Punchbowl Lots Have Values Set

Dispute between the government and the Kapiolani Estate may result in J. F. Colburn, manager of the estate, filing an injunction against the government to prevent it from selling the Auwailimu lots on Punchbowl slope on August 15. Although the Kapiolani Estate's lease on the Auwailimu tract expires August 15, Mr. Colburn is known to have made the statement this morning that the estate would seek to prevent the government from disposing of the land.

According to Land Commissioner Tucker, the estate will have a hard time obtaining an injunction or in any other way interfering with the government, as the Kapiolani Estate's lease expires on the tract August 15.

There are 200 lots involved, some of which are held under preference rights, while others are untenanted and will be offered at auction on the day that the Kapiolani lease expires.

Attorney General Lindsay and Land Commissioner Tucker have been hard at work for weeks getting the appraisements into suitable form for submission to the land board for approval this afternoon. Their work was completed this morning and received the official approval of Acting Land Commissioner Tucker.

Onions May Be a Golden Crop Here

In view of the fact that, according to S. T. Starrett of the market division, onions will some time prove one of Hawaii's best crops, attention has been called to development of the industry in Texas where the cultivation of the tear-producing etoinin has created so much wealth that a day has been set aside for celebration, known as "Onion Day."

Sweet scented huisaches, asaritas, the "Car-claw" and other flowering trees and shrubs grew riotously along the Rio Grande and throughout Southwest Texas between San Antonio and the Mexican border for many years and onions were practically unknown; homeseekers drew in deep breaths and were delighted, but passed on. Now the perfume-bearing thickets have been cleared to make room for onion fields, homeseekers sniff the onion odor in the air, hear the rattle

Pays Coin Rather Than Show Books

Rather than bring into court the books of the Kapiolani estate, John F. Colburn this morning chose to pay $2500 to Antonio Long, one of his stepsons, who was suing him for an accounting.

Yesterday Colburn refused to answer the question of whether or not he had for the past twelve years had supervision of the books. The hearing was before John Marcellino, sitting as commissioner to take testimony. Marcellino appealed to Judge Cooper, who promised to sit with him this morning.

Attorney Peters, representing the plaintiff, demanded that Colburn bring the books of the Kapiolani estate into court. Colburn refused but was ordered to do so by Judge Cooper. This morning, however, Peters made a statement to the court to the effect that a compromise had been agreed upon, to the effect that Colburn would pay the plaintiff the sum of $2500, it being stipulated that of this amount $500 should be paid down and $500 every three months, with interest.

This agreement brought the matter to an end and Colburn was spared the necessity of exhibiting his books.

BAD BLOOD RESULTS IN FIST FIGHTS

WEALTHY FOLKS THE LEAST DISPOSED TO RENDER HELP IN FIGHTING THE FRUITFLY

This is a record breaking year for mangoes in Hawaii. W. M. Giffard, who has charge of the Mediterranean fruitfly campaign, says that not within his memory has there been such a tremendous quantity of this fruit in and round Honolulu. To make matters worse the mango seems to be a favorite breeding place for the fruitfly, and a considerable proportion of the fallen fruit is found to have been stung by the pest.

Since the mango season opened, Mr. Giffard states, about ten large wagonloads of the fallen fruit are collected by his inspectors daily, and this promises to continue for an indefinite length of time.

At a meeting of the captains of the various Cleanup Day districts held Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Giffard was cynical in his remarks concerning the attitude of, especially, the wealthier class of citizens toward the fruitfly campaign.

"It is the wealthy ones who cooperate the least, and the poorer ones who most try to help us," was the way Mr. Giffard put it. "I should just like to show you our report books. You would be surprised at the names you would find on it, half a dozen or more notices in many cases are common and then frequently we have to clean up the fallen fruit ourselves. The worst districts are in the Punahou section, between Wilder avenue and King street, the Punchbowl district and on both sides of Emma street, and through the residence section of Nuuanu. Citizens worth hundreds of thousands of dollars are utterly indifferent or antagonistic to our work."

Mr. Giffard stated that already the county incinerator is practically choked with the fruit, and has great difficulty in disposing of it. He suggested that an effort be made in connection with the general Cleanup Day campaign to have fallen mangoes and other refuse fruits placed in separate piles in order that the carts might carry away the fruit first, disposing of it, possibly, by carrying it out to sea in scows.

Col. J. W. Jones suggested the use of simple incinerators such as the army uses in disposing of camp refuse. This consists of a hole in the ground a few feet deep, lined with rough stone, in which a fire is built. After the hole is thoroughly heated, Colonel Jones stated, a surprising amount of refuse can be burned up by adding a small quantity at a time together with a very little crude oil and wood. It would be a simple matter he believed for every householder to dispose of his own refuse fruit in this manner.

Hard to Get Rid of Wife

Once more the divorce troubles of Joseph A. Doyle and Edna M. Doyle have broken into the courts. A few weeks ago Doyle, who was one of those whose divorces were invalidated by a supreme court decision, discontinued the second action he had brought, because the court ordered him to pay the traveling expenses of Mrs. Doyle from San Francisco to Honolulu, he claiming that she was merely trying to hold him up to get possession of certain property.

Now, however, he has filed another suit, on the ground of desertion. Doyle, after securing, as he supposed a divorce from his wife, married again, but the decision of the supreme court made it necessary for him to separate from his second wife and sue again for divorce from his first.

K. Kano has brought suit for divorce against his wife Taura, on the ground of desertion.

MORE CLEANUP DAY INSPECTORS WANTED

More volunteer inspectors are wanted by the Cleanup Committee. Most of the district captains have appointed as many inspectors in their own districts as they have been able to see personally, but there are still a number of districts which could use more. The Cleanup committee therefore asks that all who are willing to assist in the work will leave their names at Cleanup headquarters at once.

Cleanup headquarters has been a busy place since it was opened on Wednesday morning in the Magooa building, corner of Alakea and Merchant streets. Another important meeting was held yesterday afternoon, when reports were received from the chairman of the various sub-committees, and the captains of the various districts were supplied with copies of their districts prepared by the board of health.

Acting Governor Mott-Smith, who is general executive officer, was present at the meeting and explained in detail the method of making inspections. The first inspection will be made tomorrow, when the different captains will send out their inspectors and gather data concerning what is to be done on Cleanup Day, next Thursday.

Were They "Stung" at the Government Sale?

Were they "stung?" That is, the people who bought Kullouou lots, at the government auction held on June 8, when twenty-nine lots were put up and bidders bucked against one another until land valued appraised at about $100 per acre brought about $800. Real estate men have been discussing the matter ever since, and none of the experts seem to be able to explain the prices by any better theory than that Land Commissioner Josh Tucker, as auctioneer, must have hypnotized the crowd in front of him.

Aside from the remarkable rise in value, it is said the Kullouou buyers are not even assured of their beach frontage, such as it is. According to the real estate expert who discussed the matter today, it is very probable that the near future will see the government selling beach lots all along the line, directly in front of the lots just sold.

"The so-called beach," said this expert, "is merely a sort of swamp, in which you can wade out half a mile without getting your knees wet. The buyers of these Kullouou lots have no rights on this land, which is slowly filling up with earth washed down by the mountain streams. A little dredging and leveling would make a fine new tract of land, nearer to real ocean water and directly in front of these so-called beach lots at Kullouou. The purchasers of these lots are far from the car lines, there is no water and no beach. I and other real estate men have investigated more than once in the past. I have never found anyone able to explain this high bidding for them."

The theory on which most of the buyers did their bidding, it is said, is that Honolulu is likely to grow very rapidly, and extend toward Koko Head. This would mean car lines and water mains and may make the Kullouou lots of value. The payments are easy, and the speculation to some people looks good. But the real estate dealers don't see it that way, and they are not congratulating the buyers at all.

PUULOA ROAD TO BE BUILT

It was voted by the board of supervisors last night not to make any arrests of residents for placing garbage on the sidewalks on Cleanup Day. The garbage is to be put out in containers and the board will assist with its garbage service equipment in removing it, besides making a donation of $200 for labor on that day.

Low introduced a resolution protesting against the Hawaii Promotion Committee's employment of Walter G. Smith as its lecturer on the mainland, on the ground that he was not friendly to the Hawaiian race. He made a personal attack on Mr. Smith, followed, in like vein, by Murray, who moved the adoption of the resolution. Amama seconded the motion. Arnold opposed the resolution, scolding the idea that the lecturer would say any

DOES AND ENDS IN THE COURTS

Josephine Wagner, administratrix of the estate of John Wagner, has filed her final accounts and petitions for discharge. She asks to be allowed $1069.95 and charges herself with $7911.80.

The case of Cecil Brown vs. A. F. Judd and E. A. Mott-Smith has been discontinued in the circuit court.

A discontinuance of the plaintiff's appeal in the case of A. Fernandez & Son vs. Charles Herring, an assumption suit, was filed in the circuit court today.

In the case of James Carty vs. W. P. Jarrett defendant's bill of exceptions was filed in the supreme court yesterday.

MAHUKA SITE CASE

The court and the attorneys engaged in the trial of the Mahuka site cases were engaged this morning in settling the instructions to be given to the jury Monday morning. With seven attorneys engaged, each of them with his own ideas of what instructions the court should give, there were many heated arguments. The instructions promise to be long and involved, as each attorney has submitted a considerable number to cover what he claims to be the rights of his clients.

TOWN EMPTY; BUSINESS DULL

Honolulu has entered upon an unusually dull summer season, and with politics added to the ordinary reasons for dull times in the mid-summer, the business men are feeling the effects considerably.

In real estate circles house renting has become one of the principal businesses. There have been many departures for the mainland, and many people are planning to go, and most of them want to rent their homes while they are away. Hence the renting situation has changed a good deal. A few months ago it was difficult to get a house. Now there are many being offered for rent, and the various firms in the business are all ready to accommodate customers with almost any kind of a house.

There is a demand for beach places, as is usual in summer, but these are not easy to get.

STOCKBROKERS REMAIN IDLE

Today was another idle day for the stock brokers. They put in a dull morning and attended a dull session of the stock exchange, and then found nothing doing on the street afterward. The sales recorded showed slight reductions in prices. Olan fell from $8 to $7.50, in sales of 100 and 50 shares. Two sales of 50 shares each of Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar were at $44.50, whereas the last previous sale was at $44.75.

JAPANESE DWELLERS LOSE HEAVILY IN MOILILI FIRE

A fire broke out at 1:10 this morning at Moilili and several small structures owned by Japanese were destroyed.

The blaze, the origin of which is unknown, started in an unoccupied new building owned by Ide Susumu, situated on the mauka side of the Waialae road near where the street car track cuts across lots.

An alarm of fire was telephoned to the police station and the central station of the fire department was also notified.

The Makiki company went to the blaze and Chief Thurston took out several of the central station men in the new auto truck.

On account of the tardy alarm the fire had gained big headway on the arrival of the firemen, but the good work of the firemen prevented it spreading and was responsible for the saving of a considerable portion of the Moilili settlement.

The fire lasted the best part of an hour.

The owners of the buildings destroyed are: Ide Susumu, $700 insurance, loss, $500.
K. Suehiro, insurance, $1200, loss $1500.

NUUANU MAY CHRISTEN WHARF

Unlucky Bark May Be First to Lie at Improved Richards Street Dock--Transport Away This Morning--Missourian From Seattle--First Atlantic Steamer

After being nearly a year out from her original port of clearance it may fall to the bark Nuuanu to christen the new Richards street wharf shed.

The Nuuanu put out from New York 307 days ago and was to have taken a cargo of sugar from here.

After working freight all night the transport Thomas left port sharp on five o'clock this morning in continuation of her voyage to Manila and the Orient.

The stevedores came off the big vessel just as the hawsers were cleared away.

The supply ship Supply is expected to get away about next Tuesday.

The inter-island steamer Kilauea arrived from Kona and Kau ports this morning after a fine trip throughout.

