A SCANDAL.

Some wealthy Chinamen are said to have paid seventy or eighty thousand dollars between them for the opium license that they did not get. The money is alleged to have been paid to an official who had no more to do with the license under the law than the man in the moon. If the foolish Celestials who so easily parted with their money prosecute the person who acted as middle man to get the "boodle," for gross cheat in obtaining money under false pretences, they are themselves in danger of prosecution for bribing a Government officer. Perhaps the Ministry is not aware that the story has become a notorious scandal, being in everybody's mouth. They owe it to the good name, if not the security of the country, to make a rigid investigation. "Hew to the line; let the chips fall where they may." If Ministers for once act like men, it may be proven to the world, to the everlasting credit of the nation, that public robbers have no easier pillows in Honolulu than in New York. The rascals who would give such a bribe are as worthy of punishment as those who would take it. If there is only a moiety of truth in the scandal, it is another proof that the opium law was a dirty fraud throughout. Purporting to be a law to license the drug exclusively for medicinal purposes, Chinese are found eagerly ready with tens of thousands of dollars for the purchase of its privileges. There could not be the slightest intention, on the part of the seekers for the monopoly, to keep within the law as it stands. If the licensee sticks to the statute he will bankrupt himself and his confederates, if they number a legion, before the license runs a year.

THE FINANCES.

After the law has been evaded for two or three quarters, the Minister of Finance publishes in the official organ the financial report for the past quarter. Receipts have been $857,561.56 and expenditures $775,485.04. The balance in the treasury at the end of last quarter was $82,076.52. Of the receipts $49,132.51 represents the balance from previous quarter, $305,000 the loan fund and $25,000 the amount from the Postal Savings Bank. Special loan got away with $150,366.62 in the expenditures, and expenses of the Legislature, $11,409.55, which is getting off cheaply considering the length of the session and the harm it wrought. As the internal revenue looms up last quarter, being $220,393.12, and will be comparatively small for the next three quarters, the Government will need to be judiciously discretionary with the enormously inflated Appropriation Act, in order to show balances on the right side.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

"Oratio," a fresh contributor, is introduced to-day, his inaugural being very readable.

A conundrum of last session has only just been answered. It is that the Board of Genealogy is like an air gun because it makes no report.

The San Francisco Journal of Commerce devotes a column to "Hawaii," giving facts regarding the loan and extracts from Mr. Putnam's consular report.

Hawaii ought to send a minister plenipotentiary off to Europe by the Mariposa, to suggest to the Powers the appointment of a Board of Genealogy to hunt up a prince for the Bulgarian throne.

Before the opium law will begin to work, in all likelihood, Mr. Aholo will have to issue a new "regulation," providing for the issuing of licenses to all applying therefor, entitling the holders to practise medicine for the cure of the "disease for which opium is the proper remedy."

The Honolulu newspapers are sometimes charged with insincerity. Still, we venture to say that at least a portion of the local press do and dare more than those who should be leaders in the community would venture in behalf of right doing over their own signatures.

Various remarkable schemes have recently been mooted for forwarding the common good of dwellers in these islands in general, and of those in Honolulu in particular. Our reporter who has a passion for interchanging yarns with "the marines," yesterday discovered an astonishingly bold project in process of incubation—nothing less than a submarine tunnel to unite the islands. When the Board of Genealogy pigs get from island to island without sea sickness, they will make a racket among the dry bones.

The Nicaragua Canal.

Admiral Ammen has written a letter to the Baltimore Sun, severely criticising De Lesseps' Panama Canal and Eads' proposed ship railroad. He says that De Lesseps has paid an American syndicate 500,000 francs to defeat the Nicaragua Canal enterprise, and that Eads' influence has also been hostile. In conclusion he says: "I would say, let all persons who have influence, and who do not wish to see our own coasting trade pass under foreign control, insist that Congress grant without delay the act of incorporation to an American company to construct the Nicaragua Canal, as asked, without any guaranty whatever, or thereafter hold their peace. There are people stupid enough to suppose that the constitutional powers of our nation are insufficient to secure what are manifestly great vital interests. Among these in the past, were not Jackson or Clay, or, indeed, a single name of national notoriety. Without possessing personally any knowledge of party or party interests, I pronounce the non-existence of sufficient powers very dangerous and quite a modern heresy, which will, ere long, stamp its supporters with ignominy. After the Government of the United States has fairly developed the exceptional and undoubted commercial advantages of the Nicaragua Canal route, it proposes, now, to abandon them to whom it may concern, and therefore, as a natural consequence, to submit the control of its own coasting trade to whatever foreign domination may construct the canal."

Illegal Combinations.

James R. Keene, the New York millionaire, and Washington Butcher's Sons, in December, 1886, formed a pool to advance the price of land and employed E. A. Kent & Co. of that city and Poole, Kent & Co. of Chicago as brokers for the purchase and sale of land. It is said that a small fortune was realized, but the members of the pool charged their bro's had defrauded them by making fictitious purchases and sales. Keene sued Kent and others in the Supreme Court to recover his share of the profits of the pool. They interposed a defense that the transactions were gambling ones, and that the law would not force them to account. Judge Daniels, of the Supreme Court, has rendered his opinion in the matter, reversing the opinion of the Court below, which directed the brokers to file a bill of particulars of the pool's transactions. He holds that the defense interposed is valid and that the law does not sanction that form of gambling, declaring that combinations to keep articles of food and other necessities off the market with a view of getting higher prices are unlawful conspiracies, punishable as crimes.

