RAPID TRANSIT'S REPLY TO GOVERNOR CALM BUT EMPHATIC

President Peck Sends Letter to Executive in Answer to Latter's Sharp Missive

RAISES QUESTION IF MR. PINKHAM IS CONSISTENT

Questions Policy of Governor in Urging Extensions on "Personal Selection"

President L. Tenney Peck of the Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Company in a letter to Governor Pinkham today raises flatly the question of the governor's consistency in urging immediate extensions of the governor's "personal selection."

This letter is the latest contribution to the controversy over the franchise extension bill now before Congress, and constitutes a rejoinder to the governor's recent missive—a rejoinder which, though calmly worded, is about as sharp in intimation as was the governor's last letter.

To the point and equally as brief and concise as the recent letter sent to the governor, is the reply forwarded to the territorial executive today by President Peck.

In particular he says:

"Even though you dismiss as deserving of no consideration our contention of a necessity for such provisions (that is, regarding stock sinking funds, retirement of bonds, etc.), you must admit that to retire the outstanding bonds at maturity under the terms of the franchise will require setting aside the sum of about $32,000 each year, and he goes on to say that a much larger sum will have to be set aside in the future than in the past.

His letter is as follows:

Honolulu, T. H., Jan. 29, 1915.
Honorable Lucius E. Pinkham,
Governor of Hawaii,
Honolulu.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your previously acknowledged letter of the 28th, I would state that our directors have studied with interest the following statement given therein from your message to the coming legislature:

"By all the rules of procedure and rules of respect to the legislature and Congress, no further steps can be taken on either side until Congress disposes of the matter, unless the Rapid Transit makes some move indicating bad faith."

As the "Frear" bill, passed by the legislature of 1913 and now awaiting confirmation by Congress, provides that extensions shall not be made until after a hearing and then by the directors or permission only of the public utilities commission, would it not be more consistent with good faith if you were to wait until Congress disposes of the matter before urging upon us certain immediate extensions of your personal selection? Moreover, to construct and operate such extensions, the material for which is not on hand, would involve expenditures so large as to necessitate the securing of additional funds either by an increase of capital, an increase in bonds, or by issue of other evidence of debt, any of which acts upon the part of the company would be in direct violation of its understanding with the last legislature and with former Governor Frear.

The meaning of other portions of your communication is somewhat obscure, but it is evident that after your lengthy investigation of our books you seek further enlightenment upon the capital account, the Hawaiian Tramways purchase, and upon certain investments of the company.

Capital Account.

Answering your direct query as to whether the statement of this account, outlined upon page 2 of your letter, is correct or incorrect, I have to advise you that it is incorrect, and beg to repeat the statement contained in my former letter that the capital account issued and outstanding, amounting to $1,237,250, is represented by more than a full consideration.

It is what you really wish to know is whether and why in May, 1902, the company increased its capital stock from $500,000 to $1,000,000 in the issue of an additional $500,000 in stock, the answer would be "Yes," and for the reason that full authority for such action was specifically granted by Section 27 of its franchise to which you are referred. To meet the requirements of the Hawaiian statute which provides that a corporation must not incur indebtedness in excess of its capital stock, such lawful increase was then imperative to validate a pending issue of bonds whereby to secure funds for immediate and future extensions and improvements.

The government was in due form advised of the company's intention to make this increase and the matter

CONTEST BEGUN FOR ESTATE OF WM. McCANDLESS

Disinherited Children of First Wife Start Proceedings to Break His Will

CONTEST kooki

On the ground that the late William McCandless was of unsound mind and strongly under the dominating influence of his second wife, Alice Matilda McCandless, when he made his last will, the children by his first wife have instituted a contest to the administration of the McCandless last testament.

The contest notice was filed in circuit court this morning by Judge A. S. Humphreys, as counsel for the first wife's children and grandchildren. The estate left by William McCandless is estimated at $37,000.

The will, also filed today, was made by the testator on June 26, 1914, and cuts off all his heirs by the first wife, which are nine in number, with only a dollar each. It gives outright to the second wife one-third of the estate and places the remaining two-thirds in her care, in trust for her own children, five in number.

William McCandless died December 22 last, at the age of 70 years. He had been legally separated from his first wife. The offspring of that union, who by the terms of the will are virtually disinherited, are Josephine McCandless Karatt, James McCandless, Joseph McCandless, Samuel McCandless, Fanny McCandless Pirey Cook, John A. Noble, Jr., William Noble, Carl Medeiros and Alexander McCandless. All says John A. Noble, Jr., Alexander McCandless and Carl Medeiros are children of the testator, the three mentioned being his grandchildren.

To represent the three grandchildren's interests in the imminent litigation Circuit Judge Whitney has appointed John A. Noble, Sr., as guardian ad litem for John A. Noble, Jr., and as temporary guardian for Carl Medeiros and Alexander McCandless.

COMPROMISE ON MILK INSPECTION NOW UNDER WAY

A compromise in the controversy between the Territorial board of agriculture and Mayor Lane over which governmental body shall have jurisdiction over the inspection of milk has been effected, according to Supervisor Ben Hollinger.

Hollinger held a lengthy conference with the mayor this morning and at its conclusion he announced that Mayor Lane had agreed to employ Joseph Richard, now territorial milk inspector, provided the territorial bureau consented to release Richard and to discontinue any inspection of milk.

The proposal now is to employ Richard as a county inspector, but he must leave the employ of the territory," said Hollinger. "We have been given to understand that the territory has decided to discontinue Richard's services anyway, and as he is an efficient man we probably will employ him to work in conjunction with Lot Lane, each at a salary of $100 a month."

F. C. SMITH TO SUCCEED DENISON AS RAILWAY SUPERINTENDENT, REPORT

Although Superintendent George P. Denison takes the reins as general manager of the Oahu Railway and Land Company on Monday to succeed E. F. Dillingham, no official appointment of a successor to him has yet been made.

It is understood, however, that F. C. Smith, general passenger agent, who has acted as superintendent when Mr. Denison has been away, will become superintendent. Harry Denison will remain as assistant superintendent. Who will take Mr. Smith's place as passenger agent is not known.

"I am leaving all those matters to Mr. Denison himself," said Mr. Dillingham today. "As a matter of fact, while there will be some changes, they will be only nominal, as Mr. Smith has frequently acted as superintendent. The organization will remain practically what it is now."

DECISION HELD UP IN CITIZENSHIP FOR JAPANESE

"My Heart is American," Says Takao Ozawa, Making Own Argument Before Court

Judge Sanford B. Dole today took under advisement the application of Takao Ozawa, a Japanese, for naturalization as an American citizen. As far as is known, Ozawa's petition is the first of its kind to be accepted by the local federal court. A further hearing of the petition will be held Saturday, February 13.

Ozawa underwent a lengthy examination by Judge Dole on points relating to American government, at the conclusion of which the court announced that "He is all right, the only question being that he is a Japanese."

"Are you a samurai?" asked Judge Dole.

"I am not, but I have a brother who is," replied Ozawa. "I am pure Japanese, but my heart is American."

Ozawa said that in case of war between the United States and Japan he would be ready to fight under the Stars and Stripes. His reasons for wishing to become an American citizen were that he thought more of the United States than Japan, that he had received a better education in America than in Japan, and that it was due to this education that he was able to support his family. He said he had been in America 20 years.

Assistant District Attorney J. Wesley Thompson protested against the admission of Ozawa and cited several cases from Washington, Virginia, and Massachusetts where similar petitions had been denied. These were denied, he said, on the ground that the laws of the United States extend naturalization privileges to "free white persons and persons of African descent and African nativity." The Washington case dealt with a Japanese who was an honorably discharged soldier of the United States army.

Answering Mr. Thompson, Ozawa said that it was the readiness and willingness of a man to become a citizen, and not his color, that should be given weight in the application.

"Do the Japanese regard themselves as Mongolians?" asked the court.

"Some of the scholars say that the Japanese are not Mongolians, but are a mixture of Malay and other races," said Ozawa.

Ozawa is a graduate of the Berkeley, Cal., high school and was a student of Leland Stanford, Jr., university for a time.

German Official Cables Say Advance is Marked

The following cablegram was received last night from official German sources:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.—Headquarters report: Yesterday on the coast of Flanders the enemy's artillery shelled Middelkirke and Flyta. On the Croonne heights the Germans took 500 more meters of French trenches east of the position stormed on January 26. French counter-attacks were easily repulsed.

"In fights from January 25 to January 27, the French sustained heavy losses, more than 1500 being left dead on the battle-field and 1100 taken prisoners inclusive of those reported on January 27.

"In the Vosges several French attacks near Senones and Bandesapt were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. One officer and 50 French soldiers were taken prisoners. The German losses were exceedingly small.

"In Upper Alsace the French attacked a long front from Niederaspach to Heildweiler and Hiezbacherwald, the attack being made on German positions near Aspach, Ammerzweiler and Hiezbacherwald. All the attacks were repulsed with heavy losses, especially south of Heildweiler and Ammerzweiler, where the French yielded in confusion. Five French machine-guns are in German hands.

"Unimportant Russian attacks northeast of Gumbinnen were repulsed. Near Bleszun a Russian detachment was driven back, northeast of Sierpec. In Poland there is no change."

Declare French Are Forced Back

The following cablegram was received early this afternoon from German official sources:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—Headquarters report on January 30: The French losses in fights north of Nieuport on January 28 were heavy. More than 300 Moroccans and Algerians lie dead in the dunes. Also yesterday the German artillery hindered the enemy from working their way by aapping. Dunheight, east of the lighthouse south of the LaBasse canal, the Germans took last night. From the French two more trenches connected with the position taken on January 25 have been captured. Sixty prisoners were taken.

"In the western part of the Argennes the German attacks yesterday brought considerable gain of ground. Twelve officers and 731 soldiers were taken prisoners, 12 machine-guns and 10 smaller guns captured. The enemy's losses were heavy, 400 to 500 being left dead on the battlefield.

"French infantry regiment 155 seems annihilated. The German losses are comparatively low.

"French night attacks southeast of Verdun have been repulsed with heavy losses. Northeast of Badonviller the French have been driven out of the village of Angoment and Bremen and Angoment (France) occupied by the Germans.

BIG FILIBUSTER CONTINUES

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—Not since the famous fight in the lower house against Speaker Joe Cannon and his rules has there been such a bitter parliamentary conflict as is now taking place in the senate over the Ships' Purchase bill, which the administration is trying to force to passage.

Senator Smoot of Utah spoke all night against the measure and was relieved early today by Senator Sutherland, his colleague, who is now holding the floor in furtherance of the Republican filibuster.

The Republicans are determined to use any permissible tactics to defeat the bill. The Democrats declare they have the votes to pass the measure when they get it to a vote.

The contest has become one of physical endurance, the Republicans relaying each other to talk until the Democrats give in.

SUGAR UP TO 4.20 STORM WREAKS HIGHEST POINT SINCE OCTOBER FURY UP AND DOWN THE COAST

The sudden kiting of sugar to 4.20, the highest point it has reached since the middle of October, provided excitement today at plantation headquarters, brokers' offices and the stock exchange. The jump from 4.075 to 4.20, coming after a period of weak prices, sometimes less than four cents, provided more food for speculation—mental, not financial—than any occurred since the war caused the first big rise last fall.

Up to this afternoon no word was received to indicate the cause of the rise. Some brokers believed it was due to a heavy buying order from Great Britain, others that it was because of further damage to the Cuban crop by heavy storms.

The first advance was made known in a cable yesterday afternoon, when the quotation was 4.17. News of a sale this morning at 4.20 came about 10 o'clock this morning.

Those who held the former belief point out that it was six months ago that England laid in its first big sugar supply for the war and that it is about time for this to be exhausted. The others say that it has been known for some time that Cuban crops were being delayed by heavy rains and that it is likely that another storm has resulted in further delay or possibly ruin.

Another theory, that bottoms are lacking for transportation of the Cuban crop, was advanced by A. M. Nowell, general manager of the Sugar Factors company. No word had been received by Mr. Nowell from New York up to this afternoon.

Oahu Sugar, McBryde, Ewa, and OJaa all advanced 1-8 or 1-4. There was a general rise in bids, however, and if the 4.20 mark or anything near it is maintained for a couple of days, stocks will reach the high point of the year before the end of next week.

The annual meeting of the Korean National Association will be held Monday morning and afternoon at the Korean compound on Punchbowl street. Monday is the seventh anniversary of the founding of the association. An announcement was made today that owing to considerable unfinished business, the annual convention, which has been in progress at the headquarters building since January 5, will be continued until all matters have been disposed of.

Officers have been elected for 1915, and are as follows: President, C. H. Kim, re-elected; vice-president, H. K. Shin; secretary and treasurer, C. M. Han; superintendent and chairman of the counselors, W. K. Park. A committee has been appointed to complete arrangements for Monday's celebration, consisting of S. H. Chi, chairman; Y. M. Park, C. M. Han and E. C. Ha.

The program will commence at 9 in the morning in the building on Miller street. The old officers will be retired and the new directors installed. W. K. Park will offer an address of congratulatory. The ladies of the association will sing and the Korean Salvation Army band will play. The Korean students of Miss school and also of the Korean school will sing patriotic songs. S. H. Chi will preside.

At 9:30 a. m. an open air meeting will be held and inaugural talks will be given by the president and vice-president. A Hawaiian orchestra has been engaged to furnish music. W. M. Chung will preside at this meeting.

In the afternoon field sports and athletic contests will be the program at the Y. M. C. A. field. There will be no definite program for the evening.

7TH ANNIVERSARY NEW ANGLE IN CELEBRATED BY KOREANS MONDAY SMART CASE IS BROUGHT TODAY

A motion that the order of appointment of Antonio Perry as guardian ad litem of Richard Smart be vacated, this afternoon was filed in probate in the circuit court, signed by Mrs. Elizabeth Knight. The grounds for the motion are that Mrs. Knight is the nearest relative of the baby Smart, with the exception of his father, Henry Galliard Smart, and has the legal right to be heard relative to the appointment of any guardian ad litem of Richard Smart.

An affidavit supporting Mrs. Knight's motion has been filed by Robbins B. Anderson, one of her attorneys, containing further objections to the appointment of Mr. Perry as guardian ad litem of the child. It alleged that neither Mrs. Knight or dependent or Mrs. Knight's attorneys were notified of the application for the appointment of a guardian ad litem for Richard Smart, nor were they given an opportunity to be heard relative thereto until after the appointment had been made.

RAPID TRANSIT REPLY IS MADE TO THE GOVERNOR

was fully discussed and given wide publicity at the time the provisions of the Frear bill were under consideration at public hearings before the last legislature.

Hawaiian Tramways Purchase: The properties, franchise, etc. of the Hawaiian Tramways Company were purchased by this company under the authority conferred by section 14 of the Rapid Transit franchise, which purchase not only carried with it the privilege of exercising all the rights, etc., embodied in the Tramways' franchise to the expiration thereof, but by merger to the expiration of the Rapid Transit Company's franchise.

The consideration for this property and franchise was $300,150.00 paid in cash, stock and bonds. What the value of this franchise may be today, assuming that the rights acquired expire in 1916, (which is denied) I am unable to say, yet I might suggest that the convenience of being served throughout its main arteries of travel by the present modern system, rather than by mule-drawn trams, for even so short a period as eighteen months, must be of some value to the city, irrespective of its value to the company.

Money Withdrawn from Surplus Earnings: Your table upon page 3 might convey the impression that for the period between May 15, 1913, and December 31, 1914, the surplus earnings of the company were sufficient to admit of the withdrawal therefrom of a total of $283,000.00.

CAT GONE, BOARDER GONE, ALL'S QUIET AT PETERSON'S

Mrs. J. Peterson is looking for Jim Lane, a boarder at the Peterson home out in Kaimuki.

All was bliss and quiet in the Peterson home until something happened. That something happened on Thursday. Lane came home as usual late Thursday and while awaiting the call for dinner he sat in the front parlor foolin' with Omar Khayyam.

"No, I'll bet you ain't a regular cat," said Mrs. Peterson, who was sitting softly murmured Lane to Omar. The cat just purred in answer. "No, I'll bet you ain't no regular cat," he continued.

Mrs. Peterson continued with her household duties. Suddenly she stopped, for Lane was saying: "No you ain't no regular cat, 'cause if I wuz to drop you out the window you'd light on your back, thas what you would."

Omar continued purring.

Mrs. Peterson heard Lane arise and start for the stairway leading to the second floor. She stood rooted to the spot, held spellbound by the fact that Lane carried Omar Khayyam with him. She could tell by the accompanying purring.

"No, I'll bet you ain't no regular cat," and he dropped Omar out of the window.

Mrs. Peterson was hysterical and she grabbed Lane and started to push him out the window after the cat.

"No, you ain't no regular man," she softly sobbed, "you'd light on your back, not on your feet; no, you ain't no regular man."

The arrival of Peterson himself probably saved Lane from the same fate as the cat. But the pussy had dropped on its feet.

Omar Khayyam was a regular cat after all.

NEW ORDINANCE WOULD CHANGE AUTO NUMBERS

Supervisor Hollinger will introduce an ordinance at tonight's meeting of the board of supervisors to compel owners of motor cars to have standard number plates, the color of which are to be changed each year at the discretion of the sheriff.

The ordinance will call for plates similar to those in use in California, Oregon and other states. They must be suspended from both ends of the automobiles and trucks. Hollinger said today that the ordinance was to be only temporary and to be later incorporated into a general automobile regulation measure which he is preparing.

"By the present number system it is impossible for a policeman to catch the number of a car at any distance if the machine is making good speed," Hollinger explained, "as has been demonstrated when cars have struck people and then continued on their way. The plates are easy to read."

These plates cost about 90 cents a pair, Hollinger said.

Cohen is Against It While Blair Favors It, With Board of Appeal

J. C. Cohen, president of the Consolidated Amusement Company, owners of the Bijou, Empire and Ye Liberty theaters, has decided views against the proposed censorship of motion pictures.

"The proposition to censor all films is foolish, to say the least," said Mr. Cohen to the Star-Bulletin today. "Inasmuch as all films which are exhibited in Honolulu have been passed by the National Board of Censorship, the Consolidated Amusement Company has never exhibited indecent or depraving films, and never will."

"Sure, it's a good proposition," Sam Blair said. "Let us have censorship by all means. That is, provided the censor is liberal in his views as to what is right and what is wrong. The censorship should be for the purpose of barring wild-west-Jesse-James-knock-him-out-and-drag-him-down films, the kind that give children the fever. But it should not bar films with a moral, such as 'The Master Mind,' 'Sappho' and others of that nature. Neither should the judgment of the censor be final. There should be a board of appeals. It is important that the censor be liberal in his views, because we pay $200 or $300 for a film and if it is tabooed, we lose the money."

The censorship of motion pictures has been proposed and it is said that a bill will be presented at the legislature giving the superintendent of schools authority to forbid the exhibition of all films which in his judgment are unfit for the public to see.

"BURGLAR'S KIT" HOLDS ONE DEAD CHICKEN

A bundle alleged to have contained burglar tools, found under the residence of Dr. Derby of Manoa, was found to contain a dead chicken when the matter of an attempted robbery was investigated by officers from the detective department.

Y. W. C. A. TO MAKE 2-DAY CAMPAIGN TO RAISE FUNDS

Plans are practically complete for the two-day campaign which will be conducted by the local Y. W. C. A. next Tuesday and Wednesday to secure funds for the budget for the coming fiscal year.

It is the desire of the association to broaden its work during 1915, add probably two new secretaries to the force and engage in further educational and extension work. All this will require money, it was pointed out at a meeting at the Homestead yesterday, and the public will be asked to assist during the campaign.

The present needs of the association are outlined in the following letter being sent out by Mary Dillingham Frear, president of the board of directors:

"The Young Women's Christian Association discovered to its own surprise that it was practically 90 per cent self supporting last year. But this year it has decided that it will take certain definite advance steps, and we feel sure that you will want to have the privilege of helping in this advance movement."

"We want to add to our force an educational and extension secretary, who shall go out among the girls and young women of this city, find out their needs and desires, and assist in the forming of classes and clubs. Then in order to put the lunch room on a self supporting basis, we need about $400 for new equipment and 100 people patronizing it each day. It would then be able to save approximately $100 per month."

"New furniture is needed for the rest room and office. There is a time during the day when the rest room overflows into the office, and more comfortable equipment has become a necessity."

"A summary of our budget, which has been endorsed by the chamber of commerce, may be of interest:

Table with 3 columns: Item, Estimated Expense, Estimated Income. Includes items like General department, Memberships, Homesteads, Lunch room, Physical department, Education & extension, Religious, National Board, Library, Social, Amount of subscriptions necessary to meet our expenses.

"We are giving you these facts so that you may know what we are aiming to do. One of our women will call on you February 2 or 3 and will be glad to answer any further questions about our work. Opportunity will also be given you to help in this forward movement."

Cordially, MARY DILLINGHAM FREAR, President.

RIVALRY FOR "TIPPERARY" IN WELSH WAR SONGS.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Cymric war songs, sung by a chorus of 40,000 Welsh warriors, are to rival "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" on the field of battle, according to a Cardiff despatch to Lloyd's Weekly. The message adds: The Welsh recruits include some of the finest singers in the Welsh valleys, men who have competed in scores of Elstedfods. The soldiers rehearse at Porthewl training camp partake of the character of first class concerts, which attract to the hall large numbers of residents and many visitors. Miss Gee of Denbigh, an ardent Welsh patriot, is distributing a selection of Welsh war songs among the men, with the request that they be used and that there be less singing of Tipperary.

Bishop Restarick of St. Andrew's Church Cathedral, will celebrate the holy communion and preach in the post chapel, Schofield Barracks, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Prof. Carl Miltner's orchestra will give a concert on the roof garden of the Young hotel this evening from 8:30 until 11 o'clock. An attractive program has been arranged. The public is invited.

A measure providing that Henry Walsworth Kinney, superintendent of public instruction, be appointed censor of all motion picture films displayed in the territory probably will be introduced at the next legislature.

Present and former members of the National Guard and their families and friends are invited to the armory at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night for the second monthly entertainment. There will be a musical program and some film plays.

For rents said to amount to $2050 on a government fish pond at Puhala, Waikole, Ewa, Oahu, Land Commissioner Joshua Tucker has filed suit in circuit court against Charles Lai Loung. The pond covers an area of 22 1/2 acres.

John Effinger, publisher of the Shipping Guide and local representative of the San Francisco Merchant's Exchange, left Fort Shafter hospital today recovered from an operation for appendicitis. He was in the hospital three weeks.

During the coming week the outdoor committee of the Promotion Committee will conduct a rousing campaign for further excursionists to Kauai. More than 125 persons have booked to date and the committee wants to add 75 more to the list.

On motion of the prosecution Judge Ashford today noisily crossed the gambling cases against Sun Yau and others, a number of Chinese convicted and assessed a light fine by the district court at Wai'aleale. They appealed from the lower court's decision and now are discharged.

Stating that defendants refused to pay the judgment of $978.33 and that he found no property on which to levy an attachment, Deputy Sheriff Gleason returned the execution yesterday in the case of William J. Robinson against Jessie F. Kaee, John F. Colburn and Antonino Long.

Land Commissioner Tucker sold at public auction at noon today a 21-year lease of a right-of-way for water pipes and flumes over government land in the Luualale tract, Waianua, Oahu, to the Waianua company, the purchaser agreeing to pay the upset annual rental of $123 for the right.

The law firm of Holmes, Stanley & Olson today was entered as counsel for the John H. Estate, Ltd. An objection was filed in federal court by the attorneys for George H. Brown, et al. to the form of judgment. A further hearing of the case will be held at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

Wall & Dougherty, local jewelers, have been awarded the contract for preparing the medals which will be awarded during the Mid-Pacific Carnival. The medals will be oval in shape and, besides a suitable inscription, will bear the coat-of-arms in raised enamel. They will be in three classes—gold, silver and bronze.

Working under a resolution passed by the last house of representatives, employees of the public works department are assembling all the old portraits of former Hawaiian royalty in the throne room or hall of representatives. An effort was made yesterday to remove several hanging in the governor's chamber, but he strenuously opposed this move. Whether these will eventually appear in Representative hall remains to be seen.

In a lengthy decision given today Circuit Judge Stuart sustains the demurrer to the amended bill of complaint entered by the Honolulu Athletic Park against H. G. Lowry and the Venice baseball team. The demurrer was made by Lowry's counsel, E. C. Peters having amended the original complaint in which he obtained the injunction restraining the Venice Tigers from playing at Moiliili park last Thanksgiving day.

At least a part of their matrimonial troubles having been settled out of court, the temporary injunction obtained early this week by Mrs. Mabel

W. Arleigh, restraining Augustus B. Arleigh from disposing of his interests in the A. B. Arleigh Company is to be dismissed. Mrs. Arleigh today filed a discontinuance of her action seeking the injunction and a settlement for her maintenance. The divorce proceeding instituted by the husband, which is contested by her, is still pending.

