The Last Battle.

To his heart it struck such terror
That he laughed a laugh of scorn—
The man in the soldier's doublet,
With the sword on his breast,
He struck his breast like the front-wheel
To find his comrades dead,
While the battle-field was guarded
By the heroes who lay dead.
He drew his sword in the sunlight,
And called with a long halloo:
"Dead men, there's no coming here,
I'll show you my own way."
He raised a ragged standard,
This lonely one of war,
And called the foe to arms
By shouts they heard afar.
They galloped swiftly toward him,
The banner bled with red,
It sank; he sank beside it,
Upon his sword, and died.
Rev. H. H. Lathrop in Harper's Magazine.

The March Magazines.

The American Magazines for this month contain many articles of special interest. The Century presents a fine portrait of Daniel Webster, engraved by T. Johnson from a daguerreotype taken by F. de B. Richardson, in Philadelphia, in the year 1849. The opening article is entitled "The Land of the False Prophet," by General R. E. Colston, who was formerly an officer on the general staff of the Egyptian army, and, while in that service, commanded two exploring expeditions in the Sudan. Among the numerous illustrations will be found a picture of the late General Gordon, taken from a photograph made in Egypt in 1867. The fourth paper on the New Astronomy, by S. P. Langley, treats of the Planets and the Moon. It is unusually interesting and is illustrated with comparative and ideal plates and maps. The most readable paper will be found by many to be "The First Flight of Iron Clads," March 9, 1862, by John Taylor Wood. The history of the building of the Merrimack and of the invention and building of the famous Monitor, together with a recital of the naval battles fought in Hampton Roads, the destruction of the Merrimack and the ultimate fate of the Monitor, is all excellently told and vividly illustrated. Harper's for March contains one of Woodworth's Sonnets illustrated from a drawing by Alfred Parsons; "The House of Orange," by Professor W. T. Hewitt, with engravings of "The Kings and Queens" from old points and photographs; "A Glimpse of Some Washington Homes," by E. W. Lightner; "In an old Virginia Town," by Frederick Daniel, etc., etc. Besides the usual stock stories the number presents some well written episodes and several pieces of meritorious poetry one of which, entitled "The Last Battle," by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop is reprinted elsewhere. Among many scientific papers in the Popular Science Monthly, the following will be found worthy of note: "Science in Politics," by F. W. Clarke; "The Darwinian Theory of Instincts," by G. J. Romanes; "F. R. S.," by W. Richardson; "The Estimation of Life," by B. W. Richardson; "M. D. F. R. S.," recalls the old fanciful theory of the "Pleasures of dying and the peace of death," but in this case the author applies his practical results to the killing of animals only, at the rate of two cents per head. "The Accurate Measurement of Time," by T. B. Wilson; and "Superstitions about the Dolphin," by Dr. Biedermann. The North American Review, which is always impartial and opens its pages to all phases of thought, contains among other well treated papers two articles of no ordinary merit, viz: "Future Retribution," by Rev. F. W. Farrar, Canon of Westminster; and "Speculation in Politics," by Judge John A. Jameson. Both papers deserve more than a passing notice, but lack of space prohibits the review we would like to make.

In the Overland Monthly, "The Drift of Power in the English Government" is ably written upon by Bernard Moses; chapters twenty-five to thirty of the "Evening of a New Land," by Ada L. Collier, are given; Mr. James D. Phelan, context of the legal and constitutional aspects of Treason vs. Liberty; and J. M. contributes a well written ballad entitled, "The Camp at Japonicillas, which relates an incident under the reign of Archduke Maximilian in Mexico. The children's St. Nicholas Magazine has a frontispiece showing the inauguration of President Garfield, and contains illustrated stories, poems and sketches. The Anglican Church Chronicle for March contains besides its usual interesting local and island notes, an article entitled, "Reflections on a Recent Birthday," some well printed editorial Pastoral letters of the Bishop of Honolulu; and a poem entitled, "The Last Sleep," by the Rev. K. M. Maguire, D. D., Rector of St. Olave's Southwark. The Friend for this month commemorates the deaths of Rev. S. C. Damon and Mrs. Abigail Willis Smith. The editorial tribute to the memory of Father Damon will be found especially touching to the many citizens of Honolulu who have so often in the past listened to the moral precepts and spiritual teachings of the "old man frequent." The number also contains the address of Rev. Mr. Forbes with other tender tributes on the death of Mr. Smith, by several of her sorrowing friends. The Planter's Monthly touches upon the Government and the Currency, and the new Rennie Company; gives a review of the Sugar Trade of 1884; and presents communications on Population and Labor and on Co-Operative Labor.