The Orland (Cal.) Times says: A farmer residing in the vicinity of St. Johns has stumbled upon an ingenious way of catching wild geese. He loads the barrel of his shotgun about half full of red pepper and saltes forth in search of his victims. When the opportunity is afforded him, he shoots at the heads of the geese and of course blinds them; all he has to do then is to make a quiet sneak upon said geese and gather them to his fond embrace.

Latest from the Panama canal is that work is progressing. The contractors are satisfied, although they are working against difficulties, in consequence of the tail end of the rainy season and the celebration of the December holidays. The sanitary record is good.

THE UPPER CIRCLES.

HOW THE SWELL WOMEN MANAGE THE LION BUSINESS.

A Lady Who Finds Parliamentary Practice Good Training for the Management of Receptions—Getting into the Higher Circle of Gentility.

Literary people are very like other people, and we may presume that they have not altered much since Thackeray wrote "Pendennis." Notwithstanding the number of times this fact has been repeated, we ordinary mortals go on expecting something extraordinary from them. We know it is not at a literary house that "languid beauty keeps her pale face court," and if we don't get enough novelty to excuse her absence we are apt to feel that we have been cheated. We go there to hear the utterances of illustrious mouths, to compare genius with common people, in order, when it is over, to call the latter stupid and dull and the other ridiculous, and at last to take our hats and go away, saying "What fine talk."

There are houses in New York where this sort of entertainment is provided; temples of tedium, where people meet to show off, and not to exchange mental pleasure. The hostess there appears to be no more than a conversation manager; when a lion roars she makes signs to the other guests to keep silence just as if a prima donna were singing or Joseffy were at the piano. She listens with all her ears and constrains her guests to listen to all the nonsense that may flow from celebrated lips, while she stifles her yawns and rustles her fan at every word uttered by a nobody. Matter cannot be sensible unless it is vouched for by a fashionable name. With such a principle for its raison d'être a salon cannot be but unsuccessful. This prejudiced censorious society will not believe that a hostess treats the favorites of the public with systematic adulation because she regards them with frank sympathy and sincere admiration. It ascribes her action to motives of personal vanity.

Jennie June is the exact antipode of a hostess of this order; even her appearance says so. She is a little woman, with brown hair, a small, sensitive mouth, the quietest manners, and a low, sweet voice. During her long incumbency of the Sorosis chair she never once lost the reins of order, and her voice had never to be raised to command the attention of the logic loving sisterhood.

EX-PRESIDENT OF SOROSIS.

I suppose a good hostess needs a knowledge of the rules of debate, and because of her thorough acquaintance with "Robinson" we need go no further to inquire why Mrs. Croly is so successful in a private capacity. She answers precisely to the definition of the truly superior woman who knows enough never to ask a ridiculous and ill timed question and never to oppose people of merit on the ground of personal prejudice. Her parliamentary ability comes in to help her keep apart two powerful antagonists eager to tilt and to display their learning by disputing about a question that nobody wants to understand; she believes in making the subject general, a piece of wisdom taught her no doubt by the Sorosis, where it is said, all the members want to talk at once.

Personally Jennie June is a favorite with all kinds of people; with the doctors, who like her because she desires to learn and is attentive to any good things they may say; with the ignorant, because she does not care to humiliate them, and is indulgent to their absurdities. In a word, she knows how to keep silent, and that, no doubt, far more than her parliamentary skill, is the secret of her success.

Have you ever thought how lonely a woman may be—may, is certain to be—without friends or society in a great city like this? If man is a gregarious animal, woman is immeasurably more so. Living in New York, surrounded today by friends and flatterers, is a lady who left Chicago upon her marriage with a man in politics, about four years ago. She was a good deal surprised at first by the snubbing she received, and when her mind took in the fact that she must make a position for herself, she realized at the same moment the herculean nature of the task. She accomplished her ends only after a thousand rebuffs and a thousand mortifications and slights. Consequently she is able to tell you that New York society knows how to protect itself; she could tell you how it encompasses itself about with ceremonials, almost with armed force, and she could estimate the proper amount of admiration that is due the successful social pusher, who, keeping her object in view constantly, wades through the sea of difficulties that divides her from the goal of her ambition until by incredible exertion, by ingenuity, by hook, by crook she attains the higher circle of gentility.—Wills Steed in Chicago Times.

Jenny Lind's Voice. It is said that Jenny Lind Goldschmidt's daughter, who, according to rumor, has inherited her mother's voice, will shortly be heard in the United States. It has always been a mystery what became of Jenny Lind's marvelous vocal organ, for it is rare that the possessor of such a gift should persist through so many years in keeping it to herself. Perhaps, like the mother of Adeline Patti, whose voice was said to be never so good after the birth of her wonderful child, Mme. Goldschmidt transferred her vocal powers, in a measure, to her offspring. In that case the appearance of Miss Lind Goldschmidt will be regarded with unwonted interest.—New York Hour.

