Col. Theodore Roosevelt, big chief of all the Bull Moose, has written a letter to Hawaii scoring the Wilson administration, declaring that Hawaii should have federal aid for roads and booming George R. Carter.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE OPPORTUNITY

Attention, all Hawaii! The Honolulu Ad Club is about to begin a piece of work as important to the future of Hawaii as anything undertaken in years. It's the doubling of the funds for the Promotion Committee.

It will take money to get this result. It can't be done on pennies or dimes; it must be done on dollars. Hawaii must advertise—advertise—ADVERTISE. Tell the world that Hawaii is here to welcome the traveler to a country that remains untroubled in the midst of the greatest war in history, to seas unruffled by the battling navies of half a dozen nations, to a climate that literally and figuratively is unshadowed by the clouds of international strife.

The Promotion Committee decided yesterday afternoon to send Secretary Wood to the Coast to get into first-hand touch with traffic conditions. It's a good move. There are a dozen other things that may be done—that must be done, and they cost money. But it is invested money that will yield several hundred per cent in dividends.

The opportunity is at hand. The Promotion Committee is ready to enlarge its activities. The Ad Club has undertaken to raise the funds. In another column today the plans are outlined. Carry them out with a will!

KEEP THE ISSUE IN MIND

The citizens of Honolulu are now in the preliminary skirmishes of a municipal campaign that is being fought out not on municipal issues at all. The municipal campaign is being fought out on the territorial issue of the election of a delegate to Congress.

Senator Rice's candidacy for delegate in opposition to Kuhio is the outstanding issue of the politicians are chewing upon. The Kuhio-Rice campaign has involved every other campaign and a large section of the voters are supporting or fighting candidates for municipal office not because of their merits or lack of them but because they are adherents or opponents of Kuhio.

The situation shows the desirability—more, the necessity, of separating municipal and territorial elections. The last legislature did this for the other islands, but the Oahu bill was buried. Now the conditions are little short of disgraceful for an American community. The real issues of the campaign in this city and county are rapidly being lost sight of, and the false issue—false, that is, so far as the local campaign is concerned—of Kuhioism has been thrust upon the voters by the professional politicians.

The next legislature should remedy the mistake of the last and separate the elections on this island. In the meantime, the voters themselves have a remedy and that is to keep quite clear in their own minds the vital issues of the Honolulu campaign.

Send men to the board of supervisors—elect the sheriff—the county attorney—the treasurer and the rest of them not because they happen to be supporting Kuhio or Rice but because they are efficient, trustworthy, progressive.

BANKRUPTCY AS AN ARGUMENT AGAINST WAR

Eighteen or twenty of the peace treaties by which Secretary of State Bryan expected to make war impossible have not been ratified and of course those affecting European powers now will not be. The chances are that even if they had been in effect on August 1 the European war would be about where it is today.

None of the European powers will consent to sign any sort of agreement or treaty that binds them to arbitrate instead of fight where a question of personal honor is involved, and it is noticeable that all of the nations now at each other's throats say that they were driven to take up the sword in defense of honor.

Austria called Serbia to account for the assassination of the heir apparent and his wife. Russia upheld Serbia on a point of alleged honor; Germany found herself unable to endure Russia's attitude; France stood by her great northern ally; England stood by both; Japan is ready to strike for England; Belgium, attempting to preserve neutrality, found her honor tainted when the German soldiery set foot on Belgian soil; Montenegro was unable to witness a neighbor in conflict with a stronger power without going to that neighbor's aid—always and everywhere the avowal that honor was at stake.

Regardless of the side to which victory sways in this titanic encounter, every one of the nations actively involved will be bankrupt financially if the war goes on for a year and most of them will be bankrupt physically. It will take Germany, Austria and France fifty years to pay the bills.

In the end right may not be on the side of justice; it is quite likely, as that illustrious warrior of history said, to be on the side of the heaviest artillery.

War in the future will not be made impossible so much by treaty as by the realization that in these modern days it is too expensive.

It is not only "Too Bad" Jack Kalakiea who is hard hit by the supreme court decision upholding the civil service commission's powers—it is the pie-counter system of doing politics. Kalakiea is notoriously unfit for the police department and his appointment by Mr. Rose is a black mark on the record of the new sheriff. In knocking out Kalakiea's job and his salary claim, the supreme court has upheld the civil service commission's right to insist that merit govern police appointments. The civil service commission is still in its infancy here and yesterday's decision is an important one in the forward movement for efficiency in municipal affairs.

At the latest account, there were six German, one Canadian, four British, three Japanese and three American war-vessel rumors around Oahu.

Now is the psychological moment to "see America first."

Hawaiian waters are noticeably safe for foreign ships.

CITIZENS OF MAUI TENDER BANQUET TO JUDGE SELDEN B. KINGSBURY

WAILUKU, Maui, Aug. 14.—Last night at the Maui hotel a banquet was given by Maui citizens in honor of Hon. Selden B. Kingsbury, who is leaving Maui this week. Approaching six years the guest of honor has been Judge of this second circuit.

Crockett, E. B. Carley, H. D. Sloggett, R. A. Wadsworth. Toastmaster Penhollow called first upon E. R. Bevins, who spoke in warm appreciation of what Judge Kingsbury had done in Maui during the time he had been here. Judge W. A. McKay gave a touching tribute to his friend, and spoke of the faithfulness of Judge Kingsbury to the cause of righteousness and truth. Attorney W. F. Crockett was next called upon. The response made by Mr. Crockett, though purely extemporaneous, was one of the finest tributes that could be paid to any man.

BULLY FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin. There are some little differences of opinion here as to whether it is advisable to pull off the carnival next February or put it over to a future date, and it appears from what I have been reading of opinions of the people that that "little difference" is getting "bigger by the minute."

There are very few cities on the mainland that boast of a civic celebration which is of such widespread interest as has become Hawaii's carnival. It gives Hawaii class, character and advertising that cannot be bought with money. The largest phase of this situation, in my estimation, is the fact that Hawaii needs all the advertising that this carnival has brought to us in the past and all that can be brought in the future, for notwithstanding all that has been said and done along publicity lines, Hawaii still remains to be "located" by many people on the mainland. The people do not know Hawaii as it is. They see a bit of verse on Hawaii now and then and they occasionally read of our pineapples. They are densely ignorant of the fact that Hawaii's climate is beyond comparison, the finest in any section of the globe. They do not know that in Hawaii the most delicate of shrubbery and ferns, which elsewhere are tenderly raised in hot-houses, here flourish in the open air.

mainland. They do not know that Honolulu is a modern city with all the modern ideas and conveniences of a continental city. They do not know that Hawaii is the most beautiful spot on the face of the earth to live in. Strictly speaking, we are yet to be "discovered."

We have put our festival before the world with our best foot forward and there is nothing to do but keep it up. Through it we have been able to show to that part of the world that would look, a pageant that carried Hawaii's fame far beyond our shores and has brought more visitors with each succeeding carnival. If this has not been worth the cost then we are hard to satisfy. People read of our great festival and wonder if it is so. But it is not enough to advertise even this way. We have the goods when people do come to see, and our aim should be to increase our attractive power a hundred fold each carnival year. We want people to be carried away by what they see. We want them to come here and live. Here they will find the very climax of what they have sought, perhaps the world over. Our greatest effort should be in getting people to come here and there is no doubt that the climate and other thousand favorable conditions in Hawaii will do the rest.

The carnival is the one great avenue through which this can be done and it is very unwise to think for a moment of dropping it, no matter what the trumped-up reason. I, for one, register an emphatic NO. Even with the conditions which San Francisco is facing—the whole of Europe cutting each other's throats with the possible elimination of some nation and the changing of the map of that country—she wires to the world, "The exposition is coming off on time. There will be no delay."

CONSUL LAYARD MAKES HEROIC RESCUE ATTEMPT
R. de B. Layard, once British consul-general at Kobe, Japan, and well-known in Hawaii, where he was formerly the British consul, made a heroic but unsuccessful attempt to rescue a drowning couple on the Thames, England, the story coming in a round-about way to Honolulu.

A Kobe paper of July 25 says: On July 4th a London solicitor and the sister of Rev. W. F. Jones, of Iikley, were drowned while boating on the Thames at Pangbourne, five miles from Reading. A gallant attempt at rescue was made by Mr. R. de B. Layard, formerly British consul-general at Kobe, but unfortunately was unsuccessful. The circumstances are thus reported in a London paper: "Miss James, together with her sister, Miss Amy James, and a Mrs. Hanson of Hull, had been staying for the past three weeks at the Bridge Hotel, Whitechurch, which adjoins Pangbourne. On Saturday they were joined by Mr. Limes and another man, and subsequently all went for a punting trip, two punts being chartered. The return journey had been completed when the pole used by Miss Dora James snapped and with a scream she fell into the water. It is assumed that

M'CANDLESS DENIES REPORT OF AGREEING TO WITHDRAW SHOULD PALMER P. WOODS ENTER RACE

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

HILO, August 12.—"The republican newspapers are printing lies about me," declared L. L. McCandless at the Democratic rally that was held in the Hilo Armory last Wednesday evening. McCandless told of the "tricks" that were played on him in the past by opponents and asked all the voters to remember that unless he himself announces his withdrawal or made some statement, to disbelieve the stories, as they would be fakes.

Speaking of Palmer Woods' candidature, McCandless declared that Woods was running on Republican money, and that the reason the new candidate was in the field was perfectly plain.

In referring to George R. Carter, Link said that there was no use considering the ex-governor seriously, as a vote for him would simply be a vote wasted. Carter, according to Link has not got a "look in" in the race for the delegateship.

As to Rice, what McCandless said about him and his ability to act as delegate, if elected, was to the point. Link declared that Rice, during the ten years he has been in politics, has run the territory into debt and has spent $49,000,000.

Talking of himself, Link pointed out that it was really he who got the Hilo breakwater, and that six months before Kuhio first became delegate, L. L. McCandless had originated the breakwater scheme. He declared also that while he had no kick coming about the big bay being called after Kuhio, he thought that credit should be given where it belonged. McCandless said:

"In the past when there has been a Republican and a Republican administration at Washington, the cry has been, 'We must send a Republican delegate to Washington as a Democratic one could do no good for Hawaii.' Why not be consistent now, and, as there is a Democratic administration, send a Democratic delegate to the capitol? I feel that I could, if elected, do more good for the Hawaiian Islands where all my interests lie, than a Republican who would virtually go to Washington with a club in his hands and he denied everything. Why, Geo.

