LIBERTY.

It is a land of liberty. Hawaiian liberty is a transplant from the soil of America. It cost the Hawaiian nothing. The costs and charges were borne by American citizens. The Hawaiian neither fought nor bled for his high privileges. The American did. Hence the latter sets a high value on the prize, while the former esteems it very lightly. To the one, liberty is the birthright of every citizen; to the other it is the token of fat salaries for a favored few and abject servility to the rest. What there is of recognition of popular rights in the Constitution of the Kingdom is American; what is conspicuous for its absence in that respect is Hawaiian. These are palpable truths that seem to have been entirely lost sight of in the politics of the country of late years. Now it is "Hawaii for the Hawaiians" with a vengeance. Formerly it was Hawaii for progress, development and civilization. The Hawaiian Constitution carefully guards the prerogatives of the Crown, while the rights of the people are recognized in many places with vagueness and looseness of expression, indicating that at least the people were absent when the document was drawn up. The Kingdom is nearly half a century old, which is not a very venerable antiquity. When promulgated, the Constitution was a great step in advance; but the experiences of the years already past go to show that in some essential points it is grievously defective, both in matter and phrase. Can it be amended? The Constitution may be like Paddy's gun, in need of a new lock, stock and barrel, to prevent those now handling the weapon from blowing their own heads off. It certainly secures to them this liberty among others, and if there were any expectation that they would avail themselves of it within a reasonable time, no further complaint would be heard among the taxpayers for the present. But as fortune is rather fickle in dispensing national favors where people do not merit them, it would be the wiser course for all citizens who care a continental what becomes of the country to take such steps as are manifestly needed to secure and perpetuate the great principles of liberty to the Kingdom of Hawaii for all time to come. To obtain this, constitutional amendments are needed which will establish for the taxpayer that respect for his rights which his importance in the community demands. Almost any functionary except the taxpayer may be dispensed with by the nation. The most prosperous and contented people on the face of the earth are getting along wondrous well without a crowned head; but they have no idea of ever trying to exist without taxpayers. The taxpayer there has the liberty of directing how the public moneys are to be disbursed. Here he is the last one consulted. There, the manipulator of public affairs certainly has the liberty to run riot in all manner of rascality, and the citizens have also the liberty to send the rioter to the penitentiary. If similar facilities existed here for dealing with irregularities, the liberties of the people would be much more secure. It is essential to a high standard of popular rights and liberties that no one in the state can occupy a position wherein he is not amenable to the provisions of the Constitution or the law of the land. Great Britain, the most extensive in area and varied in population and resources of all the empires ever ruled by a crowned head, is an example to the world of the supremacy of law, the law and constitutional usage being as obligatory on the sovereign as upon the humblest clerk in the civil service. The law is above the crown in England, and England's crown is the highest and most illustrious that history has yet portrayed. In the Hawaiian economy, the relations of the sovereign to the Constitution and the laws leaves the way open to numberless abuses. The amendment needed is one that will place the law a grade higher in the social scale, making the sovereign and the subject answerable alike to its penalties as well as its requirements. This amendment secured, liberty will have been deeply rooted in Hawaiian soil. Till then its hold is somewhat superficial.

Captain Chaney, formerly of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Co.'s steamer C. R. Bishop, took command of the steamer Waialeale on her trip to Kauai last evening, in place of Captain Weir, who takes command of the steamer Mikahala, from which Captain Hall has resigned.

At Low Prices.

New novelties in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Hats this week by the Australia, manufactured expressly for our sales. Several exclusive styles in Ladies' and Misses' Turbans and Carriage Hats.

A Word on Inexpensive Millinery.
While we admit that no goods come to this country for millinery purposes too fine for us to buy, at the same time we claim to carry the

Largest Line and Best Assorted Stock
Of general Millinery of all grades in Honolulu.
To those who do not have much time for shopping: Do not let the idea (so industriously circulated by interested parties, who keep nothing but cheap goods,) run away with your judgment, that because a house is largely patronized by those who give a great deal of attention to their dress, you must necessarily pay high prices for what you want. As a general thing such people have time and plenty of it to look around, and just as anxious to make a dollar go as far as you are, and take advantage every time of the opportunity to get the best bargains for their money.

The Equitable Column.

THE EQUITABLE

Life Assurance Society
OF THE UNITED STATES.

Total Assets, Dec. 31, '86, $75,510,472.76

Total Liabilities, including legal Reserve on all existing policies (4 per cent Standard) $59,144,597.000

Total Undivided Surplus over Four per cent Reserve, - - $16,355,875.76

Of which the proportion contributed (as computed) by Policies in general class, is $ 5,728,761.76

Of which the proportion contributed (as computed) by Policies in Tontine class, is 10,627,114.00

Upon the New York State Standard of 4 1/2 per cent interest, the Surplus is as computed, $20,495,175.76

New Assurance written in 1886, $111,540,203
Total Outstanding Assurance, $411,779,098

Increase of Premium Income, $2,810,475.40
Increase of Surplus (Four per cent basis), - - - - - $2,409,636.63
Increase of Assets, - - - - - $8,957,083.26

In actual Surplus (namely the excess of accumulated funds over liabilities); in Premium Income; in the amount of Assurance in force on its books, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States exceeds every other life assurance company, and may be justly regarded as the largest and strongest life assurance organization in the World.

EXAMPLE
Of Policy No. 67,359. Life. Issued Jan. 22, 1872, on the life of W. H. C. Date of expiration Jan. 22, 1887.
Amount of Policy, $10,000. Tontine Period, 15 years. Age 53. Annual Premium, $543.10.

Total premiums paid in 15 years, - $8,146.50

1. CASH VALUE,
Consisting of Reserve, $3,856.30
and Surplus, 4,199.80
$9,056.10

2. PAID-UP VALUE. - - - $13,050.00

If the policy-holder select this settlement, as the paid-up value is larger than the original amount of assurance, a satisfactory certificate of good health must be furnished, or the excess must be drawn on a cash basis.

3. CASH SURPLUS, - - - $5,199.80

Under this settlement, the policy holder withdraws the surplus in cash, and retains the original policy, continuing the payment of premiums, less annual dividends.

Three other options are available under this Policy.

