FAVORABLE LEGISLATION, BETTER CONDITIONS

A. B. Loebenstein, member from the Island of Hawaii of the Hawaiian committee sent to Washington in the interests of the Refund bill, has returned.

Mr. Loebenstein asked to be excused from making a statement in detail of work accomplished, previous to making his report to the Hilo Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade, the bodies whose emissary he was.

He stated, however, that the work done by the committee in Washington was highly successful and satisfactory and would result in vast good to the islands, an amelioration of conditions prevailing here, and a hastening of the day of great prosperity for this country.

The fact that the bill itself was unanimously reported on favorably in the face of so much criticism at first by members of the committee, Mr.
Loebenstein considers cause for much congratulation. The result of the committee's work on this measure was that the justice of the claim for the refund was unanimously admitted. The status of the islands in reference to the important questions affecting them, was the subject of serious and earnest consideration by members of congress and the heads of various bureaus, and information was furnished that will result in a betterment of conditions, and that shortly.

Mr. Loebenstein was the last member of the committee to leave Washington and his time was actively employed after the completion of the discussion of the bill before the committee, in meeting in a semi-social way the heads of departments and the President relative to the questions of labor, land policy and forestry, and there is assurance that as a result reforms will be inaugurated along these lines in the near future. The policy upon the question of labor is to be a liberal one carried out regardless of clique, faction or party, and is to look toward the Americanization of the Islands. He considers that all interested in and identified with our great industries should be much encouraged in view of such remedial action.

Mr. Loebenstein states that his proposition that Kilauea be made a national park is looked upon very seriously by leading members of congress and that a bill is to be introduced into the House in the near future having for its purpose thus setting aside the volcano.

As to the prospects of the Refund bill becoming law, the fact of its unanimous endorsement by the committee to which it was referred, gives it a prestige that practically will insure its passage.

The delegate from Hawaii, Prince Kuhio Kalaniano'ole, also came in for considerable praise from Mr. Loebenstein, who says: "very much of the success of the delegation and the courtesies and consideration shown it during its presence in Washington have been at the instance of the delegate himself and his assistant, Mr. McLellan."

Stockholders' Meeting.

The subscribers to the stock of the Hilo Pineapple Cannery Company met at Fireman's Hall, Saturday afternoon. The first assessment on the stock was paid in and organization proceeded with by the election as temporary officers of John Scott, chairman, and A. Lindsay, secretary. Minutes of the preliminary meeting held March 30, were read and approved. E. E. Richards reported that the amount of the stock had been over-subscribed by forty shares. It was decided, upon a motion, that the officers of the company should be a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, auditor, and three directors. At the election following: John T. Scott was elected president over his earnest protest; E. E. Richards was elected vice president; H. Vicars, secretary; H. V. Patten, treasurer; D. E. Metzger, auditor; A. Lindsay, E. N. Holmes and F. S. Lyman, directors. Messrs. C. C. Kennedy, John T. Moir and John Watt declined office. Such officers hold until the completion of the organization of the company. The directors held a meeting immediately following adjournment of the stockholders' meeting and elected committees to prepare articles of incorporation and by-laws.

To Correct Compass.

S. A. Deel, engineer in charge of the U. S. geodetic survey station at Honolulu, has been in Hilo for a few days, coming down the coast from Kohala. He was at work Thursday at the trig. station on Coconut island with a solar compass getting the latitude of the station and the true north for the purpose of obtaining the present variation of the magnetic needle at this station. This observation is made once every two or three years. The variation of the needle here is about eight degrees east of north and the magnetic pole has moved eastward about one degree and thirty-five minutes in fifty years or more. The variation of the needle differs widely at different points on the island, due to local attraction, and is greatest on Mauna Kea where evidently a large quantity of magnetic iron has been brought to the surface by volcanic eruption. All surveying on the island is done from the trig. stations, of which there are a great number. A transit instrument is used from these absolute bases, and the work is therefore most accurate. Early surveys were made by the needle compass and some serious errors have occurred in boundaries of tracts as a result.

Celebrate Completion.

Honolulu, April 13.—Water will be running in the new Kohala ditch on June 1, and on June 11 the formal opening of the ditch system will occur. There will be a gala occasion on that day. Kona Plantation.

Honolulu, April 12.—Kona plantation has begun work on the clearing and preparing the land for planting of five hundred acres for the 1908 crop. One hundred men are at work in this field. Royal Spanish Wedding.

Madrid, April 12.—King Alfonso and Princess Ena, to be known hereafter as Victoria, will be married June 1.

Chinese Exclusion.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—Congressman Denby of Michigan has introduced in the House a compromise measure dealing with Chinese exclusion. The bill is an effort to strike a medium between the revision desired by the President and the radicals, who would make the exclusion more harsh, if possible.

Injured in Railroad War.

Portland, Oregon, April 13.—In a clash between the railroad builders working for Hill and those working for Harriman at Clackamas, one man was injured by the explosion of dynamite.

Urges Ship Subsidy Bill.

Washington, April 13.—Former Representative Loud of California appeared before the House Committee on Navigation today in behalf of the ship subsidy measure. He stated that the Spreckles' line from San Francisco to Australia was being operated at a loss and that it would be abandoned and the vessels transferred to a Japanese company unless the ship subsidy bill passed Congress.

Castro Has Retired.

Caracas, April 11.—President Castro has retired, temporarily, and Vice President Gomez is now chief executive.

Gorky Favors Republic.

New York, April 11.—Maxim Gorky arrived here yesterday. In an interview he said that the establishment of the Douma would not bring peace to Russia, and favored the establishment of a republic.

The Eruption of Vesuvius.

Naples, Italy, April 11.—The property loss caused by the eruption of Vesuvius will reach $20,000,000. Fifty thousand people have been rendered homeless by the destruction of their abodes. There have been hundreds of deaths.

It is estimated that the services of 100,000 men and millions of dollars will be required to repair the damages.

The panic is increasing.

It is now impossible to reach Ottajano. Torredel Greco, Sarno and San Gennaro have been evacuated by the residents. Portico, Circello and Peggio Morino have been rendered uninhabitable.

British Troops in Pursuit.

Durban, Natal, South Africa, April 9.—Chief Bambaata and seventy warriors have escaped into Zululand. British troops are in pursuit.