R. Carter could do nothing in Washington when he went there to lobby for the sugar interests. President Wilson actually refused to see Carter. He would be a lot of good as delegate now. However, it will turn out on September 12 that Kuhio and L. L. McCandless will be the two nominees. The rest have not a chance. On Hawaii we have only been able to hear of three voters who will vote for Carter at the primaries."

McCandless spoke in Hawaiian first and then in English. He told of how he first came out in the race for the delegateship in 1908, and of how his support had grown at each election. "By a thousand votes each election has my political strength increased. Last time I carried Oahu by 800 votes. If the voters of Oahu have enough confidence in me, I think those of this island should show the same confidence," concluded the candidate.

The meeting was attended by a couple of hundred voters and several speakers addressed the crowd. Harry Irwin spoke briefly and said that while the Democratic party had two candidates, he thought that the man who had borne the burden for so many years should be rewarded at the polls.

'LINK' SURPRISED TO LEARN OF CONTENTION OF PALMER P. WOODS

L. L. McCandless, candidate on the Democratic ticket for delegate, returned from a tour of Hawaii this morning on the Mauna Kea. For 15 days he was on the island, covering most of it, he said, with Democrats working for him on the island.

He denied emphatically this morning that there was any truth to the report that he had at one time agreed to withdraw as a candidate for delegate if Palmer Woods entered the race.

"The story is absolutely false," he said. "I was very much surprised when I heard that Palmer Woods had entered the race, for he made a statement two or three weeks ago that he wouldn't run under any circumstances."

McCandless says that everything

PROMOTION WOOD TO TURN TOURIST TRAVEL TO HAWAII

Will Leave for Mainland Tuesday—Ford Suggestion Approved By Committee

With a view to turning toward Hawaii the ranks of American tourists who will be unable to invade European countries during the coming winter, H. P. Wood, secretary of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, will leave for San Francisco on the Manoa Tuesday, where he will get in touch with the heads of the leading transportation companies and urge them to advertise to a greater extent the Hawaiian Islands as an all-the-year-round tourist resort. Mr. Wood's trip to the mainland was authorized by the members of the Promotion Committee at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

The fact that thousands of tourists will be unable to go to Europe on account of the present embargo formed the basis of a resolution passed by the promotionists to the effect that the time has arrived when Hawaii may be advertised to a greater advantage than ever before. Already prominent transportation companies have, through letter from the committee, had their attention called to the fact that these islands are "Isles of Peace," and that, for their own interest, they should advertise Hawaii as such. These letters are to be followed up by personal interviews by Mr. Wood.

The committee's project of sending an agent aboard all incoming liners before the vessels dock is to be continued. New literature, compiled especially for this purpose, is shortly to be issued, as well as maps of the city, containing, among other things, the street car lines and the location of the postoffice and promotion rooms. It was reported that Alexander Hume Ford's plan to erect a Pan-Pacific pavilion has met with the hearty approval of the exposition officials. The plans call for the construction of such a building in the form of a Samoan council house.

WAR'S COST IN HUMAN VALUE IS POINTED OUT BY A SCIENTIST

Denouncing war from the standpoint of a scientist, Prof. Vernon L. Kellogg of Stanford recently delivered an address to the summer school students of the University of California.

"Every individual lost from an army means the loss of a man of better physical condition than that possessed by some other man left behind in civil life," said Dr. Kellogg. "The actual figures of present day recruitment in the great European states show that of the men gathered by conscription from 49 to 50 per cent are rejected as unfit for service because of undersize, infirmities or disease."

Military selection occurs chiefly before the fighting begins and results in the temporary or permanent removal from the general population of a special part of it, and the deliberate exposure of this part to death and disease, disease that may have a reparative tendency on the welfare of the whole population. And this part of people so removed and injured is in a special way of great importance to the preservation of the racial integrity of the population. For in the first place it is composed of men, its removal thus tending to disturb the sex equilibrium and prevent normal sex selection. Next these men are all of the age of greatest life expectancy and of greatest vigor and fecundity. Finally they are all men, none of whom fall below and most of whom exceed a certain desirable standard of physical vigor. And for each of these men so removed from the general population at least one other man falling below this standard has been retained in the civil population.

"The removal is effective even when the individuals are not killed or injured, for during the time of service all these sturdy young men have no part in the racial propagation. And although after the required years of service they may, if returned alive, take part in this eugenic function, much of their value has been lost not only by the inevitable preoccupation of their places by inferior men, but by a dangerous degeneration of many of them while in service."

Dr. Kellogg showed that even in peace this non-productive male element more than a half million, and represents more than one per cent of the population, and five per cent of the country's men between the ages of 18 and 35.

Increase Infant Mortality.

The effect, declared Dr. Kellogg, of this removal is reflected in the fact that the infant mortality of nations increases after every war. "The mortality of German children between three and five years of age, born in 1870 and 1871, was higher than the corresponding mortality of children born in 1869 and 1872," he said. "The mortality tables of France show that there has been steady decrease since 1800 in the death rate of children under five, with the exception of one period. In the decade following the terrible mandraining wars of the Revolution and the Empire, the annual death rate was higher by one and one-half per cent than in the highest other period."

In conclusion Professor Kellogg pointed out that not only in the breeding of inferior children is war of evil consequence, but in the actual breeding of disease in the armies the effect works toward racial degeneration.

Devastated by Disease.

"The 20 per cent of mortality by gun fire in such bloody affairs as Austenlitz and Wagram, Moscow, Lutzen, Magna Solferino and Waterloo was increased by disease in the same campaign to the appalling proportion of 60 per cent and even 70 per cent," he said. "In the terrible twenty-year stretch of the Napoleonic campaigns the British army had an average ratio of mortality from disease of 49.61 per cent of men and only 7.6 from gun fire."

"Our own enlightened country lost proportionately many more soldiers in its last war from groups that never got within sight of the enemy than from among those that charged San Juan hill. And all these losses by disease in war are in proportion far in excess of the losses that occur at the same time in the civil population."

Dr. Kellogg pointed out with figures the appalling inroads in the peace armies made by venereal disease, saying that in the British army in India 300 men per 1000 men in 1895 were admitted to hospitals for such causes.

"I simply cannot see the eugenic advantage of war," he concluded. "It has a race-deteriorating effect. The most economical factor in human progress is good race breeding. Race deterioration comes from bad breeding, and militarism encourages bad breeding."

SHIP OF FIRE IS A BIG ATTRACTION TO HILOITES

HILO, August 14.—More than $3000 worth of gasoline and a scow valued at about $1000 went up in smoke last Tuesday evening when a fire broke out on a lighter barge with auto fuel which had just been discharged from the steamer Enterprise. The scow and its contents burned until 2 o'clock in the morning and then the charred remains of the punt went to the bottom some three miles out at sea.

It was 10 o'clock on Tuesday night when the fire alarm was sent in from the Matson warehouse at Waialua. Instantly about everyone in Hilo turned out and by means of automobiles, hacks and rigs, rushed to Waialua. The first rumor was that the Matson warehouses were on fire. This story was soon killed when it was seen that a scow was drifting down the river. Flames hundreds of feet in height were roaring from the scow and the sound of bursting drums of gasoline terrified those in the immediate vicinity. The line that had moored the scow to the shore had been cast off in order to allow the dangerous load of fire to drift with the stream out into the bay. This action undoubtedly saved another scow and the warehouse from destruction.

The burning mass floated down the stream under the two bridges and then swung around with the tide till the scow was almost beached. Then the current again took charge and the scow, still with flames mountain high issuing from her, drifted along until it looked as if the railroad wharf and the lumber schooner Camano, alongside of it, were sure to be destroyed. Sampans, boats and launches kept cruising around the scow, but the intense heat and the frequent explosions made it a dangerous proposition to get close enough to make a towline fast. One attempt was made and although the launch got to within a short distance of the scow, the intense heat and the darting flames made it impossible to get a line on board.

Unaided by their narrow escape, James Reid and a Hawaiian, William Hoi, made another attempt to put a line on the scow. It was ticklish work and, for a time, the job seemed to be an impossible one. However, Reid and Hoi stuck to their task in plucky fashion and, finally, managed to, in cowboy fashion, throw a loop over one of the corner posts of the scow. Then began the exciting tow out to sea.

When the launch lost her connection with the scow the latter still drifted on and at times the flames were just as fierce as when the fire first started. Away on the horizon the shooting masses of gas and flames played on the water and the spectacle was a striking one. At 2 o'clock in the morning the end came when the flames had burned the sides of the scow and the water came in. The lighter sank, but the gasoline at once spread over the surface of the water for an area of at least an acre. The fire blazed on the top of the water for a few minutes and then all was dark.

Most of the gasoline on the scow was consigned to the Volcano Stables Company and was covered by insurance. The Hilo fire department turned out as soon as the alarm was turned in. The engine raced down to Waialua and, as the first impression was that the fire was at the Matson warehouse, a line of hose was coupled up with a hydrant which was at least 1000 feet away. It was then seen that the hose was not long enough, so Fire Chief Johnson ordered the engine back to town for more hose. The chief returned at Waialua to take charge of the fire. Soon after the auto departed for the extra hose Johnson discovered that the fire was on the scow. He at once tried to get into telephone communication with the fire station. He had to go some distance before he could reach a phone, and then could not raise the station.

Striking Figures For Great Fountain In the Court of the Universe

Copyright, 1914, by Panama-Pacific International Exposition Co.

In the vast Court of the Universe at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, to open in San Francisco in 1915, will be set two superb fountains, the Fountains of the Rising and of the Setting Sun, occupying positions relatively east and west. The upper portions of the fountains are to be the sources of the night illumination of the court. Great globes surmounted by figures representing a sunburst and a sunset, typifying the rising and the setting sun, will give forth at night an incandescent glow, while below in the basins reclining figures of the planets surmount globes of light, behind which the water will fall in screens. These fountains are being executed by the famous sculptor, Adolph A. Weinman of New York, city. The illustrations above show two figures of centaurs, executed by Mr. Weinman for the fountain. The figures are typical of the vast profusion of sculpture being employed in this greatest and most marvelous Exposition in the history of the world.

HOSPITAL BOARD TO PROBE ACTS OF DR. THOMAS

Dr. A. R. Thomas, interne at the Queen's hospital, is to be given an opportunity to make a statement before the board of trustees of that institution, covering his reasons for refusing to admit Pedro Viva, a Spanish youth in a critical condition, into the hospital when he was taken there last night by order of the police.

