HAWAII DELEGATES HELP HIM TO STOP STEAM ROLLER

Hawaii Can Raise Finest Irish Spuds

Irish potatoes can be produced in the Hawaiian Islands equal, if not superior, to those grown on the mainland, according to S. T. Starrett, superintendent of the market division who has the potatoes to prove the assertion.

Some months ago, Starrett supplied some Early Rose seed potatoes to a Kahana man who planted them in the sand on the beach within 50 feet of the water's edge. He marketed his crop recently and the potatoes were said to be the best seen on the islands in many months. They were large and smooth of skin and mealy, and Starrett had no difficulty in getting four cents a pound for the potatoes he sold.

"I have never seen finer potatoes anywhere," said the superintendent this morning.

"The trouble here has been that growers did not use good seed.

MAY BE STRIKE IN THE BAND

A strike of some members of the Hawaiian band is not a remote contingency according to a movement of disaffection that has started in the tuncful body.

In the new appropriation bill, that for the ensuing half year, the supervisors raised the salary of acting bandmaster Naone $25 a month and that of assistant bandmaster Baker $15, leaving the pay of the other bandmen as it was.

This action of the board is regarded by at least some of the boys as favoring favoritism toward the two chief musicians. A committee of five of them prepared a petition to the mayor and supervisors, asking for a readjustment of the pay schedule whereby certain salaries should be fixed according to the instruments played and not with relation to the time the respective players have served in the band. The plan involves some individual increases.

The petition was left at the mayor's office yesterday but has since been withdrawn, and it is said that the members of the committee will personally appear before the board tonight and ask that their wishes be considered. They have seen some of the supervisors individually, but all the satisfaction they received, according to what they said in the mayor's office, was the growled reply:

"Nothing doing; the band has got all it will get."

Local Bank Comes To Aid Of The Army

Apparently panic-stricken because of the lack of funds to maintain the army, the quartermaster general at Washington, determined to save money wherever possible, sent an expensive cablegram to the Department of Hawaii this morning ordering that all subscriptions to newspapers and periodicals here be at once canceled on the ground that there is no appropriation to pay for them. The cost of the cablegram would, it is said, have covered that of all subscriptions to the newspapers and periodicals on the part of the local department.

Another cablegram received at army headquarters this morning indicated that the horses and mules in army service will get their hay and oats as usual, a Seattle man having been awarded the contract for supplying this provender.

Officers of the army stationed here have been somewhat cheered by the intimation from a local bank that it will loan men holding commissions in the army money at six per cent until the government gets on its feet again and is able to resume payments. As it is not believed the army will be without funds for more than six months the interest will cut but little figure, but the bank expects to profit.

BRYAN HELPS ON THE PLATFORM; TO BE RADICAL

(Associated Press Cable to the Star.)

BALTIMORE, Md., June 27.—The Woodrow Wilson forces won a striking victory today, in the Democratic national convention, seating the Wilson contested delegates from South Dakota by a vote of 633 1/2 to 437. This was done by the adoption by the convention of the minority report of the committee on credentials.

Clark Forces Beaten.

The majority report of the committee favored the Champ Clark delegates. New York and Illinois swung into line for Wilson. The Wilsonites are jubilant, claiming that the vote shows the relative strength of Wilson and Clark.

Philippines Not In It.

The delegates from the Philippines were not allowed to vote. The decision to exclude them was based on a ruling of the United States Supreme court to the effect that they are not a part of the country.

Hawaii for Wilson.

The six delegates from the Territory of Hawaii voted with the Wilson forces.

Writing a Progressive Platform.

William Jennings Bryan and Senator O'Gorman have been named a subcommittee to write a platform, which will be completed tonight. It will endorse the referendum and the recall, the income tax, and the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

Ollie James Speaks.

Congressman Ollie M. James of Kentucky made an address today accepting the permanent chairmanship of the convention.

POPULATION OF HONOLULU CITY PROPER IS 56,110; OF WHOLE ISLAND 83,343

Referring to an advance notice of the new Polk-Husted Directory in a local paper, R. W. Robinson, manager of the work, said this morning:

"The figures published of 81,993 as the population of Honolulu refer to the whole island, and besides are those of the census of two years ago, is distinctly stated in the introduction of the book. Few people seem to realize that the city and county of Honolulu is the whole island of Oahu.

"According to our estimate the population of the city and county of Honolulu, which means all of the island of Oahu, is now 83,343, and the population of the city proper 56,110.

"Last year's directory contained 25,129 names for the whole island. This year's edition contains 25,687 names."

SHAMEFUL DESTRUCTION SAYS LINDSAY AT END OF FAT LEASE

Attorney General Lindsay was fashioned terms, which failed to protect the public in any way, and as the end of the lease approached they had a legal right to get what they could from the timber on the land.

"The lease was at a hundred dollars a year and they were getting $18,000 a year cash and a lot of labor from their tenants. But they had a right to sell the trees and have them cut away, and did so. I am glad it has been stopped by public spirited intervention. I myself saw trees between one and two feet in diameter being hacked down for firewood."

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS AND SUBSCRIBERS

On Monday, July 1, 1912, the Hawaiian Star and Evening Bulletin will be joined under one management, and one evening newspaper, the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, issued from the Alakea street offices. This paper will have a minimum guaranteed circulation of over 4000 copies.

The advertising rate until January 1, 1913, will be on the basis of fifteen cents an inch with the usual increase for short term, special position, etc. This is twenty-five per cent. lower than the combined rates of the two papers, and a circulation is offered which, under the advertising rates prevailing on the mainland, would call for twenty-five cents an inch as a minimum.

All the subscribers of the Hawaiian Star and Evening Bulletin will receive the Honolulu Star-Bulletin for the full time they have paid on either or both papers.

The subscription rates will be the usual $8 per year $4 six months, $2 for three months, and $1.75 one month.

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin semi-weekly will take the place of the Hawaiian Star semi-weekly and Evening Bulletin weekly.

The subscription rate of the Semi-Weekly Honolulu Star-Bulletin will be $2 per year.

DIDN'T STEAL CLEANUP TOOLS

The finishing up of the cleanup day committee's accounts is showing a fine record as to cost, and as to number of tools stolen. Last year the cleanup committee missed a very large number of garden tools. This year they are nearly all accounted for. The reason may be in part that so many people got a supply of tools last year that there wasn't much demand this time, but it is in part accounted for by the more careful watch kept, as a result of last year's experience.

The total cost of the day's work appears to be only about $1200, which is less than was expected. This sum, of course, does not include the amounts indirectly donated by firms which gave the use of their wagons and carts, employees who worked without pay, etc.

CRIMINAL CASE IS HARD FOUGHT

The trial of Shin Fan, charged with having criminally assaulted a little girl, is progressing but slowly in Judge Robinson's court, as Attorney Rawlins, representing the defendants, is fighting every point on technical or other grounds, such of the morning was consumed in argument between him and City Attorney Cathcart over the admission of certain testimony by Officer Apama, Rawlins losing the contest in the end.

The prosecution has not yet concluded its case and there is little chance that a verdict will be reached this week.

Court Items.

W. O. Smith and others, trustees of the Likoukalan Trust, have filed suit in the circuit court against Gee Fat, the prominent Kauai Chinese, for $1085.32, which they claim is due them as rental, plus interest, for land at Kapaia, Kauai, leased by the trust to Gee Fat.

Kauai's Liquor Plan The Best, Says C. W. Spitz

C. W. Spitz, the Kauai wholesale liquor dealer, is in Honolulu and an interested observer of the discussions of the Oahu liquor commission. He says that, despite criticisms and admitting some defects, the Kauai solution of the problem is the best one. That solution is no retail saloons on the island. The system has been in effect for some years now.

"If you are going to have retail saloons on Kauai, you would have to have so many small ones that none of them could pay," said Spitz. "The camps are far apart and each might want one. As it is now the men get what liquor they want through the wholesale houses. That is the way the matter should be handled in all the country districts.

"A saloon near a plantation is always a place where men who lay off will go and loaf for a day or so, getting drunk and unfit for work. They don't do that now on Kauai. Of course it may be that there are some blind pigs, but they are not as bad as saloons. Oahu would be better off with the Kauai system in the country districts than with a small saloon here and there.

"In Honolulu there are too many saloons. About six large ones, pro-

APPOINTMENTS TO BE MADE

Acting Governor Mott-Smith will make appointments of a license commissioner and a successor to D. P. R. Ienberg as member of the board of agriculture and forestry, in a few days. In answer to a question he stated this morning that these appointments would not be left to await the return of Governor Peat, as it was considered necessary to make them now. The acting governor already has some names under consideration.

The smoker to be given on Saturday night by the Heaui Yacht & Boat Club will commence at eight o'clock.

Police Can't Control the Baltimore Crowds

BALTIMORE, June 27.—Thousands of people besieged the Democratic convention hall as the time approached for the delegates to resume their sessions this afternoon. Chairman Crain of the committee on headquarters reported that the doors were being rushed, and the ushers and doorkeepers were helpless.

The police were unable to cope with the situation. Crain said that thousands of persons not entitled to admission had crowded in to the hall.

People unable to get seats hunk from the galleries and perched on girders. Thousands of ticket holders on arriving found their seats taken and could not get the place allotted to them.

Even Pretty Girl Turned Down.

In the effort to bring order the band played "Dixie," and "Tammony." Amid the wild din of yells, hisses and cheers a pretty girl tried to repeat the stunt carried out with much effect at the Chicago convention, where the waving of a Roosevelt banner by a young woman produced a dramatic effect. She waved a banner of Champ Clark before the whole convention, but there was very little response to her efforts.

Feeling Runs High.

Theodore Bell of California spoke in behalf of Champ Clark in the debate over the seating of the South Dakota contested delegates. His remarks precipitated a violent controversy, and caused an uproar of cheers and jeering that lasted twenty minutes.

James Prates Bryan.

Congressman Ollie M. James, elected permanent chairman, lauded Bryan in his speech of acceptance.

La Follette On Platform.

Senator R. M. La Follette, Roosevelt's rival as leader of the Republican progressive forces, arrived at the convention hall just as James was finishing his speech. La Follette was given a seat on the platform by James, and the convention gave him an ovation. The delegates joined in singing "He's a Bear."

HADLEY TELLS SOME SECRETS.

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 27.—Governor Hadley of Missouri today confirmed the statement made by Roosevelt that the Taft leaders in the Chicago convention had offered to seat the contested Roosevelt delegates from Washington and Texas, if Roosevelt would consent to the nomination of Hadley or some other candidate for the presidential nomination. Hadley said he refused, unless the sanction of Roosevelt was obtained, and that Roosevelt refused to give his sanction.

PORTLAND OFFICIALS INDICTED.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27.—Mayor Rushlight, Chief of Police Slover, Captain Betty and two detectives have been indicted for conspiracy to bribe.

School Accommodation Is Very Badly Needed

Willis T. Pope, superintendent of public instruction, has addressed a letter to the mayor and supervisors, in which he says:

"Last November your honorable board asked the department of public instruction to prepare an estimate of the additional rooms needed for the public schools for the city and county of Honolulu, the data to be given, to be used in determining the estimates for taxes. This estimate, being determined so far in advance, was, of course, likely to be more or less inaccurate, but now that the school year is closing the needs at this time show that the estimate of last November was practically correct.

