CHESS AND SUPPER TOGETHER.

Playing a Game Without the Board—Not Exhausting to the Memory.

At supper after the ninth game between Steinitz and Zukertort was over, both talking and unconscious exhibition of chess without the chess board. Zukertort was attending to the wing of a duck, but his defeat was evidently still ranking in his mind. "Steinitz," he said, "what would you have done if I had played rook takes bishop's pawn?"

"Pawn takes rook," replied Steinitz, digging out a bone bouche from the duck's breast.

"Queen to knight's sixth, check," said Zukertort, reaching for his glass of beer.

"King to bishop's square—please pass the bread," replied Steinitz.

"Queen takes pawn, rook's sixth, check; no, thanks, no sugar."

"King to bishop's second; what is in that dish, potatoes?"

And so it went on; both gentlemen carrying on the business of the table and each with a vivid chess-board pictured mentally before him. They played this variation out to the end of it, and then took up another and another, evidently able to call up a photograph of the game at any stage at will.

"How do you do it, doctor?" queried a reporter.

"I can't explain it," he said. "I see the board and the pieces just as clearly as though they were before me."

"Doesn't that require a tremendous exertion of the memory?"

"No. Of course everybody can do it, but it is not hard to do if you go at it right."

"Isn't the effort exhausting?"

"Not at all. I would much sooner play ten games blindfolded simultaneously than one match game."

"How many games can you play blindfolded simultaneously?"

"I have played sixteen. There is no mental limit, however, to the amount of that sort of thing that one can do. Of course some do not push it as far as others."—St. Louis Republic.

Professor Sophocles, of Harvard College.

The old Greek was catechizing his class one day on the ancient history of his native country. "When did Theophilus live?" he asked of one sophomore. "Before Christ," "Wrong!" shouted the professor. And then addressing the next sophomore: "When did Theophilus live?" "After Christ," "Wrong!" shouted the professor again. And then he repeated the question to a third student: "When did Theophilus live?" "Neither before nor after Christ," "You are right, young man!" said the professor. "There never was any such man as Theophilus." It was one of the little historical traps that Sophocles liked to set for the budding wisdom of Harvard.—Boston Harvard.

Cheapest Place in the World.

The cheapest of all civilized or half-civilized countries of the present world is probably the Persian part of Armenia. The traveler Vamberger states that in the mountain districts of that frugal territory half a florin (about 35 cents) would be considered fair monthly wages for a hard-working man, and that the mitegold, or hard-money, paid to the parents of a shepherd boy varies from 60 to 75 cents a year. Yet even at those modest rates few applicants can obtain employment, and the highways swarm with beggarly youngsters, ready to follow a bread-giver to the end of the world.—Dr. Felix L. Oswald.

A Prize of a Thousand Ducats.

The Vienna Gazette announces that a prize of 1,000 ducats is offered by the owners of the Ostran coal mines for the best methods of depriving of danger the necessary work of blasting in pits subject to fire-damp, or of a method of dispensing altogether with the use of gunpowder or dynamite in such operations. Inventors are to address their communications to the director of mines in Vienna, and the latest date for sending in solutions of the problem is the close of the year 1886. Kansas City Journal.

Patti Is To Be a Princess.

Mme. Adeline Patti will be a princess after her marriage with M. Nicolini, according to the Paris Gaulois, which declares it has its information from the most authoritative source. Nicolini is to be created a prince by a foreign chancery. The honor has been obtained by the diva herself, who, being a marchioness by first marriage, wishes to become a princess on the occasion of her second.—Inter Ocean.

Tobacco and British Cabinet Officers.

Most of the British cabinet were smokers, and some, like Sir Hicks Beach, Lord Randolph Churchill, and Sir Richard Cross, strong smokers. Lord Carnarvon, too, was as good a judge of a prime cigar as even Lord Derby, who blows $1 into thin air every time he lights a weed. The present ministers, including the premier, are mostly non-smokers.—Chicago Times.

The Language of Sealing-Wax.

The language of sealing-wax promises to supplant that of flowers. Red wax must be used for business only, black wax for mourning, and blue to signify love. Five tints of blue are made, to express all the gradations of passion. Pink wax is for congratulations, and white is for wedding and ball invitations.—Chicago Times.

As Charged by the Paris Papers.

Parisian papers stick to their assertion that numbers of French soldiers, guilty of some breach of prison discipline, are still lingering in Prussian dungeons. To all inquiries on the subject, they say, the Prussian government has thus far returned only evasive answers.—Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Profits of a Diastabulation.

It is calculated that the disestablishment of the Church of England would set free funds equal to $917,500,000, of which, after the payment of all claims by the clergy for compensation and similar demands, there would remain a net gain of $500,000,000.—Chicago Herald.

What Ruskin Says of Education.

Mr. Ruskin, in a recent letter, declares that the scientific education of to-day teaches that "honor is folly, ambition a virtue, clarity a vice, poverty a crime, and rascality the means of all wealth and the sum of all wisdom."

THE NEWS.

By the arrival of the brigantine Consuelo, fifteen days from San Francisco, we have dates to the 2nd inst., five days later than brought by the last steamer. It happens that the latest date brings news of an appalling calamity that has involved the city of Charleston, South Carolina, in almost hopeless destruction. And the very latest despatch from the ruined city announces a heavy shock of earthquake at the moment of its transmission. It can only be hoped that with that shock the titanic forces under the foundations of the city retired from the terrific siege. Our readers are given a connected account of the terrible catastrophe. The papers mention the shock as being felt as far north as Chicago. In Europe a political earthquake is represented as impending. Space only permits the very latest details; but previous accounts are largely speculative anyway, although pretty generally agreed that the greatest war of the century is at hand. England and Russia are expected to lead two vast opposing combinations. English politics have assumed a new phase, in Mr. Gladstone's announcement of the total and final severance of land purchase from the home rule scheme. This makes the landlords take their chances with everybody else under home rule and brings the Radical seceders back to the Liberal fold.

A LITTLE OFF.

In yesterday's issue we did injustice to Mr. Creighton's action, if not to his intentions, on the currency bill. It appears that before the discussion referred to was adjourned, His Excellency accepted an amendment by Mr. Bishop, which restored the provisions attempted to be struck out.

Nearly as Bad.

He was making his first call, and all the formalities of the season were in full blast. She toyed with her fan as she conversed about the gayeties of the winter time. Leisurely strolling into the elegant drawing room came the family dog, a large and intelligent type of the Newfoundland breed. It was a warm evening and the dog came in with his mouth open and his tongue protruding from his mouth. He made directly for the hostess, who manifested great uneasiness at the first sight of the unexpected animal. As he came nearer the young woman dropped her fan mounted first the heavy upholstered chair and then the center table.

