SHINYO MARU HERE TOMORROW

Marama In and Out--Arizonan From Northwest--Buffalo Away Early--Castle Sails Today

The big T. K. K. liner Shinyo Maru is rushing toward this port from San Francisco and should be here at daylight tomorrow morning.

The Shinyo Maru should bring two days' mail along with her and also a number of stopover passengers for this port.

Purser Coverley's genial countenance will be seen once more in the port and the arrival of the big liner will mean that waterfront workers will once more be kept busy.

This has been one of the heaviest weeks on the front for sometime past.

ARIZONAN HERE.

The steamer Arizonan of the American-Hawaiian line was an arrival off port early this morning.

She reports a fine passage throughout and is lying at the railroad dock. Captain Nichols reports 1600 tons of cargo for this port and a quantity of bonded stores.

HYADES TOMORROW.

The steamer Hyades is expected to arrive tomorrow.

From all the reports to hand she should have experienced fine weather throughout.

BUFFALO AWAY.

The transport Buffalo sailed for San Francisco early this morning.

It was thought that she might get away last evening but departure was made at half past five o'clock this morning instead.

ALMY MAY GO.

The office of shipping commissioner may be abolished if the bill now before the House passes. Commissioner Almy received official notification of the fact yesterday, in a letter from E. T. Chamberlain, which contains the following statements:

"If the bill shall pass both Houses and become a law in the form reported, it will be necessary, I regret to state, to discontinue the offices of shipping commissioners at ports not provided for in this bill, and to transfer the work, records, etc., to the proper collector of customs on June 30, 1912, under section 4503, R. S. (Navigation Laws, page 611.)

"I regret to notice the reduction in salaries of some of the Commissioners which the House Committee felt compelled to recommend. Reductions and abolitions in all branches of the federal government were recommended, beginning with the salary of the Secretary to the President of the United States, and including the Bureau of Statistics and Manufactures of this department, which the bill proposes to abolish."

In the list of offices abolished by the bill is that at Honolulu.

LEWERS BRINGS LUMBER.

With a cargo of lumber, shingles and piles the schooner Robert Lewers arrived late yesterday afternoon from Port Townsend.

She made the trip in twenty-eight days and brings 118,150 feet altogether. She leaves for the Coast on discharge.

MARAMA AT LAST.

After keeping everyone on tenterhooks for the last two days the Canadian-Australian steamer Marama arrived from Vancouver and pulled into the Alakea street dock early this morning. She has a small passenger list and only brings a few for this port.

Captain Morrisby reports running into very heavy weather during the first three days out from the Canadian port and losing time.

The freight list for this port is very consisting of 200 drums of codfish and a few packages.

She resumed her voyage south shortly after noon today.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per str. Marama from Vancouver, May 23.—Miss Campbell, M. Leuch, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Ellis, Mr. Dodge, Miss Irving, Mrs. and Miss Wilson, Mrs. Whitehead and family, Young Bostonians Theatrical Co., Mr. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Stodart and child, Mrs. Buffert and child, Mr. Keohohalo, Master McCandless, Mr. and Mrs. Lalking, Mr. Angus, Mrs. Newland and family.

BAD NEWS FOR DODD.

Purser Dodd of the Canadian-Australian steamer Marama that left shortly after noon today in continuation of her voyage for Australia received word by wireless from the Makura that his mother had died very recently.

Dodd is a mighty popular purser and most of those whose business takes them on the front found him this morning to pass a sympathetic word along to him.

Driftwood

Bringing a canal cargo from New-Castle, N. S. W., the schooner Inca arrived at Mahukona yesterday.

The schooner Eldorado, that arrived at Port Townsend from here yesterday, made the trip in twenty days.

The barkentine S. N. Castle is expected to leave San Francisco today.

President Kennedy of the Inter-Island company is reported to have gone to the coast to make arrangements for letting the contract for the Inter-Island freight steamer.

The schooner Blakeley came in from the anchorage yesterday afternoon and will commence discharging her nitrate cargo today.

The steamer Honolulu will in all probability leave for Hilo this evening.

The barkentine S. N. Castle should get away for San Francisco this afternoon. The only wait now is for her papers.

MCCARTHY SHADED RITCHIE LESS THAN ONE YEAR AGO

The excellent showing made by Willie Ritchie against Champion Wolgast is a distinct feather in the cap of Johnny McCarthy who is at present in Honolulu and who will have two more fights here before returning to the Coast.

On September 21 last McCarthy and Ritchie hooked up in a ten-round go in Oakland and Willie was a mighty lucky boy to get a draw.

Ritchie started out like a whirlwind and in the first minute of the first round had McCarthy's face puffed and bleeding, but he failed to show with a very damaging wallop, much to the disappointment of his admirers who had set great store by their favorite's prowess because of his knock-out of Tommy McFarland.

Ritchie was easily the better boy in the early rounds but McCarthy's doggedness could not be denied and toward the close he was coming strong, having Willie in a slightly bad way a number of times.

When the tenth round opened it was an even break, but in the final session McCarthy did most of the work and was the stronger.

McCarthy and Wolgast. McCarthy was offered the try-out match with Wolgast which went to Ritchie. The weight was to have been 133 pounds at three o'clock and Johnny couldn't get down to that notch without cutting off a leg, so had perforce to pass the job up.

Had McCarthy been blessed with two or three pounds less avoirdupois two and a half months ago he would have stood a very good chance of being acclaimed the lightweight champion today.

BUFFALO TORNADO MATCHED WILL TROOPER BAUERSOCK

As Wahlani did not feel much like taking on Trooper Bauersock in a six-round preliminary to the Ingle-de Mello on the afternoon of June 1. Young Caples has been substituted and will start training at once. He will work out at the Orpheum every afternoon at 5:30 with Johnny McCarthy.

At 7:30 Ingle will go through his course of sprouts as usual.

Bauersock will weigh about 147 pounds and Caples in the neighborhood of 145 pounds. The clash between these two willing boxers will undoubtedly be of a most spirited nature and well worth witnessing.

Last night Ingle boxed four good rounds with Young Gans and a similar number with "Plug" Milne. He weighs about 133 pounds at present.

Ben de Mello will arrive by the steamer Mauna Kea on Saturday and will probably take up training quarters at the marine camp, providing the permission to do so can be obtained.

Desirable Quarters. There is no better training-quarters in Honolulu than Camp Very. The air is strong and sweet. There is a spacious gymnasium and handball court right handy and last but not least there is Corporal Trier always ready and willing to oblige with a few rounds of the real stuff.

The card for June 29 has not yet been arranged but if Kid Miller puts in an appearance on the S. S. Sonoma on June 12 as promised, he and Johnny McCarthy will in all probability be given the main event.

Falling Miller, Jim Hoao may fill the breach. If Hoao doesn't box McCarthy on June 29 he is practically certain to hook up with the San Franciscan a month later. Hoao, it is understood, is willing to meet McCarthy on a winner-take-all basis.

There will be a boxing match pulled off in Hilo on July 3 or 4 but the card has not yet been made up. Ingle and Wahlani are being considered for the main event.

LONGEST YACHT RACE OF ALL AROUSES INTEREST OF TARS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—The longest ocean race in the world is the bi-annual struggle between San Pedro in lower California and Honolulu. The race has become world famous, and next month the hand-ome seafaring yachts of the Pacific coast will be started from San Pedro on the long journey to the paradise of the south seas, Honolulu.

Last Wednesday the schooner yacht Hawaii, representing the Honolulu Yacht club, cleared that port bound for San Pedro to take part in the race, and incidentally to defend its title to "Queen of the Pacific," which the schooner won in 1910 from Barron Long's Sweetheart, of the Corinthian Yacht club of this city.

The Hawaii is one of the most seaworthy yachts that has ever taken part in the big ocean race. It left Honolulu with a crew of eleven amateur tars, many of them being well known in yachting circles around the bay. Captain W. H. Stroud of Honolulu is in full command. Mike Center is first mate with Fred Fredericks acting as second mate. Other members of the crew known here as enthusiastic amateur sailors are W. O'Brien, E. T. Stecker, James Blaisdell and Robert McElroy. Besides these men there are two able seamen, a cook and a cabin boy.

Carl Dodson, a member of the South Coast Yacht club of Los Angeles, is aboard the Hawaii as the guest of the Honolulu Yacht club.

Mike Center, the first mate, was for two years at Annapolis and has made a study of navigation. Fredericks formerly sailed in the Moillon under "Drydock" Smith. Blaisdell has seen something of life on the raging main, and once made a trip around the Horn as quartermaster on the American Hawaiian line.

1908, but did not compete in the 1910 race.

The Hawaii was put in perfect shape before it left Honolulu, and in the coming race will sail under an entire new set of sails. The sail has been made in Chicago and will be at San Pedro when the yacht arrives there in about three weeks' time.

Besides the Seafarer other local boats entered in the race are Eddie Van Bergen's Marian and Barron Long's Sweetheart. Two entries have been made by the yacht clubs of Los Angeles and a ketch from Vancouver, B. C., is to leave for San Pedro during the present week to take part in the big race.

EDDIE ROBINSON WRITES OF JAPANESE BOXERS ON COAST

YOUNG TOGO A GOOD TYPE OF BOXER HAILING FROM JAPAN.

Eddie Robinson writes to the sporting Editor of the Star as follows:

"Enclosed find some clippings from local papers. They will no doubt give you a fair conception of the way Togo stands in San Francisco, (undoubtedly the most cold-blooded community in the world). He was introduced at the Wolgast-Ritchie fight last Saturday, May 11th, and neither one of the noted principals received anything like the ovation that was tendered to little Togo; they cheered him for fully ten minutes, during which time three hundred and fifty-four dollars were thrown into the ring, in sums ranging all the way from a dime to twenty-dollar pieces.