THIN PEOPLE CAN INCREASE WEIGHT

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh yourself again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scale and tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Chambers Drug Co., and Hollister Drug Co.—advertisement.

TWO OUTDOOR TRIPS FOR HIKERS TOMORROW

NO NEW MELONS TO BE CUT BY HAWN, PINEAPPLE

President Dole's Conservative Stand Backed at the Annual Meeting of Stockholders

Two additional directors, W. H. McInerney and A. L. Castle, were added by the Hawaiian Pineapple Company stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday afternoon. This is in satisfaction of a movement begun a year ago and agreed to by the directors during the past year, incorporated in President Dole's report, published in the Star-Bulletin.

No change was made in the policy of the company with regard to dividends. The president's statement, urging conservatism and opposing any increase in the present 15 per cent. cash dividend, or any material increase in the capitalization, was accepted and endorsed and for the present Hawaiian Pineapple will not cut any new melons.

The annual meeting of the Hawaiian Pineapple Products Company, an allied corporation, was also held yesterday. Both reelected officers.

COURT ADMITS FOUR TO U. S. CITIZENSHIP

The naturalization docket in the federal court was partially cleaned up today when four persons were admitted to American citizenship. They were as follows:

Gaspar J. L. Schmidt, a native of Germany; Christian Nielsen, Denmark; Christian Lorrin, Sweden, and Claude Buffet, England.

The petition of George Vitus Isenberg was continued for hearing until the close of the European war. Other cases continued were those of Herbert Riley, Henry J. M. C. Frandsen and Albert dos Santos.

DADS MEET WITH SONS IN BANQUET AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Judge Whitney Advises Fathers Not to Expect Hero-Worship From Children

A snappy talk by Judge William L. Whitney on how fathers may secure the best results in the management of their sons, a bounteous turkey dinner, with plenty of music and jollification and then some fun in the bowling alleys and gymnasium last night went to make up what was probably the most successful "Father and Son" banquet ever held in the Y. M. C. A. Ninety fathers and sons were present. After the turkey and other eatables had disappeared and the choruses of several popular songs had been sung, H. M. von Holt took charge of the affair as toastmaster. Charles A. Cottrill, W. R. Farrington and E. A. Mott-Smith told some interesting stories of their boyhood days, while Judge Whitney pointed out the failures which many fathers make in the management of their sons. He said, in part:

"You require that your boy shall think of you and act toward you as though you were perfection; as though you existed not a flaw; as though next to the Deity you were the wisest, greatest, purest, most noble that has yet roved earth.

"Now you know mighty well you aren't and you shouldn't so treat your boy dishonestly.

"You know when a boy is six he thinks his father is the most wonderful man that ever lived; when he is sixteen he has decided that after all he didn't know so much; at twenty-six he begins again to think his father was a pretty wise guy, and at thirty-six he again knows that his father is the most wonderful man that ever lived.

"And I am thirty-six."

Following the banquet the fathers and their sons invaded the bowling alley, billiard room and gymnasium. How the scores stood between father and son is not known.

Among those present were Canon William Ault, Ralph Ault; J. P. Cooke, Henry and Douglas Cooke; A. F. Cooke, Mortimer L. Cooke; C. A. Cottrill, Clark Cottrill; J. Cassidy, Charles Cassidy; L. De Roe, Lee De Roe; H. Decker, Kenneth Decker; W. R. Farrington, Joe Farrington; W. M. Graham, Roy Graham; F. Harvey, Harold Harvey; H. Hitchcock, Dickson and Dudley P. Hitchcock; W. Gitt, Guy Gitt; E. A. Mott-Smith, Stanley Mott-Smith; M. G. Santos, Henry Santos; J. Smith, Werner Smith; E. H. Paris, Lewis Paris; A. H. Tarleton, Colby Tarleton; C. Thurston, Paul Thurston; C. F. Peterson, Fred and Edwin Peterson; F. Waterhouse, Fred Waterhouse; J. Wakefield, Gordon Wakefield; J. Woolaway, James Woolaway; H. von Holt, Dick Gartley; Judge W. L. Whitney, Ellsworth Derby; Paul Super, Robert and Lester Rodrick; G. Jackson, Oswald Auerbach; A. E. Larimer, Henry Tad and James Louis; C. F. Loomis, Wentworth Mist and Parmalee Ewing; W. SPECIAL SECRETARY FOR ORIENTAL BRANCHES CONSIDERED BY Y. M. C. A.

The Honolulu Y. M. C. A. has under consideration the employment of a secretary who will devote his entire time to cooperating with the Oriental branches of the association in the development of their work.

"One of the most encouraging achievements of the association in recent years is the splendid development of the Japanese branch," said General Secretary Paul Super. "The growth of the association along this line has encouraged some of the association workers to strive for even a greater advance. The Korean work is active and the Chinese Y. M. C. A. is beginning to awake to the needs of the young men of that race here."

If arrangements can be made L. R. Kilham, secretary of the religious-work department, will be freed from his duties with the central association and assigned to the proposed new work.

LIGHTWEIGHT CAR IS HERE TO STAY, AUTO MAN'S VIEW

Public Demand is For Small Machine with Capacity of Expensive Makes

BRISCOE IS MODELLED ON FRENCH DESIGNS

Economy, Equipment and Service Combined in Present Output Win Favor With Public

There is no denying the fact that the light car has come to stay.

There is a constantly increasing demand for a car that is economical and at the same time has the carrying capacity and equipment of the larger and more pretentious cars. When this demand first became apparent there was offered to the public a car that leaned more to the motorcycle. This in a very short time proved to be unable to meet the demand and the thoughts of the builders turned more to the regulation automobile. Among those who appreciated this growing demand was Benjamin Briscoe. It was Briscoe who with David Buick first built the Buick car. Then, with J. D. Maxwell, Mr. Briscoe built the Maxwell and controlled it when it made its reputation.

The Briscoe car was certain of success because it was not made in a hurry. Incorporated in this car are all the fine points of French design, and French cars for many years have been noted for their engineering advance. The genius of the French keeps them ahead. Men who knew American methods of engineering, men who have built successful cars in America, went to France for the express purpose of securing the best foreign methods and practices suited to a car of moderate size and light weight.

The first French car at an American price was worked out and produced at Billancourt, near Paris—a finished masterpiece of French and American engineers. It is now being manufactured on American soil in a factory equipped with machinery which cost a million dollars.

The low-slung body and graceful lines of the Briscoe at once stamps it as a car of unusual beauty, and this together with the wonderful reputation of Mr. Briscoe in successfully building small cars in the past when the car industry was in its infancy appeals to the buyer as a combination of unusual merit.

PRINCE TO TALK TO OUTRIGGER ON LIFE-SAVING

Will Urge Extension of Rescue Work at Meeting of Leading Aquatic Organization

Richard T. Prince, an authority on life-saving methods and an advocate of a movement to increase life-saving facilities in Honolulu was to be one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Outrigger club at its clubhouse, Waikiki, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Prince has written the president of the club as follows:

"On behalf of the Ad club, and having observed that you are holding your annual meeting next Saturday, it has occurred to me that on this occasion it might be an excellent opportunity of bringing before your membership, which I know is a large one, the subject which I touched on during the Ad club weekly session Wednesday and which was given full publicity in the evening edition of the Star-Bulletin.

"I have been appointed a committee of one by Mr. W. R. Farrington to bring this matter of life saving to the notice of all the swimming and athletic clubs in the Hawaiian Islands with a view to getting some discussion on the matter and an expression of opinion from each and every club of this nature.

"In the meantime I am approaching the Royal Humane society of Great Britain towards getting some valuable hints and, if possible, assistance in other ways to help on the good work, but first of all I want to get opinions from all sides which will be submitted to the Honolulu ad club, since it has undertaken to get the ball rolling in the right direction."

As pointed out yesterday by G. H. Tuttle, president of the club, the Outrigger club has taken the lead in the use of the pulmotor, demonstrations of this machine having been given at the clubhouse on several occasions. Three or four classes of instruction were organized and about 20 members now understand how to use the pulmotor.

An amendment to the bylaws which has caused considerable discussion is that providing for an open membership, in reality opening the club to the membership of women as well as men, in addition to the woman's auxiliary. According to Secretary J. Ashman Beaven this will not be taken up at the meeting. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

CHAS. WILLIAMS, OLD SEAMAN, PASSES AWAY

A picturesque character passed from local maritime circles in the death of Charles Williams, for 25 years identified with the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company. Advancing years followed by a general breakdown in health caused his death at the family home at Kalihi. Attended by a large number of associates from the Inter-Island and other friends, the remains were followed to a last resting place at Nuuanu cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral was held from the H. H. Williams undertaking parlors. The body has been cremated. Williams is said to have been born in Holland, coming to the United States before the Civil War. He figured with honor in the naval attack by Admiral Farragut and similar engagements conducted on inland waters. He was numbered with the early band of navigators who sailed the South Pacific in the role of trader, pearler and explorer. He spent a number of years in the groups of islands that lie south of the equator and at one time was heavily interested in the development of the Gilbert islands. He joined the Inter-Island shortly after his arrival in Hawaii, taking the position of quartermaster. His ability as a rigger and sailmaker won for him a better opportunity, and Williams was placed in charge of this department. Practically his whole life was spent in following the sea. His faithfulness to duty won for him the approval of his employers and associates, who mourn his loss. The deceased leaves a wife residing in this city.

STORM KING LAYS BIG CROWD NEARS PORT IN LINER MATSONIA

The largest number of passengers to leave the coast for the Hawaiian islands in many weeks is steaming for Honolulu in the Matson Navigation liner Matsonia, due early Tuesday morning. Captain Charles Peterson has wireless Castle & Cooke that the Matsonia will bring 147 cabin and 15 steerage passengers. More than 50 per cent of the travelers are believed to be tourists. The Matsonia, while reported to have met with strong gales and heavy seas, will not be greatly delayed in its arrival, it is believed. The vessel has 2377 tons of cargo for delivery at Honolulu. The steamer is scheduled for despatch to Hilo on next Thursday evening, where 1967 tons of freight will be discharged. A total of 34 automobiles and auto-trucks for the islands are included in the freight. The Matsonia will bring 351 sacks of mail and 112 packages of express matter. Arrangements are being made for the reception and entertainment of the advance guard of tourists to visit the islands this year. Pleasant Weather for Mauna Kea. Light southerly winds aided the steamer Mauna Kea in reaching port at an early hour this morning. The vessel completed one of the most pleasant trips in weeks today. Officers report meeting with no waves said to be hovering off the islands. The steamer brought a small list of passengers and cargo, including shipments of stock, vegetables, 100 sacks of sugar and a quantity of supplies. Purser Phillips reported the departure of the Matson steamer Hyades from Hilo for San Francisco with sugar. The Columbian with 11,000 tons of the product for New York by way of Panama canal left Hilo on last Thursday evening. The Mauna Kea has been placed on the berth to steam for Hilo at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Radio From the Matsonia. The following wireless message has been received by the agents of the S. S. Matsonia, bound for Honolulu: For Honolulu, 147 cabin passengers, 15 steerage passengers, 351 bags mail, 112 packages express matter, 21 automobiles, 3397 tons cargo; for Hilo, 13 automobiles, 1967 tons cargo. Ship arrives Tuesday morning and will dock at Pier 15. Chanslor Damaged by Storm. Bringing 45,000 barrels of oil to the local branch of the Associated Oil Company, the steamer J. A. Chanslor, an arrival last evening, received small damage by storm. The vessel completed a passage from the California coast in a little less than 12 days. Strong head winds and heavy seas were responsible for the delay. Captain Gus Holmes expects to despatch the steamer for San Francisco this evening or early tomorrow morning. The vessel will not call at island ports. Santa Maria Due Tuesday. With 45,000 barrels of oil for the Union Oil Company local plant the steamer Santa Maria has steamed from Port San Luis and is due at Honolulu on Tuesday morning. Second Officer Amerson who was injured at Kahului some weeks ago will return to the coast in the Santa Maria. H. B. Weller, the local representative for the steamer, says that the Santa Maria will discharge its entire cargo at Honolulu. Big Opium Seizure on Dix. More than 50 pounds of prepared opium was found on the United States army transport Dix which arrived at Seattle from Honolulu on January 22. The discovery of the drug was followed by the arrest of three men belonging to the ship's crew. "How did you know your patient had appendicitis, doctor?" "I operated on him."—Philadelphia Ledger. "Home is the dearest place on earth," cooed Mrs. Jones. "It is," replied Jones, who had just received the Christmas bills.—Honolulu Post. The Michigan Board of Health was asked to close the Hancock Finnish College at Houghton because of a smallpox epidemic.

CLEANSER YOUR HAIR MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL

It becomes thick, wavy, lustrous and all dandruff disappears—Hair stops coming out. Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanser" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance. Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—advertisement.

AERIAL BARTLETTS

BIJOU'S COMBINATION BILL IS HIT WITH LOCAL THEATER-GOERS

Annette Bartlett, who vies with Annette Kellermann for beauty and symmetry of figure.

That Honolulu theatergoers appreciate high-class vaudeville was demonstrated again last night at the Bijou when the big house was comfortably filled and time and again was fairly shaken with applause and cheers. There was plenty of fun and plenty of thrills.

The thrills were provided by the Aerial Bartletts, a clever and death-defying team of aerial acrobats and contortionists. Their apparatus is of circus "big top" dimensions, so it is necessary to suspend it from the roof of the theater building directly in front of the stage so as to give these premier trapeze performers room in which to stage their startling stunts. The action is so fast that at times it is fairly bewildering. And what is more the Bartletts place absolutely no safeguards about themselves in case of accident or slip. There are no nets or other safety devices. A miscalculation or a slip means broken bones or death. Some of the feats are so daring that many persons turned their eyes away. It is the best trapeze act ever seen in vaudeville in Honolulu. Annette Bartlett also lives up to her reputation which preceded her from Australia that she is a second Annette Kellermann for perfect and beautiful figure.

TRACK SPORTS KEEP SCHOOL ATHLETES BUSY

Three Important Meets Will Be Held During March; Cornell Cross Country Race

Track practise is now the order of the day in interscholastic circles. Kamehameha and McKinley have been working for some time past, and with the close of the soccer schedule, St. Louis and Punahou have taken up track practise in earnest.

The first event of the season is the big cross-country run, under the auspices of the Cornell Club. All schools are working hard for this event. Those in touch with the situation expect Kam to take first honors in this event, with Punahou and St. Louis to be the most likely contenders for second place.

This event is one feature of the Cornell track meet, which follows the cross-country run two weeks later. It scores 20, 12, 6 and 2 points respectively for first, second, third and fourth places and the school winning first place has the names of its team inscribed on a handsome kos plaque.

Great importance is attached to the cross-country run, since it gives the winner such a lead in the Cornell meet. Kamehameha has not been handicapped by soccer this year, but has been working steadily on the cinder path. Mills and McKinley are in the same position. It has been unofficially announced that McKinley will not enter interscholastic sports this year, but school athletes hope that the report is premature and incorrect, as McKinley has several fine athletes.

Mills athletes are at a disadvantage inasmuch as they have no regular track and field to work on. This difficulty will doubtless be overcome by the enthusiasm that the Maoua Miller show in all sports. St. Louis may lack the services of their 1914 star, Tommy Hore. Hore has an injury from track work last year that may be serious enough to bar him from this season's meets. Punahou lost heavily last year when Walt Inman, H. Baldwin, O. Dwyer, K. Baldwin, Webster, M. Tuttle, E. Tuttle and McGowan graduated. The offering of stars this year is very slim, but the Punahou supporters are undismayed and are laying careful plans for the season.

The annual A. A. U. meet will probably be held between the Cornell and interscholastic meets this year as last. This, however, is subject to the decision of the A. A. U. committee.

The schedule is as follows, providing the A. A. U. committee accepts the date chosen by the interscholastic league:

Feb. 20.—Cornell cross-country run. Mar. 1.—Cornell track meet. Mar. 12.—A. A. U. meet. Mar. 20.—Interscholastic meet.

The Cornell meet will be held on the Kam field, the other two meets will be on Alexander field. The course for the cross-country run is to be decided upon by the Cornell Club, and it will not be announced until the day before the run.

The Chinese Athletic Union will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at 7:30, at the Sang Loy talking establishment. Officers for the year will be elected.

February 29 is the date set for this year's cross-country race under the auspices of the Cornell Club. The course will not be announced until the day before the race. The first 15 places will count and it is expected that at least 50 will start.

There is a varied and interesting sport program on at the Fort Street skating rink tonight. Soldier King and H. Smith of the fire department will meet in a handicap bike race. Speedy Gonzola, and Soldier King, the 2nd infantry, will take a three-mile skating race.

A dozen riders have entered the 25-mile bike race that is to be decided tomorrow. The contestants will line up on Kalakaua avenue opposite the Outrigger Club at 12:30 to receive instructions and numbers. Following the race, which finishes at Kapiolani park track, there will be a five-mile event for amateurs.

PECULIAR PLAY TIES UP GAME IN BOYS LEAGUE

Kauluwaia and Star-Bulletins Fail in Attempt to Decide Championship

Kauluwaia 4, Star-Bulletin 4. It would take about six columns and then some to give the various opinions on one of the most peculiar plays ever witnessed, upon which depended the final score and a championship of last night's indoor ball game.

Sam Kahoe, the star pitcher for Kauluwaia, with two out, came home from second on a hit, but cut third entirely and made a hard slide for home, the throw to the catcher being wild. Sam picked himself up and went back to third as he says to coach, but the umpire said he went back as a runner; first because he did not touch home, and second because he did not touch third on his attempt to score from second.

This occurred in the first half of the eighth, and Kahoe was declared out when another runner ran from second to third and the ball was put on Kahoe for a forced out, according to Melim's decision, inasmuch as Kahoe, not touching the home plate in the first place, was not a coacher at third, as he, Kahoe, claimed, but in reality a runner.

This 4 to 4 tie will necessitate the replaying of the entire game, the same to take place in the games hall of the Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. Glenn Jackson will umpire balls and strikes, and another umpire equally satisfactory to both contending teams, will be secured.

Last night's game was the greatest ever seen in the Y. M. C. A. C. Chang, the Star-Bulletin pitcher, hurled the game of his life, striking out 21 men in nine innings, but did not begin to get the support that the Kauluwaia boys gave to Sam Kahoe, who also pitched a wonderful game, striking out 14 and holding his position faultlessly. F. Tyan caught a fine game in all but the eighth, in which inning the Kauluwaia boys tied the score.

The folding and base running played well on little George Rosario, Kauluwaia's shortstop, who twice by a one-handed stop and quick throw retired men at first on what seemed to be sure hits.

The first six men to face Chang in the game struck out. The Bulletin boys took a two-run lead in the first, on a single, and Anahu's double. The latter also scored when Tyan was out stealing. Neither team scored in the second. Rosario scored for Kauluwaia in the third on a single, a passed ball and some fast base running. The Bulletin boys were blanked in their half. In the fourth both pitchers had lots of stuff on the ball, striking out two each, and neither side scoring. In the fifth Chang struck out Silva gave Manabu a base on balls, but the latter was out stealing second on the first ball pitched. Koyama also struck out. For the Bulletinns Godfrey went out at first, Ken Tal out on a fly to L. F. Ah Hee singled and K. Leong drove the ball to the wall for two bases scoring Ah Hee. One run. In the sixth Chang struck out the first four men that faced him, but Sam Palea, first up, was safe when the catcher dropped the ball, reached second on a steal, and third and home on passed balls. The Bulletinns scored one in their half, when B. Anahu was safe at first, stole second, reached third on Tyan's strike-out, and scored on Chang's out at first. Neither team scored in the seventh, both pitchers striking out two. In the Kauluwaia half of the eighth, Palea the first man up, got a base on balls, went to third on Rosario's slow grounder, and scored a minute later on a wild throw. A moment later Kahoe was safe on a high bouncer impossible to handle. Rosario scored on Koyama's single and Kahoe made his run from second above described.

The Bulletin boys did not get a man on bases in their half of this inning or the ninth, nor did Kauluwaia get a man on first in their half of the ninth.

The line-up: Star-Bulletin—K. Leong, 3b; B. Anahu, ss; F. Tyan, c; C. Chang, p; Y. Cheng, 2b; R. Lam, 1b; Godfrey, 1c; Ken Tal, rf; Ah Hee, cf. In the Kauluwaia line-up: Karami, 3b; Marquez, 1c; Manabu, c; Koyama, 2b; J. Bell, cf; Sam Palea, 1b; G. Rosario, ss; Denchi, rf; Sam Kahoe, p.

DOUBLE HEADER IN MIDWINTER LEAGUE AT ATHLETIC PARK

Table with 3 columns: Team, W, L, Pct. Kalmukis 2 1 666, Makiki Stars 2 1 666, Donnas 1 1 500, Theatricals 1 1 500, Pauaos 0 2 000.

At 1:30 tomorrow afternoon the Theatricals and the Donnas will hook up at Athletic park. The two teams have had added new talent and ought to put up a good exhibition of the national game, with Thevenis and Paty forming the Donnas battery, and Dole and Silva the Theatricals.

The second game should also be a good one as the lowly Pauaos are determined to win from the much touted Kalmukis. Lopes will in all probability do the pitching for the Pauaos, with either Simao or J. Ornelas catching. The regular Kalmuki battery will be seen in action, Soares and Plata.

SNAPPY BALL GAMES PLAYED AT SCHOFIELD

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Jan. 29.

The best early season baseball game so far was played Thursday afternoon between Battery B, 1st Field Artillery, and Company H, 25th Infantry, the latter team being shut out by a score of 3 to 0.

It was a pitchers' battle with almost perfect fielding upon the part of both teams. The 25th Infantry batters failed to find either Michalek or Stoll for a single hit, and were unable to advance a base runner as far as second. The four men who attempted to puffer the second sack were all nipped by Monroe's perfect pegg.

Zuber, on the mound for the foot-soldiers, held the Artillery to three hits. The only scoring was in the third inning. A single by Baurtutt, a double by Fouquette and two costly errors by H Company's third baseman contributed 2 runs. Fouquette stole home for the third.

This is the first game B Battery has played this year. B Battery won the 1st Field Artillery championships last season, and the outlook for their adding another trophy to their collection is pretty strong in their favor, though the other batteries with the possible exception of D will have unusually strong teams in the field. The Field Artillery series commences tomorrow afternoon with a game between A and F batteries.

The scores by innings: R H E Co. H. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3 2 Batteries—Co. H: Zuber and Monroe. Bat. B: Michalek, Stoll and Monroe. Struck out by Zuber 9, by Michalek 6, by Stoll 2. Base on balls, off Zuber 1, off Michalek 2. Two base hit, Fouquette. Umpire, Sergt. A. F. Miller.

Company D, 25th Infantry, won a game from Company G Thursday by a score of 6 to 3. Watson of G Company pitched an excellent game, holding his opponents to 2 hits, but was miserably supported by his team.

Company I, 1st Infantry, forfeited their game to H Company Thursday afternoon, 9 to 0. The I Company team walked off the field due to dissatisfaction with Umpire Shackelford's decision on a balk. The score at the time was Company H 4, Company I 3.

SCHOOL TENNIS SERIES WILL BE PLAYED IN FEB.

Interscholastic tennis players have arranged a series of singles and doubles matches between schools that should prove good sport and give an excellent line on the playing material at each institution. Play starts next Monday afternoon and each school will be represented by two singles players and one doubles team. The tournament is a round-robin affair, every school playing every other one.

Following is the schedule: SINGLES. February 1—Kamehameha vs. Mills, at Mills; McKinley vs. Punahou, at Punahou. February 6—Mills vs. Punahou, at Punahou; McKinley vs. Kamehameha, at Kamehameha. February 8, McKinley vs. Mills, at Mills; Kamehameha vs. Punahou, at Punahou. February 13—Punahou vs. Kamehameha, at Kamehameha; McKinley vs. Mills, at Mills.

DOUBLETS. February 13—Punahou vs. Kamehameha, at Kamehameha; McKinley vs. Mills, at Mills. February 15—Mills vs. Kamehameha, at Kamehameha; McKinley vs. Punahou, at Punahou. February 19—Punahou vs. Mills, at Mills; McKinley vs. Kamehameha, at Kamehameha.

STALLINGS ON LAST GAMES OF REGULAR SEASON

Boston Manager Tells About Team Spirit That Made the Braves Unbeatable

(BY GEORGE T. STALLINGS.) I want to say that my club was prepared more thoroughly for the world's series than any team ever was before. We went after the weaknesses of the Athletics as I had learned them when in the American league, and we figured at the daily skulk practise how to cover up our own, for every team has some weaknesses and we recognized ours. I can't tell what they are, naturally. We made it a point to ask everybody that we thought might have some accurate information about the Athletics for pointers and the warning that we had fired at us after time was: "Prepare for Big Series."

