COUNTY TAX BILL BEATEN IN HOUSE ON SECOND READING

"Holdover" Committee Is Appointed by the Senate—To Act on Finances.

The appointment of a "holdover" Senate Finance Committee was the most important thing accomplished by the Fifth Territorial Senate yesterday. The members vested with authority to gather financial data for the consideration of the session of 1911 are Senators Fairchild, Kalama and Moore. The committee will be expected to decide upon some consistent and reasonable financial policy before the opening of the next Legislature.

Action on House Resolution No. 21 was deferred yesterday and it was referred to a select committee with the understanding that the committee will report today. The resolution embodies a number of proposed changes to the Organic Act and the sense of the Senate is that it would be unwise for that body to attempt to consider the measure when the session closes tomorrow.

Money For Court.

Senate Bill No. 152, making an additional appropriation of $2000 for the expenses of the second Circuit Court, Maui, passed third reading without a dissenting vote. The bill was introduced as the result of a wireless from Judge Kingsbury, stating that a $2000 emergency appropriation would be necessary to meet the costs of his court for the current period.

Senate Bill No. 153, adding a new paragraph to the section of the Revised Laws regulating the dissolution of corporations, passed third reading. The measure enforces the publication of notice.

House Bill No. 225, on tax liens, which formerly included a provision making income tax delinquency a lien on real property, but which was stricken out, passed third reading.

House Bill No. 232, regulating the transportation of persons afflicted with contagious diseases, passed third reading.

House Bill No. 231, relating to the annual exhibit of corporations, was amended on the motion of Chillingworth to make the form of annual reports discretionary with the Treasurer, but including a proviso "with the approval of the Governor."

House Bill No. 234, regulating the sale of lands for tax delinquency, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Knudsen of the Judiciary Committee reported on the House bill, providing for more stringent preventive methods in the segregation of anti-

Rice Announces That Next Session Will See Counties Get Taxing Powers.

In addition to taking an hour off to hear and honor the Honorable C. W. Fairbanks yesterday morning, the House had two debates, a couple of scraps and an afternoon session that ran after five o'clock. It was a busy day for the irritable and tired members, made especially so from the fact that the Senators gaily adjourned early enough to leave some House resolutions where they cannot fail to die of neglect. It was suggested in the House that they too adjourn and let some Senate bills die by the same process, but this was not allowed.

The resolution calling for the appointment of a gas and electric meter inspector was one of the measures that the Senate sidestepped and the resolution calling for a public utilities commission, against which ex-Senator John C. Lane has been lobbying on behalf of interested parties, failed to pass in the House.

The big doings of the day was the killing of the county tax bill, this being debated in committee of the whole on second reading and indefinitely postponed.

The fifty-eighth day of the session found little for the House to work on, so far as the order of the day appeared. Two hundred and thirty-five bills in all had been introduced in the House and each one of them had received the proper committee's approval or mark of disfavor. Of these bills ninety-three have been sent to the Governor, who had, up to Saturday night, signed sixty-six of them. His veto had killed seven of them, while eighty-seven had been tabled and fifteen indefinitely postponed. The Senate has thirty-seven of the ones yet alive and the House only one. Two are in conference committee.

Session Expenses to Date.

The expenses of the House up until Saturday totaled $26,912.73, out of available appropriations of $40,000. Of this amount spent the Territory has been drawn on for $15,576.43 and the Federal chest for $11,336.30. Out of the available balance, some $6000 more will have to be spent on the House journal. So far this publication has cost something over $3000. The Senate and House journal together will cost the public about $12,000, a good share of which will be for an edition

CATHCART "SEEING" GRAND JURYMEN ABOUT HIS CASE

Probability That He Will Be Left to Advise the Grand Jury What to Do With It—Astonishing Policy.

A grand jurymen stated yesterday that he had been approached by County Attorney Cathcart who tried to talk about his own case; and considering that the attempt was an impropriety, he refused to listen. Cathcart got far enough ahead, however, to say that he "did not know" he was entering Goo Wan Hoy's place, having gone into the first tobacco shop he came to to light his cigarette, and this despite the chapter he gave to Goo Wan Hoy in his Orpheum speech and the newspaper publicity given by him and others at that time to the Chinese merchant and his business. Cathcart also said that he did not strike Goo Wan Hoy, although in his Bulletin interview next day he stated that "he may have licked a Chinaman." How many other grand jurymen Cathcart has attempted to "see" has not yet been made known. It is understood that he or his deputy will act as adviser to the grand jury in this case, although it is impossible to see how the Attorney General's department can possibly permit such a travesty on justice. That it has something of the sort in mind may be judged from the following reply to a letter of protest written by Goo Wan Hoy's counsel, Judge Humphreys: "Office of the Attorney General, The Capitol, Honolulu, Hawaii. "Honolulu, T. H., April 24, 1909. "Hon. A. S. Humphreys, Attorney for Goo Wan Hoy, Honolulu. "Dear Sir—I have your letter of April 23rd, 1909, wherein, on behalf of Goo Wan Hoy, you request me to present before the grand jury of the First Circuit, at an early date, the facts in the case of Territory of Hawaii v. John W. Cathcart. "Since the institution of County government, the various county attorneys, including the attorney for the City and County of Honolulu, have had entire charge of all misdemeanor cases in both the district and circuit courts. Since April 12, 1909, the county attorneys, including the attorney for the City and County of Honolulu, have in addition had entire charge of all matters to be brought before the grand jury. Unless, therefore, there is a failure on the part of the office of the attorney for the City and County of Honolulu to bring before the grand jury of the First Circuit the facts involved in the case to which you call my attention, I do not feel it my duty to take up the matter. "Very truly yours, "C. R. HEMENWAY, "Attorney General."

THE EX-VICE PRESIDENT MADE A FINE SPEECH TO HAWAIIAN SOLONS

Good advice, gracefully given, was listened to by the members of the Legislature yesterday, the adviser being the Honorable Charles Warren Fairbanks, ex-Vice President of the United States, who spoke, he said, as one citizen of America to other citizens of the same Republic. Mr. Fairbanks met the assembled members of the Senate and House and a large number of private citizens, in the hall of the House yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, being accompanied by his wife and daughter, who occupied seats near the rostrum and who took, apparently, a deep interest in the meeting.

Mr. Fairbanks was introduced by President W. O. Smith, of the Senate, who accompanied him and Governor Frear into the House. With these three on the rostrum was Speaker Holstein, of the House. On the floor were a large number of officials, territorial and Federal, together with representatives of the Army and Navy. The gallery was filled with citizens and many more stood in the lobbies within hearing distance or grouped around the open windows on the lanai.

In introducing the distinguished guest of the Territory, President Smith said:

President Smith's Remarks.
"It gives me great pleasure," he said, "to introduce the Honorable Charles W. Fairbanks, ex-Vice President of the United States, who, for so many years and with such distinction, has been identified with the administration of the government of the great Republic. We are greatly honored to have him with us. It has been our pleasure to receive visits from many connected with the administration, but I am sure we have never welcomed any one with more pleasure than our distinguished visitor of today.

"We have been working out our problems for many years with success, which has been a cause of gratification to us. In the present session of the Legislature the most important matter has been the financial question. Since annexation a large part of our revenue has gone to the United States and it has been difficult for the government to maintain itself with reduced revenues. We are making a very earnest effort to live within our income. There is also the very important matter of the education of large numbers of children here. Difficulties have been presented and very great obligations have been put to us. In all of these matters we have had the assistance and advice of friends in Washington and we look to them for help and support."

Mr. Smith thereupon introduced Senator Fairchild to welcome Mr. Fairbanks on behalf of the upper house.

Welcome from the Senate.
Senator Fairchild, on behalf of the Senate, welcomed Mr. Fairbanks to Hawaii, preceding his words of welcome by asking indulgence for himself. "I have been in the cane fields for the

JAPAN HAS FRIENDLY FEELING FOR HAWAII

Rev. E. W. Thwing, who arrived yesterday morning from the Orient, said: "I was much impressed by the friendly feeling expressed in Japan for Hawaii. The Japanese press and also individuals are greatly pleased at the cordial Hawaiian welcome accorded to the Japanese training squadron. They realize that this Territory fortunately has a clearer appreciation of Oriental affairs. One of the important influences from Hawaii is that which brings a better understanding between the East and the West. Friendliness and good will should dominate the intercourse between the various races of our Island Territory. "Much space has been given in Japanese papers to Hawaiian affairs. They are always glad to hear of the news from Honolulu. "The entire East is changing and developing in a remarkable manner. The Pacific trade is really only in its infancy. China is moving. Hawaii will enjoy a large share in the great traffic of the future. Now is America's opportunity. It was a pleasure to give away both in China and Japan some of the excellent literature given me by the Promotion Committee. Let Hawaii realize her future and her opportunities."

FAIRBANKS TO KAUAI ON TENDER KUKUI

Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks and Mrs. Fairbanks, Mrs. Timmons and W. A. Kinney were passengers aboard the United States lighthouse tender Kukui last night for a trip to Kauai, the vessel being taken out at midnight by Captain Jobson with Lieut. Houston, U.S.N., of the lighthouse service, in charge. Mr. Kinney accompanies the Fairbanks party as guide and philosopher. The steamer will arrive at Nawiliwili this morning where breakfast will be had and the party will then cross the island to Hanalei in autos, where they will be met again by the Kukui and taken around the island past the Napali district. The Kukui will return with her guests tomorrow morning.

PORT ALLEN A NEW NAME IN GEOGRAPHY OF HAWAII

"Resolved, That the terminus and port of the Kauai Railway Company, at Eleele, on Hanapepe Bay, be and the same is hereby named 'Port Allen' in honor of the late Samuel Clesson Allen, merchant, of the city of Honolulu."

By the foregoing resolution just adopted by the directors of the Kauai Railway Company, the enlarged and improved terminus and port of that company at Eleele, Kauai, costing over one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00) and just completed, has been named "Port Allen" in honor of the late founder of the house of Allen &

Robinson and the S. C. Allen Trust Estate of this city.

