We left Hanalei about eight o'clock A. M., and after a travel of an hour or more over beautiful mountains and fertile valleys, we dropped down the mountain side into Wainiha, a pretty little village almost hidden in tropical foliage, and reposing on the banks of a winding river, and hard by an expansive sandy beach. Peeping out from groves of palm trees are pretty houses surrounded by a profusion of tropical flowers and here and there we are greeted by groups of youngsters who retreat at our approach.

The village sports several general merchandise shops and a post-office. About a mile up the valley we come to the Wainiha Electric Power Station. Here it is, that power is generated by immense water wheels, in sufficient quantity to run sugar mill machinery in the McBryde Co's mill, a distance of probably seventy-five miles, as well as to furnish the motive power necessary to run the immense electric elevators which are used in loading sugar onto the American Hawaiian ships. Various pumps, in the same vicinity we understand, also get their power from this source.

The power house is situated at the foot of the mountain, the water being conveyed to the water wheels through an eighteen-in. pipe which extends down the mountain side from directly above. The power once generated, immediately finds its way through innumerable wires and tubes, finally emerging from the building, on its mad course, to freedom, it is forced to do some trapez work after which it proceeds over three large copper wires to its destiny, miles away.

The inside of this great power plant proves very interesting indeed. Great water wheels incased in steel jackets are revolving with such velocity as to churn the on-rushing water into a snowy-white foam. From the wheels the water is thrown thirty or forty feet after which it falls into a small lake and loses itself in a beautiful brook. Manager Menefoglio most charmingly entertained us, giving details which proved both interesting and valuable. He has a beautiful home and is making a success at vegetable gardening, while Mrs. Menefoglio is meeting with unbounded success in the poultry line. We found Mr. and Mrs. Menefoglio to be such delightful entertainers that we shall not soon forget the very enjoyable and much too short visit we paid their hospitable home.

The Gomes Brothers, who have been with the company for several years, are men of efficiency and the extreme care necessary to avoid even the slightest touch of many of the hairlessly appearing little wires, whose touch would mean almost instant death, has become a second nature to them. Like Manager Menefoglio, they each have comfortable homes, where despite the apparent isolation, they seem to be very happy and contented.

Besides the inside electricians, there is a force of several men constantly working on repairs in a well equipped machine shop near by and along the entire line extending from the power house to McBryde, telephone stations are established, each of which is in charge of one or more linemen whose duty it is to report and repair any pilikia along his section. By this means Mr. Menefoglio can keep in constant touch with every single yard of this great line of invisible but mighty power.

SCHOOLS RUNNING IN FULL BLAST

The public schools throughout the island opened their doors yesterday morning and the tinkle tinkle of the bells signaled the commencement of another year in which let us hope, much more will be accomplished than in any previous year. Parents should awaken to the fact that much of the success in the child's studies depends on the interest taken in his daily work by the parents. They should find time to visit the school, to meet the teacher, and to familiarize themselves with school conditions. Visitors are always welcome, in fact the teachers are delighted to have them. The following enrollments were wired into us last night:

| School | No. Pupils |
|-----------|------------|
| Kilauea | 153 |
| Anahola | 48 |
| Hanamaulu | 187 |
| Lihue | 286 |
| Kalaheo | 115 |
| Hanapepe | 311 |

The first day's attendance, however, should not be taken as a criterion, for, strange as it may seem, as a general rule the first few days of the term, find more absentees than at any other time

KAUAI STUDENTS OFF TO SCHOOL

Saturday's Kinau was loaded to the beam, being in most part filled with Kauai students returning to the various schools in Honolulu. Willie Werner, Miss Elizabeth Werner, Miss Kahau Kaiawe and Hatsuji Yamamoto being Hanalei representatives in the Honolulu Normal; Misses Eva and Helen Akana represent Kalihiwai in the same school, while Misses Amy and Julia Mahikoa, and Masters Willie Mahikoa, and Johnny Achong, represent Kalihiwai in Kamelamecha. Misses Hannah Jacobson and Alice Ai are Lihue representatives at the Normal, while the Misses Grotes are enrolled with special schools. Miss Purvis, is a Punahou student and was accompanied by her father. Miss Schimmelpfennig, of Koloa was another bright Kauai girl among the Normal class.

