REPRESENTATIONS NOT AGREEABLE TO U. S. AND SOVIET

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3.—Well-informed circles rumored yesterday that Washington and Tokyo have reached an agreement in which Japan has agreed not to interfere with American oil and munitions shipments to Russia via Vladivostok.

These sources failed to disclose what concessions the United States has granted in return for this agreement.

CHURCHILL, FDR CONFERENCE COPIED?

REPRESENTATIONS NOT SATISFACTORY

TOKYO, Sept. 3.—Koh Ishii, deputy spokesman of the information board, said yesterday that Russia and the United States have replied unsatisfactorily to Japanese representations against American gasoline, oil and munitions shipments to Russia via Vladivostok.

He continued and said that Japan regarded the replies as not being final and therefore had made no representations to the two nations.

Ishii declared that Washington's expression of opinion and Moscow's differed slightly but failed to comment.

JAPANESE MEN RELATE INDIA AND CONDITION

INDIA BEING CONVERTED TO ARSENAL FOR DEMOCRACIES

KOBE, Sept. 3.—With American engineers and technicians pouring into India to supervise construction of war industries, India is rapidly being converted into an arsenal for democracies according to the Japanese passengers, who arrived yesterday from Bombay aboard a Japanese liner.

Although machine tools and equipments imported in India were said to be of latest make, the chief source of trouble which confronted the British authorities was reported to be the lack of skilled laborers, which is holding down the efficiency.

"American technicians recently supervised the construction of air-dromes in Bombay and now is engaged in the production of guns and war equipment at other places," they said.

Commenting on Chungking activities in India, the passengers related that in the latter part of June, the Bank of China and the Communication Bank branches opened in Calcutta to carry out arms' purchases but the transactions have been negligible because of poor transportation on the Burma route.

Sea-going Owl Turns Skipper to Taxidermy

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UP)—A sea-going owl made a landlubber out of Capt. Walter R. Thomas, who had sailed the oceans 27 years.

The owl landed in the rigging of his tanker in the Gulf of Mexico back in 1924. Thomas had the owl mounted by a taxidermist at Mobile.

He said the taxidermist's work was so inferior that he began studying the art himself aboard his ship.

Three years ago, he became a landlubber by opening his own taxidermy shop. Since then, he has mounted specimens ranging from humming birds to huge sawfish.

INFRA-RED RAYS TO HEAT HOMES CALLED LIKELY

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Farsighted utility engineers are looking to the day when infra-red rays—instead of coal and wood—will heat American homes.

Charles W. Wildebour, electrical research engineer, hopes discoveries in the immediate future will make such a plan practical.

At present, he said, the chief problem is to reduce the cost of the process.

Wildebour rigged up wires embedded in walls, floor and ceiling. These give off a "spray" of infra-red rays, passing through air and other transparent substances without heating them.

"When they strike opaque bodies, they impart heat," Wildebour explained. "Therefore, a person sitting in a room with doors and windows open, and with a temperature 40 degrees below zero outside, would feel quite warm and comfortable if sprayed with infra-red rays.

"Even a violent wind could not blow these rays away or reduce their warming effect on the body."

The home of tomorrow, Wildebour added, will utilize ultra-violet rays to kill bacteria in the atmosphere, and fluorescent lamps will replace incandescent lamps.

A record breaking crop of more than 34,400,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco was raised in Southern Rhodesia in the last season.

OHIO BOLSTERS PUBLIC HEALTH BY LEGISLATION

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 31 (UP)—Ohio has joined the increasing number of states seeking to reduce syphilis by requiring all applicants for marriage licenses to pass a physical examination.

Gov. John W. Bricker recently affixed his signature to a bill which requires such examinations to be made, beginning Aug. 18.

The anti-syphilis bill was one of several important public health measures which were passed by the 94th Ohio General assembly recently and approved by the governor.

These new laws call for:

1—Establishment of non-profit medical service corporations to offer the services of physicians and surgeons to low and medium income groups on a plan similar to "group hospitalization."