Special advice from Pekin state that all the dignitaries of the Chinese Empire have been summoned to give opinions as to the expediency of continuing war with France.

The Russian newspaper Svet, the organ of General Komaroff, asserts that there is a strong party at Herat who desire that Russian protection be extended over the city.

The Journal de St. Petersburg denies that Russia has any ulterior designs on Central Asia, and declares that Russia will observe the Russo-English agreement with strict fidelity.

An examination of the report of the Bureau of Statistics on foreign immigration during the past year of Irish immigrants arriving at New York.

Advices from Durban, South Africa, announce that reports are current there to the effect that a proposal has been made to organize a contingent of 5,000 Zulus for service in the Sudan.

A dispatch from Cuxhaven says the Swedish steamer Norden was run into and sunk by the English steamer Cumberland. Twenty-one persons aboard the Norden were drowned.

General Gordon's diaries, containing a daily record of life in Khartoum up to the departure of the steamers to meet Stewart's troops, will be received at the War Office during the present week.

The French Chamber of Deputies rejected the counter proposals of M. Gernain to abolish the tax on unoccupied lands and raise the necessary revenue by increase of duty upon alcoholic liquors.

An attempt was made by three men at Lincoln, Nebraska, to rob the State Treasury on the 28th of February. One of the robbers James Griffin was killed, Alvin Maguire was captured and the third man escaped.

Additional severe shocks of earthquake have been felt in Granada, Loja and Alhama, in Spain. Many houses have been destroyed and it is feared many persons have been killed in the surrounding districts.

Father Gavazzi of the Scotch Church has announced that the committees of the Waldensia and Free Italian churches have adopted a scheme for the union of those churches under the name of the Evangelical Church of Italy.

Numerous literary associations at Paris celebrated the 83d birthday of Victor Hugo on Wednesday, the 25th of February. A procession of students offered their congratulations the next day. Victor Hugo is hale and vigorous.

Rear Admiral Jocett has been instructed to send a vessel to the relief of a number of American citizens in the vicinity of Livingston, West coast of Central America, where they had gone to engage in work on a projected railroad.

A large house at Gosenza, Italy, capital of the province of the same name, was wrecked March 1st, by the fall of the floor. There were sixty persons in the building at the time of the disaster and all were injured more or less seriously.

A London dispatch of March 1st says: "Assurances of the safety of General Buller's command have afforded great relief to the public. The escape of the column from disaster was almost miraculous. General Buller arrived at Korti today."

It is reported that Bismarck is supporting the pacific policy of De Giers against the military party in Russia, who want war with England, and that he has sent a protest to the Czar against aggressive movement on the part of Russia.

Panama dates of the 16th state that a sanguinary engagement had taken place in the Jauga Valley, Peru, between four companies of Government troops and 2,500 Indian mountaineers. The latter were defeated, leaving 300 dead on the field.

The Chicago Tribune attacks President Arthur for having pardoned Loring and Fleming, who, along with others, swindled country subscribers for the mail out of nearly $3,000,000, intended for speculation in the California grain market.

The freight depot of the Albany and Susquehanna rail road was totally destroyed by fire at Albany on March 4th. A large quantity of freight was burned and many cars were damaged. The depot is 600 feet long, and was insured for $85,000; loss about $125,000.

A sensation has been created at Atlanta, Georgia, by the announcement that Sam W. Small, a well-known journalist and author of the "Old Sid" character sketches, has abandoned the world and gone into training for the ministry in the Protestant Episcopal Church.

