AN OPEN LETTER

Mr. T. H. Davies Makes Proposal
To the New Jersey Legislature.

GIVE UP ALL O. D. OF MONARCHY

And Abolish Royalty. Proprietors Will Work No More.

For Americanization.

The following is a letter addressed to Senator E. A. Allen, of New Jersey, which is being circulated among the House of Representatives and other bodies of the state:

TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW JERSEY:

When we first entered upon the life of the state, we found it in a condition of filthy neglect and want. The people were poor and the government was corrupt.

Now, when we leave, we find the state in a condition of great comfort and prosperity. The government is honest and the people are contented.

We ask you to consider this, and to make a proper estimate of the public benefit which we have derived from our labors.

We ask you to consider this, and to make a proper estimate of the public benefit which we have derived from our labors.

SOCIETY.

Thursday, January 31, Senate Waterhouse reported from the Finance Committee the following appropriation bill, amounting to the same total as the last year. The report was presented by Senator Cooper, who said:

"In the case of Senator Waterhouse, the Senate has proceeded to consider the proposition made by the Minister of Finance. Senator Waterhouse denounced the proposition as a "waste of money," and said he had been instructed by the Senate to propose an additional appropriation. The Senator then proceeded to read the Senate resolution of the 10th ultimo, which was read by Senator

Waterhouse at the beginning of the session.

The special resolution contained the following:

"That this Senate does, in consideration of the increase of the population of the Hawaiian islands, will be increased by the admission of a new member to the Senate, and that the Senate shall consider the proposition."

The Senate voted favorably on the resolution, and the bill was passed by the Senate.

OPINION BILL AGAIN

Senator Brown introduced Same Act As at Last Session.

A DISCUSSION OF ITS MERITS

Senator Brown's Motion was rejected.

Mr. L.... tors, the motion to refer the bill to the Finance Committee, which had been made by the Senate, was sustained. The Senate then adjourned.

The following day, Senator Brown, in a letter to the editor, said he was glad to see the bill referred to the Finance Committee. He believed that the majority of the people of the country were favorably disposed to the measure, and he was confident that it would be passed. He urged his colleagues to vote for the motion to refer the bill to the Finance Committee.

The Senate then adjourned, and the bill was referred to the Finance Committee, which reported favorably on it. The bill was then passed by the Senate and sent to the House of Representatives.

The House of Representatives, after a thorough discussion, passed the bill, which was then sent to the Governor for his approval.

The Governor, after careful consideration, signed the bill into law, and it became effective on the first day of January next.

The bill provided for the following:

1. The establishment of a comprehensive system of the internal revenue of the country, to be administered by a Board of Directors, who shall be appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

2. A complete system of licenses and permits, to be issued by the Board of Directors, for the sale of all articles of commerce, including those of Chinese origin.

3. A thorough and complete system of inspection and examination of all goods imported into the country.

4. An increased scale of duties and taxes, to be levied on all goods imported into the country, and on all articles manufactured within the country.

5. A thorough and complete system of police and public order, to be maintained by the Board of Directors, in order to prevent all forms of theft and crime.

The bill was enthusiastically passed by both houses of Congress, and it was signed by the President of the United States, and became law on the first day of January next.

The bill was hailed by all classes of the community as a great and necessary reform, and it was hailed as a great step forward in the matter of internal revenue, which had long been a subject of great discussion and dispute.

The bill was well received by all parts of the country, and it was hailed as a great step forward in the matter of internal revenue, which had long been a subject of great discussion and dispute.

EFFECTS OF TURKISH MASSACRES

A Nation of Women and Orphans, But for How Long, Asks Mrs. Shepard... Also Other Appeal to Christians.

Mrs. A. P. Shepard has just mailed to this paper a long letter, in which she acquaints Miss Shepard with the recent massacres occurring among Armenians, and appeals to her for the assistance of the Armenian Missionary Society. In this letter, Mrs. A. P. Shepard, Andrew Shepard, and Mrs. Shepard have already seen, between 1800 and 25,000 of the 900 women and children murdered by the Turks, but a special appeal is made for the women and children of the village of Adana, where Mrs. Shepard has been working for many years. The mission of the American Missionary Society is to serve the needs of the woman and child in Armenia, and to help the women and children of the village of Adana, who are being swept away by the土耳其 massacres. This letter is an appeal to Mrs. Shepard for the assistance of the Armenian Missionary Society, and to help the women and children of the village of Adana, who are being swept away by the Turkish massacres. WAYS FOR YACHTS

Pet Plan of Owners of Pleasure Sail Boats.

March 1, 1885.

Sailor and Play Boats.

In the busy life of the sailor and play boats, there are several important matters that need to be considered. One of these matters is the maintenance and repair of the boats. The boats must be kept in good condition to ensure their safe and efficient operation. Another important matter is the safety of the crew. The crew must be trained and equipped with the necessary tools and equipment to handle any emergency that may arise. Additionally, the boats should be used in a responsible manner, ensuring that they do not cause harm to the environment or to other boats and vessels.

At the same time, the boat owners should be mindful of the economic implications of their decisions. The costs of maintenance and repair, as well as the expenses associated with crew training and safety equipment, can be substantial. Therefore, the owners should carefully consider the cost-benefit analysis of their decisions, ensuring that they are making the most cost-effective choices.

In conclusion, the efficient operation of sailboats requires a comprehensive approach that considers both the technical and economic aspects. By taking into account the maintenance and repair needs, crew safety, and economic implications, the owners can ensure that their boats are safe, efficient, and cost-effective.

YEARS OF MISERY

ACRIMED BY AN ATTACK ON ACTUB.

The Hellbent System Atrocities - A Chronicle of the War - An American City in Ruins.

From the Drainage Sump.

The War in the United States of America (communist nation) now appears to be drawing to a close. In the previous dispatches, the leaders of the communist nation were reported to be preparing to launch a major offensive. However, it seems that the plans have been cancelled, and the communist nation is now preparing to negotiate a peace settlement.

This news has come as a shock to the people of the United States of America, who have been living in fear of a communist offensive for many years. The war has caused great suffering and loss, and many people have been praying for an end to the conflict.

The leaders of the communist nation have been under pressure to negotiate a peace settlement, and it seems that they have finally been forced to accept the situation. The United States of America is now preparing to negotiate with the communist nation, and it is hoped that a peaceful resolution to the conflict can be achieved.
