FOREIGN NEWS

After Trouble Brewing.
LONDON, October 31.—"Most serious trouble," says the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, "is brewing in the Yang-tse region, whither the Empress Dowager has sent emissaries to raise powerful armed bodies to exterminate converts and expel foreigners. She has appointed Yu Chuan, a notoriously anti-foreign General, to be military governor of the Yang-tse district."
The Shanghai correspondent of the Times, wiring yesterday, says: "Li Hung Chang has wired to Chang Chih Tung, the Wu Chang Viceroy, that the peace negotiations are satisfactory, but to other leading officials he has telegraphed exactly the reverse, bidding them prepare for eventualities."
China Would Pay Forty Million Pounds.
LONDON, October 30.—"The Chinese plenipotentiaries opened negotiations," says the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, "by proposing that China should pay an indemnity of £40,000,000 in sixty installments, agreeing that the link and the customs service should be under foreign control until the obligation should be discharged."
"They also agreed that Prince Tuan should be imprisoned for life; that Tientsin should be treated as an international district and that other places should be opened to foreign trade."
"China undertakes to abstain from purchasing war material abroad. In order to raise the indemnity she proposes to double import duties."
Reply of Russia Not Satisfactory.
LONDON, October 30.—Russia's reply to the Anglo-German agreement was received at the Foreign Office this evening. It is as generally outlined by the London Times in the dispatch from its St. Petersburg correspondent this morning. The officials of the British Foreign Office do not regard the Russian note as adequate treatment of the points raised in the Anglo-German agreement note. They say the Russian reply "lacks the definiteness so desired by Lord Salisbury."
New Place For Lansdowne.
LONDON, October 31.—The following important announcement appears this morning in the Daily Telegraph: "We understand that, after mature consideration, Lord Salisbury has decided to resign the foreign secretaryship, which will be transferred to the Marquis of Lansdowne. Although the health of the Prime Minister gives no cause for anxiety, we believe that he is largely influenced by the counsels of his medical advisers."
Several Killed in Venezuelan Quake.
WASHINGTON, October 30.—The State Department has received the following cablegram from Mr. Russell, secretary of legation at Caracas, concerning the recent earthquake in Venezuela, in which Cipriano Castro, the President of the republic, was injured:
"CARACAS (via Havti), October 29.—Secretary of State, Washington: Severe earthquake this morning. Great damage to property; several killed. The President, in jumping from the second floor of the Government house, had his leg broken. Details from here for later."
De Wet Compelled To Abandon Guns.
LONDON, October 29.—The War Office has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Pretoria, October 28th: "Knox successfully engaged De Wet October 27th. During the Boer retreat Knox caught De Wet in the Rensburg drift. The Boers lost considerably and left two guns and three wagons in Knox's hands. Another ammunition wagon was blown up by a shell. The British casualties were nil."
The Coal Miners At Work Again.
PITTSBURGH, October 29.—Today witnessed a most general resumption of work in the anthracite region, where for six weeks the mine workers have been on strike for an advance in wages, a reduction in the price of powder and in several districts abolition of the sliding scale of wages. In a few instances collieries operated by individuals and small companies have failed to resume.
Great Buildings Plown To Pieces.
NEW YORK, October 29.—By a series of terrific explosions following a fire a few minutes after noon today DeWitt's wholesale and retail drug store at the southeast corner of Greenwich and Warren streets, was demolished, hundreds of men and women were injured and many killed. Both sides of Warren street, between Greenwich and Washington, were laid in ruins and buildings for blocks around were wrecked in places. For half a block to the north and south of Warren street, the west side of Washington street is almost as hopelessly wrecked as is also the short Warren-street block of 100 feet frontage. In all something like forty

The Chinese officials have placarded the Sheton district, offering several hundred dollars' reward for the Leads of four foreigners who are supposed to be leading the rebels.
Minister Conger has been authorized by his Government to begin negotiation at once with the Chinese Envoys on the basis of the points in the German and French notes upon which all the Powers are agreed.
Great uneasiness was created in political circles," says the Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Mail, "by a report that an American squadron was approaching, and the censor was instructed to prohibit the press from mentioning the subject."
The War Office announces that Lord Roberts hopes to leave South Africa for home about November 25, and that General Lord Wolsley has consented to continue to perform the duties of the commander in chief of the army until the end of November.
In his response to the British and German Governments regarding the Anglo-German agreement, says the Herald's Washington correspondent, Secretary Hay is likely to make another effort to induce all the powers to join in an agreement for the maintenance of the integrity of China and the preservation of the "open door."

