrew and von Holt's singing was much enjoyed. Mr. Dodge read amusing extracts from the register at the Volcano House. The hand bell ringing was a decided feature, and a credit to Mr. Smith who trained the little boys. At the conclusion of the programme, ice cream and cake were handed around, and social conversation brought a pleasant evening to a close.

A CURIO PARTY.

A Novel Entertainment at Mr. J. A. Hopper's.

A number of people accepted the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hopper last evening, the occasion being a "curio party," something new in the social features of Honolulu.

The curios which were to be guessed were placed in different parts of the parlors, and a list provided each guest. These lists gave fanciful names to the different objects, each of which was numbered. The idea was to find the "curio" that fitted the title on the list, and place its number opposite.

Some of the titles were very good. For instance, one number on the list was "Can't be beat." This referred to a hard-boiled egg. Another, "Open to amendments," was a stocking with a large hole in it. Another, "Going to be licked," did not, as far as is yet known, refer to the editor of the ADVERTISER.

After a set time given to each one to complete their list of fifty "curios," the proper list was read, and each had a chance to see how many of the objects were correct. A number of complete lists were made, but the majority did not have all the proper numbers.

Football.

A football game will take place at the league grounds tomorrow afternoon between the Punahou juniors and the Unknowns, selected from the Honolulu. Clifton Tracy will captain the Punahou while Albert Harris will lead the Unknowns to victory or defeat. The following players will participate:

PUNAHOU. UNKNOWN.
D. Ewaliko..... C. F. Albert Harris
Geo. Ewart, Jr..... G. Manly Hopkins
Sam Parker, Jr..... L. C. Hopkins
D. Kupihea..... F. Jarrett
Elia Long..... L. Murphy
Walter Lowrey..... R. W. Lyle
Clifton Tracy..... L. C. White
Fred Damon..... J. B. Kintaro
Ed. Hapala..... J. B. Clark

C. Cooke, Referee.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

The Advertisement Which Was Not Seen at All.

The big advertisement of the Densmore typewriter, which was inserted in these columns by the Hawaiian News Company yesterday, is conspicuous by its absence today. The reason is that the company sold all it had in stock this morning, and is unable to obtain any more for three weeks. Moral: Advertise in the Star.

The above local write up appeared in last evening's Star. This is, as far as it goes, perfectly correct, for there is no doubt that advertising in any newspaper pays. But in this case the Star is rather mistaken.

One of the staff of the ADVERTISER has been searching for a good type-writer for some time. He finally went to the Hawaiian News Company and, seeing their "Densmore," liked it and bought it. He is a constant reader of the Star, but does not read all the advertisements of that paper. This special one especially, never caught his eye, and he was very much amused to find out that he had been influenced in his claim by a contemporary. He has no doubt that advertising in the Star pays, but in this case, as the entire stock of one was disposed of to him, he thinks that the advertisement would have paid as well had it been left out.

H. N. CASTLE : : : EDITOR
FRIDAY, : FEBRUARY 2, 1894.

A LETTER from Mr. Armstrong, in this issue, while incidentally answering the charges made by Mr. T. H. Davies against the writer, gives some very interesting information as to his relations with King Kalakaua while traveling with him in 1882, and shows how freely this arch-traitor discussed his treacherous schemes with the king.

THE attempt which has been made by royalist apologists to make out that the ex-queen's bloody designs are matched by those of the annexationists, is simply preposterous. It is hard to believe that any one should have the effrontery to shame the truth by advancing such a claim. Every one knows that the Provisional Government has treated the royal pretender with a leniency which she has returned by plotting against our lives. The Government has been censured for kindness, never before for severity. The most extreme measure which it has ever taken was taken when it declined to furnish the munitions of war to its enemies in the way of a salary to Liliuokalani.

THE OFFICE OF PRESIDENT.

The Judiciary Committee reported two bills yesterday, one separating the office of Minister of Foreign Affairs from that of President, and the other attaching to the Presidential office a salary of $10,000 a year. We are very glad that the Committee has seen fit to attach to the office of President a salary which, if modest, at least marks in some measure the dignity of the position. Mrs. Dominis, as queen, enjoyed a revenue of $80,000 a year. This would have been monstrously exorbitant even if she had been a good servant of the people. The services of Mr. Dole to the State have been above all money price, and cannot be better acknowledged or rewarded than by fidelity to the great cause at the head of which he stands. The salary is no remuneration to the man, but marks simply the importance of his station and political function.

