IMPOSING MILITARY ARRAY ESCORTS UNION VETERANS IN MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

Troops of the regular army, khaki clad companies representing the National Guard of Hawaii, helmeted marines, cadets in blue and gray, paraded this morning through the city in honor of the veterans who wore the blue in the great struggle between the north and south fifty odd years ago.

Not only was the military in line to show the reverence in which the soldiers of the Civil War are held in Honolulu, but officers of the territorial and city governments, members of civic societies and the veterans of the Spanish-American war passed in review along streets lined with silently respectful hundreds who, with flowers in their hands, viewed the procession which marks the annual celebration of Memorial Day.

The parade was formed at the capitol grounds at 10 o'clock this morning, under the direction of Brigadier General Malcolm Macomb, grand marshal, and his staff, Lieut. Col. Archibald Campbell, adjutant general, and Lieut. Frank M. Andrews, aide de camp.

Preceded by a platoon of mounted police the marches passed from the capitol grounds to King street with the band of the First Infantry playing an appropriate air. Afterward came the provisional battalion of the coast artillery in company front, with the Third Battalion of the Second Infantry following.

The band of the National Guard of Hawaii led that organization playing a medley of patriotic airs. The U. S.

marines from Camp Very swung along just ahead of the Kamehameha school cadets, who made an extremely creditable appearance in their gray uniforms with white belts. Then there appeared a large coach moving at a slow pace in which sat the few veterans of the great war who are gathered together here as the George W. DeLong Post No. 45, G. A. R. The old soldiers wore the blue with the slouch hats which mark the Grand Army man, and the spectators cheered for the first and only time as these men went by. Each of these had flowers with which to strew the last resting places of their comrades at the cemetery.

After the Men of '61 came the veterans of a later war, the Spanish-American veterans representing Mansfield Camp No. 3 of Fort Shafter and the Roosevelt Camp of Honolulu.

Acting Governor Mott-Smith and his staff, and Mayor Fern and the supervisors, were in carriages. The Red Men and the St. Louis College Boys with W. R. Farrington, the orator of the day, were also in line.

The procession, with the bands playing, the stars and stripes and the banners of the various organizations, flutering in the morning sun, passed along King street to Alakea, thence by way of Alakea and Emma to Vineyard, from Vineyard to Nuuanu and thence but to the cemetery where the exercises were held.

The streets were lined with spectators along the entire line of march through the down town district, men

DECORATION DAY

By JOHN M. GILES.

With slowing step the veterans come,
Still in their ears the shrilling drum,
That sounded in the years gone by.
As l'envoi to the awful strife
That took its deadly toll of life.

With slowing step the people come,
Still in their ears the shrilling drum
That called for bloody sacrifice
Tear-dimmed and proud they set in place
Garlands to mark the resting place.

Not to the children sounds the drum,
But reverence deep of honor won,
Wells up within their breasts.
And visions are of shrilling drum
And answering shout, "Fight on, we come."

AT NUUANU CEMETERY.

People of every description—hundreds of them of every nationality and from all walks of life, parents and children, grandfathers and grandmothers, young men and girls still in their teens thronged Nuuanu cemetery all morning from sunrise to far into the afternoon.

Some came to decorate the graves of their departed ones, still others came from mere curiosity to see what was going on, while over a thousand crowded as near as possible to the small plot of ground where the bodies of the deceased G. A. R. veterans have been laid, in order to hear the Memorial Day services. And again there was a motley collection of yelling, screaming orientals who brought their lances and families with them and proceeded to turn the National day of mourning into a gala occasion.

It was a peculiar contrast. While small groups of friends and relatives of the departed ones passed among the graves distributing their offerings of flowers and leis, a motley concourse of Asiatics forced their way through the crowded paths, gabbling at the tops of their voices and bawling out orders to their children who occupied their time in attempting to cull carnations from the decorated graves.

A host of unseemly urchins retailing soda-pop, chewing gum and leis ran to and fro crying their wares while the cigarette-smoking women

WALTER G. SMITH APPOINTED AS SPECIAL PROMOTION AGENT FOR HAWAII ON THE MAINLAND

Yesterday afternoon Walter G. Smith, of the Star, was appointed to a position as mainland representative of the Territory, under direction of the Promotion body. Mr. Smith has accepted the place, but will probably not take up his new duties for some time. His work will have to do with publicity in general for the islands, which he will probably accomplish largely through the mainland press and from the lecture platform.

While the appointment of Mr. Smith comes as a general surprise to the public, the matter has been under consideration for several weeks by the Chamber of Commerce, where the idea was first suggested, and in the other business organizations of the city identified with organized promotion work. There was little opposition but the announcement was not made until details, by which the business men will provide for meeting the increased financial responsibility put upon the Promotion Committee, had been worked out.

In speaking about his new work Mr. Smith said:

"I shall be under the guidance of the Promotion Committee, and expect that my work will be largely along lines of writing and lecturing. Then every now and then a big 'scare' of one kind or another is worked up on the mainland, in which Hawaii figures. We have had our Japanese war scares and leprosy scares and cholera, plague and other scares, most of which have little or no real foundation, but which injure the good name of the islands. It will be my purpose to do what I can to tell the facts regarding these matters to peo-

WHEN JOHNNY MARTIN ESSAYED TO BE FOURTH OF JULY ORATOR

"This reminds me," said Johnny Martin this morning as he looked at the passing show, "of when I delivered a Fourth of July oration in San Francisco. You see our Sunday school wanted to observe the great day and we couldn't find no orator. So me an' another Englishman named Wilson undertook to get up a celebration worthy of the day. 'E said 'e would wave the American flag if I would speak the piece. I said I wasn't no man for that, bein' an Englishman, but 'e said somebody 'ad to do it an' I might as well. So I got up an' told 'em that the British government intended to give you Hamer-icans your freedom when you was fit

CIVIC EXPERT FIELD'S IMPRESSIONS OF HILO

"One of two things that particularly impressed me on my late visit to Hilo," said H. Gooding Field this morning, "was the general spirit of cooperation which existed among the business men of that town in matters of public interest.

"The public improvements that are being made there are remarkable for the present size of the place, all of which are being undertaken with an apparently certain knowledge of the commercial importance of the island of Hawaii and of Hilo in particular. Naturally there is a spirit of rivalry between the coming town of Hilo and Honolulu, but it is an exceedingly healthy one.

"The good people of Hilo are most anxious to cooperate with Honolulu in all matters which might affect the interests of the Territory at large, and the Hilo board of trade so expressed itself at the meeting that was held there when the matter of an expert investigation of their civic affairs by myself was taken up.

"In order to foster such a healthy cooperation of interests the suggestion was made that, apart from an annual convention of the various civic organizations, some plan be adopted whereby the various islands could be represented as independent units in one large territorial organization. This arrangement would not mean affiliation of all these bodies, but be more in the line of a federation of public bodies which would be in a better position to discuss purely island matters than would otherwise be the case. This suggestion was made looking to the fact that already steps had been taken in Honolulu for the consolidation of the civic bodies of

House of Captain Piltz Is Destroyed by Fire

Captain Piltz of the steamer Iwalani, had his Kailhi residence destroyed by fire early this afternoon.

The house, which is situated on Kamehameha IV road near Rose street, was burned to the ground and the damage to house and contents is estimated at about $2000.

Captain Piltz is out of town and Mrs. Piltz was out of town when the fire started. The cause is unknown.

The alarm was turned in from Box 63 and an engine went out from the Palama station.

The Piltz house was formerly owned by Ben Zablan.

SUSPECTED ROBBER OF AIEA STORE AT LAST ARRESTED

Jean Garcia, suspected of being concerned in the attempt to burn the Aiea store last November, was arrested last night at Ewa and brought to town.

After the store was robbed Garcia was arrested and a number of articles stolen from the store found in his possession. The Porto Rican explained the finding of the goods by stating that he had been given them by Rodriguez, the notorious jail-breaker, who was then at large.

Garcia was released on the understanding that he should trace Rodriguez if possible and supply the police with information as to his whereabouts. He then disappeared and has not been seen by the local police until he was arrested yesterday.

Meanwhile Rodriguez was captured and confessed to having robbed the Aiea store and attempted to burn the place, with the assistance of Jean Garcia.

A BIG BRITISH CONTRACTOR IS NOW VISITING HONOLULU

To see his brother, whom he has not seen for many years, and incidentally to see Hawaii, Charles Joseph Wills, head of two big contracting firms, accompanied by his wife, is stopping over a steamer on his way to Canada. His brother is Thomas C. Wills, general merchant and postmaster at Palaha, Hawaii, and one of the oldtime residents of the islands, who is expected down by the Mauna Kea on Saturday to greet him. Mr. Wills and his wife are quartered at the Young Hotel. They will probably make a trip to the Big Island next week, before continuing their journey.