"I was wholly unprepared for such an outburst of enthusiasm and liberality inasmuch as the Japanese have never been at all popular in this city. As a matter of fact, race feeling has always been near the boiling point and for San Francisco sports to have opened up in such a manner was really bewildering to me. Still, it proves one old saying that 'the whole world loves a fighter,' and this boy has certainly demonstrated that fact to the entire satisfaction of every man that sat at the ringside the night he fought Moore.

"Upon that occasion they saw the little chap go ten rounds while totally blind and with a handicap of twenty pounds against him, and notwithstanding the fact that Moore could hit him at will, they never saw him back up one step, but walk right into a merciless fire from going to going in every round and carry the fight to his opponent throughout the contest.

"Of course, naturally enough, he was outboxed; what other result could be expected from a blind man? But the contrary, the last round found him fighting stronger and better than ever, backing his now exhausted opponent all around the ring, and while he was seen to grope his way he never failed to connect with a volley of blows anytime he succeeded in getting into a clinch.

and raised the white boy's hand, in token of victory.

"It was very humiliating to the Japanese to see their countryman really quit, for as you know, they are an extremely proud race, and there are mighty few real quitters among them. The experience, however, has had a tendency to draw them still closer to little Togo whom they absolutely idolize now.

Togo May Recover. "By the way, Togo is to be examined tomorrow by a half a dozen specialists at the French Hospital as to advisability of an operation. Dr. E. D. Shortidge still insists that Togo will be as good as ever when he gets the malaria out of his system, and argues that an operation is not necessary. He claims that within a month Togo's sight will improve fifty per cent. This seems almost too good to be true, and that too in the face of statements from other specialists who have repeatedly stated to members of the Press here that Togo's case is hopeless.

"I am unable to say at this time whether there is any change in the boy's condition one way or the other, as he is under constant treatment and he is never without heavy black spectacles but he will remove those, I believe, within the next few days, and I will then have an opportunity of learning something definite as to the future.

"If Togo should be fortunate enough to recover his sight there is not even a champion in the business that would pull the house that he would here. If my present plans are not interfered with, I intend going to Japan about the last of May. If Togo's eyes should show the great improvement that Dr. Shortidge predicts I would like to take the little fellow along, and go by the way of Honolulu, or rather stop over there. It is my intention to ultimately open the fight game in the Orient.

"Should Togo be out of the game for good I shall probably fall back on an awfully good boy in Los Angeles named Oyama, also a pupil of mine. He has had some very good fights and is really a better boxer than Togo and thoroughly game. While he lacks Togo's invincible ruggedness he is good enough to fight in any ring in the world."

"Last Saturday the Japanese of San Francisco saw one of their countrymen go down to a humiliating defeat at the hands of a boy fifteen pounds lighter than the Japanese. The latter's name is Yudiro Watanabe. He made a wretched showing, and while he took some punishment, he did not receive as much during the entire three rounds that he fought as Togo received in any one round of his fight with Moore.

OAHUS WOULD MEET STARS

The Oahu, a baseball team composed of employes of Ehlers & Co., have expressed a desire to meet the Star boys on the diamond in the near future, Sunday being named as the day and the Makiki ground as the place.

The Oahu lineup is given as: Willie de Rego, c; Okito, p; Johnny Martin, 1b; Frank Roman, 2b; Charlie Barley, 3b; August Perreira, ss; David Phillips, cf; John Souza, rf; Joe Fernandez, of; Tony Rodriguez and Vasco Rosa, subs.

David Phillips is captain of the Oahu and Charley Barley fills the responsible position of manager.

Jimmy Carey, manager of the Stars and known as the local Connie Mack, stated this morning that he had been notified of the above challenge and that he was giving the matter due consideration.

Carey is a foxy matchmaker and wants to run his eagle eye over the Oahu before rushing into a match. He states that the Stars are willing to meet any local nine of their size but that he doesn't intend that his clever little proteges shall be sacrificed to make a Roman holiday.

Anyway, the Star newboys all go to Sunday school and can only play on a Saturday morning.

TAFT'S CLAIMS AND OUTLOOK.

If it is true that President Taft will have six hundred delegates at the Chicago convention he will have more than enough to nominate him; but among his friends there is a well-grounded fear that he is counting on pledged delegates from the South who are about as reliable politically as were the blue jays, the swarm of bees and the new-born calf that an early surveyor fixed upon to mark the boundaries of a forthcoming village site.

These Southern delegations merely represent their personal appetites for a job; and they will take the shortest route to a job whether they are pledged otherwise or not. In the want of a real party or of public sentiment behind them, there is nothing in the way of outside opinion to control or influence these delegates. Specifically, in the present juncture, if they think the trend is away from Taft they will follow it; and they may be counted on to make a lightning change in convention, if expediency suggests, from their tall hats and frock coats to sombrero's and cowboy chaps.

There are many Republicans who wish that a dark horse would come to relieve the present situation; but, since Hughes left the political firing line to take refuge in a neutral zone, there have been no dark horses available. There were plenty of them in past conventions. Time was when, as in the conventions of 1876, 1880, 1884 and 1888 groups of giants disputed for the mastery. But it is so no longer; and it looks as if the American nation like early Rome in Caesar's time, had begun to feel that "her wide walks encompassed but one man."

THE DIRECT PRIMARY IN HAWAII.

A direct primary law in Hawaii would mean the same here that it would in the Southern States, if voting were free in that quarter, namely that the people who have most at stake in Hawaii and pay the lion's share of the taxes, would have least to say in the political management of the country.

The specific effect of a direct primary law would be two-fold: It would promote bad government and graft politics; and in self-defense it would unite all the responsible voters to secure a change in our system of government either to that of an appointed commission, as in the Philippine islands, or a non-voting system as in the District of Columbia or a military system as might be properly adopted for a strategic base. One thing is sure that a government by the qualified classes would be insisted on by the Hawaiians who have always had the largest influence at Washington.

As things are now they are not perfect, but they are far better than they could be by any changes which are suggested by the habitual place-hunters and demagogues. Now everybody has some show; everybody is represented; color-line politics are frowned down on both sides; Hawaii has a chance to get tourists and settlers without scaring them by socialist innovations. Better to try to improve the things we have, rather than to fly to others we know not of and suspect darkly.

And let us remember that many arguments might be had to win approval for a direct primary among the highly-trained citizenship which apply reversely here. Sound legislation for Hawaii takes account of Hawaii only and gets small encouragement from the experience of opposite communities.

THE BILLBOARD QUESTIONS.

With billboard advertising in the rural districts the Star never had a favorable opinion. It did its part to urge the removal of the old McKechnie sign from Punchbowl's sacrificial rock. But the subject is not now a practical one here, where no such rural nuisance obtains and none will while Mr. Frazier controls the local business. Our billboards are in town and occasionally they perform the admirable function here which such devices did in San Francisco during the fire ruin era, by covering up objectionable objects. In other places about town they are kept out, mainly by Mr. Frazier's responses to civic pride.

These billboards as they stand, represent property rights which may be sold. The territory is exclusively Mr. Frazier's in a business sense in that the American Billboard association, having agreed to keep out of it while Mr. Frazier stays, does not plaster it with signs. But suppose Mr. Frazier should find it best for his peace of mind to sell out to the American Billboard association or drop the field, with the prospect that the association would occupy it? What then? Would not our last condition be worse than our first?

It may be urged that the same methods that prompted Mr. Frazier to get out might be used with effect against his successors. But don't be too sure. The class that opposes billboards from civic pride is not the one that will hurt the trade in certain things that it uses by going without. Whisky drinkers and tobacco users have no antipathy to billboards and had just as soon read about brands and prices on fences as in newspapers. People who have become accustomed to certain standard articles don't mind how they are advertised, whether on billboards or on the broad sides of stores where they are sold. Beer drinkers won't stop drinking beer because they see their favorite brand named at every turn of the road. Now in a fight with the American Billboard association here, the net result would be the advertisements that anti-billboard people least want and which that section of the public buying the things advertised would not object to. Would that be a desirable reform? Would not the beautifiers and reformers prefer the Frazier method, with its public-spirited deference to localities and its elimination of advertising of which the association makes much?

A ONE-TERM PRESIDENCY.

One of the most statesmanlike and patriotic reforms of the present day is the one proposed by Representative Clayton of Georgia, chairman of the Committee on Judiciary. It provides the following substitute for Section I, Article II, of the Constitution of the United States:

The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of six years and shall be ineligible to a second term.

The reasons why it should be adopted as part of the fundamental law are:

- 1. That it would end some of the peril of a dictatorship.
2. That it would confine a President's activities to the public business and give his policies time enough to develop.
3. It would take politics out of appointments.
4. It would take the White House out of campaign procedure.
5. It would less frequently disturb business by general elections.

When the South seceded, its statesmen, in seeking to better the old system, established a one-term presidency of seven years; and a similar innovation ought to commend itself to conservative sentiment all over the Union.

MANIFEST DESTINY.

There can be little doubt that Colombia was eucherated out of the ownership of Panama by an assisted revolution; and still less doubt that Colombia intended to cinch the United States in any direct case of site purchase and sale, and that, if the United States had been satisfied with a chance to dig the ditch on her terms, Colombia would have insisted on an interest in the tolls and control of the fortifications. As it was she stood in the way of an enterprise of world-wide moment which she could not carry out herself; and manifest destiny simply tossed her from its cow-catcher.

Great Britain had a similar experience over the Suez canal. Egypt played France against England and held the balance of power herself in canal matters. But in the end Egypt played to lose, as it must ever be with a small power which opposes the eminent domain of the world's commerce as represented by a great commercial state. It

SPRING POETRY

By WALT MASON.

