Which Nobody Can Deny.

Have you heard of the question the Doctors among Whether all living things from a Monad have sprung? This has lately been said, and now shall be sung, Which nobody can deny.

Not one or two ages sufficed for the feat, It required a few millions the change to complete But now the thing's done and it looks rather neat,

Which nobody can deny. The original Monad, our great-great-grandsire, To little or nothing at first did aspire; But at last to have offspring it took a desire,

Which nobody can deny. This Monad becoming a father or mother By budding or bursting produced such another; And shortly there followed sister or brother, Which nobody can deny.

But Monad no longer designates them well-They're a cluster of molecules now, or a cell ; But which of the two, Doctors only can tell, Which nobody can deny.

These beings increasing, grew buoyant with life, And each to itself was both husband and wife, And at first, strange to say, the two lived without strife, Which nobody can deny.

But such crowding together soon troublesome grew, And they thought a division of labor would do; So their sexual system was parted in two, Which nobody can deny.

Thus Plato supposes that, severed by fate, Human baives run about, each in search of its mate, Never pleased till they gain their original state, Which nobody can deny.

Excrescences fast were now trying to shoot; Some put out a feeler, some put out a foot; Some set up a mouth and some stuck down a root, Which nobody can deny.

Some, wishing to walk, manufactured a limb; Some rigged out a fin, with a purpose to swim; Some opened an eye, some remained dark and dim, Which nobody can deny.

So hydras and sponges and starfishes breed, And flies, fleas and lobsters in order succeed, While ichthyosauruses follow the lead, Walch nobody can deny. From reptiles and fishes to birds we ascend, And quadrupeds next their dimensions extend, Till we rise up to monkeys and men-where we end,

Which nobody can deny. -Stanzas from " The National Anthem."

VARIETY.

A man who contracted a debt of $1143 promised to pay it in two instalments. Last week he forwarded $11, and promised to send the other $43 as soon as the times got better.

Horace Greeley's advice to " Go West" was a glaring swindle. The fact that the Indians have been living West all their lives and are still poor, with scarcely enough clothes to hide their nudity, proves this.

A railroad brakeman, in Texas, found a wallet containing $2,000 and restored it to the owner. Within forty minutes after that, the brakeman fell off the cars and was killed. The moral is plain enough. During the thunder-storm two dogs that howled dismally at night were struck by lighting. Howling dogs should cut this out and paste it in their hats .- Morristown Herald. When you are tired of twirling your thumb sit down and see how fast you can say, "Shoes and socks shock Susan in an inexplicable manner, and inexorably she ceaseth sheathing her "Gentlemen, 1 introduce to you my friend, who isn't as stupid as he appears to be." Introduced friend, with vivacity-" That's precisely the difference between my friend and myself." "Why did you name that old horse Napoleon?" asked a gentleman of a negro whose horse was almost reduced to a skeleton. "Why, marse, you see it's case the bony part is so strong in him."

An exchange contains the following valuable recipe for port wine. The only way to get pure port wine is to go to Oporto, raise grapes, press the wine, put it into a cask yourself and ride on it all the way home.

Some people's religion is just like a wooden leg. There is neither warmth nor life in it, and although it helps you to hobble along, it never becomes a part of you, but has to be strapped on every morning.

Stumbling into his room he sat down on the edge of the bed and soliloquised thus: "Feet wet, tight boots, a sore on one hand an' a felon on t'other, and no bootjack in z'house; Sings got to be dif'rent. E'ther I mus' get married, else get a bootjack ; wishall I do?"

The St. Paul Dispatch is disposed to be shocked because the rowing dress of oarsmen consists of a shirt with no sleeves and a pair of pants with no legs. It will get so after a while that you can't tell a rower from a lady in a ball

NOT DEAD .- A Kennebec (Me.) paper tells of a certain city official who pointed out to a clergyman friend a house wherein a man laid three weeks and his friends refused to bury him. "Why, what was that for?" inquired the interested clergyman. "The man was not dead," was the quiet response.

NEVER .- Some writers have endeavored to describe the longings of the human heart. But they have never drawn the picture of the man who, parched and thirsty from the July heat, into a beer saloon a mile from home to steps into a beer saloon a mile from home to include in a glass of refreshing lager beer, only to find in groping through the waste places of his pocket that his wife had cautiously removed the last cent from his Summer clothing.

ABSURD .- "You see, my dear," he explained, " the man was climbing the ladder with a hodfull of mortar on his shoulder. Just as I passed under it he made a misstep, and the tents of the hod came on my head." "How absurd you must have looked!" she remarked.

