DESTRUCTION OF THE CITY ALMOST COMPLETE

LOSS EXCEEDING $750,000,000.
INSURANCE: $200,000,000.
AREA BURNED: FIFTEEN MILES.
DURATION OF EARTHQUAKE: FORTY-SEVEN SECONDS.
HOMELESS: 350,000 PEOPLE.
LOSS OF LIFE: ABOUT 700.
INJURED: ABOUT 1000.

San Francisco, April 29.—This city lies stricken, covered by the ruins of its former handsome buildings; all its glory, wealth and prosperity destroyed by the cruel flames following the earthquake of Wednesday morning, April 17. The time of the shock was thirteen minutes past five in the morning and it lasted for forty-seven seconds. No one need consult an authority for the exact time for the big clocks about the city record the hour and minute. The clocks stopped at exactly 5:13 o'clock and their mute hands mark the minute that commenced the disaster that all but wiped out the fair city by the Golden Gate.

No poor words can describe the present condition of San Francisco; no words can tell of the misery, destitution and destruction that followed in the wake of the terrible flames. In a brief space of time 350,000 people were made homeless, bereft of all their belongings; a loss to business men and others to an amount exceeding $750,000,000, with insurance of about $200,000,000. Not quite four-fifths of the city is destroyed. The fire was stopped on the northeast by the water front, on the southeast by Townsend street, on the south by Bryant and Twenty-first streets, on the southwest by Dolores and the west by Franklin. The area devastated approximates 10,000 acres or about fifteen square miles. There are few cities in the world where so much valuable property is contained in an equal territorial area. Within this fifteen square miles were nearly 100 banks, some of the finest buildings in the world, thousands of mercantile and manufacturing establishments, and more than 250,000 inhabitants, besides some 40,000 transients. These brief facts serve to convey a faint idea of the magnitude of the losses sustained and the vast extent of the ruin. They also serve to sharply emphasize the comparatively small loss of life from all causes—earthquake, fire, accident and shooting.

The aggregate of fatalities is estimated at 700, but the real number of guests will never be known. Secretary Metcalf, in his report to the President, places the number of deaths at 300, with 1000 injured in local hospitals, but adds: "In my judgement, it will be impossible to determine the exact number of deaths."

Of all the handsome buildings in San Francisco but few withstood the onslaughts of the flames. The St. Francis hotel stands erect in a district that was otherwise totally destroyed. The woodwork and every thing contained inside was burned; it is claimed that the walls are secure and that the building can be put in order by June 1st coming. The Call building is gutted, but can be repaired, it is claimed. The Chronicle and Monadnock building are in fair condition, the Flood building likewise; the Kohl or Hayward building and the Merchants' Exchange stand, and will be made ready for occupancy. The few buildings named are all that is left of San Francisco business district. All others were destroyed by fire or dynamite.

With the exception of the St. Francis and the new Fairmount, all the hotels are gone. The famous Palace is burned beyond repair, the four walls are standing and that is all; the familiar Occidental furnished food for the flames; the old Lick House, a landmark of pioneer days, is a thing of the past. The California hotel is but a pile of ruins. A wall of this hotel went down under the shock, falling on the house of Engine company No. 2, on Bush street. The pile of brick crashed through the roof of the fire house and fatally injured Chief Sullivan of the San Francisco fire department.

With the exception of Mission Dolores not a church in the devastated district was left standing. The theaters were all destroyed. The Grand opera house and Columbia theater collapsed—the remaining places of amusement went down before the flames. The large modern buildings stood the shock of earthquake, but later were destroyed by fire. In many instances their walls remained standing and had to be dynamited.

Postoffice Building Destroyed.

San Francisco, May 5.—Two blocks west of the mint stood the splendid new postoffice building, finished about six months ago, and erected at a cost of $2,000,000 for actual construction. It was one of the most beautiful buildings in the United States, said to have been equalled in architectural excellence only by the new Congressional Library at Washington. It was destroyed.

Down in the older building sections were many old landmarks, but they exist no longer. The Occidental hotel on Montgomery street, for years the headquarters of army officers visiting San Francisco; the old Lick House, built by the philanthropist, James Lick, the old Russ House, also on Montgomery street; the Nevada National Bank block; the Haywards building at California and Montgomery, a modern structure of ten stories; then to the eastward the splendid example of the severe Gothic style, the California National Bank; the First National Bank, the First Canadian Bank of Commerce, the London & San Francisco Bank, on California; the London, Paris & American Bank and the Bank of British North America, on Sansome street; the large German-American Savings Bank, also on California—these are a few of the notable buildings destroyed in that district. The California hotel and theater on Bush street near Montgomery; the Grand opera house on Mission street, where the Corried Grand Opera company had just opened for a series of three weeks of opera; the Orpheum, the Columbia, the Alcazar, the Majestic, the Central, Fishers, were some of the playhouses to which pleasure-loving San Francisco were wont to flock.

Resumption of Business.

San Francisco, May 5.—Mayor Schmitz has issued a proclamation permitting the resumption of all business excepting the sale of liquor. The proclamation also permits the erection of temporary one-story buildings without the formality of securing permits. The savings banks will open on Monday. The general committee has issued an appeal for aid for one thousand medical men who have been left without offices.

Geologic Catastrophe.

Oakland, May 4.—Geologists have made a most important discovery in connection with the recent earthquake. A split in the Coast Range Mountains has been discovered near Redwood City. One crevasse is four miles long at the summit, while the western side of the range has been found to have slipped several inches toward the ocean.

Loss at University of California.

Oakland, May 2.—The loss at the University of California will amount to $1,500,000, due to damages caused by the earthquake.

Harriman Offers Hundred Million Loan.

San Francisco, May 4.—President Harriman has offered a loan of one hundred millions of dollars to owners of real estate in this city if the government fails to endorse the proposed bond issue.

Washington, May 5.—The Congressional committee will today report adversely the bill guaranteeing San Francisco's proposed $200,000,000 bond issue.

Organized Band of Looters.

Oakland, May 4.—The marines have arrested 20 members of an organized band of looters.

Ten thousand union laborers are working in San Francisco and 11,000 more have registered.

Trouble With Molokans.

Honolulu, May 2.—The Molokans on Kauai have practically quit work. Only two or three of them were at work this week, according to reports brought by today's steamer from the Garden Island, and the rest are engaged in wrangling.