Miss Ethel Edwards is one of the Kilauea teachers this year.

Waimea Landing Experiences Rough Time On Kinau's Last Visit - 60 Bags of Sugar Are Lost

(Special to the Garden Island)

HANAPEPE, September 10.—Mrs. H. H. Brodie, wife of Supervising Principal H. H. Brodie, met with a painful accident last week. It seems that Mrs. Brodie was superintending a white-washing job on an out-building, when in stepping onto a loose plank, she was thrown to the ground in such a manner as to fall with her entire weight upon her left arm, breaking the wrist bone a little ways above the hand. Dr. West was called, and as the break was free from splinters, soon had his patient resting comfortably.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Brodie had the misfortune some time ago, to break her right arm while on a trip abroad and the present accident would appear to be more than her share of misfortune.

PROMINENT KILAUEA PEOPLE TO THE COAST ON VACATION

KILAUEA, Sept. 12.—Manager Jack Myers of the Kilauea Plantation, accompanied by Mrs. Myers, left to-day for Honolulu, where they will take the first steamer, for the coast. They will remain away until in December, during which time a visit will be made throughout California, and possibly a trip east.

 WAIMEA, Sept. 15.—As the result of heavy swells prevailing here to-day, one of the Kinau's shore boats was capsized and its contents, [60 bags of sugar] lost. Further loading has been abandoned until the water settles to a calmer state. Several minor accidents have occurred which resulted in slight damage to the small boats.

Local Writer Tells Bit of Very Interesting European History - Morocco is The Bone of Contention

THE "OPEN DOOR" BRITAIN'S POLICY

Gives Reasons For Strained Relations Between Great Britain and Germany - Former Won't Budge

Editor THE "GARDEN ISLAND"

Dear Sir—
 The political eyes of Europe and the civilized world are at present centred on that unfortunate and barbaric home of Mohammedanism close to Europe—Morocco, where is being enacted one of those frequent "Comedies of Nations" which, whilst seeming to presage out-break of war, so often end—most fortunately—in a spluttering of specious compliments and windy assurances of mutual respect and good will, followed by 'necessary' (?) division of 'the bone of contention' between interested parties.

In a polyglot community such as these Islands hold, it goes without saying that diverse opinions as to the right and wrong of the burning question of which Morocco is the pivotal object to be entertained by the differing nationalities; and probably strong feelings will be aroused between the many members of the German and British races. It may therefore be opportune to venture some explanation of the reasons for the present strained relations between several European Powers, and more especially as the writer is actuated by the sole subject of encouraging and maintaining amicable feelings between subjects of the German and British Empires, and all other who are affiliated to either nation by blood descent. Of French men and Spaniards (European) resident in these Islands the numbers are so few they may be, without discourtesy, passed over.

What then is this question of Morocco which has brought Spain and France and Germany and Great Britain almost to the verge of war? Briefly stated it is the carrying out by France and Spain, especially the former power, with strict impartiality as between all the Signatories, the provisions of the Act of Algiers (1905) in which the four powers instanced above were concerned.

Now the pith and marrow of the provisions of that Act was this, THE INTEGRITY OF MOROCCO, THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE SULTAN, AND THE "OPEN DOOR." Previous to that, in 1904, there was an Anglo-French agreement, and also a Franco-Spanish agreement, but the feelings and interests of Germany were in no way consulted in either agreement. As a matter of fact her interests were trivial however great her feelings may have been. Great Britain was chiefly concerned for a free hand in Egypt, and France for a free hand in Morocco. Great Britain admitting the special interests of France in that country as French and Moroccan territory ran continuously.

But Great Britain was careful to stipulate for the 'open door,' and equality of trading opportunities for a term of years. That she was bound to have or sniffer much loss commercially, for almost one half the external trade of the Moroccan Empire is controlled by her. It is well known, however, that French promises are much like pie crust, as witness the non-existence of the promised 'open door' in Algiers and Madagascar.