The Czar in the Rescue. One day the czarina appeared in a new corn colored gown, which was much admired by the court ladies. A few minutes later a young lady attached to the imperial household, Miss Feodoroffna Ghika, entered, wearing a gown exactly like it. A blunder had been made by the Paris dressmakers, but that did not diminish the czarina's evident anger nor the young lady's consternation. But the czar came to the rescue. "I and my lieutenants," he said, smiling, "also wear exactly similar uniforms."—New York Tribune.

Where House Flies Live. People who wonder where house flies come from may be interested in knowing that they are to be met with on the plains 200 miles from any house, and that they buzz around the highest peaks of the Andes as well as elsewhere.—Detroit Free Press.

A society has been formed by several Boston people for the purpose of abolishing the pernicious system of tipping waiters. The last census shows 2,000,000 Christians in India.

FUN AMONG THE HINDOOS.

Masquerading as Wild Animals—Teasing a Native Christian.

A singular thing may occasionally be seen in India at the festival of the Mehurram. While the Shiah Mohammedans are lamenting in black over the death of Ali and his two sons—the son-in-law and grandsons of the Prophet—the Sunni Mohammedans are making high festival in honor of the three first caliphs, and masquerading as tigers and bears to represent the wild beasts of the forest which lapped the bank of the Euphrates when the last son of Ali was murdered. To this day the Sunni Mohammedans and a host of skylarking Hindoos will play all the pranks that are described as having taken place in the court of Timur. The antagonism between Shiah and Sunni may occasionally lead to fighting and bloodshed; but preliminary arrangements are generally made by British authorities to prevent the possibility of collision.

Some years ago a characteristic incident took place at the celebration of the Mehurram in the city of Madras. The Shiah was weeping aloud and beating their breasts in the bosom of their families; but the Sunnis were abroad in the streets and highways, keeping holiday. A Hindoo magistrate kept the peace, supported by a strong staff of native police. Hosts of Asiatics appeared before his worship, painted up and disguised as tigers, bears, monkeys, and other animals. Troops of representatives of every trade approached the magisterial bench at intervals to make salaams and perform their several parts as marks of respect to the grave and majestic Hindoo magistrate, who to them was the representative of government, the emblem of the state—the sarkar. The multitude of performers was perfectly orderly, playing like children, amusing and amused. Now and then a drunken tiger or a noisy bear was brought before the bench on which the magistrate sat with one or two European lookers-on. To the uninitiated it seemed surprising that the bulk of the performers were Hindoos, who had joined in the Mohammedan festival from sheer love of fun, which had overpowered all feelings of religious antagonism.

The Hindoo magistrate dismissed each offender without caring whether he was Mohammedan or Hindoo. At last, however, a drunken tiger was brought up for punishment, smeared with stripes of paint and overcoated with liquor and terror. The frightened tiger confessed that he had been drunk and disorderly, but begged to excuse himself on the score that he was a Christian. Probably he was some pariah, who only called himself a Christian in the hope of escaping fine or imprisonment. But the opportunity was not to be had, and accordingly the worthy magistrate delivered a homily from the bench for the edification of the European gentlemen on the enormity of a native Christian playing at tigers and bears with Mohammedans.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Consumption of Oysters.

"Where are the oysters consumed?" "Mainly in New York was the reply. "About 200,000,000 per year is the amount of the New York consumption. The hotels here use nearly 100,000 per day, nearly all Blue Points. The hotels have improved very much in this respect in the last half dozen years, as their patrons showed that they knew a good thing and demanded it. To a few eastern cities, however, this is confined, for all through the west even the best hotels slap down the cheapest quality of oysters before their guests. The western people are being educated up to a knowledge of oysters, and the demand for the best quality is rapidly growing. Chicago is the distributing center for all that region, and takes about 30,000 a day. They are sent west without the shells in large pails containing 1,000 and a chunk of ice. You do not often find oysters on the shell in Chicago on account of the heavy freight charges. It is cheaper to send a barrel of oysters to Europe than to Chicago."

"When is an oyster in the best condition?" "When between two and three years old. The planting and cultivation of oysters is what makes them expensive, for they must be taken care of like flowers. We plant a number of seed oysters in a certain place, and leave them there on a mud bottom to fatten and grow for a couple of years or a little less, and then remove them to a hard bottom, on which they get their shape best; there they remain perhaps a year, and are then fit for market. Oysters very often grow to be a dozen years old, but after four years are not good."

Collecting and Selling Addresses.

In addition to his other vast business interests Erastus Wiman is the inventor of a scheme for collecting and selling the addresses of people all over the United States, which nets him an enormous yearly income. This last is a great scheme, and it works like a charm. For instance, if I have a patch of medicine that I wanted to introduce to the general market, I go to Mr. Wiman's address agency, and in return for the payment of a certain sum I receive a list that includes the name of every druggist in the United States. If I have a new brand of tobacco I can secure the name of every cigar dealer in America through this same agency. And so it goes through all the trades.—New York Letter.

A Test of Good Poetry.

The test of good poetry, as of good wine, an English critic says, is not analysis, but taste; and he adds: "A collection of really good poetry made by a good critic—such as Palgrave's 'Golden Treasury'—helps more to elevate the popular standard of poetic excellence and to fix an absolute standard than any quantity of ingenious analysis, in the details of which probably no two critics agree."—Chicago Herald.

Wealthy Ex-Confederate Generals.

