Mala Wharf Will Be Ready To Use In Early February

Bigelow Visits Two Maui Projects and Is Especially Enthusiastic As To Kahului Wharf Plans.

To see the progress making on the Mala and Kahului wharf projects, Lyman H. Bigelow, head of the harbor board and the board of public works was on Maui Saturday and proceeded on to Hilo Saturday night to look into subjects connected with the harbor projects there. He expects to see Mala wharf in use early in February and is enthusiastic as to the Kahului wharf project.

Mala wharf will be able to accommodate vessels of the size of the Hydades and might, at a pinch and in good weather, berth the Manoa, Bigelow says. The proposed lengthening of the wharf for which an additional loan fund appropriation was made, has been held in abeyance owing to the fact that the bonds were not sold. It is not too late for such work to be done and will not be too late until E. J. Lord, the contractor removes his equipment. Such lengthening would accommodate at the wharf steamers of a still larger type.

Proposed Additional Unit

After the contract for Mala wharf was let, Lord proposed to add a unit at what seemed a very low price because of his having equipment on the ground. The proposal was endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce, sanctioned by the harbor board, an additional appropriation made therefor and then the matter ended for the bonds were not sold. It is regarded as improbable that Lord will take his equipment away before the wharf is ready for use and so, if immediate action were taken it would be possible to add the other unit at this time. Otherwise the wharf will stand in length as at present.

Bigelow says the rapid work done by the contractor should mean that passengers may step from steamer to wharf by the first week in February. There have been reports, however, that the Inter-Island might refuse to use the wharf because of alleged wash and swell alongside it, but there have been no confirmation of any such reports.

Kahului Project

As to the Kahului wharf project, it will be some time before pile driving starts. At present riprap work is going forward steadily. As to that project Bigelow is especially enthusiastic and says it will be one of the finest wharves in the territory. It will be so located and constructed he says that it may be extensively lengthened and increased in size at any time desired or necessary when funds are available. He does not believe, however, that its capacity will need to be increased for a long time to come for it will be one of the big wharves of the territory.

There have been differences of opinion as to the location of the wharf and the matter of dredging but Bigelow maintains that even if the pier head line had been changed in Kahului harbor as was proposed, the necessary dredging would still have had to be done by the territory, not by the federal government.

Roads of Maui To Be Mapped By Pilot Car

Every traversible automobile road on Maui will be charted together with complete data including photographs for the purpose of compiling Hawaii's first automobile book. Lorrin A. Thurston, president of the Advertiser Publishing Co., Ltd., John F. Ness, assistant manager and Alfred Williams, staff photographer arrived in Maui this morning on the steamer Kilauea for the purpose of gathering data and information on Maui. New maps are also planned by Mr. Thurston.

The party is travelling in The Advertiser Studebaker Pilot Car which has been driven more than 3000 miles on charting expeditions and with the completion of Maui's roads, the information necessary to the publishing of the blue book will be complete.

Every tenth of mile will be charted and routes so laid out and arranged in numerical order.

The first lap on the trip was started this morning. The party left Wailuku for Lahaina where they will chart routes in this section.

Each Case of Picketing Is Dependent on Circumstances

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The supreme court in deciding the appeal of the American Steel Foundries Company growing out of the strike at Granite City declared, that organized labor has no right to picket when such picketing may involve impurity. The court further declared that "no" broad rule regarding picketing can be laid down as each case must be considered to determine if restraint and intimidation are involved."

Harding Presents His Annual Message to Congress in Person

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Harding delivered his annual message to congress personally this morning and said in part:

"I am very grateful that I can come to congress with a republic that is at peace and equally grateful to report that there are daily growing assurances that we shall achieve permanency in the peace we so deeply cherish.

"Our task would be less difficult if we had only ourselves to consider, but so much of the world is involved that no permanent readjustments can be effected without consideration with our unescapable relationship in world affairs, finance and trade. It will be unworthy of our best traditions if we are unmindful of the moral and political conditions which do not directly concern us but appeal upon our sympathies and the interest of a people blessed with our national good fortune.

"It is not my purpose to bring to you a program for world restoration. Such a purpose must be mainly worked out by the nations most directly concerned. They must turn to heroic remedies for relief from the menacing conditions. Then we can help them and we mean to help them.

Gleason Cannot Promise Any Great New Activity

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

HONOLULU, Dec. 6.—Patrick Gleason, the new prohibition enforcement officer says that he does not expect any particular activity more than in the past until advice are received from Washington and more funds made available for law enforcement.

The Anti-Saloon league is sending a petition to Washington asking for 13 assistants for Gleason in his efforts for prohibition enforcement.

Harbor Board Waits For Expressions On Wharf Tolls Plans

Wharf tolls are provoking general discussion throughout the Territory though as yet neither the Maui nor Honolulu chambers of commerce have expressed themselves on the subject to the harbor board, says Lyman H. Bigelow, chairman of the board, who was on Maui Saturday. Kaula approves the tentative plans, Hawaii did not and in Honolulu sentiment as expressed in the newspapers seem favorable to them.

Most of what opposition has been offered has come from the fact that the proposed tolls will go into general territorial funds and not into a special fund to be expended by the harbor board. The last legislature made appropriations for wharf maintenance, etc., before congress authorized the territory to collect tolls, so funds derived from that source would naturally go to the Territory.

Bigelow expressed himself very much in line with the editorials in this paper on the subject of moneys going into the territorial fund instead of a harbor board fund. The support, maintenance and upkeep of the wharves and the interest on the bonds and sinking fund for redemption all have to be provided by the Territory. Tolls will be paid by the users of the wharf and go into general funds making it unnecessary to raise by taxation so much for harbor maintenance and bonds interest as formerly. As Norman Lyman has been quoted as telling the Hilo Board of Trade it was "six one way, half dozen the other," and nothing to make a fuss about, and Bigelow agrees.

The other Islands will fare better than Honolulu under the proposed tolls, Bigelow admits. They will have to pay tolls only one way over the wharves, either in coming or outgoing, the one on imports, the other on sugar and pine chiefly from Maui. But freight that goes to Honolulu and by importers there is shipped to the other Islands would pay tolls coming into Honolulu, going out and again on crossing the wharf at their other Island destination. Of course the tolls ultimately fall on the consumer and would not be large but it might encourage more direct shipments from the mainland to Maui, Hawaii and Kaula.

As to the proposal for a toll on the value of the goods, Bigelow said the board considered that subject and believed its proposals as submitted to the various civic organizations was the fairest that could be arranged.

REFINED SUGAR DROPS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—The California-Hawaiian Sugar Refining Co., this morning announced a reduction in the price of refined sugar from 5.7 to 5.4 cents a pound.

MRS. UNDERWOOD DIES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

BIRMINGHAM, Dec. 5.—Mrs. F. V. Underwood, mother of Senator Underwood of Alabama, died here today, her death being caused by heart trouble.

Four Handed Entente Reported as Pending

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A suggested four powered entente between the United States, Britain, Japan and France has so far progressed that a tentative treaty is definitely under consideration in some quarters.

Indications are that the Japanese and British are consulting their governments. Apparently the Americans are not considering the proposal but may do so later if it does not involve obligations and requirements which would run counter to general public opinion.

It is understood that the plan has been arranged under the American arrangement under which treaties are ratified by the senate.

It is reported that the proposal is the reason for the delay in reply from Tokio relative to naval armament ratio.

Next Year's Crop to Be 80,000 Tons More Than 1921 Outturn

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

HONOLULU, Dec. 6.—Estimates of the 1922 sugar crop were this morning given out by A. M. Nowell, secretary and general manager of Sugar Factors Company.