But apart from her interests position—

THE Hanapepe people are still waiting for the plans for the new school building which was to have been in readiness for the fall term.

THEY say that a tennis tournament is about to be organized, but that some there are who predict a "racket" is sure to be raised at every game.

Now that the Kapaa Land lease matter is settled and all are satisfied, may be "George" will have time to reconsider that little job which the Governor is looking after.

THE question of a "County Carpenter," suggested in our last issue has met with much approval among the business element, and considering that our County Engineer is entitled to a little assistance, there is some possibility of the matter receiving attention at the next meeting of the Board.

NEARLY one hundred children without a school house is a condition of affairs which reflects anything but credit upon a bunch of Supervisors responsible for such. According to authentic records, the Department of Public Instruction notified the Supervisors of the various counties in plenty of time to allow for the construction of additional school buildings, and the Watertown incident where some eighty odd children are without a school, is conclusive evidence of the inability of the members of the Board of Supervisors of Honolulu to realize the importance of exercising a little common sense. For absolute lack of knowledge of how to conduct the county's affairs, the Oahu Supervisors certainly take the cake.

THE article on tuberculosis, appearing in this issue, is deserving of careful reading and is food for much thought. Tuberculosis has become so deeply rooted that every effort should be made to assist in a war of extermination of its existence. From the furthest northern point to the extreme south, and from east to west, it has secured such a hold on humanity that the entire civilized world stands aghast at its rapidly multiplying death rate.

Our local health officials are accomplishing much toward bettering conditions, but they cannot fight the fatal disease without the aid of the people. We must lend our aid in support of the campaign against this destroyer of humanity. We can do much in this direction by living clean lives, eating wholesome food, sleeping in well-ventilated rooms and keeping our lungs filled with pure, fresh air.

MORROCO QUESTION

Political and commercial, Great Britain is more than intensely interested in maintaining her control of the straits of Gibraltar and the strong strategic position it secures to her in three great essentials, the entrance to the Mediterranean, the short route to India, and her hold over Egypt.

Take a look at the map of Europe and note the nearness of Gibraltar to a part of the Moroccan coast line, and it is easy to discern that Gibraltar is not the whole Key to the Mediterranean. It has been recognized for many years—by statesmen, by naval leaders, by students of "affairs"—that a strong naval power with fortress and harbor on the Moorish coast might some day successfully dispute control of the Straits by Great Britain, and if ever that day should come the integrity of the British Empire in its present entirety would be in danger.

That is the reason, and the only reason, for the present strained relations between Germany and Great Britain. For Germany has dispatched one of her Cruisers to the Port of Agadir, for what sufficient reason is best known to herself. But to Great Britain it could not and will not appear other than a direct menace to her security and peace, and unless the Wilhelmstrasse gives undeniably satisfactory explanations, trouble will surely ensue and at short date.

For Germany is by far too powerful, and too well prepared for war to allow of any other nation treating with her on the principle of "laissez faire." Such a course of action would be fatal.

Great Britain has taken a stand from which she will not budge one hair's breadth; nor would she if she could were Germany doubly strong. She dare not. She must, and she would, fight till the last hope was gone, to the last gasp. And her rallying cry well might be that motto painted on the "Companion" of every war vessel of the United States, the dying words of the gallant hearted Lawrence, Captain of the "Chesapeake" "Don't give up the ship!" And if a fair minded and honest hearted German feels inclination to resent the above expressions let him be assured that there is not the least intent whatever to wound his spirit of national pride, let him not feel offence when none is intended. But rather let him quietly reason with himself in this wise, if Germany held Gibraltar and a British cruiser lay off Agadir, what would my country do, and how would I feel? He will surely find the key to Great Britain's action, and my remarks, in the rising feelings of his own breast.

But as between France and Germany, and Germany and Spain, the national equation is a far different one. For both France and Spain have committed breach of the Algeciras Act, to which they with Germany and Great Britain were Signatories, France by her occupation of Fez, and Spain by similar act at Algeciras.

