MARKET EXPERT SHOWS WE NEEDLESSLY SEND MONEY TO MAINLAND

That small farming is entirely practicable in Hawaii, and that under proper business methods the islands should produce not only a large amount of products which are now imported but raise a surplus for export, is the emphatic conclusion of S. T. Starrett, of Los Angeles, the marketing expert, brought here by the Territorial Department of Immigration, Labor and Statistics to investigate conditions that would tend to build up the diversified agricultural industries of the Territory.

Mr. Starrett has been in the Territory for the past month, and during that time he has visited all of the principal islands, and studied conditions carefully. He is sailing for the Coast by the Sierra tomorrow, and this morning presented his formal report to the Governor. This report is given in full below:

Report on the Proposed Territorial Marketing Department.
Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report and recommendations relative to the proposed Territorial Marketing Department:
Since arriving in Hawaii I have interviewed the leading merchants and shipping men in Honolulu engaged in handling country produce, and have visited the principal districts in the four large islands of the Territory reported to contain lands suitable for diversified agriculture.

The three leading crops, sugar, pineapples and rice, of course, require no attention from a government department. Shippers of coffee, cotton and tobacco will also, in all probability, be able to take care of themselves. The banana industry could probably be developed with government marketing assistance; and such assistance seems also needed at present to bring the production of other fruit and vegetable crops up to the existing market demand in this Territory and upon the mainland.

Demand Within the Territory.
During the year ending June, 1911, the imports of produce which might be raised within the Territory were as follows:

Article.	Amount.	Value.
Butter	597,272 pounds	$186,576
Eggs	86,670 dozen	23,170
Irish potatoes	127,895 bushels	89,606
Onions	24,396 bushels	18,731
Dry beans	17,463 bushels	42,769
Barley	781,814 bushels	514,573
Oranges	32,363 boxes	70,286

These are custom house returns, and the valuations are under the ruling wholesale price in Honolulu.

BIG PERMANENT RESULTS OF THE PANAMA FAIR

Our San Francisco Letter Tells of the Splendid Plans for Improvements That Will Be Lasting When the Fair Is Over.

By ERNEST N SMITH. (Special Correspondence of the Star.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Out of the labor and discussions of past months has come the fair site decision, and the directors have included within their plans what are undoubtedly some of the most original ideas ever promulgated for the holding of a world's fair.

It is nothing more or less than the taking in of a large part of the city instead of one section, and the improving of the same in such a way as will leave permanent benefits to the city as a whole and equally satisfactory benefits to sections of the city which will be the better for the help given by the presence of the exposition.

The plan was drawn up by a special committee consisting of I. W. Hellman, Jr., Andrew M. Davis and John Barneson, and adopted unanimously by the directors. When completed, the exposition, according to this plan, will include a beautified Ter-graph Hill, a civic center at Van Ness and Market streets, a carnival and concession center at Harbor View, a magnificent permanent boulevard through the Presidio to Land's End and then across to the Golden Gate Park, where would be located the art galleries, the athletic stadiums, and such features as could be maintained for the benefit of the city after the fair had become a thing of the past.

The news of the site selection is but a few hours old at this writing, but it seems that it must be a popular selection, meeting with the approval of practically everyone interested in the welfare of the city and the fair. It proves the solution to a problem which engendered bitter feeling throughout the city and divided San Francisco into rival camps.

Described more in detail, the exposition will properly begin at Telegraph Hill, where a public park of

THE CONGRESSIONAL VISIT PROSPECTS

By J. A. BRECKONS. (Special Correspondence of the Star.)
WASHINGTON, July 20.—Prospects for the congressional visit to Honolulu during the present summer are less favorable than at the previous writing, but the matter has not been abandoned by Secretary McClellan. A primary campaign in Virginia makes it impossible for Chairman Flood of the House committee on territories to attend, and other matters have caused a number of the proposed party to decline. The lateness of adjournment and press of politics at home, with some Chautauqua dates yet to be filled in late August or early September, have all contributed toward defeating the attendance of many members it was desired should make up the party.

Senator Kerns of Indiana of the committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, has accepted Secretary McClellan's invitation, and several others have done so conditionally. Many have delayed answering because of the uncertainties still attaching to the present session.

It has been definitely decided that if the party goes at all during the present summer it will sail on the Sierra on September 2.

TONIGHT'S WRESTLING

AT THE EMPIRE
Sailor Jensen has been matched to meet Joe Thomas at the Empire theater tonight. These two wrestlers will put up an interesting match, and no doubt there will be a big crowd to watch them. So far Thomas has proved the superior of all who have met him. The match between him and Sailor Roberts is being looked forward to with eagerness.

FREAR IS PLEASED

The report of Expert Starrett on the possibilities of developing the smaller agricultural industries of the Territory, through systematic encouragement of the farmer, and the building up of markets for the products, is not to become one of the buried and forgotten treasures of the archives, at least not until some of the writer's propositions have been given a fair try-out.

Governor Frear expressed sentiments along the above lines when asked about the report this morning. Moreover, according to the governor, no time will be lost in taking up the matter.

"Mr. Starrett's report is entirely satisfactory," said the governor, "and I think it is going to be exceedingly valuable. Mr. Starrett has done the work for which he was engaged in a manner that leaves no room for criticism."

Mr. Starrett held a long conference with the governor yesterday afternoon, and this morning he, Dr. Wilcox of the federal experiment station, Dr. V. S. Clark of the Department of Labor, Immigration and Statistics, had another meeting with the executive, in which the whole matter was gone into in detail.

As a result, it was virtually decided to start into the work at once. The first step will probably be the appointment of a field man, in accordance with Mr. Starrett's suggestions, who will be an agricultural expert, and will confer with farmers and gardeners, suggesting crops to plant, methods of cultivation, packing, etc. The Territory will also take up the matter of supplying high grade seed to

WILL WORK FOR FREE GARBAGE

A free garbage service for Honolulu is to be the slogan of the Central Improvement Committee from now on until the aim is accomplished. This is an announcement made by President E. A. Berndt, and is a reflection of the evident universal sentiment of the committee at its meeting held last week. It is also in line with the recommendation of practically every district head who had a part in the big clean-up day on June 24.

At the meeting last evening night the matter was referred to one of the regular committees to study the situation and devise ways and means by which the county may be enabled to provide this imperatively demanded service. It is possible that this committee may be strengthened by the addition of other members, and a thorough study of the question undertaken.

FOR ADDLED EGGS

Clem K. Quinn files a suit this afternoon for Fred Turrill against the City and County of Honolulu for $150 damages on account of valuable eggs added by heavy blasting done by road makers at Kaimuki.

NO YELLOW FEVER DANGER FROM THE PASADENA CASE

Immediately the news was received here that there had been a case of yellow fever in Pasadena, Dr. C. Ramus of the federal quarantine station sent a telegram to Surgeon General Wyman asking to be fully informed of the particulars of the case in order that the necessary precautions might be taken. The reply was received this morning, and contained the brief announcement that it was a negative case. This removes all anxiety there might have been at the first news.

While there was really no danger of infection, the federal health officers, in the interests of the residents, thought it better to be in receipt of the fullest information regarding the case, in order that they might adopt any precautions that they considered necessary. The news received, however, will be welcomed by all.

Dr. Marshall this morning said that if it were an isolated case, as it was presumed, it would be easily taken care of. There had to be an extraordinary change of circumstances to bring about a dangerous condition of affairs.

"Yes, we have the mosquito here all right," said the doctor, "but it is only infectious during the first three or four days of the attack, and there will be no infection from the mosquito until it has had it in its body twelve days. But after a mosquito has become infected it will remain so for the rest of its life. It has been proved that mosquitoes have carried this infection for fifty and sixty days."

"However, as long as the patient is kept screened off, and is not bitten by mosquitoes, there is really no danger. Although we have the mosquitoes that are capable of carrying the infection, there was only a possibility of it being brought here. It was never a danger, even had the Pasadena case not been a negative one. Fortunately, there is now absolutely nothing to trouble about."

SMUGGLED ALLIGATOR PEARS ASHORE AT SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco Examiner, July 26.—Six women passengers on the steamship Wilhelmina, which arrived from Honolulu yesterday, eluded the quarantine officers and succeeded in smuggling ashore a number of the prohibited alligator pears. It is reported on the reliable authority of one of the stewards that the women carried the pears away concealed in parts of their attire not subject to the public gaze.

The alligator pears are a luxury much craved by those who have learned to love them in the islands. The trouble is that they carry the Mediterranean fly, a fruit pest which the State Board of Health is taking every precaution against. It is impossible to buy the pears in this port, and the ship's officers attempt to keep them from being smuggled aboard.

When O. E. Brennan, chief deputy quarantine officer, learned about the pears and the six women he secured descriptions of them and set his assistants in a hurried search for them. The women were warned, however, and left the ship hurriedly.

"I will see that this does not happen again," said Brennan when he learned that the women had slipped through his net. "I will secure a number of Jane Doe warrants and search the passengers coming into this port suspected of having any of these pears concealed. It may sound like a joke, but it is a serious matter with us."

Passengers are not searched here for forbidden fruit. This work is in the hands of the coast authorities. The only passengers searched before leaving are those bound for inter-island ports.

REBELLION IN CUBA LIKE THAT AGAINST DIAZ

(Associated Press Cables to The Star.)
HAVANA, Aug. 1.—General Acevedo has started a revolt, threatening to burn property indiscriminately if President Gomez fails to resign.

CAMPBELL-BECKLEY WEDDING BRILLIANT

SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—Miss Beatrice Campbell and George C. Beckley were married this afternoon at St. Mary's Cathedral by Father Hannigan. The wedding was a brilliant society event.

The bride wore a Parisian gown of white crepe de chine. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert W. Shingle of Honolulu, sister of the bride; Miss Miriam Pond of Berkeley, Miss Mary Osborne of Fresno. The best man was Bert Nixon of Nevada. The ushers were Robert and Fred Shingle.

The bride was given away by Col. Sam Parker. After the wedding there was a reception at the St. Francis. The honeymoon will be spent at the Hotel Del Monte.

FREE LIST BILL PASSES.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Senate passed the Kern compromise free list bill by a vote of 48 to 30. As passed, it takes fresh meats off the free list except when coming from countries admitting certain American farm products free.

NOTED ARTIST PASSES AWAY.
LONDON, Aug. 1.—Edwin Austin Abbey, the artist, is dead.

EIGHT LIVES LOST.
HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 1.—Eight perished and many were injured in a fire in an asylum for insane here.

PRINCETON GOES TO SAMOA.

KEWALO RECLAMATION AND THE "MACOMB PLAN" WORK TOGETHER

Just what method would best be employed in the big reclamation project of filling in the ponds and low lands of the Kewalo district in accordance with the Board of Health's plans, is one of the important features of the proposition which is being given a good deal of consideration by President Mott-Smith of the Health Department.

Three plans have thus far been suggested. The first, and possibly the one most in favor, provided there are no serious physical obstacles, is to dredge the material from the reef. Mr. Mott-Smith would like to see a canal cut, beginning at the harbor and following the line of the reef Wai-kikiwards. This channel would be just outside of the seawall which will be constructed, provided General MacComb's plan can be carried out, and could be of any necessary width and depth to secure the necessary material for filling in the marsh land behind.

A series of borings will doubtless be necessary to determine whether or not this plan is feasible at all, for should the reef prove to be composed of very hard coral, the cost of the dredging would probably be prohibitive. Some years ago, however, a dredging method of drilling in found channel was cut through the reef not far from the animal quarantine station, and it was found that a few feet of hard coral overlaid a deep stratum of silt. If this condition is uniform all along the waterfront affected, it will probably solve the question in a very satisfactory manner.

Other Plans Suggested.

Another plan which has been suggested is to bring in filling material from the slopes of Diamond Head, using the Rapid Transit tracks and equipment for transporting it.