MR. DAVIES' ADMISSION.

The royalists are very much disgusted with Mr. Davies' admission that the ex-queen, by attempting to destroy the Constitution, absolved her subjects from their allegiance. They have a right to be, for it gives away the case of Mrs. Dominis. This stunning admission, moreover, makes a sad wreck of Mr. Davies' own case. Mrs. Dominis, by a revolutionary act, absolved her subjects from their allegiance. What could the aforesaid subjects do? It is nonsense to suppose there was any legal remedy in the strict sense. Whatever they did would naturally be in the nature of a counter revolution, and nothing but considerations of expediency could properly determine their choice. Mrs. Dominis would have sent them to the block for attacking Kaiulani on the throne, as well as for seeking annexation or setting up a republic. They chose to take the path which led to Hawaii's permanent safety and prosperity. Moreover, it was the only path which they could take. There is no choice between cowardly quiescence on the one hand and annexation on the other. No one could have struck a blow for Kaiulani—with the possible exception of Mr. Davies himself.

THE PRESS AND THE DIPLOMATS.

Recd Brown, at the Council session yesterday, asked the Executive if they had considered or proposed to take any action regarding the treatment of foreign diplomats and the head of a foreign power, by the newspaper press of this city. The Attorney-General and the President replied in a very sensible way, expressing their regret that the heat of politics should lead anyone into expressions which there might later be occasion to regret. W. O. Smith stated that there had been occasional complaints by diplomats, and the Government had been compelled to tell them that the Administration had no official organ, and no control over the newspapers beyond what was contained in the general law of libel. President Dole said that in the peculiar and anomalous relations existing between Hawaii and the United States it was almost impossible to avoid the use of strong expressions in the press.

The whole question opens up a most interesting topic for discussion. We do not find much to quarrel with in the theory of Mr. Brown's enquiry. No doubt diplomats are entitled in general to courtesy at the hands of the foreign press. They cannot assume the manners of the swaggering street blackguard and adjust their differences according to the code of footpads. Common decency and self-respect preclude them from such a course. As a consequence the newspapers should treat them as considerately as possible, and especially should avoid the use of language which might involve the home Government in international complications.

At the same time it is very difficult to make any application of these principles to the present situation, just because this situation is itself without all precedent. It would certainly be impossible to say that President Cleveland and his Minister have conducted themselves in a diplomatic manner towards this country. On the contrary, they have grossly and wantonly violated not merely every usage of diplomatic courtesy, but every principle of international law. The United States Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary has actually entered, in behalf of his own Government and without the knowledge or consent of the Hawaiian Government, into a negotiation with a private person, with a view to placing that person at the head of the Hawaiian Government. This was more than a violation of diplomatic usage. It was an outrage, which never would have been attempted toward any nation but a weak one, nor endured by any other. It is not our present purpose to discuss this matter, but merely to show that it estops the United States from complaining of what might otherwise seem an unwarranted license of the press.

It is interesting to note that so far as the ADVERTISER is concerned, the bulk of its severe comments on Minister Willis or President Cleveland has been clipped from the American papers, frequently of the Administration's own party. Moreover, we have rejected much of this comment, on the ground that it was too harsh and too unsparing to be in harmony with our own milder manners and methods. By comparison with the waters of bitterness which flow from the American papers, our own gentle utterances must come to the wincing diplomats as consoling as Mother Winslow's soothing syrup to a sick baby.

A Throne for Sale.

He was a Paramount ruler,
And a tropical queen was she;
And the way that couple flirted
Was scandalous to see.
They sang a duet dulcissima,
Of a home in the Southern Sea,
And he did a song and dance act;
The danse du ventre did she.
"Take back thy throne, dear sister,"
He warbled in a falsetto key;
"Not by a jugful, brother!"
In a Hawaiian bass sang she.
"Tis a beauteous crown, my sister,
All clean and bright," sang he.
"It's speckled all over, brother!"
And she kicked just five feet three.
So now there's a second-hand throne
For sale,
Down in the Southern Sea,
And a warranted fast-black queen
Thrown in.