It is indeed a blessed thing that lots of words will rhyme with spring; there's wing and king and sing and bring, and fifty-seven more, by jing! And when we've written "sunlit seas," we have our choice of trees and bees, and breeze and sneeze and fleas and cheese, and sundry other words like these. And when we speak of "azure skies," we have a stock of flies and pies, and stys and sighs and maidens' eyes—oh, watch the sweet afflatus rise! There are so many words that rhyme, the poet has an easy time; there's clime and thyme and crime and prime, and now and then perhaps a dime! Of course we have to ring in babbling streams, which bring us round to twilight dreams; and then, as inspiration steams, we reach for themes and schemes and beams. We must refer to singing woods if we deliver would the goods, and this leads up to noble pines, suggesting vines and twines and shines. Oh thunder! Any healthy bard could loaf around in his back yard and write spring poems by the mile along the old accustomed style. The same old verdant woodland nooks, the same old bughouse babbling brooks! The same old birds on joyous wing, the same old harp, the same old string!

Copyright, 1912, by George Matthew Adams. WALT MASON.

is little she has to do now or since Beaconsfield's time with canal matters, and the world is the better off because of the lesson taught the dull, brute stupidity with which Egypt acted in the Suez transaction.

The civilization of the world imposes stern tasks. Thus the United States could not afford to heed the protests of her Indian tribes against the constant advance of its frontiers. As a matter of practical fact the world belongs to those who can make the best use of it for the good of all. The British have taught that lesson in South Africa, the Russians and Japanese in Manchuria, the French in North Africa, the Americans in the isles of the sea. What are mongrel Colombians to set up a defeated chance to speculate against this universal law?

Speaking of the Starrett warning, Hawaii has no particular fear of antagonizing California by seeking fair play. It can get along better without the favor of that state than California can get along without the millions represented by our trade. This Territory is California's best customer. If it wanted to it could change its business over to the Puget Sound cities. So let California do the bewareing first.

If the I. W. W. would work as hard as they talk they wouldn't have any time or disposition to muddle up the courts.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

ROBERT BOND—On the stock situation—Many nibble, but few are nipt.

J. L. FLEMING—Mr. Schwarzberg is off on a vacation—just taking a little pleasure trip on his own account.

L. L. McCANDLESS—I believe Bryan will be nominated by the Democrats, and Hughes by the Republicans.

J. D. TUCKER—The government lots on Punchbowl are being appraised and will be sold at auction on August 8.

W. W. CHAMBERLAIN—That editorial in the Star on Nolte's was one of the best and truest things I have read in a long while.

CLIVE DAVIES—I would like to have the old street names restored: Palace square, Beretania street instead of "avenue," Waikiki road instead of Kalakaua avenue.

E. B. BLANCHARD—Between adulterated Honolulu icecream, Australian butter full of boracic acid, and watered milk, the health inspectors are having their hands full right now.

W. E. BELLINA—Nolte's daughter, Mrs. McGuire, knows all about the establishment she has bought and will see that the old traditions are maintained.

GEORGE A. DAVIS—If Roosevelt gets the nomination and gets elected, A. L. C. Atkinson will be the next governor of Hawaii. Now you just mark what I've said.

A. W. EAMES—I wanted to return on the Titanic, but my daughter wished to take a French steamer, as a friend was on the passenger list, so I reluctantly changed my plan. We got the news of the disaster, the Monday after it occurred.

ED TOWSE—The old-fashioned Fourth will be right up to the mark. For the literary exercises in the grounds of the Executive building we shall have about 150 massed singers to take part in the program.

R. A. WALL—California raises good potatoes, but practically none of them are sent down here. Most that I have seen have been culls, and should certainly not be used for seed, because they are badly infested with pests of one kind or another.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL SMITH—We are negotiating for the purchase of some land in Hawaii just at present and this, together with an influx of minor detail matters with which the department has been swamped, is keeping us pretty busy.

D. LOGAN—Napkins came to Nolte's when the Women's Exchange started. Chief Justice Judd went to the new place, leaving Nolte's and Nolte complained. The Judge said he had to have a napkin when he ate, so Nolte provided such articles for all and saw that they were always fresh and clean.

GEORGE P. THIELEN—There's an awful lot of people in this town that but one load of rubbish could be hauled per day from Kaimuki to the dumps by ordinary mule cart, that it would be much cheaper to buy and use auto trucks. No doubt that auto trucks would be cheaper on long hauls, but why haul so far? Is there any sense in carting garbage such a distance? Is that introducing business methods in the government service? Unless it is such garbage that it is best to burn from a sanitary standpoint, why haul it such long distance? Why not bury it in places close to the district where it is gathered? Do you mean to say that garbage must be hauled from Kaimuki, or Waikiki, or upper Nuuanu street, or Palama to the incinerator at Kakaako, in order to get rid of it? Yes, if it is the sort that must be burned; but it is not necessary for tin cans, and the stuff gathered up on a clean-up day. It is a fact, Mr. Editor, that there is still on the wayside rubbish from the last clean-up day, and every one knows that the excuse put forth at that time for not clearing it away was that "teams were not to be had," that "the expense was too great," etc. Let me suggest that committees be appointed to select places for dumping the rubbish in these several districts if there is to be another clean-up day, for two reasons: in order that it may be gotten rid of this time, and also for economy. It is ridiculous to think of hauling it several miles. It is unnecessary.

DELAY OF VOTE ON SUGAR BILL

A vote on the sugar tariff bill by the Senate is not likely to be taken until after the national conventions, according to the opinion of Willett & Gray's, as expressed in the issue of May 9.

The sugar schedule will certainly not be reached for several weeks, probably not until after the conventions. The Republican members of the Finance Committee have asked time for the settlement of their differences, and the Democrats have agreed not to press them for the present.

TO TAX THE AREAS UNDERNEATH SIDEWALKS

An ordinance has been introduced in the San Francisco board of supervisors, providing for the collection by the city of a fixed rate of rental from the areas beneath the sidewalks which have been appropriated by private owners for basement extensions.

THEIR POOR AIM.

"I wonder what those London suffragettes were throwing at?" "Why, the papers are full of it." "I haven't seen it mentioned." "Why, every paper tells how they broke the plate-glass windows." "I know it; but not a single paper tells what they were throwing at."—Houston Post.

CLEWS FAVORS LONGER TERM

Henry Clews, the well-known New York banker, voices the opinions of a growing element in the United States, regarding the need of change in our methods of holding elections, and the length of term of our presidents.

"The disturbance to business arising from the Presidential election once more emphasizes the desirability of making the term of office six years instead of four. Why should the legitimate activities of $4,000,000 of people be arrested oftener than necessary? It is quite true that the country will consume as much food, and wear as many clothes, and require as much shelter as at any other time. Nevertheless, the material prosperity of the nation is inevitably checked, simply because enterprise is desisted by fear. New projects are deferred, risks are avoided and the total business consequently diminished. Labor, quite as much as capital, is injured by this harmful excitement, for the mainsprings of industry can not be impaired without affecting the whole social fabric. In Great Britain national elections are only held when required by political exigencies. No regular time is appointed. A general election quickly follows dissolution of Parliament; so that while the crisis may be sharp it is always short and not dragged along for weary months as in the United States. Moreover, the long period of apprehensive anticipation which is usually worse than the actual crisis is averted. The British system is really more sensitive to public opinion than our own, the very promptness with which it responds tending to moderate political excitement. When the election is over a period of several years usually elapses before another change in Government intervenes. With us the certainty that a new election will take place at a given time encourages too early a start and unnecessarily prolongs the period of harmful suspense and apprehension. The President of the United States should have a term of not less than six years, and no second term; in that event the Nation would in the future be spared the humiliation of a resident and ex-President stumping the country as candidates and, as a natural sequence, abusing each other. Four years is adverse to efficiency, because a large portion of the term is occupied in satisfying the importunities of office-seekers, who always follow with a rush on the beginning of a new Administration. By giving the President a longer term we should enable him to carry out policies with steadier continuity, we should diminish political turmoil, and public opinion could enforce its will quite as promptly as ever through Congress itself. We should lose nothing politically by a six-year term, and would gain a great deal commercially by such a change."

MARKET FUTURE IS UNCERTAIN

Unstability is the chief characteristic of the sugar market, and the outlook for the future is uncertain, according to Willett & Gray's review of the week ending May 9th. The review follows:

Strength, followed by final weakness, has been the feature of the week under review, both at home and abroad, and the close is at a decline of 1-16c. per lb. for Centrifugals, bringing the quotations back to the recent low level again of 2 5-8c. c. & f. for Cubas, equal to 3.985c. per lb. for 96 deg. test. A very good business was done almost daily during the week at both 4.05c. per lb. and 3.985c. per lb. Europe rather followed than led our market and closed with a decline of 4 1-2d. for beet sugar and 7 1-2d. for Cane Javas. The notable feature is that August (the close of the old crop), declined 6d., or to within 3-4d. of present month, an indication that the U. K. sees sufficient supplies ahead to warrant the beginning of a moderate decline movement which comes every year in closing the difference in quotations of old and new crops. Crop reports are generally favorable. The Cuba crop receipts given herewith to May 1st show quite as satisfactory as anticipated and confirm crop estimates of at least 1,800,000 tons. European Beet crop reports are given as improving and, apparently, farmers have taken extra precautions

Suppose in planning the summer aspect of your home, you should take for your governing thought, utilization and not possession, wouldn't the result be greater comfort and greater beauty?

Some one has said that we only truly possess what we utilize. If this is so, many of us who think we have vast possessions, really possess very little.