The policies with 10-year Tontine periods do not show results as satisfactory as those above given. Policies with 20-year periods, on the other hand, will show much larger results than those with 15-year periods; but for purposes of illustration the 15-year policies—those of the intermediate period—are given as fair illustrations.

The longer period of accumulation which the 20-year policies enjoy renders them the most desirable for those who, seeking absolute protection at the lowest "Life" rate, desire also the largest returns in case they live;

Hence the Best Free Tontine "Ordinary Life" Policy is One with a TWENTY-YEARTONTINE PERIOD

The Free Tontine Policy of the Equitable Life Assurance Society is unrestricted after one year, incontestable after two years, and is then PAYABLE in the event of death, immediately upon the receipt of satisfactory proofs of death.

It guarantees a full share of the surplus earned, and being issued by a Society holding a

Larger Surplus than any other Assurance Company,
May be expected to show larger profits than the policies of any other company.
In addition to the advantages above cited, the Equitable now guarantees a full return of all premiums paid as well as the face of the Policy in case of death during the Tontine period.

LOCAL NEWS.

Rumored changes in the Customs department have not as yet become accomplished facts. A sugar mill from the Iron Works is to be shipped to Waianae by the schooner Waiehu to-day.

Mrs. S. Kasi, Mrs. J. Auld and Mr. Edmund Hart left by the steamer Mokoli'i last evening, to attend a wedding at Pukoo, Molokai.

Officers and teachers of the Bethel Union Sunday School will meet at the residence of Mr. H. A. Parmelee, Fort street, at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

The Zealandia on Saturday took a mail for the Coast of 5,118 letters and 1,764 papers; and the Australia, yesterday, one of 3,050 letters and 5,799 papers; total 8,168 letters and 2,343 papers.

Messrs. E. P. Adams & Co. on Saturday sold a lot of land at Lahaina, containing 19 perches, to Messrs. Campbell & Isenberg for $218. The sale of the Lunaloa street property was postponed for one week.

Smith's prophetic vision on the state of the weather for this region during the week past, was a great deal clearer than "Rosey's" on the great fire question. Smith, by the way, is a resident of far off Montreal, and has not even a telegraph wire from here to work points on.

Wm. Moore denies the report published in this paper that he struck a policeman in that affair on Queen street Saturday night week. His denial is cheerfully accepted and published. He has taken an appeal to the Supreme Court against the fine of $40 levied on him in the Police Court.

The performance of Messrs. McGregor and Shannon, at the Music Hall, on last Saturday evening, was rather poorly attended, the weather being a natural drawback to the presence of a large audience. The performance itself was of a "variety" character and was creditable to the participants in the numbers on the programme.

British residents in San Francisco purpose commemorating the jubilee anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign, by securing and endowing a hospital or portion of a hospital to be known as the "Victoria Hospital," or "Victoria Wing," or ward, whichever it may be. The Chronicle of April 27th, received by a sailing vessel yesterday, says: "Their loyalty cannot find a more graceful or more useful and lasting expression."

Police Court. Sixteen natives, including some females, were ranged in front of the tribunal of the peace on Saturday, charged with violating the gaming law of 1884, "by being present where a game was carried on where any sum of money or anything of value was either won or lost, and by aiding and abetting gaming." They all pleaded not guilty and were remanded until yesterday.

A police officer charged with assault, in reference to the raid on the alleged gamblers above mentioned, was remanded until the 12th. Joe Sylva, for disturbing the quiet of the night, and his chum, M. S. Perry, for preventing justice, were brought up on remand. Judgment in both cases was that the evidence being conflicting, the defendants were found not guilty and discharged. Hopu seemed to be mixed up in the same racket with the above pair. He was tried for assault and battery on Mrs. Perry, but the evidence was at sixes and sevens, and he was given the benefit of the doubt and discharged.

Ah Sang was consigned to durance vile for one month as a vagrant. Two Chinese accused of gaming were remanded till the 10th.

At yesterday's sitting Ah Seen was fined $11.20 for assault on another Chinaman. The native crowd charged with gaming were brought up on remand. Iola, the "banker," as it proved, in the game of che fa, adopted from the Chinese, was fined $64.20. Thirteen of the defendants were remanded till to-day. M. Kemui and Paauki were discharged, and Geo Nolan was fined $6.10.

Four depositors of bail for drunkenness forfeited their money. A pair guilty of adultery were fined respectively $30 and $10.

Ah Wai, charged with a violation of the penal code relating to gaming, was discharged, but Miami was stuck for $25.

Pacific Hose Company Nominates a Ticket.

At the monthly meeting of Pacific Hose Company, H. F. D., last evening, there was a large attendance. Mr. J. W. McDonald, Assistant Foreman, presided in the absence of Mr. M. D. Monserrat, Foreman.

Messrs. J. W. McDonald, C. Zeigler, A. H. Rasmann and W. H. McLean, four members of the committee of five appointed at last meeting to recommend candidates for the Department elections, reported the following as the most popular and available names:—

For Chief Engineer, M. D. Monserrat, Foreman of this company, who had served as First and Second Assistant.

For First Assistant, Mr. Julius Asch, the present incumbent.

For Second Assistant, Mr. Peter Souza, Foreman of Engine Co. No. 4. The recommendation was adopted without dissent as the ticket of the company.

A large number of new members were elected. Messrs. Welsh, Zeigler, Pomeroy, Isaacs, Kanake, Robertson, Rasmann, Gertz, Grazer and Kennedy were appointed a committee to promote the company's ticket in the elections, after remarks had been made by several members urging the company to united and vigorous action.

Public Caterers.

Mr. J. Ingram "and a lady," members of the Blue Ribbon League, presented an enjoyable bill at the free entertainment, given under the auspices of the League, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on last Saturday evening. The general public were exceedingly well represented, notwithstanding the drawbacks of unpleasant weather and also a performance at the Music Hall.

At 7:30 o'clock promptly, Rev. H. H. Gowen announced the opening chorus, which was heartily joined in by the audience, after which prayer was delivered by Rev. J. A. Cruzan. Mr. Gowen now followed in a short and pithy address, which led up to the introduction of his co-worker Mr. Cruzan, as the showman of the evening.