The third plan is to sluice earth from some of the higher land back of the city, by means of water.

Property Owners Co-operate.

The various private interests affected are almost without exception willingly doing their part towards preparing for the big work, and it is the intention to get estimates made on the work as a whole, and to ask for tenders, finally, upon either the whole job, or in several large contracts, which can be most economically handled.

President Mott-Smith hopes that ways and means may be found for carrying out the "MacComb plans," and that this work can be combined with the Kewalo proposition proper. However this last will not be permitted to be indefinitely delayed, and if necessary will be carried out as an independent project.

Mr. Mott-Smith thinks that if the dredging method of drilling is found to be practicable, the channel which would be cut in front of the seawall line, would be a great asset in the general scheme of making a magnificent waterfront residence section along the Ala Moana, and might be used as a place for holding rowing and canoeing regattas.

WINCKLER PLEADS GUILTY IN PART

John C. Winckler, quartermaster of the American-Hawaiian steamer Arizona, this morning pleaded guilty to the first of three counts in his indictment for smuggling opium. Sentence was deferred.

There were other arraignments continued from yesterday, resulting in pleas of not guilty and pleas reserved.

Clem K. Quinn, C. F. Chillingworth and E. M. Watson appeared respectively for various defendants, and E. A. C. Long was assigned as counsel for Felice Ludnek, cook of the Arizona, who said he had no money to hire lawyer.

Record Big Gun Shooting.

Daily Mail Overseas Edition: Remarkable shooting has taken place in the British navy's China squadron, which in the 1910 returns headed the gunnery list with an average score of 8,196 hits per minute.

In the flagship Minotaur this year an average as high as 12,23 hits per minute has been reached, the best score being that of Corporal White, R. M. A., who with a 12-pounder gun fired six rounds, making six direct hits in 17.6 seconds, which works out at an average of over twenty hits per minute. This is better than the highest 12-pounder score made in the whole of last year's tests.

A world's record is claimed for Leading Seaman Russell of H. M. S. Minotaur, who with six rounds from a 7.5-inch gun made five direct hits and one ricochet hit in 31.8 seconds, a performance unequalled for rapidity with that class of weapon.

When the mock trial was first suggested, Miss Haderlee agreed to become the plaintiff in a breach of promise suit. As there was some difficuity in picking out the defendant, the names of the male passengers were cast into a hat and Hordon's slip happened to be the one picked out.

Up to this time the acquaintance-ship of Miss Haderlee and Hordon had been confined to casual salutations.

With a mixed jury sitting to decide the merits of the $50,000 suit brought by the plaintiff against the doctor for the alleged trifling with her affections, the trial became the center of attraction for all on board.

Miss Catherine Gray, the Australian actress so well known locally, soon became a leading figure in the case. From the testimony of nearly a score of witnesses it was made to appear that Miss Gray was the real cause of Hordon's dereliction.

Availing himself of his constitutional right, the defendant refused to testify, admitting at the same time that anything he would possibly say would add little to his defense.

The plaintiff was awarded a verdict by the jury, without even a moment of deliberation, but up to the time of the steamer's arrival the judgment had not been satisfied.

Every one said the affair was a perfect scream. This opinion was shared even by Miss Haderlee, but when asked if it was true that the former defendant had concluded to journey to Nevada for a shipment of horses to Hawaii instead of to Oregon, the pretty plaintiff simply smiled and vanished.

Dr. Hordon was equally non-committal, but one of the ship's officers declared that the doctor had confided his intentions of making a trip to the state across the Sierra and that before many months he hoped to travel again across to sunny Hawaii.

China From Coast. The Pacific Mail steamer China arrived here this morning from San Francisco after an excellent trip, and will leave for the Orient this afternoon at five o'clock.

Captain Emery Rice stated in his wireless message that he would not be here until nine o'clock, but he was sighted before seven. There was a long wait before she started in, and the work of docking her was a tedious one.

She was not very well patronized on this trip. For Honolulu she had three first-class passengers and eight second-class, while in her holds there were only 109 tons of general cargo, the chief line being about 2,000 bags of flour. For the Orient there are seventy-nine in the cabin, including the passengers that will leave here this afternoon, seven second-class and sixty-one Asiatics, including five deportees. The through cargo totals about 590 tons, the principal lines being 2,000 bags of flour for Hongkong, and some mining machinery for Kobe, to be transhipped to the mines in Korea.

The voyage throughout was a pleasant one, and last night there was an interesting function, which included a dance. The forward part of the ship was tastefully decorated with flags, and everything was done to make the evening an enjoyable one. That the entertainment was a success was amply demonstrated. A phonograph supplied the necessary music for the dancing.

The China is not maintaining her reputation as a missionary ship on this voyage, for she has not many missionaries on board, the majority of the passengers being business people returning to the Orient from vacations, or going there to take up new positions.

OVER THE TEACUPS.

By Lady Gay.

yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Charles Adams who leaves shortly for her home in Chicago.

Luncheon was served at one "al fresco" at small tables each accommodating four, which were arranged under the trees on the shady terrace.

The idea was very picturesque and in keeping with the warm summer days.

The tables were covered by lace centerpieces and cut glass bowls of brown and gold tinted vintas and maidenhair, which were very appropriate.

Monogram guest cards were used.

After luncheon two tables of bridge filled the afternoon which was played under the trees, the remainder of the luncheon guests who do not play, taking their leave.

The prizes, which were presented to Mrs. Charles Adams and Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham, were table squares from Delhi, exquisitely embroidered in pale green ivy leaves.

At five delicious light refreshments were served.

Those present at luncheon were Mrs. Charles Adams, Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham, Mrs. George R. Carter, Mrs. W. W. Goodale, Mrs. Montgomery Macomb, Mrs. Walter Cleveland Cowles, Mrs. William Richard Castle, Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper, Mrs. E. M. Kelley, Mrs. Gerri P. Wilder, Miss Nora Swanzey, Mrs. Ellicott, Mrs. Joseph A. Gilman, Mrs. F. R. Day, and Mrs. George Meade.

FRISCO LETTER

four acres will be greatly improved. Here it is urged by the committee should be erected the world's greatest wireless telegraph station, from which place communication can be maintained with the Panama Canal and a welcome sent to coming vessels. From the hill the boulevard will be extended along the bay shore to Harbor View. Reasonable assurances have already been secured from the War Department that all government assistance necessary will be given in the matter of securing a temporary loan of government lands. On account of this fact the fair appropriation will probably include enough for a permanent exposition building at Fort Mason which could afterwards be turned into a division headquarters.

At Harbor View will be located the concessions and carnival features which will attract the night crowds. A great water court and yacht harbor will be constructed here, where all the marine attractions of the exposition will be held. The committee recommends that the land now occupied by the Fulton Iron Works be purchased and used as a permanent location for a yacht harbor and aquarium.

From Harbor View the great boulevard commencing at Telegraph Hill will be extended through the Presidio to Lincoln Park overlooking the harbor entrance back of Fort Scott. Here it is planned to erect a giant statue, similar to the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, commemorating the greatest physical achievement of the race in the completing of the Panama Canal. Nearby will be located a splendid marine observatory giving a view of the Golden Gate and the outer straits of the harbor.

From this spot it is planned to run a boulevard a block in width across that part of the city to connect with Golden Gate Park, the boulevard to be flanked with agricultural, engineering and such other special buildings as may be selected. Just opposite the Park a special feature will be made of the national and county buildings, and the Oriental and international exhibits, which will be one of the most prominent features of a great world's exposition.

In Golden Gate Park proper it is planned to give an imitation of the Panama-Pacific canal by connecting the chain of lakes there now. In the westerly portion of the park will be placed the art gallery. The great stadium will be completed and made the center of the athletic sports of the exposition. Such buildings will in general be constructed here as will add to the permanent equipment of the park, and which may be maintained with advantage even after the exposition is over.

Plans are included for the building of an intermural railroad along the entire line of the exposition site. This is a very necessary feature, as

You do not have to live near a church door to become infected with a desire to do kind things, any more than you need confine yourself to the seclusion of a "smart" district to imbibe the first principles of etiquette.

For what lies dormant in your heart will find expression in its own particular way, and rest assured every possible opportunity will be forthcoming to encourage its charitable inclinations.

One of the compensations in this whimsical and difficult world of ours is that there is so much of kindness in it, some of which is evidenced in the most unheeded of places, by those who seem shy lest discovery be made of their worthiness!

One man is there in San Francisco, a large, clean-souled Samaritan of the slums, who is earning for himself a golden harp of a most bejeweled and impressive character, and which no doubt will be played as an accompaniment to the echoes of hundreds of boy voices singing the praises of their earthy benefactor.

Possibly not once in all his days has this modern St. Nicholas listened to a pulpit sermon, perhaps even now he would hesitate to enter a sacred edifice amid goodly souls who chant responses to a curate's psalms.

This man keeps a saloon on Market street!

And he is doing a great and good work, fulfilling a noble impulse, which has beautified him among the little merchants of the streets, those solitary unmothered urchins, tattered, zealous, whose drone of "Piper! Piper! All about the big murder and suicide!" in melancholy cadences rises through the murky chill of an evening fog like a nocturnal dirge.

When these little strugglers have completed their sales of the day they have formed a cheerful habit of darting into the well known saloon, where warmth, protection and kindness are accorded them, and where a singular social club has been formed for the small newbies, the qualifications being a keen appetite, clean hands and faces, and a desire to return their gratitude in politeness and clean speech.

Paradoxical as it may seem, a great and crying need is thus being filled, and gratifying results have, during the club's twenty year existence, been accomplished.

The boys gather round a big comfy table laid with the niceties of fine napery and flowers, where wholesome, nutritious food, steaming hot and fragrant with sauces of a competent chef's skill is served, and which is dispensed only after a muster roll has been called and a personal inspection of ears and fingernails accomplished.

The little chaps, with shining, briskly rubbed faces, neatly brushed hair, their pitiful coats buttoned and pulled down in emulation of real Newport dandies, after a short blessing, begin their meal.

To many it is the first that day, and probably the last, but their hunger is never permitted to interfere with the ethics of good behavior and a striking finesse of table etiquette for which purpose the singular club was formed.

In a private room, away from the bar, where all classes of men congregate for their daily indulgence, the proprietor arranges his little guests, and intercepting the management of his business, which means money to him, he personally superintends the meal and presides like a grandiloquent fairy godmother in male attire over his hungry proteges.

He is only a saloonkeeper, this magnanimous man.

But if he had taken the orders, what a very lovable parson he would have made!

SOCIAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

Masters Henley and William Chapman entertained at a very delightful swimming party at Fort Shafter yesterday afternoon, when a number of their friends in the younger set were bidden to partake of their hospitality.

The young people arrived in army wagons which had conveyed them from the end of the car line, at three o'clock, and spent the greater part of the afternoon in swimming in the bathing tank of the military post—the largest tank on the island.

Later the hosts and their guests repaired to the quarters of Captain and Mrs. Chapman, where ice cream and cake were served at small tables on the lanai, which were dressed with clusters of Golden Shower and lace maidenhair.

Among those present were the Misses Myrtle Schuman, Madeline Ross, Pauline Schaefer, Thelma Murphy, Margaret Center, Rosamund Swanzey, Frances Cochrane, Helen Spalding, Ruth McChesney, Martha McChesney, Ruth Soper, Daphne Damon, Messrs. Wrenne Timberlake, Walter Cowles, Francis Cooper, Ned Burnham, Cyril Damon, William Hoogs, Donald Ross, Charles Stevens, Oswald Stevens, William Chapman and Henley Chapman.

Miss Pearl McCarthy and Miss Virginia McCarthy entertained at a very pretty dancing party last evening at the "Donna" in honor of Mr. Schoonberger, who leaves in the near future for New York.

The drawing room and dining room of the hotel had been opened into a large apartment, and decorated about the walls with trailing vines which also intertwined the chandeliers.