"I got the impression that they would rather talk than work," said Acting Governor Atkinson, who returned today from a visit to Kauai to see the Russians. "I had a number of interviews with them and I must say that I am much impressed with the patience of Col. Spalding. They cannot agree at all among themselves, and they distrust one another to the last limit. They have been changed from field to field until it is useless to change them any more. The community settlement is out of the question and is abandoned, and we are now trying what can be done with the Molokans as individual settlers on lands. As a final result of my discussions I prepared a rough draft of an agreement under which they might be able to work with Spalding."

As far as their original agreements are concerned, it is stated, they have "gone back on them" absolutely. They will be offered a new agreement and if they don't accept it are likely to be turned loose to look after themselves.

Unspeakable Ruin.

San Francisco, April 29.—All that remains of San Francisco is a fringe of buildings along the docks, along the hilly south boundary and the Western addition. The map of San Francisco looks today like the picture of a fringe of hair around a bald head. The houses that are left are wooden residences, corner grocery stores and the like on the outskirts of the city.

The populace has fled from many of these, for they were shattered by the earthquake and many of them are unsafe.

Those houses that are intact and safe for occupancy are being turned into temporary hospitals and the hundreds of patients that reach the field hospital for first aid are sent to these houses.

Not one can understand what Market street looks like today; the men who have seen it are dumb.

Every one of the great business blocks is a ruin. Some of them have only a portion of the front wall standing; some are mere shells with blackened spots above the windows that spouted fire last Wednesday. The narrow cross streets are choked with debris, and in some places, small fires are still blazing in the ruins.

San Francisco from Van Ness avenue to the bay is a skeleton. But the city itself is no longer the problem, it is the people who have been made homeless. There are 300,000 refugees in and near San Francisco.

The Mint Was Saved.

San Francisco, April 21.—Like a great monument in the midst of a ruined city stands the United States mint today, the only building remaining unharmed in the heart of what once was the business center of San Francisco.

On all sides are fallen walls and heaps of ashes, but in the vaults of the great treasure house are gold coins and bars valued at $200,000,000, safe within the solid walls of stone and steel.

Again After Japanese.

The steamer Olympia, with Judge Geo. D. Gear aboard, arrived from Honolulu at 6 a. m. Sunday, the steamer leaving again Monday at 5 p. m., bound for Seattle. She carried ten first class passengers and 171 steerage, Japanese laborers, of whom 82 were taken aboard at this port.

The Hilo Tribune.

TUESDAY - MAY 8, 1906

Entered at the Postoffice at Hilo, Hawaii, as second-class matter PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY. J. WHERLOCK MARSH - Editor D. W. MARSH - Business Manager.

THE objection to the rule requiring registration at the polls is made and persisted in by the democratic club. The rule is adopted to prevent fraud and is enforced in the manner prescribed by law. Why should the democratic party want the bars to illegal voting let down?

THE Hilo Boarding School is to be complimented upon the high character of the play of "Robin Hood" which it gave the past week. It is also to be congratulated upon the success of the undertaking. The cause is a most worthy one, and it is to be hoped the indebtedness on the new building may be materially reduced if not entirely wiped out by the proceeds of the performances.

A CRYING want of long duration has been met by the Board of Supervisors, in the active steps that body has taken for the immediate opening of Bridge street. The section between Church and King streets is to be vacated for street purposes as soon as it can be done, and the Board's committee is hard at work upon the plan of carrying through the extension to Volcano street. This is action that the public will heartily approve; and may the actual opening and construction of the street be not delayed. And so the work of improving the city goes forward.

THE news of the disaster that befel San Francisco on the morning of April 18, brought by the passengers of the wrecked city, by letter and coast paper, indicates the destruction and horror of the event to have been all our despatches indicated and more. The scene down town in the first instance was one that all unite in characterizing as indescribable in its terrifying effects, followed by the work of the fire fiend who held full sway and completed the work of destruction, the whole making a catastrophe that the pages of history contain few comparable. These advices, of ten days after the disaster, place the dead at 700, the wounded at 1000, the area burned at fifteen square miles, and the property lost at 750 millions

AS TO the proposed change in the street line on Front street, the Superintendent of Public Works withholds his approval, on the grounds that the proposed new street line is temporary. A better reason for objection is to be found in the fact that the difficulty on Front street lies not with the street line but with the buildings along the street. The street as laid out is eighty feet wide with an even curve at as wide an angle as possible. The change proposed would make an unsightly kink in the street line, that in view of a future beautified and improved city, it would be inadvisable to make. It would be better to proceed as soon as possible to have the street widened, as proposed, on the lines already laid out. This would require the purchase or condemnation of some property, a considerable part of which has already been offered for the purpose at reasonable figures. It is doubtful if much longer time would be required to open the street permanently and properly now, and there is nothing to gain by establishing this line where it will not be wanted in the future.

FROM SCENE OF EARTHQUAKE.

Graphic Description Contained in Letter.

Mrs. D. W. Marsh received the following account of the disaster at San Jose, written by a younger sister while the earthquake was still doing its terrible work of destruction:

San Jose, Cal., April 18, 1906.

"The most terrible disaster of Californian history came over the town while people were wrapped in sleep. It was between five and half past. Oh, what could it be! I was waked so violently that for an instant I knew nothing. However, I soon realized that it was a terrible earthquake. (More terrible than that of '68.) A thousand bitter and awful thoughts passed through my head. I thought of Vesuvius and of the hundreds of people swallowed up by the hungry earth. I was so terrified that I was unable to stir in my rocking bed. I was rocked—oh so violently—and I hugged my bed pretty close. Crash! Crash! a roar and—oh, Laura, this minute. Yes, this minute there was a shock. Oh! Oh! I'm so scared I can't write. My hand shakes so. It is over now, but as I stop and hold my hand above this paper, it trembles so. I can't stop it. No I can't."

"That present little shock interrupted me. I shall go on. Well, while I hugged my bed, there was a crash, a grumble and a roar!!! Houses and office buildings all over town were evidently caving in. (The town is about two miles distant from which these sounds came.) The first impulse of Marguerite was to run down the shaky and quaking stairs to the door and fly, but when she got to the sitting room door she stopped. Oh, that sight! The great angry earth was heaving and sighing and rolling, reminding one of a snake. The tr— another shock, but not quite so bad as the former. The trees humped up and down and looked as if some one had a hold of them and was viciously yanking them about. Oh, it was a terrible sight! The big balsam shook as it never shook before, whirling and tossing its great arms about."