Facts recently collected show that a large number of the generals in the late civil war have become rich through industrial enterprises in the south, although the close of that contest found them penniless. Gen. Brown, of Tennessee, Gen. Mahone, of Virginia, Gen. Wheeler, of Alabama, and Gen. Gibson, of Louisiana, are examples.—Frank Leslie's.

To Induce Healthful Repose.

In the decline of life, when exhausted nature habitually repels the restorative influence of sleep, there is nothing so suitable to induce healthful repose as one-half to one teaspoonful of bromidia, at bedtime. It may be taken for years, in the same dose, with the same effect and without detriment.—American Medical Journal.

On His Feet Again.

Henry Villard has again become the owner of the magnificent palace he freed in his palmy days. He is said to be now worth several millions.

THE DAILY HERALD.

To-day, September 1st, 1886, is issued the first number of THE DAILY HERALD, a morning newspaper, to be printed for the proprietor under contract by the "Press Publishing Company," Merchant street, Honolulu.

Price Six Dollars per Annum or Fifty Cents per Month.

All who receive a copy of the initial or any succeeding number are respectfully

INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE.

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.

Try the "Daily Herald" for a month at least.

A SCANDAL.

Some wealthy Chinamen are said to have paid seventy or eighty thousand dollars between them for the opium license that they did not get. The money is alleged to have been paid to an official who had no more to do with the license under the law than the man in the moon.

THE FINANCES.

After the law has been evaded for two or three quarters, the Minister of Finance publishes in the official organ the financial report for the past quarter. Receipts have been $857,561.56 and expenditures $775,485.04.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

"Oratio," a fresh contributor, is introduced to-day, his inaugural being very readable.

A conundrum of last session has only just been answered. It is that the Board of Genealogy is like an air gun because it makes no report.

The San Francisco Journal of Commerce devotes a column to "Hawaii," giving facts regarding the loan and extracts from Mr. Putnam's consular report.

Hawaii ought to send a minister plenipotentiary off to Europe by the Mariposa, to suggest to the Powers the appointment of a Board of Genealogy to hunt up a prince for the Bulgarian throne.

Before the opium law will begin to work, in all likelihood, Mr. Aho'o will have to issue a new "regulation," providing for the issuing of licenses to all applying therefor, entitling the holders to practise medicine for the cure of the "disease for which opium is the proper remedy."

The Honolulu newspapers are sometimes charged with insincerity. Still, we venture to say that at least a portion of the local press do and dare more than those who should be leaders in the community would venture in behalf of right doing over their own signatures.

Various remarkable schemes have recently been mooted for forwarding the common good of dwellers in these islands in general and of those in Honolulu in particular. Our reporter who has a passion for interchanging yarns with "the marines," yesterday discovered an astonishingly bold project in process of incubation—nothing less than a submarine tunnel to unite the islands. When the Board of Genealogy pigs get from island to island without sea sickness, they will make a racket among the dry bones.

The Nicaragua Canal.

Admiral Ammen has written a letter to the Baltimore Sun, severely criticising De Lesseps' Panama Canal and Eads' proposed ship railroad. He says that De Lesseps has paid an American syndicate 500,000 francs to defeat the Nicaragua Canal enterprise, and that Eads' influence has also been hostile. In conclusion he says: "I would say, let all persons who have influence, and who do not wish to see our own coasting trade pass under foreign control, insist that Congress grant without delay the act of incorporation to an American company to construct the Nicaragua Canal, as asked, without any guaranty whatever, or thereafter hold their peace. There are people stupid enough to suppose that the constitutional powers of our nation are insufficient to secure what are manifestly great vital interests. Among these in the past, were not Jackson or Clay, or, indeed, a single name of national notoriety. Without possessing personally any knowledge of party or party interests, I pronounce the non-existence of sufficient powers very dangerous and quite a modern heresy, which will, ere long, stamp its supporters with ignominy. After the Government of the United States has fairly developed the exceptional and undoubted commercial advantages of the Nicaragua Canal route, it proposes, now, to abandon them to whom it may concern, and therefore, as a natural consequence, to submit the control of its own coasting trade to whatever foreign domination may construct the canal."

Illegal Combinations.

James R. Keene, the New York millionaire, and Washington Butcher's Sons, in December, 1886, formed a pool to advance the price of land and employed E. A. Kent & Co. of that city and Poole, Kent & Co. of Chicago as brokers for the purchase and sale of land. It is said that a small fortune was realized, but the members of the pool charged their brokers had defrauded them by making fictitious purchases and sales. Keene sued Kent and others in the Supreme Court to recover his share of the profits of the pool. They interposed a defense that the transactions were gambling ones, and that the law would not force them to account. Judge Daniels, of the Supreme Court, has rendered his opinion in the matter, reversing the opinion of the Court below, which directed the brokers to file a bill of particulars of the pool's transactions. He holds that the defense interposed is valid and that the law does not sanction that form of gambling, declaring that combinations to keep articles of food and other necessities off the market with a view of getting higher prices are unlawful conspiracies, punishable as crimes.

The Orland (Cal.) Times says: A farmer residing in the vicinity of St. Johns has stumbled upon an ingenious way of catching wild geese. He loads the barrel of his shotgun about half full of red pepper and saltes forth in search of his victims. When the opportunity is afforded him, he shoots at the heads of the geese and of course blinds them; all he has to do then is to make a quiet sneak upon said geese and gather them to his fond embrace.