"Don't let them get your signs," we were told this so often that the young fellows on the club got to dreaming about it and the result of this was the series of signals that I mentioned above. We rehearsed these over and over. One night while the team was at the hotel in New York, I heard some one mumbling in a room near mine. I knew that all the rooms in that part of the house were occupied by my ball players, so I walked down the hall and found the door of the room on a crack. I looked in.

Rudolph was standing at one end and Gowdy was crouched at the other giving signs in an imaginary glove. As he switched from one code to another Rudolph would call them. "Curve ball, inside," said "Dick." "Fast one, outside. Spitter," mumbled Rudolph.

I tiptoed away without either one knowing that I had seen the rehearsal. Spirit of that sort wins victories, and Rudolph displayed his wonderful gameplan as he did under actual fire in the series when he pitched grand ball. This was the spirit which won for us. To show how hard my team worked, not a man missed a sign during the world's series.

Knew Signals Thoroughly. Just to give an idea of what a tight organization we had, I will relate an incident that occurred during the final series of the season in Brooklyn. I was sitting in a field box with a friend and Mitchell was running the club on the bench. Whitted was at the bat, with a man on first base and none out. Tyler was coaching at third base. He glanced at me in the box, and I gave him the sign for Whitted to hit. Tyler flashed the sign to Whitted and he batted a curve ball for a couple of bases. Tyler on the field had caught the sign from me out of all the crowd. It would have been the same if I had been sitting upstairs in the last row of the grand stand. It was a tight ball club and the organization of it counted in both the National League race and the world's series.

Yet I do not run a ball club so tight that I kill a man's individuality. I rave on the bench, it is true, and I did up to the last game of the National League race because I figured this would keep up the pepper during the world's series that won for us on the season. It did, too, I guess. But I don't order every play and make a machine of a ball player. If you think for a man whenever you can, you will blot on his individuality, and quick thinking is one of a player's greatest assets. So many plays come up when a manager does not have time or the opportunity to think for a ball player that it is best to let him think for himself most of the time. I insist on quick thinking on both ends of a play, however, for fast brain work on one end does no good. If the base runner is going to pull off some play, the batter must know about it and be ready to jibe in. We worked hard on all these signs in our preparations for the world's series. And, it all paid.

When Smith Broke His Leg. The team went along smoothly enough getting ready for the big battle, until the last day we were scheduled to play a National League game. There was a double-header in Brooklyn. I started most of my regulars and it resulted in a stroke of bad luck that many of our followers thought had killed what little chance we were supposed to have in the series.

It occurred in the ninth inning of the first game, when Red Smith, the hard hitting third baseman, made a false slide for second and his leg doubled under him and under the bag. He didn't stand on it again until long after the series, when he got up off a hospital bed, for his leg was broken. Strangely enough Johnny Evers was one of the first to rush to Red, and Johnny looked back at me on the bench and barely whispered the news. "Red's out," he said. "But I heard and understood. If he had said nothing I would have known by his looks. I had realized when I saw Red go down. It was before the series between the Athletics and the Cubs in 1910 that Evers himself had broken his leg in almost the same way, when he started to slide for the plate in a game with Cincinnati after the Cubs had the championship clinched. Clarke, catching for the Reds, drew the slide

REVISED ALLEY SCHEDULE HAS BEEN DRAWN UP

The revised schedule for the Y. M. C. A. bowling league has just been approved by the captains. The first round will be completed on Feb. 18 when each team will have played a three game match with every other club.

There will be an intermission during Carnival week and on March 1 the second round will begin. A third round will also be played, the season ending on May 6. With such a long schedule, every team has a chance to win.

Monday night will bring the Signal Corps and Coast Defense into action. There is great rivalry between the service clubs and a keen match should result. The Honolulu play the Cosmos on Wednesday and on Thursday evening, two of the league leaders, the P. B. C. and Chamberlain's Colts will struggle for supremacy. The February revised schedule is as follows:

- Feb. 1.—Signal Corps vs. Coast Defense. Feb. 2.—Honolulu vs. Cosmos. Feb. 4.—Chamberlain's Colts vs. P. B. C. Feb. 6.—Honolulu vs. P. B. C. Feb. 10.—Cosmos vs. Signal Corps. Feb. 11.—Chamberlain's Colts vs. Coast Defense. Feb. 15.—Cosmos vs. Coast Defense. Feb. 17.—Honolulu vs. Chamberlain's Colts. Feb. 18.—P. B. C. vs. Signal Corps.

with a bluff to catch the ball that was never thrown, and Evers started to hit the dirt and then held up. Clarke has not yet given up regretting that he made the move which kept Evers out of the series.

"I'll never make another bluff," he has said to Evers time and time again since. "It was my fault," answered Johnny, "for not going through with the slide when I once started it. You weren't to blame, Tommy."

Between the games I went out to the clubhouse and called all the players together except Smith, who was on the way to the hospital. The whole club was naturally heartbroken. "Rabbit, you're out of the game," I said to Maranville, "and you, Evers, and Connolly, and the rest of you regulars."

I wasn't going to take any more chances with my veterans. I had had my lesson as a result of leaving them in the game in an effort to keep them on a fine edge. Then I turned to the second team.

"Now, you moss agates, who have been whining around all season for a change," I said to the substitutes, "here's going to get it. I want you to show me that a team of substitutes can win. This game means a lot to the spirit of the ball club. Now go out and get this next and last game of the season."

R was a terrible looking team. Pitchers were in the outfield and extra catchers were freely scattered through the lineup Tyler's brother was catching, but those boys, all out of their regular positions, went out there with jaws set, and they beat the life out of the regular Brooklyn club. They never missed a sign and played like champions. I believe they would have defeated the world's champions had afternoon with that spirit. It did my downcast regulars a lot of good, because it showed them that a second team could win.

That is the way I prepared all along. After we had clinched the pennant I would pick one particular game and say: "Now, let's get this one." The team would hustle and fight for it. My idea was to show them that they could win when they wanted to. Downcast Over Smith's Hurt. There is no use in saying that we were not downcast the night Smith was hurt. We were. The players met in my room and I gave them a talk.

"All we've got to do," I told them, "is to bite off more and chew harder." After the accident to Smith I got all sorts of advice from well wishers suggesting different shifts to strengthen the supposedly weak third base position. But I knew I was going to play Deal for he was right and ready to go in after his long rest. His work in the series vindicated my judgment.

As I reviewed the day just before I went to bed that night it seemed like the most disastrous of my career and I could think of only one stroke of good luck I had had. Some time before I had told Alexander, the Philadelphia pitcher, he could charge a suit of clothes to me if he beat the Giants in a "critical" series. He did and I got the bill that night. It was only $30. He might have stuck me $50. This made me smile and I turned in.

DECEPTIVE MOVE TO FIRST LESSENS SPEED ON BASES

By BILLY EVANS.

More speed has been the cry of a majority of baseball leaders for years. Scouts prior to starting their gumshoe expeditions into the minor league country are invariably told to pay particular attention to the fellows with speed. Perhaps no manager in the country has paid more attention to this detail of the game than McGraw of the Giants. His team, when it was winning National league pennants was said to be running away with them. In 1913 the Giants stole 396 bases in the National league. Cincinnati, with 235 steals to its credit, was New York's closest rival, an even 50 thefts in the rear. No other National league club was able to reach the 200 mark. In 1912 the Giants stole 319 bases. The Cincinnati club was again second, with 245 steals to its credit, it being the only other club to reach the double century mark. In 1911 the Giants led, with 347 steals to their credit, and once more Cincinnati was second, with Chicago third, these two being the only other clubs to reach the 200 mark.

A perusal of these figures makes it very apparent why the Giants were always credited with winning the pennant by their work on the bases, or, in other words, running away with it. It will be noticed, however, that the Giants fell off in their base stealing efforts each year. In 1912 McGraw's team stole 235 bases then in 1911. The condition has been quite general among the teams of the better class. Some of the second division clubs have improved their work on the bases, which of course had been their one great weakness, but most of the clubs that have been up in the race for the past three or four years have slumped badly in their work on the bases. The question naturally arises as to what has caused the rather general falling off in the base stealing department of the game.

It must also be remembered in this connection that this decrease in base running has taken place despite the fact that within the past few years the game has lost such sterling throwers as Billy Sullivan, Johnny Kling, Lew Criger, Nig Clarke, Charley Street and others of lesser importance. Speed on Bases Curtailed. In baseball just as soon as any one feature appears to be getting the upper hand wise managers set about to destroy the one branch which they have been busy building up. When the hitters appeared to hold the situation, the rule makers made it easier for the pitcher by causing the first two fouls to be called strikes, provided, of course, there were no strikes on the batter prior to his making the foul. This was a rather severe handicap. In three or four years the situation shifted, the pitcher appeared to have a decided advantage over the batsmen. Nearly every game was a pitchers' battle, shutouts were numerous and large score games were the decided exception to the rule. Low scores greatly predominated, and usually a one-run margin separated the victor and vanquished. In order to even up matters a ball that was a trifle more lively was adopted. This change appears to have struck a fairly happy medium. At one time the style and size of gloves worn by infielders and outfielders were entirely changed, in order to make the art of fielding all the more difficult.

The cry for more speed and the introduction of a great number of fast players into the game, other things being anywhere near equal, set the managers thinking as to how it would be possible to break up the various plays, possible to execute with feet men on the bases and at the bat. It was early apparent that the pitcher must be the main cog in cutting down the speed on the bases. It was up to the twirlers to devise some way to keep the runners from getting a tying start, to try to figure with the aid of the catcher, of course, the best time to waste a ball in an effort to aid the catcher in throwing a runner out, the opportune time to throw to first to get a runner napping.

Pitcher Greatly Aids Catcher. Stolen bases are always credited against the catcher, but very often if proper justice was meted out, the stolen base would be marked against the pitcher. On the other hand, a wise pitcher often deserves as much credit as the catcher, when a pretty throw retires the base runner on an attempted steal. Ed Walsh was always a great aid to Billy Sullivan, although Sullivan with his wonderful arm was able to whip them out with only ordinary help on the part of the pitcher. Lew Criger was another catcher that didn't bother much about what the pitcher did. I have often heard Criger tell Cy Young to pay attention to the batter, that he would take care of the base runner. Young's quick, easy delivery and great speed held the runner down fairly well, despite the fact that he didn't pay much attention to holding them on.

Five years ago the pitcher who had a deceptive move to first base was the exception to the rule. Ed Walsh was one of the few pitchers who would throw to first when the runner was positive he was about to pitch, which of course always resulted very disastrously to the base runner. In games in which Walsh worked, base-runners took a very short lead off first base. His style of delivery was so puzzling that they were always in great danger if they essayed to take the lead that was customary with the ordinary pitcher working. Not being able to take a chance and get away with a flying start, chances for pulling the hit and run or the successful sacrifice were greatly minimized when Walsh was pitching. Veteran Instruct Recruits. Rival managers insisted Walsh was balking every time he made a move to first. While the umpires called a balk every now and then on the big pitcher, he got away with his move as a general rule. Any time Walsh worked for Chicago the game was sure to be filled with wrangling, for he usually caught a couple of runners napping just at a time when a hit would have broken up the game, or at least put the opposition in the running.

There is no doubt in my mind but that Walsh's ingenuity in developing a move that passed muster with the umpires and incidentally curtailed base running to almost nothing when he worked, has been the one big factor in spurring other managers to adopt similar methods. Since Walsh got away with a move that other managers insisted was a balk, they figured there was no reason in the world why their pitchers couldn't get away with the same stuff. It was evident to them that no one player could throw baseball speed into low speed better than the pitcher. Veteran pitchers began learning a move to first that would deceive, while promising youngsters were at once placed under the instruction of the veteran pitcher best able to teach them in the art of holding the runners on or catching them napping.

Hard to Draw the Line. Instead of a few pitchers using motions to first that were questionable, it is now the exception to the rule for pitchers in the American league to throw to first in a way that is absolutely legal. I know this condition exists in all other leagues, for I have talked with umpires from all the leagues of any importance and all insist the hardest thing for them to do is to draw the line as to just how far the pitcher should be allowed to go in his efforts to hold the runner on. A few of the ways to deceive the runner are a slightly forward movement of the shoulders, a hitch of the shoulder of the pitching arm, a wrist motion made possible by the taking of a deep breath, a very slight movement of the foot on which the pitcher strides, and usually made preparatory to delivering the ball, followed by a snap throw to first. A movement popular with left-handers is to lift the leg of the right foot slightly in the direction of the plate and then, without the slightest hesitation make the move to first. It is, indeed, remarkable the hours pitchers spend working out some new-fangled motion that will hold the runners on, or get by the umpire without a penalty. The art of balk is becoming so customary on the ball field these days that it wouldn't be at all surprising if umpires were handed some mighty strict instructions pertaining to the enforcement of the balk rule, which at present is being badly misapplied.

Two fast basketball games should be staged at the armory tonight in the Service Basketball League, as the contesting teams are well patched. In the first game, scheduled for 8 o'clock, the 2nd Infantry and National Guard teams will meet. This will be the second clash between the two. The second game will be between the Signal Corps and the Engineers.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 another double-header will be played, the Alert playing the Department Hospital, and Fort De Russy playing Fort Armstrong.

'THE MAN ON THE BOX,' ROLLICKING MILITARY ROMANCE, AND PATHE WEEKLY, AT THE POPULAR THEATER TONIGHT

Scene from "The Man on the Box," a thrilling and attractive filmization of Harold McGrath's successful work, in which the entire Figman family is starring at the Popular theater.

That rollicking military romance, "The Man on the Box," featuring Max Figman and Lolita Robertson, will be shown at the Popular theater tonight in "Blair's Greater Photo Plays."

"More thrilling than the play and more attractive than the novel" is the way the mainland critics talk about Jesse L. Lasky's silent drama offering. Besides Max Figman and Lolita Robertson (Mrs. Max Figman) Max Figman, Jr., aged two years and declared a eugenically perfect specimen of babyhood, is one of the large company of artists used in the production of "The Man on the Box."

This offering, which has made thousands laugh in the reading of the novel by Harold McGrath and in the legitimate production, in which Max Figman starred for several seasons, tells of Lieut. Bob Warburton, a fancy-free adventuresome spirit who is wounded during an encounter with Indians and taken to the home of Col. Annesley for medical treatment. Recovering Bob learns that his service in the army has expired and that he is flat broke. However, he is rich in romance and becomes fascinated by the colonel's daughter, Betty. Betty, not knowing who Bob is, offers him a position as coachman, which he accepts. Many and varied are Bob's experiences as "The Man on the Box."

Becoming involved in a plot to defraud the United States government of important plans, Bob thwarts the attempt of a Russian count and saves the plans which are about to be stolen from the custody of Col. Annesley.

Betty, while visiting Bob's sister, who is a dear friend, learns from Bob's photographs who he is but at-lows him to continue his duties as coachman.

Betty's father loses his money and Bob discloses his identity, admitting he is the possessor of a large fortune that is but waiting for him to claim it.

However, Betty's and Bob's romance is one of pure love and after a series of intrigues, plots and counter-plots, all of which "The Man on the Box" tells, the couple are married and live to a ripe old age.

Comedy is dispensed lavishly throughout the five parts of "The Man on the Box," which was staged through Southern California, and in its 312 scenes introduces some of that beautiful scenery that has made that section of the coast state famous around the world.

RUGGED LIFE IN ARCTIC SHOWN IN EMPIRE PLAY

The rugged life found north of "53" has never been more forcibly portrayed than in a series of picturesque settings incorporated in the dramatization of the story, "A Pack of Cards," a headliner at the Empire theater today. The winter scenes are extremely beautiful, the photography high class and wonderfully clear. The cast is remarkably small, four characters filling the important roles.

Contrary to the rule in such productions, the action holds the attention of the observer throughout. The drama is void of the sensational and for this reason is refreshing to see. The main point brought out in the plot is a novel one and seldom employed by scenario writers.

Fionette, the wife of Pierre, is badly treated by her husband, who is a gambler and confirmed drunkard. He has a quarrel with Jean, a trapper, over a game of cards and is killed. Jean escaping with all the cards save one, affording a clue by which he is brought to speedy justice. The wife is freed of suspicion.

A western drama, "Broncho Billy and the Rattler," gives opportunity for display of rare talent by G. M. Anderson, a favorite with patrons of the movies.

Funny John Bunny returns to the Empire in a happy vehicle. He is starred in "Tango Tangoists," with Flora Finch as an able assistant. Mary Anderson and William Shea are also seen in this picture. The comedy, "A Woman in a Closet," will close the program.

LIBERTY'S BILL A DRAWING CARD

"Protea" and the second episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery" continues as a big drawing card at Ye Liberty theater, the large playhouse again being comfortably filled last night. Like Annette Kellermann in "Neptune's Daughter," "Protea" was staged to provide a vehicle to display the talents of Protea of American and European vandyville fame. Her act was rapid costume changing and impersonations, but on the stage she did not have the opportunities to display her skill such as the movies provided. Accordingly a play was woven around her. She is cast as a dashing adventuress who is selected to secure desired secrets from neighboring governments. This role gives her between 40 and 50 changes during the five reels to change costumes and personalities. "There are also plenty of thrills afforded, some of them intensely spectacular. The second episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery" is as mystifying and exciting as the first episode, and this serial promises to be immensely popular with Ye Liberty patrons as it progresses.

URGENT STRONGER FLEET BE GIVEN U. S. IN PACIFIC

[A. P. by Fed. Wireless] WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—Representatives Stephens and Knowland of California in the house yesterday urged that a stronger fleet be stationed in the Pacific, arguing that the United States has a longer coast-line there than on the Atlantic and the menace is greater.

"I am not one of those who believe war is imminent," said Congressman Stephens, "but if there were war tomorrow where would you look to see the guns flash first?"

OBITUARY

THIS seems to be the carnival season everywhere. In San Francisco there is a spirit of gaiety prevailing everywhere, and many of the official social functions have taken place at the exposition grounds, where in a few weeks thousands of persons from all parts of the world will gather to take part in the festivities of the exposition.

The biggest of recent affairs was the exposition Civic Center ball. It was a costume dance and hundreds of Gay society folk gathered at the new auditorium to participate in the event. Everyone was in mask and the costumes represented almost every nation and country in the world. It was such a success that already people are asking for another masquerade, and it will be given them early in February at the Mardi Gras.

Honolulu is to have a masked ball during February which will no doubt equal if not surpass the ball of which San Francisco is proud to boast. The Mardi Gras ball of the Carnival will take place on the twenty-fourth of February at the National Guard armory, and the only queen to reign will be "Queen Joy," who rules all affairs of this kind.

Society, too, will be interested in the military ball which is to be given in honor of the commanding general and officers of the Hawaiian department. The three officers serving on this committee are Lieut. Clarence Lyman, Lieut. Albert Lyman and Lieut. Charles Lyman. The Lyman brothers are three of Hawaii's young men in the service, and partly because they are brothers and from Hawaii, have attracted much attention.

Along with the social affairs included in the carnival program are numerous other features which will be of interest to Honolulu as well as to visitors in the city. One of these events which will be particularly interesting to the Hawaiian pageant Director Dougherty, who is at the head of the pageant committee, promises the pageant will be more spectacular this year than ever before. Hundreds of Hawaiians, among them descendants of the kings and chiefs, will take part in the play. And they will tell of some of the happenings of former days which are now a part of Hawaii's history.

The week of the carnival will contain some feature that will please everyone. Those who are interested in athletics are looking forward to the tennis swimming, baseball and other sporting events. The society folk, and particularly the members of the younger set, are waiting for the arrival of Maurice MacLaughlin, the tennis player of California who has taken honors all over the United States. MacLaughlin, because of his modesty over the skill he shows in tennis and because of his readiness to have a good time with the other young folks, is a lion among islanders and Berkeleyites. A mere boy himself, he is a leader in affairs in the college set in Berkeley.

Men and maids of society will welcome great numbers to the hibiscus show. The recently acquired fad of wearing the hibiscus shoulder-flower is gaining popularity every day. Of course it is delightful to be able to wear the flower, which has been named after one, but as there is hundreds of the dainty blossoms which still are known as the pink hibiscus, several hibiscus or shoulder-flower shows will be given during the carnival program.

The young folks, and particularly those in the public schools, are looking forward eagerly to the pageant assembly which will open the carnival festivities. "One Hundred Years of Peace" will be shown in the pageant and scores of little children costumed according to the period to be represented will take part in the pageant.

Every night of carnival week there will be something to see. There will be fireworks and a water carnival as well as the annual eruption of Punch-bowl and an open-air musical comedy. And all through the week there will be music. All of the military bands will be in from the outside posts and Captain Berger with the Hawaiian band will be on hand to play at the musical circle is larger, but surely not more appreciative. It is with great grief that we see her go—this gifted pianist who has meant so much to our musical world. Her loss is a positive catastrophe. We congratulate ourselves when she came, and now that she is going—well, her place will not easily be filled, if ever. We all love Miss Cross Howard and her music. We don't know how she does it—that little woman who stands five feet nothing in her shoes, and with her hair done high. She comes on the stage in a quaint little frock that might have belonged to our great grandmother's day, sits quietly down at a huge concert piano and begins to play. We listen—enslaved. Gone are the sorrows of the day; we are happy and we listen—we could listen all night. All that we ask is more.

We are to have this final treat before she goes—her recital on February 1 in the Young hotel pavilion. The program is to be a most delightfully attractive one, full of variety and levelness. Attracting especial attention is a group of Paderewski's compositions—quicker, more things to send shivers of delight down your musical spine. Society is planning to attend en masse. Already invitations have been issued by leaders of the smart set for dinners to precede it, the party to attend en bloc after the black coffee. Even the skating rink enthusiasts have decided to abandon that pastime for the evening in order to enjoy a few hours of Chopin and Liszt. All signs point that the concert will be the most notable event on the society calendar for early February.

MUSIC LOVER.
Mrs. John E. Baird a Hostess.
Celebrating the birthday of her husband, Mrs. John E. Baird was hostess at a delightfully appointed dinner on Thursday evening at her home on Kala road. The color for the decorations was pink and was carried out to the smallest detail. A basket of delicate pink flowers ornamented the center of the table and pink shaded lights cast a rosy glow over the cover. Places were laid for Gen. and Mrs. W. H. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gooding Field, Miss Mulhern, Miss Funston, Augur is the granddaughter of Mrs. C. B. Bowman, who resides at the Hotel Oakland, and graduated from school only a few weeks before her marriage. Mr. Augur is a son of Dr. and Mrs. George Augur of Honolulu, and is a nephew of Mrs. Minnie Dyer of Oakland. He is a member of the Wig and Jig Club of this city, and has appeared in several of the performances given by the club. The couple have gone south on their honeymoon, and upon their return will take up their residence in San Francisco.

Maurice Augur lived in Honolulu until four or five years ago when he went to Berkeley to attend the University of California. He was brilliant in his studies at Punahou academy and took honors at the university. He was a popular member of the younger set and when he returned to the city two years ago for a short vacation was entertained extensively by his friends.

Entertains at Studio Tea.
A new note was introduced in society on Tuesday when Mr. George Selden Roorbach entertained at the first of a series of studio teas at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

The lanai was artistically arranged in graceful groupings of hanging baskets and palms which formed the background for easels draped with Paisley shawls.

Mrs. Sara Newcomb presides at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Nina Adams and Miss Helen Spalding.

During the afternoon a number of society women and guests of the hotels dropped in for a private view of Mr. Roorbach's work, the most enthusiastic praise being given for the charming bits of color for which his brush has become famous.

Among those invited who responded were Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, Mrs. R. M. Catts, Mrs. E. I. Spalding, Mrs. R. M. V. Taylor of London, Mrs. J. N. Hart of Seattle, Miss E. A. Eaton of Boston, Mrs. W. J. Kern of Los Angeles, Mrs. C. F. Stewart of San Francisco, Mrs. C. H. Atherton, Mrs. C. H. Cook, Mrs. James A. Kennedy, Miss Anne Parke, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. A. E. Murphy, Mrs. C. G. Ballentyne, Mrs. B. W. Atkinson, Mrs. Randolph of Fort Shafter and many others.

The next studio tea will be given by Mr. Roorbach on Friday afternoon, Feb. 26, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

An Hour With a Composer.
Mrs. Smythe Jay of the O. E. S. chapter, Central, Wash., will entertain Harmony chapter and their friends at the I. O. O. F. hall on February 1, with a program beginning at 9:30 p. m. Much musical merit is promised from the program of Mrs. Smythe Jay's own compositions. Mrs. Charles S. Crane will sing her ballad, "Prof. L. Auction Bridge Party.
Mrs. John I. Rogers entertained at auction bridge at the Courtland on Friday, Jan. 28. The guests were: Mrs. W. H. Carter, Mrs. J. B. McDonald, Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. W. P. Kendall, Mrs. F. B. Cheatham, Mrs. C. S. Bromwell, Mrs. J. Denman, Mrs. W. E. Ellis, Mrs. F. W. Coe, Mrs. M. P. Andrews, Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, Mrs. R. M. Catts, Mrs. E. M. Cherry, Mrs. Seth Cook, Mrs. H. F. Nichols, Mrs. C. R. Baxter, Mrs. J. D. Reardon.

