HUMBERT FAMILY ON TRIAL IN PARIS, STORY OF THEIR ROMANTIC SWINDLE

The trial of the Humbert family which opened in Paris on Wednesday, bids fair to vie with the famous Panama scandal and the Dreyfus trial in its far-reaching effect on the French government. Mme. Frederic Humbert, the "Queen of Swindlers," her husband and son Jean Humbert appear at the right. The sister-in-law of Mrs. Humbert, and her husband, M. d'Aurignac, Mrs. Humbert's brother, are depicted on the left. The Humbert scheme was a monumental bunco game by which the family netted over $5,000,000.

The methods employed to get twelve or thirteen million dollars out of the money lenders of Europe, the most careful financiers in the world, was simplicity itself. The whole scheme was made possible by the very precautions of the French law. Briefly, the scheme was this: Mme. Humbert filed a will naming herself as sole heir of the estate of R. H. Crawford, valued at one hundred million francs. Then the Crawford brothers produced another will dividing the mythical estate among themselves, nephews of the supposed dead plutocrat, Mme. Humbert and her sister, Marie d'Aurignac.

This was the ground on which a contest in the courts was based, and finally in accordance with custom an order was issued directing that the title deeds and securities for the $20,000,000 which were represented to be in the possession of Mme. Humbert, should be sealed up. The supposed documents were accordingly produced and sealed with the official seal of the Court and deposited in a monster safe.

On the strength of the supposed great American fortune in this safe the woman borrowed all the money she wanted. From time to time it became necessary to vary the conditions in order to keep the creditors from getting impatient for the settlement of the law suit and the breaking of the seal that held the securities.

In the first place, it was necessary, in order that the stupendous scheme might be a success, that the people who figured as heirs to $20,000,000 should have some money and should not be quite unknown. It is estimated that the initial investment could not have been less than a million francs, and all Paris is wondering where it came from.

The ground plan being laid, including the circulation of a romantic story involving Mme. Humbert's devoted attentions to and nursing of the sick American millionaire before his death in order to account for his care for her. Mme. Humbert produced the will making her sole heir to Robert Henry Crawford's enormous wealth.

This was almost immediately followed by the production of this will by the Crawford brothers; it bore the same date as the will presented by Mme. Humbert.

"This is my testament. I wish that after my death all my possessions be divided into three equal shares, one to go to Marie d'Aurignac, one to my nephew, Henry Crawford, one to my nephew, Robert Crawford, with the provision that these persons invest in France a capital sufficient to secure to Theresa d'Aurignac an annuity of 50,000 francs per month.

(Signed) "R. H. CRAWFORD."
Nice, September 6, 1877.

Paris got ready for a fine sensational suit, a prospect which was blighted by the filing of this instrument of trust:

"The undersigned, Monsieur and Madame Humbert and Messieurs, Henry Crawford and Robert Crawford, have agreed as follows: That all title deeds and securities constituting the assets of Mr. Crawford's estate are sequestered and placed in the charge of M. and Madame Humbert, and under their responsibility, until at Mile. d'Aurignac's attaining her majority and the heirs mentioned in both wills shall be able to come to an amicable agreement for an equitable transaction, or until default of such a transaction, the courts shall have pronounced finally as to the rights of each.

"Until one of these settlements shall have been effected, M. and Madame Humbert undertake to preserve carefully the securities confided to their charge. On no pretext whatever shall they sell these securities, mortgage them or exchange them. M. and Madame Humbert on their word of honor undertake not to alter the above convention without the consent of MM. Crawford. Should the fall in the execution of a single prescription of the agreement they will forfeit all claim to any part of the estate in which case M.M. Crawford would only be bound to pay the above mentioned annuity of 50,000 francs per month to M. and Madame Humbert, with a reversion at the death of either of the latter parties to the survivor. — (Signed) — Robert Crawford, Henry Crawford, Frederic Humbert, Theresa Humbert.

On the strength of the documents that were sealed up by order of the Court in accordance with the terms of this paper, the first few million francs were borrowed without the least difficulty. As soon as the lenders began to ask why the parties did not come to a compromise, now that they were on such excellent terms of concord, it was suggested by one of the Crawford brothers that he would become the husband of Marie d'Aurignac as soon as she became of age, the fortune to be left in the meantime with Mme. Humbert for investment, and after she took out her annual allowance of 200,000 francs, the whole accumulation to become a dowry of Marie, who was still a girl in school when this agreement was made.

So, for twenty years by one expedient or another, the parties to the gigantic fraud continued to draw money from the bankers of Paris and London and to live at the rate of at least a million a year.

