AN ATTEMPT TO EXCLUDE FRANCIS J. HENEY IS TABLED

Oceanic Line May Acquire The China

If the negotiations now under way between the Oceanic company and the Pacific Mail are carried through to a successful conclusion the Sierra will be fitted with the latest type of oil burning machinery and will take up the Australian run with her sister ships the Sonoma and Ventura, while the China will change owners and take up the run now made to this port by the Sierra. Such is the statement made in San Francisco by Manager Fred F. Samuels of the Oceanic company.

A conference has already been held between representatives of the two companies in connection with the transfer of the China from her present run and it is believed that there is every prospect of the deal going through.

The need for another steamer on the Pacific coast is apparent, for no matter how well the Sonoma and Ventura keep up their schedule there must come a time when one of them will need an overhaul. This would mean the placing of a substitute vessel in commission, which is not generally looked on as being a good plan to follow out. With the Sierra running as a third regular boat there will be a guarantee that the requirements of the mail contract will be fulfilled at all times and also that American and Australian shippers will be assured of a perfect service.

DREW WAGES OF DEAD WORKMAN

Daniel Dumulan, a Filipino, is in jail charged with gross cheat. It appears that on June 3 he drew $26 from Paymaster Stevens of the naval station, on representation that he was a brother of Pedro, a Filipino who died recently and who had $26 in wages coming to him from the government for work performed on the drydock at Halawakai.

Paymaster Stevens paid over the money unsuspectingly and did not know of the fraud that had been imposed on him until the real relative of dead Pedro put in his claim for the money and proved that his claim was a genuine one.

BATTERED MAN WITH A BOTTLE

The prize sentence in the police court this morning was drawn by Kamaka Pele who beat a countryman by the name of Solomon Keahaloa over the head with a bottle. He will spend three months on the reef in consequence.

Lil (w), charged with malicious injury, was discharged.

Ge Wun Yo, charged with assault and battery, was discharged.

Y. Harano, charged with heedless driving, was fined $15 and costs.

Herman Horn and R. Kahunamoku, drunks, were fined $3 and costs each.

Bob Henderson, drunk, fined $3 yesterday, bobbed up serenely on a similar charge this morning and was fined $4 and costs. He tried to explain that his jag was one and the same and objected to paying twice for the same drunk, but Judge Monarrat couldn't see it that way and acted accordingly.

Glorious Fourth List Of Events

That the Merchants' section of the civic parade on the Fourth of July is going to contain more novel floats than have ever been seen passing through the streets of Honolulu before, is the assertion of J. Walter Doyle of the celebration committee who began a personal canvass of the business men this morning to secure their participation in the parade.

It has been pointed out to the merchants that the parade in question affords great advertising possibilities if the floats are novel and unique in character and, to assure this, Doyle has arranged with a float building expert who will furnish the ideas and do all the work for those desirous of participating.

Among the business houses that signified their intention of taking part in the parade are Fred L. Waldron, decorated sampan and illuminated floats.

Inerny Shoe Company and M. A. Gunst. The merchants' section of the parade will be headed by its own band.

Cards were sent out this morning by the committee on decorations, calling on the various business houses to decorate their establishments and offering a cash prize of $50 for the best showing.

The program for Fourth of July, as now arranged, is as follows:

8 a. m.—Civic parade. Arthur M. Brown, grand marshal.

10 a. m.—Literary program at Palace Square.

11:30 a. m.—Military tournament at Kapiolani park with cavalry and field artillery participating.

1 p. m.—Motor cycle races and Japanese sports.

2 p. m.—Baseball and track events.

3:30 p. m.—Water carnival with public and official, decorated floats.

8:30 p. m.—Fireworks on Sand Island and eruption of Punchbowl.

CONTESTS ARE FAVORING THE PRESIDENT

(Associated Press Cable to the Star.)
CHICAGO, July 13.—Twelve delegate votes from Mississippi have been sent for Taft.

The Missouri contests were promised by giving Roosevelt four delegates-at-large and four from the districts while Taft got six from districts.

North Carolina gave four district seats to Roosevelt. The total today is Taft, 159, Roosevelt, 13.

The total of contested seats is 254.

Committeeman Sturgis of Arizona moved today to exclude Francis J. Heney on the ground that he is a Democrat who ran as such for district attorney of San Francisco. Heney repudiated that he ran as an Independent, though with Democratic endorsement. Sturgis' motion was tabled.

FITZGERALD'S WILD TALK.
WASHINGTON, June 13.—Chairman Fitzgerald in a debate on the House appropriation bill bitterly attacked Taft regarding his expenditure of $2500 traveling. He said that Taft's western trip mulcted newspaper and secret service men to replenish funds.

WOOD VICTIM OF OLD PLOT.
WASHINGTON, June 13.—The House has adopted the conference report ousting Wood. The debate was bitter. It was charged that Wood was the victim of a plot of Mark Hanna kept alive by his friends.

HISTORIC PUNAHOU MANSION MAY SOON BE TORN DOWN

The famous old Spreckels mansion in Punahou, around which linger some of the most picturesque stories of the revolution of '93 and the glad days of Kalakaua, will probably be torn down, according to report, owing to the age of the building and the fact that, having for years received little care, it is in poor condition. The structure is much worm-eaten.

R. W. Shingle, of the Henry Waterhouse Trust Company, who is handling the property, when asked this morning, said that it had not been decided whether the building would remain or not. He knew nothing about it, not having as yet made investigations. "There is nothing to report yet about the disposition of the property," he said, "except that I am working on the matter."

One of the queerest stories of the days of '93 is revived by the talk of tearing down the old mansion where the sugar king lived many years ago. The capitalist left it in a hurry, filled with rage at what he termed a final insult following a bitter defeat in the revolution. He had been accustomed under Kalakaua to regard himself as the power behind the throne, and he was of the royalist party in 1893. But the other party was too much for him, despite his great wealth.

One morning Spreckels found a vivid skull and crossbones painted on his gate. It brought the climax, for he locked up the mansion and went to a steamer. He vowed he would never return, and said he would see "grass growing on the streets of Honolulu." He did return, however, and was here several years ago, to see a part of the development of the modern Honolulu. The house has remained closed.

Real estate men are taking a very active interest in the sale of the property in Punahou, as well as on Merchant street. It is said that there will be no difficulty in selling either.

STREET CAR'S DANGEROUS RISK IN PASSING DRUNK NEAR TRACK

How much risk of hitting a prostrate drunken man should a street car take and what chances of being able to get by him when he is lying alongside the track so that the dashboard may hit him? The question is raised by some residents of Kaimuki, who are severely criticizing the action of the motorman and conductor of a car that left Honolulu late last Saturday afternoon and, on approaching a drunken man lying alongside the track, slowly edged up to see if the car could get by him without the dashboard hitting him. The car came to a stop, two of the passengers got out and carried the man to the sidewalk—and while they were doing so the car went on and left them to walk home. Wherefore the men in charge of the car are being very sharply criticised.

Professor Blackman of the Honolulu School for Boys and R. W. Anderson were the two men who got off the car to help the fallen man. He lay close to the track. The car slowed down, and in a very cautious manner was proceeding, the motorman apparently trying to see if he could "clear" the prostrate form. Blackman and Anderson got off the car and did the Good Samaritan act. The car went on and left them to walk home or wait for another car.

"I consider it a most inhuman proposition for a car to proceed as this one tried to," said E. A. Berndt, who was one of the passengers on the car. "The idea of a car trying carefully to 'clear' the body of a man lying alongside a track without stopping to give him aid is abominable. Suppose the man had suddenly moved, as the car was passing? If asleep, or drunk, he naturally would, and if he rolled toward the car might have been killed or lost a limb. No matter who it is or whether he is drunk or not, a piece of humanity is worth better care than that."

"Two passengers jumped off to do what the men in charge of the car should have done—remove the man from danger. They carried him to the sidewalk and while they were doing so the car went on, leaving them to walk home."

"The man might have been ill or stunned or dead. The car was simply trying to 'clear' him and get by without flinching out, and it wouldn't wait for passengers who got out to help him."

PUNCHBOWL LOTS FINAL APPRAISAL

Attorney General Lindsay and Land Commissioner Tucker are spending the day together cooped up in the land commissioner's office while they go over plans, figures and maps to get together in an effort to complete the appraisal of the Punchbowl lots by tomorrow morning.

Early this morning, several armfuls of maps were carted into the land commissioner's office and dumped on the floor, while a short while later the attorney general and the land commissioner came upon the scene and began the work of appraising the lots, straightening out tangles in the leases.

According to the land commissioner, the lists of appraisements are nearly completed and after being submitted to the acting governor for his official approval some time tomorrow, will be ready for publication.

MANGO SEEKER TAKES TUMBLE

Kinoshita played in hard luck yesterday. He bought the yield of a mango tree from a Portuguese on Luso street and proceeded to climb the tree to make sure that the fruitfully hadn't spoiled his deal.

When about twenty feet up in the air the branch broke and Kinoshita descended suddenly.

At the hospital his left arm was found to be broken.

On the advice of W. M. Giffard, the Cleanup Day captains will be instructed to burn up as much fallen mangoes as possible where found. A very hot fire is necessary to penetrate to the seed and reach all the fruitfully larvae.

ROBERTSON FOR GOVERNOR AND FREAR FOR HIS OLD JOB OF CHIEF JUSTICE

Among the speculative street rumors of the day is one to the effect that the consideration of A. G. M. Robertson as governor involves a return of Walter Francis Frear to the supreme bench as chief justice. Frear, it will be remembered, was chief justice when the last change in governorships came, and he went directly from the chief justiceship to the executive chambers.

Now, say the gossips who think that Taft is not going to reappoint Frear governor, he may go back to the old job. In the meantime, as stated in the Star some days ago, Robertson, the present chief justice, has been considered for governor. It is believed that he is in communication with the President on the subject, but Robertson declines to discuss the matter.

According to some of his friends, Robertson does not want the governorship, but would not refuse if it were offered to him. In fact, it is pointed out, he could hardly, as a public citizen and official, flatly refuse the office.

In this connection it is pointed out that the job may be a very temporary one. Unless a Republican president is elected, the governor of Hawaii will be expected to resign next March, when a Democratic president would take hold. There are many who think that an appointment now from Taft is not a very attractive political plum, as the appointee might not have time to much more than get started in the office before he would have to offer his resignation to a Democratic president. This may account for the lack of active candidates to succeed Frear, say the politicians.

FORT STREET CORNER PROPERTIES VALUED AT $12.50 SQUARE FOOT

The Mahuka site case will go to the jury next Monday and, if a verdict is reached as expeditiously as in the first case, the result may be known the same day.

The Government rested at eleven o'clock this morning, the last witness on the stand being A. N. Campbell. All the opposing attorneys except Olson stated that they had no rebuttal. Mr. Olson thought he might have a little, though he was not sure about it. He assured the court and the government attorneys, however, that in no case would any additional testimony be heard. He took more than a few minutes, and he said there was no reason why the instructions to the jury should not be read and the case placed in their hands the same day. He suggested that, in view of the situation, it might be well to continue the case until Monday, to allow time for the preparing of instructions.

This view was coincided in by Breckons and Bitting and by the court, and an order was issued accordingly.

Four witnesses were examined this morning, all being business men called by the government to give their opinions as to the value of the Hawaiian Trust property. It immediately became evident that none of them seemed with the opinion expressed by R. R. Reidford, expert for the respondents, who testified that the

Very Active Last Month

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. held at noon today, encouraging reports were received as to the activities of the association during the month of May. The report on membership shows a total of 1066, of which 82 are in the Business Men's Club, 236 in the Boys' Department and 748 seniors. The gain for the month is six members. The applications of 21 persons for membership which had been approved by the committee were considered and the applicants were elected.

Encouraging conditions were reported at the Japanese Y. M. C. A. A successful class in English was started May 29 with sixteen students and it has an average attendance of fourteen.

There were 85 present at the opening reception to members at which Secretary Matsuzawa presided.

The average attendance of the New Comers' Club on Sunday afternoons has been 43 members. Six men and boys have joined local churches as a result of association influences.

In the educational department, the regular school year closed May 16. During the term there were 266 men and boys enrolled in the various classes and clubs.

The Boys' Club of the association has organized a baseball league among the boys' clubs of the city. Two games will be played every Saturday afternoon between teams of seniors and juniors. A basket ball league with teams from four schools has been organized.

The McWatters quartet concert and the farewell to Dr. Hand were the leading social events of the month in connection with the association. There were 448 present at the concert and 200 at the farewell to Dr. Hand.

In the physical department there have been nine student classes with an average attendance of 17, and 12 junior classes with an average attendance of 17. Nine employed boys' classes had an average attendance of 13 and there were eight physical examinations during the month.

Reports from the cafeteria and spa show both keeping up to the standard for service and in the amount of patronage.

The Oahu tax appeal court, consisting of B. von Damm, W. T. Rawlins and J. Lando, has begun its sessions upstairs in the old Wilder building.

BAD SMASH OF JAP MERCHANT

Frenzied finance in Laie might well be the title of the story written on a United States bankruptcy schedule form that was filed with Clerk Murphy of the United States district court yesterday afternoon. The petitioner is one Torazo Higashi, who seems to have struck a large number of his countrymen to the tune of $7506.82. His schedule of liabilities shows that he owes the above amount, about $5000 of it on unsecured promissory notes and the balance for merchandise bought on credit and without security. He gives his assets as worth $3552.

John Alapai, charged with a violation of the internal revenue laws, was yesterday afternoon released on his own recognizance by United States Commissioner Davis.