She brought a general freight list consisting of 7800 bags of H. A. Co. sugar, sixty-five bags of sisal, eighty-one bags of coffee, fifty-seven boxes of fruit, eighteen boxes of fish, four crates of eggs, twenty-two bags of ginger, eight bags of awa, twenty-four bundles of hides, thirty head of cattle, one mule, one ram, one lamb, eleven pigs, nine crates of pigs, twenty-nine crates of chickens and 161 packages of sundries.

The big American-Hawaiian freighter Missourian arrived from Seattle this morning with about 2500 tons of general freight for this port.

Captain Lyons reports a very good passage throughout.

FIRST ATLANTIC TRIP. With the Titanic catastrophe in mind it is interesting to learn that there is living in a quiet English rectory a clergyman who as a boy was a passenger on the maiden trip of the first steamship that crossed from Great Britain to New York.

The vessel was the paddle steamer Sirius, and the boy of 1837 is the Rev. Vincent F. Ransome, rector of Compton-Bassett, near Calne, the one-time Willshire borough which was represented in parliament by two men of such distinction as "Bobby" Lowe, afterwards Lord Sherbrooke, and Thomas Babington Macaulay, the historian.

Mr. Ransome, who is the sole survivor of that momentous voyage, is quite familiar with the details, thanks to a good memory and to many talks in after life with his father, an army officer, who was then going out to take part in the suppression of the Papineau rebellion, started by a French-Canadian organization known as "Fils de la Liberte."

The Sirius managed to secure by only a small margin the honor of being the first in a race across the Atlantic with another British steamship, the Great Western, which sailed from Bristol five days after the Sirius steamed out of Cork, whither she had gone to embark some passengers.

It was March 28, 1838, when she left London for Cork, and many of the passengers were so alarmed by their experience of the run down the English channel that they left the ship when she reached Cork and forfeited their passage money rather than proceed on the voyage.

The windjammer Arago gets away for the coast today in ballast. The schooner S. C. Allen moved to the foot of Fort street this morning in order to make room for the Mary E. Foster to discharge at the Allen & Robinson dock.

The Alice Cooke is discharging at the Bishop dock.

The schooner Florence Ward has now completed her overhaul and expects to get away for Midway Island next Wednesday.

Driftwood

Two big shipments of coal are now coming to Honolulu from two ports thousands of miles apart.

The Norwegian steamer Guernsey left Newcastle, Australia, on June 8 and the British steamer Indian Monarch sailed from Moji, Japan, on the same date.

They are due to arrive here early next month.

Taking twenty-eight days for the trip the schooner Mary E. Foster arrived yesterday and docked at the Allen wharf. She brought 1,270,000 feet of lumber from Port Ludlow and made a good trip down.

Twenty-nine days was the time made by the schooner Alice Cooke which arrived from Port Gamble yesterday. She brought 1,016,000 feet of lumber.

The barkentine S. N. Castle, which passed through so many vicissitudes previous to her arrival at this port and during her stay here, has at last reached San Francisco, her home port. She made the Golden Gate yesterday.

ELKS' FLAG DAY SERVICES. Honolulu Lodge No. 616, B. P. O. Elks, at its session this evening, will hold what is known in the fraternity as Flag Day exercises.

The ritual of the Grand Lodge of Elks will be followed, which will include an oration by one of the members on the history of the American flag.

A large attendance of visiting and local Elks will be present on this occasion, as the services are very impressive.

As the Elks are a distinctively American order their Flag Day exercises bid fair to become an annual affair ranking with their Memorial Day Services.

Oriental Created a Mild Sensation in Alleged Effete East

NEWARK, N. J., May 25.—Baseball surely follows the flag. This was demonstrated here yesterday when a team of Chinese students from the University of Honolulu, every one an American subject, compelled the strong Seton Hall nine to go eleven innings to secure a 2 to 1 victory. The Chinese lads have played eighteen games, counting yesterday's battle, since landing in the country. Of these they have won eight, lost nine and tied one.

A comparatively small crowd, considering the attraction, turned out to view the battle. Seton Hall is acknowledged to be one of the best college teams in the country this season, while the Chinese players have earned the right to play the best clubs in college circles because of their success on the diamond. In the crowd were a number of Chinese of this city and nearby places, some of whom were evidently viewing their first baseball game. Some of the more Americanized of the Celestials were loud in their applause whenever the Chinese team executed a bit of clever baseball work and there were many opportunities offered.

Seton Hall's rooters were out in numbers. The undergraduates sought to rattle the Hawaiians by their school yell and cheers, but the Chinese had a yell of their own, which was sprung before and after the game. Just what language the cry was written in was a question, yet it was about as intelligible as those used by other schools.

Chinese Praised.

After watching the Chinese play one cannot help but imagine just how much the Orientals will improve as players in the next decade. The national pastime was introduced in Queen Lili's land about the time the domain was annexed to the United States. When the Stars and Stripes were raised over the islands baseball was introduced and during the past ten years the Hawaiians have become so proficient at the game that they can come to a strange land and hold their own with the college nines. On several occasions the spectators applauded the Chinese when the team or some member would make a particular brilliant play.

Every trick of the game is known to the Chinese and the ability of the celestials to take advantage of every opportunity made them dangerous baseball rivals. In fielding the Chinese demonstrated that they are well qualified to hold their own and a display of the speed of some of their men was given on the bases when an opportunity presented itself when the only tally gained by the Chinese came as the result of an error and three sacks pliffed in order.

Both of Seton Hall's runs were the result of errors. One came in the opening chapter and the other came in the eleventh on two errors following a pair of singles. During the overtime battle the South Orange collegians had but three men left on the sacks while the Chinese had two.

Over the entrance to the grandstand, just underneath the Stars and Stripes, was the flag of the Chinese Republic. It was five colored having a red, white and blue combination with yellow and black. The flag was saluted by the Mongolians who attended the game.

DOMINGO WON'T BE REINSTATED

MAUI, June 13.—The Maui Racing Association held a meeting in the Town Hall on last Tuesday for the purpose of passing on the applications of the following new members: D. H. Case, Wm. Henning, H. Gooding Field, Wm. Chillingworth, John Medeiros and J. A. Aheeng, all of whom were elected to membership by a unanimous vote of the members present. T. B. Lyons was elected vice president in place of W. F. Crockett, resigned. W. F. Crockett is now secretary, having assumed the office of Chas. Wilcox, who resigned on account of his going to the national convention at Chicago.

The executive committee of the association has been instructed to extend the bleachers so that more persons can be accommodated.

The matter of reinstatement of Domingo Ferreira as a jockey came up, and the sentiment was so against his reinstatement that the matter was given no consideration whatever. Several of the members expressed themselves as intending to resign from the association if such an attempt was made.

The association expects a large number of visitors from Honolulu this year at the races, as there will be a special steamer for the occasion. Many of the horses are now in their stables and each day the work of training them is being done. The horses from Maui will be the best that have ever gone on the track and fine sport may be expected.

The tennis and basketball courts at Camp Verry are nearing completion.

EDWARD K. C. YAP TALKED BASEBALL TO SUN SCRIBE

The following interview with Edward K. C. Yap, manager of the All-Eastern universities on our home Chinese baseball team, appeared in a recent issue of the New York Sun: beautiful one at the Polo Grounds; "Since we have been in this country but we'd do our best to give them a good time. American boys are good sports, and some day we hope to return the compliment."

POLO ON HAWAII.
Hilo Tribune: Honolulu people often remark upon the fact that there is no polo club in the Hilo district. The Oahu sportsmen think that the citizens of Hilo and the surrounding districts could easily get a polo club going and, to the ordinary man on the street, it does seem that way. There are plenty of young fellows, who are good riders, around about Hilo. Horseflesh is cheap enough, and the wonder is that something of the sort has not been started. Dr. Archer Irwin is a good polo player and he would, if encouraged a little, get going on the proposition. Think it over.

CHALLENGE.
Private Allen of Battery R, First Field Artillery, would like to secure a match with some local middleweight.
Allen has boxed two draws with Trooper Bauersack and has had six contests in San Francisco.

Many Honoluluans to Figure in Hilo's Sporting Carnival

The sporting celebration of Hilo's Fourth of July will commence at 11 a. m. with a soccer match between an All-Hilo eleven and a team representing the McKinley High School, the champions of the present year.

The game will be played at Honolulu Park and the teams will be tentatively as follows:

McKinley High School—George K. Dwight, Edmond Parker, Philip Frenedo, J. B. Walker, V. Marcellino, Haole Samner, Allan Rowatt, Melville Turner, Dexter Frazier, Frank Stillman, E. C. Low, Henry Chillingworth.
All-Hilo—George Desha (Hilo), Irwin (Pepeekeo), Kellner (Hilo), Noble (Oahu), Robertson and Parker (Honolulu), Marnie (Oahu), Lawson (Hilo), Boyle (Hilo), Mollison (Honolulu), Yeaman (Hilo). Reserves—Carmichael, Lindsay, Kennedy and Watson.

Athletic Sports.

At 12:15 p. m.—The five-mile race at the track will start. For this race three prizes are offered, $50, $25 and $10 respectively.

Lunch will then be partaken of and as soon as possible the following program of field sports will be run through:

- 100 yards dash.
- Broad jump.
- 440 yards run.
- Hop, step and jump.
- 220 yards dash.
- High jump.
- Relay race (half mile).

Horse Races.

The horse races will be pulled off according to the following schedule:
1:30—Five furlongs, free-for-all.
2:00—Half mile, Hawaiian-bred.
2:30—Half mile, Japanese-owned horses.
3:00—One and one-quarter mile free-for-all.
3:30—Half mile, lunas' horses.
4:00—One mile, Hawaiian-bred.
4:30—Half mile, Portuguese-owned horses.
5:00—Half mile, saddle horses.
5:30—Half mile, cowboys' race.

Entries for the horse races close to Felix Brugheri, secretary and treasurer of the meeting, on the 22nd inst. All races will be governed by California Jockey Club rules.

The conditions of the races call for three or more to enter and two or more to start.

Horses at the Track.
Every stall at the race track is now occupied and additional stabling will have to be provided to accommodate late comers.

The horses at the track at present include Mellings, Major Collier, St. Avon, Denervo, Springban, Supervision, Strawberry, Genevieve, Miss de Mello, Sonoma, Harvester, El Denerva and Hilo.
Miss Bryan and Alderman, a couple of three-year-old runners, are now on their way from the coast in charge of Dr. Isaac O'Rourke.

The Young Cobbs announce that they would like to play all comers under the age of sixteen.

Following is the lineup: W. Lee, c. (capt.); F. Cunha, p.; C. Benny, 1b. (treasurer); R. Lee, 2b.; F. Decolito, 3b.; J. Decolito, ss; G. Hawkins, lf; Otto Nick Nelson, cf. (manager); A. Grace, rf. Subs: G. Dunn, l. McQueen.

PROJECT OF ROWING CLUB FOR HILO IS WELL LAUNCHED

HILO, June 11.—On Tuesday evening last there was a meeting of the men who have become interested in the rowing game, and who are determined to get things going properly in Hilo.

The gathering was at the First Bank of Hilo, and the people who attended were: H. V. Patten, H. B. Mariner, Dr. Schoening, E. H. Austin, S. Rolph and A. M. Webster. G. H. Vicars, unfortunately could not attend, and his absence was felt very much.

H. V. Patten was elected to the chair, and the meeting started off right away. Mr. Webster, who is an old Healan Boat Club man, gave his views on the subject of starting a rowing club in Hilo. He told of how they did things in Honolulu, when he was an active oarsman. He suggested that the first thing to do was to get a copy of the bylaws of one of the Honolulu clubs. Then something similar could be drawn up for the proposed Hilo club.
The idea is to get the club going as

A harness horse driver by the name of Quinlan went to Hilo last week and will drive one of the O'Rourke entries at Maui on July 4.