"Everything is calm now. My hands stop trembling and I write with renewed vigor. All this which I have told you about lasted about a min— another shock! They have been quite frequent since that awful one. The horror of that makes each little shock fill me with renewed terror. —ute, but it takes a long time to tell about a minute sometimes. It doesn't take long to swallow millions of dollars."

"Laura, the dear little town of your birth is in ruin. Yes in ruin! It is terrible but something that none of us could prevent. After exploring our own dear old home, it was discovered that there was no more damage than a broken chimney filling Mama's room with bricks, a broken bureau, some vases, and the store room covered with milk and cream. Of course the furniture was tipped over or twisted around, but that was all. And mighty thankful we are and ought to be! After breakfast we went to town to see what damage had been done. There isn't a chimney in town still standing. The first dreadful sight that met our eyes was the condition of the old Grant School. It is completely ruined. Its foundation was drawn out by the earthquake, and the school squatted on the ground. The walls slant in every direction, the windows are broken, the pillars on the ground. No more school for this term. And to think I was to graduate this June, but then I needn't grumble, and I don't for I am very thankful that the accident occurred when it did. If it happened but four hours later there wouldn't have been a child under eighteen years of age. The High School is flat on the ground. The Normal is damaged very slightly compared with the ruined High School. There isn't a building in town, but that isn't damaged some. In the business parts the buildings are all ruined. Hobson's store is flat on the ground. Fountain alley is blocked. St. Patrick's Church, the First Presbyterian Church, several other churches, the Parish House, the new Hall of Justice, the Porter Packing House, the Dougherty building and the new addition of the Hotel Vendome, are completely ruined, or of no use whatever. Of course other buildings were severely damaged. The most important are the Post Office, the Hall of Records and the Court House. There might be others, but these are the ones I saw myself. First, Second and Third streets are blocked up, not entirely so of course. Many soldiers in uniform with their guns in their hands keep the throngs of terrified people off the sidewalks and away from danger."

"Fire engines are all over town putting out the numerous fires that were started by the earthquake. I could see the flames easily from our barn."

"San Jose is in ruins, but as for lives, I know of only a few lost."

"The buildings at Agnew's are all caved in and are in ruins. Many crazy people escaped and it is unsafe to be down that way among them. But oh, for the ones that didn't escape—it is terrible! Rumor has six hundred of them killed."

"We have heard no reports from San Francisco, but that the Cal building is down. A man paid $150 for an auto to bring him from S. F. to S. J. That is all the way we can get news. No paper this morning—not a whistle blew."

Did you know you can purchase an improved Victor Talking Machine from E. H. Moses on small monthly installments. Step in and hear some of the latest music.

ESCAPE FROM PALACE HOTEL.

Wreck and Ruin in San Francisco Indescribable.

The following extracts are made from a letter written by Edyth Tozier Weathered, who was a guest in the Palace hotel at the time of the earthquake. The letter was published in the Salem, Or., Statesman.

"None on the outside can realize the conditions here. All have had their dreadful experience. When I look back on my dreadful experience and tragic fright at the Palace I seem paralyzed. I was suddenly aroused from a sound sleep to find myself being buried beneath plaster. The building was creaking and groaning, the furniture moving and the electric lights flashing. There were screams of people and hundreds it seemed tramping through the halls. I ran for my door, but it would not open. My arms were almost paralyzed from being struck with falling plaster. My head was hard hit and I was bewildered there alone at that awful time. God alone knows how I suffered, being imprisoned and I thought the hotel on fire. There screaming for help and praying that I might die before the building collapsed, a woman from the hall helped me to get my door open. I will never know her name. I hope to find out. With a mass of humanity I got down five flights of stairs over plaster and glass. Do not know how or where I got a pair of slippers. The hotel was crowded and it was a pitiful sight to see several hundreds huddled together not daring to go outside and fearing to remain in the building. Under the circumstances, I do not see how the people kept their heads as well as they did."

"It was a fearful task for me to find my way from the ferry up here about three miles. For dozens of blocks one cannot tell where the streets once were. Oh, the sight is one of desolation. Thousands are camping on the burned-over district with all imaginable things for a house. In some places long lines of people were in waiting for their portion of provisions. The young and old, the rich and the poor black and white, no distinction in color or race; sorrow, fear, hope, pity, anxiety, pictured on the countenances of all. Women wearing diamonds are in line with those who were paupers even before this awful calamity befell the city."

"The newspapers cannot describe the horror of it all. It is impossible to write things as they were or are now."

"Believe all you hear about this catastrophe and multiply it by three, and then you will not get it all."

A Baby Race Proposed.

Horsemen are beginning to consider the prospects of Hilo Fourth of July races, and the program as arranged by the Hilo Jockey Club has attracted considerable attention.

Domingo Ferreira says that he has a two-year-old filly out of a thoroughbred mare which he would like to put into a race if an event for two-year olds were put on the card.

There must be quite a crop of two-year-olds in the islands at present and a baby race should prove attractive and produce some good entries. There are said to be two or three smart youngsters around about Hilo and Louis Warren is reported to have one which he would enter if a race were on the program.—Advertiser.

To Improve Federal Property.

The bill providing for the setting aside of the remainder of Block C, Hilo, for federal purposes, which was reported on favorably by the House Committee on Public Lands, provides as follows:—"That the superintendent of public works the Territory of Hawaii is hereby authorized and directed to sell or otherwise dispose of whatever buildings are now located on the above described reservation, in such manner as he may find most advantageous, such sale and removal to be made as rapidly as the existing leases on said ground expire, and the proceeds thereof to be applied by the superintendent of public works to the parking and general improvement of said federal building site."

San Francisco's Suburbs.

Oakland, Cal., April 28.—Detailed reports from outside towns show that Santa Rosa suffered the most serious damage. Fifty persons were killed in the earthquake of the 18th instant and the city ruined. The loss to property amounts to several millions of dollars.

San Jose was also badly wrecked by the temblor and many prominent buildings were destroyed. In San Jose there were twenty-five persons killed. Agnew's Insane Asylum was ruined. Ninety-five patients were killed in the destruction of the building.

At Santa Clara most of the business buildings were destroyed by the earthquake.

The loss to Stanford University amounts to nearly four millions of dollars. There were two killed at Stanford. The great memorial church, the gymnasium and the library were ruined. Other buildings were damaged.

At Salinas the loss to property amounted to $1,000,000.