The trip which Charles Joseph Wills is taking is not primarily for pleasure, instead he is going to northwest Canada where he is interested in the construction of about 200 miles of railroad line for the Canadian Northern Railway. He comes here from India, where one of his firms is just finishing up dock work in the port of Bombay, amounting to about two million pounds sterling.

Mr. Wills is head of two large London firms engaged in general construction contracting. One of these is known as Charles Joseph Wills & Sons, and the other, Price, Wills & Reeves. Both of these firms have done a great deal of work in the Far East—in India and Egypt—as well as at home, and in Canada. The work being done for the Bombay Port Trust is very extensive, his company taking the contract eight years ago. It will be finished next

OIL SUBMARINE EATS HARBOR MUD

Vessel Upends And Sinks When Cargo is Taken on Board--Local Man Invents Non-Rolling Device--Siberia in Early--W. G. Hall Leaves Tomorrow

With her stern buried in the mud of the harbor bottom and with her bow appealing to the high heavens in piteous appeal the submarine oil tanker Libby Mack lies a wreck. The accident occurred yesterday afternoon and when final arrangements had been made to tow the novel craft to the big cannery on the other side of the island.

She has a full cargo of oil and has suffered no damage beyond the sinking. Eben Low, owner and designer, is spending the day figuring out what happened and how the apparent defect in the vessel's construction can be remedied.

The Libby Mack took her oil cargo in yesterday afternoon at the foot of Fort street preparatory to being towed to the Libby, McNeill & Libby cannery on the other side of the island. Everything was going well when suddenly she was seen to sink by the stern and gradually settle down until she rested on the solid harbor bottom.

What caused the submarine to sink is all conjecture at the present time but the most feasible idea advanced to date is that the wooden nose being more buoyant did not sink evenly with the rest of the body as she was filled and allowed the vessel to tilt so that the oil flowed to the stern, the heavy weight caused the upending.

The strange little craft is tied to the Fort street dock at the present time and work will be started tomorrow to straighten her again.

THE LONE WORKER.

With the exception of one steamer belonging to the inter-island fleet no work is being done on the waterfront today.

The sugar cargo is being taken out of the Likie like and when this is finished she will wait until tomorrow before taking any cargo in.

BOATS TOMORROW.

Two of the inter-island steamers get away tomorrow for various ports. The Claudine will make her usual run to Maui and Hilo and has a number of passengers booked up for the trip.

The W. G. Hall takes a cargo to Kauai, leaving at five o'clock, and has also a number of passengers booked for return to the Garden Island.

FLY FLAGS HALF MAST.

Flags were flying half mast from all the vessels lying in the harbor today. Most of the crews were up town to see the various exercises.

TO PREVENT ROLLING.

A device to stop vessels rolling and one which, if it was adopted by the inter-island vessels, would save thousands of dollars for the company every year, has been invented in Honolulu and is to be patented, according to a statement made by the inventor who does not wish his name to be disclosed at the present time.

He is an old seafaring man and has made a study of the matter for years. "I believe that I have solved the problem on which so many people have been working," he stated to a Star reporter this morning, "and I am quite ready to demonstrate it to anyone who is prepared to stand behind me after being shown the practicability of the invention."

"I have tried it out already on a small boat and found that it works satisfactorily.

"It would cost about $1500 or $1800 to install on one of the inter-island steamers and would pay for itself in a very short time. The boats have a bad time along the Hamakua coast and other parts of the islands in landing their freight. If they remained steady it would facilitate matters all round.

"The invention once installed needs very little further attention. If a very heavy sea is running a little adjustment is necessary but that is all. It will outlast the lifetime of a boat and can then be taken out and placed in another.

"I have not the capital to put into the thing myself but I stand ready to show anyone who is really interested in the matter."

SURVEY FOR CANAL.

SAN DIEGO: Topographical and hydrographical surveys of the Pacific approach to the Panama canal, covering an area of about 450 square miles, are completed and in readiness for the vessels that are to use the isthmian waterway. The United States coast survey steamer Patterson came into port here en route to Seattle, after finishing a four months' survey period there from January 15 to April 15.

The Patterson stopped for coal at Acapulco, Mexico, whence it came direct to San Diego. Here it will take coal again, leaving for San Francisco tomorrow. The steamer is a stranger to the harbor.

Young Nelson is Getting in Shape To Re-Enter Ring

Eddie Fernandez is looking up him one of his weight here provided there will continue all night. The platform will be raised from the ground and will be in full view of every occupant of the grandstand.

Tickets which have been booked will be held up to 2 p. m. on Saturday after which hour they will be put in the box and sold.

All is well with the eight boxers who are scheduled to appear and every bout should be well contested.

The Favorites.

Fortunately there is but little betting on boxing matches in Honolulu but in the few small wagers which have been made Ingle appears to be a shade the favorite over de Mello. Caples and Bauersocks are conceded to be an even break and the same remark applies to the Young Gens-Moriarty contest.

Yamogata is a practically unknown quantity here and it is impossible to draw a comparison between him and "Plug" Milne.

Nelson Boxes.

A feature of the work-outs yesterday was the reappearance of Young Nelson. He went into retirement several years ago with a good record and was a drawing-card when he quit the game.

Nelson has put on weight in the interval but could probably make 133 pounds nicely. He intends to get into shape and says that he will meet anyone of his weight here provided there is enough money in it.

Nelson put on the gloves with de Mello at Camp Very yesterday afternoon and showed much of his old cleverness in two rounds which he boxed with the Hilo champion.

De Mello also boxed with Conductor Williams and "Plug" Milne.

At The Orpheum.

The stage at the Orpheum was well filled last night when George Ingle stepped out for his exercise.

Kid Herrigan went two rounds and Caples three with the San Francisco boy. Ingle was in good form and his work pleased the onlookers greatly. Ingle has come on wonderfully since he went to the Coast and should put up a great battle against de Mello.

The two Milne brothers boxed four rounds after Ingle had got through and were very earnest in their work. "Plug" showed up unexpectedly well against the lightweight champion of Hilo and his work against Yamogata on Saturday will be watched with interest.

Johnny McCarthy topped off the evening with an exhibition of fancy rope-skipping. Johnny is swimming every day and is keeping in very fair shape. Yesterday he weighed 143 pounds stripped.

Gans Careful.

Young Gans is not boxing this week. His work in confined to punching the bag, calisthenics and running. He says that he is in perfect trim and that he does not care to risk hurting his hands in a practice bout.

De Mello will work at Camp Very as usual this afternoon. Ingle will train at the Orpheum this afternoon at 2:30 instead of at 7:30 on account of the day being a holiday.

BOYS' CLUBS FORM LEAGUE

The Boys' Clubs have organized a baseball league and a series of games will commence at once.

There are two divisions in the league, senior and junior. The seniors will be boys of over 15 and the junior class will include boys between the ages of 12 and 15.

The games of the league will be played at the Boys' Field, the junior games starting at 2 p. m. and the senior games at 4 p. m.

Two games will be played at Atkinson Park in order to accommodate the Kakaako teams which use this diamond for practice.

The schedule of games is as follows:

June 1:
Kakaako versus Kauluwela (S).
Palama versus Beretania (J)

June 8:
Beretania versus Kakaako (S), at Atkinson Park
Palama versus Kauluwela (J)

June 15:
Palama versus Kauluwela (S)
Kakaako versus Beretania (J)

June 22:
Palama versus Beretania (S)
Kakaako versus Kauluwela (J) at Atkinson Park

June 29:
Palama versus Kakaako (S)
Beretania versus Kauluwela (J)

July 6:
Beretania versus Kauluwela (S)
Palama versus Kakaako (J)

Boxers' Chances Reviewed By a Ring Enthusiast

By JOHN M. GILES.

Boxing in Honolulu has taken a new lease of life or late and, from present indications, is likely to grow better. Frame-ups have been conspicuous by their absence and the fans have always had a good run for their money.

Now comes the announcement that instead of having the scraps pulled off in a stuffy hall they will be staged in the open at the Athletic Park. Likewise the prices have been reduced so that no one has any kick coming.

In staging his card in the open air the promoter is following a custom that has come in during the last few years, and which seems to be finding favor with everyone concerned.

In the first place it gives the men a better chance of lasting through a long journey. Fighting in a hall where the air is thick with long-cutting tobacco smoke and where there is no chance of getting a lung-full of fresh air, is a cruel proposition. In a twenty-round bout the men never have a fair chance. Looking at it from the spectator's point of view the idea is also one that appeals.