Whenever a creditor became clamorous an offer was immediately made to buy up his claim, with the invariable result that the creditor decided that an investment that others were so ambitious to take of his hands must be worth as much to him as to the eager people who wanted to buy it, and as interest was paid with fair regularity, and at a large rate, he held on. There was one banker referred to in the Court proceedings as M. X. of Lyons, who yielded up a million dollars alone, and then committed suicide.

Toward the last a few people began to have suspicions, but even the creditors deprecated any such suspicions, as, because of the enormous amounts of the loans, their own credit would be jeopardized by a belief that their investment was insecure. But suits began to accumulate against Mme. Humbert. M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the French Minister, ascertained that no such millionaire as Robert Henry Crawford had ever lived at 1292 Broadway, the address given as that of his New York home, and it was evident the crash was not far off.

When at last Mme. Humbert and her sister Marie had disappeared, and the great safe and the Court seals were formally and ceremoniously opened, all Paris was in front of the house. The creditors were all inside. The "treasure" was disclosed and found to consist of a lot of newspapers, a paste brooch worth perhaps $2, an old and empty jewel case and some shares in an extinct gold mining company.

Among the victims are the names of some of the most conservative capitalists in France: Girard & Co., bankers, Elbeuf, 6,200,000 francs; Lefevre, retired notary at Valenciennes, 4,200,000 francs; Credit Foncier, 1,950,000 francs; Julien Alphen, broker, Paris, 1,267,500 francs; Societe Generale, 600,000 francs; Credit Industriel, 600,000 francs; Banque Franco-Belge, 270,000 francs; B. Haas Jr., 104 Boulevard de Sebastopol, 900,000 francs; Marquis de Cazeaux, Paris, 1,200,000 francs; Gabriel Levy & Co., commission agents, Rue de Roeroy, 900,000 francs; Paul Bernard, retired banker, Paris, 1,600,000 francs; Dumoret, retired jeweler, Rue de la Paix, 1,800,000 francs; Seminario Brothers & Co., bankers, Rue Scribe, 600,000 francs; Oppenheimer, dealer in antiquities, Rue d'Aboukir, 1,700,000 francs; Cattaul, banker, Rue Lafayette, 1,050,000 francs; Cros-Mayreville, President of the the Narbonne Court of First Instance, 250,000 francs; Brugere, land owner, Narbonne, 250,000 francs.

In addition to these there are a dozen others whose losses bring the total up to more than $12,000,000.

FLYING OF ENSIGNS.

The fact that Sewall ships generally fly the ensign every day during their stay in port has been commented upon frequently. The big ship Kenilworth, now here, has always done this. Her former commander, Captain Baker, was a stickler on the subject, and Captain Taylor, at present in command, follows the same custom. Other vessels in port seldom show their colors save on Sundays and holidays, excepting the schooner Robert Lewers, Captain Penhallow, who flies the ensign from a staff at the stern.

W. E. Fisher was given permission by Judge Robinson to file an affidavit report as receiver of the Star Block.

Important Reasons WHY HERRING-HALL-MARVIN SAFE CO.'S SAFES AND LOCKS ARE THE BEST

The concrete filling makes these safes absolutely Fire-Proof and positively Damp-Proof. The solid angle corners add greatly to their security in time of fire, and form the only solid corners made. The patent BOLT-WORK is superior to any in use, and does not require constant oiling, cleaning and repairs that is acknowledged in other makes of safes. That although 600,000 of these safes are now in use and many thousands have been tested by some of the most disastrous conflagrations in the United States, there is not a single instance on record wherein one of them ever failed to preserve its contents perfectly. They make safes for County Treasurers, County Recorders, County Clerks, Jewelers, Hotels, Residences, Churches and Corporations. We have a Large Assortment of Safes on hand and will be pleased to show same.

The way to keep politics out of educational affairs is to see to it that Public Instruction officials tend strictly to the business for which they are paid by the taxpayers. Circulating petitions to retain an old system is not a part of this business. Taxpayers are fully capable of handling their own affairs in this line.

BONDS AND SALARIES.

T. McCants Stewart's reading of the County Bill has brought out some very good suggestions worthy of more than passing attention. His recommendation that the Supervisors and members of county boards should serve without pay is particularly timely in view of the varying contentions on the one hand that local self government is being urged on account of increased offices and the counter claim that officials to do their best must be paid.

A man not willing to give a portion of his time to civic matters or public office without a good sized salary lacks one of the first requirements of what may be termed civic duty. This is particularly true of county officials who by the division of labor contemplated in this bill will not be obliged to give up such a large measure of their time as is now demanded from members of Territorial Boards. Inability to obtain good men unless they are paid is often talked and vigorously expounded, particularly in this Territory. If this assertion be true—and the Bulletin does not believe that it is—it is nothing short of a serious reflection on the character of our best citizenship. The selfish motive should not forever remain uppermost in the public mind and must not if a Territory or county is to secure competent government.