Jimmy Carroll, a well known coast rider, is now at the track and is assisting Jockey Willis in getting the thoroughbreds into condition for their engagements for next month.

Supervision, a six-year-old bay mare by Sir Dixon out of Onedaga will race in the colors of H. M. Ayres at the coming meeting. The mare recently arrived from the coast and is a very good looker.

The Baseball Game.

The baseball game between an All-Honolulu nine and the best team that Hilo can put in the field will start at 2:30.

The Honolulu team will include such well-known players as: G. W. Hayes, Bill Hampton, Alex Desha, George M. McIntyre, W. Schuman, Fred J. Maricham, Chas. En Sue, Yamashiro, Henry Bushnell, "Haole" Sumner and Henry Chillingworth.

The Hilo games last Sunday resulted in the J. A. C. beating the Hilos, 11 to 10, and the C. A. C. defeating the Stars, 4 to 3.

The teams from which the All-Hilo nine will be selected are as follows: Hawaii—Dodge, Ed Desha, Jack Easton, Sam Morehead, Joe Teves, Chas. Brickwood, Geo. L. Desha Jr., Harry Morehead and Harry Brown.
C. A. C.—Jew. Along, Ahina, Chas. Makani, Walter Watson, Wm. Brown, L. Kekoa, K. Y. Ching, Geo. Todd, Sol Anakalea.

Hilo—Oliver Kamahale, Chas. Naope, Henry Kahaule, Fred Low, Peter Manuel, Atona Aka, Wallace Naope, Chas. Manuel, John Kealoa.

There will be boxing in the Armory on the night of the Fourth and possibly on the following Saturday.

The main event will be a fifteen-round go between the winner of the Bauerscock-Leary contest to be decided in Honolulu on the 29th inst., and Ben de Mello, the Hilo champion.

The preliminaries will be six-round goes between Ah Fook and Joe Sylvester, and Fred Correa and Joe Serpa. The first pair will box at 118 pounds and the last-named couple at 145 pounds.

There is a possibility that the Japanese boxer, Yamogata, may be matched to box the winner of the Ah Fook-Sylvester bout in Hilo during the holiday week.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

The lure of the Vice-Presidency seems to reach only second-rate men, as a rule, although four times in our history a vice-president has reached the office he was not considered fit for when he took second place. In monarchies they do better, for a regent is usually qualified in the first place for the ruling place. Generally our Presidents by accident have not risen with their duties because of their limited experience.

The way to cure this evil—for both Tyler and Johnson proved it to be an evil—is to give the Vice-President active influence and duties, so as to attract first-class men to the office. He might be a sort of Senator-at-large or a member, ex-officio, of the cabinet. Now he has nothing to say about affairs and the average man has to stop to recall who he is. Who can name the five last Vice-Presidents off hand.

When a Vice-President is named he is very possibly a President by succession and carelessness in choosing him may become an injury to the country, on that account, if the President dies in office. But no big man will take a place which means simply waiting for a funeral. He won't be shelved. He must have an occupation in which he may be useful and conspicuous.

FITZGERALD'S CHARGES.

While Representative Fitzgerald is not without his good points, he has always been a sensational partisan. Indeed he bears the same relation to law-making that the yellow journalist does to newspaper-making, and while he excites interest he does not often add to serious discussion. Now he is charging the President with mulcting the newspaper men and the secret service men who went with him on a Western trip to replenish the expenses of the trip.

There are no details given in the cables, but it would have added variety to the story if the amount which the President amassed from newspaper men, not to speak of secret service agents, had been itemized to the last reluctant cent.

It will probably turn out that the President, instead of giving the newspaper men carte blanche to pay their living expenses en route from the Presidential travel appropriation, made them charge their dining car, buffet and porter bills against the expense accounts of their papers; and that the secret service men did the same and turned their expense bills into the treasury. Had it been the other way, how the Fitzgeralds would have shrieked at "the waste of public money on the President's boon companions" and how the press had been subsidized at the country's expense.

TAKING THE COLLEGE TO THE FARM.

The Department of Agriculture has sent out a circular describing one of the practical things it is doing and which justifies the growing public confidence in it. The circular contains the following:

Secretary Wilson and Dr. Galloway have been planning for some time to inaugurate in northern states the work on the farm that has been so successful in Southern states. "That was a gracious move on the part of the Senators" said Secretary Wilson, "when, during the consideration of the Agricultural Appropriation bill, they secured for the Department's farm management work an additional increase of funds."

"There is an interesting story to be told in this connection. The cities have been filling up and the farms have been deserted. The cost of living has risen and many thinking men are grappling with the problem as to why it has risen. When the boll weevil came to the South something had to be done. Many Southern farmers were one-crop men—they grew cotton, and upon the advent of the boll weevil many localities were being deserted. Congress gave the Department of Agriculture money with which to fight the pests.

"It was a new undertaking. Sprays, chemicals, etc., were of no use in this case. The weevil hid its eggs in the bolls where chemicals could not reach them. But something had to be done. The Department first concluded that it would be wise, among other things, to encourage the people in diversified farming. This succeeded remarkably. It would be a long story to tell all the steps taken; in fact, longer than people have time to consider in this busy age. But, in short, the college was taken to the farm—the ablest farmer in each county was selected to visit his brethren and help them towards better things. The farmer was taught to help himself. The Department has now some 800 of these farmer agents. Cotton was not neglected, and through such instrumentalities as the Department's men could think of, cotton growing was encouraged. Last year the South grew more cotton than ever before in its history. It may be said that it was a favorable year. Very good; that was fortunate; but the South grew more corn also last year than it ever grew before.

"When the college reached the farm through the best farmer in each county every means was taken to improve the crops of all kinds. The boys were enlisted. There is an opinion prevalent among the people of the Department of Agriculture that the boy must be educated on the farm to a certain extent. Education in the past, as far as the farmer's boy has been concerned, has had a tendency to take him away from the farm. And away he went. Now he is being trained towards the farm and becoming interested in the occupation of his father. The boys who grew acre crops of corn have had the advice in their counties of the Department's agents, and many interesting stories are current with regard to the enterprise and pluck of these boys, who are mostly under 16 years of age. Great yields are being harvested, more than the country ever knew of before—proven, certified yields.

"These are the first steps towards better agriculture. The cattle fever tick has been a curse to the South, and the Department of Agriculture, attacking it with Federal money, has cleared the tick out of an area equal in size to three Southern states. There will be dairy products and meats coming, before long, from those localities to Northern markets.

"There is one more thing of magnitude and moment that I want to bring about. That is, to introduce into other sections of the country what has been so successfully accomplished in the cotton states along agricultural lines. I went to the House committee and told them this. They asked me how much money I wanted. I told them that I wanted $50,000 more this year, and would probably ask for $100,000 increase next year. The House Committee on Agriculture did not hesitate a moment, but put the $50,000 into the bill. When the bill reached the floor of the House that body increased the appropriation to a total of $251,000. Now, through the Senate, a sufficient amount has been added to make the total for farm management work in round numbers three hundred thousand dollars."

It would be a pity for the armory site to revert to the War Department for the want of $23,000, and it is not likely that it will be allowed to do so. The armory, as most people believe, is a desirable thing. Answering its proper purpose it would create regimental pride, and therefore help out efficiency, as armories do in the big cities; and if available for great civil functions also it would meet a demand which has been long-felt. Added to all this is an architectural advantage to the city. We sincerely hope that the money will be provided.

If Secretary Cortelyou advanced the money from the United States treasury to allay the panic of 1907, he simply followed a wise precedent. In 1873, when Gould, Fisk and Drew locked up all the current gold and precipitated Black Friday in Wall street, Grant's Secretary of the Treasury, Boutwell, perhaps—opened the treasury and loaned enough gold to the banks to relieve the situation. The result, while it did not keep Jay Cooke & Co., from tumbling, relieved the situation and enabled the government to do a great public service.

No one of sane and humane mind would be expected to oppose a pension of $150 a month to the widow of Admiral Schley, nor one to

TIMBERTOES

By WALT MASON.

Old Gomer, of a Kansas town, was never known to wear a frown, or for man's pity beg, although he stumps along his way, and does his work from day to day, upon a wooden leg. And every time he goes out doors he meets some peevish guy who roars about his evil luck; some freful gent with leg of flesh who, when vicissitudes enmesh, proceeds to run amuck. Strong men with legs of flesh and bone just stand around the streets and groan, while Gomer pegs along and puts up hay the long hours through, and sounds his joyous whoopsydo, and makes his life a song. Old Gomer never sits and broods or seeks the hermit's solitudes to fill the air with sighs; there's no despondency in him! He brags about that basswood limb as though it were a prize. Sometimes I'm full of woe and grief, convinced the world brings no relief until a man is dead; and as I wail that things are wrong I see old Gomer hop along and then I soak my head. I've noticed that the men who growl, the ones who storm around and howl o'er fate's unwise decrees, are mostly Fortune's special pets; and then the man who never frets is one with red elm knees.

the widow of Admiral Sampson if she is living and in need. Cheese paring in such matters is beneath the dignity of this rich and powerful nation. Besides, a more encouraging thing to men in the military or naval service cannot be done than to assure them that, if they do their duty, they and their wives or widows will be exempt in old age from the proverbial ingratitude of republics.

If Mark Hanna had objections to the extraordinary promotion of Dr. Wood, he doubtless had better grounds for it than a dislike of Roosevelt. Dr. Wood's assisted flight from the rank of a medical captain to the command of the army, was contrary to precedent, and had a demoralizing effect on the service. It ought never to have been permitted and was not justified by anything Dr. Wood had ever done. Mark Hanna saw this as clearly as any other practical man.

The blaze at Moiliili might have been much worse, but as it was, three houses were destroyed. The affair accents the need of an auto engine kept in a place convenient to Moiliili, Kaimuki, Manoa and Waikiki, if it is not practicable to keep one such engine at each place. The town has spread so far that fire stations in town, equipped with the old apparatus, do not begin to meet the need.

The Atkinson revelation at Chicago is about what this paper expected and foretold. And partly on that account it is what the public expected. Incidentally it clears Mr. Holstein of any collusion with an anti-Taft conspiracy, and for this relief much thanks.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

BOB BALLENTYNE—If a truck is built in Honolulu I will have a horse always in training for the races, and perhaps two.

STAGE MANAGER JOE BLY—I shall be sorry to see the Juvenile Bostonians go away. They are a great bunch of kids to work with.

LANI MAGOON—I notice that Joel Cohen says smoking in theaters will kill all the germs. That may be true but we don't all smoke the same brand of cigars that Joe does.

W. M. BURNETTE (Hilo)—Hilo has the strongest soccer team that has ever represented the place and the boys are confident of winning the championship game with the McKinley High School team on July 4.

A. F. COOKE—Tobacco smoke may be a good germ destroyer and in its place may be used to good effect, but it may also destroy the germs of politeness, etiquette and selfishness.

CAPTAIN LYONS (Missourian)—Although the newspapers on the Coast say Taft must win, the general opinion is that Roosevelt will be the choice. The conservative magazines take this view. At the same time it is stated that Hughes could beat either of them.

DOMINGO FERREIRA—Bud Anderson of Vancouver, the man whom Kiki Miller is matched to fight this month at Klamath Falls, Ore., knocked out Frankie Edwards on June 2 in the eighth round at Klamath Falls. After his match with Anderson, Miller will return here to train for his contest with Johnny McCarthy on August 31.

H. A. TAYLOR—It is not unusual to find people who forget that the Territory of Hawaii is a part of the United States, but I have received a letter from a publishing concern in Chicago which intimates that Hawaii is a part of the British Empire. In answer to my inquiry in reference to a history of the United States which they are selling they say: "We have sold over 30,000 sets of this work; many of these orders have been delivered to loyal Americans, living in almost every quarter of the habitable globe, but yours" (from Honolulu) "is the first voice from England expressing an interest in the work."