Mrs. Baxter won the first prize, a fan; Mrs. Cook the second, a fan; Mrs. Moore the third, cup and saucer, and Mrs. Andrews the fourth, a cup and saucer.

A February Wedding.
The first of the brides-elect, who are being entertained so extensively this season, to be married will be Miss Irma Ballentyne. Miss Ballentyne has announced the 18th of February as the date of her marriage to Mr. Clifford White. It will be a home affair and will be one of the most elaborate social functions of the month. Miss Ballentyne will be attended by her three sisters, Miss Marie Ballentyne, Miss Maud Ballentyne and Miss Rhoda Ballentyne. Mr. White, who will arrive here a short time before the wedding, will bring a personal friend with him to act as best man.

Miss Florence Hoffman a Hostess.
Miss Florence Hoffman was hostess at a delightfully informal card party on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hocking on Kewalo street. For her decorations Miss Hoffman selected the Catharda d'Amour and quantities of this Spanish flower were arranged in baskets and vases. As prizes for the winners of the highest scores the hostess gave daintily cross-stitched guest towels. Those who carried off the trophies were Mrs. Donald Ross, Mrs. George F. Humbert, Miss Irma Ballentyne, Mrs. Harold Hayselden and Mrs. E. J. O'Hara. Others who were present at the affair were Mrs. Elsa Cross Howard, the talented pianist who is to give her farewell concert on the evening of February 9.

Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mrs. William H. Carter, Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. F. Reed, Miss Sarah Lucas, Mrs. Ed Dekum, Mrs. William B. Lymer, Miss Marjorie Freeth, Miss Marie Ballentyne, Mrs. A. E. Schlanser, Mrs. F. Mcrong, Mrs. W. H. Munter, Miss Della Holmes, Mrs. A. Hocking, Miss Thelma Murphy, Mrs. Edward B. Locmis, Miss Renny Catton, Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson, Miss M. Frazier, Mrs. Howard Ellis and the hostess.

Luncheon at the Moana Hotel.
Honolulu is enjoying the presence of a number of mainland society folk who had made previous visits to the islands. Among these is Miss Cosgriff of Salt Lake City. Entertaining in a charming manner, Miss Cosgriff was hostess at a prettily-appointed luncheon at the Moana Hotel this week. Attractive cut flowers and ferns ornamented the center of the tables. Covers were laid for Mrs. Edbert F. Roberts, Mrs. Wirtz, Mrs. E. J. Lord, Mrs. W. H. Dickson, Mrs. Schuller and Miss Cosgriff. The three latter are from Salt Lake City.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayselden Entertain.
Entertaining informally at their home, "Braeside," in Manoa Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayselden were host and hostess at an enjoyable dinner party on Thursday evening. An artistic arrangement of ferns and flowers formed an attractive centerpiece for the table. Covers were laid for twelve.

Dinner at the Oahu Country Club.
Entertaining on the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McKillop of Calgary were host and hostess at an elaborately appointed dinner on Sunday evening at the Oahu Country Club. An artistic arrangement of sweet peas and white roses and rainbow tinted tulips was an effective centerpiece for the table. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayselden, Miss Mary Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Riggs, Mr. C. D. Wright, Mr. Frank Howes, Mr. J. Keeney and Mr. and Mrs. McKillop.

An Army Wedding.
Of interest to army folk in Honolulu will be the news of the marriage of Miss Ruth Tyler and Lieut. Les Stewart, U. S. A. The wedding was an event of Vancouver Barracks on the 14th of January. Lieut. and Mrs. Stewart will reside at Alcatraz after they return from their honeymoon trip in the South.

Reception for President and Mrs. Dean.
Among the leading social events of the coming week is the reception to be given on Tuesday evening for President Dean of the College of Hawaii and Mrs. Dean. The following invitation has been issued:

"The board of governors of the University Club and the board of regents and faculty of the College of Hawaii request the pleasure of your company at a reception in honor of President and Mrs. Arthur Lyman Dean at the University Club house, Tuesday evening, February the second, nineteen hundred and fifteen at 9 o'clock.

In the receiving line will be Senator and Mrs. Albert P. Judd, Dr. and Mrs. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Farrington, Prof. and Mrs. John M. Young.

A large number of Honoluluans are expected to attend the reception and extend formal welcome to President Dean and his talented wife, who are comparative newcomers to Hawaii.

SOCIETY

Governor Pinkham's Dinner Host.
In honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Severance of St. Paul, Governor Pinkham was host at an elaborately appointed dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper on Lanai street Thursday evening. Varicolored snapdragons in the pastels shades were artistically arranged in an attractive table centerpiece. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Severance, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maud of San Francisco, Col. and Mrs. B. W. Atkinson, Mrs. H. W. Lyon, Mrs. Royal D. Mead, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mr. Gromendyke and Governor Pinkham.

In Honor of Miss Irma Ballentyne.
Mrs. Thomas Ballentyne entertained at a delightfully informal tea yesterday afternoon in honor of her niece, Miss Irma Ballentyne, whose marriage to Mr. Clifford White will take place in February. Quantities of pink and white carnations ornamented the dining room and in the living room brightly-colored African daisies were effective in the decorations. The guests included Miss Irma Ballentyne, Miss Marie Ballentyne, Mrs. M. T. Clegg, Mrs. Howard Ellis, Mrs. Stuart Johnson, Mrs. W. H. Munter, Mrs. Norma Adams, Mrs. Bessie Abbott Howland, Mrs. Reynolds McGrew, Mrs. Arthur Hodgins and Mrs. McCaense.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane's Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane entertained at a prettily appointed dinner on Tuesday prior to the opening of the Roller Skating Club. The evening was spent at the rink, where society gathered to master the art of skating. Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane entertained 30 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wall's Dinner.
In compliment to their brother, Mr. Will Lewers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wall entertained at a delightfully appointed dinner at the Country Club last night prior to the Country Club dance. Shaded pink roses and soft tulle were deftly combined in an attractive centerpiece. After the dinner the guests remained at the club to take part in the dance. Among those present were Mr. Will Lewers, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Lowrey, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Marx, Mr. and Mrs. Will Love, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Hobdy, Mrs. D. Alhborn, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. Le Follet, Mrs. Agnes Walker, Lieut. Campanole, Mr. George Alhborn and the host and hostess.

An Informal Dinner.
Miss Helen Maxwell, who is spending several weeks at Mrs. Gray's at Waikiki, was hostess at an informal dinner on Thursday evening.

Chipere-Ferguson Wedding.
Simple in all of its appointments was the wedding of Miss Florence Ferguson and Henry Chipere, which took place Thursday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ferguson of Kaimuki. Quantities of pink and white roses, carnations and asters were arranged about the house interspersed with potted palms and ferns.

Bringing back the custom of many years ago the bride and bridesmaid entered the reception room together. There were no attendants. When they reached the flower-banked aisle Rev. A. A. Eberole read the marriage service. The bride, who is known as one of Honolulu's most attractive girls, was unusually lovely in a gown of heavy white silk ornamented with chiffon lace and fashioned in long slender lines. She wore a large white hat gowned with delicately tinted pink and blue flowers. Shortly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chipere left for the country, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mrs. Chipere was becomingly attired in a stunning suit and wore a corsage of white sweet peas. Upon their return to town they will take a suite at the Roselawn. Those who attended the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ferguson, the parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Prescott, a sister and brother-in-law; Miss May Ferguson and Miss Alma Ferguson and Mrs. Robert I. Lillie.

Wintering in Honolulu.
Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne, who arrived in Honolulu recently, are being entertained extensively during their sojourn in the city. Mr. and Mrs. de Guigne are accompanied by Miss Ysabel Chase, a leader among the younger members of the Peninsula set in California.

A recent article in the San Francisco Chronicle says of these visitors: "Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne have suspended building operations until after the rainy season. Their new home is charmingly situated in the hills not far from the uncommonly attractive home of the Billy Duncans. The de Guignes sailed away the other day for a six weeks' trip to the islands along with Miss Ysabel Chase, which leaves the ranks of the polo enthusiasts somewhat depleted. They are all such keen, untiring sport lovers, always so smartly looking their parts, that they are sadly missed in the Country Club set whenever they elect to leave our friendly fireside. The Dillinghams have had an avalanche of attention while visiting here, and I am sure that they will see to it that the de Guignes and Miss Chase are right royally entertained in Honolulu."

Mrs. Edward Dekum's Card Party.
One of the very enjoyable affairs of this week was the card party at which Mrs. Edward Dekum entertained yesterday afternoon at her beautiful home in Maunaloa Valley. The guests cut for the first and second prizes and Mrs. Kenneth Barnes, who made the lowest score, was given a consolation prize. Attractive little pottery vases were given as souvenirs of the occasion. The first two prizes were won by Mrs. Donald Rose and Mrs. Arthur Hodgins. Other guests at the affair were Mrs. E. M. Watson, Miss Anna Danford, Mrs. Charles R. Frazier, Miss Hewlings, Miss Woodford, Mrs. Schmutzler, Miss Tiggart, Mrs. Cohen, Mrs. Ruth, Miss Barrie Gamble, Miss Myra Angus, Miss Jean Angus, Miss Sarah Featherstone, Miss Jessie Featherstone, Mrs. F. T. Robinson, Mrs. Howland, Mrs. Morong, Mrs. Hatcher, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Charles Chance, Mrs. Salie Douglas and Miss Louise Lucas.

Mrs. Hedemann's Luncheon Hostess.
Mrs. Ferdinand Hedemann was hostess at an informal luncheon on Monday at her home in Maunaloa valley. Among the guests were Miss Nora Swamy, Miss Jessie Kennedy, Miss Alice Cooke and Miss Nora Sturgeon.

Dinner at the Moana.
Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne were entertained at a prettily appointed dinner at the Moana hotel on Wednesday evening at which Mrs. Gregg McKerron was hostess. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne, Miss Ysabel Chase, Maj. Guignard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mr. Gromendyke and the hostess.

Picnic at Mokuia.
Mrs. C. S. Hoiway has invitations out for a picnic at Mokuia tomorrow in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne and Miss Ysabel Chase. This trio of San Francisco society folk has been entertained almost every minute since their arrival in Honolulu and numerous other affairs have been planned in their honor.

Fred Wichman Entertains.
Quantities of American Beauty roses decorated the table at which Mr. Fred Wichman was host at an enjoyable dinner party last night. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Judge and Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mr. Alan Lowrey. After dinner the guests motored to the Country Club.

Cards at the Courtdans.
Mrs. Charles C. Demmer, wife of Dr. Demmer, was the charming hostess at a bridge party at the Courtdans on Wednesday afternoon. The yellow and white color scheme for the decorations was carried out with quantities of yellow chrysanthemums, coxcomb and white asters and daisies. The guest of honor at the delightful affair was Mrs. Glad Reynolds, Mrs. Demmer's mother. The prize for the highest card score was a Canton china salad bowl, and was given to Mrs. Roe. The second prize, a Japanese tray, was given to Mrs. Mather, and the third, unique Canton china candlesticks, given to Mrs. Harrison

Hall. Other guests present during the afternoon were Mrs. Wilmet E. Ellis, Mrs. George Humbert, Mrs. Frederick W. Phisterer, Mrs. J. C. Kay, Mrs. J. P. Edgerly, Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. R. C. McDonald, Mrs. F. E. Trotter, Mrs. A. E. Schlanser, Mrs. J. R. Mount, Mrs. Francis French, Mrs. W. H. Johnson, Mrs. John O'Shea, Mrs. R. Holcomb, Miss Wilhelmina, Mrs. W. P. Kendall, Mrs. Mahana, Miss Lincoln and Mrs. Wright, Miss Margaret Waterhouse, Mrs. W. H. Davis, Mrs. F. H. Foucar, Mrs. J. B. Witham.

The Meeting of St. Andrew's Guild.
The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Guild was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. E. Peck on Wilder avenue. The attendance was unusually large and among those present were several of the old members who have been away for some months, and new members who have come into the guild work.

The business portion of the meeting included the reading of reports and discussion of work to be accomplished by the guild members; and was followed by a delightful social hour. During the afternoon Mrs. Arthur G. Smith read an original essay on the East Indian poet Tagore. The reading was interspersed by bits of verse of the writer read by Mrs. Fred Waterhouse, with a piano accompaniment by Mrs. Elsa Cross Howard. This interpretation of the works of the poet was greatly appreciated by the guests. Closing the afternoon entertainment were several violin solos by Mr. R. J. Busch, accompanied by Mrs. L. Tenney Peck. These, too, contributed much towards the enjoyment of the afternoon.

Miss Sybil Carter's Swimming Party.
Closing the week's gaieties among the academy set, Miss Sybil Carter is entertaining at an informal chowder and swimming party at the Outrigger Club this evening. As the electric lights have been disconnected the long tables at which the supper is to be served will be lighted with lanterns and candles. Candlelight suppers have been a source of much amusement to the guests at the Outrigger Club this week, and many of the young folks have voted that they much prefer the new lights. Miss Carter's guests will include Miss Dorothy Walker, Miss Charlotte Blake, Miss Gertrude Blake, Gladys Halstead, Margaret Hawk, Miss Ruth Farrington, Miss Mildred Bromwell, Miss Louise Gilvin, Miss Rachel Woods, Miss Helen Center, Miss Margaret Young, Miss Mildred Chapin, Miss Inez Gibson, Miss Clemence Gifford, Albert Bush, Roy Bush, Shirley Bush, Roy Graham, David Buick, O. J. Corneliusson, Arthur Brown, Campbell Crozier, Billy Noble, Sam Carter, Jere Smith, Frank Winter, George Bromley, George Lindley, Ernest Mott-Smith, Stanley Mott-Smith, Parker Woods, John O'Dowd, Werner Smith, Chester Taylor, Lorrie Thurston, Fred Carter, Sam Carter and the hostess.

The party will be chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Warriner.

The Manoa Dancing Club.
The spirit of the new dances has gripped the whole town and in all of the residential sections there are little neighborhood dancing classes held once a fortnight. One of the most enjoyable of the classes is that in Manoa. Here Miss Ruth McChesney instructs Manoaites in the latest steps of the maxixe, hesitation and fox trot. Among the members of the Manoa club are Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gignoux, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nowell, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Petrie, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Church, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Judd.

Cards at the Country Club.
Mrs. Henry Green, wife of Lieut. Green, entertained at an enjoyable bridge party at the Country Club on Wednesday afternoon for about 40 of her friends. The first and second prizes, attractive score card covers in Chinese embroidery, were awarded to Mrs. J. D. Reardan and Mrs. de Ford. The consolation, a set of dainty Japanese place cards, was given to Mrs. Charles Demmer of Fort Ruger. Mrs. Green's guests included Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, Mrs. William H. Carter, Mrs. J. B. McDonald, Mrs. Richard Cutts,

Mrs. Harold Nichols, Mrs. George Humbert, Mrs. Wilmet E. Ellis, Mrs. Charles Demmer, Mrs. Glad Reynolds, Mrs. Charles Bromwell, Mrs. Rodgers, Mrs. Manasse, Mrs. Lester, Mrs. E. Y. Smith, Mrs. de Ford, Mrs. W. H. Johnson, Mrs. Burr, Mrs. F. Coe, Mrs. Francis French, Mrs. John D. Reardan, Mrs. Jerome Pillow.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Montague Cooke's Dinner Party.

"Kualii," the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Montague Cooke in Maunaloa valley, was the scene of an informal entertainment on Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Cooke were host and hostess at a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mist. A simple arrangement of pink and white sweet peas ornamented the center of the table. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mist, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Waterhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McIntosh, Mrs. Bernice Walbridge, Mr. Harry von Holt and Mr. and Mrs. Cooke.

Mrs. Thomas E. Wall's Luncheon.
Mrs. W. N. Steele, Miss Steele and Mrs. L. S. Smith were the guests of honor at a prettily appointed luncheon on Monday at which Mrs. Thomas E. Wall was hostess at her Makiki street home. Covers were laid for Mrs. W. N. Steele, Miss Steele, Mrs. L. S. Smith, Mrs. William H. Carter, Mrs. Walter Emory, Mrs. Robbiss B. Anderson, Mrs. Robert Lewers, Mrs. J. E. Baird, Mrs. James McCallister, Miss Funston, Miss Daisy Harwood, Mrs. Frank C. Atherton and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird to Entertain.
Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Steele, Miss Steele and Mrs. L. S. Smith, who have spent a fortnight in Honolulu, will be the guests of honor at a dinner given this evening by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Baird at their beautiful home at Waikiki. This party of tourists who have found Honolulu a delightful place of rest are leaving for their mainland home in the Maanos Tuesday.

Tea at the Skating Rink.
Mrs. F. M. Swamy, Mrs. Charles Bromwell and Mrs. Harrison are entertaining at an informal skating tea at the skating rink on Monday afternoon.

Miss Violet Atherton to Entertain.
One of the complimentary affairs in honor of Miss Irma Ballentyne will be the luncheon at which Miss Violet Atherton will entertain on Tuesday of next week.

San Francisco Society Folk to Visit Here.
From the present outlook it seems as though half of San Francisco's smart set is to visit Honolulu during the next few months. Already Mr. and Mrs. Athol McBeth have spent several weeks in the city and the other day Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne and Miss Ysabel Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maud came down expressing their intention of remaining in the islands for six weeks or more.

Now comes the news that the Matsonia arriving here next Tuesday morning will bring Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Hotelling here to spend several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Hotelling are among the leaders in society at Coronado, and take a decidedly active part in the affairs of San Francisco's social world.

During their visit to the islands Mr. and Mrs. McBeth were entertained by Mrs. Walter Dillingham and the de Guignes have been entertained both by the Walter Dillinghams and the Harold Dillinghams, the latter having been on the mainland recently. As the Hotellings are members of the same engagement to Mr. Joel Beau Cox set in which these other folks move it is expected that they will be a part of the coming entertainments planned for the visitors.

Miss India Wayson's Hostess.
Entertaining a number of her young friends, Miss India Walcott Wayson was hostess at an enjoyable dancing party last night at Dr. and Mrs. Wayson's mountain home. The guests were entertained to the home of their hostess and spent a delightful evening playing games and dancing. Among those present were Miss Blanche Wishard, Miss Rachel Woods, Miss Baldwin, Miss Louise Gilvin, Miss Clemence Gifford, Miss Marion Paris, Miss Mildred Chapin, Miss Mildred Bromwell, Miss Margaret Young, Miss Helen Church, Curtis Turner, Ronald Watt, Harvey Raymond, Billy Noble, Johnny Fassoth, Leon Eberole, Frankie Winter, Lorrie Thurston, Ernest Mott-Smith, George Bromley, Ronald Higgins and Gordon Scott.

Houseparty at Ahulmanu.
Miss L. dy Macfarlane was hostess at an informal house-party over the past week end at the Macfarlane home, "Ahulmanu," on the other side of the island. Swimming and other out-of-door amusements were enjoyed during the three days Miss Macfarlane entertained her guests. Those who were included in the delightful party were Miss Violet Makke, Miss Harriet Lucas, Miss Mary Lucas, Miss Wilhelmina Tenney, Mrs. Maria Worthington and Miss Macfarlane.

A Swimming Party at Waikiki.
Mrs. Henry Jaeger was hostess at an enjoyable swimming party on Monday evening at her home at Waikiki. After a dip in the ocean over which the sun shone brightly the guests adjourned to the house where a warm supper was served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Reise.

Tea at the Courtdans.
Mrs. Rosella B. Selbie entertained informally at a tea at the Pleasonton on Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Merle Johnson, Mrs. Henry Jaeger and Miss Courtwright.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey will be glad to know that they are soon to take up their residence in Hawaii again. Mr. Bailey, who arrived a few days ago for what was expected to be only a brief visit, has been offered and accepted an advantageous position with Alexander & Baldwin and Mrs. Bailey will soon come from California to join him.

Miss Margaret Lashman is booked to leave in the Maanos on Tuesday for a visit to the mainland.

Brown's an immediate relief for coughs, hoarseness, throat troubles, affording great relief in bronchitis and asthma.

First Fashion News for Spring

Splendid Opportunity Offered to Learn of the Style Changes

The fashions of a new season are always interesting to womenfolk. This season they carry a special note of interest, for the fashions of this season have been designed to a great degree by American designers. Quite naturally, our showing of Spring garments is not complete at this period. However, the styles now being shown are a faithful forecast of the styles to be worn as the season advances. The woman who buys her suit, dress or waist now has the added advantage of not alone wearing the new styles while they are new, but of securing extra service because of her purchase being made early.

Among the principal features of the new styles are a return to wide skirts, which are made in various fashions. There is the wide flare skirt, straight plaited, and yoke effect with flounces. Sleeves are the set-in model, while high collars are another radical change.

We could easily fill this entire space with several other interesting fashion notes, but will mention only one more, and that deals with fabrics—cotton fabrics ranging in price to several dollars a yard will be favored extensively in dresses and waists for street wear and social occasions.

A visit to our garment section at this time should prove very interesting.

White Polo Coats at $15.00, $18.50 and $20.00 arrived this week. They are all stylish cuts, made of chin-chilla cloth, wool, corduroy and other popular fabrics.	New Novelty Voile DRESSES—$8.50 to $20.00. Tailored suits and one-piece woolen dresses in the short-waisted effect— $20.00 to $35.00. Silk Crepe and Taffeta Dresses $20.00 to $45.00.	Veiled Tipperary Hat It is a new innovation in millinery styles for immediate wear—a small and very becoming Turban of silk or satin. Very cleverly trimmed with fruit, flowers or gossamer ribbon streamers; come in black, vermilion blue, old rose, coral, putty, brown, purple, plum, dove green, red and white. Some of the veils edged with satin, silk or velvet.

FROM PEGGY TO POLLY.

Honolulu, January 27, 1915.

DEAR POLLY: Your letter about the dancing was awfully funny. But the answer to your question, "Do they dance before breakfast in Honolulu?" is NO, it capital letters. Of course everyone here is fond of dancing, but it seems to me that the majority of the affairs here have to do with bits of pastebord rather than Terpsichore. I did hear, though, of one dance which, like some that you spoke of, lasted until breakfast-time. If San Franciscans do initiate the fad of breakfast dances I am sure Honolulu will follow suit for so many of our society folk make frequent visits to the Bay City that it is almost a case of "your ways shall be my ways."

In one of my last letters I spoke to you of Europe's enjoyment over our attitude to the popular dances. Well, the other day I read some of Fremstad's views on the popular music. She says that the ragtime songs originated in the same dives the ragdances came from, and that the song and dance will go hand in hand. While there is a decided leaning towards the new terpsichorean fancies in Honolulu, the "rag" songs are not nearly so popular now as they were a year or two ago. Everyone seems to like the familiar selections of Beethoven, Mozart and the other composers of other days. Then, as an occasional diversion, some of the newer ballads and the sweet songs of Carrie Jacobs-Bond are sung at entertainments.

Lately music has played an important part in the social life of the islands, for there have been a number of informal concerts as well as some of the larger benefits. This past week Mrs. A. B. Ingalls gave a concert for the relief of the Belgians and now we are all looking forward to the "recital" Mrs. Elsa Cross Howard is planning for the 9th of February. Mrs. Howard, with Bessie Abbott Howland and Charlotte Powers, has been touring the other islands and has only returned to Honolulu within the last week.

I have been much amused lately hearing some of the younger girls attempt the "double bass" in new songs. Most of them are written in simple keys, but just because the electric piano at some of the theaters thumps from the bass every young girl aspires to do the same. I heard one of the fair maids playing the other day and her execution of a selection sounded for all the world like a cub's interpretation of "Too Much Mustard."

Everyone is very much interested in the social affairs that are included in the Mid-Pacific Carnival program. The two dances, the masquerade and military balls, are among the entertainments to which everyone is looking forward, and already parties are being made up for the coming affairs. I have heard that Mr. A. H. Tarleton, who has something to do with one of the committees of the Carnival, has been reading up on court etiquette lately and that he discovered something interesting in the functions that would improve the appearance of some of the folks who will attend the full dress. Mr. Tarleton won't tell just now what his discovery is, but I expect he will divulge the secret later, for, of course he will want everyone to look an' fait.

I received another interesting letter from Laura Low this week telling of the good times she had in New York during her Christmas vacation. Laura is always just bubbling over with fun and laughter and her carefree disposition runs all through her letters. She insists that there are several million people in New York City and that every one of them was on the streets Christmas and New Year's eve. Like her sister, Carol, Laura is an unusually graceful dancer and prides herself upon "keeping up" the latest of the steps. She says that the tangoes are coming very much in vogue again this winter, only they are modified and are the one-step with a few dips and side twirls for variations. She wanted me to be sure and tell folks that in New York they pronounce tango with a very broad "a."