Furthermore, the proposal of requiring bonds for these officers does not carry the protection which seems to be anticipated. Dishonest officials cannot be made honest by salaries or bonds. If they are determined to go astray these safeguards will not hold them in check. What the Territory and the county wants and must have is men of character in positions of trust.

QUESTIONS FOR SMALL FARMERS

By A. SUNTER.

Will the "Advertiser" kindly answer the following questions for the benefit of a prospective settler? 1. Can an American farmer do as well in Hawaii as in California? 2. If he decided to come here, is it not true that the cost of coming, together with the great expense of finding and getting located on a suitable piece of land (that is, if there is any suitable land to be had) would not be sufficient to buy a small farm at home, where a good living could be made for himself and family? 3. If he succeeds in finding a suitable piece of land, will he be satisfied with the conditions as to residence, and cultivation imposed by the Government, covering a period of several years, before the land can be patented? 4. Will he require much capital to enable him to tide over the period of 2 or 3 years necessary to grow a crop of coffee, sisal, vanilla, and kindred products, or will the vegetables that he will grow support him and family, and repay him for the expense incurred?

5. Can the average American farmer successfully sell vegetables, or will he be in competition with Asiatics, or Portuguese? And will he not lose caste if he engages in farming? 6. If he is an exceptional man, and successfully passes through the probationary period, will he continue to do all the farm work himself, or will he, like the sugar planters, employ Asiatic labor to help him out? 7. Is it not true that his children will have to mix with inferior races? Will not the children intermarry with, and his descendants have the blood of Asia in their veins? 8. Did the old residents of 30 or more years ago, continue their farming operations? Did they not all leave it for the more profitable sugar farming? 9. Wahiawa Colony is a success. Can it be duplicated? Would it have been a success, except for the water they developed, and sold to the Wai-aiua Plantation?

and if the citizens do their duty, take the constant interest they should in public affairs, such men will be obtained. A highly-paid, bonded county supervisor is in much the same position as a man out of jail on parole. He is invited to take office on the basis that all men are thieves, but it is hoped he may prove an exception.

ROCKS AHEAD FOR THE FRENCH MINISTRY.

[New York Sun.]

The arrival in Paris of the persons implicated in the Humbert frauds may prove to be anything but a desirable New Year's gift for the French Ministry. The belief is current that at least one of M. Combes's principal supporters will be discredited by the judicial investigation which is now imminent. It will be remembered that the Panama affair caused the downfall of a Cabinet, and drove several conspicuous politicians out of public life. The possible outcome of the new scandal is not, however, the only thing which the present Premier and his colleagues have to dread. A combination of factions and interests is arrayed against them, and a formidable leader of the Opposition has been found in M. Doumer, formerly Minister of Finance, subsequently Governor-General of Indo-China, and now chairman of the Budget Committee. It is M. Doumer whom M. Jaures lately described as a possible Caesar, a man far better qualified than Boulianger to direct an attack on the Republican regime.

LIABILITY OF SALOON-KEEPERS.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

A suit has been brought in Wharton, Wash., through the guardian of a minor whose father was killed by a railroad train while he was intoxicated, against the saloon-keepers who sold him the liquor which made him drunk. Washington is one of the States which provides that the relatives of any person killed while in a state of intoxication shall have cause for action against the parties who sold the liquor which produced intoxication, and the owners of the property where the liquor was sold may be made parties defendant in a civil suit.

In the Wharton case an effort was made to recover damages from the railroad company whose train killed the decedent; but the complainants were nonsuited, as it was proved that the man, while in his cups, had contributed to his death by endeavoring to walk home on the railroad track on which he was run down by a train. Contributory negligence in such cases is always a valid and successful defense.

It would be a good thing if the liability of saloon-keepers could be extended so as to make them responsible for all the mischief that ensues through the sale of intoxicants to men and women who are unable to control their desire for liquor and which the average dispenser of liquor makes no effort to control or suppress. The line of demarcation between indulgence in any form of an intoxicant for mere refreshment and that for inducing intoxication is well defined, and every man in the business of selling intoxicating liquors knows where to draw it. If he fails to do so, he becomes responsible for the intoxication of the drinker and he ought to be held responsible for the consequences of his intoxication, whatever they may be. Several States have adopted laws which attach liability to the saloon-keeper, and it is proper that these laws should be enforced whenever their provisions are violated.

