MOTT-SMITH IS EXPECTED TO BE THE PEACEMAKER

Regimental Officers Insist Upon the Rights of Election Given Them by Act of the Legislature.

From the present indications the trouble in the National Guard in relation to the appointment of officers in place of their election will be completely settled at a meeting which will be held tomorrow morning between representatives from a meeting held yesterday, and Acting Governor Mott-Smith. It appears that the entire trouble was caused by a misunderstanding and that explanations which have been made are sufficient to bring the incident to a satisfactory conclusion.

The facts of the matter, as learned from one high in authority, are substantially as follows. There were two positions to be filled among the field officers of the National Guard, those of Inspector General and Paymaster General, to which Messrs. Ziegler and Fisher were appointed by Adjutant General Jones, with the authority of the Governor. Before this was done the matter had been talked over with the field officers who said that the gentlemen referred to were satisfactory to them, to fill the positions for which they had been proposed.

After the appointments had been made, the matter was taken up by the field officers, who stated that they believed that a formal election was to take place, and that the appointments would not be made as the result of the informal talk on the matter. They brought these views before a meeting which was held for the purpose. In this connection section eight of the General Order No. 50, which was issued on October 26, was cited. This states: "The Governor has authority to appoint and commission all officers, and to refuse a commission to any officer. He may require any and all officers to give bonds." The first sentence was the only one objected to. It was held that this was the order which had resulted in the appointment of the two officers mentioned above, and that unless some understanding was reached it would mean that in the future all officers would be appointed by the adjutant general, with the authority of the Governor.

A meeting of the officers with Acting Governor Mott-Smith was held Saturday morning, at which the officers of the regiment were given assurances that the matter would be taken up and looked into carefully. A second meeting of the officers was held at the Bungalow yesterday morning at which the matter was talked over and the opinion expressed that Acting Governor Mott-Smith would handle the question in such a way that it would be absolutely satisfactory to all concerned. When asked for information in regard to the matter the officers as a rule were very reticent and did not care to talk. They referred the reporter to Adjutant General Jones and Colonel Sam Johnson for information, though, with one or two slight differences of opinion, all seemed to be assured that a satisfactory ending of the matter was close at hand.

From the indications it seems to be certain that there will be no change made in the manner of selection of the officers of the National Guard, and the system of election, followed by formal appointment by the Governor will be continued. There may be minor changes made in many of the rules governing the Guard in the near future, on account of the fact that they are necessary in order to conform with the conditions imposed by the so-called Dick bill, passed by Congress on January 21, 1903, which requires conformation with the regular army regulations by January 21, 1908.

The fact that there must be regulations in the National Guard which will govern each member, officer or private, is self-evident. Without these, the guard would fail to exist and they are as much needed there as in the regular army or as the common law is to the private citizen. To have these thoroughly understood by all the members of the Guard is the object of all its officers from the commander-in-chief down.

When told of the statement which had been made and asked for his opinion on the matter, Colonel Sam Johnson stated that he had little to say but, that in regard to the election of officers by the regiment, it was a matter which had been plainly set forth in the law relating to the National Guard. The officers of the companies are to be elected by the men and the field officers by the officers of the regiment. This has been done recently in the cases of Colonel Short and Dr. C. B. Cooper, and to make a radical change, which was unauthorized by law, seems hardly the right thing.

Colonel Johnson stated that the officers at their meeting were of one opinion and that besides the matter of (Continued on Page Three.)

He Salutes the Flag Now

Honolulu, Hawaii, November 10, 1907.

Editor Advertiser: I am the boy who made the remark, "If I'm late, I won't have to salute the flag." I said it in fun, to tease the little daughter of my employer. She probably told her father. Like most stories, it has been repeated too often.

The reason I was late was because I could not get ready in time. My excuses were accepted by the teacher, and the principal did not speak to me about being tardy.

I am now in the employ of another person, and I have not been late for nearly a month.

I do not object to saluting the American flag; indeed, I am glad to do whatever is required of me at the Kaahumanu School.

Very respectfully yours,

H. DAHUKU.

The foregoing letter is in response to a paragraph by The Bystander which had been clipped out of the Sunday Advertiser and pasted on the letter. The paragraph is as follows:

The Bystander

This talk about the school city, and the three Rs, and the mistakes the Board of Education is making, recalls a school incident I heard not long ago. Out at the Kaahumanu School there was one Japanese boy among the numbers who attend there, who always came late to school. Day after day he was tardy. Nothing that was said or done affected him. He was most methodical in his tardiness. His teacher was unable to find out why, and the principal was unable to find out why. But one day a haole acquaintance saw him ambling along toward school a few minutes late and jokingly upbraided him for it.

"Oh, that all right," he replied. "Every day I go late, then no have to salute American flag."

REFORM WORK IN CHICAGO

William Kent Tells of British S. S. Strathgarry on Maiden Voyage From Norfolk.

Among the guests at the Moana Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. William Kent, who will remain here till the arrival of the Korea, which will take them to the Coast. Mr. Kent is one of the foremost reform leaders in the city of Chicago, and has for the past ten years or more, been busily engaged in the work of bringing about a purification of politics in the great center. When asked for a little story about the movement there yesterday, he said:

"The greatest work which we have attempted has been in the line of a new charter, but our work has been spoiled to a great extent by the stupidity of the state legislature. They took the bill which we had prepared and changed it so that the better features including a direct primary were left out and as the result, when it was submitted to the people, they refused to ratify it. I understand now, however, that there is some chance that we may win out after all.

"The greatest victory that we have achieved has been the municipal regulation and control of the street railroads, which had been left in such a horrible condition by the manipulations of Yerkes. There were two concerns there, one of which was capitalized fairly, the City Railroad Company, at $18,000,000, and the other at about $100,000,000, the greater part of which was water. This last was the Union Traction Company. The valuation of the first named company was placed at $21,000,000, and of the second at $29,000,000, a total of $50,000,000. According to the twenty year franchise, these companies are allowed to earn five per cent. on this valuation plus such a sum as shall be raised for improvements. Large sums must be spent on rehabilitation and of the net profit 55 per cent. goes to the city and 45 per cent. to the company.

"It is impossible to pad the sums expended as the roads are under (Continued on Page Two.)

DREDGING AT GUAM, NO SEISMIC SHIVERS

On Guam things are uninteresting and monotonous. There have been no seismic shivers, nor has anything but good weather been enjoyed of late. The government's dredging operations are continuing. There was no other vessel but the cableship Restorer when the U. S. S. Justin arrived and left. The American station ship Supply was away.

LEADS NAVY COAL FLEET

British S. S. Strathgarry on Maiden Voyage From Norfolk.

Spick and span and saucy, on her maiden voyage and the first of the great fleet of vessels to bring coal for the United States Navy here from the Atlantic coast, the British S. S. Strathgarry, Captain Stanhope, 67 days from Norfolk, arrived yesterday morning and docked at Naval wharf No. 3.

Leading the coal carrying squadrons, steam and sail, which are to convey from ocean to ocean sufficient fuel for the Atlantic fleet of American war vessels which will fill their bunkers at San Francisco and Honolulu, the Strathgarry brings 5229 tons of Pocahontas, for transporting which a distance of nearly 14,000 miles her company, the Strath line, receives nearly $35,000, or $6.65 per ton. She had a nasty run down the Atlantic but made up for it in weather and time when the Pacific was reached.

It was out of summer into winter and back into summer again; summer in the Atlantic, winter in the Straits and thereabouts and summer again once up in the Pacific.

In the Straits of Magellan the Strathgarry passed between snow-covered mountains and glaciers, a splendid spectacle.

Except for a slight temporary difficulty with her virgin engines she had no accident and while this small trouble was being repaired the Chinese crew, of whom there are twenty-six, amused themselves catching sharks, inducing several monsters to connect with large hooks at the ends of stout lines whereon hunks of pork had been placed. The Chinese "scorched" the lot, as the white officers express it, eating every bit of flesh and preserving the tails and fins, the latter being considered a special delicacy. Whales were seen in large squads, spouting, as it seemed, in salutation. No icebergs were sighted. Not a sailing ship was picked up throughout the voyage after leaving St. Lucia in the West Indies where the Britisher called to replenish her bunker coal. Nothing was seen of the long overdue American (Continued on Page Three.)

IT PROVED UNLIKE HEARST'S BARREL

Lately some unknowns have been in the habit of placing empty barrels on the Oahu railway track near Pearl City in front of the late train from the city, for the fun, presumably, of hearing the noise made when the locomotive struck the barrel. But Friday night the miscreants placed on the track a barrel filled with telephone pole insulators, which the Mutual Telephone people had left near the line. The engineer saw it but thinking it was an empty barrel like the previous ones he did not stop his train. The insulators and barrel were scattered to the four winds.