[On March 30 a cablegram stated that the Natal colonists were indignant at the interference of the Home government with the execution of twelve natives. Their sentiment of independence will hardly come into play, however, on this occasion of Imperial activity. It would probably not be competent for the Natal militia to pursue troublesome natives beyond the border of the colony.]

General Booth's Birthday.

London, April 8.—Thirty thousand Salvationists here celebrated the seventy-seventh birthday of General Booth.

Head of Japanese Army.

Tokio, April 8.—Field Marshal Oyama has retired as chief of staff of the army, and has been succeeded by General Kodama.

The Hilo Tribune.

TUESDAY - APRIL 17, 1906.

Entered at the Postoffice at Hilo, Hawaii, as second-class matter PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY.
J. WHERLOCK MARSH - Editor
D. W. MARSH - Business Manager.

It is encouraging to learn that the powers that be in Washington are alive to Hawaii's interests; that they recognize that annexation to date has not operated for the financial or industrial benefit of Hawaii, but the contrary, and has not met the expectations of the people of the islands. The committee sent to Washington has put before interested and serious listeners desired information on all these points, and we now have assurance that past mistakes will be corrected and errors righted, so that old time, and greater, prosperity, by nature their due, may return to the islands.

The pineapple cannery is now auspiciously organized and ready for business. The best men in the community are at its head, insuring wise management which is the key to its success. In view of the experiments made in pineapple canning on this, and the other islands, there can be no doubt but that it will be a great benefit to this locality, a benefit in which the numerous smaller growers can fully share. What the establishment may do for Hilo is suggested by the estimated value the cannery now building in Honolulu will be to that city. The latter will employ 150 persons, and forty additional in the can factory. It will can 75,000 cases this season, and double the amount next season. The accompany has over 400 acres of fruit planted, and next year will plant about 650 acres. The field for the industry here is unlimited.

THE ADVERTISER suggests the possibility that the banana industry in the Islands may be the recipient of benefits from an unexpected source in the mainland demand for a tariff on bananas.

"More people," it says, "are going into tobacco on the Hamakua uplands and the outlook for a fine industry is most promising. There is also a better chance for bananas since the agitation began to put a duty on them. Oddly enough the Eastern apple, peach and pear-growers, an enormous body of voters, are behind the tariff scheme. They find that the people are eating bananas to the neglect of home-grown fruit and naturally enough they ask for protection from the competing fruit of foreign lands. Of course they could not exclude Hawaiian bananas nor Porto Rican and if their proposed bill is enacted, Hawaii can easily control the entire trade west of the Rocky mountains at a living price."

The production of commercial alcohol from bananas has been considered at various times in the Islands. A bill is now before Congress to remove the revenue tariff from alcohol. As this tariff is high, its removal will greatly lessen the price at which alcohol may be sold, and will result in the great increase in its use. The motor car alone, should the price become low enough to permit of its use, would consume immense quantities, so superior is it to benzine for the purpose, and so wide spread is becoming the use of the auto. The prospects for a greatly increased demand for alcohol suggests the advantages offered here for its manufacture. An alcohol manufactory might best be operated in conjunction with the banana shipping business; all fruit not up to highest standard, and fruit maturing between steamers, being turned into alcohol, thereby eliminating waste. Molasses from the sugar mills, also would be more valuable for production of alcohol than for feed for animals. The banana, it is suggested also, would furnish here an unlimited and constant all-the-year-round supply, affording thereby an advantage over the manufactory deriving the product from the potato as the large proportion do. This has been looked upon with favor by those who have investigated the subject, as offering a method of converting a product now largely going to waste, into profit. The manufacture of liqueurs, also, suggests itself in this connection. It is believed superior articles could be manufactured from our island fruits on account of the delicacy of their flavor, that, a reputation once established, would find a wide sale.

CHINESE AROUSED.

Over Removal of a Body in Their Cemetery.

Tom Fay Kin, president of the Chinese Cemetery association, was arrested for the removal of the body of Lee Wa Fu from one part of the burial ground to another, without obtaining the permission of the health board. The case came up before Judge Hapai Monday morning and was set for trial on Friday. The removal appears to have been without ceremony or approval of friends and calculated, as it did, to arouse a protest, particularly from Chinamen, according to whose ideas it is the highest possible indignity. The See Yep faction, to which Lee Wa Fu belonged, are up in arms, so to speak, and have employed special counsel to fight the case. About two hundred of them came into town Monday morning, as many as could get away from the plantations from Hoonahina to Oloa. They asked their attorney to prepare legal papers looking to the division of the cemetery in their own interest and as opposed to the Hilo Chinese. The factions are composed of individuals from different Chinese states and great animosity appears to exist between them.

For Worthy Object.

The vaudeville entertainment and ball to be given Saturday night at Spreckels' Hall under the auspices of the Board of Trade, promises to be one of the most enjoyable affairs ever given in Hilo. A varied and interesting program has been arranged, and all those taking part in the different numbers are bending all their energies to make the affair a success. A dance will follow the entertainment, the one ticket admitting to both. It is doubtful whether so much in the way of entertainment has ever been given before in Hilo.

The purpose for which the entertainment is being given is one that should appeal to every one who has the improvement and beautification of the town at heart. Honolulu has followed the example set by other cities, and is getting together for the beautification of the city. Hilo should do the same, and the success of this entertainment will demonstrate whether or not the people will back up an effort to improve the city.

She brought 1000 tons of sugar, and will take on 3000 tons here, leaving in about two weeks for the Atlantic coast.

ROAD SUPERVISOR PILIKIA.

T. J. Ryan's Suspicions Too Indefinite.

The investigation of Road Supervisor N. K. Lyman by Supervisors Moir and Desha, occurred according to schedule Saturday. Deputy County Attorney Aluli assisted in the case and Attorney Carl Smith was on hand in the interests of Mr. Cabrinha, who had been drawn into the controversy by Mr. Lyman in his reply to the charges. Mr. Ryan, who asked the Board to investigate was on hand, full to the brim with suspicion and, as he claimed, evidence. The charges were read to Mr. Lyman. Asked by Chairman Moir if they were true, he stated that so far as having received the assignments was concerned, they were true; but as to the rest, they were not true. Mr. Ryan was asked if he had been defrauded by the means claimed. Not having been, he was advised that if he or any of his friends had been, and would bring in definite charges the case would be investigated. It was ruled that there was nothing before the meeting that could be considered, and strongly intimated that the time of the Board was being foolishly wasted. In reply to an inquiry, Attorney Carl Smith was informed that the Cabrinha matter would not be considered by the Supervisors, as the courts were open for the disposal of liquor selling cases.