Viva, found in Aala park, in the first stages of hemorrhage, was taken to Queen's hospital by a civilian under orders of the police. Refused admission at the hospital by interne Thomas on the ground that the youth was suffering from tuberculosis and must therefore be taken to the Leahi Home, Viva was taken back to the police station. He was again sent to the hospital, this time by Captain Baker, directing that he be left there; and this was done, but a few minutes later a hack drove up to the police station and Viva was ejected from it by Dr. Thomas, it is said.

By this time the hemorrhage had become very dangerous, the lad bleeding freely from the nose and mouth. An automobile was sent post haste for Police Surgeon Emerson, the lad was put on a stretcher at the station house, and there treated by Dr. Emerson. This morning he was removed to the hospital ward of the county jail, where he is reported to be in an improved but still serious condition.

Acting Superintendent J. Nelke of the Queen's hospital, when talked to this morning, stated that the case would be brought before the board of trustees and that they would probably make some answer to the accusation that Dr. Thomas had acted inhumanely toward the boy. It was pointed out by persons at the hospital this morning that there are strict rules at that institution against admitting a tubercular case and that Dr. Thomas was obliged to act as he did.

However, it is not admitted by the police authorities that Viva has tuberculosis, as is stated. They declare that 19 months ago when he was working in Lahaina he was struck on the breast and severely hurt by a dump cart; that his injury incapacitated him for work and that he left Lahaina for Honolulu, where his brother lives, shortly after the accident.

He was finally, they say, sent to Leahi Home, on the theory that he had tuberculosis. About a month ago he was expelled from Leahi Home, according to report, after a fight with a Japanese. Viva visited the police station last Wednesday to ask advice about suing for damages arising from his Lahaina injury. From Wednesday to yesterday, the police say, he has had nothing to eat, refusing to beg from a fear of arrest and being too weak to work. It is insisted that his weakness and hemorrhage are the result of the accident and not produced by tuberculosis.

At St. Andrew's Cathedral on Sunday night there will be choral evening music in place of a sermon. Special music will be given by the Rev. Canon Ault, Mr. Arthur Wall, Mr. Revon, Mr. McGrew and the choir. Mr. Bode will be at the organ.

OBSCENE LETTERS BRING YOUTH TO FEDERAL COURT

The case of Ah Hung, a Chinese boy 16 years old, who was placed under arrest yesterday on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails, this morning was turned over for investigation by the grand jury at its next session. This action was taken following a hearing before United States Commissioner George S. Curry, at which time a number of witnesses were called including Captain of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, Bert Lang, manager of the Juvenile Bostonians, and one of the women who received a letter written by the defendant.

The defendant stated that he had no attorney and that he did not want one. He made no answer to a question as to whether he wished to waive hearing. Called on the stand, McDuffie testified that the defendant had written the two obscene letters produced in evidence. Bert Lang stated that the letter addressed to a member of his organization did not reach the person for whom it was intended, as he had intercepted it when he saw by the postmark that it was not from the girl's home. Following the arrest of Ah Hung yesterday, the matter was placed in the hands of Postmaster Young and later turned over to Postoffice Inspector A. J. Knight, the latter having sworn to the warrant for the Chinese boy's arrest.

ADMINISTRATOR GIVEN ORDERS TO PAY $1000 FOR FAILURE TO REPORT

Ferdinand Hons, administrator of the estate of the late David Henry Davis, must pay a surcharge of $1000 for his failure to report one of the heirs, according to a written opinion given by Circuit Judge Whitney this morning.

Hons, as related in the opinion, represented to the court that the only heirs were the wife and one child, and his request that $3000 be paid them from the estate was granted by the court. The court's master of accounts later learned, however, that a child by a former marriage is living, and that Hons had reason to know of the child's existence, though he made no mention of it in his statement to the court. The master's recommendation that the administrator be required to pay $1000 to this third heir is approved by Judge Whitney, who decrees that Hons must look to the first two heirs to recoup himself.

TUBERCULOSIS GERM WAS DISCOVERED 32 YEARS AGO

THEN.

Thirty-two years ago today was discovered the fatal germ of tuberculosis which had caused more deaths since the beginning of the human family than any other disease. Its discoverer, Dr. Robert Koch of Germany, who spent two years in patient laboratory research before he finally located the little destroyer, too small to be seen by the naked eye, by the researcher's method of staining the suspected germ with chemicals. The discovery changed the whole world's attitude toward tuberculosis. Since the days of the ancient Assyrians the destroying germ has ravaged humanity. Moses witnessed its fearful devastations among the Egyptians, and in all the successive generations at least every sixth human being was at some time affected by its presence in the blood. Less than half a century ago the disease was regarded as "fatal and hopeless." Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was a physician as well as an author, described the average medical practitioner's acceptance of its fatality in his tale of the "Professor at the Breakfast Table." Some people regarded it as a divine affliction upon the human race, and an indication of mankind's degeneration. Thirty years ago Europe was reporting over 1,000,000 deaths every year from tuberculosis, while the United States was reporting at the rate of 450 every day.

NOW.

Today the civilized nations of the world are conducting a universal war against the tubercle bacilli. Millions of dollars are being spent to conquer this enemy of the human race. In the United States over $20,000,000 is being expended annually for this purpose. Science and common sense are forcing the little germ to retreat. The death rate in 20 years has fallen from a ratio of 245.4 to 158 (per 100,000 population). Expert medical researchers are at work searching for a specific cure, while the nations are conducting a vast educational campaign to prevent the spread of the disease. Physicians have long known that the bacilli lurk in everyone's system waiting for the vitality to sink to a low ebb when they can begin their fearful scourge. Consequently, the universal campaign to make everyone strong enough to resist the destroyers. The world has thrown open its windows to let in sunlight and fresh air, knowing that these are fatal to the bacilli. The old fear of "night air" has given way to the practice of living, sleeping and working out of doors where the bacilli cannot follow and live. Economically considered, it is a great fight to save to the United States alone over half a billion dollars which an authority has said is the annual loss to the nation through the loss of the afflicted individual's wages and value to production.

PERKINS WRITES TO ATKINSON ABOUT PROGRESSIVE PROSPECTS

Noted Bull Moose Thinks Solid South Is Being Broken Up Now

Democratic disaffection in the south, caused by the administration's tariff and foreign policies, continues to work out favorably to the progressive party, according to a letter received from George W. Perkins by National Committeeman A. L. C. Atkinson. The letter, which also furnishes some interesting side lights on New York state politics now attracting national attention, says:

New York, July 29, 1914.
A. L. C. Atkinson, Esq.,
Honolulu, Hawaii.

My dear Mr. Atkinson:

I wrote you at some length on the 22nd about the New York situation and dictated the letter just at the time that Senator Hinman had declared his intention of entering the primaries for the governorship of this state. Several days have elapsed and the developments here have been most interesting and significant. The trend of public opinion is clearly away from Mr. Whitman, who is regarded as Mr. Barnes' candidate, and toward Mr. Hinman. I enclose two or three editorials and articles that will tend to show the reason why. One thing is absolutely certain, namely, that it is being made perfectly clear that our people have not entered into any amalgamation, combination or fusion with the Barnes-ridden Republican party of this state. Two or three days after Mr. Hinman's announcement, accompanied by Colonel Roosevelt's statement that he was for Hinman, some Progressives seemed to have the impression that the Progressive organization in New York state had entered into an arrangement to amalgamate with the Republican organization of this state. If you have heard any opinion of rumors to this effect, I call your attention to Mr. Barnes' statement in this morning's New York papers, of which I enclose a copy. Mr. Barnes has not only said Mr. Roosevelt for libel but has attempted to put Mr. Hinman in the Apianias Club, and is apparently about as boiling as any politician could be.

Mr. Hinman has made a formal statement to the effect that he will run for governor on whatever party ticket, if any, he carries in the primaries. Therefore, if he does not carry the Republican primaries but carries the Progressive primaries, he will run as our candidate for governor. Of course, if he does not carry the Republican primaries, a Barnes man doubtless will, in which event you can clearly see that Mr. Hinman would carry with him into the primaries and into the final vote a large number of Republicans, who are independent and Progressives but who have up to date not affiliated themselves as voters with the Progressive party. You will also see that, if in this further splitting up of the Republican party in this state, the result is the continuance of Tammany in control and the selection of a Tammany governor, the people of this state will hold Mr. Barnes and his organization responsible and not Colonel Roosevelt and the Progressive organization of this state.

Whereas a month ago most of the papers here were speaking well of Mr. Whitman, and the opinion was quite general throughout the state that he would be nominated by the Republicans and elected, the various moves of Colonel Roosevelt during the last month have so seriously damaged Mr. Whitman's reputation that his strength has been greatly reduced, and the average person you meet and talk with seems to feel that he has very little chance of ultimately becoming governor.

As to the news from outside of New York state, it is generally satisfactory. Senator Beveridge has just finished a speaking tour in Illinois, where his audiences have been very large, enthusiastic and most attentive. Our speakers generally report the same condition wherever meetings are held.

From Maine, which, as you know, holds its elections about the middle of September, our people report very satisfactory meetings, and our organization is in splendid shape.

The disaffection which I have spoken of several times as existing in the southern states in the Democratic party, continues to grow, and the outlook for our cause down there is most encouraging.

I presume you have also heard of the sharp split in Nebraska, where the newspapers report Mr. Bryan as losing out in the contest he seems to have been waging there with Senator Hitchcock.

If there is any particular information about any particular section of the country that you would like to have, we will be glad to furnish it upon application.

Sincerely yours,
GEO. W. PERKINS.

P. S.—I presume you have noted that in Texas, the Democratic voters have just turned down the Wilson candidate for governor, and selected at the primaries another man

INSTRUCTIVE ARTICLES ABOUND IN ISSUE OF MID-PACIFIC MAGAZINE

The "Mid-Pacific Magazine" is out today with illustrated articles from all around the Pacific and from each of the Hawaiian Islands. There is a good and timely story of the ascent of Haleakala by Rowland P. Dodge, and a description of an ascent of Hualalai on the island of Hawaii—an excursion that should be better known. John F. G. Stokes tells something of how the Hawaiians make their nets, and how they use them for fishing. Motor boating in Hawaii is treated by Guy N. Rothwell, and there are several other Hawaiian articles.