Potted palms and pink shaded lights loaned a picturesque touch to the ballroom, and the floor was in excellent condition.

Here the guests were received, by the two young hostesses and their guest of honor.

At eleven ices, cake and fruit punch were served.

Among those present besides the guests of the hotel were, Miss Claire Berry, Miss Psyche Berry, Miss Mae Carden, Miss Abbie Lucas, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Callie Lucas, Miss Ethel Carter, Miss Pearl McCarthy, Miss Virginia McCarthy, Miss Margaret McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Lucas, Mr. Schoonberger, Mr. Will Ross, Mr. Ed. Carden, Mr. Charles Littlejohn, Mr. George Cassidy, Mr. Albert Lucas, Mr. Clarence Dyer, Mr. John Ashley, Mr. Robert Chillingworth, Mr. Peter Phillips, and Mr. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Tackebury entertained at a very pretty informal dinner party last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowler.

The dinner table was trimmed in pink, cluster of roses forming a centerpiece.

Later the hosts and their guests motored to town where they attended one of the theaters.

the route of the fair will be several miles long, and will follow a line which at present is not covered even by street cars. If a railway of some kind were not built it would be necessary in going from one end of the fair grounds to the other to cross the entire city, which would take upwards of a half hour or longer.

Coming back into the city proper, the plans call for a civic center at Van Ness avenue and Market street. Grounds will be bought outright here and a combination opera house and convention hall will make this the focal point for all big gatherings and national conventions. From this point elaborate decorations will be erected down Market street to the ferry and along Van Ness to the entrance of the fair grounds proper. This will make every visitor arriving in the city from any point acquainted with the fact that he is in the fair city the moment he enters San Francisco. This will also serve to distribute the crowd well over the city, as the entire line of the decorations is certain to be lined with the thousand and one features which go to make a world's fair interesting.

The principal objection to the Harbor View site was that people from the suburban towns could reach the exposition without coming through San Francisco, merely by taking ferry boats which would run directly to and from the fair grounds. The principal objection to the Golden Gate Park site was that it would prevent any water demonstrations being held near the fair grounds, and this was held to be a fatal error for an exposition commemorating the joining of two oceans by the canal.

The adopted scheme is a happy solution of the difficulties which have beset the directors ever since they attempted to select a site. People from outlying towns cannot see all the exposition without coming through San Francisco. The merchants and business men will be benefited by the constant influx of people along the main business streets. The water displays can be had on a magnificent scale, and permanent buildings can be erected in the park without in the least damaging any of the horticultural improvements of the last thirty years.

He would indeed be a pessimist who could find anything to sorrow over in the decision to place the fair as above outlined.

The next move is to begin the actual work of construction.

THE MOSQUITO CRUSADE'S POOR RESULT.

The mosquito crusade has not been very successful. Compared with the Larnach crusade several years ago it is a failure. Mr. Larnach made a study of the business and put his conscience as well as his habit of industry into the work. Every citizen who remembers how the mosquitoes were driven away, regrets that the thorough methods he employed are not in use now. Nothing that could be done to get rid of the insect pest was left undone; but it appears now from the extent of the mosquito plague in some of the cleanest parts of the town, that much which ought to have been done lately has been neglected.

Realizing this, the Board is trying to put the work up to the householders. It proposes to enforce the nuisance law which it told us not long ago could not be enforced because of adverse court decisions. If the contrary fact can be shown, The Star for one will feel grateful.

In a locality the writer knows—as clean as one as there is in town—mosquitoes are most annoying. The householders do not have puddles in their yards; they destroy cans and bottles; they keep the gutters of their houses clean and look after waste water carefully. If the Board of Health can tell them where, if anywhere, they are at fault they will act promptly, but they are now of the opinion that the Board itself is more responsible than they.

What for instance about the storm-sewers that open on every corner? If any water collects in those sewers in the midst of mud and leaves that must clog them, mosquitoes will naturally breed there and emerge from the manholes. Water and mud will stay in such places for a good while after a general rain. It would certainly be worth while to flush all the storm-sewers in summer, so that such obstructions to a free flow of water that may have collected in them can be removed.

Then how about swamp agriculture? In Mr. Larnach's time oil was freely used in all these places and on duck ponds. Is any oil being used now? Is anything actually being done to clean out the larger breeding places, or are we waiting for the filling up work of the sanitary commission to start?

The people do not like to be pestered by mosquitoes, and can be trusted to do their part, but they want to be sure that the Board of Health is living up to its opportunities. They think that if it could have done so well in Larnach's time, it could do better now.

AGRICULTURAL BANK POLICY.

That a strong agricultural bank is soon to be established in the Philippines by French capital is now regarded as reasonably certain, and Delegates Legarda and Quezon are now in Paris arranging the details. While every effort has been made to keep the matter secret until it is presented to the Philippine legislature, the facts have leaked out that the two delegates are now in Paris to complete the final negotiations for the new concern, which is to have a capital of $10,000,000. Mr. Legarda will remain some time in Paris arranging the details while Mr. Quezon will soon go to the Islands to present the matter to the Philippine assembly.

For years the question of providing funds for the struggling Filipino farmers has been a vital one. After much hard work while civil governor of the Philippines, and later at the head of the War Department, Mr. Taft obtained from Congress an enabling act authorizing the insular government to guarantee four per cent. on private capital to be invested in a Philippine agricultural bank.

Though the act was passed some four years ago, difficulty was found in interesting capital. The necessary money was lacking in the Philippines, and American bankers were not attracted by the proposition. It was stipulated in the approved charter that loans should only be made on lands held under Torrens title, and it was pointed out that, owing to the congestion of cases pending in the Philippine courts of land registration, the most needy farmers would not be able to avail themselves of the privileges of the proposed bank for many years to come.

The tobacco farmers of Luzon and the sugar planters of Panay and other cane centers in the Islands, as well as the hemp growers of Mindanao, cried out against this delay. A more liberal charter was demanded, and at the same time Filipinos of official and industrial prominence endeavored once more to interest American capital.

While in New York recently as one of the speakers at the Tammany celebration of Independence Day, Don Manuel Quezon stated that, notwithstanding the undoubtedly great growth of trade between the Islands and the United States since the free trade clauses of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act went into effect, money could not be obtained for many necessary purposes except under ruinous rates of interest.

MILITARY DRILL IN HIGH SCHOOLS.

The War Department has written a letter to Governor Frear suggesting that Hawaii should take up the matter of military drill in connection with the regular work of the high schools. Letters of this kind have gone to all the governors and in some states the suggestion is being carried out. In Hawaii it will have to await the action of the legislature as there are some local expenses to be incurred.

Abroad, military drill is more or less common in all schools. In Japan it begins early. You will see boys of five falling into line with military precision, and marching to the beat of the drum. They are armed with little wooden guns, and learn the manual. As they approach the year of army service, they understand the rudimentary things of the military art, which otherwise might have to be painfully taught them in the face of the enemy.

In our Civil War of fifty years ago the better part of the first year was lost, at an expense of a billion dollars, by having to instruct the raw levies in what they should have known already. A youth who is used to drill and exercise with weapons falls as easily into army duty as did the Boers in their contest with the British.

But aside from all this is the good result in health and physique to the youngsters of the schools. The setting-up drill tends to an erect stature and the whole system imparts habits of obedience, exactitude and quickness of mind. For these purposes drill is better than any form of out-door play, though of course play comes too. If this plan should be carried out in Hawaii, it ought to be supplemented by calisthenics for girls, so that each sex can have the advantage of systematic building-up. The race would be the better for it if such instruction were general. It is said to have already increased the average stature of the Japanese.

SENDING IMPURE FOOD HERE.

It is stated that oleomargarine is being shipped into this Territory and used in the cheaper restaurants. It is a substance not unpalatable, made from refined grease, and for several years before the butter-makers succeeded in protecting themselves from it oleomargarine was not uncommon in eating houses of a better class, and in homes of the middle-class.

Still it is not pure food and the law against selling it as butter and in some places against selling it at all is clear. Here the law gives ample means of protecting the public from its use.

The fact that the bogus butter is here again after a long absence makes one wonder if Hawaii is being made a dumping ground for other questionable food products. Right after annexation, coast jobbers undertook to make this one of their many selling places for unworthy products. If a stock of canned goods was below par, it was sent to Honolulu and sold at auction to be bought up by Chinese dealers and sometimes by plantations. So many cases of ptomaine

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

One more illustrious recruit has joined the shining talksmith band; the people heard his larynx toot across this sad talk-ridden land. He talked upon the eastern shore, he talked beside the western sea, the prairie lands have heard him roar the platitudes that make men free. He talked so loudly as he went that people said: "This noisy man is just the stuff for president, and we'll elect him if we can." And I've no doubt that he will win if ever he should have the chance; for he makes the loudest din in always certain to advance. I'd like to see before I croak one president of giant size; some man who left a trail of smoke and scrawled his name across the skies. Some builder who has laid his rails across the desert and the hills; some strong man who has filled the vales with clanging of a hundred mills. The labors of the builders can but little please the voting host; we heap the honors on the man who talks the loudest and the most.

poisoning developed that the health officials investigated and found that the spoiled importations were in great variety. These were seized and destroyed and for a time no further complaint was made. It might be well, however, to have groceries of all kinds, such as are sold to the poorer class at a low price, tested by the standards of the pure food law.

It is always well to keep in mind that coast dealers who have been saddled with bad products, try their best to get rid of them in a round-about-way. They used to send much of their stuff to Australia. China was also a good market. Alaska took a great deal of this canned poison and the jobbers see no reason why a territory with so large a native and coolie population as this, should not be a satisfactory dumping ground. It is up to Food Commissioner Blanchard to prove otherwise.

SHEBA TO HIS COUNTRYMEN.

Editor Sheba's advice to a Japanese Sunday School on Kauai deserved the full account The Star had in yesterday's issue. What he said was sane, sensible, and to the point. He began by urging his hearers to pay no attention to a sensational war book about America and Japan, least of all to fear that war might be coming between the two nations. The thing for our Japanese to do is to not worry over the sensations of the yellow press, but to fit themselves to be permanent and useful residents of Hawaii, settling down here to make the most of the best possible situation they can find anywhere. Editor Sheba did not believe in having Japanese children educated in a way to unfit them in the life here or with a view of sometime sending them back to Japan. Japan is a country of small opportunities. Its people are generally poor, the growth of its population is so large that the chances for a poor man to get rich are infinitely smaller than his chances here.

In Hawaii, a Japanese population can constantly improve itself and in time its children will be voters and can have an equal chance with the white man, according to their wits. Here education is the chance of life are great and the future is secure.

Mr. Sheba warned his countrymen to avoid theorists and dreamers, to beware of strikes and to fit themselves to American conditions. Evangelistic work of this kind is sure to have the best results.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

COL. McCARTHY—The harbor commission will be badly handicapped for lack of funds. It won't be able to do much of the work needed.

DR. MARSHALL—There was at the worst only a possibility that yellow fever would have been brought here, but the best precautions would have been taken to guard against its introduction here.

LAND COMMISSIONER JUDD—I have been laid up for a few days, but am feeling about all right again now. I guess the sudden change of climate was a little too much for me. But it's all right—Hawaii is to be home for me from now on.

ishings for the new Y. M. C. A. home are already here—the billiard and pool tables, and the bowling alleys—and all of it is on the way. The contractor will be through perhaps six weeks earlier than his agreement called for, and we will take possession as soon as he is out of the way, which will be in about a month.

JOHN A. McCANDLESS—I don't blame California for wanting to keep out our fruit pests, but their quarantine against our products only gives another reason why we should encourage business with the Puget Sound cities. We can buy as cheaply up there as we can in San Francisco, and a line of steamers to Seattle would help everybody.

"Under The Coconut Tree"

By H. M. Ayres.

There is a new sign in town. It is displayed on Beretania street, and reads:

HIRANO
Artificial Japanese Gardener.