"The schools throughout the city and county have been greatly overcrowded all of this school year. In some localities many pupils have been

SHIPPING AND WATERFRONT NEWS

VENTURA AND NILE DUE IN MORNING

Record-Breaking List of Passengers On Oceanic Liner--No Mail on Nile--Vancouver to Commemorate Memory of Explorer

Wireless advice from the Oceanic Liner Ventura received at the office of C. Brewer & Co. the local agents, brings word of a record-breaking passenger list for this time of year, a large cargo of general merchandise, and four hundred and ten sacks of mail on board the remodeled liner which will be off port at daylight and is to dock at the Oceanic wharf at 7:30 a. m.

On board are one hundred and thirty-six cabin passengers, thirty-three steerage passengers, and 2887 tons of freight in the hold consigned to local merchants.

NILE HERE TOMORROW.

The Pacific Mail steamer Nile will be off port a few hours later and is expected to dock at Alakea wharf at 11 a. m. The Nile brings several holdover passengers from San Francisco, but carries no mail.

The Nile will get away for the Orient at 5 p. m. with fourteen passengers from Honolulu. Among the passengers will be the ten members of the Yokohama troupe of acrobats who have been playing at the local moving-picture houses for the past month and who with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Thompson, H. Knapp and H. Yokokataki are booked for Yokohama. Lee Trimble is booked for Hongkong.

MORE COAL FOR INTER-ISLAND.

Work of unloading the cargo of the steamship Indian Monarch is being rushed at the Bishop coal wharf in order that the British steamship may get away and make room for the steamer Guernsey which is due here at any time after Sunday with 2808 tons of coal consigned to the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company. The Guernsey left Newcastle nineteen days ago under command of Captain Sorenson and is expected to be off port Sunday where she will anchor until the Indian Monarch, which arrived yesterday from Moji, Japan, with a cargo of coal for the Inter-Island Company, can get away and make room for the Norwegian steamer.

THE NUUANU DUE.

After a stormy and adventurous trip lasting nearly a year, the American bark Nuuanu, commanded by Captain Josselyn, is momentarily expected to be sighted off port. The Nuuanu left New York 318 days ago for her trip here around the Horn but as a result of being buffeted by bad weather was forced to put in at the Falkland Islands in distress where she lay for two months.

No word has been heard from the windjammer since but she is expected momentarily to appear off the Head. The Nuuanu, whose agents are T. H. Davies & Co., is bringing a miscellaneous cargo consisting of coal, coke, iron and plumbing materials for the Honolulu Iron Works.

Vancouver harbor will be beautified by an enormous statue of Captain Vancouver, after whom the Canadian city was named, if the plans of the Progress Club of Vancouver do not miscarry. A motion to that effect was made and passed at a recent meeting of the club and subscriptions toward a fund to be devoted to the purpose are being solicited from the business men of the city.

At the present time, there is no tribute of any kind paid to the memory of the explorer who left his name to the British Columbia port although his discovery of the site of the present city is regarded as one of the most important events in the history of British Columbia. The great navigator has been numbered among the dead for over a century and in the resolutions set forth by the club the statement is made that "the time has arrived when the people of British Columbia have advanced far enough to take a pride in commemorating the memory of the great man who has left the impress of his personality on the early development of British Columbia."

Do You Want Long, Heavy Hair?

Then treat your hair well. See that it is properly fed. Growth of every kind demands proper food. Starved hair splits at the ends, turns prematurely gray, keeps short and dry. Then feed your hair. Feed it with proper food, a regular hair-food. Feed it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. Thus help nature all you possibly can toward giving you rich, heavy, luxuriant hair. Ask your doctor about your hair and about Ayer's Hair Vigor. Follow his advice.

Ayer's Hair Vigor DOES NOT COLOR THE HAIR

SPORTS

Prospect of Big Scrap is Chief Topic of Gossip

Cordell and McCarthy put in a busy day yesterday, despite the heat each man going on the road in the morning and boxing in the afternoon.

Leary and Baker sparred three lively rounds each with the middleweight and both contrived to keep Jack's eye in working order.

At Liliue things hummed considerably, judging from reports. McCarthy boxed four hard rounds each with Moriarty and Bauercock. As usual a large crowd was in attendance and was well rewarded by the lively boxing dished up. McCarthy exhibited a great deal of cleverness and made it hot for his sparring partners, sending in some stingers.

Cordell, in his lightweight days, once got a decision over Aurelio Herrera when the latter was just fresh from a record of 17 straight victories. Cordell's victory came as a big shock to the talent. The betting was 2 to 1 on Herrera and when the referee held up Cordell's hand in the fifteenth, Cordell's reputation was made. He has been a consistent performer ever since.

Fight Prospects. Interest in the coming contest is steadily increasing and the chances of the two principals forms one of the chief topics of conversation on the streets and in the clubs.

The bout is scheduled to go fifteen rounds and in this climate fifteen hard-fought rounds test a man's stamina and endurance to the limit.

If either of the boxers has a weak spot in his physical make-up or has neglected his training fifteen fast rounds will surely discover the fact. Both McCarthy and Cordell realize that they must be in the very best of kilter for their coming engagement and both are going about their training with a refreshing vim. Cordell has to make weight and that alone assures him being in fine shape when he crawls through the ropes.

Who Will Win? Who will win? That is a difficult question. Cordell will find his pull in the weights stand him in good stead before the round limit is reached. He can assimilate punishment as well as deal it out and when he is right possesses a good second wind. As to McCarthy he will probably conserve his strength and fight coolly, trusting to administer the coup de grace when his opponent is tiring toward the finish of the bout.

One thing is certain, and that is that the contest will be worth coming miles to witness. Such a match would be a big attraction on the Coast and local fight fans are to be congratulated on having a chance to witness a sterling encounter between two well-nigh perfect physical specimens of humanity, and one which is likely to remain fresh and green in the memories of lovers of boxing for years to come.

JIMMY DIME TELLS WHY FIGHTERS ARE YELLOW

According to Jimmy Dime, the New-castle boxing impresario, manager of Tony Ross, Tom McMahon, George Chipp, Tommy Bresnahan and Patsy Brannigan, and founder of the Johnny Kilbane style of battle, a fighter who lacks gameness can be instilled with courage enough to convert him from a bad quitter into a winner. Sounds impossible, doesn't it?

"Well now, by gosh, it can be done," assured Jim with an emphatic twist of his head, after discerning that I looked somewhat doubtful. "I've seen other fellows turn the trick, and in my time I've made good money-makers out of yellowbacks." "You were going to quit when you stopped him, weren't you?" I asked only 46, he says—but he still is willing to talk fight from 2 a. m. till 2 p. m., providing his fighters are sleeping the sleep of the just.

"Fighting is a great game and a funny one. It has so many sides and so many conflicting elements, perhaps that's why it's so fascinating. Better than any sport on earth, it definitely portrays human emotion and the spirit that makes for success and for defeat. All sorts of people with all sorts of dispositions are engaged in it. Hence the varied forms of strife. Fighters can be divided into seven classes—viz., they who know when to fight; they that are war gods when winning; they that get going only when the struggle is hardest; the boys that lack confidence before a fight; they that never have the spunk, whether winning or losing, and the determined gamblers ever harboring to overcome obstacles.

"The general public does not know that there are many boys fighting who lack courage. They come under the class of winning pugilists. When they are ahead they can scrap like Sullivan, but fear a punch and slow up when they get it. I have seen fifty boys who would quit under fire. In the beginning they never had the heart. By that I mean they could not stand punishment because of some idea they had in their brain. They had the physique and everything, but when a hard charge came their way they imagined it was twice as hard as it really was.

"Kid Carter was that way. He was a notorious quitter when he first started out. The least thing would cause him to give up. But somehow or other he plucked up courage as his career aged, for he became quite a fighter and took some hard beatings. Carter is an example of how far a faint-hearted fighter can rise. I don't think that Carter was just exactly yellow, however. He had no confidence in his youth, and as he went along faith in his prowess gradually came to him.

"Years ago in Troy I had a boy of the name of Young Sharkey fighting for me. He is now an actor. He was inclined to quit. One night he was getting whipped and was ready to cry enough, when suddenly he whipped over a right-hand wallop that knocked out the man he was showing with.

WORLD'S FIRST AIR DERBY FLOWN OVER LONDON TOWN

LONDON, June 8.—The first "Derby of the air" was flown today and was won by a brilliant young English aviator, Gustave Hamel, carrying Miss Trehawke Davis as a passenger.

The distance covered was eighty-one miles. Hamel's full time was 102 minutes. Tom Sopwith actually finished first, in 84 minutes, but he was disqualified because, the judges said, he flew four miles inside the post at the turning point at Purley.

James Moorhouse, 123 minutes, was classed as second; James Valentine, 165 minutes, third; Sippe, Guillaux and Verrier started, but did not finish. Verrier, like Hamel, carried a passenger.

The course was a grand circle in the air around the metropolitan district of London. The race began and ended at Grahame White's aerodrome at Hendon, a town six miles from the center of the City of London. The wheeling points in the course were at Kempton Park, fourteen miles; at Esher Station, four miles; at Russell Hill, Purley, eleven miles; at Purfleet, eighteen miles; at Epping, sixteen miles; at High Barnet, fourteen miles; and thence to Hendon, four miles.

Quarter of a Million Look On. It was the first time such an aerial race course had ever been laid out and a vast multitude, estimated to number not less than 250,000, overspread the countryside in a half circle.

The weather conditions were first class. The immense throngs stirred up very little dust so there was with the thrilling spectacle in silent progress above them. All parts of the course were visible at all times to the contestants, who were, however, out of sight of the spectators, except those within a radius of two miles of them. Even with field glasses they could not be distinguished five miles off.

The airmen were sent away from Hendon at one-minute intervals, and they quickly vanished at a great pace toward Kempton Park. Sopwith, who started second, flew into the lead before the park was reached, and kept his foremost position to the end. A tremendous roar of applause that rolled along the earth for miles greeted his appearance at the finish point at Hendon, and there were loud expressions of disappointment when his disqualification was announced. Meantime many bets had changed hands.

All the contestants used monoplane except Verrier, who had a biplane. At Hendon the biggest crowd of all was assembled and gave the race a tumultuous finish. Camera Men in Peril. The most exciting event was when Valentine, in descending, scattered a crowd of press photographers, several of whom narrowly escaped being hit by the machine.

The race was arranged by the Daily Mail. Hamel's prize was a gold cup and $1250. Moorhouse received $500, and Valentine $250. Seven entrants, including Cody, failed to start.

YACHTS SATURDAY SAYS MACFARLANE

Macfarlane had fully intended going out tonight with a party in his yacht La Paloma for the purpose of meeting the incoming racing fleet and had the yacht put in shape and the cruising sails taken off for the purpose of having the spars scraped and racing sails replaced.

Unfortunately both suits of sails were destroyed by the fire at Abrams' place at the Peninsula a short time ago and the genial commodore was forced to abandon his very sporting project.

THIRD PARTY TALK.

The organization of a third party here will probably depend upon what it offers to job-seekers. If it offers nothing it will amount to nothing outside of a limited circle.

Were it a sure thing that Taft would be elected or Roosevelt would be, the chance for a third party could be settled very soon. Assurance of a Taft regime would end the matter, while assurance of a Roosevelt return would give the old Carter administration a chance to lead a new departure.

As to a third party movement for Honolulu, it would not interest the people of the islands, nor the voting majority here, and it would not loom large in the results. In a presidential year a purely local party does not cut a large figure anywhere. Usually, if it has any chance at all, it is as an off-year proposition.

Some think that Kubio may organize a party of his own to send him to Congress as an independent. He could do so if he chose. But as an independent in Congress, he knows he would have to browse in his own pasture and that might prove scant. He must be either a Republican or a Democrat in Congress to get results.