In this number, Alexander Hume Ford tells of some of his experiences and observations on his trip around the Pacific. He gives a remarkable description of how Percy Hunter planned the Hotel Kosciusko on the summit of Australia's highest peak, and then introduced skiing to the Australians as their great July sport. Mr. Ford also tells of his experiences along the trout streams of Kosciusko the Percy Hunter had stocked, until they have become the finest trout streams in the whole world. This article is redolent of the things we might just as well do here; and now that Mr. Ford, the Mid-Pacific Magazine, and the Promotion Committee are all working together, doubtless some of these plans will be worked out in Hawaii.

From now on it will be worth while to keep an eye on the Mid-Pacific Magazine, as it promises to be filled with instructive articles from about the Pacific, telling of the things that each country does best.

closely followed and heartily applauded by the audience. Other candidates who spoke from the Cohen platform were James C. Quinn and Rev. J. W. Kekipi, Republicans running for supervisor, and E. K. Lillikalani, a candidate for the senate. The latter acted also as an interpreter.

GOOD CROWDS OUT TO SEE PICTURES AND HEAR COHEN

A rousing political meeting, attended by a large crowd, who enjoyed moving pictures and music as well as the speeches, was held last night by Joel C. Cohen, Republican candidate for mayor.

The keynote of Mr. Cohen's speech was for a business administration of the affairs of the city and county. He spoke strongly on this subject and was

HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE IS KING FOR A DAY AT HOME AND ABROAD

Pineapple Day, the Promotion Committee's latest project for advertising the Hawaiian Islands to the tourist as an all-the-year-round playground and a great commercial and industrial center, was given birth today and jumped into instant popularity by proving an unusually lusty youngster. Hawaiians, tourists now mingling with Hawaiians, and friends of the islands both on land and sea, joined toward making the occasion one which for years to come will occupy a place in the front rank of Hawaii's many annual festivals.

Canned and fresh, or prepared in a thousand different ways to meet the pleasure of the epicurean, King Pineapple held sway on the menus of steamships, railway dining cars, hotels and clubs throughout Hawaii, Canada, Australia, Europe and on the high seas. It was not just "Pineapple" on the menus, but "Hawaiian Pineapple." Those who ate the fruit knew that it was not an inferior brand, but that which had ripened under the sunny skies of tropical Hawaii—the real Hawaiian variety which has become famous the world over. The Promotion Committee has well conducted its booster campaign in preparation for the coming of Pineapple Day, and the results have proved most satisfactory.

Honolulu business concerns have done their share toward making the occasion a successful one. A walk up Fort street will convince one of this. Beautiful and attractive window displays meet the eye on all sides. The grocers are exhibiting the fresh and canned fruit; the drygoods merchant is showing a stock of pineapple silk. Drug stores and soda fountains are proving meccas for the thirsty, and especially prepared pineapple, ice cream and sherbets are being supplied. The delicatessen stores are featuring delicious pastry and other good things to eat—all having a distinct flavor about them. "Pineapple" is a watchword in Honolulu today; the celebration is a red letter occasion for the territory.

For the housewife who would become initiated into the mysteries of the use of pineapple for culinary purposes the Promotion Committee is distributing thousands of pineapple recipe books explaining a hundred or more ways in which the fruit may be tastefully prepared. A large quantity of these books, as well as postal cards, have been placed in various business houses for free distribution.

On the mainland, Pineapple Day is being observed even more extensively than in Hawaii. Large wholesale and retail grocery concerns have notified the Promotion Committee that they are making special window displays of the fruit; hotels, clubs, steamships and railways are featuring pineapple on their menus. To President Woodrow Wilson and the mayors of the leading cities of the United States have been sent samples of canned pineapples. Letters innumerable have been received by the committee from mainland business houses and individuals vouching their support toward making the occasion a success.

The local branch of the Wells Fargo Company reports that during the past few weeks it has handled immense shipments of fresh fruit. Residents of Honolulu are taking advantage of the opportunity to send pineapples to their friends on the coast and elsewhere.

"The question has been brought up whether this is just the best time of the year to have "Pineapple Day," said Secretary H. P. Wood this morning. "A feasible suggestion has been made that the date of the observance be set for some day in the year when fresh fruits are not in season on the mainland. However, Pineapple Day has come to stay, and next year it is going to be even a bigger and better celebration."

The Austrian government placed a ban on the publication of military news. Six papers were confiscated at Prague for printing news of military preparations.

FILIPINOS ARE CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING DOPE

Evidences of the existence in Honolulu of a small opium ring were brought to light this morning when, on a warrant sworn to by L. B. Reeves, an inspector in the customs service, Layitana Francisco, Jacinto Geronimo, Eusebio Eucora and Roman Montenegro, all Filipinos, were apprehended by the federal authorities on a charge of having transported, concealed, bought and sold opium.

At an early hour this morning the quartet was arrested by the night customs inspector as the members were attempting to leave the Pacific Mail liner Korea. They were locked up at the police station and later turned over to the federal authorities. The defendants are said to be members of the Korea's Filipino orchestra, and it is understood that they have been engaged in a small opium smuggling enterprise.

TOMMY BURNS SAYS WAR WON'T STOP RING GAME

Former Champion Thinks Pugilism Will Still Flourish in Australasia

Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion of the world and still able to put up a battle, has been a visitor in Honolulu for a longer time than he expected.

"No more of it for me—at least not on the same lines," declared Tommy yesterday afternoon.

Burns says that the European war is not going to stop boxing in kangaroo-land.

AMERICAN AND FRENCH FIGHTERS TO MEET AGAIN

International interest in fistic events will be revived again a week hence when Georges Carpentier, the French light-heavyweight, and Young Ahearn, the American, who has grown into the heavyweight division, meet in London in a twenty-round contest for a purse of $50,000.

Promoter Burge has secured an option on the services of "Gunboat" Smith, for two bouts under his management, in one of which Smith is to meet Bombardier Wells, and in another Burge hopes to bring the French and American heavyweights together again, so as to settle the question of supremacy, which still is a much discussed topic, owing to the unsatisfactory termination of the Carpentier-Smith bout in London last month.

J. B. WILLIAMS WINS A REGULAR DETROIT BERTH

Honolulu Boy Finally Shows What He Can Do Against Washington

Johnny Williams, Honolulu boy, has at last won a regular berth with the Detroit Tigers, according to news that arrived in yesterday's mail.

It will be good news to Johnny's many friends here and to the thousands of Honolulu fans, that he has succeeded in winning a berth in the big league.

The Tribune says: "John B. Williams, held on the bench when the team was here, and left at home when the Tigers were making trips, since a disastrous debut round in a game of April 21, got his chance on Saturday, and vindicated himself.

In the first seven innings four hits were made off Williams. Two of these were fukes. Only one Washingtonian in all that time got beyond first base.

That man was Alva Williams, who reached third, with none out, on a two-base drive and a wild pitch, to start the sixth session.

Detroit has no excuses to make for its defeat. It has never had Johnson in a place where it was easier to beat him, as a record of 11 Tigers left on the sacks will show.

The Fabre liner Madonna, which arrived in New York from Naples, reported having passed through two severe electrical storms.

Griffith's star slabbist has not looked as bad against Detroit at any time this season excepting on Wednesday, when he finished a game in which five Washington pitchers were used.

DUKE NOT COMPETING IN RACES IN SOUTH

[By Latest Mail] LOS ANGELES.—The A. A. U. swimming championships of southern California will be held in the Venice plunge, August 14 and 15.

The traveling All-Chinese are going along, winning a majority of their games and making a good showing for a club that is continually on the road, seldom getting two games in the same town.

Financially the team is doing well, and the two previous tours, instead of making the Chinese aggregation an old story to mainland fans, boosted their stock so that return engagements are the most remunerative.

From the Atlantic City Daily Press, July 28: The famous Chinese university defeated Atlantic City 5:2 a brilliant 13 inning contest at the Inlet park yesterday.

From the Wilmington Evening Journal, July 26: Nine young Chinamen as active as kittens and as happy as babies, who are touring the country in charge of Samuel Hop, hadn't the slightest difficulty in taking the diamond measure of an equal number of Occidentals at the Front and Union streets ball park yesterday afternoon.

As a matter of fact the Wilmington All-Stars—that's what the locals in a spirit of fun called themselves—were outclassed. Boxman Robinson nearly fractured his pitching combination trying to figure out some things with which to fool the lads from the Orient.

The scoring was started by the Chinese in the fifth inning. Pung opened with a double and scored on Chin's single.

Kan Yen began the sixth with a triple and scored on Mar's single. Akana sacrificed and on Strlith's bad throw to third to hold the runner on Mark scored.

In the eighth Alvin walked and scored on Anau's triple. Apau got home on Chin's sacrifice fly.

The All-Stars scored their lone tally in the sixth inning. Dunner opened with a single, advanced on Strlith's single and scored on E. Duncan's fly.

Southward played a wonderful game of ball against the Chinese yesterday, considering the handicap of the absence of their best pitcher.

The All-Stars scored their lone tally in the sixth inning. Dunner opened with a single, advanced on Strlith's single and scored on E. Duncan's fly.

PRESIDENT WILSON ACCUSED OF BREAKING BARGAIN MADE BY HIM WITH SUGAR INDUSTRY OF THE NATION

Stanton sugar mill, nine miles from New Orleans, erected at a cost of $150,000 to grind cane for 117 small farmers, is being ripped to pieces for shipment to Celba, Spanish Honduras, as a result of the removal of the sugar tariff.

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

In Hearst's Magazine, to relate how a President would make a bargain and then turn his coldly narrow, White-House shoulder on that bargain, is neither graceful nor pleasant, and if the business must end there one might better rest quiet. But the ruin in this instance is only half-wrought; the destruction is still in progress of accomplishment. Even now, a right sugar amendment to the Wilson-Underwood tariff, an amendment consistent with the Democratic platform and in keeping with the Seagirt pre-convention compact made between Mr. Wilson and Senator-elect Broussard, would rescue a host of sugar survivors who still cling to what is left of their wrecked fortunes, but who without such rescuing amendment must presently be engulfed.

"No one," said Mr. Broussard, "could stay in the cane-growing and raw-sugar-making business at a loss of four-fifths of a cent a pound."
Mr. Wilson asked questions: "Assuming that Louisiana sugar growing was wiped out, could not some other profitable crop be raised?" Mr. Broussard knew of none. The cane lands of Louisiana were shallow and thin of soil. Also, they were wet. It was cane or nothing. "How about oats?" "Too much rain."
"Wheat?" "It wouldn't head."
"Rice?" "There is now more rice than the world can eat."
"Garden truck?" "No market."
"Corn?" "Too much rain."
"Hay?" "Water table too near the surface. It would rot at the root."
"Cattle?" "Out of the question. Too wet under foot."
"Cotton?" "Boll weevil."
Mr. Broussard repeated that, as to the cane-growing parishes of southern Louisiana, Mr. Wilson's mind might firmly fix itself upon the sugar truth, that it was a certain case of cane or nothing.