Mr. Allen was intimately associated in business and otherwise for many years prior to his death with the Dillinghams, the McBrydes and the house of T. H. Davies & Company, and others concerned in the starting of the McBryde Sugar Company, of which the Kauai Railway Company is an offshoot. Mr. Allen always expressed confidence in the final outcome of the venture and freely backed it from time to time by investments in its bonds and otherwise. The new landing named in his honor covers three separate wharves, males affected by glanders or farcy. The bill passed second reading on the adoption of the report.

Senator Fairchild submitted a report of the conference committee on House Bill No. 38, the merchandise license bill, but action on the report was deferred.

Laid On Table.
Senate Bill No. 70, providing for the appointment of bail commissioners, and Senate Bill No. 90, providing for a public administrator, were laid on the table upon the recommendation of Chairman Knudsen of the Judiciary Committee. Both measures were introduced by Coelho, and he took occasion to remark that the committees had deliberately kept the bill with the intention of killing them.

House Bill No. 225, relating to the taxation of real estate taken for public purposes, was passed on first reading.

The select committee of the Hawaii delegation reported unfavorably on House Bill No. 197, appropriating money to meet the claim of the Hilo Electric Light Company, Ltd.

"From investigations made by your committee," reads the report, "we find that the amount of the claim was contracted without the least color of authority and in violation of Section 4 of Act 10, Session Laws of 1903, and therefore recommend that the bill be laid upon the table."

The report was adopted. The Judiciary Committee reported unfavorably on House Bill No. 220, enlarging the powers of the circuit courts.

Chairman Knudsen pointed out that the real effect of the measure would be much more far-reaching than supposed by its introducer, Representative Furtado. He said that it would permit the District Magistrate of Hanalei, Kauai, to enforce the attendance of a witness from Hawaii in a $7 civil suit.

Senator Knudsen submitted an amendment, limiting the exercise of the power on the part of district magistrates to approval by a judge of the Circuit Court. With the amendment inserted, the bill passed on second reading.

Amend Resolution.
A House resolution asking for the extension of Bishop street was taken up for consideration.

The resolution stated that it was in the interests of the public that Bishop street be opened and extended from Beretania avenue to the waterfront. The Senate amended the resolution to read "from Merchant street to the waterfront" and in that form it was adopted.

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole to take up the consideration of House Concurrent Resolution No. 21, memorializing Congress to amend the Organic Act and including the draft of a bill to cover the changes asked for.

The Senate Concurrent Resolution asking for changes in the land laws and extending the mainland system to the Territory, was also taken up in conjunction with the resolution from the House.

Following the reading of the House resolution Senator Smith asked if any member of the upper house had studied the provisions of the resolution. He said that it covered too many subjects to be taken up for serious consideration before being referred to a committee.

Makekau suggested that the resolution should be properly referred to the "holdover" committee with instructions that it "report to the next Legislature."

A compromise was finally reached for a select committee and when the committee of the whole rose, President Smith named Senators Chillingworth, Knudsen and McCarthy as members of the committee.

Notification was received from the House that it had failed to concur in the Senate amendments to House Concurrent Resolution No. 22, asking for the extension of Bishop street and President Smith named Senators McCarthy, Harvey and Chillingworth to represent the Senate on the conference committee.

House Joint Resolution No. 12, providing that the Superintendent of Public Works shall appoint a gas and electric inspector, passed first reading and was referred to the committee on military affairs.

The conference committee report on House Bill No. 38, the merchandise license bill, was adopted with one dissenting vote, that of Senator Makekau.

of 500 practically worthless Hawaiian translations.

Rule Revision.
A resolution was introduced by Kaleiopi, calling for the Rules Committee to revise the laws of the House in a way they might think the Legislature of 1911 would like. Furtado failed to see what business this Legislature had with the next one and moved the tabling of the resolution. The Speaker explained the necessity of a revision, waived the Big Stick and passed the resolution over to the Rules Committee without a vote.

Alewa Roads Favored.
Kaleiopi presented another resolution pointing out the desirability of having roads through the Alewa home-stand lots and recommending that the Superintendent of Public Works get busy on them. This was adopted.

The Public Land Committee also recommended the opening of new roads to the Honoumulehu, the Kaiwika I, homestands and the Kaohae home-stands, Island of Hawaii.

Too Late for Waikiki.
The same committee reported that there was no time for it to report on the Waikiki reclamation scheme and passed it up to the Legislature of 1911. Shingle passed for the third reading of House Bill 235, which he wanted passed in time for a first reading in the Senate. This bill is one relating to the taxes on property taken under condemnation proceedings by the Federal, territorial or county government, making taxes payable only up to the date of the condemnation proceedings. He referred to the trouble that arose over the taxes on the Mahuka site as a reason why the bill should become law. It passed on third reading.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
The Senate returned the resolution to start the Bishop street extension at Beretania avenue and run it through to the waterfront, having amended the resolution to start the extension at Merchant street. The House did not agree, and a conference committee was named.

A Senate resolution instructing the Superintendent of Public Works not to build any wharf at Hanalei, Kauai, until the government got title to the foreshore was adopted.

Debate Over Meter Inspector.
There was a debate on the third reading of the House resolution that provides for a government inspector of gas and electric meters. Sheldon could not see the absurdity of the public having to depend upon meters which are tested only by the employees of the corporations who stand to win every time the consumer loses. Kauai has no meters to test, either, and consequently would share none in the benefit, this being a reason quite sufficient in his eyes why the Honolulu people could be robbed if the corporations choose to rob them.

Castro defended the measure, which finally passed, 18 to 7.

Public Utilities Commission.
The resolution to appoint a general public utility commission was attacked. Kawewehi, Kaleiopi and Sheldon going after it on the ground that Hawaii had too many commissions—silly, but presented by way of argument. Kaleiopi wanted to be sure of the constitutionality of the measure, and asked that it be referred to his committee. He did not state what tests he would apply.

In this debate the Speaker was arbitrary in his rulings against Castro and Affonso, the sponsors for the resolutions. Everyone else was allowed to wander all over the lot so long as they opposed the commission, but to rise in opposition was to be gagged by the rules.

The resolution was lost. Cohen moved to reconsider the vote on the meter inspector resolution. Castro was ruled out of order when he wanted to speak for his own resolution, and the vote to reconsider carried.

Delinquent Tax Penalty.
A debate and scrap came over Senate Bill 117, which puts a penalty of 8 per cent. per annum and no more on delinquent taxes and does away with the 10 per cent. penalty and 10 per cent. per annum interest now in force. Rice attacked the bill, pointing out that in times of financial stringency the corporations would rather pay the 8 per cent. than pay their taxes when due, the result being that the treasury would be bare. At the conclusion of his speech he moved the tabling of the bill.

"I protest against this business of one man trying to run this House," said Affonso, jumping to his feet. "Here he makes all his arguments and then tries to shut us off."

"I have a perfect right to make a motion to table if I want to," retorted Rice.

"Yes, but it is not fair, and you know it," shouted Affonso, waving a bunch of bills at him.

Two others of the Kauai delegation rose and shouted that the Hilo member was out of order.

The Speaker sternly bade Affonso be good.

The motion to table was lost. Cohen supported the bill for something in the interests of the poor man who was most likely to be delinquent. The taxes are high enough now, he said, without adding penalties.

Shingle pointed out how the bill would benefit the corporations and embarrass the government. Kaleiopi also saw no merit in the bill.

After one amendment from Shingle, to make the interest 10 per cent., had been lost, and one or two others killed, the main motion was put. The result was 15 to 11, the chair announcing that the bill had failed to pass.

Affonso at once moved to reconsider the vote, one member having arrived in time to vote. The motion carried and this time the bill passed, 15 to 11. This was enough to pass it.

Senate Sidestepped.
At this stage the chair announced that the Senate had adjourned before the resolution to christen one of Hilo breathing spots "Kealawaa Park" had reached it. This would prevent the resolution becoming law.

Castro asked what had become of the communication calling back the gas meter resolution. The Speaker announced that that resolution had not reached the Senate either.

This made Kaleiopi mad. "If that's the way they are going to do business, when they know we have matters here for them, I move that we also adjourn and let all these Senate bills die," he said.

"The chair refuses to take any notice of such a motion," said the Speaker, and Kaleiopi sank back squelched.

County Tax Bill.
The House went into committee of the whole on Senate Bill 139, which is to allow the counties to raise taxes of their own to the extent of a quarter of one per cent. Representative Kama took the chair.

As soon as the bill was read through, Correa moved that the committee rise and recommend that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

Sheldon moved that the report be that the bill pass second reading. Kama hammered his desk with the gavel and ordered the bill interpreted. This great ceremony was properly performed.

Waiwale moved in amendment that the question of a tax levy must first be submitted to a plebiscite before being enforced.

Shingle asked that the motion to rise and indefinitely postpone the bill be put. Kama thought Waiwale ought to be heard and so ruled, ordering Affonso to sit down when he was raising a point of order.

Waiwale also thought the motion to rise should be put, but not for Kama.

"I have ruled the amendment is in order," he said, hammering with the gavel.

Correa renewed his motion and Shingle seconded it, stating that the dying hours of the session was no time to consider a bill of this importance.

Kaleiopi—naturally—was for the bill: for anything that would give the Supervisors more money to spend. "Where's the money for the counties?" he asked.

Rice opposed the bill because it restricted the use of the money so raised.

"I hope we'll all see the day very soon when the counties will have full power to levy the tax," he said. "But this bill is not half a loaf."

The vote to recommend the indefinite postponement of the bill passed by a large majority on a show of hands.

Home Rule Resolution.
Affonso presented a concurrent resolution, along the lines of the one turned down by a vote of eight to seven in the Senate, stating that "there is a strong public sentiment favoring the appointment of residents of Hawaii to all executive and judicial positions in the Territory, whenever practicable," and providing for a notification to the President to that effect.

Several spoke in favor of the principle of the resolution, the only objection being that there had already been a Home resolution passed on the subject. Castro raised the point that this had not been sent to Washington and the matter was deferred until today to allow the record of that House resolution to be looked up.

Primary Commission Tabled.
Castro presented a concurrent resolution asking the Governor to appoint a commission to draft a workable primary election bill. Some members saw sense for the Senate in the resolution and tabled it.