2—A ban on retail sale of fireworks, except cap pistols, beginning Aug. 1, 1941.

3—A new system of recording births and deaths, providing that probate courts may issue birth certificates to those who have lost or never had them. This provision was regarded as vitally important to many persons employed in Ohio industries handling national defense work where proof of nationality is a requisite.

2—The growing number of "rest homes" for old age pensioners to be placed under strict state supervision of aid for the aged. The homes were the object of much criticism after a number of aged persons lost their lives in fires.

State to Have Laboratory Under the anti-syphilis law, applicants for a marriage license must produce certificates from a physician showing that within 30 days before the application was made, standard tests were conducted showing that neither was infected with disease in any stage which was "communicable or likely to become communicable."

A new state laboratory will be set up to handle the tests. The law provides also that if any application is rejected on physical grounds, the applicant may appeal to the state health department which must then conduct an investigation.

The medical service plan law was the result of many hours of work in committees after the Ohio State Medical Association worked three years to develop a suitable (Continued on Page Four)

The park had gained much popularity the past several months and the parkkeeper wants more people to make use of the place. It is the dream of the park staff to be able in the near future to build a pavilion there.

Kolekole Park is located in the gulch previous to reaching the Hononu village.

Rhea Charters and her grandfather, Major Stephen Charters, who live on their ancestral estate near the little town of Marchester, are in financial difficulties. A man named Carradine owes the Major a large sum of money, but can't pay his debt. Instead, he sends his son Jim to Charters Manor to help in any way he can. Rhea is antagonistic toward Jim, then finds herself unwillingly attracted to him. Then, Philip Lanning, rich young man whom she loved four years ago but who went away and married another girl, returns to Marchester to take charge of a new aircraft factory. Rhea learns he has been divorced and wonders what this will mean to her. As the factory needs more land, he offers to buy a piece of the Manor. Rhea's grandfather, who wants to keep the estate intact, turns down the offer, then changes his mind when his financial troubles become desperate. However, he's too late, for Philip has found other land. When Philip takes Rhea out that evening, she plays with the idea of marrying him for his money. Meanwhile, Jim has been making casual love to her, but she doesn't take him seriously.

CHAPTER XIX
RHEA refused to let worry spoil her evening with Philip. Dancing with him, she forced herself to forget that her grandfather was being pushed against a wall financially. The threatened loss of Charters Manor was a remote thing in her subconscious mind. Then, as they danced, he said something that drove her troubles completely from her thoughts. "I made a mistake four years ago, Rhea," he murmured into her ear. "It should have been you." Her heart skipped a beat, then pounded furiously. "I was in love with you then, but didn't realize it, blind fool that I was," he went on. "I do realize it now, and I'm no man to waste time. Maybe you'll think I'm rushing you too much, but I want you to marry me, Rhea." She was so overwhelmed that she couldn't speak. Philip returning after four years and, on his first night out with her, asking her to marry him! "What do you say, darling?" he urged. "I—I don't know what to say, Philip," she faltered. "Give me a little time to get my breath." He held her closer, smiled into her eyes. "All right, but don't take too long..."

IT WAS very late when they reached home, but the library windows were still alight. That meant, thought Rhea, that Jim Carradine was still up. When Philip had escorted her into the hall, he took her in his arms and kissed her. His kiss took her back four years. He had kissed her then—and left her. This time, he was hers if she wanted him. She was sure she still loved him, and yet, she had put him off. It would be so easy to say now, "Yes, I'll marry you, Philip." There was no need to wait. Still, for some reason that she didn't understand, she wanted to wait. Philip released her. "Until tomorrow, darling..." He stepped back, looking at her as though he wanted to take a mental picture of her away with him. Then, he smiled and was gone. She stood for a moment, staring with shining eyes at the door that had closed after him. She was happy. For the first time in her life, she was really happy. As she turned to go upstairs, she stopped short. Jim was standing in the library doorway. He smiled. "Not every girl has two men make love to her on the same evening."