An increase of 80,000 tons over last year's crop is forecast, 521,000 tons as compared with 441,000.

By Islands the estimates are Maui 121,300 against 114,000, Hawaii 192,000 against 139,700, Oahu 109,400 against 100,000 and Kaula 98,200 against 88,200.

Disorder Starts In Meat Packers Strike

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6.—Mayor Burton told a crowd of meat packing house strikers and sympathizers last night that unless they dispersed the militia will be called out. He said the Industrial Court had given him until today to show that he can handle the situation.

Approximately 45,000 workers have been called out in the various meat packing centers of the country and 14 concerns have been preparing immediately to replace those who walk out with non-union men.

Reports from St. Paul this morning told of several clashes there between pickets and intending workers. The sheriff said he would break the picket line and the strikers said that no strike breakers would be allowed to pass.

Bar Association Is For Andrade as Judge

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

HONOLULU, Dec. 6.—The Hawaii Bar Association today endorsed Frank Andrade for circuit court judge to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Cornell Franklin, thereby endorsing the action taken last week by the Republican territorial central committee. His was the only name presented.

W. F. Crockett of Maui was elected to membership in the association his name being presented by Clement K. Quinn, former judge of the circuit court at Hilo.

Law Found Guilty of Embezzling By Jury

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

HONOLULU, Dec. 6.—Fred W. Law promoter and stock salesman, who was extradited from the mainland on charge of embezzlement of $300 from Lorrin Andrews and has been on trial in the circuit court for the past week, was found guilty as charged by the jury last evening.

Andrews charged that he entrusted Law with $300 to pay a note and that Law did not take up the note.

HELIUM IS USED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The naval dirigible C-7, the first airship ever inflated with Helium non-explosive gas arrived here for inspection by naval authorities. A quick trip was made by the dirigible, it having left Hampton Roads this morning. The C-7 contains virtually the entire world's supply of Helium gas.

ANARCHY FEARED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dec. 5.—Chaotic conditions are prevalent throughout Venezuela, reports say, as the result of the serious illness of General Juan V. Gomez, for many years virtually the dictator of his country. It is feared that anarchy may develop in the event of his death.

Fancy Dress Ball on New Year's Eve Will Be Event of Season

Biggest of the social affairs on Maui of the 1921-22 season will be the annual fancy dress ball New Year's eve given in the Territorial Building by the entertainment committee of the Maui County Fair & Racing Association for which plans are already under way by Chairman Joe Meinecke and his committee. The success of last year's ball was followed by the proposal that a fancy dress ball on New Year's eve be made an annual Maui event and the proposal has been adopted. It will naturally be held in Territorial Building.

Twenty-five days is none too long to plan out costumes for the New Year's eve jollification and already the minds of numbers of the fair sex and not a few mere males is turning to the time honored subject of what to wear. Last year the competition for the prizes was keen and some of the costumes showed marked beauty and originality while still others displayed signs of keen sense of the humorous and the ludicrous on the part of the wearers. There will be prizes awarded this year as there were a year ago but Chairman Meinecke had ideas for making the prizes more useful and more attractive. A list of the various classes of costumes for which awards will be made will be announced soon.

It is not to be a masked ball though that idea has been considered but that will not detract from interest in the affair nor in the subject of what shall be worn. There is as wide a scope of choice and as much liberty unmasked as masked and there is not the long wait for the unmasking to determine definitely who is who.

As to the ball itself and the arrangements for it, they are certain to be all that can be asked for Meinecke and his committee have shown abilities in that direction sufficiently in the past and have learned a little something from experience on each occasion.

Arbuckle Jury Hung By One Woman Who Was For Conviction

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—Roscoe Arbuckle, motion picture comedian whole trial ended in a disagreement of the jury with one woman juror holding out for conviction, waived preliminary examination in the federal court today on charges of having violated the prohibition law. Later he left for Los Angeles.

After 41 hours of deliberation the Arbuckle jury was discharged owing to inability to agree. The foreman of the jury said one woman was for conviction from the start, refused to consider the evidence and said she would "stay for conviction till hell freezes over."

Retrial has been set for January 9. Assistant District Attorney Milton Uren stated that he will bring before the grand jury a charge of intimidation of Mrs. Helen Hubbard, one of the jurors. Uren said Mrs. Hubbard asserted that Gus Oliva, a San Francisco commission merchant, approached Mr. Hubbard with a view of inducing to use his influence to change his wife's vote from conviction to acquittal. She declared that Oliva threatened to ruin her husband financially if his instructions were not carried out.

Rescuers Helpless As Passengers Burn

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—Would-be rescuers stood by helpless while victims burned to death in wooden railroad cars following a head on collision of trains on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad near Woodmont yesterday during a heavy snow storm. The death list is 25 of whom most were burned to death and the list of injured is placed at 39 many of whom are seriously burned.

Two passenger trains came together head on in the blinding snow storm and almost immediately the wreckage took fire. The sufferings of those confined to the ruins were terrible and the rescuers were horror stricken at their helplessness.

Funeral Services Held Without Body of Hero

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Funeral services for Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey, hero of the "Lost Battalion" were held yesterday. A crowd of more than 1000 persons attended the simple ceremonies. Colonel Whittlesey, who had brooded much over the past war, especially since the rites for the "unknown soldier" on Armistice day, took passage on a steamer bound for Havana and disappeared while on voyage. It has developed that shortly before his departure he had drawn a will leaving his entire possessions to his mother and had written a note to a warm friend saying that he would never return.

Agreement For Ireland To Become Independent State Reached In London

After Hope Was Practically Abandoned of Solving Problems Settlement Is Arrived At In Early Hours of This Morning.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Agreement was reached on the Irish situation at 2:20 o'clock this morning after a protracted conference at the residence of the Premier after hopes of a settlement had been practically abandoned for two days. Lloyd George saved an apparently hopeless situation at the eleventh hour at the conference called after a full meeting of the cabinet had been summoned. The Irish delegates will meet the Irish Committee of the cabinet on Saturday morning. The terms of the agreement are to be submitted to Dail Eireann, the Irish parliament and to the British parliament meantime.

It is reported that the government made important modifications to its proposals and the Irish delegates then conferred with their colleagues. As a result the conference was resumed at 11 o'clock last night and continued for nearly four hours.

Cabinet officers said that the terms of agreement will be made public. Collins, after the conference, when asked if he had anything to say, replied: "Not a word."

Joyous Morning Surprise

England and Ireland awoke this morning from troubled sleep and despondency over the Irish question to learn from the journals the news of the sensational and wholly unexpected agreement reached by the conference in the still small hours of the morning.

Yesterday it was considered that negotiations had failed and all that was hoped for was to prevent renewal of open hostilities and bloodshed, and the achievement at the somber little home of Lloyd George on Downing street after an all night struggle seems likely to be chronicled as the most momentous event in the history of the Irish-Anglo relations.

While the agreement still must be submitted to the British parliament and the Dail Eireann for ratification there is a disposition in all quarters of London to regard the outlook as of the brightest.

The Standard says the government's proposals for the Irish settlement provide for an Irish free state, for the withdrawal of the military and give safe guards which insure peaceful conditions in Ireland.

Reported Terms Outlined

The Central News says that the Sinn Fein definitely promises allegiance to the British empire which is said to be satisfactory to the King since it involves Ireland's association with the empire. Both sides are bound by the agreement to recommend it to their respective parliaments and the consent of Ulster is not required because she is permitted to withdraw in one month, reverting to her present status with a territory to be determined by a boundary commission. A provisional government for South Ireland will be formed while the British government is considering the agreement.