MILLINERY DRESSMAKING DEPARTMENT. AT MONTANO'S. NEW LOT OF SHIRTWAIST HATS JUST RECEIVED. BARON SPECK VON STERNBURG

Emperor William has chosen a chum of President Roosevelt to represent Germany at Washington. His selection of Baron Herman Speck von Sternburg to be minister at Washington is complimentary both to the President and to the diplomat. The friendship between President Roosevelt and Baron Speck von Sternburg dates back to the time when the President was Civil Service Commissioner and later Assistant Secretary of the Navy. When the new German minister arrives in Washington there will be a happy reunion of a quartet of young men who a few years ago were bound together by ties of friendship, mutual tastes in outdoor life, and a sturdy, aggressive manliness. These four gentlemen are President Roosevelt, Gen. Leonard Wood, Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador, and Baron Speck von Sternburg. They are of about the same age, and when thrown together in the semi-official social life of Washington a few years ago they engaged in the same pastimes and were celebrated for the spirit in which they vied with each other in outdoor exercise. They walked and rode together in the suburbs and country surrounding Washington and were constantly engaged in friendly contests of endurance on horseback and afoot. In turns the young men would lay out trips along the palisades of the Potomac, through the most rugged portions of Rock Creek Park, across the bridge into Virginia, over the branch toward Maryland, or in any other direction where hard walking or cross-country riding would test their physical endurance. While the vigorous Wood and Roosevelt were pre-eminently the leaders in this sort of sport, Baron von Sternburg and Sir Michael Herbert were not easily tired out, and would come in fresh and glowing at the end of their run or ride. --Washington Correspondence Philadelphia Press.

LORD LONSDALE A GREAT WHIP. Lord Lonsdale may certainly lay claim to being the most many-sided member of his great order. There are innumerable Peers who give up much of their time to sport, but few who are so successful. Lord Lonsdale's carriages, or rather, one should use in this connection the fine old word "equipages," are justly famed. Even when in town, the Earl drives vehicles remarkable not only for their general smartness, but for their uncommon build and coloring, he and Lady Lonsdale having a peculiar affection for that enlivening tint, pale, bright yellow, while the Lonsdale horses are almost invariably chestnuts. When at Lother, his Lordship remains faithful to the excellent old custom of postillion-driving. Keen whips still remember the extraordinary interest excited by the driving-match which took place in the early spring of 1891 between Lord Lonsdale and Lord Shrewsbury. On that occasion, Lord Lonsdale performed the truly remarkable feat of driving a single horse, a pair, a four-in-hand, and a pair, riding postillion, five miles each, over a bad stretch of road, in fifty-six minutes fifty-five and a quarter seconds, including changes of vehicles. One of the largest collections of charms in Europe is owned by Queen Alexandra. It consists mainly of tiny elephants in malachite, jade, porphyry, sapphire and turquoise, and humming birds and swallows, bees and beetles, which are real works of art. MORE MANOA ROBBERIES

Report was made at the police station this forenoon that more robberies had been committed in the Manoa district in close proximity to the home of Miss Snow, in one of the Castle cottages and Officer McDuffie was sent up to make investigations. The theory of this officer that some boy had done the work at the Snow cottage on account of the finding of the top in the yard, would seem to have been exploded in the light of later events. There were no particulars received at the police station with reference to the exact location of the four new robberies, with the exception of the fact that they were near the scene of the first incident of the kind. The first of this new series of robberies took place yesterday afternoon shortly after the departure of McDuffie for town upon the completion of his examination into the Snow cottage affair. Evidently the thief or thieves had been watching the officer from some secluded place and upon his departure went about their work again. From the recent good work done by the police department, it would seem as if the thieves haven't very many hours to breathe the air of freedom. A determined effort is being made to round up the criminals of the city in order that people may be assured when they leave their houses that nothing unforeseen will happen.

WILL MOUNT GUARD.

Every member of Company "A," N. G. H., must be present at a special drill to take place at the drill shed this evening at 7 o'clock. In preparation for the work on prize drill day, Co. "A" has been selected as the organization to attend to guard mounting and Captain Klemme is anxious that his men shall get all the practice possible before the event which takes place a week from tomorrow. Absolutely no excuses will be taken for failure to be present at the drill tonight. Two special drills have already taken place during the week. One was on Monday night and the other on Wednesday night last. Next week the drills will take place every night.

