COMMISSION SLIPS THE BUCK

(Special Star-Bulletin Wire-News)

HILO, May 2.—William Williamson of the Hawaii graft probe commission stated, this morning, that the commission will not be responsible for the statements made in the report of Expert H. Gooding Field, which Williamson released yesterday.

Hearings will be had here during all of next week, according to Williamson, and the accused men will be given a chance to explain.

H. Gooding Field's report on the financial affairs of the county of Hawaii, representing an immense amount of work which covered nearly twelve months, is published in part in the Star-Bulletin today.

Graft, incompetence, apathy, a loose and antiquated accounting system, leading to an easy instrument for peculations involving scores of thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money, are brought graphically to the front in this report, which was completed a fortnight ago and submitted to the Hawaii County Investigation Commission, a body created and provided for during the last session of the legislature to uncover the graft in the county, punish the offenders and devise means of better safeguarding the community's money.

Covering 350 pages, this report which is now made public reveals peculiarities and "irregularities" grave and more extensive, involving larger sums and covering a longer period of time, than looked for. It is, in this sense, a distinct sensation. While the prosecution of county officials has been going on for some time, and convictions obtained, it is not until now, when this report is made public, that the full scope of the "irregularities" comes to light.

Through the 350 pages one startling fact after another is met. In the beginning it is shown that the amount of the warrants issued without authorization of the board of supervisors aggregated the sum of $78,097.84, while $264,935.47 of warrants without any endorsement passed through the First Bank of Hilo, the sole depository of the county funds, and were redeemed by the treasurer.

Passing on his resume of the irregularities, Mr. Field devotes many pages to constructive criticism. He brands the present accounting system as inadequate and unsafe, and offers in its stead a modern and scientific system, one calculated to prevent any such illegal manipulations as those which corrupted several of Hawaii's officials and lost to the taxpayers many scores of thousands of dollars.

He says, in one place in his report, that he has no hesitation in blaming the territorial auditor, J. H. Fisher, for the condition of things as brought to light in Hilo. It was that official's duty, he goes on to state, to carefully scrutinize the financial reports submitted to him by the county auditor; and it was also Mr. Fisher's duty to give the county a better and a more scientific accounting system.

The report, as given in part and in resume below, is sufficiently complete to speak for itself.

In the fall of 1912, Mr. Field was retained by the Hilo Board of Trade, following his investigation of the financial affairs of the city and county of Honolulu, for the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, to make a similar research into the finances of the county of Hawaii. His criticisms in this connection were constructive, and by

F. W. DOHRMANN HAS HOPES FOR SUGAR TRAFFIC

Visiting San Franciscan Says Industry Will Remain in Lead in Hawaii

That the production of sugar ever will remain the leading industry of the Hawaiian Islands, despite the possibility that incomes may be reduced as a result of the removal of the tariff, is the belief of F. W. Dohrmann, a member of the firm of Nathan and Dohrmann of San Francisco which is the holding company for a syndicate of stores of which W. W. Dimond & Company is a member, who arrived in Honolulu Tuesday. Mr. Dohrmann this morning stated that, in his opinion, the growing of pineapples, or the introduction of new industries, hardly could break the grip which has been taken locally by cane raising and sugar manufacture.

Speaking of business on the Pacific Coast, Mr. Dohrmann said that, at present, it is fairly lively, and that no marked change has been noticed during the past several months. He expressed himself as being enthusiastic over the coming of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, saying that business probably would be greatly "bettered" by the advent of thousands of people in San Francisco. Mr. Dohrmann was a member of the committee which nominated the present board of directors of the exposition.

"The exposition is progressing," he said. "The majority of the larger buildings are nearing completion, while work is well under way on many of the state and territory structures. All the buildings are going to be beautiful, which will go to make the exposition one of the most attractive of its kind ever held."

For the past several years Mr. Dohrmann has been interested in a number of philanthropic organizations in San Francisco, principally in the Associated Charities of that city. When the charities of San Francisco are in need of funds, he said, the public is asked to assist through donations and subscriptions. The unemphatic, he said, are assisted for a time by the organization and then, if nothing results, they must shift for themselves. The Porto Ricans, he said, give the San Francisco charities the greatest amount of trouble.

Mr. Dohrmann will remain in Honolulu two weeks, after which he will return to San Francisco. On account of ill health, he has postponed his proposed trip to Hilo.

JAPANESE GIVE EXPRESSION TO FINE SENTIMENTS

In Prefecture of Miyagi, Hawaii Party Has Day of Entertainment

CIVIL AND MILITARY OFFICIALS SHOW COURTESY

Group of American Teachers and Museums Aids in Welcoming Visitors

By RILEY H. ALLEN, (Staff Correspondent) MATSUSHIMA, Japan, Apr. 18.—After a busy day and a half of sight-seeing and entertainment in and around one of Japan's "three great sights," the Hawaii tourist party leaves for Tokyo at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to remain in the capital for nearly a week.

Matsushima has furnished the party with as inspiring natural scenery as any part of Nippon yet visited, and the neighboring city of Sendai has furnished an exceedingly hospitable entertainment and one that partook of the nature of an official function.

Hawaii is a name well known in Sendai, for the thousands of Japanese laborers and businessmen of the territory are Sendai men or from the prefecture Miyagi. And the men of Sendai who are in Hawaii certainly have sent back good reports of their happiness and treatment in Hawaii. For when the people of Sendai heard that the Hawaii party was to pass through their city on the way from Nikko to Matsushima they immediately laid plans to entertain us.

Sendai is half an hour's ride by railway from Matsushima. As we steamed down from Nikko Thursday towards Matsushima, we passed Sendai shortly before p. m. When the train drew up at the station a large delegation of Japanese businessmen was on the platform to greet us. So cordial was the invitation to include Sendai in our visit to Miyagi prefecture that we decided to change our itinerary slightly and visit Sendai on Friday afternoon. And we are now mighty glad we did.

We reached Matsushima on Thursday night and were welcomed and made comfortable at the Park hotel. As everywhere, the Hawaii party was given the best of everything to be had. The following morning, yesterday, we boarded the large hotel launch and cruised among the islands thickly dotted on the little inland sea or sound just between Matsushima and the Pacific ocean. Unfortunately the day was cloudy and the splendid views of blue and sun-swept waters, charming islets and distant snow-capped peaks were toned down by heavier grays, but even at a disadvantage Matsushima is a natural marine park.

Matsushima bay is eight miles long and seven and one-half wide and in this stretch of water are more than 300 islands, from mere rocks above water to a considerable size, and most of them wooded with small pines, cryptomerias or thickly covered with grasses and shrubs. The waters are of many and changing hues, but we of Hawaii do not find them of gorgeously brilliant greens and blues and purples that paint our surf-swept reefs. Near the fishing village of Katsurajima, where we stopped for lunch, we found also a modified surf, not comparable with that of Waikiki, but homelike with its deep roar as it breaks upon the beach. The sands of the beach are covered with beautiful

JAPANESE FROM HAWAII MAY BE BARRED IN 1915

Attorney Carl S. Carlsmith Makes Public Letter from Secretary Wilson

TERRITORIAL OFFICIALS' METHODS ARE QUESTIONED

But Little Value Placed Upon Birth Certificates Issued By Local Authorities

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) HILO, May 1.—Will the Japanese in Hawaii be permitted to visit the Panama-Pacific Exposition next year? Attorney Carl S. Carlsmith, of Hilo, believes the majority of them will not, though at the same time the Japanese coming direct from the land of the Mikado and who acknowledge allegiance to that potentate alone, will be given the privilege. Just as all Chinese are accorded the right to visit or pass through the United States.

Attorney Carlsmith has given out a letter written by Secretary of Labor W. B. Wilson, under date of March 17, 1914, to a man in San Francisco, who, at the solicitation of the Japanese in Hawaii, has taken up the question with the department at Washington. In Secretary Wilson's communication the statement is made that Japanese bearing Hawaiian birth certificates cannot be admitted as American citizens to the mainland. The certificates, says Secretary Wilson, will not be accepted as prima facie evidence of their American citizenship.

He expresses lack of faith in the method pursued by territorial officials in the issuance of the certificates, even going so far as to charge that the papers have been granted on "ex parte" hearings, or hearings in which the principal party at interest was not present, and that in some instances the actual persons for whom they were issued were not in the islands at the time, but were in Japan. Secretary Wilson sets the Hawaiian birth certificate, according to the letter given out by Attorney Carlsmith this week, in the same class as the certificates issued to Chinese in California, citing the fact that the department of labor has refused to accept such documents as of more than "slight cumulative value."

Secretary Wilson's letter is printed in full below. "Answering your letter of March 24 in which you claim that a recent ruling of the bureau of immigration will prevent many persons of the Japanese race born in the Hawaiian islands from visiting the Panama-Pacific exposition to be held in San Francisco, I beg to call your attention to the following ruling in the case of Nobuchiki Ekiita. The ruling is not entirely new but is in accordance with the views which have been held by this department for some considerable time.

"As the bureau understands it, the certificate presented by Nobuchiki Ekiita did not purport to have been issued as an act contemporaneous with the fact of birth, or to have been a certified transcript of a public record, this being the usual certificate presented in this class of cases. It has been unable to find any federal statute which makes a certificate of this character, issued 'nunc pro tunc' and not on the basis of a public or official record, conclusive, or nec-

FURTHER PROTESTS ARE PLANNED AGAINST MAINLAND APPOINTEES

New Postmaster Proves Straw That May Break Back of the Metaphoric Camel

A strong movement is on foot by a number of Honolulu business men to bring the commercial and civic bodies of the city together to pass a resolution opposing the appointment of more mainlanders to positions under the federal government here.

This movement was given a sudden impetus yesterday after the news had been received by the Star-Bulletin that William F. Young, of South Carolina, had been nominated and confirmed as postmaster at Honolulu, which leaves only a couple of more federal positions in the territory unfilled. Speaking of the movement and its aim, a business man said yesterday: "I think it is time the commercial and civic bodies of Honolulu get busy and passed resolutions opposing the policy of the administration which seems to be to send mainlanders here to fill jobs, in place of giving them to local men.

"If the organizations went on record as being strongly against and antagonistic to this policy, there is no doubt that the administration would respect their wishes; at any rate the administration would know how we feel here on this subject.

RUMOR SAYS McCARN BIFFED, HE SAYS IT'S EXAGGERATION

Has Jeff McCarn, district attorney, 'black eye'?

Did some wrathful antagonist punch him one in the eye?

Nay, says Jeff McCarn. 'Twas a mere and slight operation on one of his optics.

Yea, says Rumor: he was rapped in the eye by a fiery-eyed foe.

Thus it stands. Rumor says speaking through the mouth of Mayor Fern, and others, that the new U. S. district attorney was quietly but impressively punched in the eye. McCarn, for his defense, said the report is exaggerated, and so saying he went home this morning and is probably there now. Not a punch, but an operation, discolored his eye.

FEW PASSENGERS EN ROUTE IN SIERRA

In sailing from San Francisco, the Sierra carried 37 travelers in the first class and 11 steerage passengers. At the agency of C. Brewer & Company, arrangements have been completed for supplying the Sierra with a full cargo of sugar and other lines of island products. AUTOMOBILES OUTNUMBER TOURISTS

Automobiles outnumber cabin passengers at a ratio of seven to one on board the Matson Navigation liner Lurline, that is now en route from San Francisco and due to reach a berth at pier 15 at an early hour on next Tuesday morning.

Three cabin passengers were enrolled at the time the steamer cleared the coast, according to a late wireless message received at the agency of Castle & Cooke this morning.

One ray of hope for a better representation of the traveling public on board this steamer was contained in the statement that two steerage passengers had embarked for Honolulu.

The Lurline freight for discharge at Honolulu totals 1982 tons and includes 21 automobiles. The vessel is expected to proceed to Kahului on Thursday evening where 524 tons of freight will be discharged. The Lurline brings 79 sacks of late mail.

TAXES MUST BE PAID BEFORE LICENSE WILL BE ISSUED: MERCHANTS

Because of the trouble which arose the first of the year over tax receipts, which are required by the county treasurer before issuing a merchant's license, Chas. J. McCarthy, city and county treasurer, made the following statement at this morning for the benefit of merchants:

"Taxes are now payable. I would strongly suggest that persons on paying their taxes ask that a tax certificate be given them. It is necessary for them to furnish me with such a certificate before I can issue a merchant's license to them. If they don't get it on paying their taxes, it is a great deal of trouble, and causes much delay, to secure it later. That is why I wish to call attention at this time to the advisability of getting the certificate when taxes are paid."

Queer Manx Laws

The Isle of Man presents many curious features, none of which is more curious than its laws. For instance, the legislature is called the House of Keys, and was, in other times, a judicial body charged with the duty of interpreting the laws. Any person so bold as to slander this House of Keys was liable not only to a fine in the amount of £10, but to the loss of both his ears.

Two Deemsters were once appointed to execute the laws which before the year 1417 were uncodified, and these were known as breast laws, for the reason that they were imparted to the Deemsters in secret, to be kept by them within the secrecy of their own breasts as long as they chose, or during their whole service, though they were authorized to impart and explain to the populace as much of these special laws as should at any time seem wise and expedient.

Certain of the Manx laws, as set down after the codification, are extremely quaint. Here are a couple of extracts from the Manx legal rulings: "If a man steal a horse or an ox it is no felony, for the offender cannot harm them; but if he steal a capon or a pig he shall be hanged."

"In case of theft, if it amount to the value of sixpence halpenny it shall be felony, and death to the offender, and under that value to be whipped or set upon a wooden horse which shall be provided for such offenders."

The arms of the Isle of Man, which though it may sound like an Irish bull to say so, are legs—three legs bent at the knee, and apparently kicking outward from a common center in the midst of a shield—have provoked a number of jocular descriptions, of which the best declares that one leg spurs Ireland, one kicks at Scotland and the third kneels to England.

On July 5th of every year the laws of the Isle of Man are still read aloud to the assembled people from the top of Tynwald Hill. This is the most interesting and archaic legal ceremony observed today in Europe.—Tit-Bits.

HILO DIVINE WOULD WAKE UP HAWAII TOWN

Tells of Great African Explorer Who Will Visit Islands Early in June

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.]
HILO, May 2.—Hilo is missing much in her failure to detain, entertain and get ideas from the distinguished men and women who come here every month—in fact almost every week—to visit the volcano. This weakness has been recognized by the Rev. George Laughton, pastor of the First Foreign church, who himself is a mailman from San Francisco and Europe, but who would be known to the Ad club over in Honolulu as a "live wire."

In the following communication the Rev. Laughton proposes, not to await the stately deliberation of the Board of Trade or any other public or civic body, but to "start the ball rolling" by taking the initiative, catching one of these transient guests of world-wide fame and presenting him to the people of Hilo. His letter follows:

"To the Editor:
"My Dear Sir.—Since coming to Hilo I have been amazed at the number of great men who halt on their journey around the world to pay a visit to the volcano. And I have greatly wondered that some effort was not made to secure their stopover in this city. Within the last three weeks two men, each among the greatest in his line of work, have been with us. One was Dr. J. M. Taylor, who for twenty years was president of Vassar college. The other was Dr. James Whitcomb Brounger, pastor of the Temple at Los Angeles.

"One has visions of the inspiring message both of these men would have given our people had we taken the trouble to interview them. It is for this reason that I have written to San Francisco and Honolulu, urging men there to keep me informed. Here is the first result. There is coming to Hilo a man, whom Mr. Lloyd George declared to be the greatest man in the British empire, who Dr. Elliot of Harvard declared to be the greatest living Scotchman. I refer to Dan Bradley. Doubtless some will ask, 'Who is Dan Bradley?' Let Dr. Aked answer. Writing to the San Francisco Examiner, he says:

"Twenty-three years has this man spent in savage Africa. Twenty-three years without a break, without a furlough, and without any visible means of support. He has been where Livingstone longed to go and never went. He has been where white men never went before. He has seen the most heathen and revolting cannibalism which white man ever saw and described it with a realistic horror which one hopes no white man will ever need to experience again. He has seen our human nature at the lowest levels on which it can abide."

"And he has seen amid disease, animalism, and the red sunsets of ritual murder, the heights which it is yet capable of attaining. His wife is a physician of more than ordinary skill. But he had seen in Africa ten years before she joined him. And how he persuaded her to go, and how she found her way there, are questions more than a little puzzling.

"And his wife's record is written in many an African village, which the physician, the surgeon, the apostle of sanitary science has converted to decency and baptized into health."

"And this man is coming to Hilo. He is one of the most wonderful char-

FERN POSITIVE HE CAN HOLD DOWN TWO JOBS

No longer is it possible to consider Mayor J. J. Fern, alias His Honor, joshing when he said he was going to be sheriff as well as the chief executive of the city and county, hold two jobs at once until the next election. Mayor Fern dispelled the theory that he was joshing this morning, said he was serious as a grave.

"I'm going to appoint myself sheriff, and serve until the next election. I will be sheriff in the morning and mayor in the afternoon. Even then I will have plenty of leisure.

"High Sheriff Henry is planning on running for the job next election. Jarrett taking his place, he wants to take Jarrett's. He'll run on the Republican ticket. For my part I will let the people decide at the next election if it be mayor of sheriff—or both!"

High Sheriff Henry confirmed the report this morning that he has his eyes on the county sheriff's job; he has decided to run for it, he admitted.

acters before the public gaze today. He has written a book. It is called "Thinking Black." It is an account of the experiences he has passed through in Africa.

Twenty-three years in the Dark Continent without a break. What has come of his diplomacy and dentistry, his preaching and physicking, his salivating and carpentering, his salvation and sanitation? Tuberculosis was the scourge of every village. Big families pigged together in their filthy huts, and the disease was triumphant. Smallpox was ever in evidence. Villages were literally wiped out by it. Of the morals of these who thus pigged together nothing can be said. Yet this man has seen these vile places made to rejoice and blossom as the rose. Roads have been built, courthouses, schools and churches have been erected, the people live in houses made by themselves. There is no other spot on earth that shows such a marvellous transformation in the short space of time Dan Crawford has worked there. As he himself says: "To get a whole town so to rise after the sleep of centuries is a very thrilling sight; there is a quiver in the air, and you feel in a very true manner you are getting nearer the root of things. They do it all, their own houses built by and for themselves. Then away at the end of this new town of theirs, you can see the roof of the Bible school, the point where we link up the spiritual with the temporal. Man can see to the housing of a town, but God alone can see to the housing of it." He has some amusing experiences, too. "Ma-lamba once interrupted a sermon of mine on the murder of Christ at Gethsemane with this stinging retort: 'Aye, you white men were a bad lot to go away and kill the Best One like that; we blacks only kill criminals. And then, far from being ashamed of it, you come across the seas to tell us you did it.'"

"Well, I repeat, this man with the most staggering story that ever fell from human lips is coming to Hilo. And we have 'hooked' him. He is going to stay here for four days. I think I can safely announce that. He is to arrive on the 4th of June. Just what he will do when he gets here I am not yet certain. But unless Dan Bradley's plans break down in some unforeseen fashion we shall see and hear the man whose fame has swept through Great Britain and America like a prairie fire.

"Respectfully yours,
GEO. LAUGHTON."

Spencer Bowen, manager of the Associated Charities, wishes to warn the public against a man who has been given aid by the organization on a number of occasions. The man has had a number of jobs secured for him through the kind offices of Mr. Bowen and other charitable persons, losing out in each instance through excessive drinking.

The report has come to Manager Bowen that this man is making a practice of begging, telling his prospective victims a tale of a sick wife who is in need of an operation, and a number of hungry children.

This man is an American, tall and light of complexion, and Mr. Bowen would request any person whom he may broach to advise him to report to the office of the charities.

At the close of his talk before a Sunday school the bishop invited questions. A tiny boy, with a white, eager face, at once held up his hand. "Please, sir," said he, "why was Adam never a baby?" The bishop coughed in doubt as to what answer to give, but a little girl, the eldest of several brothers and sisters, came promptly to his aid. "Please, sir," she added, smartly, "there was nobody to nurse him."—London Tit-Bits.

WHAT BOURBONS HAVE TO SAY OF NEW POSTMASTER

Comment on the appointment of William F. Young of South Carolina to the position of postmaster at Honolulu took a wide range this morning in political circles; some views were expressed in support of the administration sending a mainland here, a non-resident; others were bitter against it.

M. C. Pacheco, chairman of the territorial central democratic committee, predicted that the next election would be overwhelmingly for the republicans, and credited Charles ("Soapbox") Barron with being responsible for his defeat.

"This means that the democrats will be dumped completely next election," Pacheco said. Pacheco made a hard fight for the postmaster job, was fought by Barron, who was out for the job, too, and who carried his fight to Washington—a place where he remains still, according to reports, a sick man; sick from defeat and a cold.

"The appointment of Mr. Young is eminently satisfactory if Mr. Pacheco could not be appointed," said John Effinger of the Democratic territorial central committee this morning.

"We want a Democrat who is a Democrat, and one like Jeff McCarn, and I believe Mr. Young is such a man," Mr. Effinger, who has a different view on the appointment of mainlanders, adds: "New blood will be a good thing for the party here."

Will Miles, secretary of Mayor Fern, said the appointment was all right. "It is what the Democrats deserve. They have been unable to decide on any one man for any one place. This may teach them a lesson."

As given in the Star-Bulletin today, in its cable news, Young will arrive here May 15, and will retain the present assistant postmaster in office. One report has it that Barron has framed it up with Young for a minor job in the office.

Fort Shafter Notes

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] FORT SHAFTER, May 2.—Lieut. Edward L. Hoffman has been appointed battalion quartermaster and commissary in the 2nd Infantry and has been assigned to the 1st battalion of the regiment for duty. His appointment dates from May 1 and is made to fill the vacancy in the battalion staff created by the relief of Lieutenant Crockett from that office.

Sergeant Basil A. Horton, company A, 2nd Infantry, and Privates Ole B. Jensen, company I, and William B. McAvary, company M, have, on the recommendation of the surgeon, been ordered transferred to the States as patients, and will leave by the Thomas. Additional transfers from the regiment to the States for the purpose of discharge on account of termination of enlistment period, are Privates Joseph T. Plotenberg, George F. Ruglin and Leonard S. Spangler, company A; Sergt. Lester E. House and Privates Matthew Abbott, Pat Hilton, company B; Private Joseph Mysch, company D; Sergts. John Morris and Alvin T. Olsen, Corp. Benjamin L. Ember and Privates William McLeod, Stephen Rowan and John Stefanich, company E; Sergt. John Lovell, Musician Harry Shepherd and Private Robert McKeever, company F; Privates Orle Bailey and Joseph C. Lochridge, company H; Sergt. Joseph T. Bartek and Private Martin A. Prince, company I; Sergt. Edward L. Hancock and Peter Zaremba, company L; Private Joseph Gornise, company M, and Privates Elmer Galusha, Syms Smith and Moise Oalnicean of the regimental detachment, 2nd Infantry.

From company I, 3rd Battalion of Engineers, the list is as follows: Sergt. James F. Agens and 1st Class Privates Bernard J. Back, Roy F. Elliott, Harry Ewing, Walter M. Moss, William Riddern, George L. Schmidt, Charles Woerner, Adrien Formal and 2nd Class Privates John Hudson and Newton Longstreth, from field company E, Signal Corps, Sergt. Clarence F. Smith and 1st Class Privates Joseph A. Dillon and Christ P. McCabe. From the detachment Quartermaster Corps, Sergts. Ole Kleiven and Harrison Ardy and 1st Class Private George Webb. In addition to the above, Private Charlie R. Hoyle, company B, 8th Infantry, now casually at this post, will be sent to the Recruit Depot, Fort McDowell, Cal., for further disposition. Private Hoyle will be reported to the commanding officer of troops on board the transport under guard.