Upon the assurance of one man that the Locked Fence was superior to any fence manufactured, we undertook the introduction of it in the Hawaiian Islands. Our most difficult sale was the first one, because it was a hard matter to convince our customer that it was better than anything of the kind he had ever used, but from the first sale many others have cropped out until now we are making large sales of it on Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawaii. Once the fence is examined, it is an easy matter to see in it many advantages not to be found in any other style, nor is there half the economy in the conventional wire fence as in the new method of building. We do not know the average life of a fence post, but common sense teaches us that steel will last very much longer than wood. That is one of the economical points claimed by us for the Locked Fence. Instead of using eight hundred and eighty posts in a mile of fencing, one hundred and seven answers the purpose by our method of building. You can very easily see that there is considerable economy even in the original cost of the fence. Add to this the saving in repairs and the locked fence costs you fifty per cent. less than an ordinary wire fence.

Among the goods of the Standard Manufacturing Co. is a bathing pool that fits in the floor and reminds you of some of the illustrations of Egyptian life. We sent one of these handsomely embellished in bronze relief decorations to the residence of a Honolulu gentleman yesterday—we will have others here as soon as they can arrive from Pittsburg.

WHAT CORRESPONDENTS THINK.

Armstrong Relates His Experiences With Kalakaua.

BREATHING A CURE FOR EVERY ILL.

Frank Godfrey Thanks the Councils—Correspondents Air Their Views on Various Themes—Kalakaua Compared to the King of Dahomey—Etc.

MR. EDITOR:—Mr. Davies' letter in your issue of today regarding my conference with Mr. Phelps and Mr. Blaine on the subject of annexation, while I was with the late King Kalakaua in Europe, certainly requires some explanation.

I often talked with the King on the subject of the future of his country, including the matter of annexation. After the "Moreno" affair, he feared more trouble with the whites, I suggested annexation or a protectorate, with large revenues for himself, but he suspected the white races. I always assured him that no change of any kind could or would be made without his consent so long as he maintained good government. I repeated to him my conversations with Mr. Phelps and other conversations about "closer union," because I believed in open diplomacy. In my conversations with Mr. Phelps and Mr. Blaine, there was no suggestion of any immediate action, and it was assumed, without hesitation, that the king should be a party to any move in the direction of "closer relations." The king asked me to consult Mr. Eugene Schuyler on the subject of "customs union," and this brought on a discussion about annexation. Mr. Schuyler asked the king: "Has the reciprocity treaty any other object than ultimate annexation?" The king said he did not understand it. Mr. Schuyler replied that the American statesmen who made the treaty did so to understand it, but that he (Schuyler) thought that a "customs union" would be better for some years. Mr. Schuyler also said that he was somewhat surprised that the king had consented to reciprocity when it was perfectly clear that the drift would be toward annexation and the end of the dynasty. The king made no reply to this. Subsequently, and while on our travels, I told him that he had mortgaged his country to the United States by "reciprocity" in order to put money into his own pocket, but that it would end his dynasty; that he was like the King of Dahomey, who was too greedy.

At a missionary meeting in London a traveler spoke of his experience in Africa. A venerable listener rose and meekly asked if the King of Dahomey would take religion! "Yes," said the traveler, "he will take that and everything else he can put his damned hands on." He, King Kalakaua, said he would "enrich" the United States by diplomacy. I replied that no diplomacy would ever get rid of his own direct move towards annexation by his signing the treaty, that in making "reciprocity" he had plastered "annexation" on every fence, mountain and rock in Hawaii.

That while that treaty was the best thing for the country, it put him in constant peril, and he could only save himself by good government, and when annexation came, by making good terms for himself.