Seeing the unusual performance the young man followed suit and was soon on top of the marble mantelpiece, to which place of safety he invited his hostess. Meanwhile the dog, the cause of the commotion, crawled under the sofa, preparing himself to take a nap.

"When was he taken?" asked the young man, as he balanced himself amid the mantel ornaments.

"Oh, he's been that way all summer," replied the young woman.

"It's strange he doesn't bite us, isn't it?" continued the young man.

"Oh, he wouldn't bite anybody," remarked the young hostess.

"Why, hasn't he got the hydrophobia?"

"No," replied she, "he's got fleas, and that's pretty bad."—St. Paul Globe.

A man who is one of the leading and wealthy merchants and lumbermen of Bangor, arrived in that city from Germany twenty years ago with less than $2 in his pocket.

Carp is used by Hartford, Conn., to keep the city reservoirs clean. The fish have completely cleaned one reservoir of vegetable growth, and are now at work upon a second.

Certain excavations recently made in Nevada revealed in the sandstone the distinct impress of a woman's foot nineteen inches long, left there ages and ages ago. And yet they have been playing Chicago off on us as a modern city.

A minister entered his horse for the races at the Oheka county fair, New York, and not only entered it, but drove. When one of the other drivers ran his horse and passed him on the backstretch, the parson went into the judges' stand and made as grand a "kick" as any old driver. Another man who drove in one of the other races was a Methodist, and when the other drivers tried to crowd him to the fence he made their spokes rattle, and one of them got his wheel "dished."

ARCTIC NEWS.
Good Catches—A Volcanic Eruption.
The steam schooner Dolphin arrived at Victoria, B. C., August 29th, from Behring's Sea, bringing over 2,000 seal-skins. The season had been very favorable, the weather being clear and calm, with much less fog than usually prevails in those northern latitudes. The schooner Alfred Adams brought 2,000 skins. She reported a submarine volcanic eruption in Behring's Sea on the 7th of August, when the deck was covered with ashes for several hours. She had spoken the schooners Silva Hardy, Teresa, Adele and Black Diamond, between the 6th and 23rd July. On July 29th the steamer Orca was spoken and reported her catch to be five whales in five days. August 3rd the whaling bark Ida T. Harriman was spoken, all well, with one sperm and two right whales.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.
A report of the select committee on the brewery license bill was presented by Mr. Dole, submitting a substitute bill, but it was tabled to await the Hawaiian version. The currency bill was next taken up, and after some discussion referred to a select committee, consisting of Messrs. Bishop, Creighton, Castle, Dole and Aholo. Consideration of the electric light bills was opened by a motion of Mr. Brown for indefinite postponement. His reasons were that there was a contract in existence for lighting the city, and that the electric light being in its infancy it would be unwise to adopt it now, especially at an expense much greater than the cost of the present light. His motion was defeated, and a motion by Mr. K. Unaniano carried, to consider Mr. Berger's bill section by section. After an animated discussion, further consideration was postponed until the Minister of the Interior submits information to the house relative to the alleged existing contract, and he was given till Monday next for that purpose. The bill in amendment of the gambling act was passed on second reading, after a warm discussion, resulting in several amendments to the bill. This completed the hundred and fourth day's business.

Yachting Hospitality.
Captain Phelps, of the American yacht "Brunhilde," assisted by Mr. Hillard, entertained a party of ladies and gentlemen on board yesterday afternoon. The party consisted of His Excellency G. W. Merrill, U. S. Minister Resident, and Mrs. Merrill; Col. Chas. T. Gulick and Mrs. Gulick; Mr. R. W. Laine, Consul for Mexico, and Mrs. Laine; Mr. J. O. Carter, Mrs. and the Misses Carter; the Misses Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Jones, Messrs. J. Brewer, Morse, Hastings and others. All were loud in their praise of the cleanliness and beauty of the yacht. The ladies were delighted with the cosy rooms, the clean and well-appointed pantry and kitchen; while the gentlemen compared notes on the build and rig of the vessel, summing up their conclusions with, "He's a jolly good fellow, knows how to enjoy life; and hope he may live long to enjoy it." A bountiful lunch was provided, of which all partook, with a cup of choice tea. At about five o'clock the guests took leave of their kind hosts, wishing them, "Aloha nui!"

Police Court.
Thos. Muldoon, having taken too much liquor for the good of his "solid" manhood, did not come back for his deposit of $6, which accordingly became forfeit to the Crown. Milimili acknowledged the corn and became debtor in the same amount. Pa and More were not more apparently than really guilty of affray, and their combat netted the treasury $12. Peaha went into servitude 48 hours for disorderly conduct. Three Chinamen were given an extension of time to defend themselves against a charge of assault and battery. The five Chinese corraled with opium at Cape Horn were granted a similar privilege, and a sixth was dropped by the prosecution.

Litigation.
On the civil side of the Police Court, Thursday, an action of trover begun on February 15th last by Dr. John Brodie against Jas. Holt, Jr., was decided for the plaintiff, judgment being given for $68.05 inclusive of costs. A. C. Smith for the plaintiff; Kinney & Peterson for the defendant. The latter noted an appeal to the Intermediary Court. Nakea confessed judgment, in assumption action by Kekane, for $18, costs making the total $55.80. Several cases were discontinued and continued.

"What would you do if you were I and I were you?" tenderly inquired a young swell of his lady friend, as he escorted her home from church. "Well," said she, "if I were you I would throw away that vile cigarette, cut up my cane for firewood, wear my watch chain under my coat, and stay at home at nights and pray for brains."
An explosion occurred in the Fair-lawn colliery, Scranton, Pa., August 30, which resulted in the death of five or six men and the injury of others.

FOREIGN NEWS.
A Terrible Earthquake!
Charleston, S. C., in Ruins—Damage Ten Million Dollars—Great Loss of Life.
A series of earthquake shocks has passed over the city of Charleston, South Carolina, extending from Friday night, August 27th, at one o'clock, till Thursday, September 2nd, the last date to hand. The most severe shocks were during the night of Tuesday, August 31st, and they almost wholly demolished the city.
HOW THE SHOCK OCCURRED.
An account written on the spot says: No event has caused so much consternation and gloom as was created by the thirty seconds of disaster on Tuesday night. The first intimation of approaching danger was given in the atmosphere. It was dense, sultry, and fearfully oppressive, and as the night drew on the atmosphere became damp and difficult to breathe. Suddenly the city was aroused by a low, warning rumble like distant thunder. The sky was not clear, but there was no indication of storm and no apparent occasion for thunder. Few persons understood what the ominous sound portended, but the feeling that it was an omen of some overwhelming disaster was general. There was little time to prepare for what was coming. The growl of the elements had scarcely died away when the earth trembled violently. A momentary pause ensued and then the city rose and fell as if on the crest of a billow. The sound which accompanied the wave was terrible. It was a frightful, half-smothered roar. It seemed as if only the merest crust of earth, and that in imminent danger of giving way, separated the city from pandemonium.