What is the use of having bookcases after bookcases filled with books that we never read? What is the use of having a half dozen or so vases about that we never fill with flowers? And we could thus go about our houses and pick out scores of things that we never utilize in any way whatever. And if they are not used, they are simply cumberers of the ground.

Now for the sake of what we might get out of such an experiment we could give the matter a test this summer. When we make our house ready for the hot weather, we could put away everything that we do not utilize. And by this is not meant practical utility. A picture is utilized when it is looked at, and a message of beauty or inspiration gained from it. We want to study these various objects of household furnishings thoughtfully, but also mercifully. Everything that has a use for us, for the mind and spirit as well as for the body, we should keep. But everything that hasn't any such use, we should rigorously put away.

And then it will be interesting to study the result. For one thing, it will probably make for much easier housekeeping, and for a sense of rest and spaciousness in the home. And these things are welcome, especially in warm weather. But the result may also startle us with the fact of how little we really have in our lives. We may be somewhat amazed at the barrenness we see about us, which will in reality be a reflex of the barrenness within.

Suppose we must honestly conclude we never read any of the books we have about, and they are banished. Suppose we must confess that we rarely look at the pictures that hang on our walls; and that if we do look at them, they say nothing to us. And so our walls become empty. Suppose the ornaments we have about are meaningless, and we have only placed them here and there because they are fashionable, or our neighbors have done so in their homes. And mantels and shelves are swept bare. Suppose at last we come down to the fact that the only things we really utilize are the things that minister to our physical needs,—the cookstove, the dishes, the chairs and beds; that all the rest is an accretion that has little to do with our real selves. Wouldn't we be surprised? And would not we sit down and do some rather sober, serious thinking?

For few of us would like to actually believe that we don't care for beauty, or the little refining things of life. Yet all about us we do have books we never read, pictures we never look at, vases we never put flowers in.

So as an experiment, why not try this method of furnishing our summer home. We may do away with a lot of useless things that will make the task of housekeeping easier, and really leave our homes more truly beautiful. On the other hand, we may discover within ourselves a certain lack which is really depriving us of much of the finest, most beautiful and most truly joy-giving things of life.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND WOMEN IN GREAT SUFFRAGE PARADE

NEW YORK, May 1.—The biggest parade of the sort ever held in America is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, May 4, when 15,000 women will march up Fifth avenue in a "votes for women" demonstration. Most of the marchers will be on foot, and there will be twelve divisions. The suffrage colors will be in evidence, and a special hat will be worn. There will be some women on horseback at the head of the line. Toward the end will be seen a score of women automobilists. Miss Inez Milholland and Miss Roberta Hill will head two of the divisions. The parade will be followed by a mass meeting at Carnegie hall at which all of the speakers will be women.

MRS. HITCHCOCK DIES AT HOME

Mrs. H. Rexford Hitchcock died at the family home, Pukoo, Mokolai, at seven o'clock Tuesday evening after a short illness. News of her illness was received here on Sunday, and a trained nurse was sent over in the Mikahala on Tuesday night, but arrived after the patient had died. A steamer was chartered yesterday to take relatives to the funeral, those who left being Ran and Will, sons of the dead woman who are attending Oahu College, Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer, Mrs. William Mutch and Mrs. Theodore Myer. Rex Hitchcock, son of the late Mrs. Hitchcock, is in Harvard, doing well both in his studies and in athletics. Mr. Hitchcock, the bereaved husband, is well-known in Honolulu. He was deputy marshal of the Republic of Hawaii and for some time after annexation practiced law and carried on a ballasting business here.

BERGER'S BENEFIT ON MONDAY NIGHT

Following is the program for the benefit to Captain Berger, bandmaster, at the Opera House on Monday evening next:

Thom Helen, with the Juvenile Bostonians in "The Rose of Blandean."

Although new to Honolulu the Juvenile Bostonians are an eight-year-old organization, and, with but three exceptions, the personnel of the company is exactly the same as when organized. During their existence as an organization they have produced and are "up" in some thirty odd operas, the pick of which Messrs. Cosgrove & Lang claim will be presented during their stay at the Liberty Theater, and if the advance sale is an indication the Juveniles engagement will be a red-letter occasion for local amusement lovers, especially the children and the grown-ups who enjoy a strictly first class operatic performance.

TICKET MAKING PREVAILING FAD

THE THEATERS

Juvenile Bostonians at Liberty Tonight. "The smile that won't come off" belongs to the two local theatrical impresarios, Joel Cohen and Bobby McGreer, this day, for the much talked of Juvenile Bostonians arrived this morning and claim to be ready for a strenuous season. That the Klaw & Erlanger of Honolulu have not misrepresented the Juveniles, so far as good looks go, was proved when an inspection of the twenty sprightly maidens was made as they disembarked this morning, and from all accounts the company is as clever and entertaining as they are good looking and neat.

Miss Rose Henry is the leading artiste with the company, having been with the company since its organization. Miss Henry is probably the youngest leading woman on the stage. Her cleverness has attracted the attention of Broadway managers who tried to get her name to a contract for this season but she preferred another year under Mrs. Lang's instruction. The balance of the principals are all pretty young maidens and they would be hard to please indeed who could not pick out their ideal of beauty in young womanhood among this twenty odd young girls and ladies, all types from the extreme blonde variety to the black-haired, blue eyed Irish kind, and a company that is "well worth while" seems to be the Juvenile Bostonians.

The company will furnish a full evening's entertainment, and in order to facilitate the seating arrangement the performance will begin promptly at seven fifteen, starting with three reels of specially selected moving pictures, the performance proper, however, starting some forty minutes afterward. Reserved sale of seats at the Promotion Committee rooms in the Young hotel building.

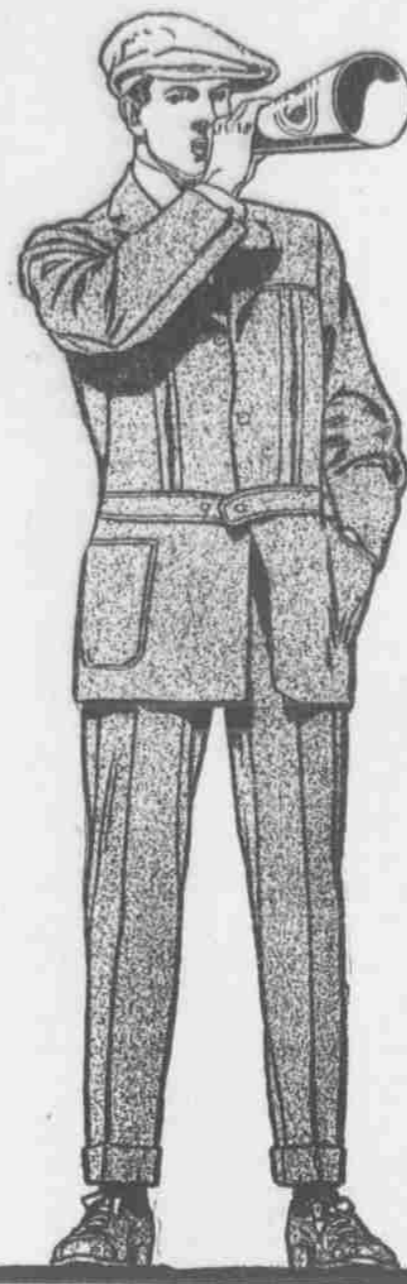

New Acts For Bijou Tonight.

That the Bijou management is determined to give its patrons only the best in the vaudeville line was shown when it terminated the engagement of Ryan and Bryan, an act that was not up to the standard established by that theater. The management is to be commended for its stand in the matter.

By the Honolulu yesterday a first class singing and dancing team — Knotts and Lawrence — arrived and will make its first appearance tonight in the latest songs and up to date dancing. This team has been playing on the best mainland circuits and carries a scrap book of favorable comments. Their singing and dancing will be a big feature of the Bijou tonight. Passengers on the Honolulu speak of their entertaining ability in the highest terms.

er. In this act Miss Nannery is seen at her best. She is a forceful actress and carries her part well, be it light or heavy.

The Yokohama Troupe of clever acrobats are about finishing up their engagement, which has been one big success. They will introduce new features in this act tonight. There's an act that can be seen time and time again without lagging in interest.

The pictures tonight deserve special mention, as the four reels have been personally selected by the manager and include comedy and pathos. With the weak point in the early part of the week eliminated the Bijou program tonight stands preeminent in the way of amusement.

A troupe of fifteen trained dogs will be added to the bill on Monday night.

RICHEST BACHELOR

OFF ON HONEYMOON

NEW YORK, May 14.—Alexander Smith Cochran, the richest bachelor in America, having in his own right a fortune estimated at $10,000,000 sailed for Europe today, on the steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie on what is believed to be his honeymoon trip. The names of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cochran appeared on the first cabin passenger list, but efforts to find out who Mrs. A. S. Cochran is were unsuccessful.

A young woman to whom the millionaire has paid marked attention and who has been talked about in society as the one likely to become his wife is Martha McCook of 563 Park avenue, the daughter of Colonel John J. McCook, the veteran and lawyer, who died last year. Members of the Cochran family in Yonkers today said they were not aware the young millionaire is married.

When buying his tickets he gave his address as 10 East Forty-first street. It was said there last night that he had called this morning, but ignorance was feigned of his having gone abroad with a bride. Cochran is 38 years old, and was graduated from Yale in 1896.

"You play chess a great deal?" "Yes," replied the profound student. "Chess is a great game." "But does it rest the mind?" "Of course; that's the beauty of it. You can take a nice nap while you are waiting for your opponent to figure out his next move."—Washington Star.

