(a) Medicine.

The yaws and gonorrhea problem are being studied carefully and we report that their incidence is diminishing.

(b) Surgical.

Although we have only admitted two (2) cataract cases, there are many in the field that are operable and in need of attention. Many of these are in the younger age groups. Pterygium also presents a problem. As we have no one trained in eye surgery and as their number is many, we have held these cases in abeyance and treated them symptomatically, pending information as to the handling of this problem.

(c) Sanitation.

Each island shows improvement since the last report. Fly traps have doubled in number. This we feel is because of the field instructions with regards to the nature of yaws.

The DDT and kerosene campaign will kill many mosquito and fly larvae. The organized native health aide sanitary team is in full operation. When these men are rotated to the field we expect island sanitation and cleanliness to improve accordingly.
(d) Administration.

The cooperation between the magistrate and health aide has been insisted upon. We have met with more success in gaining our objectives since we have been using this method to reach the people. The magistrate now being aware of the problems of the health aide is able to enforce his suggestions and actions.