"What was the Louisiana investment in cane-growing and raw-sugar-making appliances?" "Above $100,000,000."
"How much of that would be lost as the result of raw sugar on the free list?" "Seventy per cent, say $70,000,000."
Mr. Broussard also informed Mr. Wilson that beet sugar and cane-sugar, the entire country's annual sugar crop, was $1,250,000 tons. Free list raw sugar, and it would go by the board. This, to the Washington treasury, would spell a yearly loss of $50,000,000.

The little cane-grower and raw sugar maker are a numerous brood. While numerous, however, they aren't commonly strong in any sense of money. The popular impression of the sugar-planter is that of a riotous Croesus, who rides up and down on Mississippi river steamboats, drinks peach and honey, kills his man at 10 paces, and plays draw-poker "two-hill-five in niggers." This is error. There are a few big cane-growing companies in Louisiana, with plantations running into thousands of acres, just as there are big wheat-growing companies in the Dakotas with fields running into thousands of acres. But these big cane-growing companies are not the Louisiana rule; they are the exception. Get the census figures from Washington. For every 1000-acre sugar plantation you'll find 150 little sugar growers plowing, planting and harvesting from 40 to 80 acres each.

During 1911 and the opening months of 1912, any one of half wisdom politically knew that the Democrats would win. The next congress would be Democratic. Mr. Taft would be followed by a Democrat in the White House. Among what Democrats loomed tallest as possible candidates for the presidency was Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey. With the sugar business at his fingers' ends, realizing what raw sugar on the free list would do to his cane-growing friends, Senator-elect Broussard of Louisiana decided to call upon Mr. Wilson at Seagirt.

Mr. Broussard laid bare to Mr. Wilson the arts of cane-growing and raw-sugar making in all of their Louisiana details. He began by reminding Mr. Wilson of the cane-killing frosts of 1911, and the cane-drowning floods of 1912. These natural disasters of themselves had been all that cane-growing and raw-sugar making could immediately bear. A wrong tariff at this crisis would break the cane-growing and raw-sugarmaking back, already too much weakened by frost and flood.

Mr. Broussard continued: Cane was in Louisiana a three-year crop, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii in that respect was much more favored of the sugar gods. In Louisiana the planter having in mind the three-year life of his cane, must annually set aside one-third of his land for peas, or some other possible crop, to rest the soil. Another third he planted to cane, while the final third grew up to "stubble" or the second-year's cane, "sproutings."

The tariff, Dingley, as it then stood, imposed a raw sugar duty of 1.348 cents a pound. With this protection or more than one and one-third cents, do his best and work his hardest, the cane-grower, or raw-sugar maker, of Louisiana could make but a lean and meager profit of one-half cent a pound. Free list raw sugar, wipe out the duty of 1.348 cents a pound, and cane-growing and raw-sugar making would be wiped off the face of Louisiana nature.

Mr. Broussard said that, as to the cane-growing parishes of southern Louisiana, Mr. Wilson's mind might firmly fix itself upon the sugar truth, that it was a certain case of cane or nothing. "What was the Louisiana investment in cane-growing and raw-sugar-making appliances?" "Above $100,000,000."

Mr. Broussard also informed Mr. Wilson that beet sugar and cane-sugar, the entire country's annual sugar crop, was $1,250,000 tons. Free list raw sugar, and it would go by the board. This, to the Washington treasury, would spell a yearly loss of $50,000,000.

Creditors pressing, pockets cleaned of every dollar by frost and flood, the cane-grower and raw-sugar maker tried the banks. Not a splinter could they get. The banks pointed to the Wilson-Underwood tariff, and a free list fixed for May 1, 1916. "We're foreclosing, not loaning," said the banks, as coldly heartless as were those other money-changer whom the Saviour lashed out of the temple.

Receiving this answer to his application for a loan, a cane-grower Le Blanc of Plaquemine killed himself after the manner of cane-grower Gaskins. The note found by his body read, "My life insurance will pay my debts." Death had become his only trade resource.

CALL OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL IS TITLE OF ADDRESS BY DR. SCUDDER

Central Union Pastor Tells of Work of Christian Missionaries in Far East

The Call of the Federal Council formed the topic of a highly interesting and instructive address recently delivered in Central Union church by Dr. Doremus Scudder...

No Americans are more sensitive to the honor of their nation than Christian missionaries in enlightened countries like India, China and Japan.

The only thing left our missionaries to do under these circumstances was to appeal to the Christians of America to take such an unequivocal stand for this great fundamental truth of the gospel that Japan would be forced to see that America is genuinely a Christian nation...

This commission has held two prolonged meetings at which it thoroughly discussed and clearly defined its purpose, its problem and its work.

Resolved, That this mission appeals to the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, suggesting:

- (1.) That it appoint a commission to study this whole question in its relation to the teaching of Christ; and (2.) That it seek to rally the Christian forces of the United States for the solution of this problem and for the promoting of such measures as are in accord with the highest standards of 'Christian statesmanship.'

This statesmanlike appeal needed a personal presentation by a strong man. But strong men are not easily spared on mission fields, hence a second providential factor appeared in the illness of Dr. Sidney G. Gulick...

The address in full follows: 'No Americans are more sensitive to the honor of their nation than Christian missionaries in enlightened countries like India, China and Japan.'

WADMAN TO ADDRESS MASS MEETING

The boys vacation school came to a close yesterday. The average attendance during the six weeks of the school's operation has been 28.

A group of boys under S. W. Robley and G. E. Jackson is making extensive preparations for a contemplated athletic and gymnastic visit to Maui about the first of September.

The fall term of the night school will probably open Monday, October 5. The fall and winter activities of the association will begin with a big general open house about October 1.

The War News Bulletin Board in the lobby of the association has been one of the most popular place in the building during the past week. It always contains the very latest news.

'Association Men', the national publication of the Y. M. C. A. is publishing in the September issue a full-page article written by W. H. Heinrichs of the local staff. It is a study of the typical activities of an association of 1500 members.

The employed staff of the Y. M. C. A. will spend Friday and Saturday of next week in conference extending over two full days getting plans in shape for the fall work.

Tomoda, the live young chap who has been in charge of the refreshment department of the association for the past few months, has made the Spa more popular than it has ever been since the opening of the building.

Instead of getting out a general prospectus this fall it is quite likely that the Y. M. C. A. will issue a series of news letters beginning very shortly and running up until about November. This will be supplemented by special leaflets advertising certain association features.

A committee of the association, composed of G. H. Angus, W. A. Love, H. G. Dillingham and George C. Potter is making a study of the question of an athletic field for the Y. M. C. A.

The New Jersey court of pardons met in the cottage of Governor Fielder at Sea Girt and considered about 150 applications for pardon.

The Chilean government has named a commission to prepare further plans for the better exploitation of the Port of Valparaiso and eliminate the existing difficulties.

Justice Ingraham, in writing the prevailing opinion of the appellate court, said: 'Upon the health of women as the child-bearing sex necessarily depends the future health of succeeding generations.'

Justice Ingraham adds that the legislature undoubtedly had in view when it passed the labor law a correction of the evil of women going about unprotected during the hours designated.

Justice Clarke dissented from the other justices, saying a late decision of the court of appeals is contrary to the view expressed by the written opinion of Justice Ingraham.

REV. S. KIMURA TELLS OF WORK AS EVANGELIST

Central Union Congregation Delighted With Clear-Cut Story By Worker

The audience which gathered in Central Union church last Sunday morning, an audience augmented by a number of Japanese visitors—heard a most naive and interesting life story told with simplicity and deep feeling.

With humor and energy he sketched the history of his education, conversion and dedication to the work of an evangelist. His story was unadorned, graphic, conversational. His frequent use of American slang at telling moments convulsed his hearers, as when he said that on hearing of his conversion to the Christian faith his father 'freed' him out of the house.

James Wakefield, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. committee which has these meetings in charge, will preside. Gen. A. Andrus, director of music at Kamehameha school, who leads the singing, has some special features planned.

The Sunday evening meetings, which are held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., attract large audiences each week.

NEW YORK WOMEN RESTRICTED TO EIGHT HOURS FOR DAY'S WORK

[By Latest Mail] NEW YORK, N. Y.—That provision of the labor law passed by the legislature last year, prohibiting the employment of women and girls in factories in this state between the hours of ten in the evening and six in the morning, is held to be constitutional by the appellate division of the supreme court.

A test of the law was made in the case of the Charles Schweinler Press, Inc., of Nos. 405-421 Hudson street, which was found guilty in the court of special sessions of having employed women during the restricted period. The defendant company contended that the labor law was a violation of the federal constitution.

Some of the women employed by the Charles Schweinler Press, it was urged, earned as much as $40 per week by working at night, and that to enforce the law would deprive them of a means of making a livelihood.

Justice Ingraham, in writing the prevailing opinion of the appellate court, said: 'Upon the health of women as the child-bearing sex necessarily depends the future health of succeeding generations. Any occupation that tends to lower the vitality of women and interfere with her bearing healthy children directly impairs the health and capacity of future generations and is a subject of the utmost public concern.'

Justice Ingraham adds that the legislature undoubtedly had in view when it passed the labor law a correction of the evil of women going about unprotected during the hours designated.

Justice Clarke dissented from the other justices, saying a late decision of the court of appeals is contrary to the view expressed by the written opinion of Justice Ingraham.

Poole-Fryer Wedding.
A very quiet wedding was solemnized at noon on Monday when Miss Alice Fryer became the bride of Mr. John Chapin Poole. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. C. Peters in the presence of the immediate relatives only.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Poole boarded the Ventura for a honeymoon trip among the South Sea Islands. They expect to be gone several months and to visit Australia, New Zealand, Samoa, New Hebrides, and the Fiji Islands.

This wedding is the culmination of another Anahau romance and one would begin to suspect that the tall coconut palms on the old estate must be a favorite residence of the mischievous little god, Cupid. Miss Fryer, who is a Seattle girl, came to the islands about a year ago, taking up her residence at the Anahau Hotel. Mr. Poole, who has been for several years staff artist on the Star-Bulletin, was also a guest at this hotel, and it was here that the two met and the romance began.