Captain George S. Gibbs, Signal Corps, has been notified by the authorities that field company E will be transferred to Schofield Barracks for station after June 30. This move comes as a surprise to the garrison and is a matter of deep regret to the many friends of the officers and families, as well as of the men of the company. When the change contemplated shall have been accomplished, Captain Gibbs will also, it is understood, relinquish the position of chief signal officer of the department and will be succeeded in those duties by Lieutenant Black of the telegraph detachment as acting chief and in charge of that office.

A very cordial invitation from the various organizations at Schofield has been received by the companies here to come out for the big county fair celebration on the 8th. The invitation has been received and sent by individuals of each of the visiting companies or detachments will have an individual host for the day and for the supper that comes in between the afternoon's entertainment and the fun planned for the night.

A considerable force of men under the direct supervision of Lieut. Chas. B. Lyman has been engaged the past week in improving the baseball diamond that by hard usage had become in an almost unplayable condition. Work will be continued until the grounds are made so that an infielder will not be in danger when attempting a fast play on hard hit balls, and the work will be concluded in time for the first of the league games to be played at this post.

A large contingent of officers of the post will go out to Schofield Barracks today to take in the opening game of the Army Baseball League and the subsequent struggle between the University Club players and the team representing the Army officers of Oahu and for tomorrow's game in the inter-regimental series a big crowd of the enlisted men of the 2nd will be on hand at Lihelua to root for their team.

The informal hop of the garrison was somewhat slimly attended both as regards people from the post and visitors. Those from abroad in the hoproom were Lieutenant and Mrs. Green and Miss Green, Marine Corps; Surgeon F. C. Trotter, Lieutenant Lando, U. S. navy, and Mr. Laurence Redington.

Lieutenant-colonel and Mrs. B. W. Atkinson, Major H. O. Williams, Lieut. and Mrs. Mathews, Lieut. and Mrs. Boller and Lieutenant Rose were of those from Fort Shafter that attended the reception at Schofield Barracks on Thursday evening in honor of General and Mrs. William H. Carter.

The young son of Lieut. and Mrs. V. W. Boller of the 2nd Infantry, who has been a patient in the department hospital for the last ten days as the result of a serious and delicate operation, is happily recovering and will be removed to his own home for recuperation shortly.

Captain D. W. Chamberlain, 2nd Infantry, has been confined to his quarters for the past week with an illness which though not serious in nature has kept him on sick report. He expects to be out for duty within a few days.

'BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK' OFFERING OF 'THE PLAYERS' NEXT MONDAY

Miss Olga Gray, popular member of "The Players" at the Bijou theater.

Beverly of Graustark, to be presented at the Bijou theater the first three days of next week by The Players all-star company, is a dramatization of one of the most absorbing novels ever written. The novel is by George Barr McCutcheon. The management selected "Beverly of Graustark" because of its dramatic strength and the opportunity for pretty scenery and costumes. It is unquestionably an artistic play, a romantic comedy drama onethat is full of life and action. Miss Ragan will have the title role and much is expected of her in this great part as an American Girl. George Webb will play Prince Danton, known as Baldos, a mountaineer from Dawsbergen who is wounded by Graustark soldiers and is attended by Princess Yevive at her quarters, he not being able to return owing to a heavy reward offered for being branded as a spy by General Marlanx. He is cleared of all charges by the quick-wit of Beverly until General Marlanx who tries to force attention with Beverly but fails, then plans to kill Baldos as a spy only to be frustrated by Beverly. Each member of the Players will be seen in excellent parts and a lively sure fire play is assured. Guy Hiner will be seen as General Marlanx, a part he created in New York. Already tickets are selling for this late play which is evidence of the interest taken. Tonight will be the last performance of the big western drama of early California life "The Girl of the Golden West," depicting the habits of cowboys, Indians, Mexicans and other types during the fifties. Miss Florence Oakley in the title role outdoes all expectations.

PRINGLE-STONE FUED TAKEN TO COURT, SUIT CHARGES CRIMINAL LIBEL

The feud that is alleged to have existed between Charles Pringle and Samuel R. Stone for many months, broke out afresh with the filing of charges of criminal libel by Stone which brought Pringle and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kapona before District Magistrate Monsarrat this morning. Stone, who has been a special commissioned police officer for Palolo valley, alleges that Pringle and his associates caused to be printed and circulated through the Aloha Aina, a scurrilous attack upon his honesty and integrity. It is stated that through the publication of the alleged libel, Stone was dropped from the service. It is further charged that the defendants caused to be circulated a petition calling for the removal of Stone. A hearing has been demanded in the district court but it is said that the case will be carried to a higher tribunal.

Charles Nui, a Hawaiian, was found last night lying in the Oahu Railway yards with serious cuts on the head and upper portion of the body. The man was taken to the hospital for treatment. It is alleged that Nui was under the influence of liquor. His injuries were not serious.

Johnson, colored, and John Oila a Hawaiian, have been brought to police station upon charges of making threats against Officer Dankberg, who, in the attempt to make an arrest at Iwilei last night, declares that he met with the combined resistance from two men. According to Dankberg, the defendants declared that they would do him bodily injury.

"Give us courage to be masters of ourselves, courage to swim against the stream, courage to drown when our due time is come, with serene hearts and quiet faith in God." When that prayer is answered, living deserves a song and dying becomes an episode in the history of a man. If religion did no more than make this forward looking courage possible, it would deserve our reverence and pursuit.—Boston Transcript.

MR. McCARN AND HONOLULU

Attorney Jeff McCarn has been so intemperate in some of his accusations against the Honolulu community as a whole, that sympathy for a man in a fight may easily be turned to pity for one who lacks the saving quality of self-control.

No one is trying to run Mr. McCarn out of this town so far as we can see.

We do not doubt however that the men whom Mr. McCarn has most prominently sought for counsel and advice have been insistent and consistent in dining that doctrine into his mind.

There is no more forgiving community on earth than this one. It witnesses flagrant mental, oral and physical excesses on the part of citizens much in the public eye, and goes on about its business without showing revenge or even bringing the punishment of social elimination upon erring ones. Mr. McCarn's legal associates know this. This community is tolerant to a degree, except in petty spite-war flurries that stir its calm from time to time. So why should it seek to eliminate Mr. McCarn, even if the worst that has been said of him were true.

To be perfectly frank, the community has come to regard persons who make charges like those laid against it in Mr. McCarn's speech, as unfortunates who have made failures because of their own reckless folly and obvious lack of that quality of manhood generally designated as judgment and common sense.

Mr. McCarn has not reached that status in the estimation of the people of Honolulu. Therefore it is a matter of sincere regret if he utters speeches which the people here have learned to associate with soured and vindictive souls. Mr. McCarn has too much optimism and good nature to allow him to be a candidate for that class.

"BUSINESS" IN HAWAII COUNTY

Auditor Field's report requires careful reading in order to gain a knowledge of all the angles from which the grievous errors of Hawaii's local government have developed.

On first reading, however, one is impressed with the responsibility of those business men supposed to be exacting in business detail—for the conditions which went from bad to worse among the officials of the County of Hawaii.

The exhibit of warrants cashed by a bank and by business houses and these warrants finally returned to the county, without the name of the payee on the warrant, or check, and not a scratch of the pen or even a stamp of endorsement—that exhibit looks like the source of the whole trouble.

It demonstrates what frightfully tax methods can become everyday affairs with men who are associated with those activities of life known as "business." These are the men to whom we usually refer and defer when we say that we should have a "business-like" government.

In the name of efficiency, what were these business men of Hilo thinking of? If the county officials were ignorant, they apparently did not shells, among them thousands of the pearl-bearing oyster, but none of us was lucky enough to find a pearl.

Three hours' cruise among these close-lying and friendly islets brought us to the town of Shioyama, facing the sea on one side and an agricultural country on the other. An official in full-dress uniform, an imposing sight in red facings, brass buttons and gold-lace, was on the little dock to receive us. He was Mr. Tazo Watanabe, sheriff of the prefecture of Miyagi, and was there to represent the civil government of Shioyama at our coming. How this out-of-the-way town ever heard of us still remains a mystery. Mr. Mott-Smith, the official spokesman of the party, did the customary honors of the occasion.

From this town we took a train for Sendai. Just before we left the station in a young Japanese came aboard and introduced himself to Mr. Sheba, who in turn introduced him to the party. The youth is Kohichi Komatsu, whose father, Kozo Komatsu, went to Hawaii 17 years ago as a laborer and has remained. He is now a cook at Aiea plantation. His son came to the station to see the people from the country where his father lives.

This little incident is typical of what is continually happening on this trip of the people from Hawaii. We are finding old friends or mutual acquaintances of other friends, wherever we go. The Rev. Mr. Inouye, once a pastor at Ewa and at Papekou, came aboard the train at a Miyagi station to meet Rev. and Mr. Westervelt. All along the path of our journey pleasant little incidents such as these are occurring, to revive old friendships and emphasize the fact that Japan and Hawaii have far closer relations than casual observation would indicate.

When we arrived at Sendai about 2:30 in the afternoon, there were more surprises of this kind. It was not alone the leading men and officials of the city who turned out to welcome us. On the platform there was a group of genial, hospitable American men and women, and all of us found friends at once. The Americans are connected in various capacities with the North Japan College.

receive much check from "business" leaders with whom they were dealing.

The legal status of this situation has been, we presume, passed upon by the Commission. Naturally the tar of suspicion is smirched all over the place. The action and comment of the commission will be awaited with increased interest.

In passing, the exhibit strongly suggests that the "business men" of the county of Hawaii got just as good government as they deserved because they were part and parcel of the fabric of civic indifference and business carelessness and inefficiency.

Is Honolulu in condition to withstand the visitation of any of the pestilences now reported as prevalent in different parts of the world? Last year the businessmen turned down the proposal of a clean-up day, partly on account of depression in the chief industry and partly because some held that sanitation was exclusively the province of the paid authorities. Between board of health activities and the municipal garbage service, probably the town is as clean as available public resources can make it. Yet that dangerous nuisances exist, largely perhaps where responsibility is difficult to place, anyone making fair use of eye and nose may convince oneself without going far afield. Elsewhere some towns are making the clean-up time a week instead of a day, the authorities cooperating with the citizens.

What are you doing to assist in the reduction of the number of saloons in the city of Honolulu? Isn't it worth your while to aid in placing a lower limit on the saloons in the vicinity of the fishmarket? Isn't it right to help in the work of sending the week's wages to the workman's home and table instead of having it used to befuddle a man's brain and increase the misery of mothers and children?

One of these progressive days a marriage tax will be proposed, to regulate interlocking fortunes in the matrimonial market. With such a measure a big connubial deal like the Astor-Huntington one would yield a goodly sum for public uses. There are just as good and many reasons for it as for the inheritance and the income taxes.

Filipinos are not so different from the rest of folks. Our little brown brother is like the "little girl that had a little curl, right in the middle of her forehead"—when he is good he is very, very good, but when he is bad he is horrid.

Having straightened out Vera Cruz and established a proper government, our troops might advance with deliberate progression until the whole Mexican nation is fixed. Though slow, we know it would be very sure.

Must we thank the Underwood tariff for the drop in the price of beef? If so, it's only a small mercy after all, when discounted by the sugar situation.

work in the entire section. The college is a Christian institution of education and morals, conducted by well-known educators and missionaries and has won a high place for itself in the esteem of the Japanese. It is governed by a board consisting of four Japanese, members of the Church of Christ in Japan, and four missionaries of the Reformed church in the United States. The institution is supported principally by an annual appropriation from the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church in the United States. There are 32 professors and instructors, six Americans and 26 Japanese.

It was these American teachers, missionaries and their wives who had come to the Sendai station to meet us. Before long mutual friends and interests had been discovered and a very cordial welcome given the visitors. The president of the Chamber of Commerce, K. Iyagi, and H. Oishi, secretary to the mayor, were among the city officials who bid the visitors welcome.

A long line of rikshas was waiting outside the station and the Hawaii party was taken on a sightseeing tour of the city. After a ride through some beautiful cherry-blossom avenues, a stop was made at the officers' quarters of the army division stationed at Sendai.

It was our first glimpse of the Japanese army as it is today and the

Old Doc's Talk

PATRIOTISM II.

Ah, my son, Walter Scott was wrong when he spoke of a man's native-land being so much to him. Scott isn't up-to-date, anyhow. It's the mother-country we want to sing and sigh about, my lad; the chalk-cliffs of England which we never sighted; the fogs we never have sniffed; the manners and customs so typified in the globe-trotter, and the dialect which puzzles us so to understand.

Let us affect these, my son, and we are saved from our provincialism. Perhaps, my son, this strange inappreciation of the blessings which have been vouchsafed us through the efforts of our forefathers, is not so general as we think; perhaps it is only skin-deep anyway; perhaps it exists in the hearts of only a few of our people who have grown rich and gone abroad to live. Let us believe my boy, that every true American is thrilled by the knowledge of his nativity and citizenship. At any rate, my boy, a great many who were born off the soil, are so thrilled by the acts of our ancestors that they have become loyal citizens of our land. They are noble men and women wherever they may have been born, and would give all they have for a bright birthright of us, my son, may say. Yes, which some of us would sell for a crest.

Signal honor was done us at the officers' quarters when a small but pretty house which accommodated the present emperor, when he was on a trip to Sendai, was opened for us and tea served by the officers themselves. The colonel in command, during the absence of the general, made a brief speech of welcome to which Mr. Mott-Smith responded. We were given but a short time here and of the military features saw little but two faraway parade grounds dotted with maneuvering infantry and cavalry. The city, however, is full of soldiers, eternally marching and drilling.

Our next stop was at the commercial museum or permanent exhibit, composed entirely of articles manufactured in Miyagi prefecture and maintained by the Chamber of Commerce. The variety was a wide one, ranging from silk and cotton cloth to pottery and lacquer ware.

From here we went to the city hall, a structure to our eyes more like a comfortable bungalow than an official building. The acting mayor met us—the mayor being detained at home by illness. A short riksha ride from the city hall brought us to the official building of the Miyagi prefectural government and we were received by Vice-Governor Sato. Mr. Sato welcomed us to Sendai in a speech in which he spoke of the many common interests between his prefecture and Hawaii. Prof. M. M. Scott responded in a brief but striking speech in which he referred to the regard in which Japanese are held in Hawaii.

Our next and final stop was for tea at a pretty building overlooking a section of the city and a parade ground and facing the famous Date Mass-mune's castle, now put to military uses. Here coffee was served the visitors from Hawaii, and served by young girls richly dressed in Japanese costume, daughters of prominent families. Our hosts, as well as a number of the missionaries and teachers were grouped at the tables. President Iyagi of the chamber of commerce made an address of welcome, noting the fact that on account of the emperor dowager's death Sendai could not make the welcome and entertainment formal, and assuring the visitors that they and their country have the warmest regard of Japan. Mr. Mott-Smith called upon Prof. Scott and the Rev. W. D. Westervelt to respond and each made brief addresses.

This closed the day at Sendai and we went by train back to the Park Hotel at Matsushima. Today we are seeing the noted resort at its best. The day is sunny and fine and the beautiful bay sparkling with light and color. We leave for Tokio this afternoon.

In Tokio for a Week. TOKIO, Japan, Apr. 19.—We reached Tokio last night at 11 o'clock after an uneventful ride down from the north and are stopping at the Seiyon hotel. After two weeks in Japan, every member of the party is well. In fact, there has not been a case even of temporary indisposition. Professor Scott, the veteran of the party, enjoyed the cold weather of the north.

My boy, there is a great difference between loud, noisy, shrieking spread-eagles, and patriotism; a mighty difference, I reckon. Some of those who yell, and wave flags over their heads, are undermining good government in cities and the country at large.

And, my boy, it may be wise for the individual and public safety to modify our Fourth of July demonstrations. We can do all this without sacrificing patriotism; we can love our country and our children, too, by taking fire-crackers away from them; by teaching them a better way to remind themselves and others what a glorious country is theirs to possess.

Any American who isn't stirred by the sight of his flag waving in the breeze; who doesn't feel moisture in his eye as he looks at the slow-moving procession of Civil War veterans; who can't join with heart and soul in the strains of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," isn't worthy of the name. He ought to go to Europe or—to South Kona. He might do well in either place.

though at times he found it biting. On arrival here last night we were met by Mr. Hisakichi Eitaki, well-known in Hawaii as the Japanese consul-general. He and other Japanese friends were at the station to greet us and escort us to the hotel.

Here in Tokio a number of the men who knew Professor Scott 40 years ago when he was in his educational work in this country, are waiting to renew old acquaintance and do him honor.

SOLOMON KEAWE BADLY BURNED AT FIRE AT AN EARLY HOUR THIS A. M.

Solomon Keawe, suffering painful burns about the face and upper portion of the body was taken to the hospital at an early hour this morning, a victim of a serious fire that totally destroyed a cottage on Liliha near Vineyard street.

Keawe was asleep in an apartment and failed to awaken at the time the residents of adjoining premises attempted to stay the progress of the flames before the arrival of the fire department.

The house was owned by Frederick Johnson, and was occupied by S. Matsuo, who had sublet a portion of the place to Keawe. The fire was discovered at 1:25 this morning, and within 15 minutes the building was a mass of flames, which quickly communicated to two adjoining cottages. Prompt work by volunteers followed soon after by the firemen saved the structures. The Johnson home was situated in a congested neighborhood filled with buildings of flimsy construction. A large crowd had been attracted to the scene. The fire afforded a fierce battle for the department while it lasted. Practically the entire contents were destroyed. The damage to adjoining buildings is declared nominal.

AFTER SEVENTEEN YEARS LITIGATION SUIT MAY BE SETTLED SHORTLY

As an echo of the dim past there appeared once more in Judge Robinson's court this morning, the famous old suit M. F. Scott et al versus Esther N. Filipo et al. The case has been before the courts for seventeen years and at last there would seem to be some chance of its being settled.

The first papers in the case were filed on September 3, 1897, and at that time there were no less than one hundred and forty-two heirs to the estate, which consisted at that time of 7,330 acres of land at Kona, Hawaii. Many of the heirs are dead, and it is said that there are now but fourteen left to get some of the property after the partition which is asked for is made.

The record in that case is as thick as a family bible, and the original papers that were filed are falling to pieces from old age and too much handling. For seventeen years the documents have been produced time after time until they are almost worn out. It is really thought that an end of the long drawn-out suit is in sight and that Mr. Scott will, finally, cease from worrying over the old matter.

On Monday morning, in the federal court, before Judge Clemons, Joseph H. Doyle and his wife will appear in answer to a charge of committing a statutory offense.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE

—H. W. KINNEY: It feels good to be settled in a large city once more and I enjoy meeting old-time friends.

—FRANK SOMMERFIELD (Maul): The slogan "Mauo No Ka Oi" is all right, but Honolulu is sure some little town.

COL. C. J. MCCARTHY: I was very pleased to see the cable telling of the success of my daughter, Pearl, at Stanford. As vice-president of the girls' dormitory, she will have plenty to do.

—A. J. GIGNOUX: The public utilities commission probably will not undertake any further investigations until a chairman is appointed. Thus far, the inter-island probe has been most satisfactory.

—CAPTAIN OF DETECTIVES McDUFFIE: A visit to Chinatown last night brought to light two or three small gambling games which were closed with the arrest of several Japanese and Chinese.

—SHERIFF WILLIAM P. JARRETT: Before going out of office, I hope to have the headquarters repainted and made resplendent for my successor. The work has already progressed to a stage where the improvement is noticeable.

—J. W. CALDWELL: When the board of harbor commissioners undertakes big repair jobs, I am of the opinion that it should have it done by outside contract work, instead of taking the matter into its own hands. In this way I believe that both time and money would be saved.

—A. T. LONGLEY: It is interesting and pleasing to note that the native Hawaiians throughout the territory are appreciating the value of the territorial marketing division more and more. A very considerable part of the produce we are now receiving comes from Hawaiians.

TRAFFIC IN SOULS TO SHOW AT OPERA HOUSE

Honolulu is to be favored, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, May 6, 7, and 8, with one of the most sensational moving picture dramas in the world today, "The Traffic in Souls." This picture is an expose of the white slave traffic in New York city, the mecca of the greatest evil that ever confronted American citizens. It is estimated that every year fifty thousand young girls are stolen bodily by the friends of the white slave trade, a gigantic combine headed by some of New York city's most respected financiers—the men higher up. During the trucking that has taken place in New York city during the past four years, the white slave problem has been the hardest to combat, because it was financed and conducted under the direction of men of ability and wealth, with a social standing that was unquestioned.

As the film is under the protection of the authorities and must be returned immediately to New York, it will be at the Opera House for a limited run of three nights only, beginning Wednesday night, May 6, and continuing until Friday, May 8. The picture will be shown on the screen beginning at 8:20 p. m. sharp.

Y. M. C. A. SECRETARIES PREPARE REPORTS FOR ANNUAL MEETING MAY 5

The secretaries of the Young Men's Christian association now are busily engaged in working out the figures of the year which has just closed. Several of the departments show larger figures than any other year in the association's history, notably the educational department, whose enrollment has grown from 300 at the close of the last fiscal year to 410 at this time.

The secretaries are working up rather unique ways of reporting the association's activities at the annual meeting to be held on the evening of May 5. They realize that reports of this kind usually are dry, and therefore are arranging them so that the dry matter will be left out. General Secretary Paul Super is preparing an extensive report which will be read at the annual meeting.

M'CARN AGREES TO SUBSTANTIATE HIS DENUNCIATION OF LEGAL FIRM

Holmes, Stanley & Olson, Almost Everyone in Honolulu and Newspapers Criticized

Yesterday afternoon, in the supreme court, the McCarn matter was taken up again after an adjournment for luncheon. At once the fireworks started again, and the United States district attorney opened the ball by declaring that he is a stranger, 5000 miles from home, amid a crowd of vultures who are determined to drive him out of the practice of law. "There is something behind all this. Thielen is nothing to think of or worry about. Why is a large law firm appearing for Thielen? The interests that would damn me are represented here, and they are behind Thielen." This statement by McCarn caused a great sensation in court and when Attorney Olsen, of the firm of Holmes, Stanley & Olson was allowed an opportunity to address the court, he declared that the statement made by Mr. McCarn regarding the interests being behind Thielen, to be untrue and only conceived in the vivid imagination of Mr. McCarn. McCarn at once jumped to his feet and declared that he would prove what he had stated by affidavits. "Then I challenge your statement in that particular," replied Olsen. As the court rose, McCarn said: "I am ready and willing to substantiate my statements at any time." During his long address to the court McCarn got worked up to a tremendous state of excitement. His voice could be heard right across the Capitol gates. He was evidently laboring under a great mental strain and plainly showed the fact. McCarn attacked pretty well everybody in Hawaii. He declared that there is a conspiracy "on foot" to "down" him. He said the newspapers are filled with false stories that his children read and wonder what their father has done. "They ask me, 'What next, father?' and I can only answer 'Justice will be done in time'." When speaking of the interview he had with Dr. Herbert at the time that the Thielen divorce suit was instituted, McCarn became so vehement in his remarks about the medical man that people in the court were astounded. "I am a stranger in this country," he yelled, "and Dr. Herbert is a man who has lived here for years. I will produce affidavits as to my life and record, here and elsewhere, and let Dr. Herbert do the same. Then we will see."

The United States district attorney cast aspersions on the conduct of Dr. Herbert, the attorney-general, the judge who committed Mrs. Thielen to the insane asylum, and he then attacked the law firm of Holmes, Stanley & Olson. He insinuated that Mrs. Thielen was "arranged" into the case.

DR. BENZ COMMISSIONED.

Governor Pinkham yesterday signed the commission of Dr. Rudolph Benz, democrat, appointing him to fill the vacancy made by the expiration of the commission of Dr. W. C. Dr. Benz although a comparatively new comer, as to years, in the territory has become most favorably known in an unostentatious way, by those who have come in contact with him and recognize his ability and personal worth. The Soldier's Side

We're not ashamed of the uniform, And if you are a friend, You will never say against it Any word that will offend; It has covered honored bodies, And by heroes has been worn Since the days of the Republic, When the Stars and Stripes were born.