THE EX-VICE PRESIDENT MADE A FINE SPEECH

past twenty years," he said, "and I can only address you in the oratory of the cane field, broken English, it may be called."

The Senator's broken English was very effectively spoken, however, as he dwelt upon the fact that Hawaii was advancing along true American lines, and that the Hawaiians have already by their actions and performances justified the faith shown in them when they were granted the franchise and the right to elect their own people to the Legislatures. The fact that Hawaii had ever since the coming of the early missionaries kept burning in these distant islands the lamp of American liberty, religion and political institutions was Hawaii's share towards the greatness of the United States, a share that balanced up the unequal advantages of the reciprocity treaty prior to annexation.

The speaker referred to the efforts being made in Hawaii to make the Territory more than a one crop land, efforts made not because of criticisms but because the people realized that Hawaii cannot achieve her greatest prosperity through one crop alone.

"It is generally recognized," he said in conclusion, "that two years from now the time will have come to make this an American Territory in fact as well as in name and with the county system on the same basis on the American mainland. Each district then will care for its own financial affairs. And, as for eighty years this Territory has conducted its government creditably to itself, it should now be allowed to develop along the lines of statehood."

Welcome from Hawaiians.
Representative Sheldon, on behalf of the Hawaiian members of the Legislature, spoke in welcome to Mr. Fairbanks and his party. He said:

"The honor has been conferred upon me to accord you, Mr. Fairbanks, a hearty welcome to our shores, or, as we Hawaiians are in the habit of saying, 'Aloha, aloha!'"

"We feel that we have been particularly fortunate in having such a great and strong friend as yourself to help us."

"The first matter of importance here was the establishment of popular government; placing the voting strength of the Territory in the hands of the Hawaiian-Americans. This showed us that the American people had such confidence in us that they thought it safe to trust local affairs to us. You will find that this trust has not been abused, and that our disposition is still, as it has always been on the part of Hawaiians, to welcome the traveler in our midst."

"We of Hawaii nei have our problems to solve—problems which, to the men who guide the Nation's destiny, may seem insignificant, but to us they are real and serious."

"A little more than ten years have passed since these islands were adopted by the United States, but already many changes have been made which tend to bring our life, social as well as political, in harmony with conditions on the mainland. Our aim is, through our own endeavors and with the assistance of our great and experienced friends, to so hasten progress that Hawaii in due time may reach her ultimate political goal—Statehood."

"Being a Hawaiian-American myself, I can assure you, sir, that from the earliest civilization of the people of these islands, and right down through the changing periods of our government, a warm heart and a glad hand have always been extended to the people of the mainland."

"On behalf of the members of this House, and as a Representative elected by the people, I extend to you our most hearty welcome, and hope that your stay with us will be most enjoyable and beneficial to yourself and to the members of your family, feeling assured, as I do, that every one in Hawaii nei stands ready to do what he can to welcome you, Aloha."

Mr. Fairbanks' Reply.
At the conclusion of Mr. Sheldon's remarks Mr. Fairbanks arose and was greeted with applause. He spoke as follows:

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Governor Frear, Senator Fairchild, Mr.

Sheldon, Members of the Legislature of Hawaii:

"I have not come for the purpose of making an extended address. I understand that you are now in the midst of the closing hours of a busy legislative session and that there still remains important work to be done. I have come, rather, to thank you for the hospitality you have extended to me and those who are with me. It is impossible for me to find words fit enough to express the full measure of our appreciation for what you have so generously done. To those gentlemen who have been pleased to give utterance to your welcome I wish to return special thanks for what they have so generously said."

"It is with a special pleasure that I meet the joint assembly of the Legislature of Hawaii. It is with particular pleasure I have come to visit the Hawaiian Islands, for I had some little part in the transaction which made Hawaii a part of the republic of the United States of America. I also had something to do with framing the organic law under which the Legislature that does me this honor was created."

"To the genius of statesmanship of one man above and beyond all others, we are indebted to the fact that we greet each other here today, citizens of a common country; I need not mention in this presence the name of William McKinley, President of the United States. We have produced many great men, and I say that because we are all now citizens of a great republic, and among those none stands higher in the respect and esteem of the men who owe allegiance to the flag of the republic than William McKinley, and I hope that in good time there may arise in these favored Islands a monument commemorating the virtues of the far-sighted statesmanship of him who made the Hawaiian Islands a part of the territory of the greatest republic in this world."

"It is with particular pleasure I address myself to the members of a legislative assembly. For twelve years I had the great honor of being associated with the lawmakers of the United States. I know something of the responsibilities that rest upon the shoulders of a lawmaking body of territorial, state and national governments. Those who have preceded me have well said that you have your problems, different in some measure from the problems which concern other portions of our country. It is because of general problems, which concern 90,000,000 of people who constitute the population of the United States, that we have our state and territorial legislatures."

"While the problems are different, they are none the less difficult. Their solution is to be effected in the final analysis in all Territories, in all States in some manner, according to the principles of our Republican form of government. It is not always an easy matter for a legislator to see the way of his duty amidst the complicated and confusing questions which address themselves to consideration in a short legislative session. It is not possible for the members to always think and act aright, but if they exercise an honest and intelligent judgment, according to their lights, and commit errors, their constituents will, in a tolerant frame of mind, forgive them."

"What should be demanded of a legislator always is that he exercise the best judgment that is within him, that he shall to the best of his ability and in the line of his highest duty, record his potential verdict."

Federal Reserved Rights.
"Under the Organic law which we enacted at Washington creating the form of government under which you act, we wisely provided for a legislature. There were some who thought that we were going too fast and too far, but subsequent events have indicated the wisdom of our action. We reserved to ourselves, Governor Frear, the right to annul your acts. ABOVE THE ACTION OF THE HAWAIIAN LEGISLATURE PRESIDES THE MAJESTY AND AUTHORITY OF THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES. The power we reserved to ourselves to set aside your legislative action is precisely the power that is reserved in the case of all our territories. BE IT SAID TO THE CREDIT AND HONOR OF THIS LEGISLATIVE BODY THERE HAS NEVER BEEN THE NECESSITY FOR CONGRESS TO WIPE OFF FROM YOUR STATUTE BOOKS ANY ACT WHICH YOU, IN YOUR WISDOM, HAVE SEEN FIT TO PLACE THERE. (Applause.)"

"I, from the first, had confidence that the legislative prerogative which we vested in the people of Hawaii was wisely vested. My opinion, since I have been upon this island and in the last few days, when I have had an opportunity to think (for Governor Frear has put me through such a lively pace), is more and more confirmed of the far-sighted wisdom of our action. President McKinley had faith in the people of Hawaii. Time has justified his faith. We are now all interested in a common destiny. What affects your welfare, affects the welfare of those of the mainland. We are in a measure interdependent, and our political fortunes are one. We are interwoven in the loom of the Divine Providence. Your honor is our honor. We look upon your development with a friendly interest."

"One of the distinguished speakers who preceded me welcomed me as a 'stranger within your gates.' That is figurative. I come not really as a stranger, for under American institutions I am a member of your household, and if I carry too long in the Islands I am afraid I shall lose some members of my household. (Laughter and applause.)"

"I never go into a place where the laws of the people are made that I do not, figuratively speaking, come with uncovered head. The fountain of the people's laws should be as pure as the aspirations and hopes of the people themselves. It is no place for self-interests. Here the people's interests alone should be supported. Our fathers, in ordaining Republican institutions, wisely provided for a distribution of powers into three coordinate departments. It is difficult to differentiate between the three and not attribute more power to one than to the other. Each is essential in our political scheme."

waii during the ten years of your dwelling under the protection of the American flag, with very great interest. I have observed since I have been here that the people, in the exercise of their sovereign power, have chosen wisely with respect to those who shall make the laws. I have observed in the executive department broadminded statesmanship, cannot forbear to express my gratification at being able to meet here your chief executive, Walter F. Frear, Governor.

"It is important as we progress, not only that we shall have an incorrupt and wise legislature, an able and fearless executive, but it is in the highest degree essential that the judicial department of all forms under our government, national, state and territorial, should command the popular confidence."

"I am pleased to be assured that the laws are fairly interpreted and that justice is administered with fidelity to the law by your judicial officers of all grades. It means much to your future progress to be recognized as a wise lawmaking and abiding community."

"The Hawaiian Islands rest in their majesty and beauty upon the bosom of the great Pacific. My good friend Senator Fairchild suggested that he hoped in visiting a neighboring island (and I take it he must be a senator from that island) I would long remember my visit because of the sweet fragrance of the roses, as Mark Twain said. I shall remember it, as I shall remember all the islands by the sweet fragrance of their flowers, but above all that by the inexpressible sweet fragrance of the hospitality of the people. (Applause.)"

The People and Legislatures.
"Some people get impatient even with members of a legislature, and some members get impatient with themselves. I, of course, have no reference to the legislature of Hawaii (laughter). People sometimes think that legislative bodies are too slow and do not get on swiftly enough and do not pass enough laws. The fact about it is that the legislative department of any form of government should be a deliberative department. It should not proceed too swiftly. That department which is to indicate the law governing the people must proceed with wisdom, rather than with speed. There is never a danger of having too few laws; the danger is in having too many laws, but of course, I do not refer to the Hawaiian legislature."

"The value of a legislator's service is not measured alone by the number of bills he has passed, but rather by the character of the measures he seeks the enactment of and his opposition to ill-considered and unwise measures. The fact about it is that the most valuable service I have seen rendered in any legislative body within the scope of my experience, has been opposition service, the defeat of unwise measures. Therefore, a legislator who has not upon the statute books at the close of a particular session any measure of his own authorship, may not be disappointed if he has stood in opposition to the enactment of unwise laws in the interest of the public at large.