THE CULMINATION.
People rushed from their houses into the street only to witness the culmination of the horrible work. Telegraph poles lay prostrate on the ground or leaned on the frail support of wrecked buildings, while their labyrinth of wires so obstructed the streets as to make travel through them almost impossible. Almost every building in Meeting and Broad streets, the two principal thoroughfares of the city, were wrecked to a greater or less extent. Many people escaped from their tumbling homes only to meet death or fearful injury from falling bricks and mortar, whole masses of which plunged down into the streets, adding to the general havoc.
SOME OF THE EFFECTS.
The most serious damage was done to those parts of the city devoted to business, and to costly dwellings. St. Michael's Church, whose famous spire serves as an important landmark for ships entering Charleston harbor, the same spire which was saved from destruction by fire many years ago, by the courageous action of a negro slave, was irreparably wrecked. The City Hall, Hibernia Hall, St. Philip's Church, the main station house, and dwellings by the score, were reduced to ruins. Hundreds of people were made homeless in a single moment, and the loss of life was far greater than that caused by the cyclone a year ago. The latest accounts estimate sixty people as having been killed. Most of those killed were negroes, whose abject and hopeless terror is past description. They thought the end of the world had come, and huddling together made no effort to extricate their buried friends, but sang hymns and offered supplication all night long. No less than five fires broke out in different parts of the city, but the brigade was so well divided that, notwithstanding the encumbered streets, it prevented the destruction of the city by fire.

AFTERCLAPS.
Several minor shocks, were felt during the night, supplementing the effects of the first great assault and adding to the consternation of the people. The second heavy wave swept along at precisely 8:25 on Wednesday morning. It came from south-east just as its more awful predecessor had done, and passed away toward the north-west. The people had ventured back to their dwellings to obtain some food, being wearied and hungry after spending the night trying to rescue the dead and wounded from the ruins. Again they heard the dull rumble beneath them, and felt the sickening tremor of the earth. They poured into the streets to seek open places. The earth quivered and heaved under their feet, and then the motion and sound died away, but not before many other buildings had been shaken to the ground. On Thursday the great majority of houses were uninhabitable, scarcely a hundred buildings in the city being used at all. The people camped out in open places, men, women and children together. At 11:30 p. m., 1st inst., the latest despatch came, saying: Another shock has just occurred, rather more severe than any since last night, knocking down several houses.

VARIOUS DETAILS.
The gasworks were badly injured, leaving the city with insufficient light. An investigation on the 2nd showed that scarcely a house in Charleston had entirely escaped injury. Only one telephone wire was left connected with the outside world, and it was crowded with private messages. But one drug store remained opened, the solitary active business place in the city, and all its clerks were kept busy preparing medicines for the suffering. Many dead people were lying unburied, principally poor negroes. There were not half a dozen tents in the city, and women and children were experiencing great privations in consequence. It was calculated that at least three-fourths of the city would have to be rebuilt entirely if the houses were to be inhabited. All the railroad approaches to the city were wrecked, and it was feared that want of provisions would add to the general woe before the roads were again open. No trains had arrived or departed in twenty-four hours. There was very little shipping in port and none of it was injured. The loss to property would probably amount to eight or ten million dollars.

SHOCKS ELSEWHERE.
A passenger train from Columbia to Charleston was thrown from the track, the engineer and fireman being killed, by the first shock near Summerville, Ga., which town was nearly destroyed. Columbia, S. C., was visited by a terrible earthquake at 9:48 on the night of August 31st. The first two shocks were fearful. Buildings swayed from side to side, and the earth rose and fell like the waves of the ocean. Eleven shocks were felt up to 10:20 next morning. The shock at Langley, S. C., burst the milldams, and some thousand feet of railroad track were destroyed. Shocks were felt with more or less severity at Ravenell, S. C., Augusta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. Where they were heavy the negroes were seized with the belief that the end of the world had come. Their church bells were tolled and thousands of the people congregated, remaining in prayer all night.

UNITED STATES.
Pacific Coast.
Placerville has the electric light.
Wong Tie, a noted Chinese desperado, has been arrested near Tucson, Arizona. He has the reputation of having killed men by the dozen.
It has been learned in San Francisco that the Chinese in Hongkong have been supplied with a large consignment of maps of San Francisco, with a description of the principal features of city written in Chinese. These and pamphlets are studied en route by those who are to be landed by the habeas corpus dredge. It is in this manner that they learn to answer in court part of the questions about that city correctly.
A general strike on the San Francisco waterfront was expected to be ordered. It would involve the seven unions alone, in which there are 7,000 men. In other cities on the Coast the men belonging to the unions affiliated with the Coast Seamen's Union in San Francisco are more anxious to strike than the men in that city. The longshore lumbermen at Eureka had struck, and a similar movement at Tacoma was daily expected.

Surrender of the Apache Chief.
Goronimo, the old Apache chief, with fourteen of his followers, entered Captain Lawton's camp, threw down their arms and asked permission to surrender. Captain Lawton insisted on an unconditional surrender, which was submitted to and the whole band surrendered. General Miles waived any share in the glory of the capture, and directed Captain Lawton to proceed direct to Fort Bowie, report to the Adjutant-General, and receive all the praise due him for his meritorious services. The command was approaching Fort Bowie with the hostiles as prisoners, and orders had been given to shoot any of them attempting to escape. Captain Lawton was worn out with his long and arduous campaign and was almost a skeleton.

Miscellaneous.
Yellow fever has appeared at Biloxi, near New Orleans.
The public debt was reduced a million and a quarter in August.
Five tramps are now believed to be the perpetrators of the Rock Island train robbery last March, when Messenger Nichols was killed and $21,000 stolen from the express car.

EUROPE.
The Irish Question.
Mr. Gladstone has written a pamphlet on Home Rule, in which the policy is clearly indicated of separating the land purchasing scheme entirely from that object. It is said that if he had spoken earlier, his party would not have been divided nor the elections lost. The pamphlet is likely to unite the main sections of the party. Mr. Goldwin Smith has written an able but bitter reply to the pamphlet. The home rule debate on the address was still going on at last date.

The Bulgarian Crisis.
Prince Alexander of Roumania returned to Bulgaria, September 1st. Philippopolis was gaily decorated and crowded with visitors who came to join the citizens in celebrating the event. An enthusiastic popular demonstration was held in front of the British consulate in honor of Alexander, and a counter-demonstration in favor of the revolutionists was at the same time held in front of the Russian consulate. The Prince addressed a submissive telegram to the Czar, assuring the latter of his firm intention to make every sacrifice to forward his majesty's "magnanimous intention to extricate Bulgaria from the grave crisis through which she is passing." He should be happy to give his majesty decided proofs of his unalterable devotion to his august person. The Czar replied, saying he could not approve of the Prince's return to Bulgaria, "foreseeing from it sinister consequences for the country already so severely tried." The Czar concludes: "I shall abstain, so long as your highness remains in Bulgaria, from any intervention. In the sad condition to which the country is reduced your highness must decide your own course. I reserve to myself to judge what my father's venerated memory, the interests of Russia and the peace of the East require of me."