The entertainment proper commenced with the recital, by Master Ruby Dexter, of an incident connected with the noted Indian chief Tuscarora, and the delivery won for the young declaimer hearty and deserved applause. Master Willie Berger was next announced and he sung the popular ballad, "A Boy's Best Friend is His Mother." The marked demands for more music from his youthful throat were met by the rendition of the mirthful melody of "Widow Dunn," which also made the audience appreciatively demonstrative. The "Legend of Brezeng," by Miss Hattie Dickson, a prize declaimer of Oahu College, was given by the young lady with faultless elocution, the interest of the audience being held from commencement to close, and noisy testimony was presented of the success of the speaker. After the singing of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," by Mr. Atwater, the audience were treated to a humorous sketch, gotten up by Mrs. Dexter, entitled "An Irish Love Letter," taken part in by Miss Helen Sorenson, Miss Lottie Parmelee and Master Ruby Dexter. The character parts were well performed by the amateur actors, that of Dinah, a "cullud pusson," by Master Dexter being especially well given. Miss Hattie Nedham vocalized, in a pleasing manner, "Katie's Letter," responding also to an encore. Mr. P. C. Jones in a short and interesting recital gave the audience additional reason for being glad that they were present, after which the entertainment was closed with the usual hymnal exercises.

Shipping Notes.

S. S. Zealandia's freight list from Honolulu comprised 12,925 bags sugar, 11,739 from W. G. Irwin & Co., and 1,186 from H. A. Widemann; 1,244 bunches bananas, 29 boxes fruit and 27 boxes betel leaves. S. S. Australia sailed for San Francisco yesterday, with 26,574 bags sugar, 23,722 from W. G. Irwin & Co., 2,211 from H. A. Widemann and 641 from M. Phillips & Co.; 890 bags rice, 2,331 bunches bananas, 726 bundles green hides, 18 bunches sheep and goat skins, 100 boxes Chinese fish, 160 bundles sugar cane, 2 packages express matter, 1 bag coin. Value foreign goods, $1,085; of domestic products $153,245.34. Bark Ironcrag took 24,969 bags sugar, 2,857 from F. A. Schaefer & Co., 6,106 from Castle & Cooke and 10,932 from Theo. H. Davies & Co. Weight of cargo, 2,894,605 pounds; value, $112,988.10. Steamer C. R. Bishop brought 157 bags sugar and 94 of rice bran, etc.; schooner Moiwahine, 1,500 bags sugar; schooner Waiehu, 400 bags sugar; schooner Sarah & Eliza 330 bags sugar; schooner Emma, 165 bags rice and a quantity of sand. Schooner Waimalu, that left last Wednesday for Hawaii, had to put back owing to stress of weather, reaching port yesterday. She sails to-day for Papaikou, Hawaii. Schooner Emma struck bottom on Kauai, and goes on the Marine Railway to-day for examination and repairs. Schooner Heeia brought a load of firewood yesterday from Makee's ranch, Maui.

Tern W. S. Bowne, in command of Capt. Blumh, formerly of the Dora Blumh, sailed from San Francisco April 27th at 6 p. m., and arrived off Honolulu light May 8th at 9 p. m., entering port yesterday morning. She brought a cargo of general merchandise.

Barkentine S. N. Castle, Hubbard master, left San Francisco April 28th at 5 a. m., arriving in Honolulu May 9th at 11 days. She brought several passengers and a general cargo. Capt. Hubbard considers the Castle can do the passage with a fair wind in eight days.

Bark Colma will probably sail tomorrow for San Francisco. Bark Hope has the lumber out from between decks, and that in the lower hold will be tackled to-day. Expects to be all discharged by Thursday, and loaded with sugar to sail on Saturday.

Barkentine Eureka will probably be ready to sail on Thursday for San Francisco. Steamers Kinoua, Likelike and Mikahala all sail on their respective routes this afternoon.

Telephonic Naval Orders.

High Admiral's Office—Royal Dockyard. H. A.—Hello; is Captain Jackson there?

Shipwright—No, sir. H. A.—I want the Kaimiloa moved out in the stream, as the Australian steamer is due to-day. Tell the Lieutenant.

S.—The Lieutenant is not here, sir. H. A.—Well, tell the boatswain. S.—The boatswain is not here, either.

H. A.—Where are all the officers? S.—I don't know, sir. H. A.—Well, yourself have the ship moved out into the stream. (Aside) We must corral the scamps in the harbor. They are running entirely too wild about the town.

Kauai Notes.

Nothing was landed at Nawiliwili by the steamer Mikahala last Wednesday morning. She went on to Hanalei and landed the mails, but no freight except a few articles. Better luck in letters, papers and other sundries is hoped for next Wednesday. The N. E. trades have been fresh, vigorous and sometimes rather boisterous during the week.

Mr. F. W. Damon has just been all round, having returned to this place yesterday en route for home. He visited all parts of the island in which Chinese are domiciled, addressing full audiences, and illustrating each discourse with views by the magic lantern. Mr. Damon appears to be very well satisfied with his visits to the people to whom his mission is specially directed. The Chinese proved to be attentive auditors and seemed well pleased to be instructed in the better way.

INDIAN COURTSHIP.

HOW THE COPPER-COLORED ROMEO WINS HIS DUSKY MATE.

A Courtship of Quietness, Without Whispers or Kissings—Obtaining Consent of Parents and Relatives—Paying for the Wife—Marrying a Wife's Sister.

There are many different ways of doing the courting—some of them different from our own, yet no less cunning and successful. Whether successful or not in the suit, the young man's relish for food and other pleasures of life is not in the least diminished; he meets his disappointment in love unlike his friend, the doctor, who, during unfavorable periods, forsakes his meals, looks pale and contemplates the various ways of suicide.

When a young man likes a girl, he soon discovers her feelings toward him. He will carefully follow her footsteps, until he catches her alone—sitting on the grass, on a rock or dead tree. He quickly throws a blanket or robe over her head and crawls to her side under the protecting shelter. If the girl likes to be thus captured, there will be peace and quietness, and they will sit side by side for hours, without whispering, kissings, or other endearing little trifles—they simply press closely together and look sadly happy. But if the girl is averse to the proceedings, there will be a short, sharp and decisive battle, which always ends to the discomfort of the amorously inclined swain, for he dare not persist by force.