I wish to add this; I had many radical disputes with the king, but there was always good temper, and there was no friction whatever. On resigning office in 1882, I told him that he had invited me to return to my native land, in the interests of good government, but I had discovered that it was simply impossible to have it, and I should leave him. I did not blame him; he was controlled by his surroundings, that the whites wanted one kind of government, and the natives wanted another, and it made an "irrepressible conflict," but that as the natives were in a large majority, they had the political right of ruling in their own way, and the whites could not object; only that this meant revolution in a few years; that the white races always drove the weaker races to the wall, as he would discover if he read English and American history, that the weaker races had no sense, and always cut their own throats; that the white races were cruel, dominant and would not trust the weaker, and fought like tigers for their property interests. He said that the natives should own Hawaii; I said they did own it, but sold out for a song. I advised him to take Gibson into his Cabinet at once, and mount behind him, and both would ride to the devil; that is, into revolution. He laughed at me; said I did not understand Hawaiian politics, and that he did; that the whites would never trust a native ruler, and he must look to the natives for support. I never once censured him, or the ex-queen, for not understanding the difficult political problems which confronted them on every side. They were victims of the inexorable law of the survival of the fittest; a law which has filled the world with misery and suffering, but was ordained for some purpose which we do not comprehend. Yours truly, W. N. ARMSTRONG. Honolulu, Feb. 1, 1894.

MR. EDITOR: We are inclined to disregard nature's remedies and to resort to drugs, most of which are hurtful and many of them deadly poisons. Let it be remembered that if a poison removes the pain or diseased condition for which it is prescribed, there is always danger of its setting up some other unhealthy condition which in time will prove the truth of the old saying, "The remedy is worse than the disease."

An Englishman has recently published a certain remedial measure he has practiced for thirty years. He declares that it cured him completely and has kept him well ever since.

His remedy is simply breathe! He does not claim that it will cure everything, but he contends that many ills may be cured by it. The writer has been practicing the same for three months and has received much benefit. Others to whom I have given the same advice have also been improved and doubtless will in time be cured.

Persons following sedentary employments in more or less confined air,—members of great audiences, dull, tired from vitiated air,—those suffering from headaches brought on by overworn nerves or indigestion,—indigestion, or many other chronic ailments or tendencies, may be cured by breathing.

As often as possible breathe rapidly and full, ten times. Breathe just as one does after a sharp short run or climb. In this case, though not ordinarily, it is better to breathe through the mouth. After practice twenty breathings may be taken at once. The more times a day one takes a dose of air in this way the better.

In its rationale it is the same as the "Compound Oxygen" treatment, for which multitudes have paid large sums of money.

When sitting quietly absorbed in writing, sewing, or such employments as exercise the hands only, we are apt to fall into the habit of breathing very badly, both slowly and using only a small portion of the lungs, though we may not be pinched by corsets. Let us reform our breathing, breathe deep and well always, and take several doses of oxygen as prescribed above daily,—if we feel badly to cure us,—if we are well to keep off disease and the feebleness of age.

There is an old saying "At forty every woman is either a fool or a physician." As the writer is well past forty, trusts she is not a fool, she ventures, though she charges nothing for the above advice to sign herself,

A SYMPHONY IN SNOW

PREPARING FOR A WINTER CARNIVAL IN QUEER OLD QUEBEC.

A Week of Frigid Festivities In Which Snowshoe Clubs Storm an Ice Fortress and Fight a Mimic Battle—Quebec's Attractions to American Visitors.

The historic and picturesque town of Quebec is preparing for an ice carnival—one of those frigid festivals that have long been associated with the name of Montreal, and which were for a time successfully imitated in St. Paul until the winter climate of that thriving city grew too hot to support an ice palace.

In previous winter carnivals an ice palace modeled after those of St. Petersburg has been the center of attraction. Quebec proposes to substitute for this feature a vast ice fortress on the old walls of the city. Here will be given a spectacular representation of the memorable assault of 1775, in which General Montgomery lost his life.

The assault will take place at night and will be made by the combined snowshoe clubs of the city, gorgeously caparisoned and led by an experienced officer. The fortress will be defended by regular troops, and much is expected of the illuminations and pyrotechnic display which are to follow.

Another interesting military event will be a sham battle on the historic plains of Abraham—the troops on snowshoes and the artillery on traineaux. Other novel spectacles will be provided, and as a testimonial of good will toward their American neighbors a statue in ice

CHATEAU FRONTENAC FROM LOWER TOWN, to General Montgomery, modeled after the one in front of St. Paul's church in New York, will be erected on the spot where the general's remains lay for 40 years before their removal to the American metropolis. Altogether the week beginning Jan. 29 promises to furnish a festival of unusual interest and magnificence.