Judge Clemons yesterday issued a summons to the captain of the ship William P. Frye, ordering him to appear and show cause why process should not issue against him. The complainants are three sailors who claim that the ship owes them wages. The Frye is now at Kahului and Deputy Marshal Sherwood left yesterday to serve the papers on the captain.

JOHN COLBURN PLAYS OYSTER

There is trouble in sight for John Colburn, manager of the Kapiolani estate, because he refused flatly this morning to answer certain questions asked him at the hearing before John Marcellino, sitting as a commissioner to take testimony in the case of Antonio A. Long vs. John F. Colburn.

Colburn was asked whether or not he had for the past twelve years had supervision of the books of the Kapiolani estate. He refused to answer. After some exciting argument the commissioner took Colburn down to Judge Cooper and placed the matter before the judge. No final conclusion was reached, but the judge promised that next Monday he would sit with the commissioner. Then if Colburn persists in his refusal to answer questions asked him it may be construed as contempt of court.

The matter before the commissioner is a bill for account, Colburn being the defendant.

SHIPPING AND WATERFRONT NEWS

LUMBER TRADE IS ON INCREASE

Many Vessels Finish Discharging But Better Facilities Wanted--Mary E. Foster is Off Port--Transport Away Today--Repeat Down to Clear For Sound

The lumber fleet that has been discharging at the Railroad dock has now finished except for the schooner E. K. Wood which should have the last of its cargo out by Saturday.

The Repeat gets away this afternoon in ballast for Sound ports, while the Arago should clear tomorrow afternoon.

The lumber trade with this port has been growing of late and gives every indication of continuing to do so. With the number of new houses going up it is predicted in some quarters along the waterfront that more windjammers and better unloading facilities will have to be brought into use to handle the trade.

MARY E. FOSTER SIGHTED.

The schooner Mary E. Foster was sighted by Diamond head lookout during the morning.

It is expected that she will reach port this afternoon, arriving from Port Ludlow.

TRANSPORT AWAY TODAY.

The U. S. A. T. Thomas that arrived from San Francisco yesterday afternoon will leave in continuation of the voyage to Manila this afternoon.

The Thomas took on some supplies here and a few passengers for Manila.

ANTS HAVE GONE.

According to a report made by Harbormaster Foster yesterday afternoon the white ants have disappeared from the piles of the Alakea wharf.

The boiling oil seems to have been sufficient to drive them out.

ZEALANDIA HAS ROOM.

According to a cable received here by Theo. H. Davies & Co., the local agents for the Canadian-Australian line, there will be plenty of room on the Zealandia that is due to arrive from Sydney next Tuesday morning.

In the first class there is room for fifteen men and eleven women, in the second fifteen men and five women and in the third class twenty-five men and ten women. The Zealandia should get away for Vancouver late Tuesday afternoon.

TRANSPORT ARRIVES.

The U. S. A. T. Thomas arrived from San Francisco shortly after three o'clock yesterday afternoon and docked at the railroad wharf.

She brought 300 casualties and reports a fine passage throughout. A Filipino who stowed away on the Logan from here was brought back again.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

By authority of the bureau of light-houses and the coast and geodetic survey, Midway Islands--Sand Island, Welles harbor: The hook buoy to be replaced by a second-class can about July 1, 1912, without other change.

WILL TAKE SUPPLIES.

The schooner Florence Ward came off the drydock this morning and was towed to a berth at the old Mauna Loa wharf.

She will take on supplies for Midway and Fanning Islands and expects to get away about Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

KAHILIS ARE BACK.

The kahilis that faunted the breeze on Los Angeles during the time the Aloha Shrine was making good in that city arrived on the steamer Lurline.

They will be given to the Bishop museum as soon as the boxes are unpacked.

P. M. BOATS SCARGE.

Only one more steamer belonging to the Pacific Mail company will be seen here this month.

This will be the Nile which is due to arrive from the Coast on June 28. None of the company's steamers will reach here from the Orient during the remainder of the month.

VESSELS IN PORT.

U. S. A. T. Thomas, Arago, Repeat, E. K. Wood, S. C. Allen, R. P. Rithet, Florence Ward.

SUGAR AWAITING SHIPMENT.

OSAKI COMPANY'S PLANS.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—An announcement has just been made that negotiations are now under way for the establishing of another line of steamships between San Francisco and the Orient. M. Komada, assistant manager of the Osaka Mercantile Steamship Company of Japan, here made tentative arrangements with the State Board of Harbor Commissioners for berthing facilities as soon as the big freight and passenger liners of the company begin to steam to the port.

Accompanied by Matsuo Nagai, consul general for Japan at San Francisco, Komada visited the Harbor Commissioners last Friday and told of some of the plans his company had prepared to put into effect. The visitor has been making his arrangements for several weeks, and when he left here on Saturday he intimated that the steamships of his company may begin a schedule to this port within a few months.

Will Abandon Tacoma.

If the proposed undertaking goes into effect it is probable that the present schedule of the company between the Orient and Tacoma will be abandoned. The Osaka Mercantile Steamship Company is now sustaining a bimonthly schedule to the northern port, but have become satisfied that with the opening of the Panama canal San Francisco will attract the bulk of the Pacific Coast business, other places being relegated to mere ports of call.

Although a complete arrangement has not yet been entered into, Komada explained that in all probability a freight and passenger agreement would be entered into with the Santa Fe. This, he explained, was necessary in order to transact the desired amount of business.

Of the three transcontinental railroads terminating here, the Santa Fe is the only one that is not tied up with a steamship company. The Western Pacific and Toyo Kisen Kaisha have an agreement, it is explained, as have also the Pacific Mail and Southern Pacific.

Expect Big Business.

Komada said that his company was satisfied that, despite the existence of the Pacific Mail and Toyo Kisen Kaisha, which now sustain a weekly service between here and the Orient, there would be in the immediate future sufficient business, both for freight and passengers, to justify another company.

Shipping men throughout the Orient have arrived at the conclusion that, immediately after the opening of the canal, San Francisco will become the great distributing base of the Pacific, especially to the Orient and the Antipodes.

Even if the Osaka should not succeed in perfecting a traffic agreement with the Santa Fe, it is expected that they will make this port their terminus, for the great tonnage of freight and passengers which will be carried through the canal from the Atlantic will, it is believed, supply enough business to pay for the operation of the line.

This Distributing Point.

The belief prevalent some months ago that big freight and passenger liners will ply directly from Atlantic ports to the Far East via the canal no longer exists to any great extent. Komada said that individual cargoes to just a few ports in the Orient could not be assembled rapidly enough to sustain a fast service to the shippers and consignees.

This being the case, he explained that the logical thing to do was to send the mixed shipments to San Francisco, where they could be transferred to the different vessels sailing every week or few days as the case might be, thus giving a satisfactory service to every one concerned.

Driftwood

The Inter-Island steamer Maui arrived from Kawaihae this morning after a smooth passage. She brought 2855 bags of a sugar and 180 of H. There were also 75 head of Parker Ranch cattle.

The schooners Inca and Annie Johnston are at Mahukona.

The schooner Repeat leaves for Sound ports this afternoon. She goes in ballast.

The schooner Arago has finished discharging and leaves for Sound ports tomorrow.

The schooner E. K. Wood expects to finish unloading her lumber cargo by Saturday.

The S. C. Allen is discharging freight at the Oceanic dock.

The R. P. Rithet hauled over to the Oceanic dock from her berth at the foot of Fort street this morning and has started discharging.

The Matson steamer Honolulu left San Francisco at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Honolulu and is due here on Tuesday next.

Leaving Vancouver yesterday the Canadian-Australian steamer Makura is due here next Wednesday during the forenoon.

The steamer Hilonian is expected to get away from Port Allen some time today.

The Hyades should leave San Francisco sometime today, bound for this port via Puget Sound.

The Wilhelmina left port yesterday afternoon for Hilo. After completing her freight arrangements there she will return to Honolulu and should get here about Sunday.

Charles F. Wood of the Philadelphia Breakwater Company left for Hilo in the steamer Wilhelmina yesterday. He was accompanied by H. B. Campbell, who will be in charge of the Hilo office. Work on the breakwater is to be pushed ahead.

At a meeting of the harbor commission yesterday it was decided to charge the British lumber vessel Ikala pilot fees only for coming in and out of the harbor. Harbormaster Foster stated that the captain did not know he would have to empty his tanks outside.

A floating spar about one hundred feet long and three feet in diameter has been reported between Black Point and Koko head. It was sighted on Wednesday afternoon about three miles off shore and floating southward.

Boxing Happenings In Land of The Southern Cross

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 31.—The boxing season on the other side of the world, Australia, according to information at hand from Hugh D. McIntosh, the well known promoter of that country, has been successful beyond all expectations. Mr. McIntosh gives some very interesting facts concerning the boxing game in a letter to the writer, just at hand, which is as follows:

"By the time this letter reaches you it is likely that Cyclone Johnny Thompson, accompanied by Eddy Clabby, brother of Jimmy, and Terry Kellar, will have arrived on your shores. Thompson has had bad luck here and was not a success financially, but he was put to a big disadvantage in having to meet men heavier than himself. He behaved himself splendidly while here, and I am only sorry that he was obliged to go out of his class to get matches. His first match, and defeat, at the hands of Bandaman Rice was his own fault, as he held Rice too cheap. Johnny did not seem to strike his form after that battle, but, considering his size and years, he is a most wonderful fighter, and his game efforts endeared him to the sporting public here. We are sorry to lose Johnny, and wish him the best of luck on your side of the world.

"Jimmy Clabby has put up some wonderful fights here this season, and it is too bad that he could not give another battle with Dave Smith, whom he has met three times. Clabby made every effort to have another meeting with Smith, but the latter has proven himself ungrateful and apparently not anxious for Clabby's game by leaving here for England May 7. Clabby was fourteen pounds lighter than Smith, but despite this difference in weight he gave Smith all he wanted, and if it had not been for the rainstorm during each battle Clabby, in my opinion, would have beaten Smith. Hughey Mehegan, the Australian lightweight champion, is leaving about the same time as Smith for your country. It will give you some idea of what this fellow has risen to when I tell you that he boxed twenty rounds with Clabby, who weighed at least fifteen pounds heavier, and created a most favorable impression. Jimmy did his very best to put him out, but Mehegan was too strong and tough, and on his performance is entitled to fight any lightweight in the world. He is a fine boy and should do well in your country. He is better over the long distance than in short bouts, and I should advise him to go to the marathon when meeting the big fellows over there.

"Jim Barry, the big heavyweight, has been a surprise in this country, and has made a splendid record against the colored gentlemen. All this talk in some of the American papers about these contests not being strictly on their merit is the merest rot. You may rest assured that every one of them was on the level, and that both Langford and McVey tried their best to stop Barry. The Australian climate suits Jim to perfection, and were it not for the fact that his eyesight is a bit faulty he would give both Langford and McVey a run for their money. He certainly surprised Langford, and he had the fans with him here throughout the battle.

ATHLETIC PARK

Baseball For Sunday

JUNE 16

J. A. C. vs. ASAHI.
STARS vs. P. A. C.

Reserved seats for center of grand stand and wings can be booked at E. O. Hall & Son's Sporting Department, (entrance King street) up to one p. m., after one p. m., at M. A. Guns & Co., King and Fort.

Prices 50c, 35c and 25c.

"The season has been particularly good for all the boys, especially Jimmy Clabby. Jimmy can draw good money here, against any one, for years to come, for he has made himself a big favorite. He is surely a wonder, when you consider that one week he will fight at 148 pounds and the next week is ready to meet men like Jack Lester and Jack Howard, weighing 170 pounds.

"We are putting a roof on the big stadium and expect to have it ready within a short time. It will cost about $30,000, but when finished will give us the finest boxing arena in the world. I am also building two large gymnasiums under the stadium proper, and when these are completed they will form the finest training quarters for athletes anywhere. I am also putting in Turkish baths for the use of athletes and members. In the future it will not be necessary for the fighters to go away to train; they can get the very best accommodations right here.

"My plans are maturing for a big tournament next season, for lightweight division to come over here. If my plans do not miscarry, it will be the biggest tournament for lighters in that division ever held in the world, and there should be good money in it for all of them. I am after only the best of the 133 pounders, and Mehegan will be back here to meet all comers."

GOOD CARD OF BOXING IS ASSURED FOR MONTH'S END

Articles have been signed binding Jack Cordell and Johnny McCarthy to box fifteen rounds in Honolulu on June 29, two weeks from next Saturday.

Cordell agrees to weigh in at 155 pounds two hours before the contest and to post a weight forfeit of $50 to that effect.

The bout will be boxed with five-ounce gloves and a referee mutually agreeable to both men will be chosen at least 24 hours before the time of the contest.

Cordell will devote the rest of this week to swimming and roadwork. On Monday afternoon he will start working in the gymnasium at Camp Vevy.

McCarthy has been working for the past three days and will probably do his sparring and callisthenics at the Gymnasium in the evenings, starting tomorrow.

Trooper Bauersock and Denny Leary will box a six-round preliminary, the winner to be taken to Hilo to box de Mello on the night of July 4. Another preliminary will be between

HOW HALEIWA AWARDS WENT

At a meeting held last night in the office of C. F. Chillingworth the prizes for the Haleiwa events were apportioned as follows

Marathon race: First prize, John Hau, who won the Honolulu Brewery cup, the ten-dollar merchandise order offered by Jack Scully, six dozen Hires' root beer and five dollars' worth of Sanitary Steam Laundry work. Second prize, Eddie Brown, Hawaiian enameled cuff buttons and pin, five-dollar pair of shoes, seven-dollar Panama hat and a three-dollar merchandise order. Third prize, Mele Kalama, silver watch offered by I. Rubenstein, leather suitcase offered by Archie Robertson and a dozen cabinet photos by the City Photo Company.