Recognition of Ireland as an independent state is said to be clear. On the subject of allegiance a form of words was found which was satisfactory to the government. The Sinn Fein principal adopted by the government is said to have been that of trusting Ireland fully and giving her full power of decision without conditions. It is understood that the agreement concerning the control of Irish ports by British naval vessels is satisfactory to the Sinn Fein.

The agreement was signed for the British by Lloyd George, Austen Chamberlain Churchill and Lord Berkehead and for Ireland by Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and R. C. Barton.

Parliament this morning adopted unanimously the draft of the agreement and congratulated Lloyd George and his colleagues on the success of their endeavors.

Points At Issue

The big questions at issue between the British government and the representatives of the Irish Republican parliament have been:

Shall Ireland become entirely independent or, if it remains within the British empire, shall there be two separate governments in Ireland, one for Ulster and one for the rest of the country?

Prime Minister Lloyd George has refused to consider any proposal which would put Ireland outside the Empire.

The Sinn Feiners refused to admit that Ireland should be split in two parts.

Ulster refused to unite in one parliament with the Sinn Feiners. It has organized a parliament of its own under the Government of Ireland Act.

The Sinn Feiners refused to set up a parliament for the South of Ireland, as proposed in that act. They adhered to their own Irish parliament, called the Dail Eireann, which they had set up independently as the governing body of the Irish Republic.

That was the situation when the truce began last July, after King George had made a conciliatory

Ulster Again Enters

This brought Ulster again into the negotiations and compelled Premier Lloyd George to defer his trip to the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament so that he could devote his time to an effort to overcome Ulster's hesitation or objection to cooperate with the South of Ireland in any form of common government.

The general understanding was that the Sinn Fein delegates insisted that there must be no partition of Ireland into the North and South with different relations to the empire.

To reconcile these conflicting views points, Lloyd George invited Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, to come to London in the first week in November to talk things over. The situation was so delicate that Sir James desired the support and advice of other Ulster leaders and finally all the members of the Ulster cabinet were called to London. Unionist opinion in England has been steadfastly against any "coercion of Ulster." It was generally conceded that only one of the most difficult stages of the negotiations had been reached.

SPORTS

High School Eleven To Meet St. Anthony On Gridiron Friday

Maui High school football eleven will meet the St. Anthony squad in one of the first inter-scholastic football games to be seen on Maui at 10 a. m. next Friday morning on the Wailuku gridiron.

Not only will it be the beginning of a new departure in that branch of sport but it will also be the first appearance of the St. Anthony eleven in competition. Looking forward to the game for some time past however the eleven has been hard at work in drill and scrimmage practice and reports are that they are ready for a creditable display.

The high school squad has been seen in action twice this year in class games and those that attended the games need no further introduction to this team for further assurance of the good brand of sport they are able to put forth. The scores of their previous games stand out as marked evidence of the speed, pep, and class shown by the High School eleven. The first meeting between the Sophomores and Freshmen resulted in a 0-0 tie and the second in a hard earned victory for the "Sops" by a single touchdown and goal, 7-0.

The coming game which is proposed to be but one of a series for inter-scholastic championship is a furthering of the plans of the Athletic committee to promote a greater interest in local sports of all branches and particularly so in scholastic centers. These efforts by the committee go well and ably aided by the Alexander Settlement House are constantly moving forward and one of the many results probably more noticeable than others is the better sportsmanship and cleaner play that is constantly being brought to light in all sport meets of any nature that are held on Maui.

Captain of Marines Writes of Aloha His Team Has For Maui

Grateful appreciation on behalf of the members of the Marines football eleven and expressions of the most kindly feeling for Maui and her people is expressed in two letters received here last week, one to Joseph Meinecke, manager of the Paia Maroons and the other to L. C. Lewis, manager of the Wailukus. The letters speak for themselves of the spirit of good will that has been created and follow:

"Naval Operating Base, Pearl Harbor, T. H., November 30, 1921.

"Mr. J. Meinecke, Manager, Paia Maroons, Dear Mr. Meinecke:

"The U. S. Marine Football Team takes this opportunity to thank you, and all of the football players of your team for your exceeding cordiality and kindness to us in our recent visit to your beautiful island. We have learned that Maui is truly entitled to the proud boast, 'Maui No Ka Oi' and that for sportsmanship and hospitality, Maui leads by far any community we have ever been so fortunate as to visit. It is difficult to find words in which we can express the pleasure we have experienced in the recent unforgettable week nor can we forget the many friends we have made.

"With the compliments of the Marines, we are enclosing sets of two pictures, taken by our photographer, in order that you and each member of your team may have some remembrance of our visit; and assure you that it is our greatest desire to renew our acquaintances with you in the near future.

"Most sincerely yours, THE U. S. MARINE FOOTBALL TEAM, 1921.

"Per G. A. EKLUND, Captain."

"Naval Operating Base, Pearl Harbor, T. H., November 30, 1921.

"Mr. Lewis, Manager, Wailuku Blues, Maui.

"My Dear Mr. Lewis:

"The U. S. Marine Football team wishes to thank you and all of the football players on the team which you represent, for their splendid sportsmanship and their hearty support to us in our recent visit to your 'Valley Isle.' We came to Maui, strangers, and we left there feeling that we have been long friends. Nothing can be said that can adequately express our feelings of friendship for you and for your team, and for all the people whom we met while visitors in your midst.

"Not only in our relations with the football teams of Maui have we been surprisingly pleased, but also with the way in which all of the residents of Maui whom we have been so fortunate to meet, and especially those in whose homes we visited. It is very seldom the lot of the servicemen to be so royally treated.

"Your island is surely entitled to their motto 'Maui No Ka Oi' and it is our fondest hope is that we will be able to renew our friendships in the near future. We enclose a set of two photographs as a memento of our sojourn with you. We also enclose similar sets for each member of your team.

"Very cordially yours, THE U. S. MARINE FOOTBALL TEAM, 1921.

"Per G. A. EKLUND, Captain."

Sports Brevities

(Do'ins O'the World)

Fred Fulton the former contender for the world's heavyweight boxing title knocked out Carl Morris in the fourth round of a scheduled 15 round bout in Winnipeg.

Milburn Saylor, who won considerable fame as lightweight pugilist some time ago was killed in the railroad yards at Lafayette, Indiana on November 21.

The receipts of the Stanford-California annual gridiron contest are well over the $200,000 mark, it was announced by the graduate managers office after a preliminary check had been taken. Over 57,000 persons saw the game.

Football teams composed of the Japanese students at the Stanford University and the University of Southern California will meet in Los Angeles during the Christmas holidays and play a game, the winners to be known as the Japanese football champions of the world.

The Inter-Collegiate hockey games of the East this year will be played by six men teams instead of seven as formerly. A series of games will be played this winter between Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Columbia and Dartmouth.

John Weismuller of the Illinois Athletic Club, has set a new world record for the 100 yard swim in a 60 foot tank. Weismuller set the new pace at 52 3/5 seconds, the former record was 54 flat held by Perry McGillivray also of the I. A. C.

It's always well for a football player not to criticize the gridiron. If he does not like it there's nothing to prevent him bringing his own along.

Tennis

Further postponements of all matches scheduled in the All-Maui Championship doubles and the Settlement Club's men's singles. In the latter Eddie Tam is scheduled to play Caleb Burns this afternoon, the winner to play the winner of the Harold Chang-Atan Yee match.

Handicap Novice Tournament The first handicap novice tournament is to be pulled off on the Settlement Tennis Courts beginning next Friday, for a great number of younger boys, who, for sometime, have displayed great skill in the tennis game. The following drawings were made by the committee, which comprises the first round of this tournament:

Benny do Rego (class A) plays K. S. Chun (class B.)

Ah Yun Yee (class C) plays Walter Garcia (class A.)

