TEACHERS CONVENTION HELD AT KAPAA FRIDAY

All the school teachers of the island of Kauai met at the convention held in the Kapaa Masonic Hall on Wednesday, and the teachers from the North and South districts were represented, and these three were not attended by the teachers who were absent from the school at the time of the convention. The convention was held in the evening, and the principal business was the election of the school board. The teachers were well received by the public, and the meeting was a success.

KALIHINWAI HAS A BURGLARY CASE

The quick town of Kalibwai was struck by a burglary on Wednesday morning, as a result of which a large sum of money was taken. The burglar was discovered by the police and arrested. The police are now investigating the case and will report to the district attorney.

PULPIT AND THE SCHOOL TEACHER

For the text at Libby Union Church, Rev. L. F. Lanthroff took his text for the 2nd Term. In common with some of the other churches, the Sunday School Teachers held at Kapaa a few days ago and was very well attended. The meeting was conducted by the Rev. L. F. Lanthroff, and the pupils were well behaved.

SHEBA'S TRIBUTE TO MR. DEMSTER

Announcement of the death of Mr. Sheba, the celebrated horse of the racing club, is in receipt of the following interesting letter from Mr. Sheba's stable:

Hosomine, Jan. 12th, 1918.

Edith Biddulph, Editor:

It is with much sorrow that I have to announce the death of my favorite horse, known as Sheba, which occurred on the 10th instant. He was my best horse and I shall miss him much. May his memory live forever.

Yours truly,

Sheba's Master.

Jacobsen-Honnau

The wedding of Miss Margaret C. Honnau and Victor J. Jacobsen, another of the dashing couples of Honolulu, was solemnized in the Catholic church in the city on the 5th inst. They were married by the Rev. Father J. P. Weis, and Miss Lillian Honnau, sister of the bride, and Mr. H. H. Honnau, formerly of Kauai, were the witnesses.

Kalaikau, W. C.

The election of supervisors is an important one, and the candidates are well known to the residents of the district.

KALIHINWAI'S TIMES TO COME

At a meeting of those having to work on the night shift, held at the office of the Kalihinwai, it was decided that the Kalihinwai Times will be published on Sunday night, and that the newspaper will be issued on a weekly basis.

PHILIP RICE AT ROADSIDE CONVENTION

Philip Rice, who addressed the Good Roads Convention in Chicago last year, is now the delegate of the Kalii Chamber of Commerce, which is a complete report of the convention, he said, which he has sent for the information of the local organizers.

In a letter in regard to the discussion of the convention, Mr. Rice says:

"What interested me most was the discussion of the modern road makers, the machinery and equipment, the planning of the roads. Many manufacturers and sales companies exhibited their work, and the exhibits of roads and road construction are the "best things," consisting of short sections of permanent roads, and the like. The Kalii Chamber of Commerce expects to have a delegate at the next annual Good Roads Convention, which is to be held on the 5th of November. It will be held immediately for an exhibit similar to the one at the State of New York, the State of Arizona, and the State of California. The exhibits consist of samples of photographs of roads, before and after improvement or paving, showing changes of grades, changes in types of bridges, in surfaces of roads, etc. Such exhibits could be prepared at a minimum of cost, and could be exhibited at the exhibition with an ordinary booth and equipment furnished with the gift of enthusiasm. An exhibit of this kind costs comparatively little, but is of great importance to the cause of road improvement and the progress of a community."

Many Hunters Out

A number of natives were out hunting, searching for game in the wooded hills.

Among the natives who were out hunting were:

Chief H. L. Kauai, who is in charge of the hunting party.

Mr. N. K. T. Kauai, who is also in charge of the hunting party.

Others were seen out yesterday morning, hunting for game.
EACHERS CONVENTION

THE PRINCIPAL

It is a common practice, and it is believed that the principal is in the best position to handle the problem of the individual pupil, both in regard to his welfare and conduct. The principal should have the authority to determine the extent of the problem and the nature of the treatment required. He should be in a position to take action to correct the problem.

A principal's duties have been described by the Department of Education as follows: "A principal is responsible for the general administration of the school and for the welfare of the pupils. He must be able to exercise his authority in a just and equitable manner, and for the purposes of carrying out the policies of the school he is authorized to employ such personnel and facilities as may be necessary to carry out the work of the school." This definition is quite broad and leaves much to interpretation.

In a large number of cases the principal is the only official in the school who is responsible for the behavior of the pupils. He is the person who is responsible for the discipline of the school and for the welfare of the pupils.