About De Mello.

On paper the card that is billed for Saturday afternoon promises to produce some lively scrapping and is one of the best, if not the best, balanced that has been put on here. The men have been in hard training at various camps and many of the fans have availed themselves of an opportunity to size up the points for and against the various contestants.

"Uncle" Ben de Mello has been working at Camp Very and has found no dearth of sparring partners. There are several things in Ben's favor and one of them is his hardiness. No matter how hard he is pisted he still bobs up smiling for the next bout.

He has a good swinging hit but does not strike me as having enough of the straight-hitting powers. A swing is all very well in its place and pleases the gallery but it does not do the damage a straight jolt from the shoulder does. Still Ben has a way of boring into his man and using the half arm jolt, thus making up for what he loses at long range.

His stance is a wide one and one that I think may prove troublesome to him when facing a quick follow-on-boy like Ingle. However, this mostly depends on the tactics the men adopt when in the ring. Ben's smother is good as far as it goes but he leaves himself very open to a kidney attack. A lowering of the elbows ever so little would protect him. Taking him right throughout he looms up as a hard man to knock out and one who will give his man plenty of excitement over a fifteen-round journey.

Ingle Reviewed.

Ingle I consider the cleverest boy I have seen in Honolulu. He is well built and comes to his work like lightning. Differing from de Mello he uses both left and right with the body weight behind the hit and is likely to jolt Uncle Ben's jaw considerably. His infighting is pretty and while he does not seem to get much weight behind his hits at close quarters they come quite hard enough to cause his man considerable annoyance. His foot work is better than Ben's and he is more likely to get out of harm's way than his stocky opponent.

At the same time he has one opening that is likely to prove his downfall if de Mello makes use of his opportunities. Ingle has a way of smothering up and at the same time half turning his left shoulder to an opponent. By doing this he puts his kidneys just where they can be hit and right in the way of one of Ben's swings.

Taking into consideration the tactics and condition of the men I am rather inclined to think that the referee will be holding up the hand belonging to

when the decision is given. At the same time I do not think this honor will be gained without strenuous work and a mighty good scrap.

Bauersocks.

If Bauersocks has retained anything

A DAY OF PERFECT UNION.

Nowhere is the union of the Blue and the Gray more perfectly realized than in the Army and Navy, where the names of great leaders on both sides are represented by those of their descendants. Both North and South supply the officers and men of the twin services. Since the Southern States were readmitted to the Union they have kept their quotas at West Point and Annapolis filled, and the names of Lee and Longstreet are familiar in the army as the names of Grant and Sheridan. Lately at Schofield Barracks Lieutenant Phil Sheridan, now at Washington, had a superior officer whose father, a general in the Confederate Army, fell at Gettysburg; and the common patriotism of these men is emblematic of that which prevails among all our military and naval officers. And as time goes on, the republic gains security from the memories drawn from both sides of the great civil conflict. Both North and South now see that the confidence of the people in our national strength is the greater because both North and South fought so long and gallantly. Had either failed of its duty the fact would be a source of weakness now; and in facing the vicissitudes of the future the whole nation is thankful that Grant and Lee, Sheridan and Jackson, Sherman and Longstreet, Thomas and Johnston, the Army of the Potomac and the Army of Northern Virginia, were all Americans.

On Memorial day there is no bitterness. There may be sorrow, but there is no lack of common pride.

AMUNDSEN'S PROPOSED QUEST.

There is enough unexplored territory—some 50,000 square miles—about the North Pole, to warrant a venture in that direction by Captain Amundsen, the Norwegian discoverer of the South Pole. Geographers, ethnologists and naturalists generally want to know all about this terra incognita; and there are various people in Europe who still call for confirmation of Peary's discovery. Interest in the waste places of the arctic also extends to those who believe in the existence there of great mineral deposits, while the discovery of a lost tribe in the northern part of British Columbia, last year, has stimulated ethnological research. Another point which a wider area of discovery, farthest north, might settle, is why the musk oxen and wild fowl coming south from the polar solitudes are so fat, a phenomenon which is noted of the herring off the coast of Scotland, which are "spent" when they go far north on their great migration and come back plump and well-flavored. Besides all this there are vital points of Mormon theology which are involved in a better knowledge of what is hidden in what the Book of Mormon calls "the North Country."

A NATIONAL DEFENSIVE POLICY.

Whatever the Democratic desire may be to make a showing of economy in the coming campaign, it will be of little advantage to the party to make it at the expense of the army and navy. There seems to be no public sentiment in favor of a cut in army strength or in the navy-building programme, and no small part of the favor given Roosevelt is due to his approbation of a constructive policy for both. Nobody feels the cost of two new ships a year or a few extra regiments. A proposition for more ships, forts or troops, would carry at the polls anywhere in the country. And we take no risk in prophesying that no party except the Socialist will venture to declare against the interests of either branch of the popular armed service in their national platforms.

It would be a good thing for the country if military and naval appropriations could be taken out of politics and a policy to help both adopted which would proceed by concert of action along settled lines. The United States should build a navy according to the extent of the coast which it has to defend, building so many ships a year; and regulate the size of the army by the growth in population—one soldier to a stated number of people. At present the army represents a ratio of less than one in a thousand. If it represented two in a thousand it would be none too large. And if we are ever called upon to defend our coasts, including the insular ones and Alaska, to say nothing of upholding the Monroe doctrine, we shall need to keep on building more than the two a year which the Democratic House objects to. It is of no use thinking that we can improvise vessels of war to meet modern armaments.

FITZGERALD AND HIS FIND.

Representative Fitzgerald, who has made a sensational speech about Roosevelt's ambition, is well remembered in Honolulu. He was a Democratic member of the largest visiting party of Congressmen that ever came here, and was one of the speakers at the banquet at the Moana Hotel given the public guests by our commercial bodies. Mr. Fitzgerald believed in diversified industries for Hawaii and spoke with unexpected bluntness on the subject of big business. His rise as a member of New York's delegation in Congress has been marked by outspoken opinions which have, at times, involved him in difficulties with his party.

A political discovery which led to the present publicity which Mr. Fitzgerald enjoys, was that of some fragmentary notes of direction about the building of the new executive offices of the White House in which Mr. Roosevelt, who was then President, wrote "to be permanent during my lifetime." No great importance attaches to this, however, as Mr. Roosevelt is not the incautious kind of a politician who would scribble his dictatorial ambitions on building plans and leave them around for other people to see. If the statement is true about the notes, they may merely reveal some private memoranda relating to his own business, such as any man might casually put down on a stray piece of paper. Mr. Fitzgerald would probably agree with the idea that there are more substantial foundations for the belief that Mr. Roosevelt's extraordinary ambition would not stop with a third term.

The most beautiful poem which was ever written about Memorial day, "The Blue and the Gray."

Under the roses the blue,
Under the lilies the gray came from the pen of a justice of the Appellate court of New York, Francis M. Fitch. He was a wise lawyer and, in his younger days a practical politician; and there was nothing about his personality to suggest the divine afflatus. After publishing the "Blue and the Gray," which he thought hindered rather than helped his professional career, he kept his further metrical manuscripts among his private archives to be published, if his executors desired, after his death. Our recollection is that a volume of them came out a few years ago, but there was nothing better in the book than the verse with which he first won poetic fame.

Lyle A. Dickey, who has the recommendation of the Bar Association for Circuit Judge of Kauai, was cut out by nature and education for a judicial post. He is conservative, cool-headed and fair-minded, and his knowledge of the law was lately emphasized by his victory in a legal action of high importance. Mr. Dickey, if appointed, will be a reinforcement to the island bench.

Professor Severin's fears of a kidnapping plot were happily unfounded. Whatever desire there may have been to keep the Professor among us was easily repressed, though it might be that a Territorial quarantine would be organized should he try to carry out his covert threat to return.

THE WAILING PLACE

By WALT MASON.

I look around on this world so gray, and size up its stock of sorrow; there's nothing worth while in sight today, nor promise of good tomorrow. I make a howl that would raise the dead, and weep till the world is wetter, and all of the gallons of tears I shed don't seem to make things much better. This life's an expensive thing, I sigh, free rein to my anguish giving; and when man makes up his mind to die, it costs a lot more than living. And brooding o'er mournful things like these has made me a chronic weeper; but all the gallons of brine I squeeze don't seem to make things much cheaper. I look around on my busy friends who toil with their spades and axes, and weep for them; when their labor ends their bundles will go for taxes. I moisten well with my scalding brine the path of the smith and sower; but all my stunts in the weeping line don't seem to make taxes lower. I stand aghast when the sun's in sight, and groan when the rain is pouring, and have had dreams both by day and night, and spend all my time deploring; I am chief grouch at the Wailing Place, the boss and the peerless kicker; and all the rivers that streak my face don't seem to make things run slicker.