Senior bicycle race: First prize, Henry K. Plemmer, Scully cup, five-dollar pair of shoes and six months' subscription to The Advertiser. Second prize, T. Himas, Hawaiian enameled cuff buttons and pin, five-dollar order on Silva's Toggery and six dozen mixed soda. Third, Benjamin

LOCAL NINE TO PLAY IN HILO

The proposed visit of two Honolulu's crack baseball teams to other islands in order to participate in Fourth of July celebrations, appears to have been nipped in the bud.

The Stars were to have journeyed to Maui but the Valley Islanders have withdrawn their invitation on account of the fact that there are too many meli-hinis among the team instead of the good old kamaaina players whose presence they covet.

As things stand at present that good sportsman, Charles F. Chillingworth, may step into the breach and take to Maui a nine with which the fastidious islanders cannot fail to be satisfied.

The Portuguese team were counting on making a visit to Kaula, but this project has been declared off on account of the Kaulians being unable to see their way clear to entertain the boys this year.

That an All-Honolulu nine will visit Hilo on the Fourth under the management of Henry Chillingworth is practically a certainty.

It was remarked in a local paper that "it is rather thought that the Hiloites will come through all right enough."

There is no doubt at all about the Hilo people "coming through." That has already been attended to and satisfactory financial arrangements have been completed.

The team to go to Hilo will be a strong one and will travel with the championship soccer team of the McKinley High School and the two organizations will do their best to bring back to Honolulu two inter-island championships.

Kradalae of Schofield Barracks and Williams, the "fighting conductor."

There will also, in all probability, be a curtain-raiser between Kid Cabrel and Young Layman.

Whether Yamogata's Japanese boxer, will appear at the coming show is doubtful. The scrappy little Nipponese expresses a desire to return to the mainland and it is not improbable that he will leave for the North in the course of the next two weeks.

In response to challenges from service men who want to box Yamogata it may be said that no such match will be made, even should the Japanese remain in Hawaii, a match between him and a soldier being undesirable for several reasons.

George Ingle has received an offer to box an unknown not to weigh over 142 pounds, in Wailuku on the night of July 3 and the match will probably be made, further particulars being looked for by the next steamer from Maui.

Achiu Hawaiian coat-of-arms watch fob, Hawaiian cuff buttons and pin and five dollars' laundry at the Young. Junior bicycle race: First prize, Allen O'Brien, Henry Walker cup, mandolin and six dozen soda. Second prize, Tin Fun Achiu, Jarrett cup, Hawaiian enameled cuff buttons and baseball glove. Third prize, Tokutchi Hujl, four-dollar fountain pen, antoharp and five pounds of candy.

FEAGLER THE CUP WINNER

The Diamond trophy, presented by the firm of that name for the annual Haleiwa Marathon, passes into the permanent possession of that game long-distance pedestrian Wilson Feagler who by his performance last Tuesday qualified for ownership of the trophy.

The conditions under which the cup was presented, and which were drawn up by Emil Berndt, Jack Denaham and H. M. Ayres in 1909, the first year that the race was held, call for some one to finish within the first six or three occasions. Nigel Jackson and Wilson Feagler

New Cricket Eleven Likely to Put the Sport On its Feet

Last Saturday, for the first time in the local history of the grand old game of cricket, an institution, to wit, the Honolulu School for Boys, put a eleven in the field, and not only this, but soundly beat those doughty champions, the Honolulu Cricket Club.

At first it had been intended to put a purely school eleven against the second eleven of the H. C. C., but so much new talent having lately swelled the ranks of the local club it was decided to give the boys' team three good men and to play against them the best eleven available.

The cricket club generously conceded the boys Messrs. Withinston, Winkley and the redoubtable Anderson, through whose assistance the victory was in part won, although the boys showed up so strongly and played with such keenness that had the match taken place as originally framed there is little doubt that the result would have been the same.

The school boys who took part in the match had only been able to get one week's practice and it is noteworthy that they all scored runs.

It is to be hoped that the good old British game here will receive an impetus from its taking up by the boys of the Kaimuki school.

In an informal talk yesterday I. G. Blackman, the principal of the school, said that the reason that the boys are going in for cricket is partly because there happen to be two or three players among the masters of the school which enables members of the staff and the boys to take part in the game together and by thus rubbing shoulders to get to understand one another better than by the medium of school lessons.

Another reason is that boys tire of the long baseball and football seasons and that it is an excellent thing to have another game with which to supplement the two sports mentioned.

The Star congratulates Mr. Blackman, who was mainly responsible for the introduction and popularizing of association football in Hawaii, and who trained the first boys' team which played soccer here, on being the first man to place a boys' eleven in the local cricket field and wishes him, the Honolulu School for Boys and every member of the newly formed team all possible success.

Chinese Baseballers Sadly Demoralized By Fear of Kahuna

(Special Correspondence of The Star.) BUFFALO, June 2.—We left New York City on the morning of May 29 and arrived at Syracuse at 5:30 a. m. We played against the University of Syracuse and lost by a score of 13 to 5. It was a skating match rather than a game.

The stadium at Syracuse is one of the largest in the country but the grounds are far from being in perfect shape. The field was made purposely for football.

We were in Syracuse only about 15 hours but during that time we were guests of the Chinese students at the university and we spent a very pleasant and profitable evening playing poker and other games.

The next morning we were off early for Glen Falls, N. Y. It rained so hard, however, that our game there was called off. We stayed there till June 1 and finally the weather permitted a game to be played. The Glen Falls team is a semi-pro nine and beat us 2 to 1.

That evening we took train for Schenectady and stayed overnight there in order to catch our train for Buffalo.

We arrived at Buffalo at 1:20 p. m., and played the Simon Pures, a semi-pro team, the same afternoon, losing to the sad tune of 4 to 1.

Boys Off Their Game. The boys are not hitting as hard as when we started out in the west. Our both had two legs on the cup prior to this year's race, Jackson having scored a first and second and Feagler two thirds.

In Tuesday's contest Jackson failed to finish while Feagler came in fourth.

The trophy while not of any great intrinsic worth possesses an immense sentimental value for it is doubtful if three longer or more gruelling races than were necessary for its possession have ever been contested anywhere.

While sympathizing with Nigel Jackson, of whose nameless the public is well aware, the Star heartily congratulates Mr. Feagler on his praiseworthy performances in the three races and suggests that the trophy be presented to him as soon as possible with appropriate ceremonies.

A good walker could have made the distance on Tuesday in not much worse time than it took the runners to negotiate it.

Anton Kaoo should now arrange a match race with John Hsu over the same course.

batting eyes do not seem to be just right at present but I don't doubt that we shall recover our winning form before long.

We are under a new advance man named Nat Strong. He booked our last two games and will act as our advance man hereafter.

Tomorrow the boys will visit Niagara.

Maybe Kahuna! P. S.—The boys of the All-Chinese nine, playing baseball in beastly weather for the promotion of Hawaii, have seriously considered the matter and have come to the conclusion that the people at home are putting the kahunas against us.

It has rained nearly every game we have played and if there was a tight finish we always seem to lose by an unucky chance.

What we want to know is if the Honolulu people are wishing us success. Judging from the luck we are having it certainly don't look like it.

We would like to feel assured on this point at once and would ask, if there is any kahuna business going on by some of the Honolulu teams who are jealous of us, that the attention of the police be called to the matter and the proper steps taken to suppress it.

Hoping to be able to regale you with better news next time, Your affectionate correspondent, KONOHI FAT CHOY.

IF ROOSEVELT SHOULD BOLT?

Claim everything, contest everything, seems to be Roosevelt's plan at Chicago, to be followed, if he does not get the nomination, by a bolt. This would make a much-divided contest like that of 1861, which, as students of American politics will recall, brought out four candidates, those of Lincoln, Douglas, Breckenridge and Bell. In 1872 were seven candidates, the four first of whom were Grant, Greeley, (bolting Republican), O'Connor and Black. Four years later five men ran for President, Tilden, Hayes, Peter Cooper, Green Clay Smith and James B. Walker. The same number aligned in 1880, Garfield, Hancock, Weaver, Dow and Phelps. In 1884 the line-up was Cleveland, Blaine, St. John, Ben Butler and P. D. Wigginton. Five nominees contested the field in 1888, Cleveland, Harrison, Clinton B. Fisk, Streeter, Cowdry and Curtis. In 1892, Cleveland, Harrison, Weaver, Bidwell and Wing sought the Presidency. There were six nominees in 1896, McKinley, Bryan, (two nominations for the latter), Levering, Palmer, Matchett, Bentley. Four years afterward we had an eight-pled contest—McKinley, Bryan, Woolley, Barker, Debs, Maloney, Leonard and Wallace. In 1904 there were Roosevelt, Parker, Debs, Swallow, Watson and Corrigan, and in 1908, Taft, Bryan, Debs, Chafin, Watson, Gilhaus and Hagen. Not since 1868, when Grant ran against Seymour, has there been a clean-cut contest between two men.

Should Roosevelt bolt, the conditions would be similar to those of 1872, when Horace Greeley, the Nestor of the Republican party, bolted the nomination of Grant. At first Greeley had an enormous vogue, but it fell off, month by month, until he was beaten. Greeley, who had Democratic endorsement, got 47 electoral votes, which, as his death intervened, were cast for B. Gratz Brown.

Roosevelt, if he bolts, will rely on his personal magnetism and his record, to sweep the country, but it is by no means sure that he could repeat the alleged successes of his primary campaign. The figures of this contest show that he merely brought out the voting minority of the party, assisted by Democrats, the majority staying at home as it generally does in a primary election. But in a presidential election the vote is general and in such a crucial affair, Roosevelt could not be at all certain of results, and might easily lose as Greeley did. At such a time there could be little reliance on Democratic help; and with the third term as an issue, the Republicans would have the same patriotic incentive to vote against him that they had to prevent General Grant, a greater man than Roosevelt has ever proved to be, from realizing the same ambition.

IMPROVING KALAKAUA AVENUE.

The Star hopes that the ladies who are making and aiding plans of public improvement, will keep watch and ward over all the trees they may plant on Kalakaua avenue. In 1900 or thereabout, the Territory undertook to make the Ala Moana road a shaded driveway and a double line of cocoanut trees was planted all the way. The place was exceptionally good for such growths, as sandy soil, which keeps the roots from being clogged with sour soil, is preferred for cocoanuts. The plants came up hardily and flourished for about six months, when the watering ceased and they gradually died. Some of them were stolen and carried away and are now beautifying places about town where the thieves sold them for what they could get.

It is well to plant cocoanut palms along Kalakaua avenue, unless something better can be found, but whatever is planted should be watched and tended. Each tree will not only need water, regularly, and cultivation, but it will need police protection as well; and if an official gardener could be had for the parkway and the side trees alike, so much the better. But for neglect, the Ala Moana road today, with its incomparable view of mountains and sea, might be Honolulu's Prado, and if the right care is given Kalakaua avenue growths, another ten years will have made that boulevard a show-place.

READING FOR BOYS.

We do not concur in the opinion that the reading of adventurous literature by small boys develops a taste for books that are not worth while, any more than we should agree with the view that an early habit of going barefooted and eating green mangoes produces a man who leaves his shoes off whenever he goes out and prefers trashy to wholesome food on his table.

The first thing to do with a boy's reading is to inspire his interest in it, and this can't be done without yielding somewhat to a boy's natural tastes. If you start him on goody-goody books he won't do much reading at all; and it is better for him to read something than nothing. The parents need not take alarm if "Daredevil Dick" or the "Red Rover of the Spanish Main" be his first favorite. That is all right if it awakens a desire in his soul to do things in life. Later he will read something in the "Oliver Optic" class and have his taste improved to the limit of his juvenile understanding. Later, as his horizon expands and his mind calls for better food, he will reach Dickens. Don't think he will always want something of dime novel spice any more than a play-going youngster who begins with melodrama and negro minstrels will prefer them when his growing experience in life brings him to the high levels of Shakespeare and Bulwer-Lytton.

There is such a thing as too much hothouse training for children in literature and life. A typical mama's boy never grew to eminence. He is more apt to be a failure in life than the dime-novel boy who has run away once or twice. And so, withal, is the boy who is brought up under a private tutor. What that youngster needs to fit him for life's battles is a public school experience. There he meets his future competitors. If he has weaknesses of moral or intellectual make-up their discovery of them and their free criticism will make him see himself as he never would through the eyes of an obsequious tutor anxious to hold his job. If he is a liar the other boys will call him one; if he is a hypocrite, they will openly shame him and he will perhaps learn to be ashamed of himself and reform, if for nothing more than to escape being given away. And turning to books and reading his ambitions and plans of life, if built on conceptions of courage and valor and daring, however exaggerated, will do him more good in his after career than those which he derives from the namby-pamby literature about the lad who always took little sister to Sunday school and brought her back home to amuse her all the afternoon with nice toys.

Some of those who object to inane books recommend solid reading in its place. But the boy may not be ready for it. He will be, however, when he gets the habit of reading the things he likes and grows to like better things. Many a lad has finally got to be a great navigator by the "Red Rover" route; there are several "Daredevil Dick" boys who have finally found their place in the desperate competitions for the great prizes of life. What became of the mama's darlings nobody has ever had occasion to ask.

A POLITICAL REMINISCENCE.