Ah Wai Yee (class D) plays Ah Po Wong (class B.)

Bunny Garcia (class D) plays W. Y. Young (class A-plus.)

The finals tournament are to be played on Tuesday, December 27. A beautiful "Spalding" tennis racket has been donated by Frank J. Weissblatt, physical director of the Alexander House gymnasium, to be given to the winner of this tournament.

ST. ANTHONY DEFEATED

St. Anthony's aspirants for football honors to be won in the coming game to be played with the Maui high school eleven on Friday went down to defeat Sunday at the hands of a pick up team composed of Wailuku boys. When the fray was ended the "Saints" were the possessors of a goose egg against the Town teams score of 13.

HONOLULU FOOTBALL

Sunday, December 4, Navy 14, Palama 0. University of Hawaii 7, Schuman Town Team 9.

Basketball

At a meeting of the basketball committee held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Saturday afternoon the program for the coming East Maui Championship season was adopted. Friday, December 23 will see the initial series game to be played in the Wailuku gymnasium as will be all others.

There being six teams entered in the league this winter, it has been decided to play two games on each Tuesday and Friday evening. In that manner the season will be brought to a close about the middle of February at which time the Oahu season will also end thus permitting an inter-island series of games should that be desired at the time.

Considerable interest has developed in this branch of athletics this year and that added with the competition given it by the entrance of so many teams should go far in drawing the support of the sport loving fans on the Valley Isle.

Here is the East Maui Championship basket ball schedule, subject to changes:

December 23, Friday—Alerts vs. W. A. C. Kahului vs. Sports.

December 30, Friday—M. H. S. vs. Punene, W. A. C. vs. Kahului.

January 3, Tuesday—Sports vs. M. H. S., Punene vs. Alerts.

Extract from letter and message of Theodore Roosevelt, September, 1917.
 Boy Scouts, I want you to count in the game of life. I want you to count now when you are boys, and I want you to count when you have grown up and become men. No man is entitled to a privilege if he does not perform a duty. You can't, any of you, enjoy the privileges of a Boy Scout if you stay out and don't do any of the work.

Theodore Roosevelt one of our greatest Americans saw the real worth of the Boy Scout movement to this country. He who was so close to the danger that affronted our country, realized that the training received in the scout program was capable of making real live red blooded Americans. Too many of those who have become used to seeing our boys in the scout uniform, think it is but a program of amusement.
 The scout program is one of constant training along lines that make for future men. Men who will be well qualified to fill positions of trust and honor. On my Honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my Country. This is the foundation and key note of the scouts life. He must not fall down or fail. His Oath and Law are kept constantly before him. In his daily walk he must do at least one Good Turn.

Puunene No. 9
 Puunene is the baby troop of Maui, but the splendid showing which these scouts are making in test advancement will soon put them up in the leading troops. Enomoto the scribe is doing splendid work in his Scout Record Book and at the same time is at the head of the troop in passing tests. The commissioner makes a prophecy that he will be a second class scout by the end of February. Going some.
 Scoutmaster Spencer is taking a great interest in his bunch and is a go-getter for test.

Lahaina No. 5
 Still to the good with the largest troop and the biggest attendance. Every fellow up on his toes to make a record. Next Thursday night will be given over to tests in first-aid, kims' game and indoor field meet.

Puunene No. 2

quota. This is a splendid showing and one that Puunene should be proud of. This troop is also making a splendid showing along the line of gardening at school. It is a great pleasure to see these many fellows at work with the pick and hoe. Keep your eye on Puunene.
 Puunene, rah rah, Puunene rah rah, Hu ra, Hu ra, Puunene rah.

Kipahulu No. 4
 Six indoor meetings and two outdoor meetings held at Kipahulu during the week that the commissioner was in Kipahulu. This bunch certainly has wonderful staying and digestive powers, and the comm was put to his best to keep up programs for these hungry youngsters.
 A different program was carried out at each meeting and even then they did not have enough. Scoutmaster Joe Passoth certainly has a dandy wide-awake bunch and is heart and soul in the work.
 Pyramid building is one of the games in which the Diamond F boys shine a three high is pidding for them. One rehearsal on a pyramid and they know it.
 Every moment of his stay was enjoyed by the Comish and then some. Father, mother and boys are all interested in the troop and it is like one big happy family. The Kipahulu scouts are to be congratulated on having such people as these over them. Here's to Kipahulu.

Hana No. 8
 We gave Hana a little write up in the paper a short time ago, but even though it rained and rained, it didn't even dampen the ardor of these youngsters. Scoutmaster Hawkins received a bunch of shelter or pup-tents from Honolulu and had promised an outdoor camp for the bunch on Saturday night while the commish was with them. But Saturday morning it began to rain and it rained and rained and rained and then some. That night the scouts showed up to learn that a camp was impossible. "Impossible" nothing doing. They put up the tents in the community house and slept on the floor. They were not going to be cheated out of the chance of sleeping under a real army pup tent. Not on your life.

Paia No. 1
 Paia troop meeting on Friday night was a busy scene. All the scouts were either preparing for or passing tests. Troop committeeman Brown Brown was present and gave the troop a short talk on saluting. They are now busy in getting ready for registering for 1922.
 William Chalmers and John Santos passed their tenderfoot tests.
 William Homalu passed 2nd Class first aid and Phillip Puliateck completed bandaging for 2nd class test.

Snaps
 The commissioner received a letter from the scribe of troop four, Honolulu and also short letters from all the members. They were holding a birthday celebration for their assistant scoutmaster, Clifford McGrew who was a first class scout when the commissioner left Honolulu. Many of the new members as well as the old ones wrote to Pop in commemoration of Mac's birthday. It was a great treat to Pop.
 A copy of the yearly report from Honolulu was received at the Maui office and shows wonderful growth.
 Mr. Robley the present executive is doing splendid work. It looks as though the Honolulu bunch are setting a record for the rest of the Boy Scouts of America, to follow.

Black Will Continue Prevailing Motif in Parisian Fashions

PARIS, Nov. 3—(Associate Press Mail)—Black remains supreme in the fashion world of Paris. Despite a severe onslaught by advocates of color, the supreme council of style has been forced to retain the conventional black as the dominant motif of all fall and winter modes and there is every indication that colors, except in minor trimming effect will not be able to challenge black until late spring.

Adopted at a time when economy was the guiding idea of all feminine purchases, black has come to be regarded as the most becoming color. French women say it is alone in lending itself to striking effects.

Dressmakers quietly gathered together before fall and winter models were given to the world and tacitly agreed that colors should have a chance. The adoption of black was hurting them financially. One black gown, carefully selected, took the place of two or three dresses of different colors.

But the French women who are indicators of the newest developments in style, said a very emphatic "No." The demand this fall was for black and the big dressmakers bowed to the inevitable. Crepe Moroccan, velvet and perline are the most popular materials.

The corset makers however, have been slightly more successful in their efforts to bring the corset back into its own. Dressmakers are insisting that corsets are now necessary to give the "uncorseted look." This propaganda has succeeded in some instances but most French women, having fought and won their freedom, are loath, in the language of a famous French actress, "to jail their bodies again."

There are four definite features of the fall and winter modes: a very long waist line, longer circular skirts with full sides, eccentric sleeves of gay colors and the famous Bateau neck line.

Brick red had been used extensively as trimming and some green steel ornaments for hats, purses, dresses and even shoes are the newest thing in novelties.

Door knobs and nail head effects are used in making girdles. In the case of shoes the usual order of things has been reversed and the smartest shoes in Paris are "knicker-bocker" shoes, with large steel buckles.

These shoes look more like American shoes than anything ever before worn by French women, although the French last is retained. The short stubby toe has disappeared in stylish French footwear.

