Two Trolleys.

There are two kinds of trolleys-those that are built to carry passengers and those that are built to sell bonds of and to sell machinery to. They may look alike at first, but in time the difference becomes very apparent, and there are obvious dangers in multiply-ing the latter variety. It takes somebody's money to set any trolley line going. The people are full of the idea that real estate doubles the minute a trolley line touches it, and there is in the air more or less of the spirit that led, thirty years or so ago, to ruinous investments in steam roads all over the state. The farmer who takes his savings bank deposit to help build a trolley that is to pass his door may mortgage his home next to keep the road running, and eventually may see the service stopped and the house sold. People don't run trolleys at a losz for-Somebody must foot the bills. It is asserted in some well informed quarters that one must search long to find a single cross country trolley that pays. Be that as it may, it is obvious that a good many are projected that cannot pay, and it is equally true that eventually the line that doesn't pay will come to grief.—Hartford Courant.

The leading men of the royalist party are no fools. When they see before them something that assures them protection for their property and their homes, when they see opportunities for a brilliant career offering to their posterity, It is cheap besides. they are not going to stick to a sensational idea and precarious fuernment as much as the most ardent annexationist.

The raising of the Stars and Stripes will be welcomed by all here, save a very small and dis-gruntled lot. When once the flag hail it with intense satisfaction.

To the United States the hoisting of the Stars and Stripes means the definite announcement to the world that they take and intend to keep the commanding commercial posi-tion in the Pacific ocean. To the islanders it means a career of peace and assured prosperity. It means more; it means protection and safety in all future complications when the jarring interests of great powers turn the ocean into a scene of battle strife. Resting under the wing of the United States our fears of Asiatic absorption may be lulled Short and Figured Mohairs, to rest, and we may go about our business, may develop the lands and increase our commerce, satisfied that no one will dare to touch or interfere with the islands that Uncle Sam's banner floats over.

A NAVAL AUTHOR.

Captain Mahan when he published his first work, appealed to the profession of which he is so distinguished an ornament. "The Influence of Sea Power upon a History" was a great book, but there was much that was technical in it. It opened up ideas, crystalized them as it were, and throwing aside the technical portion the general public read and understood the E. Splendid Tribute

THE SAN FRANCISCO BOARD OF HEALTH URGES THE USE OF THE Royal Baking Powder.

The magnificent tribute of the San Francisco Board of Health to the great purity and wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder greatly disturbs the manufacturers of the lower grade powders. Their envious publications, however, cannot break the force of this unsolicited and unbiassed high medical endorsement. Attached is a certified copy of their original report, with the signatures of the members of the Board in fac-simile :

We, the members of The Board of Health of the City and County of San Francisco, cordially approve and recommend the Royal Baking Powder. It is absolutely pure and healthful, composed of the best ingredients of the highest strength and character.

In our judgment it is impossible to make a purer or stronger Baking Powder than the "Royal."

Warm Debilitating Weather. Many people, after a long spell of oppressive heat, suffer from lassitude, loss of spirits, and a general "run down" feeling. They need a course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a medicine which has revived and restored to active life and health thousands of such sufferers. A lady recently returned to England from South Africa writes concerning this

"While in Cape Town the past summer I suffered greatly from the long .continued heat. I was completely worn out; my blood seemed to become as thin as water, and 1 lost all energy and interest in life. My friends recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and a course of this wonderful medicine restored my health and spirits. Rev. Tenter Honles, R. D., was quite part out. Ills usually placid spirit was disturbed. It might have been sold that he was "'mad as a hornes," only that he, bethe a clergyman, was not subject to fits of anger like the rest of us. Rev. Mr. Hooks was irritated, however-clearly and undisculently irritated-as he bounced the text) it is haby first on one knee and then on the other in a value effort to keep it a ulet.

A nice occuration this for a bachelor of Civinity and paster of one of the most in-Enertial churches in the city! It was the injustice of the thing that ir-titated him. Try as he might he could not get away from this comparatively new view of his domestic habits—the injustice of it all-expecting him to hold his own as a pulpit orator while his days were spent in "minding" a cross baby. No man could hold his place in the front rank un-der such conditions.