John P. St. John, who is dying in Kansas of a malady of old age, was one of the agencies that defeated Blaine for President and elected Cleveland the first time. In 1884 he ran for President on the Prohibition ticket and made an active canvass. His vote was large and was mainly taken from the Republican party, whose candidate for President lost by only about 1200 votes, that being his minority in the decisive state of New York. Without going into the evidence that the New York vote given to Ben Butler, the Greenbacker candidate for President, was counted for Cleveland, the fact remains that Blaine would have been elected but for the St. John diversion, and in its resentment Republican Kansas renamed St. John county. St. John took away thousands of Republican votes without doing anything practical for his cause.

Of course Governor St. John was not the only agency of Blaine's defeat. There were several and the omission of any one would have

VAIN YEARNINGS

By WALT MASON.

I push the mower o'er the lawn, I push it to and fro, and sigh for happy days long gone when I could shovel snow. I strain like Dobbin in his tugs along the mower's track, and divers kinds of ants and bugs are crawling up my back. The chiggers on my legs have fed until those legs are wrecked; the sun beats down upon my head and fries my intellect. Ah, lamentations loud I raise as o'er the lawn I go, and weep for happy vanished days, when I could shovel snow! O winter is the joyous time! There's nothing half so sweet! To have your face incased in rime, your whiskers full of sleet! No weeds to pull, no grass to mow, no bugs to sting or bite, but just to gambol in the snow and thaw your feet at night! I mow along in sun and shade, the cogwheels screech and hum, and bits of wire get in the blade and knock it out of plumb. I hew the tall and luscious grass and groan and shriek and cuss, and say: "Things reach a pretty pass when man must labor thus! I'll file objections never more when wintry blizzards blow; and never will my head be sore when I must shovel snow!"

saved him. The strike in the office of the New York Tribune, the chief organ of Mr. Blaine, cost the latter more than 1200 votes. The unhappy alliteration of Dr. Burchard, about "rum, Romanism and rebellion," cost him thousands of supporters. Mr. Blaine's "Belshazzar's feast," with the New York plutocrats, on his return from the West, proved to be an expensive political luxury. But of the things that weighed most against the Republican candidate in the final test of the Presidential scales was the popular vote for John P. St. John.

With a man of Portuguese descent to preside over the Fourth of July celebration here, with Chinese ladies to decorate the stage, with an American to speak and a Japanese girl to read the Declaration of Independence, Honolulu will have a Fourth of which the mainland press may have occasion to sit up and take notice.

Apropos of speed in leaving this harbor and its effects on moored shipping, it is recalled that the suction from the departing Titanic on her last voyage, tore the American liner St. Louis from her wharf.

Regarding Emil Berndt's reform plan, it goes without the saying that no city ever more needed a business manager than this one does. Why not have one for mayor, with legislation to back him up?

If it turns out to be true that radium is the heat source of Kilauea, the traditional tameness of that volcano may be readily explained.

Bolt, bolt? We thought that Roosevelt was sure of a nomination on the first ballot?

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

HENRY VAN GIESON—At the rate of one or two a day it will take quite a while to register the four thousand or thereabout of voters still holding off.

J. W. BAINS—Hilo is a fine place to live in, although it feels strange to be out of the newspaper game. I suppose I shall have to "come back" some day.

CUSTOMS OFFICER BAIRD (Hilo)—This story about Tidwell cutting out Hilo as a port of entry had me guessing for some time. I am glad it is not true.

HARBORMASTER FOSTER—Every Thursday morning I have about six stories in the papers. I shall have to stop going to the harbor commission meetings.

JOSHUA TUCKER—No, we have to be very careful about giving any information in regard to the land department's doings, because if we were to be misquoted international complications might ensue.

D. L. CONKLING—No, we didn't have to confiscate any automobiles upon which the owners had not paid their tax because as soon as the owners saw we meant business they nearly created a riot in trying to pay their automobile taxes.

ARTHUR G. SMITH—The traction company has until 12 o'clock today to file its authorities with the court and, after the court has had a chance to look them over, a decision in regard to the possibility of entering judgment will be rendered.

JOEL COHEN—Many a man wouldn't take his wife to a show if he knew that he wasn't allowed to smoke. I consider that in this climate the presence of tobacco smoke in a large gathering of people acts as a disinfectant and germ destroyer.

EMIL BERNDT—The donors of the Haleiwa Marathon cup put no time limit in the governing conditions. All they want is to know that a man has finished fairly and squarely in the first half dozen in three contests. To such competitor the trophy belongs.

RIDDIE FERNANDEZ—The Kennedy soccer trophy was won twice by Hilo and once by a Honolulu team. I understand that the Hilo boys presented the cup back to Mr. Kennedy, the donor, after winning it twice, as a token of appreciation and esteem.

J. H. SCHNACK—What kind of a building law have we got? For anything costing over a thousand dollars specifications must be filed, but there is no restriction whatever on the cheap shacks going up on every hand. It would seem the law was made for the benefit of architects.

MR. A. G. TOWNE (of San Francisco, by letter)—I had a very pleasant trip to Panama. Was about twenty-three days away from New York and about five or six weeks from San

OCEANIC LINE

Big Lines Coming.
Another matter that must be taken into consideration is the fact that four of the largest steamship companies now running to Australia will undoubtedly use the Panama canal as a route. Already the P. & O. and the Orient companies have been discussing the matter and Sir Kenneth Anderson, managing director of the last-named company, passed through here on a trip of inspection in the MaKura last month.

It is taken as a matter of course by the Australian press that the White Star line will come through the canal instead of taking the roundabout route via South Africa. The Nord Deutscher Lloyd is also understood to be looking into the matter of running its boats this way.

Big Boats for C.-A.
With all this competition in view the Oceanic line, if it hopes to make a success, must be able to guarantee its steamers and not leave the matter to any chance.

The Union company, which controls the Canadian-Australian line, has already ordered a mammoth liner of 13,500 tons which should be on the run between Sydney and Vancouver about February of next year. Details of this boat were published in the Star about six weeks ago. The Huddart-Parker Line, which also has an interest in the C.-A. run, has ordered a sister vessel and the competition will be keen.

At the same time there can be no doubt that the Sonoma is the finest vessel on the run at the present time and will with her sister ships be able to keep hold of the trade when once worked up.

Will Boom Honolulu.
Incidentally all this means a great deal for Honolulu in the future and the present harbor facilities will have to be greatly altered to meet the demand that will be created by the coming of the big lines with their palatial steamers.

Francisco. It was quite warm and damp down there, and not as nice a country as Hawaii.

The Pacific Engineering Company was yesterday awarded the contract for building the Punahou dormitory for $90,000. The Lord-Young Construction Company's bid was about $3500 lower. The new dormitory is to replace the one destroyed by fire

TWO WORRIES OF SUGAR MEN; CUBA AND THE TARIFF BILL

On the two subjects that are worrying local holders of sugar stocks—the tariff possibilities and the Cuban situation—the Louisiana Planter just to hand has some expressions of expert opinion. It declares that intervention in Cuba, if it led to annexation of that island, would be death to the Louisiana sugar industry, a proposition which is regarded as applying here, while its other proposition, that free sugar would as quickly kill the industry, meets the views of leading local sugar men that only one or two Hawaiian plantations could survive under free sugar.

The Planter's Washington correspondent tells of deals being attempted which cause some alarm to the sugar interests, in the following language:

"Some of the members of the senate who are opposed to the Lodge substitute base their action on the theory that they would prefer to accept a slight reduction, or even the Bristow amendment, at this time, if by so doing the sugar question could be settled at this session, rather than to fight a reduction now and have another fight at the next session. In theory this sounds somewhat plausible, but there is no assurance that by acceding to a slight reduction at present, the tariff reductionists would not be clamoring for another cut in the not distant future. To compromise now, say the friends of the Lodge bill, when by a stand-pat program no sugar legislation can go through any manner compelled to take over would be used as a basis for a substantial reduction in the future when there was a possibility of new sugar legislation really being enacted. Especially would this apply if the Democrats should succeed to full power at the coming elections. The claim would be made, and with some force to the argument, that if the friends of sugar agreed to a reduction, they, we say that while it may be fun or thereby, admitted that the tariff was adventure for the negroes of Cuba to too high, and that they could stand an even greater reduction than they were willing voluntarily to admit. The whole situation revolves itself into a game of politics and each side is playing for points for the future.

BIDS FOR ARMY SUPPLIES OPENED
Bids were opened in the office of the Captain Game, depot quartermaster, yesterday for supplying the department of Hawaii with fodder for the army stock on Oahu during the fiscal year from July 1, 1912. The estimates for the year are as follows:

Hay	Oats
Lbs.	Lbs.
Fort de Russy	210,000 100,000
Honolulu	322,000 220,000
Fort Shafter	200,000 124,000
Schofield Barracks	7,000,000 5,000,000
Fort Ruger	63,000 27,000

Totals 7,795,000 5,471,000
The Union Feed Company and the California Feed Company were the two local bidders, the figures of the former being the lowest. However, bids were opened simultaneously in San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and other mainland cities, and no information was received in the afternoon as to which bidder was the lowest. The local bids were cabled to the San Francisco division headquarters, The Union Feed Company's bids follow:

Timothy hay—At Seattle or San Francisco, $1 per hundred; at dock Honolulu, $1.21; at posts, $1.24. Wheat hay, at the same points, 93 cents, $1.13 and $1.16.

Oats—At Seattle or San Francisco, $2.05 per hundred pounds for the first quarter, $1.57 for the second, $1.63 for the third, $1.68 for the fourth; at the Honolulu dock, $2.16, $1.77, $1.82, $1.87; at the posts, $2.18, $1.79, $1.84, $1.89.

The California Feed Company made only a single bid, $1.35 for hay delivered at the posts.

FORT STREET CORNER.

thought the property in the middle of the Fort street block between King and Merchant streets to be worth more per square foot than that on the makai corners.
The witnesses who testified this morning were Arthur Neely, J. H. Craig, E. A. McInerney and A. N. Campbell. Olson objected vigorously to McInerney testifying as to value, on the ground that he had not qualified as a real estate expert. Judge Dole, however, sustaining the contention of the government attorneys that McInerney might testify as a business man familiar through long association with the property in question. Mr. McInerney placed a value of $10 per square foot, to a depth of sixty-five feet, on the Hawaiian trust land, and stated that he valued his own corner and the Cummins corner at $12.50 per square foot.

A. N. Campbell was likewise of the opinion that the corner property was more valuable than property located in the middle of the block.
Olson excepted to the testimony of the two above mentioned witnesses being allowed. At the conclusion of Campbell's testimony R. W. Breckons stated that the government rested, except for certain testimony from Arthur Neely that had been asked for by one of the jurymen.

TAX APPEALS OVER TO MONDAY

Regular sessions of the tax appeal board of Oahu will commence Monday morning, when the first two appeals will be heard—Mary Root and the John Ena Estate, Ltd. It is expected that none of the hearings will be of long duration and that the contested points will be settled by the board with an little delay as possible.
Owing to the necessity of Tax Assessor Wilder's presence at the Malukia site case, the board session was postponed until Monday. Another reason for the postponement is said to be that many of those having appeals have been showing signs of willingness to compromise and the hearings were delayed in order to give these desirous a chance to arrange a settlement with the Territory.

THE EPIPHANY MISSION TO ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting for electing officers will be held at the Epiphany Mission this evening at 7:30. The mission is located in Kaimuki at the corner of Tenth and Palolo avenues.
The work of this mission is in a flourishing condition and the congregation is looking forward to the erection of a new church building in the near future. Steps are also being taken to have a permanent pastor to work in this interesting district.
The mission has recently been presented with some useful gifts. The fraternity of the Blessed Sacrament gave the mission a handsome gold-plated solid silver chalice and paten. A new hymn board and also a sign board bearing the name of the mission have also been given.

The advantage of belonging to a woman's club need scarcely be urged today. The practical help it offers in many fields of women's work, the inspiration, the added zest to life it gives, are now old stories. The woman who does not belong to a club does not know the pleasure and the profit she is missing. One has to belong to a club to fully comprehend just how much she gets out of it. But there is one advantage not always thought of, and the benefit of which is really growing. And this is that membership in a woman's club gives one almost a national acquaintance. It opens friendly doors in a strange city, brings advice and help in an emergency, annihilates loneliness when moving into a new neighborhood, really makes the world, no matter where one goes, friendly.

This was illustrated recently in the case of a club woman whose child was taken sick while traveling. Instead of having to depend for a doctor upon chance inquiries at a hotel, she called up the president of the woman's club of the town, explained who she was, told her extremity, and instantly warm, friendly services were at her disposal. A good doctor and a good nurse was recommended, and almost as much kindness was shown her as if she were in her own home town. To be sure, the public is kind to a woman in distress, but there was more warm and genuine friendliness in the kindness of those club members than in that of the casual public.

A club woman going to a strange city will find club membership bridging years in the matter of social life. It is particularly helpful to the young woman going alone to a strange city. She will find it will bring her acquaintances at once, hospitably open social life to her and throw about her protection in many ways. It does away entirely with that lonely, uphill fight to make a place for herself in her new environment.

So that to its other good features, the woman's club now adds this of making all the world friendly and helpful to the traveling woman and to the lonely woman. This is, of course, a side-issue compared to the big work women's clubs are doing. But nevertheless it is a feature not to be overlooked, and one which some day, may be of great service to the club woman in a strange land.

SOCIAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cartwright Jr. were guests of honor at a dinner last evening given by Major and Mrs. Edward J. Timberlake at Fort Ruger. A low basket filled with violets formed the attractive centerpiece for the table, and the lavender-shaded candles cast a soft violet-tinted glow upon the table. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cartwright Jr., Mrs. F. W. Coleman, Doctor and Mrs. McAfee, Captain and Mrs. Hannum and Major and Mrs. Timberlake. After dinner the guests motored to the Moana Hotel to take part in the transport dance.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury entertained informally at dinner on Monday evening for Mrs. Ridenbough and Miss Florence Ridenbough who passed through Honolulu, Monday in the Mongolia. Master Ridenbough and Miss Ridenbough are returning to their home in Boise, Idaho, after a tour of the Orient.