MAYOR FERN—The promotion committee is doing good work in territory near at hand, but it should send its information to countries farther away. Lately a consul of Great Britain was traveling this way, and at San Francisco received a letter from his wife warning him not to go ashore at Honolulu, the people were so savage. When the steamer came into the dock he noticed a lot of very jolly people and seeing a nice-looking town he decided not to heed his wife's warning. On coming up town he saw the mayor's sign out and called on me, and I drove him in my auto all over the city and island. He went away highly delighted with Honolulu.

of gold as it passes into the hands of the onion growers and remain to join the rapidly increasing onion-growing communities.

From chaparral lands valued at one to two dollars an acre to onion fields valued at 200 to $3000 an acre is the improvement effected within twelve years; the Texas onion has changed lands that were practically non-revenue producing into lands that will this year bring in more than $3,000,000 good cash money, and the end is not yet. And this is the profit to the onion grower only; other vegetables and various fruits have been found to do equally well, but the onion was the pioneer in discovering the great possibilities of this country.

LODGE'S REPORT ON EFFECT OF ADMITTING SUGAR FREE

The Sugar Factors Company has received a copy of the report made by Senator Lodge, as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, on the House free sugar bill, and Manager Nowell is finding it interesting reading. Apart from the technical details which have to do with figures as to prices, productions, importations, etc., the report contains some general comments on the sugar situation in general. The report is in part as follows:

Changing Long Established Policy.
The committee is of the opinion that the policy of obtaining from duties on imports a material share of the necessary revenue with which to support the government and of securing a considerable proportion of these customs duties from the importation of sugar is so firmly established and has operated so satisfactorily to all interests that it should not be replaced suddenly by some other form of taxation.

In view of all the important interests which would be injuriously affected by it, your committee considers it neither necessary nor wise to make so radical a change as is suggested in the proposed bill.

The sugar industry of the United States and our insular possessions, which together furnish one-half of our total sugar requirements, represents an investment of several hundred million dollars, which has been made in good faith and is deserving of fair treatment by congress.

Sugar a Universal Revenue Producer.
One of the most striking facts disclosed by a recent investigation made by our state department concerning the world sugar situation is that sugar is a commodity which is universally subjected to taxation, either by means of import duties, by internal taxation or by both.

Europe annually derives over $200,000,000 in revenues from sugar.

Every country in the world derives revenue from its sugar consumption. To place sugar on the free list would be to depart from the custom of our own and all other countries, established upon the teachings of science and experience from the beginning of political history.

Beneficiaries of Sugar Tariff Reduction.

Should the tariff on raw sugar be reduced, there is no assurance that all or any portion of such reduction would be reflected in either the wholesale or the retail price of sugar. There is good reason to believe the refiners would absorb all of any small reduction which might be made, and a large portion of the remission if sugar were placed on the free list.

During the year 1890, when congress placed sugar on the free list, the average difference maintained by American refiners between raw and refined sugar was 70 cents per 100 pounds. Under free sugar the refiners steadily increased their margin between raw and refined, and for the year 1893, the last complete year of free sugar, it amounted to $1.15 per 100 pounds. Thus, from the tariff reduction benefit, which it was intended should go to the people, the refiners absorbed 45 cents per 100 pounds, thereby increasing their margin by 64 per cent. When sugar was returned to the dutiable list in 1894 the refiners reduced their average margin between raw and refined to 88 cents per hundred for that year and from 1895 to 1911, inclusive, the average has been $4.6 per 100 pounds.

That the refiners' power to fix the price of refined sugar at will, regardless of the cost of raw sugar, is inherent, except during the three to five months when domestic beet sugar is being marketed, was demonstrated last summer when some of the New York refiners marked the price of refined sugar up to 7 cents and others to 7½ cents per pound. When in October domestic beet sugar entered the market at 5½ cents per pound factory price and 6½ cents jobbers' price, the refiners, owing to this competition, were compelled to reduce their prices to a normal figure, and thus many millions of dollars which otherwise would have been extorted from American consumers were saved to them.

Should sugar be returned to the free list and the domestic beet sugar industry be destroyed, your committee assumes that the refiners would repeat the experience of 1893, and by absorbing 45 cents a hundred of the tariff reduction place in their private treasuries $35,000,000 of the $52,000,000 a year which the people would lose in revenues.

In the opinion of the committee, to menace or destroy a great home industry which is overcoming monopoly by its competition and an industry which is the life of our insular possessions, all for a prize, the maximum size of which under most favorable circumstances is limited to 14 cents per capita per annum, would be worse than folly.

The committee is convinced that a small cut in the rate of duty on raw sugar would be absorbed by the refiners and would not be reflected in the price to consumers, and, furthermore, that the only other effect of such reduction would be to deplete our national revenues and retard or destroy the further expansion of the domestic beet-sugar industry, thus benefiting only the refiners and perhaps some of those who already have embarked in the home industry, through savings from further wholesale competition.

The committee believes that an appreciable reduction in the sugar schedule would end the further development of the home beet sugar industry; would close many of the weaker beet sugar plants; would permanently destroy the cane sugar production in the south, and that free trade in sugar would wreck our continental and a large portion of our insular sugar industry, thus re-establishing in the refiners a complete monopoly of the sugar business.

From whatever viewpoint the question be considered, your committee fails to discover wherein the American consumer could be assured of any direct benefit by reason of a reduction of the duty on raw sugar, or any compensation for arresting the growth of, or destroying an industry which already contributes $45,000,000 annually to American industry, and which possesses such potentiality for further increasing our national wealth and prosperity.

The committee is convinced that the goal of cheaper sugar for American consumers can be reached most quickly and surely through the added competition which would result from the further expansion of the domestic beet-sugar industry and that the direct and indirect benefits accruing to the farmer by reason of such expansion would be of greater value than the entire sum we expend for sugar.

To make even a slight reduction of duty on raw sugar or in any manner to indicate to prospective sugar-development capital that our governmental policy concerning the further expansion of our beet-sugar industry is not fixed and unwavering would be injurious to the welfare of the Nation. Because of the fact that Dutch standard and differential paragraphs of the present sugar schedule yield no revenue, because they give the refiners an undue advantage and because of the further fact that their removal would not work a serious hardship to our home producers, your committee begs to report a substitute bill which abolishes the Dutch standard and the differential and retains the present rates of duty on importations of raw sugar.

PUNCHBOWL LOTS

Governor McT-Smith.
The acting governor expressed the opinion that the appraisals were very fair and also made the comment that if the purchasers of the lots would pay cash, the department of public works would be enabled to make all improvements such as paved roads, sewers, etc., immediately.

One hundred and sixty of the lots are preference rights, while the remaining ones will be offered at auction. The appraised values range from 2 to 15 cents a square foot, while the areas vary from 9000 to 11,200 square feet.

The following is the complete list of lots, the sale of which will be advertised in the newspapers tomorrow.

If we will look rather deeply into some of the problems of living we will see that money is not so essential to securing certain desired results as we may think.

Almost every normal woman desires to make a pleasing appearance. And to do this, most women think they must depend largely upon dress. And if they haven't the money to afford style and richness and variety, they conclude they cannot make an attractive appearance; or at any rate cannot vie with the woman who can buy the latest styles, elegant materials and all the little accessories that add so much to a smart appearance.

But honestly, which is the most attractive in a woman, daintiness or dress? Which woman pleases you the more, the one who impresses you with her absolute daintiness and freshness and wholesomeness, or the one who simply pains attention because of her stylish clothes, the richness of her silks or velvets, or the glitter of her jewels? Doesn't the dainty woman attract more than the merely well-dressed one?

And daintiness is a thing that has little to do with cost. A woman can be daintily dressed, even if she can't be expensively dressed. Daintiness is a matter of good grooming. It takes some time, but it doesn't require much money. And so the woman who wishes to make an attractive appearance needn't despair, even if her pocketbook is slim. If she will go in for daintiness she can be quite as charming as the expensively gowned woman, perhaps even more so.

And no matter how little money she has to spend on dress, daintiness will lend the same charm. Only the less money she has, the more should she go in for simplicity. Fashionable fripperies are not for the one with a small dress-album. Simple things, as good in quality as possible, give a better effect than fussiness that is cheap in quality. Cheap finery detracts from daintiness. For the dainty girl always gives the impression of being refined; and coarseness in dress shows lack of refinement. It is on a par with vulgarity in manners.

Neatness is another essential of daintiness. And this is not a matter of cost but of care. Shoes need to be blackened, gloves mended, skirt hems unfrayed, hats brushed. If a veil is worn it must be put on in a trim, fast way without dangling, untidy ends. And here again, if time is scant, simplicity counts. For the busy woman can keep a simple toilette fresh and neat, when one with all sorts of frills and furbelows cannot receive sufficient care to keep it in a well-groomed condition. Better a smart wig or a knot of ribbon or velvet on the hat than a feather all out of curl. Better some simple, but good trimming than a cheap willow plume.

So you see in the matter of an attractive appearance, as in many another thing, money is not so absolutely essential to success, if we will look a little deeply into the subject. We are all very apt to conclude that if we haven't money, we can't do this or that or the other. Money is very helpful in the problem of living. But it by no means controls the situation. The best things of life are beyond the power of money to buy. And some of the seemingly more trivial things can be secured with but little money, if we will put our wits to work instead of merely opening our pocketbook. And the woman who will determine to be absolutely dainty in her appearance need not envy her expensively gowned sister. For the well-groomed, dainty woman has a charm quite as appealing as style or expense in dress; and if she will make the most of this, she need not feel that in appearance, she lags behind her financially more fortunate sister.

SOCIAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

Professor and Mrs. Wait of Cornell University and Miss Blascaz, were guests of honor at a reception at Kawaihāo Seminary last evening, given by the members of the College Club. The large hall where the reception was held was prettily decorated with ferns and branches of evergreens. Receiving with Miss Boshier, acting president of the club were Miss Blascaz, Professor and Mrs. Wait of Cornell, Mr. Biggerstaff of Mills College, California, and Mr.

Chamberlain of Berkeley. The musical part of the program was rendered by Miss Means, Miss Kemp, Mr. Biggerstaff and Mr. Chamberlain, while addresses were given by Miss Blascaz and Professor and Mrs. Wait. Miss Blascaz told of the industrial conditions of the working girls in America. Mrs. Wait gave some of her experiences while making a tour of the world, and Professor Wait spoke of the co-educational features of Cornell University. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served.

The guests included Professor and Mrs. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. S. De Freest, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hunt, Mrs. J. L. Young, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton G. Owen, Miss May Thomas, Miss Woodford, Mr. Woodford, Mr. Will Thomas and Mr. Clarence White.

HILO SOCIETY NOTES.

(Hilo Tribune, June 11.) Mrs. Alva Scott entertained at afternoon tea on Wednesday last, in honor of Miss Severance. Delicious refreshments were served and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Those present were: Mesdames Severance, Lewis, Carlsmith, W. H. Smith, Forbes, Balding, Johnston, the Misses Deyo (2), Hapai (2), Porter, Chalmers, Severance, and Dr. F. Wetmore.

Miss Esther Pomeroy gave a lawn party last Tuesday afternoon, and a number of friends were invited to meet Miss Severance. Croquet was played, and an enjoyable afternoon was spent. Refreshments were served ed on the lawn, and the whole affair was voted a great success.

Mrs. Carlsmith entertained during last week, and quite a number of Hilo folk were invited to tea. A guessing contest was the feature of the afternoon, and the prizes went to Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Filler and Miss Margaret Shipman. The others present were: Mesdames Furneaux, Terry, Severance, Bartels, Shipman, Forrest, Andrews, Campbell, E. H. Moses, R. T. Moses, Furer, the Misses Hapai (2), Shipman (3), Dalley, Potter and Pomeroy.