Many country residences at Burlingame, the sporting ground of San Francisco society people, collapsed.

The cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda suffered comparatively little loss. Five persons were killed. In Oakland, walls and chimneys were prostrated and plate-glass windows were broken.

The Point Arena lighthouse was toppled into the sea. Considerable damage was done at Monterey and Del Monte. There was no damage at Fresno, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara or San Diego.

The main fortifications of San Francisco are intact. The brick fort, barracks and storehouses were injured.

There have been thirty-two slight shocks since the first earthquake of the 18th.

FEATS OF ENGINEERING

Artificial Harbor Made At Tehuantepec With Breakwaters and Mammoth Drydock.

Salina Cruz, Mexico, March 4, 1906. The government of Mexico is spending $40,000,000 in gold in making the Tehuantepec railway capable of serving its purpose to the world. It is the greatest public enterprise now in progress except the Panama canal.

Work was begun in 1901. Sir Weetman Pearson, the head of a great firm of English contractors, laid it all out personally. Mr. J. B. Body is resident director; Robert Adams is the consulting engineer; Fred Adams is chief engineer—all Englishmen—and J. F. McNab, a Scotch-American, formerly of Milwaukee, has been in immediate control. These gentlemen have had a great advantage over the engineers at Panama, because everything is entirely new. When they began had nothing here but a barren waste of sand. They have not only been building a harbor, but a city also, and now have a town of about 7,000 inhabitants with all modern improvements, such as waterworks, sewerage, electric lights and 5th avenues. There is a hotel that cost $50,000 kept by an American and two smaller ones which are patronized by the natives.

COMMODOUS HARBOR MADE.

The harbor at Salina Cruz is being built by extending two breakwaters at acute angles from the shore. Each is about 2,500 feet long and they converge so as to leave a gap about 400 feet wide between the ends as an entrance way for steamers. These breakwaters inclose a harbor of bor of about 200 acres, with water from thirty to sixty feet deep, capable of holding all the commerce that can possibly ever come here. Inside of this anchorage is another harbor, 3,000 by 1,200 feet in size with thirty-three feet of water at low tide, and surrounded by one continuous wharf furnished with electric cranes, conveyers and other machinery for loading and unloading. Three great warehouses are already finished, three more are under construction and when they are complete they will furnish a storage room for any amount of freight. Steamers can come right alongside and the railway tracks are laid so that freight can be hoisted to and from the warehouses as the case may be. When the works are finished they will be capable of handling between four and five thousand tons of freight daily.

FINEST DRYDOCK ON THE CONTINENT.

The most interesting feature of the place to me is an enormous drydock, one solid mass of cement, which looks like one of those fancy bathtubs that are chiseled out of a single block of marble. When it is finished it will undoubtedly be the finest drydock in America, and will cost three million of gold dollars. It will receive any battleship in our navy or any other vessel that is not more than 650 feet long or 100 feet wide. It will be fully equipped with electrical apparatus and other machinery of the most improved type.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE BREAKWATERS

The breakwaters are built by what is called "rip-rapping," by the continued dropping of broken stone into the water until a wall is formed. When a foundation about 200 feet wide was laid the crevices between the stone were filled with rubble and enormous blocks of concrete weighing sixty tons were dropped at intervals to give the structure stability. These blocks are made on the ground by electric machinery.

The breakwaters have been built up twenty feet above low water, with a width of forty feet at the top. The sides are protected by rough blocks of natural stone weighing from twenty-five to sixty tons each, and the surface is capped with concrete blocks weighing from forty to sixty tons each. Upon the top of these blocks is laid still another capping of concrete six feet thick, made "in situ," as the engineers say—which means that it is laid like pavement where it is intended to stay. This final coping and capping covers the entire breakwater.

THE STEAMSHIP CONNECTIONS.

It was expected that this work would be finished by the first of July when a contract between the Tehuantepec railroad and the Hawaiian-American Steamship Company goes into effect. A fleet of nine first-class modern steamers are to connect Salina Cruz with San Francisco and Honolulu, on the Pacific side, and Coatzacoalcos, on the Gulf side, with New Orleans and New York. They will bring raw sugar from the Hawaiian Islands for New York, and take back cargoes of general merchandise. Contracts have already been made with the Cosmos steamers, a German line managed by the Hamburg-American Company, and Mr. Ryan, the general traffic manager, is now in New York making arrangements with the Pacific Mail Company. Mr. Calbraith, general manager of the Tehuantepec railroad, told me that he was prepared to handle a million and a half tons of freight next year, and will be able to handle two millions a year as soon as he gets the necessary cars and locomotives. No port in the world, not even Hamburg, which claims the best dockage facilities, is better equipped with modern machinery for transferring cargoes than Salina Cruz and Coatzacoalcos. Both ports are already doing quite a little business. A small coasting trade is growing up; the Pacific mail steamers now stop twice a month on the way, and the Cosmos steamers once a month each way.

Discuss Korean Case.

The Honolulu Social Science Club devoted an evening to the discussion of the Korean case.

The fight for carrying out the law was made by Deputy Attorney General Milverton, who prosecuted the Koreans. Associate Justice Wilder and all made speeches declaring their opinion that in view of the facts at hand there was no reason for not allowing law to take its course. They opposed commutation of sentence in the absence of any extenuating circumstances.

L. A. Thurston and W. A. Kinney were leaders in the discussion for the other side, but remarks were made by practically everyone present, nearly all tending in favor of commutation.

Among those present at the meeting were W. O. Smith, W. A. Kinney, D. L. Withington, A. S. Hartwell, Rev. Dr. F. Scudder, Professor M. M. Scott, Dr. F. R. Day, Dr. N. B. Emerson, Justice A. A. Wilder, Ex-Judge A. Perry, Judge Alexander Lindsay, Deputy Attorney General F. W. Milverton, W. Dillingham, L. T. Peck, Sanford B. Dole, Judge W. L. Whitney, Editor Shiozawa and others.

The meeting lasted until a late hour, most of those present catching the last cars for their homes.—Star.

Called as Witnesses.

High Sheriff Henty and Superintendent of Public Instruction W. H. Babbitt have been subpoenaed to be at Kailua on May 5 to appear in the Circuit Court there as witnesses in the cases of Mrs. Atcherly, H. T. Mills and others, who are charged with rioting in connection with the fight which took place for the possession of a school house some months ago.