A Paris despatch of the first says: The publication of the correspondence between the Czar and Prince Alexander has created a great sensation in political circles here. The Czar's menacing reply to the Prince's submissive epistle is regarded by diplomats as insuring Alexander's abdication and Russia's occupation of Bulgaria. It is feared that war will ensue, unless Bismarck intercedes.

Sporting.
The three-mile race between Hanlan and Courtney took place at Jamaica Bay, N. Y., September 1, resulting in a decisive victory for Hanlan, who distanced his opponent by seven lengths. William Beach, of Australia, beat John Teemer, of the United States, by six lengths, in the deciding heat of the international sculling sweepstakes, on the 1st. The race was from Putney to Mortlake, at Hammersmith Bridge. At Detroit, on the 1st, the Detroit baseball club beat the New York club by 12 to 5.

THE BARBARISM OF CIVILIZATION.

Crime in Paris—A Thief's Confession—Coddling Criminals—Egoism.

What is to be done with the ever-increasing army of crime and vice which is rendering security in Paris a myth? In the current number of The Nouvelle Revue, the Abbe Moreau, formerly almoner at the prison of La Grande Roquette, has begun to write his souvenirs of the world of prisons, and his conclusions, good Christian as he is, are altogether sad. The abbe's long experience has shown him that crime is rarely an accident in a man's life, but generally a trade or a passion, and that there thousands whose only means of existence is theft, and who consider this means as legitimate as labor.

The abbe quotes an experienced thief who is of a philosophical turn, and who writes: "I do not believe much in the conversion of professional thieves and criminals. A thief will always be a thief and a murderer a murderer, just as a drunkard will always be a drunkard. There are, of course, a few exceptional crimes due to overexcitement and passion. But if I were to give advice to the government, it would be to shoot us or fling us into the sea with a cannon ball tied to our feet, the whole gang of us brothers in crime, who are united by the bond of blood. Repentance or even a change in the manner of life is very rare among us."

The whole of the Abbe's article is full of a spirit of reaction against the modern system of coddling criminals and keeping them comfortably in cellular retreats which are models of ventilation, cleanliness, and hygienic disposition. What will the humanitarians find to say against this profound return to the severity of primitive legislation? A return to barbarism, it will be said. It is precisely this return to barbarism, the outcome of modern civilization, which has made a profound impression on the contemporary French mind, and led to all sorts of manifestations of pessimism, which may be noticed in the literature, the art, and the life of the day.

The tendency of French, and one might say of European civilization generally, seems to be to break all the bonds that formerly held human societies together. The modern man need be neither husband nor father, nor brother, nor friend, he need contract none of those bonds of duty, without which it was impossible to live formerly. We are gradually arriving at a state of individualism and ferocious egoism which allows us to enjoy the advantages of association—not to say of society—without assuming any of its burdens. The bonds of family, of fatherland, of friendship, having lost their strength, men grow disgusted and tired of living in times and in a society where all that makes the charm and interest of life is daily disappearing more and more.—Paris Cor. New York Sun.

An Unvarnished Account of Liberia.

Anderson H. Jones, a colored man who went to Liberia six months ago from Missouri, writes home from Brewerville, a village fifteen miles from Monrovia, giving some account of the country. He says that there are no horses, no mules, and no oxen in the whole settlement. All the farm work is done with the hoe, the rake, and the ax. He says: "I have been all over the settlement, and I found the largest number of people in a suffering condition for something to eat and for clothes to wear. There isn't any doctor in this settlement—the settlement is too poor to support one. Calico is 35 cents per yard. A common laborer, when he can get any work to do, is paid 25 cents per day. Pickled meat is 35 cents per pound; shoulder meat, 35 cents per pound.

"All the flour and meat used here is imported from England and America. Corn meal is 10 cents per quart. Common flour is $15 per barrel. The only slow way the settlers have to make money here is by raising and selling coffee. It will take a newcomer like myself from five to six years to get a coffee farm in trim for selling coffee. The public schools are poor. There is a class of people over here who do not want the true condition of things written back home."—Chicago Herald.

Earl of Surrey as a Rioter.

Appropos of the recent London riots, it may be interesting to recall the fact that the famous earl of Surrey was once accused before the privy council of rioting in London streets and breaking windows with a crossbow. His defense was a singularly ingenious one. "My motive," he said, "was a religious one, though I confess it lies open to misconception. It grieved me, my lords, to see the licentious manners of the citizens of London. Was I to suffer these unhappy men to perish without warning? Common charity forbade. I therefore went at midnight through the streets and shot from my crossbow at their windows, that the stones passing noiseless through the air and breaking in upon their guilty secrecy might remind them of the suddenness of the punishment which the Scriptures tell us divine justice will inflict on impenitent sinners, and so lead them to a reformation of manners."—Chicago Tribune.

The Lesson of the Widow's Mite.

"But one thing that I do know about the average fashionable belle in church," said a Fifth Avenue vestryman with whom I chatted on the subject, "is that she takes too literally the lesson of the widow's mite. She's got the idea into her nobis that the biblical woman's two mites were divinely accounted more than the big contributions of others, and so she coolly bestiality drops 2 cents into the plate when she ought to give $2. I've had years of experience in passing the platter, and I tell you that the richest heiresses rarely put in more than a dime, no matter what the occasion for beneficence."—New York Letter.

Mineral Water for Trotting Horses.

An agent for a mineral water product near here told me recently that two of his most profitable customers were the proprietors of trotting horse. Their valuable animals were given a certain brand of mineral water entirely. They were not allowed to drink anything else. This was for medicinal reasons, also to prevent sickness from change of water while traveling from one circuit to another. He had their route, and knew how much water they would need, so when the horse arrived in another town he would find a barrel or two of his favorite beverage waiting for him.—Chicago News.

The American Girl in Europe.

The Paris Figaro says of the American girl, as seen in Europe, that "she is stylish to the backbone. Independent and devoted to pleasure, frank and open-hearted. She sits all winter, goes out alone, and places boundless confidence in her male friends. Parisian women despise her. Provincial women adore her, but will not marry her unless she has an immense fortune."

There are eight female physicians practicing in Paris.

CALIFORNIA WINES.

The growth and manufacture of pure wines in California has surprised the most sanguine. Although small manufacturers, through combined ignorance and carelessness, turn out inferior wines, it has been the ambition of Messrs. Arpad Haraszthy & Co.