On Monday evening, prior to their departure for the mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Templeton Crocker entertained at a surfing party and luau, at Waikiki. The color scheme for the decorations at the luau was red and was carried out with red poinciana regia and several other varieties of red flowers. The centerpiece for the table was a miniature poinciana tree and after the luau the guests danced around it on the lanai. The cards marking the place of each guest were hand-painted Hawaiian scenes. Mr. and Mrs. Crocker's guests included Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Kenney, Miss Kenney, Miss Lady Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. George Potter, Mr. and Mrs. John S. AT THE THEATERS

Eijou's Vaudeville in Farewell Program.

Tonight and tomorrow night will mark the end of vaudeville at the Eijou for a few weeks at least, as the Hughes Musical Comedy Co. will open a two weeks' engagement on Saturday night when vaudeville will give way to musical comedy.

As this is next to farewell night with the vaudevillians, an exception

Hughes Co.'s Sale of Tickets Now On.

The sale of tickets for the Hughes Musical Comedy Co. is now on at Penson, Smith & Co., and tickets may be had for any night of their two weeks' engagement. There is only a limited number of reserved seats in the biggest part of the house, will be sold in first come first served order. The reserved seat arrangement was made in deference to the wishes of ally fine program will be on. The headliners "The Barts Trio," will perform their most difficult feats tonight besides introducing a number of new feats. Recchi's Italian Saxophone Quartet will make a whirlwind finish by rendering the best selection in their repertoire, while winsome Mae Taylor will say an revoir in a number of new songs. Lordy's four teen dogs will amuse young and old with their clever tricks.

The picture program has been personally selected by the management and will include a number of feature films. Prof. Miltner's orchestra will wind up a very strong program.

At the Empire Curran, the one-legged athlete, will be the big feature. His work on the rings, and horizontal bars is the talk of the town. The rest of the program will be devoted to motion pictures.

a number of people who are willing to pay a slight advance and have their seats reserved.

The company whose engagement will begin Saturday has selected "The Speculators" for its initial performance. The comedy in two acts deals with the troubles of a Hebrew and a German who aspire to become Wall Street financiers, but instead are fleeced of their coin. It's a two-hour play replete with funny situations and good singing and dancing by a clever bunch of chorus girls.

The company are well up in their plays, as their repertoire here will be the same as it was in the Far East, and everything will run like clock-work.

The Hughes season will furnish two weeks of solid fun and good music.

REVOLUTIONARY SONS REGISTER

The Hawaiian Society of Sons of the American Revolution has issued its register for 1912 with roll of members and their revolutionary ancestors and other information of interest to the society. It contains 84 pages and was compiled by Lyle A. Dickey, Perley L. Horne, Robert J. Pratt and Howard C. Mohr.

A list of anniversaries celebrated by the society is followed by a historical sketch of the society, which contains many addresses delivered on various occasions. One document of lasting interest is an address to the members of the National Society, prepared at the suggestion of Lorrin A. Thurston, advocating the annexation of the Republic of Hawaii, which was adopted on May 22, 1897, or about a year before the desire was realized.

From a list of past officers of the Hawaiian Society the following names of presidents with their years of office are taken: Peter Cushman Jones, 1895-1897; Albert Francis Judd, 1898; William F. Allen, 1899-1900; William R. Castle, 1901; Frank S. Dodge, 1902; Frederick Jewett Lowrey, 1903; Charles M. Cooke, 1904-5; John Effinger, 1906-7; George R. Carter, 1908-9; Dr. Charles Bryant Cooper, 1910-11.

A roster of officers and members of Aloha chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, concludes the book.

MISS MYLOTT'S CONCERT HERE

Fresh from her recent triumphs as the soloist with Jan Kubelik and with the Russian orchestra in their American tours, Eva Mylott, the Australian contralto, arrived here yesterday morning in the Manchuria, en route to Australia, where she is to be the recipient of as grand a welcome as was accorded to Madame Melba. Miss Mylott is the protégée of Madame Melba, and it was through the influence of Melba that Miss Mylott was given instruction by the best vocal teachers of Europe. She returns to Australia one of the most famous of contraltos, and is now known as "Australia's contralto."

Miss Mylott is registered at the Young Hotel where she will remain until next Wednesday, when she leaves for Australia in the Canadian-Australian liner Makura.

On Monday evening Miss Mylott will be presented at the Hawaiian Opera House in a concert. The program is being arranged by Miss Mylott and will possibly be one which was used during her tour with Kubelik.

MILITARY BAND AT YOUNG TONIGHT

The First Infantry band will give a concert at the Alexander Young hotel roof garden tonight, commencing at half-past seven. The program will be: March—Washington Grays...Grafulla Overture—Jubel...Flotow Waltz—Invitation a la Valse...Weber Selection—The Dollar Princess...Fall Suite—Ballet Egyptian...Luigini Serenade—La Paloma...Yradier Selection—The Chocolate Soldier...Strauss Fantasia—Maryland...Short

THE JUVENILE BOSTONIANS VISIT QUEEN LILUOKALANI

One of the pleasant features of the engagement of the Juvenile Bostonians in Honolulu was the invitation of Queen Liliuokalani to visit her at Washington Place after the performance Wednesday night. Naturally the invitation marked an epoch in the lives of the little girls and during the performance of Tips last night their minds were, it is said, much on the prospect of seeing the lady who once ruled the people of Hawaii, in Honolulu since the company arriving the theater at quarter-past seven the children retired to the hotel where dresses were changed and, accompanied by Mrs. Lang and two Honolulu ladies and Musical Director George Bromley, they walked over to the Queen's residence. A special wish of Her Majesty was that she be privileged to hear the girls sing "Oh Blushing Moon," and Mrs. Lang arranged to have it rendered as they marched up the walk.

At the veranda they were met by the Queen and Princesses Kawannana, the Koa and Kalamannole and Mr. Aea and escorted to the reception room.

The party was then presented individually to Her Majesty and the princesses and afterward to the ladies present. There were solos and duets followed by quartets and trios, each artist acquitting herself with credit and much pleasure to the Queen. Miss Collins and Mrs. Charles Hall contributed to a program most Hawaiian and English airs that were much enjoyed by the visitors, who in turn sang songs that have become popular in Honolulu since the company arrived. Miss Thom Helen, Miss Lois Mason, Miss Jeff Monroe, Miss Patsy Henry, Miss Dixie White, Miss Dode Canfield, Miss Ethel Stoddard and Miss Stubbie Myling rendered solos, the two last also taking part in the quartet with Miss Billee O'Neill and Ina Mitchell.

As the little folks left the grounds they sang "On Moonlight Bay." The affair was beautifully informal and the Queen expressed herself as delighted with the children, paying Mrs. Lang a personal compliment for the care she had evidently shown as their chaperone and foster "mother."

OAHU COLLEGE ALUMNI WILL BOOST THEIR BUILDING SCHEME

The annual meeting of the Oahu College alumni will be held next Saturday afternoon on the College campus beside the spring at half past four o'clock.

During the past few months a committee of the alumni has been planning how to raise funds for the erection of an alumni building in the future. They willing will have a large auditorium capable of seating several hundred people and will also have rooms devoted to athletic purposes.

At the present time the girls have no dressing or bath rooms and no incentive to take any exercise, nor does the school provide any instructor to teach both girls and boys.

This matter is looked on as of great importance both by the trustees and those interested and it is felt that steps should be taken as soon as possible to provide the building.

At the meeting to be held on Saturday, President Griffiths, Dr. Hobby and one of the alumni will make short addresses on the subject of what the school most needs today, what a properly equipped building could furnish and what physical instruction would benefit the students.

At the conclusion of the addresses the meeting will resolve into a social gathering and refreshments will be served by the College glee club.

It is hoped that all alumni and past students of either the college or the preparatory school will avail themselves of the opportunity to get in touch with school needs and renew old friendships.

S. treasury department, had decided not to recommend the abolishing of Hilo, Kahului, Mahukona and Kotoa as ports of entry.

MANY RECRUITS BY THE THOMAS

Drillmasters at Schofield Barracks, particularly those of the cavalry, were not particularly enthusiastic yesterday when they learned that the transport Thomas had brought a number of recruits for the different arms of the service here, including 193 men for the Fifth Cavalry. Seven men formed the First Field Artillery contingent, there were two for the Coast Artillery, 16 for the First Infantry and 115 for the Second Infantry.

As a result of the arrival of the recruits the parade grounds at Schofield will be dotted with awkward squads for some days to come.

Captain Raymond S. Pratt, First Field Artillery, who arrived in the transport yesterday, comes only to close up his affairs in connection with the battery. He has been detailed as paymaster and will be stationed at New York.

Lieut. Col. H. C. Benson, Fifth Cavalry, did not arrive in the transport. He has been detailed for duty on the general staff and is awaiting orders, in San Francisco, to proceed to Washington.

NEW SCHOOL ON THE BIG ISLAND

Superintendent Pope has opened negotiations with the land department for the Kaalau site on the island of Hawaii where a new school edifice will be constructed to accommodate children of residents of Paopao and Kapehu who are at present without educational facilities.

Agitation among parents of the neighborhood for a school was started several months ago and has resulted in C. McLennan, manager of the Launahoehoe Sugar Co., making a proposition to the educational department through Eugene Horn, supervising principal of the district.

In a letter to Mr. Horn, the plantation manager has explained that for some time the families in Paopao and Kapehu have been making requests for a school nearer than the present one at Launahoehoe and as a result, if the board will choose a site, the sugar company will erect a school and teachers' cottage and await the supervisors' convenience for reimbursement. The letter further mentions that the Kaalau site is at the disposal of the board and that all concerned are desirous that the Kaalau site be the one chosen by the board on account of its central location.

The letter was forwarded to Mr. Pope by Principal Horn and the superintendent of education will take immediate steps to procure the site so as to allow the sugar company to proceed with the construction of the school.

Several other projects for new school buildings are in the air at present, chief among these being plans for schools at Kailih-kai and Kaulawela, Honolulu.

Besides the Kapehu building, several new schools are to be erected on Hawaii during the coming year.

Patsy Henry, another clever little comedian, is down for some good fun and as an offset to her comedy there will be pretty little Lois Mason who has made such a name for herself with her yodeling songs. Another of these will be heard tonight. Dixie White will be on hand and

On Monday night a request program will be put through and anyone who wishes to hear an old favorite again should inform the management.

CITY AND COUNTY

A regular meeting of the board of supervisors will be held this evening.

There is no special business in sight, but it is likely that some of the improvement schemes in contemplation will come up for discussion. One of these is the Paopao road center for which preliminary estimates have been made. It is known that some of the supervisors wish to make this highway to the Pearl Harbor navy station one of the monuments of the present term.

It is understood that the widening of Hotel street at Fort is practically a dead project so far as the present board is concerned. Abutting and neighboring property owners have pleered it with their exacting claims for damages and their refusal to see betterments in the same light as the supervisors do.

Possibly all improvements under consideration will be left to the caucus being held from evening to evening over the appropriation bill for the last six months of the term.

Registration of voters is becoming slower as the days fly past toward the elections. The number this morning was only 4210, although the 4000 mark was reached some weeks ago. Probably there will be no rush to register until after the precinct clubs get into action after reorganization for the campaign.

DELEGATE KALANIANA'OLE'S STATEMENT ON EXCEPTING HAWAII FROM LITERACY TEST

Following is the statement of Hon. J. Kalaniana'ole, delegate from Hawaii, before the House committee on immigration and colonization, April 25, on excepting Hawaii from educational tests for immigrants:

Mr. Kalaniana'ole, Mr. Chairman and members of the Committee on Immigration, I desire to lay before you some of the more important reasons why the educational tests for immigrants provided for in Senate Bill 3175 and in House resolution 22627 should not be made to apply to the Territory of Hawaii.

The evident purpose of this measure is to improve the quality of the citizenship among the laboring classes of this country and to maintain a higher standard of living. I shall try to show your committee that the measure will have to be amended in its application to Hawaii, or exactly the opposite effect will obtain in that Territory, because it will increase the handicap on Caucasian immigration into Hawaii, which we must have to stand off the rapidly increasing Asiatic population in that Territory. The underlying conditions which will make such a result inevitable I shall endeavor to state as briefly as possible.

When the United States annexed Hawaii it was well known that the largest element in the entire population of the islands was Asiatic. That large percentage of Asiatics in Hawaii is one of the fundamental conditions that effect all our industrial life and is a leading and growing factor in all our political and social problems; in fact, today it overshadows and dominates all other issues.

Caucasian Laborers Wanted.
To offset this growing predominance of the Asiatic it has become necessary for us to find a class of Caucasian laborers who are by birth and physique fitted to labor in the climate of Hawaii and who will not refuse to work alongside the Oriental when given a higher wage to do so, and during the past five years the board of immigration of the Territory of Hawaii, with that end in view, has secured about 11,000 Caucasian immigrants at a cost of over $750,000 to the taxpayers. These immigrants have for the most part been brought from Europe in specially chartered ships.

This effort of Hawaii to secure Caucasian immigration has the approval of every Federal officer and Member of Congress who has ever visited the islands. Its continuation is not asked as a means of securing cheaper labor; we seek instead the right to continue securing the higher-priced Caucasian labor to offset our Asiatic population by a class of agricultural Caucasians who will become useful American citizens.