During December and January, I think it will be advisable to have him spend his time in the resort districts of Florida. We have already been able to do some work in this district without a representative on the ground, but I feel that a great deal may be accomplished by some personal work in this big winter tourist center. Probably in January or February Mr. Smith will work west to Southern California.

Mr. Smith will be supplied with lantern slides and moving pictures of Hawaii, the best obtainable. Mr. Willis states that the total cost of the Bombay port improvements will run over three million pounds sterling.

The Willis firms have done much work in Egypt, and have only recently completed a half million pounds contract for the Suez Canal Company. They also recently finished a large dredging contract at Aiden. Mr. Willis was connected with the construction of the great Manchester ship canal. He has also done a good deal of railroad work in India. His very extensive interests keep him travelling about a great deal, though this is the first time that he has had opportunity to visit Hawaii. He is much interested in the difficulties which have been encountered on the Pearl Harbor dry-dock, and hopes to be able to study them in detail.

who infest Hotel street during the week cluttered up the entrance to the cemetery with their baskets of leis and prevented unobstructed egress from the grounds.

Those who came to do honor to those who have passed away were, however, far in the majority and when they had completed their labors late in the afternoon the cemetery on both sides of the street was a variegated maze of color.

Leis, wreaths of every description, and many kinds of flowers were strewn about profusely so that in many instances the only indication of the presence of the gravesites were little glints of white which shone here and there through the interstices of the tangled masses of wreaths and flowers.

There were some enormous floral pieces in evidence and the sizes and shapes of the offerings varied from large crosses which were bestowed upon the resting places of former members of the wealthier families of the city to an occasional carnation or a small bunch of daisies cast upon an unmarked grave in an obscure corner of the cemetery by some pitying hand.

The intermingled fragrance of the bushes upon bushes of bougainvillea, carnations, easter lilies, orchids and roses lent a subtle aroma to the atmosphere that was plainly revealed to the passer-by and a gentle rain which fell intermittently throughout the morning preserved the flowers their freshness.

Hours before it was time for the Memorial services, long before the first notes of the band which formed the advance guard of the parade could be heard and only a short while after the first rays of the sun had gilded the tops of the tombstones, the bearers of the floral offerings began to arrive.

They came on foot, by street car, and in automobiles. Their floral offerings ranged in size from large baskets which occupied the entire rear seats of their automobiles to small bunches of daisies which they carried in the hand.

The line of automobiles and carriages occupied a distance of three city blocks and was only exceeded in length by the ranks of persons that lined the curbs as far as the eye could reach in order to see the parade which was to pass by later in the morning.

Groups of men, women and children were perched along both cemetery walls, while a pulling, jostling mass strove for points of vantage at the cemetery gates. At the same time, the cemetery paths and bypaths were crowded with pedestrians.

It was shortly after half-past seven when the first visitors—an old woman and a little girl—arrived. The woman although evidently advanced in years walked erect and undaunted bore in her arms an enormous bunch of American Beauty roses.

By her side was the little girl, a child of about eight years of age, who carried a basket of leis.

Both seemed to be looking for something. As they approached the plot of ground in which the deceased veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic are laid, the child left the side of her companion and hurried ahead.

The woman sat down on the stone parapet surrounding the inclosure. As she entered the plot, the little girl slackened her footsteps and finally stopped at one of the small headstones, calling out as she did, "Here it is, grandmother."

Then the one addressed as grandmother came forward and silently and industriously the two covered the grave with their floral offerings. This done, they arose to their feet once more and slowly and in silence wended their way out of the graveyard.

It was nearly eleven o'clock when the procession of veterans appeared and the exercises started. Long before this every available seat surrounding the G. A. R. inclosure had been taken and standing room was fast becoming unavailable.

Hundreds were crowded round the inclosure when the services were opened and bareheaded and reverentially they listened to the impressive ritual.

The order of service was as follows: Ritual—Fred Turrill, Post Comdr. Prayer—R. J. Greene, Chaplain p. t. THE ORATION. Wallace R. Farrington spoke as follows:

Fifty years ago today Gen. Beauregard evacuated Corinth and the Mississippi as far down as Vicksburg fell under the control of the Union forces. The loyal army of the United States numbered four hundred and fifty thousand men. Fully two hundred thousand of these were in the army of the Potomac under Gen. George B. McClellan. Another army commanded by Gen. Buell was stationed at Louisville, Ky., and it was in this department that the first military movements of the year were begun.

Fifty years ago our countrymen were finally aroused to the fact that a bitter and bloody struggle was before them. They knew it was war, not a parade. General Grant had taken Fort Donelson. Early in the month of April Grant and Sherman operating against Gen. Johnston and Gen. Beauregard had fought the battle of Shiloh. Here the loss from killed, wounded and missing was more than ten thousand men on each side. Admiral Farragut had entered the Mississippi and New Orleans had surrendered.

The battle of the Monitor and the Merrimac had been fought. Gen. McClellan at the head of two hundred thousand men had started the Grand Army of the Potomac on its way to Richmond. The Yorktown siege had been successful. The Union army reached the Chickahominy ten miles north of Richmond. Norfolk had been recaptured and McClellan's advance was in full swing. On the 31st of May 1862 the indecisive battle of Fair Oaks or Seven Pines was fought; Gen. J. E. Johnston was severely wounded and the command of the Confederate army fell upon Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Practically all the men who were to win fame as leaders in the great battle for human liberty had come upon the stage of action. Even the preachers of "peace at any price" saw that it was a fight and a fight to a finish.

Memories Recalled. To veterans assembled here today to place the flowers of remembrance on the graves of departed comrades, this brief summary no doubt recalls vividly the part you were then taking in the line of battle, on the march or in camp—possibly at home chafing under the restraint of necessity or circumstances that prevented you from joining the army until a later date.

To you, this day set apart for the Nation to pay its tribute of respect in honor of the fellow countrymen who entered the hell of war that their country might indeed be a nation of free men, this day is full of overflowing with cherished memories.

To your fellow citizens who came into this world after the battles had been fought, after the peace had been declared and the warriors had left the field to literally turn the sword into the plowshare, this assembly of commemoration has life, vitality and character by reason of the lessons it teaches.

To what purpose did your comrades die on the field of battle? What was the gain to those who should come after, that you and the comrades who lie in the graves about us should put life, health and home comforts on the altars of National sacrifice to establish in this the greatest of all Rep-lies the principle of individual liberty regardless of race or creed.

The flowers, this assembly, the flags that deck the graves of the heroes of our war, remind you and teach us that the people of this Republic do not forget, though the "ingratitude of republics" for the living is proverbial.

Of that magnificent army of more than four hundred thousand men assembled under the Flag fifty years ago, a mere handful remains.

That war cost four hundred thousand lives.

Today practically ninety millions of men, women and children are offering their loving memorials, and we are reminded that "gratitude is the fairest flower that sheds its perfume from the heart."

Lessons for Today. As we contemplate what these men did, we naturally draw lessons that apply to our immediate surroundings.

Every deed and every incident, every success and every temporary failure; every step in that great struggle from which this occasion draws its inspiration; all things associated with that war for human freedom work into the text and doctrine of the American Gospel of Efficiency.

"The Flag for which the heroes fought, for which they died, is the symbol of all we are and all we hope to be. It is the emblem of equal rights. It means free hands, free lips, self-government and the sovereignty of the individual. It means that all distinctions based on birth or blood have perished from our laws; that our government shall stand between labor and capital, between the weak and the strong, between the individual and the Corporations, between want and wealth, and give the guarantee of simple justice to each and all."

The individual American, if he would make the most of his free hands, if he would have those free lips utter that which bespeaks the greatest good for himself and his fellow countrymen, if he would reap the full measure of benefit from the rights of self-government and the sovereignty of the individual, that free and unrestrained American must be efficient; he must "know how."

All the ardor of youth, all the experience of mature years, all the fire of patriotism, all the courage and loyalty of a true heart are wasted and heedlessly sacrificed, if moral purpose and high ideals are not backed by individual efficiency. This is especially true in this part of our country where the average American sets the standard for a community numerically alien.

Scan the history of our country, draw from your own experience, and everywhere you find that efficiency of the individual and efficiency of organization have won the battles and crowned the dreary and grilling campaigns with victory.