A number of peafowl was hatched at the park this summer in the incubator, and the young fowl are doing well. Hitherto the young peafowl have been allowed to run at large and have been killed by dogs. This year they have been kept in an enclosure and are doing well. Some of the peafowl of the park are growing old and a renewal of stock is desirable.

JAPANESE ARE AGAIN BEATEN BY THE SAINTS

(Special Cable to the Advertiser.)

YOKOHAMA, November 10.—The fourth game which has been played by the St. Louis baseball team since its arrival, took place yesterday against the Waseda University. The Honolulu boys won for the third time in succession, shutting out the University players by a score of four to nothing.

This is the second time that the Saints have shut out the Waseda University baseball team, the first game taking place on November 6, and the local boys winning two to nothing. This means that the St. Louis team has won three games out of four since landing, the only defeat being in the first game when Keio worsted them, five to three in a thirteen-inning game. The Saints wiped out this defeat in their second game by a score of four to two. They have now won the series against Waseda but will require one more game with Keio University. They also will play the Nobles and the Commercial School.

The Waseda lineup, as given in a game played against the team from the U. S. S. Supply, played on October 22, in which the Americans were defeated by a score of 9-1, was as follows: Oshikawa, 2b; Morimoto, 1b; Iseda, rf; Tonda, cf; Shishi-uchi, 3b; Tanabo, ss; Nishio, lf; Yamawaki, c; Kono, p.

TWENTY-SEVENTH YEAR OF MEETING

Annual Meeting of Planters Association Opens Today.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association will convene at 10 o'clock this morning in the rooms of the association, Judd building. The meeting will be called to order by President E. F. Bishop, who will make the presidential address reviewing the year in its relation to the sugar industry of the Islands and the sugar markets of the world. The annual election of officers will also take place the first day of the meeting and probably at the first session.

There will not be as many important reports at this meeting of the association as usual, but there will be some of very great interest. Among these will be the report of the Experiment Station which has become a really wonderful scientific institution. The reports on immigrations and immigrants are expected to be of very great interest. Since the last meeting of the association a large number of Spanish and Portuguese immigrants have arrived in the Territory, brought hither by the Territorial Board of Immigration, but into conditions of homes and homesteads provided by the plantations. This involved much that was experimental and the reports of the progress of these experiments will prove of interest.

The members of the association from the other Islands practically all ar-

MAHOGANY LUMBER COMPANY MANAGEMENT

It was announced on Saturday that W. W. Harris was to succeed E. H. Cant as manager of the Hawaiian Mahogany Lumber Company. Later some of the parties in interest denied that this was so. The denial was correct. Mr. Cant will remain the business manager; but the great scope of the business of the company requires not only a manager to operate the business and plant of the company on Hawaii, but a general business and financial superintendence to attend to business matters elsewhere. This superintendence, the Advertiser is reliably informed, will be performed by W. W. Harris of Lewers & Cooke. Mr. Harris will not sever his connection with Lewers & Cooke, remaining as a director there; but most of his time will be devoted to the business of the new lumber company.

The Henry Waterhouse Trust Company, the president of which company, Mr. Robert W. Shingle, has been largely instrumental in promoting the new company, has been appointed the agent of the Mahogany Lumber Company, and will perform the usual duties of an agent.

through routes all over the city for a five cent fare.

"The city has the right of purchase at any time, after six months' notice has been given, or may turn the roads over to a corporation which will pay only a five per cent. dividend on the money actually invested, that is, the fifty millions allowed plus the amount additional which has been actually invested, according to what is known as the Tom Johnson plan. It may also turn the lines over to another corporation wishing to buy, in case that matters are not conducted suitably, this corporation to pay twenty per cent. more than if the purchase were made by the city.

"This franchise was passed last January and ratified by the people at a referendum by a majority of 50,000 in what was a very close election between the leading candidates on the opposing tickets. Hearst and the other radicals fought us bitterly, though I never heard a single good reason given against the franchise, but we had the people behind us and carried the day.

"The next matter which we will strike at of this kind will be the telephone companies. In this case, as in that of the railroads, the rates to be charged will be based upon the earnings of the actual sum invested. Not on the amount of capital stock or bonds, that have been issued, but on what has actually been put into the plants.

"The biggest thing that we have done has been the education of 450,000 voters. The work has been going on for fifteen years and there has never been a really backward step. There have been times when it was hard work, but we have kept on gaining all the time. At present the people are beginning to take a far more intelligent interest in politics than they have before. At times, when they would be bitterly radical, but almost always in a good cause. At other times, and again for the best, they are conservative to the utmost.

"You ask what would happen on this railroad commission, should we get a couple of dishonest engineers on the commission? Well, that's the old argument, and it is best answered in the old way, 'If you can't trust anybody, what's the use anyway?'

"The cause of good government is getting along fast in America. We have just as many honest men here as they have anywhere else. The difference comes that in other countries they place the emphasis on this one thing, municipal government, while in the United States we do not. Everything in this line is making strides forward, and the effect will be a lasting one. It is not spasmodic.

ANOTHER GAME MUST BE PLAYED

Palamas and Chinese A. C. Tie Again in Series for Championship.

One of the greatest games of baseball that has been played in this city for some time was seen yesterday afternoon, when the Chinese Athletics met the Palamas in the final championship game, which resulted in a draw, owing to darkness, the score being 2 to 2. The game was somewhat interfered with by the rain, which caused the delay. It seemed that the whole Honolulu public, or rather, all those who have been to see the Riverside League games during the season, were on hand.

In the first spasm the Chinese Athletics scored one run. Sing Chong got to the initial bag by a liner along third base. W. Ayau sent a grounder to Kekaha at short and forced out Sing Chong at second. By bad throws on the part of the Palama players, Ayau managed to get to third. Lo went out, second to first, but scored Ayau. Chi Bui was permitted to get to the first base by Kama's error. Ayau made the last out, after trying in vain to hit Pitcher Paaluhl three times. In the last half, the Palamas were shut out and none reached first base.

In the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings no runs were scored. During these innings both John Lo and Paaluhl pitched fine ball, notwithstanding the rain. In the seventh inning Hong Chack made a nice safe hit over the second base. He stole second. Eng Sang was unable to hit Paaluhl's curves and struck out. K. Y. Ching reached first on Kama's error, advancing Chack to third. Ching stole the next bag. Mon Yin was struck out. Chack was allowed to score on a passed ball. Sing Chong struck out. In the Palamas' half, Walker got to first on a hit over third. Kaopua flew to Sing Chong. Hoopi was given a walking ticket by Lo. Kama saved the game for the Palamas by a two-bagger, scoring Walker and Hoopi. H. Zerbe, the sure hitter of the Palamas, went out on a fly to short. Kekaha flew to the same place. This tied the score.

In the eighth and ninth innings both teams failed to score. The Palamas, however, had a good chance, but by the steady work of Lo in the box for the Chinese, they were given a goose-egg. Walker flew to Chack at second. Kaopua reached the first base by a bad throw of E. Ayau to that bag. Kaopua stole second. Hoopi was given a walk by Lo. Kama sent one to Lo, but forced out Kaopua at third. Zerbe went out, Chack to Eng Sang. This ended the game by the score of 2 to 2. Next Sunday these two teams will again have to fight it out, and a great game may be expected.

SAILORS SPRING BIG SURPRISE

In spite of bad weather, the Atkinson League managed to play off its regular games at the Kakaako Park yesterday morning. The first, between the Brewery and the Laundry, was won by the former, who got up steam in the last two innings and managed to pull out a decisive victory, though the first part of the game was all against them.

In the second game, the sailors from the U. S. S. Iroquois sprung a surprise on the Ocean Views, who have been considered the strongest team in the league, and administered a defeat by the score of 12 to 4. They started out hard and at one time had a score of 11 to 0 over their opponents, but could not make a shutout go through.

YACHT RACE DECLARED OFF

On account of lack of wind, the third race of the second-class yachts for the Commodore Cooper Cup was declared off yesterday. The event was started promptly over the Pearl Harbor course, four boats leaving the starting line shortly after the first gun was fired. The Maggie led the way for nearly three hours in a drifting match, with the Defiance close on her heels, though she was overweighed by a crew of four men, which was entirely too much for so light a breeze. The Chip and the Myrtle were the rear guard, but did not make the best kind of a showing.

When the start was made the wind was from the south and came in little puffs, but with no strength, and none of the boats had a chance to show any of their speed. The Maggie was much lighter than she has been heretofore, a large amount of lead having been taken off her keel, and she caught each little puff of wind that came along. Shortly after the race was called off a brisk wind, from exactly the opposite direction to that which had been blowing, started up, but it was too late, and a second try will be made at a date to be announced later.