Extravagance in Governments.
"One tendency to which I call attention in governments, and I am speaking largely, is the tendency to extravagance. Our people are smitten with this same vice. Our people everywhere have been reaping the harvest of prosperity and they have become reckless in their expenditures. This evil is insinuating itself in our public concerns, in state legislatures, in the national legislature, in territorial legislatures (outside of the territory of Hawaii, of course). It is a difficult problem for a legislature to draw lines between necessary and unnecessary appropriations. Those who do not understand the particular work of a legislature, do not appreciate his embarrassments. Legislators are sent to their high office by numerous constituents who demand of them that they bring back a part share of the public budget, and it is obvious they are frequently forced to advocate measures involving expenditures which are perhaps away beyond the limit of their own responsible judgment. It is important for us to be generous and so far as we can cooperate together to limit the public expenditures to the reasonable public necessities."

"It is important for legislative bodies to understand that everything can not be accomplished in a day or everything be done in a legislative session. I was glad to hear the President of the Senate state that this Legislature had confined its appropriations almost within the income. What that margin is he did not say. It is good to be approximate if you can not be absolutely so, but as a rule it is better to bring it entirely within your income."

"Those who have the power of imposing taxes have a responsibility of very great moment, as the American people are willing to support their

FAST BALL FOR OPENING OF INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

High School and Kams Play Ten Inning Game --Espinda Has Poor Support Against Punahou Team.

Standing of the Interscholastic League.

Yesterday's Results.
Kams, 5; High School, 4; (ten innings).
Punahou, 7; St. Louis, 1.

There was but a small crowd of rooters out yesterday afternoon to witness the first baseball games for blood ever played on Alexander field and to watch the best all-round class of ball played in the interscholastic league yet.

Both games were well worth watching and there were many points of interest to be picked out in the playing of all four teams. The first game was the most interesting of the two in that it was so close. It was only after an extra inning that the Kams finally won out after the High School had been in the lead all the way down the line.

As a matter of fact the High School's playing was a matter of great surprise as much to their friends as to rooters for the other teams. McCandless pitched a very heady game and, had he had just a trifle more condition, there is little doubt that the Kams would not have scored in the last inning and won out with another run in the extra inning.

Score Twice In Same Way.
A very interesting feature of the first game was that the Kams scored in the third and fifth innings in almost identical ways. In each case Kalimapehu made his base and was sent home by Bartels who failed to score both times.

Espinda, the King of Spain, was in fine shape for the St. Louis team. He pitched an almost perfect game and, had he only had proper backing in the early part of the game, the Puns would have had no such easy task to win as they did. The more things Espinda grew and the harder he pitched.

After the fifth inning, when it seemed as though the Oahu slabs were going to pile up a large score, Espinda began to show his best form and he allowed only one hit from that time on. Not only did he twist a fine game but he was the hero of his team by scoring the one run that saved the upsetting of the whitewash bucket.

Espinda Stops Whitewash.
The run made in the last inning by Espinda created great delight among the St. Louis rooters. Pedro, who played on the famous Waialua team that once did things to the "Tisers," performed a dance of delight and stated loudly that all the whitewash had been left in Waialua.

Lota and Chi Bai made a very impressive battery for the Oahu team. The former was in excellent form and pitched hard as well as using a bunch of new curves. The team was in very good shape and it was merely a little carelessness that allowed the royal gentleman from Spain to romp home in the last inning.

The First Game.
The first two innings went with a great snap and go and it could be seen that it was going to be a closely contested game. The fielders avoided making any errors and both pitchers were getting them over the plate in great style.

The Kams made their first score in the second half of the third inning. Kalimapehu, who by the way scored twice without a hit, had reached third by the error and burglar route when Bartels came up to bat. The latter swatted out a neat bingle and Kalimapehu romped. Bartels reached second as the fielder tried to send the ball to the plate in time, but failed.

McKenzie was the next up and he hit a hard one that was caught by Rice. It was a very clever catch and the quick way in which Bill sent to Mark at third and got Bartels out was a very notable feat.

In the fourth inning the High School put themselves ahead by scoring two runs. Rice singled and stole to second and was followed by Kawamoto who walked. Then Henry Chillingworth repeated the dose with a fine single to right field that scored Rice and took him to second while they were trying to donse Marucci at third. They finally succeeded in getting the latter out at the plate but Henry came in on Kalimapehu's error and the score was 2 to 1 in favor of the school.

In the fifth inning the Kams tied the score by a repetition of their play in the third inning. Kalimapehu was all ready on third for the big doings, and romped in on what was not technically a bingle by Bartel, but was such a hot one that it seemed hard on the fielder to dock him with an error.

Rice was the hero of the sixth inning. He started with a clean hit to center field, stole second, stole third, and finally stole home. This run again put the High School ahead. But the Kams tied again in the second half of that same inning. Josiah reached third with a bingle, a steal and an error, and then Akana came up and singled him in.

In the seventh the school drew ahead again by scoring one. Andrews binged and stole, and reached third on Kaulukou's funeral. McCandless popped out, but Kalimapehu missed a catch and Andrews romped.

There was no scoring in the eighth, although the Kams made a hit. In the ninth the Kams tied the score once again by putting in that one run. Milikaa took a hit-by-ball pass to first and then did the safe-breaking act twice. Snugly stowed away on third and ready for a quick run, Milikaa had little difficulty in beating Akana, a bunt to the plate.

This tied the score once again, and so another inning was necessary. Kaulukou, McCandless and Norton went out, one, two, three, in the first half of the tenth inning, and then the Kams came along with a great determination to put on the finishing touch. They did so with such energy that two runs were scored before the play was over.

McIntyre sent out a high one that Kaulukou fumbled, and reached second on it. Bartels was safe at first, but McIntyre went out at third. Then McCandless beat his bunt to first and Kamaopili was safe on pitcher's error. This filled the bases with one man gone. Up came Josiah with a fine little bingle, and there was much romping, the arrival of Bartels being all that was necessary to win a very keen game.

The Second Game.
Oahu College went in first and it looked as though Espinda were in great shape when he fanned Sing Chong quite easily, but Will Desha singled and stole twice. Hoogs died, but Lowrey doubled Desha in, and the first score of the game had been made.

In the second inning there was nothing doing on either side, but in the third Sing Chong romped and Desha reached second on a bad fumble by Dreier at first. Then Hoogs singled Desha in, and the score stood 3 to 0 for the Punahous.

The Oahu kids put on two more in the fourth. Akina binged and reached second on an overthrow, going to third on Fraser's death at first. Townsend walked and stole second, and both he and Akina came in on another fumble by Dreier.

The Puns made their last score in the fifth. Desha skied, but Hoogs was safe on Fred Markham's error. Lowrey reached first on a poor throw following his bunt, which sent Hoogs to third. Then Chi Bai singled, and both Hoogs and Lowrey, who had stolen second, romped.

There was no more scoring until the ninth, when Espinda scored the one run for the losers. There were two men down, but Lowrey fumbled and Espinda reached first. Then he stole two bases very neatly and finally romped on a poor throw to third by Chi Bai.

Company H put it over the F players at Fort Snaffer yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 2. Buddhu pitched for the winners and twirled a good game striking out eight batters although he walked four of them.

The winners scored first in the third, following it with four in the fourth and two in the fifth. The losers made their two runs in the fourth and ninth, Reckdahl and Mayo being the successful rompers.

There is much interest being taken in this series out at the camp and it looks as though there would be a very close finish between Companies G, H and F.

All Stars beat the All Hawaiiis by 13 to 6 and the Highlands made the Reach team lose its first game of the season by 6 to 4, at Kapiolani Park last Sunday afternoon.

Both games were fast and well played and a large crowd of fans turned out to watch the games, the feature of the game was a three-bagger made by D. Hale of the All Hawaiiis in the first game.

Sport Notes

At the annual meeting of the Chinese Minor Club held yesterday, the following officers were elected: Chang Dak, president; Chin Han, vice president; S. C. Wong, secretary; M. A. Chew, treasurer; A. Mew, auditor; Hen Fat, manager; G. H. Pang, chief captain; J. A. Wong, captain A team; Alina, captain B team; and S. C. Wong, captain C team.

The postponed games in the interscholastic league from last Saturday will probably both be played tomorrow afternoon. The Oahu-High School game will be played at Alexander field at 3 o'clock, and the Kam-St. Louis game will probably be played at the same time on the Kam diamond.

The next game in the Military League series will be played tomorrow afternoon on Ala Park. It will be Marines vs. 20th Infantry.

The Pollards and the Honolulu C. C. will play a game of cricket tomorrow afternoon at Makiki field. The actor folk were out practicing yesterday afternoon and state that they are in pretty fair trim and expect to render a good account of themselves.

Rain marred the game somewhat, but never at any time after the second inning did Waialua have a look in.

Clark pitched his usual classy game, walking only one man, while the Waialua pitcher walked them by the baker's dozen. One play made by Clark was a big leaguer, when he stopped one-handed a high hot one and returned it to first before the man got thirty feet from the plate.

government. They make no complaint, but have a right to expect of those who administer affairs a high-minded, conservative judgment always. That people makes the greatest progress who always listen to a wise exercise of the voice of conservatism. If the people who owe allegiance to the Territory of Hawaii, in the first instance, exercise discretion in their governmental affairs, and proceed only as wisdom shall suggest, it is impossible to state the limit of your future progress in social, industrial and political lines.

In Closing.
"I find that I am elaborating a mere word of courtesy into a speech. I do not know why it should be so. I know there are some on the mainland who, when they get a chance to talk in legislative halls, lose all thought of the flight of time. I want, my friends, in conclusion, to thank you for your unbounded hospitality. I know not whether good fortune shall bring me here again. I hope it may. Wherever I may go I shall carry with me a recollection of this historic meeting.

"I hope that all good may come to the people of Hawaii and that their most optimistic dreams may be realized. I find here upon every hand a pride in your Territory. It is the home of your birth, the home of your mature manhood. And here the ashes of those whom you love will rest forever. It is a splendid thing to owe allegiance to any State or Territory in our Federal system. Proud as you are of being Hawaiians, I am gratified to know you are prouder still that you are citizens of the republic of the United States." (Applause.)

Proud Day For the Legislature.
The last speaker, Speaker Holstein, stated that it was a proud day for the Legislature of Hawaii to be able to welcome so distinguished a guest as the ex-Vice President of the United States. "No member of this House ever expects to see on this rostrum, where monarchs have sat, as distinguished a citizen of our common country as you, sir," he said, and concluded by praying that God might be with Mr. Fairbanks wherever he might journey.