Stearns' Electric Rat & Roach Paste. Kills all species of Rats and Roaches. No rat, no flea, no bug, no plague. The U. S. Government has used this paste for the extermination of rats and roaches in the most successful manner. Stearns' Electric Paste Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

I have been wondering for some time the name of the man who is doing his best to introduce the piano, drum and flute to the dances here and substitute them for the sweet Hawaiian music we have come to love so well. I heard the other day that he is planning a trip to the Coast to select a number of mainland musicians and bring them here to cater to the taste of the society folk. And as last I have learned his name—it begins with G and ends with L. I should say, "beware of the fascinating stranger who has designs on the plaintive strains of Hawaii."

We are all looking forward to the swimming races of the Mid-Pacific Carnival; I suppose one reason is that girls are to play such an important part in the meet. There will be one and very probably two girls from the mainland who will be here to take part in the events, to say nothing of our island girls.

I was thinking the other day of the neglectfulness of the youth of Honolulu in taking the maids to dances and parties, and a story my grandmother used to tell was brought to my mind. At one of the numerous county fairs in the Northwest a tall, ungainly Reuben appeared upon the scene bringing with him one of the country belles. They inspected with interest all of the farm displays and when the noon hour approached Reuben suggested that they visit the ice cream booth. Sal readily acquiesced and they stepped within the tent. Reuben ordered a heaping plate of the ice and, sitting down at a table, devoured it with evident relish. Sal was on the verge of tears when her lanky companion looked up and said, "Lick it good, Sal. Buy you some." Sal merely lied. Of course that was rather an extreme case, but it might be applied, in a modified form, to some of the young men in Honolulu.

As I have told you about all of the interesting bits of news, I don't seem to have further excuse for writing. Lovingly, PEGGY.

SCHOFIELD SOCIETY

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Jan. 29.—At the very attractive hop supper given by Capt. and Mrs. John Thomas on Friday evening the guests were Capt. and Mrs. Clyde Crusan, Mrs. George Whitsett, Capt. John Jordan, Capt. and Mrs. Brady Rutten, Mrs. George Baker, Chaplain and Mrs. Aiken, Lieut. and Mrs. Walter, Lieut. and Mrs. Elmer Rice, Lieut. and Mrs. Sumpter Bratton, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Everett, Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Sears, Lieut. and Mrs. Henry Wells, Lieut. and Mrs. Harry Malone, Miss Welcome Ayer and Lieut. Halg Shekergan, Leo Samuelson, V. V. Enyart, James Little, Holmes, Lieut. and Mrs. Irving Phillips, all of the 1st Infantry, and Col. and Mrs. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis and Miss Helen Alexander from town.

Mrs. Ernest Goss gave a delightful luncheon on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. William Ennis, which was a bit out of the ordinary. A novel game of guessing authors, which took place during luncheon, was played with Mrs. Charles Willard winner, who was given a dainty pink silk bag. Mrs. Ennis was presented with the guest gift, a pretty handkerchief sachet. The guests were Mesdames William Ennis, William Brown, Waldo Potter, George Nye, Charles Meale, David Stone, Ivens Jones and Charles Willard, who were seated at a table attractively decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

Col. and Mrs. Kennon have been the guests of honor at a number of social affairs recently. On Tuesday a very attractive dinner was given for them by Capt. and Mrs. Campbell King. Other guests were Capt. and Mrs. John Thomas and Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carey. On Wednesday Capt. and Mrs. David Stone were dinner hosts for Col. and Mrs. Kennon, Maj. and Mrs. Ralph Harrison and Lieut. and Mrs. Waldo Potter. The table's setting in yellow and white was most effective.

A great many of the Schofield people will be homeward-bound passengers when the Logan sails next week. Col. and Mrs. Lyman Kennon, Capt. and Mrs. Clarence Deems, who go to a home regiment; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, Lieut. and Mrs. Bernard Lamb, Capt. and Mrs. William Ennis, who go to West Point; Major and Miss Harman and Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Anderson of the 1st Field Artillery, Lieut. Anderson for the three months' course at the School of Fire at Fort Sill.

Capt. and Mrs. Chalmers Hall entertained on Thursday in honor of Col. and Mrs. Kennon. A daintily decorated table in pale pink and green with carnations and feathery ferns carrying out the color note seated the guests, who were Col. and Mrs. Lyman Kennon, Col. and Mrs. William Forsyth and Capt. and Mrs. Pelham Glassford. Mrs. Charles Willard has sent out cards for an auction and will entertain in honor of Mrs. Lyman Kennon on Saturday.

Mrs. Clarence Lyman gave an informal bridge on Tuesday, entertaining for Mesdames Gideon Van Poole, James Parker, Arthur Cassels, Louis McKinlay, Rawson Warren, Walter Short, William Chitty and William Renzelausen. A dainty guest towel was won by Mrs. Van Poole and a chain of Chinese beads was given to Mrs. Parker, holding the second high score. At the close of the afternoon a delicious "tea" was served.

The "volcano trip" is proving to be quite a popular one these days, and rarely a week goes by without some Schofield people taking it. On Saturday last a party made up of Capt. and Mrs. Roger Mason, Miss Sue Holcomb and the Misses Louise and Helen O'Shea went over and report a most interesting experience.

Col. and Mrs. Carl Reichmann entertained at dinner on Monday in honor of Gen. and Mrs. Wisser. The dainty table appointments were carried out in green and white; covers were placed for Gen. and Mrs. Wisser, Col. and Mrs. Lyman Kennon, and Capt. and Mrs. John Thomas.

Gen. and Mrs. Wisser were the honor guests at the dinner given by Capt. and Mrs. George Apple on Wednesday. The flowers and artistic little place cards were in pink; other guests were Col. and Mrs. D. L. Howell, Col. S. D. Sturgis and Capt. and Mrs. Campbell King.

Saturday evening Capt. and Mrs. George Apple gave a dinner for Capt. and Mrs. William Ennis, Capt. and Mrs. Clarence Deems and Lieut. and Mrs. Percy Desha.

Col. Lyman Kennon has been given a three months' leave and will sail on the Logan, accompanied by Mrs. Kennon, on February 5 for the coast.

FT. SHAFTER SOCIETY

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] FT. SHAFTER, Jan. 30.—Lieut. and Mrs. John B. Richardson, 2nd Infantry, entertained at their pretty quarters in the cantonment on Thursday evening with a handsome dinner for Lieut. and Mrs. Laurence O. Mathews and Lieut. and Mrs. Clement H. Wright.

After a lapse of two regular evenings the fortnightly garrison hop of the post took place on Friday night. The interval of interruption of these pleasant affairs had been caused by the masquerade ball early in the month and by the fact that the hop room and band had been assigned for one Friday evening to the enlisted men for a dance given by them for their friends. The hiatus thus caused made the affair of this week all the more enjoyable by the enforced postponement and it was, in consequence, especially well attended both by members of the garrison and by numerous guests from other posts and Honolulu. The orchestra of the 2nd Infantry was in attendance and played a splendid program that embraced a number of the newest dance hits from the mainland and these were rendered in faultless time. The night was especially brilliant and the bands of the regimental mess were well thronged with guests enjoying the scene of the parade under a full moon during the intervals in the music. Among the dancers in attendance and enjoying the evening were observed Lieut. and Mrs. Fredendall, Lieut. and Mrs. Preston, Capt. and Mrs. Kay, Lieut. and Mrs. Mathews, Maj. and Mrs. Lenihan, Comdr. and Mrs. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Hayden, Capt. and Mrs. Lincoln, Lieut. and Mrs. Nichols, Lieut. and Mrs. O'Hara, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Taylor, Miss Topham, Miss Lenihan, Miss Catherine Lenihan, Miss Lewin, Lieut. and Mrs. Green, Capt. and Mrs. Sloan, Capt. and Mrs. Lyman, C. B. Lyman and Polhemus, Lieut. and Mrs. Richardson and Capt. Leo Mudd.

The garrison is now on the eve of the breakup caused by the expiration of the tour of foreign duty of a number of the officers. Capt. Archie J. Harris, W. R. Gibson and J. C. Kay are already in receipt of orders detaching them from the 2nd Infantry, these to take effect within the next three months and the orders of detachment of other officers will be received very soon after June 1. Indeed, by the end of 1915 fully half of the officers now at Fort Shafter will be in process of relief from Hawaiian duty either by the four years' rule or by promotion. Of the latter class Maj. E. V. Smith will be first probable member since his promotion to a lieutenant-colonelcy appears to be scheduled for arrival about the end of March with a possibility that it may occur even a month earlier. Such changes in the personnel of garrisons are not unusual and are only a part of the somewhat delightful uncertainty that attendant upon service with the colors of Uncle Sam. It has always been the case that when friendships and interest in a locality have been formed and are in process of being cemented that along come the orders for a change of station and off the army people go and their places are soon filled by new arrivals. The communities and their agreeable people remain while the wanderers must go on and seek new acquaintances and friendships. Such is and ever has been "army life."

Mrs. Ernest V. Smith entertained the dancing class with a supper after the lesson on Thursday evening of this week. Mrs. Smith's guests included Col. and Mrs. E. W. Atkinson, Capt. and Mrs. Robert McCleave, Capt. Jamerson, Lieut. and Mrs. Homer Preston, Capt. and Mrs. Chas. S. Lincoln, Mrs. Mary Gunn, Lieut. and Mrs. Robt. R. Love, Mrs. J. B. de Ford, Lieut. and Mrs. Lloyd Fredendall, Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas Spencer, Capt. and Mrs. Paul B. Malone, Mr. and Mrs. J. Morton Riggs, Mrs. Bell, Maj. H. O. Williams, Lieut. N. W. Campaolo, Lieut. A. K. Polhemus and Mr. Robert Couvain. Mrs. Lincoln assisted Mrs. Smith and Mrs. de Ford in the service of the ample refreshments offered the guests.

Miss Lewin of San Luis Obispo was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Lieut. and Mrs. Laurence O. Mathews in the cantonment on Friday evening. The other guests of the party were Com. and Mrs. Smith and Dr. and Mrs. Hayden of the navy circle and Lieut. L. McD. Silvester of the garrison. At the conclusion of the delightful affair the party adjourned to the post hoproom to take part in the long postponed fortnightly hop of the post. Miss Lewin will remain over with Mrs. Mathews as a house guest for the week end.

Owing to the absence of the officers of the regiment on a visit of inspection of the armament of the post of Fort Ruger on Friday afternoon of this week no regimental parade was held. This caused disappointment to a number of visitors that lined the parade ground at the usual hour for that ceremony. A fine concert by the band compensated in part, however, for the missing function that is weekly attracting a greater number of visitors to the garrison on Friday afternoons.

The hostesses for the ladies' night at the club for last Monday were Mrs. Walter H. Johnson and Mrs. W. T. Hannum and seven tables of auction took part in the diversion of the evening. An attractive prize of a framed photograph was the trophy for the play and this Mrs. J. C. Kay won by a fine margin of score thus duplicating her good fortune of the week before.

Col. J. B. McDonald, the Inspector-General of the department, has been a guest at informal luncheon of Col. and Mrs. French during a number of the days that he has been in the garrison during the past fortnight engaged in examining into the state of instruction of the command and other similar military matters.

Mrs. Francis H. French, Mrs. J. B. de Ford and Mrs. Ernest V. Smith were guests at a most delightful luncheon given by Mrs. William H. Carter at Gen. Carter's residence on Nuuanu avenue on Friday afternoon of this week. Mrs. Carter's guests for the affair numbered 12.

The Fort Shafter auction club met for its weekly session on Tuesday evening at the home of Lieut. and Mrs. A. J. Booth at Kamehameha school. Mrs. Chas. S. Lincoln was the winner of the weekly prize offered by the club for high score.

Maj. and Mrs. Ernest V. Smith and Mrs. J. B. de Ford were dinner guests at the Country club on Monday evening of Capt. Redington at a delightful affair in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Maud of San Francisco.

On the evening of the 22nd Lieut. and Mrs. L. O. Mathews were dinner hosts for Miss Lewin, Miss Prouty of Honolulu, Maj. Geo. M. Blakely of Fort Ruger and Capt. Leo Mudd.

Tuesday evening at the club the dancing enthusiasts met for a practice session of their class preparatory to the regular lesson by Mrs. Gunn and Mr. Couvain.

Society Personals

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Steere entertained informally on Tuesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coombs.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guigne and Miss Isabel Chase, who are planning to spend the winter in Honolulu, are stopping at the Moana hotel.

Mrs. William H. Carter entertained at an informal luncheon yesterday at her home on Nuuanu street. Covers were laid for twelve.

Arriving on the Makura this week was Mrs. Katherine McArdle of Seattle, Washington, mother of Mrs. Riley H. Allen. She will visit Mr. and Mrs. Allen for some months.

Mrs. Rosalia B. Selbie, who has been stopping at the Pleasanton Hotel for several weeks, will leave in the Mauna Kea this evening for a trip to Hawaii and the volcano. After her return from Hawaii Mrs. Selbie and Miss Courtwright will go to Maui where they will be the house guests of Mrs. H. K. Duncan, a sister of Mrs. Henry Jaeger.

Lieut. and Mrs. Harold Nichols were host and hostess for the Fort Ruger Card club last Saturday evening at their attractive quarters at the post.

Mrs. G. H. Tuttle, who has spent six months in Ithaca, New York, is expected to return in the Matsushita next week. Mrs. Tuttle has been visiting with her sons, Malcolm and Elbert, who are attending Cornell University.

A trio of San Francisco society women who are well known in Honolulu and who are taking an active part in the social affairs of the Exposition City this season are Mrs. Templeton Crocker (Belmonte twins), Mrs. William Roth (Larline Watson) and Mrs. Samuel Monsarrat. Mrs. Crocker is busy at present working on the Mardi Gras committee. Since the recent Exposition-Club Center bill two weeks ago those who are in charge of the Mardi Gras are busy planning new features for the coming entertainment.

Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Monsarrat are busy with individual entertainments and seldom a week passes that they do not give a luncheon, dinner or dance.

The return of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Baird to Honolulu is a source of great pleasure to their many friends in the islands. After purchasing the beautiful Davies home at Waikiki Mr. and Mrs. Baird decided to spend the greater part of the year in Hawaii, though their interests and friends in the East will demand some of their time. During their present stay in Honolulu the Bairds have as their guests Mrs. Pentland and her little daughter, and also Miss Funston, daughter of the Bishop of Idaho. Mrs. Baird has thrown open the doors of her beautiful home to entertaining and already has given a number of informal affairs. On Tuesday afternoon she will receive informally in honor of her house-guests, Mrs. Pentland and Miss Funston.

Remodeling of the Outrigger Club. There have been but few entertainments at the Outrigger Club during the past week, for that attractive place of entertainment is being remodeled. Bath houses have been moved, lattice work torn down and there is much rebuilding. When all this work is completed the club will be even more a scene of entertainment than it has been during the past for with the rearrangement of the buildings there will be more room for the guests. It is expected that the men in their department will add at least a hundred new members to their already large list and if the new amendment to the bylaws of the Women's Auxiliary is passed there will be 500 members there in place of 400, with 35 o. the new members service ladies.

During the past week there have been a few swimming parties and owing to the disconnection of the electric lights the guests found much amusement in using candle light.

Married in Berlin. Society in Europe and America was much interested in the betrothal of pretty Cecelia Jaqueling May and Lieut. Wilhelm von Rath, Jr., which was announced shortly after the outbreak of the European war. When the dapper lieutenant discovered that he was in love with Washington's pretty heiress there were many details to arrange, not the least of which were the formal calls and introductions which were necessary before the Kaiser would give his consent to the marriage of the young German. Miss May, who has always had seven or eight hearts at her disposal, went to Germany and her presentation at Court was arranged. And shortly after the court function the Kaiser, who, like the younger officer, was charmed with the beauty and grace of the American girl, gave his consent to the wedding.

But in the midst of all the excitement that followed the Kaiser's approval, war broke out. Miss May was in Berlin and Lieut. von Rath in America; and the handsome lieutenant could not then go to his fiancée. In fact there were so many stumbling blocks in the way that the marriage was almost given up—at least by on-lookers.

A few weeks ago, however, news reached Washington, D. C., that the marriage of Miss May and Lieut. von Rath had taken place in Berlin. Owing to the strife in the country the wedding was very quiet, and though no word to that effect has been received in America, it is quite likely that Lieut. von Rath will go to the front to serve with the Kaiser's army.

Mrs. von Rath is a daughter of Col. May of Washington, D. C., and since her debut a short time ago has created a sensation in the social affairs of the capital. Her wit and beauty make her a favorite with everyone.

SHADE CULTURE ANTIDOTE FOR COFFEE BLIGHT

Ravages of Black Fungus on Kona Can Be Overcome, Says A. L. Louisson

Shade culture will eradicate the coffee blight that is now ravaging the Kona coffee plantations and will protect plants from any other parasites, according to an article written by Abraham L. Louisson, one of Hawaii's leading coffee planters.

He writes: "Although the aspect at first glance to the uninitiated is not one to cheer the heart of the coffee grower, it is my humble opinion that the fungus is not fatal to the plant and its culture. It may first be eradicated by spraying, and secondly be made a thing of the past, or of minor consequence, by a proper cultural system that is practically adopted in other coffee producing regions of the world. The system is nothing more or less than a judicious shade system, as is practiced in Mexico, Java, Porto Rico, all through Central America and India, as well as other sections too numerous to mention here.

"Coffee is practically immune from various pests that attack it above the ground, and is free from other dire afflictions that may beset the plant, when shaded. Lack of shade is an unnatural condition forced upon the tree by planters who force overcropping when young, causing a weakening and sapping of its vitality, thus making it a prey to all manner of enemies, when in this condition. Supplying the tree with abundant food elements by the way of chemical fertilizers is far from sufficient, for it must be stated here that coffee is tremendously partial to decayed vegetation, or in other words, to humus. Decayed foliage of all sorts, from fallen leaves to shade trees, from rotten wood upon the ground, and from all manner of decaying grasses and weeds, is the fertilizer par excellence for this tropical plant, and to which, of course, may be added animal manure if abundant and at hand. By combining shade culture which supplies to a degree some humus, with chemical fertilizers, one practically obtains the most scientific method and proper culture, and which should be practiced.

"To put the matter in a nutshell is simply this: That the antidote for all manner of parasitical ailments of the coffee tree is to adopt a shade culture, as is practiced in other coffee-experi-

1915 SUGAR CROP TO BE HEAVIER, IS PREDICTION

Estimate of Shortage is Lowered in Willett & Gray's Report

An increase in the estimate of the world sugar crop is made in a recent issue of Willett & Gray. It predicts the crop will be nearly 800,000 tons heavier than indications a few weeks ago. It says: "The December production of Cuba was limited to 54,876 tons, or about one-half the amount to December 31, last year, when 113,181 tons were produced, although only 64,281 tons were produced in 1914.

"Continued unfavorable weather has delayed the crop making exceptionally although 100 Centrals are working, according to latest advices, against 110 last year. With a return of favorable weather conditions the crop receipts at the shipping ports should rapidly increase and bring about a more important selling movement for awhile until planters have turned their early productions into money. The unfavorable weather is only an incident having a temporary effect on the amount of offerings of new crop sugars.

"No doubt the consumption of sugar for the year has been kept down by the prevailing conditions since July, but it is still as large as in the former year. "Our world crop estimates are revised to correspond to our latest advices, reducing the total deficiency of cane and beet crops to 1,792,717 tons, against our former estimate of 2,640,489 tons. The only important increase is the 121,700 tons outside of Europe, as these beet crops are not available for general use, and the increases in those crops are not of immediate importance. The Cuba crop also starts off late and with the cane giving low sugar yields in instances, which may later have to be considered."

The resumption of dividends by Consolidated Oil was a source of gratification to the many shareholders in Honolulu.

All, and any apprehensions that the present or prospective planters might have in regard to the consequences of a permanent injury, can be dispelled and overcome if the rules of the game will be followed out. The motto of the planter must be 'A judicious system of shade culture.'

UNCERTAINTY IN SUGAR PRICE WEAKENS STOCK MARKET

It has been an erratic week on the stock market, with weakness the prevailing tone. The drop taken in the price of sugar last week is still weighing its influence, for while it is now over four cents, the fluctuation throughout the week has been too great for confidence.

However, the aspect of the week was materially changed late last evening when a sugar quotation of 4.17 reached the city, and the following summary of the week is not to be taken as indicative of today's situation.

Last Saturday there was a temporary recovery, but after the quotation had gone below four cents again in a few hours, the slight reaction was stemmed. Since then the market has fallen to respond and the majority of price changes have been downward. Also there has been little activity, bidding being perfunctory and transactions comparatively few.

Stocks that have gone up are Oahu, McBryde, Pioneer and Waiwala. On the other hand Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar, Ewa, Honokaa and Oiaa have declined. These are from actual transactions. As a matter of fact many other securities not here represented have weakened, as shown by prices asked, which are in many cases well below the last sale quotation. A conspicuous feature has been the absence of any trading in Hawaiian Sugar, which has not figured in the sales list for more than a week.

Of the miscellaneous stocks, Pineapple lost during the week, as did Pahang Rubber. Brewery on the other hand was on a slight rise, while Oahu Railway made the good advance of 2 1/2. Trading in miscellaneous stocks and bonds was light, an appreciable drop from last week.

Raw sugar has ranged from 3.98 to 4.05, crossing and recrossing the four cent mark several times during the week. At times it changed within a few hours. At the close of the week, however, there is a semblance of stability and it seems as if the four-cent mark were to be maintained at least for a while.

Judging from the amount of prospects and actual work in the hands of architects this should be a banner building year. One man is authority for the statement that it will be the best for four or five years and another, less optimistic, that it will show a material increase over 1914.

The W. B. Craw home in Walkikil has been purchased by Henry Roger Wolcott, brother of United States Senator E. O. Wolcott, who died a few years ago, and himself a man of prominence. Mr. Wolcott paid $10,500 for the house, making the deal through the Trent Trust company.

The report of President Cooke of the Bank of Hawaii at the annual stockholders' meeting seemed still further to bolster up the business sentiment. The statement was one of the most encouraging signs of the year. It showed $4,000 paid in dividends and a considerable sum added to undivided profits and a larger sum transferred from undivided profits to surplus.

B. F. Dillingham retires Monday as general manager of the Oahu Railway & Land company, having tendered his resignation at a meeting of the directors last Wednesday. He has completed 25 years of service and wants to give up the active management, although he will remain vice president of the company. George P. Denton, present superintendent, succeeds Mr. Dillingham as manager.

One of the most important financial deals in months was the absorption of the Hawaiian Irrigation Co., Ltd. by the Honokaa Sugar company and the Pacific Sugar Mill. Six million dollars was represented in the deal. Stockholders in the irrigation company are given stock of equal par value in the sugar companies and an additional bonus of $215,000. The new officers of the Hawaiian Irrigation company will be: Robert W. Shingle, president; J. W. Waldron, vice president; Gustav E. Schaefer, secretary; William Lanz, treasurer; these officers, with E. I. Spalding, T. Olive Davies and Frank E. Thompson constituting the board of directors.

BORAH OR BURTON FOR NEXT PRESIDENT?

[A. P. by Fed. Wireless] WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—Speaking at a McKinley day dinner here last night, J. W. Bailey, Democratic former senator from Texas, named as Republican presidential possibilities for the next election Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho and Senator T. I. Burton of Ohio.

Fearing an attack by union miners on the jail at Walsenburg, Colo., following the withdrawal of the federal troops, a company of seventy men of the state militia have been sent to guard the jail.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced that 57 naval vessels make up the fleet which will go to San Francisco by way of the Panama Canal next March.

COMMERCE BODY TO WATCH BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

Cooperating with the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association the Chamber of Commerce, acting through its legislative committee, will employ a special attorney to follow the bills presented to the coming session of the legislature. This action was approved at a special session of the directors held yesterday. The joint committee will employ Attorney Hemenway, who filled the same position two years ago.

The directors also voted to approve in general terms of the walkikil reclamation scheme presented some time ago by Superintendent of Public Works Forbes. They urge further investigation of the practical details involved. This will come before the legislature.

The entertainment committee of the chamber will see to it that Senator-elect Harding is greeted on his arrival next week and shown every courtesy during his stay in the islands.

Drydock Plans Result of Careful Study Greatest Engineers in Country Employed

CIVIL ENGINEER E. R. GAYLER HAS WRITTEN ACCOUNT

Former Public Works Officer at Pearl Harbor Tells of Struggle Against Adverse Conditions

The story of the two-year struggle of navy and civilian civil engineers against the treacherous bottom and shifting coral sands of the Pearl Harbor drydock site, has been written by Civil Engineer Ernest R. Gayler, public works officer here for some time before and after the big "blow up" at the drydock, February 17, 1913. Because of being an official document, docketed as "supplement to a bulletin of the bureau of yards and docks, Navy Department," the story loses none of its interest. It is a concise statement of the plans suggested by the various engineers and boards of engineers, who "had a whack" at the problem, and a detailed description of the plan under which construction work is to be resumed. Many of the ideas of the late Alfred Noble, the famous consulting engineer who came here during the summer of 1913, are embodied in the final plan, but Rear Admiral Homer Stanford, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, and well known here, is really sponsor for the present plan.