Mrs. G. H. Vears entertained at tea and tennis last Friday afternoon. Some mixed doubles were played, and then the ladies tried their skill on the courts. Tea was served under the shady trees and everyone enjoyed themselves.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Furer entertained at tea and her pleasant home in Puueo was the scene of a happy gathering. Among those present were Mesdames W. H. Shipman, Klugel, Gulick, Severance and L. Turner.

There was a successful meeting of the Piano Club last Saturday afternoon, and Miss Caroline Shipman was the hostess. There was a large attendance and all the different items were excellently rendered.

The program which was given at the Piano Club recital, was as follows:

- Part I.
- Piano solo—"Waltz," op. 122, H. Hoffmann, Miss Chalmers.
- Vocal solo—Selected, Mrs. Hollinger.
- Musical Items, Mrs. Furneaux.
- Piano solo—Liebestraume, No. 3, F. Liszt, Mrs. William Furer.

- Piano duet—"Andante" from unfinished Symphony, Miss Drahm and Miss Potter.
- Questions on Schubert.
- Vocal solo, Mrs. Deamer.
- Piano solo—"The Front," Schubert Heller, Miss Potter.
- Vocal solo—(a) "Who Is Sylvia?" (b) "Hark! Hark! The Lark," Mrs. Horace Johnson.
- Piano solo—"Impromptu," No. 3, Mrs. Lewis.

Mrs. Carlsmith entertained at a card party in honor of Mrs. C. H. Fairer, last Saturday afternoon. Five tables were called into requisition and Five Hundred was played. The first prize went to Mrs. Baird, while Mrs. Mackay took the second trophy. The Booby prizes were taken by Mrs. Patten, Mrs. Wakefield and Mrs. Fairer.

Mrs. G. H. Vears entertained at tennis last Sunday afternoon and a delightful time was had. Tea and delicious refreshments were served. Among those present were Mrs. Clonan, Mrs. V. L. Stevenson, the Misses Clonan and Mr. V. L. Stevenson.

WAIAKEA SOCIAL.

WORK IS BOOMING

Hilo Tribune: Under the efficient management of Miss Drahm and Miss Williamson, the work of the settlement at Waiakea is progressing along lines which are substantially the same as in former years.

In a recent report, Miss Drahm states that, on an average, nine patients are treated at the dispensary daily; the girls of the sewing class are faithful in attendance; a class in mat weaving has been started, the services of Mrs. Kaina being of great assistance in that work.

The Monday evening reading hour and the Wednesday evening game are popular with the children. The song hour on Thursday and the Friday service conducted by the Salvation Army are other features of our evening work.

Mr. Namahala's assistance on the teaching force has given an impetus to the Sunday school, which is very well organized Christian Endeavor society numbering thirty members, which is a very helpful element in the life of the community.

The Kindergarten numbers sixty-five little people who spend three happy hours a day with Miss Williamson.

HONOLULU PAPERS

ON HILO STREETS That Hilo is getting a lot of attention from Honolulu, cannot be doubted now, and the fact that both the Hawaiian Star and the Evening Bulletin were in the field with the sale of their Saturday papers, on the Hilo streets on Sunday morning, shows how the wind blows.

The Bulletin representative was on hand at the Hilo wharf, when the Mauna Kea arrived Sunday morning. Unfortunately, the big package of Bulletins had been sent as freight. Consequently, while the Bulletin man was rushing around trying to get his papers from the ship's hold, the Star representative was busy setting his paper to the newboys.

The innovation seemed to tickle Hilo people and, many who never subscribe to either paper, were to be seen purchasing either the Star or the Bulletin on the streets.—Hilo Tribune.

LADIES' NIGHT
OF MEN'S LEAGUE

The Men's League of Central Union church evidently proposes to maintain its reputation of former years in giving to the ladies an evening of rare entertainment at its annual Ladies' night, which this year is to be held at Kawaiahae Seminary, Manoa, Friday, June 21.

Arrangements have been made with Professor John B. Garvin of Denver, Colorado, to have him give on that evening his illustrated lecture on Mexico. R. K. Bonine has been engaged to assist Professor Garvin with his stereopticon.

Surely no more timely topic could be presented by any lecturer just now when the eyes of the world are turned toward this land of the south in its present unsettled political state. Besides, Mexico is a land of magnificent scenery and of unusual picturesqueness and romance, with its wonderful past and an equally wonderful present. Peopled by an ancient race with strange customs and traditions, it furnishes material for an evening of rare interest.

Professor Garvin, both by training and by experience as a traveler, is peculiarly qualified to gather this material and to present it in an attractive form. All of the views which he presents are from pictures which he himself has taken on the several trips which he has made to this interesting country.

Professor Charles S. Palmer of the University of Colorado, in speaking of this lecture has the following to say:

"As a lecturer, Professor Garvin has the gift of telling what he knows in a charming way, which is conversational, poetic, eloquent by turns, and always real, natural, and hearty. And finally the lecturer arouses your desire to see more, to know more about wonderful, fascinating, instructive Old Mexico. You go home and read something about Mexico. You want to go and see for yourself, and fortunate will you be if you have eyes and insight like Professor Garvin's. From his lecture you will date a vastly increased interest in a country and a people of whom we all ought to know more."

Not only are the members of the Men's League privileged to invite their lady friends, but the privilege of attendance is this year extended to the members of the Women's Society of Central Union church as well. A dinner is to be served in the dining hall of Kawaiahae Seminary at 6:30 o'clock, and the lecture is to be given in the auditorium of the same building. As the capacity of both dining hall and auditorium is limited, acceptances should be sent in early in order that the committee in charge may know how many to provide for.

THE AUSTRALIAN CONTRALTO.

First among contraltos who have won world fame, Miss Eva Mylott, will give Honolulu a taste of her ability Monday night, June 17, at the Opera House. As yet her program has not been made public. She will stay at the Young Hotel while in the city, but hopes to make several trips about the island before sailing for Australia, where she has a contract for an extended season. The ticket sale will open at the rooms of the Promotion Committee tomorrow at nine o'clock and will continue until the concert.

Miss Mylott has studied under some of the most famous of vocal instructors on the continent and in England. Among them are Mme. Marchand, Randigier, Henry Wood, Mme. Guy d'Hardlot, Mme. Minna Fischer, and last but not by any manner of means least, Mme. Melba, herself, who is friend, instructress and fellow-countrywoman of the great contralto. Miss Mylott has toured with Mme. Melba, Trebelli and Albani, as well as that wonderful violinist, Kubelik. She has a striking stage presence and a charming personality.

MORE TAG DAYS.

"Our Honolulu Corner," in the Weekly Times, Waiuku, of yesterday contains the following:
"Apropos of Tag Day, it was suggested by several observant ladies during the day that it be observed every three or four months a year for the benefit of some worthy cause and that the amount of contribution asked for and expected be strictly limited to ten cents, thus making it a truly popular movement and within the means of everybody to participate in."

We believe that our present line of Men's Shirts, Collars and Ties contains a greater variety than has been ever offered for inspection in Honolulu.

SAN DIEGANS THINK LURLINE BEST

SAN DIEGO, May 26.—With no cloud in the sky it is settled beyond all doubt that the speedy yacht, Lurline, flying the colors of the San Diego Yacht club, will bid for honors in the ocean race to Honolulu which will be started from San Pedro, June 11. When it was found yesterday that the benefit at the Isla theater Friday night had been such a big success all doubt about starting the Lurline was dispelled and it was announced that here will be ample money to pay the expenses of the yacht in the race.

Receipts May Total $350.
Although final returns have not been received from the benefit it is known that it netted $250, this sum being accounted for. It is believed that later returns will increase the sum to $350. The deficiency will be made up by several of the club members who are determined that the speedy Lurline, which now holds the record, will be an entrant.

Capt. Lew Harris, who will sail the Lurline in the long distance event, will place his craft on the marine ways June 3 where it will be painted and given the final overhauling. The morning of June 5 it will spread canvas and clear from San Diego, going north. On the run to San Pedro the Lurline will be given a thorough tryout in various winds, the yacht not being due in San Pedro until June 10.

Lurline is Well Backed.
If the Lurline fails to bring home the money there will be many disappointed yachtsmen in San Diego who are wagering their coin that the local yacht will fly the colors of the San Diego club first into Honolulu. Close followers of yachting on the Pacific coast concede that the Lurline is the fastest entrant and with such an experienced skipper as Captain Harris it is believed that the Lurline is the one best bet.

CORDELL IS ROUNDING TO

Both McCarthy and Cordell are working nicely into shape for their coming engagement over a fifteen-round course.

Roadwork and swimming is the training menu for this week but on Monday both men will go into training quarters and put in a couple of weeks regular sparring with all comers.

Cordell is shedding weight with grace and despatch and will have no difficulty in making the weight agreed on: 155 pounds two hours before the contest.
Denny Leary and Trooper Bauercock will furnish the main preliminary, which will be of six rounds' duration.

Kradalac and Williams will figure in another six-round preliminary, and the curtain-raiser will either be between Kid Cabral and Yamogata or Kid Cabral and Young Layman.

There is a lightweight boxer named Kid Baker in town who is anxious to show the fans what he can do on the 29th instant. He will be given a tryout in private today and may be matched with some local man of his weight in the near future, provided he shows that he has a fair share of the "goods."

The Pauoa baseball team wants a game with some junior team next Sunday afternoon at Makiki. Address John Ornellas, Box 228.

Camp Very is getting to be known as the most sporting post in Honolulu. Every kind of sport finds favor there and every boxer who is fortunate to obtain permission establishes training quarters there.

Last Night of Bijou's Vaudeville. Tonight will be the last night of the Bijou vaudeville for two weeks and the program tonight, which will be the same as last night, is a very enjoyable one.

Mae Taylor appeared in her best songs last night and was lovely. Lord's dogs went through their net with a vim, while the Bert-Trio were seen in many thrilling and daring feats. Their back somersault or dive for life brought down the house.

The hit of the evening, however, went to Recci's Saxophone Quartet, whose rendition of four selections was the best Honolulu has heard in the music line. Their first number was Traumerel by Schuman and it was followed by a medley which included ed the introduction march of the "Reign of Saba," the "Three Twins," the "Garden of My Heart" and the finale of the overture Semiramide. The piece was played so well and it had the audience so enraptured that the drop of a pin could have been heard, so quiet was the house. They responded to encores with the two popular selections, "Ragtime Violin" and "Alexander's Band," and were again loudly applauded, this time more particularly from the gallery contingent. The quartet are truly masters of the saxophone.

In the Matter of the Estate of Junzaburo Ide, Deceased. ORDER OF NOTICE OF HEARING PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION.

On reading and filing the Petition of Wasa Ide of Honolulu, T. H., alleging that Junzaburo Ide of Papeaia, Hawaii, T. H., died intestate at Papeaia, Hawaii, T. H., on the 30th day of March, A. D. 1912, leaving property within the jurisdiction of this court necessary to be administered upon, and praying that Letters of Administration issue to Wasa Ide.

It is Ordered, That Wednesday, the 19th day of July, A. D. 1912, at nine o'clock a. m., be and hereby is appointed for hearing said Petition in the courtroom of this court in the old Y. M. C. A. building in the City and County of Honolulu, at which time and place all persons concerned may appear and show cause, if any they have, why said Petition should not be granted.

By the court: JOHN MARCALLINO, Clerk, First Circuit Court. Dated, Honolulu, June 5, 1912.

Colonel Jones, adjutant-general of the national guard, appeared before the board to urge it to appropriate $23,000 toward the building of a national guard armory to cost $123,000. The legislature, he said, appropriated $166,000. It is necessary to build the armory in a certain time, otherwise the site reverts to the war department. The matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

OLD RESIDENT OF MAUI DEAD

WAILUKU, June 13. (Weekly Times.)—Maria Rapoza of Kokomo, Makawao, died suddenly Monday evening last. She had partaken of a hearty supper, after which she told her husband she was not feeling well and believed herself to be dying. This proved only too true, for in less than four hours the old lady had passed into the great beyond. The deceased will be missed by her many friends whom she was always glad to receive. She used to send them away laden with the beautiful fruit she took such pride in raising and for which she was noted. To all appearance the deceased was a hale and hearty old lady. Though away up in the sixties she was as active as a woman of forty.

