VIOLATING THE SPIRIT OF LAWS GOVERNING HUMAN CONDUCT

The Organic Act is the constitution of the Territory of Hawaii. It established a government and therefore the laws set forth therein should be strictly observed.

One of the important provisions of the Act is a prohibition of officeholding by government employees. Section 16 of chapter 11, which has reference to disqualification of legislators, reads: "...no member of the legislature shall, during the term for which he is elected, be appointed to or elected to any office of the Territory of Hawaii, nor shall he hold any such office in the service of the United States or the Territory of Hawaii..." The same chapter, which refers to disqualification of government officers and employees, is stated in section 24: "...no officer or employee of any department or office of the Government of the United States or of the Territory of Hawaii shall be eligible to any public office in the Territory of Hawaii, and no person shall be eligible to be a member of the same while holding such office..."

Although there are many other sections in the Organic Act relating to the impossibility of officeholding, the foregoing sections are plain and explicit. The primary purpose of the two sections is to prohibit any person from holding two public offices and to place the responsibility of this duty squarely upon the employee.

The principal reason is incompatibility of holding two public offices which have inconsistent functions and conflicting duties. One cannot discharge with fidelity and propriety the duties of both. At common law, offices are deemed incompatible when their functions were inconsistent. Our Supreme Court said: "The purpose of the law is for the public good and requiring the officer to discharge the incompatible duties would result in an unlawful officeholding..."

We have held that the offices of the supervisor and deputy assessor of taxes, of the officer and deputy registrar of deeds, and the registrar and deputy registrar of deeds are incompatible.

We think that there have been many violations of the Act. The Act is the law of the Territory and everyone of our legislators are still within the inhibition of the Act. They attempt to escape the law by setting up a legal technicality of their office or authority or the government of the Territory of Hawaii. It is difficult to call this escape from the law, sympathy toward them and they cannot exploit them from the law as they turn a deaf ear to this evil. The civil service regulation should provide for such rule.

Laws are made to control the human conduct. It is utterly impossible for a person to be free from the spirit of the laws, and the laws must be observed, otherwise it would be a moral defect for our constitution.

Let us have a golden rule. Let the policeman carry out instead of abrogating it and resign their public offices. And let us gain respect for the laws.

Refrain from officeholding. ADOPT AMERICAN LAW!