Black again dominates in hats, felt being the best liked materials. Crowns are much higher and the fall hats are so big that they interfere with dancing. Smaller hats will be worn with fur coats later in the season.

Circular earrings, usually a circle of jet or ebony within a larger circle, are worn by the best dressed women this fall. Novelty shops cannot make them fast enough. Some women wear very large ones, almost cantablistic in effect.

Gay color has its only opportunity in evening gowns for young girls. These are made in the brightest of colors but the evening dresses worn by their mothers and older relatives are black. The Empire period has given the inspiration for the youthful evening dresses this year, making wearers look like venerated ancestors. The skirts are large, full with hips extended.

Journey to Australia To See Total Eclipse

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
 SYDNEY, New South Wales, Nov. 26—Delegations from all over the world will come to Sydney on September 20 next year to witness the total solar eclipse, according to communications received from the Lick Observatory of the University of California. The Alleghany observatory of the University of Pittsburgh; and the Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain.

Australia contains the most favorable points of observation and Professor Cooke, the government astronomer and the surveyor-general are now deciding upon the most suitable sites for observing the phenomenon. It has been suggested that the observatory of Harvard university, now in Arequipa, Peru, should be transferred to Queensland because of the belief that conditions here would be more favorable than those in Peru.

Belt Road Work—Contract for the further work on the Oahu belt road has been let to E. J. Lord, the lowest bidder and the contractor for the work that has been done already.

THE WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

In its fourth week nothing has arisen at the Washington conference to destroy hopes that big and important things may be accomplished. Progress may appear to have been slow but there has been strong evidence of a deep and sincere desire on the part of all the conferees to achieve actual results. Such indications augur for ultimate harmony of purpose and without complete harmony there can be little or no achievement.

Japan's attitude has been one of the noteworthy features of the proceedings thus far. She is seeking to continue a greater naval building program than was mapped out by Hughes in his proposals but it is not at all improbable that the Japanese will yield gracefully to a plan for naval strength of 60 percent that the United States and Britain. The Hughes proposal may have to give way in some details of minor importance.

In Far Eastern questions, more especially those relating to China, the attitude of the Japanese has thus far been a decided surprise. Reports indicate that they are yielding to various Chinese demands with a readiness and grace that was not expected. Britain and France also appear to be falling into line and the hopes of China have reason to rise. Sentiment is crystallizing for a new and different attitude of the nations toward the Chinese republic and, if only internal differences be arranged, the nation should make marvelous progress.

Land armaments have as yet had little consideration and with the exception of what fortifications shall be retained in the Pacific is of little interest to the United States, directly. Suggestions for the disarmament of the Philippines and of Hawaii coming from Japan are not likely to receive serious consideration. Such fortifications are distinctly defensive and not in any way offensive, other than that they defend bases of supply. It is not the purpose of the conference that any power shall so lay itself open that it would invite attack from another power. As has been repeatedly brought out, disarmament is not suggested and President Harding's remarks should make that clear.

But it is a long way out of the woods at the conference yet. Many things may arise to throw a note of discord into the harmony thus far prevailing. There is reason for strong hopefulness, not for over-confidence.

MAUI'S HARBOR PROJECTS.

In the word brought by Lyman H. Bigelow, superintendent of public works, that he expects to see passengers stepping from steamer to wharf at Lahaina early in February, there is much of cheer for all Maui and not merely for Lahaina. The Mala wharf project is important to Lahaina and West Maui but it is of hardly less importance to Central and East Maui.

Any one who has made the trip between shore and steamer on a dark night with a Kona wind blowing can understand why the Valley Isle has fallen so far behind in tourist travel. There are times when the trip in the small boat is a pleasant experience and there are other times when it is anything but pleasant. No one can wonder that the mainlander should hesitate to make arrangements which necessitate a "landing on the beach through the surf."

It is true that the Mala wharf will not be quite the length that was contemplated when an additional loan fund appropriation was secured for which the bonds have not been floated but it is a big achievement to have secured a wharf large enough to accommodate vessels the size of the Hyades. If that is large enough to meet the needs of the shippers, that is all that Maui should now ask. If not, there is still time for the floating of the bonds to add to the length of the wharf. Honolulu has just floated a large bond issue at home. Maui has made possible the two big harbor projects, Mala and Kahului and, at a pinch even in times like the present, could probably secure a little more cash for bond purchases. The necessity or rather views as to the necessity, however, rest largely with the shippers.

As to Kahului wharf, there were delays in making the start and it will be some time before its completion but Superintendent Bigelow classes the project as one of the best in the Islands and one that is not limited in possibilities for growth and further extension.

And best of all; more reason for pride and satisfaction is found in the fact that Maui has these projects because she went after them, not because she sat back and waited for them. It was the Maui spirit of self help that brought them about.

HAWAII AS A COLONY.

Reports from Honolulu quote Walter F. Dillingham, one of the Emergency Labor Commission, as having said at a meeting of the Rotary Club, that he is in favor of a colonial policy for Hawaii, of the putting of its affairs in the hands of the state department instead of the department of interior, in short of a surrender of territorial rights.

Others than Dillingham are said to favor the change and it has been suggested that Hawaii would be much better off as a "possession" than as a territory, that all revenues coming into it would be spent here for improvements and governmental expenses, customs revenues, income taxes, etc., instead of going as now to Washington. But as yet there has been no announced plan that would show such results from the proposed change.

Admitting, however, that Hawaii would have its roads built for it under the proposed change, it still remains a question whether it wants to thus sell the rights it secured when it gave up self rule to enter the nation of states and territories. So far as desire for statehood goes, there is little of it among the thinking people. It would gain a vote in the house and two in the senate at Washington but at a tremendous price in cost of government and taxes to be raised. Instead of a delegate without a vote it might have, as have the Philippines, a commissioner who does not even have the right

THE OPTIMISTIC PESSIMIST

Some people make trouble for themselves and others just accumulate it. There is no difficulty attaching to either method.

***

More people ask advice for the purpose of hearing what others will say than with the intention of following it unless it happens to be just what they want to hear.

***

It is only when the story is commendable that any one save a fool wants to be the central figure in it. The trouble is that consequences are not considered until too late.

***

When ambition gets off on a side track it usually has to back up onto the main line again for few side tracks connect up at both ends.

***

If gossips would talk over the good qualities of their neighbors they might not have so much fun out of it but the old world would be better off even though the fear of gossip does keep many a weak and wobbly one upon the straight path.

***

Many fail for lack of making an effort to succeed. Lack of confidence is as much a fault as overconfidence.

***

Not only is selfishness a moral disease but it breeds physical disease in the human body, loses friends and entails much other misery.

***

One cannot avoid responsibility for one's words. Once they are spoken they speed like bullets from a gun, sometimes striking an unintended mark.

***

Some call it fate, others luck, others by other names but one's own acts of the yesterdays build all that one encounters in the todays.

***

Many a supposedly devout person makes the mistake of thinking that the Lord needs his advice and that his services are not demanded.

of speech without vote in congress, should a "colonial policy" be adopted.

That there might be advantages by the proposed change this paper does not deny, nor does it admit the advantages would outweigh the disadvantages, but the main issue is that Hawaii surrendered self government to accept a certain status and that such status should not be changed without the expressed consent of her people, the consent of the governed.

Judge Ross of Hilo after investigating juvenile delinquent conditions in Honolulu returned home convinced that home care is best for the delinquents. Quite so. Each Island needs a home for its delinquents properly conducted, and not a central institution or institutions, like the territorial penitentiary in the capital city, Homes for delinquents should be for rescue, not for punishment.