Capt. W. P. Clark, in his work, says that the "Pindis Indians" do the most of their courting in a standing position. An Indian lover will stand and wait near the lodge, where abides the object of admiration, until she appears, when he walks up alongside of her and throws his blanket around her. If she reciprocates the tender sentiment, they will thus stand for hours, his blanket covering both their heads and closely wrapped round both their bodies.

I have seen as many as half a dozen young men waiting by the path, which led down to the water, near a camp, and one after another throw his blanket around a girl as she was going down to fill the water vessel. While so waiting or standing outside a lodge, they usually have their heads entirely covered with their blanket, excepting only a little hole for one eye. If the girl likes to be held, she makes some reply to the first tender greeting; if she expresses dislike to his advances, the man, by the law of courtship, must at once desist.

The boys aspire to appear as men at the age of 15 or 16; they have become successful hunters and warriors, and, as soon as their men's warrant, they will marry. The girls, under the tutelage of their mothers, learn the manifold details of their future life of drudgery and attain womanhood at about 13, when they soon after marry.

After the young man has succeeded in courtship it becomes necessary to obtain the consent of the parents and relatives. He puts on his robe with the hair-side out, draws it over his head, so as to entirely conceal his face, and in this guise walks to the lodge of the intended fair one, enters and squats down. No one addresses him, nor does he utter a word—but his object is sufficiently understood by all concerned. Having thus sat in silence awhile, he arises and passes out. After a lapse of a few days he repeats his visit, wearing his robe as before. If, upon entering, the bear-skin or other seat of honor was made ready for his reception, he is at liberty to disclose his face and be seated, for such a welcome indicated that his addresses were not unacceptable; but if he met with no such preparations, he might as well retire, for his attentions are not regarded favorably. If he was received, the young girl soon took her seat by his side.

A HARMONIOUS SOLUTION. The father of the girl would then suggest that both families of the contracting parties make a feast, and hold council concerning the proposed alliance. This is done within a few days, and usually results in a harmonious solution of the all-important question. It is seldom that the match falls through on account of the poverty of or some stigma attached to the suitor, or the personal aversion of the maiden.

In the latter case, if the man was acceptable to her relatives, they endeavor to overcome her opposition by persuasion, in some cases even resorting to violence, cruelly beating her with their fists or sticks till consent is extorted.

If no cause of objection was raised on either side, then the two families proceed to settle up the price that the young man should pay. This custom of paying for the wife is universal among all Indian tribes; the cost—from one to six horses. The union then follows without any further ceremony, than a final feast given by the girl's father. The husband generally goes to the lodge of the in-law and lives there with his wife. A particular part of the lodge is allotted to him, and henceforth he is a member of that family.

With many tribes the son-in-law marries his wife's sisters as he becomes unmarriageable, paying to the father a horse or two for each successive one. Hence the son-in-law usually speaks of his wife's sisters as wives, though they might yet be small children.

When a white man marries an Indian woman, it is a genuine sale, growing out of greed of gain or some benefit, real or imaginary, which will accrue to the father and relatives; the poor, dirty maiden is often led away with tears and protestations of a most violent nature, but she afterwards becomes a faithful slave.—Col. Guide Ilges in Chicago Graphic News.

A Theory Concerning New Stars. An ingenious astronomical theory is that of Mr. Monck, of Dublin, who suggests that as shooting stars are known to be dark bodies rendered luminous for a short time by rushing through our atmosphere, new stars are dark or faintly luminous bodies which acquire a short-lived brilliancy by rushing through some of the gaseous masses—visible, perhaps, as nebulae—which exist in space.—Arkansas Traveler.

Pasteur's Wolf-Bitten Russian Patients. The number of persons treated thus far by M. Pasteur to avert hydrophobia exceeds 1,600. Four more Russians have arrived in Paris to be under his care. M. Pasteur has received a telegram from the Russian doctor who accompanied to Paris the nineteen Russians whose treatment for wolf-bites lately excited so much notice, stating that all his surviving patients are now in perfect health.—Chicago Tribune.

"Azov" wheat, recently imported from Russia, is doing splendidly in Manitoba. The best way to expand the chest is to have a good large heart inside.

THE GEORGIA DIALECT.

Curiosities of the Language as Used in the Empire State of the South.

Among the peculiarities of our dialect is the putting of the defining word before the object defined, as "that ere man," for "that man, there," "that 'ere book," for "this book, here." These expressions must sound strange in cultivated ears, accustomed to Bostonian English, and yet there are several million people who use them constantly. "Stop," for "leave me alone" is peremptory, and conveys the exact meaning of the speaker. In the same way "quit" or "drop" or "let" are used. For instance, one will say "drop it" or "drap it," as the expression is frequently used, meaning "say no more about it." "Hold on" means to stay proceedings, and "go it," with a peculiar intonation, means "go on in your own way, I have nothing more to say."

"Get up" is understood as a demand to move along. "It's shore to be so" means that the assertion, or the existing circumstances are, beyond a doubt, exactly as stated. "To put out" a lamp does not mean to carry it outside, but to extinguish the light. To "holter" is to cry aloud, and I think there is not a more expressive word in the language. To "cry" in common parlance means "to weep," while according to the dictionaries it may mean a variety of sounds of the voice. It is never used among the country people in any other sense than to weep. They have a different word for other noises, as yell, a shrill cry; whoop, a full-sounded cry; boiler, a sort of cross between the two, as used in common with either word, etc. The rather pungent expression "beat him all holes," however, means that the one alluded to first is far superior to the other. Occasionally the rustic drifts into a redundancy of expression quite surprising. He says "his'n," "her'n," "their'n," equivalent to "his own," "their own," instead of simply "his," "hers," "theirs." By this seems to impress the idea of proprietorship by the addition of the word "own." The word "split," to divide, is used as "cut down" is to diminish or decrease. "Tolerably well" means "moderately well."