Some are Khaki, some are blue, Some are Khaki, some are blue, And the men who choose to wear them Are of many patterns, too. Some are sons of wealthy parents, Some are college graduates; Some have many many virtues, Some are simply reprobates.

essarily 'prima facie' evidence in a proceeding under the federal immigration laws, or indeed, in any matter of a federal nature. Were they issued on the basis of properly authorized public records, the situation might possibly be regarded as analogous to that which arose in the case of Williams, administrator, v. United States (137 U. S., 113, 135-136), in which it was held that Section 906 Revised Statutes (which is doubtless the section on which you rely) 'does not impart to a state record so authenticated (i. e. as required in the statute) anything more than "faith and credit" and certainly does not extend the effect of a decision against a state to the general government, or make an award or judgment, which may be final against a state, either obligatory in law or conclusive as evidence against the United States.' (See also in Re Leong Sal, Vol. 1, U. S. Dist. Ct. Hawai, 234.)

"So far as the Bureau can ascertain, the only evidentiary value which certificates of the character of those under consideration have is that given by Section 3 of the act of the territorial legislature of 1905, which states that such certificates shall be afforded 'prima facie' weight before registration or election boards and in all courts of the territory.'

"The practice in this service has been to accord such certificates such cumulative evidentiary weight only as the facts and circumstances in each individual case might seem to warrant.

"As a matter of fact, there is nothing new about this ruling. It is merely a statement in a particular case of a practice which has always been followed by the bureau of immigration and the department of which that bureau has formed a part. You will recall that the department always refused to accept as of more than slight cumulative value certificates of birth purporting to show that the Chinese presenting them had been born in California, such certificates almost invariably having been granted 'ex parte' and 'nunc pro tunc.' Experience has shown that certificates of birth granted under the Hawaiian legislative act are usually issued also 'ex parte' and 'nunc pro tunc.' In many instances, moreover, such certificates have been granted to persons who, at the time of their issuance, were not even residing in the Hawaiian Islands, the certificates being sent abroad to such persons and used by them in an effort to gain admission to the United States.

"If you can suggest any method by which the person in whom you are interested can be granted the privilege of coming to the mainland temporarily to visit the exposition, of course, the department will be glad to receive such suggestions, and will give them most careful consideration. But you can readily understand that the department could not, either as a correct construction of the law or as the adoption of a sound policy, admit to the mainland, as American citizens, persons who have Hawaiian certificates of birth not based upon contemporaneous official records, but granted on 'ex parte' testimony years after the birth is said to have occurred, thereby recognizing the holders as American citizens. The certificates, even when given the greatest weight to which it purports under the act of the legislature to be entitled, could not be accepted as conclusive evidence of American citizenship."

Joke Towns of America

Most of the large cities of these great, beautiful and facetious states have their particular adjacent small towns, which serve as great local jokes, says George Jean Nathan in an article in "The Joke Towns of America" in The Smart Set. New York with great superiority regards Brooklyn, Yonkers and Jersey City as existing solely for the purpose of giving New York one big laugh; Philadelphia looks similarly on Camden; Washington tolerates Alexandria for the same reason.

New York may well rightfully giggle at little Jersey City. In Jersey City, the population actually lives in houses—imagine!—instead of in flats bounded on the north window by a brimstone court, on the west by a window at all and on the south by an entrancing view of the back wall of another flat disguised under the alias of Hetherblossom Hall—or something elegant like that. In Jersey City, I repeat, you can't get a highball after midnight. Imagine having to go six whole hours—from midnight until six in the morning—with out a highball! In Jersey City, it is so quiet you can hear the crickets. Isn't that funny? A jay toward! Think of going to sleep at night to the chip-chip-chip of crickets instead of to the Pacific sound of the elevator out in the hallway or the piano across the court. In Jersey City, either isn't a restaurant that is called a lobster palace; there isn't a cabaret show from one end of the town to the other; there aren't any hat check boys; the headwaiters are crude and

DR. J. W. WADMAN COMPLETES TOUR OF BIG ISLAND

After covering 527 miles by steamer, stage and saddle, Dr. John W. Wadman, superintendent of the local branch of the Anti-saloon league, returned to Honolulu this morning from an extensive tour of Hawaii, delivering lectures and visiting the public schools in Kona and North and South Kohala. At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning Doctor Wadman will speak in the Kamehameha memorial chapel and at 7:30 o'clock in the evening will deliver a sermon at Alea plantation.

Speaking this morning concerning his trip to the big island, Doctor Wadman said that he visited 22 public schools at Kona and Kohala and spoke before 1637 children, including the Buddhist schools of Kohala, stating that the pupils displayed considerable enthusiasm over the topics which he presented. Ten public services were held for Americans, Hawaiians and Orientals, and were attended by 530 persons.

"Kona has eight saloons and almost as many schools," he said. "One little boy said to me, 'Last night my father and mother were drunk and I was afraid.' I heard a story concerning a woman who purchased three bottles of liquor. She drank one and soon was in a drunken sleep. While in this condition, her child, about five years old, drank from one of the bottles and died a few hours later.

"The liquor business on Hawaii is creating much illicit selling, and I understand that many of these 'blind pigs' are in existence. The worst kind of stuff is sold as a representation of liquor, and I have been told that, in many instances, the police are lax in their efforts to stop the traffic."

H. GOODING FIELD FINDS GRAFT TO BE RAMPANT ON ISLAND OF HAWAII

The conviction of Rufus A. Lyman, in August of 1912, who was then secretary of the Hawaii Board of Liquor Commissioners, on a charge of embezzlement, and the uncovering of the methods devised by Charles K. Maguire to fleece the county out of nearly $80,000, Mr. Field made it possible for the more extensive investigation of the financial affairs of the Big Island. There was big opposition to the appointment of such a commission, or even the further examination of conditions in that county, by a number of prominent citizens of that community. Mr. Field was retained as the technical expert for the work to be done; and he immediately resumed the work which he had left unfinished. The startling results of his investigation and research work, despite opposition and scandal, are now embodied in his report.

The report, in part, follows: The serious irregularities which were discovered in the accounts of the County of Hawaii from July 1, 1905 (the commencement of county government) to March 31, 1913, may be summarized as under: 1. Warrants aggregating $264,925.47 were redeemed by the county treasurer, without endorsement on any of the warrants. Of this amount, the sum of $52,891.70 was represented by warrants which were issued without the authorization of the board of supervisors, and were, therefore, fraudulent. The total redeemed warrants, without endorsement as above, I have classified in the following synopsis under seven heads, namely: (a) Warrants issued in favor of the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, without endorsement of bank, or cancellation stamp of county treasurer $ 5,566.50 (b) Warrants issued in favor of the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, without endorsement of bank 100,611.24 (c) Warrants assigned to the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, without endorsement of either payee or bank, or cancellation stamp of county treasurer 558.75 (d) Warrants assigned to the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, without endorsement of either payee or bank 149,045.04 (e) Warrants assigned to parties (other than the First Bank of Hilo, Limited) without endorsement of either payee or assignee 1,315.55 (f) Warrants not assigned, without either endorsement of payee or cancellation stamp of county treasurer 53.85 (g) Warrants not assigned, without endorsement of payee 7,774.54

Total warrants redeemed without endorsement $264,925.47 As the consecutive numbering of the warrants by the county auditor was frequently changing, without regard to any specific appropriation, account or period of time, a very careful search of the auditor's register of warrants became necessary to ascertain whether any of the above assigned warrants were duplicated in said register. 2. Warrants, amounting to $4,532.58, which had been paid by the county treasurer to the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, had not been cancelled by the treasurer with his cancellation stamp. Without the cancellation stamp on the warrants, and in order to obtain the warrants against the treasurer's disbursements, a thorough examination of the entries in the treasurer's cash book had to be made covering payments extending over considerable periods. Money Paid Before Authorized.

3. Warrants, totalling 3,955 and aggregating $154,075.23, were issued by the county auditor prior to the date of authorization by the board of supervisors. The time which elapsed between the date of the issuance of the warrant and the authorization of the demand varied from two to ten days, although, in many instances, the period was considerably longer. It must be stated that it did not invariably follow that the demands covered by these warrants were authorized by the board at their face value; frequent cases were found wherein the demand when it came before the board of supervisors for authorization was reduced in amount, although the warrant had not only been previously issued by the auditor but paid by the bank and redeemed by the county treasurer. When the above state of affairs was brought to the attention of the deputy auditor, he claimed that it was the practice to issue warrants on or about the last day of each month, but that the warrants were only handed over to the payee after the demand had been favorably passed upon by the board of supervisors. I pointed out to him that the warrants issued as above, and especially those which had been assigned, were invariably paid days prior to the date of authorization and redeemed by the county treasurer, which was shown by the date of the cancellation stamp of the treasurer on the face of the warrant.

4. Checks, amounting to $19,917.56, were drawn by the county treasurer on the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, to cover warrants redeemed, on which the name of the payee did not appear. 5. Warrants, amounting to $176,772, were issued by the county auditor and duly paid by the county treasurer.

Warrants issued by County Auditor without authorization by the Board of Supervisors; Cashed by the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, and Redeemed by the County Treasurer:

Table with columns: Warrant No., Payee, Claim, Amount of Warrant. Includes entries for Feb. 13, 148 C. K. Maguire, Police Incidentals, $145.50; Feb. 13, 149 W. J. Rickard, Police Incidentals, 78.00; etc.

6. Demands, amounting to $346.53, were found on file, duly authorized by the board of supervisors, for which warrants had presumably been issued, but there were no entries of same in the auditor's register of warrants. Duplicate warrants, amounting to $208.25, were found to have been paid, of which originals had been previously paid, and redeemed by the county treasurer.

7. Entries were made in the county auditor's register of warrants, of warrants purporting to have been issued by the auditor, for which no record was found showing that these warrants had either been issued or paid by the county treasurer. These warrants, however, which amounted to $651.81, had been charged to accounts in the general ledger. Warrants Twice Paid.

8. Warrants were found to have been cancelled by the stubs of the auditor's warrant book and the word "cancelled" written against the number of the warrant in the register of warrants. Among the treasurer's redeemed warrants were discovered warrants bearing the number of cancelled warrants, and which were usually assigned to "C. K. Maguire." These warrants had been paid by the bank and the bank reimbursed by the treasurer's check covering these, together with a number of other warrants. Such fraudulent warrants generally applied to a pay roll, and search had to be made, first, through the minutes of the board of supervisors and the county clerk's allowance book to obtain the demand number of the pay roll (the authorization and allowance when found covering the total pay roll only, then through the pay roll to obtain the employee's name and amount accruing to him; this had to be checked against the register of warrants, when it would be found that the man had been paid by a warrant bearing another number, thus establishing the fact that the assigned and originally cancelled warrant on the stub of the warrant book was a duplicate one.

9. Warrants were drawn in favor of certain departments, account of incidentals, which bore the endorsement of "C. K. Maguire," and duly cashed by the deputy auditor, for which the minutes of the board of supervisors failed to show any authorization.

To check these demands against the warrants so issued and posted in the auditor's register of warrants necessitated the segregating of all unpaid demands in favor of the individual or firm for months previous to the date of the issue of the warrant in order to arrive at an amount equal to the blank warrant issued.

3. The issuing of single warrants to road laborers in payment of work done on numerous jobs, some of which related back to several months. In the case of the road district of South Hilo, during the incumbency of John A. Kealoha, as road supervisor, and during the year 1912, as many as twenty-four (24) salary pay roll demands were split up in this manner. To verify the correctness of these claims, compelled an analysis of the labor charge of each workman in every demand. These demands, it might be stated, were not filed in numerical or chronological order by the county auditor, and, as previously mentioned, the warrant numbers were omitted on all the demands. 4. Demands for departmental incidentals, particularly for the police department for special and other services rendered, were paid by blank warrants, and issued by the county auditor in favor of either the head of the department or to "departmental incidentals."

Main table listing warrants with columns: Date, Warrant No., Payee, Claim, Amount. Includes entries for Oct. 1, 1502 C. K. Maguire, Police Incidentals, 185.00; Oct. 7, 1632 C. K. Maguire, Police Incidentals, 119.00; etc.

to the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, and a blanket warrant issued to the bank for the full amount of the same. The salary pay roll demands covered by the blanket warrant contained the names of the laborers and the amounts accruing to each man. The authorization of the board of supervisors, as shown in the minutes, gave the sum total of the pay rolls only. There was, therefore, no record that the men, whose names appeared on the pay rolls, had actually received their pay from either the supervisor or the road supervisor, or whoever the responsible party was, who had received the cash from the bank. The signature of the men on the pay rolls, made prior to the cashing of the pay rolls by the bank, was the only prima facie evidence that the men had received their wages. In these particular instances, I would state, that, with few exceptions, I failed to find among the county auditor's records any assignments issued by road laborers to the First Bank of Hilo, Limited. Enquiry of the deputy auditor, who acted as deputy under the regime of the late county auditor, elicited the fact that it was the usual practice of the bank to submit to the county auditor, at stated times, a list of its bills receivable covering this class of hypothecated claims. 6. In posting the amounts and numbers of the redeemed warrants in the treasurer's cash book, numerous instances of wrong numbers of warrants were recorded. This was only discovered after closely checking the entries in the auditor's register of warrants against those of the disbursements in the treasurer's cash book. The practice check in favor of the bank cashing the warrants for the full amount of the accumulated warrants so paid by the bank rendered it very difficult to locate the actual warrants redeemed. Volcano Stables and Transportation Co., Limited. Claims, in favor of Stables against county, amounting to $2,063.33, and duly paid, not entered on books of Stables. Payment of claims against county, amounting to $1,185.00, credited accounts of county officials on books of Stables. The sum of $440.50, credited, by journal entries, to private accounts of county officials. Hilo Mercantile Company, Limited. Claims in favor of company against county, amounting to $16,110.00, and duly paid, not found on books of company. Warrants and checks, accepted by the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, without signature of county auditor or county treasurer. Territorial Auditor Blamed. "I have no hesitation in stating that much, if not the whole of the fraud and irregularities which I have discovered in the finances of the county of Hawaii, and itemized in this report, can be directly attributed to the apathy and incompetency of the office of the territorial auditor. Notwithstanding the fact that there was no mandatory provision in the law requiring this office to make an audit of the accounts of said county, I claim it was the duty of the territorial auditor, at least, to compare amounts of the closing and opening balances of the various fund accounts for successive fiscal periods in the county auditor's annual statements required by law to be filed in the office of the territorial auditor. It is impossible to concede that even ordinary diligence had been observed by this official in the performance of his duties when he allowed to go unchallenged the discrepancies in the cash balances, for instance, in the road tax special deposits. Following is a statement of the same: "North Kohala—Cash balance reported Dec. 31, 1906, as $1394.24, carried as $1394.25 on Jan. 1st, 1907. "Puna—Cash balance reported Dec. 31, 1906, as $912.11 carried as $909.91 on Jan. 1, 1907. "South Hilo—Overdraft reported Dec. 31, 1906, as $1870.33 not specifically reported on Jan. 1, 1907, but merged in balance brought forward on later date. "South Kona—Overdraft reported on Dec. 31, 1907 as $4899.70, carried on Jan. 1, 1908, as $5913.14. "North Kohala—Instead of the receipts for the year ending December 31, 1909, being reported for the year ending that date, those for the year ending December 31, 1908, were given. The cash balance on Dec. 31, 1908, was only $21.25. "Had the comparison been made of the above balances, instead of the reported financial status of the accounts being accepted as correct by the territorial auditor, an intimation, at least, would have been had that such differences could not have been the result of technical errors. The neglect becomes apparent when it is considered that the figures as reported by the county auditor were embodied in the annual financial statement of the territorial auditor to the governor. "It is the opinion of the deputy county auditor, who, for years, has been thoroughly conversant with the workings of his office, that the last trial balance of the general ledger of the county of Hawaii was taken as of either June 30 or September 30, 1910; the copy of the trial balance, however, could not be found among the records of the county auditor. The ledger accounts, it was further claimed, were then in balance with the accounts of the county treasurer. As the totals of the greater number of unauthorized warrants had been posted in the county auditor's books of which the county auditor had no knowledge, it was a physical impossibility to effect a reconciliation of the accounts of these officials at any time. On December 31, 1911, an effort was made to obtain a trial balance of the general ledger, but the attempt was abandoned. I found that the balances of the general ledger were not closed as of December 31, 1912, and, furthermore, no trial balance has since been secured. "After I had brought the discrepancy to the attention of the territorial auditor, he stated that he had ances in the cash balance of the county of Hawaii, as reported in the auditor's annual statements, before mentioned, to the notice of the territorial auditor, this official, on August 12, 1912, made a public statement which I quote as follows:

"My duties were merely to see that the counties were given a uniform system. It was simple enough for a layman to understand. The system may be adhered to, yet a number of small details and various accounts may be added, with which I have nothing to do. I have, when looking at the form to which the auditor of this county (Hawaii) kept his books, asked him whether he had his trial balance, and I found that he took such regularly."

"It is difficult to reconcile the above statement with the condition of the books as I found them, and particularly his remarks referring to trial balances."

"The time has now arrived in this territory when the handling and safeguarding of our public funds must be governed by accurate and efficient methods, rather than by loose, rule-of-thumb processes."

"In the fall of 1912, the last auditor of the county of Hawaii openly repudiated the statement which I then made that a thorough investigation of the county books would disclose serious irregularities. My examination of these accounts has proven the correctness of my claim. The late auditor volunteered the information to me, after his conviction, that, prior to my investigations in 1912, he felt no fear at any time that his embezzlements would be detected; he stated that he realized that the perfunctory talks which the territorial auditor had with him regarding his accounts during the irregular visits which that official made to his office, would serve no purpose for the disclosure of his acts."

Bank Examiner Negligent.

"During the period from 1906 to 1912, there never was a time when the cash in hand of the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, did not include county warrants, as this bank was the sole depository of the county funds. In checking county warrants, the practice of the bank was to pay the warrants out of current cash, holding the warrants so cashed as cash in making up daily balances. The warrants which had thus accumulated would be taken, from time to time, to the office of the county treasurer, and the treasurer would reimburse the bank by his check for the total amount of the warrants. The checking up of the cash in hand, therefore, by the territorial bank examiner should have disclosed the fact that county warrants, which formed part of this cash, were without endorsement, and, therefore, irregular. I am convinced, from personal knowledge, that the bank examinations conducted both under the law of 1906 and the law in force, have been incomplete. The importance of the duties of the bank examiner calls for an accounting practitioner of wide experience, and these duties, if efficiently performed, will largely assist in building up safe and sound banking methods."

"It is beyond the scope of this report to question the soundness of the acceptance by the First Bank of Hilo, Limited, of the numerous county warrants, of large denominations, which were turned over to the bank by the late county auditor, and applied to meet the private obligations which that official had with the bank. Personally, I encountered no difficulty in satisfying myself that the late county auditor had, for years, been without available means, other than his official salary."

After discussing the failure to rec-ter warrants, and the county auditor's reports to the supervisors, Mr. Field takes up the territorial financial reports to the county auditor. He says:

"Statements purporting to show the distribution of taxes collected in the county of Hawaii for the six months ending June 30, 1912, and for the 12 months ending December 31, 1912, were forwarded by the territorial auditor to the county auditor. Due to the extreme slovenly manner in which the figures are reported in indelible pencil, it is very difficult to decipher the amount recorded. These statements are in the handwriting of, and signed by the deputy territorial auditor. If these statements are fair samples of the financial reports from the office of the territorial auditor, to say the least, there is considerable room for improvement. I am informed that the above statements were the first reports received from this office."

Redded Pay Rolls.

The report next deals with "blanket warrants," a practice found to have been put to frequent use in Hawaii. Mr. Field censures this practice severely. A little further on he says:

"As referred to on page 3 of this report (Part I) much fraud was practiced in the county of Hawaii through the medium of labor pay rolls. "It is well known by the guilty officials that the destroying of the time books of the road lunas would wipe out all traces of their embezzlements of labor pay, and they did not hesitate to resort to these acts. In order to prove the futility of being compelled to rely solely on these time books in checking labor pay rolls, it is only necessary to cite one instance which came to my attention in my investigation, and had it not been possible to obtain the record, a grave doubt would have arisen as to the genuineness of the entries in the pay roll in question. For the period of April 26, 1913, to May 25, 1913, the pay roll for the district of north Hilo showed unmistakable marks of having been tampered with. I might state that I noticed the seeming irregularity in this pay roll demand in running down other suspicious matters, notwithstanding the fact that the period covered by the labor charges were beyond March 31, 1913, the final date to which my examination is now directed. I noticed on this pay roll some figures which appeared in a darker ink than that of the general run of figures in the statement. I obtained from the lunas his time book covering the work performed, and compared his figures with those recorded on the pay roll demand. My suspicions were at once confirmed that the pay roll had been padded by substituting added days, represented by the dark figures, for actual figures. I might state, were written in a similar ink to that of the signature of 'Jno. A. Kealoha,' the supervisor who approved the claim."

Later in the report, Mr. Field takes up the damage suit, settled, by Carl S. Smith on behalf of Kumazo Matsumura, in which a judgment of $8,425.22 was given the plaintiff. He says:

"Among the records of the late county auditor the following communication, dated December 2, 1909, also in the handwriting of Carl S. Smith, was found, which read: "Hilo, Hawaii, Dec. 2, 1909. "The County of Hawaii and the First Bank of Hilo, Ltd. "Gentlemen: In the matter of the damage suit in which I have a judgment against the county of Hawaii, and for which judgment I have commenced a proceeding by way of attachment, I beg to state that I conveyed my claims and demands to Mr. Carl S. Smith, and that no other person or persons have any right to collect any part of such claims or demands. Please pay the amount to Mr. Smith in full and take his receipt for the same, which will be the same as my own. "Very truly, "Y. NAKAYAMA. "Witness to signature. "KUMAZO MATSUMURA. "It will be observed from the foregoing documents that the warrant in settlement of the Matsu-mura claim amounting to $8,425.22 was issued to Carl S. Smith two days before Matsu-mura had assigned his claim to Mr. Smith, and 41 days prior to the authorization of the payment of the same by the board of supervisors of the county of Hawaii."

Without doubt, no part of the report of Mr. Field is of more value, from the point of constructive criticism, than Part No. 2, in which he reviews the present auditing system of the county, shows where it is faulty and an easy instrument of fraud and peculations, and finally outlines a modern and scientific municipal accounting system, with drafts of a balance sheet and other financial forms. In this part of the report, there are found many valuable recommendations, which exemplify both the thoroughness with which the accountant has gone into his investigation and his expert knowledge of the subject he discusses. Its length makes it impossible for it to be quoted in full; the best that can be done is to give excerpts from it. Near the beginning he says:

"This report will show that neither the officers nor the taxpayers of Hawaii can know the essential facts as to what their government is doing to meet obvious community needs; that for want of information the county government is far less efficient than it should be; that because of inefficiency there is waste of taxes, and inferentially, much fraud has been practiced."

He then says that the account books prescribed by the territorial auditor are completely inadequate to inform the taxpayer of the county's financial condition. He adds that no attempt has been made since the commencement of the county government—July 1, 1905—to improve the accounting practice.

"The lavish expenditures in the past of public funds in the territory, together with inefficiency of government, can be attributed to two causes: "1. Unprecedented flush times in the past; and

"2. Citizen tolerance of conditions demanding government action and consequent low public expectation of government service."

With the reduction in 1914 of from 35 to 40 per cent in the assessed valuation of taxable property in the territory over that of 1913, and the governmental expenses piling up, despite all warnings, no intelligent citizen can deny that the outlook for the future demands a most rigid policy of retrenchment.

"The conclusions to be drawn from the annual, and only financial statement which is now required to be submitted by the county auditor to the territorial auditor, and which, together with similar statements from the other county auditors in the territory, form the basis of the territorial auditor's statement of the county financial conditions of the government, is, that in failing to observe scientific principles in stating accounts and in trying to make one statement show several distinct groups of facts which, from their very nature, need to be stated separately, the outcome of the financial program is obscure. Is it astonishing, therefore, that the taxpayer loses interest in the financial affairs of his government when he is not given the opportunity to understand what is happening?"