Meaning, presumably, that he's an artistic Japanese gardener.

Charlie Chillingworth declares that he got a protest-proof receipt from the managers of the Keio nine.

Wrestler Thomas, being opponentless at the Empire last night, gave an exhibition of the different holds for the benefit of the audience. A gabby individual in the house kept on making a nuisance of himself by shouting what he evidently considered were witticisms at the wrestler and the announcer.

"This is the bar hold," explained the announcer.

"Iron bar?" shouted the funny bone-head.

"No saloon bar," fired back the announcer, "and you ought to know it," whereupon the gay but gabby one substituted Instantan and never even "peeped" throughout the remainder of the act.

The low level of local politics would rise appreciably if a man like D. P. R. Isenberg dropped into the political swim.

A local statistician has figured that every time a steamer leaves Honolulu for San Francisco there are 67 1/3 people to see each passenger off.

There are at least two more Charlies available for fat county billets. There's plenty of time, though, before next election—plenty of time!

While some folks in Honolulu are worrying about billboards, a great many more are disturbed by the eternal question of board bills.

Supposing, only supposing, mind you, that a girl wore hose supporters made of cigar bands, could they be called cigarters? (This should certainly raise an Owl.)

A man who drinks too many gin rickies is very apt to feel gin-rickety.

A virtuoso is not necessarily virtuous.

Clergymen on the local streets, going on their house-to-house visits to the poor and needy, give a decidedly pastoral touch to the scene.

"I can't stand the strain," remarked a man who left the band concert last night soon after the start of the third number.

TWO SMUGGLERS ARE SENTENCED

John C. Winkler, on his plea of guilty to the first and third counts of his indictment for smuggling opium, was sentenced by United States Judge Clemens this afternoon to four months' imprisonment and the payment of costs.

John Kohler, having pleaded guilty to the same offense, was sentenced to forty-five days' imprisonment and the payment of a fine of one hundred dollars and costs.

Railroad Capital.

The aggregate capitalization of the railroads of the United States was $18,890,850,293 on December 31, 1910, having been increased by $948,567,718 during the calendar year, according to the statistical introduction of Poor's Manual of Railroads, the advance sheets of which were made public on Wednesday. This is an increase from $75,995 to $78,714 a mile of road and compares with $61,884 a mile in 1909.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

This season's pack of the Libby-McNeill Company's canned pineapples amounts to 70,000 cases. Orders are booked for as much more.

James F. Morgan is said to stand a good chance of being elected for his fourth consecutive term as president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Roughly speaking, the No. 16 Dutch standard, just denounced by Senator Bristow, is the dividing line between raw and refined sugars with respect to the tariff.

Under a fifth class license just obtained, the Honolulu Brewing and Malting Co., will manufacture sake, the national intoxicating beverage of the Japanese.

Pressure of business at home will present Senator George H. Fairchild from going to the Philippines to investigate a central sugar mill proposition for local capitalists.

The Hawaiian Broom Manufacturing Co. will pay five cents a pound for broom corn, which the Hawaii Experiment Station has demonstrated can be grown in these islands. Hawaiian brooms may be seen in local stores and are in common household use here.

English cotton manufacturing interests have just concluded the purchase of cotton lands in Mississippi to the value of $3,000,000, and Memphis reports say that payment has been made, by the actual shipment of gold in that amount, which has been lodged in one of the banks there.

The spread of prohibition "has effected the trade considerably," says the current annual report of the United States Brewers' Association, but oddly enough, the association's statistics show sales of 63,000,000 barrels of beer during the fiscal year to July 1, an increase of 6.2 per cent. over the previous year, and sales of $146,973,000 worth of hard liquors, or a 5.6 per cent. increase.

The capital stock increase was $350,138,227, or 1.46 per cent., while the increase in funded debts was $482,531,093, or 5.29 per cent. The tendency of railway earnings is shown by the exhibits of gross and net, the gross earnings having increased during the year 11.50 per cent, as against an increase of 4.41 per cent. in the preceding year, while the net earnings, on account of the increase in ratio of operating expenses to earnings, from 66.09 per cent to 67.23 per cent, showing a gain of 7.85 per cent as compared with the much greater increase of 18.72 per cent in 1909.

LAKE VIEW NO. 2 LOOKS PROMISING

A circular letter to the stockholders of Lake View No. 2 Oil Company received in this morning's mail, which is dated July 20 and signed by F. O. White, secretary, says:

"Since our last letter we have made good progress in the field. At a depth of 3,220 feet in well No. 2 we set our first string of 8 1/2-inch casing and cemented the same in place. As is customary in this field, we waited thirty days for the concrete to harden, and on July 9 we again resumed drilling. We have at this time reached the depth of 3,462 feet and are drilling in blue shale.

"It has developed that we will have to drill deeper for the main sand than we expected at the time of our annual meeting, May 2. During the last few weeks the number of new wells that have been brought in in our neighborhood have demonstrated the fact that there is a greater dip in the oil formation than we had looked for. Our engineer, therefore, informs us that we will be compelled to drill a few hundred feet deeper before striking the oil.

"The Lake View Oil Company, located on section 34, which joins our property on the southwest, has just brought in a fine new gusher. This well flowed, until shut off, at the rate of 20,000 barrels per day, through a 4 1/2-inch casing. The pressure from this well is heavy and the Lake View company, while preparing pipe lines and sump holes to care for the oil, had the oil shut down to a one-inch pipe. Even through this small opening the well is doing 2,000 barrels per day. The gravity of this oil is 25 degrees and is, therefore, of a much better grade than that being produced by the Lake View gusher. This is gratifying to us, as it shows the oil in our locality to be of a high gravity which commands a higher price.

"We hope to have some good news to offer you within a comparatively short time."

Proposed Rules For Hawaiian-Bred Racing

Word has been received from a prominent Maui horseman that the Maui Racing Association has arrangements already under way to make the next Fourth of July meet the best ever.

There is no doubt that some new horses, both in the running and harness divisions will be imported by the Valley Island sportsmen with the view of getting square with John O'Rourke for the clean sweep of purses which he made at the beginning of this month.

The sporting editor of the Star has been asked to suggest conditions for a race for maiden Hawaiian-breds to be run at the next Maui meeting, and in response thereto begs to offer the following:

The Maui Hotel Stakes, for maiden two and three-year-olds, two-year-olds to carry 100 pounds and three-year-olds to carry 110 pounds.

The purse to be $500 and the distance half a mile.

Entries to close May 1, 1912. Owners to pay $25 when they enter their horses, and $25 on or before June 28.

Owners failing to make their last payment to forfeit the payment already made, and the right to start a horse.

All entry fees over and above the amount of $300 to be added to the stake.

The winner to receive the stake and 50 per cent of the added money, if there be any.

The second horse to receive 30 per cent of the added money.

The third horse to receive 20 per cent of the added money.

Suggestions or criticisms of the above proposed conditions will be published in the sporting columns of the Hawaiian Star, and such will be particularly welcome from Robert Horner, Sam Parker, Jr., W. Decoto, Dr. Fitzgerald, Angus McPhee, Louis Warren, Louis Von Tempsky and Joseph De Mello.

Let's get together in ideas and see if the glory which once attended Hawaiian-bred racing in these islands can't be revived.

the issuance of a challenge to any 115 or 116 pound boy in the Territory, catch-as-catch can rules.

King wants the bout to take place at the Empire Theater and has any backing that may be necessary.

He has had some experience at the wrestling game and if as good on the mat as he is on the running path should prove a formidable opponent to men at his weight.

Replies to the challenge may be sent to the sporting editor of the Hawaiian Star.

MARKET EXPERT

Other fruits and vegetables, such as table grapes, grape fruit, cauliflower, celery, etc., are imported, for which separate figures cannot be given.

Some of these articles can certainly be produced in Hawaii, not only in sufficient quantities to supply local demand, but also for export. Others which it is at present found difficult to produce can probably be raised successfully with improved methods of cultivation, and better selection of seed and varieties; and, with adequate marketing facilities, will prove profitable to island farmers. The failure of Irish potatoes in some districts is partly attributed to blights and pests which might be successfully combated by clean culture, introducing new varieties, rotation of crops, and ceasing the present custom of using small potatoes for seed and of raising volunteer crops. Where the best methods are used I have found not only potatoes but also watermelons successful. Table grapes of the better shipping varieties, such as Tokaya and Malagas and Corinchons, reported to be good producers in those islands, appear not to have been properly pruned and cultivated. They have been treated the same as the Isabella, which will bear without care and pay better on Maui than many other crops, and probably as well per acre as sugar cane, and they pay better than many successful vineyards in California. With improved cultivation their product and profit could be increased. Very large tracts of good grape land are at present unoccupied by any crop whatever. A growing vineyard requires so little labor and yields so large returns from a small acreage, that in many districts grapes would be an ideal crop for the homesteader, part of whose time is spent in labor outside his holdings. So far as my observations go the cultivation of citrus fruits is entirely neglected, those raised even in private yards growing practically under forest conditions. By grafting and budding improved varieties on native stock excellent grape fruit, oranges, lemons and limes might be raised sufficient to supply the local market and probably to find an outlet in Oregon and Washington.

The Market Upon the Mainland.

The present quarantine against Hawaiian produce does not extend to onions, sweet potatoes and certain other vegetables in California, nor to any fruits and vegetables in Seattle, Portland and other North Pacific ports to San Francisco are now lower than the rates from Hawaii to North Pacific ports are, including inter-island charges, not much more than half the rates from Southern California and Texas to those ports. For instance, we pay $9.55 and $16.50 a ton respectively for shipping produce from the Coachella valley to San Francisco and Seattle, in car lots (about twelve tons), while the three-ton rate from Kona ports to San Francisco is about $6 a ton. Ports like Honolulu, Hilo and Kahului, which have direct shipment, get a $3.50 rate to San Francisco or to Seattle, the cost being the same to either port, including transshipment to San Francisco. In other words, the Hawaiian shipper has an advantage of from $3 to $10 a ton from inter-island ports to the mainland over the shippers now supplying those markets at certain seasons. Land hauls from farm to shipping point are equally long and more expensive per mile, in California than in Hawaii. The disadvantages of the Hawaiian shipper lie in less frequent service and longer time in transit, and not in cost of transportation. However, the transit time from Hawaii to the mainland is not longer than from Texas to the Western distributing points, and not so long as from Australia and Mexico, which now, in spite of paying a duty, partially supply those markets.

Between February 1 and April 15 the Coast market is bare of onions, and would take crated White Bermuda onions (the variety which sells best at this season) at an average price of $1.50 per fifty-pound crate. A fair crop is from 300 to 500 crates per acre. Crates, commissions and freight are about 50 cents a crate.

Between February 1 and July 1 the Coast market will take all the sweet potatoes of the right variety and grade that Hawaii is likely to produce, at about $3 per fifty-pound crate.

These potatoes must be medium size, and of the yellow (Yellow Nansamond) variety. They should be raised from sprouts, from seed frequently renewed from the Coast, until it is proved that the potato will not coarsen from repeated planting in Hawaii. A fair crop is from 200 to 400 crates per acre, and not infrequently in California we raise fifteen tons, or 600 crates, to the acre.

I have personally paid farmers in the Coachella valley $500 an acre for their onions or their sweet potatoes, furnishing the crates myself. Our crops do not come into the market at the period of maximum prices, especially for sweet potatoes. Certain homestead districts, like portions of Oloa, Makawao and upper Honokaa, have too much rainfall for such crops as these, though they might produce celery and cauliflower. These districts, however, appear to be ideal dairying countries, though though their full possibilities for this purpose will not be realized until more high grade dairy cows are introduced, and more attention is given to forage crops adapted to the climate. These places appear a favorable ground for experimenting with hops, which thrive in a wet climate, can be picked in a rain, and, as they are kiln dried and sulphured, are not subject to quarantine. Hops can profitably be planted on small acreages, and at the prices that have prevailed in Washington and California during recent years, ought to net the farmer about $300 an acre.