JAP PUGILIST HAS ARRIVED

Yamogata, a Japanese lightweight boxer, arrived from the Coast by the S. S. Marama this morning.

The Oriental pugilist comes at the behest of Joe Cohen who has a very high opinion of his static ability.

Yamogata has had a score of fights in the neighborhood of Seattle and his record is unblemished by defeat.

He is said to be a rugged, aggressive boxer, capable of assimilating punishment and possessing a punch that is stronger than the ordinary. The Japanese will probably be given a chance to show his prowess in the local ring before very long, providing a suitable opponent can be found for him.

again, going at the witness from every conceivable angle, but always with the same result. The matter resolved itself into a battle of wits between the attorney and the witness, with honors about even. Occasionally Attorney Olson chipped in with an objection, many of which were sustained by the judge, obliging Breckons to resort to a new line of attack.

From now on the fight will be largely along the lines of expert testimony. The jury appears to be taking a keen interest in the matter. Most of the jurymen have notebooks in which they make frequent entries.

WOULD-BE CITIZEN REPEATS ALL OF THE CONSTITUTION

TACOMA, May 13.—Washington Finley, a naturalized Englishman born in France, appeared among a list of applicants for citizenship papers today and astonished the examiners by repeating the entire Constitution of the United States. Examiner Staples said it is the purpose of the naturalization officials to make the examinations as difficult as possible so that alien applicants will place a greater value on their citizenship.

METHODISTS WILL RETAIN TABUS

MINNEAPOLIS, May 13.—Unless the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church overrules the action of the committee on the state of church, that part of paragraph 260 of the church discipline which especially prohibits dancing, card playing and kindred amusements will remain a church law.

By a vote of 100 to 51, the entire committee today voted to reject the report of the majority of the sub-committee which favored leaving the amusement question to the "conscience" of the individual member. Dr. James R. Day, chancellor of Syracuse University, chairman of the sub-committee, served notice on the committee that a minority report would be made.

Debate in the committee was strenuous. Pleas were made by delegates from foreign lands to retain the paragraph, Dr. De El'ong, a Chinese delegate, through an interpreter, making an effective speech.

A. J. Wallace, Lieutenant Governor of California and chairman of the committee, also made an address in favor of striking out the "catalogue" of prohibitive amusements.

The vote was taken by the committee less than one hour after an address delivered by Rev. William A. Sunday, the evangelist, who, at two meetings in which the hall was filled, told of his conversion. Sunday was given an ovation at both meetings.

At the business session today the conference, amid great enthusiasm, approved the new republic of China and ordered that its flag be hung with that of the United States above the speakers' platform.

Tonight's session was given over to the report of the committee on book concerns of the church.

The report of the committee declared it is not ready at the present to advocate a concentration of the Western, Northwestern and Central Advocates, official organs of the church, but urges that a commission be appointed to study the situation.

THE JUVENILE GIRLS ARE SOME KIDS

Long girls, short girls, girls of every sort.

Pretty girls, plump girls, everyone a sport.

Arrived in town this morning at the break o' day—
Put your hands in your pockets boys and pay, pay, pay.

It is a fact, too, that there are all sorts of girls among the Juvenile Bostonians that hit port this morning when the Marama arrived. If you don't believe it, ask Joe Cohen.

Joe went out to meet the girls who open at the Liberty tonight and forgot to have any breakfast before he went. At least that is the story Joe told. Anyway, after the custommen had got on board the Marama and Joe was sitting in the launch as it wobbled from side to side, he started in to do the chameleon trick. First his face went white, then it turned blue and finally a nice green-yellow. Poor Joe was nearly overboard when the signal went and he clambered on board to meet the girls.

Well, say, the way those kiddies mobbed Uncle Joe was good to see and five minutes afterward his cheeks were wearing that beautiful complexion again.

The girls were the life and soul of the Marama coming down from Van-cover, concerts every night, songs any old time and real good sports all the time. Everybody on board had a good word to say for them.

Good-bye to Coons.

When the Marama pulled out of the Alakea dock about one o'clock and while she was waiting for two run-away attackers to be brought back again, the Juvenile Bostonians and the minstrels exchanged courtesies. The kiddies sang a song to the coons and the latter stopped showing their pearly white teeth just long enough for the girls to hear a coon song warbled and then they pleaded for "Just won more, gals." The girls did and the Alakea dock was packed with people to see the fun.

Captain Riley stood alongside the gangway and stared open-mouthed at the girls. "I have never seen so many good-looking girls all at once since I left Ireland. It would take me a month of Sundays to pick out the prettiest one, so I will just love them all," he whispered excitedly.

The girls open tonight at the Liberty theater and the seats, which may be booked at the promotion committee rooms, are going fast. "The Ransom" is the name of the first piece and some of the people on the boat say that it went fine when it was played on the mainland.

MARKET SHIES AT ROOSEVELT

Roosevelt's success in Ohio is credited with the weaker tone of the local stock market this morning. There were no serious breaks, but several of the more active stocks dropped back to where they were last week, and others show signs of faltering in the upward move which has maintained since the attitude of the Senate against the free sugar schedule became verified.

The asking price for Ewa dropped from 23 3/4 to 23 1/4 over night, with no sales recorded. Hawaiian Commercial was also 1-8 point weaker, closing today at 45 1/2. One sale of 5 shares was all that was recorded, the price being 45 1/2.

Oahu Sugar, which sold strong yesterday at 29.25, sold today in quantity at 29 flat, while 29 1/4 was asked at close. Oiaa still holds its place, but holders of McBryde had dropped their asking price from 10 flat to 9 1/2.

BIG PROGRAM TO CLOSE A BIG WEEK

FRANCIS SMITH GIVES A SPIEL

S. F. Chronicle, May 13: The cruise to Vallejo by the fleets of the Sausalito, San Francisco and Corinthian Yacht clubs was one of the most successful ever taken by the local clubs. The Vallejo Yacht Club proved to be a very generous and entertaining host, and everybody enjoyed the outing from the moment they cast their anchors at the landing until the commodores gave the word to heave away yesterday morning. Contrary to custom, the jinks preceded the dinner, which commenced at midnight on Saturday, and both functions were appreciated by the visitors.

Francis Smith, who is at present building the dry dock at Pearl harbor and is a member of the Hawaii Yacht Club, gave a very interesting talk to the members of the four clubs before the jinks commenced. Then came the real "low variety of jinks, and to say that everybody was tickled to death—well, that's putting it mild.

Kid Nelson entertained in his inimitable style, and many other well-known songsters contributed to the enjoyment of the evening. On the stroke of midnight the covers were lifted, and sumptuous things to eat and drink kept the amateur tars even too busy to talk for a while. The Vallejo boys were all voted good fellows, and will be invited to join in some of the cruises and outings of the local clubs during the season.

Among the yachts that participated in the sail were the Sappho and Polly of the Sausalito Yacht Club, and the flagship Amigo, Caprice, White Heather and Nanuwai of the San Francisco Club. The Corinthian fleet included, among the twenty-six that "cruised," the Mischief, Meteor, Yankee, Marlon, Emma, Pesta, Harpoon, Nixie, Laja Ada, Kathleen, Freda and Moonlight.

LAST OF FRANCE'S BANDIT GANG ARE PUT TO DEATH

PARIS, May 14.—The career of the last of France's notorious bandit gang was dramatically ended this morning when, after eight hours battle with police and troops, its leader, Octave Garnier, and his confederate, Vallet, were blown up by explosives in a small villa at Logent-Sur-Marne, where they had taken refuge.

Shattered by shots of dynamite, their house fell in ruins when melinite was exploded under the walls. The police found Garnier dead and Vallet dying. Five policemen were wounded in the battle.

When the police arrived at the villa which was known as the Moulin Rouge, M. Guichard, superintendent of detectives, cried out: "Open in the name of the law."

A man hidden in the garden responded with revolver fire. This began the battle and siege.

Guichard was not hit. He mobilized the detectives, police and gendarmes, while a company of Zouaves joined the besiegers. The excitement was intense and the enormous crowd hindered operations.

Six inspectors, protected by sheets of steel, approached the house. They encountered a heavy fire, but were not wounded. Three of the police, however, fell seriously wounded. In the meantime the police and spectators who had gathered on the viaduct heaved rocks on the roof of the house, which stood adjacent to the viaduct. The roof was wrecked and fell in, but the bandits continued firing.

When M. Lepine, the Prefect of Police, arrived, he assumed command and held a council with the captain of the Zouaves, and finally decided to blow up the bandit's lair.

The Zouave bugler sounded "cease firing," and then "retreat."

The crowds were now almost overwhelming. With the piercing notes of the bugle the noisy clamor of the multitude was hushed. Word was passed that the villa was to be blown up.

Soon there was an explosion. Inspectors and artillery lieutenants had thrown dynamite bombs from the viaduct.

The explosion was so great that it shook the town and gave the impression of an earthquake, but when the smoke and dust cleared the sharp cracks of rifles from the building showed the bombs had failed to accomplish their purpose.

When the bandits resumed the aggressive, M. Lepine himself had a narrow escape from death. Although some distance from the villa, a bullet passed within an inch of his shoulder and buried itself in a wall.

The Prefect requisitioned extra dynamite bombs and cartridges from the military barracks at Vincennes. Several detectives, armed with a new type of steel shield, were able to approach within fifteen feet of the house. Holding the shield with the left arm and crouching behind it, they fired. One shield was pierced, but the detective was not wounded.

Sergeant Fleury, who was dangerously wounded earlier in the battle while protected by a steel shield, owed his injury to the fact that he turned, thus exposing his body.

At 11:25 two more dynamite cartridges were exploded and a portion of one wall toppled over. Nevertheless the bandits succeeded in finding shelter in what remained of the structure.