IS GOOD AT HEART BUT NEEDS HELP

"The event of the day" is the appearance of Finnigan the Millionaire at the Orpheum this evening. This kindly character has determined that he will do all that he can to help toward the building of a yacht to represent Hawaii, and were it not for the tightness of the money market at present, his funds being tied up in stocks, would undoubtedly buy the Mongolia and have her rigged as a yacht, which he would present to the Territory. Being unable to do this, he appears at the Orpheum tonight and all the receipts will go toward the new yacht. Manager Joe Cohen will not take a cent for the use of the house. These two are doing well. See a good show and help the yacht fund by coming yourself.

BOTH GAMES ARE FORFEITED

There were no games played yesterday in the Valley League. In the first game the Laimis failed to appear and forfeited to the Letheans. In the second event on the program the Kalihis got credit for a game on account of the non-appearance of the Auwaialimus.

A German traveler who tried to pass a meal ticket on the train was told by the conductor that he would have to pay the regular fare of 35 cents. The German argued and refused to pay more than 25 cents, whereupon the conductor stopped the train and put him off. In a twinkling the traveler ran ahead of the engine and started to walk on the track. The engine blew his whistle, but the irate German turned, shook his fist and called out: "You can visse all you want to. I won't come back."

It is not enough that a man should love his wife when she has on a soiled wrapper and her hair is in curl papers; he must tell her of it, and as fervently as in her peach days before he married her.

J. A. M. JOHNSON IS SUED IN JAPAN

Former Business Man of Honolulu Haled Into Court for 2350 Yen.

The Japan Gazette of October 19 contains the following which will be of interest to the very wide circle of acquaintances J. A. M. Johnson had in these islands were he was in business for a number of years:

On the morning of the 16th in the Yokohama District Court, before Judge Muraoka, the hearing was commenced of a suit instituted by Teng Jui-chuan, a Chinese resident at No. 185, Yamashita-cho, against Mr. J. A. M. Johnson, managing director of the Nippon Kokoku Boyeki Kabushiki Kaisha, No. 70-c, Yamashita-cho, Yokohama, claiming the payment of Y.350 as the balance of salary and the recovery of security money, amounting to Y.2000.

Plaintiff was represented by Messrs. Hiraoka and Murofushi and Mr. Sawada appeared for defendant.

Mr. Hiraoka prayed the court that the defendant be ordered to pay the claim and stated as the ground of the claim that since September 10, 1906, the defendant company had employed plaintiff under the contract that no salary would be paid for the first two months in order to examine plaintiff's ability, after which Y.100 would be paid per month for one year. Plaintiff had then lodged with the company the sum of Y.2000 as personal security. Despite the said contract, the defendant company discharged plaintiff on August 31, this year without giving the reason. Therefore, plaintiff demanded of the company the return of the said security and the payment of salary till November next under the yearly contract, but the defendant company only paid Y.50, or half the salary for the month of August, having refused to pay the remainder and refund the security money. Hence the suit.

The counsel continued that of plaintiff's claim Y.50 is the balance of salary for August and Y.300 for September, October and November, 1907. Mr. Sawada asked the court that the claim be dismissed. He stated that defendants had recognized plaintiff's statement, but it must be contended that the defendant company employed plaintiff as a salesman for the purpose of selling the company's cash register in China instead of in Japan. For the above purpose, the company taught him the construction of the instrument and the method of its manipulation. It proved too difficult for him to learn the method, though any other might have learnt it in one month only. In order to train him, a school teacher and an expert had been employed, but without effect. For this reason, the defendant company discharged him on August 31, 1907, so that the claim of plaintiff was unjustifiable. Plaintiff's counsel asked why the company did not discharge plaintiff upon the expiration of the first two months if plaintiff had been incapable of dealing with the instrument.

At this stage plaintiff's counsel produced to the court Exhibits A, Nos. 1 and 2. It was proved by Exhibit No. 1 that there was a contract concluded between the parties and also by Exhibit A, No. 2 that plaintiff had lodged with the defendant company Y.2000.

Defendants' counsel again insisted that defendants employed plaintiff as a salesman for China and additionally as overseer of salesmen in China, and that if there were necessity of employing any salesman in Japan, some Japanese would have been employed for the benefit of the company in regard to the language, etc. The counsel of defendants prayed the court that three witnesses be summoned to prove the fact that plaintiff was incapable of dealing with or selling the company's cash register and to explain the contract between defendant and plaintiff.

The court granted defendants' petition to summon Cho Nishikawa and Kichinojo Nakamura as witnesses. The proceedings were adjourned till the 2nd of November.

election of officers other subjects which required settlement had been taken up. He said that from the assurances which he had obtained from Acting Governor Mott-Smith, he felt sure that there would be action taken in the matter that would result in general satisfaction to the officers. Both he and all the other officers who were seen stated that there was absolutely no personal objection to either Ziegler or Fisher, but that they felt that it was imperative that they should stand for the elective rights which are given the officers and men by law. The fact that Adjutant General Jones had recently been elected himself for a term of four years was cited by some as a late instance of this practise.

The Jag in Vaudeville

"I'm asking a lot of questions, I know, and I hope I'm not annoying anybody," observed the little man with the interrogative eye, "but here's one of those stage gags that bothers me: Why do so many of these vaudeville sketches hinge upon the male individual of the sketch coming home to his young wife from the club in a state of sodden and sulky or hilarious and skylarkish rummiferousness? Hey?"

"Ysee, that kind of a sketch—oh, you've seen lots of 'em—is usually pulled off something like this: "The rising curtain reveals a termagantish wife—she says she is a wife, and I guess she ought to know, hadn't she?—tearing around a most gilded and ornate drawing-room, waiting for her man to come home. She is perfectly certain that he man is going to come home very drunk. She says so about nine dozen times. She gets it in, too, that her husband is a hopeless souse—gets it in while she's rampaging around there in the drawing-room all by herself when her husband isn't present, and therefore has no chance to defend or square himself with the audience.

"However, after she gyrated that way for quite a while she suddenly notices that there's a piano there in the drawing-room—she appears never to have known one solitary thing about the piano till that blessed moment—and then, just to pass the time away while she's waiting to hurl a few articles of vertu and bijouterie at her man when he shows up, she plumps down on the piano stool and hits a lilt or two about how things look down in dear old Manitoba, where the sweet pawpaws grow, and all like that. The audience, of course, makes her do this all over again, but just the minute she finishes the encore she jumps up from the piano stool and is every bit as sore as she was before she started playing and singing.

"Well, now, there's something started. The front doorbell clangs. There's the loafer of a husband a-coming now! She knows 'tis he! And he's sure to be pickled! She won't do a thing to him!

"Now, of course, having been put wise to it so many times, the audience is fully prepared to see the young man come in with his package, and he doesn't disappoint 'em. He's there with the bun all right. Of course he's wearing a dress suit—that's what they always call evening clothes in vaudeville—a 'dress suit.' Men never get bunned up in vaudeville unless they've got their dress suits on. One end of his collar is flying loose and his tie is pulled away around to one side. His hair is all tousled. He is wabbly on his pins. He isn't in the least engaging or attractive. Business of his enraged wife grabbing him by the lapels of his dress suit coat and shaking him ferociously while he mumbles thick apologies.

"Well, they have it out, right before the audience. She roars and bawls at him, and he's there with the rum comedian stuff. She accuses him of having been out to dinner with some willful Mazie or something like that, and he—winking wisely at the audience—denies it, exuding fun all the time as he does so. Business of his termagantish wife gradually subsiding into the weeps, while the soused one relents, chucks her under the chin, then folds her in his arms, and it's all right, fellers. The audience sees that it's all right, for doesn't the couple walk down stage, hand in hand, and lilt another one about up in dear old Guatemala, where the crook stemmed fir trees grow? And then they're there with some more of that hug stuff, and the curtain thumps down.

"Now, why is all this? What for? "Because, when you stop to think 'em over, there are just odds of interesting situations in the daily life of men and women, even of husbands and wives, that have nothing whatever on earth to do with the rum thing. Ysee, nowadays the men who go home drunk to their wives are quite exceptional. At any rate, men do not get drunk at their clubs. Everybody ought to know that much.

"In addition to the same, when it comes to that, only about one man in several hundred really belongs to any sort of club. If they must and will get pickled, they do it at grogeries. "Carrying the thing along a little further than that, club members for sure don't say 'I don't know nuthin' about that,' or 'I seen y'r mother yistiddy,' or 'Don't stake me t' none o' that slack,' and so on. I mention this because most of these vaudeville sketch members who belong to the Mike Mullaly Clam Chowder and Social Club or the Jim O'Rourke Pleasure and Oyster Bake Club may converse like that, but does the conventional sure enough club member, hey?