Reforms Required.

Such matters have been carefully treated in the municipal accounting scheme, as the requirements of financial records; a financial program; the nature of assets and liabilities; the supporting schedules to the balance sheet; revenue and expense statements; what constitutes departmental expenses; a fund balance sheet; the character of general ledger accounts; forecasts of revenue; tax assessments; annual budget and appropriations; modern budget-making practice; the purchasing of supplies; property records; the California system of paying claims, as applied to local requirements.

A detailed and exhaustive resume showing the necessity of a department of accounts and audits, in line with similar legislation in vogue in the progressive states of the union; these laws have been enumerated fully.

In this connection, Mr. Field states as follows:

"Not only is an intimate knowledge of the principles and fundamentals of public accounts necessary to properly conduct audits and financial investigations of this character, but the examinations should be made by accountants with no interest in the affairs of any public official, and, therefore, entirely independent of any of the public offices to be probed. The importance of such independent audits has long since been recognized in the progressive states of the union. The principal legislation with this object in view is as follows:

"Section 686-691, of Chapter 349 of the California Act of 1911; Act 183 of the 1911 Session, Laws of Michigan; Chapter 523 of the Wisconsin Act of 1911; Chapter 112 of the Utah Act of 1911; Sections 274-289 of the 1910 General Code of Ohio; and Chapter 135 of the Nevada Law of 1911."

"The state comptroller of California informs me that their law works well, and has been the means of keeping an absolute check on all public receipts and disbursements."

"Accounting officers, generally, are reluctant to admit their inability to deal with the problems of their offices. Sometimes, too, local governments regard expenditures for the purpose of competent supervision over their accounts as unnecessary, assuming that the average municipal bookkeeper should be able to devise and operate a suitable system. This is a short-sighted policy, as an independent and competent control over financial transactions, apart from the detection of fraud, almost invariably brings to light opportunities for economy which would substantially repay for the outlay involved in the maintenance of such supervision.

"Where public accounts have been placed under independent supervision, not only has a uniform system been installed and operated, but the government accounting has been placed upon a modern and scientific basis, and safely controlled."

"Unless the supervision over our public accounting check is known by the officials whose accounts are investigated to be both competently and impartially exercised, temptation to commit crime is always present: the confession to me of the late county auditor that he felt secure, at all times, against detection of his embezzlements by the slack territorial supervision of his accounts is a conclusive proof of this statement. As investigation, moreover, is the very root of crime, every safeguard should be provided to prevent even pilferings from the public treasury. The present political situation in the territory is such that, despite the desire among the taxpayers—who represent, unfortunately, the minority of the voters—to place in office men of strong character to handle our public funds, there is far more likelihood that officials will be elected to these positions of trust, in the future as in the past, with rare exceptions, who come from walks of life without responsibilities and with but little conception of the Many Exhibits.

One hundred and two pages of the report are taken up by interim reports or briefs; these documents pertain solely to the research work which Mr. Field did for the prosecution, and which were entirely outside of the regular audit. These briefs, among other important matters, refer to the examinations of handwritings found in hundreds of signatures of laborers on road labor payrolls, and endorsements on supporting pay warrants. The comparisons were made with the signatures of the men found in the Democratic and Republican registers of voters. The result of Mr. Field's work in this connection is told in the number of convictions of public officials on Hawaii, and their confessions when they were confronted with the proofs which he had secured. There are fifteen such interim reports covering every phase of this class of research work. Report No. 1 refers to Norman K. Lyman and his two territorial contracts at 25-mile home-stand, district of Puna.

Mr. Field has made a reconciliation of the cash balance of the county treasurer, as of March 31, 1913, the date on which his investigation ended, with the true balance as of that date, allowing for the various defalcations and accounting irregularities. These latter items amount to $78,097.94, which will have to be written off to an account with an appropriate name. Part No. 4 of Mr. Field's report contains eight graphical studies, or charts which were included in the investigation which he made for the Hilo Board of Trade on August 5, 1912. The more extensive study of the financial conditions which he made during the present investigation proved that he did not miss the mark by any wide margin. The introduction of these charts shows with what degree of certainty a scientific study of financial facts can be intelligently portrayed, so that the every-day taxpayer can see for himself what really becomes of his quota of taxes paid. These charts brought down on Mr. Field's head the anathemas of the then board of supervisors, together with a number of the public officials who have since been convicted, but who were then in the employ of the county of Hawaii.

QUEEN ELEONORE OF BULGARIA HAS TITLES NOT IN ALMANACHE DE GOTHA

Queen Eleonore of Bulgaria, who will visit America early next month.

America's Future Guest Admired for Her Work Among Sick and Wounded in World's Last Great Wars—Russo-Japanese and the Balkan Conflicts—is Known as "the Royal Nurse" and "the German Florence Nightingale."

Queen Eleonore of Bulgaria, who according to announcements from Sofia, is to come to the United States in May for a six weeks' stay, bears titles which cannot be found after her name in the Almanach de Gotha, an which have no place in heraldry. "The royal nurse" and "the German Florence Nightingale" are titles which Eleonore has added by deed to those which are hers by birth.

Both as a spinster, when she was Eleonore Caroline Gasparine Louise princess of a younger branch of the House of Reuss, hereditary princess of a small German state, and as the Czarina of the Bulgars, America's future guest has made herself known and admired for her work among sick and wounded soldiers in the world's last great wars—the Russo-Japanese and the Balkan conflicts.

An intensely practical woman, the queen is now planning to come to this country for two most practical purposes. She wishes to study American methods of handling economic and social problems, and to do what is possible to offset prejudices which may exist in the American mind against Bulgaria because of the stories of cruelties practiced during the Balkan war by the victory-fused Bulgars.

The Era of Construction.

Bulgaria is now in a process of reconstruction; important adjustments are necessary in many directions because of the changes wrought by the war. Further, tens of thousands of destitute Bulgarians have swept into their native land from the other Balkan states, in which they refuse to live, and these people must be absorbed into the everyday life of the nation. By the study of what America has done, both in handling the hordes of the cities and in pioneering on the frontiers of the West, Eleonore hopes to get lessons for Bulgarian use.

Details of the trip are being now arranged at Sofia. It is likely that the queen will have a considerable suite with her and will be attended by some of the younger veterans of the war as aids-de-camp.

Queen Eleonore, who is now 54, won her first widespread fame as a nurse in the war of Russia against Japan. She was decorated on the field for her services with Gen. Kuropatkin's division of the Russian army. At that time she was an obscure German princess, not then being married. She went to the front in charge of a Red Cross train equipped by the Grand Duchess Vladimir of Russia, and on the crimsoned plains of Manchuria worked with splint and bandage. She was under fire several times, and proved herself to be courageous, efficient as an executive, and to have an excellent knowledge of nursing.

In the Balkan war she again gained the laurel. Having married Ferdinand in 1908, when she was 48 and he 47, being his second wife, as Czarina of the Bulgars she not only herself nursed the cholera-racked and bullet-smashed Bulgarian soldiers in Adrianople, but she exercised personal and vigilant supervision over much of the Red Cross work. She acted as a nurse both at the front and in her own hospital in Sofia, which she founded, which she directs, and in which she has German nuns as nurses. Week after week, month after month she labored among the soldiers, until her husband ordered her to stop.

Until her husband ordered her to stop! These seven words tell part of the story of perhaps as oddly mated and strongly contrasted a pair as are now in the spotlight of a throne.

Eleonore has won her public reputation, and a considerable one it is, almost wholly through her activities as a nurse and director of Red Cross movements. Ferdinand detests nurses, fears fever, loathes the smell of an aethetics and antiseptics, and has an version for a hospital equaling that of a Turk.

Ferdinand, something of an aesthete, loves flowers, is possessed by a passion for his perfume. He constantly has masses of blooms in his rooms, on his dining table. He likes to run his long, white hands through her petals, inhaling the fragrance. So famous is Ferdinand's flower fondness that biographers always describe those long, white hands caressing the blossoms, whatever else they fail to portray.

King Ferdinand accordingly did not like the Queen Eleonore's coming to him direct from the hospitals, from coats of agony, with the very breath of death about her garments. For weeks after she returned to Sofia from nursing in Adrianople the King refused to see her. So profound is Ferdinand's dislike for and fear of sickness that he puts his family and entire household into quarantine for the slightest indisposition. The absurdity of some of the king's quarantines has made the quarantine idea a joke among the courtiers at the palace. It has been whispered that, while it is true that Ferdinand dreads sickness, he has ordered some of the quarantines as a method of taking a recess from family disputes.

The husband of Europe's "royal nurse" controlled his abhorrence of his wife's ministrations for some time during the Balkan war, but the Ferdinand patience finally ended. In addition to her nursing and Red Cross direction, Eleonore had supervised the management of the hospital department, inspected supplies as they went to the front, and organized relief for the families of soldiers who were killed or disabled.

Not Like Her Husband.

At last Ferdinand prohibited her doing any more nursing or superintending, and gave orders that none of the latest collection of clothing and other equipment which she had gathered for sick soldiers should be sent to the field. Goods which had been contributed by civilian patriots were sold at auction, and much of the clothing went to the second-hand stores. It is stated that the queen wept when the messenger sent by the Balkan Relief committee told her the news.

"I am of no account at all, then," she is quoted as having exclaimed.

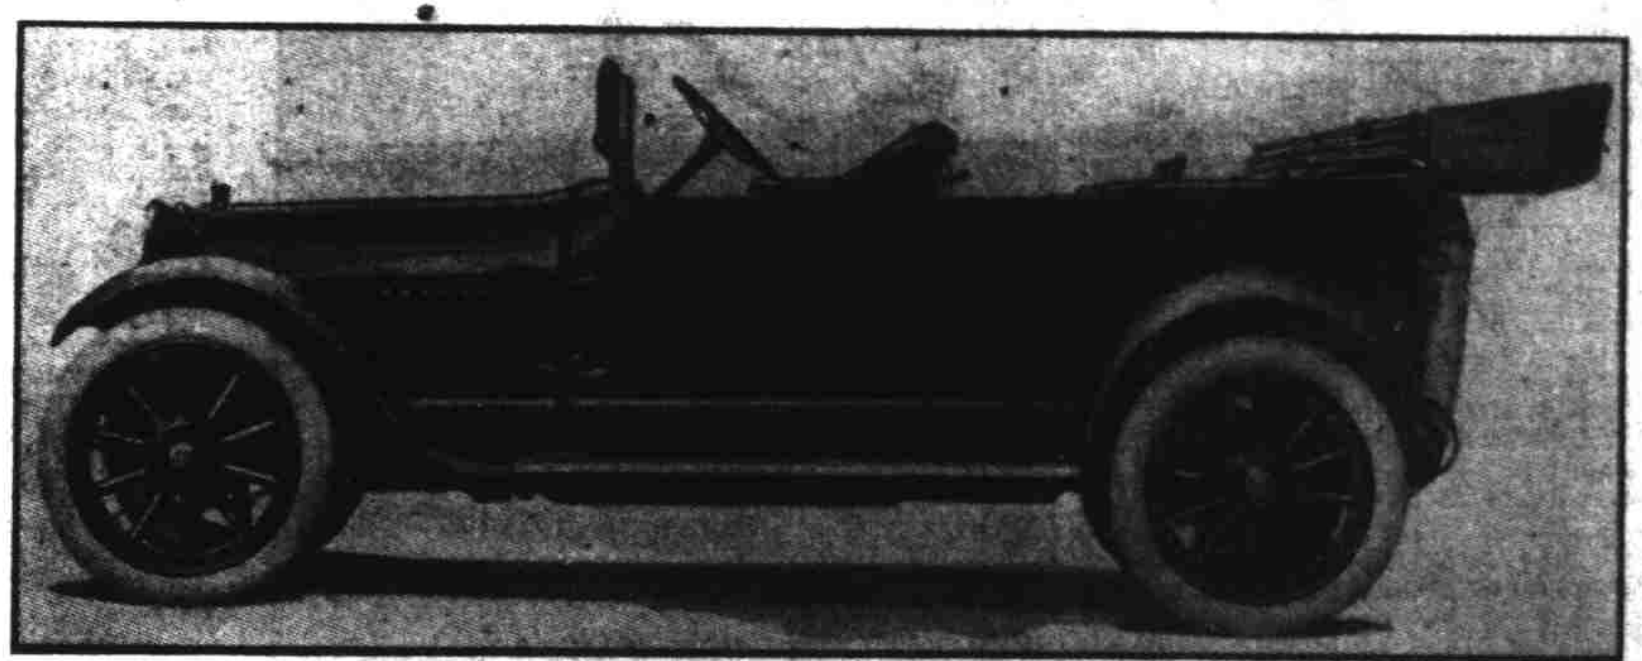

Another of the whisperings in Sofia was that Ferdinand was growing jealous of the hold which Eleonore was obtaining on the imagination of the populace, as her works for the sick made her hugely popular with the masses. She is not today, and never has been, liked by Sofia society outside of her immediate circle, but she is loved by the crowd, while the soldiers regard her as an angel of compassion and solace.

But not alone is the contrast between Eleonore and Ferdinand found in the love of nursing on her part, in the detestation of it on his. The contrast is found at almost every point where comparison is possible.

Eleonore is good, exceedingly good. She has been characterized as "one of the most admirable women in Europe." She is a plain woman, with simple tastes, not fond of pomp. She likes to do straightforward work in a straightforward way. She has always been intent on expending her energies in accomplishing good for her husband's subjects. If she were an American she might be a W. C. T. U. leader or a settlement organizer and worker, or the head of a great hospital.

And the mate of this woman of the simple virtues has been described as a monarch of the Middle Ages. Ferdinand is clever, crafty, cruel, senseless, conceited, selfish, ungrateful, somewhat effeminate in his habits, able and unscrupulous as a political manipulator, successful as a ruler. It has been written: Ferdinand of Bulgaria has probably broken more oaths and promises than any one else in the public eye. He likes the ceremonial and brilliancy of kingship; he is grandiose and overbearing; he is grateful to his ear, and he wants the words used often by those to whom he speaks.

Again in the contrast of the pair, Eleonore is a Protestant, while Ferdinand is Catholic. Eleonore is German, Ferdinand, himself half French, is passionately fond of France and all things French, which, by the way, is a delight on the training of the Bulgarian army by French officers and the use of Creusot guns by the Bulgarian artillery. It has been said of Ferdinand's subjects: "The foreign people whom the Bulgarians love are the French."

In carrying the contrast yet further the biographer comes to the other women who, besides the present queen, have played the most important parts in the life of the czar. Queen Eleonore is a woman of solid attainments, quiet qualities in her mental composition. She is clever, but her cleverness is a subdued cleverness, a cleverness in pastel.

Ferdinand, however, in order to be impressed, needs an imposing intellect like that of his mother, or a subtle intellect like that of his first wife. It has even been stated that he considers his present spouse a fool because of the very modesty of her mental attitude.

His mother was Princess Marie Clementine of Bourbon-Orleans, daughter of King Louis Philippe of France, a woman of vast ambition and capacity, who dedicated her son from boyhood to statecraft, and is declared to have had an intuition that he was to occupy a throne. His father was Prince Auguste of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. It has been stated that the present ruler of the Bulgars owes everything to his clever mother, who, Bismarck used to say was "the only man of the Orleans family." The other woman who has been of first importance in Ferdinand's life was Princess Marie Louise of Bourbon-Parma, to whom he was married in 1893, when he was 32, Marie being 23. She died in 1899, leaving two sons and two daughters, all now living. She was a woman of charm and mental graces.

In addition to liking women with brains of a pyrotechnic quality, Ferdinand also lives lovely women. Yet Eleonore is plain; indeed she has been described as "perhaps the most homely wearer of the purple today." But her friends declare that in conversation, as her face and eyes light as if from her inner beauty and goodness, she is not only not plain, but is attractive. "She has been described as ugly," said an observer who has seen her at Sofia. "Yet this is a libel. Her nose is too broad and flat, but her face is so mobile, her large eyes so full of kindly humor, her soft voice so full of music, that her one ugly feature is more than redeemed."

Nevertheless, let her appearance be what it may, she is certainly not the physical type to appeal to the Czar of the Bulgars.

With all these points of contrast, then, between the king and queen, how is it they came to marry? Ambition—that is the answer. Ambition on each side.

Ferdinand, who was elected Prince of Bulgaria by the Bulgarian national assembly in July, 1887, when he was 26, and who declared himself Czar of the Bulgars in October, 1908, was anxious to better his position both with the Russian czar and the German kaiser. He believed that a marriage with a German princess would strengthen him in Berlin, while the fact that Eleonore has been a lifelong friend of the czar and czarina would, he thought, make him less disliked at St. Petersburg, where his accession to the Bulgarian throne was not welcomed.

All for a Crown.

On her side Eleonore saw in the marriage a Queenship and an escape from a comparative obscurity of the position of a minor German princess. With the exception of her service at the front during the war between Russia and Japan, she had led a humdrum life. That a woman of her tastes and upbringing should have been willing at the age of 48 to wed a man of Ferdinand's reputation, and to ascend a throne with him in an unstable land as Bulgaria proves the wizardry of the idea of a crown. It is rather an odd circumstance by the way, the Bulgarian crown was offered to a prince of the House of Reuss at the time when Prince Alexander of Battenberg was a candidate.

Despite the strength of the ambition which led to the marriage, there was hesitation on both sides. Ferdinand is declared to have felt no attraction toward Eleonore, although advised by powerful friends at St. Petersburg to make the match.

The lady, on her part, according to some of the biographers, refused Ferdinand three times in as many years before she finally said "Yes." The consummation of the marriage was largely the work of Grand Duchess Vladimir of Russia, who is directly related to Eleonore. The grand duchess visited Ferdinand at Sofia and the result was a wedding on Feb. 28, 1908, at Cobourg, Germany, which attracted a good deal of European attention.

The religious ceremony was held at the Catholic church. Ferdinand got there ahead of the bride, and remained alone in silent prayer until Princess Eleonore and her escort entered. The wedding party then went to Ustra, the seat of the younger branch of the Reuss family. With the princess at the ceremony were Prince Henry XXIV of Reuss, Kostritz, Prince Henry XVIII of Reuss, and other relatives.

A Hard Task.

Arrived at Sofia, Eleonore had not only to assume the duties of Queenship, but also the task of being stepmother to the four children of the dead queen—a task which, Sofia gossip says, has been one of some difficulty. Crown Prince Boris, heir to the throne, and in whose favor it has been stated since the close of the Balkan war Ferdinand intends to abdicate, was born at Sofia on Jan. 18, 1894. The second child is Cyril, Prince of Preslav, as his brother is Prince of Turnova, born in 1896. The daughters are Princess Eudoxie, 16, and Princess Nadejda, 15.

Prince Boris is high-spirited, popular with the soldiers, his kindness and camaraderie during the war having made him friends throughout the army. Boris came back to Sofia from Adrianople very ill, and was nursed with tenderness and fidelity by his stepmother. This episode, brought them closer together than they ever had been, prior to this, time Boris having invariably taken his father's part in domestic differences.

The demands for space in human welfare exhibits to be placed in the Palace of Social Economy and Education have been so heavy that arrangements are already being made for the overflow. Nearly three quarters of an acre more will be necessary to provide room for the exhibits that have been called from times for which application for space was made.

GOSSIP

THE post-Lenten season is an extremely quiet one for Honolulu. Society folk are taking life leisurely. It is true they are dancing and dining and sipping their customary Oolong, yet they are doing it calmly and sedately. There is hardly more than a hint of the dance craze which is still holding the states in its grasp. San Francisco is dancing wildly, madly, six nights out of the week, and appears to be in a fair way to keep it up all summer. Many, who a couple of seasons ago, gave up dancing for good, are as eager when the music starts up as any of the young debutantes. Strange to say, although the tango is being continually and cleverly exhibited by different ones of the expert dancers, it is not generally popular. The "rag" is practically the only dance danced except an occasional hesitation waltz, and when the orchestra swings into the music for the tango or the maxime, the majority gladly withdraw, leaving the floor to the one or two couples who are brave enough to dance the selection through. This is at the big affairs, of course. In private everyone is practicing the new dances.

Honolulu seems remarkably reserved and matter-of-fact in regard to the new tango-dance as compared to San Francisco's mad devotion. Maybe she is waiting for new inspiration, or the fever has spent itself, or perhaps it is simply the hot weather coming on.

Easier-Ripley Wedding.
A wedding of exceptional interest to Honoluluans took place on the evening of Saturday, April 18th, in Berkeley, California, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McCarl, when Miss Iwaleai Serena Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Briggs Ripley, became the wife of Mr. Carl Edward Basler. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock in the presence of about 35 guests, the Reverend Dr. E. R. Dille officiating.

Mrs. Robert Marshall O'Neill and Mr. Albert F. Roller of San Francisco were the only attendants.

The bride was radiantly lovely in a heavy white crepe charmeuse gown made en train, the bodice and tunic being of Chantilly lace edged with pearls. The filmy veil floated from a charmingly becoming Dutch cap of the Chantilly edged with pearls. The only ornament worn by the bride was a beautifully wrought platinum and sapphire pendant, the gift of the groom. The bouquet was a sheaf of bride's roses and maidenhair fern.

The color scheme of the wedding was green and white, the entire house being done in quantities of white, marguerites with woodwardia ferns and huckleberry.

Mrs. O'Neill was gowned in green charmeuse with a draped tunic and bodice of white Chantilly lace. She carried a sheaf of white sweet peas and maidenhair fern, tied with white ribbons.

McAdoo will take place on Thursday, May 7, in accordance with the wishes of Miss Wilson and Mr. McAdoo the wedding will be very small. Only the vice-president and Mrs. Marshall, the cabinet and the immediate members of the two families are to be present.

It is rumored that Miss Wilson would be married in her going-away gown.

Washington society is surprised and somewhat chagrined by the fact that not even Miss Wilson's most intimate friends are to be invited.

Miss Wilson, with her mother and sister, Margaret, are at White Sulphur Springs, where, if the Mexican situation permits, they will be joined tomorrow by the president and Secretary McAdoo.

Those who spent the afternoon with Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Bailey were the Misses Kopke, Miss Sarah Lucas, Miss Hettie Lucas, Miss Mary Lucas, Miss Belle McCarriston, Miss Helen Girvin, Miss Blanche Soper and Miss Julie McStocker.

Fancy Dress Ball on Maui.
A large fancy-dress ball is to be held tonight at the Kahului Lyceum under the auspices of the Maui Racing Association. About half a thousand people are expected to attend the masquerade, and it will undoubtedly be the biggest social event of the year on Maui. The preparations for the affair are most elaborate, and it is whispered that many exquisite creations of the modiste's art will be displayed, as many of the gowns have been ordered from New York and Paris. The following ladies will act as patronesses of the ball: Mrs. F. Baldwin, Mrs. Wm. Searby, Mrs. F. E. Sawyer, Mrs. Ben Williams, Mrs. J. C. Fitzgerald, Mrs. G. C. Campbell, Mrs. J. T. Coming Wedding.
Miss Maud de Bretteville of Kaula, who is very well known among the younger set in Honolulu, has set the 8th of July as the date for her marriage to Dr. James Malcolm Thompson of California. The wedding will be a church affair, occurring at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and will be followed by a breakfast at the St. Francis hotel. On the same day the young couple will motor to their home in Los Molinos, Tehama Co., California.

Miss de Bretteville is booked to leave Honolulu on the Matsonia July 1st.

Little Miss Gere's Birthday Party.
Mrs. G. H. Gere entertained about 15 little men and women on Monday afternoon to celebrate her daughter, Margaret's birthday. The little ones enjoyed themselves playing all sorts of children's games on the beach, until they became tired. Then dainty refreshments were served and the children started homeward, glowing and happy.