The occupation by France of Fez was altogether unnecessary, let her ministers asseverate as they may. It was a kind of political bluff.

As narrated by the Press, events have proved that there was little disorder in Fez; that the tribes had retired before the French troops arrived, and the much circulated story of Europeans in danger, greatly exaggerated.

COUNTY ENGINEER MORROCO QUESTION

DELIVERS HIS REPORT

J. H. Moragne Files Detailed Report On Doings of His Department, To The Loan Commissioners

HANAIEI GRADE IS GOING AHEAD

$1,000 Sufficient to Build Hanaiei-Haena Road - Bids For Kilauea Concrete Bridge Soon

REPORT OF J. H. MORAGNE, TO THE BOARD KAUAI LOAN FUND COMMISSION. SEPTEMBER 6th. 1911

The Hon. Kauai Loan Fund Commission, Lihue.

Gentlemen: The following is my report on work done so far by the Commission.

BIDS. NEW GRADE HANAIEI HILL & KOLOA-LAWAI GRADE.

Bids were called for August 17th. for constructing Section 2 1600 ft. of the new Hanaiei Hill Grade and Section 1, 3300 ft. of the Koloa-Lawai new grade. On August 17th. bids on the above two jobs were opened. The contract for Hanaiei work was let to G. W. Mahikoa, who started work on his contract on August 21st. The contract for Koloa-Lawai work was let to P. Fitzgibbons, who started on the work on Sept. 4th.

Good progress is being made on Hanaiei Hill.

BIDS HANAPEPE BRIDGE
 Bids were called for Sept. 6th. for a concrete bridge at Hanapepe and on account of the prospective bidders requesting more time in which to prepare their bids, the time for opening the bids was extended to September 20th.

BIDS HANAIEI BRIDGE.
 Bids for a new steel bridge for the Hanaiei stream, were called for Sept. 6th.

CONTRACT J. M. SILVA, AT MAKAWELI, $500
 I let a contract for filling in and tunnelling at the small bridge near Makaweli for $500., which work is mostly completed except the tunnel, which is under way.

BRIDGE KILAUEA & MAHINAULI
 I am preparing plans for the proposed concrete bridge at Kilauea also for the Mahinauli culvert. I suggest that the contract for Mahinauli culvert be let privately, as the cost will be less than $1000.

CHANGE MACADAM ROAD, HANAPEPE
 I examined into the proposed change of the macadam road near Hanapepe towards Makaweli, where the road goes around the point up the hill and found the cost would be considerable. Although the improvement would be a good one, I do not recommend the expenditure at present but instead would suggest that the County cut a little around the point on the present road.

HANAIEI-HAENA ROAD
 I looked into the matter of improving the Hanaiei-Haena Road and found that this road can be greatly improved by small expenditures at places. Some of the points could be cut off and the road straightened for less than $1000 and all such work would be in line with permanent improvements of the whole road. The narrow place on pali, just on the Haena side of Wainiha Bridge could be permanently improved by changing the irrigation tunnel for about 150 feet and blasting the road into the pali.

Very Respectfully,
 [Sgd.] J. H. MORAGNE.

County Attorney Sam Kaeo returned from Honolulu last Wednesday having been in consultation with the attorney general relative to county bridge building.

D. Lieth, one of Honolulu's popular traveling men, came up on the Kinau.

Plainly the object of France was to occupy Fez and stick there, probably on the principle (rather than of principle) enunciated by one of her generals, "J'y suis, J'y reste" (Here I am, and here I stay.) But, unfortunately for her, it has come to light, thro' the lynx-like eyes and ears of the Press, that before the signing of the Algeiras Act a secret treaty was made between France and Spain delimiting the territory of the Sultan of Morocco into French and Spanish spheres of influence. But, and here is the reason for French feeling against Spain, no action was to be taken by Spain before consulting with France. Knowing well the weakness of Spain it was the intent of France to make use of her for the furtherance of French policies and then, perhaps, throw Spain over, or order her to go out.