"However, leaving altogether aside the matter of accuracy of representation, it's a cinch, isn't it, that the drunken man is not pretty, much less a funny object or spectacle at this period of the world's history? The hiccoughing male being with the thick utterance and the vacuous grin and the foot 'guips and quirks and quillies is as surely best' under cover, isn't he? He doesn't belong. He is out of the picture. He isn't even a pleasing prop. If we don't laugh at the stage when we see him on the street—if, on the contrary, we feel a bit sorry that a decent appearing chap should have allowed himself to get that way—why should we be expected to extract enjoyment from the sight of him on the vaudeville stage, and laugh and crow and titter and giggle over the pinheaded remarks that he hiccoughs?"

"Howling, rampagous wives aren't pretty, either, either on the vaudeville stage or anywhere else. Moreover, the sight of a married man and woman making up' after a marital scrap, whether the man be drunk or sober or the woman amiable or termagantish, isn't such a lot to look at and listen to. Married folk can and do find out all about that sort of thing without digging up their good coin to go to vaudeville to see it done by near actors."

ship Arthur Sewall, nor was anything heard of her at Puenta Arenas. From St. Lucia the voyage numbered fifty-nine days.

The Strathgarry was launched in July last, having been built at Glasgow by William Hamilton, and from Glasgow she went direct to Norfolk, Virginia, having been chartered to carry coal for the American Navy before she was launched. Her present cargo is her maiden load and she had no trouble with the fuel freight, a thorough system of ventilation being provided and the danger from fire minimized. Running the Atlantic down, the steamship, as Kipling puts it, had to "find herself" and this was particularly true of the engines. It was in seventeen south that she lay-to for minor repairs. She crossed the equator in the Atlantic on September 29 and was in the Straits on October 11 and 12, crossing the line in the Pacific on November 2. She burned about 1500 tons of English coal on the trip, or about twenty-two tons a day.

Captain Stanhope was formerly master of the British S. S. Knight of the Carter, running between ports of the British Isles and India. His present charge, a vessel of 2340 tons, is the twentieth to be completed of twenty-two new vessels ordered under one contract by the Straith Line.

The Strathgarry will be about ten days discharging. Her next port of call is at present unknown. She may be ordered to Australia for coal for Honolulu. Other vessels of the Strath Line, a dozen of which are in the Pacific ocean, are the steamships Strathairny, Strathallan, Strathavon, Strathblane, Strathclyde, Strathcona, Strathdee, Strathdon, Strathearn, Strathendrick, Strathfern, Strathfillan, Strathgryfe, Strathgyle, Strathisla, Strathleven, Strathlainn, Strathliss, Strathnevis, Strathord, Strathpey, Strathay and Strathyre.

THE SCHOOLS AND CRITICS.

The publication by the Advertiser a week ago of an account of the really interesting experiment that is going on in the "School City" of the Royal School, together with a previous account of the proposal to teach the elements of cooking in schools all over the islands, seems to have let loose an extended discussion of the public schools and the public school system. Whatever the cause, the discussion can not but do good. If the system is wrong, or if particular features of it are wrong, nothing is so likely to correct them as good wholesome discussion. If the system is well designed, or if there are admirable features in it, nothing will so bring out these and set them so squarely before the public as general discussion.

Viewed in this light, there is nothing disquieting in the criticisms that have been publicly made. Besides being wholesome they are interesting. They are interesting in their classification. The most noticeable class among these criticisms are those based on the good old doctrine of the "three Rs." The invincible argument of the proponents of the "three Rs" school of education is thoroughness. They insist that the pupil's attention shall not be dissipated nor his efforts frittered away on a variety of subjects, but that line upon line, precept upon precept, the three Rs shall be taught him until they are thoroughly mastered. Such critics do not realize that narrowness is not thoroughness, and that in a world where infinite variety in nature challenges the interest of children, and all others who will not close their eyes and ears, it is as barbarous as foot-binding to try and bind and limit the developing and growing mind to three subjects, and they, from their nature, abstract ones, that the child ought to learn as a sequence of other things and not as the summum bonum of education.

Then there are those who oppose experiments or change for fear teachers or principals will not perform their whole duty, or will shunt their duties off on to the pupils, or to the officers of "school cities," or on to home study, or in some other way wriggle out of what they are paid to do.

It may be set down as a certainty that no ease-loving teacher will ever adopt innovations. The good old routine is the easy way. No principal anxious to earn his money at the least cost of effort to himself will ever start a "School City." All innovations and all experiments in school curricula are not necessarily wise ones. But no progress was ever made without experiment and innovation. Happy the school board which has teachers and principals ready and willing to make experiments and innovations. There is more danger of stagnation and want of progress than there is of unwise innovation.

A third kind of critics is against any kind of manual training. To his mind the child will have to get out and work soon enough, and the few precious years of school age should be devoted strictly to the cultivation of the child's mind, without wasting any of it teaching him to saw, or forge, or handle tools. Yet the experience everywhere, without any exception, is that pupils in manual training schools, on the whole, surpass in the purely academic studies, pupils of their own age in other than manual training schools.

The teaching of cooking is objected to because it is a waste of precious time, and in the case of children of Hawaiian parentage well-nigh criminal to introduce them to the mysteries of civilized cooking. It certainly can not be criminal to teach the children of Hawaiian parentage how to cook and prepare the simple every-day articles of diet in a way so that they will be sanitary and wholesome. Yet that is exactly what it is proposed to do. But even if no child thus taught ever became a cook or ever cooked, a better method of teaching many of the elementary principles of physics, and the principles that exert their influence in every-day life, can not be imagined than by teaching cooking.

The schools are criticized on the one hand, because there are too many play studies, and on the other hand because the pupils are overworked. Some object because so much home study is required; others because baseball, and football, and basketball take up so much time.

Perhaps more parents complain because their children find difficulty in keeping up with all the studies required in the grade, either because of ill health, lack of strength, mental or physical, inattention or some other cause than of any other matter. These complaints are usually the bitterest, too. Yet parents have the remedy in their own hands. Pupils are not required to take all the studies of any grade, if their parents object. Only, of course, unless they do, they can not advance in all studies with the grade, and that is what troubles. It touches the pride. Parents do not like their children to fall behind other children in the same grade. It is easier to find fault with the requirements than to acknowledge that their children are not as strong physically or mentally as other children.

Another class of critics object to everything that is different to what it was when they went to school. It would be a reproach if there had not been progress made in schools and school methods, and progress involves change. Anyone who will make a comparison devoid of bias, between methods of schools and school work a generation and less ago, and now, can not but be struck with the improvements. There were savants before there were schools, and to produce savants something besides schools are necessary. Silk purses can not be made out of sows' ears, and school systems and school methods though they may supply reasons can not supply understanding. Nevertheless there can be no doubt that schools are better than they used to be and that the average product and result is better. And it is a source of congratulation that Hawaii stands so well pedagogically and in the matter of schools as it does, and that there is among the teachers and principals and in the Board of Education a willingness to seek and attempt improvements.

AALA PARK.

Of all the parks and public places in Honolulu, there is not one which so well serves so many people as Aala park. Its good influence is incalculable. As an institution for conserving the public peace it is unrivaled. It is better than policemen. It is at least the equivalent of a hospital. As giving opportunity for wholesome physical exercise, and as a standing invitation to fresh air and health, there is nothing to compare with it.

Day or night within reasonable hours, as recognized by police authority, it is never unoccupied. In the forenoon it is the playground of children. At noon and afternoon, youth and young men are there in numbers practicing baseball or other sports. In the evening, ordinarily, it is the rendezvous of people of all ages, all of whom, whatever their motive in coming, unconsciously indulge in fresh air, in out-of-doors. Children come with their elders to play. The elders come to gossip, to meet friends or acquaintances, or to make them. Youth comes for all the purposes for which youth meet.

It is a great People's Forum on occasion when there is some matter, political or otherwise, which the people are interested in. There are no popular gatherings anywhere in the city, or the islands, that equal in numbers those of Aala park. No band concerts equal in attendance those that are given here. It is the People's playground of the city, par excellence. No baseball games, anywhere, near equal in attendance those that are played here. Thousands stood in the showery weather of yesterday in order to witness the game that might have decided a championship, and was all the more interesting and exciting because it did not.

There are churches and temples of religion of several different names in the same immediate region as Aala park. But without disparagement of the service that these render, it may safely be said that none of them nor all of them minister to health of mind and body so well, nor to so many, as does Aala park.

To the men who earnestly labored to secure and preserve, and prepare this park, the evidence of its usefulness and service must come as a grateful satisfaction. The most casual survey of what it is and what it does for the community and for thousands of individuals, must be rich compensation for effort put forth. Honolulu has no parks that it can spare. It can least of all spare Aala park.

The French Republic has granted a pension of $470 a year to Captain Dreyfus. Some Republics are more ungrateful than others. In the United States there is many a bounty jumper who never saw any real military service who is getting a bigger pension than that.