LOVE LETTERS READ IN THE POLICE COURT The case of assault and battery against Frank De Mello, tried in the Police Court this morning, caused a large crowd of people to remain until the case was finished. The story leading up to the assault was fully told and letters burning with love were introduced to make good the action of Mrs. De Mello who was beaten by her spouse after she had deceived the object of her husband's affection to the De Mello domicile. For some time, matters in the De Mello household have not been of the pleasantest character and it was all on account of the fact that De Mello was suspected by his better half of paying attention to another woman. Having an idea who the rival was, she addressed a letter to her, signing De Mello's name and inviting her to the De Mello house. The letter did its work and the unsuspecting woman called at the house and was received by the irate wife, who for the occasion had dressed in a suit of clothes belonging to her husband. As soon as she had her rival within doors, she administered a severe beating to her and was only stopped in her attempt to mar her rival's beauty by the assistance of his sweetheart and beat his wife soundly for her actions. As this beating took place in the presence of the other woman who praised De Mello while he was thrashing his wife, it was too much for the wife, who felt that insult had been heaped upon injury. She straightway took herself to the police station and swore to the charge upon which her husband was tried. After hearing all the evidence in the case Judge Wilcox fined De Mello and sent him to jail for ten days. SHORT STORY FOR EVENING HOURS

THE PROVIDENTIAL CLIENT

Dr. Tolbert was a young physician who was possessed of little else besides his sheepskin and a determination to succeed in his chosen profession. Shortly after graduating he and a young legal friend, one Martin, took an office together in Chicago. They arranged to hold separate hours, each paying an equal share of the rent. A small glass and frame partition divided the little room in two tiny apartments. The lettering on the glass portion of the outer door read, "John L. Martin, law office," and a small, neatly designed metal plate on the panel read, "Dr. G. H. Tolbert." The morning hours were set apart for the exclusive use for the attorney and his clients—should there be any—and the afternoon was to be dedicated to the relief of the sick. A few friends called and several letters and circulars were received during the first month. Financing the second month, however, was uphill work. The days seemed long, but the month was short and the agent of the building, although polite, was firmness itself. Patients were scarce and poor at that and briefs were few, litigation scant, at least with the young lawyer. Time passed on, the doctor labored manfully among his outdoor patients and succeeded in keeping the rent paid, although it was not always strictly in advance. Times grew harder and harder, Martin was all but discouraged and the agent had called twice with the persistent bill. The doctor, however, bore up bravely under the trying circumstances. At last one afternoon, as Tolbert was sitting alone reading a text book on therapeutics, for lack of other occupation, he was suddenly aroused by the opening of the outer office door. A moment later a plain, modest-looking woman stepped in from the hallway. Her features were a somewhat anxious look and under her right eye there was a dark contusion, while her upper lip and forehead bore several abrasions. "I have been arrested for an assault," said his caller. "Last Monday morning my clean clothes were hanging in the yard and the woman next door brought out a dirty old carpet and began to beat it. I called to her to stop and she jerked at me. Then I climbed over the fence and grabbed her. I pulled the carpet off the line and then, holding it down with my feet, I tried to get the stick away from her. But she hit me in the face with it. Then I dropped the carpet and went after her and I can tell you that I gave her a good drubbing. Then she had me arrested. My case comes up tomorrow morning in the justice court."

fectly justifiable and that her case would be attended to at once. The retaining fee would be $10, with $15 additional after the trial. The money was paid at once and the client departed.

Tolbert hurried away to find his legal colleague and inform him of their unexpected good fortune. Arriving at Martin's rooms, related all with breathless haste.

"Thoughtfully the advocate listened and then said: "She has no defense at all. She will be fined and it will serve her right."

"But," explained the medical side of the firm, "she is our client, and I have promised to defend her. She has paid a retaining fee and—and we need the money."

"Now, see here, Tolbert," said Martin, "a good doctor is usually a poor lawyer. I tell you there is no defense for this woman. It is a plain case of assault with a fine and costs coming against the defendant. I don't care to have anything to do with it and if you insist on such nonsense you can go and defend her yourself. Any one can practice before a police magistrate."

Tolbert was stunned for a moment. How could Martin refuse this source of income, small as it was, with the rent overdue?

Suddenly an idea struck him. "She doesn't know that I am a doctor," he thought; "the plaintiff doesn't know, the justice doesn't know and probably doesn't care. Why can't I be a lawyer for just once?"

Nine o'clock sharp the next morning found him in the justice court ready to do or die in the attempt to establish his client's innocence and save the reputation of the firm.

The case was called. The kindly old justice, who knew more about leather than law, was surprised to find both sides ready, with no continuance asked for. The prosecuting attorney called the witnesses for the state, had them sworn and then told the complaining witness to take the stand. The victim of the alleged assault glared at the justice and then sat down in the chair, with her hands folded over a huge umbrella, which she rolled to and fro on her lap. She was large, dark and heavy, with thick lips and a prominent jaw. She was an unprepossessing woman from almost any point of view, but her right eye was especially disconcerting. When fixed upon any one in a steady glare it was something awful. She pointed it at the justice and never removed it from his face once during the course of the trial. It made him nervous; he could not avoid it. While giving her testimony in a loud, deep tone she kept that evil eye fixed on the justice till his soul was filled with dread.