The marriage on Monday was practically a secret, one for it had been previously announced that the ceremony would take place on Monday evening and the couple sail on Wednesday. However, they seemed bent on avoiding any elaborate "send off" and chose this manner of hood-winking their many friends here.

Upon the completion of their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Poole will make their home in this city.

Children's Party.
Miss Mary Alexander entertained a number of children at a beach party at the Outrigger club this week in honor of the eighth birthday of her little niece, Mary, daughter of Mrs. A. C. Alexander.

Twelve happy little children enjoyed a very merry afternoon playing in the surf and on the sand, after which delicious refreshments were served on the club lanai.

While in California, Mr. and Mrs. Clark were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gilmore, former president of the College of Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Donaghy who are summering in Palo Alto, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Nevin, formerly of Pupukea.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ahrens of Louisville, Kentucky, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Pauline Ahrens, and also Mrs. J. G. This party has been spending the summer months traveling and have covered considerable distance in the United States and Canada, finishing their trip with a short visit to the islands.

They are at present guests at the Moana hotel where they will remain until returning to the coast on the Siberia next Saturday. It is necessary to curtail their visit in the islands as Miss Ahrens and Miss Kirwan are attending college in the east and must return for the opening of the fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Atherton moved in town yesterday from their summer home at Kahala and are making preparations for a trip to the coast in the near future.

Mrs. Donald MacIntyre departed on the Wilhelmina Wednesday for the coast. She plans to go on to Scotland if war conditions do not make it impossible.

PLAIN WASH SKIRT BEST FOR CUTING

Whenever a woman goes on a vacation she wants to get away from gowns and wraps and hats that have marched with her through the other part of the summer. She may not be able to buy a new wardrobe, or discard the clothes she owns, even for the time being, but she can add a few timely things that will give her a sense of relief from the routine of her wardrobe.

To begin with: Why the coat suit of somber material and possibly woolen fabric? She has many opportunities to wear it during the rest of the season, for if she is like the rest of American womankind, she adopts it as a sort of uniform.

She may argue that all places are not cool at all times, and that the usual muslin frocks are not suitable; but the answer to that argument is the separate linen skirt and the colored sweater.

The woman who does not travel often or far is not cognizant of the popularity of the plain wash skirt or linen or crash, of satin or thin serge, with its accompanying wash blouse of muslin. She thinks that a fashionable resort must call for elaborate muslin, for organdies, for crepe de chine; whereas the traveled woman who dresses in the last fashion is quite content with good looking simplicity. The laundry bill is not reassuring when one wears a uniform of washable things, but that is always true in summer, no matter how one dresses or where one lives.

A girl can swim into popular favor by being well shod.

Those girls who wear Regal Pumps or Oxfords are not only shod in the best of style, but they are comfortable, too.

'CALL OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL' IS TITLE OF ADDRESS BY DR. SCUDDER

...and to the people of that empire. It also will foster a campaign of good will in California to be directed both toward Japanese and Americans. This campaign is not to be under the name or auspices of the federal council's commission, but under the management of a Pacific coast committee of leading Christians. It will advocate no specific policies but will endeavor to get the people of both nationalities closer together in a more intimate spirit of the civilization, history and spirit of the other.

"The commission has also appointed an executive committee to receive the reports of its various subcommittees of investigation and travel, to report its findings and suggest a constructive program to the full commission for submission to the country after discussion and decision.

The call has come from the executive committee of this commission to Central Union Church to associate itself with this movement by leaving its minister for at least three months' service on the Pacific coast in this campaign of good will. Your trustees and standing committee have cordially voted to accede to this request. The Commission will be represented in this campaign by its specially engaged official representative Dr. Gulick and by your minister who is one of its members. Its sub-committee to visit the Pacific coast consists of Mr. Wilder, Prof. Jencks, Bishop O'Connell and Prof. Henderson may also participate.

"I must confess to serious hesitation in undertaking this work. Only those who know something of California and the attitude of many of her people towards Asiatics are aware of the delicacy of the task facing one who goes there on such an errand. It will require great tact, unflinching courtesy, true humbleness of mind, rare sympathy and power to discriminate between fundamental principles and mere policies or prejudices, ability to see things exactly as they are and unswerving loyalty to Christ. That is an equipment enough to stagger any man. In the face of this demand I can only look first to the great captain and comrade who promises liberal wisdom to those who ask and, second to you, the people of this church. Once in Japan I was placed where, without the splendid spiritual support of a great church, thousands of miles distant, the work that had to be done for God and His cause would have been impossible. May I ask you then if you assist me to undertake this task to give me your honest and hearty backing. How?

"First by rallying to the work of this church during my absence. This federal council's commission, though pressed for funds, was ready to send some one here to supply the pulpit during my absence if necessary, but because of the great expense attending its program it appeared if possible, to be relieved from this burden. On consultation Mr. Ebersole generously volunteered to take charge of the pulpit, thinking it wise not to commence his special classes until after the Christmas holidays. We both feel that members of this church and others in the community, together with visitors to the city, will be glad to be called upon for special Sunday evening and other services. By planning a series of mid-week meetings calling for large cooperation on the part of church members we believe that the sharing of the burden will both enable him to tide over the months of my absence and deepen the influence and power of our prayer meetings.

The Standing committee has unanimously voted to back this program with all its might. I know of nothing that will be a greater incentive to the best work of your minister on the coast than the consciousness that you are all uniting with enthusiasm under Mr. Ebersole's leadership to make the last four months of this year the best the church has ever known.

"Second, I crave your spiritual backing, your sympathetic thought, your prayers and your personal interest. If you have friends, either men or women, who are influential as political or social or labor leaders in some Pacific coast community, kindly give me letters of introduction to them. Write to them about your interest in the campaign to bring America and Japan into closer friendship. Ask God to bless the movement by giving its leaders wisdom and spiritual power. Take the entire program upon your heart as though it were your own personal work, so that your minister may go not as one lone man but as though the whole of this great church were concentrated in him, and he were merely your vehicle.

"Let us not hide from our eyes two great realities. First, the vast importance of this movement to unite Asia and America in the bonds of permanent friendship. We do not want the story of Europe reenacted in the Pacific world. The basis for lasting peace between the three great nations facing the North Pacific ocean is already laid. Japan and China deeply love America. War with us to them is unthinkable. We have only to treat them as we treat Europeans in order to win their eternal gratitude. Together we may lead the world because we are the three most virile, most enduring, most highly evolved, and in resources the richest peoples on earth. We have it in our power to guarantee peace of the world if we march forward in accord for one more generation. If we become hostile and develop into cut-throat competitors the progress of civilization will be retarded for ages. The greatest hope of mankind today lies in China, Japan and America developing as brother nations, as mutual helpmeets. We are

UNITED STATES IN FINE SHAPE TO MEET EUROPEAN WAR PROBLEMS

The New York Sun, whose excellent article on the causes of the European war was recently published in the Star-Bulletin, has an illuminating column on "What the war will mean to the United States." The Sun says: "If Europe is going to plunge into war on any tremendous scale, here is something for Americans to remember at the very beginning. This country is in practically every respect in better shape than any other to meet the shock and stand the strain of such a conflict.

As an argument for peace the expense of war serves its purpose until the clash of arms comes, but if Europe is going to break the peace which it has maintained with so much extravagant waste of wealth on armament there is bound to be a painful realization of the awful price at which such a war is waged. A European war of any consequence will inflict damage outside of Europe.

The greater the conflict up to the dimensions of the incomprehensible struggle which suddenly loomed into prospect last week, the greater the damage which will be wrought. It is going to cost the Old World fearfully in men and money, and all the nations of the earth will be called upon to help pay the price. Quite apart from the diversion of funds to the uses of war, all the ordinary processes of international finance and commerce will be thrown into derangement and the dislocation will be reflected in the field of domestic enterprise.

It is just as well to face these facts at once. The business and banking community will be better prepared thereby to deal with the situation if the present European crisis has the worst possible issue. There are offsetting considerations which must qualify apprehension, and their effectiveness will not be diminished but increased if there is no attempt to minimize the awful gravity of foreign contingencies by assuming that they constitute Europe's quarrel, with which the rest of the world has little concern.

Both in its present and in its future aspects as nearly as they can be discerned now, Americans will have every reason based on the position of the United States, economically and otherwise, and every inducement of self-interest, for refraining from an alarm which can only help to aggravate the immediate strain. Men who have in their hands the direction of the country's affairs of finance, business and government will most assuredly do all in their power to mitigate the severity of any shock communicated here from the European contest.

Their efforts can be wonderfully assisted by a widespread recognition of the virtue of sitting tight at a disturbed juncture. A good deal of trouble never happens if it is not precipitated by the unreasoning conduct of people who surrender promptly to the impulses of excitement. For the preservation of composure at this particular time various inducements are offered by the circumstances of foreign and domestic affairs in the last two years and by a legitimate regard for the outcome of Europe's resort to arms which may benefit the United States.

In its ultimate relations anything resembling a general European war would seem likely to guarantee that the economic future will belong to the American continents, especially to North America. The paralysis of European finance and commerce during any such upheaval and their subsequent prostration will leave the way clear for all nations whose energies have not been debilitated and whose resources have not been exhausted by the waste of war. It was in the civil war that American shipping supremacy was lost. As a result of a European war it may be regained with contributing influences to its recovery provided by the facilities for commercial expansion which the Panama canal and the approaching modernization of the American banking system will supply.

In more ways than one the folly of warfare which Europe has long been threatening to commit and at last seems determined to perpetrate must spell opportunity for the United States. Among other things it is likely to provide a splendid opportunity to extricate the country from a debtor condition represented by the large European holdings of American securities. The Sun believes that advantage will be readily taken by American investors to absorb on their own terms the further sales of stocks and bonds which Europe may seek to make here at the dictates of fear or necessity. If the absorption can be augmented by the purchase of European state funds or other foreign obligations which will place the Old World in debt to the United States, so much the better.

Meanwhile there are other encouraging considerations which deserve to be noted. There could hardly be a less unfavorable time for Europe to try the desperate solution of a general war for the problems that have vexed these times will obtain their answer, but quite aside from this phase of the crisis it is to be observed that war will not find Europe nor the rest of the world unprepared.

The blow cannot fall with so much crushing force on an economic situation which sums up almost two years of financial liquidation and accelerating trade and industrial contraction and depression. Moreover, it is now seen that much of the world's decline in business and values in recent years was instinctively or otherwise, by way of making ready against precisely such a dreadful emergency as has arisen abroad. To some degree, indeed, the costs of a European war have already been borne in those troubled years when money was being

Satisfaction in Laundry Work

No matter how much you pay for your laundry work there can be no real satisfaction in wearing the garments unless the laundry puts more than mere mechanical motions into the work.