Chance For Tobacco Company.

A tobacco company composed of Honolulu capitalists was organized several months ago to cultivate tobacco on a commercial basis, being satisfied with the showing made at Hamakua in the cultivation of tobacco at the experiment station there under the supervision of Jared G. Smith, special agent in charge of the Honolulu Experiment Station. Such lands suitable for the cultivation of tobacco, coffee and other agricultural products are advertised for sale by the Territorial Land office at 12 o'clock, noon, May 12, at the Honokaa court house. The area of such land offered is 111 acres. In addition there are a number of smaller tracts offered, situated between lots, previously held by the government as reservations.

Attempted to Escape.

A Korean, Ungee Talk Su, who had served out 10 days of a four months' term, escaped from the road gang at work mauka of the Volcano road, on Friday. Deputy Sheriff Fetter, who happened to be in the vicinity, learning of the escape, notified Jailer Maby, and, while it is Territorial and not police business, men from the Sheriff's office were sent in pursuit. The fugitive made his way through the cane to camp No. 5, Waiakea, composed of Koreans, where he was harbored for the night and given clothing. He was captured by Captain Coleman, who was lying in wait for him, up in Oloa, Saturday morning, on the Volcano road. Warrants were promptly issued for the arrest of the Koreans who harbored him.

To Even the Score.

Two Japanese were arrested Friday charged with larceny, the same having been found removing goods from Hamada's store. One of the men justified himself in so doing from the fact that Hamada had "skipped" owing him; and the other, from the fact that Hamada owed every body else. They were helping themselves to the best store afforded, which articles are now in the sheriff's possession. On Saturday Jos. Vierra attached a harness Hamada had borrowed of him a few weeks ago and sold to another Jap, a day before he sailed for Seattle.

Prefers Hilo's Climate.

Mr. A. Richley was a passenger over from Honolulu by the Kinua Wednesday. He visited the Volcano and returned to Honolulu Friday. Mr. Richley is interested in the promotion of the koa lumber industry and has been in Honolulu for the past couple of months. He says of Hilo, to quote the Advertiser: "I like Hilo. It is cooler than Honolulu, for the town is on the windward side of Hawaii and gets the fresh ocean breezes by day and the mountain breezes by night."

HONOLULU PINEAPPLE CANNERY.

Will Also Manufacture Cans—Begin Work in June.

A can manufacturing concern, according to the Star, is being installed with the new cannery in the Hawaiian Pineapple Company's new plant. The building is completed and the machinery will arrive on the steamer Alameda. The concern is a branch of the American Can Company of San Francisco. The new building is 120 by 50 feet in size.

The work on the cannery is progressing rapidly and Superintendent Arnold expects to be ready for work June 10. The work has been delayed some on account of a lack of lumber, but will be rushed as soon as the lumber arrives.

Two new buildings are being put up. One is 140 by 100 feet. This is the cannery proper; the other, which will be 150 by 80 feet, will be used as a warehouse. This building will be large enough to hold 125,000 cases of canned pineapples.

The ground about the place has been filled in to a depth of three and one-half feet.

New boilers are on the ground, but the other machinery will be brought from Wahiawa.

The cannery will employ about 150 persons and the can factory another forty.

This season Superintendent Arnold only expects to can about 75,000 cases of fruit, but in 1907 he expects to put out nearly twice that amount.

The pineapple company has over four hundred acres of the fruit planted at present. Next year they will plant nearly 650 acres.

The Oahu Railroad has put in one side track already and will install two others shortly. They have also built a ten-mile branch at Wahiawa and tapped the pineapple country.

Aid Work of Religion.

Under the heading "Managerial Sympathy," the Honolulu Friend pays a tribute of praise to the plantations managers on the Hilo side of the Island for co-operation in the religious work being done. It says:

"The splendid advance achieved by our Japanese evangelists on the trade wind coast of Papaikou Island from Kohala to Olaa is in large measure due to the hearty sympathy and co-operation of the plantation managers throughout that region. Beginning with Olaa and running to Hawi in Kohala, there is a noble succession of Christian managers. Such men as Messrs. Watt of Olaa, Kennedy of Waiakea, Scott of Wainaku, Moir of Papaikou, Pullar of Honomu, Gibb of Paauhau, Gjerdrum of Honokaa, Forbes of Kukuihaele, Hall of Niuhii, Kay of Halawa, Deacon of Kohala, Renton of Union Mill, and Hind of Hawi, in connection with whose plantations our preachers are laboring, are vitally interested in what these evangelists are doing. These managers are not afraid to let their Japanese employes know what they are in sympathy with Christian work. Some of them drop in upon a Japanese service now and then to show their interest and also take no little pains to find out what the evangelists are doing. This is a double aid to the preachers. It keeps them faithful and gives them great encouragement. The Japanese laborers also, accustomed as they are in their country to seeing their leading countrymen indifferent to religion, are profoundly impressed when they find that in America men of influence are deeply interested in religious work. That it is possible for a busy manager to let his Christian light shine in his treatment of his men and in the cordial and open help rendered to the pastors and evangelists of various nationalities within his plantation, is made very evident by a growing number of earnest Christian men throughout the Territory. God's richest blessing is sure to rest upon all such noble work."

Change Precinct Boundaries.

In the Forth District of Honolulu, Chairman Robertson of the Territorial Committee of the Republicans, is ready with his suggestions for changes of precinct boundaries. The basis to which he has brought the district will undoubtedly give each voter a chance to cast his ballot, the apportionment being approximately 250 voters to a precinct, and will in all likelihood be adopted. There has been no change of these precincts in four years.

The Island of Maui is to be taken up next by Governor Atkinson. In this, the Third Representative District, there have been various recommendations for precinct changes received from Republicans, but none from either Democrats or Home Rulers.

After Maui is disposed of Hawaii will be taken up. In the First district, some changes will have to be made in Olaa precinct, caused by the County Act. Some changes have also been suggested in the Second Representative District on the big Island. It is desired, however, to have any suggestions that are to be submitted as to changes forwarded to the Secretary's office as early as possible.

In the reapportionment that has been arranged for Kauai and Niuhau, there have been some changes. The old Fourth precinct, for instance, has been made into two, a new Fourth and Fifth, and this moves all the others along.

Extending Cable System.