The chances are that we shall fight out our political battles this year on the old lines; and that any new party movement would die of malnutrition or the want of nutrition, as the Home Rule party did.

HOW TO MEET CHINA'S NEEDS.

There was not a man among the millions starved in China last year but might have been saved but for a heartless policy among the people of other nations. Your hungry Mongol was willing and glad to toil at the most primitive labor, that which white men will not do for themselves and by which, if done by others, would be to the great benefit of white men; at the very time he was starving he was needed over more than half the world.

With the aid of Chinamen the Philippine islands could develop their latent wealth ten times faster than they do. We need not especially speak of the call for labor here. Rough farming in the Eastern and Western States bespeaks cheap labor all the time and gets no response. In Africa the Cape to Cairo railroad could be pushed through in half the time by the available Chinese, that it would otherwise take. Australia now excludes the Chinese, who, under temporary and time limited contracts, could open up and irrigate its temporary and time limited lands. South America is full of concealed idle principalities of wild land. South America is full of concealed wealth. The Chinese could get it out for the white inhabitants if the latter would let them.

In time China, if wisely guided, will be able to avail itself of all this surplus labor. And if it should be partitioned among the great commercial and industrial powers, so much the better for the great task of keeping famine out. There are no starving millions among the foreign spheres of influence. Where Russia and Japan, France and Germany, hold sway, there is work and food. It is only under the old, loose communication of China proper, that famine claims its annual toll.

What is needed is for the world to take hold of the Chinese question and settle it by letting its helpless people go where their labor is needed and wanted and by directing them in new paths of industry at home.

PURE FOOD IDIOSYNCRASIES.

It is an amusement for a summer's day to follow the intricacies of the Kansas Pure Food law, which is apparently based upon the one which, in some important respects, Dr. Wiley was not permitted to enforce in his sphere of Federal activity. Under this law, as the files inform us, "Boston baked beans" cannot be sold under that label in Kansas, unless they are made in Boston. By the same token, we presume, Irish stew cannot be sold in the same State unless it is made in Ireland, nor Parker House rolls unless the chef of that once-famous Boston hostelry turns them out. It is all very discouraging to a man who wants to eat his customary food when away from the places where it was first concocted, historically, and which has, in process of years, gained national vogue.

Now "Boston Baked Beans" has become a trade name, which simply means that the food is baked in the way that was first developed by Boston cooks. It may be made that way any where and still be genuine and entitled to the name which the process gives to it. To find an illustration we may cite Swiss cheese or nonfat, to cement and Paris green. Neither, to be genuine, needs come from Portland, England, nor from Paris, France.

Pure food laws like those of Kansas have a good object at base, but their enforcement should have a spirit of broad-minded discrimination. In the case of Boston Baked Beans sold in Kansas groceries, nobody supposed they were from Boston, or cared. But everybody who wanted them expected them to be prepared in the Boston way and there is where the vigilance of the inspector would have been gratifying to the purchaser and serviceable to the cause.

ROOSEVELT AND THE INTERESTS.

The Colonel could not stand it more than a day or two to have the Baltimore folk take all the turns at the spotlight, leaving him in unmitigated shadow. So he got himself interviewed last night and unmitigatedly, before daylight, was right back again in the illumination with the usual boast and bluster and a center-of-the-stage prominence for it. With comical resemblance to the Indian war chief who, when the council seemed to be getting dull, leaped to his feet with a whoop, strutting up and down with "Urrrh! me big Injun! Biggest chief here! Plenty scalps! Never scared! Get many more scalps!" the Rough Rider said pompously: "I shall open fire on the interests as soon as I can. I am the only man now in public life who frightens the big, sinister interests which have, for many years, been fattening on the nation" and much more to the same effect. It was the stentorian self-praise of the belted red-skin over again.

But the "interests" do not show any signs of being frightened. One of the greatest of them all, the protected Harvester Trust, seems to be still financing Colonel Roosevelt's campaign. Mr. Perkins, Morgan's old partner, is still pleasantly active, when his devotion to "the interests" does not detain him, in the "Roosevelt interests." Somehow the sinister fellows in Wall street merely listen to the Colonel in passing and wink the other eye. They have heard him rail against them for many a long year, but have not felt the need of buying armica. They have suffered dreadful threats but have never missed a meal of roasted Wall street lamb while Roosevelt was in power. If they are alarmed about anything it is about Taft and his Attorney General, with their rude thrusts in the name of the law, for all that has a menacing look. It is because of this that Taft has had no aid from them in this canvass, and no encouragement. The "interests" want Teddy. He is content with "arraigning them at the bar of public opinion," while Taft has the short and ugly way of arraighing them in court, and the Democrats might do as badly. Once let Teddy run the law department of the Federal government and the interests will rest as easily as they did before.

There is a glimpse of Mayor Gaynor to be had through his rules of political conduct which he has lived up to in the administration of his office. They make a pretty fair platform of themselves: "Let not the sun go down upon thy wrath."—The Bible. "I forgive everybody every night." "History teaches beyond a doubt that to govern least is to govern best." "What another saith of thee concerneth more him that saith it

THE DOG

By WALT MASON.

The dog is mankind's firmest friend; as such he's known to fame; to love, to follow and defend his master in his aim. When business in that line is slack, he strews the lawn with bones; when carted off, he brings them back, with rags, dead hens and stones. Affection dwells in Carlo's eyes; love deeper than the sea; and in his heart that love will rise to dog's eternity. But when there's no one to atone he whines away the hours by muzzing up the lawn some more, and scratching up the flowers. Into the Alpine snows he leaps to save some pilgrim there, and through the drifted, shiving heaps, he drags him by the hair. But when there are no Alpine snows or dying strangers near, into the chicken yard he goes and whips poor chancier. I've heard about a thousand tales of Carlo's noble deeds; and when at night he howls and wails until my bosom bleeds, I try to think he's not a fake, his virtues I recall, but all in vain—and so I take the shotgun from the wall.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

MAYOR FERN—Jarrett will be the best man to nominate for sheriff.

ALABAMA MITCHELL—Yes I have gone into the Alea scheme and may try cotton farming.

MAYOR FERN—The $23,000 wanted from the city and county for the armory is not up to me yet.

GEORGE DAVIS—Nothing doing if we are expected to get together for harmony and the other fellows for the job.

PURSER KAIPO (W. G. Hall)—We won't sail until tomorrow evening in order to pick up any possible passengers or mail for Kauai that may be in the Ventura.

HARBOR OFFICER CARTER—By keeping a close watch on the outgoing steamers, I hope to curb the excess of deserters that try to go out of here on every boat for the Coast.

HOMER SMITH—From present indications an effort will be made to revive horse-racing in Honolulu and it is very probable that a big meet will be pulled off here on the next Eleventh of June.

WILLIAM DOUTHITT—The Blue Bird is a gem of metaphysics. I enjoyed the reading last night greatly. While not an ornithologist I would hazard an opinion based on the size of last night's house that the Blue Bird and the oof-bird are not even distantly related.

KID BAKER—I intend staying in Honolulu and expect to go to work at Pearl Harbor next. I expect to have a hard contest with Moriarty on Saturday and should I give satisfaction, hope that I will be given another bout before very long, by which time I shall have become properly acclimated.

J. H. MAGOON—After Richard Kipling takes charge of the Honolulu Amusement Co.'s theaters I will go to the mainland for a short vacation, and when I return I will devote my time to the real estate business that I left over a year ago to take charge of the theaters. I still retain my stock in the amusement company.

MAYOR FERN—There's lots to see and lots to do around the island. The roads are very good—it's dry now—but I suppose rainy weather would make the roads muddy. The Poulson wireless station at Heala has reached a height of 223 feet. There will be two truss masts 438 feet high and 600 feet apart, and the station will occupy twelve acres of ground.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE SPECIAL LIQUOR PRIVILEGE
Editor Star.—According to the liquor law as it now stands on the statutes, the special privilege for the sum of $250 permits the holder of this privilege to sell during election hours, and after closing of the saloons, until they open, and on Sundays all day and night.

Of course, the Anti-Saloon League is against this special privilege altogether, but realizing that there is such a law on the statutes, and that it could not be eliminated without process of law, we, as executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League, suggested certain portions that were particularly objectionable, and placed a protest against the special privilege as now granted.

BADLY NEEDED.
kept out of school on account of no room. The teaching force in some localities has been giving extra time for additional numbers of pupils and nearly all of the teachers have taught all through the year with overcrowded rooms. There is every evidence that many pupils will have to be turned away next September if additional rooms are not erected. These unsatisfactory conditions of the past year have greatly retarded the progress of the schools and unless corrected will demoralize the public school system. This department wishes to co-operate with your honorable board in making the public school system all that it is capable of becoming and for your convenience I am enclosing data in tabulated form in reference to the additional rooms needed, trusting that it will be of some assistance in your calculations.

The Waipahu Crush.
Mrs. Sophie Overend, principal of Waipahu school, in a letter to the mayor and board of supervisors calls attention to the crowded condition of that school. As she had been informed by an official that the money for building a new schoolhouse at Waipahu would not be available until 1913, she urges that something should be done in the meantime to provide temporary accommodation. Mrs. Overend says in part:

"There are 429 pupils, more than one hundred more than there were last year at this time.

"This year I turned the back veranda of the cottage into a school-room, but I shall not be able to do that again, as there will be more assistants and some of them will have to occupy that as a living room.

"The priest has very kindly loaned us the use of his sitting room all this year, but he does not care to let us have it again, as he is tired of having forty-two children tramping mud and dirt into his house and destroying his walls.

"Besides using the cottage veranda and the priest's house, we have been teaching one hundred and forty children in one room in relays of about forty-five each.

"I would suggest that we try to get a six-room house from Mr. Bull, the manager of the plantation, in the camp opposite the schoolhouse."

THE BALM OF THE BLEACHERS

Whenever life seems dull and dark We go out to the baseball park And sit upon the bleachers, Among the doctors and the clerks, The bosses of the public works, The painters and the preachers, And there, from vantage point on high,

We watch the batter knock the fly Into the distant garden, And then we smash a dozen hats, And if we kick men in the slats We do not beg their pardon.

When'er the pitcher throws an "in" And hits a batter on the shin We're very much delighted, And if they do not lynch the "ump" For being such a blooming "chump" We think that we've been slighted. We gaze upon a three-base hit, Then throw a neat conviction fit, And when another daisy Goes sailing o'er some distant cloud We throw our hats and yell so loud The world thinks we are crazy.

Oh, bless the men who play baseball, They furnish tonic for us all; They make our life-blood tingle, When expert pitchers grace the box It tickles us if some man knocks A modest little single, And if a batter hits a fly That sails far up into the sky, We sing and shout and bellow.

AT THE THEATERS

Midweek Change at Ye Liberty.
The five big vaudeville acts at Ye Liberty theater will be changed to-night, this being the regular semi-weekly change night.

Emerson and Baldwin, the jugglers, will present an act that is full of new juggling feats. The Chang-Hwa Comedy Four will appear in a black face act that is very amusing. Budd and Clare, will furnish twenty minutes of refreshing comedy in their new act.

Dottle Harris, the serio-comic singer, will be heard in new selections, while the Four Donnelly's will sing and dance besides featuring the clever juveniles. The film service will embrace comedy and pathos.

"Under the Matzer Tree" at Bijou.
A brand new musical comedy will grace the boards at the Bijou theater tonight when the Hughes Musical Comedy Company will be seen in their last change of program.