Following the reception, Mr. Fairbanks shook hands with the members, while many of them were presented to Mrs. Fairbanks, who took an interest in the various historical portraits in the old throne room and who was escorted from one to another by various Hawaiian members, listening to their explanations.

TO PROSECUTE HIMSELF.

The Attorney General has decided to permit County Attorney John W. Catheart of his deputy, as public prosecutor, to advise the grand jury, which meets on Wednesday, as to the proper disposition of the case of assault and battery brought on complaint of Goo Wan Hoy against the same John W. Catheart, although the way is open for the Attorney General himself or his deputy to act in the premises. This decision, as embodied in a letter published elsewhere, has been submitted to two leading lawyers of the city and their astonishment at such procedure will be shared by the community when it comes to understand the circumstances.

We are assured that the position of the Attorney General is without any sort of warrant in law and without precedent anywhere. No defendant has the right even to be heard by a grand jury, although where the testimony in behalf of the prosecution is uncertain, dimly or obviously open to explanation, he is sometimes given the privilege of a hearing by the inquisitorial body. This, however, is the only instance known of a defendant being permitted to say whether a criminal case against him shall be presented to the grand jury, or not, or to control the method of its presentation. The law confers no such right upon any defendant, and it was never contemplated that the Attorney General should create such a right, by establishing a mere rule of practice, in favor of a person happening to hold the office of City and County Attorney. While this is a misdemeanor case, the precedent, now established by the Attorney General, will apply with equal force to any felony which may be committed by the City and County Attorney. The situation does not appear to us to be saved by the concluding sentence of the Attorney General's letter: "Unless, therefore, there is a failure on the part of the office of the attorney for the City and County of Honolulu to bring before the grand jury the facts in the case, etc."

Whether there be any such failure no man can tell, as the proceedings of the grand jury are secret, and as it is not required by law to make any report in cases where no bill has been found, and as the complaining witness is without any means of knowing whether the testimony has been intentionally suppressed by the defendant, having control of the prosecution, obviously, he (the complaining witness) can never be in a position to assert that there has been a "failure, etc."

A system which permits the City and County Attorney to control a criminal case, in which he is the defendant, either personally or by deputies, dependent upon him for their positions, is radically wrong. The law has not established any such system, and the Attorney General should not be allowed to do so, through political considerations, or merely because he wishes to avoid a disagreeable duty, the performance of which will subject him to criticism at the hands of people, whose environment is such that they will be found criticizing him whenever he does right.

GOVERNMENT BY MINORITY.

The Star, in its daily worship of the things that are, criticizes the statement made in this paper that the majority of the Legislature did not know what it was doing when it passed some of the good measures enacted during the present session. It is true that the Star twists what was said to make its point stronger, but even with its twisting it fails to show that what is must be right, its usual creed. The majority of the members of the House did not know the effect of the bills it passed. The majority of the members do not know the effect yet. Almost daily during the session requests came to the press table from the House leaders to suppress explanations of what certain measures meant, to conceal the fact that they were Administration bills and not to expose the purposes behind many of the moves made. What these things were were perfectly plain to the press representatives, but it was recognized that if their purposes were made clear through published comment the majority would vote them down; and so the requests were complied with in the interest of good government.

The Advertiser did not say, as the Star would have its readers believe, that the good measures were passed by mistake. The ones who steered them through made no mistakes. It is altogether to the credit of the sensible minority that it was able to do so much with the material it had to do work with.

BENEFITS OF COASTWISE LAW.

There are about eighty waiting passengers for the coast whom the Tenyo Maru could accommodate if permitted by law to do so. These passengers would get away on the Lurline or the Marama if they could; but the lists of the Lurline are said to be full and the Marama has only a baker's dozen of vacant berths. The Korea, the next coast-bound steamer to come along, wires that she is full.

A few months ago the President and the leaders of Congress agreed that Honolulu should have relief from this obnoxious measure but owing to a minority objection here, and by no means a disinterested one at that, a relief bill, which was on the point of passing, came to grief. Congress was assured that there were enough American vessels to handle all the business, and that it was an offense to patriotism to think otherwise; hence the enforced detention of tourists who will be pretty certain to give Honolulu a black eye when they set foot on home ground again.

There is the one consolation, however, that the miscellaneous collection of rowboats and freight boats doing business in these waters under Old Glory are making lots of money and that the attempt of the hated Orientals to compete for left-over American business with their meretricious floating palaces, has been properly rebuked. Let the eagle scream.

USURIOUS TAXATION.

The act to fix the rate of interest on delinquent taxes and other assessments at eight per cent ought to have passed. There was only one vote against it in the Senate and it failed by a narrow margin in the House where, as would appear, it had not been completely understood.

At present the rate of interest on delinquent taxes, fully totaled, amounts to one hundred and twenty per cent. There is ten per cent interest on delinquent water rates and ten per cent penalty, making twenty per cent; ten per cent penalty for delinquent real property taxes and ten per cent interest, equalling twenty per cent more. Another twenty per cent goes on for the delinquent income tax, the same for delinquent personal property taxes, a like sum for the poll, road and school taxes and twenty per cent added, interest and penalty, to delinquent-sewer taxes—making the enormous percentage stated.

A flat rate of eight per cent on each classification would reduce the grand total to forty-eight per cent or considerably less than one-half the present figures.

Should not yesterday's vote be reconsidered in the interest of men who mean to pay their taxes and will do so if the way is not made too hard for them?

Mr. Fairbanks made a dignified and amiable speech to the Legislature yesterday. It must have required something more than self-restraint to keep Coelho and Kaniho from getting into the speaking program also just to show the eminent visitor that Hawaiian eloquence can go some. But they were as mum as chloroformed mollusks. How they were kept so is a secret which, we hope, will be revealed for use in future legislatures and on other occasions like the one just passed.

Evidently the Sultan is becoming a white elephant on the hands of his captors; and that is usually a perilous part to play in Ottoman politics. The old gentleman would do well to take out a few more life policies if he means to provide for the whole family.

The news that Mr. Roosevelt and his son Kermit are ill, recalls the recent stories of an outbreak of smallpox in their neighborhood. Both men are probably vaccinated, but until further particulars are had there will be anxiety on the subject.

There is a San Francisco report that a vacancy in the Supreme Court of the United States would be filled by Governor General Smith of the Philippines.

NOT CERTAIN ABOUT AUTOMATIC SYSTEM

The executive committee representing the Mutual and Wireless companies have been considering the basis of amalgamation of the two companies, but have not quite concluded the preliminary work, but it is expected this will be completed within a few days.

With the information in hand, those who purchased the control of the Wireless and Mutual were not satisfied from the data they could get here that it would be advisable to abandon the present manual system and take up the automatic system as a substitute, and therefore cabled for an extension of the option to give an opportunity for further investigation. They had not received a reply up to last night, and are not certain whether it will be granted or not. The option expired at midnight.

If the extension is not granted the company will go ahead and improve the present system. The committee is informed that the present trouble with the telephone system is not in the interior arrangement, but in the outside construction, which is faulty and defective. If the manual system is to be improved, the company will begin an extensive overhauling and reconstruction of the outside system and put most of the wires underground, and put the open wires in cables.

PORT ALLEN A NEW NAME

with a frontage of some 400 feet, and is designed to handle up to 1500 tons of sugar per day besides a large amount of general merchandise. It has special arrangements for the handling of coal and lumber; has storage capacity for ten thousand tons of sugar and general merchandise, and is equipped with electrically driven carriers. The harbor can accommodate and discharge two ocean-going steamers or vessels at one time, besides an inter-island steamer, and is provided with very substantial moorings suited for the largest sized steamers, the outer moorings furnishing a depth of forty-five feet of water and the inner moorings thirty-five feet. The largest steamers of the American-Hawaiian line and the Matson Navigation Company are running there and have pronounced the port safe and practicable. Handling as it does the combined freight of Makaweli and McBryde Sugar Company the new port starts with a business of over sixty-five thousand tons this year. By reason of its connection with the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company and the Matson Navigation Company goods can be billed direct from New York, San Francisco, or Seattle to Eleele, or Port Allen, as it is now to be called, thus enabling goods from shipping centers on the mainland to be landed as cheaply on Kauai as at Honolulu. Nitrate, lumber and coal vessels also go there direct.

It is an interesting incident in connection with the naming of the new port that Mr. Allen as a young man, while engaged in one of his first business ventures in Hawaii, spent many months in the early fifties almost within a stone's throw of the present landing named in his honor, trying out hundreds of cattle for their hides and tallow, in the days when cattle were such a drug that their meat had practically no market value.

As a matter of fact, eyes with a very large defect, seldom cause any suffering. The vision being so impaired that the muscles give way to the defect, while in small degrees, the muscles are constantly striving to overcome the error, thus causing eye strain. Glasses are the only cure.

"KING" MAX TO LEAVE TODAY

Schooner Concord Sails About Noon—A Deep Lake on Laysan Isle.

Four thousand coconuts will be taken to Laysan Island by "King" Max Schlemmer on the little schooner Concord today, these to be planted on the island. According to the conditions of Mr. Schlemmer's lease, he is compelled to plant at least five hundred coconuts on the island each year, and he has decided that he might just as well make a coconut plantation out of the place now that he has the opportunity to get the seed coconuts down there.

"My wife and I planted two coconuts on the island about fifteen years ago," he said yesterday, "and these have grown up splendidly. They are now big strong trees and would, were it not for the heavy winds, bear a good many nuts each year. But the winds knock the little bunches of coconuts from the trees before they are matured. With the trees I will take down on the Concord I expect to plant a thick outer row that will act as a windbreak for the trees inside."

"King" Schlemmer does not know how long he will remain on the little island. As a matter of fact, he says that he may return with the Concord, though he will not decide for sure about this until he arrives at Laysan.

It's Deep, All Right.

"There's a lake on Laysan Island," said Schlemmer yesterday, "that is one foot deeper than the ocean. You may laugh and scoff all you like, but this is the truth. That is, it's the truth if the United States scientists know anything. They were down to Laysan some time ago in the official craft, the Albatross, and surveyed the waters in and around the island. They found that the lake was exactly one foot deeper than the ocean.