If Teng Jui-chuan makes good his claim for 2350 yen our former townsman, J. A. M. Johnson, will probably no longer describe himself as Yen Yonson, but as Yen Yensen.

Now that Taft has received Aguinaldo's endorsement what more does he need?

A METHODIST ANNIVERSARY

First Methodist Church Is Now Thirteen Years of Age.

The Methodist Episcopal church in Honolulu celebrated its thirteenth birthday yesterday. A special service of address and song took the place of the regular morning sermon in the European branch of this denomination—the mother church as some one happily styled it.

The choir was assisted by Miss Marion Bell and Miss Gertrude Hall who rendered several beautiful numbers.

After a fitting introduction by the pastor, the Rev. David W. Crane, he read the chapter containing the text used by Rev. H. W. Peck in the first sermon, preached before the congregation, "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance." This text he found as appropriate today as then. The service was then put into the hands of three prominent workers, Mrs. Chapin, Mr. Day and Mr. Trent. It had been the intention to have the charter members sit on the platform; but the modesty of some made that impossible. Of the eleven original charter members, four remain in this church: Mrs. W. G. Needham, Mrs. Lilla Ripley Robinson, Mrs. John Bryant and Mrs. Chapin. The latter spoke of the founding of the present church, and gave a brief review of its history under different pastors.

While secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Harcourt W. Peck who had taken a course in theology before coming to these islands, was ordained by Bishop Mallilleu en route to or from the Orient. A church was organized in 1874, and under his leadership established itself in its present comfortable quarters. Besides the European branch, a Japanese branch was also started in Mr. Peck's time—"twin churches." For the church property, including the parsonage, the young organization assumed a debt of $8000, two thousand being paid at the time of purchase; and four thousand dollars additional raised for the erection of the building. The members grew under this first pastorate from eleven to sixty-five.

At this point the Rev. G. L. Pearson took up the work. Under his genial leadership there was great growth in both Japanese and the newly-established Korean branches of the M. E. church. In the great fire of Chinatown the Japanese lost their church building. Mr. Pearson perfected arrangements for its rebuilding, besides clearing the mother church of its entire indebtedness, before he left Honolulu.

Rev. John W. Wadman kept up month after month, until they stretched into years, the heavy burden of the three branches of the work, rapidly growing into proportions beyond the strength of any one man. Always he waited and looked for the "someone" promised to help him. The Korean Home and the Susannah Wesley Home grew out of the needs of these branches. Finally the "someone else" came—in the person of the present pastor.

Following Mrs. Chapin, Mr. C. J. Day, who was the first class leader of the M. E. church in its early life here, spoke concerning what the church had done to justify its existence. He referred to the many who had come and gone, carrying with them influences for good to be bestowed elsewhere; and also of the helpful influences being disseminated in the community.

The third and final address was made by Richard H. Trent, who spoke on the obligations resting upon this "mother church" and its members. These he classed under three heads: First, to think kindly of the church and its members—so would it have courage and be helpful. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." In its reactionary effect, the place of the church in the hearts of the people would be assured. Second, to speak kindly of the church, its pastor and officers. Already he had heard their new pastor criticized. "Why, he was going to preach religion at them all the time." He hoped Mr. Craue would continue to do so. Third, to act kindly toward the church; even to coming to church promptly and regularly, and taking part in the active affairs of the church—the Ladies' Aid Society; the Missionary Society; the nursery of the church, the Sunday school; the Epworth League, etc. The speaker contrasted the active and passive Christian—not that one had more religion than the other, but that one is more unselfish than the other. "Do not leave all the work of the church to a few."

During the meeting Dr. Wadman had entered unnoticed by the congregation. Although suffering from a compound sprain of an ankle, he could not stay away from this anniversary meeting. He gave the church hearty words of cheer, and reported that the youngest child of this mother church, a first church of thirty-five members, has just been organized on Hawaii.

The service at the Leahi Home yesterday was in charge of Mr. C. J. Day. He was assisted by members of the Epworth League of the First M. The musical service was greatly appreciated, and the messages of hope and comfort carried gladness to weary hearts.

As Others See Us

Letters of E. G. Lowrey, Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, who accompanied the Congressional Party.

HONOLULU, May 12.—In some of its aspects Honolulu is almost as much of an anachronism as would be a Roman Senator carrying a Waterbury watch in his toga. To the impressionable stranger entering her gates today she somehow suggests the half-fledged state of a man wearing evening clothes with tan shoes at an eleven o'clock breakfast. If you know a nice, prime, tidy, old New England town—Kennebunk, Me., for instance—I can make a picture of Honolulu for you by merely splashing in a little tropical scenery for a background.

Instead of the white picket fence of the New England town, put in a tall hibiscus hedge covered with heavy, brilliant crimson blossoms the size of a cocoon. In place of the oaks or elms growing in the front yard substitute slender twisted cocoon palms leaning perilously before the steady northeast trades. For the modest shrubs growing in tubs, scatter about groups of luxuriant banyans. Where the fragrant unobtrusive beds of pansies, sweet Williams, and violets grow along the edge of the piazza and about the steps, conceive great, brilliantly hued, flowering plants of the tropics, whose names I am not enough of a botanist to know.

Now, imagine, if you can, a severely plain New England house, but ornamented with the architectural gingerbread horrors of the late '80's, set in this lush magnificence of sub-tropical vegetation. The house of the banker and the county judge would have an avenue of royal palms instead of the more common cocoon. That is one impression of Honolulu. As one might say, a Salvation Army girl with her cheeks painted and her eyebrows penciled.

This is the one bill of complaint that the visiting stranger with a passion for the fitness of things can bring against the citizens of Honolulu; that when they came to build their homes they did not take advantage of their scenic environment and the rich, gay, tropical background. The omission is easily accounted for. The first white settlers who came here were missionaries from New England, and they have made a deep impress on the islands. When they came to build their homes they built the only sort of houses they knew anything about. The only concession made was in adding deep, cool, shady lanais (porches) and in subdividing the interior of the house into a few rooms as possible.

The late comers followed the example of their predecessors, and did not strike out along new lines. Unlike the gay and artistic home-builders of Victoria, B. C., they did not build for themselves rambling bungalows and bowser them with creeping roses and flowering vines. This isn't to say that Honolulu isn't a delight to the eye, for it is. But the people have not lived up to the stage setting provided by a bountiful nature. One peers about eagerly and in vain for the grass huts and semi-nude natives of the picture postcards. It is in the people, their mode of life, and the customs of their hospitality that one finds the typical island life, rather than in the houses, whose architecture has been drawn from the old "missionary spirit."

ASIATIC PREPONDERANCE.
 Looked down upon from a balloon Honolulu might be any New England seaport town of 50,000 people, were it not for the background of volcanic hills and mountains and the frond, of the cocoon palm silhouetted against the blue color of the sky. The church spires of every American town rise from the greenery. In the business section of the town there are modern shops and office buildings of the same type to be seen in every American city. The streets are macadamized and traversed by an excellent system of trolley cars. It is only in the picturesque street life and the preponderance of Asiatics that one first sees difference from things as they are at home. Delicate little adventures embroider the routine of the day.

One day an automobile taking us out to Waikiki and around Diamond Head suffered a mishap to its interior economy opposite the aquarium. I went in to see the preposterous fishes, leaving the chauffeur to dree his weird alone. The aquarium building is simply two bisecting corridors with a rough-hewn stone basin full of goldfish set into the ground in the center of the building.

Seated on the low stone coping of this basin was a captivating little family party: a Chinese mother wearing brightly embroidered silk trousers and a dull green brocaded coat made after the simple fashion of the jacket of a pair of pajamas. She had jade pieces set in gold about her neck. With her were two of the tiniest, cleanest, most gaily bedecked little Chinese babies ever seen off the sides of a tea jar. Each of them held a huge ship's biscuit in his chubby fist, feeding crumbs to the goldfish. The woman knew a few words of English and I invited myself to the party. The little ones shared their provender with me, and racked softly when the voracious fish would rise almost out of the water to snap at the falling crumbs. No one ever thinks of a Chinaman as laughing in enjoyment of such simple scenes, yet three who came in were reduced to audible chuckling over the play of the children and my effort to establish lingual communication with the mother.

Honolulu has about 50,000 inhabitants, of whom about only 7000 are white. The others are Japanese, Chinese, Hawaiians, Portuguese, Koreans, Porto Ricans, and various permutations and combinations thereof. There are a few negroes in the city, but I did not see one of them. Local and long-distance telephone wires are strung all about the city; there is wireless communication with the other islands of the group and cable connection with the United States.

