PLANTERS' COLUMN.

MAKAHA, OAHU, January 12th, 1881.

In reference to your article of January 1st, on guano as an auxiliary to the growth of sugar canes on these islands, it may not perhaps be known that guano or crude phosphate was tried a few years ago on the table and bottom lands of Kauai. Nearly three acres of cane—part of a forty acre field—were treated with the phosphate sent to the writer as a favor by the agent of the American Guano Company from their islands. The guano was of 50 per cent grade, the other half being organic matter, carbonate of lime, and about 9 per cent moisture. The result was quite remarkable. From the first start of the plants up to maturity, the question was frequently asked of the writer, what caused the difference in growth of that particular part of the field from the rest.

Near to us on the equatorial islands are many thousands of tons of phosphate guano, containing too much carbonate of lime to warrant their shipment to Europe. Previous to the American rebellion cargoes were annually shipped to Georgia for use in cotton agriculture; since then the phosphate beds of South Carolina supply a quantity, although they only range from 12 to 14 per cent in phosphates. There are deposits on this island and the Koloa districts of Kauai that deserve notice and may perhaps, before long, be of importance to the State, showing on rough analysis from random pieces that they contain a percentage of phosphate considerably greater than the South Carolina beds, or even contained in the exports from the Chinchas—the latter only averaging 14 per cent phosphate. The writer thinks from his own experience that considerable good can be done among ourselves with a little attention in checking the fermentation in old fields by using the debris from the furnaces, sowing it in the rows after the young cane is about a foot high. JOHN ROSS.

The sugar crop of Louisiana promises excellently. Grinding is now in progress, and tests show an excess of saccharine matter of 33 1/2 per cent, compared with last year's cane.

The prospects of the Cuban sugar crop continue excellent, notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, but the crop will be somewhat late, because little old cane is left on the fields.

The sugar crop of Louisiana is partially estimated at 237,000 hogsheads, an increase of 71,000 hogsheads over 1879. The molasses yield will exceed that of 1879 by 810,000 gallons.

Speeches at the Banquet Last Week.

Owing to the lateness of the hour at which the state dinner was concluded last week we were unable to give all of the speeches that were made. We produce them in full, however, this week, including the King's speech, which was published last Saturday. His Excellency W. L. Green, who proposed the first toast, the health of His Majesty the King, spoke as follows:

"You are all aware of the reasons for which we are assembled here this evening, and that it is the purpose of His Majesty the King to proceed on a tour around the world. I consider it my duty to state that my colleagues and myself have endeavored to dissuade the King from taking this step, but as it was evident that the King had come to a decision upon the subject in spite of the dangers which were represented to him, the Ministers considered it their duty to take the greatest advantage they could from the undertaking. In furtherance of this His Ex. W. N. Armstrong has been appointed to accompany His Majesty as Commissioner of the Board of Immigration, and I am sure that Mr. Armstrong will find his hands strengthened in the discharge of his duties by the presence of the King. This is neither a fit place nor time for explaining a Ministerial policy, but there is one point upon which ideas are opportune—that is immigration. I see before me many gentlemen identified with our planting interests and I will say to them that I think there is some hesitation on the part of the planters to co-operate with the government in the question of repopulation. The government line does not appear to be the planters' line. The government have liberally provided for the planters' necessities in the matter of labor, and I think that it is appropriate for the planters to show a desire to co-operate with the government in promoting population. The government desires population as well as labor and especially does it desire women and children. I have now the pleasure of proposing 'The Health of His Majesty, King Kalakaua.'"

The toast was enthusiastically received, three ringing cheers were given, and the band played the National Anthem.

The King then rose, the whole company rising at the same time, and said:

"MR. MINISTER AND GENTLEMEN:—I thank you heartily for the kind and loyal manner in which you have responded to the toast. I reciprocate fully your kindly feeling. Around this table are gathered people of many nations. In common with my predecessors, I desire the best welfare of all who gather under our flag in my dominions, and I believe that you who come from other lands, bringing with you the large wealth, enterprise and intelligence of those lands, sympathize with me in my desire to protect my native Hawaiian people, and strengthen my nation. To do this we must work in harmony under the Constitution and laws, and I recognize cheerfully the fact that Hawaii, as one of the family of nations, must be governed in accordance with the ideas which control constitutional governments. We have many difficult questions to settle arising out of our peculiar situations; they demand the best statesmanship and patient investigation. I am in hopes while absent, to gather some ideas which shall aid in their solution. Your cordiality to-night is but another evidence with that which I have observed in other parts of my kingdom, that I may rely upon the best elements in my kingdom to sustain my efforts and those of my government in upholding the independence of my kingdom and the welfare of the people. Having appointed my sister as Regent during my absence and placed with her a responsible Ministry, I have hopes that the Government of the Regency will be administered with full confidence and satisfaction to the nation. If there have been mistakes in the past, let us profit by the lessons of experience, and with honesty of purpose let us press on to a future which I trust may be bright with prosperity and hopefulness. Again I thank you for myself and the Royal Family."