To produce Wines and Brandies that are absolutely pure, and the

ECLIPSE CHAMPAGNE

Is the only pure Champagne that is produced by the natural process of fermentation in the bottle, which wines are imported and sold only by

THE DAILY HERALD.

To-day, September 1st, 1886, is issued the first number of THE DAILY HERALD, a morning newspaper, to be printed for the proprietor under contract by the "Press Publishing Company," Merchant street, Honolulu.

Price Six Dollars per Annum or Fifty Cents per Month.

All who receive a copy of the initial or any succeeding number are respectfully

INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE.

Business men are solicited to test the advantages of THE DAILY HERALD

as an

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.

Try the "Daily Herald" for a month at least.

CHESS AND SUPPER TOGETHER.

Playing a Game Without the Board—Not Exhausting to the Memory.

At supper after the ninth game between Steinitz and Zukertort was over, both Steinitz and Zukertort gave a most entertaining and unconscious exhibition of chess without the chess board. Zukertort was attending to the wing of a duck, but his defeat was evidently still ranking in his mind. "Steinitz," he said, "what would you have done if I had played rook takes bishop's pawn?" "Pawn takes rook," replied Steinitz, digging out a bougie bougie from the duck's breast.

"Queen to knight's sixth, check," said Zukertort, reaching for his glass of beer. "King to bishop's square—please pass the bougie," replied Steinitz.

"Queen takes pawn, rook's sixth, check; no, thanks, no sugar."

"King to bishop's second; what is in that dish, potatoes?"

And so it went on; both gentlemen carrying on the business of the table and each with a vivid chess-board pictured mentally before him. They played this variation out to the end of it, and then took up another and another, evidently able to call up a photograph of the game at any stage at will.

"How do you do it, doctor?" queried a reporter.

"I can't explain it," he said. "I see the board and the pieces just as clearly as though they were before me."

"Doesn't that require a tremendous exertion of the memory?"

"No. Of course everybody can not do it, but it is not hard to do if you go at it right."

"Isn't the effort exhausting?"

"Not at all. I would much sooner play ten games blindfolded simultaneously than one match game."

"How many games can you play blindfolded simultaneously?"

"I have played sixteen. There is no mental limit, however, to the amount of that sort of thing that one can do. Of course some do not push it as far as others."—St. Louis Republic.

Professor Sophocles, of Harvard College.

The old Greek was catechizing his class one day on the ancient history of his native country. "When did Theophilus live?" he asked of one sophomore. "Before Christ," "Wrong!" shouted the professor. And then addressing the next sophomore: "When did Theophilus live?" "After Christ!" "Wrong!" shouted the professor again. And then he repeated the question to a third student. "When did Theophilus live?" "Neither before nor after Christ!" "You are right, young man," said the professor. "There never was any such man as Theophilus." It was one of the little historical traps that Sophocles liked to set for the budding wisdom of Harvard.—Boston Herald.

Cheapest Place in the World.

The cheapest of all civilized or half-civilized countries of the present world is probably the Persian part of Armenia. The traveler Vamberger states that in the mountain districts of that frugal territory half a drahm (about 25 cents) would be considered far more than wages for a hard-working man, and that the mite, or half-drahm, paid to the parents of a shepherd boy varies from 60 to 75 cents a year. Yet even at those modest rates few applicants can obtain employment, and the highways swarm with begging youngsters, ready to follow a bread-giver to the end of the world.—Dr. Felix L. Oswald.

A Prize of a Thousand Ducats.

The Vienna Gazette announces that a prize of 1,000 ducats is offered by the owners of the Ostran coal mines for the best methods of depriving of danger the necessary work of blasting in pits subject to fire-damp, or of a method of dispensing altogether with the use of gunpowder or dynamite in such operations. Inventors are to address their communications to the director of mines in Vienna, and the latest date for sending in solutions of the problem is the close of the year 1886. Kansas City Journal.

Patti Is To Be a Princess.

Mme. Adelina Patti will be a princess after her marriage with M. Nicolini, according to The Paris Gaulois, which declares it has its information from the most authoritative source. Nicolini is to be created a prince by a foreign chancery. The honor has been obtained by the diva herself, who, being a marchioness by first marriage, wishes to become a princess on the occasion of her second.—Inter Ocean.

Tobacco and British Cabinet Officers.

Most of the British cabinet were smokers, and some, like Sir Hicks Beach, Lord Randolph Churchill, and Sir Richard Cross, strong smokers. Lord Carnarvon, too, was as good a judge of a prime cigar as even Lord Derby, who blows it into thin air every time he lights a weed. The present ministers, including the premier, are mostly non-smokers.—Chicago Times.

The Language of Sealing-Wax.

The language of sealing-wax promises to supplant that of flowers. Red wax must be used for business only, black wax for mourning, and blue to signify love. Five tints of blue are made, to express all the gradations of passion. Pink wax is for congratulations, and while is for wedding and ball invitations.—Chicago Times.

As Charged by the Paris Papers.

Parisian papers stick to their assertion that numbers of French soldiers, guilty of some breach of prison discipline, are still lingering in Prussian dungeons. To all inquiries on the subject, they say, the Prussian government has thus far returned only evasive answers.—Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Profits of a Disestablishment.

It is calculated that the disestablishment of the Church of England would set free funds equal to $917,500,000, of which, after the payment of claims by the clergy for compensation and similar demands, there would remain a net gain of $500,000,000.—Chicago Herald.

THE NEWS.

By the arrival of the brigantine Consuelo, fifteen days from San Francisco, we have dates to the 2nd inst., five days later than brought by the last steamer. It happens that the latest date brings news of an appalling calamity that has involved the city of Charleston, South Carolina, in almost hopeless destruction. And the very latest despatch from the ruined city announces a heavy shock of earthquake at the moment of its transmission. It can only be hoped that with that shock the titanic forces under the foundations of the city retired from the terrific siege. Our readers are given a connected account of the terrible catastrophe. The papers mention the shock as being felt as far north as Chicago. In Europe a political earthquake is represented as impending. Space only permits the very latest details; but previous accounts are largely speculative anyway, although pretty generally agreed that the greatest war of the century is at hand. England and Russia are expected to lead two vast opposing combinations. English politics have assumed a new phase, in Mr. Gladstone's announcement of the total and final severance of land purchase from the home rule scheme. This makes the landlords take their chances with everybody else under home rule and brings the Radical seceders back to the Liberal fold.

A LITTLE OFF.

In yesterday's issue we did injustice to Mr. Creighton's action, if not to his intentions, on the currency bill. It appears that before the discussion referred to was adjourned, His Excellency accepted an amendment by Mr. Bishop, which restored the provisions attempted to be struck out.

Nearly as Bad.