Civil Engineer E. R. Gayler

The Army and Navy Register of January 16 prints the Gayler statement in full, illustrated by 12 drawings. Brief extracts from Civil Engineer Gayler's resume of the drydock investigations, and his description of the present working plan of Admiral Stanford in full, are given herewith. It is impossible to reproduce more than two of the drawings, but the two which best illustrate the ingenious method of construction have been selected. The Hawaiian Dredging Co., acting for the San Francisco Bridge Co., the original contractors, are now pushing the work of clearing and dredging the site, but it will be many months before any new work can be commenced.

Following are extracts from the Gayler account:

The department on November 25, 1914, signed the supplemental agreement which provides for a new design for the Pearl Harbor drydock. This action marks the end of a period of one and three-fourths years of examination, study and negotiation which had as its object the consummation of an agreement which would insure the completion, with a minimum of risk of a permanent, stable dry dock at the selected site and at a just and reasonable price; that object has been attained.

Immediately following the accident of February 17, 1913, by which the contractor's cofferdam and crib construction, as well as a portion of the concrete and of the pile foundation, were destroyed, the writer submitted to the bureau a preliminary sketch of the method recommended by him for completing the work; this method contemplated the construction of practically the entire dock under water, by the use of large blocks of concrete molded on shore and placed by means of the yard 150-ton floating crane, the spaces between the blocks to be filled by tremie.

The chief of bureau, Civil Engineer H. R. Stanford, U. S. Navy, accompanied by Civil Engineer F. R. Harris, U. S. Navy, then visited the site, and extensive borings and a large scale load test were made to ascertain foundation conditions.

By authority of the department a board was appointed on May 5, 1913, consisting of the writer and Civil Engineers F. R. Harris and S. Gordon, for the purpose of making such comprehensive examinations and tests as were necessary to ascertain whether the foundation conditions at the site were such as to insure the permanent stability and safety of the work after its completion. This board, after observing the borings and the test loading of a group of 20 piles, unanimously reported on June 17, 1913, that the site was suitable for the construction of the dock, but that there would be every reason to expect some unequal settlements and resulting cracks, which would be unsightly and might shorten the useful life of the structure.

The chief of bureau upon his return to Washington reported to the department on July 9, 1913, in brief to the effect that the contract design was safe and sufficient, but suggested certain modifications as safety measures warranted because of the great natural difficulties surrounding the constructive stages. These modifications were considered as being of such nature that they might be made under the existing contract without relieving the contractor of the burden of responsibility for the successful completion of the work.

The department in August, 1913, requested the late Mr. Alfred Noble to visit the site, examine and report upon the general situation, and recommend procedure for completing the drydock. Mr. Noble spent 12 days at the site, during which period additional borings and tests were made under his direction. He reported to the department on October 20, 1913. Summed up, his recommendations were as follows, quotations being his own words:

such sections, placed about 5 feet apart.

(b) The base of each section is formed by a system of structural steel trusses extending across the dock, with steel bracing lengthwise of the dock, together with the embedding concrete of the dock floor, which will be 16 feet thick and flat on the bottom. The steel work of each section weighs approximately 150 tons and is shown in figure 3.

(c) The bases will be built upon a floating dock, designed for this specific purpose, to be provided by the contractor as a tool for use during the construction of the dry dock. The steelwork of the base, erected on the floating dock, is shown in figure 4.

The concrete at the sides and ends of the base will be carried up to the full height of the base, forming a heavy inclosing wall, and to about half height, or 8 feet, in the middle portion. The average thickness of the concrete of the base, completed to this extent, will be about 16 feet and its gross weight will be about 7,600 tons; but, due to its partial submergence, the net weight carried by the floating dock at this stage will be less than 5,000 tons. This condition is shown in figure 5.

(d) The floating dock, carrying a base completed to the extent described in the preceding paragraph, will then be sunk to an extent sufficient to receive the ballast tank and cofferdam structure, illustrated in figure 6 (top view) and figure 7 (bottom view). This is a strongly braced steel structure, consisting of a ballast tank 60 by 108 feet in plan, with integral end cofferdams forming working spaces for building the side walls. The total width over the plating of the end cofferdams is 152 feet, and the total height of the structure is 45 feet. To the bottom of the tank are secured steel pedestals 7 feet high, designed to rest on the top cords of the transverse trusses of the dock bases, thereby providing a working chamber for completing the dock floor. The end cofferdams have no bottom and extend downward to about 7 feet lower than the bottom of the tank, the two sides of the tank being also extended downward in the form of fixed aprons, so that the bottom outside line of the entire structure is in the same horizontal plane with the bottom of the pedestals. The pedestals and the pedestal braces can be seen in figure 7. The entire structure will weigh approximately 1,750,000 pounds and will cost about $90,000.

(e) The floating dock now being submerged to a depth of 28 to 30 feet over the deck, the tank and cofferdam structure is floated into place exactly over the previously prepared base. The floating dock is then pumped up, the structure being guided into place by means of tapered steel guides fitted on the outside of the aprons and the cofferdams. In the joint between the base and the structure resting upon it there is a lead gasket previously placed. The pumping is continued and water also removed from the interior of the upper structure until the joint is above water and exposed to view, when it is made secure by means of holding-down bolts. This condition is shown in figure 8. The holding-down bolts can be seen in this view, extending from the upper edge of the structure to angle brackets on the steel plate which forms the upper edge of the base.

(f) The floating dock is then sunk, water being excluded from the interior of the cofferdams, until the tank and cofferdams carrying the base float free. This occurs when the draft of the base is about 28 feet. This condition is shown in figure 9.

(g) The structure now afloat is moved into position and sunk into place by filling the ballast tank with water, the base being thus deposited into its permanent location in the drydock. It can be lifted and replaced if it does not at first sink into the correct position. No water is admitted within the cofferdams at this period. This condition is shown in figure 10.

(h) The work of completing the concrete work of the drydock floor and building the side walls is immediately begun and is carried to completion, except that shallow depressions are left in the floor where the pedestals rest and also that the concrete side walls of the drydock are carried only to a height of about 1 foot above high tide.

(i) The section is then flooded and the upper structure detached from the base by unscrewing the nuts on the long hold-down bolts. These nuts are located on the upper edge of the structure, which is at a height of 8 feet above mean low water.

(j) The water in the ballast tank is pumped out and the floating structure lifted to its minimum draft. The large gates which are provided in the end cofferdams are opened so as to clear the concrete side walls and the structure is towed clear. This condition is illustrated in figure 11, where the ends of the upper part of the drydock walls can be seen through the opening in the cofferdams. Figure 12 illustrates the concrete work of one section of the drydock. The depressions where the pedestals rested and also the line showing the height to which the side walls were carried before the removal of the cofferdams can be seen.

(k) Upon completion of the operation of floating off the base described in (f) the construction of a new base can be immediately begun on the floating drydock, and this new base should be ready to receive the tank and cofferdam as soon as the operation of releasing and floating off this structure as described in (j) is completed.

This method provides the following features:

1. Practically all concrete is placed in the open air, under favorable conditions permitting inspection, accomplished as follows:

(a) By constructing the bases upon a floating dock.

(b) By holding down the bases during completion of the floor by means of a ballast tank.

(c) By utilizing steel cofferdams to form working chambers in which the side walls are built.

2. Minimum risk during construction secured by—

(a) Constructing the bases upon a floating dock.

(b) The rapid sinking of the bases by the use of a ballast tank.

(c) The additional safety in transporting and sinking the sections by the availability of the flotation of the tank in case of leakage of the cofferdams.

(d) The element of safety introduced by the use of well braced steel cofferdams instead of wooden cofferdams.

3. Rapid and economical construction secured by—

(a) Transporting and placing the bases by flotation.

(b) The repeated use of steel cofferdams and the handling of cofferdams by the flotation of the ballast tank.

(c) The practical elimination of tremie-placed concrete.

(d) The reduced building hazards.

The construction of the wall of the semicircular head of the dock offers difficulty, due to its shape, which does not permit its construction within the steel cofferdams. This wall is accordingly to be built of reinforced concrete blocks, weighing about 150 tons each, molded on shore and placed by the yard floating crane. The blocks will be 38 feet high, 5 to 8 feet wide along the semicircle of the head end, and will have openings through them whereby they are bound together with the concrete to be placed between the blocks, which will be done by the use of cofferdams. The blocks will be placed about 6 feet apart.

The pump well is to be a separate structure, 45 by 95 feet in plan, built as a floating structure, and sunk into place adjacent to the outer end sections of the dock.

The design was not approved by the bureau of construction and repair, although there were undoubtedly features in boats intended for this service which are deserving of more particular consideration than in boats intended for ordinary service on our coasts. It was stated: "Submarines in the tropics could probably always operate from some shore base. This is the case at present in the Philippines and practically so in the Canal zone, where the tender is incapable of self-propulsion, although there is no shore base. It is supposed that the same condition will obtain at Pearl Harbor. The bureau believes that either on the tender or at the shore base of such submarines these could well be installed machines or other cold-air machines, to which portable connection could be made from the battery ventilation ducts of the submarines. During a charge the battery ventilation of a submarine could then be connected to this cold-air machine and cold air used for ventilating the battery at the time of charge and for a sufficient time afterwards to prevent undue rise of temperature." The proposition did not meet with the approval of Commander Yates Stirling, Jr., commander of the submarine torpedo flotilla, who expressed the view that it was unwise to build a special type vessel for some particular imaginary service, for the reasons that vessels designed for such service are usually for work different from that for which they are designed, and that it seemed a better practice in the designing of submarines to take into consideration the maximum usefulness of the type and build them to be able to fulfill that service, then all the minor services will be readily performed.

ing upon arrival to the commanding officer of the hospital for observation and treatment.

The travel directed is necessary in the military service. (1546-DSO.)

5. Private Charles W. Devonport, Company C, 1st Infantry, Schofield Barracks, H. T., will be discharged from the army by the commanding officer of that post, by purchase, under the provisions of General Orders No. 21, War Department, series 1914. (10423.)

6. Leave of absence for 33 days, with permission to apply for extension of two months, to take effect upon arrival at San Francisco, California, of the February transport, is granted Second Lieut. H. W. Hall, 4th Cavalry, Schofield Barracks, H. T. Attention is invited to General Orders No. 196, War Department, 1907, and General Orders No. 35, series 1914, these headquarters. (10435.)

7. Pvt. John Lippertz, Battery D, 1st Field Artillery, Schofield Barracks, H. T., is transferred to the Quartermaster Corps, Depot Detachment, Honolulu Depot, and will report to the department quartermaster for duty.

The Quartermaster Corps will furnish the necessary transportation and subsistence. The journey is necessary for the public service. (D. Q. M. 4087-429.)

8. Pvt. Lewis C. Adams, Company H, 25th Infantry, Schofield Barracks, H. T., is transferred to the Quartermaster Corps at that post. (D. Q. M. 4097-430.)

9. Pvt. Charles L. Berry, 104th Company, Coast Artillery Corps, Fort Armstrong, H. T., is transferred to the Quartermaster Corps, and will be assigned to station by the Coast Defense commander. (D. Q. M. 4097-431.)

10. Upon recommendation of the medical examining board 2d Lieut. Bernard P. Lamb, 25th Infantry, now sick in the department hospital, this city, will proceed to the Letterman general hospital, the Presidio, San Francisco, California, on the first transport sailing for that port, reported his duties.

Recovered from a nervous breakdown, Commander Needham I. Jones, naval aide to the President, has resumed his duties.

Orders have been sent by Secretary Daniels to the commandant of the Mare Island navy yard, to proceed with the construction of the torpedo-boat destroyer ordered last month. This will be the first boat of this class to be built in a navy yard, and the experiment will be watched by officials here as a determining factor in future boat building.

The Mare Island yard estimate was about $90,000 below that of private bidders who were awarded contracts at the same time for destroyers.

Dock Gates in Cofferdams Open, Stanford Plan.

lifted to its minimum draft. The large gates which are provided in the end cofferdams are opened so as to clear the concrete side walls and the structure is towed clear. This condition is illustrated in figure 11, where the ends of the upper part of the drydock walls can be seen through the opening in the cofferdams. Figure 12 illustrates the concrete work of one section of the drydock. The depressions where the pedestals rested and also the line showing the height to which the side walls were carried before the removal of the cofferdams can be seen.

(k) Upon completion of the operation of floating off the base described in (f) the construction of a new base can be immediately begun on the floating drydock, and this new base should be ready to receive the tank and cofferdam as soon as the operation of releasing and floating off this structure as described in (j) is completed.

This method provides the following features:

1. Practically all concrete is placed in the open air, under favorable conditions permitting inspection, accomplished as follows:

(a) By constructing the bases upon a floating dock.

(b) By holding down the bases during completion of the floor by means of a ballast tank.

(c) By utilizing steel cofferdams to form working chambers in which the side walls are built.

2. Minimum risk during construction secured by—

(a) Constructing the bases upon a floating dock.

(b) The rapid sinking of the bases by the use of a ballast tank.

(c) The additional safety in transporting and sinking the sections by the availability of the flotation of the tank in case of leakage of the cofferdams.

(d) The element of safety introduced by the use of well braced steel cofferdams instead of wooden cofferdams.

3. Rapid and economical construction secured by—

(a) Transporting and placing the bases by flotation.

(b) The repeated use of steel cofferdams and the handling of cofferdams by the flotation of the ballast tank.

(c) The practical elimination of tremie-placed concrete.

(d) The reduced building hazards.

The construction of the wall of the semicircular head of the dock offers difficulty, due to its shape, which does not permit its construction within the steel cofferdams. This wall is accordingly to be built of reinforced concrete blocks, weighing about 150 tons each, molded on shore and placed by the yard floating crane. The blocks will be 38 feet high, 5 to 8 feet wide along the semicircle of the head end, and will have openings through them whereby they are bound together with the concrete to be placed between the blocks, which will be done by the use of cofferdams. The blocks will be placed about 6 feet apart.

The pump well is to be a separate structure, 45 by 95 feet in plan, built as a floating structure, and sunk into place adjacent to the outer end sections of the dock.

The design was not approved by the bureau of construction and repair, although there were undoubtedly features in boats intended for this service which are deserving of more particular consideration than in boats intended for ordinary service on our coasts. It was stated: "Submarines in the tropics could probably always operate from some shore base. This is the case at present in the Philippines and practically so in the Canal zone, where the tender is incapable of self-propulsion, although there is no shore base. It is supposed that the same condition will obtain at Pearl Harbor. The bureau believes that either on the tender or at the shore base of such submarines these could well be installed machines or other cold-air machines, to which portable connection could be made from the battery ventilation ducts of the submarines. During a charge the battery ventilation of a submarine could then be connected to this cold-air machine and cold air used for ventilating the battery at the time of charge and for a sufficient time afterwards to prevent undue rise of temperature." The proposition did not meet with the approval of Commander Yates Stirling, Jr., commander of the submarine torpedo flotilla, who expressed the view that it was unwise to build a special type vessel for some particular imaginary service, for the reasons that vessels designed for such service are usually for work different from that for which they are designed, and that it seemed a better practice in the designing of submarines to take into consideration the maximum usefulness of the type and build them to be able to fulfill that service, then all the minor services will be readily performed.

SUBMARINES FOR HAWAII MAY BE OF SPECIAL TYPE

Plans Submitted to Navy Department For Tropical Under-Water Vessels

Some interesting views have been exchanged by the naval authorities on the question of a special type of submarine designed for tropical service in the possibility that it will be necessary to have submarines stationed permanently at the Panama canal, Hawaiian Islands and elsewhere, says the Army and Navy Register. The bureau of steam engineering made the proposal that a submarine for this class of work should be of a distinctive type, pointing out:

The time of charging a storage battery is regulated almost entirely by the heat developed by the charge. Submarines in the tropics usually have to charge the battery in installments, stopping at intervals for long periods for the battery to cool, and can never force the charge, as can be done in cooler waters. Due to the compact manner in which the cells are stowed, it takes an extremely long time for them to lose their heat, and for this reason submarine boats for tropical service should be supplied with means for cooling the cells. As a means for the apparatus needed in this direction, everything else which is not needed in the tropics, as heating appliances, should be omitted, producing a design for service in warm climates only. Another thing that has to be considered is the fact that submarines in the tropics will almost invariably operate from a shore base, or, if from a mobile tender, only for short periods of time. In considering this feature, and the fact that the design of boat will strive for greater submerged radius, the engines are not necessarily of the same military value as the battery; they can, therefore, be made smaller, simpler, and designed with larger factors of safety and added reliability, so that the operators need think of little else than submerged work and submerged battle tactics. The shore station or base from which submarines would necessarily operate would have to be fitted with adequate charging plants, both air and electricity, storehouses and quarters, and the necessity of working over repairs should be reduced to a minimum.

The design was not approved by the bureau of construction and repair, although there were undoubtedly features in boats intended for this service which are deserving of more particular consideration than in boats intended for ordinary service on our coasts. It was stated: "Submarines in the tropics could probably always operate from some shore base. Orders have been sent by Secretary Daniels to the commandant of the Mare Island navy yard, to proceed with the construction of the torpedo-boat destroyer ordered last month. This will be the first boat of this class to be built in a navy yard, and the experiment will be watched by officials here as a determining factor in future boat building.

The Mare Island yard estimate was about $90,000 below that of private bidders who were awarded contracts at the same time for destroyers.

Home Furnishers For More Than Thirty Years

In the Realm of the Feminine

Fancy Work Hint

NEARLY every one knows the buttonhole stitch used for scalloping, but for those who do not learning is easy. Fasten the thread on the under side and bring the needle out at the lower edge of the scallop. Hold the thread under the thumb of the left hand, insert the needle in the upper edge of the scallop and bring it out at the lower within the thread, draw up evenly to form a purl, hold down the thread again, put your needle in at the top and bring out within the thread close to the first stitch and draw up evenly as before.

That is all there is to scalloping. The chief things to watch are to have the stitch directions even and the line at top and bottom as regular as possible. To make your scallop wear better you may work a second purl through the purl of the first after the scallops are cut out. If your cover must be laundered this should be done before cutting the scallop.

For a pincushion top buy one of the oblong, square or round satin covered cushions that cost about 25 cents. If you like a frilly ruffled measure twice the circumference of the cushion, sew the lace in a tiny seam or buttonhole the edges together. Turn down the top into a narrow casing and run through it elastic or baby ribbons.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR NECK SLENDER.

TOO much flesh on the neck is perhaps one of the greatest obstacles to beauty which any woman can possess. It is almost as bad in appearance as a gawky throat and is much more difficult to remedy. It is a far simpler thing to put flesh on a woman's throat than to take it off, for if the tissues are fed with a good grease, such as cocoa butter, the neck will soon begin to take on flesh.

VELVETS LEAD IN FASHION LAND

IN spite of the fact that the beginning of the season was haunted with rumors of a scarcity of our richest fabric, velvet, garments of it are becoming plentiful, and there is apparently no dearth of the material as yet upon the shelves of merchants. Frequently a good quality of velveteen cannot be distinguished from the genuine silk velvet, and much of the latter fabric is consequently used.

Especially is velvet being used for afternoon wear in both frocks and street suits. For this purpose it is to be found in various dark, rich shades, brown, blue, green and black predominating. There is a tendency toward light shades of sand and putty.

The wider the skirt the greater the weight of material suspended from the hips, and so it is that, while an occasional extreme model of velvet is to be found with a four yard skirt, the conservative width in velvet does not exceed two and three-quarter yards. Even the frocks and suit skirts of circular cut frequently do not exceed this width. The narrow models are practicable for street wear.

Transparent sleeves in afternoon frocks of velvet are also exceedingly practicable for house wear and for the three piece suit. A former objection to the entire velvet frock was the heat of the heavy bodice for house wear, but the transparent sleeves obviate this discomfort.

Velvet boleros are appearing on the one piece frock and suggest the shortened waist line, which is gradually coming again into favor and is so becoming to the majority of figures. No richer fabric has the world ever known than velvet, not even the weighty metal cloths embroidered in genuine gold in the splendid days, nor has there appeared one more becoming to fair faces old and young.

The typical afternoon restaurant costume for the late winter is a velvet tulleur trimmed with fur and with skirt cut very short to reveal smart buttoned boots with tops of light cloth. The headgear may be a tiny polo turban perched on one side and worn with a nose veil or a huge velvet sailor with stiff-outstanding brim. The alternate of this costume is a fur trimmed frock worn under a seal coat or smartly cut coat of fabric trimmed with fur. These afternoon dancing frocks are of pussy willow silk, nocturne or goldenrod satin or of poplin or the charming worsted and mohair mixtures which are much liked for the new ripple effects.

WHAT WOMEN DO.

Female mill operators in the Bombay cotton mills earn about $40 a year in wages. Sixty new trades, heretofore mainly German industries, are now being taught to women in England. New York has a woman insurance broker who has customers in faroff Turkey and Australia. The novelty of women police officers is beginning to wear off in many cities of the United States.

Stunning Motor Coat

THIS motor coat of white chinchilla is striped with black and is finished around the bottom with black and white fringe. The deep rolling collar is bound with silk braid. Large buttons are covered with self material, and a black silk frog finishes the waist line.

SEVERAL BEAUTY SECRETS.
GOLDEN hair requires the most careful brushing and cleaning. An infusion of chamomile flowers is a very good shampoo for light hair. An effective dry shampoo for such hair is made of alcohol ammonia half an ounce, the same of tincture of quilla, two drams essence of wood violet.

The shampoo should be applied by rubbing it well into the scalp and drying the head with a rough towel. No water is required. Sufficient sleep is more conducive to good looks than any artificial means yet discovered by the beauty doctors. If you would keep your eyes bright and your face unlined obey the eight hour law of sleep.

FOR THE FRIEND WHO PLAYS BRIDGE

IF you want to make a pretty birthday gift for the friend who entertains often why not supply her with half a dozen linen covers for her bridge tables? Most hostesses now own two or three of the low, folding card tables which may be brought out when an informal afternoon or evening of bridge is planned, and these tables are almost invariably covered with freshly laundered cloths of one sort or another, since the green felt which covers the table top is apt to soil daintily manicured finger tips, and many people dislike to play cards on a polished table top.

Some of the card table covers one sees are quite elaborate, with hemstitched edges and a monogram or initials embroidered in one corner. Others are perfectly plain, with a narrow hem at the edge. The beauty of such a cover, of course, is its freshness and crispness. It must be laundered with a little starch and ironed glossy smooth and when ironed should not be folded, but, rather, rolled around a broomstick or a rolled up newspaper. Heavy Irish linen makes excellent covers of this sort. Natural linen or brown Holland linen is liked by some card players better than white linen, which is perhaps more trying to the eyes when starched and ironed smoothly. One hostess the scribe knows of has card table covers of green linen which are very attractive and which harmonize with her green toned room. Cut the cover so that when hemmed it will extend about two inches beyond the table top all around and sew four tapes to it, one at the center of each side. These tapes are tied or fastened together under the table to hold the cover smoothly in place. A linen case to hold the covers will also be an acceptable gift. This should be made of a large square of linen, attached along one side to a long mauling tube of cardboard. In the case the starched and ironed covers may be rolled smoothly, and a fastener will hold the rolled up case neatly.

THINGS YOU WILL LIKE TO KNOW.

PICKLES will never become moldy if you put a tiny bag of mustard in the top of the receptacle in which they are kept. If your silk dress looks rusty you can revive it by sponging it with water in which potatoes have been boiled. Mites can be most successfully exterminated if you stuff all their holes with a piece of rag which has been dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper. A very quick way to cool a hot liquid is to pass it through a clean cloth saturated with cold water, and if the liquid is soup no trace of grease will remain. If you lay your silver away in common flour it will remain bright for some time. You can warm over meat much more quickly if you wrap it in greased paper. The steam will prevent the meat from becoming hard and dry. Perspiration stains can be removed from a thin shirt waist by soaking it in cold water to which you have added a little sodium bicarbonate before it has been washed.

Mourning Costume

IN spite of her grief lady who has lost a near relative must busy herself in the selection of clothes, and the psychological outcome is of value because it takes both time and attention to select a good looking mourning gown and hat. It's a custom and so must be obeyed. Pictured here is a strictly up to the minute costume, the small hat made of folds of crepe with a long net veil bordered with crepe.

ABOUT PETTICOATS.

PETTICOATS made of pique, button-holed in big scallops about the hem, are durable and serviceable. They are not transparent, and that is one of the things that commend them for practical wear. Quite the opposite of the pique petticoat is that of net. It is often hand embroidered with a scalloped edge and some conventional design made up of dots and sprays of leaves above the scallop.