The teachers of Wailuku Union School will give an entertainment on December 17.

James Smith, of Kihel, will go to work on the Wailuku Plantation as team luma, shortly.

The Inter-Island steamer Kauai carried away her foregal coming home from Eleke on Friday night.

A first class job printer at the News office. Bill heads, letter heads, cards, and miscellaneous job work a specialty.

Matt McCann and D. H. Kahaulelio of Lahaina, visited Wailuku on Thursday, returning to Lahaina the same day.

The site of the new hotel at Kahului has been graded and leveled, preparatory to beginning work on the building.

Mr. J. N. K. Keola spent election day at Pukou, Molokai, and reports that the election passed off quietly on that Island.

Be sure to join the Encyclopaedia Club. This elegant standard work at just one half price and one year to pay for it.

Several practical business men and horse men have complimented the News on its last week's editorial on the subject of horse shoeing.

Mrs. C. H. Dickey, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Waterhouse, and Miss Alexander came over on the Mauna Loa on Wednesday night.

Dr. Raymond, young Mr. Dillingham and Mr. Bulck of Honolulu came over to Kahului on the Maui, and proceeded directly to Ulupalakua.

Wind storms have been unusually severe on Maui lately. Many trees were blown down at Lahaina, and a number of corn fields in Kula were laid low by the wind and rain.

Mrs. More, the mother of Mrs. C. B. Wells, accompanied Mr. C. B. Wells on his return from the Coast, and will remain for some months at Wailuku as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wells.

Manuel Datro has been made the manager of the Iao Stables, for term of one year. Mr. Datro is a very clever and obliging young man, and will prove popular with the patrons of this stable.

Mrs. David Dorward and son arrived from the Coast on the Alameda, came directly to Wailuku and are stopping at the Windsor. Mr. Dorward is employed at Kihel as construction engineer.

Some days ago, a Japanese named Fugita was fishing with giant powder at Molokai, and was literally blown to atoms. Few of his remains were found. No one was with him when the accident occurred.

The recent rains have done immense amount of good to the cane on the central Maui sugar plantations. Cane on Wailuku Plantation is already beginning to tassel, and will soon be ready for the mill.

It is reported that there is a very severe potato blight in Kula, and that many fields have been destroyed. This is to be regretted, for the Kula potato is an epicurean dainty to lovers of the tuber.

C. B. Wells returned from the Coast on Saturday. He spent several weeks at the sea side resorts of southern California, but was sick most of the time, and finally has to return to Wailuku for his health.

Mr. George Jones, the steam plow man of Honolulu, and Mr. J. J. Newcombe, of Kaanapali, spent several days at Wailuku this week as guests at the Windsor. Mr. Jones is an old Wailukan, having lived here in 1867.

The old wharf at Kahului has been extended 40 feet, and new piles are being driven under the old portion of the wharf. New flooring is being substituted for the old planks, and the whole wharf will be practically a new one when the work is completed on it.

NOTICE.—A Concert will be given at the Wailuku Union School, SATURDAY, NOV. 17, 1900 at 7:30 P. M. by the pupils assisted by outside talent. It is well worth the admission to see the Drill, Nations and Mother Hubbard with her dog. The proceeds of the Concert is to help defray the expense of the school play.

Rain on Molokai.

Editor MAUI NEWS.

Of late there have been heavy rains on the east end of Molokai. Kaunakakai got its share on the 18th, it being unusual for rains to come so early, as rain is always expected here in November, but not earlier. This has been the best year for rain on Molokai for the past 25 years. Probably the ancient Hawaiian akua are showing the unbelieving haoles that they are mistaken in regard to the being no water on the Kona side of Molokai, which statement was made in the "Planters Monthly," a short while ago.