In accordance with the request of Prince Hohenzollern, German Ambassador to France, the French Government has ordered the expulsion of the German Socialists concerned in the riot which occurred on the occasion of the funeral of Jules Valles, the well-known Socialist journalist.

Information was received at San Antonio, Texas, on March 15th, from Dimmit county, the scene of the recent combat with Mexican marauders, that a band of Americans visited a sheep ranch last week, carried away and hanged three Mexican herders who are not known to have been guilty of any offense. General Stanley, Department Commander, is arranging for the establishment of a line of pickets from Brownsville to Laredo along the Rio Grande.

The Pall Mall Gazette, lately Gladstone's warmest organ, says: "Painful to the last degree was the humiliating and discreditable performance to which the Prime Minister treated the House of Commons. It was sad to witness this dismal and even tragical ending to so

A new political movement which aims at the correction of the Sunday evil, composed of members of both the principal parties of the state, was inaugurated at a meeting held in New York on the 24th of February. The meeting organized as the "Independent Citizens' Association of the State of New York."

The ship Grandee, from Hongkong, which arrived at New York, March 1st, reports that on January 7th, in latitude 33 deg. south, long 177 deg. east, she spoke the ship Bann, from Calcutta for Demerara, fifty-three days out, with 600 coolies. The Bann had a contagious disease aboard and had lost eighteen coolies.

Captain William Churchill addressed the California Academy of Sciences, on the evening of March 3d, on "The Study of the Phologic and Ethnologic Position of the Present Inhabitants of the Islands of the Intertropical Pacific." The lecture concluded the series of papers to be read by him on the ethnology of the Polynesian group.

The British navy estimates for 1886 are £12,396,500. This is intended to meet ordinary expenses and to provide for the construction of thirteen new vessels, including eleven iron-clads; the army estimates for 1886 are announced to amount to £17,820,700. This sum includes the expenditures which the Sudan expedition necessitates.

On the 10th of February, Cyrus W. Field sued for libel Henry Labouchere, editor of the London Truth and publisher of that journal. February 27th, a writ for libel on Field was served on A. Oakey Hall, London agent of the New York Herald, and another writ was issued against James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the same journal.

Northcote's motion of censure was rejected in the House of Commons by a majority of only 14; the leading English papers affirm that while technically the Government has escaped defeat yet morally it has been discredited and condemned; that the Cabinet is bankrupt in influence and that Gladstone has received a severe lesson.

In the Senate of Michigan on February 27th, a joint resolution submitting the prohibition amendment to the people failed to pass—yes 18, noes 13, which was not the required two-thirds. The vote was strictly partisan, the Republicans voting aye and the Democrats no. It was then reconsidered and tabled, to be brought up again after the spring election.

Mrs. Annie Sullivan, wife of John L. Sullivan, the champion pugilist, has begun suit for a divorce on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment and gross and confirmed habits of intoxication. Mrs. Sullivan desires the custody of her children, and asks that Sullivan's property, to the extent of $20,000, be attached to secure the support of herself and children.

Mlle. Guillamane, who has just died, was one of the most remarkable women in Paris. She edited for twenty-six years La Revue des Economistes, the most solid of French periodicals. She could make the hardest of hard bargains, entertained nearly her whole staff of men and women once a week, and was chiefly remarkable for her power of estimating the value of manuscript.

The legislature of Minnesota, has adopted a high license liquor law, making $500 the figure. The legislature has also adopted a new Penal Code similar to that of New York. The most important change from the old code, is making hanging the penalty for murder in the first degree. Heretofore the passage of the death sentence was left to the option of the court, but no judge ever exercised the privilege.

The confederation Mercantile of the city of Mexico presented a long petition to President Diaz on the 27th of February, asking that the free zone on the northern frontier be abolished; that differential freight rates on the Mexican Central Railroad be done away with; that the high customs tariff on certain articles be reduced; and that contraband trade over the northern boundary be especially guarded against.