"On the contrary, my dear, I was subdime." He was a clean-looking colored man of advanced age, and when he entered a wholesale house on Vesey street, N. Y. one of the clerks politely informed him that the situation of porter was already filled. "Does I look like a man who'd be regarded as a porter?" demanded the stranger.

"Ah! excuse me." "You is discused, sah. Whar' is de foreman? Over dar, eh? No, sar, I don't want to be porter. I'ze one ob the solid men ob Newark, and I'ze here on 'portant business." He wanted goods. There were lots of goods there, and it was very easy to suit him as to prices, but he had no money and no recommendations. "De pay is sure in sixty days," he urged. " But you can't give no security."

"What you wants of security? Won't de goods be dar?" "You may have sold them!"

"Den won't the money be dar, all counted out on the counter? And if de money ain't dar, won't I be dar? And if I ain't dar, and de ole woman's gone, and de children can't be found, can't I be frowed into bankruptcy and all

But he didn't get any goods.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1877. BUSINESS during the week seems to move on the even tenor of its way without stir or bustle, those connected with building and with shipping being more particularly favored; other branches of trade are in more of a complaining mood. Our arrivals for the week have been somewhat lively, embracing the W H Meyer, Una and City of Sydney, from San Francisco; Amy Turner from Boston; Victor from the Sound; and Giovanni Apiani from Fanning's Island. By these our market is placed in good supply of many special orders and standard articles, among which we notice material for the new Bank Building of Bishop & Co now in course of erection, opposite this office. The steamer yesterday brought a very large passenger list for this port, among whom we welcome a number of kamaainas.

We note no material change in the San Francisco market in our island produce, though sugar of all descriptions is in active demand, and the scarcity of prime Hawaiian is noticed. Elsewhere we give an extract from the N Y Times upon the Louisiana sugar industry, that will be read with interest by all concerned in sugar culture here, and for which we would acknowledge our indebtedness to W N Armstrong, Esq, of New

The new schooner Haleakala, built in San Francisco for Allen & Robinson's fleet, has had a trial trip in that bay and has beaten her competitor, the Consuelo, on every tack. On her arrival here we may expect to see some smart sailing for the championship of the flect. Mr Emmes is building a fine schooner of large carrying capacity at his shipyard in this city, and the new steamer for Capt Hobron by Tibbets & Sorrenson is progressing rapidly.

The departures for the week, though fair in number, have been mostly in ballast. Vessels on the berth for San Francisco find but little freight offering, as there is little coming forward, the last sugar crop being about all in, though a number of plantations on Hawaii are grinding. Schr W H Meyer wil 1 return to San Francisco, to sail about the middle of next week? Schr Bonanza and bk R C Wylie are also up to leave early, and bktn J A Falkinburg for Portland.

Bk Courier and schr Mary Swan were up at San Francisco for this port, the former with freight and the latter with Chinese laborers. Schr Fanny had been purchased by W II Reed, Esq, and was loading for Hilo.

Bk W H Almy, hence Sept 22, arrived over in 17 days. Bk Mary Belle Roberts was advertised at Marshal's sale by auction, Oct 12, to satisfy claims of H Hackfeld and others.

REPORT OF HAW SCHR GIOVANNI APIANI, WM P WEEKS, MANTER.-Left Honolulu Aug 27th for Fanning's and Washington Islands, the NE trades blowing strong until we arrived in lat 7° N, when it hauled to the westward. For 10 days we encountered nothing but light variable winds and calms, with a strong easterly current, finding it impracticable to reach Fanning's Island in the latitude of it, we worked to the southward, got a slant from SE and ran up to the island, after southward, got a stant from SE and ran up to the island, after an 18 days passage. While at Fanning's had much rain and heavy squalts of wind, accompanied with very violent thunder and lightning. Took Mr Greigg and family up to Washington Island, after taking in oil returned again to Fanning's with my passengers. Left Oct 1st with light winds until in lat 14° N, when it came on to blow from the NE with heavy squalls and very high cross sea. On nearing Hawaii was compelled to heave-to under close sail in order to save my deck load, and in that manner worked through the heavy sea at the SW end of Hawaii, arriving at Honolulu on the 15th, 15 days passage. Her remains were brought to Honolulu for interment. To New Bedford and Fall River papers please copy.