"This lake is very salty, so much so, in fact, that it is impossible for fish to live in the water. Dead fish dropped in the water may be taken out considerable time later and they will be found to have retained their wholesomeness, the water preserving them."

Max Schlemmer is taking with him this time a couple of harpoons, though he says that there is no use in harpooning fish, these being very plentiful and easy to catch by hook and line. He has a considerable lot of provisions on the Concord in case he should decide to stay down there for some time.

The Concord sails for Laysan Island about noon today. Captain Piltz is skipper of the boat, the crew being mostly Hawaiians.

C. A. Thayer Arrives.

After a good passage down from Grays Harbor, the little schooner C. A. Thayer arrived here yesterday morning, being towed inside the harbor by the tug Intrepid, Captain Hyde. The Thayer has a heavy cargo of lumber, the bulk of which is consigned to the City Mill Company. She is docked at the wharf on the Ewa side of Hackfeld wharf.

Lane's Good Work.

Captain Lane, formerly master of the Intrepid and now one of the harbor pilots, brought in the big liner Tenyo Maru yesterday morning, and swung her nose into the narrow space between wharves and to her berth very neatly. Captain Lane brought in the Chiyu Maru the other day and he also handled her with cleverness. The Tenyo and the Chiyu are the two hardest vessels to handle inside the narrow confines of the harbor, that call at this port. Their turbine engines make the monster ships nasty to manage but Lane seems to have the right knack.

Fullerton Is Due.

When the oil-ship Fullerton, which is due to put in here most any hour arrives, she will be docked at a new place—the end of Railroad wharf No. 1. The Associated Oil Company's pipeline has been extended to the end of this wharf, and here the Fullerton will do her pumping this trip.

The Helene, from Port Ludlow, is also due to arrive any day now. She will probably show up before the end of this week.

Eighty Booked; Twelve May Go.

The Canadian-Australian steamer Marama is due to arrive here this afternoon from the Colonies. She is well loaded with passengers already, and as a consequence there are only a few of the north-west on the steamer. There are about eighty people booked for the voyage, but numbers of these are withdrawing their names and booking on the following steamers. The Marama will take about a dozen passengers from here.

Aorangi Starts Again.

Repairs to the Canadian-Australian steamer Aorangi, which was forced to put back to Victoria on account of a bursted feed-pipe, were completed yesterday morning and the liner sailed for this port again. She is due to arrive here next Monday morning, probably sailing for the Colonies the same afternoon. There are a few bookings for Australia by this boat.

Tenyo Maru Sails at Nine.

This morning at nine o'clock the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Tenyo Maru will continue her voyage to the Coast. She arrived here yesterday morning early with considerable freight for this port, and it was on account of this that the boat is being held over so long. Rev. E. W. Thwing was one of the two passengers for this port. The Tenyo has a fairly good list of passengers from the Orient for the mainland, but were it not for the Coastwise regulations, she could take the greater part of the large number of people who are at present finding a whole lot of trouble in securing accommodations on steamers to the Coast.

Dix Starts for Here.

The United States Army transport Dix sailed from Nagasaki for Honolulu yesterday, according to cable advices. The Dix was to have taken the greater part of Hawaii's exhibit to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition when she left here, but, on account of her lateness in arriving here, some of the exhibit will have to be sent up on the next trip of the Alameda. The Dix was originally supposed to arrive here about May 1 from Nagasaki, taking on the Hawaiian exhibit, then sailing for Seattle. She has, however, been delayed. The exhibit must be on the grounds very soon, or it will not be installed in time for the opening day of the exposition. For this reason, Agent Childs will probably arrange to send a great part of it up on the Alameda.

TRACTION COMPANY'S RIGHT-OF-WAY SETTLED

The Pearl Harbor Traction Company, which will operate a traction system between Honolulu and Pearl Harbor naval reservation, has concluded its arrangements for right-of-way from near Fort Shafter to the reservation, and will now be in readiness to commence grade work, tie and track-laying. The line will connect with the present Kaihi terminus of the Rapid Transit just this side of the Fort Shafter hill, and will start over United States property makai of Fort Shafter, and thence through Moanalua, paralleling the track of the O. R. & L., passing through the little waiting station at Moanalua. Instead of swinging around makai where the O. R. & L. tracks go, the traction company's line will continue straight on over the slope near Salt Lake and thence towards Puuloa, crossing the O. R. & L. tracks again near Puuloa.

"WHERE'S ROOSEVELT?"

Down on the Inter-Island wharf last night regrets were expressed that the great hunter was in Africa instead of Honolulu, for there were wild beasts rampant on the front. Eleven water-buffaloes from the wilds of Palama stamped and snorted—and bleated—for the greater part of a half-hour until they were rudely shoved on board the good ship Ke Au Hou, which later bore them to Kauai.

Hee Fat, the rice king of Kapaa, who is the owner of the unique collection, strenuously and with almost Rooseveltian brusqueness denied that he had invited the mighty hunter, Teddy, to "come on down to Kauai and shoot wild animals." In fact, Hee Fat seemed a trifle put out when some one suggested that Private Citizen Roosevelt be invited to bang his gun on the Garden Island.

"No use you talk like that," said the Kapaa rice magnate. "Them—they water-buffalo. Sometime horse no can wade through rice-field. Buffalo he plow all right. No piikika."

Eleven of the sleepy-eyed animals were loaded on the Ke Au Hou last evening and were taken to Kauai. Slow-moving they are to the superlative degree, but they are about the only animal that can be used in pulling a plow in the rice fields. Hee Fat has a herd of about twenty of them on his rice plantation now. Four of the ones which were taken over last night were calves.

JAP GAMBLERS ARRESTED.

Shortly after midnight this morning Joe Leat made a raid on a Japanese gambling house and blind pig at the corner of Punchbowl and Queen streets. Five Japanese were arrested, and sufficient evidence, in the shape of cards and a sum of $38 actually on the table, was taken to warrant the arrests being made. Each of those arrested put up cash bail.

MEDICINES MADE FROM ROOTS AND HERBS.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they depended upon medicines made from the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that standard remedy which is made from roots and herbs for woman's ills, had its origin in this way. For thirty years it has been redeeming its promises written on the label of every bottle by curing thousands of women of feminine ills. It's a good, honest medicine.

ALEXIS

has qualities which distinguish it from the other makes. Toughness and elasticity, for instance, which eliminate any tendency to crack, a defect in most of the typewriter paper sold.

Alexis has everything in its favor that a typist demands; not a feature that does not tend to make it superior to other grades.

It is the embodiment of all that is good in paper; the apotheosis and a tangible proof of the claims made by The Mitineague Paper Co. for "Strathmore" quality.

Around the Police Station

Asa, the well-known Japanese crook, who has served several terms for larceny and burglary, who was the hero of a wholesale stripping of houses on Punchbowl of their furniture using a dray to move it off, is suspected of another crime. Yesterday about noon employees of the U. S. Engineer's storehouse on Queen street telephoned to Chief Leal that they had found a Japanese in an old empty warehouse behind the storehouse in the act of taking some shoes out of a big box. The Jap ran away when they approached and they pursued but lost sight of him. Leal at once thought of Asa, who was sentenced last week to prison for being drunk. He remembered that Asa then wore a new pair of shoes, and thought that the mysterious Jap in the warehouse might be the same one. He figured that Asa had stolen the box, which is marked "Paia Store," and had carried it to the warehouse and had sold some of the shoes, getting drunk on the proceeds. The man was released from jail a couple of days ago, and probably intended making another cash raise by selling more shoes. Asa is one of the cleverest of the light fingered gentry in town. He is hardly out of prison than he begins his thievery again. As he works in the parks he keeps his eye on neighboring houses and learns the habits of the residents and he generally knows when the people are absent.

Row Over Cane Planting.

Sheriff Jarrett and Japanese Interpreter Townsend returned from Pearl City and Alea last evening, where they investigated the shooting affair of Sunday night, when three Alea Japanese were wounded by another Japanese who surrendered himself to Deputy Sheriff Fernandez and is now held in the Pearl City jail.

Sheriff Jarrett states that the assailant was not Harada, the well-known bully, but a man named Hakoda Kazaburo, who recently worked in a meat market at Alea. On Friday he went to a Japanese cane-cutting contractor and was given work in a field. On Saturday he went to the boss and told him that whereas he was working thirteen men in that field, he, Hakoda, could do the same amount of work with six. This, says Hakoda, was the cause of trouble. He claims that on Sunday evening he was surrounded by Japanese, who were angry at his statements and started to beat him, when, in self defense, he pulled a revolver and opened fire.

The other Japanese who were shot and witnesses claim that there was a heated discussion about the cane-cutting and finally Hakoda got mad and punched a Japanese in the face with his fist. A row started and Hakoda pulled his revolver as he went out of a door and began firing indiscriminately and then fled. They telephoned to Deputy Sheriff Fernandez and he came across Hakoda as the latter was going toward the courthouse at Pearl City.

The man most seriously wounded is Tome Kusukubo. A bullet struck him in the breast just above the heart. The bullet was extracted yesterday morning. Takeshitaro Shimatara was shot in the thigh of the left leg. The bullet is imbedded so deep in the flesh that it could not be probed. He is painfully wounded. The third man, Kaitzu, was struck by a bullet in the upper part of one of his legs, making a flesh wound.

AMUSEMENTS

Local Verses Make Hit.

There was another good house for the second performance of "Fun on the Bristol" at the Opera House last night. This was a sure proof that the musical farce has pleased Honolulu theater-goers, as the night was warm enough to keep any but enthusiasts away from a playhouse.

The songs and dances all went with the same swing and go and the number of encores was so great in many cases that the performers had to have recourse to repeating verses. As Alfred Goulding said, "We had four encore verses for every song, but if we were going to stay in Honolulu much longer we should have to hire a poet to do nothing but make extra verses for us."