Hilo teachers propose a pension arrangement under which all teachers would pay in 3 percent of their salaries and the territory contribute an equal amount. How would those teachers who come with the intention of staying only a year or at most two, feel towards such a proposal? It must be admitted a large proportion of the teachers from the mainland have no intention of staying long enough to participate in a pension fund.

Whether or not Senator Harry Baldwin would sacrifice his business interests to accept the delegateship Maui News does not know and it doubts if he would, but this it does know, that if he did accept he would make the strongest and staunchest representative of Hawaii at Washington that could be secured in the Islands.

Rev. J. O. Warner on his return to Honolulu from Maui where he organized a prohibition enforcement committee said that liquor flows freely on Maui. No news in that and the same is said in newspaper stories from the other Islands. If sentiment against liquor was manufactured a quarter as fast as is the illicit booze, progress toward enforcement would be rapid.

THE TREND OF BONDS

The trend of bond prices is now upward in response to the gradual easing of the money situation and the consequent lowering of interest rates. It is probable that many years will elapse before money will again have such a high purchasing power in the investment security markets as it has today.

You can easily ascertain just what opportunities are open to you for investment today by consulting our stock and bond department.

General Farm Crops

Corn is the largest and most valuable of all food crops. It is a true saying "Corn is King." Great improvements have been made in corn in recent years, yet most breeders agree that a beginning only has been made. Perhaps the corn of the future will be such that a few stalks in the garden will be sufficient for an ordinary sized family. Ten years ago to raise 100 bushels per acre would be considered incredible, yet the Boy's Corn Clubs have left that mark far behind. Now we have one grower claiming 300 bushels per acre. To successfully raise such a crop requires some brain work and brawn work combined. The plant food elements in the soil must be in the right proportion and co-operate with each other, and the farmer must co-operate with the elements.

While 97 1/2 percent of the dry substance of the crop comes from the air (carbon, oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen) yet the 2 1/2 percent that comes from the soil (potash, phosphorus, sulfur and magnesia) sets the limit of the crop. Taking a 100 bushel per acre crop as a standard, it would require 145 pounds of nitrogen, 17 pounds of phosphorus, 19 pounds of potassium, and 7 pounds of Magnesium and from 500 to 700 tons of water.

The four essential steps in raising corn are (1) a good seed bed, (2) fertility, (3) good seed, (4) cultivation. The seed bed should be deep and thoroughly pulverized. Barnyard manure is the ideal fertilizer for corn. It contains all the plant food elements and humus in addition. The seed should be selected in the field and never in the crib. That "like produces like" is more marked of corn than other plant. Strong, healthy, pure bred seed will produce its own kind, weak emaciated seed of poor heredity will produce weak thin ears and a poor crop. Inbred corn produces deficient and deformed ears. Corn fertilized by pollen from barren stocks, and sucker stocks is not apt to yield good corn, if at all. Even the location of the ear on the stalk is transmitted to the seed. Corn planted from ears located near the ground on the stalk will mature earlier than those located very high. Corn becomes acclimated to the district in which it grows and will grow better than seed brought from the outside, yet this should not deter growers from introducing better corn, because all corn can be acclimated in two or three years if care is used.

Corn with 3, 6, or 8 ears on the stalk require a longer growing period than corn with 1 or two ears. Selection of the seed is extremely important, and as we have already stated, should always be done in the field, where every condition can be considered. A fine large and good shaped ear picked up in the crib might have grown in a especially favored position in the field, all alone and uncrowded and would not be able to hold its own against an ordinary ear that had to fight for its life, and furthermore the fine looking ear selected in the crib might be self pollinated and produce weak deformed ears.

Cross fertilization can be furthered in the fields by removing the tassels from portions of each row or from every second row. The plants so detasseled must be pollinated by other plants and cannot possibly receive any of their own pollen. Choose the seed from the detasseled stocks. Collect the earliest maturing ears which are at a uniform distance from the ground and wait until they are perfectly ripe and dry. Roughly, twelve ears will plant an acre. The seed ears should be stored in a dry warm, ventilated room, never hung on the porch where they are subjected to moisture, as the germ is apt to mold and germination will be greatly reduced. Properly dried ears will give a germination of over 90 percent as

MAUI TWENTY YEARS AGO

(From Maui News of Dec. 7, 1901)

The exodus to Lahaina to attend court has made the streets of Wailuku look deserted. The December term convened Wednesday.

The road between Wailuku and Maalaea Bay has been put into very good repair.

Judge Kalua and Clerk Keola experienced a runaway just before they reached Lahaina last Tuesday. They were driving a young horse and the animal became frightened and ran several hundred yards. Judge Kalua lost a handsome gold handled cane.

W. F. Pogue who has been connected with Kihel plantation since its inception has resigned as manager and will be succeeded by James Scott, former chief engineer of Olaa plantation.

The cable to the islands may now be considered an established fact and the benefits that will be derived from it cannot be over estimated.

The two new hotels at Lahaina are both crowded during the court sessions.

The First National Bank of Wailuku has now settled down to business the volume of which is proof of the positive need of the institution.

The amount of the sugar crop raised in the islands for the year ending September 30, is announced by the secretary of the Planters' Association as 720,000,000 pounds. This at 4 cents a pound will realize $28,800,000 of which half should be paid to the stockholders in dividends. There are 56 plantations in the islands the three larger of which produce more than 20,000 tons each. With sufficient labor they should surpass 40,000 tons. Hawaiian Commercial with its immense cane field area, adequate water supply and the largest and most complete mill in the world is easily the leading producer.

A motion to name a committee to see all steamer lines in an effort to against 40 percent for ears taken from the crib, or hung in the stable or porch. Aim at a germination of 95 to 100 percent as the first requisite. Hang the seed ears in a rack or by strings from the ceiling. In selecting the ears collect from two to three times the quantity you need then when planting time comes go over all your seed ears and select the best shaped ears about double the quantity you will need, because only about half the grains on each ear is fit for seed.

Maui Plantations Models In Caring For Laborers

By LOUISE MACMILLAN COOKE

Lovely in every aspect is the island of Maui, typically Hawaiian in its curving shore lines, its halfmoons of pale yellow sand, its steep-sided mountains and remote inaccessible canyons, and its miles of sugar cane bowing and swaying in the breeze. It has the fascination and delight of the vivid tropics, even to one long an island dweller, combined with a very solid background of agricultural life and a decidedly progressive community consciousness. Physically and spiritually, its characteristics satisfy and enthral.

True to a long established reputation for progressiveness and thoroughness, Maui is carrying out on the plantations of its smiling terrain a well-planned and comprehensive campaign of improvement in living conditions and general surroundings. Each plantation manager is the source and responsible head of the work done on his own broad acres, but so well do they keep together that the effect is that of unified effort toward a single end.

Half Million for Welfare

Well over half a million dollars have been spent within the last two years by the Maui plantations in their improvement programs. They have torn down whole camps, building in their stead attractive villages with broad, straight streets, planted to many varieties of trees and flowers, and frequently lit by electricity; they have constructed and put into operation restaurants, clubhouses, bath-houses, day nurseries and the most complete and sanitary of dairies; they have developed industrial service programs which cover all athletic and recreational activities and looked after the health and well being of the laborer; and they have done all this in the face of constantly increasing labor costs, labor scarcity and recently of a drop which knocked the bottom out of sugar and made all the plantations poor.

All this work is not the result of the last two years by any means, for welfare work for the laborers has been a feature of plantation management, especially on Maui, for many years past; but the last two years have seen a marked expansion and development in the field covered by industrial service and a concerted effort to make plantation conditions as ideal as is humanly possible for the men who do the work, and for their families.