"Under the Matzer Tree," as the comedy is called, is said to be the biggest laugh producer ever staged, being replete with new jokes, rapid fire repartee between the Jew and the Dutchman, catchy songs and new dances.

The play gives Le Blanc, who caricatures the stage Hebrew to the king's taste, a chance to show his real dramatic prowess, as he is very much in evidence all through the show. One of the features of the play will be the auto scene in which a real auto will be brought into play. Madame Lloyd will be heard in selected songs and Fritzie Guy will introduce new songs and dances.

The show from beginning to end will be full of life and will go with a dash and a vim.

The first show will begin at 7:15 and the second at 8:40. The regular 10c, 20c, and 30c, prices will prevail.

At the Empire.
The finest program of motion pictures in town is on at the Empire theater. The subjects have all been carefully selected and there's variety enough to please all comers. The orchestra is good, the seats are comfortable, the theater cool, and all in all the Empire is an ideal place to spend an evening.

HEALTH IN FACTORIES

SAVES REAL MONEY
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—"An ounce of effective inspection is worth a pound of post mortem inquiry."

With this paraphrase Edgar T. Davies of Chicago, chief factory inspector of Illinois, speaking before the twenty-sixth annual convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors, in convention here today, summed up the work of that body. Mr. Davies is president of the association.

"We must come to realize that the public saves real money in efficient factory inspection," declared Mr. Davies. "It is not enough to know that there is ill health—occupational diseases—among factory workers, and to be able to attribute the cause to this and that. We shall eliminate the cause itself. Our work has been greatly hampered by partisan politics. The distribution of political favors has done a great deal in lowering the efficiency of the inspection records. Civil service, with the competent, drilled workers it brings, should rule unimpaired."

NEW MANAGER HERE TOMORROW

Richard Kipling will arrive in Honolulu tomorrow morning to assume the management of the Honolulu Amusement Co. Mr. Kipling is well known in professional and amateur theatrical circles, and with his fifteen years' experience along these lines it is expected that he will engage talent best suited to the people of Honolulu, which will assist largely in placing the Bijou and Empire theaters on a basis to meet competition.

John Henry Magoon, who, for the past year has been general manager, retires to assume charge of the real estate affairs of Magoon Bros. and will also be manager of the Hulse-Wright Co. Mr. Magoon expects to make a quick trip to the Coast in the near future.

through increased business.
The Army Still Lives.

In a cable containing 357 code words, army headquarters here was notified this morning that the army would continue to exist along the same lines as in the past, at least this is the meaning conveyed by the ponderously worded message. The general order in question cites the laws under which the army will continue to live and move, specifying that recruiting for the service will continue, and making provision for the care of recruits.

No mention is made of the authorization for the employment of civilian clerks other than in the commissary department but it is believed such a provision will be made, otherwise the army headquarters here and the quartermaster's department will be clerkless after July 1.

Army Work Contracts.
After several hours spent in solving the puzzle due to the mixed figures and language in the Army bids, Major

STOCKS STILL TUMBLE AS DIVIDEND PROSPECTS DECREASE

Olaa at $6.50, Oahu at $25.875, Waianua at $115.00 and Onomea at $50.00, were the showings of this morning's session of the stock exchange. It was a fall all along the line, and with the day after day dropping of prices during the past few weeks, it places stocks very far below the level of the prices of three months ago.

There isn't any paucity feeling, or any disposition to think that the stocks are going much farther down. But there is deep disappointment at the low price of sugar. The year started with all the holders talking five cent sugar. It has gone below four cents and shows a tendency to drop some more. In an immediate, practical view of the matter, this simply means that the dividends will be smaller this year than was anticipated. There may not be the "extra dividends" announced with such regularity of plantation after plantation towards the end of the last year, and some of the plantations may even have to cut the regular dividends, unless raw sugar does better.

This naturally reduces the present value of the sugar stocks. The returns from them are going to be less than was expected.

Confidence Shown.
At the same time, while the tumbling stocks were being dealt in in small quantities, there was a deal reported of $25,000 worth of Olaa six per cent bonds, at the same old price—$97.50. This was the only important transaction placed on record during the day. A few Hilo Railway Extension bonds were sold, at the same price as last sales.

Cheatham, chief quartermaster of the department, today decided that the force around Fort Ruger should go to Yokonigo o this bid of seven cents a linear foot.

The contract for the ditch and tunnel work in connection with the water works system, for Schofield Barracks will go to Okita on his bid of $450 for rock tunneling and $2.65 for earth.

Contracts for the fencing at Schofield Barracks and for the clearing of the site for the reservoir have not been let.

INFANTRY BAND AT MOANA TONIGHT

The Moana Hotel management extends the public a cordial invitation to be present at the band concert tonight, commencing at seven-thirty, when the First Infantry Band will render the following program, under the leadership of Joseph Feitrimelli, chief musician:

KRYPTOK LENSES

Why Look Older Than You Are? The gentleman to the right of the reader (sketched from life) is wearing old style or pasted double-vision lenses. The lines of the reading wafers are noticeably prominent and he has difficulty in adjusting his eyes to the lenses. The cement used to join the two lenses has become clouded and has made his glasses misty.

The two figures to the left (sketched from life) are wearing Kryptok double-vision lenses. There are no seams on these glasses, because the reading lenses are fused invisibly within the distance lenses. These latter two persons are at ease, look dignified and comfortable.

ADOLPHUS BUSCH'S $300,000 GERMANIC MUSEUM FOR HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 8.—Adolphus Busch of St. Louis, Mo., who has given in various installments the sum of $300,000 toward the establishment of the Germanic museum at Harvard university, was prevented by illness from being present today at the ceremonies in connection with the laying of the corner stone of the museum building. His address in response to expressions of thanks was read by Hugo Reisinger of New York. Mr. Busch wrote:

"Just consider for a moment what the Germans in Germany have done for this cause! The German emperor—that far sighted and high minded ruler, who has done more for the preservation of the world's peace than perhaps any other statesman of our day—the German emperor, as soon as he heard of this museum project, at once recognized in it an opportunity to show his good will for America, and accordingly lent his powerful and generous help to it.

Other Princes Follow Him.
"He was followed by other German princes, the king of Saxony, the prince-regent of Bavaria, the prince-regent of Brunswick, and all over Germany, wherever an appeal for assistance was made, people seemed to feel instinctively that here there was a chance of erecting on American soil a monument of the best and the finest contributions

POMPADOUR BATHING SUITS ARE NEW.

Very gay and cheerful on the beach this summer will be the little Pompadour and figured waifia bathing suits. This suit—or rather "drape" for the costume—is really a carefully built dress in one piece—has pipings of plain color and lines of soutache braid forming a panel and trimming effect. Bathing dresses now have waist and skirt attached and separate knickers of the material, or knitted bathing trunks of silk or cotton are worn beneath.

of Germany to the world's artistic culture, and consequently private individuals and public institutions, scholars and business men, universities and city governments vied with each other to take part in this work.

"On the other hand, we German-Americans have every reason to do what we can to bring to its consummation an undertaking which appeals both to our allegiance to the country of our choice and to our love for the land of our birth. We have found in this country the realization of hopes and aspirations which, to many of us at least, would have been denied in our old home. We have found here greater opportunity for work on a large scale, we have found here a better chance for the average man to rise above the restrictions of class and tradition, we have found here a public life based upon the ideals of political freedom and civic independence.

Would Implant German Traits.
"We are grateful for all this and we shall do our part in maintaining lawful liberty in this country. But we cannot forget that Germany is above all countries the home of free inquiry and of individual conviction, that it is the land of earnest and manly devotion to the public weal, the land of rational social reform, the land of serious thought and of harmless enjoyment of life, the land of sentiment and song; and we should be faithless to our obligations to our adopted country if we did not try to implant upon American life something of this German honesty and independence of moral conviction, of this German genuineness and wealth of feeling, of this German power for simple and healthy enjoyment.

"We German-Americans, therefore, are bound to see in this Germanic museum connected with an American university a symbol of our twofold relation to American life and a visible and solemn appeal to do justice to both.

Praises Work of Harvard.
"Lastly, we Americans of German descent are particularly glad that it is Harvard university, the oldest and most venerable American institution of learning which has opened its hospitable doors to these treasures of German art. Harvard has always in a conspicuous manner stood for the German ideals of free scientific inquiry and of individual moral responsibility, and it is largely due to her leadership that these ideals are now dominant in all the universities throughout our land.

"I doubt not that in this museum matter a so Harvard's leadership will serve as an example to other educational institutions and I look forward to a time when we shall have Germanic museums at Columbia and Wisconsin university, in Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

Makes Plea for Good Will.
"In conclusion I am desirous to express myself, plainly that I lay the greatest stress on securing the assistance and co-operation of the great educational institutions to obtain the best acquaintance possible between the people of the United States and the people of the German empire.

"It seems most fitting that the two progressive nations—the old Teutons and young America—should unite in so worthy a cause. Forever live the good entente between Germany and the United States."

HOW BRYAN GOT TICKETS.

The editor of a small paper in a Nebraska town who was antagonist to Col. Bryan, hearing that the latter would be present at the Chicago convention, took the occasion to remark editorially that he would give any odds Bryan would not be given a seat, according to a story told today.

The Nebraska statesman took no notice of the "squib," but his friends were angry. They immediately got busy and told others. In time the story reached the ears of Victor Rosewater, acting chairman of the national committee, and Victor rose in his wrath.

"I'll give that fellow odds that Bryan does get a ticket," he said, and forthwith he procured two.

Then he sat down and wrote Col. Bryan as follows:

"My Dear Col. Bryan: It has come to my ears that an embarrassing story has been circulated to the effect that you will be denied an admission ticket to the Chicago convention. Not if I know it! Herewith please find enclosed two tickets—one for yourself and one for Mrs. Bryan." — Chicago Daily News.

HEROISM WAS DISPLAYED IN DISOBEDIENCE OF ORDERS

Members of the Columbia Yacht club recently entertained a "real hero of the sea." All unexpected, they listened to the tale of his heroism from the lips of another. The hero himself was among those most surprised. It was all an unscheduled number at a dinner given to the ex-commodore of the club, Capt. W. F. Pullam, for thirty-nine years a member of the navy and at present assigned to the naval training school at North Chicago, was among the invited guests. Ex-Commodore W. Y. Perry was one of ten or more former leading officers of the club to whom the dinner was being given.

Tales of heroism at sea were being told. Capt. Pullam was called upon to speak. The naval officer told of his many experiences during his long service in the navy. Toward the end of his remarks he related incidents and occurrences when he was at Annapolis on the training ship Constellation.

Perry Relates a Story.

Hardly had the applause at the close of his remarks ceased before ex-Commodore Perry jumped to his feet and demanded recognition.

"I have something to say, and I want to say it before I forget it," he said "When Capt. Pullam came here this evening I did not know him, but since he has told about the Constellation I know who he is. I want to tell Capt. Pullam something that he probably does not know.

"I was with Capt. Pullam on the Constellation. He was a lieutenant then. I am going to tell about something he did while a lieutenant on that ship that will surprise every one here. He disobeyed the orders of his captain and he was sent below for it. But he was a hero. He had the grandest reason on earth for disobeying orders. If he had obeyed the captain's command it would have cost the life of a sailor.

"It happened like this: Capt. Pullam, then Lieut. Pullam, was on deck. Suddenly the captain ordered him to square off one of the yards. The lieutenant looked up and way up in the rigging he saw a sailor. The lad was a 'greenhorn,' a new man, and he did not realize his danger. That fellow up there in the rigging would have lost his life if the captain's order had been obeyed. The lieutenant waited anxiously for the sailor to get out of his predicament, but the fellow seemed to be perplexed and had lost his bearings entirely.