FROM BAKER'S ISLAND .- By recent arrivals from the guano islands we learn that an ocean current has been observed there for several months, running with great velocity to the eastward-a most unusual circumstance. The ocean was covered with the debris of the islands to the west-cocoanuts, etc. The A. W. THE PACIFIC CABLE. - Captain Celso Cæsar Moreno has entered into negotiations with M. Pouyer-Quertier a member of the French Senate, on the subject of the proposed trans-Pacific cable. M. Quertier, who was at one time Minister of Finance, is the head of a company whose object is to connect France and the United States by cable, and to lay a cable between the Pacific Coast and Japan Rio on a ship which went down in a squall, and China. Last year Congress passed an Act giv-ing certain citizens, one of whom was Captain Moreno, the privilege of laying a cable from the Pacific Coast of the United States, and allowing three years for the commencement of the work. It is possible some arrangement may be come to with the French which was picked up by the Annie, six being then dead. "Sir Roger" also gave Clairidge a paper with some writing in English and French, Company whereby the enterprise will be facilitated. | which was afterwards copied in part at Welling-

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20. On Wednesday last, the King, attended by the Minister of the Interior and Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs; the Princess Likelike and the Hon. Mr. Cleghorn; Col. W. F. Allen, and others of the King's staff, paid a visit to the French war steamer Limier, and was received with the customary honors. His Majesty remained on board some two hours, inspecting the noble ship and enjoying the hospitality of Capt. Puech, and on his departure a salute of 21 guns

His Excellency the Minister of Foreign Affairs (ad interim) entertained at dinner last evening-His Majesty the King; Captain Peuch of the French war ship Limier; His Excellency J. M. Comly, U. S. Minister Resident; M. Ballieu, Commissioner and Consul of France; Theo. H. Glass, of the U.S. ship Jamestown, and other

WE UNDERSTAND that advices were received at the Foreign Office by the last mail from the Hon. Mr. Carter, our Envoy to the Courts of Europe, who is now in London. Lord Derby had not yet returned to the metropolis, but Mr. Carter was meantime discussing a protocol as a basis of subsequent Treaty negotiations, with one of the Under Secretaries of the British Foreign Office. Major Wodehouse was also in London, kindly affording his valuable assistance towards a successful issue of Mr. Carter's mission, of which, we are happy to believe, there are favorable prospects.

Our readers will recall that Captain Mist was commissioned by the Hawaiian Government to proceed as its agent to the Fiji Islands for the South Sea Islanders as plantation laborers for the Hawaiian Islands. We are now in a position to state that the intelligence of the safe arrival of Captain Mist at Auckland, N. Z., has been received here. Captain Mist met with a very favorable reception from the Marquis of New Zealand high officials, who expressed a lively interest in his undertaking. From Auckland Captain Mist was about to proceed to Sydney, N. S. W., in order to take his passage from that port on board the steamer for the Fijis, where he has probably arrived by this time. It seems pretty certain that Captain Mist will have no difficulty in engaging a number of South Sea a reception from Sir Arthur Gordon as be experienced with Lord Normanby. The proposed tion of officers and other business will take place. plan is, we believe, to convey the engaged South Sea Islanders from the Islands to Auckland, on board a sailing vessel, and thence bring them on by the steamer to this port. We hear that Captain Mist has met with a sea captain who has been long engaged in the conveyance of South Sea Islanders to various localities in the Pacific, and whose services it may prove useful to Captain Mist to engage. On the whole, it is satisfactory for those interested in the labor question and the public to know that this matter of the importation of South Sea Islanders is favorably progress-

WE HAVE no desire to enter into a controversy with our polemical contemporary, the Gazette, upon the question of the merits or demerits of His Excellency the Attorney General. That gentleman (who may well exclaim, save me from my friends!) is a public officer of the Crown, and is answerable for his conduct to those who sare given and me commercia, to public opin ion, and, eventually it may be, to the Legislative Assembly. But it is simply a hallucination of the Gazette's that we are " spoiling for a fight" with that journal. Newspaper fights