Tolbert took his cue in a moment and after a brief cross-examination he dismissed her from the stand, much to the relief of the justice.

When Tolbert called the defendant with great care he went over the circumstances of the case, bringing out that the complaining witness not only had threatened to annihilate the defendant but had struck her over the head and face with a large stick with great force and violence and that to save her life she, the defendant, had done only what was necessary under the circumstances.

The prosecuting attorney in his speech said it was a perfectly clear case of assault and that the defendant should be fined according to law. Tolbert arose, however, and, addressing the justice with all the dignity he could assume, explained that there was a difference between law and justice and that a person guilty according to the strict letter of the former was sometimes perfectly innocent from the latter point of view. "I will assure my legal friend on the other side of the case," he said, "that while I have no thought of censure for him, because as prosecuting attorney he is simply doing his duty in trying to secure a conviction, yet the law rises above and beyond any fixed custom and all tender mercy for the welfare of all the people tempers its findings with justice. Your honor, who is experienced in the short-comings of human nature, knows well when and how to interpret the law as laid down in the statutes. If a person under an evil influence be led to commit a crime can be held accountable for it? No, is not intent the gist of the crime? Ah, your honor well knows that if my client was lured on irresistibly to strike another person she should not be held responsible. Why, that other woman's frightful glare might make even your honor forget himself. I would not have blamed the defendant if she had used a clothes pole or a baseball bat under the circumstances."

"No, nor an axe!" exclaimed the justice. "The defendant is discharged."

Two hours later Tolbert explained to Martin as he paid the rent that his success as a lawyer had been entirely due to the prosecuting witness's glass eye.—Chicago News.

A BATTLE CRY.

The night was calm and still. Overhead the twinkling lights shone like diamonds upon the sleeping army of men rolled in their blankets and resting on their arms. The call of a sentinel now and then in low voice alone disturbed the deathlike stillness. The brave men on the eye of facing the Great Leveler saw in their dreams the faces of loved ones at home and the flag as it waved its legend on dreamland's airs. The alarm is given. Each is in his place. The general stands before the silent army and views with pride his men. Erect, a soldier, a hero, he thus counsels them:—"Remember, men, that the battle cry is 'THE DOUGLAS PATENT CLOSE.' It is guaranteed against leakage and the annoyance of running water."

And as the light broke, the victorious army of the DOUGLAS waved its banner over the vanquished. Bath, The Plumber, will tell you why the DOUGLAS excels.

One of the mysteries of Anglo-Indian history is the disappearance of Nana Sahib, the instigator of the fearful massacre at Cawnpore in the time of the Mutiny. He was said to have been killed in Nepal, but it was never actually proved, and quite recently it was said that he was still alive, a very old man leading the life of a hermit on the frontier of Tibet.

AGAINST LICENSE TAX

ACTION BY MERCHANTS AT SPECIAL MEETING

COMMITTEE WILL APPEAR BEFORE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS. RESOLUTION—TO RETAIN AN ATTORNEY.

A special meeting of the Merchants' Association was held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of discussing taxation and when the argument had been completed, it was decided to ask the Legislature that there be no license tax whatever placed on the merchants. There was a large attendance at the meeting. George W. Smith presiding. He stated that the meeting had been called in response to the invitation of the caucus of Republican members of the Legislature which wanted the views of the association on the license provisions in the proposed County Bill. He stated that the bill was too burdensome and too great a tax, reading as an example, Section 250, relating to license taxes.

After some preliminary discussion W. W. Macfarlane said it was his opinion that drummers should be licensed as well as merchants, but since it had been decided that license on drummers could not be collected, the merchants who had stocks of goods here and who paid both property and income taxes would be foolish if they submitted to a license tax. He was in favor of recommending to the Legislature the entire abolition of the merchant license. The old law should be stricken from the code and no license law at all passed, except as to special lines of business. He said further that he believed drummers could be caught under the income tax law.

M. Phillips said if the license law were passed at all every business man should pay it. He was of the opinion that there should be a flat license. The commission man that the drummers more than the drummer. This view was shared by Mr. Lange.

On motion of Mr. Macfarlane, the association then adopted the following resolution unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this Association that the merchants of Honolulu do not favor a merchandise license, and that the Association committee on public affairs so report to the Republican caucus."