Saw Order Was Not Obeyed.
"After a few minutes the captain saw that his order was being disobeyed. Without waiting for an explanation he ordered the lieutenant below. Lieut. Pullam faced a courtmartial. He had committed a grave offense—ignoring an order of the captain of a ship.

"In the midst of this scene, after the lieutenant—our guest here tonight—had been put in irons, the green sailor finally came down from his perch in the rigging.

"The captain then saw at a glance why his order had been disobeyed and he ordered the lieutenant released. Capt. Pullam didn't know me then. I was a cadet on that ship and I saw that act of heroism that has left a lasting impression on my mind. I thought then that it was a wonderful thing—the way he stood there and refused to obey his captain's order, knowing that in doing so he would cause a sailor to lose his life."

As the speaker finished he went up to Capt. Pullam and the two clasped hands.—Chicago Daily News.

SAYS THE CANAL ADDS NEW PERIL

CHICAGO, June 7.—"The preservation of this nation is at stake.

"The opening of the Panama canal will place the United States at the mercy of foreign countries.

"The establishment of a merchant marine under the direction of the United States postal service is the only protection.

"A canal from Chicago to the Mississippi river and the establishment of a through bill of lading from the middle west to any part of the world are needed."

The above statements were made by Chief Postal Inspector R. S. Sharp of Washington, D. C., yesterday afternoon in supporting his declaration to more than 100 business men gathered at the City club that the United States is at a critical point in its existence. His address was entitled "Transportation by Post."

"It is time we began to go and get some of the commerce upon the high seas," he said. "Ninety-five per cent of the products of our factories, mills and mines remain in the United States. Only 5 per cent of the total output is exported. A canal from Chicago to the Mississippi river, the establishment of lines of commerce with foreign countries and a bill of lading to foreign ports from Chicago are questions that should be taken up by every one of you business men. I ask what are you going to do when the Panama canal is opened. You don't possess the ships to receive any benefit from the opening of the canal. Ninety per cent of the commerce with the United States is handled by private deep sea service of foreign countries.

"Establish a mail service on the high seas. Trade follows the flag. Organize this service, place American shipyards along the coasts, compete with foreign shipyards and think of the unlimited prosperity that must follow. It will mean the employment of thousands upon thousands of workmen, coal must be furnished for these vessels. The preservation of this nation is at stake."

CUTS HER CAKE WITH A SWORD

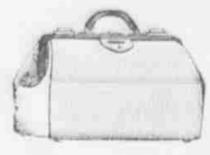

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 7.—

"When you are wed, Edna, cut your wedding cake with the sword of the father of your country. It will bring you luck and fortune. Treasure this blade with which Washington helped to win our independence."

These were the deathbed instructions of John La Bree to his daughter, just before he died four years ago. She carried them out to the letter yesterday when she was married to Harold A. Smith. The sword descended to the bride's father from his ancestor, John Hewston, a manufacturer of print called in Philadelphia in colonial days, and a warm supporter of freedom's cause when the revolutionary war opened. He became an ardent admirer and firm friend of Gen. Washington.

In appreciation of Hewston's loyalty Washington gave the sword to his friend. Since then it has been handed down. The blade of the sword is eighteen inches long and the handle of fluted ivory, encircled by a band of silver. On the band can be traced the outlines of a cross and anchor.

WILL HONOR MOLLY PITCHER.

NEW YORK, June 7.—A movement has been started to place in the hall of fame a bust of Molly Pitcher, the only woman sergeant in the United States army. Chauncey M. Depew is an enthusiastic supporter of the plan. It was in the important movements of the year 1778 that, at the battle of Monmouth, Molly Pitcher was carrying water to her husband, who was a gunner. He was killed and the lieutenant proposed to remove the piece, when the woman said: "I can do everything my husband could."

She performed her husband's duties better than he could have done.

The next morning she was taken before Gen. Washington, her act was reported and its influence upon the fate of the battle, which was a victory, caused Washington to make her a sergeant, to stand on the rolls in that rank as long as she lived.

DRIVES TEAM OF FIVE WOLVES.

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., June 7.—A team of five timber wolves attached to a small wagon and driven by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Damrel of Mellen, Wis., passed through here today bound for New York city. Mr. Damrel stated that he had caught two of the wolves near his home in Mellen, had raised the others and broken them to harness, so that they made excellent time over the roads.

MORE SOLDIERS TO GIBRALTAR.

GIBRALTAR, June 7.—Premier Asquith, First Lord of the Admiralty Churchill and Vice Admiral Princes Louis Battenberg, who arrived here yesterday on a tour of inspection left for England today after a brief visit to Tangier. In military circles the greatest importance is attached to this visit, as the fortress of Gibraltar is undermanned. It is thought probable that as a result of the inspection 2000 additional men will be sent here. Lord Kitchener and other generals have always been opposed to having an inadequate force in Gibraltar. The visitors inspected the dockyard, the magazines and the rock fortifications.

The case of Kaohimannu, charged with drunkenness, went over till tomorrow.

HOTELS OBTAIN
SPECIAL LICENSE

Special privileges under conditions voluntarily submitted by the applicants have been granted by the liquor commissioners to the Young, Moana and Haleiwa hotels, the Union Grill and Waikiki Inn. They will be licensed to serve intoxicating drink as follows:
Week days at six o'clock a. m. and close at one a. m.; Sundays, to open from half-past six o'clock until eight o'clock in the morning and from half-past eleven in the morning until two o'clock in the afternoon, and from half-past five in the afternoon until nine o'clock in the evening.
These privileges were granted over the protest of the Anti-Saloon League, which especially objected to the sale of liquor on election days, but it was stated that they never had served liquor on election days and they agreed not to do so.
Chairman C. H. Cooke was against granting a retail license to McTighe & Co. on account of its being a corporation.
Attorney Peters for Mrs. McTighe explained that the estate desired to dispose of the saloon, and it was finally agreed to issue a license to the corporation for three months, within which time the saloon must be sold.
Walter H. Bromley of Lynch & Co. was denied a license for the corner of King and River streets, Inspector Fennel and the Anti-Saloon League having objected to the location as being too near the fishmarket and the docks.
A renewal of license to the Prost saloon was denied.
Murikami's application for license to serve liquor in his restaurant at 629 School street was also turned down.
The commission authorized the issue of second class licenses to the following: P. E. Ryan, Occidental Hotel; Thos. F. McTighe & Co., Ltd., for three months; Charles Lamberg, Anchor saloon; Jos. Wind, Aiea; J. I.
Silva, Pantheon saloon; Nakatani &
Korisaki, Asia saloon.
A wholesale liquor license was authorized to be issued to F. A.
Schaefer & Co., Ltd.
The next meeting of the commission will be held tomorrow at four o'clock, at which time the Kilohana saloon has been cited to appear before the board to explain why its license should not be suspended because it furnishes liquor to a drunken man June 19. The question of issuing a license to J. P.
Medeiros of Waiakua will also come up tomorrow.

FOURTH OF JULY
PARADE PLANS

Acting under instructions from the general Fourth of July committee, Assistant Grand Marshal Norman B.
Courtenay and J. Walter Doyle this morning mapped out the route which will be followed in the big civic parade on the morning of the fourth.
The procession will form in the Capitol grounds. The Antiques and Horribles will form in the finished lot and the floats will come together in the lot adjoining the board of health offices.
The line of march from the Capitol will be along King street to Nuanu, and up this street to Beretania, traversing this thoroughfare to Miller street where the parade will enter the Capitol grounds and be dismissed after a review which will hold before the Ewa linal of the Capitol.
After the parade has disbanded, the comic section will return to be judged for prizes.
There will be a meeting of Grand Marshal Prince Kuhio and his aides this afternoon to arrange the details of the parade.
The Fourth of July committee urges those who require aid in connection with any plans for taking part in the celebration, to tell their troubles to J. Walter Doyle who is stationed at headquarters for this very purpose.

HARBOR BOARD
HOLDS MEETING

The board of harbor commissioners yesterday afternoon held a meeting at which financial and other matters were discussed. The closing of the contract for the Hilo wharf exhausted the board's funds, but Acting Governor Mott-Smith allowed sufficient from emergency funds to enable the board to keep up its routine work until it sets its share of the pending new loan.
The board accepted the deed to 1.30 acres of land on Maui as the approach to the new Kihel wharf, given by the H. P. Baldwin Estate. Ten dollars will be paid for the property. The plans for the wharf are ready and tenders for the construction of the wharf will be advertised for in a few days, to be opened late in July, when funds
may be available.
The Hilo Boat Club protested against power sampans traveling full speed in the harbor. The harbormas-ter was instructed to formulate a rule to govern speed of vessels in the harbor, taking up the matter with Major Wooten of the army.
The Hilo Boat Club, through Joshua D. Tucker, commissioner of lands, asked for a lease of one of three sites on the Hilo shore line. The board had no power to grant leases, but recommended to the land commissioner that his department lease one of the sites for twenty years for boat house purposes.
The board disapproved of making any change in the location of the Inter-Island company's floating dry-dock. It is to occupy the Ewa end of the Queen street wharf slip.

OPERA HOUSE

There was a mere handful of people at the Opera House yesterday evening to listen to Wilson Fritch's interpretation and reading of Master Beck's Blue Bird; a scattered few who listened in respectful and appreciative silence as the reader partially unfolded to their gaze the true significance and meaning of the wonderful allegory.
Although individually encouraging, from point of numbers the audience was enough to dishearten any artist who had to view the rows upon rows of empty seats which mutely asserted the fact that the citizens of Honolulu would rather see an impossible cowboy hero rescued from the hands of a bloody band of Indians by a manish short-skirted young woman via the moving-picture route than listen to the lines of a play which has made thousands think and undoubtedly caused many to lead less selfish lives.
The reader himself was both eliminated and forgotten by the deep meaning hidden in every line of the allegory; so full of food for thought that the listener finds his mind wandering far away and is only brought back with a start as a new allegory is brought in for contemplation.
There are so many possible interpretations of the Blue Bird that it is hard to say just what each figure stands for, exactly what the dramatist meant in each instance. The theme is the quest for happiness, the two children of the wood-cutter signifying the endless and hopeful quest of Mankind for happiness in which the search is prosecuted into the realms of darkness and far away places while the Blue Bird (Happiness) is really close at hand and consists in not looking for happiness but in trying to give it to others.
Mr. Fritch handles his subject well, without affectation or pedantry, and succeeds in tantalizing his audience with a realization of what it is missing by being unable to hear the drama unabridged.

TRAINING SCHOOLS WITH INDIAN INSTRUCTOR FOR SCOUTMASTERS

Four training schools for scoutmasters will be established this summer under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of America. The spread of the Scout Movement, the increase in the number of scoutmasters in one year from 2000 to more than 7000 and the growing demand of the boys for scoutmasters skilled in woodcraft have made it necessary for the leaders of the national organization to start schools in different parts of the country to equip men thoroughly for the work of leading the boys in various scout activities. Though the one scoutmasters' school at Silver Bay, Lake George, last year was attended by men from fourteen different states, the prospects are that the four different schools in different parts of the country will each have a greater attendance than the single school last year.