From January to May fresh asparagus commands from 25 cents to 40 cents in the California market. Apparently it can be raised successfully in Hawaii wherever the soil is loamy and the rainfall about thirty inches a year and well distributed throughout the seasons.

During the winter and early spring peppers, egg plant, okra and other vegetables can probably be shipped from Hawaii to the North Coast markets, and possibly to Canada, in competition with Florida and Southern Texas, which are the present source of supply.

Method.

During my trip around the islands I made tentative arrangements with some fifteen farmers and ranchers to plant experimentally certain crops, conditionally upon the Territorial Marketing Department supplying proper seed and instructions. Permit me to say that this is the method used by shippers on the mainland to induce farmers to raise crops which it is desired to introduce or to encourage for the first time in a certain locality. If the Territory adopts this course of encouraging diversified farming I think that sufficient sweet potatoes and Bermuda onions may be raised the coming season to permit of trial shipments to California and Seattle. The crops which I would suggest trying are the following: Certain new varieties of Irish potatoes, Yellow Nansamond sweet potatoes, white Bermuda, yellow Danvers and Australian brown onions, early celery, Winnistaldt cabbage, hops, certain varieties of grapes and grape fruit.

While ascertaining what crops can be raised successfully in Hawaii for mainland as well as local markets, it is important that a system of grading, packing and marketing be developed, so that an organization may be ready to handle properly whatever is produced and to give needed encouragement to farmers at the time when they most require direction and assistance. At present, according to the best evidence I could obtain from the producers themselves, the small farmer in Hawaii realizes from his crop of corn or potatoes about half

LOW SAYS HE WAS TOO BUSY

With Supervisors Low and Dwight absent, the supervisors last night carried through the expected program of reorganization of the road department, making Charley Wilson road overseer for this district and approving Engineer Gere's appointment of Elwood C. Wilder, former road supervisor, as assistant engineer.

"I didn't attend the meeting because I was too busy, and there was nothing important to make my presence necessary," said Low this morning. "What was to be done had been settled twice in caucus, and as I had a lot of steamer correspondence to attend to I stayed home."

Some Discussion.

McClellan voted against the Wilson appointment, saying that Wilder was a better man for the job. Murray said that Wilder had told the board he intended to resign, anyway. Mayor Fern said the board had forced Wilder to resign. Murray said the board didn't ask him to resign, and the mayor came back with a statement that four members of the board had written Wilder offering him the engineer's job, at a raise of $25 per month, if he would resign as road supervisor.

John Travis was appointed supervisor in Ewa, and then Murray made a nomination for Waiwae, which the mayor stopped by saying that he had appointed a man to that position whose appointment had been ratified by the board, and that there was no vacancy.

Murray claimed that there was, but referred the matter to the city attorney for an opinion, as was also done with the districts of Koolauloa and Waimanalo.

FREAR IS PLEASED

growers, and later another man, as suggested by Starrett, will probably be engaged to look after the marketing end of the business, having headquarters in Honolulu.

The governor stated this morning that there are already a number of applicants for the job of field man, and that a number of additional recommendations have also been made. It may be some little time, however, before the appointment is made.

the wholesale price in Honolulu, while in California, with its more advanced marketing methods, the farmer realizes ninety per cent of the wholesale price in the distributing market. Evidently a system must be devised which gives a large share of the ultimate return for his produce to the man who raises it. But in order to secure this return the farmer must learn how to grade, pack and ship his crops. He must learn that it pays better to feed to his stock, or even to destroy entirely, his under-grade produce than to ship it. One shipment of inferior goods will more than undo the reputation acquired by several good shipments, and will lower prices for all produce received from his particular neighborhood. A sufficient supply must be in sight to enable shipping and marketing arrangements to be made some weeks in advance of delivery. Produce must be of the variety and grade that the market is accustomed to and recognizes.

Recommendations.

I would respectfully make the following suggestions regarding the organization of this proposed department:

- (1) The market superintendent himself should be stationed at Honolulu, not only to receive and distribute produce shipped in, but also to inspect and stamp, and, if necessary, re-grade and re-pack before delivery, produce passing through the Honolulu depot, the inspection stamp should show the district from which the produce originated, and the name of the producer, where known.
- (2) In order to regulate supply and prices, the department should, in local business, deal only with jobbers, giving each the same protection.
- (3) The department should, like the private shipper on the mainland, provide seed for plantings, not only to encourage the production of particular crops, but also to maintain standard grades and secure proper varieties. A field man will be needed to instruct growers in planting, raising, grading and packing.
- (4) As the expert market develops it will ultimately be found necessary to have a sales agent permanently stationed on the Coast, to advise what to ship and at what times, to divert shipments en route to the best markets, to distribute to best advantage to buyers, avoiding unnecessary commissions to middlemen, and to make collections. The same man could purchase seed and advise as to new varieties.
- (5) There should be a small fixed commission charged growers for the services of the department, not intended to cover the expenses of the department at first, but placing it on a business basis and on the way to ultimate self-support.

I have found no sentiment adverse to the establishment of such a department, and especially in outside districts have found much desire to have it organized and put to work.

HORRID CRUELITIES TOLD IN DIVORCE

Judge Robinson granted a divorce to Nellie Land against N. A. Land for non-support.

Divorce cases have been filed as follows: Nayo Kamano vs. Shoichiro Hamano, non-support; Hattie Manona vs. John Manona, extreme cruelty—beating, kicking, calling vile names and threatening to murder; Tee Wo vs. Ekekele Yee Wo, excessive cruelty to husband and children, an habitual intemperance; Tsude Imamura vs. Toyokuma Imamura, extreme cruelty to wife—choking, beating, bruising, dislocating her knee, burning her clothes, ejecting her from house and threatening to kill her.

E. C. Peters has withdrawn as counsel for libellants in the divorce cases of Adelaide K. Grune vs. F. W. Ernest Grune and John Kenala vs. Lizzie Kanala, and for libellee in the divorce case of Lizzie Kenala vs. John Kenala.

OLD FISHMARKET RECONSTRUCTION

On Governor Frear's desk this morning was a set of blue prints and specifications for the reconstruction of the old Alaska Fish Market building, for use as an immigration station, marketing depot, and offices for the Board of Immigration, Labor, and Statistics. These plans have been prepared at the instance of the Board, and have the approval of the Governor.

A SUNDAY BATTLE OF PUNCHBOWL

Manuel and Anton had a little fight on the slopes of Punchbowl one moon-shiny night.

Anton's mother sailed right in when she saw her boy

Getting whacked by Manuel, and to boost the joy.

Manuel's sister Marianne grabbed the lady's hair

And amid much dust and dirt rolled the gentle pair.

Victor and Theresa, Seraphine and John

Got into the mix-up and helped the fracas on.

Next day to the station all the parties went

Warrants and cross-warrants everyone's intent

The war is on up Punchbowl and o'er the rack and din

Mounis nightly to the heavens the cry "haul in! haul in!"

The classic precincts of Punchbowl are disturbed by intestine strife. Family quarrels with family, feuds are rampant and in some cases civil war has been declared by the opposing factions.

Just whether the weather or the blind pigs with which the Punchbowl slopes abound is responsible for this lamentable state of affairs is hard to state but Major Camara strongly favors the latter theory.

In the police court this morning there were no less than nine cases of assault and battery against Portuguese and one of assault with a weapon obviously dangerous to life and limb.

considerable detail, the plans as proposed, and the architect's drawings would indicate that the completed work will greatly improve the present appearance of the structure. The entire square will be enclosed with a high ornamental woven wire fence, which in time will be backed by a hedge. The partitions and walls of the enclosure will be of light material, and the whole place will present a comfortable, clean, and cool appearance. At the makai end of the building will be the offices of the board, and offices and packing rooms

There were also other charges against Portuguese; in fact representatives of the latter nationality accounted for fourteen of the twenty-seven cases on the calendar.

A number of these cases were continued, the morning being taken up with the cross cases of assault and battery against Fostina, Antone and Seraphino Correa on the one hand, and Manuel Caminos, Frank Medeiros and Victor Pacheco on the other.

The trouble arose out of a Sunday afternoon row, helped along by potions of that famous fighting fluid known to the cognoscenti as "dago red."

It appears that Antone Correa challenged Pacheco to fight and when the battle was nicely under way the whole Correa family pitched in to assist Antone with the result that Antone Correa got a very complete and artistic doing-up. The spectators and camp-followers took a whack at a head whenever a safe opportunity to do so presented itself and the affair developed into a battle royal before it was stopped by some busybodies who ever to the front when a chance to spoil good sport presents itself.

The trials took up the entire morning and some spirited testimony was given.

Judge Monsarrat ruled as follows: Fostino Correa, sentence suspended for thirteen months; Mrs. Seraphino Correa, sentence suspended for thirteen months; Anton Correa, sentence suspended for thirteen months; Anton Correa, $10 and costs; M. Caminos, Frank Medeiros, Mary Tavares, Vic for Pacheco, is charged.

Detective Burns' Answer To The Charge That He Kidnaped M'Namara

Detective Burns gives his answer to the charge of "kidnaping" the alleged dynamiter, in an article in the current McClure's, in which he describes his work in the dynamite cases. The famous detective's answer to the charges made by Gompers and others is contained in the following extract:

"On April 11 our operatives, following McManigle and Jim McNamara from Chicago and Cincinnati, met in Toledo and wired us: 'Number one met number two.' That was our signal to begin. I went to Chief of Detectives Captain Stephen B. Woods at Chicago police headquarters to get assistance, and I sent my son Raymond, the manager of our Chicago office, with more of our men, and two Chicago officers, to Toledo, with instructions to seize the dynamiters, if possible, with the bombs in their hands. Our party registered at a hotel opposite the one in which McNamara and McManigle were stopping, and watched them all day. It became apparent that they were not going to do any dynamiting in Toledo. Next morning they went to the railroad station and bought tickets for Detroit. They watched till the last moment before they got on the train—to be sure that they were not followed!

"They sat in a day-coach full of women and children, and they had suit cases that presumably contained dynamite—besides being fully armed, of course—and our detectives decided not to tackle them where a blunder might cause a great loss of life. Coming into Detroit, they showed a good deal too much interest in several bridges that they passed. It became plain that Detroit was to be their objective point. As a matter of fact, we learned later that they had five 'jobs' to do there!

"When the train stopped they got off and scrutinized every one who came out of the cars, and then they wandered around the streets rather aimlessly until they came to the Oxford Hotel. Our men watched them register and argue with the clerk—who wasn't able to give them a room right away—and then they checked their suit cases. That was the cue for the arrest. The lobby was crowded with a theatrical troupe, and McNamara elbowed his way through toward the door, with McManigle following. McManigle was in handcuffs before McNamara missed him. We grabbed McNamara at the door. As it happened, they had left their revolvers in the satchels—along with a rifle that was fitted with a Maxim 'silencer' for picking off night watchmen, six clock batteries of the Los Angeles and Peoria pattern slightly improved, caps, wires, tools, and even a battery tester. 'Well, what the hell's the matter?' McNamara kept demanding. 'What's this for?'

Outwitting the Dynamiters.

"We had arranged to take them on a charge of safe-blowing, because we were arresting at the same time some twelve yeggmen who were wanted for cracking safes in banks belonging to the American Bankers' Association; and we made the charge to them that they had blown open a safe in Chicago on the previous Saturday night—knowing that McManigle had been down on State street, in Chicago, on Saturday night, shopping with his wife and children, and believing that he would think he could easily prove an alibi on the charge. We took them to the Detroit police station—and made this charge against them, and—as we had expected—McManigle agreed to sign a waiver and return with us to Chicago. McNamara stood out for his 'rights,' but McManigle persuaded him to sign, too, and come along. And he came."