Prince and Princess del Drago Entertain.
The Prince and Princess del Drago, who spent a short time in Honolulu on Wednesday, were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. F. A. Schaefer. Covers were laid for the Prince and Princess del Drago, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Castle, Miss Pauline Schaefer and the host and hostess. After luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer spent the afternoon showing their distinguished guests the sights of Honolulu.

Mrs. Wall's Bridge.
Mrs. Arthur Wall was hostess at a very delightful bridge party last week given in honor of Mrs. J. C. Waterman of San Francisco. The prizes were, beautiful candleholders, which, after considerable lively playing, were won by Mrs. J. C. Waterman and Mrs. A. J. Campbell. The guest of honor was also presented with a lovely corsage bouquet of orchids. Those present were Mrs. J. C. Waterman, Mrs. E. J. Waterman, Mrs. O. E. Wall, Mrs. L. C. Smith, Mrs. Jas. D. Dougherty, Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. Frank Halstead, Mrs. H. F. Wichman, Mrs. A. H. Lackland, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, Mrs. S. W. Klebahn, Miss Stella Peck, Miss Margaret Walker and the hostess.

Mrs. Howard's Recital.
Honolulu was favored with a rare treat this week in the presentation of Mrs. Elsa Cross Howard's recital. The program which this clever artist offered last evening deserved the hearty and enthusiastic approval which it won. The opening selection of the "Erking" by the Ladies' String Quartet struck the high classical tone which prevailed throughout the program, and the large audience eagerly prepared for an evening of real enjoyment. The settings and costumes for Mrs. Howard's several dances were truly wonderful and showed decided artistic ability. For instance, the grayish blue of her costume in her first dance of "Sadness" blended delightfully with the bluish green background of bamboo and the misty depths beyond this. Her dance of "Joy" which followed in the full light, was bright and laughing and full of life. A noteworthy feature of this number was the lavender wig which matched her costume. The "Faun" was most interesting. Mr. Phillips was also very pleasing, being agile and well-poised in his dancing.

While the "Chanson," "Indian Song" and "Jephthah's Daughter" were all admired, Mrs. Howard was probably at her best in "Le Cygne (the Swan)" and "The Snake Charmer." The former was the embodiment of grace and melody, while the latter was as Mrs. Howard herself has described it, "sinister, subtle and sudden." It was weird beyond description.

John Gifford, Honolulu's young violin prodigy, shared honors with Mrs. Howard. His rendition of Wieniawski's "Concerto in D Minor" and Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" were masterful, he being obliged to play an encore after the latter. The two little songs from Kreisler, and Schubert's "Ave Maria," were all charming and were enthusiastically received. Both the young musician's technique and expression are exceptional. We might go on to say that his playing gives a promise of grand things in the future, but we need not, for there is greatness in it now.

Mrs. Charles L. Hall sang the "Indian Song" in excellent voice, to Mrs. Howard's interpretation of the same. Loads of beautiful flowers went over the footlights. After the first half of the program there was a real floral parade down the aisles. The young ladies who acted as ushers, bearing great clusters of Easter lilies, masses of roses, and baskets heaped with all kinds of flowers, marched down the aisle and passed over their offerings to Mrs. Howard and Mr. Phillips, who laughingly received them.

Many of Honolulu's well-known society folk were included in last night's large and appreciative audience.

Kunahu Night at the Bijou.
"Kunahu Night" at the Bijou theater, proved an attractive novelty and the girls are greatly elated with the success of their venture. With a play on the boards which is attracting most of Honolulu, they found a ready sale for their pretty little baskets of real home-made candies. The girls wore simple white rowing costumes, with "Kunahu" ribbons as hair bands and carried the club colors, yellow and white on their well-laden baskets and trays. Those who acted as chaperones were Mrs. Arthur L. Andrews, Mrs. Byron O. Clark, Mrs. Sarah Cousins and Mrs. E. K. Ellsworth.

The young ladies are hopeful of as successful a sale tonight, when they will dispose of more candy under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacIntyre, and Mr. and Mrs. David Oleson.

The funds from the sales are to be employed in buying new cars for the barges and repairing the boathouse generally.

The following invitation has been received by a large number of Honolulu's society people:

Mrs. Castle's Play.
One of the loveliest affairs of this past week, was Mrs. Alfred L. Castle's play of "Pride and Prejudice," which Mrs. Castle herself adapted from Jane Austen's book. The affair was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, celebrating the 35th anniversary of their wedding.

The play was given out of doors on a stage built just in front of the pergola, so that the audience saw across the stage, through the pergola and into the garden vista beyond. The characters coming in upon the stage, wove their way in and out through the shrubbery which was dimly lighted up, making very effective entrances. The setting was indeed romantic and entrancing.

As to the play itself, it was wonderfully well dramatized and surprisingly well acted. The men's parts were all taken by young ladies, who without exception did very clever work. Miss Ethel Damon was splendid as Mr. Bennett, though of course she possessed the advantage of having a great many of the cleverest speeches. Mrs. F. T. P. Waterhouse was very convincing as Dr. Darcy, as her voice is very full and well suited to such a part. Mrs. Robbins Anderson was a very pretty Jane and Mrs. Castle impersonated the character of Elizabeth in a very charming manner. All of the other ladies did splendidly in the interpretations of their various parts and the performance was a huge success.

Between acts Kaai's orchestra rendered the sweetest of melodies.

The cast was as follows:

Mr. Bennett..... Miss Ethel Damon
Mr. Darcy..... Mrs. F. T. P. Waterhouse
Mr. Bingley..... Miss Miesie Wickman
Mr. Hurst..... Miss Rosemond Swamy
Mr. Collins..... Miss Thelma Murphy
Sir William Lucas.....

The scenes for the five acts were as follows: Act I—Shrubbery at Longbourn and assembly; ball room. Act II—Drawing room at Waterfield. Act III—Shrubbery at Longbourn. Act IV—The Collins' parsonage. Act V—The shrubbery at Longbourn.

After the play, a reception was held indoors. The rooms were beautifully decorated with masses of large golden lilies. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Castle were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, the Prince and Princess del Drago, who were guests at the play.

Mrs. Weedon's Reception.

Mrs. W. C. Weedon was hostess at a reception on Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Horn, 1219 Alexander St., given in honor of Mrs. Levi Buttle of Gambier, Ohio, and Mrs. Carr and her daughter of Cleveland, Ohio. The ladies have been enjoying for the second time a stay of some months in our beautiful climate, and this gathering was that they might meet some 70 or more Honolulu ladies, with many of whom it has been found that mutual friendships have existed for years, some being traceable back as far as college and seminary days. It was a linking, so to speak, of the eastern colleges and seminaries with our own institutions of Punahou, Kamehameha and Kawaiaho.

The house was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and red carnations. Mrs. Weedon was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Horn and Mrs. Hall. Among the guests was another recent arrival in the islands, Mrs. Baird, who was so delighted with the spot that she has purchased a place at Waikiki and will make her home here. Mrs. Buttle, Mrs. Carr and Miss Carr are departing next week.

Mrs. Lewers' Luncheon.

Mrs. Robert Lewers entertained at luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Shopless and Miss Loomis of Seattle, who are to be guests in Honolulu for the month. The decorations consisted of sweet peas, phlox, and pansies. On the table was a large centerpiece of phlox, and radiating from this, in a mist of green moline, were small bunches of sweet peas and phlox. At each place was a lovely corsage bouquet of violets. Covers were laid for Mrs. Shopless, Miss Loomis, Mrs. F. J. Lowrey, Mrs. Sorenson, Miss Sorenson, Mrs. Chas. Weight, Miss Hempstead, Mrs. F. T. P. Waterhouse, Mrs. Orla Kitley, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Wm. Wall, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Arthur Wall and Mrs. Lewers.

Dr. Day Memorial Cottage.

On Friday afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Sinclair received a large number of guests at the Leah home. The occasion was the formal opening of the Dr. Day Memorial cottage which has been erected for the accommotion of women suffering from tuberculosis. The building is practically open to the sky on every side. It is set off rather by itself, in a very attractive spot and should become at once a harbor for women in the incipient stages of the dread disease. The funds for the cottage were raised and donated by the College club of Honolulu, and as Dr. F. R. Day was the first to outline a crusade against tuberculosis here, it was decided to perpetuate his memory by calling the house the Dr. Day Memorial. While the guests were inspecting the building yesterday, Berger's band played a great many lively selections. Although rain occurred in other parts of the city, none fell here and refreshments were enjoyed out on the lawn.

Punahou May Festival.
Yesterday afternoon, the old Greek heroes immortalized in Homer's Odyssey and Iliad came to life again and walked about beneath the beautiful pergola of the Punahou campus. This charming old pergola with the lily-pond stretching beyond made a very fitting background for the armor-clad warriors and the classically draped maidens. It was a most pleasing spectacle and was very well carried out. The program began with the Odyssey showing the scenes of Nausicaa's Dream, the Dream Dance, Ball Lance and the dance by two maidens to entertain Ulysses. The latter dance was very gracefully performed by Elizabeth Woods and Doris Noble. From the Iliad perhaps the most impressive scene was the Dance of Death, which was very well interpreted. Among the casts of characters, John O'Dowda should receive especial mention for the excellent manner in which he delivered his speeches in the character of Hector.

The cast for the Odyssey was as follows:
Athene, Ruth Anderson; Nausicaa, Kathryn Blake; Ulysses, Joseph Farrington; and Girls' Glee Club.
The cast for the Iliad were:
Priam, Phillip Ovenden; Hector, O'Dowda; Paris, Marston Campbell; Hecuba, Stella Hoogs; Helen, Grace Brethoff; Andromache, Ramona Norman; Child, Eleanor Griffiths.
Dancing Maidens: Elizabeth Woods, Doris Noble, Grace Brethoff, Mary Taylor, Ruth Farrington, Maud Sanderson and others.

The festival was given under the direction of Mrs. Isaac Cox and Mrs. Agnes Driver.

Mr. and Mrs. Deering's Dinner Dance.
Mr. and Mrs. C. W. C. Deering entertained at a dinner dance on Friday evening at the Country Club. The color scheme for the decorations was yellow and white. In the center of the tables were large baskets of Shasta daisies and coreopsis, enveloped in clouds of yellow tulle. Thirty-seven sat down to dinner, the others joining them later for dancing and supper. Kaai, in the best of form, produced excellent music for the dancers. Those invited to partake of Mr. and Mrs. Deering's hospitality were: Gen. and Mrs. Wm. H. Carter, Gen. Clarence Edwards, Admiral and Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, Col. McGunagle, Major and Mrs. Wm. M. Major Penn's Dinner.
Major Julius A. Penn was host at dinner on Tuesday evening at the University club in honor of Gen. Clarence Edwards. Covers were laid for Gen. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. T. Wilder, Mrs. Sara Newcomb, Mr. D.

Thursday being the tenth anniversary of Major and Mrs. Cruikshank's marriage, Col. and Mrs. Sturgis entertained in their honor at dinner. During the dinner a number of interesting packages were presented to Mrs. Cruikshank, which upon being opened, proved to be most useful articles of tin—sacred to the tenth anniversary. Other guests were Capt. and Mrs. Winans, Capt. and Mrs. McCaskey, Capt. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Ayers, Capt. Benjamin and Lieut. Roscoe. The appointments of the table were prettily carried out in artillery red.

Colonel and Mrs. Reichmann gave a very attractive dinner for twenty-four guests who were seated at small tables. May Day green and white characterized the dainty decorations of white flowers and green candles. The guests were Major and Mrs. Tayan, Captain and Mrs. Willard, Capt. and Major Penn, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Case, Miss Betty Case, Major H. O. Williams, Lieut. R. C. Goetz, Capt. and Mrs. E. K. Masse, Mrs. Phisterer, Capt. and Mrs. F. W. Phisterer, and Major Penn.

After dinner Major Penn escorted his party to the Bijou theater where they were joined by Lieut. and Mrs. Cary I. Crockett, and all witnessed a performance of "The Common Law."

SCHOFIELD SOCIETY
(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, May 1.—Now that the war scare has simmered down a bit, Schofield people are resuming their interest in the preparations for the County fair, which will take place on Wednesday and Friday of next week. Most of the officers and ladies of the post are to take active part in some phase of the entertainment and plans for costumes and decorating are being eagerly discussed.

Monday afternoon Miss Gertrude Hopkins invited a number of the young officers and girls of the artillery garrison to tea to discuss ways and means of making their own special feature of the fair a success, and from hints led drop by some of those present, the affair promises to be very novel and entertaining.

Wednesday Mrs. Shiner and Mrs. Will Young gave an auction party of nine tables in the Cavalry club. Those present were Mesdames Kenyon, Naylor, Gaugler, Winans, Apple Parker, Scherer, Frankenberg, Dodds, McKinlay, Tinker, Mason, Dixon, Bailey, Hopkins, Glassford, Short, Cheney, Fecht, Renshausen, Jordan, Gardenshire, White, Mapes, Haybold, Cance, Sturgis, Cruikshank, Baker, Fair and the Misses Hopkins, Mason, Ellis, Short and Deems. After the playing was over tea and salad were served at a prettily appointed table, by Mrs. Mencher and Mrs. Deems. The prizes were a bouillon set of Canton china, a large platter, and a cup and saucer of the same ware and were won by Mesdames Baker, Hopkins, and Cheney, respectively.

Mrs. Kenyon is noted for being a very charming hostess and her affairs are always greatly enjoyed. One of her most successful entertainments was the breakfast of twenty-five covers given on Saturday last, followed by a reception given to present the ladies of Schofield Barracks to Mrs. Carter, wife of the commanding general of this department. Those present at the breakfast were Mesdames Beach, Sturgis, Howells, Reichmann, Harrison, Bailey, Gose, Van Pooler, McDonald, Doane, Mitchell, Hunt, Mapes, Willard, Short, Parker, McAfee, Cassels, Tupes, Fales, McCleave, Taylor and Miss Taylor. Mrs. Kennon poured tea at a very daintily appointed table whose decorations were carried out in pink and green. The graceful centerpiece was a silver basket holding a large cluster of pink carnations. The pink note was repeated in the candies, cakes and ice while feathery ferns festooned about the room formed a background for the dainty frocks of the guests.

Sleeping in a Pullman Car

We are encouraged by the fact that the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad has adopted, and the Railway Age Gazette has discussed, regulations intended to prevent much of the noise which now makes a railway "sleeping" coach a travesty. The railroad named has been characterized "the noiseless route." The Railway Age Gazette doubtfully remarks that the regulations will be maintained with great difficulty, but it may be taken as a step in advance that one railroad company has formally recognized the universal annoyance of unnecessary noises in railway traffic. We are not so unreasonably as to expect an engine fireman always to hold his steam in check so as to prevent explosions of the pop valve, and we realize that the clanging of an engine bell is necessary in the absence of a less primitive warning signal, but in nine cases out of ten the bell need not be rung continuously while passing a line of sleeping coaches of an occupied train on a parallel track, and an engine need not be stationed for a considerable time right at the side of passenger coaches who have paid high prices for the privilege of occupying a "sleeping" car. And the arrival at a station in dead of night of a solid vestibuled train, with curtains drawn, lights low and passengers sleeping, need not be the occasion of an onslaught by torch-bearing demons racing about the train, shouting at each other, hammering the resounding wheels with sledge and throwing heavy trunks about the platform, while the coaches are battered against each other as so many freight cars, in the process of "making up the train." If any passenger is not immediately awakened his case will be provided for by an alteration in a coach aisle between the conductor and a newly arrived passenger regarding a berth. If competition in railroading ever becomes brisk enough to warrant the improvements suggested, the traveling public will look back upon present conditions as on a nightmare.

ALTERING LAST SPRING'S SUIT

There has been a revolution in suit building, and one has to take off one's hat to the men who make women's suits in token of the speed and ingenuity with which they have adopted the new lines to the matter of skirts and jackets. But that doesn't help us in the least if we have to wear last year's suit.

Neither does the statement that fashions this spring are not radically different from those of last autumn. For fashions last autumn were radically different from those of the spring.

However, the difficulty is, not so great as it looks, as an ingenious dressmaker who makes a point of remodeling pointed out the other day.

A customer brought her a suit that looked out of date, though it was in good condition and had seen but one summer. It was constructed of a very good quality of fine-wale, raven-blue serge. There was a cut-away coat with long cat tails that reached more than half way to the knees. The sleeves were long, and there was the regular puffed collar, deep to the throat. The skirt was long and straight, with a sort of sword sash brought from one side of the belt to the opposite hip and there tied.

Like all of last spring's suit, it was quite as remote from the new lines as if it had been 10 or 15 years old.

"Just the thing to turn into one of the new serge and taffeta silk suits," said the dressmaker, as she figured forth in thought the suit after it had been remodeled. And within a few minutes she had her scissors going, working out the change.

First of all, the skirt was ripped up and the lining taken out of the coat. These were sent to be freshened by the cleaner. Then the coat tails were cut off and the line of the front was sloped off to extend five or six inches below the waist in back. The regulation collar was also shorn off and the sleeves were shortened about six inches.

The new materials selected were half a yard of one of the many-colored metallic silks and several yards of chiffon taffeta matching the raven-blue of the serge.

From the taffeta the dressmaker fashioned a gracefully rolling Medici collar and flaring turnback cuffs and a graduated flaring peplum about eight inches long in front and 18 in back. The peplum was stitched over a piping of the same material along the bottom of the coat, and the cuffs and collar were stitched on with narrow bands of the metallic silk. A narrow waistcoat, with pockets, was made of the same metallic silk and fastened into position in the made-over coat. One of the new striped coat linings gave it the final touch of distinction.

The skirt had to be remodeled and this was done by using taffeta silk for the upper part, about 18 inches deep. The lower portion was fashioned from the old serge. A light peg-top effect was produced with the soft folds of the taffeta at the hips.

Plaid silk is much used in connection with suits this season, and this can be combined in a variety of ways with the material of the old suit. The skirt can be rejuvenated by adding a yoke portion of the new material or by putting on a plaited peplum reaching midway between the waist and knees, shorter in back than in front. Then there are the little panicle-like side tunics made of some harmonizing material that give the needed hip breadth to the old suit.

Wide black mohair braid is used to advantage on the old suits, and one particularly pleasing model showing short side tunics made of three slightly filled rows of eight-inch mohair braid indicates a way to alter an old suit.

The executive committee of the traveling passenger agents visited the exposition grounds last week, and in the words of the secretary, Elliott T. Monett, "everybody was simply dumfounded upon finding 70 per cent of the building completed, which, without doubt, when completed will be the most beautiful picture ever witnessed in this or any other country."

Her Father—Young man, I shut up the house at 11:30 prompt! Her Beau—Very well, sir—I'll begin saying goodnight at half-past 10."

Each Batch of Protests Means More Mainland Appointees

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Fitzpatrick of Lunallo street gave an informal dancing party Friday evening last week in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Silva and Miss Anna Farrell, who are soon to depart for the coast. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and delicious refreshments were served late in the evening. A very delightful time was enjoyed by all. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Silva, Miss Anna Farrell, Dr. Farrell, Dr. and Mrs. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Maxam, Mr. and Mrs. Bashen, Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Creedon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis, Miss N. Lloyd, Miss E. Blanchard, Mr. Macaulay and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Britton Gage are spending the week on Tantalus, and will be at home to their many friends some time in the near future at 1222 Kapiolani street.

Mrs. Gage, who until her wedding on Tuesday evening, was Miss Estella Barnes, leaves an enviable record of service behind her. She first came to Honolulu as economic secretary for the Young Women's Christian Association on February 26, 1913. Previous to that time Mrs. Gage acted in the same capacity in connection with the Wichita, Kansas, association.

During her service of six years in the organization, she has done much to develop the work along advanced lines, and since coming to Honolulu as economic secretary, the Homestead has been maintained on a self-supporting basis. This energetic young woman has also assisted greatly in the social work, introducing the tradition of the birthday dinners at the Homestead, and in many other ways, convincing to create a home atmosphere. She is being keenly missed at present by the girls at the house, who with the members of the association and the board of directors regret losing her as secretary, but all rejoice with her in her new happiness and extend to her many wishes for an even greater happiness in her own home.

There will be two great religious displays at the exposition, which are being planned. A reproduction of St. Peter's church in Rome, to cost a quarter of a million dollars, will be the exhibit of the Roman Catholic church. One of the exhibits of the Protestant denominations will be a building in the form of a Bible, open, standing on end and with the entrance in the back of the book and surmounted by a cross crowned tower. The cross will bear a text in electric lights. It is estimated that a half million dollars will be spent on this and the other Protestant exhibits in the department of social exhibits.

The Head Barber—That customer complains that you cut him on the side of his jaw. The Other Barber—Yes, sir. That first cut was an accident and I apologized for it, but the second cut was for symmetry.

Mrs. Hoyle—My ancestors came over in the Mayflower. I'd have you know. Mrs. Doyle—That may be so, but they wouldn't be allowed to land today.

Montpelier, Vt.—"We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would blot. An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

FEEL HEADACHY, DIZZY, BILIOUS?

CLEAN YOUR LIVER! A DIME A BOX

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels of a sick stomach. Poisonous, constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, sickening headache.

Cascarets will remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation poison move on and out of the bowels. One taken tonight straightens you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Children need Cascarets, too.

In Business Circles—News and Review

DR. E. V. WILCOX TO TALK PINES WITH MAUI MEN

Dr. E. V. Wilcox, director of the Hawaii experiment station, will be visiting Maui, where he will address a meeting of the Maui Farmers' Association tonight. The chief topic which is interesting the Maui farmers at present is the exceedingly low price of pineapples, and probably the meeting will be devoted in considerable part to this topic.

Dr. Wilcox hopes to be able to relieve the situation, at least in part, through the exportation of fresh pineapples to the mainland markets. This will be done through the territorial marketing division, of which he is head. It is planned to place a qualified representative in San Francisco shortly after the first of July who will be expected to see that all Hawaiian shipments receive proper attention. An effort will also be made to induce the several steamship lines to make better provision for carrying fresh fruit than at present. Under proper conditions of packing and ventilation on the ships, pines reach San Francisco with practically no loss. During stormy weather, however, when hatches have to be closely battened down, the lack of ventilation sometimes occasions very heavy losses to the shippers.

The homesteaders at Haiku, although many of them will be pretty hard hit by the slump in prices of pineapples, and none of them can hope to break even unless prices should advance, are still optimistic. Most of them are experimenting with various other crops, and the hope is very general that it will be found possible to make good independently of pines. There are practically none of the 50 odd settlers who even suggest the likelihood of failure.

With very few exceptions, all of the Haiku homesteaders are undoubtedly very much in earnest in their desire to be able to make their holdings their future homes. An especially promising thing in this connection is the attitude of the women of the settlement. Some of them have been living there for two years or more, and they are universally cheerful and happy. The social atmosphere of the district is exceedingly pleasing. Many of these women have the sole management of the farms in their hands, their husbands being obliged to hold outside positions pending the time when their lands will supply their needs. In a few instances this desired result has apparently almost been reached, some of the places being almost on a self-supporting basis. The Haiku homesteaders are generally considered to be among the most favorably located in the territory, and their success or failure will mean much to the future not only to the settlers affected, but to the territory as a whole.

COST TO BRING LABOR TO HAWAII $766.90 A HEAD

According to recently compiled figures, it has been found that during the period from 1905 to 1914, the number of European immigrants brought here through efforts of the territorial government, were 17,359; and that of this number 11,083 failed to remain here, continuing on to the coast, in most instances, as soon as they had the necessary money to travel on. These figures include men, women and children. The total increase of arrivals over departures has been 6,276. The cost of bringing these people here has been over $1,226,957.48, and counting one-third of the immigrants to have been men, the cost per laborer has been $766.90. The general impression seems to be that this enterprise has been an expensive one, and that California has benefited by it a great deal more than has the territory. It is unlikely that the work which was stopped some time ago, will be revived.