Superintendent Babbitt, called to Kona as a witness in the exciting episodes of that district, has the blessed assurance that a company of the National Guard is located at Hilo.—Bulletin.

A Siberian Exile's Surprise

[Original.]

Chauncey Eaton of New York was a high roller. He spent money like a king, was generous, impulsive and knew no such word as fear or fall.

While abroad Chauncey had three meetings with a girl of twenty, the daughter of a Russian nobleman. The first and second meetings were social; the third was seeing her marched with an exile gang to Siberia.

There is a place in that cold country called Kara, where there are gold mines and prisons. The prisoners are worked in the mines, curiously enough producing in misery the wherewithal for the bureaucrats of Russia to live in luxury. One morning an American appeared at the headquarters of the colonel commanding the prisons and, announcing himself as Chauncey Eaton, correspondent for one of the great New York newspapers, requested permission to inspect the prisons. The colonel received him politely and showed him all he cared to have him see. Eaton made an excuse of writing up his notes to remain there some time. He was lodged with a subordinate prisoner, whom he felt sure the colonel had ordered to watch his every movement.

One day Eaton took his traveling equipage and visited the outpost on the main road leading southward. There he spent some time with the commandant, and when he left said to the officer:

"The Journal I represent pays for everything it gets. The information you have given me is invaluable. I therefore leave with you this bag of gold, containing 5,000 rubles."

The officer looked at the American in astonishment, but took the bag.

"I do not desire that my papers shall be examined before I leave. I shall pass here some night with them packed in a box under the robes in the bottom of the vehicle. Look carefully under the front seat and you will find a bag containing another 5,000 rubles."

The officer said nothing, but gave the journalist a look that satisfied him.

That night Eaton, declaring that he was tired, went to his room early. When all were asleep he made a rope ladder of his bedclothing and silently let himself from his window, landing in deep snow. Then he stole away and walked rapidly to a clump of bushes some distance down the road. They comprised the "free command," and in them dwelt such political exiles as had served their terms in prison.

Approaching one of the huts, he rapped softly on the door and an old woman replied to the summons.

"Is Elizabeth Kaiturin here?"

"Yes."

Without waiting for an invitation, he entered and shut the door. The woman barred it and lighted a lamp.

"In there," she said, pointing. "She is ill in bed."

"Yes; I know. But for that she would be in prison. I have learned all about her; both in Russia and since I came here."

Eaton went into the other room, where a girl sat up in bed. She stared at him with great lustrous eyes and, taking him for a visiting official, said:

"I'm not well enough to go back to prison yet; indeed I'm not."

Then the old woman held up the candle and the invalid recognized Chauncey Eaton.

"I have come for you," he said.

"Why?"

"Because I love you."

"But you knew me only a week!" gasped the astonished girl.

"That was enough."

Eaton spent an hour in the hut—he dared not stay longer—during which he told the girl of a plan he had conceived to rescue her. Then he left her to return to his room, climbing by his improvised rope.

The next day he gave orders for his horses to be ready at 11 o'clock that night and spent the day in an agony of suspense. At the appointed hour he was at the stable.

"Drive to the junction of the roads leading from here and the 'free command,'" he said, "and wait till I come."

Ten minutes later Eaton was at the hut of Elizabeth Kaiturin and found her dressed and expecting him. Taking her in his arms, he carried her through the darkness to his sleigh and placed her in the bottom, concealed by robes.

On reaching the outpost he was stopped by the sentinel on guard, but called for the commandant, who recognized him, searched the front part of the sleigh and, withdrawing a bag, gave permission to proceed.

Not far from the outpost Eaton ordered the driver to turn northeastward and, skirting the base of the mountains, shortly before daylight struck a point on Kara bay where his yacht was riding at anchor. Eaton gave a signal, and a boat came ashore and took them to the yacht. Steam had been kept up for a week, and the anchor was no sooner raised than the little craft, painted lead color to be the less readily seen, steamed away through the Arctic ocean. During the day they touched on the Swedish coast for a hasty marriage ceremony and thence away again, not stopping till they reached old England.

There they remained till the young wife regained her health; then the yacht was again brought into requisition, and the pair steamed across the Atlantic. One morning Chauncey Eaton, after an absence of two years, turned up in New York with his Russian bride, whom he presented with much pride to his mother.

"What are you going to do next, Chauncey?" she asked.

"Settle down."

"Good!" she exclaimed and embraced his bride. F. A. MITCHELL.

Earthquakes and Volcanoes.

The great Indian earthquake of a short time ago, which caused the loss of many lives, seems to have been a warning of another convulsion with the earth's crust similar to that which caused such a terrific cataclysm in the West Indies three years ago and was accompanied by other manifestations at various points on the earth's surface. Now comes word that Mount Pelee is again in eruption, thus far in a moderate degree, but with hints of continuing activity which may develop into another tremendous outburst. In the island of Guadeloupe earthquakes have recently occurred, and the volcano of La Soufriere, on the island of St Vincent, has lately been in slight eruption. Seismologists are intently watching the symptoms of a coming discharge of the molten contents of the earth's crust in great volume and perhaps with tragic results.

The eruptions of 1902, marked by the destruction of the city of St. Pierre on Martinique, afforded scientists a field of research and an abundance of materials which were welcomed in the hope of developing a more satisfactory theory of these occasional disturbances. After a close examination of the evidence then supplied, certain eminent European and American students of this branch of knowledge have put forth as their latest belief the assertion that the volcanic eruptions are not caused by shifting in the pressure of the earth's crust, but rather that the shifting is the result of the discharge of the gases which have accumulated in the molten interior. Formerly many held to the view that sudden descent of the waters of the ocean or of some other considerable body of water into the heated interior caused the quick production of steam which demanded outlet and forced open the vents which had previously been formed, styled volcanoes. This theory is rejected by many leading seismologists, and the line of cause and effect is run by them in the reverse direction. Instead of the oceans causing the volcanic eruptions, they aver, the eruptions are in reality the cause of the oceans. The discharge of gases from the molten interior, they claim, gave the cooling earth in the first stages of its solidifying process its moisture by condensation, and thus water was added to the components of this sphere.