Latest from the Panama canal is that work is progressing. The contractors are satisfied, although they are working against difficulties, in consequence of the tail end of the rainy season and the celebration of the December holidays. The sanitary record is good.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Walkiki road is still boggy in places.

A mixed jury case occupied the Supreme Court yesterday.

The S. S. Mariposa has not been telephoned up to the hour of going to press.

A fore-and-aft schooner was reported off Diamond Head at six o'clock last evening.

Mr. P. C. Jones and wife returned to town by the W. G. Hall yesterday afternoon.

Steamer Waimanalo, not being too small to keep clean, is going on the ways to-day.

Temperance meeting in Fowler's yard, held by the Y. M. C. A. committee, this evening.

Several strange pairs of eyes are peering into Honolulu life since the arrival of the "Australia."

A large bunch of bananas grown at Ewa was on exhibition at the store of Brown & Co. yesterday.

The S. S. Australia commenced loading sugar yesterday afternoon. She will sail on the 19th inst. for San Francisco.

A beautiful picture of a "Russian Bridal Feast" may be seen in the show window of King Bros' art store on Hotel street.

A large number of bunches of bananas are on the Pacific Mail wharf waiting to be shipped to San Francisco by the Mariposa.

Two sufferers from the "disease for which opium is the proper remedy" were remorselessly "pulled" by officer Hopkins last evening.

Two Chinese gamblers were arrested in a house on Smith street yesterday, being caught in the act. One of the celestials was released on bail.

An old native arrived from Kau, Hawaii, by the steamer W. G. Hall yesterday afternoon, and was taken to the Lunalia Home, he being somewhat idiotic.

A brace of Chinese gamblers and another of opium smokers were all the supernumeraries procured last night for Justice Dayton's matinee this morning.

The Charles Patterson reported fined on Tuesday was not C. B. Patterson the painter, nor, indeed, anybody of that name but of a similar looking one mistaken for "Patterson" in copying the record.

The following passengers are booked to leave for the Coast by the Mariposa: Miss Maude Wodehouse, Guy Wodehouse, M. S. Grinbaum, F. H. Austin, Mrs. Austin, Oscar White, F. M. Butler, and the three Princes.

MEN AND THINGS.

BY ORATIO.

"Thank you! I don't mind if I do, just for a little while and in so accepting will endeavor to keep you on an even keel with other busybodies in my line. I'll see you often and throw you in an unconsidered trifle. And now to biz."

Of course the roads, the —, —, —, roads are entitled to a thought and so is the Road Supervisor. Now I am not much posted on road making myself, but would suggest to the aforesaid R. S. that, if other material is scarce, he might obtain a supply of the intangible substance with which the regions of Pluto are said to be paved; and this is about the season of the year that the supply is greatest. Good intentions, as a rule, don't hold water, therefore no prospect of mud.

That was a rather peculiar position in which a junior member of the Hawaiian bar, although an old practitioner, dared to place the judge and jury in that murder case the other day, w sn't it? I should smile! Now I think that, if my cully had not pressed on, there would have been a chance for a four-in-hand to judge, without a bicker tone. As it ended everything was rosy, however, and the prisoner became, as it were, a new man.

I have been here some little time, as you know, and now in looking back over the political performances of the past two years, I touch my taro-patch fiddle and propound the following adaptation, which I am satisfied will be readily translated and appreciated by my learned friend Paul Neumann, or by some other ex-minister of blessed memory:

"Quod volo observari, habenda lingua, clare Ut visus pro obcuris, et jocus pro pariteris, Peculiaris est politia Hawaiianensis; Quod surgam in ministeris."

To be translated anon.

Allow me to tell you and your "host of readers," I believe that's what the Advertiser says in such cases, that many journalistic ears, which on account of their size have been a protection to their owners for some time past, will be made to tingle in the near future, by one whose pen is steeped in gall and whose paper is dampened in hyssop. I will introduce you, quickly, on his arrival.

Anent the departure of the Samoan embassy, I have heard that Moehonua was forwarded thither, not as Cornelia presented the Gracchi, as representative of jewelry of any kind, but illustrative of a latest improved piece of Hawaiian ordinance. I believe that he carries a Foreign Office certificate that he "can throw a ball over one hundred feet!"

And can you tell me about the truth of the story that is going the rounds relative to the cargo of burnt umbel, lime and whitewash brushes to be forwarded by earliest opportunity to Joe Strong, for the purpose of supplying needed material for painting the newly discovered subjects? Nothing in it? O! "Gynbergrinkenstein!" Not at all misty now, yet only a perterse "flavor" would continue to quote and strize from a shadow of such little original substance. I consider, as the coming events did not pan out anywhere near like the prophecy, that Nusbig has now to a great extent the laugh on the Grand Duke and his Sivtup maker. Truly:

"Wisdom and wit are little seen "But Folly's at full length."

I believe that there has been considerable complaint, of late, regarding the color of some of the best brands of milk, served not, or supposed to be, from the best brand of cows. A lactometer has revealed in some cases a more than sufficient quantum of aqueous with the lactical fluid. The milkmen when questioned hold their hands up and say, "Such a state of affairs was to be expected, the continuous and heavy downpour of late causing water to leak through the skins of the cows!"