WE ARE surprised and amused to find in the San Francisco Daily Examiner of Sept. 26th ultimo, a new edition of an old story of the famous Tichborne mystery which appeared in the PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER of Oct. 3rd, 1874. The material for the account in question was furnished to this journal by Captain E. Wood, formerly connected with the whale fishery and since a well known resident of the Hawaiian Islands. From the columns of the ADVERTISER, Captain Wood's account made its way into the Californian and Eastern United States Press; thence crossing the Atlantic, it was recopied in the London Times and Illustrated London News, and, as the saying is " went the round of the papers," till, as often happens, all trace was lost of the journal with which it originated. For a special reason, the story is now revived, and the issue of the Examiner referred to has a sensational heading: "A man turns up in the Hawaiian Islands who asserts that he saw Sir Roger die." Then follows an almost verbatim repetition of our narrative of Oct. 3rd, 1874. The reason for raking up this old story is traceable to the fact that the man in question, George Clairidge, now residing at Hilo, on the Island of Hawaii, has been asked to go to England at the cost of certain parties interested in the Tichborne case. The Daily Examiner adds that he has actually set out for England; but this is not the case, as George Clairidge, for reasons best known to himself, has lately told Captain E. Wood (our informant) that he declines to proceed to England in this matter. In that case, his deposition on oath with reference to the death of Sir Rodger on Sydney Island, could be taken before the Hilo Magistrate, in the presence of two or three witnesses, and subsequently sent on to England. We are of opinion that George Clairidge ought to make a deposition on oath, In this case. We also think that the parties interested should have an inspection made of the place where Clairidge's "Sir Roger" was buried on Sydney Island. Possibly the body may still be intact, or something may be interred with it, which could be identified as having belonged to the real Sir Roger. The finding of even a skeleton would somewhat confirm George Clairidge's statement. We may here recall the main facts of that statement, which our readers may readily have forgotten in the lapse of three years. In 1854, George Clairidge was on Rotuboard the schooner Annie, that had picked up fortunate that the ship did not get the moorings, as in his opinion she would have gone askore. He reports that there is a plenty of good guano remaining on Baker's Island, reports to the contrary "Sir Roger" and another man from an open boat also landed; the schooner Annie sailed away and returned no more; the sick man told Clairidge shortly before his death that his name was Roger Tichborne; soon after that he died and was buried by Clairidge, who had to spend nearly two years on the island of Sydney before a vessel called in and took him off. "Sir Roger" before his death also told Clairidge that he sailed from seven men and himself escaping in the boat ton Island by a New Bedford boy, named Mandell; but Clairidge knew nothing about that copy, and the original was lost by the upset of a boat. The captain of the Annie was a Frenchman, and the "Sir Roger" of the Annie spoke French well. This is the substance of Clairidge's statement, made to Captain E. Wood, by whom it was communicated to the Editor of this jour-We should add that Clairidge says he saw a picture of the real Sir Roger in the Illustrated London News, which he at once recognized as the likeness of the dead "Sir Roger" of Sydney Island. Now, we may observe that many people still believe that the real Sir Roger is the man now in jail; hence, the statement of Clairidge, if untrue, is a very great injustice to the prisoner, and Clairidge should be very cautious how he swears to the truth of it, if asked. It is said lately, that the real Arthur Orton is in a mad house in Australia, and may yet be produced. If that ever takes place, what will become of all this strange narrative of the Sydney Island "Sir Roger?" Some of the oldest friends of the real Sir Davies, Acting British Consul General; Captain | Roger steadfastly maintain that the Dartmoor prisoner is the same. We may add, that Capt. Wood, who has lately visited Clairidge at Hilo, has obtained from him some rough sketches of Sydney Island, and of the grave of the supposed "Sir Roger," and that he proposes to have these sketches redrawn and sent to New York for publication in an illustrated paper.

> Since the foregoing was in type, we learn from our last mail's exchanges that the Tichborne Defence Committee of which Lord Rivers, Sir Roger's old friend, is a prominent member, has announced that the real Arthur Orton has been found in an insane asylum at Parramata, near Sydney, N. S. W.

REINFORCEMENTS .- We learn that no less than four new schooners are in process of building in California for the coasting trade of these Islands. Our neighbors across the pond may thank the purpose of there obtaining if possible a supply of | Treaty for the extra employment thus given to their mechanics.

The Louisiana Sugar Industry.