It is stated that Michigan lumber merchants, fearing the decay of forests in Michigan, have been conferring with the Central and Union Pacific railroads concerning rates for California and Oregon timber lands. The information gained has been so satisfactory that a commission has been appointed to go to California for a final settlement of titles, which will start from Detroit about the 1st of March. About $3,000,000 will be invested in California forests.

Flemmy, the secretary of the dynamite committee, declares that the dynamiters began three weeks ago (about February 9) preparations for certain events to take place in England, compared with which all the previous explosions were experiments and which he was confident would terrify all England. He said that the Prince of Wales would not be molested during his sojourn in Ireland, as he was going thither with good intentions.

Information was received at San Antonio, Texas, on March 15th, from Dimmit county, the scene of the recent combat with Mexican marauders, that a band of Americans visited a sheep ranch last week, carried away and hanged three Mexican herders who are not known to have been guilty of any offense. General Stanley, Department Commander, is arranging for the establishment of a line of pickets from Brownsville to Laredo along the Rio Grande.

great career. His once glorious sun is now setting fast behind black and lurid clouds - a gloomy and awful contrast to the "splendors of the new day," the dawn of which was so fondly hailed in 1860.

The Prohibition party of Rhode Island met in Convention February 25th for the purpose of nominating a State ticket. There was a good attendance. The following ticket was selected: Governor, Ed. H. Slade, of Providence; Lieutenant Governor, William B. Franklin, of Newport; Attorney General, Edwin Metcalf, of Providence; Secretary of State, Frederick A. Warren, of Bristol; General Treasurer, John G. Perry, of South Kingstown.

The announcement made in the British House of Commons, February 27th by Lord Fitzmaurice, Under Secretary of the Foreign Department, that France has been notified by England that she could not assent to France's declaring against China as a continental ally, has caused considerable commotion, and it was stated if the report is true a cable dispatch would be sent over to London to try and stop the arms and ammunition from proceeding any further than London.

General Gordon's last defiance was uttered when the Mahdi sent an autograph letter last October to General Gordon exulting over the wreck of Colonel Stewart's steamer and the murder of that officer and companions, and in proof of the knowledge that disaster had overtaken Stewart, he enclosed copies of documents found on the steamer and an account showing the state of the munitions and supplies at Khartoum at the time of Stewart's departure. By the messenger who brought the letter, Gordon sent back a defiant reply to the Mahdi. He said: "I do not care how many men you killed or how many successes you gained. It makes no difference to me. After more in the same vein, he concluded with: 'I do not care what forces you have, I am made of iron and intend to hold on here.'"

Anecdote.
A good story is told that a fast young lady, determined to be noticed by Blumark at a ball, approached him and asked if he would favor her bracelet - which she had purposely loosened. But the man of iron beckoned up a young aide-de-camp, and said: "My sight is hardly good enough; but I can see you are not so handsome as your mother."

While Cockburn was at the bar he defended a prisoner who, in spite of all his efforts, was sentenced to be hanged on the 17th of next month. The convict, after his condemnation, reproached the counsel for having failed to free him. "Never mind that," said Cockburn, "I have a little patience and will be done you on the 17th."

When Ralph Waldo Emerson, it is related, was recently reading his essay on the future of America to a small audience, he happened to say "the" instead of "this" country. His faithful daughter, Ellen, interrupted him. "Father," she said, "it is this country." A smile crept over the face of the Concord philosopher as he replied, with a fine faith in the great republic, "Well, this country is the country."

"Ah! I have an impression!" exclaimed Doctor McCool, the President of Princeton College, to the mental philosophy class. "Now, young gentlemen," continued the doctor as he touched his head with his forefinger, "can you tell me what an impression is?" "No answer." "What - no one knows? No one can tell me what an impression is?" exclaimed the doctor, looking up and down the class. "I know," said Mr. Arthur. "An impression is a dent in a soft place." "Young gentlemen," said the doctor, removing his hand from his forehead and growing red in the face, "you are excused for the day."