LADY on a HIGH HORSE

By JOSEPH CHADWICK
Now that they were impoverished, that despicable adventurer Michael Carradine pleaded inability to pay. A storm of resentment swept Rhea's heart. What was the real motive of the handsome young emissary whom Carradine had sent to live at Charters Manor—ostensibly to help her family through its crisis? Was it another clever scheme of the ruthless swindler, or an opportunity to regain her rightful inheritance? A story of love that sidestepped the pitfalls of prejudice—

'BIG OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS ...'

H. Otto Vogt had just taken over a small glass factory near Thomaston, Conn., and he had to sink or swim. This was in the midst of the depression, and Mr. Vogt was so poor that all the money he could raise for the first payment was $25. Think of buying a factory with a cash capital of $25. The name of that company is the Eclipse Glass company, and Mr. Vogt is the secretary and treasurer. The company specialized in making watch crystals and clock faces. Mr. Vogt knew his business, and the company turned out a good product, but no orders were hanging on the trees. Orders or perish! He had to have them; and so felt all the other glass companies making clock fronts. There was in Connecticut a clock manufacturer who was the biggest in his line. But he was hard to sell. Mr. Vogt laid plans to win him over, and worked out a cost price which was most attractive. He put it all down on paper, so that the man could study it, and he had his arguments lined up in most convincing style. One, two, three his arguments went. They were unanswerable. But when Mr. Vogt threw himself against the man's door the arguments were answered in a word of two letters. H. Otto Vogt went back to his factory and did some thinking. He decided to talk in the man's own terms. Not words, but eye evidence. He bought one of the man's clocks, took it to the factory, pulled out the flat ordinary-glass face, replaced it with a convex face. Then he made another appointment with the man. When he arrived at the man's office he stripped off the paper and set two clocks on the man's desk. One had a flat face; the other a convex face. He pointed out how the convex face of the clock caught the light, reflected it, and gave the clock a rich, well-turned-out look—indisputable evidence. The man picked them up and looked at them closely. The new face would cost about a cent more than the old flat face. But Mr. Vogt was prepared for this. He reminded the man that a penny additional spent on the inside of the clock would not make any difference to the public, because it could not see the expenditure. But they could see it on the face of the clock. The man took a clock in each hand, studied them again. Times were hard. A penny was a penny. But he placed an order for 20,000 clock faces. The impression the faces made on the public was so good that the man ordered again, and again. In all he bought more than one million clock faces! H. Otto Vogt convinced him by talking in the man's own terms. He had given a "desk demonstration." He had shown him how he could improve his article and increase sales. And when you can do that, any man is interested. Did I say "interested?" He is captivated, enthralled!

GEN. HERBERT J. BREES

Lieut.-Gen. Herbert J. Brees had completed nearly 47 years army service when, on May 15, 1941, he was relieved from command of the 3d Army to await retirement on June 12, 1941. His 64th birthday, the army's statutory retirement age, fell on the latter date.

He was born in Laramie, Wyo., on June 12, 1877, and his service began in May, 1898, when he joined the 2d Cavalry Volunteers and was culminated with command of the 3d Army on Sept. 28, 1940. As commander of the 3d Army, Brees made his headquarters in San Antonio, Tex.

As chief of staff of the 91st Division, Brees sailed for France in June, 1918. Later he was appointed chief-of-staff of the 7th Army Corps of the A.E.F., and was acting commander from Oct. 27, 1918, to Nov. 20, 1918.

WON DSM AWARD

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for perfecting the necessary organization and procuring supplies for the march into Germany of the army of occupation. Brees was with the 91st Division during its training period at Camp Lewis, Wash.

Joining the 2d Volunteer Cavalry in 1898, he left that unit within a month to accept a commission as second lieutenant in the regular army. Shortly afterward he joined the 2d Artillery at Tampa, Fla.

His long army career included command of Indian Scouts attached to the 9th Cavalry at Fort Apache, Ariz., in 1899, and four tours of duty in the Philippines.