HONOLULU NEWSPAPERS.
 Three excellent daily newspapers are printed in English. They receive a cable report of one hundred words daily from the mainland; fifty words in the morning and fifty words in the afternoon. One day the principal item in this daily news report was this striking piece of intelligence: Madrid, May 11.—The young Prince of Asturias is a blonde.

A CLEAN CITY.
 Honolulu is a clean city. The surgeon-general of the United States army has declared it the second healthiest post at which regular troops are stationed. The city has learned by experience the high cost it must pay in lives for uncleanness. Diseases of the torrid zone are swift and terrible in their ravages and easily communicated. All of the ports of these islands have suffered from infections brought by ships. They have dearly purchased the knowledge of the value and necessity of sanitation.

Life is not the seamy competition here that it is at home. The stream of affairs moves drowsily between pleasant banks. No one lets business interfere with pleasure. The people take plenty of time to divert themselves as one golden sunlit day and soft silvery night succeeds another. Out at Waikiki they have a wonderful curved crescent of hard white beach with blue seas booming in ceaselessly. Every day in the year the surf is full of bathers. The little children living in the cottages along the beach front spend their entire days in the milk-warm water, instead of on their green lawns. By the time they are six they move about in the water with the unconscious skill of fishes.

SURF RIDING.
 At Waikiki there is practised a sport which can be found only in the southern Pacific. This is surf riding. This may be done in an outrigger canoe or on a surf board. One paddles far out beyond the line of breakers to where the great combers begin to form and unpeel their crested heads. Then seizing the right moment the canoe is driven furiously towards the shore until it is caught up on the crest of a wave and driven shoreward with a dizzying velocity. It is a ride that makes a toboggan slide seem almost tame. With the surf boards the Kanaka boys spring upright as soon as they are caught up by the waves, and come sliding inshore apparently standing on the crest of the wave, like some young water god, their olive-hued bodies glistening with spray and shining in the sun.

GAY, BUT NOT "FAST."
 Honolulu has the reputation of being a gay place. It is, but without being "fast." In the old days it welcomed every newcomer warmly and did not inquire too closely about his or her credentials. Steamer days are still marked with a red ring on the calendar. All the tide of travel between the Pacific Coast and the Far East and Australia halts for a day and a night at Honolulu, both going out and coming back again. There is always dancing at the hotels in the evening when a steamer comes in. There are lights and music, soft laughter and bright eyes to entertain the visitor, even though he come for but a day, for these are a pleasure loving people, and much given to a generous hospitality.

NOTED INDIAN AUTHOR TALKS OF ROOSEVELT

SIoux CITY, Iowa, Oct. 19.—"President Roosevelt will never be a candidate again for President of the United States," said Dr. Charles A. Eastman, noted Indian author, Yale and Harvard lecturer and close personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt, while stopping in Sioux City a few hours on his way to his old home in Minneapolis.

The famous Indian graduate and government official has just completed a revision of Indian names on the Sioux allotment roll and has given new surnames to 23,200 Indians in the Sioux nation after four years of continuous labor.

"The last time I saw the President," he said, "we had a long talk about running for office. He was in a hurry when I was ushered into his waiting room and as I was leaving he called: 'Wait, Doc, I want to talk with you a while.' Then I told the big chief he rushed too much and that it was all wrong for him to be President any more. Then he told me:

"Doc, I shall never aim to be President again. I have other ambitions which I am aching to fulfill.' Then we shook hands and parted. Four Presidents have I worked under, but none of them is like Roosevelt."

The work that Dr. Eastman, who is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Boston University and School of Medicine, is doing is far reaching and of vast importance to the Indian tribes of the northwest. The doctor came here from Pine Ridge, S. D., where he has been working all summer checking up the largest number of Indians—7,000—on any one reservation. The object is to give them family names to protect both their land titles and the government's.

An Indian named Rotten Pumpkin is given the title of Robert Pamplon. He-Could-Not-See-Out-of-His-Eyes is changed to John Blind, and the brave who has the proud handle of He-Chases-His-Enemy-By-The-Lodge, must be content in future with Chase Lodge.

"The President does not wish me to lose the characteristic of the Indian," went on Dr. Eastman. "Instead I am to keep to the old names as nearly as possible and only cut down where I can and eliminate the silly parts. I have finished my labors on the Sioux reservations in the Dakotas, nine in all, and these are: Sisseton-Whapton agency, S. D.; Yankton, S. D.; Santee agency in Nebraska, Rosebud, S. D.; Crow Creek, S. D.; Devil's Lake, N. D.; Cheyenne, S. D.; Pine Ridge, S. D."

Dr. Eastman is also a government physician and has been practicing at Pine Ridge for some time. He is the author of a number of books on the Indian in olden days, among them being: "Indian Boy," "Red Hunters and Animal People" and "The Old Indian Days." McClure's and Harpers' are anxious bidders for all the stories he cares to write.

Dr. Eastman is a regular lecturer at the Harvard Union and at Yale and is now on his way back to Boston to spend the winter. His idea of the white man he graphically tells as follows:

"The white man may have his hell on earth; he may have his heaven here, too, but though he have both his hell and his heaven he cannot take away the birthright of blood in the American. Human nature is in few of the rich men of to-day. They put on a white collar and throw their heads to the air—and bah! Blood will tell. And the only one with human nature is Andrew Carnegie. Rogers—he is too feeble; Rockefeller—he is a good man, but his mind is always on his dollars. "But Roosevelt! None are like him. He is sure he is right first and then he never changes. But he goes like the wind, always in a hurry, always trying to do more than any one else. The President is a great man, and a greater President. He is just, and, like me, always demands justice, no matter whom it hits or who is in the way."

"And society! The ladies are half-dressed, always. The Indian sees the President wrapped in his blanket, too modest to show his body; but the society woman—she cares not how much she shows. The lion in the jungle and the eagle in the air, all have their fur and their plumage covering their nakedness and showing their magnificence. Give me nature, let me go back to my forests and the woods with my dogs and the birds of the air, and I will be happy. But civilization—that is nothing but savagery. Ugh!"

CURBING THE BILLBOARD.

Progress toward abating or mitigating the billboard nuisance is reported from Cincinnati. In that city three hundred billboard advertisers have agreed to cooperate with the municipal art committee of the Business Men's Club and will lend themselves to the effort that is making for the beautification of the city, and will henceforth abstain from billboard advertising. This is progress!

It does not follow that the billboard needs to be banished. It is a time-honored institution, but in late years it has had too rank a growth. It has grown very rank. But the billboard needs rigid regulation. In Paris, what passes for the billboard is not offensive from the standpoint of good looks, and it is made to swell the revenues of the city. Regularly established billboards are taxed according to their size, and no poster may be displayed on them without having been used by the proper authorities and having paid a stamp tax. Every poster that is pasted on the advertising kiosks in the streets must bear a canceled stamp showing that the poster tax has been paid.

There is a possibility that as the billboard and the advertising poster came to be a public nuisance in the United States the electric sign may eventually come into too great and offensive prominence. In France the electric sign is taxed in accordance with its size and character.—Washington Star.

END OF FAMOUS BLYTHE CASE

Supreme Court of the United States Throws It Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 30.—The Blythe estate litigation is at last ended. The Supreme Court of the United States at Washington rendered a decision last Monday in favor of the Bankers' Investment Company, the Mutual Savings Bank and the Magees, the present owners of the Blythe block, who had purchased from Mrs. Florence Blythe Moore. The case has been before the Supreme Court five times before during the past twenty-five years, and this defeat of the claimants is the sixth and final one. The litigation checked the plans of the present owners, who contemplated improving the land. The improvements will most likely be undertaken at once, as the land is the most valuable in San Francisco, and the owners will not permit it to remain unproductive.

The Bankers' Investment Company purchased all the land west of the Mutual Bank building for $2,450,000, including two small pieces which did not belong to the Blythe estate.

The site has a frontage of 331.2 feet on Market street, 40 feet on O'Farrell street, 275 feet on Grant avenue and 278.6 on Geary street. The Mutual Savings Bank had previously purchased from Mrs. Moore 53 feet on Market street through to Geary street, with a frontage of 73.10 3-4 on the latter street. Subsequently the Magees purchased from the Bankers' Investment Company a piece adjoining the Mutual Bank and fronting 48.5 on Market street by 100 feet deep, with 40 feet on Geary street. The Union Trust Company purchased the northeast corner of Market and O'Farrell streets, with 120 feet on Grant avenue, from the Bankers' Investment Company. The corner at Geary street and Grant avenue, 100x100 feet, was leased to Magnin & Co., and the Bankers' Investment Company was to erect a building on the site for the firm. The recent decision clears the way, and building operations are likely to begin on the two corners, at least, in the near future.