Every American knows the story of the bitter days of Valley Forge. Only recently has the Nation shown its appreciation of the part played by Baron von Steuben, the German patriot who whipped Washington's brave men into an efficient army. One of the writers on the Revolution says: "The deficiencies in drill, organization, discipline and accountability were overcome by the fortunate arrival of a thoroughly competent man, Steuben, who had served at Prague and other battles of the Seven Years war on the personal staff of the great Frederick. He joined Washington as a volunteer and later when he proved his competency for the position he was appointed inspector general of the army. He introduced a definite plan of organization in the infantry, artillery, cavalry and engineers; he devised a system of accountability for public property which resulted in enormous saving; he taught the troops how to care for their arms; he gave them their first drill book and regulations for troops in active service; he personally drilled them until they could execute maneuvers with creditable exactness. It was to do these things that he had been selected and sent over by the French ministers. In view of their plans to aid the American cause with men, munitions and money, they wished to improve the military efficiency of the American army."

Thanks to this training, Washington's hunters and trappers and farmers, our forefathers, were able to make every ounce of vitality and skill count for its full value in a well organized and patriotic, though poverty stricken Army.

The battle of Bull Run was a terrible example of inefficiency. Our troops after having apparently won a victory, were put to rout because they did not know how to fight in a temporary reverse. In a recently published book, one who was a private in the rebel ranks during that battle tells of the inefficiency of the Confederate commanders evidenced by their failure to promptly follow up the advantage, and march on to Washington.

The war taught that lo-paided efficiency is possible. The efficient citizen is not synonymous with the efficient automatic machine. The efficient soldier must possess initiative. He must be aggressive as well as loyal.

Many of the faults of the army when first assembled, were wiped out by McClellan, the drill master of the Civil War. The assembling vigor of General Grant was necessary to give the great army confidence in itself and thus exert its full power for the cause for which it was fighting.

Prophecy of Pacific Fulfilled. Fifty years ago our Secretary of State had uttered prophetic words regarding the future of the Pacific but few if any veterans here assembled could foresee this day when that Flag which you followed should wave over these islands, here guaranteeing to a then alien people as well as the American born protection from foreign foe and protection in the privileges of individual freedom and self-government.

It is given to us to know, here and now, that among all the places of the earth where our Flag floats upon the ramparts of a National outpost, there is none where each day is more brought home to the intelligent and patriotic citizen, the extent to which our future depends on the successful practice of the Gospel of Efficiency.

Veterans of our wars sense the situation intuitively. Officers and men of the army live the gospel of efficiency in your daily routine and the so-called play at war. Patriotic American men and women are by their example the missionaries of the cause.

This service they perform prompted by the conviction that the heterogeneous, cosmopolitan, complex and perplexing mixture of race and nationality can be molded into a patriotic, efficient, self-governed and well-governed whole.

What handful of Americans is there with so much to do and such a short time in which to do it as the citizens of this community where you and I have made our homes?

Some there be, weak and vacillating, who would shift the burden to other shoulders. Their timid hearts do not and shall not control. Was it not Farragut, replying to the message of probable torpedoes in the waters through which his ships must pass, gave the order, "Damn the torpedoes; go ahead." Senator Cullom tells of President Lincoln's visit to the army of the Potomac in September of 1862, just before the battle of Antietam.

The president with a friend went out for a walk before sunrise. Just as the sun was rising they reached a commanding point; the president stopped, placed his left hand upon his friend's shoulder, and slowly waving his right in direction of the great city of tents said, "What is all this before us?"

"Why Mr. President, that is General McClellan's army."

"No, my friend, no," replied Lincoln soberly, "this is General McClellan's body guard."

What does it profit us, if we be organized and perfected, and stand still. The full gospel of efficiency was voiced by General Grant when he sent the message, "I shall take no backward steps." The motto of Commander Winslow of the Keearsarge was, "When in doubt, fight." President Lincoln sent a message to General Grant before Richmond, which read, "I have seen your dispatch expressing your unwillingness to break your hold where you are. Neither am I willing. Hold on with bulldog grip and chew and choke as much as possible." General Grant's message to General Meade at Cold Harbor was, "The moment it becomes certain that an assault can not succeed, suspend the offensive, but when one does succeed, push it vigorously and if necessary pile in the troops at the successful point from wherever they can be taken." Somewhere in an old hymn run the lines:

"For we must fight if we would win. Increase our courage, Lord."

We must preach the gospel of patriotism and efficiency if the youth of Hawaii are to rise to their opportunities and best serve our country. It is easy to become a supremely selfish dollar getting machine, that crushes out the very spirit of freedom and individuality for which you fought.

Men Are Needed. In this outpost of the Pacific we need Men; just such whole-souled, fearless Americans as went to the front in the sixties, and in the nineties. We need men, and women, with courage of conviction and capacity to support that conviction in a crisis.

There are today in the public schools of this Territory twenty-three thousand boys and girls, many of whom are from home environment alien in thought and teaching. Their only education in Americanism is in the public schools and what they observe in their contact with American citizens.

There are in our midst aliens whose only interest in our country and these islands is what they can make out of it. They have neither sympathy for our institutions nor respect for our public men, though their lip service may be friendly and bland. No sweeter music greets these alien ears than the discord created by carping criticism of our own country or sneers for the sentiment that prompts the loyal man to doff his hat to the flag.

It would not be surprising if youths growing up in alien surroundings do not know whether they want to be Americans. It is not to be wondered, if some should feel that they have no other responsibility than to look out for a selfish number one, when Americans, busy with dollar gathering, have no time for public duty and urge that the civilian give way to the military administration in time of peace.

Love of country is the foundation principle of civil and military efficiency.

With patriotism there must be associated self-reliance, and self-control. The average American citizens of these islands should also have such a highly developed sense of responsibility that instead of calling for help in the duties of civil administration, they will be self-sufficient and an aid and support in the organization of an efficient unit, capable of giving a perfect accounting if thrown upon its own resources. To do this the gospel of efficiency must prevail in civil life as well as military practices and training.

When Hawaii first entered the Union as a Territory, its people were prone to ask much from the federal government. The frequent response was: "Why don't you look out for yourselves?" Our fellow countrymen frowned on our lack of self-reliance and pitied us perhaps for our want of courage.

Just now we are met with the welcome problem of adjusting the relations of the civilian and the soldier. In this instance the sword is not laid aside for the plowshare but they must be used together in prompting and preserving National efficiency.

Loyal Americans who make this their post their home must be as thoroughly prepared and as well equipped for emergency as ever you veterans were on the eve of battle. Our country's welfare and our country's honor should be the measure by which every question is settled. We serve our country best when we administer our civil government with the best possible efficiency. We protect our country's good name when we cordially respond in the performance of civic duties that help to make this not only the most perfect place in which to live in times of peace but also capable of being turned into an efficient and powerful military camp and naval rendezvous at the first note of war's alarm.

The manhood and womanhood of Hawaii must be steeped in the principles of practical efficiency. They must first love their home. They must be loyal, alert, and determined to take no backward steps.

They must be trained with as patient care as Washington's men at Valley Forge.

They must go forward as did Farragut's men, they must march on as did Grant's men and Sherman's men and Sheridan's men, as did every man in the Union army whose word or deed counted on the side of liberty. They must do the duty of today. Lincoln once said that he didn't care so much about Richmond, it was Lee's army that should be given attention. That taken care of, the "on to Richmond" would care for itself.

Hawaii is no place for American inaction. We can not have McClellan body guards though we must have trained and loyal men who have profited by the discipline of the drill master and organizer.

The Veterans as Teachers. These are some of the lessons that may be drawn from the lives and deeds of the men who fought the battle for the Union fifty years ago. You taught us to give the best that is in us, if need be, our lives for our country. We learn from you that to fight the battle for freedom and National integrity and honor is a common duty of the plain American which gives a certain claim to undying fame.

No one can look at the wrinkled, battle-scarred faces and bent forms of the veterans as today they place upon the graves of departed heroes the flowers of remembrance, without reflecting that men give high price for their wreaths of fame.

The candidate for immortal honors sits on one side of a table and the Goddess of Fame sits on the other. Unwillingly does she release her hold upon the chaplet of honor.

"Can you wear rage? Can you eat crusts? Can you endure bitter cold? Can you know sleepless nights? Will you give in exchange your youth, your health, and all you love? If not, this wreath and this niche in my temple of fame is not for you."

There is no primrose path to conquest and honors. The fields of influence are reached by steep hills of difficulty. The eager aspirant must hew out each step as he climbs. Often the step is used by the next aspirant following after, while the first tiler leaves his body lying on the hilltop he has just surmounted.

Not alone is this true of the soldier who gave his life blood that the slave might be free, but true it is also that the teacher gives the best of his life that the pupil may be wise; the physician wears himself out that the sick may recover; the scientist burns himself up by overstudy that he may find the clue to the unknown; the mother dies that the babe may live.