Jim McNamara Would Blow Up the Whole Country to Get His Rights.

Burns remained a long time silent, musing blankly, and thoughtfully fingering his mustache. "They were both frightened," he said at last. "They didn't know what they were really wanted for, and they didn't

LOWBROWS AND PINHEADS IS WHAT LUTHER BURBANK CALLS THE FEDERAL EXPERTS

SANTA ROSA, JULY 19.—Charges that experts in the United States department of agriculture, through ignorance or worse, are this season sending out tons of "just as good as Burbank" spineless cactus which in reality is "ancient trash such as the builders of the pyramids in Egypt might have cultivated," are made by Luther Burbank in a pamphlet just published by the plant sage of Santa Rosa.

Burbank writes in the first person about his work and fires a whole broadside of sarcasm and scorn at the government experts in the department of agriculture.

His opinion of his own achievements is disclosed in an introduction in which he speaks of them as "the most valuable improvements in vegetable life during the centuries, fully equal in importance to the discovery of a new continent."

Experts in the government service at Washington are called "low-browed, narrow-gauged and pinheaded employes, who have to keep shouting to hold their places, and who are largely responsible for the trash free seed and the trash so-called spineless cactus distribution."

"Only nine years required to wake up the experts," is the caption placed by Burbank over his chapter telling how reluctant the Washington authorities have been to recognize his work.

Experts Ridiculed.

"The existence of the United States department of agriculture has been rightly supposed to be, among other things, for the purpose of fostering and encouraging improved methods," writes the famous plant wizard.

"That the cause of agriculture and horticulture would receive a lasting benefit of the prompt dismissal of some of the low-browed, narrow-gauged, pin-headed employes is too well known to need further comment."

After telling how he finally succeeded in developing a seedless and spineless cactus, Burbank says the department at Washington at last "became luridly earnest in their interest in my experiments."

"Agents were hurriedly sent in all directions to discover, if possible, some wild or cultivated Opuntia (cactus) of agricultural value which was absolutely spineless. All known regions of the earth were literally scoured in this vain effort. No such plant was found, for none existed outside of my own grounds at Santa Rosa."

Burbank goes on to make some exceptions.

"The employes of the department of agriculture," he writes, "are, with few exceptions, upright and honorable gentlemen with whom I am on the most friendly terms. Sometimes, however, one of the 'other kind' gets a job.

Oklahoma Senator Makes Striking Showing For City Commission Government

An elaborate speech in behalf of municipal government by commission was made in the United States Senate on July 13 by Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma. He cited in detail the results of commission government in five cities which have tried it for a year or more, making a remarkable showing, and gave a list of 134 cities scattered all over the country, which have now adopted the commission form of government.

Commercialism in Government.

"Commercialism has invaded the governing function," said the Oklahoma senator. "The administrative branches of the government, the legislative branches of the government, and even the judicial departments of government are not free from its corrupting influence.

"Commercialism has insinuated itself unfairly, unjustly, and corruptly into the governing function in counties, in towns, in cities, in states, and in the nation.

"Secret alliances have been entered into in innumerable counties, cities and states between various special interests and the so-called partisan or bipartisan political machines.

"These special interests have an infinite variety of forms. It may be a gas company desiring to monopolize the gas at a high rate in some city; it may be a traction company; it may be a water company; it may be a municipal contract company dealing with the paving, sewerage, municipal outfallings; it may be the oil trust, tobacco trust, or any of a thousand trusts in commerce, transportation, or public utilities; it may be any form of selfish interest or a combination of them.

"It may be a combination of mere political mercenaries banded together to put themselves in office, inspired not by patriotism, not by desire to render public service, but banded together by the 'cohesive power of public plunder.'

"The main point is that these special interests use the political machine as an agency through which they can promote their selfish inter-

OLD BALLADS SATURDAY NIGHT

A ballad that was popular thirty years ago is now found on many of the concert and vaudeville programs throughout the mainland and for that reason "Silver Threads Among the Gold" may be heard at the Opera House at the Kaai concert on Saturday night. It was sung by a man by the name of Thompson at one of the motion picture houses last year but the golden hairs turned white before the singer got through with his song.

People who hear it Saturday night will no longer wonder why it continues popular. Musicians declare Kaal's rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home," on the mandolin, is a masterful performance. He brings out the harmonies with telling effect. "Annie Laurie," by a double quartet, captured the hearts of the Australians and there was never a concert without its being called for. On Saturday night the program will be constructed of these songs and compositions which created the greatest furore in the colonies. It will be a treat that no one should miss.

KAU PLANTATION ACCUSED BY THE SETTLEMENT ASSOCIATION

The Thompson Settlement Association, through its attorney, C. W. Ashford, has published a lengthy open letter in reply to the statements recently given out by Governor Frear re fake homesteading in general, and the questionable position of the members of the Thompson Settlement in particular.

Mr. Ashford's letter is not lacking in its sensational features, and seems to hold evidence that the Hutchinson Sugar Plantation Company has, from the first, been making a powerful and consistent effort to get the lands of the settlers by fair means or foul. It also accuses the Territorial Land Department with having taken an equivocal position in the matter at different times, and to have failed in properly supporting the homesteaders in their efforts to comply with the terms of their leases.

The association claims that the Hutchinson Sugar Plantation Company had new cane growing upon the lands at the time the leases to the settlers were executed, and that this cane had been planted long after the association had filed its application for the property. The lessees wanted to cultivate and harvest this cane and sell it to the plantation at a price less the cost of planting. This proposition was turned down, and a counter one made to lease the lands outright until the cane was harvested. This not being permitted under the law, the association had to turn it down. The plantation then took the stand that the settlers had no rights in the cane, and that the government had received rent from them for the lands in question. The association then employed legal help and finally, without being able to get the approval or disapproval of the land commissioner, an agreement was entered

FORD TELLS OF MAUI AND MOLOKAI TRAILS AND ROADS AND OF AN EXAMPLE TO OAHU

Both the Trail and Mountain Club and directors of the Public Service Association have been visiting the other islands with a view of bringing about a combined working plan. Dr. Doremus Scudder and his party are still on Maui, and some of the Trail and Mountain Club members are still camping on Molokai. A. H. Ford, of the two organizations who returned to Honolulu on Sunday, after a week on Molokai and Maui with other directors, gave an interesting interview on what is being done. He said:

"It was my good fortune to meet the supervisors again in Lahaina, and my very good fortune to be invited to accompany them on their trip around West Maui. I left Walluku at six a. m. in the sheriff's seven-seater, and we picked up the supervisors at Lahaina. Let me say that Maui puts Oahu to shame when it comes to building good roads. In three-quarters of an hour we spun around from Walluku to Lahaina over a perfect road, and when this road is finally carried around West Maui the islands will have one of the most magnificent scenic auto runs in the world. I know that Chairman Pogue, of the board of supervisors, is in favor of first building the road from Walluku to the summit of Haleakela, and in this he has the backing of the Mauites. The cost would be about sixty thousand dollars, as there are but eight miles of new road to be built to enable an auto to run from Lahaina or Kahului to the summit or Haleakela. Dr. Scudder and his party are now on their way over this route and will report.

Maui's Proposed Belt Road.

The Trail and Mountain Club hopes some day to see the crater of Haleakela set aside as a national park, but certainly the West Maui belt road would prove a splendid attraction to tourists and others. It would make a splendid half-day spin. We left Lahaina about seven o'clock in the morning, and with Supervisor Henning, went over the entire township, locating the proper places for new roads and water mains, then began the spin around West Maui. To the tourist this is an ideal run; first there are the coconut and bread fruit groves, then the algaroba, and after that the cliffs and sand beaches to gaze down upon. The blue, clear water permits a study of reef life, and the larger colored fish may be seen swimming over the white sand. The auto road extends for more than thirty miles along the coast to Honokahau, on one side the ocean, on the other the mountains and ravines. At Honokahau an exchange was made for horses, and the school house visited.

"Here began the unfamiliar bit of Maui gulches, in which the native grass-dwelling house may still be seen, and swinging wire bridges across the streams. The trail ascends for perhaps two thousand feet, but lines for a carriage roadway have been laid at a lower elevation. For several hours we jogged along admiring the scenery, until at noon we rode into Kahukuloa, a bit of old Hawaii where the traditions, superstitions I stood with my hands behind my back, still prevail. Far out at sea a score of heads were bobbing up and down and a couple of canoes were being paddled about in a semi-circle. On the shores the rest of the population of Kahakuloa was seated watching the fishers. Far up on a rocky point two natives were watching the waters and signaling the fishermen where to follow the school of fish. There would have been a good haul, but, and grass houses of the ancient days. Every man and woman shouted to me, but it was too late; I had offended the fish good and earned the name of Haoli Kahuna. The men came ashore in their Malo's, grouchy, and cast unpleasant glances at the kahuna. The women prayed him to sit under the lanai of the grass house nearest the sea and keep his hands in front of him, only the youngsters in swimming laughed at the kahuna, but they were reproved by their elders. There should be a book on signs for the molahini, Primitive Village.

"There were some fish caught, however, and they were served to us raw at the luau that followed. There were plenty of raw shrimps also, still kicking, and some that had been baked in the sun. The only opposition to the belt road would be that this primitive village would become modernized and its great charm destroyed.

"From Kahukuloa the supervisors hope to construct a wagon road to Wahee, three miles from Walluku, in fact very little improvement would enable wagons to enter the valley, and for half the distance there is a trail so wide that a small auto has already negotiated the trip. It would cost over a hundred thousand dollars to complete an auto belt line around West Maui, but from every point of view it would prove a good thing. Thousands of homestead acres would be opened up and hundreds of thousands of acres of grazing land made very valuable. From Kahukuloa the trail ascends and the horses fairly climb, but the proposed road will be built on an easy grade.

"There are mountains, gulches, cascades and waterfalls to attract the eye all along the road, and at Wahee the auto awaited us. Here, too, we found a party of tourists wandering out along the road, attracted by its beauties. Chairman Pogue was a fund of information, and Mr. Drummond, the new supervisor from Hanalei, got his first lesson in comparative road building. The latter part of the trail is even now a splendid road, a little widening and cutting out sharp turns and it makes an auto road of the first class, ascending higher in altitude than any auto road on Oahu. Maui's Example to Oahu.

"I am glad I had the opportunity to make the West Maui belt trip with the supervisors. It makes me wonder why we so neglect our should-be belt road around Koko Head and Mukapu point to Waimanala and the Nuuanu Pali. I have taken this walk with fifty people at a time, and the trail is much used. There are splendid beaches on the other side. It is a shame that we have to go to Maui to learn what real belt road enterprise means. Why not invite Pogue and his supervisors to come over and stir us up? We are missing splendid opportunities. It is time to get together on Oahu and emulate Maui. We need a real, all-round-the-island auto road even more than does Maui,

ALASKA AND THE EASTERN COAL BARONS.

The Government is about to throw open to entry 70,000,000 acres of coal land in the Northwest, having finished surveys to determine its value. It will then allow the people of the West to do what they came West for—to develop the resources of the country. They no longer expect the Government to give away land as it did to the first settlers and the railroads. They expect to pay for it, but they expect the terms and conditions to be such that they can make a good profit on the venture—not as large a profit as the protected industries of the East and Middle West make, but just a fair profit. They also expect that, if they find it necessary to carry through the venture, they will not be branded as thieves and perjurers by the ever-busy special agent.

When the Government has finished its work on this coal land near home the people of the West fervently hope that it will find time to approve the 500 coal claims in Alaska against which no charges of fraud have been made, but which have been suspended because fraud was suspected in 600 other claims. To the non-legal mind it does not seem fair to inflict a wrong on 500 men because 600 of their neighbors in the same business may have been guilty of crime. That is what the Government has done to the 500 innocent bystanders in Alaska.