The police and troops sent volley after volley of shots into the ruins of the building. Some of the bullets ricocheted from the bricks, while others emerged on the opposite side, the result of which was that two policemen were wounded. Then an armed force, holding torches, rushed into the ruins and discovered the two bandits on the floor in a room.

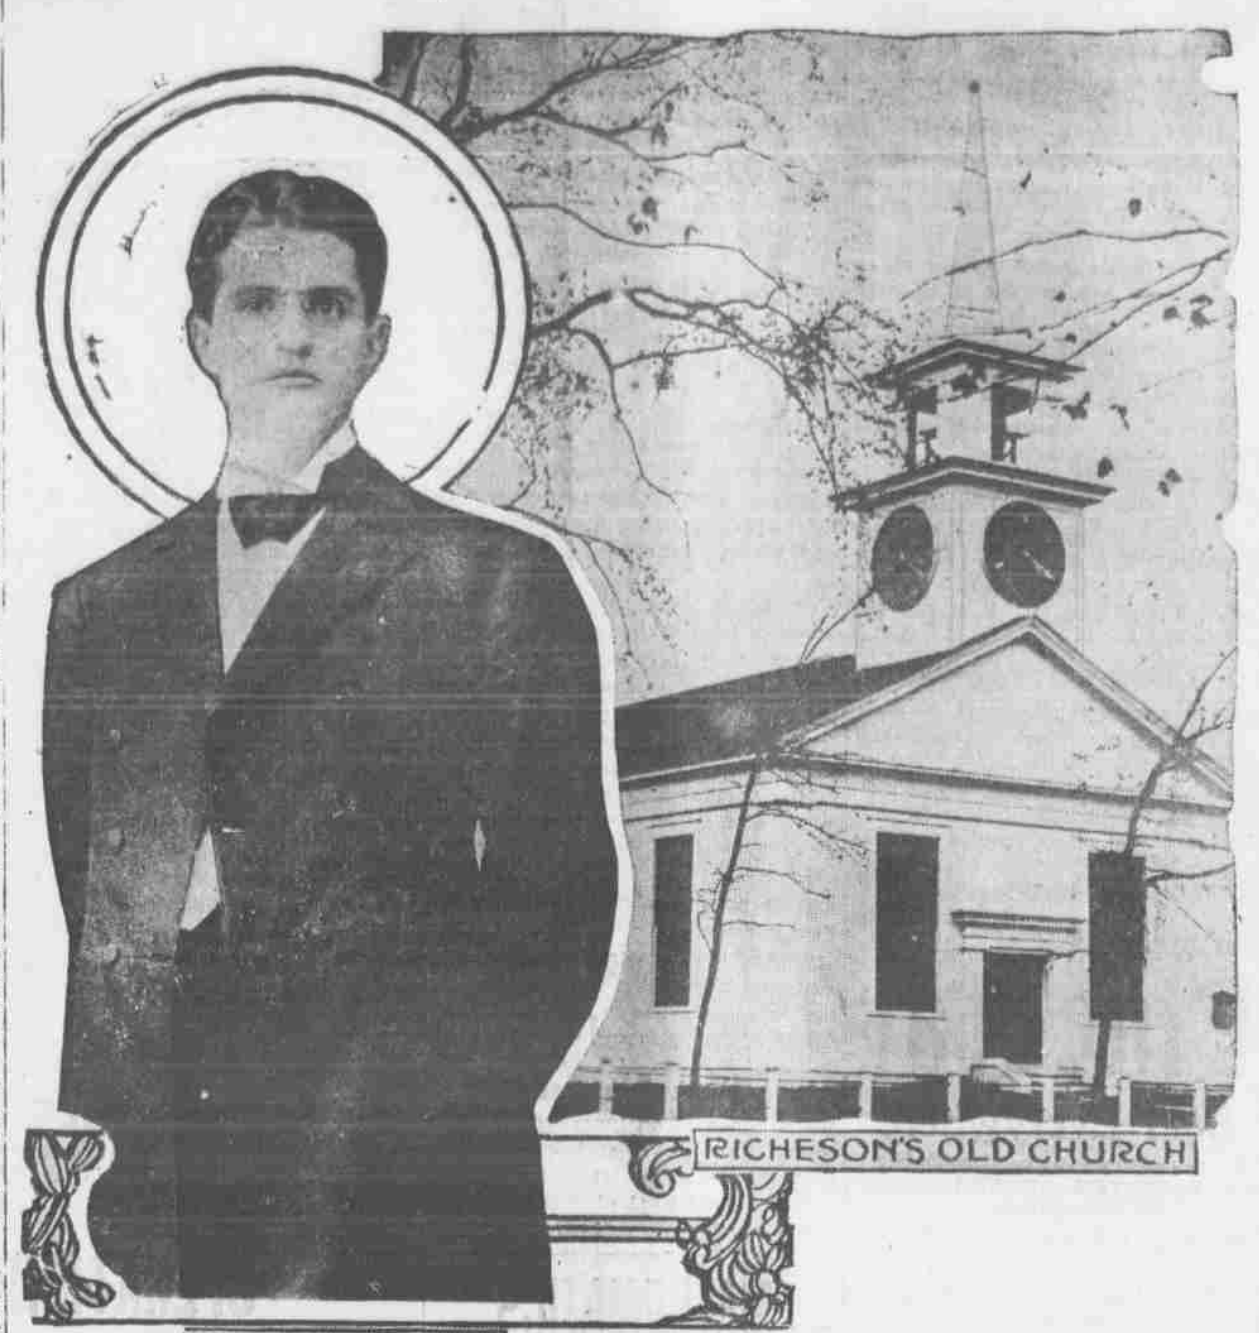

Garnier was naked, save for a few tattered rags. He appeared to be dead. Vallet was dying.

When the bodies of the desperadoes were dragged into the open the thousands of spectators pressed forward and tried to tear them from the troops. Automobiles were brought up and the bodies thrown in, but for a few minutes it was found impossible to start the machines.

Vallet died in the automobile which was conveying him to a Paris hospital.

A policeman and a soldier, who were the first to enter the villa, saw Garnier with a mattress rolled around his body, holding a revolver. The bandit was still firing, but he must have soon expired, for when they threw themselves on him and unrolled the mattress the man was dead.

MURDERER RICHESON, EXECUTED IN BOSTON ON MONDAY LAST

MANY CAUSES ARE FOUND FOR HIGH COST OF LIVING

S. F. Journal of Commerce: More has been written, perhaps, about the high cost of living than upon any other subject that has claimed the attention of the world in a number of years. As many versions of the cause of the unfortunate condition have been given as there are possible persons and things upon which it can be blamed. The farmer, the middleman, the trusts, the manufacturers, the railroads, the tariff, high wages, politics, Taft, Roosevelt, Morgan and the gold output have all been arraigned as the offenders against the common people, and each of these has been defended by laying the blame upon some one of the others.

The other day the Journal of Commerce printed a dispatch from New York giving an account of a convention of producers and consumers' associations at which it was agreed that the middlemen had profits on products of 100 to 500 per cent, and that the express companies were also offenders. It should have been explained that the middleman was not the retailer who handles from day to day the great food staples that are consumed by the people. The kind of middleman who was charged with drawing an excessive profit for distribution is the huckster in the large cities, who has interposed himself between the farmer and the retailer. He is an unnecessary clog in the machinery of distribution. But so far as the legitimate middleman is concerned, the man who distributes the staple commodities of life all the year round, his margin of profit is no larger today than it was twenty years ago.

There is ground for the claim that a good portion of the increased prices of commodities goes to the railway companies for transportation. It is also true that the tariff is responsible for the increased cost of many of the necessities of life. As a matter of fact, this is not controverted by the defenders of high protective tariff. A protective tariff is defended on the theory that it makes up the difference between the wage scale at home and the wage scale abroad and while it is supposed to be in the interest of American wage earners, it naturally follows that the ultimate consumer must pay the difference, and it is assumed that he will be willing to pay the difference so long as it redounds to the benefit of the American wage earner. As a matter of fact, however, the extra profits that accrue under a protective tariff are not fairly distributed among the wage earners who make the goods.

It is also undoubtedly true that the increased production of gold has had much to do with the steadily rising values of the necessities and luxuries of life. Economists tell us that there is a direct relation between the quantity of this metal, that is the basis of value, and the general industrial conditions. They tell us that as the basic metal increases in quantity—and as a consequence decreases in purchasing power—the value, the price of everything measured by and paid for by that metal, is invariably enhanced in value.

The gold production of the world for the year 1896 was approximately $202,251,600. For the year 1909 it was approximately $445,000,000, an increase of 120 per cent over the production for 1896. The significance of these facts in their effect upon present and future values may be better understood when we remember the fact that gold is indestructible. The product of each recurring year is added to the product of all the years that have preceded it. As this metal accumulates it takes more gold to buy a bushel of wheat, a suit of clothes, a sack of flour or any of the necessities of life. It must also be remembered that wages must go up in about the same proportion that the purchasing power of the money the laborer earns goes down.

It appears, therefore, that there are several causes for the high cost of living and it may also appear that all of those mentioned above contribute to it. And there is still another, which is that people, not only of America but of the world, are living more freely and consuming more of the commodities produced from the soil and the factory. The thickly populated nations of the east are, for instance, departing from their frugalities and indulging in western foods and western wear. This seems to lessen the supply and may have its effect in raising prices in some degree. Thus the subject opens up new vistas. One sees the drift of population from the country to the cities, and a consequent lessening of production, or a changing of the ratio of production and population, and one then goes into statistics of wheat and potatoes and other products. The question becomes so large as to be confusing, but that fact does not remove known evils. The conclusion is that the high cost of living is due to many causes, and that the part of wisdom is to lessen the causes wherever practicable by wise legislation such as the prevention of monopolies and extortions of all kinds.