Judge Goodness made a trip to Honolulu last week Tuesday, returning Saturday, consequently no session was held in Makawao court during that time. Monday Ah Moi Sang was up for selling liquor without license. He was found guilty and fined $100 and cost. This was a hard fought case, but Mr. Vincent finally won out for the government although defendant was ably defended by Edgar Morton.

Link McCandless and his staff dropped into Paia about dusk last night from the Hana district after having addressed the Keanae, Paehi, Pauwela and Maliko residents. Mr. McCandless gave some very interesting talk on our land laws and his views of what should be and would be done if only he was elected delegate to Congress. Sam Dowds, the architect, is erecting a magnificent monument over the grave of the late Mr. H. P. Baldwin in the Makawao cemetery. It is a splendid piece of workmanship and was imported from the East. Mrs. Fanny Simpson has moved into her neat little bungalow erected on the seashore just below the Olsen residence at Paia.

On Saturday evening the First Infantry Orchestra will play at Fort Ruger. Eczema, Psoriasis, and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, knowing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years and years of misery. Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

We have had experience with many remedies for skin trouble but have never—never seen such remarkable cures as those from D. D. D. Prescription. Instant relief from the very first application. If you have skin trouble of any kind, investigate the merits of D. D. D. We know that D. D. D. will help you. Benson Smith & Co.

BOWSER JOINS ANOTHER PHILANTHROPIC SOCIETY AND PREPARES FOR AN ORATION

"I shall be out this evening," remarked Mr. Bowser as he rose from the dinner table with a look of importance on his face.

"I was going to ask you to go to a moving picture place with me," replied Mrs. Bowser as she followed him upstairs.

"It would be useless. The pictures will have to move without us."

"Then it's something important?"

"It is."

"Very important?"

"So very important that a thousand dollars wouldn't keep me at home."

"Some club?"

"Two weeks ago, Mrs. Bowser, I was elected a member of the Most High and Noble and Ancient Humanitarians. I don't recollect whether I said anything about it to you or not."

"No, you didn't. So they have a meeting tonight?"

"They do, and I am to deliver an oration. I don't know whether I mentioned that fact or not."

"No; I think you didn't. Have you got the oration written out?"

"Mrs. Bowser, I am a man that doesn't have to write out my speeches and orations. After I have chosen my subject the words come to me spontaneously. Sometimes my thoughts come to me far faster than I can express them orally."

"Yes. You are all prepared for this occasion, are you?"

"I am. There isn't a question about success."

"Just what is the object of the humanitarian?"

"To extend sympathy to the afflicted and alleviate distress. If I should be taken away the members would come here and sympathize with you."

Mrs. Bowser's Tone Displeases.

"How good of them! And if I wanted to borrow 15 cents I suppose they would lend it to me if I turned in the furniture as security."

"See here, woman," said Mr. Bowser after a long look at her, "I don't understand this levity. The Most High and Ancient and Noble are not a set of buffoons!"

"I didn't suppose so, but I hadn't heard of any number of humanitarians banding together to alleviate anything or anybody. It's all right, though, I suppose, and the proceedings will be interesting. Will they sit you on a chunk of ice, the same as the Gay Old Boys? You didn't get warm for a week?"

"Woman!"

"And when you joined the Undefined Pigmies they made you climb ladders."

"Woman!"

"And when you were initiated at the Subconscious Reprobates they rubbed your head with a brickbat and made you chew on a bootleg. I was just asking if this was a club of that order?"

"No, of course not!" was shouted.

PRESIDENT TAFT ON HIS NEW JERSEY TOUR IN WHICH HE MADE NEARLY 100 SPEECHES

WORLD'S SUPPLY OF WOOL STANDS WELL FOR INCREASE

By J. A. BRECKONS.
(Special Correspondence of the Star.)

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The bureau of manufactures has received advice that the Australian wool crop was considerably larger the past season than the year previous. An increase in the Victorian crop alone of more than 9,000,000 pounds, with an average increased fleece of 7.28 pounds as compared with 6.99 pounds, gives a fair idea of the greater production.

Advice from Melbourne show that exports of wool from July 1, 1911, to April 30, 1912, increased 42,000 bales over the previous season.

A new woolgrowing territory is now being developed by the German government in German Southwest Africa, where Emperor William has purchased large areas and stocked them with merino sheep in the hope of establishing the woolgrowing industry in that country of large open areas and comparatively good range.

KING NICHOLAS OF MONTENEGRO BELIEVES ITALY WILL WIN

CETTINJE, Montenegro, May 31.—King Nicholas of Montenegro, through the interposition of Foreign Minister Gregovitch and the chief of ceremonies at the foreign ministry, M. Ramazanovitch, consented to receive the correspondent of the Chicago Daily News at the imperial residence today to talk over certain subjects of international interest. The interview took place in his majesty's private study at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The king, whom all Montenegrins call "father," was found in an environment of extreme simplicity, contrasting sharply with one's conventional notions of eastern official splendor.

King Converses in French.

His majesty might have been any gentleman of bearing and refinement. He was dressed in the ordinary garb of the country and received the correspondent with a cordial shake of the hand. The conversation was exclusively in French, the king being a great admirer of that language. He expressed astonishment at the "world searching" enterprise of the American press and wondered how it was possible to earn sufficient revenue to maintain such enterprises, seeing that American newspapers were sold for "almost nothing."

"Personally," said the king, when asked to say something about the Turkish-Italian war, "I do not like

ARE WEDDING BELLS TO SOUND?

Rumors of wedding bells sounding sweetly from the Magoon residence in the near future and also of a new manager for the Honolulu Amusement Company are going the rounds this afternoon. The story goes that a Theatrical, once popular on the local boards and for a time an exceedingly popular personage at the stores-in-residence, is coming to take charge of the affairs of the entertainment company, following the annulment of the paternal ban. Result a manager and a son-in-law in one swoop.

The name of the supposed manager-bridgroom is whispered as Richard Kipling, who opened at the Bijou later won fame for himself when with Hughes he put on the Mikado at the Opera House. The name of the bride elect is spoken of as Miss M. Magoon.

During the time Kipling was the star beauty actor of Honolulu he is supposed to have become desperately enamored—or at any rate he was a constant visitor at the Magoon residence. Then came the old familiar trend on the stairs and—the gay young actor took the hint and went into the house no more.

Old Father Time, it is understood, has been at work and Father Magoon is said to have his blessing ready. Late rumors round the city, however, state that the match is all off and that the gay Kipling (who by the way is no relation to the Kipling of Hollywood fame) remains on the mainland.

NEED OF ARMORY.

Editor Star: That there is a pressing need of having the National Guard armory built in the near future is the best piece of news that has been heard in Honolulu for a long time past and it's to be hoped that money will be forthcoming for this purpose.

For not only is this structure needed for military purposes, but it is hoped it will be so constructed as to be useful for great social functions, concerts, etc., and many other purposes.

It has been suggested that this building should be large enough to seat 2500 or 3000 people.

It has also been suggested that it should have a large gallery, and a hardwood polished floor with a stage at one end.

No one can deny that such a structure is needed and badly needed at that; that is, if we are to see and hear the great artists that abound in the world, many of whom we should have heard long ago if only we had possessed a hall large enough to contain the host of people that would want to hear them.

And as I have said before, it is just as much needed for great civil, military and social purposes, and for which reason alone it should be built without any unnecessary delay.

It is to be hoped that this grand project will not fall through, but that everyone will do his utmost to get this work started and that they will urge all their friends to do likewise.

This building would fill two long-felt and much needed requirements and it would be an ornament and a credit to this city.

BONINE'S EXHIBITION AT PUNAHOU

Bonine's pictures of local events will be shown on the evening of June 18 at Bishop Hall, Oahu College. For some time past R. K. Bonine has been busy taking many moving pictures of local events such as the opening of Pearl Harbor, the Floral Parade and the Volcano of Kilauea.

Mr. Bonine, previous to coming here, was known as the best moving picture operator in the States, and since he has been in the Islands he has taken many of the local happenings successfully.

The program of the evening is most inviting, and will include the following:

The Grand Pageant of 1912. The Kindergarten Fete. The Volcano of Kilauea besides a rare collection of choice Hawaiian scenes.

HAIR PALES IN A NIGHT; TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE AT THE BOTTOM OF A MINE

Chicago Daily News: Many young men are seen with gray hair, gray before their time, and some of them can tell interesting experiences that caused their hair to change color.

Here is the story, told by an old miner now retired and living in Chicago, of how his hair turned from a deep brown to almost white in a night. It happened when he was a young man and working a silver shaft:

"Barney Doyle and I worked the two shifts of the small holding of the company down in western Mexico," the narrative begins, "Barney being foreman of one and I of the other. Neither of us had ever been in the shaft worked by the other and we were unfamiliar with the workings except for what we would tell each other as the days passed and we drilled deeper and deeper into the ground.

"One evening, just about time for us to quit work, Doyle fell from the mouth of the crater he had worked 500 feet to the bottom. I had just come to the surface when the accident happened. There was a crowd of men at the mouth of the pit and they were gesticulating wildly and shouting at one another as though the whole pack had suddenly gone crazy and deaf. I thought then and still do that one of those greasers had flopped Doyle into the hole, for none of us was any too popular with them, but they all insisted that the poor fellow had simply fallen in.

"None of my men or of Barney's either would attempt to go down the shaft in the bucket arrangement we had, for they were the most superstitious lot of men I ever have heard of. They have the southern states negro beaten to a frazzle.

Agree to Descend Into Pit.

"Finally the manager of the company, having heard the rumpus, came to the pit and he and I agreed to descend into the pit after Barney's remains.

"The boss saw to it that the lift was manned by men we could trust

HOW A SALESMAN SCORED IN SELLING GOODS TO A LORD

Chicago Daily News: "Salesmen sometimes complain of the exclusiveness of American millionaires," said a veteran solicitor at the Hotel LaSalle a few days ago. "They ought to go to England. The English nobility has the real exclusive system and the solicitor that gets by them is a wonder."

"Talk about baffling the office boy and the secretary in America in order to reach the chief—why, it's child's play compared to reaching people in England," he continued. "Even if you have something to sell that they ought to know about you have no way of reaching them without trickery, and most of the tricks of the trade have been exhausted. If you pass the keeper of a lodge outside of the baronet's grounds you have the butler to contend with, and butlers can tell a salesman by the hang of his eyelashes.

Sent to England by Firm.

"Some years ago I was sent to England by a large American house to sell views of the Boer war to the nobility. The views were splendid—many of them taken on the field of battle and singularly interesting to the families of the titled men who had participated in the campaigns. All the great social leaders were represented. The firm had an office in London, but had made little headway among the very class of people which ought to buy our views.

"The members of the nobility had retired to their homes at Windsor and the king and his court were quartered in Windsor castle. Everywhere high stone walls surrounded the virgin forest parks in which the gentry lived. Iron gates barred entrance to the grounds, and lodgekeepers stood defiantly at the gates.

MARTIN GIVES SOME POSERS TO SUGAR TARIFF ASSAILANTS

By J. A. BRECKONS.
(Special Correspondence of the Star.)

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Characterizing the Underwood sugar bill as "a direct violation of the last democratic national platform," Representative John A. Martin of Colorado, democrat, takes his brethren severely to task for attempting to ruin the beet sugar industry of the west, without even the promise of materially reducing the cost of sugar to the consumer. Citing the steadily rising prices of coffee and leather as proof that the removal of the tariff on sugar will not make the price any less to the consumer, but would close every beet sugar factory in the United States, Representative Martin discusses "the remedy" as follows:

"Are the beet sugar manufacturers making undue profits? Perhaps they are. Are the beet growers getting too much for their beets? Perhaps they are. Do the sugar makers charge the home folks more for sugar than they charge outsiders? Perhaps they do. Is the price of sugar too

THE MORNING CABLE REPORT

CHICAGO, June 14.—According to a statement issued last night by Mr. Dixon, manager for former President Roosevelt in the latter's race for the Republican nomination, the colonel is packed and ready for the invasion of Chicago.