If the Alaska coal can be brought into the market it may serve to bring down the price of coal in the Northwest, which is exorbitant. It will make available for the Navy and revenue cutters fuel close to the scene of their operations. This may be distasteful to the coal barons of the East, who have impressed on the Navy Department the opinion that theirs is the only coal worth burning and who are profiting largely by the Alaska embargo; but the Government has not shown any excessive tenderness for the sensibilities of other Eastern barons, and the West expects that it will show no more when the interests of the whole Pacific Coast directly and the whole indirectly are set against the interests of the Eastern coal barons.—Portland Oregonian.

KAU PLANTATION

Mr. Babbitt that my being a member of the T. S. A. was at the bottom of it, and asked him if it was the desire of the department that I should withdraw from the T. S. A. He said 'most assuredly not.' I took the letter, and went to see Mr. Giffard. Among other things that he said was this: 'If you and your teachers (referring to Miss Auld and Miss Jones both members of the T. S. A.) will withdraw from the Thompson Settlement Association, I will guarantee that all objections—persecutions, as you call them—from Mr. Wolters, will cease.' * * * Some time after my return to Waiohina Mr. Babbitt wrote to me, saying that he thought it advisable for me and my teachers to withdraw from the T. S. A., as being members put us in a position which, he thought, we would not want to occupy. He said that his letter was not to be considered an official one. Acting upon this advice we, all three, notified Mr. Pratt, land commissioner at that time, that we wished to withdraw from the T. S. A. Mr. Babbitt wrote to me, and thanked me for our prompt compliance with his request. After opening of the legislature, 1907, Mr. Thomas C. White brought me a letter, written after a meeting of Governor Carter, Mr. Babbitt, Mr. White and Senator Hewitt, in which we were assured that so long as our work was satisfactory, we need have no fear of losing our positions in the school.

* * * As regards Mr. Wolters' proposition to buy the lands of the T. S. A. * * * Shortly after receiving our answer, he (Mr. Wolters) said to me, in the presence of Miss Auld, that if the members of the T. S. A. thought that when the plantation wanted a few hundred acres of land that they could keep it from getting them they were mistaken, for the plantation would keep dragging it from one court to another until half of the members were dead."

The letter of Manager Wolters offering to purchase our holdings, to which Miss Taylor refers, is as follows:

"Hutchinson Sugar Plantation Company,
"Naalehu, Kau, Hawaii, Feb. 26, 1910.
"L. S. Thompson, Esq., Chairman,
Executive Committee, T. S. A., Kuanamano, Kau, Hawaii.

"Dear Sir: In reply to yours of the 17th inst. asking that I submit a proposal in regard to the lands of the T. S. A. I would say that I am ready and willing, upon your association securing title to your lands, to give your members from forty to forty-five dollars per acre cane land for the same.

"I am satisfied that you have all lived up to your agreements with the government, as far as your leases are concerned, and am willing, and hereby agree to pay the above price for the lands as above stated. If you will guarantee to sell me the lands at the above price, in writing, I will have Messrs. C. Brewer & Co., our agents, use their influence with the Governor to grant the titles to the said land at the expiration of the three years as provided by law. As evidence of good faith, I will place the purchase price of the aforesaid lands in escrow, to secure the payment of the price as above. Yours truly, (Signed) "C. WOLTERS,

"Manager Hutchinson Sugar Plantation Company."

According to the statements in Mr. Ashford's communication, substantiated by a copy of a letter replying to the one from the plantation, the association refused to consider the proposition, which would invalidate their claims, and asked the plantation to make some kind of a planting contract with them. This was refused, and the matter has been in this condition ever since.

Once upon a time, a man who was too economical to take a paper, sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbors. In his haste, the boy ran over a four dollar stand of bees, and in ten minutes looked like a watery summer squash.

His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and, failing to see a barb-wire fence, ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a five-dollar pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, his wife ran, upsetting a four-gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole "flock." In her hurry she dropped a seven-dollar set of teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled milk into the parlor and ruined a twenty-dollar carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the calves got out and the dog broke up eleven sitting hens.

MEXICAN HOSTILITY TO AMERICANS.

Hostility to Americans seems to be spreading in Mexico. Demonstrations against their persons and property here and there have warned the Americans of possible danger, and many of them are sending their families post haste across the lines. The hostility is the outgrowth of the feeling, now rather general, that Americans have been exploiting the country for their own advantage through the numerous concessions granted to foreigners by the Diaz Government. Francisco Madero has accentuated this feeling by declaring that "American monopolies must no longer receive special grants or to make excessive profits out of the people." It is true that these grants have been given to the English and the Germans as well as to Americans but our countrymen have been more prominent than others in work of developing Mexico, and must suffer more than the rest through the reversal of the Government practice and popular sentiment coming with the revolution.

Temporarily the overturn gives encouragement to the socialistic idea, which under Diaz was not allowed to express itself publicly in Mexico. The well-informed Socialists know that Madero is only another and milder Diaz, and that the change means little or nothing to the believers in the rights of capital. But ignorant men in every community look upon the success of the revolution as the beginning of a new era in which the downtrodden peon will at last come into his own. Hence demands that the wages be doubled or trebled. Hence rioting and attacks upon foreign property. Hence the growth of the fantastic notion that the street car men of Mexico City should no longer be compelled to wear uniforms or caps that all distinctions of class be abolished.

When Madero comes into control it will be necessary for him to use the iron hand in knocking all such notions out of the heads of the Mexicans. For a time he will become more unpopular than Diaz, and the future of his administration will rest entirely upon the strength as a ruler he is able to develop.—Nebraska State Journal.

BOY SCOUTS HEROES IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, July 30.—"Boy scouts to the rescue."

This was the cry of three scores of Evanston youths yesterday when Louis Koraleski of Chicago flung his arms above his head and sank beneath the waters of Druce lake, ten miles west of Waukegan, Ill. Quick as they were, however, the treacherous water was quicker, and Koraleski was swept beyond earthly aid, but the boy scouts had proved the efficiency of their training and their ability to keep their heads at a time when many are prone to lose them. Today they are receiving the commendatory greetings of 800 or more persons who lined the banks of the little lake and witnessed the tragedy and the thrilling attempts at rescue.

Three Go Out For Swim.

Koraleski, who was twenty-three years of age and who had been married only a few weeks, went to Waukegan yesterday for an outing. He had two companions—one of them William Brown, who lives on a farm near the lake. The trio, to escape the fierce heat of the sun, planned a plunge in the cool water. Brown and the third member of the party jumped into a rowboat and rowed out to a spot where the water was deep. Koraleski swam easily along beside the boat.

Suddenly there was a shriek from the Chicagoan in the water, which was strangled in his throat as he tossed his arms above him and vanished beneath the surface. His horrified companions backed water and rowed frantically toward the spot where they had last seen Koraleski's head; shouting meanwhile, for aid. Their cries were heard by the little command of boy scouts, which had camped on the other side of the lake.

Youths Rush Out; Dive.

More than sixty of these youths leaped up and started to the rescue, some of them peeling their uniforms from their backs as they ran. They piled into every available boat on the beach and made the oars strain as they cut through the water. Those who could find no water craft to bear them plunged into the lake and swam after the others. The water was dotted with tiny boats and swiftly moving heads. In the foremost boat was P. C. Wercks, scoutmaster in charge of the encampment.

But Koraleski's body did not rise to the surface, and, seeing this, the boys dived for him, although the water where the man sank is said to be sixty feet deep. Again and again the youths unhesitatingly balanced for a moment in the boats and then plunged into the depths. For more than an hour their heroic efforts continued, but the search was in vain and, deeply downcast, they were obliged to desist.

Body Lost; Bride Prostrated.

The boys were heartily applauded for their efforts by the throng which lined the banks of the lake. Grappling hooks were taken to the lake today and further efforts are being made to recover Koraleski's body—a work in which the boy scouts are again lending a hand.

Koraleski's wife of a few weeks was not with him at the resort. She learned of his death at the home of her mother, where she is staying, at 1727 Clyburn avenue, and was prostrated by the tragic news.

Officers are Enthusiastic.

Officers of the Chicago division of the Boy Scouts of America were enthusiastic when they learned today of the showing made by their youthful troops. They explained that all of the scouts are highly trained along the line of life saving and can always be relied upon to do the work of men.

"The boys are well drilled in swimming and diving," said H. H. Simmons, field secretary of the Chicago body, "and are specially trained in saving water victims. They are taught to throw the life line, to bring a body to shore, to resuscitate a half drowned person and to break a death grip of the wrist and jaw. They usually bring drowning persons to shore on their backs.

Tells of Other Feats of Boys.

"It was just three weeks ago that our boys saved a thirteen year old lad from drowning in a swimming tank in Oak Park. They worked over him for ten minutes after he had been dragged from the water before life was restored. And also on the Fourth of July it was a squad of Hull House boy scouts who put out a disastrous blaze, started by fireworks, at Muskegon lake, where they were on a vacation. Assuredly the boys of Chicago and vicinity are having many adventures these days. But they are plucky fellows and can always be depended upon to perform their work like men."

D. W. Pollard, city secretary of the Chicago body, was also warm in his praise of the boys' heroic work.

CHICAGO'S PIANOS.

According to the Chicago Tribune, Chicago is now the largest piano producing center in the world, turning out annually more than 100,000 instruments, which are shipped all over the world. Manila alone within the past two years has taken over 1100 pianos. Mexico, until the present troubles overtook that republic, took more than 6000 pianos annually from Chicago, and Central and South America, especially the Argentine Republic, have been great consumers of Chicago pianos. Up to a few years ago Germany sent all the instruments that were shipped to these countries. But the German woods in the cases would not stand the climates. It was Milwaukee that first discovered this and sent trade emissaries to the far away lands. What holds good of the piano also holds good of band instruments. Chicago sells approximately 100,000 pianos a year, aggregating in value about $50,000,000, which is about one-third of the entire product of the nation.

MOODY, THE FORMER JUSTICE, A REMARKABLE "COME BACK" MAN

Haverhill, Mass., July 15.—For the first time since rheumatism caused him to resign his place on the supreme bench of the United States, and apparently consigned him to a torture in which ambition could have no further part, it is now definitely asserted that Justice William Henry Moody is going to get well and resume his place among the big men of the country.

W. H. MOODY, Who retired from the United States Supreme bench expecting to die, and is recovering.

that they have reached the seat of his pain and hold out every hope that he will regain entire health. If this hope of his friends does come true, it will be the second time that Mr. Moody has "come back" to reap laurels in life when his life was despaired of.

Hope came with the last change in the method of treatment, and almost when it was waning. Almost from the first and long before it was believed that Mr. Moody would be compelled to retire from active life, each treatment but aggravated his disease.

Rain Aggravated Disease. Then he was brought to Haverhill and removed to a station outside the city, so that his friends might not know of his serious condition. He was helpless and it was raining, and he says today, with grim humor: "I may not be sure what caused the original rheumatism, but I am very sure what caused that last spell—that shower bath."

EXPERTS SAY AMERICA LEADS IN CONSTRUCTION OF WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—Naval officers are chagrined that the country has not realized, or if it has realized, has not acknowledged its appreciation of the fact that the United States navy sent to the coronation of King George the finest battle ship in the international fleet which took part in the celebration.

feet of fighting ships in existence, and this is not mere patriotic or idle boasting.

It was only a few years ago that the country was engaged in a debate over the merits of the controversy as to whether the armor plate on the sides of the warships was to high or too low.

Important Change Made. Since then an important change has been made in naval architecture. It was an old story to hear naval critics declare that the batteries of American warships did not permit them to discharge broadsides which would favorably compare with foreign navies.

Big Gun Is Perfected. The next step in American advancement was the perfection of the 14-inch gun, which is the greatest death dealing monster now carried by the ships of any navy.

Explosive is too Sensitive. As to the merits of Shimose, Lyddite or Melonite, whatever it may be called, military men have no hesitation in saying that it is too sensitive. It will be recalled that the Japanese had two guns on the battle ship Migasa put out of commission in the running sea fight off Port Arthur on Aug. 10, 1906.