B. F. LEVY, Secretary, pro tem.

Ir 1850 there were 180,000 tons of domestic sugar consumed in the United States. In 1852 the quantity had increased to 172,000 tons and in 1962 it touched the maximum of 190,000 tons. What abrupt and utter ruin was brought by the war upon this the principal industry of Louisiana may be inferred from the fact that in the very next year, 1863, the cane crop dwindled down to 50,000 tons. In 1864 it fell to 30,000, and in 1865, the last year of the war, shrunk to the minimum of in 1865, the last year of the war, shrunk to the minimum of only 5,000 tons. The great trade that was thus shattered in three years has since the war been slowly reviving, but still a long time will have to elapse before it again reaches the proportions to which it had attained in 1858. For the past three or four years, owing to labor troubles, and other political causes which we need not now enumerate, the crop harvested in Louisians has not been so large as might have been every in Louisiana has not been so large as might have been expented; still, in spite of every dre vback, has increased 25,000 hogsheads each year, and durn; the past season, according to a report just issued in New-Orleans, amounted to 168,33 hogsheads, or a total of 190,672,570 pounds. It is confidently expected that the crop of the present season of 1877-8 wil amount to not less than 200,000 hogsheads This large and, all things considered, rapid increase in the principal industry of one of the great Southern States cannot fail to be gratifying to all those who are interested in the general welfare of the country. That it will continue under the more favorable relations of capital and labor which have recently been brought about there can be no doubt; but that the increase should in the future be a much more rapid and the increase should in the future be every reason to believe. An improved system of cultivation and the establishment of cen-tral mills for the manufacture of the cane, will it is believed do wonders in this direction. The press of Louisiana with commendable good sense is just now discussing this subject, to the exclusion of the more exciting political topics to which it has been pleased for so long a time to devote its attention. From this discussion it appears that all the best brands of sugar sent into the market from Louisiana come from a com-paratively small number of very large plantations whose own-ers, men of extensive means, are able to procure the most apers, men of extensive means, are able to procure the most ap proved modern machinery and the best apparatus. On the smaller farms, however, where only a few hogsheads of sugar are produced, the owners are obliged to content themselve with crushing and boiling in the old-fashioned style, thus wast with crushing and boiling in the old-lashioned style, thus wasting much of the cane, and producing a very inferior brand of sugar. Indeed, it is stated that, of the 1,050 sugar-houses in operation in Louisiana, upward of two hundred and fifty, or nearly one-fourth, still crush the cane by horse-power—an exceedingly primitive and unsatisfactory process, by which it is impossible to extract any high percentage of juice from the cane. Great waste, and consequently great loss, is naturally the result of this practice. he result of this practice. It is now proposed to revolutionize the whole system of sugar manufacturing by abolishing all the old-fashioned and sugar manulacturing by abolishing all the old-fashioned and comparatively useless sugar-houses and presses and establishing in each district of the great cane-growing region an accessible and well-appointed mill of the most approved description, and containing all the latest machinery. To these mills it is proposed that all small farmers send their cane as soon as it is cut, disposing of it at a fair market price, or having it ground into sugar, paying the mill managers a small percentage for the work. It will be noticed that this proposed system is similar in many respects to that which governs the manuage for the work. It will be noticed that this proposed system is similar in many respects to that which governs the manufacture of cheese in some of the great dairy districts of this State. There seems to be no reason why its establishment in Louisiana should not be the beginning of a new and more prosperous era in the history of the sugar-producing districts of the Pelican State. It ought certainly to result in the employment of large capital in the manufacture of the staple and a great increase in the area cultivated.

The consumption of sugar in all parts of the world is con-The consumption of sugar in all parts of the world is constantly increasing—increasing with amazing rapidity. In the United States alone, during the year 1876, the total consumption, including the product of the maple tree and the sugar made from molasses, is estimated at not less than 745,000 tons. This is fully one hundred per cent. more than the amount consumed in 1863, or than the average of the decade immediately preceding that year. From these figures it will readily be seen that even were every acre of the rich alluvial bluff and prairie lands of Louisiana devoted exclusively to the cultivaprairie lands of Louisiana devoted exclusively to the cultiva-tion of sugar, there would still be no fear of over-production. Every pound that can be manufactured will find a ready mar-ket and a quick sale at remunerative prices.—N. Y. Times, SCHOONER ASHORE .- The schooner Kingu, which was sent to Kauai to endeavor to save the Luka, ashore at Wailua, berself went ashore during the heavy blow of the 11th inst. Mr. Tibbitts, shipwright, who was on the spot, is of opinion that she will be got off with slight damage. The Luka is high and dry, and probably a total loss.

It is being analyzed by Dr. Stangenwald, and if it should be found sufficiently charged with phosphate of lime, will prove of immense value, not only to the owner of the land but to the commerce of Honolulu. Measles .- On the arrival of the mail steamer ast Thursday she displayed the yellow flag, and on being boarded by the health officer it was found that she had one case of measles on board, of a mild type, however. The Board of Health decided to allow the vessel to come to the dock, but no one from the shore was allowed to visit her. The passengers for Honolulu were permitted to land, after shifting their clothing; and other precautions, deemed proper, Music To-Night .- The Band will not play at Emma Square this p. m., but will give a moonlight concert this evening, beginning at 71 o'clock. Following is the programme:

INCENDIARY ATTEMPT .- On Thursday night last about midnight, an attempt was made by some unknown parties to set fire to the premises of Mr. J. | the battle at daybreak Tuesday by an assault on H. Wood, on Nuuanu Avenue, at present in the occupancy of Mr. B. F. Dillingham. A bag containing shavings, saturated with kerosene and all on fire, was thrown into the hall. Fortunately one member of the household was partially awake and observed the bright light of the flames, and the fire was extinguished without damage. Another bag of shavings, similarly prepared, was found in

THE JAMESTOWN .- This U. S. Training-ship, Comander Glass, which went to sea on the 27th ult. for short cruise off Hawaii—and also with the purpose of looking for the supposed missing steamer Likelike, which it fortunately happened was all right—did not return to port until the 12th inst., having been blown to leeward in the boisterous weather during the second week of this month. As during her former visits, the gentlemanly officers of the Jamestown are welcome guests in our community, and her crew of boy sailors are orderly and well-behaved.