We advance the following argument and special reasons why the amendment asked for should be allowed.

The census of 1910 showed the population of the Territory of Hawaii to be 191,309. Of these, 79,674 were Japanese and 21,674 Chinese. There were 25,537 children attending school, out of which 7078 were Japanese and 2855 Chinese. The number of American citizens in the Territory, as shown by said census, including citizens from the mainland and outlying possessions was 98,157. Of these, 19,889 were Japanese and 7195 Chinese, a total of 27,084 Orientals, constituting about one-fourth of the total citizen population.

Increase of Asiatics.
In the year 1900 the census showed 4026 Chinese and 4877 Japanese citizens of the Territory, constituting then about one-eighth of the citizen population, so that the advance in the number of Oriental citizens from one-eighth to one-fourth of the entire citizen population has taken place in the space of 10 years. The census of 1910 also shows that of the females in the Territory of Hawaii 29,417 were Orientals, the only prolific non-Asiatic race, to wit, the Latin race, showing 19,739 females. The significance of these figures becomes more apparent when you take into consideration the fact that the white races other than the Latin race do not begin to be as prolific as the Oriental, and that the Hawaiian race, including even those of mixed Hawaiian blood, are at a standstill, if not actually retrograding, in numbers. The situation as to an increase in population by reproduction, therefore, stands as follows: 24,891 females, Japanese, very prolific; 4,256 females, Chinese, very prolific; 19,739 females of the Latin race, very prolific; 9225 females of the white race, other than Latins, fairly prolific; 12,602 females of the Hawaiian race, nonprolific. Total of all females, 68,810.

Moreover, while the open admission of Asiatics into Hawaii is about over, the Japanese government continues to allow a very considerable number of young Japanese females to enter the Territory of Hawaii, who almost invariably come to marry some young Japanese already in the Territory, which marriages are consummated immediately upon the arrival of the women from Japan, without the parties to the contract ever having seen each other before, these women being generally known as "picture brides," from the fact that they are often selected by Japanese in the Territory from photographs that are forwarded from Japan for that purpose. This system results in multiplying the Japanese population much faster in Hawaii than one would infer from a statement merely of the number of Japanese still coming to Hawaii.

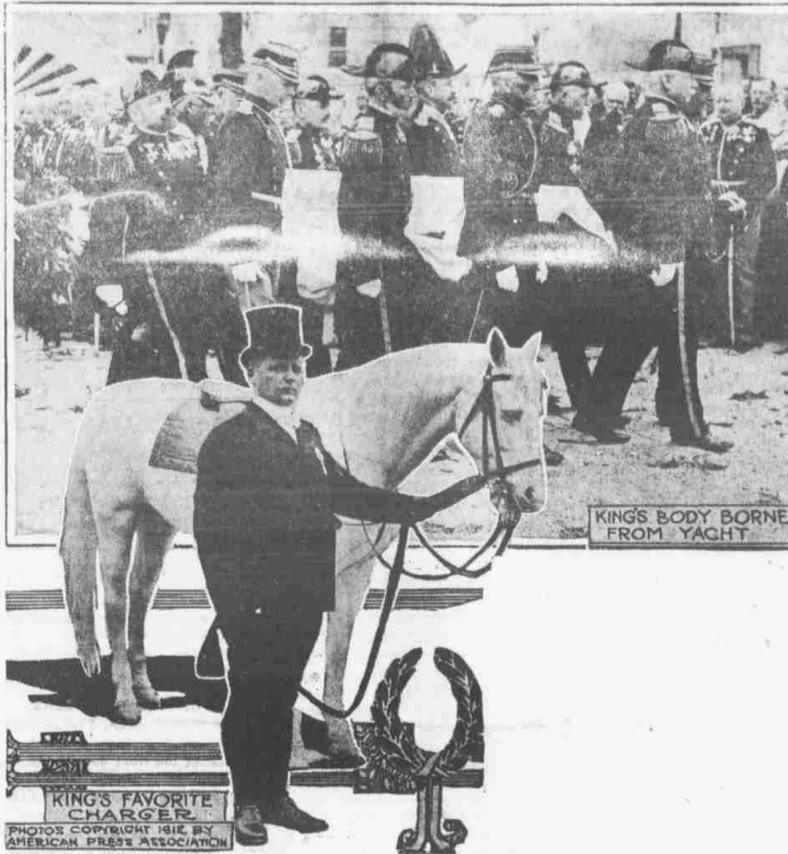

Japanese Having Citizenship Rights.
It is true that many Japanese return yearly to Japan with their families, but these children born in Hawaii are almost invariably provided with official certificates of birth, which establish their American citizenship, and therefore their right to return to Hawaii and assume the rights of such citizenship, including the right to vote, whenever they personally so elect. Of course the Japanese born in Hawaii and remaining or returning there, upon arriving at majority, are privileged to vote on an equal footing with any other citizen, and some of them have already started in to use their rights of citizenship in a small way in the matter of voting and in the matter of taking up public lands. That the exercise of these privileges will increase very rapidly from now on is patent to all. In short, conditions have merely to continue in Hawaii as they are now to hand the Territory over industrially and politically to the Asiatic races, unless the non-Asiatic population is fortified by immigration of Caucasian races.

No Natural Stream of Caucasian Immigrants.
Considering that phase of the question, I desire to call attention to the fact that there is no natural stream of Caucasian immigration to Hawaii—the natural stream of immigration is Asiatic, which would long since have completely filled Hawaii but for artificial barriers of the law. There is no natural stream of immigration to Hawaii even from the United States, to amount to anything, to offset the Asiatic population. The labor conditions are more inviting, the standard of wages higher, and general conditions more favorable on the mainland of the United States than they are in Hawaii, so that not only can we not count upon any stream of immigration to Hawaii from the mainland of the United States, but the reverse is the fact, and the natural stream of Caucasian immigration is away from Hawaii to California, so that Hawaii is confronted with the perplexing problem that after we import Latins, as we have, into Hawaii of great cost sooner or later many of them and their families keep drifting away to the Pacific coast, and this drift will become intensified and more rapid the more an Asiatic population multiplies and fortifies in that Territory, the natural result being that Caucasians, even including the Latins, are forced to the conviction that Hawaii is no abiding place for them, and that however prosperous they may be there temporarily, the ultimate welfare of their families invite them to prepare to pull up stakes in the end and get to the Pacific coast, there to make their permanent homes.

COLONELS CARRYING THE COFFIN CONTAINING THE BODY OF THE LATE KING FREDERICK VIII IN COPENHAGEN--THE DEAD RULER'S CHARGER

COPENHAGEN, June 1.—The arrival here of the remains of the late King Frederick VIII, who died in Hamburg, Germany, was made the occasion of a remarkable demonstration of love and grief. The coffin was carried ashore from the royal yacht by colonels representing various arms of the Danish service. The dead ruler's charger, a handsome horse of pure white, was led, riderless, in the procession.

PROGRESS IN INVESTIGATIONS OF GRAIN-SORGHUM PLANTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.—Under the direction of Secretary Wilson great progress has been made during the past few years in the improvement of grain sorghums, which include different varieties of sweet sorghum, broom corn, milo, durra, kafir and kowliang. Until recently grain sorghums had no commercial status, but the investigational work conducted by the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture during the past six years has shown their great value as grain and forage crops. A widespread public interest in their possibilities has consequently been awakened.

The grain sorghum belt to which these crops are especially adapted comprises the central and southern portions of the great plains, and it is in this region that these crops are looked upon as standard by reason of the ease and the reasonable certainty of their production, their general utility for forage, and the value of the grain for feeding stock and for human food, surpassing both corn and wheat in these respects.

The census of 1910 reports 1,600,000 acres in grain sorghums with a value of $10,750,000. Allowing an average value of only $2 an acre for the stover, the total value of the acreage shown is $15,000,000, placing the grain sorghums thirteenth in the list of farm crops, below rice ($19,000,000) and above buckwheat ($12,000,000). To this value, however, must be added the value of the large acreage reported by the census under "coarse forage," but not separated thereunder from fodder corn. Much of the acreage thus reported is classed as forage partly because certain of the crops so listed are grown as combination roughage and grain crops and partly because in much of the area grain separators are scarce and but a small proportion of these crops is thrashed.

Among the achievements attributable to the experimental work carried on by the bureau of plant industry it is noteworthy that greater emphasis is now placed upon the importance of drought evasion as distinguished from

BERKELEY "CLEANUP" CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED

BERKELEY, June 3.—The "cleanup" campaign opened here today and will be continued until Berkeley is made a "spotless town." The Police Department has eight patrolmen touring the city to find violators of the ordinance requiring the cleaning of sidewalk areas and yards. Those who fail to clean up after the warning given by the officers will be arrested.

Chief of Police Vollmer said today: "The patrolmen have been given specific orders regarding the work, and persons who willfully neglect or refuse to abide by the law will be arrested. I have noticed, however, that considerable work is being done over the city in clearing away the weeds and there is no occasion for any arrests if the people will only do what is right. Let all of the people work together in this cleanup and it will be surprising what a wonderful change it will make in the looks of things."

SEWING MACHINE EXPORTS FROM THE UNITED STATES

Sewing machine exports in the current fiscal year will make their highest record and will probably aggregate 10 million dollars. Over 100 million dollars' worth have been exported from the United States during the 15 years since the official record of their commercial movement began, of which sum 80 million dollars' worth, or one-half of the total, were exported in the brief period since 1900.

Figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, indicate that sewing machines have for many years been an important factor of the export trade. In 1864, the earliest year for which a record is available, the exports amounted to $1,062,708; in 1872, $2,406,085; in 1882, $2,647,515; in 1892, $3,133,922; in 1902, $4,922,697; and in 1912 will probably show a total of $10,000,000.

The growth in exports of American sewing machines reflects the development of the domestic industry, the value of its product having increased from $4,463,206 in 1860 to over $28,000,000 in 1909.

AUTOMOBILE EXPORTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND OTHER LEADING COUNTRIES

Twenty thousand automobiles will be the export record of the United States in the fiscal year which ends with the present month and accessories, will approximate $27,000,000. This statement is necessarily in very round terms, for the bureau of statistics, upon whose figures the estimate is based, has at present detailed figures covering but ten months. They show, however, nearly 17,000 automobiles exported to foreign countries in the ten months ending with April, valued at sixteen and half million dollars; parts thereof, three and quarter million dollars; three, sent separately from machines under the head of exports of rubber manufactures, over two million, and automobile engines two-thirds of a million dollars, making a total for the ten months of practically twenty-two million dollars and fully justifying the assertion that for the full twelve months the total will approximate and probably exceed $27,000,000. This figure includes only the exports to foreign countries, and is exclusive of the 300 machines sent to our noncontiguous territory, valued at about $1,500,000.

This total of $27,000,000 worth of automobiles sent out of the country in 1912 is in marked contrast with the figures of a decade ago, 1902, which, by the way, was the first year in which the bureau of statistics found the exports of automobiles of sufficient importance to justify a separate record, the total for that year being a little less than $1,000,000, as against $27,000,000 ten years later.

The growth in exports of automobiles from the United States has been especially marked during the period since 1905, this growth being coincident with the expansion of the domestic industry and a corresponding decrease in imports of automobiles. Thus in the period from 1899 to 1904 the value of domestic manufactures of this class of articles increased about twenty-five million dollars, from five million dollars in 1899 to thirty-five million dollars; while in the period from 1904 to 1909 the value of the output increased practically two hundred and twenty million dollars, from thirty million dollars in 1904 to 249 million in 1909. Accompanying this notable growth in production, the imports of automobiles decreased from four and quarter million dollars in 1906 and four and three-quarter million in 1907 to approximately two and half million dollars in 1912.

While France still leads the world in exports of automobiles, the United States surpasses that and all other countries in rapidity of growth of production and exportation. For example, our own exports of this class of articles have increased from $5,000,000 in the calendar year 1908 to nearly $20,000,000 in 1911; while in the same period those of France increased from $24,600,000 to $31,700,000; those of the United Kingdom, from $7,600,000 to $15,500,000; those of Germany from $3,000,000 to $11,000,000; and those of Italy, from $5,500,000 to $5,100,000. Thus in the brief three-year period from 1908 to 1911 there was an absolute gain of about $15,000,000, or 300 per cent in exports from the United States; of $5,900,000, or over 100 per cent in those from the United Kingdom; of $8,000,000, or 205 per cent in those from Germany; and of $600,000, or slightly more than 10 per cent in those from Italy.

Approximately 25 per cent of the automobiles exported from the United States are shipped to Canada; and fully 40 per cent to Europe, chiefly to Great Britain; about 20 per cent to South America; and smaller portions to Mexico, the West Indies, and various countries in Asia, Oceania, and Africa. During the ten months ending with April, the latest period for which figures of distribution are available in the bureau of statistics, 4716 automobiles were exported to the United Kingdom, 4424 to Canada, 3034 to British Oceania, 1282 to South America, 849 to Asia, and other Oceania; and 1502 to all other foreign countries. There were also shipped, during the same period, 410 automobiles to Hawaii, 342 to Porto Rico, and eleven to Alaska.

Of the automobiles imported into the United States France supplies about one-half. Of the 845 machines imported during the ten months ending with April, 339 were from France, 170 from the United Kingdom, 116 from Italy, 108 from Germany, and 113 from all other countries.