FOR SAFETY AT SEA

The Tragic Lesson of the Titanic Is Already Bearing Fruit.

S. F. Chronicle, May 15: That fate, unlike the case of many other modern tragedies, is not likely to be lost upon the world. By means of appropriate legislation a better wireless equipment of ocean steamships, is to be enforced, safer routes are to be traversed, and the whole matter of safety at sea is to be made the subject of an international maritime conference. Those who went down with the Titanic did not give up their lives in vain.

Similar action has been taken voluntarily by many of the steamship lines on the Atlantic, so that it seems safe to say that never before in the history of marine navigation have life-saving appliances aboard ship been brought to their maximum efficiency so quickly as has been done since the loss of the great White Star liner taught its tragic lesson.

Before the sinking of the Titanic the inadequacy of the rules of ocean steamship companies with reference to the preservation of life was not nearly sufficiently realized. The managers of the companies, and too often the various boards of inspection, had gone along on the theory that the modern greyhounds, with their watertight compartments, inner and outer bottoms, bulkheads, etc., were unsinkable.

The efforts of the steamship builders were directed chiefly not to providing means of rescue in case of disaster, but to making the ships incapable of meeting disaster, and to providing luxurious accommodations and a high rate of speed. Now, it is likely, the proof having been made that no ship is unsinkable, a strong impulse will be given to the invention of rescue devices and the designing of ships so that they will be able to carry a sufficient number of them.

A great many suggestions directed to this end have already been made and doubtless the steamship companies will direct their attention toward testing their merits. Undoubtedly there are some real difficulties in the way of providing a sufficient number of lifeboats, but perhaps a new type of lifeboat can be designed, or a sort of detachable deck which would float even if the main body of the ship sank.

The whole question is still in its suggestive stage, but the important

AS TO PRIMARIES AND PARTY RULES

No decision was reached on the question of a direct primary at the meeting of the rules committee of the Republican organization last night. Representative Ed. Towse told of Governor Frear's opposition to the primary bill the Senate killed last session. William Thompson said the primary law plank in last campaign platform was inserted only after a hard struggle, and at that was confined to the Island of Oahu.

Mr. Breckons favored the preferential system for precincts, hoping it would be used in the coming election, expressed his belief that two or three to one would be favorable to it in a plebiscite.

Mr. Castro did not see and hope of improvement from substituting the primary for the convention. It would cause many complications. Representative A. Q. Marcellino advocated a direct primary as necessary to fair play. Chairman C. L. Crabbe thought it was a matter for the legislature and not one belonging to the party and its rules.

There was diversity of opinion also about the question of giving publicity to campaign funds. Statements were made to the effect that some people contributed to the funds only on condition that their names be kept secret, and that some contributed to the campaigns of both parties.

Another matter considered was that of the appointment of the committee to manage the campaign, and a committee was appointed to report on, consisting of Towse, Breckons and Castro. It was stated that, in past campaigns, some candidates were not given a fair deal by the management.

Another and most important matter discussed was that of the colonizing of primaries both by voters in precincts other than their own and by voters of another party.

MATHEMATICS ON MARS

(Popular Mechanics for May.) The almost irresistible inertia of mankind makes the adoption of improvements, even in such simple things as the metric system, almost impossible. It is not, therefore, with a view of urging a change in our system of arithmetic, that this article is presented by Popular Mechanics' Magazine. It was written by one of the highest authorities on mathematics in the United States, a scientist of wide reputation, and opens up an entirely new field for discussion on the subject.—The Editor.

The appearance of new canals, or more exactly, fine dark streaks, on the planet Mars has been announced in recent dispatches from the Lowell Observatory of Flagstaff, Arizona. These streaks are interpreted by Prof. Percival Lowell as being bands of vegetation from 10 to 50 miles in width, which grow along the banks of actual canals constructed by intelligent beings. It is clear to everyone that if there is life on Mars, its physical characteristics must be adapted to the special conditions prevailing on this planet, and that, because of the different conditions there, it must differ much from life upon the earth. But it is generally supposed that there are many fundamental things, such as mathematics, which must be exactly the same everywhere. This is not strictly true and it will be shown that it is possible, and in fact very probable, that simple arithmetic on Mars differs much from that which is used on the earth.

In our number system we have 10 digits, or digits, 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. The reason we have 10 digits and count by tens is because we have 10 fingers on our hands and 10 toes on our feet. In the earliest stages of civilization when men first learned to count beyond two or three, they did it on their fingers (or toes), and described large numbers by telling how many times they had to go around the fingers on their hands. For example, 24 would be the two hands taken three times and then four fingers. It is easy to see how a number could be described to another person by signs without using the names of any numbers at all. As a consequence of these primitive steps, and growing out of them, we have a number system based on the 10 digits. When we write a number, as 245, the digit in the first place on the right indicates the number of units, the digit in the second place, the number of tens, and the digit in the third place, the hundreds or 10 times tens. In this number there are 2 hundreds, 4 tens and 5 units.

Now let us suppose that the inhabitants of the planet Mars have a different number of fingers than that possessed by man, and that their number system grew up in a similar manner, as would be likely. Suppose, for the sake of definiteness, they have eight fingers. Then they would have

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL WILL SOON BE REPORTED

By J. A. BRECKONS. (Special Correspondence of the Star.) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—All of the provisions in the Naval Appropriation Bill, as it will be reported to the House on May 14 or 15, were agreed to at a meeting of the committee on May 8. There were a number of items in the bill to which all the members of the committee had not given their approval, but at this meeting every provision was agreed to and the bill got into shape to be reported to the House. The total appropriation carried by the bill is $118,636,845.61, or a reduction, as compared with last year's appropriation, of $7,791,692.63. The estimates of the Navy Department, including the building program, supplemental estimates of the Secretary of the Navy, communications from the department, and recommendations in the Secretary's hearing which included one battleship cruiser, in addition to two battleships for the next fiscal year, were $134,281,835.61. The committee reduces this amount $15,695,190. The building program recommended by the Department amounted to $45,738,426, of which $18,071,800 was to be available for the first year. The estimated cost of the committee's building program is $12,713,440, of which $5,927,700 is to be available for the first year.

Public Works Items. The appropriations for public works last year amounted to $7,431,477, against $4,594,800 this year, or a reduction of $2,836,677. This year's appropriation includes an extension of the Pearl Harbor drydock from 800 to 1000 feet at a cost of $650,000. A new magazine at Kuakua, Hawaii, at a cost of $152,500 and new marine barracks at Philadelphia at a cost of $175,000, are among the large items included in the public works appropriation.

THE MORNING CABLE REPORT

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Taft headquarters here last night issued a statement bearing on the results of the Ohio State primaries, in which it is claimed for the President that he will have six hundred delegates at the Chicago convention. The statement also claims that Mr. Taft will capture the six delegate-at-large from his home State, when the convention meets in Columbus, June 3.

SAN DIEGO, California, May 23.—With the announcement that Attorney General Webb, of California, has started to investigate the recent riots in this city, more than two thousand vigilantes decided last night to disband at once. The matter came up at a secret meeting. A demonstration, planned for tomorrow, has been called off.

LOS ANGELES California, May 23.—An anonymous letter has been received by Federal Prosecutor Dudley Robinson, warning him that he will be killed if he persists in his investigation of I. W. W. outrages in southern California.

SEATTLE, May 23.—Captain Alexander Seaman Halstead, former commander of the Pensacola, which was recently burned in San Francisco harbor, left here today for the Orient to join the Pacific fleet in Philippine waters and take command of the California, Admiral Southerland's flagship, which was commanded until recently by Commander Terhune, formerly chief of staff under Admiral Thomas, and at present commander of the Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—President Taft yesterday declined to make public the correspondence with the United States of Colombia, regarding the republic of Panama. These letters had been demanded by the Senate, in connection with an investigation. Secretary Knox in a statement issued from the State Department, declared that to publish the correspondence would be to "arouse bitter feelings."

In their number system only eight digits, 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. It is easy to see how numbers would be expressed in this system. The number 13 when expressed in the system used by the Martians would be written 15. This would mean, in their system, 1 eight and 5 units. Consider the problem of expressing 27 in the Martian system. This would be 3 eights and 3 units, which would be written in their system 33. In a similar manner, all the numbers less than 64 are easily written in the Martian system. But consider the number 82. In the Martian system this is written 122; for the 1 means, not 10 tens as it does in our system, but 8 eights, or 64, and the 22 means 2 eights and 2, or 18. Now 18 and 64 are 82.

A general method for translating a number from our system to the Martian system is the following: Divide the number written in our system by 8 and the remainder, which will be less than 8, will be the first number on the right in the Martian system. Then divide the quotient obtained by the first division by 8 again, and the remainder will be the second number in the Martian system. Continue this process until the quotient is less than 8, putting down each time the remainder, and the last remainder and quotient are the last two figures in the Martian system. For example, if we were using the Martian system we should write this year 3570 instead of 1912. The number 3570 in the Martian system means 3 times 512 (which corresponds to our 1000), plus 5 times 64, plus 7 times 8.