Whatever may be the chain of circumstances leading to the present condition, it is demonstrated by many proofs that the earth's interior is still in a highly heated state; that it is gradually cooling; that eruptions are less frequent now than in earlier ages, and that there remain sufficient volcanic forces at work to give rise occasionally to disturbances of immeasurable violence, rendering life in the vicinity of the chimneys and along the lines of surface-quaking extremely hazardous. It is assured that science cannot learn enough from the volcanoes as to the nature of their periodical activities to enable man to check these eruptions. But it may learn something that will enable man to foresee the eruptions more distinctly and sufficiently in advance to give a saving warning; and perhaps some day a way may be found to harness to man's uses some of the force that is expended in blowing out the corks at these vents and relieving the pressure upon the interior of the crust.

An American Remedy.

There is probably no medicine manufactured that can be found in more homes in the United States than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It has been in general use for over thirty years and each successive epidemic of Diarrhoea and dysentery during this time has tested its merit and proved its superiority over all similar preparations. The reliability and prompt cures of this remedy have won for it the confidence of many physicians who often prescribe it in their practice. No case has ever yet been reported where its use has failed to give relief. This remedy is for sale in this city by Hilo Drug Co.

Sub-land-agent Williams will leave overland on Friday for Honokaa, where on Saturday he will sell several tracts of government land at public auction. These lands adjoin or are enclosed by the Louissou coffee plantation and are situated near the Hamakua government experiment station. One tract contains 111.03 acres and is suitable for tobacco growing, as experiments at the station have proven. The upset price on this tract is $1388. The remaining tracts are eight in number and consist of strips of land a couple of hundred feet wide that have been held by the Territory as forest reserve to serve the purpose of wind-breaks. It is presumed that the Louissons will buy these tracts and preserve them for the purposes intended, for the protection of their coffee orchards. Mr. Williams will return Sunday or Monday.

The Inter-Island steamship company rushed the coast mail over to this island with as little delay as possible, the Mauna Loa leaving Honolulu Saturday at noon on receipt of the Alameda mail, making a special trip and being met at Mahukona by the Kailua sent from Hilo Saturday morning. The latter made her best time down to Hilo, 8 hours and 55 minutes, including a 20 minute stop at Pepeekeo. As this was the first foreign mail in two weeks and contained the first full news of the San Francisco disaster, its coming was watched and anticipated with considerable interest by everybody.

The contest for the delegate's seat, recently decided in Congress, was made, he says, for the purpose of settling some points relative to the manner of holding elections. The colonel came down the coast overland and goes on to Kau.

ROBIN HOOD, OUTLAW.

A Successful Production of the Play At Hilo Boarding School.

Seldom has an Hilo audience been favored with a more excellent performance than the musical comedy of "Robin Hood", given Friday and Saturday nights by the Hilo Boarding School, assisted by local talent. Only the thread of the narrative, adapted from the book by Howard Pyle recounting the merry adventures of "Robin Hood" was attempted, but interspersed throughout the play were artlessly arranged the songs and choruses from the opera of the same name by Reginald de Koven, which added much to the effectiveness of the play and the enjoyment of the performance.

The title role of "Robin Hood" was interpreted by Wm. McCluskey, and his acting and treatment of the character of this intrepid bandit was marked by a degree of dramatic ability as perfect as is seen on the contemporaneous stage.

No less can be said of the portrayal of the other characters by members of the company and only a faint idea of the performance can be given in these few lines.

Playing opposite to "Robin Hood" was Mrs. May L. Curtis in the role of "Maid Marian", and no part of the performance was more subtle and bewitching than her acting. J. U. Smith as the picturesque "Little John" brought real tears to the eyes of the audience by his discomfiture in the highly ridiculous situations of the play. Although making but one appearance during the evening, D. E. Metzger as "Wat, the Tinker" made the most of his opportunities, and his character work in the drinking bout was droll and little less than real. W. H. Beers made a melodious and dignified "Sheriff of Nottingham", and pleased the house with his solo work. G. A. Cool as "Priar Tack" sang the Armorer's song with good effect and J. W. Marsh, as "Midge, the Miller" rendered the ever popular "Brown October Ale". Luther Severance as "Sir Stephen" and Harry Irwin as "The Bishop" were resplendent in costume and gave faithful interpretations of their parts. The delicious impersonation of "Annabel", the milkmaid, by Mrs. Helen Siemsen, was one of the treats of the evening and the style of her singing and acting in the churning song was both sincere and gentle. She was repeatedly the recipient of encores. Miss Harriet Hapai as "Maken o' the blue Boar" and Mrs. Louise Hapai as "Nan o' the Mill" were clever, sweet and pretty, and filled the stage with their daintiness and charm. The milkmaid's chorus, and St. Switthen's chimes, rendered by Mrs. Siemsen, Mrs. Hapai, Miss Harriet Hapai, Messrs. J. W. Marsh and James Mattoon, were enthusiastically received with encores.

Catherine Westervelt as "Ellen o' Deirwoold", Charles Siemsen as "The Farmer", Jeremiah Malua as "Allan Dale", James Mattoon as "Will Scarlet", Soichi Yamamoto as "David o' Doncaster", Will Westervelt as the head of the King's Foresters, were all worthy of mention. Much credit for the excellence of the performance is due to the ensemble work of the entire company, the remainder of which was made up of members of the Hilo Boarding School. The minor parts in the large cast, both male and female were excellently filled, and the stage management was notably and unusually good. The groupings on the stage made effective pictures, and the individual work of each performer blended into complete and harmonious whole. In its entirety, the production of "Robin Hood" by the ladies and gentleman of the cast and the Hilo Boarding School was one of the best ever seen by a Hilo audience.

The scenic effects as well as the drop curtain were the product of Miss Kalei Ewaliko and were a marvel in their naturalness of color and perspective. The costumes were elaborate and appropriate to the times, when Robin with his outlaw band held sway over Sherwood Forest. The musical numbers throughout the play were well rendered, and great credit is due to Mrs. J. T. Lewis, Miss Caroline Potter and Mrs. Westervelt for the painstaking care bestowed upon this part of the program. The dramatic situations and the interpretation of the lines were under the direction of Mrs. A. G. Curtis, who added her own personality to the play. The entire performance was under the personal supervision of Mrs. Levi C. Lyman of the Hilo Boarding School, who displayed keen executive qualities in bringing the production to a high standard of perfection.

The performance will be repeated this afternoon at a nativete in the Hilo Boarding School assembly hall. The price of admission has been reduced to twenty-five cents to enable the school children to witness the performance.

Pineapple Growers' Company.