The Taft managers announced last night that they have decided to make Senator Sanders the permanent chairman of the convention provided they are able to secure the control.

NEW YORK, June 14.—It developed here yesterday that the twenty-five millions which were used to allay the last great panic of 1907 were not, as has been supposed, the contribution of J. P. Morgan's firm but of the United States government.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The supreme court of the United States yesterday handed down an important decision, upholding the government's contention that pipelines are common carriers. The court orders the pipelines throughout the country hereafter to file a schedule of rates as do the other common carriers.

BLUEFIELD, Kan., June 14.—The famous Hatfield-McCoy feud, which has lasted for years and has caused the death of scores, has at last come to an end, and the parties thereto have patched up a permanent truce.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, June 14.—The rebels are retreating towards Juarez as fast as possible, and have apparently abandoned all hope of defending Chihuahua.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Congressman Edward B. Vreeland of New York is desperately ill of pneumonia. His relatives have been notified of his condition.

WEEKLY WEATHER BULLETIN

For the week ended June 8, 1912. Honolulu, T. H., June 10, 1912.

General Summary.—The rainfall was again light generally over the section and the total amount was below the average for the week at all stations having a record of ten or more years, excepting at those in the North Kona and South Kona districts of Hawaii, the Hanalei, Waimea and western portion of the Koloa districts of Kauai, and the Waianae, Koolauloa and northern part of the Koolau districts of Oahu.

No rainfall was reported from the southeastern portion of the Koolau district of Oahu; the Waialua and Lahaina districts of Maui, and portions of the North Kona, Hamakua and North Hilo districts of Hawaii.

The following are the total amounts of rainfall, in inches, in the different districts of the several islands: Hawaii—North Kohala 0.00 to 0.11, Hamakua, 0.00 to 0.01, North Hilo 0.00 to 0.19, South Hilo 0.13 to 0.23, Puna 0.29, Kau 0.29, South Kona 1.44 and North Kona 0.82; Maui—Makawao 0.05 to 0.20, Hanalei 0.24 to 0.36, and Waialua and Lahaina 0.00; Oahu—Koolauloa 0.32, Koolaupeko 0.00 to 1.52, Honolulu 0.12 to 0.64, Ewa 0.04, Waianae 0.22, and Waialua 0.12; Kauai—Hanalei 1.73, Kawaihau 0.32, Lihue 0.24, Koloa 0.30 to 0.80, and Waimea 0.19; and Molokai—Molokai 0.02.

The following are the departures from the average rainfall for the week, in inches, in the several districts: Hawaii—North Kohala—0.67, Hamakua—0.70 to—0.72, North Hilo—1.69 to—1.74, South Hilo—1.31 to—2.75, Kau—0.04, South Kona +0.92, and North Kona +0.22; Maui—Makawao—0.91, Hanalei—2.22, Waialua—0.05 to—0.14, and Lahaina—0.12; Oahu—Koolauloa +0.91, Koolaupeko—0.35 to +1.21, Honolulu—0.23 to—1.85, Ewa—0.09, and Waianae +0.16; Kauai—Hanalei +0.79, Kawaihau—0.06, Koloa—0.17 to +0.16, and Waimea +0.67.

The mean temperatures were 1.0 degrees to 1.2 degrees lower than those of the preceding week in the Kawaihau and Koloa districts of Kauai; 1.6 degrees lower in the Kau district of Hawaii, and 1.5 degrees to 3.8 degrees in the Ewa and Waianae districts of Oahu. Elsewhere the changes were less than 1.0 degrees.

The following table gives the weekly average of temperature and rainfall for the principal islands and for the group:

Table with 3 columns: Island, Degrees, Inches. Hawaii: 71.9, 0.27. Maui: 73.2, 0.12. Oahu: 74.4, 0.35. Kauai: 74.2, 0.60. Molokai: 75.3, 0.02. Entire group: 73.4, 0.32.

we hope to do later. There are hundreds of other little tubercular cripples who are envying their more fortunate fellow sufferers in the hospital at Alton. We wish to widen the doors of the hospital so that all the little folk may enter. We give the children religious instruction, according to the faith of their parents. Poverty is no bar to admission. We draw children not from London alone, but from all parts of the kingdom.

NO ONE CLAIMS $5000 POLICY. AURORA, Ill., May 31.—A life insurance company has $5000 of which it would be rid, and has sent to Aurora in the hope of finding some one who can take the money without qualms of conscience.

The $5000 is the face value of a paid up endowment policy taken out by Elias B. Baldwin of Aurora in 1863. The company's receipts show that the premiums on the policy were kept up until the required amount was paid in and then all trace of Baldwin and his family was lost.

Nothing has been heard of them, the company assumes that Baldwin has died and that there is money awaiting his heirs who can prove their claim.

The profession of Mr. Baldwin was given in the application as that of a merchant, and the policy named his wife, Julia C. Baldwin, as the beneficiary. The application gave Newton S. Otis as a friend, and the agent who wrote the insurance policy was Otis E. Otis.

FRENCH PRAISE WILBUR WRIGHT. PARIS, May 31.—French newspapers of all kinds are filled with praise of the character and career of Wilbur Wright, the aviator, who died in Dayton, O., yesterday.

The recent regrettable squabble over patents has not made France forget the fact that it owes its present great fleet of airships to the Ohio genius, who was acclaimed here before he received proper recognition at home.

One of the finest tributes to the dead inventor appears in Le Journal. "Others," says that newspaper, "were perhaps more audacious and more careless in the face of danger, but Wilbur Wright was the precursor who forged all the weapons for our triumphant aerial epoch. When he first devoted himself to the conquest of the skies with a brain filled with many intricate calculations he was not precisely fitted, at the age of 35, for athletic acrobatics. He was one of the older prophets who outlined the road that must be followed. "Wilbur Wright did not overlook but repeated many times that he owed much to our compatriots, Moulherd and Renaud. Henceforth the air belongs to humanity and this conquest is likely to transform many of our activities. It must not be forgotten that the entire change, which probably will be the most remarkable in the history of man, will have been directly due to Wilbur Wright, the man-bird. Who will ever know what new discoveries this tall, silent genius carried with him to the tomb?"

And have you then there this Writ with full return of your proceedings thereon.

WITNESS the Honorable Presiding Judge of the Circuit Court of the First Circuit, at Honolulu aforesaid, this 16th day of February, 1912. (Seal) (Sgd.) J. A. DOMINIS, Clerk.

Territory of Hawaii,)) as City and County of Honolulu.)

I, J. A. DOMINIS, Clerk of the Circuit Court of the First Judicial Circuit, Territory of Hawaii, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of the original summons in the case of Territory of Hawaii, by Marston Campbell, Superintendent of Public Works vs. Goo Wan Hoy, et al., as the same appears of record and on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court.

I further certify that the petition prays the condemnation for use as a public highway of the following described land, situate in the City and County of Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the southwest property line of Kuakini Street, which point is azimuth 318° 46' 677.26 feet from the line between the Government Street Survey Monument on Liliha Street at the northeast corner of School Street and the monument above Kuakini Street, opposite Kuna-wai Lane, which survey line is seven-teen feet (17) offset from the new south-east property line of Liliha Street, thence running by true azimuth and distances as follows:

- 1. 47° 10' 544.2 feet in a straight line to a point, thence: In a curved line to the left having a radius of 920.0 feet; 2. 42° 39 1/4' 144.63 feet direct bearing and distance, thence; 3. 38° 09' 120.02 feet in a straight line to a point thence: In a curved line to the right, having a radius of 875.0 feet; 4. 44° 29' 193.04 feet direct bearing and distance, thence; 5. 50° 49' 131.47 feet to a point in the north-east property line of School Street which point is azimuth 322° 29 1/2' 768.5 feet from the government street survey line on Liliha Street, thence; 6. 232° 45' 50.0 feet along the north east property line of School Street and across Frog Lane to a point, thence; 7. 230° 49' 133.0 feet in a straight line to a point, thence: In a curved line to the left, having a radius of 925.0 feet; 8. 224° 29' 204.07 feet direct bearing and distance, thence; 9. 218° 09' 120.02 feet in a straight line to a point, thence: In a curved line to the right having a radius of 870.0 feet; 10. 222° 39 1/2' 136.77 feet direct bearing and distance, thence; 11. 227° 10' 542.9 feet in a straight line to a point in the south west property line of Kuakini Street, thence; 12. 138° 48' 50.0 feet along the south west property line of Kuakini Street to the point of beginning; Containing an area of 66,787.9 square feet.

All persons having any interest in the land sought to be condemned are hereby warned that unless they appear at said Court on or before August 5th, 1912, they will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any judgment entered thereon.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Circuit Court, this 11th day of April, 1912. (Seal) J. A. DOMINIS, Clerk of the Circuit Court of the First Circuit.

ANOTHER BATTELLE?

The Battelle process now being tested at Ewa plantation, is not the only one by which white sugar may be made directly from the cane, according to an item in the Louisiana Planter, which is as follows:
"We learn that the Tobacco Plantation Company on the Oaxapena Plantation near Santa Lucrecia, Vera Cruz, has, during the last season, been making white sugar direct from the cane, without special methods of filtration or clarification and with the regular equipment of a raw sugar house excepting a melter and a granulator. The average polarization of the white sugars was 99.67 per cent. The unsettled condition of the country is interfering more or less with the regular operations of this company and some doubt is expressed as what the final result will be, but hopes for the best are entertained."
Battelle's scheme involves making white sugar without the aid of a refinery. An expensive plant has been put in at Ewa, to make a thorough test, and the tests are now going on.

ANOTHER PURE FOOD EXPERT

With the coming of A. W. Hanson, formerly assistant chemist of the Chicago laboratories, to assist Food Commissioner Blanchard in his work of food inspection, it is expected that a great deal more will be accomplished and the activities of the pure food crusade will cover a wider scope.
Mr. Hanson, who was transferred from the Chicago to the Honolulu laboratories by the Washington health authorities, arrived with his family yesterday afternoon in the army transport Thomas.

HOW SALESMAN

ended the great stairs that led to the second story and knocked once with a great brass knocker. Then he reascended the box and looked straight ahead. The butler came out, gave one look at the coachman and immediately came for my grip. He bowed me into the house, and I presented my card.
"Here I thought all dissembling would end. My card stated that I held a degree from an American university, and gave the name of my firm and its New York address. The butler should have known I was there on a business errand and left me in the hall. Instead of that he guided me into the beautiful reception chamber on the second floor, flanked with great marble pillars, whose capitals bore the coats of arms of Sir John's house, and swords which might have seen duty at Agincourt and Naseby."
"The butler said Sir John would see me directly. I inferred that he must have concluded that I was an American he had met in London. Possibly this was true, for when he appeared he hesitated a moment and then said most courteously:
"What is your business, sir?"
Errand is Explained.
"I explained briefly why I had come. In the meantime I turned to my grip and prepared to produce the exhibits I had brought—the tangible evidence which the salesman always likes to flash." It was the crucial moment. For a second my back was turned, and in that second Sir John realized that I had come into his house, on a beautiful morning, to talk business and to sell him something. He recovered his voice and his exclusiveness.
"Pardon me, sir," he said, "I mean no offense, sir, but if I were to grant you this interview today I should have men calling to see me on business every day of the week. I must bid you good day, sir."
"He bowed, and I felt that the battle was lost. But I was mistaken."
"I shall be in London on Friday," said Sir John. "I shall then be pleased to see you."
"I had done what I started out to do and reached Sir John. Thereupon I left in state, the butler attending me. He had no inkling that I was just an ordinary salesman, for he bowed me obsequiously out. My coachman was deferential, as before. That week I sold an outfit to Sir John, and the references and letters he gave me opened an avenue to future success as a salesman in England."