Unfortunately the editor of the "Monthly" printed an article containing statements concerning things which he knew nothing about, and gave a bad name to Molokai. Dr. Maxwell, as well as the editor of the "Monthly," wrote an article about things of which neither of them knew the facts. If the "Monthly" was solely guided by the report of Dr. Maxwell, it may be excused for the error. According to Dr. Maxwell's report, Molokai has no streams flowing to its Kona side, and he argues therefrom that no water could be found by boring on the Kona side of Molokai.

The editor showed this article to E. Dunn and George Trimble, two old hunters of Molokai, who have tramped over every foot of the Kona mountains. These hunters pointed out the misstatements in the article and assured the editor that Dr. Maxwell had never been on the Kona side of the Kamalo mountains of Molokai, but had probably made his observations from the deck of a passing steamer.

It is a well known fact to all old residents of Molokai that there are a large number of streams which flow into the sea on the Kona side of Molokai at most times of the year. True, not many flow continuously to the sea, but they flow to within a short distance of it. The principal of these is the Great Kawela Gulch, which flows continuously to within half a mile of the sea.

That there are many others, can be substantiated by observation and by the statements of reputable men who live here and know about these things.

There is a great future for Molokai, as there is no better cane land on the Islands, but to get a supply of water by boring one must come to the great Kawela Gulch and eastward. KAMAHAHA.

Death of Hon. D. P. Eldredge.

Hon. D. P. Eldredge, candidate for representative for Maui on the democratic ticket, died suddenly at his residence at Makawao last Sunday evening.

He had just returned from Wailuku, reaching home about 10 P. M. Having put away his team, he went into the house and asked for water to wash. The water being very cold, his wife advised him not use it, and consequently he dampened a towel and applied it to his face. As he placed the wet towel against his forehead, he gave one groan and fell to the floor lifeless, from rupture and hemorrhage of one of the blood vessels of the brain.

Mr. Eldredge is well known on Maui, having held responsible public positions as early as the days of the monarchy. He was making a vigorous political fight, and as he has for years been suffering with heart troubles, it is supposed that this hastened his death.

The funeral services were held last Wednesday morning at Makawao attended by a large concourse of his friends from all parts of the Island.

RAKING THE WAILUKU JAIL.

High Sheriff Brown is at his tricks again. About a year ago he issued a ukase that all the long term prisoners in the Wailuku jail should be sent to Oahu prison. A kick was made at the time, and it was supposed that it would not happen again.

This week the Sheriff of Maui received another mandate from the High Sheriff to send on all the long term prisoners now in the Wailuku jail. This is simply an outrage, for Maui needs the labor of these men quite as much as Honolulu does, and Honolulu has no moral right to increase her available chain gang at the expense of Maui. Some of the men to be sent over are working for the Maui road board, and their services cannot well be spared.

Hereafter it is greatly to be hoped and desired that the High Sheriff will cease his raids on the Wailuku jail whenever he finds his Honolulu working force short handed.

Annual Meeting of Maui Teachers.

The annual meeting of the teachers of Maui will be held at Maunaloa Seminary, Makawao, on Monday, December 3. An elaborate and interesting program of practical work has been prepared, and the meeting will be an inspiration to all teachers except those who are working for a salary,—merely.

Word has been sent from the Department of Public Instruction in Honolulu that the various school agents may, upon application, grant teachers permission to close their schools on that day for the purpose of attending the meeting.

Teachers should make application to their respective school agents for leave of absence, and every teacher on Maui should be present, if possible.

THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA CLUB.

Half Price Rates.

The enterprising firm of Wall, Nichols Co., of Honolulu, anticipating the wishes and needs of Maui, have secured the services of Mrs. C. D. Stone of Chicago to represent them in introducing the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Mrs. Stone has represented the Werner Company of Chicago for the past twelve years, and is up to date in her line of work. She will not make a house-to-house canvass, as she is not, in the ordinary sense of the term, a book agent, but will call on a few of our leading citizens and afford them the opportunity to join the Encyclopaedia club, which entitles each member of the club to one set of the Encyclopaedia at just one-half the regular price, payable in monthly instalments. The complete set of 31 volumes up to 1900, in a handsome, polished oak case will be placed in your homes on receipt of the cost of the freight, giving members of the club one year to pay the balance.