As the King concluded a spontaneous cheer broke from the company and he was much affected by the manifestation of good feeling.

His Ex. H. A. P. Carter spoke next:

"NOBLES AND GENTLEMEN:—I have a toast to propose which not only appeals to your sense of loyalty as subjects, but to your gallantry as gentlemen. I propose that we drink 'The Health of Her Majesty Queen Kapiolani and of the Members of the Royal Family.' I need not remind you, who know as well as I, the good deeds of our noble lady, the unobtrusive charities of our Queen, which have won the highest opinion, not only amongst her own native people, but also in the foreign community. And also unnecessary to remind you of the beneficent spirit of other members of the Royal Family, especially the most excellent Lady, who is to be the Regent of the Kingdom."

The toast was loudly cheered.

His Ex. Governor Dominis replied:

"I thank the nobles and gentlemen on behalf of Her Majesty for the manner in which they had drunk the toast. By the King's departure, Her Royal Highness the Princess Kamaheha, His Majesty's sister was going to assume the burden of government. This will be a new and trying responsibility, and I share in the anxiety which she feels. But she will have the assistance and will depend upon the counsel of His Majesty's Ministers. I hope that when the King returns he will find the nation satisfied and that His Majesty will be satisfied too." [Applause.]

His Ex. W. L. Green then proposed "the health of General Comly and the other members of the diplomatic corps, dwelling on the necessity of cordial relations for our government, with the great powers." [Great Applause.]

The United States Minister Resident responded as follows:

"MAY I PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY, AND GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to respond on behalf of the Diplomatic Corps to the toast just proposed, and to thank you, not only for the sentiment itself, but for the very flattering manner in which you have received it.

We respond to the Hawaiian, Aloha with alacrity. It would be only the best of my able and experienced friend and colleague, the British Commissioner had consented to respond on behalf of the Diplomatic body. I would have been better suited if my talented friend and colleague, the French Commissioner had consented to respond. I am sure that the ripe experience and thorough diplomatic training of the one would have given us some trenchant thought to take home with us and make the occasion memorable. I am sure that the versatility and grace of the other would have decorated the occasion with such garlands of wit and sentiment, and fancy as would have made it a thing of beauty and a joy forever. [Applause.]

As for me, I can only thank you for the honor you tender to me.

We tender to you our aspirations for the health, wealth, and prosperity of the whole Hawaiian Nation, and our hope that it may remain free and independent always. That the King may live long and govern wisely (enthusiastic applause,) by calling about him the wisest and best of the people at his command, and that he may strengthen the Throne and make his reign illustrious (loud cheers); men who will have and deserve to have the respect and confidence not only of the Sovereign, but of all the people (applause); men who will cement the bonds, not only of national unity, but of amity and good will with the Great Powers in the family of nations, which have been the best and surest friends of Hawaii in the past. [Immense applause.]

So please your Majesty these are pregnant matters full of meaning—too full for a mere passing reference at this board, where our object may be supposed to be chiefly enjoyment.

In conclusion, I have the honor to join a sentiment which I propose, not in the cold terms of formal courtesy, but with high consideration and sincere respect. The health of His Majesty's Ministers. [Great applause and cheers.]

His Ex. the Attorney General rose and spoke as follows:

"I am sure the members of the Cabinet accept with sincere thanks the kind assurances which you gentlemen have tendered them this evening, and especially are we grateful for your kind congratulations, at the moment when we are about to suspend, for a time, the harmonious relations which exist between the members of the government, those relations which are suspended in view of the arrangements which are now complete for His Majesty's early departure from this kingdom. In the fulfillment of a hope long cherished, in the realization of a dream of his boyhood, in which I too indulged with him, more than a third of a century ago, His Majesty is about to embark on a voyage around the globe. It seems, indeed, more like fiction than reality, that after the lapse of these many years, by a strange combination of circumstances, I should be suddenly called upon by him to join in the realization of those early dreams. And I am sure that all of you, gentlemen, will take the same interest which the Cabinet take in watching the progress of his journey. The starting point is indeed novel. It is where the outmost limit, the frontier point of European civilization has reached. It is as well the frontier point, the advanced post standing abreast of Asiatic civilization. Here the tidal waves of vast and different masses of human life are meeting without obstruction. Starting from this point, His Majesty will follow a line of travel, not at first through the land of the younger races, but rather through those countries where the older races are found. He will look upon that Japanese race, which stood sullenly so long before European civilization, and refused its offers, but which, suddenly, threw open and back its own doors, thrust out its arms and began taking to itself the best which that European civilization could give. He will look upon that Chinese race, which was old when the powerful nations of the earth were young; that nation which is to-day making prosperity possible in these islands, by its contribution of labor. He will see that East Indian race, so mysterious in its habits of life and thought, from which it may be, in the course of events, there shall be drawn a new line of life for this kingdom, and beyond, he will see those great and individualized races which hold the earth from the boundaries of Asia westward to the limit of this kingdom, but from this long travel, he will acquire large information, by observation and intercourse. It will serve him well hereafter. One might perhaps think that in these quiet islands, these summer seas, there would be none of the problems which agitate men. Yet, in truth, there is nowhere to-day, a country which presents such an array of formidable questions. I am sure you will appreciate the serious difficulties which His Majesty's Ministers must meet at all times, in every way, in every form. We are not alone in this, for many other countries, in the perplexities of statesmanship. For where is there a civilized race, to-day, which is not in a measure groping in the dark, in the anxious search for answers to questions which imperatively demand answer? Permit me to bespeak for His Majesty's Ministers, during his absence from his kingdom, the cordial support of you, gentlemen, who at this table officially represent all the civilized and powerful nations of the earth, for by you, there is no doubt, much may be done through moral support in the intelligent, just and equal administration of government."