The local verses to the tune of "Fairy Tales" made an extra big hit last night. The one about Sonny Cunha was received with roars of applause, and the audience was not satisfied until it had been repeated twice.

and hate to stop until you get to the end, just as you do in reading a good book. You decide to read a couple of chapters, and the first thing you know you are at the end, and then you look at your watch and it is after midnight and you have to get up early in the morning, but you don't miss the time, as you were so interested. It is the same way with "The Girl From the West." It is a story of California in the early mining days, and introduces lots of familiar Western characters, and, incidentally, some of them provide a lot of hearty laughs. There are several sensational scenes, but none of them are overdrawn, as in most Western stories, and you feel when you are listening to them that they are telling it to you in real life. George Hernandez was in his glory as an old California judge, and Audra Due gave a strong portrayal of Nancy Williams, and was ably seconded by Pietro Sosso as Sandy. Lawrence Underwood had a strong character as the Parson, Miss Luce, as the "Widder," and Anna Dodge, as "Captain Tommy," were laughable in the extreme. The balance of the cast gave good support, and the clever Osborn children had an entirely new specialty that pleased. "The Girl From the West" is the bill for tonight, and tomorrow night the offering is the pretty Southern story, "The Princess of Patches." Seats are now on sale for all performances of the week.

New Musical Numbers.

The Honolulu Concert orchestra, under the leadership of F. J. Vierra, received by the last mail a number of the latest musical compositions, which will be rendered at the Orpheum during the week. In the assortment are Dockstader's minstrel songs, selections from the "Broken Idol" and the famous Salome Dance. These have never been heard here before and should create a sensation.

The usefulness of most things decreases with use, and a skillful workman is required to prolong their time of service. Competent men who devote their abilities to this line of work are very scarce, and particularly so in the watch and jewelry lines. Culman, Fort and Hotel streets, has many years' experience in jewelry repairing and is skillful and careful.

The big five-masted schooner W. H. Marston, Captain Hersey, will probably have all her cargo out in a day or so, and she will commence taking on sugar the latter part of the week, probably Friday. If she gets her sugar so soon, it will mean a short stay for the boat in this port. This is probably her last trip this way for some time to come, as she will be placed back on the Hilo run against next trip. The R. P. Rithet, which is now at the Big Island port, will come back here again; it is said, on her return from Frisco.

REPUBLICAN MANAGERS

Men Who Serve the Speaker in the Game of Politics.

By Ernest G. Walker.

(Mail Special to the Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Probably no keener coterie of lieutenants were ever picked and trained for the strenuous work of subduing insurrectionists and standardizing Republican opinion than Speaker Cannon has had at his command. Napoleon was famous, among other things, for his generals. Speaker Cannon will be known among the politicians for numerous qualities, of which will be his ability to select Representatives who are adept in judging and in handling men.

One frequently speaks of Chairman Payne, of Ways and Means, and Representative Dalzell, the ranking member of rules, as two of the Speaker's strong men. They are strong in their particular lines but the Speaker never looks to them when there is difference of opinion about the wisest course or when there is rebellion on hand and the insurgents are getting ready to make trouble. He has his own trained helpers for such tasks. His helpers have been better than any other Speaker for years has had and that has been well. For while every Speaker has to deal with insurrections inside his own party, the strength of such insurrections becomes more formidable as the size of the House of Representatives' membership is increased. Speaker Reed was nearly overthrown by members of his own party two or three times, notably during the preliminary days of the Spanish War. The late Speaker Henderson also had to face some very dangerous revolts, but in these restless days, when constituencies start fires behind their members of Congress, a revolt means more than it meant five or ten years ago. The insurgent members are usually standing between the wrath of the Speaker and the wrath of the voters who sent them to Washington and they go out against the Speaker because they prefer to take his wrath than to run the risk of being kept at home.

The best whips the House has even known have been the men Speaker Cannon brought out. The first of these was Representative James A. Tawney, of Minnesota, the man who is now leading an insurrection on his own hook. It is not the first time Representative Tawney has headed an insurrectionary group. He comes to Congress from a tempestuous Minnesota district, with a large Republican majority and yet not so large but what it can be overturned. Along back in the times when Theodore Roosevelt was becoming President, Representative Tawney led a successful revolt against Speaker Henderson and prevented the passage of a measure for Cuban reciprocity. It was an unusual feat at that time and Tawney acquired considerable notoriety for bucking the party lines and winning out.

Generally a Republican who leads an insurgent movement, whether it be successful or not, is likely to be "in bad" with the Speaker and the House organization, but it was not so with Mr. Tawney. He was looked upon as a shrewd manager by Speaker Cannon who proceeded to make him chairman of appropriations when the right opportunity came and then Representative James E. Watson, of Indiana, was chosen as whip. And it should be said that under the Cannon regime, the "whip" is the leading lieutenant in tactics. Watson was one of the smoothest ever. He could subdue insurrections and get a tab on the enemy's real strength with great facility. The Speaker became very fond of him. Against the Speaker's advice, in fact, and against the advice of other friends Watson went into the fight for governor of Indiana, won the nomination and then lost the election to a Democrat. So the Speaker was deprived of another whip and he had to cast about for still another crafty man in political tactics. He selected Representative John Dwight from the Southern tier of New York state, who has been in training for a number of years and promises to be up to the standard of efficiency which his predecessors attained.

Some of the Speaker's best equipped tacticians in the strenuous game of House politics have come from New York. The political training a man gets varies much with the state he hails from. The people in some states are not so acute at the game as the people are in other states. New York, however, measures up to a high political standard and several of the Representatives New York Republicans have sent down here have had just the particular kind of practise needed to handle a body of men, every one of whom is something of a politician himself. Former Representative Lucius Littauer, of Gloversville, was one of them. He never attained the position of chief tactician under Speaker Cannon in the House but he was very smart and the Speaker thought very highly of him indeed—so highly as a matter of fact that when the big insurgent movement at the beginning of the extra session was on and there seemed danger that the Speaker might be overthrown, Mr. Littauer was sent for and took a hand in subduing the recalcitrants.

But there are a dozen Republicans

all told, upon whom the Speaker relies to help out in "lining up" the Republican representatives. Time and again during a session of Congress, a question of some party moment arises upon which naturally Republicans have different views. It becomes a necessity to bring about uniformity of attitude. Sometimes this can not be done without an insurrection; more often it is done amicably but deftly and always in the interest of the party as the leaders look at it.

Will Cannon Be a Senator?

The renewal of gossip about Illinois, throwing a senatorial toga over the shoulders of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, is particularly interesting because such a thing has happened to several Speakers of the House of Representatives. Every Speaker, Democrat and Republican, for many, many years has had his flings and quips at the expense of the Senate. All the same, nearly every one of them has been willing to have the senatorial toga thrown over his shoulders. No Speaker, however, has been willing to step down from his seat of power at the south end of the Capitol to occupy a little Greek temple, which, the late Speaker Reed sarcastically said, every Senator had for his own use.

The late Speaker Blaine of Maine became a Senator. It was after he had served three continuous terms as Speaker and had become a plain Representative in a Democratic House during the Forty-fourth Congress. Almost the same thing happened to former Speaker Carlisle as happened to former Speaker Blaine. Mr. Carlisle had served three continuous terms as Speaker, and then the series of Democratic Houses gave place to a Republican House in the Fifty-first Congress. Mr. Carlisle became a plain Democratic Representative, while Reed was elevated to the speakership. Then Senator Beck of Kentucky died, and Mr. Carlisle was glad to have a senatorial toga.

So if Mr. Cannon should now accept a senatorial election from the Illinois Legislature, he would be setting a precedent; certainly as far as recent times are concerned. He is the third man to have four successive elections as Speaker—the other two having been Henry Clay, who was elected six times, and Andrew Stevenson of Virginia, who was elected four times. Henry Clay resigned the speakership twice, once when he was to serve as a commissioner to assist in the negotiations of peace following the war of 1812. But the speakership was not in those days the important office that it now is, and was not regarded as the second place of power under the American Government. Clay was a United States Senator before he was ever a member of the House, and later he rounded out his legislative career as a Senator.

On the whole, very few Speakers have ever attained the Senate, and nowadays a Speaker regards himself as a very much more important man than a Senator. Roger Q. Mills of Texas fully expected to become Speaker of the Fifty-second Congress, but he fell short of election and was given a senatorial toga as a sort of consolation. Crisp, who won the speakership when the Democrats came into control of the House, over Mills, died soon after he laid aside the gavel, and almost the same was true of Reed, who practised law a year or two in New York. Keifer of Ohio, the Republican Speaker of the Forty-seventh Congress, has sought a toga from Ohio more than once, but he is now a plain Representative in the House from the Springfield district of the Buckeye State. Samuel J. Randall, who was a great Democratic Speaker, came from Pennsylvania, a strong Republican State, and therefore never had any senatorial opportunities.

It is doubtful whether Speaker Cannon would be very much at home in the Senate, and while he is very mum on the subject, it is to be doubted whether he would care to have a toga even from the great State of Illinois. He would have to take a back seat in the Senate. At best he could play only a minor part for a while. The committee plums have all been distributed, and therein he would be at a great disadvantage. For the term for which Illinois is expected to elect a Senator began March 4 last. As the Legislature has been deadlocked and refused to return Senator Hopkins, the Senate leaders had to go ahead and fill the committee places that Senator Hopkins had had. If Speaker Cannon should now become a Senator, he would have to accept some such chairmanship as that of the Committee on the Potomac River front, which committee never holds a meeting. Places were made for ex-Secretary of State Root, but now it would be embarrassing to make places for so eminent a Republican as the Speaker.

The only argument that is advanced for the Speaker to change his service from the House to the Senate is that it would enable him to avoid the party strife now in progress there. But Speaker Cannon never ran away from a fight and he would not be augmenting his importance in history by turning his great office at this juncture over to new hands. Insurgent forces may press him hard at times but he always manages to save himself in some fashion and really likes the tempestuous career which a Speaker of a House of Representatives nowadays must look forward to as one of the inheritances of his office. All in all the party could ill afford to spare him from the Speakership in such critical times as those for the revision of a tariff.