Last Monday, it was reported that the schooner Ka Moi had brought a bat from Maui, of probably the remnant of the garrison of Great Yathe red kind. Around the Wharves .- If any one desires to note how business on the other islands is progressing

under the revivifying effects of the Reciprocity

Treaty, he should occasionally take a stroll along the wharves. The coasting fleet is kept constantly on the move, and instead of going away in ballast as was often the case formerly, the schooners are generally loaded to their utmost capacity, frequently being obliged to leave freight on the wharf. Lumber, especially, and large quantities of other supplies are constantly going forward to the plantations that are already in operation and new ones that are being established.

But with the scarcity of labor farmers are introducing improved implements. I sent (through a house in Honolulu) to Philadelphia for a patent Horse Hoe that saves the work of ten men in the cane field. I understand that the said firm has sent for more, and if they would advertise them in the P. C. A. they would doubtless sell one or two to each plan-

Monday or with the French Consul. TUESDAY last, Oct. 16th, was the second anniversary of the natal day of the little Princess Victoria, only child of the Hon. Mr. Cleghorn and his wife the Princess Miriam Likelike, sister to His Majesty. Accordingly the auspicious event was feted at the residence of the little Princess's parents at Waikiki with all the honors pleasing to that tender age Many happy children of our prominent native and foreign families were the invited guests of the Princess Victoria, and spent a very pleasant day-as the little people said themselves-in the enjoyment of the little Princess's right royal hospitality amidst the picturesque palm-groves of Waikiki. Some big people -- parents and others -- were necessarily present on the interesting occasion, amongst whom were noticeable the French Consul and Commissioner, the officers of the French war steamer Limier and U.S. training-ship Jamestown.

AN ANCIENT OYSTER BED .- A party of excursionists to the lagoon at Ewa, on this island, recently found an immense deposit of oyster shells embedded in the bank of the lagoon. There was one layer over another to the depth of several feet, and above them a strata of coral several feet thick, which had evidently grown since the living oysters had become defunct. The shells of these last were those of the genuine bivalve, just such in size and appearance as are to be seen in New York city, and not to be found within the tropics. Query Does this deposit of oyster shells belong to the oliocene period, many, many ages ago, when a great continent occupied the space now filled by the Pacific Ocean, and the climate here was that of the temperate zone? Supreme Court, October Term, 1877.

Our latest war telegrams are to October 9th .- In Armenia, heavy fighting has taken place, since our last published reports. Following ia a telegraphic summary of the recent events of the Armenian Erzeroum, Thursday, September 27.—Twenty-two thousand Russians have arrived opposite Mukhtar Pasha's centre, and a battle is imminent and artillery, attacked his rear guard at Neekjonin, on Monday. The Russians, after five hours' fighting were repulsed, with the loss of 400 killed. Four battalions of Russian infantry, and three regiments that a regular homeopathic physician, T. P. Tisdall, of cavalry, who at the same time attempted to create a diversion by attacking the Turkish right, were also repulsed. The Sultan has conferred the title of Ghazior Conqueror on Osman Pasha and Mukhtar Pasha. Constantinople, October 4 .- Mukhtar Pasha telegraphs a long account of Wednesday's battle, which appears to have been indecisive. He says his outposts withdrew from Great Kamlar, which is probably the position the capture of which by General Melikoff was described in the dispatch from Karajal yesterday. The Russian attacks on Little Kamlar and Kiziltepe were unsuccessful. On the right the Turks being threatened by six battalions, assumed the offensive. They stormed Gladdi Gagh, and after five hours' fighting pursued the Russians to Arpetcohi. Night stopped the conflict. Both sides maintained their positions. Mukhtar Pasha

> London October 5th.—A Berlin dispatch says The Russians officially acknowledge a loss of 52,000 men up to September 27th. London, October 5th.-Further particulars of the battle before Kars make it evident that the Russians assaulted the Turkish positions along the whole line, and were repulsed with heavy loss. The main action was fought on Tuesday. The Turkish line extended from Great and Little Yagul, two fortified hills in the Kuniskada plain, as far as Ani on the Arpactal river, with the centre advanced toward the river and resting on Kiziltepe. The Russians, reinforced by new troops and those lately employed against the Caucasian Insurgents, began Great Yagui, the extreme outbreak of Muhktar Pasha's fortifications, twelve miles due east of Kars. The Turks seem to have been taken by surprise. A single Turkish battalion defending the great Yaqui was cut to pieces or captured with the post, after two hours of obstinate defense, which gave the Turkish general an opportunity to prepare for the next

A Turkish official despatch says: A great battle ensued, lasting thirteen hours. Repeated Russian attacks were repulsed with heavy loss.