No More Laborers' Barracks

After many years of sovereignty, cane has had to give place in importance to the man who plants and harvests it. Cane is being rooted out by half-acres and acres on some Maui plantations to make room for village additions or new villages, baseball diamonds or recreation fields. Labor now comes first and cane second, and this new precedence will undoubtedly endure.

The most extensive and costly improvements has been in the living quarters of the workers. There used to be a type of building called a "barrack house"—a long building one room deep and six or eight rooms long, with a window and a door, perhaps, for openings in each room. The barracks was usually whitewashed annually and between times rain and sun peeled off the whitewash in strips. Single men usually lived in such houses, but families also were often quartered in them—their only means of cooking a smoky little outhouse in the yard; the sanitary facilities, very poor and inadequate, being shared with all the other barracks dwellers. It was a crowded, uncomfortable way to live and led to frequent epidemics of contagious diseases and much dissatisfaction.

Rents Are Reasonable

Picture such crazy old buildings, usually placed on the poorest and most worthless land on the plantation in order to save the better soil for the cane, and then bring to the mind's eye neat four or five room bungalows each with a large yard of its own, fronting on a wide street, grass and flowers around it, a chicken house in the rear, and its own laundry and bathroom.

There you have the old life of 20 years ago and the new conditions of today side by side. Laborers on many plantations, notably those on Maui, have today homes that are more attractive and better built than those for which a number of Honolulu people are paying profiteering rents 12 months out of the year.

Maui favors very strongly the community center plan of village construction, and hardly a new or rehabilitated village exists without its central park-like space, with a clubhouse, branch store, restaurant or movie house, or several of these to form the nucleus of village interest.

What Paia Plans

Paia the principal settlement of the Maui Agricultural Company, has the most ambitious of the new community center projects well launched. Its situation is remarkable for natural beauty, lying as it does on the broad slope at the foot of Haleakala, while the panorama ever spread before it of the blue water of Kahului bay, the verdant green of Wailuku's rolling fields, and the dark gorges beneath the cloud-trailing summits of West Maui.

On this far-viewing plain has been placed the first of the civic center buildings, the amusement hall and movie theater. Beside it the space for the ball park has been cleared. An acre of cane has been ruthlessly rooted out of the deep soft red earth that it may be packed down and grassed over for the field sports of the plantation laborers. In front of it is a wide oval, to be planted with blossoming trees and many-flowered shrubs in the grassy spaces, and found which the numerous other buildings planned for the civic center will find place.

Paia has also completed part of the village development adjacent to the civic center by the creation of a large number of new houses for the several classes of workers. Next to the center is a street lined on both sides with roomy bungalows for the skilled men, then some slightly less pretensions for the semi-skilled and beyond these a large number of single-family bungalows and U-type bachelor houses for the unskilled labor.

Ways and Means

All of them are fully screened with metal and lit by electricity and each has its own yard, with plenty of room for chickens, a garden, lawn and flowers. The carpenters are still working on the small bungalows. When they have finished, the ground will be neatly fenced, and the occupants will be furnished from the plantation plant nursery with whatever trees and shrubs they wish to plant. Broad streets run through the new village, some straight and some following the curve of the civic center circle.

By arrangement, all welfare or industrial service work on the sugar estates of Maui is carried out cooperatively between the plantations, the settlement and the Industrial Service Bureau of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association. The extent and nature of the work on each plantation is decided by the manager; the ways are then worked out between the three cooperating agencies, and the means are furnished by the plantation.

Milk for the Babies

One of the notable features of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company's work at Paunene is the dairy. Milk-producers of aristocratic lineage are housed in a concrete structure of the most modern type, open to sun and wind, with every contrivance to add to sanitary perfection.

Milk from these cows is furnished to the laborers at a price lower than any commercial dairy, and barely covering the cost of production to the plantation. It is of the highest grade and is intended mainly for the use of families having children.

Wailuku also has a concrete dairy with cows of a very high grade. Half-pint bottles of milk are sent daily to the public school for the children's mid-morning lunch, and this daily cup of milk has been a valuable factor in building up many under-nourished children whose home diet was incorrect.

Kamehameha Prince, the herd bull at Wailuku, is a reserve grand champion and half-brother of a champion and there is also a pretty little black calf with a heart-shaped white mark that is a great-grandson of Thillie Alcarta, famed as a blue-ribbon winner. In time Wailuku will have one of the best dairy herds in the Islands.

Paunene sets a pace with day nurseries which others follow as fast as may be. There are 12 nurseries in the plantation camps, with an attendance varying from about 70 to 120.

Each nursery is visited twice weekly and a clinic held by the visiting nurse. Simple treatments are given and the cases needing greater care sent to the doctor or the hospital. The nurse also holds meetings for the women of different nationalities to teach them how to feed their children and how to care for slight illnesses in the family.

Mothers Welcome Instruction

Many plantation mothers are pitifully ignorant of the food suitable for a growing child. Nearly all are glad to learn more on the subject, the Koreans and Filipinos being particularly eager to improve their knowledge for the benefit of their children, according to the nurse. The work has to be done through an interpreter, and demonstrations are given whenever possible.

A little Korean school girl has translated some simple pamphlets on child feeding into Korean and the translations have been distributed among the mothers, who are very appreciative.

Meetings have been held on Sunday afternoons and at other times for the mothers and have had a growth.

ing attendance. The same sort of work is carried on by the other Maui plantations, all of which have excellent day nurseries.

Wailuku is soon to have a playground, a ball field, and new villages in "Happy Valley," the new name which has been given to one of the old camps of the plantation. It will furnish a civic and amusement center mainly for the Filipino workers on the plantation.

Others Plantation Improvements
Other things Wailuku has already; such as a poi factory, a rice mill, and a butcher shop belonging to the plantation, dispensaries, day nurseries, restaurants, and other conveniences for the labor.

Puuhala village one of the plantation camps, is situated on a breeze-swept plain with a wide view. All the houses are new, stained bungalows, built after the standard plans of the Industrial Service Bureau of the H. S. P. A., altered to suit local conditions by the plantation management. Each has three bedrooms, a living room, kitchen, plenty of closet space and a detached laundry, bath, and toilet.

A store and restaurant building at Wailuku has just been completed and will provide a boarding house for single men in that district of the plantation. Sanitation of camps and improvement of kitchens is receiving the most attention at Wailuku, as the houses are in good condition. Any extensive alterations are made with the future in view, and buildings are located to conform with new village plans.

Streets Straightened and Drained
Olowalu, though a small plantation in comparison with other Maui estates, has made great progress in welfare work. Where formerly they had the barrack type of building they now have neat little one-family cottages with sanitary conveniences and fenced yards, with hedges planted which will one day take the place of the fences. Much attention has been paid to sanitation and drains, broad straight streets have been run through the village, and each house placed in its own lot with face to the street.

A small park-like space has been cleared, where the laborers may gather under the huge shade trees and enjoy open air concerts and gatherings. Near this civic center is the new store, a well-equipped dispensary and other community conveniences. A night school for conversational English has given educational opportunities to the laborers. Many improvements at Olowalu are awaiting the relief of the labor shortage and a higher price for sugar.

Quaint old Lahaina seems still in the sleep of a past century as one rides along its drowsy shore, past groves of palms and thickets of algarba, but on the plantation itself a different atmosphere is felt. Pioneer Mill reflects the progressiveness and energy of its manager, A. W. Collins, in all its manifold activities.

Puukoli City, where some of the most extensive improvements are going on, has a civic center of triangular shape, with the store, restaurant, theater, bathhouse and other village structures fronting upon it. The streets are wide, and all the houses in the village have plenty of yard space.