He was making his first call, and all the formalities of the season were in full blast. She toyed with her fan as she conversed about the gayeties of the winter time. Leisurely strolling into the elegant drawing room came the family dog, a large and intelligent type of the Newfoundland breed. It was a warm evening and the dog came in with his mouth open and his tongue protruding from his mouth. He made directly for the hostess, who manifested great uneasiness at the first sight of the unexpected animal. As he came nearer the young woman dropped her fan mounted first the heavy upholstered chair and then the center table. Seeing the unusual performance the young man followed suit and was soon on top of the marble mantelpiece, to which place of safety he invited his hostess. Meanwhile the dog, the cause of the commotion, crawled under the sofa, preparing himself to take a nap.

"When was he taken?" asked the young man, as he balanced himself amid the mantel ornaments.
"Oh, he's been that way all summer," replied the young woman.
"It's strange he doesn't bite us, isn't it?" continued the young man.
"Oh, he wouldn't bite anybody," remarked the young hostess.
"Why, hasn't he got the hydrophobia?"
"No," replied she, "he's got fleas, and that's pretty bad."—St. Paul Globe.

A man who is one of the leading and wealthy merchants and lumbermen of Bangor, arrived in that city from Germany twenty years ago with less than $2 in his pocket.

Carp is used by Hartford, Conn., to keep the city reservoirs clean. The fish have completely cleaned one reservoir of vegetable growth, and are now at work upon a second.

Certain excavations recently made in Nevada revealed in the sandstone the distinct impress of a woman's foot nineteen inches long, left there ages and ages ago. And yet they have been playing Chicago off on us as a modern city.

ARCTIC NEWS.

Good Catches—A Volcanic Eruption.

The steam schooner Dolphin arrived at Victoria, B. C., August 29th, from Behring's Sea, bringing over 2,000 seal-skins. The season had been very favorable, the weather being clear and calm, with much less fog than usually prevails in those northern latitudes. The schooner Alfred Adams brought 2,000 skins. She reported a submarine volcanic eruption in Behring's Sea on the 7th of August, when the deck was covered with ashes for several hours. She had spoken the schooners Silva Hardy, Teresa, Adele and Black Diamond, between the 6th and 23rd July. On July 29th the steamer Orca was spoken and reported her catch to be five whales in five days. August 3rd the whaling bark Ida T. Harriman was spoken, all well, with one sperm and two right whales.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

A report of the select committee on the brewery license bill was presented by Mr. Dole, submitting a substitute bill, but it was tabled to await the Hawaiian version. The currency bill was next taken up, and after some discussion referred to a select committee, consisting of Messrs. Bishop, Creighton, Castle, Dole and Aholo. Consideration of the electric light bills was opened by a motion of Mr. Brown for indefinite postponement. His reasons were that there was a contract in existence for lighting the city, and that the electric light being in its infancy it would be unwise to adopt it now, especially at an expense much greater than the cost of the present light. His motion was defeated, and a motion by Mr. Kuananama carried, to consider Mr. Berger's bill section by section. After an animated discussion, further consideration was postponed until the Minister of the Interior submits information to the house relative to the alleged existing contract, and he was given till Monday next for that purpose. The bill in amendment of the gambling act was passed on second reading, after a warm discussion, resulting in several amendments to the bill. This completed the hundred and fourth day's business.

Yachting Hospitality.

Captain Phelps, of the American yacht "Brunhilde," assisted by Mr. Hillard, entertained a party of ladies and gentlemen on board yesterday afternoon. The party consisted of His Excellency G. W. Merrill, U. S. Minister Resident, and Mrs. Merrill; Col. Chas. T. Gulick and Mrs. Gulick; Mr. R. W. Laine, Consul for Mexico, and Mrs. Laine; Mr. J. O. Carter, Mrs. and the Misses Carter; the Misses Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Jones, Messrs. J. Brewer, Morse, Hastings and others. All were loud in their praise of the cleanliness and beauty of the yacht. The ladies were delighted with the cosy rooms, the clean and well-appointed pantry and kitchen; while the gentlemen compared notes on the build and rig of the vessel, summing up their conclusions with, "He's a jolly good fellow, knows how to enjoy life; and hope he may live long & do enjoy it." A bountiful lunch was provided, of which all partook, with a cup of choice tea. At about five o'clock the guests took leave of their kind hosts, wishing them, "Aloha nui."

Police Court.

Thos. Muldoon, having taken too much liquid for the good of his "solid" manhood, did not come back for his deposit of $6, which accordingly became forfeit to the Crown. Milinili acknowledged the corn and became debtor in the same amount. Pa and More were not more apparently than really guilty of affray, and their combat netted the treasury $12. Peaha went into servitude 48 hours for disorderly conduct. Three Chinamen were given an extension of time to defend themselves against a charge of assault and battery. The five Chinese corralled with opium at Cape Horn were granted a similar privilege, and a sixth was dropped by the prosecution.

Litigation.

On the civil side of the Police Court, Thursday, an action of trover begun on February 15th last by Dr. John Brodie against Jas. Holt, Jr., was decided for the plaintiff, judgment being given for $68.05 inclusive of costs. A. C. Smith for the plaintiff; Kinney & Peterson for the defendant. The latter noted an appeal to the Intermediate Court. Nakea confessed judgment, in assumption action by Kekane, for $48, costs making the total $55.80. Several cases were discontinued and continued.

"What would you do if you were I and I were you?" tenderly inquired a young swell of his lady friend, as he escorted her home from church. "Well," said she, "if I were you I would throw away that vile cigarette, cut up my cane for firewood, wear my watch chain under my coat, and stay at home at nights and pray for brains."

An explosion occurred in the Fair-lawn colliery, Scranton, Pa., August 30, which resulted in the death of five or six men and the injury of others.

A Terrible Earthquake!

Charleston, S. C., in Ruins—Damage Ten Million Dollars—Great Loss of Life.

A series of earthquake shocks has passed over the city of Charleston, South Carolina, extending from Friday night, August 27th, at one o'clock, till Thursday, September 2nd, the last date to hand. The most severe shocks were during the night of Tuesday, August 31st, and they almost wholly demolished the city.

HOW THE SHOCK OCCURRED.

An account written on the spot says: No event has caused so much consternation and gloom as was created by the thirty seconds of disaster on Tuesday night. The first intimation of approaching danger was given in the atmosphere. It was dense, sultry, and fearfully oppressive, and as the night drew on the atmosphere became damp and difficult to breathe. Suddenly the city was aroused by a low, warning rumble like distant thunder. The sky was not clear, but there was no indication of storm and no apparent occasion for thunder. Few persons understood what the ominous sound portended, but the feeling that it was an omen of some overwhelming disaster was general. There was little time to prepare for what was coming. The growl of the elements had scarcely died away when the earth trembled violently. A momentary pause ensued and then the city rose and fell as if on the crest of a billow. The sound which accompanied the wave was terrible. It was a frightful, half-smothered roar. It seemed as if only the merest crust of earth, and that in imminent danger of giving way, separated the city from pandemonium.