The aim of the schools is to instruct the scoutmasters in various phases of scouting including woodcraft. One of the picturesque instructors at the scoutmasters' training school that will be held in Silver Bay, will be a full blooded Sioux Indian. He is Dr. Chas. A. Eastman, "Ohiyesa," renowned as an author who has served as government physician for the Indians and served the National Government in other ways in helping the Indians. He will instruct scoutmasters in the art of scouting and of woodcraft as understood by the Indians. He will do still more. Because of his excellent education, his unusual intellect and his thorough understanding of the view point of the Indian and of the white man he will be of still greater service to the scoutmasters. He will lecture on the physical, mental and moral effect of civilization, will discuss the new Indian will talk about the school of savagery, of Indian boyhood and of the religion of the Indian.

The courses in these different schools are being arranged by Charles

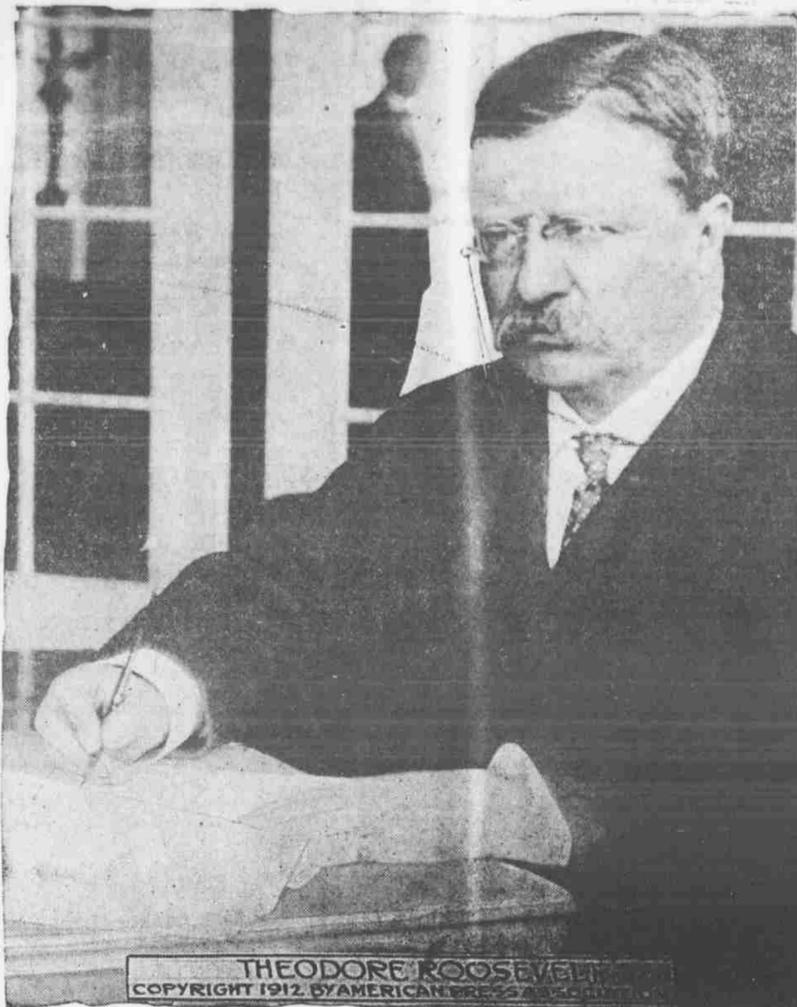

B. Horton, Director of Summer Schools and Camps, who is an expert in boys' work and camping. The first school will be held in Cos Cob, Connecticut, from June 29 to July 13, the country home of Ernest Thompson Seton, who has an attractive estate of 160 acres. There the scoutmasters will live in tents and will listen to lectures from persons skilled in scouting. Seton will lecture daily and will have charge every evening of the campfire assemblies. John Boardman will talk on the fundamentals of boy life and self-government. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, will discuss organization methods. Horton will lecture on the principles and methods of boy work. W. E. Longfellow, member of the U. S. Volunteer Life Saving Corps, will give instructions in the art of life saving. Other lectures will be given by Samuel A. Moffat.

The Blue Ridge School, Black Mountain, N. C., will be in session from July 5 to July 19. On the faculty will be E. M. Robinson, of the Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America; F. H. T. Ritchie, who assisted in the promotion of the Scout movement in Canada and managed General Baden-Powell's Canadian tour; C. C. Robinson, Y. M. C. A. Secretary of Boys' Work for the South; one of the Field Secretaries of the Boy Scouts of America.

The School at Lake Geneva will be held July 10 to July 24. Three men who have done great work for the Scout movement in Chicago and Cook County, F. A. Crosby, H. H. Simmons, and D. W. Pollard will be aided by a Secretary from the National Headquarters and by other men in the course there.

The School at Silver Bay from August 15 to 29 will be extensive. While all the instructors have not yet been selected, the faculty will be a large one and will cover every possible phase of scouting.

THE BIG "I AM" TALKS

THEODORE ROOSEVELT
COPYRIGHT 1912 BY AMERICAN PHOTO ENGRAVING CO.

NEW YORK, June 27.—In a lengthy interview given out last night at his home, Sagamore Hill, Bay, Long Island, Colonel Roosevelt gave a hint of the line of campaign he is planning. He is going to open fire upon the "Interests" as soon as possible.

"I am the only man now in public life who frightens the big, sinister interests which have for many years been battering upon the nation."

That, it is generally taken here, means he will conduct his campaign along the lines he has followed in his primary struggles.

He did not make any definite statement regarding the progress that is being made by the leaders of the Progressive party, nor would he refer to the fight that is being waged in Baltimore.

It was learned that he is in constant telegraphic touch with Hiram Johnson, Governor of California, Francis J. Heney and others of the Progressive faction at the Republican national convention.

He declined to make any comment upon the reported defection of Governor Aldrich of Nebraska.

The Awakening Of Formosa

By Chief Administrator Uchida of Formosa.

(From Tropical Life, London.)

[We have based this article on a translation, specially sent us by Mr. Sohichi Iida, of Yokohama, of the paper read by Mr. Uchida, chief of the Formosan administration, before the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce on March 15 last. As regards the subjugation of the wild tribes, the statements at times seem to contradict one another. Later on it will be seen Mr. Uchida himself speaks of 30,000 natives as being still wild.]

"It is with great pleasure that I seize the opportunity this evening of addressing you on the affairs of Formosa, and in order to do this to best advantage I will illustrate my abstract remarks with views in the concrete by means of my lantern slides. As a result of the 1894 war, Formosa became Japanese territory. Previous to this the island had for centuries been under the rule of China, to which it was a source of perpetual trouble. Originally the Formosan people came from the cantons of Fukien and Canton; they have always proved difficult to manage and rule, and every civil administrator placed in authority over them soon finds that he has been given a difficult task indeed. At the time when Japan was trying to obtain possession of Formosa, the late Li Hung Chang, discussing its management with the late Prince Ito, remarked that: 'Even when your country secures Formosa she will find her very troublesome to manage.' This will show how troublesome China must have found it to keep the Formosans in order."

The main cause of this chronic trouble in Formosa has been the uprisings of the wild tribes, and, therefore, if ever the island as a whole is to be brought under control, these tribes must be subdued and forced to obey the law. The natives appear to be reasonable and tractable so long as nothing stirs them up, but once on the alert through feeling aggrieved or aggressive—that is to say, once they make up their minds that they want to fight—they become regular highwaymen and bandits, and it is then very difficult to say which of the natives have caused, or are causing, trouble, and which are still quiet. The same way as the Chinese government had to put down the Manchurian bandits, so had the Japanese government to subdue the Formosans. This they were considered to have done by 1902. Hand in hand with this subjugation Japan pushed on with the opening-up of the land, and developing the agricultural resources of the island. Other industries were also arranged for and encouraged. At first, on account of trouble with the natives, the progress was slow. Both works were, however, pushed on with great energy, until success has been largely achieved. Today, thanks to this success, Formosa is now esteemed a great treasure.

The opening of the island marked an important epoch in Japanese history, for Formosa was the first colony Japan ever possessed. The troubles at first experienced caused investigations to be made in order to ascertain the best methods for governing the natives. As a result of this a special regulation was brought into force, placing her finance on an independent basis; this was Law No. 63, which

THE UNIT RULE IS ABROGATED

BALTIMORE, Maryland, June 27.—

The progressive Democrats won their first victory last night in a rousing fashion, and the convention went wild when the result was announced and cheered for thirty-three minutes. The vote was upon the unit rule, which has stood for years against all attacks. By a vote of 565 to 491 it was decided to adopt the minority report of the rules committee and abrogate the rule in all delegations from States where direct primary elections are held prior to a national convention.

Hawaii's delegation split upon this question as upon the vote on the temporary chairmanship. The delegation's vote was three for the minority report advocating the abrogation of the unit rule, two against and one absent.

One of the first results of the progressive victory was the worse confounding of the presidential struggle. It was immediately claimed by the followers of Woodrow Wilson that he would gain largely through the operation of the new rule. Most of his increased strength they declared would come from the Clark faction. Clark leaders denied this.

This new rule will not, it is said, hasten the nomination of a Democratic candidate. There is absolutely no hope that a selection will be made by the convention upon the first ballot. The struggle there seems to be growing more and more involved as the different interests begin to show their strength in tests.

Most significant in this connection was the tremendous ovation given the mention of Wilson's name. The convention rose apparently as one man and cheered for the Governor of

SLUICING FOR GOLD IN SIBERIA BRINGS MINERS SMALL RETURNS

IRKUTSK, Siberia, May 11.—We bade farewell to our host at Salalyeer and set out, in a brisk snowstorm, to Gavrielsk. Here we called on the "cabinetski" mine officer for the territory. He was out, but his wife gave us a warm welcome. She sent her pretty little girl, dressed in a long Holland frock, to get me some "kvass," a drink made from fermented mare's milk (that is in great demand in the Russia). It is like flat and slightly sour cider and assuages one's thirst, but it is scarcely a beverage to imbibe on its own merits.

Mrs. Nankin told us a curious tale about her house, a roomy one story log bungalow over 100 years old. It was a death house for pigs.

Animals Went Mad.

Poultry and ducks never lived for more than three weeks or so, and every one of the many cats and dogs she had tried to keep had gone mad within a few weeks. At that very moment a woman who had been a member of the household was undergoing the Pasteur treatment for mad dog bite at Tomsk university in the north. Her husband was inclined to attribute the trouble to the proximity of a long disused silver smelting works a few yards away. He thought that the silver tainted the water. Yet no human had experienced ill effect on that account.

Mrs. Nankin told us to come back to supper at the end of the afternoon and she saw us off to examine the gold sluices, a quarter of a mile down the creek. Here there were thirteen washing sluices, though, owing to the winter, only three were then in operation.

First the newly arrived sledge loads of "pay dirt" from the Salalyeer shafts are emptied into clay pockets, such as bricklayers use for mixing their lime. Then water is poured in and a man chops up the mess with a hoe into the consistency of thick soup. Every now and then he ladles some out on to the five by three foot plate of iron, sieved with rows of small holes, that is laid on the plank bed of the sluice, in a narrow channel of the creek. Two men with hoes then beat it about, crushing every lump of undissolved gravel.

When all has been "washed" or dissolved in the current of running water that careers down the sluice the water is dammed and the iron sieve plate lifted, clasp-acting to view a few handfuls of blackish sand that has sunk through the holes—by its heavy weight—during the washing. It is among this sand that lurk the tiny specks of precious metal.