There was more discussion after the passage of the resolution. Mr. Humburg saying he was in favor of a flat license of, say $250 for the wholesaler, $250 for the commission man, and $50 for the retailer. Mr. Harris said that some special lines of business were properly taxed because they were under public inspection. It was right that they should pay for that special care. Not so of merchandising and merchants should not pay for the privilege of doing business. Mr. Waldron said he would be glad to pay a license of $50 as a commission man but he did not believe it could be collected.

It was decided that the public affairs committee, consisting of Messrs. Geo. W. Smith, E. A. Melnerney and James Wakefield should present the view of the association to the Republican caucus Saturday afternoon.

The following letter from Governor Dole's secretary was read:

Honolulu, February 6. To the Merchants' Association. Gentlemen:—I am requested by the Governor to ask that you inform him as to what assistance your body wishes from the Government for the exhibitions in Japan and St. Louis, and also at Portland, if an exhibit at this latter exposition can be arranged by the transfer of all or part of the St. Louis exhibit on its closing.

Very respectfully, ALEX. G. HAWES, Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Macfarlane said that $50,000 should be appropriated for Hawaii's exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition and on motion of Mr. Harris it was resolved that the association ask the Legislature for that amount.

On motion of Mr. Macfarlane, the directors of the association were empowered to retain an attorney to look out for the interests of the merchants before the Legislature and elsewhere. The meeting then adjourned.

A PLUNGER LEATHER

Is an interesting thing to a man who is using a pump daily and finds that the Plunger of his pump is all worn out.

They are such simple little things, and yet so much easier to stamp out by machinery than to cut out by hand.

We have a complete stock of PLUNGERS, LEATHERS, CUP LEATHERS and BOTTOM VALVES, little items that make a pump as new and without which a pump is just so much old iron.

Every thing needed in the way of Pumps and extras for Pumps at

SIDEWALK NOW LIGHTED.

The sidewalk outside the Young building, running the whole length of this modern structure, was lighted for the first time last night. During the day, men were at work gracing the tops of the four iron posts distributed at equal intervals along the sidewalk, with three electric incandescent lights each, being enclosed by iron framework for their protection. These lamps give light in great sufficiency and make the building and its surroundings look more like the Mainland structures than anything else in the city.

W. ROSE DEAD

The sad news of the death of W. I. Rose of Hilo, one of the oldest kanahanas of that place, was received by wireless this morning and Edward Rose, a young son who is in attendance at Kamehameha School, went home in the Mauna Loa this noon. He will have to go overland to his home. There are no particulars given as to the cause of death. The sad event took place yesterday.

Deceased has been a resident of Hilo between thirty and forty years. He is of German descent and came to the islands in the early days, entering at once into the work of a tinsmith. He married a Hawaiian lady who, with the following children, still survives him: Otto, Charley, Henry and Edwin; Mrs. Ruttman, Mrs. Ed. Weight, Mrs. Lindsay, Annie and a young daughter.

Although it is not known definitely, it is thought that the deceased was at least seventy-five years of age.

ATE CAMEL'S FLESH AND GRASS.

Major A. G. G. Sharp, commanding the Somali levies, has arrived at Berbera after hard service of two years' duration at the front. The Somali levies were not alone in suffering privations during Colonel Swayne's recent marches. Great hardships were also endured by the officers, recalling, indeed, those of the sieges of Ladysmith and Mafeking. Various expedients were adopted to meet the difficulties arising from the shortness of supplies. A scale of exchange was established. A spoonful of tea equalled three cigarettes; five cigarettes procured the loan of a razor or scissors for hair-cutting; for half a tin of peaches a basin of oatmeal could be had, and a pinch of salt was a fair exchange for a lump of sugar. Officers and men alike subsisted on a diet of camel's flesh varied with edible grasses. Scoury was uncommon, and parasites infested the camps.

I. L. Richards, who owns large apiaries in Colorado, thinks he has found out something new in bee psychology, and, incidentally, his discovery may explain the old custom of "telling the bees" of a death in the family and putting crape on the hives. It was said of old time that the bees would not fly abroad until after the funeral if this custom was observed. Mr. Richards, however, thinks that the insects have a peculiar antipathy to black, and the way in which he came to that conclusion was this. He is a chicken fancier as well as a bee keeper, and recently bought a handsome black Chinese cock which he set free in the chicken yard. Half an hour later he found that the bees, whose hives were in a corner of the yard, were literally swarming about the unfortunate cock, and stinging him to death.