But the cat is out of the bag, and the position of France by no means enviable. Her natural jealousy of Germany is easily understood, and her desire to shut out Germany from Morocco is also natural, but one wonders, did she really believe that she would succeed in excluding Germany by such pitiful scheming? Granted that she could conclude Great Britain would look on with complacency, she had no reason for assuming that Germany would do the same.

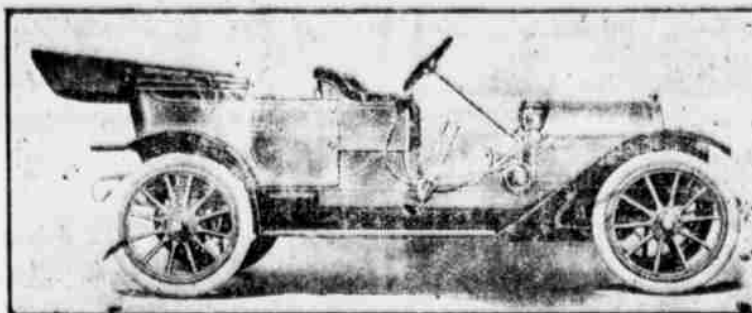

Her position now is one of neither dignity nor safety. For Germany, young, powerful, masterful, purposeful, stands without and beats on the gate. Nothing less will now content her than full recognition of her right to a "sphere of influence" when the delimitation of the territory of Morocco comes about. IF EVER IT DOES COME; for the question of Morocco is really decades old, almost as old as "The Eastern Question," and no one may claim that we have heard the last of that.

Of all the Powers concerned, it cannot be disputed that France and Spain are by far the most deeply interested in Morocco. And France has herself alone to blame for failure to achieve her ends. Her haste and greed have been her undoing. There is much truth in the old adage the more haste the less speed.

And it is much to be regretted that Germany chose the unwise course of sending one of her cruisers to Agadir. It may have been, probably was, her intention to thereby force Great Britain to bring pressure to bear upon France and Spain to live up to the terms and stipulations of the Act of Algeiras. But the action certainly admits of a far less generous interpretation.

And will there be war? Who can say. The writer ventures the opinion that there will not be war. Between Germany and Great Britain there is considerable friction, but fortunately there is no quarrel. Each is all powerful in a special sphere; Germany on land; Great Britain on the sea. And happily there is between the two peoples—if not between their respective Governments—abroad and intelligent feeling of mutual sympathy respect and esteem that should prove sufficiently strong and lasting to bridge every difficulty arising between the two nations. With neither France nor Spain is Germany desirous to measure swords. She knows full well that singly, yes, and both together, she has within herself the power to crush them. The mightiest and most highly disciplined Army the world has ever known, not even excepting the famed legions of Imperial Rome, stands ever ready to her beck and call. But the tremendous impulses impelling her ever forward are not spirits of aggression but mighty economic forces against which she dare not contend. With those forces, she must ceaselessly co-operate and work in harmony with all the fervor of her virile intellect and the vigor of her masterful will, FOR SHE NEEDS MORE MARKETS, needs them for her ever-increasing

Mrs. I. Hart of Koloa, was a returning passenger on the Kinau last Wednesday.

J. Fassoth, manager of the Kekaha Plantation, returned from a business trip to the city last Wednesday.

Miss Kriedler, a trained nurse, arrived last Wednesday, and has been assigned to the management of the Waimea Hospital.

Mrs. J. K. Soper and Miss Soper, were passengers for Kauai by the last Kinau.

IT IS SAID

That Kauai has a fine lot of new teaching material.

That one man realizes this fact. That he is not a teacher, either.

That our schools opened with crowded houses.

That in some cases we have no rooms, while in others, there are no teachers.

That it is funny doings to elect a teacher to a position without a class room for her to work in.

That it is up to the County to get the buildings up.

That a new baseball league is to be formed in Lihue.

That there will be four teams in all.

That this will give the boys much needed practice for the next season's game.

That the Makaweli team will arrange for a match between a Honolulu team and two of our local teams for a friendly go in the near future.

That the Makawelis stand to win against anything that the Honolulu aggregation can locate.

That "Doc." Glaisyer will manage the affair.

That 'nough's said.