One might inquire whether our system or the Martian system is the more convenient, since it is clear that it is possible to write any number in either system. Or perhaps one might inquire if there is not some other system more convenient than either. A little inspection shows that it takes more figures to represent large numbers in the Martian system than it does in ours. It is easy to see that the reason is that it has fewer digits. Consequently if a system had more digits than ours, the large numbers would be written with fewer figures. So far as this point is concerned, a large number of digits tends toward simplicity; but a more important consideration is that the number corresponding to 10 or 100 shall have many factors. In the Martian system the numbers corresponding to 10 and 100 are 8 and 64. 100 has the 7 factors 2, 4, 5, 10, 20, 25, and 50. But if there were 12 digits, 144 would correspond to 100, and in that system this number would, indeed, be written 100, for it would mean, since 1 is in the third place, one 12 times 12. Now 144 has the 12 factors 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 12, 16, 18, 24, 36, 48, and 72. Hence, theoretically, 12 digits would be most convenient. Of course, if this system were to be adopted, two new symbols and names would have to be invented.

When it comes to the application, it is seen that the system of 12 digits has many advantages. In the first place the fractions 1-2, 1-3, 1-4, 1-6, 1-8, 1-12, 1-16, 1-18, 1-24, 1-36, 1-48, and 1-72 could be written in the decimal (or more properly speaking duodecimal) form with not more than two digits. For example, 1-18 written in the duodecimal form is .08, which means 8-144. Then the very practical problem of finding the interest for any number of months would become, in case 12 digits were used, simply one of duodecimals. For example, suppose the time in a problem is one year and seven months. In our system of writing we write one year and seven months as 1 7-12 years, or, decimally, 1.5833. In the duodecimal system one year and seven months would be written simply 1.7 years. Then the interest is the product of this number, the rate, and the principal. It is, of course, equally simple for any number of months.

In a similar manner inches are simple duodecimals of feet, and all computations involving feet and inches would be greatly simplified. In short the system of 12 digits has all the advantages of the metric system and the additional ones coming from the fact that 144 has several more factors than 100 has.

If Lowell is right regarding the meaning of the faint streaks which are seen on Mars, perhaps the engineers there may have had the advantage of using the duodecimal system in constructing the enormous irrigation systems which his theory assumes exist on this planet.

WOMAN ESCAPES DREADFUL OPERATION

How She Was Saved From Surgeon's Knife by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mogadore, Ohio.—"The first two years I was married I suffered so much from female troubles and bearing down pains that I could not stand on my feet long enough to do my work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation, but my husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first. I took three bottles and it made me well and strong and I avoided a dreadful operation. I now have two fine healthy children, and I cannot say too much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. LEE MANGES, R. F. D. 10, Mogadore, Ohio.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MR. WESTERVELT IS INTERVIEWED BY NEW ZEALAND NEWSPAPERS

WELLINGTON, N. Z., April 30.—America has settled down permanently at Hawaii, fortifying Pearl Harbor until it has become another Gibraltar. Has it an eye to the Japanese, or is it concerned only with trade routes? These interesting points were discussed with your representative today by the Rev. W. D. Westervelt, a prominent resident of Honolulu, who has almost completed a long holiday in New Zealand.

Quite surprising was his account of the military forces now at Honolulu. They include between two and three thousand United States Infantry, while there is a cavalry camp containing the crack United States regiment, the Fifth. Then there is another large camp of 600 to 800 marines. As for fortifications, Mr. Westervelt explained that the United States government has spent several millions sterling on that class of defence and the equipment of the forts with modern guns and an immense mortar battery.

"Diamond Hill, which overlooks the whole harbor, is tunnelled through and through like another Gibraltar," says the Honolulu visitor, "and it can be regarded as absolutely impregnable. I notice attempts in New Zealand to get up a Japanese scare. We have the Japanese as servants in Hawaii—about 60,000 of them. Supposing a Japanese fleet anchored outside our harbor, the first thing we would do would be to put the servants under supervision, while, as for the fleet, with our fortifications, we would not have the least fear. New Zealand, with its insular position, is practically safe, for the reason that it is difficult to bring enough drilled soldiery with a fleet to accomplish anything. They can't touch you here, with your men of fine physique, and nearly every man a gunner."

"Why is America so concerned about the Pacific?"

"Well, it's not a case of more country, for we could not get it unless a volcano sent a bit more up for us," continued Mr. Westervelt. "We are in Hawaii because there the United States is at the crossroads of the Pacific. All the main steam-lines touch there, and when the Panama Canal is opened, its importance will become more obvious to the world at large. There was a strong party against annexation once, but the feeling is general now in America that, while we don't want more country than is bounded by the two oceans, we don't want a foreign Power to settle down on an island so close to our doors."

Mr. Westervelt was asked if there is any prospect of the coastwise shipping regulations being suspended in regard to Hawaii, so that this serious bar to New Zealand shipping trade with that group and with the United States could be removed. He answered that the feeling against the regulations is very strong in Honolulu. Public meetings have been held in protest, and petitions signed by most influential residents have gone to the United States Congress, praying for their removal. "The question has secured consideration in Congress," continued Mr. Westervelt, "and we have been able to impress some of the Congressmen personally with the unfairness and inconvenience of the present position. Parties of legislators have been invited annually to Honolulu, and many of them have paid return visits. Sometimes it has happened that the American steamer has been too full, and they have had to wait for the next, although there were British or Japanese liners sailing to the same port, but not allowed to carry passengers to or from Hawaii."

Mr. and Mrs. Westervelt left Wellington today for Auckland, whence they go to Australia for a month—Auckland Star.

Visit to Christchurch.

Christchurch Press, April 23: The Rev. W. D. Westervelt, a well known authority upon the folk lore of the Pacific, is at present on a visit to New Zealand. He is accompanied by his wife and son, and by Dr. J. M. Whitney and his wife, also of Honolulu. Mr. Westervelt is the President of the Hawaiian Historical Society, and is known here as the author of a book on the various legends of Maui, the demi-god of Polynesia. The Maori legends, he says, notably those of the fishing up of the islands and the noosing of the sun, are identical practically with those of Hawaii.

The party are here on a holiday, and have already spent seven weeks in the North Island. They have found it "absolutely satisfactory." The geysers of Whakarewarewa do not equal those of Yellowstone Park; but Rotorua has its great surrounding area of interest, and on the whole, he thought that the advantage lay with our own place. There was so great a diversity of attractions. The wonderful milky blue of Lake Rotomahana, caused by the minerals, it holds in solution, and the caves of the glow worms at Waitomo, had impressed him more than anything else he had seen. The Wanganui had been "absolutely satisfactory"—as far as Pipiriki. The two days trip had appeared too long. New Plymouth had been visited, and the lonely majesty of Mount Egmont had reminded him, on lesser scale, of Fujiyama, of Japan, and Popocatepetl, rising in the plain of Mexico. In this island the southern lakes had pleased them, but their greatest joy had been the motor journey to Mount Cook. The service was admirable and the whole of the three hundred miles traversed was worth while.

Asked as to the work of the Historical Society, Mr. Westervelt said that interested persons all over the Pacific were gathering together folk song and story. Mr. Alport Barker, of the Sora Herald, was doing a great work, getting together results of study. In New Zealand he had seen several men engaged in the work, and he hoped before he departed to see several others.

In Hawaii, when he left, all was quiet and peaceful and prosperous. Since he had been in the Dominion he had read several paragraphs, notably in the Auckland journals, setting out troubles alleged to have been caused by the Japanese. He had pleasure in denying these reports to him it seemed that they were being circulated only for purposes of the labor movement. The only trouble the Japanese had caused was three years ago, when they had formed themselves into trades unions and had struck work on the plantations. Their demands for more pay, shorter hours, and better accommodation, had mostly been met, and none of the anticipated trouble had occurred. That this crisis had passed so quietly was due largely to the restraining influence of the religious teachers and the Japanese journals published in Honolulu. The Chinese, of whom there were fewer, were of a good type also, and included many earnest young men of education, practically Americans, yet loyal, devoted, and self-sacrificing to China. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first president of China, was often spoken of as having been born in Honolulu, but he had been born in Canton. It was believed, however, that he had been naturalized in Hawaii, and was therefore an American citizen. Certainly his son had been naturalized. There was much intermarrying between Chinese and Japanese and native Hawaiians, but the white men did not marry out of their color. The Chinese-Hawaiian was a fine product superior to each parent race.

Missionary work had gone ahead steadily since its institution in 1820, by the Missionary Board of the Congregational Church of America. Despite the fall in population (from an estimate of between 400,000 and 200,000, at the time of Cook's visit, to about 60,000) the lists of membership of the churches kept up. The Congregational Church had a communion roll of over 6000, the Anglican Church had a great following, and the Roman Catholics had almost as large a membership as the Congregationalists. To show how the islands had progressed, he would state that education was compulsory in Government schools, there were high schools in the large towns, and two big technical schools. In Honolulu there are three daily journals published in English, two in Japanese, one in Chinese, and two very fine English monthly journals.

Stop That Headache and Save Your Nerves

Do not try to endure a headache, waiting with what patience you can until you have "worn it out." Why should you? It's a great deal better to save your nerves the wear and tear of torture. One dose of —a tiny tasteless wafer—brings you relief in a few minutes—real relief that—leaves your head feeling clear and natural. When this certain case from that pain is always at hand (or at the nearest druggist's) there is no reason for suffering from headache. You would not consider it wise to suffer from a cinder in your eye or a thorn in your hand a moment longer than necessary. Think it over—and remember that Stearns' Headache Wafers cure, yet never cause the formation of a drug habit.

Stearns' Headache Wafers (Shac)

Pocket Knives

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE. We have a few each of a lot of different styles and sizes of the well known brands of high grade pocket knives such as Worstenholm, Keen Kutter, etc., and you can get them for the next few days for much less than the regular prices.

There will be a reduction of 20 per cent on some, and 25 per cent on others, and it is a chance to get a guaranteed first-class knife for a low price.

This is to make room for a big shipment of pocket cutlery that will soon come in. The sooner you come the more you will have to pick from.

The best makes known, in perfect condition—something to cut with at a cut price.