By the end of April the Pacific Commercial Cable company expects to send messages entirely through its own cable in the Pacific ocean from San Francisco to Shanghai and Japan via Honolulu, Midway and Guam. A steamer is now laying a cable from Guam to Japan and another is to be laid later on between Manila and Shanghai.

The entire system is to be duplexed. That is, messages can be sent both ways through a single cable at the same time.

Thirty-One-Mile Liners.

New York, March 15.—A steamship that could run away from a subway express train and race over the seas from New York to Queens-town in three days eighteen hours, or there and back in a week, will be an accomplished fact when the Cunard Line's turbine vessel Lusitania and Mauritania begin their ocean express traffic next winter. They will be the longest boats in the world by almost 100 feet, broader than any of the German leviathans, and at the same time possessing the shapely lines of greyhounds like the Lucania.

The Lusitania is building on the Clyde and the Mauritania on the Tyne. They are expected to develop a speed of thirty-one statute miles an hour, making it possible to cover the distance from New York to Queenstown in three days and eighteen hours. The new turbine steamers are 700 feet long between perpendiculars, or 800 feet counting the stern overhang.

The new Cunard twins will carry 300 first-class, 400 second-class and about 1000 third class passengers. The interior furnishings and appointments will be the finest of any ships in the world. All the woodwork will be of mahogany, walnut and satinwood. There will be a system of elevators carrying passengers up and down the greater part of the ship's depth of sixty feet.

Mosquito Campaign a Success.

Over fifteen hundred of the top minnows brought here to eat mosquito larvae have been distributed in various ponds and there are ten thousand on hand for any persons who may have a chance to put them. The breeding of the fish here is now a completely assured success, and on all sides it is conceded that there has been a great reduction in the number of mosquitoes here since the fish came.

The last lot of fish sent out by Captain Paul Smith, who is looking after the anti-mosquito work of the Board of health, was 600 for a Judd street pond. It has been found that the introduction of the fish in any body of water quickly reduces the number of mosquitoes in its vicinity.

Only about 400 of the fish were brought here originally. From this number enough have been secured to enable the Board to have ponds stocked with ten thousand or more for distribution now.

The mosquito evil, in the form of an almost intolerable pest, as it was some years ago, is believed to be a thing of the past.—Star.

Look Mixed Cargo.

A big cargo of sugar and Island produce from leeward Hawaii ports was brought by the steamer Manna Loa, which returned April 10. There was ginger, taro, awa, coffee, oranges, alligator pears and water lemons in profusion from Kona ports, which occasioned a large gathering of pake hucksters on the wharf all morning. Fine weather was experienced on the entire trip. The sugar awaiting shipment on Hawaii plantations is 15,000 bags at Honokaa, 7500 bags at Kukuihaele and 500 bags at Honnapo. The Mauna Loa sails on next Friday at noon for usual ports.—Bulletin.

A Remedy that is Truly Magical in Its Power to Relieve Pain.

Mr. Lewis Rozario, Manager of Madras Co-op. Stores, of Madras, India, says: "I certainly think Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is one of the best medicines made. I had been suffering from an attack of colic and after trying a couple of prescriptions without relief, a friend suggested that I take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I did so and the result was truly magical for it gave me immediate relief. About that time several of my staff were attacked in a like manner and out of this same bottle I cured them all." BERT'S STRATEGY

By RUTH SANTELLE

Copyright, 1904, by K. M. Whitehead

Bertie Temple came hurriedly up the steps with a purposeful look in his usually dreamy eyes that elicited a murmur of surprised comment from the nearest groups on the hotel piazza. He made straight for the corner where Dorothy Vane was holding merry court. Mayhap it was rude to interrupt Upright's best story, but the fair lady lifted questioning eyes, and Bertie plunged into the hostile masculine circle.

"If you please, Miss Dorothy, I should like to beg a few moments' conversation—private, if I may make so bold."

Perhaps it was for the reason that this frank request, made with such apparent confidence in its being granted, sounded so unlike diffident, self-deprecatory Bertie that her woman's curiosity was aroused. At any rate, the furious swains received a gracious but aggregate smile for their kindness, and Miss Dorothy was borne away down the moonlit piazza on the arm of that vandal, Temple.

"I'm in a deuce of a hole, Dollie," began Bertie, low and hurriedly. "I can't tell anybody else, but I know you'll help a fellow out. It's that Miss Simpkins—oh, I suppose it sounds frightfully caddish—but I should think you must have seen! Encouraged by my childlike countenance to take advantage, like all the others!"

"Most unhappy infant!" interrupted Dorothy, with a sympathetic pat on his white flannelled sleeve. "You have had our united commiserations for a week. If that amiable spinster harbors no design upon your innocent head appearances are indeed misleading. Only don't, I beseech you, ask me to abuse a faithful conscience by hiding her false front or anything like that."

"No, Dollie, I have my plan—amazingly simple and, I think you'll admit, rather clever." Then he added, with a sharp glance from the corners of his eyes, unobserved by the smiling maiden, "And if you'll only say yes, Dollie, we ought to be able to get some fun out of it thrown in."

"Unveil your mystery," came the animated command.

"It's just this: The old, old bore buttonholed me after dinner tonight and whispered laughingly that she'd discovered the music room window behind the portieres was the most heavenly place to watch the moonlight on the waves and that she was going to feast her soul there this evening and—oh, you know the sort of stuff! Of course it would be the most natural thing in the world for me to forget it if I had persuaded my fiancée to sit with me just outside the window." He stopped suddenly as they reached the corner of the east piazza, caught both the girl's hands and held them for an instant. "Dollie, will you be engaged to me for an hour, just to save a fellow from the clutches?"

Dorothy's head went high, the scent of battle in her delicate nostrils. During the barely perceptible hesitation her mind held the picture of a recent day when she had been cheated out of an afternoon's sailing with the adorable Freddie Burton by Miss Simpkins' meddling.

"I'll do it, Freddie," she whispered in gay excitement.

A moment later Mr. Temple was seating his fiancée pro tem. beneath the wide, dark music room window.

"Ah, Dollie mine," he breathed in admirably leverlike tones, while the young lady thus possessively addressed half-suppressed hysterical giggles, "at last I have you to myself and away from all those smirking cads that cluster around you as if they had the right. The right is mine now, isn't it, sweetheart?"

"Ye-es," very faintly.