PINEAPPLE DAY IS BEING EXTENSIVELY ADVERTISED

Hawaii's "Pineapple Day" is receiving unlimited mainland publicity, as well as much local advertising, according to a report presented at the meeting of the Promotion Committee yesterday afternoon. Circular letters to the number of more than 1000 are now in readiness for mailing to hotels, steamship, railway and tourist agencies throughout the United States. On the day of celebration, August 15, various hotels, steamships and railways are requested to serve Hawaiian pineapple, and to give it due mention on the bill of fare. The business of the meeting yesterday afternoon consisted largely of routine matters and the reading of communications. A large number of letters received from mainlanders give evidence that this summer's travel to Hawaii will be unusually heavy.

But why should any fool man want to stand prosperity? It's up to the prosperous chap to sit down and take it easy.

This would be a much more pleasant world of there weren't so many ways of making people unhappy.

BERMUDA ONION NOW A RESIDENT OF THE ISLANDS

For many years the growing of onions in the Bermuda islands was one of the most important industries of the place. It was one of the staple crops, just as pineapples are in Hawaii. Twenty years ago people all over the United States always associated the big, white, thin-skinned bulb seen on the fancy markets, with Bermuda, and the name has thus become fixed, although a comparatively small proportion of the so-called Bermuda onions now come from the Atlantic islands.
It would seem that Hawaii has a most excellent chance for developing a very important industry in growing this onion, which it has been proven can be grown successfully here and placed on the mainland markets several months ahead of the Texas and Imperial valley crops. That this fact is beginning to receive attention from mainland capital is evidenced by the following letter received yesterday by the Territorial Marketing Division, from a big San Francisco produce concern:
"It was our pleasure to purchase and handle on this market a number of shipments of onions of the Bermuda type that were shipped in here from Honolulu during the past few months. We are quite heavy in the onion game and are therefore considerably more interested in this Bermuda onion business than most of the houses in this market, and are therefore writing you for information. We would appreciate it very much if you will give us full details if possible at your earliest convenience.
We would like to know if the raising of these Bermuda onions in the Hawaiian Territory has proven to be a success. Do you get a sufficient quantity per acre to justify and is there sufficient acreage available so that the output could be increased. What is the average cost per crate of these onions, crates included, delivered to the steamer dock? Is there much trouble from thrip or any other disease, and can said diseases, thrip included, be overcome without much difficulty. Would you consider it a risky proposition, or only the ordinary chance of general farming, to go into the raising of these onions on a large scale? How early can they be matured?
"We are probably asking a whole lot, but we are very much interested, and so are some of our connections"

WONDERFUL ASSEMBLING MACHINE INSTALLED BY THE FORD COMPANY

The Ford Motor Company, continually prodded by the extraordinary growth of its business to speed up its production and to discover time and labor-saving devices, recently adopted a new system for the final assembling of cars which gives a visitor to the plant an astonishingly vivid impression of the significance of the Ford output.

When one sees 30 rear axles grow to real motor cars within an hour and what was, a comparatively few feet away, an inert piece of metal roll out the door a completed, complicated automobile running under its own power, words fail. The visitor is stunned. He fails to grasp all that he would of the real significance of the industrial miracle. For comparisons he gropes around and stumbles on chief points in the way of a conveyor. With the aid of the conveyor production is speeded up so that the line produces 30 completed cars in an hour. There is very keen rivalry among the workmen of the four different assembling lines, especially since the adoption of the mechanical conveyor, which is really being tested out.

At the beginning of the assembling line is a heap of rear axles. These are shoved along from group to group, until the skeleton of a chassis with wheels is evolved. Then the conveyor is reached. This consists merely of two endless rows of revolving steel wheels, set in grooves on which the car rests. Each car is coupled to the one in front, and a power device with coupling attachment and starting lever shoves the row of coupled skeletons up the line. Every few feet stands a group of workmen, under their own foreman, whose duty is to do one simple operation in assembling.

One group fastens on the gasoline tank; another drops in the complete engine; another fastens the steering apparatus in place; another puts on a certain bolt, etc. The long line of skeleton cars, always growing a little more like a real automobile every few feet, moves just slowly enough over the rollers of the conveyor to give each group of men time enough to do one special job. Naturally there can be no loading. As soon as a radiator is on or a gasoline tank arranged, the next car has crept up and is waiting to be similarly treated. The factory is so arranged that these various parts of the car are easily accessible. Some drop from the floor above by gravity just where they are needed, some are carried to their place in the assembling line by power conveyors.

When the upper end of the line is reached the car is complete, every part in place and ready to run. The back wheels are set spinning by the conveyor on which they rest. That starts the engine without the necessity of cranking it. A tester hops into the seat. There is a shove of a lever from behind which starts the car off the conveyor. The clutch is thrown in, and the car rolls off to the floor, the front wheels hit a swinging door so arranged that this action opens it automatically, and the car is in the s'p'ing yard, where there remains only the jacking up of the rear wheels for a brief test before running onto the freight car.

The car you see rolling out into the yard is the very one you have watched grow in that line of magic. It is the evolution of that rear axle you saw sixty minutes ago nine hundred feet away.

RECITAL AT OPERA HOUSE PLEASURES MANY

Elsa Cross Howard and Assistants Present Program That Is Masterpiece Throughout

Honolulu has never been treated to a better program of entertainment than that given last night by Elsa Cross Howard and John Gifford, assisted by Mrs. Chas. L. Hall, Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Mrs. D. Howard Hitchcock, W. O. Phillips and Mrs. A. B. Ingalls' string quartet. The Opera House was filled to the doors and every one of that large audience left the house with a satisfied expression on his or her face—satisfied through the fact that the performers would not play through the rest of the night, for the audience would have stayed had the performers continued the program.

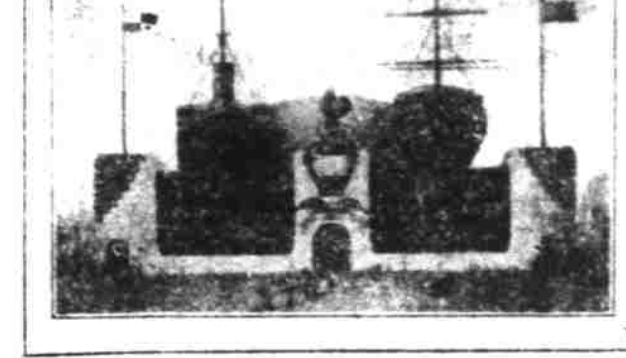

Every number and every part of every number was a masterpiece and an appreciation of each was heartily expressed by those present.

For a young performer Mr. Gifford certainly exceeded the expectations of a critical audience. His rendition of Schubert's interpretation of Ave Maria and other selections as well as the chorae were as near perfect as could be wished for. With a critic's privilege it is suggested that Mr. Gifford relax his features to the suspicion of a smile, at least once during a performance. His audience would enjoy his melody to a larger degree.

Words are useless to describe the parts enacted by Elsa Cross Howard. Her interpretations of Le Sylphe, the Swan Dance, and the Snake Charmer were wonderful.

Mrs. Charles L. Hall's sweet voice was heard to an advantage, setting an accompaniment to Mrs. Howard's dance.

Heretofore the final assembling of Ford cars was a matter of shoving a section of a partially completed car onto a group of men, who put in another part and shoved the car on to the next group. Cars were thus kept moving along in four long rows. The same system now prevails, the assembling being done in four rows, each 500 feet long, but one of the four rows has the advantage of a new arrangement in the way of a conveyor. With the aid of the conveyor production is speeded up so that the line produces 30 completed cars in an hour. There is very keen rivalry among the workmen of the four different assembling lines, especially since the adoption of the mechanical conveyor, which is really being tested out.

PACKARD TRUCKS SUPPLY BELOW PRESENT DEMAND

The first automobile manufacturer in the country to declare a shortage of cars for this season is the Packard Motor Car Company. During the first seven months of that company's fiscal year, starting last September, the total sales for motor carriages have been 1014. For the corresponding period of the 1910 season, the Packard company's previous banner year, 1882 cars were sold.

"By a flood of orders, the Packard Motor Car Company is marooned on a pinnacle of success," declares President Henry B. Joy. "At present we are unable to turn out cars in sufficient quantity to supply those groups of high class vehicles who know that the best is the cheapest in the long run. Our aim has always been to establish a name for character and quality of Packard product so our vehicles will be regarded as pre-eminent in the vehicle trade.

"The buying public has put the stamp of approval on Packard vehicles by such liberal patronage that the company's allotted product for the year will be 500 cars short of market requirements. This year's business exceeds that of a corresponding period of last year by 422 motor carriages. It is greater than the company's banner year by 132 cars. This is a remarkable success in the face of prevalent business conditions.

"The largest week in the company's history closed April 11 with 160 sales of motor carriages. On April 8, we received a total of 83 orders from our dealers, each one representing a sale to a customer.

"Orders for enclosed bodies to be delivered in September and October are beginning to develop by reason of the company's explanation that unless ordered sufficiently in advance, deliveries in time for the first inclement fall weather will not be possible, except in standard paint and upholstery. It takes four months to complete a standard Packard enclosed body. If orders for enclosed bodies with special finish are not placed until after the summer vacation period, delivery cannot be made earlier than November and then the number will be exceedingly limited."

KEEN APPETITES SHOULD FEATURE BIG 'Y' DINNER

Happy is the man who will have an appreciative appetite next Tuesday evening, for that is the time scheduled for the annual dinner of the Y. M. C. A. The champion chefs of the territory will have charge of the culinary department of the association that night, each for his own specialty, while the fish chowder to be served will be "worth the price of admission," which is 50 cents.

The dinner committee, consisting of George H. Angus, chairman; C. H. Tracy, C. G. Heiser, Jr., G. S. Waterhouse and W. O. Franklin, met yesterday afternoon and made the final arrangements for the grand march and other things distinctive of the Y. M. C. A. and its annual meeting.

At 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the state delegation committee, consisting of A. L. Mackay, chairman; W. A. Bowen, A. H. Tarleton, C. J. Hunn and H. B. Campbell, had a meeting at which all the state chairmen reported the number of those who will be present under their special banners so that arrangements now are complete for separate tables for the large delegations and harmonious grouping for the smaller delegations.

Wanted: Some sky-blue grass from Kentucky.
Wanted: An extra loud buzz for New Jersey.

Suggestions for the table decorations for each state delegation are in order, for it is never too late to adopt a good thing, even if it is only a yell. Get busy and be present everybody, and hold up your state chairman for a ticket and avoid the rush at the last moment so that the fish chowder can be served piping hot.

MORF ATTENTION URGED FOR WELSH CHURCH MEASURE

[By Latest Mail]
ROCHESTER, England — Speaking at a meeting at Rochester recently, Lord Hugh Cecil, M. P., said that the Welsh church bill had been overshadowed in Parliament by other questions, and had not received the chance which so important a measure deserved; they had to discuss it in conditions which enabled the government to put them off with any argument or none until the division.

It was hard that the Welsh church should have to give up its endowment, and abandon its establishment, because church people were said to be in a minority, and that when they asked for a religious census to test their numbers, they should be refused it.

There had been growing signs, especially recently, that many of their Nonconformist friends in Wales disapproved of the present bill, at any rate, so far as the disendowment clauses were concerned, and there was every reason to doubt that the bill represented the true wish of the Nonconformist churches of Wales.

CATHEDRAL BASE SOON TO BE LAID IN ITS ENTIRETY

[By Latest Mail]
WASHINGTON — The anonymous gift of $500,000 recently to the building fund of the Washington Episcopal Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul will enable the building committee to proceed at once with the work of laying the cathedral foundations in their entirety. In harmony with this purpose the committee has accepted the drawings of Henry Vaughan of Boston of the proposed portals of the cathedral.

It is assumed that the cathedral in this city will ultimately cost about $5,000,000; it may go above that figure, and it will probably not fall below it. One portion, Bethelien chapel and the bishop's house, is already completed.

The architecture accepted is decorated Gothic of the fourteenth century. The cathedral is to be about the size of that at Salisbury, and larger than the cathedrals at Gloucester, Durham or Litchfield in England. It will stand 400 feet above the Potomac, covering an acre and a half of ground, and its roof will be on a level with the top of the Washington monument. Towers were decided upon instead of spires, because in the Washington atmosphere, which is that of southern Italy, spires would be rendered indistinct.

Besides the boys' and girls' school, already associated with it, the Washington cathedral will be modern in that its dependencies will include an athletic field, stadium, tennis courts and a woodland theater.

OAKLAND MINISTERS ADOPT NEW PLAN OF SECURING CONVERTS
[By Latest Mail]
OAKLAND, Cal.—Pastors of Oakland churches have started a thirty-day campaign to impress on the people the importance of developing the spiritual as well as the material side of their character.

Special efforts are being made to interest Oakland business men, particularly the younger ones, in church-going. Civic organizations are cooperating with the clergymen and committees have been named to come in personal contact with the office and outside men of the large Oakland corporations.

The aim of the crusaders is to show the non-church going public that the church has kept abreast of the times, and that the day of the long, dry and uninteresting exposition of the scriptures has passed, giving place to intergering treatment of modern problems and conditions met in everyday life.

TAX LEAGUE TO ORGANIZE NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Committee Has Outlined By-Laws and Constitution for Meeting's Consideration

PARTY ALLIANCES WILL BE AVOIDED, IS CLAIM

Every Man in Honolulu Invited to Attend Library of Hawaii to Perfect Plans

The committee on organization of the Tax Equalization League of Hawaii has designated Friday evening, May 8, at eight o'clock as the time for a public meeting for perfection of organization.

The library of Hawaii has been chosen as the meeting place and everyone is invited to be present. Whether interested in the work of the league or not it should prove worth the time of every one to be present as speakers, intimately acquainted with the scientific handling of taxation will be present and explain the fundamental principles of the organization.

Several meetings have been held by the organization committee and a constitution and by-laws drawn up that will be taken up for discussion and adoption at the meeting next Friday evening.

It is proposed to keep this organization free from all party alliances and entanglements, its sole object and aim being the education of the public along lines of the scientific handling of the collection of the necessary funds for the purposes of running the government, federal, territorial and municipal.

The following text is contained on a postal card being mailed out by Prof. W. A. Bryan, chairman of the committee on organization.

The committee on organization invites you to attend a public meeting to be held at the Library of Hawaii, Friday, May 8, at eight o'clock, for the purpose of completing the organization of the Tax Equalization League of Hawaii.

The objects of the league, as stated in the proposed constitution, are:

To study the general subject of taxation and to disseminate information in any form approved by the league relative to taxation and the equalization of taxation and to aid in securing the enactment or adoption of laws, ordinances and practices as are recommended by the league for the purpose of rendering the tax system of the territory less uncertain in its operation and more equitable in its incidence. To aid in securing and enforcing legislation calculated to insure a fair and just valuation of property for the purpose of taxation. To urge the separation of the value of the land from the value of the improvements thereon for the purpose of taxation and the reappraisal of the land values at frequent intervals. To advocate the reduction or abolishment of taxes on personal property and the improvement on the land and the enactment of legislation that will seek to derive the necessary expense of government more and more from a tax laid on the value of the land for use. To sustain the general principle of assessing the cost of public improvements, when practicable against the property benefited. To form or organizations throughout the territory similar to this.

Persons joining the league at the above meeting, or signifying their intention to do so by return post, will be designated as charter members.

It is the desire of the committee on organization that every man in Honolulu endeavor to be present at this meeting. The desire of the committee and its intention is that every man shall receive one of these invitations and should they not come to hand it will be through an oversight on the part of the committee.

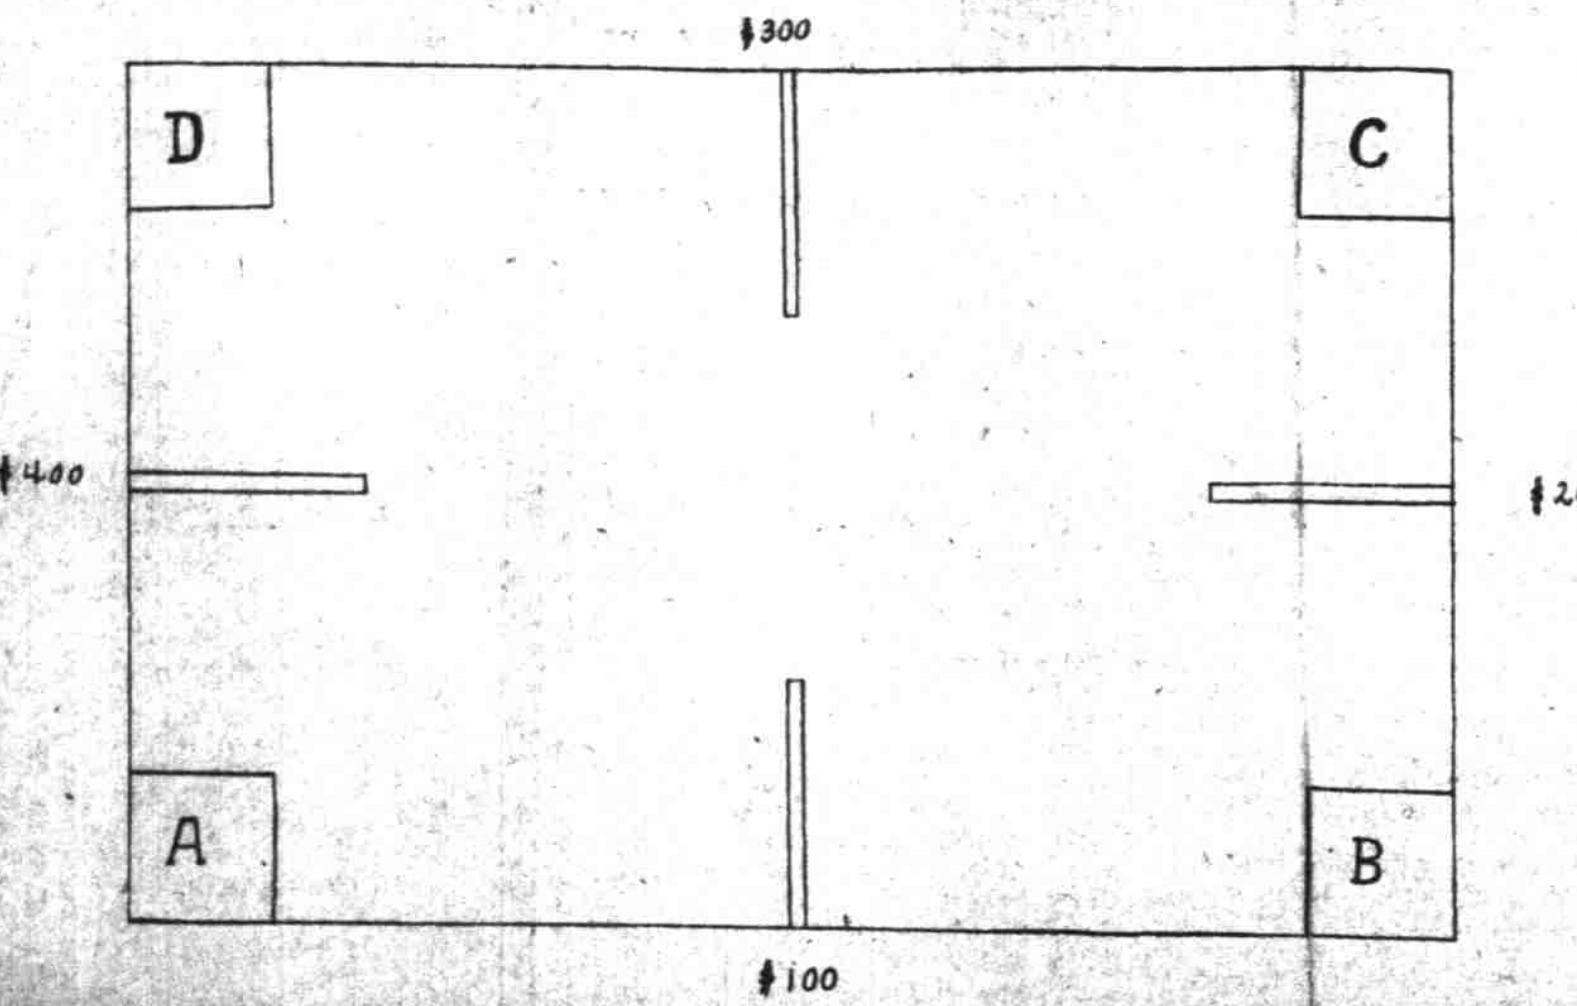

Wireless Sixty Years Ago

James Bowman Lindsay, a Scotchman, began experimenting with electricity in 1820. In a few years he produced a "constant stream of light," which was the admiration of scientists. He sent messages over wires and delivered many lectures on an electric telegraph. Then in 1833 he invented a system of wireless telegraphy and submitted it to a public test regarding which a Dundee paper of April 12, 1833, said: "The experiment removes all doubt of the practicability of Mr. Lindsay's invention; and there is every reason to think that it will soon connect continent with continent, and island with island, in one unbroken line of communication."

Lindsay's lectures were advertised under the title of "Telegraphing Without Wires" so that the familiar "wireless" itself was anticipated. But he was more than a scientific experimentalist. He projected a dictionary in 50 languages, and labored on it for a quarter of a century.

TAXATION, AS SCIENTIFICALLY HANDLED BY SOMERS' SYSTEM

The above diagram shows the unit in each of the four sides of a block. It is one foot front by 100 feet deep. Unit values are as indicated. All land, except the corner lots, is valued upon the basis of this unit. The values of lots less, or greater, than 100 feet or irregular shaped lots, are valued with mathematical precision by the use of percentage scales.

By CHAS. H. MERRIAM.
Our taxation troubles are too well known to need enumeration but they are different from those of other communities—and some of those other communities have applied the successful remedy.

It is what is called the Somers system of valuation for purposes of taxation. The taxpayer seldom complains because of taxation, for he has ample tangible evidence of the necessity of some such method of raising money, and of blessings which come from the expenditure of these funds—but criticisms are sure to come of the inequality of taxation, or, at least, from the supposed inequality. This inequality of taxation may be wiped out by a re-assessment, but such spasmodic corrections work no permanent cure.

Condemnation of officials would not be fair, for it is certain that those now in charge have brought about many improvements. It is the law that is in need of attention. We can, however, after giving due attention to changes in our present law, help those now in charge, by working together in an honest effort to establish what is termed "community opinion" of the value of real estate.

Locally, the taxpayer submits to the judgment of one man in the valuation of his property for the purpose of taxation—subject, of course, to appeal. Yet, if he were to place the property on sale he would be very apt to ascertain what his neighbors considered property thereabouts to be worth before finally fixing his price.

The tax assessor also helps out his judgment, whenever possible, by securing information as to the earning capacity of the property, and, in many cases, this actually constitutes the basis of his assessment.

Valuation worked out upon the basis of earning capacity places the tax levy, not upon the land, as a commodity, but practically upon an individual's brains and ingenuity in causing the land to give forth a greater income. The individual and not the land is taxed.

Pronounced complaints are often heard of over-valuation, but these are not the only accounts that require equitable settlement, for there are many instances of under-valuation, which, of course, to bring forth so loud a declaration from the owner.

The taxpayer, I say, has merely the judgment of one man as to the valuation of his real estate. And what is "judgment"? It has been said to be "evidently the scale in which facts are weighed in the individual's own mind, and the conclusions depend entirely upon his knowledge and the practice he has had in applying it."

This definition would suggest, therefore, that all possible means should be taken that will safeguard against the influences which are so often apt to prejudice human nature. This, at least, seemed to be the feeling which actuated one of the assessors of the city of St. Paul—Mr. W. A. Somers—when he devised a system for the valuation of real estate for purposes of taxation, which I think will commend itself to you, as it has to others wherever it has been investigated.

This system is based upon the taxpayer's opinion—otherwise said to be the "community opinion"—of the value of real estate. "Community opinion" of value may be defined as that opinion of value held in common by a majority of the members of a community, and its clearness and uniformity depend upon the extent of the interchange of opinions of the members of the community. Here, the interchange of opinions relative to realty value is quite generally indulged in, and the development of community opinion is already far advanced.