The fall in export price of automobiles is an especially striking feature of the bureau of statistics figures. They show an average valuation of all automobiles exported in 1909 of $1800 each and in 1912, of $980, the average export price in 1912 being thus but a little more than one-half that of 1909. This remarkable fall in the average valuation of the automobiles exported is due in part to a general reduction in the selling price of automobiles during the period in question, a disposition on the part of manufacturers to reduce the price of the machines to meet popular demand, but more especially to the fact that large numbers of portable used or "second hand" machines are in recent years being exported to Canada, Mexico, and the West Indies, thus reducing the average valuation of the entire number exported.

TAWNEY AS TAFT'S MAINSTAY AND CHIEF FIGHTING MAN

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—Tawney, who for the past ten days has been Taft's mainstay and best support, started for Chicago tonight. His voice will be potent in and about the national committee, and he is set forth in favor of steamroller methods.

Tawney is the only one about Taft whose courage and fighting heart are as desperately indomitable as Roosevelt's. Should the Taft lines in Chicago show signs of wavering, his presence will go far toward holding them steady.

Tawney and others among the anti-Roosevelt people saw Taft today. Taft was still trying anxiously to get out of the pit, having had enough of the fighting. They explained to him, however, that, failing every effort to find a substitute for him, they must use his name in the convention.

Hughes Refuses to Budge.
Fairbanks is willing to make a "sacrifice" and take Taft's place in the center of the storm. Lincoln would jump into the arena if some strong hand went behind and twisted his tail.

Hughes, however, would not think of allowing his name to be entered and not even the pleadings of Barnes had served to move him. This was the situation as laid before Taft.

But the trouble—as Tawney and the others make plain to Taft—lies here. Whether the anti-Roosevelt people used the name of Fairbanks or Lincoln or Hughes, half the Taft delegates would slip through their fingers and escape across to Roosevelt while they were making the transfer. In brief, it would be a case of trying to swap horses in the middle of the ford and impossible from every angle of practical politics.

Plan to Force Bolt.
Taft must stay in the race, not with any hope of winning finally to the White House, but as the sole and only method of beating Roosevelt, which, by the way, is all the Taft men look for at this crisis.

To give Theodore Roosevelt the regular nomination would win or lose—give him the Republican party. To steam roller him out of the con-

You Can't Be Happy With a Headache

Probably more pleasure is spoiled because of headaches than from any other reason. When your head aches it not only makes you unhappy but it is very apt to interfere with the pleasure of everyone else around you. One can't be expected to be very cheerful and pleasant when one's head is simply splitting. And there is no need of suffering. Keep a box of

Stearns' Headache Wafers (Shac)

In the house when you are at home—carry it in your bag when you travel. That insures you against the annoyance of headaches—your own and other people's. Stearns' Headache Wafers are as pure as they look, and the snow-white wafers certainly indicate purity in the highest degree. One dose cures, and leaves your head "clear as a bell." It is so much better than any other kind that your own interest demands that you insist on STEARNS—the genuine.

PLATFORMS MORE IMPORTANT THAN CANDIDATES, SAYS CLEWS

NEW YORK, June 1, 1912.—Holladay, at home and abroad, tended to materially restrict stock market operations. Another influence which discourages activity is the approach of the conventions next month at Chicago and Baltimore. Some idea can be formed as to the forthcoming candidates for the Presidency, but thus far little has been said or made known as to the platform of either party. At the moment this is of even more importance than the personnel of the candidates. Radicalism is rampant in nearly all parts of the country, especially in the West; hence the formal declarations of each side will be awaited with intense interest. The technical position of the market is also somewhat uncertain, the recent rise having been engineered by parties who have not entirely succeeded in disposing of their surplus stocks. Whether they will ultimately succeed or not remains to be seen.

Outside of Wall Street conditions are generally favorable. Crop reports are daily becoming much more satisfactory; early damage having been fully compensated for by good conditions elsewhere and by prompt replanting. Of wheat, corn, oats and hay the chances at present are in favor of full crops. There is still some uncertainty regarding cotton because of the lateness of that crop and the prospect for a slightly diminished average. The only crop of importance that seems likely to be short is that of cattle. The last drought and the subsequent high price of feed forced the early marketing of large quantities of cattle; hence the present deficiency in supplies and the high prices of beef, which are naturally raising such a popular outcry. The only remedy for this condition is eating less meat, which can readily be done to advantage, since the American consumer is among the least meat eaters in the world. A curtailment of his diet in this respect would undoubtedly benefit his health and his pocketbook at the same time.

The enormous volume of our foreign trade is an old but significant story. According to government estimates total exports of the year will approximate $2,200,000,000, or $150,000,000 in excess of the previous high record in 1911. Our imports are expected to reach about $1,600,000,000, surpassing the high record of 1910 by over $40,000,000. It is worth while noting that this growth of exports continues in spite of the tendency of agricultural shipments to diminish. We are sending less and less food-stuffs to Europe because they are required at home, and are sending instead more and more of manufactured products, which now amount to nearly one-half of our total exports. Our increased ability to enter the markets of the world with our manufactured products in direct competition with Great Britain and Germany is a fact of the highest importance. It means not only a strengthening of our credit abroad, but if nothing interferes it means continued expansion of home industry as well as an outlet for our surplus products and energies, which, if bottled up too tightly, would run into congestion and depression.

The money market is in sound position. Rates are easy for the time being, but a hardening must be anticipated on or before the commencement of crop moving demands. As to the future course of the market, in view of present political uncertainties, there is little basis upon which to carry a much further upward movement at this time. Should the political atmosphere clear and appear more hopeful, then stocks may be bought with greater confidence. Should such tendencies prove unfavorable and the rising tide of radicalism prove more unsettling, then securities are likely to be offered more freely with a depressing effect. The crop outlook is of equal if not of greater importance than politics. Without good crops an active forward movement will be impossible. Strong banking support is still in evidence, owing to the extraordinary abundance of new issues, which have not yet passed into strong boxes and are still partly in the hands of distributors. Intrinsic conditions may be sound, but caution and patience are desirable until political and crop uncertainties begin to disappear. HENRY CLEWS.

THE MORNING CABLE REPORT

CHICAGO, Illinois, June 13.—Representative McKinley, manager for President Taft, in a formal statement issued last night, declared that he has proof that Mr. Roosevelt's workers have actually attempted to bribe some of the delegates and that other equally "desperate measures have been resorted to in a frantic endeavor to avert the inevitable doom that awaits their aspirations in the convention." He also said that it is now certain that Mr. Taft would be nominated at the first ballot. He had nothing to say about the platform. Mr. Dixon also issued a formal statement last night in which he paid his compliments to the men who have "been circulating the report that Mr. Roosevelt intends to both the Republican party. That is just a plain, unvarnished campaign lie. There is no talk of a bolt and no talk of a compromise candidate, and the report that one has been discussed is not true in the least. I expect some sensational developments within a few days, probably before the opening of the convention."

In a statement issued at Oyster Bay last night, Mr. Roosevelt took the opportunity to attack the national committee on its decisions in the Kentucky, Arizona and California cases. "It is almost unbelievable that the committee should have seated the California Taft delegates after the landslide in that State for progressive candidates."

WASHINGTON, June 13.—In a minority report filed by the committee upon immigration the literacy clause in the Dillingham bill, now before the house, is disapproved.

CORDOVA, Alaska, June 13.—So far as had been reported at a late hour last night no lives were lost in the eruption of the volcanoes in the Aleutian range. Many natives, however, are destitute and their condition is believed to be desperate as the vegetation has been killed and their live stock destroyed. Revenue cutters are now rushing food and supplies to the refugees as speedily as possible.

A MOTHER'S STORY.

"A Boy Scout and my Boy," a true story for mothers by a mother, appears in the Woman's Home Companion for May. The name of the author is not given. It is an unusual story telling the experience of a mother and her problems in training her son. She tells how through scout activities he and his companion were led away from rough things to finer sentiments. In closing her story she says:

"As I think the matter over I am led to believe that it is barely possible there may be a grain of egotism in my eager endorsement of the Boy Scout movement. I have often longed to tell the Rowdy's and the 'Bully's' mother how she could train her boys, and have desisted; I have yearned to show the Braggart's mother her flagrant mistakes in the Braggart's education, and I have felt that I had no right. But now—they have been Boy Scouts six months, these three—I can see the Boy Scouts' organization effecting the very changes I have longed to effect. I can see the 'Bully' no longer deserving of the name; the Braggart become a silent and useful member of society; and the Rowdy—he is not two feet from me as I write; his head bent dutifully, along with the carotid head of the Boy of my theories, over the Boy Scouts' Manual, studying absorbently certain signs and obediences which he owes to his superior officer; as fine a boy as you would care to see. He even gets up now in manly fashion to offer me a chair when I come in the room. And neither his mother or I, nor anything in our woman's sphere, is accountable for that but only and solely the Scout law and the grimy and much ringed Boy Scouts' Manual that has been compiled and written by men who were once boys themselves, and who understand, as no woman ever does or can, a boy's world. If custom permitted, I would take my hat off to them; as it does not, I say, 'Lord bless you, gentlemen!'"

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful — And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan. If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has restored the health of thousands of suffering women. Why don't you try it?

SENATOR ROOT, COMMITTEE'S CHOICE FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION CHAIRMAN, OPPOSED BY COLONEL ROOSEVELT

SENATOR ROOT

CHICAGO, May 28.—Senator Elihu Root, who has been chosen by the committee on arrangements to act as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention, which meets here on June 18, will be opposed by a candidate of Colonel Roosevelt's selection. Senator Root was temporary chairman of the Republican national convention in 1904 which nominated Colonel Roosevelt for president and later became secretary of state in Roosevelt's cabinet. He is a supporter of President Taft's candidacy for renomination.

TAFT'S MAINSTAY

vention and make him head a bit—as they know he will—would, following defeat, leave him dead outside the breastwork. The anti-Roosevelt people, the Barneses and the Tawneys and the others, would at least retain control of the party machine, which they could keep cleaned and oiled and ready for another and less unfortunate day.

But to do these things—as they told Taft, they must use his name. It was the only way they had discovered of keeping his delegates together. He reluctantly consented while trusting that some other trail out would be found.

Taft has no longer any heart. As one caller said in coming away from the White House, "Opposing Roosevelt with Taft is like opposing a thunderbolt with a bale of hay."

When Tawney departed tonight, however, it was with the understanding that should worse come to worst he could take Taft's name into the convention.

Tawney Fighting Hard.
Tawney, whose business in life is to beat Roosevelt, was very optimistic. The steam roller had worked in Columbus and he felt sure it would work in Chicago. By way of encouragement to Taft and to strengthen his failing soul, Tawney caused a general announcement in Taft's favor by those most interested in Roosevelt's overthrow.

Sherman—who, it is now settled—will be named if Taft is named—is out in print this evening saying, "It is all over. It is going to be a bad day for Roosevelt. Taft will have the Chicago convention."

To this fulmination such as Overman of North Carolina, Smith of South Carolina, Dabell of Pennsylvania and Anthony of Kansas gave hearty printed assent. These things are supposed to have a buoyant effect on Taft, who certainly does stand in crying need of comfort.

One thing which brought the ghost of a gleam of satisfaction to the Taft face, a face from which that celebrated smile has long been absent, was the unofficial assurance that when he left the White House he would be offered the presidency of Yale. At least he would have the opportunity of being president of something; and thereafter a faint glow lit up the Taftian countenance.

Opposition is Patriotism.
As Tawney was about to depart asked him for his views on Roosevelt. They may add to the gayety of nations, though they served no other turn. Said Tawney:

"My opposition to Roosevelt is not personal or partisan. It is based on patriotism. I do not want to see the country Mexicanized. He will be beaten, too. He sees it coming and is already beginning to squall."

"The man by nature is an imperialist; he is a dictator in his heart. Men say he can't help it; that he was born that way. Very well. They could say as much in defense of wolves and rattlesnakes."

"I've watched Roosevelt for seven White House years. His instinct is to break the law, defy the law. He cares no more for law than a cow cares for a cobweb. Let the law intrude, like a fence, between him and his desires and he pushes down a panel of that law fence and goes across lots over popular rights."

Wants to Play Dictator.
"What did he do in the Tennessee Coal & Iron matter? Didn't he defy and break the law? His pretense was that he wanted to avert a panic. There was no panic in sight, hence indeed outside his own convenient imagination. The whole illegal action was based upon his intense willingness to disregard the laws and play the dictator."

"I could go on," said Tawney, "and name you instances by the score when Roosevelt snatched his fingers at the law, but what's the use? Everybody knows of that, the trouble being that only some of us seem to care."

"That, however, is the reason why I'm against Roosevelt. He's a threat, a menace to popular government, and every man who calls himself a patriot ought to be against him. The fight will soon be over. Taft will be renominated, Roosevelt will bolt, the election will come off in November, and that will be the end of Roosevelt. When the ballots are counted he'll be too dead to skin."

THE HALEIWA MOON.
The moon is just past full and the attractions at Haleiwa in the scenic line multiplied. The week end may be spent there at a cost of $6.50, paying all expenses, the passengers leaving the city at 3.20 P. M. returning Sunday evening, by the limited, arriving in Honolulu at 10.10 P. M. There is golf, tennis and bathing for the guests to indulge in and a fine chicken dinner is served Sunday evening. An inexpensive trip with lots of pleasure thrown in.

What About That Dandruff?

There is just this much about it: Dandruff is a germ disease, is most untidy, annoying, and leads to baldness. When chronic, it is very stubborn, but surely yields to thorough and energetic treatment. All germs must be destroyed, the scalp must be restored to health. Here is the remedy: Ayer's Hair Vigor. Ask your doctor about using it.