Should Mrs. Stone overlook you, send your name and address to Wailuku, care of the News office, and she will gladly call and show you samples of the binding and also samples of the complete work.

To the 24 volumes of the original Edinburgh edition, seven volumes have been added, making the American edition. The Encyclopaedia Britannica is too well known to need any commendation, and with the American supplemental volumes, it forms a work that should be found in every American household. This Encyclopaedia contains an epitome of the sum total of the world's knowledge, up to date, and is so indexed that the youth the student, the mechanic, the professional man, in short all classes of people can at once find and turn to just what they want. Join the Club.

POLITICS.

We have met the enemy and we are theirs. The back of Wilcoxism was supposed to have been broken on Maui, but results have proven differently. As one of the candidates tersely puts it, "they took republican money, drank democratic gin and voted the independent ticket straight."

On the morning after the election a venerable old Hawaiian on the streets of Wailuku, one of those who wore a gaudy Prince David button on the lappel of his coat, and possibly others pinned to his coat tail, was publicly expressing his disappointment at Prince David's defeat. In his gesticular eloquence, his shirt cuff worked out of his coat sleeve, and on it was written the independent ticket straight. A bystander seized the cuff and held it up to the gaze of the crowd, and the old gentleman frankly admitted that he had voted the ticket written on his cuff.

At Wailuku, about 400 voters were registered. By noon it was clear that the three booths provided would not be sufficient, and by mutual agreement, three more booths were added. Even with these increased accommodations, six or eight voters were shut out when five o'clock arrived. There were 416 votes actually cast.

The result of the vote on all the Islands is given below, as far as attainable:

MRS. OLIPHANT'S LAST VERSES.
 (Dictated on June 21, 1897.)
 On the edge of the world I lie, I lie,
 Happy and dying and dead and poor,
 Looking up from the vast great floor
 Of the infinite world that rises above
 To God and to faith and to love, low, low!
 What words have I to that world to speak,
 Old and weary and dead and weak,
 From the very low to the very high?
 Only this, and this is all:
 From the flesh, green soil to the wide blue sky,
 From greatness to swarthen, life to death,
 One God have we on whom to call,
 One great bond from which none can fall:
 Love below, which is life and breath,
 And Love above, which sustains all.

QUEER WEDDING PRESENTS.

Gifts That Were Not Appreciated by Those Who Received Them.
 Even at a marriage feast, as it seems, there will sometimes be the envious or the jealous or the malicious.
 A well known author received from a rival man of letters a scrapbook containing a collection of all the adverse criticisms his works had ever received, while a popular artist was presented with a set of elementary works upon self instruction in drawing and painting.

Not long since a gentleman who is a passionate devotee of hunting received as a bridal gift from an anonymous donor a complete set of false limbs, a set of artificial teeth and a couple of glass eyes—the whole of which must have cost a considerable sum—accompanied by a note, the writer of which trusted that, by reason of the recipient's many falls while following the hounds, some or all of these substitutes would ultimately prove of use.

An elderly, crusty tradesman, on exposing a spider of massive size, was presented by a London undertaker with two coffins for himself and wife, which, unlike most of the other offerings you will receive, are sure to be of service. The bridegroom presented this singular gift, and it took all the efforts of mutual friends to prevent a breach of the peace.

Typically venacious was the gift received from his neighbors by an Italian octogenarian who wedded a pleasure loving woman more than 50 years his junior. It was a large brass cage, "intended"—so ran the subscribers' note—"to restrain the wayward flights of a giddy young wife who has married a decrepit old fool for his money."
 The husband of a lady whose great beauty hardly atoned for her sharp tongue found among his wedding presents a scold's bridle or branks, a gift from his wife's sisters, with the hope that, "if Kate makes your life as unbearable as she has made ours, you will not hesitate to put the accompanying offering to its original use."—London Answers.

Living Without Nourishment.