These words and phrases are all good English to those who use them constantly, and you would be surprised to know just how many people use them constantly. There is one little remnant of cockneyism that is observable in the language of the common people. This—the leaving off the aspirate. Besides "I've," "we've" and "they've," which can hardly be placed in this class, because "I'll," "we'll," and "they'll" show the contraction of the auxiliary verb in the same way. I have noticed that the pronouns suffer most from the process of deaspiration. "I's," "in," and "o," for "his," "him," and "he," are examples. Another peculiar thing is the prefixing of "a" to active verbs—"ahuntin'" or "astahin'," "argunnin'," "awalkin'," and similar instances. All these peculiarities are noticeable in southern dialect, and many of them are common to all English-speaking people. As for real straight-out dictionary English you will hunt a long time before you are able to secure enough strictly accurate speakers to make up a snug dinner party, and when you have secured them you may safely address every one of them as professor.—Atlanta Constitution.

Reminiscences of the Frontier Editor.

"I was snowed in once at Bristol, a little station upon the Northern Pacific," said a man from Cincinnati to a reporter. "It was in the winter of 1885. We were there for about five days. We had plenty to eat, such as it was, but were all anxious to get something to read. The large majority of passengers on the train were men, and we all wanted a late daily paper, but we could not get it for love nor money. "There was a little weekly paper published at Bristol, and it tried to fill the want. The first day of the snow blockade the weekly paper was issued, and nearly every one on the train took one. I suppose the paper had a larger circulation at that time than it has had since or ever had before. The editor, proprietor, and reporter, all in one, was a wide-awake fellow. He saw that there was a demand for a daily paper, so he got one out every day during our stay. He came down and got our names and residence, and published them. This, of course, made the paper sell. The next day he got at our histories and wrote them up. The next day he wrote up how we passed the time. By that time he had exhausted all his wits.

"He didn't give up. Not much. You don't find a newspaper man in any north-west that will give up for such little trifles as that. He went out and got some brown paper used in tying up bundles at the grocery store, and printed his edition on that. He got all the brown paper and wrapping paper in town, and then he went for the wall paper and printed his last edition on that. We bought them every day, more as souvenirs of the snow blockade than for anything else, although I think I read everything that was printed, from a recipe on cookies to the latest notices about pre-emption of certain tracts of land. When we got out of town he resumed his weekly issue."—St. Paul Globe.

Low Order of Plant Intelligence.

Biologists are becoming aware of the existence of a low order of intelligence in plants. Prof. Morren, in a late publication of the Royal Belgian academy, argues that the law of sensation producing motion is common to both animal and vegetable kingdoms, that plants are sensible to the influences of environment, and not only move but are able to co-ordinate their movements. All the phenomena of motion are ultimately traced to protoplasm, a living substance common alike to plants and animals, and whose general and essential characteristics are precisely the power of sensation and movement. It has the faculty of receiving impressions and of moving responsively. It sits, therefore it lives, and the same is true of every organism from man to the microbe and the plant. Life may be defined as the activity of protoplasm, although this is a substance whose true nature is still unknown.—Arkansas Traveler.

Which Shows What's in a Name.

I know a rich man in this town, whose office rent is $2,500 a year, every penny of which is paid by another man, who for the expeditious contents himself with desk-room in a far-away corner. The name of having an office with the millionaire, the reputation of hobnobbing the day through with a magnate—that is what he gives his money for.—New York Times.

Invitation to Whistler The Painter.

Mr. Whistler was recently invited to an evening party in London by a shoddy family, whose head fancied that he really derived his name from being an accomplished whistler.—Inter Ocean.

Mules are now seldom seen on the streets of southern cities, where they were once so common.

LIBERTY.

It is a land of liberty. Hawaiian liberty is a transplant from the soil of America. It cost the Hawaiian nothing.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather we were crowded to such an extent, that we were unable to accommodate the large number of kind patrons who showed by their presence their appreciation of our efforts to furnish them on AN EXTENSIVE SCALE.

being as obligatory on the sovereign as upon the humblest clerk in the civil service. The law is above the crown in England, and England's crown is the highest and most illustrious that history has yet portrayed.

Captain Chaney, formerly of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Co.'s steamer C. R. Bishop, took command of the steamer Waialeale on her trip to Kauai last evening, in place of Captain Weir, who takes command of the steamer Mikahala, from which Captain Hall has resigned.

THE EQUITABLE

Life Assurance Society

OF THE UNITED STATES.

Total Assets, Dec. 31, '86, $75,510,472.76

Total Liabilities, including legal Reserve on all existing policies (4 per cent Standard) $59,154,597.00

Total Undivided Surplus over Four per cent Reserve, - $16,355,875.76

Of which the proportion contributed (as computed) by Policies in general class, is $ 5,728,761.76

Of which the proportion contributed (as computed) by Policies in Tontine class, is 10,627,114.00

Upon the New York State Standard of 4-1-2 per cent interest, the Surplus is as computed, $20,495,175.76.

New Assurance written in 1886, $111,540,203

Total Outstanding Assurance, $411,779,098

Increase of Premium Income, $2,810,475.40

Increase of Surplus (Four per cent basis), $2,409,636.63

Increase of Assets, - - - - $8,957,085.26

In actual Surplus (namely the excess of accumulated funds over liabilities); in Premium Income; in the amount of Assurance in force on its books, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States exceeds every other life assurance company, and may justly be regarded as the largest and strongest life assurance organization in the World.

EXAMPLE

Of Policy No. 67,389. Life. Issued Jan. 22, 1872, on the life of W. H. C. Date of expiration Jan. 22, 1887.

Amount of Policy, $10,000. Tontine Period, 15 years. Age 53. Annual Premium, $543.10.

Total premiums paid in 15 years, - $8,146.50

1. CASH VALUE, Consisting of Reserve, $3,856.30 and Surplus, 4,199.80 $9,056.10

2. PAID-UP VALUE. . . . $13,056.00

If the policy-holder select this settlement, as the paid-up value is larger than the original amount of assurance, a satisfactory certificate of good health must be furnished, or the excess must be drawn on a cash basis.

3. CASH SURPLUS, . . . $5,199.80

Under this settlement, the policy holder withdraws the surplus in cash, and retains the original policy, continuing the payment of premiums, less annual dividends.

Three other options are available under this Policy.

The policies with 10-year Tontine periods do not show results as satisfactory as those above given. Policies with 20-year periods, on the other hand, will show much larger results than those with 15-year periods; but for purposes of illustration the 15-year policies--those of the intermediate period--are given as fair illustrations.