"Universal the sacrifice for the law of life through death is a law of nature. The leaf falls that the shrub may be stronger; the tree falls that the soil may be deeper; the bee dies that the hive may hold honey, but these sacrifices are unconscious, and not premeditated.

"The man or woman, the boy or girl who deliberately turns from the path of ease and chooses the path of sacrifice, following it where it leads, is the glorious hero of the world and the mainspring of progress.

"The youth of today is inspired by the great deeds of yesterday. For this reason if no other self-sacrifice and heroism are really worth while.

"Men are moved by tales of success and sweetened and inspired by tales of love, but they are transformed and redeemed by tales of heroism. The stories of heroism that crowd our memories as the rapidly lessening ranks of the boys of the sixties march by us to their goal, the little mound in the soft bosom of Mother Earth, should be retold again and again to our children.

"Not that they may be warlike, but that they may be brave, honest and true to their fellowmen and to themselves.

"These immortal few who are cheered and crowned by the onlookers of today will, with those who have preceded them into eternity, be held in everlasting remembrance by those who live on the morrow's morrow."

SOCIAL NOTES OF THE DAY.
The reception tendered Bishop Willis last evening at the home of Bishop and Mrs. Henry Bond Hestrick, by the Hawaiian Congregation of St. Andrew's Cathedral, was a magnificent affair. The reception rooms and verandas were bowers of palms and Hawaiian greens that came from the home of Queen Liliuokalani, and the deft arrangement of the decorations was done by the hands of Her Majesty's attendants. There was an informal program consisting of several old Hawaiian songs by the young Hawaiian club, of girls and boys, and by the Priory girls. Miss Gaelle Richardson rendered a vocal solo and Mr. De Argo played several selections on the violin. In the receiving line with Bishop and Mrs. Hestrick and Bishop Willis were Princess Kalanikoaale, Rev. and Mrs. Leopold Kroil and Mrs. H. M. von Holt. CASTING OUT DEVILS.
Devils are cast out daily by us and we do not call the doing a miracle. The greatest devils are inharmonious, destructive, happiness destroying, misery making thoughts. When these are cast out of the mind we are at peace with all men and with all things. Until we have learned how to cast out these devils from our own minds we cannot know the joys of self-control.

"If a pebble in our boot torments us," says Edward Carpenter, "we expel it. We take off our boot and shake it out. And once the matter is fairly understood it is just as easy to expel an intruding and obnoxious thought from the mind. About this there ought to be no mistake, no two opinions. The thing is obvious, clear and unmistakable.

"It should be as easy to expel an obnoxious thought from your mind as it is to shake a stone out of your shoe; and till a man can do that, it is just nonsense to talk about his ascendancy over nature and all the rest of it. He is a mere slave and a prey to the bat-winged phantoms that flit through the corridors of his own brain."

Drive out the devils. You can when

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Miss Florence Corbin, an employe in a laundry, found a diamond and turquoise jewelry valued at $950 in a bundle of soiled linen. She was alone, the gems sparkled in the sunshine, and to some the temptation might have been irresistible. Miss Corbin did not hesitate a moment, but looked up the name of the bundle to identify the owner, and then turned the gems over to the manager.

They belong to Mrs. Frank W. Mack of New York, widow of the late superintendent of the Associated Press, who is visiting friends here. She had placed them under her pillow and forgotten them. Mrs. Mack is having prepared as a reward a handsome diamond set bracelet, engraved with her own and Miss Corbin's initials and the date.

LYLE DICKEY FOR JUDGE

F. E. Thompson, president.
 C. R. Hemenway, vice president.
 E. W. Sutton, secretary.
 C. H. Olson, treasurer

These are the officers of the Hawaiian Bar Association, elected and installed at its annual meeting yesterday afternoon.

Lyle A. Dickey was at the same time recommended to Attorney General Wickersham of the United States as the successor of Judge Hardy, resigned, for judge of the fifth circuit court.

All of the officers were elected unanimously, in the case of the presidency one and in that of the vice presidency three candidates declining in favor of the one chosen. Judge Dickey received fifteen votes out of twenty-one ballots cast for the Kauai judgeship, but a motion directing the secretary to cable the recommendation to the head of the department of justice carried without dissent.

Judge Stanley came within an ace of being "it" for the presidency. A motion to close nominations and cast the association's ballot for him was about to be put, when W. O. Smith suggested that the place should go to the retiring vice president—who was not present at the time of election—whereupon Judge Stanley, who had filled the chair a term before, gracefully stepped aside.

D. L. Withington, the retiring president, conducted the meeting until the election, when he called Vice President Hemenway to the chair, who resigned it to Mr. Thompson on his arrival. Mr. Withington announced the committee for the annual dinner on June 15, which have already been published in the Star, and for the literary committee stated that papers, of ten to fifteen minutes' reading, would be presented at the dinner as follows:

"Early Hawaiian Water Rights," by Mr. Justice Perry.

"The Recall of Judicial Decisions,"
 by Hon. L. A. Thurston.

"The Recent Changes in Federal Judicial Procedure," by U. S. District Attorney R. W. Breckons.

Enos Vincent was unanimously elected a member of the association.
 Hon. W. O. Smith, just before adjournment, brought up the matter of a rule adopted in 1905 by the circuit judges, requiring transcripts by the court stenographers of records in probate cases. The rule was observed for a time he said, but had fallen into disuse. One stenographer had gone away leaving a large amount of testimony not transcribed. He moved that the matter be referred to the executive committee for investigation and report. Mr. Withington offered an amendment to include the general duties and compensation of stenographers, which was accepted
 and the motion as amended carried.

No action was taken on a letter from Frank B. Kellogg, chairman of the American Bar Association, asking
 that members of the local body express in public speeches their opinions on the judicial recall and that the speeches be printed and circulated.

Utmost candor along with courtesy marked a discussion of candidates for recommendation to the Kauai judgeship. The cablegram from Attorney
 General Wickersham to Secretary
 Dickey said, "Should be glad to receive suggestions Bar Association successor Hardy." President Withington had also received a letter from the attorney general on the subject.

Judge Dole mentioned that he received a cablegram from Mr. Wickersham asking for a recommendation,
 but as his nephew and Mr. Ashford
 were the only candidates he had heard mentioned he answered declining to make a recommendation and suggesting that the association be consulted.

Mr. Ashford stated, in answer to a question after announcing that he was not a candidate, that he was asked before Judge Hardy resigned if he would consent to take the office, if offered, and he replied that he would provided it were offered to him with practical unanimity, without the necessity of a contest, so that he might accept the position with dignity. Within the past week, however, he had been told that some people on Kauai
 were against him because he was "too much of a live wire"—meaning he supposed, which was not true, that he would stir things up unduly, perhaps dynamite the plantations
 (laughter). In view of the local sentiment he would not feel justified in having his name come before the meeting.

Many endorsements of Dickey from Kauai were announced and some read,
 the Kauai Planters' Association being
 among them.

Judge Wilder made the remark: "I don't think we should be bound by what the Kauai Planters' Association wishes. We ought to consider the matter in the interests of this bar association."

Under the rules a ballot had to be taken on all the names proposed, and it resulted in fifteen votes for Dickey,

THE THEATERS

Change in Bijou's All-Star
 Vaudeville Tonight.

A change of program tonight at the Bijou will surely bring out a big holiday crowd, as the vaudeville and picture program of that theater is easily the best in the city and contains acts that have been shown as headliners in the big theaters in London and New York.

One of the acts, Lordy's trained dogs, is on its way to Hammerstein's New York, via the Keith Circuit, when it will show at the big Hippodrome in the metropolis. The act is on its way home from a round the world tour where it showed in only the best theaters in the largest cities. A distinctive feature about the Bijou engagement is that Honolulu is the smallest city that it has showed in and the Bijou management is to be congratulated upon its enterprise in signing it up. This act is the most expensive that ever visited Honolulu. Tonight the fourteen canines will introduce new tricks and acrobatic stunts.

The other round the world headline act is the Yokohama Troupe who will close their engagement this week. The men of the troupe are expert balancers and nightly exhibit feats of strength, while the juveniles of the troupe surprise all by the seeming impossible contortion acts. This act furnishes twenty minutes of wonderment and amusement.

"Hello Everybody" May Taylor, she goes away leaving a large amount of testimony not transcribed. He moved that the matter be referred to
 the executive committee for investigation and report. Mr. Withington
 offered an amendment to include the general duties and compensation of stenographers, which was accepted
 and the motion as amended carried.

No action was taken on a letter
 from Frank B. Kellogg, chairman of the American Bar Association, asking
 that members of the local body express in public speeches their opinions on the judicial recall and that the
 speeches be printed and circulated.