THE CULMINATION.

People rushed from their houses into the street only to witness the culmination of the horrible work. Telegraph poles lay prostrate on the ground or leaned on the frail support of wrecked buildings, while their labyrinth of wires so obstructed the streets as to make travel through them almost impossible. Almost every building in Meeting and Broad streets, the two principal thoroughfares of the city, were wrecked to a greater or less extent. Many people escaped from their tumbling homes only to meet death or fearful injury from falling bricks and mortar, whole masses of which plunged down into the streets, adding to the general havoc.

SOME OF THE EFFECTS.

The most serious damage was done to those parts of the city devoted to business, and to costly dwellings. St. Michael's Church, whose famous spire serves as an important landmark for ships entering Charleston harbor, the same spire which was saved from destruction by fire many years ago, by the courageous action of a negro slave, was irreparably wrecked. The City Hall, Hibernia Hall, St. Philip's Church, the main station house, and dwellings by the score, were reduced to ruins. Hundreds of people were made homeless in a single moment, and the loss of life was far greater than that caused by the cyclone a year ago. The latest accounts estimate sixty people as having been killed. Most of those killed were negroes, whose abject and hopeless terror is past description. They thought the end of the world had come, and huddling together made no effort to extricate their buried friends, but sang hymns and offered supplication all night long. No less than five fires broke out in different parts of the city, but the brigade was so well divided that, notwithstanding the encumbered streets, it prevented the destruction of the city by fire.

AFTERCLAPS.

Several minor shocks were felt during the night, supplementing the effects of the first great assault and adding to the consternation of the people. The second heavy wave swept along at precisely 8:25 on Wednesday morning. It came from south-east just as its more awful predecessor had done, and passed away toward the north-west. The people had ventured back to their dwellings to obtain some food, being weary and hungry after spending the night trying to rescue the dead and wounded from the ruins. Again they heard the dull rumble beneath them, and felt the sickening tremor of the earth. They poured into the streets to seek open places. The earth quivered and heaved under their feet, and then the motion and sound died away, but not before many other buildings had been shaken to the ground. On Thursday the great majority of houses were uninhabitable, scarcely a hundred buildings in the city being used at all. The people camped out in open places, men, women and children together. At 11:30 p. m., 1st inst., the latest despatch came, saying: Another shock has just occurred, rather more severe than any since last night, knocking down several houses.

VARIOUS DETAILS.

The gasworks were badly injured, leaving the city with insufficient light. An investigation on the 2nd showed that scarcely a house in Charleston had entirely escaped injury. Only one telegraph wire was left connected with the outside world, and it was crowded with private messages. But one drug store remained opened, the solitary active business place in the city, and all its clerks were kept busy preparing medicines for the suffering. Many dead people were lying unburied, principally poor negroes. There were not half a dozen tents in the city, and women and children were experiencing great privations in consequence. It was calculated that at least three-fourths of the city would have to be rebuilt entirely if the houses were to be inhabited. All the railroad approaches to the city were wrecked, and it was feared that want of provisions would add to the general woe before the roads were again open. No trains had arrived or departed in twenty-four hours. There was very little shipping in port and none of it was injured. The loss to property would probably amount to eight or ten million dollars.

SHOCKS ELSEWHERE.

A passenger train from Columbia to Charleston was thrown from the track, the engineer and fireman being killed, by the first shock near Summerville, Ga., which town was nearly destroyed. Columbia, S. C., was visited by a terrible earthquake at 9:48 on the night of August 31st. The first two shocks were fearful. Buildings swayed from side to side, and the earth rose and fell like the waves of the ocean. Eleven shocks were felt up to 10:20 next morning. The shock at Langley, S. C., burst the milldams, and some thousand feet of railroad track were destroyed. Shocks were felt with more or less severity at Ravenell, S. C., Augusta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. Where they were heavy the negroes were seized with the belief that the end of the world had come. Their church bells were tolled and thousands of the people congregated, remaining in prayer all night.

UNITED STATES.

Pacific Coast.

Placerville has the electric light. Wong Tie, a noted Chinese desperado, has been arrested near Tucson, Arizona. He has the reputation of having killed men by the dozen.

It has been learned in San Francisco that the Chinese in Hongkong have been supplied with a large consignment of maps of San Francisco, with a description of the principal features of city written in Chinese. These and pamphlets are studied en route by those who are to be landed by the habes corpus dedge. It is in this manner that they learn to answer in court part of the questions about that city correctly.

A general strike on the San Francisco water front was expected to be ordered. It would involve the seven unions alone, in which there are 7,000 men. In other cities on the Coast the men belonging to the unions affiliated with the Coast Seamen's Union in San Francisco are more anxious to strike than the men in that city. The long-shore lumbermen at Eureka had struck, and a similar movement at Tacoma was daily expected.

Surrender of the Apache Chief.

Geronimo, the old Apache chief, with fourteen of his followers, entered Captain Lawton's camp, threw down their arms and asked permission to surrender. Captain Lawton insisted on an unconditional surrender, which was submitted to and the whole band surrendered. General Miles waived any share in the glory of the capture, and directed Captain Lawton to proceed direct to Fort Bowie, report to the Adjutant-General, and receive all the praise due him for his meritorious services. The command was approaching Fort Bowie with the hostiles as prisoners, and orders had been given to shoot any of them attempting to escape. Captain Lawton was worn out with his long and arduous campaign and was almost a skeleton.

Miscellaneous.

Yellow fever has appeared at Biloxi, near New Orleans.

The public debt was reduced a million and a quarter in August.

Five tramps are now believed to be the perpetrators of the Rock Island train robbery last March, when Messenger Nichols was killed and $21,000 stolen from the express car.

EUROPE.

The Irish Question.

Mr. Gladstone has written a pamphlet on Home Rule, in which the policy is clearly indicated of separating the land purchasing scheme entirely from that object. It is said that if he had spoken earlier, his party would not have been divided nor the elections lost. The pamphlet is likely to unite the main sections of the party. Mr. Goldwin Smith has written an able but bitter reply to the pamphlet. The home rule debate on the address was still going on at last date.

The Bulgarian Crisis.

Prince Alexander of Roumania returned to Bulgaria, September 1st. Philippopolis was gaily decorated and crowded with visitors who came to join the citizens in celebrating the event. An enthusiastic popular demonstration was held in front of the British consulate in honor of Alexander, and a counter-demonstration in favor of the revolutionists was at the same time held in front of the Russian consulate.