MEN IN HIGH PLACES WHO DO POPULAR "STUNTS"

BACK to the land for the people, "back to the people" for their officials. That seems to be the rule now—witness the numerous recent instances of men in high office who, in their youth, when they cannot repress, to throw aside their robes and mingle with the common throng. Various motives actuate them, but in all a building inspector, etc. "It is impossible for an executive to be sure he is right and to force installations of methods looking to efficiency and economy unless he has been intimately in contact with conditions," he said, so he set to work immediately to serve the city as a policeman, in blouse and cap, as a fireman in red flannel undershirt (presumably), as a street cleaner with brush and broom.

In thus getting in touch with the people and with municipal conditions Mayor Hunt of Cincinnati may have been inspired by the precedent of Mayor Gaynor of New York, to say nothing of the ancient Calif Haroun al Raschid, the burghomaster of Bagdad who annoyed around in order to see how his people were faring under the grand vizier when he himself was not "on the job." Mayor Gaynor doesn't what penitentiary life was like, so he committed himself—for a very brief term, however—to the state prison and peered through the iron bars of a cell, heard the measured tread of the warders and ate the prison fare. But it may be doubted whether he really entered into the spirit of the thing so to speak. There's a radical difference between the convict in his stripes and man who has the power to remove the badges of shame. Another governor who recently imprisoned himself over night is Hunt of Arizona. It seems to run in the Hunt family to do things of that sort.

Probably the forerunner of the Americans in office who did and do things to get into touch with the people was the late Hassen S. Pingree, one time mayor of Detroit and later governor of Michigan. In a time of scarcity Mayor Pingree looked at his city's empty lots and decided that as they were not needed immediately as the sites of houses they might as well be put to some other use, so he had them converted into potato patches for the poor. As "Potato Patch" Pingree he gained great renown, and the tubers helped to plant him in the governor's chair.

Potatoes enter prominently also in the career of the present mayor of Indianapolis, Samuel Lewis Shank, who has been doing his best to down the middleman by having the farmer deal directly with the people in potatoes, apples and other forms of provender. One of Mayor Shank's interesting and popular "stunts" is the supervision of sales in the public market of his city.

In one of his former terms of office Carter H. Harrison of Chicago, the present mayor, instituted a system of popular hearings by the city executive. Every afternoon at about 2 or 3 o'clock he left his private office for the outer chamber. There, un mindful of the fate of his assassinated father, he received all who wanted the ear of their mayor. They stood in line, and he greeted them with a handshake and a request that they make their business brief. Until the line was gone he heard grievances and listened to suggestions about the running of the city government. It was "getting in touch with the people" in a literal as well as theoretical sense.

There are many other officials who have done out of the way things in order to learn for themselves how things were going. Mayor Seidel of Milwaukee, the Socialist defeated for re-election, sitting in his shirt sleeves in his office, may be mentioned. The late Senator Bob Taylor of Tennessee and his brother Alf Taylor, toured the state idling, as they termed it, to attract the crowds. Mayor Sam Jones of Toledo, O., "Golden Rule" Jones, who is now dead, conducted meetings every Saturday afternoon at his factory, and his successor, Brand Whitlock, novelist and his brother Alf Taylor, assisted him. Whitlock does other things which lie outside of the beaten track. Next fall Governor West of Oregon will ride horseback 500 miles from Salem, Ore., to Boise, Ida., to attend a meeting of western governors. On the way he will deliver good roads speeches.

most every case the avowed purpose is the desire to learn the conditions in which the people, or certain classes of them, live and move and have their being. The latest of these efforts to indulge in such practical soundings is Henry Thomas Hunt, the young and energetic mayor of Cincinnati.

Mayor Hunt wanted to learn from his own experience how it feels to be a street cleaner, a policeman, a fireman,

Being an extremely energetic and purposeful young man, Mr. Hunt found no difficulty in persuading his family and his official associates that it was the proper thing to do. And as he is mayor of one of the largest of American cities, and as he has a record for do any nocturnal rambling, but he walks to and from his office. On the way he doesn't hesitate to stop any interesting looking citizen going the same way and discuss municipal affairs with him. In this way Mr. Gaynor has picked up many pieces of information carefully concealed from him by the politicians.

LITERACY TEST

The situation is thus so perplexing and difficult that nothing but the absolute necessity of preventing the wholesale Asiaticizing of the islands impels those responsible for conditions in Hawaii to keep up the struggle. In fact, there is nothing else to do except to make abject surrender of Hawaii to the Asiatics, which means that all that will ultimately and vitally remain of Caucasian influence or domination in Hawaii will be the American flag, maintained there merely by force of arms and an ever-increasing garrison of soldiers, at ever-increasing cost to the public Treasury of the Federal Government.

Thankful for Uneducated Latins.

Under these conditions Hawaii must be thankful to get even the uneducated Latin, who often more than makes up in homely virtues and capacity for honest toil for lack of education. Moreover, his children will be educated, and I therefore see the chance, a chance that has heartened up our drooping spirits a great deal, in this one-sided struggle of getting through this proposed immigration law the greatest boost and help in favor of Caucasian immigration that has come to Hawaii in the past 50 years, to wit, the opportunity to get into Hawaii those who under this law can not get into the mainland because of the educational test contained in the bill. The unlettered immigrant, heretofore and now, prefers to go to the mainland rather than to Hawaii. If he can not get into the mainland because of this new educational test, we now have a chance to get hold of him that we never had before, and what is more to the point, inducing him to stay after we get him by reason of the continuing disability upon him that will prevent his entering the mainland of the United States.

There need be no fear that we will select unworthily from among these persons. Our system of Caucasian immigration is carefully safeguarded. These people cost too much per capita for us to waste any money in bringing in worthless material. This is one advantage of having the immigration conducted directly under State authority, where families are desired and chosen rather than mere laborers.

Often we have desired to bring about some such situation to help us out as presents itself in the proposed legislation. Providentially other greater forces at work on the mainland have now brought this opportunity to our door. The amendment we ask for was omitted in the Senate, and we sincerely beg you that you will not shut off Hawaii from this great opportunity (struggling as we are to do our civic duty by the mainland), and thus throw us more hopelessly and helplessly than ever back into the sweep of the apparently natural tide that is pulling Hawaii swiftly, if quietly, away from the United States and into the hands, control, and dominance and ultimate use, we fear, of Asiatic powers.

Hawaii Belongs to America.

There is no reason, geographically considered, climatically considered, internationally considered, why Hawaii, 2100 miles off the coast of the United States, should become an Asiatic possession on our frontier. Hawaii by all these tokens belongs to America, and not to Asia, and you must not strike down or destroy this great opportunity of checking and offsetting Asiatic dominance in the islands, for we are fighting not only our own battles but, from the broader point of view, we are fighting the battle of every citizen of the United States, for every Asiatic added to the population of Hawaii, d'acide it as we please, adds to the burden of responsibility cast upon the people of the United States to keep these islands under American control.

Every Caucasian, on the other hand, permanently added to that population relieves that strain and burden proportionately in the matter of direct outlays from the United States Treasury in maintaining garrisons in Hawaii and otherwise. We need not point out to you how much more wholesome and enduring the cure for this situation will be if it is met by Caucasian homesteaders rather than by armed and idle soldiers. So vitally have I felt the necessity for the building up of Caucasian population to be that I have been driven into opposition against the present governor of Hawaii on the point that his administration of the homestead laws of Hawaii are wholly inadequate to meet the situation, and that much of the disheartening drift of Latins from Hawaii to the coast is due to the fact that while he prospers financially in Hawaii the chances of making a permanent home there are poor and that the blame for this rests largely upon the local administration.

Never Mind the Governorship Dispute. If you can see your way clear to grant our amendment without touching upon the issue thus raised between Governor Frear and myself, under which I oppose his reappointment, I do not ask you to consider that contest or give it another thought or investigate it in any way, for after all there is no divided sentiment in Hawaii as to the necessity of getting this amendment through that we are now asking for. The planting, the nonplanting element, the governor, and all of us are in accord, and I do not wish to intrude into this matter these public differences between myself and the governor, however vital I consider them; but if you get to the point where you are thinking of turning down the amendment asked for, then I earnestly beg you to take up the record involved in my present controversy with Governor Frear and give it your careful consideration before your final decision is arrived at and the vote of the committee taken upon the proposed amendment; and for that purpose, and for no other, I ask that the records of this contest, as contained in the office of the Secretary of the Interior, containing an elaborate discussion of present conditions in Hawaii, be sent for and thoroughly considered, if, as I say, you are thinking of denying a request on our part which, vital as it to us, is still more vital to the American people at large.

In conclusion, I ask that this committee invite the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and the Secretary of War to state their views on this important issue.

SWATTING OF THE FLY AGAIN RESOUNDS THROUGHOUT THE LAND

THE war against the fly is on again. It is a war to the death on both sides. Either the man kills the fly or the fly kills the man. No compromise, no mediation, is possible. When the hand of the man is raised against the fly it should come down with a fatal whack else the foot of the fly will bring deadly disease to the man or his wife or child. Therefore for your own sake and for humanity's sake SWAT THE FLY!

This is the season of battle, the time for the waging of the war. In the spring the hatching of the fly is his declaration of hostilities against mankind. In the summer he does most of his fell work. In the fall he relapses into the state of comparative innocence which makes mankind forget his sins. In the winter few flies are seen, but in the spring they appear again in all their viciousness. Unless they are checked then the later months see them in overwhelming numbers, each one a potential carrier of death and disease. Therefore in spring, summer or fall, even in the winter, whenever opportunity offers itself, SWAT THE FLY!

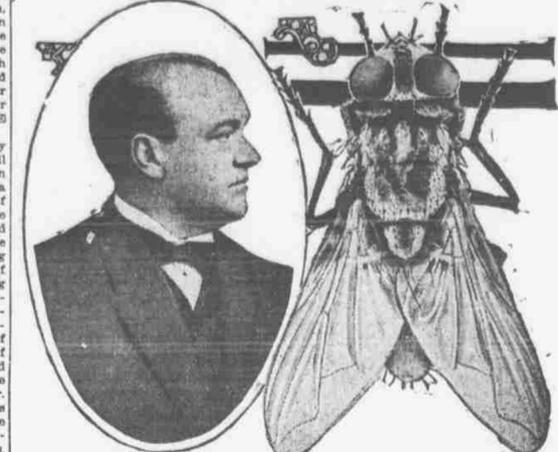

If the present plans of the anti-fly societies are carried out, next year will see us afflicted with fewer flies than this year, the year after will see a further reduction in the numbers of musca domestica, and so on, until the flyless millennium arrives. Every board of health and health society in the world is interested in exterminating the fly. Probably the most active of them all, however, is the fly fighting committee of the American Civic Association, which is sparing neither expense nor time in the effort to eliminate the obnoxious insect. The head of the committee is Edward Hatch, Jr., of New York, whose portrait is reproduced here, together with an enlarged picture of a fly. "Four years ago," said Mr. Hatch recently, "when we began this campaign, it was hard to push because the disease bearing habits of the housefly were little understood, and the facts, even when comprehended, were thought too disagreeable for discussion, but now the campaign is pushing itself and us to supply the demand for ammunition."

By ammunition Mr. Hatch meant the pamphlets, booklets, circulars, letters to newspapers, etc., with which the war on the insect disease bearer is conducted. One of the latest shots in the campaign is the issue of the Fly Fighter, a four page tract in newspaper form, the official organ of the anti-fly movement. Some of the time of the committee and its head has been devoted recently to the discovery of a poison for killing flies. The most approved method seems to be the use of formalin mixed in the proportion of one ounce to sixteen ounces of equal parts of milk and water. Fly larvae may be killed in the manure in which they chiefly breed by use of high calcium lime or of iron sulphate without serious loss of the fertilizing quality of the manure so treated. Greatest stress is laid upon cleanliness of stables and back yards as depriving flies of their favorite breeding places. Young and old are enlisted in the army of fly fighters, an army which, if successful, will do more for humanity than all the soldiers ever brought under arms. The boy scouts have been impressed into the service of the worthy cause.

In a poster issued by the Women's Municipal League of Boston the following directions on "How to Get Rid of Houseflies" are given: "All garbage and horse manure from stables should be always kept covered thoughtless persons to live on the ground that the harm they do is exaggerated or that they serve some useful purpose in nature. Nothing can be further from the truth. It is well established on scientific authority, such as that of Dr. L. O. Howard, the United States government entomologist, that the fly is the most dangerous enemy of man on earth. "The fly," says an authority of high repute, C. Jordan Hewitt, entomologist of the Dominion of Canada, "is an animal which normally bears on its feet, legs and body and leaves in its track the organisms productive of decay and not infrequently disease. It has been tried and found guilty in spite of the questionings of those who maintain the docand removed once each week in summer, and all houses, yards and alleys kept free from filth. "Persuade your neighbors to take care of their refuse. "To thus deprive flies of their breeding places is the best way to get rid of them. "All houses and stores where food is exposed for sale should be thoroughly protected by screens, and any stray flies should be caught upon sticky fly paper, trapped or poisoned. "The careless and dirty storekeeper must be controlled by public opinion, otherwise he will allow flies to infect the food he sells and continue to distribute disease germs among his customers. Houseflies should not be allowed by trine that every creature performs some useful purpose. Its function today is nothing more or less than a danger signal to indicate insanitary conditions, and the presence in the neighborhood of decaying or excremental substances. Abolish these and the breeding places of the flies will be eradicated; maintain them and this potential disease carrier will be retained within our houses." Among the diseases which the fly is convicted—not accused, but convicted—of spreading are typhoid fever, tuberculosis, cholera, diarrhea, dysentery, summer complaint, etc. He is man's deadliest enemy. Therefore, for your own sake and for humanity's sake SWAT THE FLY!