There seems to be no philosophical necessity for food. We can conceive of organized beings living without nourishment and deriving all the energy they need for the performance of their life functions from the ambient medium. In a crystal we have the clear evidence of the existence of a formative life principle, and though we cannot understand the life of a crystal, it is none the less a living being. There may be, besides crystals, other such individualized, material systems of beings, perhaps of gaseous constitution or composed of substance still more tenuous. In view of this possibility—nay, probability—we cannot apologetically deny the existence of organized beings on a planet merely because the conditions on the same are unsuitable for the existence of life as we conceive it. We cannot even with positive assurance assert that some of them might not be present here, in this our world, in the very midst of us, for their constitution and life manifestation may be such that we are unable to perceive them.—Nikola Tesla in Century Magazine.

Optician's Latin.

Hiram had returned home from college, where he had won high honors as a student of the ancient languages, but he "fell down" one day when his sister, a demure young girl in her teens, asked him to translate a sign she had seen in front of an optician's office which read thus:

CON SULTU SABO UTYO UREY ES.

Hiram struggled manfully with it for several minutes and gave it up.
 "It isn't good Latin," he said. "There are some words in it that are Latin, but the others are either wrong in termination or are barbarisms from other languages, and, taken as a whole, it doesn't make sense."

"That is what I said," rejoined his sister, "but return, out in the kitchen, translates it without any trouble. She says it means, 'Consult us about your eyes.'"
 Whereupon Hiram collapsed.—Youth's Companion.

Saved by Previsions of Mind.

At Sheffield, England, recently a curious accident occurred. A passenger was riding on a double deck electrical car, and a single deck car passed in the opposite direction. The rope of the trolley boom of the latter was flying in the wind, and it wound itself around the passenger's neck. Fortunately he had the presence of mind to seize the rope with both hands and release himself before he would probably have been hauled from the car.

Not All.

Teacher (suspiciously)—Who wrote your composition, Johnny?
 Johnny—My father.
 "What, all of it?"
 "No, sir. I copied him."—Truth.

A real scene of troops in fiction hardly exists. Pictures of them are taken at odd spots and out of odd places, and troops being used for the purpose.

It is so impossible to be soiled that six painted, white soldiers are used to represent the colored troops.

Was in the Business.

It was on a Seventh street car that a well dressed man carried his hand to his jaw now and then and uttered a stifled groan. After a bit a fellow passenger had his curiosity aroused and brusquely queried:
 "Toothache?"
 "Yes."
 "I've been there and know all about it. If she's holler and has the jumps, I ain't no use fooling around. What you want to do is to go to a dentist."
 "Um! Jerusha, but how it aches!"
 "Go right to the dentist and have it yanked out. Man with the toothache always feels a little scared about having it yanked, but that's all imagination, you know."
 "I'd rather be shot!" growled the sufferer.
 "Oh, pshaw! Go to some dentist who gives laughing gas. He'll give you gas and take the tooth out without your knowing it. I pledge you my word that it won't hurt any more than paring off a finger nail."
 "Um! What a har! G'way from me!"
 "Why, man, I pledge you my word that you'll never—"
 "Don't talk to me! I know all about it! I've been a dentist myself for the last 15 years!"
 "Oh, you have?" growled the other as he backed away. "Well, that's different. It will not only seem to you as if your blamed old head was being pulled off your shoulders, but your jaw will ache two weeks after, and I'm darned glad of it too!"—Washington Post.

Sorrows of the Millionaire.

Look at the ways of the millionaire. Given his million, he gives up his house and builds himself a small, first class hotel in some big city, which for the greater part of the year is occupied by servants. He next erects a country palace at Lenox or at Newport. This he calls a cottage, though it usually looks more like a public library or a hospital or a club house.
 Then he builds himself a camp, with stained glass windows, in the Adirondacks and has to float a small railroad in order to get himself and his wife's trunks into camp. Shortly after this follows a bungalow modeled after a French chateau, somewhere in the south, and then a yacht warranted to cross the ocean in ten days and to produce sickness 12 hours sooner than the regular ocean steamer becomes one of the necessities of life.
 Result, he never lives anywhere. To occupy all his residences, camps and bungalows he has to keep eternally on the move, and when he thinks he needs a trip to Europe he has his yacht got ready and sends it over, going himself on a fast steamer. Oh, it's a terrible thing to be a millionaire and have nowhere to lay one's head, with every poorer man envying him, many hating him and hands raised against him everywhere!—Woman's Home Companion.