Ornaments of Pearl and Brilliants

HAIR and neck ornaments are of great importance in millady's wardrobe, and her evening toilet is incomplete without them. The ones pictured here are especially handsome. The neck slides are mounted on black velvet ribbon, and the hair is given height by the introduction of a pompadour.

PRETTY THINGS FOR NECK MAY BE HOME-MADE

Never before was there such a demand for pretty neckwear, declares a Kansas City Star writer. Going through a stock one is astonished at the simplicity of some models and cannot help thinking how much money might be saved if the material were bought and the pretty accessories made up at home. True, one can buy inexpensive neckwear that is very pretty; but alas! only until it has been laundered. Then it is poor looking and shabby. The better qualities of neckwear are quite expensive. For example, a collar marked at $1.50 I found was made of lace sold at 50 cents a yard at the counter. The two were exactly the same, both in tint and quality. As one yard makes the collar the saving is obvious. It could be made in half an hour, too. The lace is folded in two and nine inches marked off at each end. There it is mitred to form the corners. The line between the corners is plaited or gathered to fit the collar on the waist. A strip of lawn doubled will make the raw edges neat and give a firm hold for sewing in.

PLAID SKIRTS WILL BE WELCOME AGAIN IN SPRING

What a joy it will be to women to wear once more the skirts with plaits that have always been so much admired whenever they have been in vogue. Not the skirt with an overabundance of them, but just enough to make the skirt hang gracefully and flare a little as one walks. Because yokes are to appear on most of the skirts for the spring season a majority of the plaits are made to come out from under the yoke, but where there is no yoke the plaits will enter the skirt-band. There are many front breadths made in the form of a double box plait with the remainder of the skirt comparatively plain. White serge, which it is thought will be one of the most favored materials for white suits next summer, was made in one of the newest models, with plaits in the skirts, the inside of the plaits being lined with white satin, which showed effectively when the wearer took a step. Large white satin buttons were used for trimming. additional row of hemstitching is desired it will be necessary to put in a basting thread to show where. It is not safe to give a verbal order. Plain organdy collars are the rule, though we see some embroidered, others decorated with insets of lace and so on. Organdy lends itself well to collar and cuff sets, and so does pique, which, by the way, is one of the fashionable fabrics again. Not the stiff, old-fashioned kind, but a soft, though heavy, weave. The large cord is preferred to any other. The pique collar and cuff sets are made with a machine stitch. The material is always used double. The edges are stitched upon the wrong side. Then the collar is turned right side out, and second stitching is put around the edge.

RECIPES TRIED AND FOUND VERY SUCCESSFUL BY WOMEN OF HONOLULU

- HAMBURGER ROAST. Two lbs. round steak put through meat chopper, 2 1/2 cupful of milk, 2 well beaten eggs, 1/2 cupful of melted butter or bacon fat; salt, pepper and poultry dressing to taste; 2 1/2 cupful of rolled cracker crumbs. Mix well and put in greased bread pan. Bake one hour.
- CHEESE RAMIKINS. One cup grated cheese, 1/2 cup bread-crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, dash of paprika. Cook cheese, crumbs and seasoning over hot water until cheese melts. Add beaten egg. Bake in ramikins set in hot water 15 minutes.
- APRICOT SHORTCAKE. One-third cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks beaten, 1/2 cup milk, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 2 1/2 level teaspoons baking powder; lastly add whites of 2 eggs, beaten stiff. Bake in two layers and put together with
- APRICOT FOAM. 1 cup canned apricots drained and put through sieve, 1 cup sugar, white of egg unbeaten. Beat all together until stiff enough to spread.
- PINEAPPLE FOAM. One cup pineapple juice, 1 cup cold water, juice of 1 lemon; sweeten to taste. Put over fire and when boiling thicken as for cornstarch pudding. Take from fire and pour over stiffly beaten white of one egg, beating well. Turn into mould or dish for serving. Make thin custard sauce with yolk of egg, milk and sugar. Serve pudding very cold with custard sauce.

SPRING OUTLOOK IN NEW FASHIONS

By this season of the year the styles in dress have been so weeded out that we go about well informed as to what we should avoid and what accept. We know that the short skirt is the most fashionable to wear, and that the flaring long coat with its almost imperceptible belt well below the normal waist line and its long, close sleeves, is correct, says the New York Times. We have adopted the satin blouse, close fitting, with high wrinkled collar of satin instead of chiffon; we have partly given up the kimono, and agreed that all our garments should fasten up the front. In hats we have adopted the one with a brim, the black and the darker blue velvet, the scarcity of trimming, the angle of tilting the brim over the right eye and showing more of the back hair than we have done for years; and in coiffures we have become accustomed to the absence of any projection whatever at sides, back or top, unless in the evening we put an open Psyche over the brow. In shoes we have been looking with a friendly glance on those which Paris borrowed from Argentina. We wear colored uppers, as the English do, and change them with short-vamped, patent leather laced shoes, with white kid uppers, and now we are swinging in to high gaiters which come up to the short skirt that rules the season. We have broken our faith with the broad shoulders, always vaunted as Anglo-Saxon, and given our allegiance to the narrow shoulders known as French, and omitted the fulness at the waist line, no matter what the garment. We have dropped the exaggerated empire waist line and are listening to the siren call of 1840 and 1870 luring us from the Russian ballet costumes. We give scope to large waists, and yet we try to make feet look smaller by the use of the highest heels that have been worn since Louis XIV.'s day. As opposed to this practise on the streets, we are adopting the almost flat-heeled slipper for evening wear. In adopting any of these particulars of dress you can feel sure that at present you are right, but how about the new season? Looking closely among the clothes worn by those whose object it is to keep a little ahead of the multitude in fashions, one sees several straws which show the direction from which the wind may blow. The use of Scotch plaids in top coats, in kilted skirts; the use of kilted skirts themselves; the growing height of the neck line even in evening gowns; the peculiarity of the hems in wide skirts which are formed by a succession of godet folds; the increasing popularity of the very short coat cut in a straight line; the use of a full plaid velvet skirt with one of these jackets surmounted by a tiny velvet cap with two streamers at the back—each and all of these are incoming fashions which warrant our attention. In evening gowns there is a tendency to opaque fabrics and the pendulum swings away from the Oriental in coloring and in transparency. It would not be surprising if the serious months which the world is going through will result in a far more sober style of costumery. John Benham of Brooklyn, Wis., captured the largest deer ever taken alive in that state, a six-prong, 300-pound buck.

LAUNDRESS TWICE A WEEK IS ONE WOMAN'S PLAN.

Disliking sewing and having four growing children to clothe, I experimented in the following manner and with wonderful results, says a contributor to Good Housekeeping: Instead of having an immense washing done once a week, I had my laundress come again on Fridays and launder all the clothes that had accumulated since Monday. In this way the children can wear their clothing twice in the same week, and they need just half the number of garments that they did formerly. As the clothes are outgrown in one season, anyhow, why not get the full use of them and make new ones each year instead of having plies of faded and outgrown garments each year to throw away? Just try my plan for one season, and note the saving of time and work.

Exportation from Holland of woolen blankets and preserves of all kinds has been prohibited.

SILKS WILL BE PLENTIFUL AND LOWER IN PRICE

According to the preparations being made by the silk manufacturers, there will be no scarcity of silks this season for the woman who would wear this fabric and it is thought that she will be enabled to purchase it at a lower price. It is said that the silk market is recovering from the disturbance caused by the political situation, and manufacturers are not only making a careful study of the fashions with a view of selecting weaves that it is thought will prove popular next season, but are placing sample lots with garment-makers and awaiting the formal spring openings which usually take place in January. There seems to be much reason to expect that tafetas will be among the favored weaves, and a return of an old style is predicted in the floral designs. It is generally expected that warp-print tafetas will be popular in the spring novelties and come as a result of the favor in which flowers are held for the corsage and millinery. Fuller skirts require a heavier silk, and this is another reason for the expected favor for tafetas. Expecting such a tendency in the styles manufacturers are making a compromise between the very light weights of the chiffon tafetas and the stiffer weaves advocated by extremists in styles, but which have not been approved by the women who will be the wearers of the gowns to be made of it and who do not take kindly to the thought of the old-fashioned tafetas. Satins show the same tendency toward heavier qualities, but what is looked upon as heavy satin is not expected to appear in any quantities before another year, as they are considered more appropriate for winter than for the summer season.

WE DON'T NEED SISTERS FOR NURSES.

Objections are coming forward to the plan of the Hilo hospital trustees to engage a corps of Catholic Sisters as nurses. On the whole, these objections are well taken. The mere fact that they are made is enough evidence of that. This is not said in any spirit of narrow religious prejudice. It may be that the objections are narrow. But they exist, and their existence constitutes a fact to be borne in mind in considering what is best for the efficiency of the hospital. Probably the same objections would be made if it were proposed to get nurses from a Presbyterian training school.

It is true that the hospital suffers in expenses from the custom Hilo bachelors have formed of marrying their nurses, but the community gains and we ought all to rejoice instead of trying to stop the excellent work of Cupid. The proposition is one which every business institution has to face: its best lady employees are always dismaying the manager with sudden blushing announcements of an intention to quit in order to prepare a trousseau.

Our hospital ought to be able to get along as other hospitals do, and take its chances with nurses, instead of depending on a religious society for its supply. And when a nurse gets married, instead of complaining, the trustees should send her a suitable wedding present, congratulate her and themselves, and send for another, hoping she will repeat the gladsome game.—Hilo Tribune.

COL. McCARTHY.

If the men who from time to time attack Treasurer Charles McCarthy were only aware of the standing the colonel has among the people who have known him for years to be a true-hearted, clean-cut man, who is a credit to the present administration, the traducers would, perhaps, refrain from the stabs in the back that they from time to time indulge in. That Col. McCarthy was at one time a liquor dealer makes no difference. His house of business was always properly conducted and finally he gave up the business at a time when it was bringing him in a big monthly income. Charles McCarthy is admired by both Republicans and Democrats as a real man who always stands for a square deal, and who hates a grafter or a crook like poison.—Hawaii Herald.

THE DEPARTURE OF REV. AND MRS. BODEL.

Lahaina will on February 3, next, lose one of its most indefatigable church workers in the person of the Rev. J. Knox Bodel of the Episcopal church, who has received and accepted a call to the vacant rectorship in Hilo, Hawaii.

For the past four years Mr. Bodel has faithfully ministered to the spiritual and temporal wants of his congregation and by his earnest preaching, teaching and district visiting has endeared himself to his immediate followers, as well as to Lahaina generally, and they are all deeply sorry that for family reasons he has to leave them.—Maui Times.

"KNOCKING."

Since The Tribune called attention to the matter some weeks ago there have been many discussions and denials. Now the proof is offered. If Honolulu were serving her own interests in "knocking" it might be said that she has a perfect right to do so, and that would be the end of the matter. But she hurts herself. All tourists visit Honolulu anyhow. The ones who leave the islands with something to talk about are those who have looked at the fires of Madame Pele and seen the marvelous crater of Haleakala. Such returned tourists are of more benefit than any promotion advertising and they all necessarily benefit Honolulu because, as stated, all visitors call at that city.—Hilo Tribune.

The Maui papers, as well as the Hilo ones, claim that selfish hotel managers in Honolulu are knocking the Volcano and Haleakala trips. There is no doubt about the matter, and the old cry of there being no evidence of knocking cannot avail now that well known men have declared that they are ready to name the knockers. The owners of the big Honolulu hotels should insist on their managers taking both the Maui and Hawaii trips, so that those gentlemen may know something of the islands and not be only acquainted with Oahu—and very little of that island for that matter.—Hawaii Herald.

The Hilo smile extends all the way to Hamakua and Puna, over Governor Pinkham's requirement that small farmer homesteads be required to "install public utilities" in such a way as to "obviate forever tearing up the streets." What homesteads in Hawaii have "streets"?—Kohala Midget.

It is hard to see where any objection can be raised to the proposal that nurses belonging to nursing orders be put in charge of the Hilo hospital. The proposition is no joke, as some people imagine, and the experience of the county of Maui where sisters run the Wailuku hospital, should be good enough for Hawaii.—Hawaii Herald.

MAUI FARMERS WANT HELP OF LEGISLATURE

Haiku Assn. Asks Laws For Cooperative Corporations, Land Banks, Etc.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] WAILUKU, Jan. 28.—In every sense of the word Haiku farmers are progressive people. They have shown this characteristic ever since the settlement of Kulaha was first opened by the government. Farmers' meetings have been frequently held, good roads worked for, excellent houses built for the homes of the settlers, and in every way they have shown that they were desiring the best that American citizenship could do for them as individuals and as a class.

Recently the whole community met in the Haiku Farmers' Association to discuss the matter of a possible cooperative cannery. Finding that they were handicapped by the laws of the territory they propose to do what they can toward altering the present statute so that they will be benefited. They believe also the changes they propose will be of great advantage to the whole territory. A carefully drawn up set of resolutions expresses their views. These are to be sent throughout Hawaii to all civic bodies and to members of the legislature, so that if possible the desired changes may soon be made. The document containing the resolutions is as follows:

Whereas: We believe that the government should, by every feasible means, assist homesteaders and other citizen farmers in this territory; and Whereas: It has been shown by the experience of all civilized countries that, under the conditions that just one of those questions. The Knight party got in the first blow and that would seem to make it impossible for any kind of an unbiased jury being secured in the territory to try any phase of the matter.—Hawaii Herald.

The island of Hawaii can pass over in dignified silence the fact that Honolulu has got herself in the spotlight by help of the Smart will case. They will all have to trot down to little, hot, dry Kailua, Hawaii, to try the thing out, and The Midget will be in a position to rush out an "extra" every hour if the evidence turns out to be salacious enough.—Kohala Midget.

usually exist between farmer and manufacturer, the farmer, as producer of raw material, does not receive his proper share of the profits of production; and

Whereas: The homesteaders of this territory find especial difficulty in making a decent living, by reason of distance from markets, high freight charges, and other conditions peculiar to this territory;

Therefore, be it resolved: That we, the Haiku Farmers' Association, respectfully but urgently request the coming legislature to pass laws to meet the existing condition, and more especially the following:

(1) A law providing for cooperative corporations, to be drawn up along lines followed by similar laws in force in many of the states.

(2) A law providing for government assistance, by loans or otherwise, in the erection of canneries, creameries, or other manufacturing plants, for such groups of homesteaders as may wish to manufacture their own products.

(3) A law providing for the creation of a land bank, fashioned on the principle of European land banks, by which farmers may secure long-time loans at reasonable rates.

Be it further resolved: That for securing the passage of such laws, we request the cooperation and assistance of other farmers' associations, chambers of commerce, and other public bodies throughout the islands.

Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the above mentioned bodies, to the principal newspapers of the islands, to the College of Hawaii, to the Federal Experiment Station, and to the several members of the legislature.

WOMEN'S SOCIETY OF CENTRAL UNION MAKES 1914 USEFUL YEAR

Mrs. A. L. Andrews Reads Annual Report at Interesting Church Meeting

The following report for the Women's Society of Central Union Church, year 1914, was read by Mrs. A. L. Andrews at the church's annual meeting last Wednesday night:

A year ago the president of the Women's Society tried to show that this society by the year's work had fulfilled its purpose as stated in the constitution—namely, "to support the religious work of the church, to further its social interests, and to encourage a spirit of Christian benevolence."

During the year 1914 the interest and enthusiasm of our members have not waned; therefore it is possible to report a year of substantial accomplishment.

The society closed the year with a membership of 249. Of this number 47 were added during the year.

The calling committee has shown its activity by making 364 calls on strangers, sick and shut-ins. Through the generosity of this committee 73 sick persons have received jelly and flowers.

The decoration of the church each Sunday has meant much thought and labor on the part of the chairman of the decorating committee and her 12 associates. These workers have found it possible to add to the attractiveness of the church decoration because of the 30 new plants presented to the society at the plant shower held in connection with the April social. Our plant family has also been increased by many new tubs of crotons and hibiscus from the experiment station.

The cut flowers used for the Sunday decorations have been sent on several occasions to members of the society recovering from illness at the Queen's hospital; twice to the children's hospital. The children's hospital also received all of the fruit from the Thanksgiving decoration. At other times the flowers have been used by the "flower mission" of the W. C. T. U.

The work of the educational committee has been real "child-welfare" work.

From its general fund the society gives three scholarships to Kawaihāo seminary. This year one Hawaiian girl and two part Hawaiian girls have had use of these scholarships.

Through the special educational fund the society cares for eight other girls at Kawaihāo, paying all the expenses of six and the tuition for two. Of these girls one is German, one Chinese, one Hawaiian and five are part Hawaiian. To these eight girls Kawaihāo seminary has become a home as well as a school.

Through the effort of one of our members the society has placed another girl in Maunaloa seminary.

By means of these gifts these 12 girls are being educated to go into the community as well trained Christian women.

The religious work committee, beginning the second week in January and continuing till the last of May, conducted the Thursday morning Bible class under the leadership of Mr. Eberole. During the fall months this committee organized neighborhood discussion classes. Eleven of these classes met weekly for a period of 10 weeks. The subjects of the lessons were chosen from Robert E. Spens' book, "Principles of Jesus." These meetings proved most interesting and helpful. One of our valuable assets is the kitchen equipment. This has been added to from time to time, under the direction of the house committee. This committee has also catered for the annual chowder supper of the church and the basket lunches following the regular business meetings of the society.

Activity in the social committee has been evident. Four afternoon and three evening socials have been held during the year. All have been enjoyable because of good attendance, attractive decorations, excellent refreshments and entertaining programs.

The afternoon social of February was an "at home" to the women of all the other churches. Our guest of honor was Mrs. Thomas, who delighted us with a talk on her personal experiences as a social worker in Chicago.

Our guests at the September social were the teachers of the city, special attention being given to the new teachers of Honolulu.

The October evening social will long be remembered because of the instructive talk given by the late Dr. W. P. Ferguson on "The War—an Interpretation."

In addition to her regular duties the chairman of the social committee, together with her associates, has rendered valuable service at two suppers served to the Men's league.

The Women's Society is represented at the meetings of the Associated Charities by a regularly appointed delegate.

During the year we have rendered personal service as well as financial aid to the Associated Charities. Several of our members have become interested in "friendly visiting." Many others have been doing home sewing on infants' garments, which have

"Pidgin English" Proclamation Read New Guinea Natives Under New Flag

"English as she is spoke" in New Guinea is responsible for this remarkable proclamation, said by passengers on the Sonoma to have been read in German New Guinea when the Australian troops took the Teuton possessions:

PROCLAMATION.
Read to natives on the annexation of the late German possessions in the Pacific. Rabaul, September 12, 1914.

"All boys belongina one place, you savvy big master he come now, ne new feller master, he strong feller too much, you look him all ship stop place; he small feller ship belongina him. Plenty more big feller he stop place belongina him, now he come here, he take all place. He look out good you feller. Now he like you feller look out good alonga him. Suppose other feller master, he been speak you, 'You no work alonga new feller master,' he gammon. Suppose you work good with this new feller master he look out good alonga you, he look out you get plenty good feller kai-kai; he no fighting black boy alonga nothing."

"You look him new feller flag, you been taken by the friendly visitor to the babes born in poverty."

To superintend the work of providing these garments a special committee was appointed. This committee solicited funds, purchased material at wholesale, cut the garments and distributed them to members of the society for making. Each outfit consists of one mother's nightdress, three bands, 12 diapers, one blanket, three shirts, one coat, two nightgowns, four dresses, one-half dozen safety pins, large, one-half dozen safety pins, small, one petticoat, one pair booties and one prize. The prizes are odd articles which have been sent to our committee as donations.

Fourteen complete outfits and many odd garments have been given the needy.

This service seemed so much worth while that it has been made a part of our regular work, with an annual appropriation.

The chairman of this committee has been given a place in the executive board.

During the fall months the women furnished material and made 73 hospital garments for the Red Cross work in Europe.

A special committee directed the renovation of the big room in the Kilo-hana building, expending $123.70. Yet another special committee had charge of the repairing and tuning the piano in the Sunday school room.

As a society we have taken our part in the child welfare movement and the campaign against granting the license to the Pleasanton hotel.

Every Sunday newcomers have greeted home folk and stranger with a cordial "good morning."

Perhaps the most important step forward has been the change in the constitution making service—financial or otherwise—the basis of membership.

The financial committee, under the leadership of the treasurer, has done very efficient service.

Receipts for the year... $1676.63
Expenditures 1360.60

Bal. on hand Jan 1, '15 $ 316.03
The savings bank account shows $805.91 to the credit of the society.

From the Chas. R. Bishop fund we have paid the living expenses, $125, of a Central Union girl attending the Normal school. The deaconesses have drawn upon this fund for relief work to the amount of $80. The amount available Jan. 1, 1915, is $397.55.

Our annual "In Memorial" page bears the names of Mrs. B. M. Allen, Mrs. Doremus Scudder, Mrs. Stangenwald.

The Women's society, at its annual meeting, passed unanimously the following resolutions:

"Whereas, Mrs. Doremus Scudder was deeply interested in the life of the church and the welfare of girls, and

"Whereas, the Women's Society would associate forever the memory of Mrs. Scudder with the activities of Central Union church; be it

"Resolved, that we, the women of Central Union church, establish a fund of not less than $1000, to be known as the Ruth Scudder memorial scholarship fund.

"The principal of this fund shall be safely invested and the income therefrom shall be added to the principal until the total amounts to the sum of $1000.

"When the fund shall have reached $1000 the income therefrom shall be used annually, under the direction of the educational committee, toward the education of some deserving girl of Honolulu. Be it further

"Resolved, that as a nucleus of this fund the sum of $25 be immediately set aside from our general treasury. Be it further

"Resolved, that a committee be appointed whose duty it shall be to devise ways and means of raising this fund, to see that it is properly invested and to exercise control over it till such time as it shall amount to $1000, when it shall pass into the control of the Women's Society."

Our motto this year has been "Service," based on Lowell's lines,
Not what we give, but what we share—

For the gift without the giver is bare;
Who gives himself with his aims feeds three—
Himself, his hungry neighbor and me.

To each and all who have served the president takes this opportunity to extend her appreciation and most sincere thanks.

Respectfully,
HARRIET COUSENS ANDREWS,
President.

IN THE BROAD FIELD OF RELIGION

A Saloonkeeper's Confession

A TEMPERANCE SERMON
By Dr. John W. Wadman

Some years ago at a big state fair in Columbus, Ohio, a temperance lecturer was giving an address to a crowd of farmers and others. Among other things the speaker said that in some insane asylums, when they need to test a patient to see whether he has recovered his reason, they have a room with a water faucet in it and a cement floor. They then give the patient a mop and bid him go in and mop up the floor. If he has sense enough to turn off the faucet before he begins to mop, they will parole him, but should he continue to let the faucet run, they know that he is still out of his senses.

"Well, that is just what we are trying to do with the liquor traffic. We are trying to mop it up with taxes, jails, reformatories, insane asylums, and what not, but to my mind, gentlemen, the only thing to do is to turn off the faucet; that is, stop the source of supply and put the saloons wholly out of commission," said the speaker.

A little later the lecturer was met by a man who inquired of him, "Were you the fellow who gave that talk on temperance and knocked the saloons?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I think the managers did a dirty piece of business in allowing you to give a talk like that. Don't you know that you hurt my business and my business is a legal one?"

"You are right there," said the lecturer, "they did do a mean trick. I'm sorry for you. Why not enter a complaint in the officers?"

He then took a premium list out of his pocket and asked, "By the way, I see that there is a premium of so much offered here for the best horse, the finest cow, the woolliest sheep, the proudest cock, etc. What business are you in?"

"I'm in the liquor business."

"Well, well, I can't see by this list that the directors offer any premium along lines of your business. You ought to go down to their office and compel them to offer as premiums, say, $25 for the best wrecked home, $15 for the best bloated bum that you can produce, $10 for the finest specimen of a broken-hearted wife, and, then, demand that they give in addition, say, $5 each for the finest specimen of thieves and gamblers you can produce. You will need to go to the police asylums and such places in order to secure the samples along your line of business, sir, if you are to enter into competition with the farmers and the manufacturers."

The saloonkeeper was a man of more than ordinary intelligence and as the conversation between him and the lecturer developed, his aroused feelings were quieted, his anger subsided, his interest in the case grew, other questions were asked, and later on, he was wholly convinced of the iniquity of the traffic in strong drink and finally abandoned it for a more honorable vocation.

He was a well-known man in Toledo, and when the famous debates took place in that city a year later between President Dickie of Ann Arbor University and Mayor Rose, Dr. Dickie received a letter from the saloonkeeper in which he put down in black and white what he himself calls "a saloonkeeper's confession," and here are two or three paragraphs from that same letter:

"No man but a full-fledged saloonkeeper will ever know the inside of this nefarious business. There is nothing in the whole universe that equals the waste produced by liquor. I have watched the new beginner year after year. I have watched him develop from a shy and timid drinker to a rough and ready, willing to get full at any and all times.