The case has become one of the most celebrated and most vexatious in the annals of jurisprudence. Thomas H. Blythe died in 1882, leaving an estate amounting to about $4,000,000, and including the most valuable block of land in San Francisco. His daughter, Florence Blythe, was declared the legal heir to the estate, after much litigation. Other claimants sued for their share of the estate and continued the litigation for twenty-five years. Claimants appeared singly and in groups. The most persistent of them proved the set called the Liverpool Blythes, incorporated as the Blythe Company and led by George W. Towle of San Francisco. He managed to keep his case in the courts, State and Federal, in his efforts to secure a slice of the estate, until the final decision was rendered.

LUSITANIA'S FINE RUN.

The performance of the Lusitania on her second westward trip is a highly creditable one and shows this vessel to be possessed of great capabilities in the matter of speed. She has again lowered the time of the passage between Queenstown and New York and in doing this she has beaten the best previous records in regard to average speed and a day's run. On the second and third day out she made the remarkable runs of six hundred and eight and six hundred and seventeen knots respectively and her hourly average of the trip was twenty-four knots. This was accomplished despite adverse conditions of weather on part of the passage. Under the circumstances it is possible that no attempt was made to put the steamer to her best speed, but it is not improbable that it was intended that some effort should be made to beat the best hourly average and day's run. This was successfully accomplished by a very fair margin, and under ordinary good conditions of weather this steamer may show much greater speed. Whether steamers of the size and speed of the Lusitania may or may not be economical of operation there is no doubt the results attained by them will tend to stimulate emulation on the part of competing lines. The question, however, is yet to be solved whether through the adoption of the high speed turbine the expense of the quicker voyage would be offset in a great measure by that of the longer voyage of the other larger steamers. The three trips of the Lusitania are not sufficient to furnish reliable data upon which to base any calculation of this kind. It is after all largely a matter of coal consumption, as the expense apparently in other respects is not much, if any greater, in this steamer than that of the larger of the new liners which have of late been put into the transatlantic service.—N. Y. Maritime Register.

They are telling of another girl who used to faint when her father said "has went," but who blushes with pride over certain letters she is receiving with that oh-be-joyful word in them spelled "luv."

The happiness of the Lyander John Appleton family is again threatened. Someone recently presented Mrs. Appleton with one of those thermometers you place under your tongue, and she keeps busy chasing the members of the family all over the house to see if they have any fever.

Should a woman shake hands with a man heartily, or should she put a limp hand in yours and make you feel that you ought to drop it as soon as possible? When we shake hands with some women, they make us feel as if we had been trying to flirt with them.

AMERICAN CROPS FOR FOREIGN GOLD

This Is One of the Most Hopeful Features of the Situation.

CHICAGO, October 29.—The break in the price of wheat today brought large European orders for immediate shipment—200,000 bushels of red winter wheat being sold here today for shipment to the East. Chicago bankers regard this movement as significant of the powerful aid which the West is bringing to the financial situation. They say that if the movement of the great staple continues to grow the obligations to this country created abroad will be so large that it will be impossible for European banks to retain their gold even by fixing discount rates at the maximum.

NEW YORK, October 29.—The enormous influence which American products are exerting in building up a credit balance abroad was the most signal development of the financial situation today. Reports from all quarters show that the great American staples—wheat, cotton, copper, tobacco, oil, meat—are on their way to Europe, this being the season of the year when American products are marketed abroad. The immediate effect of these shipments is to give the United States credit abroad which can be speedily converted into cash. These natural resources of the country promise to exert even greater influence than the sale of American securities abroad.

The foreign sales of a million pounds of copper yesterday were supplemented today by reports of similar heavy exports, today's shipments alone giving a foreign credit of $14,000,000. The shipments of tobacco to Europe this year promise to break all records. Europe will pay over $100,000,000 for this tobacco, and much of this money will soon be available in this market, as the contracts with European importers call for immediate payment on delivery.

MORE GOLD FROM ABROAD.

Several favorable events marked the close of the financial day in New York. The engagement of $2,000,000 in gold by the first National Bank of Chicago and of $500,000 by a Boston bank brought the total gold engagement up to close to $20,000,000 in spite of the cancellation of an order for $900,000 by the Russo-Chinese bank. The raising of German bank rates in order to prevent America from drawing German gold produces little effect on the situation here, as none of the gold engagements thus far have been made in Germany. While money at the stock exchange was loaning during most of the day at high rates it fell near the close of 6 per cent, offers of several million dollars at that rate being made by a number of the leading banks.

Comparative calm reigned among New York bankers. They all realized that the pressure for money was not over, but they felt generally that unreasonable panic was at an end and they would be able to meet reasonable demands for currency. These demands are coming in considerable amounts from the West and South in order to obtain money to move crops, and it is feared that the sections where the movement is largest may be more or less hampered in their effort to obtain funds. The general refusal to pay cash for hoarding in the West and South, as well as in New York, it is believed, will prevent undue absorption of currency and permit the employment of what is available in the most effective manner.

The large banks of this city are gaining deposits from the banks which have been under suspicion, and this tends in a measure to concentrate money where it can be used most effectively; but, on the other hand, it creates debit balances at the Clearing-house against the banks which are losing deposits which are not always easy for them to meet without sharply curtailing their loans, even with the assistance of Clearing-house certificates.

The runs upon the banks are practically over. Persons who present large checks and ask for their payment in currency are invited to consult the bank officials. In cases where their need for currency is evidently legitimate they usually receive it; in cases where it is sought for hoarding, they are usually convinced that the money is better off in the bank, or that they should accept certified checks for deposit elsewhere.

The Trust Company of America in the course of business today received deposits amounting to $1,083,000, and paid out $478,000, making a net increase in the bank's funds of $605,000 for the day. This means that there has been an increase of $2,000,000 since Saturday night in the resources of the institution over and above what was paid out. There were 338 depositors today. The arrival of nearly $2,000,000 in gold, it is believed, will considerably relieve the situation, and perhaps make call money a little lower on the Stock Exchange.

STOCKS FOR CASH ONLY.

It was announced today that several of the banks which were compelled to suspend last week have perfected their plans to reopen for business. President Montgomery of the Hamilton Bank, a Harlem institution, which closed last week, said today: "This bank will resume business in a few days, not later than Monday next, in any event. I understand, also, that the Twelfth Ward Bank will resume in a few days."

The runs on the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust Company continued today, but in diminished volume. Business in the stock market today was reduced to a cash basis, which had the effect of curtailing sales, but it brought about a healthier condition. Prices dropped all along the line, partly because of the cash rule.

Aside from New York, all points showed a considerable improvement. In New England there was no sign of serious unrest, and the recent disturbance in Rhode Island is practically over. No failure was recorded at any point throughout the country. It should be borne in mind in this con-

Seldom has Sunday seen such business on the waterfront. Yesterday ten vessels arrived, all steamships with the exception of one tow. Five were inter-island boats and the rest were from the Atlantic and the Orient. The British S. S. Stratgarry arrived with coal from Norfolk; the French S. S. Amiral Exelmans came from Japan with immigrants and a large cargo; the S. S. Rosecrans made port from Gaviota with oil, with the Roderick Dhu, also oil laden, in tow, and the collier Justin put in from Guam. In the matter of crews these arrivals are cosmopolitan, the Justin carries Filipinos, the Exelmans has Frenchmen and Chinese, the Stratgarry is manned by "London" Chinese, except for the eight British officers; the Rosecrans and Dhu are worked by Americans and Europeans and the island boats chiefly by Hawaiians and Japs. The harbor now presents a lively appearance. In addition to yesterday's arrivals there are two American-Hawaiian steamships in port, Arizonan and Nevada, and the U. S. A. transport Dix is in the harbor. About three-fourths of the interisland fleet were in port yesterday. Details of the Stratgarry's voyage appear elsewhere.

AMIRAL EXELMANS FROM JAPAN.
 Chargeurs Reunis S. S. Amiral Exelmans, Captain Jens, yesterday morning arrived from Shanghai, Kobe and Yokohama, docking at Bishop's wharf about 10 o'clock, being placed under quarantine restrictions on account of the health conditions in the Orient. Her 234 Japanese immigrants for Honolulu were taken to quarantine island to remain five days as a precautionary measure. Two thousand tons of general Oriental freight were brought. SHAVED, DRUNK AND DROWNED

Aged Hawaiian Sailor Falls Into Harbor—Found by Jap Fishermen.

Kuaea, a Hawaiian between 50 and 60 years of age, he who has for some time been engaged in watering the grass-plots near the Inter-Island wharves, is dead through drowning, his body being picked from the waters of the harbor near the lighthouse at 6 o'clock yesterday morning by Japanese fishermen returning from their night's catch.

Kuaea, it appears, fell into the water while trying to return to the Kinau wharf late Saturday night, possibly mistaking the Sorenson wharf for the Kinau wharf.