"Dear, dear, what a lot of nice young men!" as the mannikin "Sarah Walker" of the Millis combination used to say, and which I felt bound to repeat when I saw the Honolulu Rifles at their drill the other evening. I noticed the cold and bare appearance of their army and I wondered if they were not allowed the privilege of being a representative corps without receiving the helping hand they should obtain from those they honored in the representation. Well, I thought, and thought, and then I wished. I wished I was a bloated bondholder.

There was a considerable amount of Love sacrificed at the hyemencal altar, in town here, during the past week, aided and assisted too, by ministers of the gospel. To tel-e-pho-ne story of one couple, the celestial spark from his, Hart, captured her, Love. Of the other happy pair a knock down joke might be that, although not Morganatic, it was Morgan-Love.

SIDE LIGHTS.

Goo Kim is always printing something nice for the ladies.

Mr. Kennedy beckons house hunters to one he has to let.

Ladies, read what Mr. Fishel has to say since the steamer came.

Smoke the "Wedge," to be found at C. J. McCarthy's.

An Inter-Island Tunnel.

It is understood that there is a plan on foot to connect the Islands by a tunnel driven under the bed of the sea. The new steamer, of which the purchase is under advisement, is to be used for sounding, and when that is completed the work will commence. The tunnel will be large enough to lay two tracks, so that there will be no stoppage either coming or going. The motive power will be electricity, so that there will be no steam or smoke. There will be a transfer dept at every island, so that two trains will run continually between each island. A residence out of town will then be an accomplished fact, as a person can leave Moloai, say at 6 a. m. and arrive here at 7 a. m. and leave at 5 p. m. and arrive home in time for supper at 6, the trains leaving at intervals of one hour, and being propelled at a rate of forty miles an hour. This is one of the greatest schemes of the age, as it will establish rapid and sure transit from one island to another, both of freight and passengers, making a little continent of the archipelago. The cost of running the road will be nominal once construction is completed. Travel and freighting will be cheapened considerably. Several of our prominent capitalists are interested, and it is understood the only opposition will be from the inter-island steamship companies, who see in this a threatened loss of patronage, and will use every endeavor to prevent its success.

The above is an original scheme put forth by a person who wishes to see the advancement of Hawaii. When it is consummated the HERALD will secure rights to run a pneumatic tube through the tunnel, for the instantaneous transmission of news one way and the printed papers the other.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The services for the Bethel Union congregation at the Lyceum to-morrow will be as follows: Sunday school and Bible class at 9:45 o'clock. Lesson: "Cain and Abel," Gen. 4:3-16. At 10:40 Mr. T. Arundel will address the school. Services at 11 o'clock with preaching by the Rev. Arthur H. Smith of North China. The Rev. E. C. Ogge, the pastor, will preach at half-past seven o'clock. Subject: "What is it that God wants?" All are cordially invited.

Services at Fort-st. Church as follows: Pastor Cruzan will preach at the usual hours on Sunday. In the evening the theme of the sermon will be "Help! by the way for those who begin a new life." All are invited.

The Bishop's congregation of the Anglican Cathedral will have Morning prayer with sermon at 9:30 A. M.; Sunday school at 10:45 A. M. Hawaiian evens ng at 3:30; English evens ng at 6 P. M.

The second Anglican congregation, Rev. Geo. Wallace, pastor. Services at 11:15 A. M. Evening service at 7:30 P. M. Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. Holy Communion on the first Sunday of the month at 11:15 A. M. The Sunday School meets at 10 A. M. Seats free at all services.

The Roman Catholic Cathedral will have high mass at 10 A. M., and benediction of the blessed sacrament at 4 P. M.

Y. M. C. A.—Young Men's Class for Bible study in the parlor at 9:45 A. M., conducted by the General Secretary. Gospel praise service at 6:30 P. M.

A Grand Present.

A splendid "snow flake and chased" silver set, the wedding gift ordered by Mechanic Engine Co., No. 2, H. F. D., for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huestice, was on view yesterday at E. O. Hall & Son's prior to presentation last evening. It comprises seven pieces—coffee, tea, water, sugar, cream, bowl, and tray—each of which is inscribed with the letter "H" on a card-shaped space polished to a mirror. Besides the initial the tray bears the wedding date, "September 29, 1886." The set is from the celebrated firm of Reed & B. rton, Taunton, Massachusetts. Agreeable to its title, the style is that of leaves and flowers chased on a ground representing snow crystals. Such a gift to one of their number and his bride evinces a fine esprit de corps among the members of Mechanic Company.

A Russian Loan.

Russia has concluded arrangements for obtaining from bankers of Paris a loan of 75,000,000 francs. The money is to be expended in the construction of a canal from the eastern extremity of the Gulf of Peraka, in the Black Sea, across the neck of land joining the Crimea to the mainland, to the Sea of Azov, in order to afford a direct water route from the River Don to the Black Sea. The proposed route would be shorter, more direct and much easier from the mouth of the Don to either Odessa, the mouths of the Danube, Sebastopol or the Bosphorus than the present one by way of the Strait of Kerch, which is both roundabout and difficult. The railway adjacent to this new water route will be put in direct communication with it.

The Hawaiian Mission Children's Society will meet this evening at the residence of Mr. E. C. Damon.