At first, when his wife had begun to leave the baty in his study when she went out on her afternoon rounds, he fe't proud of her devotion to church work. Later he had extracted pleasure from contemplating the uncomplaining way in which he re-signed himself to domestic duties. But now he was ready for rebellion. He had a fine theme in his mind for next Sunday's sermon, but the child scemed determined to remain awake. He sang "Beulah Land" in shunderous drones, and twice had the child in its cradle, but twice it caught him in the act and shricked at

It cought him in the act and shrieked at his trenchery in trying to get rid of it. At last he plumped it on a rug in the center of the floor and strode to the win-dow. No sign of his wife. Let the child hawl—it would hawl anyway! Mary, the servant, was fronting in the basement—it wouldn't do to call her from that importari work. Her work was so much more important than his. Away over the house tops he could see the steeple of his church. How other clergy-men envied him-but if they only knew! If-they-only-knew! Spending his week doing the work of a nursegirl; drawing his sermons from his inner consciousness; not allowed-no, not allowed to prepare sermons as others did. The carpenter going daily to his work is regarded as a man by his wife, but because he didn't pound an anyll or saw and plane boards his wife regarded him as a sort of ordained nursegirl, a sanctified denestic servant! He was in her sight an assistant house helper, and sweeping and keeping the heuse fidy was the main thing. His pro-fession was nothing, his sermons nothing. his career nothing!

In fairer horsing: In patiently he grabbed a newspaper that key folded with nice precision on a table and threw it out the floor. That gave him an idea. He would fare up and be the man of the heuse. Seizing the tally, he squeezed it firmly in his arms, and by sheer concentration of forces sang and rocked it to sheep. He Ladies' White Sailor plumped the child roughly in the cradle twisted a coverlet over it and was some-what astonished to see that it peacefully slumbered on,

"That's a good start," he muttered. Then he took the reg from the study floor and tossed it into the hallway. He hated that rog. It was the emblem of his servitude as norse In a drawer he found the key of his study, and putting tids in his nocket re-solved that hereafter he would lock him-self in with his books and manuscripts three hours a day. He would run his own house even if he had to run everybody else out of it. Then he got out his hat-two or three of his hats and brushed them furbusly in the drawing room. Mrs. Hooks never al-lowed him to brush anything elsewhere than in the kitchen. He would show her —better still, he would refuse to brush anything anywhere, not even his waist-

"There," he said, throwing the whish on "There," he said, throwing the whish on the floor, "if she wants it hung on the wall, she can hang it on the wall. Here-after I shall decline to see a whisk holder, or a slipper holder, or any other of the the handcuffs that I've submitted to."

His wrongs trooped complainingly before his view, and he was filled with indignant surprise that he had submitted as long as he had. Then he heard laughing voices at the door. From the window he saw Mrs. Hooks and a spectacled lady, powerful in Hooks and a spectacled may, powerful in raising mission funds, chatting there. "After all," he said reflectively, "I suppose this is hardly the proper thing," and he held the eigar stub up between thumb and finger. "There's no use puiting myself in the wrong at the outset. He stepped out to the grate in the hall, and with the tongs punched the eigar deep into the hot coals. Luckily women are talk ative at parting, and so there yet remained time to replace the whisk in the holder. Perhaps he could even get the rug back in its place, and the hats—oh, yes, the hats— he had nearly forogiten them. Good—not a trace left. "No use letting her see that I've been in a passion," he muttered.

"Well, dear, is the little pet sleepings" inquired Mrs. Hooks, fluttering a tiptoe to the cradle. "Yes, dear," he said.

"The wee darling!" she gloated. "Did you change him?" "No, pet! I-I couldn't find a dry one,"

Bicycle Evolution.

Starley discovered the application of dif-ferential movement of the two motive wheels of the tricycle and transformed this machine to such an extent that it seemed destined to become the most important of all cycles. Larger and larger grew the front wheel of the machine, until one began to wonder what could be the end of it Then a change came over the minds of cyclists, and the machine with wheels of equal size made its appearance and was dubbed bicyclette by a writer in Le Petit Journal.