The longer period of accumulation which the 20-year policies enjoy renders them the most desirable for those who, seeking absolute protection at the lowest "Life" rate, desire also the largest returns in case they live:

Hence the Best Free Tontine "Ordinary Life" Policy is One with a TWENTY-YEAR TONTINE PERIOD

The Free Tontine Policy of the Equitable Life Assurance Society is unrestricted after one year, incontestable after two years, and is then PAYABLE in the event of death, immediately upon the receipt of satisfactory proofs of death.

It guarantees a full share of the surplus earned, and being issued by a Society holding a

Larger Surplus than any other Assurance Company,

May be expected to show larger profits than the policies of any other company.

In addition to the advantages above cited, the Equitable now guarantees a full return of all premiums paid as well as the face of the Policy in case of death during the Tontine period.

LOCAL NEWS.

Rumored changes in the Customs department have not as yet become accomplished facts.

A sugar mill from the Iron Works is to be shipped to Waianae by the schooner Waiehu to-day.

Mrs. S. K. Kai, Mrs. J. Auld and Mr. Edmund Hart left by the steamer Mokolihi last evening, to attend a wedding at Pukoo, Molokai.

Officers and teachers of the Bethel Union Sunday School will meet at the residence of Mr. H. A. Parmelee, Fort street, at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

The Zealandia on Saturday took a mail for the Coast of 5,118 letters and 1,764 papers; and the Australia, yesterday, one of 3,050 letters and 5,579 papers; total 8,168 letters and 2,343 papers.

Messrs. E. P. Adams & Co. on Saturday sold a lot of land at Lahaina, containing 19 perches, to Messrs. Campbell & Isenberg for $218. The sale of the Lanalilo street property was postponed for one week.

Smith's prophetic vision on the state of the weather for this region during the week past, was a great deal clearer than "Rosey's" on the great fire question. Smith, by the way, is a resident far off Montreal, and has not even a telegraph wire from here to work points on.

Wm. Moore denies the report published in this paper that he struck a policeman in that affair on Queen street Saturday night week. His denial is cheerfully accepted and published. He has taken an appeal to the Supreme Court against the fine of $40 levied on him in the Police Court.

The performance of Messrs. McGregor and Shannon, at the Music Hall, on last Saturday evening, was rather poorly attended, the weather being a natural drawback to the presence of a large audience. The performance itself was of a "variety" character and was creditable to the participants in the numbers on the programme.

British residents in San Francisco purpose commemorating the jubilee anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign, by securing and endowing a hospital or portion of a hospital to be known as the "Victoria Hospital," or "Victoria Wing," or ward, whichever it may be. The Chronicle of April 27th, received by a sailing vessel yesterday, says: "Their loyalty cannot find a more graceful or more useful and lasting expression."

Police Court.

Sixteen natives, including some females, were ranged in front of the tribunal of the peace on Saturday, charged with violating the gaming law of 1884, "by being present where a game was carried on where any sum of money or anything of value was either won or lost, and by aiding and abetting gaming." They all pleaded not guilty and were remanded until yesterday.

A police officer charged with assault, in reference to the raid on the alleged gamblers above mentioned, was remanded until the 12th.

Joe Sylva, for disturbing the quiet of the night, and his chum, M. S. Perry, for preventing justice, were brought up on remand. Judgment in both cases was that the evidence being conflicting, the defendants were found not guilty and discharged. Hopu seemed to be mixed up in the same racket with the above pair. He was tried for assault and battery on Mrs. Perry, but the evidence was at sixes and sevens, and he was given the benefit of the doubt and discharged.

Ah Sang was consigned to durance vile for one month as a vagrant.

Two Chinese accused of gaming were remanded till the 10th.

At yesterday's sitting Ah Seen was fined $11.20 for assault on another Chinaman.

The native crowd charged with gaming were brought up on remand. Ioela, the "banker," as it proved, in the game of che fa, adopted from the Chinese, was fined $64.20. Thirteen of the defendants were remanded till to-day. M. Kemui and Paauki were discharged, and Geo Nolan was fined $6.10.

Four depositors of bail for drunkenness forfeited their money. A pair guilty of adultery were fined respectively $30 and $10.

Ah Wah, charged with a violation of the penal code relating to gaming, was discharged, but Miami was stuck for $25.

Pacific Hose Company Nominates a Ticket.

At the monthly meeting of Pacific Hose Company, H. F. D., last evening, there was a large attendance. Mr. J. W. McDonald, Assistant Foreman, presided in the absence of Mr. M. D. Monserrat, Foreman.

Messrs. J. W. McDonald, C. Zeigler, A. H. Rasemann and W. H. McLean, four members of the committee of five appointed at last meeting to recommend candidates for the Department elections, reported the following as the most popular and available names:—

For Chief Engineer, M. D. Monserrat, Foreman of this company, who had served as First and Second Assistant.

For First Assistant, Mr. Julius Asch, the present incumbent.

For Second Assistant, Mr. Peter Souza, Foreman of Engine Co. No. 4.

The recommendation was adopted without dissent as the ticket of the company.

A large number of new members were elected.

Messrs. Welsh, Zeigler, Pomeroy, Isaacs, Kanake, Robertson, Rasemann, Gertz, Grazier and Kennedy were appointed a committee to promote the company's ticket in the elections, after remarks had been made by several members urging the company to united and vigorous action.

Public Caterers.

Mr. J. Ingram "and a lady," members of the Blue Ribbon League, presented an enjoyable bill at the free entertainment, given under the auspices of the League, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on last Saturday evening. The general public were exceedingly well represented, notwithstanding the drawbacks of unpleasant weather and also a performance at the Music Hall.

At 7:30 o'clock promptly, Rev. H. H. Gowen announced the opening chorus, which was heartily joined in by the audience, after which prayer was delivered by Rev. J. A. Cruzan.

Mr. Gowen now followed in a short and pithy address, which led up to the introduction of his co-worker Mr. Cruzan, as the showman of the evening.