Utmost candor along with courtesy
 marked a discussion of candidates for recommendation to the Kauai judge-
 ship. The cablegram from Attorney
 General Wickersham to Secretary
 Dickey said, "Should be glad to receive suggestions Bar Association successor Hardy." President Withington
 had also received a letter from the attorney general on the subject.

Judge Dole mentioned that he received a cablegram from Mr. Wicker-
 sham asking for a recommendation,
 but as his nephew and Mr. Ashford
 were the only candidates he had heard mentioned he answered declining to make a recommendation and
 suggesting that the association be consulted.

Mr. Ashford stated, in answer to a question after announcing that he was not a candidate, that he was asked before Judge Hardy resigned if
 he would consent to take the office, if
 offered, and he replied that he would
 provided it were offered to him with practical unanimity, without the necessity of a contest, so that he might accept the position with dignity. Within the past week, however, he had been told that some people on Kauai
 were against him because he was "too much of a live wire"—meaning he
 supposed, which was not true, that he would stir things up unduly, perhaps dynamite the plantations
 (laughter). In view of the local sentiment he would not feel justified in having his name come before the meeting.

Many endorsements of Dickey from Kauai were announced and some read,
 the Kauai Planters' Association being
 among them.

TRIP AROUND THE WORLD

NEW YORK, May 15.—Under the Kahn foundation for foreign travel of American teachers, Kellicott, P. H. D., professor of biology, Goucher college, Baltimore, and Linforth, a professor of the California State University, have been appointed to start on a world tour soon. The fellowship to which they are appointed carries a stipend of $3000 each. A unique requirement is that the incumbents take a trip around the world. The choice of routes and countries to be visited and length of stay is discretionary.
 The incumbent may see as many people and countries as possible.
 The object is to enable teachers to carry on the work from a broader international point of view. The $300 allowed in addition to the stipend is to purchase souvenirs, books, etc. The foundation established by M. Albert Kahn of Paris is administered by a commission, among whom are Nicholas Murray Butler, C. W. Elliot of Cambridge and Charles W. Walcott of Washington.

MASTERPIECE OF ART IS
FOUND IN POMPEII RUINS

ROME, May 15.—Discoveries at Pompeii continue. Professor Spinazzola says a fresco has been discovered on the front wall of a house on the Street of Abundance which is the most important from an artistic standpoint of any that has ever been uncovered. It is practically unique and undoubtedly a masterpiece, as has been proved by the precautions taken to insure its safety. It is in an admirable state of preservation so far as the freshness of its colors is concerned. Professor Spinazzola will not attempt to detach it from its glass cover, but will allow it to remain where it was uncovered.

The fresco represents Venus as a tutelary divinity of Pompeii. The goddess is seated in a chariot drawn by elephants. It is the first representation of this kind ever discovered at Pompeii.

The regular meeting of the members of the Hawaii Promotion Committee will be held at the rooms of the Committee, Bishop street side, Young Hotel building, at 3:30 o'clock
 p. m. tomorrow.

STADIUM FOR THE OLYMPIC GAMES

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 14.—Work on the big stadium where the coming Olympic games will be held is progressing rapidly, and the amphitheater will be ready in ample time for the contests. The Swedish government is building the stadium at an expense of about $225,000. The stadium will seat 30,000 and is located about a mile from town, making it easily accessible. Work on the stadium was started a year ago. The managers of the meeting have devised a stamp, from the sale of which considerable money has been raised to be applied to the expenses of the games.

Francisco Castro, Frank Quadras and John Peters are under arrest on suspicion of having beaten up a Filipino named Lucas Doroforsio in Aiea Park early this morning. The Filipino was to have appeared to swear out warrants against the trio this morning but has so far failed to put in an appearance. It appears that Doroforsio while under the influence of liquor brandished a big knife and shouted a challenge for anyone to come and fight him. Someone undertook to get him under control and Messrs. Castro, Quadras and Peters joined in the mix-up to the Filipino's no small physical detriment. Other arrests today were: Robert Elmer, profanity; Tom Sheridan, drunk; and Joaquin Tabata, supposed to be insane.

NEAR TRAGEDY AT THE LIBERTY

For just a moment last night it appeared as though grim tragedy was to stalk behind the scenes of the Liberty theater and claim one of the Juvenile Bostonians for his victim. During the waltz between the acts the girls were fooling about in the usual way when one of the suggested playing cowboys. Alice Kelley was chosen as the "victim," put on a box and a rope hanging from up above placed round her neck. The usual mimic stunts were gone through and the "victim," whose hands were luckily not bound to her sides in the conventional moving picture manner, played up to her part. Suddenly the box on which she was standing slipped from under her feet and she was left dangling in midair with the rope stretched taut. A scream went up from the girls and a rush was immediately made to rescue the unfortunate child. Luckily there had been no slack on the rope and the jerk had not been too sudden or there would have been a tragedy. As it was the rope left a big red mark round Miss Kelly's neck and for some time afterward she was shaking like a leaf. Mrs. Lang has issued orders that hereafter the game of "hanging" is kapu.

THE MORNING CABLE REPORT

WASHINGTON, May 29.—In an address made here last night Representative Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, N. Y., declared that Theodore Roosevelt is one of the gravest menaces the republic has to face. In support of his contention Mr. Fitzgerald produced memoranda scribbled upon the plans of the executive offices of the White House, which were made in 1902. The words in the former President's own handwriting, were an endorsement of the plans and the significant remark "to be permanent during my life time."

CHICAGO, Illinois, May 30.—It was learned here last night that the national committeemen elected at the presidential primaries of several States have notified the chairman of the Republican National Committee, Harry Stewart New, they expect to take office before the opening of the convention. They claim that under the law committee take office with the convention for which they are elected and not with the next as formerly. Mr. New issued a statement in which he stated that this claim was not based upon the law, but that custom provides that the national committee assumes office after the convention and not before.

BUTTE, Montana, May 30.—The Democratic convention held here yesterday instructed the entire Montana delegation for Speaker Champ Clark.

ATLANTA, Georgia, May 30.—Thomas E. Watson, ex-congressman and populist leader, lost control of the Democratic convention held here yesterday and Oscar Underwood won easily. The fight was one of the most bitter in years.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 30.—Rebel activities near Guantanamo in the vicinity of the naval coaling station are said to have subsided and the situation throughout the territory in which the revolutionists have been operating is rapidly improving. The Cuban government is now preparing an active campaign to sweep the last vestiges of revolt from the island, but at the same time reports come in from the rebel camps to the effect that the revolutionists are making warlike preparations and in many quarters a destructive campaign of guerrilla warfare, entailing the loss of much life and property, is expected.

CHICAGO, May 30.—As the culmination of the unsettled domestic affairs of Richard Harding Davis, war correspondent, novelist and dramatist, suit for divorce was brought here yesterday by Mrs. Davis on the ground of desertion, which is a late and totally unexpected development in the case, for it was recently asserted by both Davis and his wife that an understanding had been reached and that a reconciliation was imminent. Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Cecil Clark of this city, and was married to the journalist in 1899.

the skating rink, the largest building in town. It was planned to have a bean supper in the same place at night, but by that time the army of workers had grown together too large. So the beans and the tables were carried to the baseball park, where the men "wolfed it with their hats on," as Kipling would say.

Among the men in this part of Alaska there is an uneasy feeling. The sewing circle, with which the women were heretofore contented, has become altogether too tame, and the men who have until now been allowed to run things to suit themselves, go about with an air of "What do you think is going to happen next?" But, anyhow, Douglas has ceased to be a mining camp, and intends to be a little city.

MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM.

When your shoulder is so lame that every movement of your arm pains you severely you may know that you have muscular rheumatism. Prompt relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm and massaging the affected parts with the palm of the hand at each application. Do not use your arm any more than is necessary for a day or two as every movement tends to aggravate the disease. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for Hawaii.