Thus encouraged, the happy lover drew nearer and availed himself of two tempting white hands. Miss Dorothy removed them from his tender clasp with vehemence. "Now, Bertie, how many times have I to tell you—"

There was just the tiniest rustling within the window.

"Dollie," he whispered, "you mustn't forget we're engaged!"

The hands resigned themselves limply to the inevitable.

"I hope you realize, dearest"—the voice became audible again, and Dorothy was surprised to notice how pleasantly caressing Bertie's voice could be—"that you have made me the happiest man alive. I've never wanted anything as I have wanted this, and now—oh, girlie, it's almost unbelievable yet! Tell me again that it's so; that you truly love me!"

Dorothy's eyes opened wide in the darkness. Bertie Temple making love in this magnificent fashion! It was almost thrilling.

"Why, of course I do, silly. You know it without my repeating it over and over as if I had nothing else to say."

"Do what, sweetheart?" mischievously. Again a suggestion of movement on the other side of the window.

Bertie pressed the captive hands warningly. "Please," he whispered. "She's there, listening. You promised. We'll both be in for it if you fall now."

"Well, then behave!" she retorted under her breath. "Just this once, mind." Then a little louder, but understandingly, "Do I love you, Bertie," she said.

"Oh, my little girl, my little girl!" he said huskily, holding the hands tighter than ever. "I said I was happy before, but I've never been absolutely so until this minute. Why, Dollie! You remember we were interrupted last night, and you've never let me kiss you. It's 'Yes,' isn't it, dear?" leaning very close.

"Why, Bertie Temple, I should say not! Of all the mean, deceiving advantage taking tricks"—She paused breathless, her voice quivering wrathfully.

But Bertie clung desperately to her hands. "Dollie, don't spoil it all!" in a beseeching whisper. "We'll never hear the last of it."

She sank back weakly.

"Oh! I—I—it's so very new, you know. I'm not accustomed to it yet. You—you are not angry with me, dear?"

"Angry with you? Never as long as I—"

"Of course I didn't mean that. But anyway you mustn't surprise me so violently. It might make me l-l-like you less. No, I guess I'd better not let you tonight, just for punishment. No—I—well! If you're going to feel so heart-broken, just one very tiny one right here," indicating the tip of a rosy ear.

The elaborate performance was hardly concluded when a small, agitated voice came very close to Mr. Temple's own auditory member.

"Bertie! I'm positive I smell fresh cigar smoke! Do you suppose any one is listening round the corner? I shall simply die."

The answer came from an unexpected quarter. Out of the dusk of the low music room window stepped the youthful, immaculate figure of Miss Dorothy's brother Bob.

"Hello, you two!" he greeted gaily, but with carefully modulated voice. "I didn't mean to listen more than a minute, but it was too good a chance to learn how. I knew you'd not mind so much, being all in the family. But, seriously, old man, I'm no end glad! Rather have you for a brother than any fellow I know—though I had a suspicion that Dot made a practice of refusing you about once a week. And here's my most brotherly kiss for the maiden—not on the ear, either!" And Bob beamed gleefully on one and then the other, a man who had risen to accept his felicitations with quiet dignity and a girl who stood with both hands pressed to a palpitating breast.

"This will just about sign your release on the Simpkins' question, won't it, Bertie?" continued the garrulous Bob. "By the bye, that cheerful skeleton frame tiptoeing into the music room just before you two obscured my outlook and left with obvious reluctance on discovering me. I suppose it's registered to my discredit, but I hadn't the moral courage to resign the window seat in her favor."

Dorothy's hands suddenly covered her face, but not in time to quench a little gasping sound that was not more than half laughter.

Bertie took one step to her side and threw a protecting arm across the bent shoulders. Under that shelter a fluttering little heart was proclaiming: "She did come! It was the truth and not a joke to make me wretched! I could never have married a man who would lie to me!"

"Dot must be weeping to think how cut up old lady Simpkins will be," ventured Bob, "and nervous, I suppose, at being interrupted so suddenly. Never mind, little girl. I'll go right away and never tell a soul. Only she might show brother her new ring—or is it all so very new that the ring hasn't arrived yet?"

"So new that the ring was about to be produced when you appeared," replied Bertie in a very deep voice, taking Dollie's left hand and slipping something very quickly on to her finger.

"Oh!" she cried, with a quaver of delight; then she sat down very abruptly, leaning forward to let the moonlight sparkle on the beautiful stone.

For once in his life Bob showed sufficient discretion to steal noiselessly away.

She sat very still, absently turning the circlet this way and that, watching the flash of changing colors; then, with a shaky little sigh, she slipped it off and held it toward him. "It's very lovely, Bertie. I guess the girl you bought it for won't mind my having it on for a few minutes. Aren't you going to tell me who she is, Bertie? We've been pretty good friends, you know."

Straight and tall he stood before her. "Yes, Dollie, I am going to tell you who she is," he answered slowly, then dropped on one knee and slipped the ring back on the finger from which she had removed it. "She is you, you, you," he whispered, "and no one else in the wide world. May it stay there, my Dollie!"

"Bertie," and her eyes grew luminous with wonder, "do you mean that you still care after I have refused you—oh, I don't like to think how many times? But I never knew how nice you could be."

"You never gave me the chance," he answered happily, "so I had to try strategy."

Not in His Line. The sexton of a certain parish church would brook no interference with what he was pleased to call his "special duties."

"Every man to his trade, sez I," he would remark. "Let the parson do the preachin' an' I'll do the rest."

On one occasion the vicar was of the opinion that John was neglecting his duties.

John, who was not wanting in wit, strenuously denied the charge and said that he was "not goin' to stand no meddlin'" with his affairs.

"But, John," said the vicar, "it be hooves everybody to mind his p's and q's."

"Everybody but me," retorted John, refusing to be cornered. "P's an' q's is nowt 't my line. I've enough to do to mind the keys and pews."—London Telegraph.

Question of Time.

H. Vicars was an intending passenger for Mahukona, by the Kinau, Friday, as was, also Judge Harry Rickard, of Laupahoehoe, for that landing. Both were left however, and it is asserted the steamer sailed several minutes ahead of time. This the steamer people deny, saying that she left on time by the steamer's chronometer.

Steamship Company Officials.

Hamakua Cigar Approved.