A Russian bulletin from Grand Duke Michael's headquarters at Karajal, dated the 4th, says: After the capture of Great Yagui it was found that Little Yagui was so strongly fortified that an attempt to assault it was considered premature. After thirteen battalions, sent from the Turks to reinforce Mukhtar Pasha, had been repulsed, our troops for tified themselves in the position they occupied Our loss on Tuesday was 3,069 killed and wound A Bar.-This animal, of the genus Vespertilio, is ed. While the Russians are engaged with Mukhtar Pasha's victorious troops on their front, the insurrection of the Mussulmans of Daghestan still gives them trouble on their rear, as appears from the tion had started in the central districts of Daghesing the coast districts, were involved. On the 23d and 24th the Russians were attacked by the main body of the insurgents, 6.000 strong, and defeated and dispersed them. It is now believed the insurrection will not give any further trouble.

FOR TAHITI.-We are informed by Capt. Puech | Pasha has at last succeeded in interrupting the communications of the Russians occupying the Shipka Pass with the town of Gabrova. A great proportion of the houses are in rules, and only a few remain entire. The entrenchments, however, are intact. The health of the garrison and inhabitants is good, and the casualities few. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20. A Tour to Oregon and British Columbia.

[BY THE REV. ALEXANDER MACKINTOSH.]

[After some unavoidable delay, we now proceed with the publication, in this and succeeding ssues, of the Rev. Mr. Mackintosh's M. S. containing an interesting account of his recent tour, in company with Mrs. Mackintosh, to Oregonand British Columbia.]