"Liquor is the promoter of nearly every evil. Workmen toll the whole week through, sober and industrious. On a Saturday night they receive their pay. The majority of them step into a saloon just to take one or two drinks to brace them up after their hard week's work. Once inside the saloon, they meet their friends, their shopmates, from four to a dozen, Jack says, 'Have a drink on me.' When that is drunk, Bill says, 'Well, boys, have another on me.' And round after round is drunk. By this time they are stimulated to that degree they have forgotten their hard week's work. They are full of talk. Next some one of the party suggests a game of dice; that settles it. The saloonkeeper knows them. He is good for about $3 apiece out of the bunch, and maybe more. Finally they become pretty well fixed up and begin to realize that they must show up at home, and off they go, a boisterous, staggering gang. They are certainly an interesting bunch to appear before their wives, their mothers and sisters, drunk and bleary-eyed, with half of their hard earned week's wages gone and what have they got to show for it. Nothing."

And here are the concluding sentences:

"The liquor element are holding up their old-time worn statistics to show that if it were not for the brewery and saloonkeepers to pay the tax and use up the products of the country, the great and glorious United States of America must fall. Now, Mr. Dickie, you just tell Mr. Rose for me that the laboring community can well afford to pay the tax direct from their pockets, and they would be saving 100 per cent on the amount they were formerly spending for booze. On top of that, they would be in better condition to work and would accumulate a third more annually with their booze cut out."

Brevities From The Anti-Saloon League

A prominent clergyman of Cleveland, Ohio, has written the league in regard to Dr. Purley A. Baker, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who will arrive in Honolulu February 22 for a three weeks' visit.

"You will find in Dr. Baker a very wise leader in all matters appertaining to the big temperance reform movement. He is a strong platform man as well as a great organizer. His addresses will thrill your people. He ably leads a movement, the most wonderful of this wonderful age, and I am sure his visit will be of lasting benefit to your work in the territory."

PHILADELPHIA. — Thousands of persons stormed the tabernacle recently to hear Billy Sunday, the evangelist. Women were trampled and injured. Their shrieks caused two riot calls to be sent for the police, and the clanging of the ambulance bells as they rushed up caused a riot which lasted an hour.

The tabernacle was filled to overflowing and the police estimated the crowd outside that demanded admittance at more than 20,000.

Hoping to draw some of those outside away from the doors, a prayer meeting was started in Logan Square. Hymns were sung and preachers tried to call the crowds to them, but the overflow meeting was not effective.

Emergency Hospital on Street.

The greatest disorder was on the Wood street side of the building. Here windows were broken and so many women either fainted in the crush or were really hurt that it became necessary to establish an emergency hospital. Many were treated by physicians and taken home. Several had to be removed to the hospital in ambulances.

The trouble began as soon as the tabernacle was filled. Those close to the building were hemmed in by those behind them, and the crowds continued to gather in the rear, unaware that the doors were closed and refusing to move back when ordered by the police.

Many women mounted the shoulders of men to keep from being crushed. Others who fell were trampled into unconsciousness. That no one was killed is regarded by the police as remarkable.

Sunday's popularity and his expert handling of religious subjects in slang phrases seem to be on the increase here. He predicted in his sermon tonight that his eight weeks' stay not only would be stretched into nine or ten, but that this city would have more "trail-hitters" and persons reclaimed to their religion than any other city in the world.

"Billy Sunday Parties" a Fad.

Although the first few meetings were attended mostly by old persons or persons of middle age, young men and women now are flocking to the services.

"Billy Sunday parties" have become a fad among the society set, and at every meeting men and women of social prominence crowd their way into the tabernacle.

"When I feel that the audience is in the right mood to appear on the sawdust path," said Sunday, "I shall ask for the trail hitters to step forward. This may not be done until next week."

20,000 RIOT AT BILLY SUNDAY'S BIG TABERNACLE

Prayer Meeting Improvised in Philadelphia Square Fails to Divert Thousands

The office received this week from national headquarters a package of new maps of the United States, entitled "Making the whole map white." They were fresh from the big presses which run day and night at Westerville, Ohio, turning out up-to-date literature on temperance issues for free distribution all over the country.

Upon opening the contents of the parcel, it was found that the maps had only 14 states marked wholly white or dry, and Alabama shaded. It was therefore necessary to repair the map, since a press despatch that day announced the fact that Alabama had gone dry, making in all 15 states to date all white on the map.

A Japanese running a plantation boarding house at Ewa, when Inspector Kennell arrested him some time ago for dispensing booze without the necessary territorial liquor license, pulled out a table drawer and proudly pointed to a receipt he had received from the internal revenue department, of recent date, stating that Uncle Sam had collected so much tax from him for selling booze. The Oriental naturally thought, or at least appeared to think, that this tax-receipt was his permission to serve his guests with beer. Note the inconsistency of our whole liquor situation in America!

One set of officers—the federal—collecting tax, and another and another set of officers—the territorial—arresting the same folks for violating law.

RELIGIOUS WORK IN JAPAN MAKES RAPID PROGRESS

Empire Moving Toward Christianity, Says Gale M. Fisher in Report

That Japan is rapidly moving toward Christianity is the opinion of Gale M. Fisher, national secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for the Japanese empire. Mr. Fisher, who has visited Honolulu on many occasions, has recently sent a report of religious conditions in Japan to the local association. In his report he says:

"A substantial evidence of the depth to which Christianity is striking its roots is the profession of faith by the eminent merchant, I. Morimura, whose name is known in commercial circles in New York as well as in Japan. He has long been an ardent seeker after truth, and falling to find satisfaction in Buddhism and Confucianism, he began the study of the Bible last spring he said: 'For two years I prayed for faith in God as Father. At length I gained that faith. Now I am praying for grace to be willing to use my property for the kingdom of God and to follow Christ.'

"It was only a few days later that Mr. Morimura and Baron Shibusawa established a foundation to promote commercial morality, the former giving $10,000, the latter $50,000, toward it. Within the past few months he has gone at his own charges to several cities to speak at Christian gatherings. Possibly he is still hardly over the threshold of the Christian life—and after all a rich man weighs no heavier than a poor man in the scales of God—but his case is, nevertheless, a significant indication of the soul hunger of men in high station and of the satisfying power of the gospel. His venerable figure, his manifest sincerity, and his eminence in business have all united to give his words weight.

"Among students there is a large demand for Bibles. Last year students of the First Government College bought 1,800 portions and the students in the College of Technology bought 600. In the Tokyo Normal College a Christian professor was asked to give 30 lectures on Christianity.

"Another element of promise is the three-year nation-wide evangelistic campaign which has been entered into by representatives of almost all the churches and missions. It grew out of the continuation committee conference under Dr. Mott in 1913. For the first time in the history of the Japanese church the leadership in such a campaign is frankly in the hands of the Japanese, and it is inspiring to see the ability and enthusiasm with which they have set about the work.

"Count Okuma, the new Premier, makes no pretensions to being a religious man, but he does not hesitate to show his sympathy with such embodiments of the Christian spirit as the Young Men's Christian Association, and his rise to power has given fresh impetus to every uplifting enterprise. On the occasion of the 35th anniversary of Tokyo Young Men's Christian Association last June he sent a message saying, among other things: 'This occasion of the 70th anniversary of the World's Young Men's Christian Association and the 5th anniversary of the Tokyo association reminds me of the very great achievements accomplished by this organization for the young men and other classes in Japan; and it behooves me to express my profoundest joy and my gratitude. I hope your organization will thrive more and more.'

Japanese Abroad No Longer Neglected

"There has long been successful Association work among the Japanese businessmen in Shanghai, supported entirely by Japanese residents, and cordially aided by Secretary Lockwood. But equally important colonies of Japanese in San Francisco, Chicago, Los Angeles and Honolulu have until recently been overlooked by the association, and the various church 'missions' are the first to recognize the need of just what a full-fledged association can supply. However, I am glad to say that soon Chicago association will adopt the Japanese institute, conducted for some years with rare devotion by Rev. M. Shimazu as a regular department of Chicago Metropolitan Association. Honolulu did the same two years ago, and has recently secured larger quarters. During my furlough last winter the secretaries in Los Angeles and San Francisco told me it was only a matter of time when they would follow suit."

THIRTY DAYS OF HAWAIIAN HISTORY, AS TOLD BY SANFORD B. DOLE

Stirring Days of 1873 And Lunalilo's Election

FROM RECOLLECTIONS OF AN ACTIVE LIFE IN HAWAII'S PUBLIC AFFAIRS HE DRAWS A VIVID CHAPTER—PAPER READ BEFORE HISTORICAL SOCIETY IS FULL OF INTEREST

[Note.—Of more than usual interest is the following paper read before the Hawaiian Historical Society on January 11, 1915, by Judge Sanford B. Dole. It is published in two installments, of which this is the first.]

By SANFORD B. DOLE, ex-President of the Republic of Hawaii.

History derives less interest from the magnitude of its events than from the principles involved therein, less from the number of its hosts than the causes and character of their movements. The uprising of a small people may be as inspiring as the uprising of a great nation.

To the lover of liberal institutions the accession of King Lunalilo to the Hawaiian throne was full of propitious omen. A step toward popular government even in a comparatively insignificant state, belongs to the world and is part of the universal progress. To Hawaiians it will ever be an era of great political moment. It was a serious crisis in affairs and fortunately terminated favorably for Hawaiian citizenship.

A brief review of a few of the most important circumstances in Hawaiian history will assist to a better understanding of the interesting events connected with the election and installation of King Lunalilo in January, 1873. The Hawaiians had rapidly advanced from the time of their discovery by Captain Cook, to the liberal constitutional monarchy of the reign of Kamehameha III. The common people had passed in a single generation from the condition of serfs, retainers and tenants, to that of citizens and landholders, with personal freedom and a voice in the government. Upon the death of Kamehameha IV his brother Prince Lot proclaimed himself king and took the government in his own hands. Then, calling a convention of the people to amend the constitution, which he found inconsistent with his own ideas of government, he addressed them in a dignified and liberal speech in which he made use of the following language:

"It has been the traditional policy of my predecessors to whom the king then is indebted for liberal reforms that have been made, to lead the nation forward and to watch over its welfare. My subjects will find in me as they did in them, a jealous guardian of their liberties and an earnest promoter of all measures calculated to increase their happiness and to check the evils that tend to their destruction."

Five weeks later after much parliamentary sparring, the king, being unable to find a property qualification for the voting privilege which was a favorite measure with him, abruptly broke up the convention and in the following words fell back upon his last resort against the liberal institutions of the country:

"As we do not agree, it is useless to prolong the session, and as at the time His Majesty Kamehameha III gave the constitution of the year 1852, he reserved to himself the power of taking it away if it was not for the interest of the government and people, and as it is clear to me that King Lot left the revision of the constitution to my predecessor and myself, therefore as I sit in his seat, on the part of the sovereignty of the Hawaiian Islands I make known today that the constitution of 1852 is abrogated. I will give you a constitution."

He kept his promise. In a few days he gave his subjects a constitution proclaimed through the streets of the capital at the head of an armed force. The new constitution fixed a property condition of suffrage, merged the two houses of the legislature into one, and introduced several other features of liberalism into the government. The people submitted not without protest to this high handed act. The king ruled with a strong hand. He gathered around him violent and resolute counsellors. He easily controlled the new-born legislature. Nine years passed away. Years of political repression and growing alienation between king and people. A period not devoid of commercial prosperity but yet attended with alarming national decay. Nine years, and then the end came.

The King's Birthday.
Wednesday, the 11th of December, 1872, like most tropical days rose bright and warm on Honolulu, the capital. It was the birthday of Kamehameha V, the king, and preparations for his customary observance as a national holiday were in full progress in the early morning. Flags fluttered from the government buildings and private houses and shipping in the harbor. Business houses and shops were closed, and working men of all classes rested from labor. Parties of townspeople were starting out into the country to enjoy the holiday in rural festivities, while a scattered army of natives on their half-trained horses, followed like a flock over the various roads from all parts of the island, men, women and children, and even the horses crowded and garlanded with flowing wreaths of the fragrant mahu, all eager to join in whatever of merry-making or excitement the day had to offer.

In the meantime while these signs of festival and pleasure were thus manifestly progressing, a scene of quite a different character was taking place in the Palace of Iolani. Before the principal government officers and the most intimate friends of the king had been hastily sent for as he had been failing rapidly through the night and had at length gone into a state of stupor. Shortly after sunrise his consciousness returned and those around him took immediate measures to have a will drawn up for him to execute. After some general conversation in regard to the succession, in which no positive conclusions were reached, and a few allusions to the distribution of certain items of his personal property, the governor of Oahu taking down in writing his words, he told his friends that he was not as sick as they thought he was, and that they all had better have breakfast before going on with the will. Some of the company then left the room, and the king with assistance got up and walked around a little and ate a small quantity of food; then reclining again on his couch, in a few minutes without sign of approaching dissolution, he suddenly and quietly expired, at 20 minutes after 10 o'clock.

The public was aware that the king had been seriously ill for many months in spite of the administration of the part of the administration of the fact and the repeated statements of the Government Gazette that his majesty was in "excellent health," but to the nature of his malady or the severity of his illness he had to content themselves with the vague and most indefinite rumors. Still the fact of the king's absence during the preceding two or three months from the public drives and all state occasions left them not wholly unprepared for the report which was made through the town about breakfast time, that the king was dying. Here and there in the yet quiet streets knots of people gathered and anxiously discussed the event with its possibilities. At about 9 o'clock in the forenoon the king's chamberlain passed through the business portion of the place and told people that his majesty was better, and was eating his breakfast. This news greatly relieved the prevailing anxiety and changed the gloomy brooding over the community to the more lively and noisy scenes belonging to the anniversary of a king's birthday. But before half-past 10 o'clock, the guns of Puuwaia battery above the town, which had been loaded to give at noon the royal salute, began to thunder forth in mournful minute guns, the announcement that he whose birth the people were then commemorating, was dead; national festivities scattered over many a league were checked and hushed with the ominous warning and the echoes of the death peal reverberating among the cliffs and crags of the mountain bore to the distant parts of the island a vague hint of the brooding of a public crisis.

The deep feeling caused by the event of the king's decease was rather alarm at the situation and its possibilities than regret for the dead. No royal testament had been signed. No successor to the throne had been appointed and proclaimed; the king left no nearer kin than Ruth Keelikouani, governess of the island of Hawaii, his half-sister and not in the line of royal descent. It was a crisis without precedent in the history of the nation; it was impossible to divine the temper of the people or guess at the line of action which different claimants to the throne might adopt.

As the country revellers of the morning straggled homeward in the evening now mourners perchance, and some of them true to the ancient customs which made the days of mourning days also of absolute license, badly intoxicated, and spurring their jaded steeds up hill and down at a reckless speed, hugging their unfinished gin bottles with affectionate fondness as they rode, singing, shouting and swearing, would reply, if questioned as to their views on the succession, with an air of surprise at the question, that as a matter of course Lunalilo would be the new king.

On the next day the dead king lay in state in the throne room of the palace while his ministers, his staff and the chiefs of the realm kept watch over him, and somber rabble waving at his head bent a sad and silent good-march for the crowds of people, subjects and aliens, who continuously filed through the apartment for a curious, fawell glance on the last of the Kamehamehas.

The Succession to the Throne.
On the day after the king's death his cabinet ministers issued an order, calling a meeting of the legislature for the 8th of January for the purpose of electing a new king.

The possible candidates for the office were Prince William Charles Lunalilo, Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop, Queen Dowager Emma and Colonel Kalakaua. Of these, Prince Lunalilo held the highest rank and influence, his countrymen generally according him the position of highest chief by blood in the kingdom. He was about 35 years old, had never married, and was an educated, and accomplished gentleman. During the late reign he had been unpopular with the administration, having been studiously slighted by the king and deprived of all honor, emolument or participation in the government. His only official position remaining was the hereditary one of noble, which gave him a seat in the upper side of the legislature and which the government was powerless to affect. Mrs. Bishop was one of the highest of the chiefs of the kingdom. She was the wife of Mr.

Judge Sanford Ballard Dole, ex-president of the republic of Hawaii, former governor of the territory. From a painting.

Charles R. Bishop, an American living in Honolulu, and enjoyed a wide popularity among the people.

Queen Emma, well known throughout the civilized world, was popular among the Hawaiians.

Col. Kalakaua belonged to a family of rank and distinction among the chiefs of the kingdom. He was a man of education, and industrious habits and during the late reign held some civil position under the government and had a commission in the Hawaiian army as a colonel.

During the first few days after the king's death there were many indefinite rumors afloat in regard to these different individuals, about what they said; what others said about them; what they wanted and hoped for and what they did not want and hope for. Naturally also they became the subjects of much criticism. Their lives were reviewed, their characters were weighed and compared, and their respective capacity for guiding the ship of state, discussed in all the possible relations of such questions. In all this agitation Prince Lunalilo appeared to hold the first place in the popular heart. A large mass meeting which was held at the Kaunakapili church in Honolulu for the stated purpose of passing resolutions of condolence to the sister of the deceased king, after having performed that pious duty, proceeded at once to what was evidently the real object of the meeting, and passed a resolution amid general applause nominating the prince as the successor to the throne. In other parts of the islands also many impromptu meetings were held and generally with the same result. No immediate step was taken by any of the candidates and the days succeeding the royal demise passed anxiously. There was no precedent in Hawaiian history for such an emergency, and many were under the excitement of opposing parties of people, who looked to the capital, lawlessness might arise and act of violence be perpetrated, and the more especially as in old times the death of a ruling chief was the signal for a carnival of unrestrained license of every kind; but the only instances of any remnant of this custom were the nightly mourning orgies in the palace grounds, and a feeble mutiny in the national prison at Honolulu on the day of the king's death. On this occasion, some of the prisoners rose on the jailer and attempted to escape, arguing that with the king's death, law had ceased to exist, and logically concluding by virtue thereof that punishment also properly came to an end.

Business went on through these days apparently as usual. The courts of justice remained open and transacted their special duties; criminal cases were prosecuted in the name of the king the same as while he was living. Still, though there was no standstill in affairs, the shadow of a great crisis rested on the land. Vague, indefinite and unknown, all men felt its gloom and looked anxiously forward to the end. Trade dropped under it and heavily and silently dragged its task through the hours of each slow passing day. A hush of waiting for some uncomprehended solution muffled the din of traffic and forbade the merry music of festive reunions. Every evening from 7 o'clock till midnight the spacious palace grounds were open to the natives who thronged thither in crowds to offer their tribute of mourning for the dead king, who lay in his coffin in the throne room of the palace, guarded by detachments of the royal troops. Nightly till the funeral the sound of these lamentations rose on the air in every variety of requiem from civilized psalm-tune chorals and sad plaintive melodies of their own composition, to the regular heiau and hopelessly despairing wails of the olden time, with their accompaniment of hula drums, gourd, and bamboo timebeaters and weird gesticulations.

Lunalilo's Manifesto.
Matters continued in this unsatisfactory condition until the morning of the 17th of December, six days after the death of Kamehameha, when a manifesto was issued by Prince Lunalilo and scattered with the assistance of the press to the uttermost parts of the kingdom. In the following terms this chief submitted to the people his claims to the throne and promising certain liberal measures, asked for their vote:

"To the Hawaiian Nation!
"William C. Lunalilo, son of Kekaulohi, the daughter of Kamehameha I., to the Hawaiian people, greeting:

"Whereas, the throne of the kingdom has become vacant by the demise of His Majesty Kamehameha V, on the 11th of December, 1872, without a successor appointed or proclaimed; and

"Whereas, it is desirable that the wishes of the Hawaiian people be consulted as to a successor to the throne; therefore,

"Notwithstanding that according to the law of inheritance, I am the rightful heir to the throne, in order to preserve peace, harmony and good order, I desire to submit the decision of my claim to the voice of the people to be freely and fairly expressed by a plebiscite. The only pledge that I deem it necessary to offer to the people is that I will restore the constitution of Kamehameha III of happy memory, with only such changes as may be required to adapt it to present laws, and that I will govern the nation according to the principles of that constitution and a liberal constitutional monarchy, which, while it preserves the proper prerogatives of the crown, shall fully maintain the rights and liberties of the people.

"To the end proposed, I recommend the judges of the different election districts throughout the islands (thereby appealing to their ancient allegiance) to the family of the Kamehamehas, to give notice that a poll will be opened on Wednesday, the 1st day of January, A. D. 1873, at which all male subjects of the kingdom may by their vote peacefully and orderly express their free choice for a king of the Hawaiian Islands as successor of Kamehameha V. And that the said officers of the several election districts, do, on a count of the vote, make immediate certified return of the same to the legislative assembly summoned to meet at Honolulu on the 8th day of January, 1873. That if any officer or officers of any election district shall refuse to act in accordance herewith, or if there shall be a vacancy in said offices in any district, the people may choose others in their places who may proceed in conformity to law in conducting the election.

"Given under my hand this 16th day of December, 1872.
"God protect Hawaii and her people."

An appeal so moderate, just and democratic could hardly fall of being well received; and under the circumstances of Lunalilo's existing popularity and the prevailing anxiety for definite measures, no other step could have been taken with so favorable an effect upon his fortunes.

The independent press warmly espoused his cause, and numbers of influential people committed themselves positively in his favor. The news of the reception of the manifesto on the other islands showed a similar enthusiasm for the prince in every part of the group, and it began to be a settled thing in the minds of men that he was the unanimous choice of the nation. Still, however, some anxiety was felt as to the possible action of the legislature in the matter, lest they might be influenced by other candidates to ignore the wishes of the people. As yet no open opposition was made to the popular feeling by his rivals, though some of them had their adherents, who did not hesitate to support them as opportunity offered.

During all this agitation Prince Lunalilo kept himself closely at home, where he freely received those who, now that his star was rising, hastened in no inconsiderable numbers to pay their respects, to tender advice, and to ask favors of him who had till lately lived in comparative obscurity and neglect. With much patience and good nature, he would listen to his new friends and when they were ready to go would personally bow them out with that unfeeling courtesy which was a prominent trait of his character.

Electioneering—Mass Meeting.
A few days after the appearance of the manifesto, a paper printed at the government press for parties who were anonymous, was distributed secretly by night through the streets of Honolulu, of which the following is a translation:

"THIS IS THE TRUTH!
"On the 16th day of the present December, a proclamation was issued in this city, commencing as follows: 'I, Wm. C. Lunalilo, the son of Kekaulohi, the daughter of Kamehameha I., to the Hawaiian nation, greeting:'

"Let the genealogists see, and they testify this: Kekaulohi was not a daughter of Kamehameha I. as asserted in the publication. But her line lived with Kahaloheimala and Kakauihoi was born thence; and Kekaulohi lived with Charles Kanina and thence was born the Chief Wm. C. Lunalilo.

"On the other side this is the real truth: Kamehameha I (after the birth of Kekaulohi) lived with Kahaloheimala and thence was born Kakauihoi. Kinahu lived with M. Kekuanohi, and thence was born the two kings now deceased. But in regard to the relationship of Kamehameha I to Kakauihoi, it is as follows: Keona lived with Kekaulohi; thence was born Kamehameha I afterwards Keona lived with Kamehameha I, and thence was born Kakauihoi. This also is the truth: Kamehameha I lived with Kakauihoi; thence was born Kakauihoi, a male, the first born of Kamehameha I. Kakauihoi lived with Keona, a female, and thence was born Pauahi, which female chief lived with M. Kekuanohi, thence was born the sister of the late king, Ruth Keelikouani. Kakauihoi further lived with Luahine, thence was born Kalani Pauahi.

"Oh, people, you here have the truth and the relationship of these chief families to Kamehameha.

"By the Skillful Genealogists.
"N. B.—By the foregoing genealogical accounts it will appear that the Chief Wm. C. Lunalilo is not a descendant of Kamehameha I."

No satisfactory conclusion can be made from the genealogical authorities of the Hawaiians. Jarves makes Lunalilo the grandson of Kalana, the brother of Keao, an ancient king of Kaula, and Dibble makes Keao the uncle of Kamehameha I, and he and the "skillful genealogists" agree in making Lunalilo the grandson of Kamehameha, who was the son of Keona and half-brother to Kamehameha I.

Whatever of the truth or probability the foregoing publication may have, it was regarded by the people as a mean attack upon their favorite; and the secret manner of its distribution with its anonymous character added to this feeling. This evidence of opposition unknown in strength and working in secret had

WANT A WAR MAP?

A limited number of war maps of Europe have been secured by the Star-Bulletin, and are offered to patrons of this paper at the very reasonable price of 15 cents, the order to be accompanied by three coupons clipped from this paper. The coupons are published in another column. This map takes in all of Europe and enables the reader to follow the activities of all the European warring nations. Remember that the supply is limited.