E. R. Blacow, who has been in charge of the U. S. Experiment station at Hamakua for about two years, has sent a box of cigars made entirely of Hamakua tobacco to Sub-land-agent Williams which Mr. Williams has distributed freely about town. The cigars are made of unfermented, or uncurd tobacco, a process that requires large quantities to successfully perform, and is consequently not a sample of a tobacco in anything like a perfect state of preparation. The burning qualities are good, and the cigars are pronounced by the best judges as fine, considering that the leaf had not been put through the important process of fermentation.

Mr. Ridgway, Artist.

J. C. Ridgway has added to the Elk's art collection a picture, done by himself, of Old King Cole, or some other merry old soul, with an appropriate verse written below. It is burned on wood with much taste and skill and is an ornament to the club rooms. Mr. Ridgway has recently done a humorous skit, burned on leather, and presented it to a Hilo young lady who became engaged to the other fellow. It represents this lady and the accepted, also a well known man, up a telephone pole; another, with a bagpipe under his arm consoling himself with music, while Mr. Ridgway appears taking a moonlight drive, this time alone.

A. B. Loebenstein says: It is on Montgomery Street or that portion of it faced by the Occidental Hotel where the world flies by, at least a goodly portion from Hilo's busy marts. One has but to stand for the moment and look into the faces of the passing pedestrians, to encounter the worldly wise stare of our Hon. G. S. Mackenzie, J. R. Wilson, J. W. Mackintosh, Fred Breyman, or Volcano Water Williams, all bent on the same errand,—the search for the unattainable wealth to be found in Tonopah mines.

Suspended Operations.

Engineer Tom Cook, began final inspection of the sewer system on Saturday. Foreman Foster representing L. M. Whitehouse of Honolulu who has the contract for construction, has suspended operations to await instructions, believing the amount appropriated, $13,000., to be nearly all expended. The system is about three quarters completed, a little remaining to be done to finish Pitman Street and put in laterals, and the entire work on School and Pleasant Streets remaining.

Unexpected Departure.

Y. Hamada, the merchant, left on the Olympia without giving a farewell reception to his friends, or paying his debts, of which, to judge from the talk on the streets, there were many. Hoffschlager Co. filed a suit of attachment, and papers covering the store property were served by the sheriff at noon Thursday upon a man in charge of the premises, the store being closed. Hamada's unceremonious departure is the talk of Japanese town where many creditors mourn his departure.

Will Rush Completion.

Principal Richmond, of the Hilo High School, returned from a trip to Honolulu last Wednesday. Mr. Richmond is convinced that there will be no delay in the construction of the high school building; that work upon it will be prosecuted vigorously by the Department of Public Works, under Superintendent Rabbitt's recommendation, and that the building will be ready for occupancy early in the next school year, which begins in September.

Resigns Management.

H. L. Shaw has resigned his position as manager of the Hilo Drug Co., which he has held satisfactorily for over six years. He has disposed of his house and household goods to Capt. The directors took steps at once to secure a manager to take the place made vacant.

OLYMPIA TOOK FEW JAPS.

Dilemmas of Judge Gear and Labor Agents.

The steamer Olympia, that arrived in the bay Monday last with 198 Jap laborers for the coast, left Wednesday, having secured 102 from this vicinity. She cleared from Honolulu for Seattle via Hilo, but reported to this customs office. Judge Geo. D. Gear, agent for the Oriental Immigration Co., came over from Honolulu with her and returned by the Kailani Saturday.

In connection with the visit of the steamer at this port, Tamara Sotaro, of Hilo, was arrested by the authorities, charged with the violation of Territorial Act No. 57, which requires that a license, costing $500 a year, be taken out by everyone engaged in inducing laborers to leave the Territory. The case was tried in the district court and occupied Friday and Saturday morning, W. A. Fetter prosecuting, and W. S. Wise appearing for the defense. Five witnesses were summoned, two immigration agents here from Honolulu, and one, representing himself to be a ticket agent of the steamer, residence in Seattle, Wash. Judge Gear was present and announced himself to the court as representing these witnesses. Decision of the case was postponed till Thursday next.

It was reported on the streets Wednesday that 300 laborers were leaving here by the steamer; and Friday, the equally ridiculous report was current that the steamer had put back into the bay by night and taken aboard a large number of Japs. The steamer did not go from this port to Kahului, Maui, either as was reported.

Could Not Do Justice to Robin Hood.

To the Editor of the HILO TRIBUNE: I have been sweating drops of blood, (many of them) since I realized that I had promised those who have the management of the play that I would write a notice for the paper about Robin Hood, and though I pride myself on not being in the habit of backing out, and that in this particular case, I am absolutely unable to do justice to the subject. I have not slept a wink since I was fool enough to tell them I would attend to the matter. It is entirely out of my line, but like the concentrated extract that I was, I was ashamed to confess it at the time, but now acknowledge it, and ask for mercy. Anyone who ever mentions paper to me again, will be my enemy for life. I have found my limitations, and freely acknowledge it. I mean to speak ahead for eleven reserved seats for the performance, however, as I plan to treat the whole flock this time, and we shall all see Robin Hood from awkward Tom to Baby Jew Jams. Yours very truly, * * * Enterprise in Industry.

Jose Pena, a Spaniard from Nicaragua, interested in sugar production in that country, after visiting Ewa plantation on Oahu, came over on the Kinau Wednesday and visited one of our plantations, returning Friday. CALLS IT A FAILURE.

Molokan Labor Colonization Scheme Does Not Give Satisfaction.

George Fairchild, manager of the Makee Sugar Company on Kauai, does not believe that the Molokan labor will prove a solution to the labor problem here, according to the Star. He says that not only are the Molokans dissatisfied, but they are not giving satisfaction.

"Only 25 per cent of the men there now do any thing like a fair day's work," said Mr. Fairchild this morning, "and the remainder are good for nothing. They get along better with the plantation authorities than they do among themselves. As a community they are an absolute failure."

"The only way that the Molokan scheme can be bettered is for the government to take a hand and giving each man so much land, individualize the entire lot. They spend most of the time fighting among themselves."

"I propose that they appoint a certain man as the head of the colony and give him powers of attorney so that they could be paid more easily, but no, they answered that they did not want any Czar. Then I proposed three men for the place, but no again, they didn't want a triumvirate. They came here to be free. As a community they are a failure and it will cost the plantation thousands of dollars to divide them up."

"As I said 25 per cent do a fair day's work, that is, not as good as a Jap, but about 70 or 80 per cent as well. The remainder are unambitious; they accept the $20 a month the plantation advances and are content. And they do not earn one half of that."