A man squats at the foot of the sluice, a little hoe end in one hand, a stiff scrubbing brush in the other. Dearthly he disturbs the sediment, to which a small quantity of quicksilver has been added from a miner's phial, disturbs it in long, semi-circular sweeps that draw away the pebbles and the coarser sand, leaving at last a child's handful of fine, dark sand. This is taken up in a tin shovel. Glancing keenly into it, you spy, among the quicksilver, a few specks of very minute, glittering yellow—the gold.

It was fascinating to stand watching the whole process, from the unloading to the sledge to the appearance of the "find"—less bulk of gold than a pin's head! It is rather disillusioning. Most of us get into the habit of picturing gold mining as strutting about in a picturesque red flannel shirt, now and again striking the ground with a pick and picking up the nugget, as big as a walnut, that, of course, is exposed to view.

What do you think these Salalyeer miners make in the winter months? They work hard from dawn to dark and the division of gold pans out at about twenty kopecks of eight cents a day! Things are a little better in the summer, and a few years ago the men were making five and seven rubles ($2.50 and $3.50 a day.) They live on past memories; no one knows what may come up one fine morning from

New Jersey for more than half an hour.

Opium in Nippon Maru. SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Customs inspectors last night discovered twenty-five tins of opium on board the T. K. K. liner Nippon Maru. The tin was received prior to the arrival of the steamer here and she was searched from stem to stern by the officials as soon as she came in. The drug was found hidden in a hold.

the foot of the dark "pay dirt" shafts up the hill. Gold miners are very human.

Few Nuggets Found. Nuggets are rarely found on the Salalyeer workings. When they do occur they never run to a larger size than that of a raspberry. A day or two before our visit a nugget weighing half an ounce had been found, but it had contained considerable amount of quartz alloy.

I told the man of the finds at Klondike, the enormously wealthy pockets up the shores of Bonanza creek. As Tomberk translated, their jaws dropped with amazement and they ejaculated a chorus of admiring "ahs!" It takes a professional Siberian miner, slaving away voluntarily in the icy water at eight cents a day, to appreciate the Bonanza property. They asked if foreigners were allowed there, and when I said yes two or three dropped their shovels and for a moment I thought that the gold miners of Salalyeer were going to ask me there and then to escort a personally conducted party up to Dawson City. However, I assured them that they would do better by staying at home, by working upon their own rich Lena "papers," or even to persevere with their workings here, with the ever present possibility of five rubles ($2.50) a day, that would make them the envy of hundreds of Klondike prospectors.

When the little shovel containing the clot of gold bearing quicksilver the size of a quarter was handed back to the miner it was carefully taken down an inclined pathway into a dark underground hut, roofed with turf and snow. Here a man crouched over smoking embers heated the shovel. In five minutes the quicksilver had been consumed, leaving only a pinch of mealy, dull, crumbling gold. From an old lobster tin the shaggy miner produced a small pair of brass scales and weighed. With great care he got the accurate weight, tilted the dust into a tiny paper envelope and in the presence of another miner immediately dropped the envelope through the slot of a black can, the lid of which was closed and heavily sealed.

There is always an inspector of the leasing company present at the washing sluices, but his mission is rather a sinecure. The inspector cannot be at more than one sluice at a time and the men have ample opportunity of pocketing all the nuggets for sale, but they replied that this was forbidden. The inspector made the same remark, but added that at the "cabinetski" assay office at Borndol there is always a big selection of nuggets for sale.

FAMOUS OLD YACHT

NOW A FISHERMAN

NEW YORK, June 3.—The old ninety-foot sloop Pilgrim, which was built in 1893 for the defense of the America's cup, is now a fisherman.

She is equipped with two thirty-five-horse power motors as auxiliaries to her sails. She left Portland Harbor last week under power, and, although her power is smaller for a vessel of her size, she moved very quickly through the water.

The Pilgrim was in finked, boat-built from designs by the late George Stewart. She carried about seventy tons of lead, shaped like a cigar, at the end of a thin steel fin, and the hull was shaped somewhat like a canoe. At times she was remarkably fast, but she was not balanced right, and there was often trouble experienced in steering the boat. She had a habit of "taking the bit in her teeth," as a horseman might say, and going as she liked, regardless of the efforts of the man at the wheel to get her on her course. Yachtsmen on other vessels would always give her plenty of room.

She took part in trial races with the Vigilant, Colonia and Jubilee, and the Vigilant was selected to defend the cup. Afterward the fin and lead were removed, a house was built on the hull and she was used for several seasons as a steam yacht. Now she has gone the way of many other famous craft and is ending her days in trade.

The Vigilant has been broken up, the Colonia is now the schooner Corona, and the Jubilee is hauled up at the Burgess yard at Marblehead. She has stood on the beach for several years and receives one coat of paint each year to keep her from rusting.

CHANGE MADE IN BREEN

Breen saw the ring in the shop window and immediately went in to purchase it. As he was examining it another man asked to see a lady's ring. Breen was a little startled when he heard the man say that he wanted to make a birthday present to his wife.

Breen then remembered that tomorrow was his own wife's birthday—an event he had not celebrated with any gift for ten years. For a moment he was tempted, but he promptly decided that the idea of buying a present for her was not to be considered. She had enough to be satisfied with. He must appear up to date in every way, and this latest style ring would add to his appearance of prosperity.

"I'll take this," he said to the clerk. The other man joined in, saying: "Yes, and this will do. Please write this on the inner package."

Breen saw the word "Sweetheart." With a half grunt he turned away, thinking to himself that a man forty years old ought to be over that foolishness. He did not think of the ring until well on his way home. He refused to confess to himself that the thought of what the other man had done had rather made him feel ashamed of himself. By the time he reached his home any good nature that had been his when he started was exhausted.

Mrs. Breen opened the door, but his answer to her gentle greeting was short. A swift shadow of pain went over her face, but she said nothing. She had a delicious supper ready for him and he thawed out for a time, but in the midst of comfort he thought of the ring and a scowl went over his face.

Breen looked across the table at his wife, but he knew she would give him no opportunity to work off his ill-humor. She looked slight and girlish to him, but she had faded during the last year, though he had had much of her work done for her. The roses had fled from her cheeks, leaving a pallor that distressed him.

"Aren't you feeling well?" he asked, shortly.

"Why, yes, Richard," she said.

"Why?" "Oh, you look—" he began, but he saw her dark eyes upon his and the blood leave her lips; "you look a little weary, I guess." She looked at him in silence and he read the unspoken thought in her eyes. "What I was thinking was that you ought to do something to live up. You're growing old too fast," he added, grimly.

She put down the cup she was holding. "Richard, please, please don't say such things. Perhaps you don't mean them as you say them, but—but they hurt," she said. Her eyes suddenly clouded and Breen knew the change was the forerunner of tears. He shifted the conversation.

Later in the evening he tried to soften his words and manner, and immediately, as always happened, she brightened under the change. Just before they retired he had drawn the ring from his coat pocket, when he heard his wife call: "Richard, what day of the month is this?"

He started and wondered whether or not she had asked that with a purpose. The thought irritated him and he again saw the happy face of the man who was a purchaser in the jewelry store. "What do you want to know for?" he asked, shortly.

"Oh—I—just," the rest trailed away in a sort of frightened manner.

He slammed the box down on the table and entered the bedroom. At last he fell asleep, but he was angry at his wife, himself and the universe in general.

In the morning he heard her moving in the kitchen; then she went into the lounging room. A moment later he heard an odd cry. She appeared at the door holding the box containing the ring. The rose color was in her face, a light in her dark eyes, her lips red. Breen sat up, startled by the change. She came up close to him swiftly, and he saw she was breathing fast, her bosom rising and falling under the plain waist.

"Oh Richard, you did remember it was my birthday, didn't you?" she half whispered.

Staggered by the question, fascinated by the look in her eyes, his own dropped, and she, evidently regarding that as sufficient answer, bent and kissed him.

The fearful truth smote him when she showed him the word "Sweetheart" and kissed it. In dumb silence he watched her strip the cover off

HAS A PLAN TO PROLONG LIFE

PARIS, France, June 11. — Prof. Metchnikoff of the Pasteur Institute has explained to the Academy of Sciences that the first step has been taken toward the prolongation of human life, a subject to which he has devoted years of study. He believes that he has proved that old age is chiefly caused by two poisons, picrotoxin and indol, which are generated in the intestines, inducing such diseases as arterial sclerosis, cirrhosis of the liver and interstitial nephritis.

The professor has also found that these poisons are nullified by sugar and hence the task before him was to find a bacillus capable of living in the human intestines and producing in them. At last he believes that he has succeeded. The "bacillus glyco-bacter," cultures of which he has obtained in the intestines of dogs, is the tiny organism wherein the hopes of man's longevity are at present centered.

Experiments have been made both on rats and human beings with excellent results. Prof. Metchnikoff is therefore confident that he will be able ultimately to transform the intestinal secretions from their normally noxious condition into a state of beneficial usefulness which may add years to the life of man.

W. C. REDFIELD WOULD BE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, June 4.—William Cox Redfield, representative in congress from one of the Brooklyn districts, has announced himself as a candidate for the nomination for vice president on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Redfield is a business man of large means and is an expert on the subject of the tariff. He was elected to congress without much regard to political affiliations.

GOLF, TENNIS, BATHING.

Nothing is more invigorating than a game of tennis or golf and nothing more refreshing at the close than a dip in the ocean where the beach is free from coral like that at Haleiwa. Visitors pronounce it the best in the islands and the management of the Haleiwa Hotel are confident that the judgment passed by tourists is correct. At a cost of six dollars and fifty cents one may journey to Haleiwa on the limited Saturday afternoon and return by the same fast train Sunday night and that covers all expenses at the hotel and for transportation. It is a cheap trip and many persons are taking advantage of the low rate.

BRIEF YARNS.

Col. Faulkner of Texas was walking along the road one spring morning when he met an old colored man proceeding slowly on his way to the village to secure his stock of tobacco for the coming week. "Well! Uncle Primus! How are you?" asked the colonel. "Yas suh, yas suh, thank you suh, Marse Faulkner, yas suh. Ah is feelin' fine. Ah dosen remember as Ah evah felt no better in mah life, but sum way ruther Ah seem to be gittin' tu de tahm of life w'en Ah lookin' fer de low spots in de fence."

Overheard in a San Francisco cafe: "Well, now," said the man from Humboldt, in the wide brimmed hat, "doesn't George's flop surprise you?" "It jarred me, all right," replied the man from Sacramento. "Why," continued the Humboldt man, "I've knowed George, man and boy, for more'n fifty years, and I would 'a' swore he was the real stuff; but I reckon if George had been on the Titanic somebody would have forced him into a boat."

At Belfast a football match was played between Ireland and Scotland. One of the Belfast supporters, who was getting excited, kept shouting out: "Sit on 'em, Ireland!" An old Scotchman in the crowd, unable INTERESTING BITS.

It is contended by Prof. Boas of Columbia that the skulls of immigrants to this country are changed in shape by the second generation. This idea is now attacked in many quarters, one scientist insisting that under this theory the children would not inherit even acquired characteristics—they would acquire them—and Prof. Boas' notion that they tend toward a single fixed type is contradicted by the fact that in America there is no fixed type among the native born of many generations.

THE AWAKENING

also required that all moneys needed for the development of Formosa must be raised in that island. In 1905 the revenue sufficed for the expenditure, and the island has been self-supporting ever since, but previous to this she had received Y.30,000,000 (£3,000,000 sterling). Her foreign trade amounted to Y.5,000,000 in 1897, Y.8,000,000 in 1898, and Y.85,000,000 (ten-fold more) in 1910.