Satisfaction in laundry work comes only where, back of the mechanical work, there is a determination to do one's level best to bring to the wearer of the laundered garments the pride of knowing that he is well groomed.

We are giving satisfaction in laundry work to some of the most particular men in Honolulu, and if we are not doing it now for you, would like to.

THIN FOLKS WHO WOULD BE FAT
Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More.

A Physician's Advice.
"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such a result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh-producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy normal amount of fat the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving, fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into rich, fine nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gains of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless.

Caution:—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh producing effect, be used by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.

FURNISHINGS AND FASHIONS FOR SUMMER

EDITED BY May Wilmoth

LIVING ROOM INFLUENCED BY JAPANESE FURNISHINGS

adopting their furnishings for our own use we naturally do so for our lighter moods, our vacation time, when we, too, have thrown off the yoke of care and are inclined to frolic.

Therefore it is for the summer home that we ask the Japanese to lend us their influence. The corner of a summer cottage living room is illustrated here. The flickering sunlight through green leaves, throwing dancing shadows upon the cottage walls, prepares us for the lightness and gaiety within, and the graceful lines of the furniture, the unique wall decorations, the tea-cups arranged for tea on the bare shining table, transport one from the workaday world into the midst of the airiness of a Japanese tea house.

The wall is paneled and papered with plain paper in an artistic shade of green; above, the latticed frieze, with its narrow shelf for the accommodation of vases. Small water colors set in narrow frames are alternated along the frieze, while green silk to match the color of the paper falls to the floor from a rod run underneath it.

Matting is used upon the floor, but matting rugs could be used upon polished hardwood floors if preferred, while all sorts of sofa-pillow covers will suggest themselves to the mind of the lady of the cottage.

What could be more charming than a pretty hostess attired in a fascinating silken Japanese embroidered kimono, dispensing a graceful hospitality in a room fitted up like this?