Home Rulers Petition For Governor Direct From Mainland

By the S. S. China of the 28th inst., the Home Rule party sent copies of certain resolutions to President Roosevelt, Secretary Ethan A. Hitchcock, of the Interior Department; Senator Joseph B. Foraker, chairman of the Senate Committee on Porto Rico and Pacific Islands; Senator John H. Mitchell, chairman of the Senatorial Commission which investigated affairs of the Territory of Hawaii last summer; Congressman W. S. Knox, chairman of the Committee on Territories in the House of Representatives; and Delegate R. W. Wilcox. The resolutions signed by 785 voters of the Territory are as follows:

Whereas, the subcommittee of the United States Senate on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, which visited Hawaii in the year 1902, to investigate into the conditions existing in the Territory of Hawaii; and

Whereas, Senator John H. Mitchell, of the State of Oregon, United States of America, has introduced a bill reorganizing the Territory of Hawaii, making the municipal clause of the Organic Act mandatory and amending the clause relating to the Executive so as to permit the appointment of a Governor from the Mainland; and

Whereas, a report has been made of such immediate radical changes of conditions existing here; and

Whereas, the powers that are vested in the Governor of the Territory of Hawaii by the present Organic Act, are extraordinary and centralized; and

Whereas, such powers are being exercised for personal ambitions and selfish motives, for the protection of Governor Dole's personal friends and sugar land-grabbing corporations and trusts, contrary to and in defiance of popular government; and

Whereas, the selection of Sanford B. Dole as Governor of the Territory of Hawaii upon the annexation of these islands to the United States was a political error, for the reason that he participated in the overthrow of the monarchy; and

Whereas, the political conditions existing now in the Territory of Hawaii since Governor Dole was appointed are as bitter as ever; and

Whereas, the appointment of a Governor that participated in the overthrow of our constitutional government was even in sympathy with such a move, would never bring the ties of mutual friendship and love of being subservient to the Government of the United States; and

Whereas, the appointment of a Governor from the residents of these islands who participated in the overthrow would never consummate the ethics of political harmony and prosperity; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Hawaiian people, through the Independent Home Rule party of the Territory of Hawaii do earnestly appeal to the moral and political support of President Roosevelt and the Congress of the United States, the adoption of said recommendation above; and, be it further

Resolved, That we do earnestly appeal to their high sense of honor that upon the selection of a new Governor for the Territory of Hawaii, a person thoroughly Americanized and imbued with American principles and American institutions, broad in his political views, thoroughly in touch with popular government and the people, and a person that is wealthy and rich, that takes the office for its honor and not for its salary; and, be it further set forth, we, the Hawaiian people and citizens of the Territory of Hawaii, will eliminate the bitter feelings and bring the cordial relations to a focus, that we may enjoy the peace and happiness of annexation.

Resolution. Whereas, the United States Senate subcommittee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, which visited Hawaii in the summer of 1902, investigated into the conditions existing in the Territory of Hawaii; and

Whereas, said committee has made their report and presented it to the Senate of the United States; and

Whereas, since the annexation of these islands to the United States, the leases and sales of Government and Crown lands are indiscriminately disposed of to sugar corporations and trusts, by "Governor Dole's secret executive council"; and

Whereas, such practice now in vogue in the Territory of Hawaii, with the approval of the Governor, deprives the citizens of the United States of lands suitable for agricultural purposes and homesteads for the building up of a prosperous and healthy community; and

Whereas, there have been, of late, several scandalous land transactions between the Territorial officials and private citizens, which have been approved by Governor Dole; and

Whereas, paragraph 2 of said report of the Senatorial Commission reads as follows: "That Congress take immediate action suspending the power on the part of the local Territorial government of Hawaii to execute for the present any further lease or leases of other agricultural or non-agricultural lands in the Territory of Hawaii"; and

Whereas, we further ask that an immediate request of the Congress of the United States, that the sales or leases of any of the Government lands be not approved until the Government of the United States takes control; be it

Resolved, That the citizens of the Territory of Hawaii, through the Independent Home Rule party of the Territory of Hawaii, do hereby appeal to the Congress of the United States of immediate legislation either by law or by a resolution to stay the scandalous proceedings of Government and Crown lands in the Territory of Hawaii; and, be it further

Resolved, That President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Interior, Ethan A. Hitchcock, do take immediate steps to disapprove the sale, transfer or lease of any of the Government lands in the Territory of Hawaii since January 1, 1902, until an investigation be held, or until such time as the Federal authorities take control.

KAUAI FROM HAWAII.

The steamer Kauai returned from the Kona coast this morning after an absence of seventeen days. She had very rough weather most of the time. Purser Macnamara reports sugar as follows on Hawaii: H. S. C., 4,800; P. S. M., 3,000; H. A. Co., 12,944; Honuapuu, 1,300.