LED GENERAL STAFF SCHOOL

During his last assignment in the Philippines, between 1931-34, Brees commanded Fort Stotsenberg. Upon his return to the United States, he commanded the 2d Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., until Jan. 23, 1935. A few weeks later he assumed command of the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and from Oct. 1, 1936, to September, 1940, he was commanding general of the 8th Corps Area with headquarters at San Antonio.

Brees was graduated from the University of Wyoming in 1897, with a Bachelor of Science degree.

BI-LINGUAL LINK TO AMITY URGED

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 3 (UP)—Good "Pan American citizens" must learn to speak English and Spanish, according to U. S. Ambassador Josephus Daniels.

Daniels told 690 students—a record enrollment—of the American Summer School at the University of Mexico that Pan Americanism demanded of an educated person a thorough knowledge of both languages. No longer will an education in one tongue, no matter how complete, suffice, he said.

"The foundations of American and Spanish understanding among students and scholars are being strengthened by the interchange of professors between the institutions of learning in the 21 republics of Pan America," Daniels said.

The ambassador declared military and naval officers of United States and Mexico were exchanging not only ideas but educations. In mid-summer, he said, "15 young soldiers of the Mexican army went to the United States for a six months tour of duty in military schools and participation in army drills and maneuvers. These exchanges are examples of what is occurring in all the Pan American countries."

"Progress is being made, but it should be accelerated," he said, in breaking down language barriers between the United States and Latin America by teaching Spanish in American schools and English in schools south of the border.

MILLIONAIRES' ROW IN LONDON OPENS TO WORKING FAMILIES AFTER BLITZ

LONDON, Sept. 3 (UP)—Three-year-old Peter Netty pedaled his tricycle along the carved oak passages of Gloucester House, Park Lane flats rented at $400 a week, raced gaily through a drawing room containing furniture worth $200,000 and collided with an earl.

The earl didn't mind. Or at least he didn't say so. He gave Peter some chocolate, asked him if he was happy, how he liked Park Lane.

That day, Millionaires' Row had been handed over to the victims of London's fiercest blitz, which had raged all night before.

When morning came, social workers took charge of families whose homes had been smashed, whisked them away in cars from working-class districts and installed them complete in the millionaire flats in Park Lane.

Westminster city council had ordered the whole of Gloucester House to be commandeered. Peter and his pals moved in.

They had a grand time. They played on parquet floors and no one said anything when they splashed paint on cream-washed walls.

Three hundred persons were accommodated in the flats at Gloucester House. All of them had lost their homes.

Officials at first were anxious. They thought the people would like Park Lane so much they wouldn't want to leave again when new houses were found for them. But they need not have worried.

On the very day after moving in, Mrs. Edith Edwards sent her husband to work promptly at dawn, then set out herself to try to find another little house where she could build a home.

On the second day, only 30 of the 309 in the mansion answered the bell for lunch. All the others were out searching London for new homes.

"Yes, we like Park Lane," one of the bombed-out mothers told Lady Drage, the organizer at Gloucester House. "But we like our own little homes better."

TREE DEDICATED TO ATHLETE

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Scarlet Key, Ohio State University athletic manager's association, has dedicated a Buckeye tree to Jimmy Hull, basketball great. Hull was the first cage star so honored in All-America row in a plot on the university campus.

Then complete understanding will follow quickly.

Daniels spoke at the opening session of the school. Dr. Pablo Martinez del Rio, school director, and Ezequiel Padilla, Mexico's foreign minister, also gave short addresses of welcome.

The registrar's office attributed the record enrollment for the six weeks session partially to the "Pan American consciousness" among college students in the United States.

PALACE THEATRE

"Arise My Love," a dramatic romance with modern-day Europe as a background, co-starring Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland, is showing today at the Palace theatre. Also showing is "Third Dimensional Murder," a metrocopic; and "The Green Hornet Strikes Again," featuring Warren Hull with Keye Luke.

Gay, stimulating, daring, provocative as a bugle rag-time song is this drama of an audacious lady reporter and her light-hearted aviator lover woven into the fitful background of Europe at war. Miss Colbert is the newspaper woman and Milland the aviator.