BOWSER
"Yes."
"And takes him to his own home and feeds him up and then calls in a doctor?"
"Just so."
"And the doctor says the man can be cured, but it will cost money, as he must make good to a disappointed cemetery company and an undertaker?"
"Yes, something like that."
"And the Ancient tells him to go ahead and he does, and the man is cured and later on becomes a great statesman?"
"Wife's Levity Spoils Plans."
"Yes."
"And thus you point your moral and adorn your tale and you also get before the public the real object and work of the club. Why don't you change it a little, Mr. Bowser?"
"Where—how?"
"Make your man a woman, and when she is cured have her go out as a cook. You see, we have too many statesmen and too few cooks."
"By thunder, woman! I believe you have been making fun of me all the time!" shouted Mr. Bowser, as he sprang up.
She was red faced and gurgling.
"If you have—"
Mrs. Bowser tried to get upstairs, but the way was blocked. She tried to get down to the basement, but Mr. Bowser headed her off. Then she had to laugh in his presence. She laughed till the tears came, and it was three or four minutes before he said:
"Woman, this is too much—too much!"
"But it's so funny!"
"You have crossed the dead line at last and must pay the penalty."
"But I didn't mean—mean—"
"Too much and too late!"
And he strode down the hall and clapped on his hat and left the house. To attend the meeting of the Most High and Noble and Ancient and Deliver that oration? Not any! Mrs. Bowser had butted in and killed all that. He went down the street three blocks and sat down on the stone steps of a house to shiver and think, and he might have sat there all night had not the tenant of the house come to the door and shouted at him:
"Come, now, you old sneezer, if you've got a home go to it!"—Chicago Daily News.

LORD BERESFORD ADVISES BOY SCOUTS TO READ GOOD BOOKS
Admiral Lord Charles Beresford of England who is the Chief Sea Scout of the British Boy Scouts gives this warning to the boys as to what they should do. "Scouts should be careful as to the literature they read. A large part of modern literature is trashy and useless, and breeds no fine or many ideas. A lad's mind must be improved if he reads histories of his country and accounts of great and noble deeds of heroism and unselfish patriotism—bold actions of heroes who have given their lives for their country or to save a comrade. Opportunities for pluck and heroism can be found again and again in civil life, and are as admirable as similar actions in the Services."
A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY.
"I always have a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house," is what people all over the world say of it when it has once been used. A trial of this medicine proves it to be so satisfactory that it always holds an honored place in the home ever after. One dose promptly relieves cramps in the stomach, colic and dysentery. Try it. NEW HEAD OF THE AMERICAN ASTORS

Photos by American Press Association.

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

HAD the Titanic taken down with her the head of a reigning dynasty, mighty in political power and with branches controlling the destinies of nations, the loss could hardly have caused more excitement than the untimely taking off of the American head of the house of Astor. John Jacob Astor went to his death as a gallant gentleman should go. After the tributes of papers and prizes were paid to his memory, attention turned to the former crown prince and present head of the American Astors. The great name in the Astor family council is now William Vincent, fourth in descent from the original John Jacob Astor, founder of the fortune.

What manner of man William Vincent Astor will become it is too early to say. He has not yet reached his majority. He was born Nov. 15, 1881. Although some newspaper attention has been paid to him, of course, ever since his birth, since he was the prospective heir to the bulk of his father's fortune, the policy of the family has been aimed at keeping him out of print if possible. In his early youth he was sickly and had several attacks of illness. He is tall, like his late father, but he has not yet rounded out or broadened into the latter's athletic proportions. The younger Astor has taken to some forms of sport and is very fond of automobile driving. His speeding has brought him into trouble with the police on a few occasions, but he is an expert handler of the wheel and has escaped very serious trouble.

For a short time John Jacob Astor thought Elton, the famous English school, a good place for his only son, but the English did not take kindly to young Astor—perhaps the unpopularity of John Jacob's cousin, William Waldorf Astor, was visited on the latter's second cousin—and the young man returned to America to finish his preparatory school course at St. George's in Newport. Last fall he entered Harvard "with the distinction of having more clothes than any other man at the university." He has had his rooms in Claverly hall, one of the most expensive of the "gold coast" dormitories in Cambridge. It is considered unlikely, however, that he will retain his place at Harvard. He is no longer the heir to the Astor fortune, estimated at $125,000,000, but its possessor, and the direction of his estate, if he follows in his father's footsteps, will take up all of his available time.

Son of First Mrs. Astor.
William Vincent Astor is the only son of John Jacob Astor by his first wife, who divorced the millionaire in 1909. There is a ten-year-old daughter, Muriel, placed by the court in the custody of her mother. The first Mrs. Astor was Miss Willing of Philadelphia. Under the divorce decree Vincent Astor remained with his father. The amount of John Jacob Astor's settlement on his first wife was not made public, but it was said to be $10,000,000, with the provision that this fortune should revert to Muriel. Since then there have been various rumors to the effect that Mrs. Astor, who retains much of her youthful beauty, was engaged to European noblemen and wealthy Americans, but none of the rumors has been confirmed.

Colonel Astor's marriage last year to the youthful Miss Madeleine T. Force brought a sensation. It will be remembered that the couple had difficulty in finding a clergyman to unite them, objection being raised on the ground that Colonel Astor was a divorced man. His widow, who escaped from the Titanic, is in her twentieth year and is younger than her stepson.

How the Astor Fortune Grows.

The story of the growth of the Astor fortune may be told in a sentence: The first John Jacob Astor bought New York real estate with his earnings in the fur business, and his descendants have not sold New York real estate. The line of descent from John Jacob Astor 1st to Vincent runs thus: William Backhouse Astor, son of John Jacob, was the father of William Astor, who was the father of the late John Jacob. Another son of William Backhouse Astor was John Jacob Astor 2d (the second John Jacob was a son of John Jacob 1st and died without issue). The only son of John Jacob 2d is William Waldorf Astor, cousin of the late John Jacob and head of the English branch of the house. He is the man who has been attacked so fiercely in the English and American newspapers and magazines for expatriating himself.

Many Englishmen of high social and political position do not like William Waldorf Astor and some of them have not hesitated to say so, although, of course, there is a certain element, titled and untitled, which cuts his dinners and professes friendship for him. It cannot be said that he is a "man without a country," for he has become a British subject and he has, if reports are to be believed, desires for a dukedom, a marquisate, an earldom or perhaps even a barony.

But William Waldorf Astor is no longer young. He was born in 1848, and it may well be that he has relinquished his hopes of breaking into the peerage in favor of his only son, William Waldorf Astor, Jr. The latter is thirty-two years old and is married to Nannie Langhorne Shaw, one of the three beautiful Langhorne sisters of Virginia. She was divorced from her first husband. They have one son and one daughter. William Waldorf Astor has a daughter also, the former Pauline Astor, married in 1904 to an Englishman of good family, Captain H. Spender-Clay. Two daughters have been born of this marriage. Mrs. William Waldorf Astor, Sr., died in 1895. She was Miss Mary Dabignon Paul.

Cousin Richer Than J. J. Astor.

The ground of American dislike for William Waldorf Astor is his choice of a home in England instead of the country from which his revenue is derived. He is richer even than his late cousin was. It is a matter of common knowledge in New York that the Astor holdings of real estate in the American metropolis exceed in value those of any other family. Very seldom indeed is any parcel alienated from the estate. With the intention of conserving the fortune the first American Astor, son of a German butcher, decreed that the fortune should descend from father to eldest son. The others, with their descendants, are provided for, of course. The New York home of the Astors, which has now become the property of Vincent Astor, is situated at the corner of Sixty-fifth street and Fifth avenue. It is a handsome residence, built of granite, with an air of belonging to one of great wealth that impresses sightseers.

This palatial house was the home of Mrs. William Astor, the "Mrs. Astor" who was the leader of New York society until old age forced her to seek quiet and retirement. She was the mother of the late John Jacob Astor. She died in 1908.

What Sent W. W. Astor Abroad.

Older members of New York society recall the "fuss" which followed the death of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, wife of the third bearer of the name. She had been the undoubted leader of the social world, and her death caused an interregnum until it was decided finally that Mrs. William Astor of the older generation, and not Mrs. William Waldorf Astor of the younger, should wield the scepter.

The strained situation between the two ladies came to the knowledge of the public when some was addressed a letter to "Mrs. Astor, New York," with no street address. Mrs. William claimed it because she was the oldest living Mrs. Astor. But Mrs. William Waldorf contended that her husband was the head of the older branch of the family, and she was therefore the only genuine, almost pure "Mrs. Astor." When his wife lost the campaign William Waldorf Astor came to the conclusion that England was a better place for him, with his numerous millions, than America.

pit when a heavy object dropped close to me. I guessed the bottom of the bucket had proved insecure.

and I since learned I guessed right, and had let one of the occupants drop. Whether it was the dead man had fallen or the superintendent I had no means of learning. I was afraid to go near the object to determine.

gradually taking firmer hold of me and the bucket did not come back. The more I thought of the affair the more frightened I became. I imagined all sorts of things, thinking the person had overpowered the superintendent, thrown him down the pit and stuck the lift so that I would die at the bottom. I could see no lights moving at the top, as there would have been had the mouth of the shaft been open, for a huge lamp always swung immediately over the pit.

"I pulled out my watch, smashed the crystal, and felt for the time with my fingers. This was my only means of telling the progress of time. The first time I felt of the timepiece it was 9 o'clock. I had been there only three hours, and yet it seemed an eternity.

"I could hear, or at least I imagined I could hear, strange sounds all around me and with that dead body only a matter of inches from me it was small wonder that I wandered in my mind.

Wakes With Hair Turned White.
"Whether I went to sleep or was in a delirium I do not know to this day, but the next thing I remember after lost feeling for the time at 9:30 is awaking in the hospital tent of the company with the worst headache I ever had. My hair, which had been a deep brown, had turned almost white.

"The superintendent was there and he smiled much like a live person when he saw my eyes open and he told me of affairs following the dropping of the body for the second time into the pit. Almost at the top the bucket had caught and turned slightly sideways, so that it would neither go up nor down. In catching on the side of the shaft the lever controlling the drop bottom had caught and released the catches. The boss barely missed going back into the pit. As it was, he held on there until the men at the top learned his predicament and pulled him out with a rope.

had little difficulty in running into the shaft in which I was a prisoner. He had to work only seven feet to join the two holes and neither Doyle nor I knew we were so close together.

"The digging in my pit accounted for the noises that had set me off my head."

Hopes for Reform Victory.
"I wish the constitutional movement in Constantinople every success, because apart from not being an enemy of Turkey, I am always a partisan of peace. As regards the future enters the east political evolution in the light of scientific evolution. The revolution in Macedonia, Albania and other places is nothing but political evolution. As civilization enters the east political evolution in the east becomes more energetic. Anarchism in anything has only one end—death. European Turkey is outside the pale of twentieth century civilization and history proves that progress and civilization have always been conquerors. Nevertheless I repeat that I wish every success to the young Turks in their endeavor to do good for their country."

Sends Message to Americans.
"Has your majesty any message to the American people that may be transmitted through the Chicago Daily News?"

"More Americans should visit our mountains and sample the hospitality of our people," replied the king, smilingly. "It is not for me to say anything, but if you visit the hats of many Montenegrins you will find parents praying every evening for their loved ones in the United States. Our numerous emigrants to America write nothing but good of the nation in which they have made their homes. It seems to me that the Americans, perhaps, appreciate more than any other people the true spirit of Christian brotherhood. Certainly I thank them profoundly for the great kindness they have shown my people. I admire them inexpressibly for the record they have made as the champions and exponents of human liberty."