The Prince addressed a submissive telegram to the Czar, assuring the latter of his firm intention to make every sacrifice to forward his majesty's "magnanimous intention to extricate Bulgaria from the grave crisis through which she is passing." He should be happy to give his majesty decided proofs of his unalterable devotion to his august person. The Czar replied, saying he could not approve of the Prince's return to Bulgaria, "foreseeing from it sinister consequences for the country already so severely tried." The Czar concludes: "I shall abstain, so long as your highness remains in Bulgaria, from any intervention. In the sad condition to which the country is reduced your highness must decide your own course. I reserve to myself to judge what my father's venerated memory, the interests of Russia and the peace of the East require of me."

A Paris despatch of the first says: The publication of the correspondence between the Czar and Prince Alexander has created a great sensation in political circles here. The Czar's menacing reply to the Prince's submissive epistle is regarded by diplomats as insuring Alexander's abdication and Russia's occupation of Bulgaria. It is feared that war will ensue, unless Bismarck intercedes.

Sporting.

The three-mile race between Hanlan and Courtney took place at Jamaica Bay, N. Y., September 1, resulting in a decisive victory for Hanlan, who distanced his opponent by seven lengths.

William Beach, of Australia, beat John Teemer, of the United States, by six lengths, in the deciding heat of the international sculling sweepstakes, on the 1st. The race was from Putney to Mortlake, at Hammersmith Bridge. At Detroit, on the 1st, the Detroit baseball club beat the New York club by 12 to 5.

THE BARBARISM OF CIVILIZATION.

Crime in Paris—A Thief's Confession—Coddling Criminals—Egoism.

What is to be done with the ever-increasing army of crime and vice which is rendering security in Paris a myth? In the current number of The Nouvelle Revue, the Abbe Moreau, formerly almoner at the prison of La Grande Roquette, has begun to write his souvenirs of the world of prisons, and his conclusions, good Christian as he is, are altogether sad. The abbe's long experience has shown him that crime is rarely an accident in a man's life, but generally a trade or a passion, and that there thousands whose only means of existence is theft, and who consider this means as legitimate as labor.

The abbe quotes an experienced thief who is of a philosophical turn, and who writes: "I do not believe much in the conversion of professional thieves and criminals. A thief will always be a thief and a murderer a murderer, just as a drunkard will always be a drunkard. There are, of course, a few exceptional crimes due to overexcitement and passion. But if I were to give advice to the government, it would be to shoot us or fling us into the sea with a cannon ball tied to our feet, the whole gang of us brothers in crime, who are united by the bond of blood. Repentance or even a change in the manner of life is very rare among us."

The whole of the Abbe's article is full of a spirit of reaction against the modern system of coddling criminals and keeping them comfortably in cellular retreats which are models of ventilation, cleanliness, and hygienic disposition. What will the humanitarians find to say against this profound return to the severity of primitive legislation? A return to barbarism, it will be said. It is precisely this return to barbarism the outcome of modern civilization, which has made a profound impression on the contemporary French mind, and led to all sorts of manifestations of pessimism, which may be noticed in the literature, the art, and the life of the day.

The tendency of French, and one might say of European civilization generally, seems to be to break all the bonds that formerly held human societies together. The modern man need be neither husband nor father, nor brother, nor friend, he need contract none of those bonds of duty, without which it was impossible to live formerly. We are gradually arriving at a state of individualism and ferocious egoism which allows us to enjoy the advantage of association—not to say of society—without assuming any of its burdens. The bonds of family, of fatherland, of friendship, having lost their strength, men grow untrusting and tired of living in times and in a society where all that makes the charm and interest of life is daily disappearing more and more.—Paris Cor. New York Sun.

An Unvarnished Account of Liberia.
Anderson H. Jones, a colored man who went to Liberia six months ago from Missouri, writes home from Brewerville, a village fifteen miles from Monrovia, giving some account of the country. He says that there are no houses, no roads, and no oxen in the whole settlement. All the farm work is done with the hoe, the rake, and the ax. He says: "I have been all over the settlement, and I found the largest number of people in a suffering condition for something to eat and for clothes to wear. There isn't any doctor in this settlement—the settlement is too poor to support one. Calico is 25 cents per yard. A common laborer, when he can get any work to do, is paid 25 cents per day. Pickled pork is 25 cents per pound; shoulder meat, 35 cents per pound."

"All the flour and meat used here is imported from England and America. Corn meal is 10 cents per quart. Common flour is $15 per barrel. The only slow way the settlers have to make money here is by raising and selling coffee. It will take a newcomer like myself from five to six years to get a coffee farm in trim for selling coffee. The public schools are poor. There is a class of people over here who do not want the true condition of things written back home."—Chicago Herald.

Earl of Surrey as a Rioter.
Apropos of the recent London riots, it may be interesting to recall the fact that the famous earl of Surrey was once accused before the privy council of rioting in London streets and breaking windows with a crossbow. His defense was a singularly ingenious one. "My motive," he said, "was a religious one, though I confess it lies open to misconstruction. It grieved me, my lords, to see the licentious manners of the citizens of London. Was I to suffer these unhappy men to perish without warning? Common charity forbade. I therefore went at midnight through the streets and shot from my crossbow at their windows, that the stones passing noiselessly through the air and breaking in upon their guilty secrecy might remind them of the suddenness of the punishment which the Scriptures tell us divine justice will inflict on impenitent sinners, and so lead them to a reformation of manners."—Chicago Tribune.

The Lesson of the Widow's Mite.
"But one thing that I do know about the average fashionable belle in church," said a Fifth Avenue vestryman with whom I chatted on the subject, "is that she takes too literally the lesson of the widow's mite. She's got the idea into her noodle that the biblical woman's two mites were divinely accounted more than the biggest contributions of others, and so she coolly beatifically drops 2 cents into the plate when she ought to give $2. I've had years of experience in passing the platter, and I tell you that the richest heiresses rarely put in more than a dime, no matter what the occasion for beneficence."—New York Letter.

Mineral Water for Trotting Horses.
An agent for a mineral water product near here told me recently that two of his most profitable customers were the proprietors of trotting horses. Their valuable animals were given a certain brand of mineral water entirely. They were not allowed to drink anything else. This was for medicinal reasons, and also to prevent sickness from change of water while traveling from one circuit to another. He had their route, and knew how much water they would need, so when the horse arrived in another town he would find a barrel or two of his favorite beverage waiting for him.—Chicago News.

The American Girl in Europe.
The Paris Figaro says of the American girl, as seen in Europe, that "she is stylish to the backbone. Independent and devoted to pleasure, frank and open-hearted. She flirts all winter, goes out alone, and places boundless confidence in her male friends. Parisian women detest her. Provincial women despise her. Men of all countries adore her, but will not marry her unless she has an immense fortune."

There are eight female physicians practicing in Paris.

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.