Right in the midst of the revision work the control of the House would have to pass to a new man. Who it would be no one could easily tell. The scramble would be fierce indeed. The West has now had the Speakership for ten years and the East would demand it but probably its demand would not be heeded. Anyhow it is hardly to be expected that Illinois will be willing to swap a Speaker for a Senator or that Mr. Cannon will care to hang his hat

It's merely a matter of relative values—with the advantage decidedly in favor of the Honolulu merchant.

Strengthening the Party.

But with all the troubles that attend a revision of the tariff, troubles that could not be avoided, President Taft is welding his party with the cement of general good will. He has been doing his utmost to prevent the different views, entertained in the various sections of the country about revision, from making breaches in the relations. There is no proscribed class of Republicans at the White House or elsewhere. All Republicans are welcome there to talk things over and endeavor to reach a general understanding. At the same time he has constantly been enforcing the idea that the President can not approve of insurgents—in other words the President is, must be, and wants to be, a regular.

The President has not been bringing out any new legislative leaders. He relies absolutely upon the leaders that Senate and House have chosen after years of experience with men of different service there. The communication character which the President has to make to Congress are made through those leaders and not through men who have shown a willingness to be super-serviceable. This has made for good party discipline in the Capitol. It has lightened immensely the burdens of leadership which such men as Senators Hale and Aldrich and Speaker Cannon have to carry.

And the work of the extra session does not promise to develop any new men. As a matter of fact the new faces in the Senate and the House, with the coming in of this Congress were comparatively few. But none of them seem likely to flash with any brilliance across the legislative horizon.

The elder men, who have been in the harness here a few years are plodding along and there have been no special opportunities to give Senators or Representatives, outside of the coterie of leaders, any particular prominence. Of course there have been opportunities for service on the Ways and Means Committee of the House and the Finance Committee of the Senate, in connection with the tariff bill. But the new men taken on there were very few and they have been deferring to their elders. A great deal of valuable effort in shaping up the tariff bill has been performed by individual members of Ways and Means but it has nearly all been done in the secrecy of the committee room and naturally has not been recognized by the public at large, who have known Chairman Payne as about the only member of the committee of particular prominence.

WED FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham Greeted by Scores of Friends.

Greeted by scores of friends out under the big trees on the lawn at their beautiful home in Punahou, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Dillingham celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday afternoon. Nearly two hundred guests were present, including the ex-Vice President of the United States and Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks and their daughter, Mrs. Timmons of Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham were assisted in receiving by their children and grandchildren, all of whom were present except Walter, who is on the mainland. Those present were Mrs. Walter F. Frear, wife of the Governor; Mrs. Marion Dillingham Erdman and husband, and Harold Dillingham, his wife and child.

The celebrants were the recipients not only of warm congratulations from the guests, most of whom were of the oldtime families of Honolulu, but also of flowers, roses being much in evidence. A very happy feature was the presentation of an address signed by those now living who were present at the wedding ceremony forty years ago. The address was presented by Judge Sanford B. Dole and Mrs. Walter Weedon, as a committee. The address was as follows:

"To Benjamin Franklin Dillingham and Emma Lowell Smith Dillingham, on Their Fortieth Wedding Anniversary.

"Dear Friends: Representing the guard of honor which escorted you up the aisle of the old low-roofed Kaumakapili church for the solemnization of your marriage forty years ago today, we, who are able to be present, congratulate you upon the achievement of your forty years of married life, and tender our good wishes that you may have many more happy anniversaries of that happy day.

"Some of our number are unable to be present on this occasion because of residence in distant lands, because of illness and because of death.

"We rejoice with you in the gains of your life together, the noble family of children and grandchildren, the happiness and harmony of your married life, the good influences which have come from your home, bringing to this community moral and social good, and your distinguished successes in the field of material enterprise. In referring to this latter subject we feel that we are right in attributing a prominent portion of such success to the wife, for we are assured that in the ups and downs, the hopes and fears, the financial crises and desperate emergencies and the final accomplishment, the wise counsel, the brave hope and the good cheer of the wife, have been essential and vital to the success which has been reached. So we include you both in speaking of this experience of your married life.

"With very conspicuous leadership in enterprises in different parts of the group, we would refer especially to the field of such enterprises on the Island of Oahu. We remember well when the building of the Oahu Railroad and the land enterprises connected with it were first contemplated. How, without money and without credit, this matter was pushed from day to day, from month to month and from year to year, with little encouragement from the public, with little financial aid; step by step, with little financial aid, the railroad finally constructed from Honolulu to Ewa; the success of which financially solved the whole problem of the greater enterprises which have been built upon that beginning. Then credit came, and financial assistance, and the road was extended step by step and sugar plantations promoted and established with successful skill and diplomacy, until the road was completed to its present length, with great sugar plantations along its way, giving it abundant traffic and great prosperity. The sugar plantations were an afterthought. It was Mr. Dillingham's first idea to colonize the lands connected with the railroad and thus give business and patronage to the road. It was perhaps too early for such a plan, and the sugar plantation feature was later adopted and has been carried to the success at present existing.

"We congratulate you both upon all of this and rejoice with you that, as eagerness for the activities of life wanes, you may enjoy the substantial rewards of the skill and perseverance and courage which have been displayed.

"To you beyond all others belongs the title of 'The Makers of Oahu'—the pioneers of the splendid progress that is blessing thousands and whose future development no one can forecast.

"Forty years! The chosen number of poetry and romance. Forty thieves, would anyone say, that have come and gone, stealing away some of the treasures of your lives that are sorely missed? Rather say they are the forty immortals, which, though mortal themselves, have brought immortal things—have come like stately angels bearing gifts—golden opportunities which, used aright by you, some of them, have been transmitted into those perennial influences which will live after you and bless the world always.

"Most sincerely and affectionately yours.

A Trip to Haleakala

By M. A. Moore.

Editor Advertiser: This is my fourth visit to Honolulu. Each time I have had a hankering to see a sunrise from the top of Mouna Haleakala, on the Island of Maui. Each time I have investigated the conditions necessary to make the trip, and after, doing so I have heretofore not had the courage to tackle it. This time, having just returned from a trip through New Zealand, where our party wandered over the rocky mountains and the icy glacier of Mount Cook, we concluded to tackle the Haleakala proposition, and we are all very glad we did so. With my wife and two daughters, I sailed on the Mauna Kea, April 6, for McGregor's landing. Arriving there we took coach for Wailuku. It rained all night, and was still raining in the morning. After having telephoned to Mr. Aiken, at his mountain home at Idlewild, near Olinda, and finding that it was clear there, we took a carriage from Wailuku to Idlewild. Owing to the fact that the roads were somewhat muddy a part of the way, we did not reach Idlewild till 1:30 p. m. It was drizzling when we arrived there. Along toward night it cleared up, and as there was nearly a full moon we decided to make the ascent by moonlight, and I believe that is the best way to do it—during the moonlight season. As the writer does not ride horseback he took a special guide with a mule and started for the summit about 10:30 p. m., the balance of the party following on horses later. We took ample time for the ascent, stopping occasionally to build a fire and rest. The ascent by moonlight is very attractive. The view of the valley below, with the moon shining on the floating clouds, was very beautiful. We arrived at the rest-house about 4:45 a. m. After a short rest, in ample time to see the beautiful coloring of the sky preceding the sunrise. All the lowlands surrounding the mountain were covered with floating clouds in all sorts of fantastic shapes, their white tops reminding us very forcibly of some photographs we have received from our home in Iowa, showing some of the snowdrifts which piled up during the blizzard last winter.

As the sun rose and tinged these clouds with gorgeous colors, and as they gradually changed form and floated away, opening up a view of the landscape and water below, the sight was the most magnificent it has ever been our fortune to behold. Words entirely fail to express the beauty of the scene. As the sun gradually rose higher and the light showed up the giant crater, with all the beauties of form and color, and the immense cones formed in its bottom by the titanic forces of nature in ages long past, the view was an awe-inspiring one. In looking into this vast basin it was almost impossible to realize that it had a diameter of seven to nine miles and a depth of 2500 feet. Truly, there must have been something doing when in past ages this crater was filled with boiling lava. A modern volcano like Kilauca or even Vesuvius would be a pigmy beside it.

After a breakfast at the rest-house, we made the descent, arriving at Idlewild at about 11 a. m. It would be useless to deny that the trip was a somewhat strenuous one, but to those who can ride horseback it can be made without serious hardship, and the sight at the summit is worth enduring any amount of discomfort. The air at the summit is very keen and penetrating, and one should carry plenty of warm wraps. Mr. C. D. Lufkin of the First National Bank, Wailuku (an old friend whom we knew in the States), accompanied us on the trip, and helped to make it more enjoyable. Mr. and Mrs. Aiken also made our stop at Idlewild very pleasant. Mr. Aiken tells me that he is planning to put additional cots and other conveniences in the rest-house, so that those who wish to spend the night on the summit can do so in comparative comfort. I earnestly advise everyone who is in good physical condition to take this trip. It is a sight that may be seen only once in a lifetime, but it will long be remembered by all those who see it.

Honolulu, April 12, 1909.

DANCE AT EWA.

The dance given in the Ewa social hall on Saturday evening excelled anything previously held there. Fifty-four couples were there and the committee are to be congratulated on the great success of their undertaking. The hall was artistically decorated with ferns and flags and the large lawn surrounding the hall was lighted with fairy lanterns and colored lights.

The programs were of a pretty and unique design and it was a noticeable thing that no detail, however small, was overlooked by the committee.

The refreshments were served in the open, tables being scattered around at intervals on the lawn with the fairy lanterns in the background, making a most picturesque display. The music was excellently rendered by the Ernest Kaai Glee Club and the evening without exception was the most enjoyable ever given at Ewa.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE

Honolulu People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. Here's Honolulu proof:

Charley Coney of Cyclomere street, Honolulu, Hawaii, says: "I have been a hack driver for years and the constant exposure to the weather and much jumping off and on the vehicle caused my kidney complaint. My back was very lame and in my efforts for relief I tried a number of remedies, but did not find one that helped me. Reading about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, I was led to get a box at the Hollister Drug Co. They removed the lameness in my back and benefited me greatly. I highly endorse this sterling remedy."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50), or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.