President Taft a Visitor. Mr. Moody sees his friends each afternoon between 4 and 6 o'clock. President Taft last year motored to him almost as soon as he reached Beverly.

When Mr. Moody was a young man, just when he was making the Essex bar sit up and notice the eloquence that won him his high place in life, he was stricken, and many of his friends feared that he might not live.

Much Criticism Unfair. Criticism of the navy is welcomed by those responsible for its conduct. Not all criticism, however, is fair, and both fair and unfair critics have been listened to so long that there is a general disposition not to give to the navy, as far as it goes, is composed of the best

A Family Medicine Without Alcohol

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic and alterative, free from alcohol. What is a "tonic"? A medicine that imparts strength or tone; a medicine that builds up, gives vigor and power. What is an "alterative"? A medicine that alters or changes unhealthy action to healthy action. Ayer's Sarsaparilla does all this without stimulation. Ask your doctor if a family medicine, like Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is not vastly better without alcohol than with it.

of intense devotion to the party service or of great zeal in promoting party doctrines, and resort to corrupt practices, it should be restrained and abated. When party knaves engage in false registration of voters, registering absentees, dead men, fictitious persons and ghosts, and thereafter have such falsely registered electors impersonated at the polls and falsely vote them; when they stuff the ballot box with fictitious ballots; when their strikers mutilate the ballots of honest men to defeat the public will; when they make a false count of the registered votes; when they steal the election by corrupt practices, coercing men who are unfortunate, poor, or dependent; when they bribe voters by the thousand, as they did in Adams and Scioto counties, Ohio; and put unworthy allies into office and public power; when they enter into unholy alliance with sinister commercial interests to defeat the public will, to buy municipal councils, as they were exposed in doing in San Francisco, in Denver, in St. Louis, in Chicago, in Pittsburg, and in innumerable cities; when they and their office-holding allies enter into corrupt agreements with municipal contractors to defraud the people of the city in the building of streets, bridges, sewers and water-works; when they give away or convey for a trifling consideration valuable franchises belonging to the people of the cities, or the people of the states, or the people of the United States, through corrupt combinations of this character; when they nominate public officials, secretly pledged to serve special interests, by packing conventions in towns, cities, counties and states; when these combinations nominate members of Congress and procure the election of senators by bribery and corrupt methods and practices as the servants of special interests, the time has come when an end shall be put to it by the people of the United States and the integrity of government be re-established by the overthrow of such corrupt machines whether in city, state or nation.

Des Moines Results.

Following is the statement quoted as to Des Moines:

"The city's net loss in the last year of the old government was $134,510.62; the net gain in the first year under the new charter was $48,439.10, a total relative saving of $182,949.65.

"The tax levy for city purposes in the last year of the old charter was 38.7 mills (on the twenty-five per cent. valuation established by law); the first year under the new charter it was 36.4 mills.

"Public improvements to the value of $357,755.50 were made during the first year under the new system.

"Contractors were held strictly to the specifications, and claims for extras, which had grown into a crying abuse, were firmly rejected; the quality of all public work visibly improved.

"Several carloads of inferior creosote paving blocks were rejected.

"A modern bookkeeping system was installed.

"Municipal expenditures were held strictly within the city's revenues, ending the practice of piling up yearly deficits, to which almost the entire city bonded debt was due.

"Numerous leaks were stopped; all the licenses collected were turned into the treasury.

"Street lights, formerly costing $75 to $95, were reduced to a uniform rate of $65 per arc per year, and the moonlight schedule abolished, insuring better service.

"Incandescent lights were reduced from $24 to $17 in some cases and the all-night schedule was substituted for a moonlight schedule in others, at the same price, $17.

"All public work was promptly done; complaints were given immediate attention.

"The streets were kept noticeably cleaner; the alleys in business sections, never before cleaned at all, were now thoroughly cleaned.

"Street signs were put up throughout the city, years of clamor for it having failed to induce the old government to make this improvement.

"The wages of men with teams were increased from $3.50 to $4.50; those of day laborers from $2 to $2.25; much better service was required.

"The quality of public service in all departments was noticeably bettered.

"The cost of cleaning catch basins was reduced from $1.40 to $1.12.

"Uniform cement walks were laid throughout the business section.

"Bridge paving under the old system cost $4.74 per yard by contract; under the new system it was done by day labor for $4.09.

"Culverts costing $17.61 per cubic yard under the old plan were built for $12.63 under the new.

"Mowing in the parks was done at seventy-five per cent. of the old cost.

"Work done by contract was let to the lowest bidders, without manipulation.

"The 'red-light' district, operated under the corrupt and unlawful monthly fining system, was entirely abolished.

"Bond sharks, who owned the segregated 'red-light' district and oppressed the inmates of disorderly houses, were driven from business.

"Public gambling houses, previously operated under police protection, were closed.

"Petty gambling devices, such as slot machines, formerly protected, were effectually prohibited.

"Ordinances regulating saloons were strictly and uniformly enforced.

"Friendly, but mutually self-respecting, relations between the city government and public-service corporations were established.

"City politics were entirely divorced from State and national politics.

"Private enterprise and public spirit were remarkably stimulated. Over $400,000 was raised for public purposes by citizens in two years. A great coliseum, new Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. buildings were provided, etc.

"The city, formerly notorious for 'divisive strife,' became notably harmonious.

"The confidence of citizens in the representative character of the city government was fully re-established.

DETECTIVE BURNS

know how to find out. McNamara said: "You don't want me for a Chicago job. You want me for a Los Angeles job." Our men didn't enlighten him, but he guessed it. He tried to buy them off. After some talk to the effect that they were not 'fools' and knew good money when they saw it, he offered them twenty thousand dollars to let him get away. My son Raymond objected that this was not enough—that it would 'have to go too many ways.' Then he offered thirty thousand. Raymond asked where he would get so much money. He answered: 'From the higher-ups.' When he found that he was merely being played, he gave up that attempt.

"He talked a good deal on the train, justifying himself in what he had done, because he had done it, he said, to further the cause of union labor. When one of our men objected that the killing of innocent printers would not advance the cause of union labor, he replied: 'I'd blow the whole damn country up if I thought it would get us our rights.' I did not see him until he arrived in Chicago. I told him what the charge against him was. I warned him that he was in a serious situation. I advised him that, of course, whatever he said would be used against him, and advised him not to make a statement under any circumstances. He replied that he hadn't anything to say.

"McManigle, when I saw him, was rolling cigarettes and smoking nervously. I warned him as to his rights, as I had warned McNamara; and then I went over the case with him, telling him where he had been and what he had been doing for months past, and proving to him that we had a perfect and complete case against him, and left him, saying that if he concluded he wanted to see me he could send for me. A few hours later he sent for me, and gave me the truth about the whole conspiracy. There was no 'third degree' used, I have never used it in my life.

"It was necessary to wait for the extradition papers from California before we could proceed with our arrests. McNamagie and Jim McNamara had been caught red-handed—but John J. McNamara was another sort of game. We knew that we could not expect to find him carrying bombs in a hand-bag. We knew that if we arrested him prematurely, without the papers from Los Angeles technically perfect to hold him, he would get out of jail on a bond and destroy any evidence of his complicity, and finally escape us.

"But while we were waiting we had to prevent him from taking alarm. Our men who were watching him reported that he seemed worried and uneasy. There had been no explosion in Detroit. The two dynamiters of course couldn't send him any explanations. Their silence would be suspicious.

"I got McNamagie to write a note to his wife telling her that 'everything was O. K.,' and I sent the letter to Detroit and had it mailed back to her from there. I was calculating that, no matter how worried J. J. McNamara might be about his brother and McNamagie, he would not be in any fear for himself. He would suppose that the two men, if caught, would 'stand pat' and trust to him and their other friends to assist them at their trial. He wouldn't guess—any more than McNamagie had guessed—how complete our case was against him.

The Arrest of the Union's Secretary-Treasurer.

"When the papers arrived, they were brought by the assistant prosecuting attorney of Los Angeles, with two Los Angeles police detectives and a deputy sheriff. We went to Indianapolis and appeared before the governor. He found the papers correct, and necessarily he authorized the warrant for McNamara's arrest. That warrant was taken by the Los Angeles officer and presented by him to the chief of police of Indianapolis, who detailed two of his men to take McNamara into custody. I accompanied them to the headquarters of the iron workers' union, where the executive committee had been in session all week. We knew from our men that John J. McNamara was still there. An Indianapolis officer knocked at the door and asked for McNamara. The man who had answered the knock said, 'I am that gentleman.' The officer replied: 'The chief of police wants to see you.'

"He looked over at us and turned pale, but said nothing. He was rather tall, well built, neatly dressed, smooth shaven with gray hair and good features. I saw that we were going to have no trouble with him. He prepared silently to accompany us.

Legal Formalities Scrupulously Observed.

"At police headquarters, the Indianapolis chief of detectives, in the presence of the superintendent of police, read the governor's requisition and the warrant of arrest to McNamara, and proceeded to search and 'book' him according to the regular routine. He was then taken by the Indianapolis officers before Judge Collins, who had always heard such cases, and Judge Collins examined the papers and found them correct. According to the law, he had only to determine the identity of the prisoner, so as to make sure that he was the man named in the papers. McNamara said: 'I don't deny that I'm the man.' There was nothing left for the judge to do but to turn him over to the Los Angeles detective, James Hosick, who was the agent named by the state of California and by the state of Indiana to transfer the prisoner to Los Angeles. Hosick took McNamara back to the desk sergeant, had the things returned to him that had been taken when he was searched, and put him in an auto to start him on his journey to the Pacific Coast.

"Throughout the whole proceedings every legal formality was scrupulously observed; but I knew that we were dealing with men who were dangerous, and I had our movements planned and prearranged so that if there were any dynamite bombs handy we might proceed too silently and too swiftly to be intercepted or overtaken. That was the alleged 'kidnapping' of John J. McNamara!"

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Sir Ernest Shackleton, apropos of a place of geographical ignorance which he had encountered, said:

"It was incredible. It reminded me of a little waiting maid:

"As she brought me my tea and toast and bloater one morning I said to her:

"What a rainy morning, Mary! It's almost like the flood!"

"The flood, sir?" said the little maid. She looked at me with a puzzled smile.

"Yes," said I. 'The flood—Noah, you know, the Ark, Mount Ararat.' "She shook her head and murmured apologetically. 'I ain't had no time to read the papers lately, sir.'—Human Life.

THE THEATERS

Big Bijou Bill.

The Bijou was more than comfortably filled last evening, many being unable to find seating accommodations for some time. The program submitted is an excellent one. Johnson and Wells have made a big hit, and their popularity shows no signs of abating. Johnson is profligate with his, and this adds humor to his singing. In his song Georgiana, the lady's name becomes George-He-Hana, and he very rarely omits an h from I. The dancing of this pair is always well received.

The Reece Trio are still as popular as ever. They changed their act by introducing new music, and they repeated their former successes. The xylophone playing of La Petrie Laurie is well received. The applause lasted long enough to enable Mr. Reece to reach the sage from his place in the orchestra pit, where he had been conducting the band, and share in the honors. The little girl performed some new contortion feats, and as usual, met with great success.

The Boardman Sisters introduced some new songs last night.

The Empire.

The Empire was well attended last night. The program carried no fewer than three vaudeville items, Miss Lottie O'Malley being the latest addition. Another good wrestling bout was witnessed last night between Joe Thomas and a local man, and soon the champion will take on Sallor Roberts.

Miss Lottie O'Malley went well last night, and should prove popular during her stay at the Empire. Gorham and Phillips had another change of program last night, and were just as successful as ever. The pictures, too, were good, and embraced a number of subjects, being well varied.

Condon has hit the popular taste, and if his plans work out he will be able to continue to give the same excellence of standard all along.