But aside from the novel spectacles in ice and snow, the picturesque pageantry and mimic warfare, there is much to interest American visitors in quaint old Quebec. The city is situated on a high ridge on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river and from its impregnable position has been called the Gibraltar of America. It is divided into Upper and Lower Town.

A large part of Upper Town is taken up with the grounds and buildings of religious societies and corporations, prominent among them being the site of the Jesuit college, founded in 1633. The suburbs of St. Louis and St. John extend southward and eastward. Lower Town takes in the suburbs of St. Roch, St. Simeon and Boisseauville, extending to the junction of the St. Lawrence and St. Charles rivers. In this lower town, near the wharves, is the market place, in which can best be seen every type of the Canadian, from the country folk to the majority of the city. Women are in the majority, and the French and English languages are mingled in the babel of tongues. The most original characters are the peasants, who are genuine ones in gray homespun—the men wearing long legged moccasins and felt hats, while their wives look easy and comfortable in straight skirts, loose sacks and broad hats, all homemade.

One of the striking contrasts between ancient and modern Quebec that impress the visitor is the view of Chateau Frontenac from Lower Town. This magnificent building is one of the newest structures in Quebec and is surrounded by houses moss covered and gray with age.

Near the market is the little Church of Notre Dame des Victoires, one of the first churches built in America, the walls dating about 1600. Quebec's first building and the first garden in Canada are also near, and in the same locality Champlain founded Quebec by erecting his house in 1608. It was on Champlain street that the houses were demolished and people killed and injured by the landslide from Dufferin terrace a few years ago.

St. Roch is the pure French quarter. The houses are generally small and of irregular shape to suit the street angles and quiet tastes of the occupants. But, although small, they are most invariably built of brick or stone and have a comfortable, substantial look, with no suggestion of the shanty. Nearly all the shops and stores are under the living rooms of those carrying on business. There are scarcely any signs on the streets. Even the corner grocery store does not blaze with golden letters. It displays in a window a broom or at the door a bunch of birch bark.

Midwinter is the city's grandest season. There are blockades of snow, trees are bare and country houses buried beneath the white mantle, but the people light their fires, and all is sociability. The market place is thronged with sleighs and peasants in furs. A snowy twilight gives Quebec a still more striking aspect. The distance is hidden in the gray obscurity; gables, dormers and chimneys loom out in single groups, and the view of picturesque individual forms changes suddenly at every step. The place is muffled and veiled. People creep into their collars, bow their heads or even turn their backs to the wind to get breath as they hurry on to shelter. The women of Quebec are always attractive from their healthy and wholesome appearance. They are met at all hours going to or returning from mass or confession. Their manners are unobtrusive, their voices sweet and low and their bearing toward the opposite sex modest.

HIS WIFE SHAVED HIM.

She Wasn't Going to Be Late to Church if She Knew It.

The story was told by a talkative man who was evidently from the country. The barber drew it out by the usual question asked of new patrons, "Do you shave yourself?"

"Not much," was the reply. "Does my face look as if I did?"

The barber confessed that his face was in good condition, whereupon the talkative man added, with a chuckle: "And I don't usually get shaved by any barber, either."

"How's that?" asked the barber. "My wife shaves me," answered the talkative man, with another chuckle. "She's done it every day for five years," he added, "and I ain't never had any reason to complain of her work."

"Who taught her the trade?" asked the barber, becoming interested.

"Learned it herself. It came about this way: One Sunday morning soon after we were married I started off to a barber shop to get shaved before going to church. The shop was crowded, as I knew it would be. But as I'd never been any great churchgoer I didn't hurry. I waited for my favorite barber, who of course was everybody's favorite too. And when I finally got home it was pretty late. I thought my wife would get tired of waiting, you see, and go on to church alone, expecting me to follow. But she hadn't. She sat with her things on, and when I saw her I was prepared to catch it," and the talkative man giggled reflectively.

"And did you catch it?" prompted the barber.