New Josshouse.

A new Chinese josshouse was opened on King street, near the bridge, yesterday, with much Oriental ceremony. The owners, after a good deal of running about, obtained a permit from the Marshal for the use of fireworks on the occasion. They were extremely anxious while their application for the permit was pending, as they consider fire crackers necessary to ward off evil spirits. The gliding of the tip of the gals' ear was the finishing stroke in a gl'ing the temple ready.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Duff's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."

If you want to know all the news you must read the HERALD.

HOW THE SWELL WOMEN MANAGE THE LION BUSINESS.

Literary people are very like other people, and we may presume that they have not altered much since Thackeray wrote "Pendennis." Notwithstanding the number of times this fact has been repeated, we ordinary mortals go on expecting something extraordinary from them. We know it is not at a literary house that "languid beauty keeps her pale faced court," and if we don't get enough novelty to excuse her absence we are apt to feel that we have been cheated. We go there to hear the utterances of illustrious mouths, to compare genius with common people, in order, when it is over, to call the latter stupid and dull and the other ridiculous, and at last to take our hats and go away, saying "What fine talk."

There are hostesses in New York where this sort of entertainment is provided, temples of idleness, where people meet to show off, and not to exchange mental pleasure. The hostess there appears to be no more than a conversation manager; when a lion roars she makes signs to the other guests to keep silence just as if a prima donna were singing or Joseffy were at the piano. She listens with all her ears and constrains her guests to listen to all the nonsense that may flow from celebrated lips, while she stifles her yawns and rustles her fan at every word uttered by a nobody. Matter cannot be sensible unless it is vouched for by a fashionable name. With such a principle for its raison d'être a saloon cannot be but unsuccessful. This prejudiced censorious society will not believe that a hostess treats the favorites of the public with systematic adulation because she regards them with frank sympathy and sincere admiration. It ascribes her action to motives of personal vanity.

Jennie June is the exact antipode of a hostess of this order; even her appearance says so. She is a little woman, with brown hair, a small, sensitive mouth, the quietest manners, and a low, sweet voice. During her long incumbency of the Sorosis chair she never once lost the reins of order, and her voice had never to be raised to command the attention of the logic loving sisterhood.

Suppose a good hostess needs a knowledge of the rules of debate, and because of her thorough acquaintance with "Robinson" we need go no farther to inquire why Mrs. Crosby is so successful in a private capacity. She answers precisely to the definition of the truly superior woman who knows enough never to ask a ridiculous and ill timed question and never to oppose people of merit on the ground of personal prejudice. Her parliamentary ability comes in to help her keep apart two powerful antagonists eager to tilt and to display their learning by disputing about a question that nobody wants to understand; she believes in making the subject general, a piece of wisdom taught her no doubt by the Sorosis, where, it is said, all the members want to talk at once.

Personally Jennie June is a favorite with all kinds of people; with the doctors, who like her because she desires to learn and is attentive to any good things they may say; with the ignorant, because she does not care to humiliate them, and is indulgent to their absurdities. In a word, she knows how to keep silent, and that, no doubt, far more than her parliamentary skill, is the secret of her success.

Have you ever thought how lonely a woman may be—may, in a certain sense—without friends or society in a great city like this? If man is a gregarious animal, woman is immensurably more so. Living in New York, surrounded to-day by friends and flatterers, is a lady who left Chicago upon her marriage with a man in politics, about four years ago. She was a good deal surprised at first by the snubbing she received, and when her mind took in the fact that she must make a position for herself, she realized at the same moment the herculean nature of the task. She accomplished her ends only after a thousand rebuffs and a thousand mortifications and slights. Consequently she is able to tell you that New York society knows how to protect itself; she could tell you how it accomplishes itself about with ceremonial, almost with armed force, and she could estimate the proper amount of admiration that is due the successful social pusher, who, keeping her object in view constantly, wades through the sea of difficulties that divides her from the goal of her ambition until by incredible exertion, by ingenuity, by hook, by crook she attains the higher circle of gentility.—Willis Steel in Chicago Times.

Jenny Lind's Voice. It is said that Jenny Lind Goldschmidt's daughter, who, according to rumor, has inherited her mother's voice, will shortly be heard in the United States. It has always been a mystery what became of Jenny Lind's marvelous vocal organ, for it is rare that the possessor of such a gift should persist through so many years in keeping it to herself. Perhaps, like the mother of Adeline Patti, whose voice was said to be never so good after the birth of her wonderful child, Mrs. Goldschmidt transferred her vocal powers, in a measure, to her offspring. In that case the appearance of Miss Lind Goldschmidt will be regarded with unwonted interest.—New York Hour.

The Car to the Rescue. One day the czarina appeared in a new corn colored gown, which was much admired by the court ladies. A few minutes later a young lady attached to the imperial household, Miss Federoffna Ghika, entered, wearing a gown exactly like it. A blunder had been made by the Paris dressmakers, but that did not diminish the czarina's evident anger nor the young lady's consternation. But the czar came to the rescue. "I and my lieutenants," he said, smiling, "also wear exactly similar uniforms."—New York Tribune.

Where House Flies Live. People who wonder where house flies come from may be interested in knowing that they are to be met with on the plains 300 miles from any house, and that they buzz around the highest peaks of the Andes as well as elsewhere.—Detroit Free Press.