That the gymnasium will be taken up by our local sports.

That the Plantation will lend its help.

That the Kinau is becoming famous as a pleasure boat.

That it was especially so on the last trip from Honolulu.

That the Kilauea team played a fast game in the closing game of the season.

That, had they done so earlier in the game, the finale would have been just a little different.

That the Kilauea game was one of the best of the season.

That the Automobiles continue to line up in the middle of the road on steamer days.

That this paper has spoken of this before.

That some run-away horse might do much damage by dashing into a bunch of autos.

That a stitch in time saves nine.

That there is no plausible excuse for blocking the public highway.

That to do so with a big gasoline car, sets a poor example.

FATALITY OF TUBERCULOSIS

By Rev. J. M. Lydgate

"Tuberculosis is one of the oldest and most destructive diseases in the world. Four hundred years before Christ Hyppocrates, a Greek physician, described it intelligently, and it has been with us ever since.

"While other diseases may be more dreaded, popularly, this is by far the most deadly. The annual mortality due to this cause in Germany is 100,000, in France 150,000, in the United States 150,000. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that every other man or woman, you meet on the streets is, or will be, a tuberculosis victim.

"A few years ago the world was appalled at the terrible destruction of life in the Martinique disaster when 30,000 people were killed. Tuberculosis in the United States alone, carries off five times as many people EVERY YEAR.

"The American Civil War was one of the most destructive wars of modern times. It cost upwards of 160,000 lives in the four years of its course—a trifle more than the ANNUAL loss of life through tuberculosis in the United States to-day.

"While all life is valuable, it is not all equally so—at least from an economic point of view. There are various other diseases like Diphtheria—Scarlet Fever, Infantile paralysis etc., which take their victims from the ranks of childhood before economic value has been attained. Other diseases like Pneumonia and Paralysis, take their victims from the ranks of old age after economic value has ceased.

"But Tuberculosis gathers its victims from the productive period. The average value of an adult—the cost of care training education etc., may be taken as say $1500 which is surely a very conservative figure. This is the capital stock, subscribed by the stock holders for every adult and is a liability to be returned gradually during the course of a life of usefulness. When an early death ensues, this capital is lost. The 150,000 premature deaths every year by Tuberculosis thus means a vast economic loss, to say nothing of the anxiety, the suffering and the grief involved. The Prudential Insurance Co. alone counts its annual loss through tuberculosis at $800,000.

"This is a startling and gruesome picture, why delineate it? Because it may be ameliorated. Formerly the outlook was that of helpless pessimism. There was no hope, it was an incurable disease—one old Divine condemned all attempts at cure as blasphemy, defying the will of God "for God has made it incurable." Now, we know that it is curable, and what is more important, it is preventible. Koch's discovery of the Tubercle Bacillus a few years ago shed a blood of light on the whole subject and revolutionized the whole condition of things.

"It is better to call the disease communicable rather than contagious. The word contagion may wisely be reserved for such diseases as diphtheria, small pox, scarlet fever etc., where the infection is much quicker and perhaps by simple contact. Tuberculosis is not communicable in this immediate and rapid way—it takes time: it is slowly infectious—in one way, as regards the spread of the disease. This is a great advantage, it is less dangerous than other more contagious diseases—but in another way it is a disadvantage because people become indifferent to it and neglect the precautions which a more contagious disease would prompt. A few years ago there was epidemics of yellow fever in New Orleans.

"People were utterly demoralized, terrified nearly out of their senses, everything was paralyzed. The total death roll was less than 450. But quietly, without any fuss or alarm, tuberculosis takes 1000 lives every year from New Orleans and nobody thinks much about it.

"There are two factors essential to the existence and spread of this disease in the world. The Seed and the Soil.

THE SEED.

"Once there was no lantana here, and there could not be any until the seeds were brought. For many centuries there was no tuberculosis in Iceland—in spite of most favorable conditions for its existence and development. Finally the seeds of consumption were introduced and it spread rapidly. If it were possible to eliminate the seeds of tuberculosis we would thus eliminate the disease. But the seeds are everywhere and may not readily be eliminated.