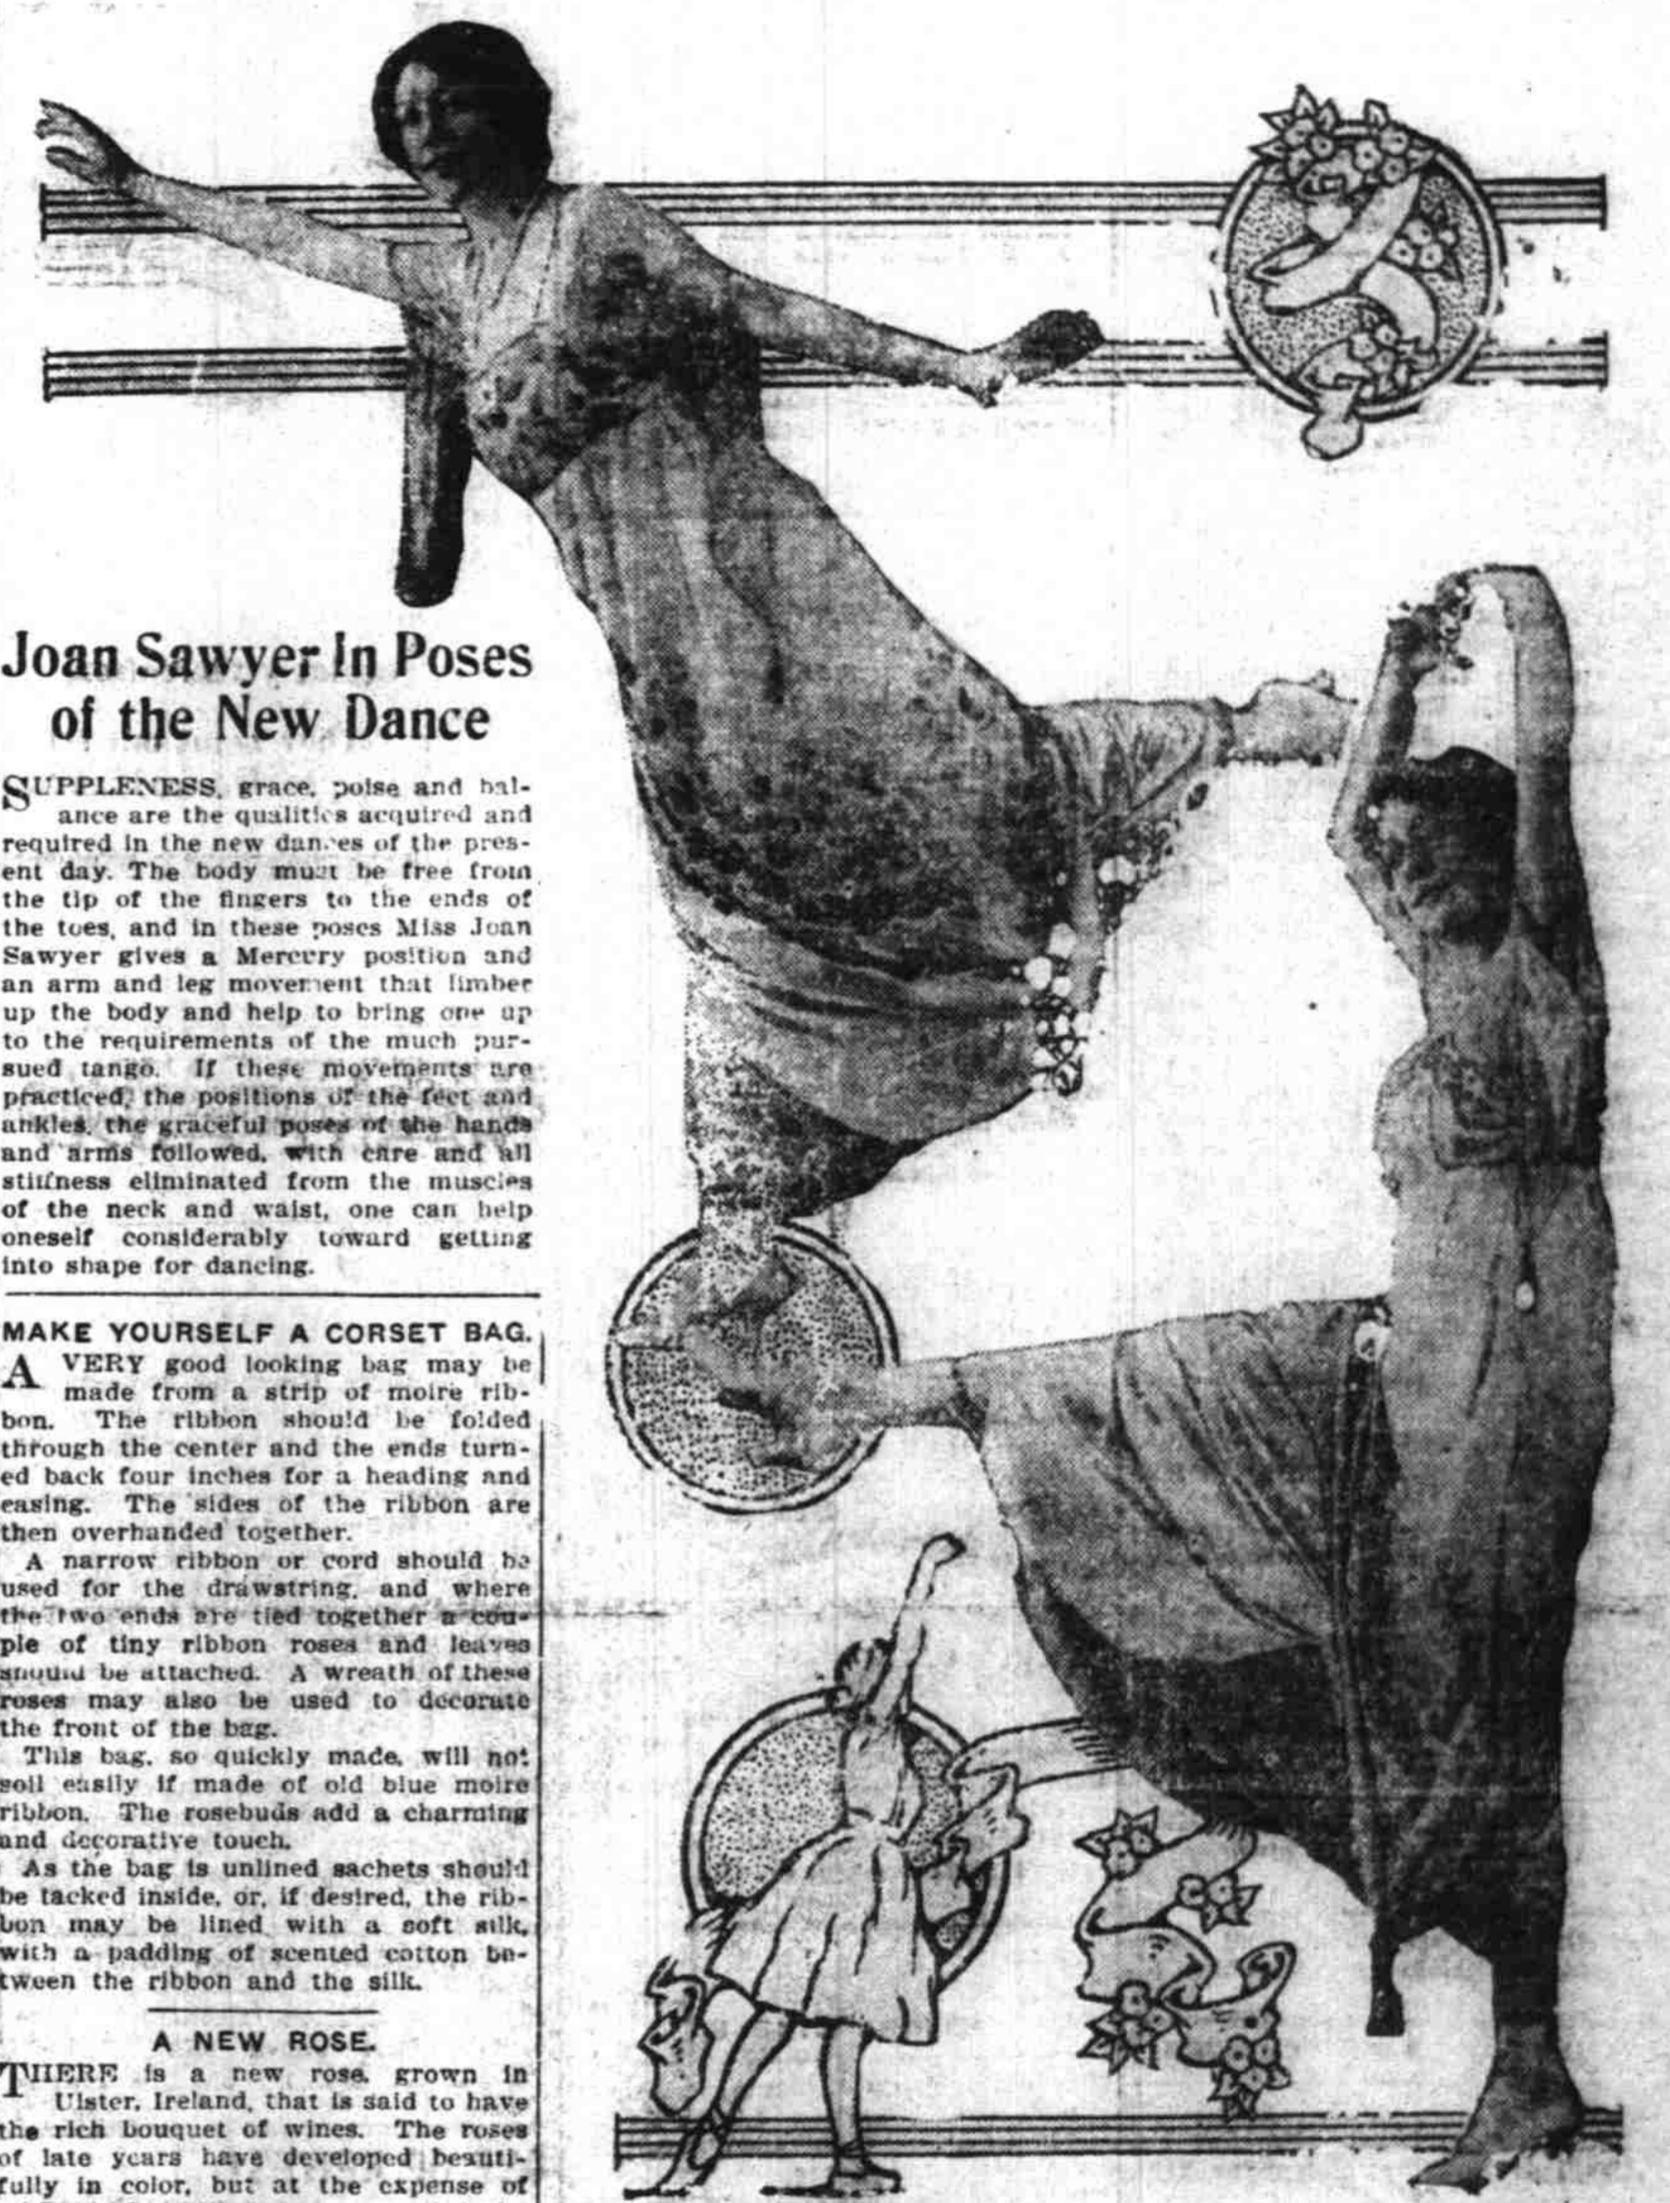

SEVERAL REMEDIES FOR RUG CORNERS THAT CURL.

CURLED up rug corners are a trial to the eye and a menace to the feet, above all, when there are old folks or toddlers in the family. This is especially a habit of the hall runner, and, as many halls are dark, it is too dangerous a fault not to be corrected at once.

An equal offender in this respect is the small oriental rug. Of course rugs can be returned to your dealer, who will "soak" them and stretch them without any injury to the rug. But this involves more delay, trouble and red tape than doing it yourself. Is it necessary to soak the whole rug? Not as a rule. If the entire rug is rippled and crooked that may be the only way, but have you a floor space to be given up while the rug is nailed dripping to the boards? And have you a floor this will not spoil? If you have don't be afraid to do it. It will not harm the rug.

However, it is easier and usually satisfactory to soak the offending corners, ironing with a hot iron over a wet cloth and then leaving the iron in position for several hours of coercive pressure, or soaking and nailing to the floor for a few days will often effect a cure.

If after several applications of this treatment the corners still continue to curl the metal or rubber corners will have to be sewed on. The rubber ones are preferable.

Joan Sawyer in Poses of the New Dance

SUPPLENESS, grace, poise and balance are the qualities acquired and required in the new dances of the present day. The body must be free from the tip of the fingers to the ends of the toes, and in these poses Miss Joan Sawyer gives a Mercury position and an arm and leg movement that limber up the body and help to bring one up to the requirements of the much pursued tango. If these movements are practiced, the positions of the feet and ankles, the graceful poses of the hands and arms followed, with care and all stiffness eliminated from the muscles of the neck and waist, one can help oneself considerably toward getting into shape for dancing.

MAKE YOURSELF A CORSET BAG.

A VERY good looking bag may be made from a strip of moire ribbon. The ribbon should be folded through the center and the ends turned back four inches for a heading and casing. The sides of the ribbon are then overlapped together.

A narrow ribbon or cord should be used for the drawstring, and where the two ends are tied together a couple of tiny ribbon roses and leaves should be attached. A wreath of these roses may also be used to decorate the front of the bag.

This bag, so quickly made, will not soil easily if made of old blue moire ribbon. The roses add a charming and decorative touch.

As the bag is unlined sachets should be tacked inside, or, if desired, the ribbon may be lined with a soft silk, with a padding of scented cotton between the ribbon and the silk.

A NEW ROSE.

THERE is a new rose, grown in Ulster, Ireland, that is said to have the rich bouquet of wine. The roses of late years have developed beautifully in color, but at the expense of perfume, but this new one, called the Mrs. Bryce Allah, is an exception.

EVERY woman needs to make her surroundings somewhat individual, and many women are real students of the influences which are felt in modern house decorations.

To separate Japanese furnishings or those of any other country from their natural environment and epoch and adapt them to the needs of modern American life requires nice discrimination and an artistic and sym-thetic taste, in which women should excel. When we think of the Japanese our minds naturally assume a holiday feeling, for, though industrious, the Japanese are eminently a pleasure-loving, frolicking, feasting race. So in

SALADS MUST BE COLD, AND CRISP ALSO

In serving salads of whatever description, remember that one of the most essential things is to have the salad crisp and cold, and if composed largely of edible greens to have the leaves perfectly dry. Great care must be exercised to dry each leaf, for if water is allowed to remain on them the dressing will not adhere, but will run through to the bottom of the salad bowl.

Plain vegetable salads used either singly or in combinations are delicious to serve during the warm summer months, while the following recipes will be found of a sufficiently substantial character, to form the principal course, either for luncheon or a Sunday night repast.

Individual Russian salads—Ornament the bottom of small timbale molds with bits of boiled carrots cut into fancy shapes and a row of cooked peas around the edge. Add enough clear aspic jelly to set them, and when this is firm fill up the molds. When the molds are firm, scoop out with a sharp pointed spoon a portion of the center of each. Fill these spaces with a mixture of diced, cooked vegetables, mixed with mayonnaise, and serve them inverted in a chilled platter, surrounded with a border of white lettuce leaves. Garnish with quarters of hard-boiled eggs and slices of pickled beets.

COOK EXPLAINS WHAT TO TAKE TO THE PICNIC

Here is a list of sensible things needed for the sensible picnic, which can be bought a week in advance and which are helpful at all times. Wax paper, plain white paper napkins, paper tablecloth (if one goes where there is a table), paper drinking cups, paper of aplint plates. If a large party, a splint basket; if an auto party, a hamper; if a small party, a pasteboard box or boxes; a bottle opener for the grape juice or ginger ale.

The sandwiches are made the evening before and each wrapped separately; it is very much better to mince ham, tongue, lamb or cheese than to put slices of meat between the bread, says a well known cook. The minced meat can be seasoned and flavored correctly.

All pastes can be made two or three days beforehand. It is best to cut sandwiches small and wrap two or three together. A good way is to have as many boxes as you have kinds of sandwiches, marking each box. The cake is cut in suitably sized pieces and wrapped separately; cookies are wrapped three in one, unless bought in cartons. Then they need not be wrapped.

WOMEN GIVE SATISFACTION AS TELEPHONE OPERATORS

Those who contend that women are equally efficient as men in business use as an illustration the attitude of the telephone company in employing women as operators in place of men. In an address recently delivered by Lamar C. White, a divisional superintendent of traffic of the company, he said that no women were employed as operators when the telephone first came into use, but men were found to be incompetent in many ways. As a class they were not sufficiently courteous to the customers or to each other and were often boisterous and inefficient, and it was thought best that women be given the positions, and they have proved satisfactory.

The telephone operator is looked upon as one of the most important factors in the world of business and society today, for there is scarcely a village or hamlet where the telephone is not necessary to the community and where there is a telephone there must be an operator somewhere along the line. She is quick to grasp any emergency, if she is successful, is patient under the most exacting and annoying conditions and is capable of dealing with service complaints so as to be able to pacify the complaining customer under all circumstances. Great value is placed on the inflection of the voice which expresses courtesy as clearly as the mere phraseology which is used, for it is said that the operator is in a position to make friends or enemies for the firm for which she works just by the inflection of her voice.

To be a successful operator great concentration is required and a goodly amount of patience and tact, and it is said that inability to advance to a higher position is often due to a lack of these qualities, for many cases have occurred for those whose work qualified them for higher positions but some temperamental traits prevented their advance. Rare skill and ingenuity are often required on the part of a telephone operator, as is illustrated by a story that is told of a toll operator for "a man who lives somewhere on Cape Cod—all the information I can give is that he keeps dogs and wears whiskers like Horace Greeley." The operator accepted the call and located the man in eight minutes. As one watches the alert operator manipulating the pegs, pushing one in here and pulling out another there, in response to the flashing of the lights as they come and go on the switchboard there is little to make one realize the great responsibility that rests on the woman at the switchboard. Remarkable cases of heroism have been recorded where they have kept to their work in the face of the most trying circumstances, and, like the wireless operators, have been able to give great assistance when it was needed.

As in many other lines of business, the company prefers to employ operators with a high school education and many college and high school graduates may be found among the number. Those from the normal schools generally qualify as teachers. The scale of wages ranges from $5 to $25 weekly, according to the responsibility of the position.