The entertainment proper commenced with the recital, by Master Ruby Dexter, of an incident connected with the noted Indian chief Tuscarora, and the delivery won for the young declaimer hearty and deserved applause. Master Willie Berger was next announced and he sang the popular ballad, "A Boy's Best Friend is His Mother." The marked demands for more music from his youthful throat were met by the rendition of the mirthful melody of "Widow Dunn," which also made the audience appreciatively demonstrative. The "Legend of Brengenz," by Miss Hessie Dickson, a prize declaimer of Oahu College, was given by the young lady with faultless elocution, the interest of the audience being held from commencement to close, and noisy testimony was presented of the success of the speaker. After the singing of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," by Mr. Atwater, the audience were treated to a humorous sketch, gotten up by Mrs. Dexter, entitled "An Irish Love Letter," taken part in by Miss Helen Sorenson, Miss Lottie Parmelee and Master Ruby Dexter.

Barkentine S. N. Castle, Hubbard master, left San Francisco April 28th at 5 a. m., arriving in Honolulu May 9th a. m. 11 days. She brought several passengers and a general cargo. Capt. Hubbard considers the Castle can do the passage with a fair wind in eight days.

Telephonic Naval Orders.

High Admiral's Office—Royal Dockyard.

H. A.—Hello, is Captain Jackson there?

Shipwright—No, sir.

H. A.—I want the Kaimiloa moved out in the stream, as the Australian steamer is due to-day. Tell the Lieutenant.

S.—The Lieutenant is not here, sir.

H. A.—Well, tell the boatswain.

S.—The boatswain is not here, either.

H. A.—Where are all the officers?

S.—I don't know, sir.

H. A.—Well, yourself have the ship moved out into the stream. (Aside) We must corral the scamps in the harbor. They are running entirely too wild about the town.

Kauai Notes.

Nothing was landed at Nawiliwili by the steamer Mikahala last Wednesday morning. She went on to Hanalei and landed the mails, but no freight except a few articles. Better luck in letters, papers and other sundries is hoped for next Wednesday.

The N. E. trades have been fresh, vigorous and sometimes rather boisterous during the week.

Mr. F. W. Damon has just been all round, having returned to this place yesterday en route for home. He visited all parts of the island in which Chinese are domiciled, addressing full audiences, and illustrating each discourse with views by the magic lantern. Mr. Damon appears to be very well satisfied with his visits to the people to whom his mission is specially directed. The Chinese proved to be attentive auditors and seemed well pleased to be instructed in the better way.

INDIAN COURTSHIP.

HOW THE COPPER-COLORED ROMEO WINS HIS DUSKY MATE.

A Courtship of Quietness, Without Whirlings or Kissings—Obtaining Consent of Parents and Relatives—Paying for the Wife—Marrying a Wife's Sisters.

There are many different ways of doing the courting—some of them different from our own, yet no less cunning and successful. Whether successful or not in the suit, the young man's relish for food and other pleasures of life is not in the least diminished; he meets his disappointment in love unlike my friend, the doctor, who, during unfavorable periods, forsakes his meals, looks pale and contemplates the various ways of suicide.

When a young man likes a girl, he soon discovers her feelings toward him. He will carefully follow her footsteps, until he catches her alone—sitting on the grass, on a rock or dead tree. He quickly throws a blanket or robe over her head and crawls to her side under the protecting shelter. If the girl likes to be thus captured, there will be peace and quietness, and they will sit side by side for hours, without whispering, kissings, or other endearings little trifles—they simply press closely together and look sadly happy.

But if the girl is averse to the proceedings, there will be a short, sharp and decisive battle, which always ends to the discomfort of the amorously inclined swain, for he dare not persist by force.

Capt. W. P. Clark, in his work, says that the "Plains Indians" do the most of their courting in a standing position. An Indian lover will stand and wait near the lodge, where abides the object of admiration, until she appears, when he walks up alongside of her and throws his blanket around her. If she reciprocates the tender sentiment, they will thus stand for hours, his blanket covering both their heads and closely wrapped round both their bodies.

Success in Courtship. I have seen as many as half a dozen young men waiting by the path, which led down to the water near a camp, and one after another throw his blanket around a girl as she was going down to fill the water vessel. While so waiting or standing outside a lodge, they usually have their heads entirely covered with their blanket, excepting only a little hole for one eye.

If the girl likes to be held, she makes some reply to the first tender greeting; if she expresses dislike to his advances, the man, by the law of courtship, must at once desist. The boys aspire to appear as men at the age of 16 or 18; they have become successful hunters and warriors, and, as soon as their means warrant, they will marry. The girls, under the tutelage of their mothers, learn the manifold details of their future life of drudgery and attain womanhood at about 13, when they soon after marry.

After the young man has succeeded in courtship it becomes necessary to obtain the consent of the parents and relatives. He puts on his robe with the hair-side out, draws it over his head, so as to entirely conceal his face, and in this guise walks to the lodge of the intended fair one, enters and squats down. No one addresses him, nor does he utter a word—but his object is sufficiently understood by all concerned. Having thus sat in silence awhile, he arises and passes out. After a lapse of a few days he repeats his visit, wearing his robe as before. If, upon entering the bear-skin or other seat of honor was made ready for his reception, he is at liberty to disclose his face and be seated, for such a welcome indicated that his addresses were not unacceptable; but if he met with no such preparations, he might as well retire, for his attentions are not regarded favorably. If he was received, the young girl soon took her seat by his side.

A Harmless Solution. The father of the girl would then suggest that both families of the contracting parties make a feast, and hold counsel concerning the proposed alliance. This is done within a few days, and usually results in a harmonious solution of the all-important question. It is seldom that the match falls through on account of the poverty of or some stigma attached to the suitor, or the personal aversion of the maiden.

In the latter case, if the man was acceptable to her relatives, they endeavor to overcome her opposition by persuasion, in some cases even resorting to violence, cruelly beating her with their fists or sticks till consent is extorted.

If no cause of objection was raised on either side, then the two families proceed to settle the price that the young man should pay. This custom of paying for the wife is universal among all Indian tribes; the cost—from one to six horses. The union then follows without any further ceremony, than a final feast given by the girl's father. The husband generally goes to the lodge of the father-in-law and lives there with his wife. A particular part of the lodge is allotted to him, and henceforth he is a member of that family.

With many tribes the son-in-law marries his wife's sisters as they become marriageable, paying to the father a horse or two for each successive one. Hence the son-in-law usually speaks of his wife's sisters as wives, though they might yet be small children.