For years Kuaea was a sailor on boats of Wilder S. S. Co., but of late years he had been engaged in odd jobs ashore. At 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon he was on the Kinau wharf and was asked to help scrub out the office, but he went up town and is supposed to have taken more than a few drinks. He also got shaved and got his washing from a Chinese laundry. He was back on the wharf with his washing and went away again, returning shortly before 9 o'clock, apparently under the influence of liquor, and sat down for a while, mumbling to himself. About 10 o'clock he went away again. Watchman Joe Hansen about 11:50 p. m. heard a splash from the direction of Sorenson's wharf and took a lantern to investigate, but found nothing that excited his curiosity further.

Coroner Jarrett was notified early yesterday morning and swore in the following jurors: E. D. Friel, J. C. Houghtaling, J. B. Alauwahine, D. Howell, Kauhini and Nohoanu. The inquest was held last night and a verdict of accidental drowning returned. Kuaea had no enemies and there were no marks of violence on his body.

REPAIR DAMAGE FROM LAVA FLOW

Plans to Rebuild in Kau the Road Wiped Out by Pele.

HILO, November 7.—With a communication to the Board of Supervisors, County Attorney Williams submitted yesterday, for their approval, plans and specifications for the new road to be built where the lava flow of last January wiped out the former road and suspended traffic in the Kau district. The plans show that the whole length of new road required on the Kona side is 2482 feet, and 2825 feet on the east side, rather more than a mile in all. The worst grade is 5.66 per cent, but most of the road will be a 2-per cent grade. The road is 1900 feet above sea level.

It is proposed that bids be received in time for acceptance at the meeting of the Board to be held next month, on December 4. The specifications call for a price for excavating and for embankments, separately, per cubic yard, and for full width top dressing at per lineal foot.

SEVEN CHURCHES OF HANA DISTRICT

Give a Fair and Luau Attended by a Thousand People.

WAILUKU, November 9.—The fair of the Hana Catholic church gathered the biggest crowd ever seen in the Hana district for many years. There were at least 1000 present. The net receipts were $610.10.

The fair was held in the large and spacious warehouse, of the Hana store and on one side of this large building the booths were erected representing the seven Catholic churches of the Hana district, as each church donated its share of mats, kapas, fans, etc. Keane was presided over by Miss Elizabeth Chong Chong, Nahiku by Miss Ah Tim, Honokalani by Miss Wittrock, Hana by Miss Nani Haia, Puuiki by Miss Keala Kihelu, Kipahulu by Miss Annie Kanamu, Kaupo by Miss Lydia Duson. The luau was held across the road from the fair in the sugar warehouse of the Kaeleku Sugar Company. The Puuiki band led by Father Francis was in attendance.

Some of the older Hawaiians who were too old to make things for the fair came with their hookupu, suckling pigs, chickens, potatoes, oranges, and bananas, everything was welcome, as there was an experienced auctioneer here from the Coast, and he gave his services gratis for the good work. In no time everything was disposed of. Considering through-out the whole district that only a handful of white families are living in it, it was wonderful the way the poor natives of all creeds came to the front and helped the good cause along.

WINE CO. TO BUILD MUCH LARGER WINERY

WAILUKU, November 9.—At a meeting of the Kaupakalua Wine & Liquor Co., held at the winery October 26, it was voted to declare a dividend of one hundred per cent., by the issuance of stock.

The present capitalization is $6000, which is to be increased to $25,000, the stockholders to take $6000 of the additional issue as dividends. The money obtained by the sale of the remaining $13,000 worth is to be used in constructing a larger factory or winery at Kaupakalua, which is much needed. During the month of October, the Maui Wine & Liquor Co. of Wailuku, agents for the Kaupakalua Company, disposed of 1000 gallons of their wine, ten barrels were shipped to Hawaii, and an order for an additional ton has been received, so that grape-growing and wine-making on Maui bids fair to be a prosperous enterprise.

NO SPIES IN THEIRS.

WAILUKU, November 9.—The Maui News says: It is the fixed policy of the Board of Supervisors to refuse to pay for the services of any spy where he is a party to the crime committed. As a matter of principle this policy can not be questioned and yet it has been pointed out that if this principle is strictly adhered to illicit liquor dealing will greatly increase and it will be almost impossible to secure a conviction.

AN OLD MILL GONE.

WAILUKU, November 9.—The old mill at Walhee has been torn down. This mill was one of the first diffusion mills erected on the island and was considered to be a large mill at the time it was built.

STRANGE CASE OF POISONING

Japanese Woman on Maui Dies ---Stomach Contents Analyzed.

WAILUKU, November 9.—What was evidently a case of poisoning occurred Tuesday morning and as a result a Japanese woman by the name of Toma lost her life. The woman lived with her two small children and supported them by cooking for a number of Japanese field laborers.

On the morning in question she prepared the breakfast and luncheon of the men and after they had gone took a dose of a white powder and was soon suffering intense agony. Persons living in adjacent rooms entered her room and found her lying on the bed. They went for Yamashita, an ex-office boy of a local physician. Witnesses testified that Yamashita gave her medicine, but she soon died.

A coroner's inquest was held and while it was evident that the woman was poisoned there was no evidence as to where she got the medicine that probably caused her death nor from whom she got the same.

An autopsy was performed on the body by Dr. R. H. Dinegar who sent part of the organs to Honolulu to have a chemical analysis made.

The coroner's jury met Tuesday and Wednesday and then adjourned to meet after the result of the analysis is known.

GOOD WORDS FOR A PASTOR

Executive Committee of the Kahului Union Church Acts.

Excerpt from minute of meeting of the executive committee of Kahului Union church, held at Kahului, October 30, 1907.

Present: Messrs. D. F. Nicholson, A. J. Gossin, R. N. Corbaley and the Clerk. Mr. Nicholson was appointed Moderator pro tem. Inter alia, the Moderator referred to the resignation of our esteemed pastor, Rev. Mr. Dodge, who is leaving the islands to return to his home in Massachusetts, and moved that we place on record our deep sense of the loss we have sustained. This motion was seconded by Mr. Gossin, and it was remitted to the Clerk and him to frame minute accordingly, which is in the following terms:

"In his year of ministry among us here, Mr. Dodge, by his kindly tact, his unsparring zeal and his faithfulness to his Master, has gained the personal esteem and friendship of every member of our congregation.

"Coming at the birth of our congregation, Mr. Dodge worked untiringly and ceaselessly to have our Christian worship here firmly established, a result successfully accomplished, and the value of his services in this connection can not be overestimated.

"Always willing to give the benefit of his ripe experience, and with a kind and cheering word for all, the loss of Mr. Dodge will be keenly felt by all classes of our community.

"While regretting that Mr. Dodge can not remain longer with us, we rejoice in knowing that he returns to a sphere of increased usefulness, and in assuring him that the best wishes of this congregation goes with him."

The Clerk was instructed to forward an excerpt of this minute to Mr. Dodge. D. F. NICHOLSON, Moderator Pro Tem. A. J. GOSSIN, T. D. SKINNER, Clerk.

WHY JACK LONDON'S CHECK CAME BACK

The following is a copy of a letter received in Hilo explaining why one of Jack London's checks was not honored at the Oakland bank on which it was drawn:

Wake-Robin Lodge, Glen Ellen, Oct. 22, 1907.

Mr. A. James, Hilo, Hawaii.

Dear Sir: I am informed by the Central Bank, Oakland, California, that when you handed in a hundred dollars check given you by Mr. Jack London, there were no funds to make good the check. This was so, but it came through no fault of Mr. London. I, acting as his attorney in fact, had transferred a large sum of his money from the Central Bank to my bank (The National Bank of the Pacific, San Francisco) for greater convenience to me in paying bills. I notified Mr. London of the transfer, sending my letter to Papeete according to his direction, but as you may be aware, the break in his engines deferred his going to Tahiti, and no such word had reached him from me ere he left Hilo. The consequence was he overdraw his account with the Oakland Bank who have done what they could to make good the mistake since communicating with me on the 16th inst. I trust the blunder has caused you no serious annoyance, and that long ere this comes to hand, you will have been informed by your banker that Mr. London's credit is good in California as it is elsewhere.

Yours very truly, NINETTA EAMES, for Jack London.

HUNTING LICENSES REQUIRED ON MOLOKAI

WAILUKU, November 9.—The Deputy Sheriff of Molokai wrote to the Board of Supervisors that many persons on Molokai were hunting there without a license who claimed to have taken out a license but had left it at home. The County Attorney stated he had advised the Deputy Sheriff there to arrest each and everyone who was hunting there without a license. As the matter stands there now it is certain that many persons are taking advantage of the authorities there and are hunting without a license.

Court of Appeals, in California, and has been set for February 4, when the entire day will be given up to the hearing of arguments by the foremost attorneys of the Coast, who have been engaged for the purpose.