Outstanding are the portrayal of a harassed press editor by Walter Abel, and the brief but unforgettable role played by Esther Dale. Others in the film include Dennis O'Keefe, Dick Purcell and George Zucco.

Coming tomorrow is "White Banners," Lloyd C. Douglas' dynamic human drama, starring Claude Rains, Fay Bainter, Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville.

AT THE ROYAL

"Nobody's Children," stirring human drama, starring Edith Fellows with Billy Lee and Georgia Caine; and "Thundering Frontier," action-packed western, starring Charles Starrett, show for the last times at the Royal theatre today.

Beginning a two-day engagement tomorrow are "Murder Among Friends," co-starring Marjorie Weaver and John Hubbard; and "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," starring Johnny Mack Brown. Also showing Thursday only is "Junior G-Men," featuring the Dead End Kids.

The victorious Alexander House Settlement swimming team which clean-swept the National AAU championships as well as the Pacific Coast championships arrived home on the Matsonia this morning. Among the personage on dock to meet the natators were Mayor Lester Petrie, Duke Kahanamoku, Art Powlison, Jack Botelho, Bobby Rath, Speed Broderick, Fred Barnett and Jimmy Moody.

Returning members of the 1941 National AAU Men Outdoor championship team are Coach Soichi Sakamoto, Jose Balmores, Bill Smith, Jr., Takashi Hirose, Bunmei Nakama, Charley Oda and Paul Herron.

These swimmers, along with Kiyoshi Nakama, 800 and 1500 meter freestyle champ, who left his Maui teammates at Maplewood to go to Ohio State university, copped all the AAU swimming honors with the exception of the 100 meter backstroke event and the 300 meter medley relay title, both of which went to the Chicago Towers club, thanks to Adolph Kiefer, world's champion backstroke. Kiefer copped the dorsal title, while his great backstroke lap was largely responsible for their victory in the medley relay.

In the Pacific Coast championship, only Paul Wolfe's, former United States Olympic star, victory in the 50 meter freestyle event kept the Mauiites from walking off with every title in the meet.

Jose Balmores and Bill Smith were double winners in the Nationals, as Balmores copped the 300 meter individual medley and 200 meter breaststroke events, while Smith triumphed in the 200 and 400 meter freestyle events. Takashi Hirose copped the 100 meter title from Otto Jaretz of Chicago.

Bill Smith, Jr. beside walking off with two individual titles, received the award for being the outstanding natator in the meet.

Led by the Mayor's car, a parade of about 10 cars proceeded from Pier 11 to the Palace grounds via Fort St. to Beretania, Bishop down to King and to the Palace with the swimmers.

Acting Governor Hite met the procession at the Palace steps where a short program of speeches was given.

A luncheon honoring the natators, was held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at noon today with Mayor Petrie, Duke Kahanamoku, Art Powlison and Bobby Rath as some of the invited guests.

Also returning today were the three members of the women's team, Chieko Miyamoto, Fujiko Katsutani and Toyoko Takeyama, which competed in the Women's championship meet at High Point, North Carolina.

All of the Maui swimmers are slated to leave Honolulu tonight for the Valley Isle.

The district series got under way with one game on Sunday, August 24, at Pahala, in which the hometowners showed their superiority setting back Naalehu visitors by an 8 to 5 score in a close game.

The second game of the series was played on Saturday, August 30, with Kilauea Military Camp (KMC) joining Pahala in the driver's seat with a close 24 to 22 win over Volcano CCC in another torrid mix which saw the two teams banging out hits in profusion and prolonging the outcome of the contest until the very final inning to cause an exciting climax.

Doubleheader games in the morning and again in the afternoon completed the series last Sunday at Naalehu.

Pahala won both ends of their twinbill, swamping KMC 22 to 1 in the morning game to remove the only serious challenger, and barely edging out Volcano CCC 8 to 1 in the afternoon.

Meanwhile, Naalehu clinched the runner-up post with double victories, over CCC 8 to 0 in the morning and KMC 13 to 0 in the afternoon.