The Hilo Pineapple Company was organized during the week with a capitalization of $40,000, divided into 4,000 shares of $10 each. P. S. Lyman was elected president; L. A. Andrews, vice-president; L. C. Lyman, secretary; H. E. Kelsey, treasurer; D. E. Matzger, auditor and Thos. Mutch and Wm. Kinney, directors. The object of the company is to hold land and grow pineapples. Certain lands have been taken for stock issued. About three-quarters of the stock has been subscribed, distributed among some twenty or more individuals. Articles of incorporation have been forwarded to Honolulu.

EXPERIENCED THE EARTHQUAKE

First Arrival in Hilo from Wrecked City.

The first person to arrive on this island from the earthquake—and fire-stricken city of San Francisco was Henry Dillon, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dillon of Pepeekeo. He landed Sunday from the Kailua with his father who had gone to Mahukona to meet him. The little fellow was greeted by everyone and told in his artless way and very intelligently about the catastrophe. He was in the city at the time of the earthquake, living with his aunt near Sacramento street and a few blocks above Van Ness avenue. The fire came to within a block of the house in which he was living. He was awakened by the earthquake and the falling of plaster from the walls and tumbling down of chimneys, followed by the screams of frightened people. The shock lasted forty-seven seconds, the trembling gradually increasing, diminishing and increasing again. The first night was spent in the house, cooking being done in the street, but on account of the proximity of the fire, the following night was spent on Holliday hill. Conditions were awful. Many were shot for looting, and many innocent persons, also, much complaint resulting of the recklessness of the soldier guards. Provisions were dealt out and the use of water was allowed for drinking purposes only. Work of clearing up began soon, and all who would not work were ordered out of the city. Labor commanded good wages, carpenters receiving as high as $70 a day. The wharves were not so seriously damaged, and the Alameda left from her dock. The ferry landing, though in use, was supported by braces. The Bulletin and Chronicle newspapers were being issued from the Oakland Herald office. The young fellow saw a good deal of the destruction and the confusion, and did his share of the work, selling papers, coffee, etc., but is probably glad to be safe home. His first remark as he sat down in the quiet of the hotel, after a few minutes' reflection was: "My, I wouldn't like to go through that earthquake again."

Completion of Important Work.

The Board of Health expects the part of the sewer system so far completed to be accepted by the Board of Public Works during the present week and that the following week the whole system will be completed. Immediately on acceptance of all, or the portion, of the system, the Board of Health will proceed with connecting up the houses, beginning with Front street and hotels and restaurants. This part of the system is under the supervision of the Health Board, while the superintendent of the water system is responsible for the oversight of the street portion. Property owners are required by the territorial law to connect up their houses with the system on a thirty days' notice from the Health Board. The completion of this important public work is welcomed by the public generally as a great convenience and means of improvement of sanitary conditions. As an aid to making a city beautiful of Hilo its importance is inestimable.

Horses at the Track.

Considerable interest is being aroused in Honolulu in the Fourth of July races. Inquiries are being received from there about them and four Honolulu horses are to arrive soon to go into training at the track for the races. Some ten horses belonging to Hilo people and ranchers are already at the track.

Hawaiian Evangelical Association.

The annual meeting of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association will be held in Honolulu May 11-21. All the pastors of the churches in the city, excepting Rev. C. R. Shields and Rev. C. W. Hill, will be in attendance and take part in the programme. Miss Erbeck, superintendent of the Waialae Settlement, accompanied by one delegate, several delegates from the Haili Church, and pastors and delegates from all the congregational churches of this island will also attend.

MAY SUPERVISORS' MEETING.

Bridge Street Extension—Mooheau Pavilion Debt—Democratic Complaint.

The Board of Supervisors' meeting for May disposed of the usual amount of county business, important and unimportant, Supervisor Woods was absent on account of illness and before the close of the session, the Board passed resolutions of sympathy, and of regret for his absence.

After Roll call, prayer, reading of minutes, communications etc., were taken up. County Attorney Williams advised the Board that it did not have authority to pay salaries of truant officers, such service being within the province of the territorial school department. Supt. of Pub. Works Holloway, to whom the Board had made protest against accepting a section of the volcano road newly constructed, sent a letter to County Clerk Pua in reply, which was read. He said:—

"I would ask whether it would be possible for you to inform me as to what members of the Board of Supervisors have ever had an opportunity of examining this road. With the exception of Mr Shipman I do not know of any that have been over it since its completion and I hardly understand why such a resolution should be adopted without a complete investigation."

The communication was ill-considered and calculated to arouse the temper of any self respecting board. It was incorrect in its premises, as there members of the Board who were well acquainted with the road, and, of course, wrong in its conclusions.

Another communication from Supt. Holloway was read relative to the return to Honolulu of a road roller on the Volcano road; but the desired letter in reply to the Board's request to be allowed the use of the roller temporarily was wanting.

The Board received in reply to a protest made to High Sheriff Henry against excessive charges for keeping prisoners the information: "Fifty cents a day is the least we can charge, and the United States paid that amount for keeping federal prisoners."

George Lycurgus, of the Volcano House, sent a communication urging the repair of the Volcano road.

The Director of the U. S. Department of Public Roads wrote from Washington, D. C., asking information regarding the roads of the county, which the Clerk was instructed to furnish.

Following up a communication of the same tenor sent to the Board at its previous meeting, which was tabled, the Waiakea democratic Club protested against the system of registration at the polls as conducted at the last election, on the grounds that such a registry was not required by law; also against the improper exercise of territorial authority.

The communication was referred to the printing committee.

A petition signed by fifteen teachers that Wm. J. Z. Kahuna be appointed truant officer for Haka-lau, Honomu, Pepeekeo, Onomea, and Papaikou schools; and another that S. W. Kaleihou be appointed truant officer for Waialae, Honomu and Pepeekeo schools, were tabled, truant officers being held to be territorial employees.

Auditor Maguire filed his report of all County, General and Road funds, for the quarter ending April 1. It showed a balance Jan. 1 of $13,487.53; $40,190.10, received, warrants redeemed and outstanding and transfer to Road Fund amounting to $49,525.62; and balance on hand April 1. of $4152.01.

The reports of several road supervisors were read and ordered filed

THURSDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Wednesday was devoted to the work of committees, and Thursday morning at nine meeting was again called to order by chairman Moir, and at noon, the business of the session being all disposed of, the Board adjourned for the session.

County Clerk Sam K. Pua was granted leave of absence for three weeks, his physician advising that his health demanded that he have a rest and a change to the climate of Kona.