This increase was entirely due to bona fide development in the various industries, the principal being rice, tea, sugar, camphor, etc., exported to Japan and elsewhere. Hitherto Formosa has given two rice crops annually, and, if adequately manured, her present output of 440,000 koku (koku equal 5 bushels) will show a promising increase. The tea is mainly exported to America, which takes some Y.3,000,000 to Y.4,000,000 out of a total export of Y.5,000,000 to Y.6,000,000. Oolong and folded leaf are the chief varieties produced. With sugar Formosa is the chief supplier of Japan's requirements, her exports thence amounting to Y.35,000,000, and these figures will steadily increase. It is probable that Formosa will, in a few years, be producing 600,000,000 lb. This sugar industry, therefore, promises to become an important one, not only for Formosa but for Japan as well. Camphor to the amount of some Y.5,000,000 is produced annually, whilst the production of fruit is becoming important, that for bananas alone amounting to Y.350,000. As the results of the rubber-planting experiments proved satisfactory, trees are now being planted on a commercial basis whilst forestry, cotton, sericulture and hemp production are also receiving attention. Today, Formosa imports Y.30,000,000 from Japan, and exports hence Y.50,000,000.

Of Japanese residents in Formosa, there are perhaps 12,000 to 13,000 officials, and 20,000 private individuals engaged in business. Administering affairs in Formosa has benefited Japan in many ways, it has added to her prestige, increased her trade, and given her colonial experience. The latter she has found of great use lately in forming her colonial policy in connection with Chosen and Manchuria.

Up to now it is roughly estimated that 45 per cent of the area of Formosa has been reclaimed from its wild state and opened up. In fact, therefore, of the amount of trade arising out of this portion, the resources of the remainder, and more so of the island as a whole, can well be described as being exceedingly rich. The reclamation, however, of the remaining 55 per cent will become an exceedingly difficult task, and may cost much money and many lives to bring about. The savage tribes (today must number 120,000, of which perhaps half have been subdued on paper; but of this half 30,000 can not be described as anything else but wild, although they may not be savage.) Meanwhile the government is doing its utmost to bring them under control, but owing to the mountainous nature of the land, some of the peaks being of immense height, any punitive forces or expeditions sent to open up the country are forced to undergo great hardships, but the final developments, it is hoped, will be brought about before many years have passed. Mr. Uchida concluded his paper by urging Japan, and especially his audience, i. e., the merchants of Yokohama, to increase and improve communication between the two centers (Japan and Formosa), as by such means will the trade between them best be increased; sugar and tea being of special interest to Yokohama and her merchants.

*From other reports we understand the wild tribes are far from subjugated still. Perhaps we misunderstand Mr. Uchida's translation.

In this matter Japan and America can watch and aid each other. Japan can learn from America how she is civilizing the wild tribes in the Philippines, and America can compare Japan's methods in Formosa with her own in Manila and the surrounding islands.

RUBBER PLANTING IN FORMOSA.

According to The Sugar Industrial World, of Tokio the government of Formosa, a few years ago, planted several kinds of rubber for experimental purposes. The results were satisfactory, and led to further planting, until today the cultivation is regarded as one of the most promising industries in the island. One advantage was soon noticed, namely, that returns from rubber came quicker than they did from camphor, the chief industry heretofore. This has caused a considerable number of plantations to spring up around. The Manihot (we presume M. glaziovii), Hevea, and Rambong seem to do best. One of the large sugar companies is reported to have planted a considerable area under Manihot the year before last. The growth of the trees is described as being very good, a height of 15 ft. being spoken of. At Hozan one planter is launching out to a considerable extent, and is expected to do well, whilst at Tarpoh a number of business men are arranging to form a company to plant rubber on a much larger scale.

BALKANS PLAN WAR ON TURKEY

BERLIN, June 7.—The visit of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria to Berlin is likely to have an important influence on the delicate situation in southeastern Europe if the information reaching certain diplomats here is correct. It is the understanding in local political circles that Bulgaria and Serbia have entered a secret agreement to co-operate in aggressive action against Turkey in the event of certain contingencies arising from the present war between Italy and Turkey.

Information received here indicates that Russia has given assurances that it will interpose no objection to such an undertaking. The object of King Ferdinand's visits to Vienna and Berlin is believed to be to sound the Austrian and German governments as to the attitude they will take in such a contingency.

While it is considered certain that both Emperor Franz Joseph and Kaiser Wilhelm will seek to discourage any adventurous enterprises on the part of the two Balkan states, King Ferdinand doubtless would be content with assurances of their neutrality, as the other powers are not in a position to offer effective opposition. The result of his mission is accordingly being awaited with some uneasiness.

HON. WILLIAM FLINN OF PITTSBURG WHO BOOMED ROOSEVELT AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 11.—William Flinn of Pittsburg, former Pennsylvania state senator, is acting as chairman of the vigilance committee for the Roosevelt candidacy here. Flinn, a sixty-one year old. He has dominated the party machine in his section for many years and knows the political game well. He is a millionaire, much of his wealth having been made in public contracts. Before Roosevelt became a candidate Mr. Flinn was a supporter of La Follette, and the records show that he contributed $5000 to the senator's preliminary campaign fund.

People who express a willingness to do anything in the world for you may be the first to back away when you ask a small favor.

SALE OF GENERAL LEASE OF UPPER POUNALA, EWA, OAHU.

At 12 o'clock noon, Monday, July 8, 1912, at the front door to the Capitol Building, Honolulu, there will be sold at public auction, under Part V of the Land Act of 1895, Sections 278-285 inclusive, Revised Laws of Hawaii, a general lease of the land of Upper Pounala, Ewa, Oahu, containing an area of 810 acres, more or less.

Upset rental $405.00 per annum; payable semi-annually in advance. Term of lease 15 years from July 1, 1912.

All boundaries to be fenced. Purchaser to pay cost of advertising.

Reservation regarding land required for agricultural, homestead, reclamation, settlement or public purposes, and the further conditions that the rents of all lands withdrawn for pineapple cultivation to be fixed by arbitration, will be embodied in this lease.

All persons desiring to object because these lands should be homesteaded or otherwise, are requested to present such objections to the Board of Public Lands, in writing or in person, on or before Friday, June 28, 1912.

For maps and further particulars, apply at the office of the Commissioner of Public Lands, Capitol building, Honolulu.

You Can't Be Happy With a Headache

Probably more pleasure is spoiled because of headaches than from any other cause. When your head aches it not only makes you unhappy but it is very apt to interfere with the pleasure of everyone else around you. One can't be expected to be very cheerful and pleasant when one's head is simply splitting. And there is no need of suffering. Keep a box of with fingers that trembled with their eagerness and slip the ring on.

"It's just lovely, Dick; just lovely!" she cried, holding it up so she could view it better.

After she had kissed him again Breen lay back to think. Evidently the clerk who had done the packages up had mixed things. Both rings had been identical in shape and size. The mistake had placed Breen in a position that was anything but desirable.

Breen's attention was drawn to the kitchen. His wife was singing softly. As she stood in the doorway he saw she was a girl again, pretty and happy as on the day he had brought her to his home. He lay back and cursed himself for missing the happiness that might have been his.

In the midst of his thoughts the bell rang and Mrs. Breen answered it. "Dear, there's a man who wants to see you—very, very much. And his voice sounded—what's wrong, do you suppose?" she said.

"Nothing, little girl"—how good the old phrase sounded—"I'll take care of him," he answered, throwing on his clothes, but there was a chill in his heart. He knew who the caller was—the man who owned the ring.

Breen stopped him before he could begin to talk and shut the door. "Please speak softly," he said.

The man, who introduced himself as Owen, eyed Breen curiously, but he plunged into his errand the moment the door closed, explaining what Breen already knew. "Now, if you'll shift—" He pulled Breen's ring from his pocket.

Breen's heart went down to zero. "I wish I could keep that ring you bought," he began in a chummy way.

Owen's eyebrows went up. "What for? Why, man, I got that for my wife, and the girl's heart would break if I missed a birthday. I haven't for twenty-five years!" he exclaimed. "Have you the ring?"

Breen explained everything and did not spare himself. Owen's eyes were hard as he listened at first, but they became gentle as Breen proceeded.

"The fact is, Owen," he said, "if I ask for that ring now I'll come so near breaking her heart that there will be no chance of mending it again. I've realized this morning what a comfortable car I have been these years. I want to start today and take a brace, and that ring's the big thing. She's—" The sound of her low singing came to them. Owen nodded. "Now," Breen said slowly, "I'll pay you twice three—"

"No, you won't! It isn't the money. I must have the ring, or—" Owen said, seeing the look on Breen's face, "one like it—that's it! Got a phone? I'll call up the jeweler and get him to go down to the store with me. There's a duplicate there of this ring. I'll get that. Blake will make a fuss, seeing it's a holiday, but he'll go. Yes, if you wish to make out a check. I guess my wife wouldn't object to your having the ring anyway, if she understood. I can fix it. Where's the phone?"

A little later Owen came back. "All O K, Breen. I've got my car out here and can make the whole thing in a jiffy. Breen, it's none of my business, but make her and keep her a sweetheart. Good-by."

Breen stood in silence as the door closed after the handshakes, nor did he move until the door opened slightly and his wife came in swiftly. "My dear, everything is all right," he said quietly, drawing her tight into his arms and pressing her against him. "I have decided we'll go and visit Steadman, who has asked us. Then in the evening we'll go to some play and then—" a slow gleam burned into his eyes, "you watch the change in Richard R. J. Breen!"

MOREY HAS KIND WORDS

FOR ALLEGED SUGAR TRUST
NEW YORK, June 11.—Chester S. Morey, president of the Great Western Sugar company and chief organizer of the beet sugar industry for the late Henry O. Havemeyer, testifying today in the government suit to dissolve the so-called sugar trust, put the American Sugar Refining company in the light of the savior of the industry in Colorado during the panic of 1907.

Mr. Morey said the beet crop in that state was extra heavy that year, and that the Great Western company had no cash to pay for the product it had contracted for.

Banks in Denver had ceased to loan cash and the situation was such that he could see no way in which the farmers were to get their money. He finally secured a loan of $5,000,000 in cash from the American Sugar Refining company, he testified.

It appeared from Mr. Morey's testimony, however, that an independent factory at Grand Junction, Colo., had been unable to raise cash. This factory finally issued certificates redeemable in sugar at the end of the campaign or cash at a later date, he said.

These certificates fell into the hands of sugar wholesalers at much less than their par value, he continued, and the result was the wholesalers procured their supply of sugar at a price much lower than it was worth.

BANKS OBJECT TO NEW COINS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—Banks have raised a storm of protest to congress and the treasury department against the proposed coinage of three and half cent pieces. The new coins, it is contended, would revolutionize commercial mechanical devices for Cash drawers and registers, adding machines and counting machines would have to be changed and it would be necessary to rule another column on ledgers to accommodate the fractional piece.

The treasury department has abandoned the idea of a fantastic half cent piece with a scalloped edge in case congress should order the new coins. Financial institutions protested that the coin should have an even diameter.

The constant popular demand for new glistening coins has caused the United States government to resume the coinage of gold, although the proportion of bullion which the treasury is authorized to hold in its vaults has not yet been reached. Director of the Mint Roberts said that the government should always be in position to meet panic conditions, with ample margin to receive all the gold bullion offered for immediate exchange for coin. The stock of gold in the reserve and trust funds of the government amounts to about $1,184,000,000 in coin and bullion. One-third of this amount, or nearly $395,000,000, according to a law passed by congress last year, may be held in bullion. Only $201,000,000 is now in bullion, however.