The last census shows 2,000,000 Christians in India.

FUN AMONG THE HINDOOS.

Masquerading as Wild Animals—Lecturing a Native Christian.

A singular thing may occasionally be seen in India at the festival of the Mehurram. While the Shiah Mohammedans are lamenting in black over the death of Ali and his two sons—the son-in-law and grandsons of the Prophet—the Sunni Mohammedans are making high festival in honor of the three first caliphs, and masquerading as tigers and bears to represent the wild beasts of the forest which haunted the bank of the Euphrates when the last son of Ali was murdered. To this day the Sunni Mohammedans and a host of skylarking Hindoos will play all the pranks that are described as having taken place in the court of Timur. The antagonism between Shiah and Sunni may occasionally lead to fighting and bloodshed; but preliminary arrangements are generally made by British authorities to prevent the possibility of collision.

Some years ago a characteristic incident took place at the celebration of the Mehurram in the city of Madras. The Shiah were weeping aloud and beating their breasts in the bosom of their families; but the Sunnis were abroad in the streets and highways, keeping holiday. A Hindoo magistrate kept the peace, supported by a strong staff of native police. Hosts of Asiatics appeared before his worship, painted up and disguised as tigers, bears, monkeys, and other animals.

Troops of representatives of every trade approached the magisterial bench at intervals to make salaams and perform their several parts as marks of respect to the grave and majestic Hindoo magistrate, who to them was the representative of government, the emblem of the state—the sarkar. The multitude of performers was perfectly orderly, playing like children, amusing and amused. Now and then a drunken tiger or a noisy bear was brought before the bench on which the magistrate sat with one or two European lookers-on. To the uninitiated it seemed surprising that the bulk of the performers were Hindoos, who had joined in the Mohammedan festival from sheer love of fun, which had overpowered all feelings of religious antagonism.

The Hindoo magistrate dismissed each offender without caring whether he was Mohammedan or Hindoo. At last, however, a riotous tiger was brought up for punishment, smeared with stripes of paint and overcome with liquor and terror. The frightened tiger confessed that he had been drunk and disorderly, but begged to excuse himself on the score that he was a Christian. Probably he was some pariah, who only called himself a Christian in the hope of escaping fine or imprisonment. But the opportunity was not to be had, and accordingly the worthy magistrate delivered a homily from the bench for the edification of the European gentlemen on the enormity of a native Christian playing at tigers and bears with Mohammedans.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Consumption of Oysters.

"Where are the oysters consumed?" "Mainly in New York," was the reply. "About 200,000,000 per year is the amount of the New York consumption. The hotels here use nearly 100,000 per day, nearly all Blue Points. The hotels have improved very much in this respect in the last half dozen years, as their patrons showed that they knew a good thing and demanded it. To a few eastern cities, however, this is confined, for all through the west, even the best hotels slap down the cheapest quality of oysters before their guests. The western people are being educated up to a knowledge of oysters, and the demand for the best quality is rapidly growing. Chicago is the distributing center for all that region, and takes about 30,000 a day. They are sent west without the shells in large palls containing 1,000 and a chunk of ice. You do not often find oysters on the shell in Chicago on account of the heavy freight charges. It is cheaper to send a barrel of oysters to Europe than to Chicago." "When is an oyster in the best condition?" "When between two and three years old. The planting and cultivation of oysters is what makes them expensive, for they must be taken care of like flowers. We plant a number of seed oysters in a certain place, and leave them there on a mud bottom to fatten and grow for a couple of years or a little less, and then remove them to a hard bottom, on which they get their shape best; there they remain perhaps a year, and are then fit for market. Oysters very often grow to be a dozen years old, but after four years are not good."

Collecting and Selling Addresses. In addition to his other vast business interests Erastus Wiman is the inventor of a scheme for collecting and selling the addresses of people all over the United States, which nets him an enormous yearly income. This last is a great scheme, and it works like a charm. For instance, if I have a patent medicine that I wanted to introduce to the general market, I go to Mr. Wiman's address agency, and in return for the payment of a certain sum I receive a list that includes the name of every druggist in the United States. If I have a new brand of tobacco I can secure the name of every cigar dealer in America through this same agency. And so it goes through all the trades.—New York Letter.

A Test of Good Poetry.

The test of good poetry, as of good wine, an English critic says, is not analysis, but taste; and he adds: "A collection of really good poetry made by a good critic—such as Palgrave's 'Golden Treasury'—helps more to elevate the popular standard of poetic excellence and to fix an absolute standard than any quantity of ingenious analysis, in the details of which probably no two critics agree."—Chicago Herald.

Wealthy Ex-Confederate Generals.

Facts recently collected show that a large number of the generals in the late civil war have become rich through industrial enterprises. In the north, although the close of that contest found them penniless, Gen. Brown, of Tennessee, Gen. Mahone, of Virginia, Gen. Wheeler, of Alabama, and Gen. Gibson, of Louisiana, are examples.—Frank Leslie's.

To Induce Healthful Repose.

In the decline of life, when exhausted nature habitually repels the restorative influence of sleep, there is nothing so suitable to induce healthful repose as on half to one teaspoonful of bromidol, at bedtime. It may be taken for years, in the same dose, with the same effect and without detriment.—American Medical Journal.

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.