The report of N. K. Lyman, road supervisor for S Hilo, showed $3,039.50 expended during the month. Estimates on road spreaders had been made by the Honolulu Iron Works at $320 each, delivered; and the report asked permission to have two spreaders made by the Volcano Stables, as they could be purchased more cheaply at that place.

The report of the county treasurer for the month of April was read and ordered placed on file. The report showed a balance in the General Fund on April 2 of $5074.09; an unexpended balance of road money refunded, $4; March appropriation from the territory $11,000 Disbursed, special transfer to Puna road fund, $200; transfer to road fund, $500; warrants redeemed, $6,613.63; balance, $4,264.46.

The Finance committee approved claims and recommended payment as follows: out of road funds, for S. Hilo, $4,843.85; N. Hilo, $675.82; Hamakua, $1,434.11; N. Kohala, $576.85; S. Kohala, $597.31; N. Kona, $507.45; S. Kona, $416.50; Kau, $378.76; Puna, $1,402.93. Items were approved and payment recommended out of the General Fund, amounting to $404.63. The committee disapproved of the employment of private detectives, giving notice that it would not approve claims for expenditures for this purpose. It approved the bond furnished by N. K. Nahale, appointed to the office of deputy sheriff of N. Kona.

The Police committee report recommended the payment of claims for services of police officers as follows: S. Hilo, $770; N. Hilo, $90; Hamakua, $145; S. Kohala, $65; N. Kohala, $145; N. Kona, $140; S. Kona, $140; Kau, $145; Puna, $195. Claim for pay for services of special officers in N. Hilo, amounting to $48, was approved; also bill for police telephones amounting to $273.65.

The committee approved of printing and supplies bills for the months of March and April amounting to $265.25.

Supervisors Fernandez, Shipman and Desha rendered a report, not, however, signed by Mr. Shipman, on the communication of the Waiakea democratic club relative to the manner of conducting elections. J. Helbush, Henry West and H. Namahoe, signers of the communication, and "one T. J. Ryan", had appeared before the committee for consideration of the question. The report concluded:

"Now, therefore, your committee, in view of the fact that the said regulation is not an unreasonable one but one for the best interest of all concerned, and since it is the usual and customary regulation, and since it is identical with the Territorial regulation, and since it has been prepared, presented and approved by the county attorney, and since the said J. Helbush, Henry West and T. J. Ryan all admitted that it is not an unreasonable regulation, and that since no hardship nor infringement would result or work on the voters by the adoption of the said regulation, we respectfully submit that the said communication by the said Democratic club as filed herein, be tabled."

The committee on internal improvements recommended that the communication of Geo. Lycurgus relative to the immediate repair of the Volcano road be referred to the supervisor of Puna, and that the request of the Hilo Board of Trade that the county assume the indebtedness remaining on Mooheau pavilion be referred to the committee of the whole.

The letter of Supt. Holloway, written to Engineer Cook in reply to a letter sent by the latter submitting to the former the plan of the Board to even up the lines on Front street was read, also the superintendent's letter. The superintendent disapproved of the proposition, but considerably said that he would retain the tracings sent till Mr. Cook could be heard from.

Chairman Moir and Supervisor Desha, a special committee appointed at the last session, reported on the investigation of charges preferred by T. J. Ryan against Road Supervisor Lyman. T. J. Ryan had filed objections to the report being adopted, that had been read at Tuesday's meeting, which, however, did not prevent its adoption. The report was, in effect, the statement of the proceedings as given to the public through the columns of THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Ryan's objections were on the grounds that the committee had ignored their instructions by passing upon the sufficiency of the complaint and as to the details of the investigation.

The Board resolved itself into a committee of the whole, and with chairman Moir as chairman, took up the Mooheau pavilion indebtedness proposition and after a brief discussion unanimously adopted a resolution that "the sum of $1,376.24 asked for by the Hilo Board of Trade for the payment of the indebtedness incurred by that body in the erection of Mooheau pavilion, be allowed." The committee rose and reported accordingly, which report was unanimously adopted.

Supervisor Woods, Chairman Moir and Supervisor Desha, special committee appointed to investigate the matter of the widening and extension of Bridge street, reported, and the report was adopted. The committee found that a commission appointed by the Board of Public Works had appraised the damages on the proposed extension, and had made two reports on the matter, dated May 25, 1905, and June 9, 1905, respectively. The committee recommended that the property owned by G. H. Dauphny be acquired for the sum of $1000; that the adjoining property be assessed betterments in accordance with the findings of said commission; that T. K. Lalakea's property be acquired for the sum of $500, giving the owner the material excavated and laying sidewalks; that G. W. A. Hapai, Miss Coan, H. C. Hapai, Mrs. Rose McInerney, et al, be given requisite notice to vacate the property and also the portion required for the proposed widening of Church street; that work be commenced on the proposed widening as soon as the property is vacated. Further time was asked to report on the further extension of Bridge street. In reference to widening Bridge street on the north side of the lower Wailuku bridge, the committee recommended paying Mrs. J. Vierra the sum of $500 for property taken, which, in addition to the sum of $230 appropriated by the territory for the purpose, would be just compensation.

Supervisor Fernandez introduced a somewhat lengthy preamble and resolutions in reference to county officials filing complaints against fellow officials. Under these resolutions, which were adopted,

"county employees are instructed to refrain from communicating with the Board excepting on matters of an official character;" "and the county clerk is to use his sound judgment and discretion in accepting such communications for filing." By another resolution introduced by Fernandez, and passed, the rule was made that all "attacks and similar communications would be heard only when presented by a member of the Board."

Five thousand dollars was transferred from the general fund to the road funds at the usual pro rata, on motion of Supervisor Shipman.

After adopting resolutions of condolence, on motion of Supervisor Desha, with Acting Governor Atkinson and other immediate relations of the deceased, on the death of Alatau T. Atkinson, the Board adjourned.

"Grateful Results"

A life of suffering and misery, without sleep, without appetite. Restored to health by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was grievously afflicted with biliousness and liver complaint. My mouth was in a terrible condition every morning, my tongue thickly coated, my breath was offensive, food distressed me, I suffered much from headache, my skin was sallow, and the many remedies recommended me did no good. At last I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and my improvement began almost from the first dose. It relieved the distress about my liver, caused my food to digest well, cured my headache, improved my complexion, and restored my appetite. These unlooked-for but grateful results were accomplished by only two and a half bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—Mrs. L. D. M. TAYLOR, Altoona, Pa.