No assessment can be satisfactory—and therefore successful—unless it conforms to the opinion of value held by a majority of the citizens. The taxpayers are the judges of the equity and justice of the assessment—the satisfaction of the taxpayers is the supreme test of the success of the assessment. It must, therefore, conform to community opinion of value. Stripped of its detail of folders, maps, scales, building slips and other devices incident to the practical work, the Somers method accomplishes simply this: It records community opinion of real estate values in the best form for assessment purposes, and, at the same time, in the best form for the further crystallization of community opinion.

It is a comprehensive method, and most generally known in connection with the assessment of city property where conditions are complex and values high, but it nevertheless comprehends all conditions. In sparsely settled localities, as, for instance, the windward side of this island, there grows up and becomes associated with each tract of land a well recognized opinion of its value, per acre. That is, those living near such a lot have a good idea of its acre value.

In cities, however, community opinion of value does not exist in respect to specific tracts of lots, on account of rapid changes in value, speculations, and other matters peculiar to the city. It is a fact, however, that when conditions render community opinion of the value of lots impossible, there is community opinion of street values. The streets are continually used for business and pleasure, and their comparative value for business and residence purposes comes to be known by the citizens, quite in the same way as does the value per acre of agricultural land, to those who live in small villages.

Community opinion of street values is reduced to tangible form by the naming of a committee of representative taxpayers, who record upon a map prepared for the purpose the value of a unit on each side of each block in the city. The unit most commonly used, and which will serve for illustration, is one foot wide by 100 feet deep, located in the center of the block, where corner influence does not affect its value.

Land at street corners is treated separately, but a unit value is placed on each intersecting street and these values then blended, to secure the corner value.

In fixing the unit values the committee generally commences with the most valuable section, and works out, being added, as the work progresses from the most valuable section, with a comparison of the values already fixed, and the work becomes easier. In actual practice this part of the work is said to be speedily and satisfactorily accomplished. Favoritism cannot exist, as the units apply to blocks, not to lots. Occasionally, abnormal conditions are encountered; but these are easily taken care of by the exercise of judgment.

Copies of the map with unit values thus fixed must be made records accessible to the taxpayers, so that the values thus fixed may have the criticism and correction of community opinion. This map or series of maps is placed and kept on public view for a limited period so that taxpayers may compare their assessments with any, or all, other assessments. At the end of one month or more the maps go before a board of review, composed of the various members of each of the district committees and final values are fixed. Errors in judgment in fixing unit values, if any, are thus sure to be detected and corrected. Any correction must be made in the unit values, as the work from this point on is simply the mathematical application, by means of scales, of the judgment expressed in the unit values to the valuation of specific tracts or lots.

A re-adjustment or revaluation of the unit values would have to be made every three or five years as conditions might seem to warrant. The fixing of the unit values is the real assessment of the property. It is made by representative taxpayers valuations of over 5000 taxpayers, yet in a form accessible to the taxpayers and open to their criticism.

Community opinion of street values is greatly strengthened and harmonized by the participation in the work by the taxpayers, and their knowledge of its detail. This also brings about the satisfaction in the work necessary to its success. In the City of St. Paul 38 representative citizens served on these committees and they carried out their work by holding only 20 short sessions, and in a manner that met the almost universal approval of the taxpayers.

The scales for carrying the judgment of the committees, expressed in unit values, to an expression of the value of lots or tracts, are not arbitrary indicators of value, but are based upon the expert opinion of the committee of representative taxpayers. They provide for enhanced value on account of corner influence and for every factor that enters into the determination of value. Their operation is easily understood and is not beyond the comprehension of the ordinary clerks.

A system of map making has been inaugurated in the local tax office and is now well advanced, which should prove of great assistance in case the Somers system is adopted, for plans must be secured before such a system could proceed far. It is quite certain that the acquisition of maps of all city property will result in the discovery of enough un-assessed property to more than offset all expenses incident to such a change in assessment as is here advocated.

A very important element in the valuation of city property must next be considered—the value of improvements. With certain available information to place before builders, it is not difficult for them to ascertain the value of any building in a city. The work of placing valuations upon city improvements is only difficult on account of its magnitude. The information necessary for a reliable estimate of value must be gathered in a systematic way, and to properly handle this great mass of information, with the least possible labor and in the best shape for use, the building slip has been devised. A record is thus made of every detail and factor that should enter into the consideration of its value, such as, dimensions, rooms, material, finish, age, cost, rental value, etc.

This information is collected by unskilled labor, and the cost is not large. Different building slips are used for various classes of improvements, and there are many other details that might be mentioned, but it is sufficient to say that it is the only known system having value for the assessment of improvements. It is doing practically what the insurance adjusters work out when an insured building burns—namely, ascertain what it can be replaced for, and then they decide whether they will pay the insurance or replace the building.

With the value of each lot and its improvements thus established, the largest part of the assessment is completed. At this point the question may be asked, and it should be answered—is the Somers method of real estate valuation practicable? In St. Paul, the home of the system, over 15,000 lots and 25,000 buildings were valued, and this valuation proved highly satisfactory to the taxpayers, even though the final figures convinced the citizens that the valuation of St. Paul's taxable property was increased 25 per cent. This happens partly through the finding of un-assessed property but largely through the equalization of the valuations. This result would be reversed in cities where property was uniformly overvalued.

Cleveland has adopted the Somers system and is enthusiastic over its success. Houston, Texas, in adopting the Somers' system in 1912, reduced the valuations of over 5000 taxpayers, yet

MUNICIPAL RESEARCH CLUB LEARNS OF CONDITIONS OF LOCAL COURTS

Committee Investigates and Reports Back, Giving Much Interesting Data

The compilation of a vivid and exhaustive report, dealing with the expenses and, in some instances, the abuses of the courts of the city and county of Honolulu, is the outgrowth of a lengthy investigation recently completed by the judiciary committee of the Municipal Research Club. The investigation was made at the request of the organization, and the findings of the committee include, among other things, the financial workings of the courts in all their different phases.

The report follows:
Honolulu, April 27th, 1914.
To the Chairman, Officers and Members of the Municipal Research Club,

Gentlemen: Your committee to look into judiciary matters as relating to the city and county of Honolulu, submit the following report.

Upon examination of the books of the city and county treasurer, we find that the district and first circuit courts of this island have cost the taxpayers during the years 1911, 1912 and 1913 the sum of $63,353.39 more than the receipts from said sources. The salaries of the judges of the first circuit court amounting to $36,000 for this period have not been included, as they were paid by the federal government.

This large expense has been caused by the circuit court, as the receipts from the district courts exceed the cost of their maintenance.

The following table will show the standing of the courts for the period above mentioned:

District Courts	Receipts	Expenses
1911—Receipts, $20,147.83; expenses, $15,177.70; receipts over expenses, $4,970.13.
1912—Receipts, $19,489.74; expenses, $15,504.25; receipts over expenses, $3,985.49.
1913—Receipts, $24,955.40; expenses, $14,445.10; receipts over expenses, $10,510.30.
Total receipts over expenses, $19,275.92.

First Circuit Court.
1911—Salaries, $13,800.00; expenses, $4,567.09; total expenses, $18,367.09; receipts, $3,244.39; expenses over receipts, $15,122.70.

1912—Salaries, $27,727.00; expenses, $11,547.01; total expenses, $39,274.01; receipts, $7,277.20; expenses over receipts, $32,006.81.

1913—Salaries, $27,565.97; expenses, 16,972.75; total expenses, $44,538.72; receipts, $34,468.39; expenses over receipts, $10,070.33.

Total expense over receipts, $82,829.31; less receipts over expenses district courts, $19,275.92; cost of courts to the city and county for period of three years, $63,553.39.

The heads of the city and county departments have authority to incur bills against the city and county if an appropriation has been made to cover such purpose, but before any of these bills are ordered paid, they must be audited and approved by the board of supervisors, signed by the mayor and city and county clerk.

It is different with claims against the circuit court. The legislature provided that the city and county must pay the expenses of these courts so the board of supervisors makes the necessary appropriation and beyond this the board has nothing to say.

Claims against the circuit court are approved by one of the judges of this court and presented to the city and county auditor who must issue a warrant in payment of the same. Some of these vouchers would not be approved if the board of supervisors had anything to say in the matter.

For instance the city and county has in its employ in the Honolulu district court and in the police department, many persons who speak foreign languages. The circuit court requires the services of one of these and he is sent there during the time for which the city and county is paying him. The service may last a half hour or a half day. When finished he is given an approved voucher on the city and county for $5, which is paid to him.

During the year 1913, these services cost the city and county above the regular salaries paid to them the sum of $220.

While the amount is not large the principle by which they are paid is wrong.

It certainly would seem strange to any business man if he had to pay one of his clerks extra salary for services rendered to a department of his business other than the one in which he was regularly employed.

was able to reduce its rate of taxation from $17.00 on $1000 to $15.00 in the same year. All due to equalization of values. Its tax commissioner has stated that the system is satisfactory to 98 per cent of Houston's citizens. Many other cities have adopted the Somers' system.

The wonderful success of the Somers system in its own home and elsewhere, together with its very apparent justice and impartiality, and its known practicability, lead me to assert that its adoption locally would prove of more vital satisfaction to the taxpayer and of greater value to the government than any innovation of recent years.

Counsel for defendants assigned by the court.

Section 2816 of the Revised Laws before amendment reads as follows:

"In all cases of felony in which the party accused is unable to employ counsel for his defense, the court may assign him counsel from among the licensed practitioners, who shall use every lawful exertion in his behalf without fee or reward, upon pain of contempt to the court."

This section was amended by the laws of 1909 to read as follows:

Section 2816. Assignment of counsel for defendants; fees. In any felony case pending in a circuit court, where the person accused requests counsel for his defense and shows to the satisfaction of the court that he is unable to obtain such counsel, the court may assign him counsel from among the attorneys licensed to practice in courts of record and may allow such counsel a fee, provided that such fee shall not exceed one hundred dollars in cases where the penalty prescribed for the offense charged may be death, imprisonment for life or any term exceeding twenty years, and in all other cases shall not exceed fifty dollars. One fee only shall be allowed in any one case, which shall be in full remuneration for all services performed for such accused person in regard to the offense charged in the circuit and supreme courts. No attorney shall be so paid who shall have received any other compensation for services in such case nor shall any attorney so paid demand or receive any other compensation for such services. The fees authorized in this section shall be paid out of the appropriation made for the general expenses of the circuit court before which such case is pending."

This law as it stands at present is a burdensome expense to the city and county and I believe that it should be amended to read as it did before the amendment of 1909. At the time of the passage of the amendment in 1909, this expense was borne by the territory and many members of the legislature were satisfied to vote for it on that account as they believed that the territory could stand it. But when it comes to the counties with their limited revenues, paying for anything like this it is a horse of another color.

During the year 1913 the following attorneys received the amounts set opposite their names for services rendered under this law:

L. M. Straus, $375; Geo. A. Davis, $675; S. F. Chillingworth, $325; A. L. O'Atkinson, $175; Clem Quinn, $150; Noah Aluil, $150; C. F. Peterson, $100; W. T. Rawlins, $100; A. D. Larnach, $50; H. D. Middleitch, $50; P. K. Aiu, $50; F. Schnack, $50; W. J. Sheldon, $50; Andrews & Quarles, $25, a total of $2875.

Jury Expenses.

Another abuse that requires some attention is that of attorneys not being ready to try their cases at the time set. This results in a very large increase in the cost of the juries. If the judges would insist on the cases being tried at the time set, they would find that in a very short time that the attorneys would suit themselves to the new condition. But so long as attorneys know that they can get their cases moved along just so long will this thing continue. Time after time the jury is called only to hear attorneys make excuses for not being ready. If it were possible it might be a good idea, when a case is put off, the extra charge for the jury might be taxed to the attorney who was not ready.

This is done by the territorial government in the matter of extending the time of contractors on government work.

When a contractor wishes an extension of his time to complete his contract, it is granted on condition that the contractor shall bear the extra cost of inspection.

When the harbor commission took hold of things they had a great deal of trouble in making the available wharf space do the work of the port, for the reason that consignees left their freight for periods longer than was necessary, with the result that the wharves became congested with cargo.

By applying a charge for demurrage for all freight left on wharves beyond a reasonable time, the territory has been able to get more than double the former capacity from the wharves. So, I believe that if the judges were more insistent that cases be tried at the time set a great saving would accrue to the city and county.

Another matter that needs attention is that of the expenses in case of change of venue. There at present is no way by which the expenses of a case tried here on a change of venue from another circuit can be charged to the circuit from which the case emanated. When the present law was made the territory paid all the expenses of the circuit courts, and of course it then made no difference, but now as these expenses are paid by the county in which the case is tried it makes quite a difference.

PHONE COMPANY OF HAWAII WILL EXPEND $40,000

Improvements to System on Big Island to be Undertaken in Short Time

LOCAL CONCERN TO LOAN AMOUNT THAT IS NEEDED

F. G. Hummel to Leave for Hilo to Inaugurate Contemplated Trunk Lines

Improvements to cost about $46,000 are to be undertaken in a short time in connection with the system of the Hawaii Telephone Company. When completed, probably about December 1st, the Big Island will be belted by metallic circuit trunk lines which will make the country service second to none. Besides this, the city of Hilo is to be relieved of the nuisance of overhead telephone wires, through the installation of underground cables and conduits to replace them.

The Mutual Telephone Company, which for some time has been in control of the Hawaii company, is the good fairy which is making all these things possible. The Mutual has already decided to loan $30,000 of its earnings, which have been set aside to depreciation account, to the Hawaii Telephone Company for these needed improvements. The Hawaii Company will dig up the other $16,000 needed, probably out of its earnings. The loan is to be secured by three notes, drawing interest at 8 per cent, each for $10,000, and payable in one, two and three years.

The company plans to construct trunk lines of complete No. 19 copper wire around the island. Between Hilo and Honolulu there will be three of these trunks; between Honolulu and Waimea, two trunks will be built, from Waimea through Kona and Kea to the Volcano House, one trunk; and between Hilo and the Volcano House, two trunks.

These trunk lines will not be connected direct with any subscribers along the way, and thus uninterrupted and private conversation can be insured to almost any point. The various exchange offices will be able to connect subscribers with Hilo or other points, and there can be no "buttering in" as is the case at present.

In speaking of the matter this morning, J. A. Balch, president of the Mutual Telephone Company, stated that F. G. Hummel, manager of the local company, and consulting engineer of the Hawaii Company, will leave shortly for Hilo to inaugurate the contemplated improvements.

MARKET GROWTH IS GRATIFYING TO THE WORKERS

The growth of the territorial marketing division since its establishment under the direction of Dr. E. V. Wilcox, director of the U. S. Agricultural experiment station, July 1st, has been extremely gratifying to all connected with it. The first three or four months were a period of preparation and little business was possible. Since November, however, the business has been growing so fast that it is with difficulty that the office and warehouse staffs are able to handle it.

Besides the selling of produce from all of the islands for homesteads and other producers, the marketing division is now beginning to do a very considerable business as purchasing agent for residents outside of Honolulu; and this branch of the work, it is believed, will increase rapidly in the future.

The sales of produce during the month of April, just closed, are $1000 in excess of the previous month, which in turn had been almost double those of February. The total sales for 10 months amount to $15,235.87.

The following are the sale figures by months since the establishing of the service:

July	$ 3034.11
August	1835.00
September	1835.00
October	2835.00
November	3835.00
December	4835.00
January	5835.00
February	6835.00
March	7835.00
April	8835.00
Total	$15,235.87

WILLIAM J. BRYAN HAS OPINIONS ON CHURCH ATTENDANCE

In view of the nation-wide church attendance movements that are being carried on, a recent utterance of Secretary of State W. J. Bryan is of interest. He says: "The reasons for church attendance apply not to a particular Sunday but to every Sunday; they are understood by those who attend regularly and ought to be considered by those who do not."

The spiritual part of man is the most important part, because it is the directing force. It needs sustenance, as much as the body and mind. If spiritual emancipation were as easily noticed as emancipation of the body it would not be so hard to convince people that they need at least one day in seven for the consideration of those things which pertain to the development of the heart and to the science of how to live. No matter what one's creed may be, or whether he has a creed, one can make good use of the interpretations of holy writ which he can expect from the pulpit and of the application which should be made of moral principles to the daily life."

BEAUTIFUL EVENING GOWNS AND CLOAKS ARE SEEN AT WORTH'S

PARIS, France—As one reviews a visit to Worth's establishment, a beautiful picture presents itself, a cluster of exquisite evening gowns, one of vivid cerise, another of palest rose, then there was the softest blue, a shining green and a tulle yellow. The cerise gown was a dream of beauty, with simile as the only relief, and this made gleaming lines from shoulder to waist in a bold line across the bodice. The green gown was of satin in the richest tone and there was a pointed tunic embroidered with sparkling stones in a square design at the bottom, and the epaulettes and trimmings on the bodice were of emeralds and simile, with some beautiful lace. The little sleeve was entirely composed of bars of jeweled effect.

It is not easy to describe the Worth gowns; they are elusive as to detail, but they are grande dame and always in excellent taste. One in pale blue, turned back down the bodice and across the skirt with soft ivory velvet, was clasped at one side of the bodice with a large hook and eye of brilliants.

Materials Soft and Silky.

An afternoon gown in black and ecru was quite good, the scanty underskirt in black satin with a long tunic over it, open up the front, of black chiffon edged with broad Venetian point in ecru; this made the bottom of the loose elbow sleeves and was fashioned into a Medici collar standing well off from the neck. The sash was of black satin with a smart end to one side.

An Aiglon cape of very soft glossy face cloth in deep mulberry was lined with cerise. It was a double cape, exquisitely cut, with no fulness at the top, but with voluminous folds at the bottom, rather more than three-quarter length, the second cape much shorter and the Aiglon collar of silk the same shade with two cerise and gold buttons each side of the front. The cape was worn with one and swung over the shoulder so as to show a bold dash of cerise and one could not wish to have a smarter or more picturesque effect.

The coats and skirts we saw were mostly of soft, silky materials. One in broche was a vieux bleu in a most becoming shade, the coat quite a good length and trimmed at either side of the back with handsome tassels and passementerie over a somewhat full basque. The skirt, plain in front, was gathered up into two waterfall draperies at the back, and the blouse underneath was a charming one of blue chiffon made up partly over white partly over the broche, a good square effect being produced in the back and a very fine ecru lace upstanding collar completed it.

Charming Afternoon Gown.

"Bluetie" was a quite charming afternoon gown of black taffetas, with the top part of the bodice all of black chiffon over white and the loveliest design of blue corn-flowers hand-embroidered across it back and front, the blue repeated in a sash with loop down to one side and some fine black

Chantilly lace about the neck and sleeves.

Another pretty afternoon gown was of black taffetas with one of the new embroidered silks for the unic and front of the bodice. This bodice crossed in front and formed itself into a sash which tied at the back over the full black taffetas which made the back and sleeves. The scanty skirt of black was edged with a great ruche and the tunic of the embroidered silk, the embroidery being of soft yellows and greens, was trimmed with two smaller ruches with fringed edges. The sleeves were of the new full kind, three-quarter length and with the two materials forming frills to them, and the wide Japanese collar was of cerise.

A coat and skirt of pale stone-colored Liberty satin was made with a full skirt gathered on cords from the waist to the hips. The coat was of Louis XVI. style, somewhat plain and long waisted, with the basque cut en forme and stitched on; the collar was of white satin and came down the fronts in long slender revers, and several very pale pink roses were worn at the waist in front. It was an ideal picture gown, and the blouse beneath was quite charming, the satin cut into long points upward over chiffon of the same shade, and finished with a fine ecru Medici collar.

Evening Gowns Are Rich.

Some of the evening gowns must be mentioned. The richest materials were used, and once again ostrich feather trimming has reappeared. Take, for instance, a cloak of richest violet brocade with the softest blue ostrich feather trimming making a setting for the face, which was quite beautiful.

Another one of heavy black satin was a Breton cape at the back from a deep band of black velvet, with over it again a collar of mellow colored plaid in silk braid. Both this and the black velvet crossed over in front and hooked behind the cape. The cape came only to the front of each shoulder, and the right way to wear it was to gather it in each hand low down and hug it to one.

A palest rose evening gown had a dainty little basque of chiffon with stripes down of simile embroidered on it, the trimmings and sleeves of the same with a sash of sea-green taffetas.

Also another gown of soft white satin was made up with satin of palest paste blue, the two so cleverly blended together that one could not say where one ended and the other began, and it gave one the impression of the pearly inside of an oyster shell.

And, lastly, a black taffetas gown buttoned all down the front with tiny boule buttons of coral, the sash embroidered with the same color, and the buttons formed into motifs trimming the bodice. There was a tunic of black chiffon of stitched taffetas to give the sticking-out effect, and it really made the smartest gown imaginable.

RECIPES TRIED AND FOUND VERY SUCCESSFUL BY WOMEN OF HONOLULU

(Recipes recommended by Mrs. W. A. Ramsay, Kaimuki.)

ORANGE ICE CREAM WITH CRUSHED STRAWBERRIES.
Mix one cup heavy cream and one cup of thin cream. Add slowly to two cups orange juice, sweeten to taste, freeze and mold. Take from mold to chiller serving dish, and surround with fresh strawberries crushed and sweetened, garnish with selected strawberries.

ONE EGG CAKE.
Two rounding tablespoons of butter, one egg, 1 1/2 cups pastry flour, one teaspoonful vanilla, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk, two level teaspoons baking powder.
Beat butter, sugar and egg until very light. Sift baking powder and flour, add alternately with milk. Add flavoring and beat well for three minutes. Bake in shallow cake pan in moderately quick oven for 30 minutes.

POUND CAKE.
One pound butter, one pound flour, one pound sugar, 10 eggs, one-half cup orange juice, one-fourth teaspoon mace.
Beat butter to cream, gradually add sugar, beating all the while. Beat eggs without separating for 30 minutes. Then add gradually to butter and sugar and beat whole 15 minutes longer. Sift flour and mace together, add to mixture, then add orange juice. Bake in moderate oven for two hours.

CHESS PIE.
Three eggs, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk or cream, one-fourth cup of butter. Flavor with nutmeg and bake in one crust.

EGGLESS ICE CREAM.
One quart milk, one pint cream, sugar to taste, three tablespoonfuls flour. Boil flour and milk for five minutes and strain. Whip cream, if thick. The beaten white of one egg improves.

SWEETBREADS AND BACON.
Parboil sweetbreads, drain and cut away all fat and gristle. Dip into beaten egg, season with salt, pepper and paprika, roll in fine bread crumbs, fry gently in hot butter (will take about three minutes on each side) drain and serve with fried bacon.

SWISS STEAK.
Slice of round steak about two inches thick (from top of round is preferable). Pound into steak on both sides as much flour as it will take up (nearly one cup). Brown meat on both sides in bacon or salt pork fat. Cover with boiling water and let simmer about two hours. Peel an onion for each person to be served, let cook five minutes in boiling water, drain, rinse in cold water and set to cook around meat. Add mushrooms. This steak may be served on a plank.

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS.
(Baking Powder.)
Stir into one quart of sifted flour three large teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoonful cold butter, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful sugar and a well beaten egg. Rub all well into flour, pour in a pint of cold milk, mix quickly into smooth dough, roll out less than one-half inch thick, cut with a large biscuit cutter, spread soft butter over top of each, fold one-half over the other. Set immediately in a fairly hot oven. Rub over tops with sweet milk before putting into oven to give a gloss.

NUT BREAD.
One-half cup sugar, one egg, two cups milk, four cups flour, four heaping teaspoons baking powder. Salt to taste and butter size of an egg. One cup chopped walnuts not too fine. Mix and put in buttered pan and let raise for 30 minutes in warm place. Bake 40 minutes.