When a white man marries an Indian woman, it is a genuine sale, growing out of greed of gain or some benefits, real or imaginary, which will accrue to the father and relatives; the poor, dirty maiden is often led away with tears and protestations of a most violent nature, but she afterwards becomes a faithful slave.—Col. Guido Illegas in Chicago Graphic News.

A Theory Concerning New Stars. An ingenious astronomical theory is that of Mr. Menck, of Dublin, who suggests that as shooting stars are known to be dark bodies rendered luminous for a short time by rushing through our atmosphere, new stars are dark or faintly luminous bodies which acquire a short-lived brilliancy by rushing through some of the gaseous masses—visible, perhaps, as nebulae—which exist in space.—Arkansas Traveler.

Pasteur's Wolf-Bitten Russian Patients. The number of persons treated thus far by M. Pasteur to avert hydrophobia exceeds 1,000. Four more Russians have arrived in Paris to be under his care. M. Pasteur has received a telegram from the Russian doctor who accompanied to Paris the nineteen Russians whose treatment for wolf-bites lately excited so much notice, stating that all his surviving patients are now in perfect health.—Chicago Tribune.

THE GEORGIA DIALECT.

Curiosities of the Language as Used in the Empire State of the South.

Among the peculiarities of our dialect is the putting of the defining word before the object defined, as "that 'ere man," for "that man, there," "that 'ere book," for "this book, here." These expressions must sound strange in cultivated ears, accustomed to Bostonian English, and yet there are several million people who use them constantly. "Stop," for "leave me alone" is peremptory, and conveys the exact meaning of the speaker. In the same way "quit" or "drop" or "let" are used. For instance, one will say "drop it" or "drop it," as the expression is frequently used, meaning "say no more about it."

"Hold on" means to stay proceedings, and "go it" with a peculiar intonation, means "go on in your own way, I have nothing more to say." "Get up" is understood as a demand to move along. "It's shore to be so" means that the assertion, or the existing circumstances are, beyond a doubt, exactly as stated. "To put out" a lamp does not mean to carry it outside, but to extinguish the light. To "holer" is to cry aloud, and I think there is not a more expressive word in the language. To "cry" in common parlance means "to weep," while according to the dictionaries it may mean a variety of sounds of the voice. It is never used among the country people in any other sense than to weep. They have a different word for other noises, as yell, a shrill cry; whoop, a full-sounded cry; holler, a sort of cross between the two, as used in common with either word, etc. The rather pungent expression "beat him all holier," however, means that the one alluded to is far superior to the other. Occasionally the rustic drifts into a redundancy of expression quite surprising. He says "his'n," "her'n," "their'n," equivalent to "his own," "their own," instead of simply "his," "hers," "theirs." By this seems to impress the idea of proprietorship by the addition of the word "own." The word "split," to divide, is used as "cut down" is to diminish or decrease. "Tolerably well" means "moderately well."

These words and phrases are all good English to those who use them constantly, and you would be surprised to know just how many people use them constantly. There is one little remnant of cockneyism that is observable in the language of the common people. This—the leaving of the aspirate, besides "I've," "we've" and "they've," which can hardly be placed in this class, because "I'll," "we'll," and "they'll" show the contraction of the auxiliary verb in the same way. I have noticed that the pronouns suffer most from the process of deceptation. "Is" "in," and "o," for "his," "him," and "he," are examples. Another peculiar thing is the prefixing of "a" to active verbs—"ahuntin'," or "ashashin'," "arunnin'," "awalkin'," and similar instances. All these peculiarities are noticeable in southern dialect, and many of them are common to all English-speaking people. As for real straightout dictionary English you will hunt a long time before you are able to secure enough strictly accurate speakers to make up a snug dinner party, and when you have secured them you may safely address every one of them as professor.—Atlanta Constitution.

Resources of the Frontier Editor. "I was snowed in once at Bristol, a little station upon the Northern Pacific," said a man from Cincinnati to a reporter. "It was in the winter of 1885. We were there for about five days. We had plenty to eat, such as it was, but were all anxious to get something to read. The large majority of passengers on the train were men, and we all wanted a late daily paper, but we could not get it for love nor money."

"There was a little weekly paper published at Bristol, and it tried to fill the want. The first day of the snow blockade the weekly paper was issued, and nearly every one on the train took one. I suppose the paper had a larger circulation at that time than it has had since or ever had before. The editor, proprietor, and reporter, all in one, was a wide-awake fellow. He saw that there was a demand for a daily paper, so he got one out every day during our stay. He came down and got our names and residence, and published them. This, of course, made the paper sell. The next day he got at our histories and wrote them up. The next day he wrote up how we passed the time. By that time he had exhausted all his white paper."

"He didn't give up. Not much. You don't find a newspaper man in the northwest that will give up for such little trifles as that. He went out and got some brown paper used in tying up bundles at the grocery store, and printed his edition on that. He got all the brown paper and wrapping paper in town, and then he went for the wall paper and printed his last edition on that. We bought them every day, more as souvenirs of the snow blockade than for anything else, although I think I read everything that was printed, from a recipe on cookies to the legal notices about pre-emption of certain tracks of land. When we got out of town he resumed his weekly issue."—St. Paul Globe.

Low Order of Plant Intelligence.

Biologists are becoming aware of the existence of a low order of intelligence in plants. Prof. Morris, in a late publication of the Royal Belgian academy, argues that the law of sensation producing motion is common to both animal and vegetable kingdoms, that plants are sensible to the influences of environment, and not only move but are able to co-ordinate their movements. All the phenomena of motion are ultimately traced to protoplasm, a living substance common alike to plants and animals, and whose general and essential characteristics are precisely the power of sensation and movement. It has the faculty of receiving impressions and of moving responsively. It stirs, therefore it lives, and the same is true of every organism from man to the microbe and the plant. Life may be defined as the activity of protoplasm, although this is a substance whose true nature is still unknown.—Arkansas Traveler.

Which Shows What's in a Name. I know a rich man in this town, whose office rent is $2,500 a year, every penny of which is paid by another man, who for the expenditure contents himself with a desk-room in a far-away corner. The name of having an office with the millionaire, the reputation of hobnobbing the day through with a magnate—that is what he gives his money for.—New York Times.