PORTLAND, OREGON, Aug. 6th .- We came in sight of land about 6 p. m. This being too late for a Pilot we were compelled to pass a restless night off and on. At 5 a. m. next day, a steamtug brought the Pilot, Capt. Doig (formerly mate of the Falkinberg plying to Honolulu) on board the Mattie. We went over the bar without perceiving anything unusual, the sea being as smooth as a millpond. The tug then left us and we proceeded up the river under sail and drifting with the current. We landed Nor' West Tongued & Grooved Boards, 1 & 14 at Astoria, about 10 o'clock. Captain Doig was Nor' West Surfaced, 1 in. 14 and 14. exceedingly polite. He guided us to the Custom House where we found our own Capt. Pope. We did not see very much of Astoria. Most of the city is built on piles, the river Columbia flowing beneath. Very singular the wooden streets appeared to us. The sound of our footsteps echoing as we walked, and the rumbling of the carriages struck us with peculiar effect. Business and idleness seemed to be pretty well combined. Men, sailors I think, sitting on chairs on the sidewalks, taking things easy-others rushing about with pens or pencils in their teeth and papers in their hands. Our first rush was for for us by Captain Doig—a capital fellow and most polite and kind. We shall perhaps have more time to see Astoria when we are homeward bound. Astoria derives its name from Jacob Astor. Our pilot Capt. Gilman now hurried us on board. The Custom House officer, Mr. Brown, also accompanied us up the river, in order to watch any attempt to land contraband goods. Gallantly the Mattie ploughed her way up this wonderful river, by dint of her own exertions, because we were unable to procure a tug. However we went up at the rate of six or seven miles an hour. The river is about three miles wide for the first few miles, but afterwards becomes narrower. The entrance to the Columbia River is about five miles wide from Cape Disappointment to the opposite shore, but the estuary is like an inland sea. In one snug corner is Fort Canby and on the Oregon side Fort Stephens. Tall pines stand on both sides like gloomy sentinels-very beautiful-but one wearies with the sameness Now we left Astoria behind. We soon took our eyes from the Washington Territory side of the river, because of the everlasting hills clothed with fir. The Oregon side was more varied, on each bank we saw canneries—that is, places where they pack salmon in cars. The salmon fishing is now over. Now and then, we passed an island thickly wooded. In the distance we saw a snow-capped mountain—Mount Hood, 19000 feet. CHEAPEST WIND-MILL NOW IN USE About 2 p. m. we reached Mr. Macleay's Cannery; here we were hailed by Mr. M.'s steamer, called the Edith after his second daughter-(our ship, the Mattie Macleay, is named after his eldest daughter.) This ferocious little steamer soon joined us, and being fast bound to our port side, tugged us along at the rate of eight or nine miles an hour, amidst a constant shower of sparks. These fell so thickly that we were obliged to shut ourselves up in the cabin. When we could bear this no longer we went forward and sat in the bow, I astride of the bowsprit, where it was cool and pleasant. This lasted until dark. What a wretched night we spent! How we longed for day! In the middle of the night they deluged the ship with water to keep the sparks from setting fire to the ship. Then we were alarmed at the sudden cessation of the puffing and panting of the steamer. We thought it had changed position and gone ahead on account of the sparks; but suddenly we were terrified by an awful noise of shouting and hauling, as if we were boarded by pirates. But it was only the return and rebuckling to of the steamer which had left us to get a supply of wood, as is usual. What an enormous quantity of wood the little lady demolished! She nad a wonderfully capacious maw for so little a person. We tossed about in the most restless manner for a few hours longer, and just as Morpheus was overcoming me and about to hold me fast bound in his sweet captivity, we were apprised of our arrival at our destination. Portland is on both banks of the Willamette River, a tributary of the Columbia, and is about 105 miles from Astoria; it has a population of about 15,000 inhabitants. A ferry boat, which runs perpetually, connects East Portland with Portland proper. The whole country within range of our vision is bounded by a densely wooded circumference. Outside this circle the snow-capped mountains called Mt. Hood, Mt. St. Helens, Mt. Adams and Mt. Jepherson, lift up their lofty heads, but they are only visible now and then, owing to the dense smoke caused by the burning woods. Through the centre of the circle flows the river Willamette. On the right bank Portland rises as it were in terraces, the streets forming the meridians and parallels of latitude of the sphere. Every block of buildings and of building land is most regularly laid out. One has only to remember the name of the latitudinal and meridian streets, and then the way is easily found without the aid of compass, sextant, chronometer or policeman. The only difficulty one finds in a vocation, is the rareity of the street names being posted upon the walls—but this no doubt is little felt by the citizens. Very few of the old residents seem to know the streets by their names. People are directed by the presence or absence of a church, or of some government building. Front Street lies along the bank of the River Willamette, and goes from one end of the town to the other. In this street are situated all the principal wholesale business houses, among which a resident of Honolulu can recognize some familiar names. Corbitt and Macleay, Allen and Lewis, McCraken & Co. (Hawaiian Consul,) Janian & Co. The traffic in this busy street is ceaseless; it would astonish our quiet Honolulu merchants. They would, I should think, imagine that it was perpetually steamer day, and even this thought would give them but faint idea of the business. In fact, there is very little difference between this street and also the next, which is called First Street, and any Thames Street, Blackwall, Lime St. or Broadway in the world. To give just one example of trade which I accidentally learned—the average number of eggs per week which are brought into the wholesale house from the country is twenty thousand down and not professional try is twenty thousand dozen, and not unfrequently the number daily is five thousand dozen; not that this firm is solely in the egg line, seeing that in one year, the same firm shipped to foreign parts eighteen cargoes of wheat valued at one million and a half dollars gold, and the money turned over in one year by this said firm was two and three-quarter millions of dollars. Throughout the length of Front Street cars are constantly moving up and down. In First Street are the principal retail stores, and these are truly magnificent. However, there is not much difference between the merchandize sold in these grand buildings and that in Honolulu either in force or quality. Then the public buildings, the Banks, the Custom House, the Post Office, the Prison are all of beautiful stone. There are four banks: The British Columbia; Ladd and Tilton; First National Gold Bank; and the Oregon Saving's Bank—the last named deriving the stock principally from Scotland. Second and Third Streets, together with the streets which intersect them, are taken up with stores, both wholesele and retail. wholesale and retail. Along Fourth Street runs the Railway which extends about thirty miles into the country, as far as Grove. From this street until the town rises into the hills, the streets are paved with wood, the sidewalks being also of wood. And now begins the prettiest and most picturesque part of the town. Every one seems to vie with his neighbor as to who shall have the neatest and most beautiful residence. The one acre lots are very often wholly taken up with one house and its surroundings. Apple, pear, peach, and plum-trees, heavily laden with fruit at this time of the year, take the place of more ornamental shrubs. Yet here especially to more temperate climes. The turf FOR SALE BY is heavily mixed with clover,-after a time one misses the smooth manienie-the clover looks too clumsy. The houses themselves are very tastefully built, and all except one, are of wood: this one is built of red brick pointed with white. Verandahs skirt the houses on two sides, for in these the people sit in the pleasant and long sum-mer evenings very much the same as in Hawaii To be continued.