SNAILS.
Four cups flour, three heaping teaspoons baking powder, or one of soda, and two of cream of tartar. Small half cup sugar, milk to mix a little stiffer than biscuit. Roll one-half inch thick. Spread with soft butter and sprinkle with raisins, currants, sugar and cinnamon. Roll up and cut three-fourths inch thick. Put right in oven.

Home Arts

In this modern age the woman in the home, to manage her household efficiently, must have a fund of knowledge just as practical and scientific as that of her husband in office or shop.

All of the state colleges of agriculture have recognized this need of practical knowledge in the home. There are now large departments of domestic science in every state in the union, and in all of the outlying portions of the United States.

At the College of Hawaii these courses include the following subjects:

1. Textiles, fabrics, cloth and clothing.
2. Food, selection and cooking.
3. House construction, sanitation and decoration.
4. The diet, food stuffs.
5. Housework and laundering.
6. Millinery.
7. Dressmaking.
8. Personal hygiene, home nursing, and emergencies.

That there is a large demand for this work is evidenced by the fact that all courses offered are overcrowded, and there is at present a waiting list.

"Home-cooking" persists, ruling this and other lands with a despotism always marked by waste—of money, of food values, and worst of all of women's time—so great that it has been and is a handicap upon the race.

"The revolution which will wipe out the old home of the onion and the wash-bowler, the old home of the over-worked woman, held down by the inefficiency of her surroundings, her training and her traditions, and replace it with the new home, for which things that may be done at wholesale, by wholesale doers, economically, perfectly, promptly, will not be destructive of anything worth having."

"It will be preservative of much that is worth having and much that had begun to go, because the older plan failed when confronted by modern conditions."

"It may have been idyllic to go to the grocer's and there buy a pound of nails, to mail a few boards on one's house, to the dairy to buy six ounces of fresh butter and a pint of cream, to the baker's to buy your breakfast rolls—or it may have been idyllic for each individual to evaporate sea water in a hollow in some rock to get his salt, to worry at a crude forge, hammering to get his nails, to go out to the cow and get the milk and later churn and knead and mold in order to get butter; but those individual and therefore infinitely multiplied processes demanded energy which is now put to other purposes. More of the same sort is what is giving us the things of civilization which we value."

"It may have been a revolution which took us to the hardware man's for nails, and so on; but we did not note it; if a revolution was required to change our housekeeping from retail into wholesale that, too, has happened."

"We are entering the period of readjustment. Out of it will come a better, a less interrupted, a less cramped family life than we have ever known before."

"In the old days a good cook was a county wonder. Her fame spread willfar and wide. Was that because in those days of individual home-cooking, which is so loudly lauded, there were many fine home cooks? Is it not a there were so few? And the best of them could not approach in her best moments with her best material the best which is turned out today by wholesale cookery."

"No, the individual cook cannot compete with the wholesale cookery, but the prejudice in favor of society in general acknowledges it."

CHARMING FORERUNNER OF THE SPRING MILLINERY STYLES

DAINTY NEW HEMP HAT.
The charm of this jaunty spring hat is undeniable. It is of hemp, very much turned up at the side and with a dainty cluster of panicles nestling in the side brim. Velvet ribbon adorns the crown of the hat. A style feature of spring millinery is that on one side of the face the brim shall be best very low, while on the other it shall be very much turned up.

EXPERT TELLS HOUSEWIVES HOW TO REMEDY COMMON KITCHEN ERRORS

Writing on "Mistakes in the Kitchen," in Good Housekeeping, Mrs. Rorer says: Good juicy beef is frequently spoiled in the baking because so many people put it into a pan, sprinkle it with salt, thus drawing out its juices, add water, hot or cold, indiscriminately, and at last put it into an oven not properly heated. The result lacks flavor and tenderness; it is dry and tough. The correct way is to put the beef in a dry pan, resting it on the bones, fat side up. Run it into a hot oven and sear it quickly on the outside; this retains the juices. When it is partly done, dust it carefully with salt. Keep the oven hot for 20 or 30 minutes, then cool it to about 240 degrees, and cook 15 minutes to each pound if the roast is large. Baste it with the fat in the pan.

Boiled meats are spoiled in many households. As often as not they are put in a little water, hot or cold as it happens, brought to a boil and boiled furiously until they are wanted. The proper way is to drop the meat down into a kettle of boiling water, boil it rapidly 15 or 20 minutes, then push it to the back of the stove, where it cannot possible boil again, but will maintain an even temperature of 200 degrees Fahrenheit; boil 20 minutes to each pound of meat. Meat so treated will be juicy and tender.

Failures in tried recipes often result from inaccurate interchanging of materials—using sweet milk for sour, for instance, without changing soda to baking powder. Water may be substituted for sweet milk, provided a small amount of butter is added. Powdered sugar is not interchangeable with granulated sugar in many instances; three X sugar makes a heavy cake, but on the other hand, granulated sugar does not make good royal icing or meringue. Bread flour cannot be substituted in the fine pastry for pastry flour, nor can it be used in fine cakes with good results; southern cornmeal cannot be substituted in like quantity for the coarse, granulated yellow-meal.

Another very general mistake lies in cooking dishes long before they are needed, and allowing them to simmer; in flour mixtures they become pasty when this is done, in egg mixtures they become curdled. And there is nothing worse than the custom of making salad dressing ahead of time in the kitchen or pantry. The housewife should make the dressing at the table, pour it over the dry crisp lettuce or other greens, toss, and serve at once. Another mistake is to make a salad too sour; it is neither wholesome nor palatable. Use one tablespoonful of lemon or vinegar to four of oil. In salad-making the greatest luxury is simplicity.

To me, however, the greatest of all defects is the lack of taste shown in the seasoning of every-day cooking. Seasoning does not consist in the use of salt and pepper alone. One vegetable will frequently enhance the flavor of another. A suspicion of carline or onion removes the earthy flavor from lettuce and romaine; a dash of celery increases the flavor of cabbage; a slice of onion adds greatly to stew; onion corrects the bitterness of the cucumber and makes it very palatable. Two or three cloves and a bay leaf will enhance your soup—a hint of mace in the tomato soup, bay leaf and celery in potato soup.

GOWNS HAVE MUCH TRIMMING

The gowns of the present require much trimming, for they were inspired by a period when clothes were "fussy." The dancing frocks afford the best opportunity for trimming, and for dainty models of tulle, shadow lace and mousseline de sole the shops display an assortment of beaded, embroidered, braided, and crocheted trimmings. There are festoons and garlands of tiny flowers fashioned of gauze, silk or velvet which are charming. Chains of beads, particularly of crystal or jet, are arranged over the bodices and skirts of some of the handsomest models.

The tiered skirts call for a lavish use of flouncings, and these show beaded designs executed on net or chiffon in all the wonderful coloring of the opal. Flouncings of lace also demand much attention, for the loveliest of summer frocks are developed of flouncing.

Silver and gold laces, woven with an extremely open mesh and showing large flower designs, are favored for trimming the evening frocks of the most expensive class.

Tassels of silk or beads of unusually large proportions appear on suits, afternoon frocks and evening costumes. The latter are adorned with handsome white silk tassels.

Buckles play an important part in trimming the pretty frocks. They are jeweled with brilliants or colored stones and enameled in designs which denote the dainty Dresden china patterns. Other buckles are embroidered with heavy silk or braid, or fashioned of silk in odd designs.

The tango cap also requires effective trimming, and the charming models of metal nets are adorned with beaded bandings or cabochons of beads which reflect the gay coloring of the peacock. Pearl trimming is favored for the tango cap and metal faces, which are fitted over a wire frame to form the turned-back points which make the Breton cap.

With almost every costume is shown a long string of beads which harmonizes or contrasts with the color of the material. The beads are of unusual size and are fashioned of wood, porcelain, glass, jet, ivory, agate, jade, amber or ebony. Necklaces of the Venetian beads, whose beauty no tourist is able to resist, are considered extremely modish. These are finished at the ends with tassels of silk.

A frock loses half its charm if the wrong kind of trimming is selected, so be most careful when purchasing it. A wise plan is to take a sample of the material with you, for a color carried by a lace is often wrong, and the trimming must correspond.

FIGS TASTY AND ECONOMICAL

In Hawaii we are able to enjoy the delights of fresh figs. Dried figs are so delicious and have so many culinary possibilities that we should count on them as a staple fruit.

Cooking brings out their extremely sweet and almost aromatic flavor. Now that prunes are no longer a despised side dish relegated to the boarding house table, and have jumped so miraculously in price, figs can not be regarded in the light of luxuries.

Indeed, figs at 20 cents a pound are just as economical, if not more so, than prunes at 18 cents a pound, when we figure out the weight of the prune pits.

The most common form in which figs are to be found is in the square, pressed blocks in which they are sold in fruit and other stores; but a better fig for home use is the so-called "cooking-fig," which can be bought at the best groceries at a less price than the "pitted figs." Small and almost black "cooking figs" can also be secured from time to time, and are particularly delicious.

The best method of cooking figs is the slow stewing process, which develops the quality of the fruit without toughening it. These cooked figs can be removed from the syrup, stuffed with nuts or marshmallows and make a delicious sweetmeat for children, far preferable to the ordinary manufactured candy.

In stewing figs add a bit of lemon rind, preserved ginger or candied pineapple, which will give a unique and delicious flavor.

Here are two tried recipes:
Stuffed figs—Remove the inside of steamed or fresh figs and mix the part removed with chopped nuts moistened with a syrup of sugar and tart fruit juice (cooked or uncooked). Roll in sugar and serve.
Figs pie—Cut fine a half pound of fresh or dried figs and let simmer for half an hour in three-fourths of a pint of water, 1 1/2 teaspoonfuls of sugar being added when nearly done. When cool add well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Bake in a pudding dish in a moderate oven until the yolks are set. Make a meringue for the top from the whites of the two eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Let this brown and serve when cool.

Mott, has started a canvass of the civic bodies of the city with a view to calling a public meeting to organize a Lincoln Monument Association.

NEW YORK CAN'T BUY PUNCH BOWL FOR SHIP

[By Latest Mail] ALBANY, N. Y.—The "dry" order issued by Secretary Josephus M. Daniels for the navy recently is causing three State officials worry over what kind of a silver service shall be purchased for the battleship New York.

At the last session of the Legislature a bill appropriating $10,000 for the purchase of a silver service for the new ship was passed, and a few days later the Governor signed it. Thus did he also make himself, Lieut. Gov. Wagner and Speaker Sweet responsible for the selection of the present.

New York's Governor is in a quandary over the whole proposition.

"We may have to eliminate the punch bowl and substitute a pickle dish," he said.

He hopes that either the Lieutenant-Governor or the Speaker will be able to suggest a way out of the difficulty.

Tric is bounded by King and Hotel streets, River and Alakea, Fort street, from Queen to Beretania streets. No person can leave a vehicle in this district unless in control of person. No horse-drawn vehicle shall remain standing in district more than 15 minutes, unless animal is harnessed to vehicle. Standing automobiles must have white light in front, red in back. No person under 17 years of age shall drive motor vehicle, unless accompanied by adult person. Intoxicated persons shall not drive vehicles. A driver who has taken a drink within one hour of his violation of this ordinance will be considered prima facie guilty of intoxication. Traffic officers have full control in placing vehicles, and regulating traffic. Clamps, cleats or flanges are prohibited on heavy motor vehicles, except in cases of traction engines or steam plows, where cleats of a uniform street, River and Alakea, Fort street, height and width are allowed. Motorists must ring bell twice when wishing to cross intersection where traffic officer is in charge. Drivers must indicate to traffic officer the direction they wish to proceed. No weight in excess of eight tons shall be carried on any axle of any vehicles. The city and county engineer may grant permission for heavy motor trucks to be used. It is unlawful for vehicles to carry such a heavy load as to cut the roadbed. The owners of such heavy vehicles shall be responsible for damage done roadbed. The first conviction under this ordinance is punishable by a fine of from $5 to $100, or imprisonment not to exceed 15 days, or both; and the second conviction, if within a year from the first, a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100, or by imprisonment not exceeding 15 days, or both; and the third conviction, by a fine of $100, or by imprisonment of 60 days, or both. The judge of the court having jurisdiction of any charge brought under the penalty or penalties above set forth, cancel the certificate of any chauffeur found guilty under this ordinance. The court shall include in such sentence, if any, an extension of such prohibition for a term not exceeding 12 months for the first suspension, and for flagrant cases may include in any subsequent sentence and judgment suspension without limit. A new section has been added making a driver who has taken a drink within an hour of a violation of this ordinance prima facie guilty of intoxication. Several amendments will be made to the measure later, most of which are to correct typographical errors. To keep cool when you find yourself between two fires—that requires nerve.

RESUME OF NEW TRAFFIC LAW

For the convenience of the public the Star-Bulletin herewith gives a brief summary of the new traffic ordinance.

Following is the summary:
 The "congested district" is bounded by Richards street, waterfront Beretania street, Nuanuu stream. Vehicles must be driven with due care for the safety and convenience of pedestrians. Vehicles upon meeting other vehicles shall turn to the right, and shall, at all times possible, travel on the right side of the street. When one vehicle overtakes another, it shall pass to the left of such vehicle. If necessary on account of road conditions the overtaken vehicle shall stop to allow overtaking vehicle to pass. In no case shall passing vehicle pass nearer than two feet of one passed, unless the same shall have stopped. In passing street car overtaking vehicle shall pass to right. Slow-moving vehicles must keep as close to curb as possible. Drivers of motor vehicles must stop when signal is given by a driver of frightened horse. The signal must not be given without reasonable cause. Before turning, stopping or changing course, driver must see that there is sufficient space for movement to be made; must give audible or visible signal of his intention. Corners must be turned as near to the right as possible. On turning to left into another street, driver must drive to the right of and beyond the center of street intersection before turning. In crossing from one side of street to other, crossing must be made by turning to the left to the opposite side of street. In congested district such turn shall be made at street intersections. Vehicles are prohibited from stopping upon any street with left side of vehicle toward or along the curb. They cannot stand in front of en-trace of public building, on side of street where cars stop, within 20 feet of intersection, within 10 feet of fire hydrant, or in front of alley, except to let passengers on or off. Vehicles are to stop as near curb as possible. Vehicles are not to be backed up to curb except when they are actually loading or unloading excessively heavy freight. In case of draft animal used, the animal shall be turned at right angles to such vehicle. At intersections, vehicles have right of way over other vehicles approaching from the left, except where police officer is in charge. Fire department vehicles, when engaged in duty, ambulances, other vehicles employed in carrying sick or injured to places for relief, vehicles of police department, shall have right of way. When fire and police departments respond to an alarm, machines along way must come to stop by curb. These vehicles must be plainly marked. Vehicles shall not approach nearer than 10 feet of street car which has stopped to take on or let off passengers; and when such vehicle has stopped, it shall not proceed until after such car has started. This applies to the district comprised within the speed limits. The rules outside of this district is that no vehicle shall approach nearer than eight feet from the running board of street car which has stopped to let off or take on passengers. Vehicles shall not be left on grades exceeding five per cent without brakes set. All machines left standing shall have breaks set and remain set until machine is started. It is unlawful to propel vehicle over tracks to delay traffic of street car or railway. It is unlawful for persons operating vehicles along street railway tracks to claim right of way over street cars using track. Bicycles and similar vehicles shall not be allowed to approach dangerously near other moving vehicles. Garages with opening on street must have sign in conspicuous letters, "Garage Exit," lighted in red lights in darkness. No automobile shall be driven on Tantalus road or beyond its junction with Punchbowl drive. It is unlawful to use partially "broken" animal on streets. It is unlawful to lead animal along streets behind vehicle with top which obstructs view of approaching traffic; or to lead one or more horse-drawn vehicles without competent driver of each vehicle so led. It is unlawful for motors to be allowed to emit undue amount of steam, smoke, products of combustion from exhaust pipes, or other pipes, or racing engine, etc. No person riding bicycle shall hang on street car. TECHNICALITY LOSES PEARL HARBOR MONEY

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—On a point of order raised in the house yesterday the proposed million dollar increase in the authorized limit of cost of the government improvements at Pearl Harbor was defeated.

FIRST PART OF RATE HEARING IS ENDED

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The interstate commerce commission yesterday concluded the first portion of the railroad hearing for an advance in rates. The investigation thus far has dealt with the question as to whether the present rates are adequate. The assumption is that the railroads will win this point. The issue now is how to grant the additional raises. Brandeis argued that the charge should be against various industrial services. Willard is for granting higher rates all round.

CLEANSES YOUR HAIR MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL

It becomes thick, wavy, lustrous and all dandruff disappears—Hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Dandergine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Dandergine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, every application of Dandergine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Dandergine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Dandergine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—advertisement.

ROOSEVELT HAS SHOT CURUCU OR A CURURO

(By Latest Mail)
NEW YORK.—Cable dispatches from Brazil indicate that Col. Roosevelt has shot something, but there is a wide division of opinion as to what is a curucú or cururo or a spalopous poepipi—as the poise is variously designated. Describing the rare specimen Col. Roosevelt is bringing back to Manaus, the Sun declares he has shot a cururo, a "burrowing rodent which lives under the ground," and explains that its scientific name is spalopous poepipi.

The Herald explained that a curucú is a bird—short and stout with dentate bills and the first and second toes are reversed. In color the Her-

Conscription Advocated

Earl Percy has recently written for the National Review of London an article on the volunteer system of enlistment, which he contrasted unfavorably with conscription. It is being seriously criticized, and the temper of some of the criticisms may be judged from the following excerpt from Everyman:

"An officer with unrivaled experience of recruiting stated, in a recent lecture at the Royal United Service Institution, that 5 per cent joined from a love of adventure or desire to see the world, the remainder owing to pressure of misfortune or various kinds; 70 per cent enlisted literally because they were hungry. He described them as 'conscripts of hunger.' We know, on the authority of Colonel Seely, that one volunteer is worth 10 pressed men. Will he tell us how many pressed men one 'conscript of hunger' is worth? As it was in the days of Queen Anne, so it is now. Only we get even worse results. Let us compare the South African war with the war of the Spanish Succession, just 200 years before. Both taxed our resources to the utmost. The latter lasted 10 years, the former two years and eight months. The highest number we maintained abroad in the War of Succession was 50,000. This we did for about one year. The highest number in South Africa was about 250,000. This also for about a year. Taking the population of these islands in 1704 as 8,000,000 and in 1900 as 50,000,000, for the dominions must be included, we find that we not only endured a much longer strain 200 years ago, but put an even greater proportion of our population into the field. Now let us compare the fighting capacity of our 'volunteers' of these two periods. In both wars there were 'regrettable incidents' and surrenders. Of Almanza, in 1707, Mr. Fortescue says: 'The British alone lost 30 officers, killed and 234 captured, of whom 92 were wounded. The 6th Regiment had but 2 officers unharmed out of 23, the 9th but 1 out of 36, and other regiments suffered hardly less severely.' The rank and file suffered in proportion. At Brihuega they lost 600 out of 2500 and all their ammunition before surrendering to a force 10 times their strength. That is how the jail birds, the insolvent debtors, the pardoned deserters and the victims of the crimps and pressgangs fought 200 years ago. Any one who wishes can compare the history of their defeats and surrenders with those of our five-shillings-a-day volunteers in South Africa. It is better not to set it down in cold print."

ADMIRAL BOWLES TO RETIRE ON JULY FIRST

(By Latest Mail)
QUINCY (Mass.)—Former Rear-admiral Francis T. Bowles resigned the presidency of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation at the annual meeting of the directors. He retained his membership in the board of directors, however. His resignation becomes effective on July 1. It was announced that his successor would be chosen at an early date.

aid declares the bird is "shimmering green or brown marked with pink or yellow." At the American Museum of Natural History nothing was known of the cururo or curucú. The naturalists there never heard of the animal or bird, the secretary said.

Reputation and character are about as synonymous as the North and South poles.

KNOX COAST ARTILLERY TROPHY WON BY TROOPS STATIONED AT FORT KAMEHAMEHA, ON EXHIBIT

The Knox Coast Artillery trophy, open to competition among all the companies of the corps, and won this year by the 143rd and 68th companies, at Fort Kamehameha, has arrived in Honolulu, and within the next few days will be exhibited in the window of the Hawaii Promotion Committee. This trophy is awarded for the greatest proficiency in the annual service target practice, and the fact that the mortar battery at Kam did the best shooting of any mortar or gun battery in the entire U. S. Army, is a matter of considerable pride, not only to the concrete soldiers, but to the entire military of Oahu. The trophy consists of two bronze medallions, mounted on an ebony base. One medallion carries a relief portrait of Henry Knox, the father of American artillery, while the other carries the following inscription: "Ticonderoga 1776, siege of Boston. Gift of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

Above is a plate reading "Knox Coast Artillery Trophy. Coast Artillery target practice 1913, at Battery Hasbrouck, by the 68th and 143rd companies, Coast Artillery, U. S. A." At the time the trophy was won Captain H. G. Hatch was battery commander, and in command of the 143rd company, while Captain Taylor commanded the 68th company. "It is a great credit to the Coast Defenses of Oahu to have won this trophy," said Colonel Wm. C. Rafferty this morning. "Now it's up to Oahu to defend it successfully next year."

EMPIRE THEATER

John Bunny and a number of popular favorites in the world of the movies are to be shown at their best in comedies or dramas with the beginning of the week, when new and late maintained releases will be offered at the daily change of program at the Empire theater.

Depicting a round-up at a large cattle ranch, complete with a plot that amounts in stirring situations, the film entitled "During the Round-up," to be flashed across the screen this afternoon and evening is rated as a star attraction. The management have secured a two-reel film entitled, "The Moon-shiner's Mistake," a picture which upon the coast received high praise. There is a wealth of beautiful scenery incorporated in the presentation of this film.

"A Tardy Recognition," is a picture given a high rating by the critics. A drama of unusual strength is "A Wild Ride," a picture that is destined to create a favorable impression and giving ample opportunity for cleverer performers to display their ability.

Drummer—I thought you said I could catch the 3:30 train? Hackman—Well, sir, it was ahead of time to-day—it was only 10 minutes late!

Suffragettes in Russia

The Russians have adopted many generic terms from the English, more notably those of "hooligan" and "hooliganism" (hooligan and khuliganstvo). "Hooligan" is replacing the term "expropriator" and "hooliganism" includes robbery under arms. Lately the Russian Press has shown a predilection for the term "suffragettes," but since there are no suffragettes, properly so called, in this country, the term is indiscriminately applied to any feminine demonstration, private or public.

For example, under the heading, "Suffragettes at Tiflis," an agency telegram relates that a certain wealthy house proprietor in the Georgian capital, on the day following his wife's departure for a month's holiday in the Crimea, invited a lady neighbor to his house. This scandal, we are told, exaggerated the Tiflis "suffragettes," who to the number of over 100, stormed the residence of the faithless husband with the openly avowed intention of lynching him and his fair guest. The windows were shattered and a vigorous attempt was being made to force the doors when the police arrived. After a lively struggle, some 25 of the "suffragettes" were arrested and the house placed under guard. The women arrested were released a couple of hours later and the objects of their vengeance surreptitiously left the city the same evening.—Odessa correspondent of London Standard.

BIG INCREASE OF CAVALRY IN COLORADO

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Orders to quadruple the force of federal cavalrymen in Colorado were issued yesterday by the war department.

EASTERN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE IS FURTHER ENDOWED

Official word has come to the College of Hawaii that the Rockefeller Institute for medical research, New York, has received from John D. Rockefeller an additional endowment of $1,000,000 for the purpose of organizing a department for the study of animal diseases. A gift of $50,000 has also been received from James J. Hill for the study of hog cholera. The announcement says: "It is the expectation of the trustees of the Institute that the new department, making possible a very thorough and exhaustive study of animal diseases by trained experts will prove a great boon to raisers of cattle, hogs, sheep, and other animals, as the diseases have been expressed that many of these diseases could be held in check and perhaps practically stamped out if the breeders had practical knowledge as to which to act. With the present facilities at hand, the income from the $1,000,000 endowment will make it possible to carry on the work on a broad scope at once."