One feature of the new streets of houses at Pioneer is their neatness. This is much increased by the uniform chicken coops. A plantation family, wherever there is space, always keeps chickens, but the kerosene can and old board shelters they build for their flocks have been eyesores to more than one manager. At Pioneer the plantation furnishes each house with a slightly chicken coop, only asking the owner to pay for the wire used in its construction.

Model Day Nursery
Crater Village is on a hillside with a marvelous view over Lahaina to the sea. It has the newest and most modern "baby house," or nursery, on the plantation. There is a sleeping room, a dining room for the little ones old enough to eat at table, a fully equipped bath room, kitchen and laundry, a large lanai for playing in wet weather, and a playground in front. It is one of nine nurseries on Pioneer.

Villages at Pioneer are lit by electricity, as in most of the other plantation camps on Maui. Some of the new houses have pergolas of artistic design taking the places of lanais, giving them a very well-finished appearance.

Lahaina is also the home of the West Maui night school, a plantation undertaking which has met with great success. Last June diplomas for the first year's work were presented to a large class by Mr. Collins. Addresses were made by the Rev. Pedro Loyola of the University of Hawaii. The pupils who spoke on patriotic subjects and the help given the laborer by the night schools included both Japanese and Filipinos. Olowalu laborers as well as Pioneer workers attend this school, whose motto is "Learn English, speak English, think English."

Losses Curtail Program
In the last two years the improvements, repairs, new buildings, and other plantation construction having to do directly with the betterment of the laborer's living conditions have cost the Maui plantations well over half a million dollars. All this has been spent without a cent of income to be expected from it. The dividends on the investment will be collected in the better health and greater content of the workers.

Pioneer alone has spent nearly $185,000, the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., $110,000, Wailuku about $63,000, and the Maui Agricultural Company as much as any of these, besides a large expenditure planned for the dawn of easier times.

Kahului Will Have Its Community Tree

Kahului church folk are going to make a regular community Christmas tree this year. While in a sense this has always been done yet the exercises have usually been considered as being those of the Union Sunday school. Mr. DeKay wants it to be a real community occasion and the Ladies Aid Society has voted to back up such a program.

Every child in Kahului regardless of race or religion is to have a share in the celebration and festivities, unless kept away by parents or others. There will be a tree in the Community House loaded with candy, apples, oranges, etc., to furnish which the merchants of Kahului will be solicited generally. This will be done by Rev. Mr. DeKay and Elder Hurst of the Mormon church. The Ladies Aid Society will dress the tree and superintend the distribution of presents. A short program will be rendered by members of the Union and Mormon Sunday schools.

The exercises will be held December 22, in the evening.

Carol Singing on Streets of Wailuku Is Proposed

Christmas carols, sung on the streets Christmas eve, is the object of a meeting to be held this evening, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. T. Parsons, Iao Valley road.

Miss Edith Parsons and Miss Alice Parsons are the leaders of the project this year. They have typewritten a few carols for the singers, notably such favorites as "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

Carol singing is popular on the mainland and the custom has appeared on Maui before. Christmas eve 1916 and 1917 were celebrated in Wailuku in this manner, according to Mrs. J. H. Kunewa, who was in both parties under the leaderships of Miss June Mitchell, then teaching kindergarten here. Mrs. Kunewa is sure there is enough interest to make the singing a success this year too.

future entirely, on account of the low price of sugar and the labor shortage. The lessened crop due to lack of labor has placed the plantations in the position of operating at actual loss, and the deficit in revenue has made it absolutely necessary to retrench in this respect as in others.

Maui Fair a Big Asset

One of the things which Maui counts as a community asset, though it is not strictly a plantation undertaking, is the Maui county fair grounds at Kahului. Frank F. Baldwin, manager of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar company, declares that of all the community undertakings on Maui the fair grounds give the greatest value and pleasure to the whole island. Every one shares in their usefulness during fair week and at different times during the rest of the year, and they serve to bring together all the elements in Maui's population, from the highest to the lowest.

Puunene hospital, too, though belonging to the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar company, is almost a community affair. Its staff is the best obtainable, it has every needed accessory for surgical or general practice, including an X-ray room, and it cares for patients from all over the island. Malulani hospital at Wailuku, which recently has had very important additions, is another institution of the same invaluable sort.

After seeing Maui and its people, and noting its friendly spirit, its co-operative brotherliness, and the humanity which warms its social atmosphere as the tropic sun warms and develops its sugar cane, one repeats with renewed understanding the famed slogan of the island—"Maui no ka oi" (Maui best of all.)

Luncheon Served to Children For Only Two and Half Cents

Two and a half cents for a lunch. Who says the cost of living is high in Wailuku. Can't be done! Yes, but it is done five days a week in the Wailuku public school where more lunches are served each day than in any other two or three schools of Maui and lunches served at a lower price than any school in the Islands, it is believed.

Only one dish is served for two and a half cents but that article is satisfying and substantial. It may be a hot meat sandwich, a hamburger sandwich, rice or macaroni and the lunches are not confined to a single dish. For ten cents they can secure a four course luncheon, topping off with ice cream or pie. Every article served is two and a half cents and a ten cent meal is a really substantial one. It might include soup, meat sandwich, salad and ice cream, or again it might be meat, a vegetable, bread, salad and pie.

In Wailuku school there are being served daily 700 of the two and a half cents lunches. Mrs. Olive B. Burr, head of the domestic science department in the school, says. That does not mean that 700 children have lunch there each day for some have two, some three and some four articles served to them. Those 700 services are made for $17.50 each school day. It is economical buying, economical cooking and economical methods generally that make it possible and tasty, savory, palatable food that makes the meals popular with teachers as well as scholars.

Last year the charge was 5 cents a dish for lunches and so it was the previous year but at the opening of the present school year with a balance of more than $200 in the bank to the credit of the school lunch fund, Mrs. Burr felt a reduction could be made in prices and she made it. Food costs are lower than they were one and two years ago and so Mrs. Burr felt that the reduction might well be made and the more so since it is not designed to make the service of lunches to the children a profit showing business, but, on the contrary, a convenience and a benefit to the children.

Paia Nest of Owls Choose Its Officers For the Year

At the last meeting of Haleakala Nest, Order of Owls, held at the Paia hall on December 2, 1921, the following officers were elected for the coming year:

J. S. Sousa, president; J. R. Gon-salves, vice-president; M. S. Deponite, invocator; A. C. Franco, secretary; F. J. Leandro, treasurer; Eddie Sitra, warden; J. F. Silva, sentinel; George Robello, picket.

Charles Ludin became past president. On December 16, the installation of officers will take place.

On the Other Islands

Contract Awarded—The Hawaiian Dredging Company has been notified by the harbor board that it has secured the contract for wharf building and other work in Hilo Harbor.

Teachers Pensions—At the meeting of the Hilo Teachers Union next Saturday there will be presented the draft of a teachers' pension bill. Each teacher would contribute 3 percent of his or her salary, which on a $2,000-000 payroll would be $60,000 annually and the territory would contribute an equal sum, both going into an endowment fund.

More Threatening Letters—Sheriff Pua of the Big Island continues to receive threatening letters, mostly connected with his activities against boot logging and has asked the county to take notice of the situation by turning the letters over to the county attorney.

Spilled the Oke—A Chinese passenger debarked from a Waiakea bus and just as he alighted the handle of the dress suit case he was carrying broke. There was a sound of breaking glass, a stream of liquid, an odor that was suggestive and then followed the arrest of the Chinese.

Hilo High School—It is now expected that the contract for the new Hilo High School will be let in February and the building completed in time for the opening of the 1922-23 school year.

Kapiolani Boulevard—The new highway which is to run between the intersection of King and South streets to Kalakaua Avenue, Honolulu, opening up a new inlet for traffic to Waikiki, will be called Kapiolani Boulevard.