"My foreman has lost 25 pounds since he has been attending to them. They fight him continually, telling him when he shows them about certain work, that they want no Czar over them. He has threatened to leave me and I wouldn't blame him if he did."

"People may think that I am a bigoted plantation manager and only like Chinese. Well, let them come and see for themselves. Don't take my word for it. Come to Kapaa and spend a week and you will talk just as I do."

"The Molokan labor for plantations is not a success and will not be unless things change wonderfully."

New Schools For Hawaii.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction is busy now going over the plans for new school houses on Hawaii, and will take up those on the other islands in their turn. For Hawaii, there are thirty-eight thousand dollars available for the construction of school houses, many of which are needed, but twenty thousand of this goes in a lump sum, by appropriation made at the last session of the Legislature, for the construction of two rooms at Makapala, three rooms at Hakalau, two at Honolulu, and two at Olaa Twelve-mile.

The new buildings that it is proposed to build, and for which the plans are now being gone over, are for a one room school at Paauhau, a one-room school at Kaunamano, one room at Kaunama, three rooms at Pepeekeo, two at Kaiaka-uka, two at Hilea and one at Makala-waena.—Advertiser.

St. Katherine at Honolulu.

Honolulu, April 11.—The bark St. Katherine arrived off the port last night in time to enable Captain Saunders and his family to hear the band that was playing on the roof garden at the Young Hotel. The St. Katherine made a fast run. She left Hilo Monday at 3 p. m. She came into the harbor this morning. The vessel loaded 600 tons of sugar ballast at Hilo and will take about 20,000 sacks more of sugar at Honolulu. She will get away for San Francisco about Saturday.—Star.

QUESTION OF CLEMENCY.

Suggested in Case of Five Korean Murderers.

The question of executive clemency is to be discussed with Acting Governor Atkinson, in the case of the five Korean murderers, according to the Honolulu papers. Attorney Carl Smith states that he has not received the communication from the Governor, mentioned in the papers. The Star says:

The Rev. J. W. Wadman, accompanied by the acting Japanese consul called on Acting Governor Atkinson to arrange for a hearing in the interests of the five Koreans who are in the Oahu jail under sentence of death. The Japanese consul here is also representative of the Korean government, or what is left of it, and the Rev. Wadman is very closely identified with religious work among the Japanese and Koreans throughout the islands.

The acting governor agreed to have a meeting with the Rev. Wadman to discuss the matter. The consul did not make any suggestions in the matter. The papers in the case have not been received here yet and there has been little investigation beyond that which took place in Hilo, resulting in a verdict condemning the five men to be hanged. As soon as the records are received, Atkinson will take up a study of them. The prisoners under the law will be subject to execution next week or later, if the executive signs death warrants, on a date to be named by him.

Acting Governor Atkinson has written Carl Smith, who represented the defendants, by appointment, asking if he has any statement make concerning the matter. As far as the facts are known here they show a murder of incredible atrocity the victim being tortured for hours by the men now under sentence. Deputy Attorney General Milverton, who prosecuted the case, will also be called upon for a statement.

A Territorial Asset.

Its name is Hilo Boarding School, Three hours in farm labor, one hour in shop work, five hours and twenty-five minutes in study and recitations, three hours and three quarters in play, eight hours and a half in bed, leaving two hours and twenty minutes for eating and devotional exercises, round and an ideal day. Physical labor in this institution is no misnomer. The boys work like beavers. They produce nearly all the food which the school consumes and that on 40 acres of land. They have built 1300 feet of good road and this means quarrying out, hauling, crushing and hand tamping the stone. They have laid the concrete floors for the new school house basement, done all the carpentering for dining room, kitchen and store rooms, built the range, made all their bedsteads of iron, and done almost all plumbing. They carry on a flourishing curio factory and take orders for tasteful koa tables. The place fairly hums with busy-ness. The new school house is a marvel of much in little. It solves the problem of comfort and convenience minus luxury. The boys trained here go out with no expensive habits, no education beyond their spheres, yet with trained capacity to make their environment constantly better. A number of nationalities are represented in the group of 60 scholars. The religious life receives the insistence due to it as the first thing of importance. Hawaii certainly has no better nursery of sturdy manhood than this splendid bequest of the old-time missionary era. In another column we print some observations upon this unique school, made by a lady visiting Hawaii, and published in the Hilo Tribune.—Friend, Honolulu.

STEAMER MAUNA KEA.

Contract Signed for the Inter-Island's Big New Boat.

The contract for building the new Inter-Island steamer was signed yesterday by James A. Kennedy, on behalf of the steamship company, and Vice-President Fredericks of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco. The specifications call for a steamer 251.6 in length and a 37-foot beam. The Kinau has a length of 186 feet and a beam breadths of 32 feet.

The construction will be the best obtainable and the design is modern, many of the features being copied from the plans of the Mongolia. An innovation, in so far as the building of island boats for these waters is concerned, is the double bottom. In the event of the steamer going on the rocks at any time there would be absolutely no danger of serious results for the steamer would keep afloat and would ride easily on the second bottom. Practically she will have six decks or five above the hold. There will be the 'tween deck, the main, upper, shade and bridge decks. There will be cabin accommodations for 160 passengers on the upper deck, every stateroom opening out on the deck. There will be two berths and a couch in each room and the appointments will be almost de luxe. An electric light will be at the head of each bed and a fan in every room driven by electric power. Special attention will be paid to the arrangement of the lavatories in the rooms and they will be beautifully finished in hardwood and porcelain. The largest of the rooms will have a length of ten feet. There will be a large and well furnished social hall with everything for the entertainment and amusement of the passengers and the smoking room, which will be on the shade deck, will be fitted up for comfort and will be provided with tables and a bar at which non-alcoholic drinks and tea and coffee will be served to passengers. On this deck, directly back of the pilot house, will also be the staterooms of the captain and the first and second officers.

Accommodations for second-class passengers will be on the 'tween and main decks. There will be rooms for female passengers who wish to lie down, and, besides, there will be abundant airy space for men who can accustom themselves to the deck boards without feeling discomfort. There will be several toilets, and one bathroom, the latter for the accommodation of first-class passengers only. All of these rooms will be fitted with the very latest appliances and will have tile floors.