After completion of the series, Pahala and Naalehu engaged in a practice game which the former again copped, though by a margin of only one run, 3 to 2, in an extra-inning affair.

CAMP SOSEPH T. ROBINSON, Ark. (UP) — The quick-thinkers are not always assigned to sentry duty in the 35th division. One of the sentries halted the officer of the day at the customary 10 paces. When nothing was said, the officer barked, "What's up? Have you forgotten what to say?" "Yes, I've forgotten," the sentry warned, "and you'd better not come a foot closer until I remember it, either."

By BILLY WHITTINGTON

NAALEHU, Sept. 3 — Winning three out of the three games played, Pahala on Sunday copped the Kau district round-robin softball championship held to determine teams to represent the district in the BIAU championships slated to be held in Hilo Saturday and Sunday, September 6 and 7.

According to the drawings, T. K. Pang Ching's Amateurs (HRC senior champions) will take on the winner of Thursday's game between Takeo Goya's Wreckers and Alex Soares' Loopers in the opening match Saturday afternoon at 1 p. m.

This will be the first of a four-game schedule booked for Hoolulu Park Saturday and will be followed by the contest between Willard Porter's Hilo Badminton Club (defending BIAU champions) and Kau's number one representative.

All teams planning to play football this year are urged to be represented at the meeting as besides drawings for the opening games, important matters will be taken up and decided upon.

OHIO BOLSTERS PUBLIC HEALTH BY LEGISLATION

The new vital statistics law sets up rigid supervision of records of births and deaths.

No one will be permitted to bury a body until a burial permit has been issued by a vital statistics registrar. A foundling or "door step" baby will receive as his birthplace, the spot where he was found and his age will be fixed on a birth certificate by approximation.

Defense workers and others who do not have birth certificates can appear in county probate courts with witnesses, affidavits and other documentary evidence relating to their births. The probate judge may issue a birth certificate if satisfied by the evidence presented.

After this year fireworks can be sold in Ohio only for public and private exhibitions for which permits have been issued by officials.

ENOCH BROWN STARS IN LOP-SIDED TUSSLE

HELCO PITCHER GIVES NO HIT NO RUN IN FOUR INNINGS

Sonny Henderson's HELCo's, 1941 champions of the HRC commercial softball league, made an impressive showing yesterday to qualify as the fourth of six teams to represent Hilo in the island finals of the BIAU softball tournament, which is slated for this coming weekend, September 6 and 7 at Hoolulu Park.

Going on an 11-hit rampage, HELCo's handed manager William

Hilo zone qualifiers: Hilo Badminton Club (defending champions), Amateurs (HRC senior champs), HRC, HELCo (HRC commercial champs).

Today's game
Shinmachi YMA vs. Hilo Center

Tomorrow
Wreckers vs. Loopers (replay)

Whitman's Hilo Sugar Co. AA combine a 14-1 beating on the near no-hit-no-run pitching performances of their pitchers Enoch Brown and Frank Carvalho. In fact Brown did pitch flossy ball and gave the opposition nary a hit in his four innings of mound duty, putting the latter back in onetwo-three order each time.

Carvalho Relieves Brown
Carvalho relieved Brown in the fifth and gave the losers their one hit and run when Tachibana singled and later came home on an error. The losers were held hitless and scoreless the remainder of the game though.

HELCo's copped the game in the second inning when five hits and erratic playing by Hilo Sugar gave them an eight-run rally for a commanding lead which they stretched to 14 by the close of the game. Second baseman Shoji Fujishima collected two singles in that fateful second inning for a two out of three average to lead all batters.

Brown Big Star
Besides pitching shut-out ball for four innings, pitcher Enoch Brown hit a triple and a homer in four tries for the winners.

It must be mentioned here that Hilo Sugar played minus the services of their regular pitcher, Akio Uemura, which may have affected their play afield. It is doubtful though whether any team could have stopped the electric light gang yesterday as they played like real champions, both defensively and offensively.