"Well, she wanted an explanation, and of course I told her the usual story about having to wait."

"Well," says she, "you won't do no more waiting around barber shops while you and I live together. You can shave yourself in future."

"No, I can't," says I. "I cut my face."

"Then I'll shave you," says she.

"You can't," says I.

"Yes, I can," says she, "and I will."

"I thought the best way to convince her and keep peace in the family was to let her try it once, so the next Sunday I submitted, telling her beforehand that if she didn't give me a clean shave and no cuts, I wouldn't go to church. Well, sir, she gave me as good a shave as I ever got from a barber, and after that I let her keep it up, and I've never been sorry for it. I tell you, it's a luxury there can't many poor men afford."

"Next!" said the barber.—Buffalo Express.

Cotton Factory Experiments.

A system of moistening the air of a cotton factory—as is required in some departments of a mill before blowing it into the rooms—has been the subject of much experiment. It has been found that, if a jet of steam or vapor is discharged into the main duct any degree of humidity desired can be obtained, but all the air is moistened alike, being distributed to the different rooms by the risers leading thereto. That, however, which is best adapted for one department in a cotton mill may not prove equally favorable for another.

Then, too, the introduction of moisture at this point may work disastrously to the walls of the ducts and risers. It is now found that this objection may be overcome at a small expense, by carrying a steam pipe down through each room and putting opposite each opening in the flue, through which the air enters the room, an outlet with valves for regulating the flow of the steam. In this way the exhaust steam from the engine which drives the blower flows into the room, and being caught up by the current of air passing from the flue is thus distributed throughout the room. Experience with this plan through cold weather has proved its peculiar value.—New York Sun.

Dentists' Secrets.

A long chapter of dentists' secrets—the secrets revealed to them by customers made unconscious but talkative by gas—has been revealed by a conscienceless tooth puller up in Pittsburg. One society young lady swore several lines of blank spaces while a tooth was being drawn. A burglar taken from jail to have a tooth pulled confessed all the details of his crime when under the "influence" and parted with 10 years of liberty. Occasionally men want to fight and are very strong; others are jolly and confidential.

The most interesting story of the series is this, told by one dentist of another: "I know of a young dentist who was head over heels in love with a pretty girl, but he could never make any headway with her. He was bashful. That was the main trouble. One day she came to him to have a tooth pulled. He administered gas, and before she revived she let enough drop to assure my friend that if he proposed he wouldn't be rejected. She is his wife today, and if it had not been for the gas I don't suppose the wedding would ever have come off."—Washington News.

Princess Hohenlohe's Inheritance.

Princess Hohenlohe, the wife of the governor general of Alsace-Lorraine, inherited from her uncle, a Russian general, estates in Russia worth 30,000,000 or 40,000,000 rubles. Under the Russian law foreign nonresidents cannot hold property, and the princess is compelled to sell her estates at once. She asked the czar to grant her a little time, as the financial stringency, which prevails in Russia as well as in this country, has made real estate hard to dispose of. The czar, however, for political reasons, refuses to grant the extension, and the woman may be able to realize only 15,000,000 or 20,000,000 rubles from her heritage.

Why Ambition Is Honored.

"Why do we honor ambition and despise avarice, while they are both but the desire of possession?" inquired a friend of Richard Brinsley Sheridan. "Because," answered he, "the one is natural, the other artificial; the one the sign of mental health, the other of mental decay; the one appetite, the other disease."

AT PUNAHOU.

German Play and Tableau to Take Place Tonight.

Under the guidance of Miss Hartford, the teacher of German at Punahou, a German play is to be given tonight at the school by some of the pupils. The play is entitled Singvogelchen, and as it has been carefully studied and worked up it promises to be very enjoyable, not merely for those who understand German, but for others as well, as the action is a simple one which all will be able to follow.

After the play there will be a series of beautiful tableaux. Those who saw the tableaux given at Punahou a couple of years ago need no assurance that these to be given tonight will be worth going twice as far to see. They are sure to be exquisite.

The performance is to begin at 8 o'clock.

Anderson & Barr, of Jersey City, lost $75,000 to $100,000 in an unsuccessful attempt to secure foundations.—Ex.