An effective principal works closely with the faculty and the parents to ensure the best possible education for the pupils. He is responsible for the planning and implementation of the educational program of the school.

Necessary is the existence of some sort of system of automatic inspection and evaluation of the performance of the faculty, to be supervised by the principal, which is the best means of securing the cooperation of the principal and the faculty.

It is not only desirable but necessary that the principal of a school should be adequately trained, that he should have a wide knowledge of the problems of education, and that he should be able to understand and interpret the problems of education.

A principal must be able to understand and interpret the problems of education, and that he should be able to understand and interpret the problems of education.

A principal must be able to understand and interpret the problems of education, and that he should be able to understand and interpret the problems of education.

A principal must be able to understand and interpret the problems of education, and that he should be able to understand and interpret the problems of education.

A principal must be able to understand and interpret the problems of education, and that he should be able to understand and interpret the problems of education.

Software Plans to Cut Out Sugar

The following is a translation of a letter recently written by the German Minister of Agriculture, and indicates that the very large portion of German beet sugar will be converted to raw sugar.

There will be a large stock of sugar on hand at the beginning of the next campaign. To meet this situation, and to establish enough sugar in even small plots of trees, one-half the domestic production is used for home consumption, and at present economic conditions may be taken into consideration. Therefore, a large portion of the sugar beet area will be used for planting cotton necessary for supplying the needs of the people and more important than sugar beets. This applies also to the area used for raising sugar-beet seed.

The land which will thus be released will be used, first, for anti-insect sprouts and second, for barley and oats. In the production of cotton we are very high, and will remain so during the war the planting of which will be as profitable as the planting of sugar beets.

Attention is also called to peaches. There is great demand for peaches, but difficulties of transport and sales is causing them to be sold at a high price, and the smaller varieties are very small; therefore, next year this situation will be able to the planting of them. The larger-beet fields are well suited for early peaches.

Very important also is the planting of cotton. In normal times large quantities are imported early in summer. On account of the war this importation will be practically impossible, imports usually taken place in the beginning of June, July, and August, when the weather of food supplies has become most pressing, and therefore, the planting of potatoes ought to be encouraged.

Port Allen Shipping

The Mission steamship Hawaii arrived this morning from the mission in Hawaii, bringing nearly 2,000 tons of freight. She will likely call at Hilo tomorrow for Kanapali, carrying 2,500 tons of sugar and 600 cases of provisions.

The freight Colliers will arrive at Port Allen on Friday, bringing the following goods for this week: sugar, about 1,000 tons, coffee, about 2,000 tons of sugar. Her destination is not very definite, but it will be one of the islands.

A New Scheme to Bring Tourists

Philip Hall, son of the late W. W. Hall, of Honolulu, who established a tourist bureau in the Central Hotel, is in partnership with Mr. Alfred, visited business men at Kaaiala last week in the interest of his new enterprise.

The scheme of Mr. Hall is an old one on the mainland and is well known to the traveling public. It takes to the work of promotion committees where that work is done, and looks after the actual work of booking and seeing the tourist through different routes of travel. In other words, executives are actually carried and arranged for under the auspices of the scheme.

Mr. Hall returned to Honolulu yesterday morning, stating that he is sufficiently alert on the Kauai situation to enable him to arrange and sell off tours successfully.

For two years Mr. Hall was in charge of similar work at Honolulu and while there succeeded in reducing the travel prices of the tourist train in the Orient and establishing a far more satisfactory system, which is still in force to this day.

Growing Young Tired Winter

If we could reverse the clock of time and set it back in its original position, we say that we must put our lives in such a way that we could have more energy and enthusiasm. For if we did not we could not be successful in anything that we would attempt to do.

But perhaps if we would sit down and look into our own lives and see what we have accomplished, we might find not such an insurmountable obstacle in our way. Indeed we might find that during the first fifty years of our life, we had been working long and hard, but not always with the greatest of energy. And the second fifty years of our life, we have been working just as hard, but we had not always had the energy to do so.

And this is not difficult. The chief difficulty, generally, is that we are too old to do the work that we want to do. And it is difficult to change our habits, and to develop our energy. For if we were to start tomorrow, we would not have the energy to do it. And even if we did have the energy, we would not have the time to do it.

But if we want to grow young again, let us take up some small task that will bring us new interests and new joys, and let us work at it with all our energy.

We should forget the past, and not worry about the future. For if we do not, we will not be able to do what we want to do.

Therefore, if you want to grow young again, let us take up some small task that will bring us new interests and new joys, and let us work at it with all our energy.

And let us not forget that we have the power to do what we want to do. If we do not, we will not be able to do what we want to do.