Several different versions of an old Indian yarn are going the rounds of the English press, started by Sir Charles Dilke, any one of which is good. One says that the incident occurred at Sanganer station on the railway between the native station-master to the traffic superintendent. "Two tigers fighting on the platform. Please arrange." The neatness of the message will be appreciated most by those who recall that, "please arrange" is an official formula in use among railway men. Either this incident, or a parallel case, is given in Prinsep's Imperial India, published half a dozen years ago. The station mentioned by Prinsep was Kumbhalgarh, his local, according to him read, "Tiger" - a tiger, on the platform, Pointman ran away. Line not clear. What to do?"

On one occasion, says a writer speaking of Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, an attaché had made one or two mistakes in copying a dispatch which he took to the ambassador for signature. "Mistakes may be made," said Lord Stratford, after pointing them out, "by the most careful attaché; how much more by the most careless!" The high-spirited young diplomatist got exceedingly incensed, and told Lord Stratford that, although he was his ambassador, he had no right to reprimand him for what was untrue, as he was not habitually careless. "You accuse me of untruthfulness! D - your eyes!" exclaimed Lord Stratford. "D - your Excellency's eyes!" retorted the youth. The Earl burst out laughing. Holding out his hand to him he begged the attaché to excuse the infirmity of his temper, and they shook hands most cordially.

Dom Pedro when first visiting Paris said to M. Theophile Gautier: "I have never seen everything I want to see here except Victor Hugo." "There is no reason, sire, why you should not also see him. He would be greatly flattered to receive a visit from your Majesty." "But I am afraid that he would not return my visit. What do you think?" The question was repeated by M. Theophile Gautier to the poet in the presence of a lady, the wife of a struggling journalist whom Victor Hugo particularly esteemed for the consistent dignity of his life, which had been an obstacle to the acquirement of wealth. "Tell the Emperor that I shall regard his call as a high honor," answered Victor Hugo, "but that it would be impossible for me to call on him, for the simple reason that I have never yet found time to call on Madame R. (the journalist's wife) or on other ladies who often come to see me, and who merit my respectful friendship."

Mark Twain tells this story of Mr. Bergh: A lady was talking with Mr. Bergh one day and chanced to speak of a friend of hers who had lately been traveling out West. In crossing the frontier it became necessary that the father, mother and three children should cross a somewhat swollen ford. Their only boat of burden was a mule. So the father placed two of the children on its back, then plunged in and led the boat in with him. It was an obdurate habit with him, all round the other shore in safety. At the man's landing the infant mule returned to where the mother and child were waiting to cross. The mother, leaning to put too heavy a burden on the already tired animal, put only the child upon its back, laid him hold fast, and with a prayer, led the animal to the water's edge. They plunged in, swam heavily for a time, then were seen to struggle and go down. "Oh, think, Mr. Bergh," said the excited and pining lady, "just think what must have been the feelings of that mother, as she saw her darling child lost in the depths of that dark water!" "True, oh, too true!" sighed Mr. Bergh. "But did you ever think, my dear lady, what must have been the feelings of the mule?"

A New York dispatch of February 28th, says: Considerable mystery and cautiousness have been noticed at the Monarchline pier, in Jersey City, during the past week, while their steamer Egyptian Monarch was being loaded. A few hours after the steamer sailed, yesterday, it was learned that she carried a large number of cases of arms and ammunition, which, upon her arrival in London, were to be reshipped by another steamer, and taken to Shanghai, China, for the Chinese army. When the report of the facts reached the office of the French Consul General, it caused considerable commotion, and it was stated if the report is true a cable dispatch would be sent over to London to try and stop the arms and ammunition from proceeding any further than London.

General Gordon's last defiance was uttered when the Mahdi sent an autograph letter last October to General Gordon exulting over the wreck of Colonel Stewart's steamer and the murder of that officer and companions, and in proof of the knowledge that disaster had overtaken Stewart, he enclosed copies of documents found on the steamer and an account showing the state of the munitions and supplies at Khartoum at the time of Stewart's departure.