The steamer will be fitted with triple expansion engines and steam steering gear and will have a guaranteed speed of fifteen knots. Her carrying capacity will be 600 tons of freight and it is thought that if she leaves here on the regular Kinau schedule she will arrive at Hilo early the next morning.

"The company realizes," said Mr. Kennedy yesterday, "that the very name of the Kinau is a soul-stirrer to the community and we had to get something that would be so far ahead of her in every way that the tourist travel to the other islands would improve and the Mauna Kea, which is to be the name of the new steamer, is the result of our deliberations. The cost of it will be, well a mite greater than a year's subscription to the Advertiser, but the directors of the Inter-Island company felt that it was something in which economy should not be the only consideration. The plans, you will observe, contemplate something a good deal finer than anything in the history of the island shipping and the specifications have been drawn with a view to the comfort of the passengers."

"In some instances the Mongolia has been the pattern followed and this applies mainly to the arrangement of the diningroom, which runs clear across the steamer, and the pantry. The tables in the diningroom, you will notice, run from the center to the side, except one, instead of in the center as is the case on the other steamers. The pantry is patterned exactly after the big steamer and is situated near the diningroom, and the steam tables by which heat the food will be kept warm at all times."

There will be six working boats on her and two galvanized iron boats for the use of passengers at the landings. The contract calls for the steamer to be delivered to the owners in one year.—Advertiser.

A Coffee Tariff.

In 1873 the American government took off the import tax from coffee. Much of the coffee consumed here comes from Brazil; only a very little from Porto Rico. The inhabitants of that island would gladly increase their export of this product. When they hear that their coffee is not as good as the Brazilian, they reply that we do not understand how to grind and roast theirs; that if we did so, we would like it as well. The Porto Ricans have largely lost their once thriving European coffee trade because as they say, they are now subservient to American law, and consequently, the American government should counter-balance this loss by restoring their trade. It is impossible to substitute sugar-cane planting for coffee; the latter is necessarily the island's chief staple and natural foundation for its prosperity, for it is produced in the mountainous country (where cane cannot be cultivated), and is the main crop of the many small farmers of the interior, as it requires no costly machinery for preparation. As soon as it is picked it can be sold green in the berry to neighbors having some kind of machinery more or less perfect. The restoration of the coffee trade can be brought about, declares Senor Larriaga, the Porto Rican delegate in Congress, by a measure which would also develop coffee production in our Hawaii and Philippine possessions, where like climatic, agricultural and industrial conditions exist. The force which, he says, would do all this is, as may be suspected, a negative one—namely, the reimposition of an import duty on Brazilian or other foreign coffees. This may or may not be a wise course. Like most tariff protection, it would be taxation of the many for the benefit of the few. But if we as a nation are to continue to be protectionists, here is a chance to be logically consistent and at the same time to offer commercial preference to our insular possession. Politically, too, the more or less justified grumblings from the Porto Ricans (as to their lack of settled conditions in the general and in particular as to the upper house of their legislature) would, we think, be considerably lessened by greater attention paid by Congress, under any circumstances, to the island's industrial and commercial problems.—Outlook, March 24.

That Tired Feeling

Which is so disheartening is often caused by poor, thin blood, resulting in deficient vitality.

The blood needs to be enriched and vitalized; and for this there is no medicine in the world equal to

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

The cures it has worked, the men, women, and children it has restored to health, are countless in number. One such experience is as follows:

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family for years, and would not be without it. I used to suffer with boils and skin eruptions, attended with great lassitude and exhaustion. In fact, I was so ill that I could not attend to my business. Being advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I did so, and I am happy to say that the medicine restored me to perfect health. I have since used Ayer's Sarsaparilla for my children, in various complaints, and it has always proved effective. I can safely recommend it to sufferers as a true blood purifier."

There are many imitations Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "AYER'S."

YESUVIUS IN VIOLENT ERUPTION.

Streams of Red Hot Lava Threaten Villages.—Naples in a Panic.

Naples, April 7.—The eruption of Vesuvius becomes increasingly violent every hour, and the inhabitants of the villages about the base of the mountain are stricken with panic and crowding into the churches.

The main stream of lava that is flowing down the mountain is two hundred feet in width, and is running at the rate of twenty-one feet per minute.

The scene at night is magnificent, flames leaping a thousand feet above the summit of the crater. On the Pompeii side of the mountain, the main stream of lava has divided, threatening the destruction of the Ottajano Commune, with 20,000 inhabitants, and of Torre del Greco, also with a population of twenty thousand.

Naples, April 9.—Vesuvius continues active. The panic has reached Naples. Two earthquakes occurred yesterday, driving the population in terror into the streets. Boscotrecase has been destroyed. Torre Annunziata, a city of 30,000 population, has been abandoned. San Sebastino is threatened.

[Boscotrecase and San Sebastino would appear to be small towns or villages, as they do not appear in a standard atlas. As Naples has a population of about half a million, the scene the panic from the terror of earthquake, added to that of fear of a fiery deluge, has created in its streets must be something dreadful in itself. The abandonment of Torre Annunziata by its thirty thousand souls must be attended by a fearful amount of privation and misery. Even if the worst of nature's convulsions were already past in the region of the great volcano, it must be a long time before the catalogue of disastrous consequences will be fully unrolled.]

Naples, Italy, April 10.—The roof of the Monte Iliveto market has collapsed under the weight of the ashes showered from the volcano of Vesuvius. Two hundred people are believed to have been buried in the ruins.

Forty-nine bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the churches of Ottajano. Seventy-nine people were buried in the collapse of one church at the city of Terredel Greco.

Naples, April 10.—The eruption of Vesuvius shows signs of subsidence, but 15,000 people have been forced to take flight from their homes by the threat of destruction from the volcano.

All trains running out of the city are delayed by cinders on the railway tracks. Five hundred persons are reported dead, of whom two hundred perished in the collapse of the church of San Giuseppe.

[The activity of Vesuvius began several months ago, and coincidentally with it there have been noted signs of volcanic turbulence in the island grouped about the southern extremity of the Italian peninsula.]

Notably have there been disturbances in the little island of Ustica, off the north coast of Sicily, concerning which phenomena the mainland papers printed the following dispatch:

New York, March 30.—A special to the Herald from Palermo says: New and violent earthquake shocks were felt on the island of Ustica this afternoon, destroying walls that were left standing after the last visitation. People in terror fled for refuge to vessels and launches in port, and many left for Palermo. Four warships have been sent here by the government to take to Sicily all who wish to leave.]