Fiddled into Office.

If history be true, Governor Taylor of Tennessee is not the only man who fiddled himself into office. Losing relates that in 1848 he met at Oswego, N. Y., Major Cochran, then nearly 80 years old, a son-in-law of General Philip Schuyler, who told the story of his election to congress during the administration of the elder Adams. A vessel was to be launched on one of the lakes in interior New York, and people came from afar to see it. The young folks gathered there, determined to have a dance at night. There was a fiddle, but no fiddler. Young Cochran was an amateur performer, and his services were demanded. He gratified the joyous company, and at the supper table one of the gentlemen remarked, in commendation of his talents, that he was "fit for congress." The matter was talked up, and he was nominated and elected a representative in congress for the district then comprising the whole of New York west of Schenectady. He always claimed to have "fiddled himself into congress." It seems that history repeats itself, according to the proverb.—Washington Star.

Preferred to Have Her Talk.

They were exchanging reminiscences of a pleasant evening.
 "And what did your wife say when you got home?" asked one.
 "Nothing," answered the other.
 "Nothing? Well, you were in luck."
 "Oh, I don't know. I'd rather dodge words than some other things."—New York Mail and Express.

Practical Application.

A certain minister during his discourse one Sabbath morning said, "In each blade of grass there is a sermon." The following day one of his flock discovered the good man pushing a lawnmower about his yard and paused to say, "Well, parson, I'm glad to see you engaged in cutting your sermon short!"—Chicago News.

Possible Explanation of It.

"I wonder what's the matter with Willie Jenkins? He's been getting into all sorts of mischief of late, especially Thursday afternoons."
 "Oh, that's easily explained. That's the afternoon Mrs. Jenkins goes to a mothers' meeting to discuss the proper method of child education and discipline."—Chicago Post.

To Swallow His Own Advice.

"I had a horrible dream last night," said a middle-aged man who came down to breakfast the other morning.
 "What was it?" asked his wife.
 "I dreamed that I was in purgatory and was made to do all the things I had told my friends I would do if I were in their places."—Brooklyn Life.

Satan Got Behind.

Mother—So you have been at the jam again, Adolphus?
 Son—The cupboard door came open of itself, mother, and I thought—
 Mother—Why didn't you say, "Get thee behind me, Satan?"
 Son—So I did, mother, and he went up and pushed me right in!—Brooklyn Life.

A Distinction.

"Knogood tells me you won some money from him last night," said the man with the shrieking shirt.
 "Nipe," said the man with the white herring, "I merely won a few bets from him."
 "Oh!"—Indianapolis Press.

SHIPPING NEWS

The Colombia experienced very rough weather off Cape Flattery. On reaching Kahului, a heavy sea was found, compelling the ship to anchor outside on Monday, where she lay till Wednesday morning when she parted her anchor and had to put to sea. She was out two nights, with pilot Bob English on board, and came into Kahului at 9:30 a. m. Friday.

The departure of the Carroll on has been twice announced, and she twice failed to leave on scheduled time. On last Saturday, the swell was so heavy at Kahului that the Maui refused to tow her out, and she was compelled to wait till the return of the Maui on Thursday morning.

Last week when the Waiialeale, sixth Prince David on board, was rounding Kahakuloa point, the weather was very rough, and the little steamer was delayed for several hours. Some graceless scamp started the rumor that the Waiialeale was wrecked, and that Prince David had swam ashore, bringing nothing with him except the democratic platform and a copy of the Maui News. Prince David indignantly denied the rumor, on his arrival, and claimed that it was nothing but a republican canard.

SEATTLE, Oct. 23.—The sailing schooner Alice, Capt. Walter S. Milnor, reached port today from Nome, finishing a voyage replete with exciting incidents and thrilling adventure. The vessel was blown through Bering strait in the Arctic. The enforced sail through the narrow treacherous channel between Alaska and Siberia was made without damage to the vessel despite the fact that a dense fog, accompanied at times by heavy rains, hung over the region, making it repeatedly impossible to see a ship's length.

The native of Cape Prince of Wales told Captain Milnor that twelve small sailing vessels had been driven through the strait during the progress of the storm, and that to that date his was the only one seen returning.