Allow me in closing to propose a toast. "The Consular Corps Residing in this Kingdom."

The Attorney General spoke well, and his remarks were well received.

Mr. Schaefer, Consul for Italy, replied on behalf of the Consular Corps:

"In the names of my colleagues of the Consular Corps, I have the honor to thank you for the toast just now proposed."

While it is the duty of the foreign Consuls to promote and increase the general interests existing between the Hawaiian Kingdom and the country they have the honor to represent, this duty becomes the more pleasing to them the longer they sojourn in these islands, and become identified with the country and the people, in their strivings of the past, their hopeful prosperity of the present and, under Providence, their successful consummation of the problems which the future has in store for them.

This is a cause of gratification and pleasure to my colleagues and myself, the eve of His Majesty's departure for distant lands, to participate in this social reunion of Hawaiian and foreign officials and to join in the good wishes that go forth from among them to speed the King on his way and to hope for his safe return to his people, after a voyage laden with rich experiences and manifold blessings.

I believe it to be the privilege of him who responds to the last official toast to propose a sentiment. With the permission of Your Majesty therefore, I beg to avail myself of this privilege in proposing the health of the ladies. God bless them."

Mr. Davidson by the unanimous desire of the whole company responded to the toast and was applauded as he rose.

"Mr. Davidson said: I am surprised that I should be called upon to respond to the sentiment proposed, as there are so many present who by their many fascinating qualities had won the admiration and regard of the fair sex generally, and whose domestic fidelity would enable them to speak eloquently of the graces and traits of women who in all nations and all ages enthralled man, and not depend upon me, whose professional life has brought to my knowledge certain domestic trials and contentions where the ladies were not acting on the right side. Telegraphs and Telephones.

A law case of great interest is being heard at London in the Court of Exchequer.

In 1859 the Government on behalf of the nation bought up the rights of the existing telegraph companies at the price of £10,000,000.

The Edison Telephone Company has come into existence, and the Government now contend that the carrying on of such an undertaking is an infringement of their bargain.

The Edison Company on the other hand, maintain that the telephone is an entirely new invention, and that such a mode of transmitting messages was not contemplated when the Government bought up the telegraphs eleven years ago.

This is just one of those delicate matters of legislation—there being so much to be said on both sides—in which the souls of lawyers delight, the more especially as the plaintiff in the case is a gentleman with a very broad back, being no other than Mr. John Braithwaite.

Then for the additional entertainment of the novelty-loving public, the dry legal subtleties of the opposing counsel are relieved by the display of a quantity of telephonic apparatus, and both actors and audience have been edified by hearing a post of laughter "bottled" by means of a phonograph in America, left off in a British Court of Justice.

In these interesting days it appears rather perilous to purchase anything with the belief that a perpetual monopoly has thereby been acquired.

This argument may be used against the often advocated buying up of the railways by the nation, because a few years after the purchase somebody may invent a practicable flying-machine, with the result of making our railway tracks grass-grown and deserted.

A Romance of Natural History.

On Monday morning last, as J. E. Hughes was returning to Fresno from a visit to his sheep camp, in the vicinity of White's bridge, he met with rather a singular and laughable adventure.

When within about eighteen miles of Fresno he observed a large eagle in close pursuit of a jack-rabbit. As the eagle was on the point of picking up the rabbit, the latter ran into a hole.

In less than a minute he emerged with a large badger in close pursuit. The eagle picked up the rabbit just as the badger tackled him.

Mr. Hughes ran over and caught the eagle and his sheepdog pitched into the dog and came near dragging him into its hole, but with the assistance of Mr. Hughes was soon overpowered, the rabbit in the meantime making his escape.

The eagle which was exhibited alive on our streets, measured over eight feet from tip to tip of wing—Fresno Republican, Nov. 6.