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES GROW AS LIVING COST INCREASES

A noteworthy economic feature to which attention is directed in the reports of consular officers regarding the cost of living abroad is the effect of cooperation in reducing that cost. Reports from France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark are included in an installment sent to Congress by President Taft this week. It appears from the information collected that the burden of living expenses has directed attention to, and augmented the membership of, the co-operative societies, more especially in France and Belgium. The tendency seems to be toward small societies, and the great majority of the associations represent groceries and dairies. In France the most successful distributive societies are in the manufacturing cities of the northeast and central sections, while the operation of agricultural societies has been especially successful in the southern part. To the latter class of associations the French government has extended encouragement in many ways, as, for example, by furnishing expert advice, granting subsidies and permitting long-term loans by agricultural credit associations. High-grade farm machinery is furnished from the surpluses or is loaned gratuitously or upon the payment of nominal fees. Industrial plants owned and operated by the workers are not uncommon in France. The French co-operative societies usually sell at prices which are neither higher nor lower than those of private stores, but they have a tendency to keep prices

FRANCE IS RID OF BANDIT BAND

PARIS, May 15.—Thousands of persons motored today to the suburb of Nogent-sur-Marne, in order to secure mementoes of last night's siege, which ended in the death of the automobile bandits, Garnier and Vallet. An examination today showed that the villa was a regular arsenal. Several cases of bullets and cartridges were found, while a sort of trench had been built behind the walls and perforated with holes, affording the bandits an excellent means of defense and offense. The long duration of the siege is regarded as showing the ineffectiveness of the high explosives used, which, considering the conditions, did not cause a great amount of damage. The stern extermination of the outlaw chiefs meets with approval everywhere in France, and now that the members of the band have been killed, or are behind prison bars, the conditions which led up to their appearance are destroyed. Many people think they are the product of modern fiction and the modern stage which have glorified the careers of the criminals.

WEDS SWEETHEART OF HIS SCHOOL DAYS.

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—It took Charles Carter, claim agent of the Los Angeles railway, twenty-five years to find out, but he finally decided that Miss Cora Ireland of Ringold, Ia., is the woman he ought to marry. Miss Ireland, after an equal length of time, arrived at the same conclusion and they were married at the home of Dr. W. E. Carter, a younger brother of Charles, last night.

A quarter of a century ago in Ringold, Carter and Miss Ireland met in high school and, to use their words they had a "case." Carter later moved to Nebraska and then here.

At first he communicated with her frequently, and then letters began to fall off and finally ceased.

A few days ago he learned from a mutual friend that Miss Ireland was here, Carter called a taxicab, they met, settled the question in five minutes, and got a license. Dr. Carter learned of it and he told them they would never consent to persons forty years of age "eloping" and if Charles wished his younger brother's consent he would have to be married at the physician's home.

WOMAN GIPSY DIES, AGED 101.

LONDON, May 15.—Selma Smith, a gipsy, who has lived in a caravan all her life, died today at the age of 101. She earned her means of existence almost entirely by fortune telling. She was an inveterate pipe smoker.

ITALIANS REJECT SUFFRAGE.

ROME, May 15.—An amendment to the electoral bill which granted partial female suffrage was rejected by the Chamber today by a vote of 218 to 47.

down to a fair level throughout the districts where they are located, as well as to enhance the purity and equality of the goods.

In Belgium, where cooperative distribution appears to be specially active, a large proportion of the societies sell at prices lower than those of the regular markets, allowing only minimum profits to distributors. A number of societies guarantee 6 per cent dividends on all purchases and distribute all remaining profits among various funds for insurance, pensions, strike relief, indemnities for injuries, and similar purposes. Co-operative associations in the Netherlands deal with domestic and agricultural supplies, including also creameries, farmers' loan banks and savings banks. They are maintained on a strictly cash basis and return dividends to the purchasers averaging between 8 and 10 per cent. Among other things, they arrange with doctors, dentists and merchants who sell goods which the societies do not handle to give the societies commissions on business done with their members. Sales by cooperative societies in Denmark are confined to members, unless the associations wish to subject themselves to taxation. Numerous factories and workshops are operated by a joint association of Danish cooperative societies. Prices appear to be kept down through the activity of the associations, whose average dividends range from 5 to 12 per cent.—Bradstreets.

ARMY COFFEE AND BUTTER

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Representative Kahn today conferred with Commissary General Sharpe regarding the purchase in San Francisco of butter for use by the army in the Philippines. Heretofore butter for the army's use in the islands has been purchased in Australia, because the department claimed it was cheaper. Kahn showed the department where it could do better by purchasing in San Francisco, and the commissary general decided to ask for bids on 40,000 pounds of San Francisco butter in July, to be delivered in August.

The war department has ordered one shipment of 35,000 pounds of coffee to the Philippines from Honolulu, and the chief commissary, Philippine division, has been ordered to report on the condition and quality of the coffee, with a view to determining whether further shipments should be made from Honolulu. The price quoted the department, 24 1/2 cents a pound, is one cent cheaper than the lowest quotation in San Francisco.

PHILIPPINE TREASURY MAKES GOOD RECORD.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Ten million dollars in net profits from seigniorage on silver coins, sale of drafts and interest on gold reserve deposits is the record of the Philippine Treasury for the last eight years, according to a Bureau of Insular Affairs statement. Modern American financial methods were introduced in the Philippines just eight years ago, and since that time the profits have reached a total amounting to more than 15 per cent of the outstanding circulation. Reserve for the maintenance of the gold standard having climbed to 46 per cent, is to be reduced to 35 per cent to meet the excess in the Treasury.

NATIONAL COMMERCIAL BODY ORGANIZED IN WASHINGTON

That Honolulu should derive much benefit, directly or indirectly, from the new national commercial organization organized in Washington a few weeks ago at the instance of President Taft, is the belief of many local business men. Situated as we are in the path of the rapidly growing trade with the Orient, Hawaii's position is unique, and should give our representatives in the national body a place of particular vantage. Of course the new organization will deal only in the broadest possible way with matters which are of general interest, and probably the greatest of these will have to do with foreign trade. The initial meeting of the organization was attended by some seven hundred delegates, including representatives from both the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association. By recent mails reports of the meeting have been received here, indicating that the new association was launched under most auspicious circumstances. Articles of organization and resolutions were adopted, from which the following particulars are taken:

Plan of Organization. The name of the association is the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America. The object of the association shall be to provide a national clearing house for the development and consideration of business opinion and to secure united action upon questions affecting the commercial interests of the United States. Only questions of national importance shall be considered.

Every commercial or manufacturers' association not organized for private purposes shall be eligible for constituent membership in the chamber. Such association shall be of two classes: (1) Local or State commercial or manufacturers' organizations, such as boards of trade or chambers of commerce, whose activities are confined to a single State, city, or locality, and (2) State, interstate, or national, commercial or manufacturers' organizations whose membership is confined to one trade or class of trades.

Associations having twenty-five members shall be entitled to one delegate and one vote, and for each one hundred additional members in excess of fifty, one additional delegate and one vote, but no association shall be entitled to more than ten delegates and ten votes. Each association shall pay annually in advance dues of $25 for each delegate to which it is entitled. Members from cities of less than 50,000 population may be admitted by vote of the board of directors upon the payment of such dues as the board of directors shall fix. There shall be an advisory council made up of one representative selected by each constituent member. There shall be elected by this conference a board of directors of 25 to serve until the next meeting, which board shall elect a president, three vice presidents, and a treasurer.

Duties of Directors. Among the duties of the board of directors are the following: It shall provide permanent headquarters in the city of Washington and the necessary clerical force for the transaction of the business of the association. It shall designate the place of meeting of each annual convention at least 90 days in advance thereof and make the necessary arrangements therefor. It may, by three-fourths vote of the total membership of the board of directors, call special conventions of the association, giving to all members notice in writing at least 60 days in advance thereof. It shall prepare a program of subjects to be discussed at each annual or special convention, copies of which program shall be mailed to each delegate at least 60 days in advance of such convention. Each member may from time to time submit to the board of directors such questions for discussion at the annual or special conventions at it may deem desirable. During the interim between conventions the board of directors shall submit to the members of the chamber such questions of national importance as it may deem wise for consideration and action. Upon receipt of same it shall be the duty of the members to furnish, within 60 days, an expression of opinion upon same. It shall publish from time to time reports indicating the results of the discussion of the various questions which shall have been submitted to the members and distribute such reports among the members at such intervals as it shall deem wise and necessary. It shall also transmit these reports to such public officers or bodies as the convention may order or the board of directors may deem proper. It shall prepare such rules as may be necessary for the orderly conduct and procedure of the national and special conventions, which rules shall not conflict with the provisions of these articles of association. A central office has been established in Washington, and the development of the work of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America begins at once.

You Can't Be Happy With a Headache Probably more pleasure is spoiled because of headaches than from any other cause. When your head aches it not only makes you unhappy but it is very apt to interfere with the pleasure of everyone else around you. Keep a box of Stearns' Headache Wafers (Shac) in the house when you are at home—carry it in your bag when you travel. That insures you against the annoyance of headaches—your own and other people's. Stearns' Headache Wafers are as pure as they look, and the snow-white wafers certainly indicate purity in the highest degree. One dose cures, and leaves your head "clear as a bell." It is so much better than any other kind that your own interest demands that you insist on STEARNS—the genuine.