THE SOIL.

"To spring up and bear fruit, the seed must fall in good ground. Good ground for the sowing of tuberculosis seed means a condition of life or health which is below par or conducive to weakened vitality and impaired powers of resistance. Adverse conditions of life of various kinds—over crowding, bad sanitation poor ventilation, lack of sun and air—these are conditions doubly dangerous since they are favorable to the spread of tuberculosis directly, and indirectly they tend to undermine the general health and reduce the resisting power.

"The intemperate use of alcohol is in most countries a very significant factor in the spread of the disease. In France it is the cause of 41% of the cases of tuberculosis over-fatigue, over-exertion and worry are also prolific causes of tuberculosis.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES.

"While it is a matter of great importance that tuberculosis is a curable disease, it is vastly more significant that it is a preventible disease. The time to cure consumption is before it begins.

"The efforts for prevention take two forms—the direct and the indirect. Practically the only source of danger in the spread of the disease is the sputum of the victim. If that could be eliminated the danger would be obviated. This, though very simple in theory, is not easy in practice. You can eliminate centers of lantana contagion on your ranch by digging them up and burning them, but you can't very well do that with human beings, their feelings have to be consulted in the matter, and as yet there is no sufficient compulsion of public opinion to enforce anything like serious measures. The first step to be taken accordingly is one of general education. To impress on people in every way possible, the dangers of tuberculosis, how it is contracted and how it may be avoided.

"Recently there was a great exhibition held in Washington, and then in New York, which aimed to teach in a graphic way many valuable lessons in connection with the subject. So large was the amount of the material used that 10 cars were required to transport it, and in the latter city alone over 750,000 persons visited it. By similar exhibitions elsewhere, by newspaper and magazine articles, by lectures and addresses as well as by the more direct education of the individual, very much has been done to stimulate public interest and enlighten public opinion. Concrete results are following in intelligent legislation, aimed at the care and control of the sources of infection.

"The indirect efforts at prevention are aimed at strengthening the defenses against the inroads of the disease, and necessarily assume protean forms, since whatever builds up the general health strengthens the defenses against disease and lessens the chances of contagion. Accordingly, every advance which improves the conditions of life, which insures better homes, better ventilation, more room more sun and air, better nourishment, shorter hours of service, more recreation, better moral and social conditions, more intelligence, higher vitality, in a word every ameliorating tendency, in whatever direction, is a nail in the coffin of tuberculosis and a fresh assurance of ultimate relief from the inroads of this dread disease. So manifold and effective are the agencies working in these various directions that in the aggregate, large results are being accomplished and the tuberculosis death rate, in most of the civilized countries of the world, is steadily being reduced and it seems increasingly reasonable to hope that in the near future this dread disease may be practically eliminated from the world's death roll.

Summary Report Showing Standing of The Various Teams During The Season's Series

| | Makaweli | Lihue | Kilauea | Eleele | Koloa | Kawaihau | Homestead | Games won |

| Games Lost | 4 | 7 | 7 | 8 | 11 | 13 | 13 | 63 |

At a glance at the above summary, it will be seen that although Makaweli are winners, two teams have the proud distinction of having beaten the champions of the season. Kilauea and Eleele are the ones. The latter took the first two, whilst it took three games for the former to turn the trick. Makaweli only took four series, and in those four did not lose a game. Both Lihue and Kilauea won five out of six series. Makaweli being Lihue's Jonah, and Lihue being Kilauea's stumbling block. Eleele won four, losing the Lihue and Kilauea. Eliminating the teams below the 500 points the standing would be very close. Out of nine games, Makaweli and Kilauea would each have five games won, and Lihue and Eleele would each have four games won, showing that the weak teams had a great deal to do with the championship. It was over confidence which lost for Lihue and Kilauea. No less than five outs. Seven lost games for Lihue, were decided in the ninth inning and beyond. Two of these were against Makaweli and one each against Eleele, Koloa and Homestead, all but one being by the margin of one run.

Kilauea was a surprise, playing on her own ground. Out of eight games played there, she lost five and won three. On other grounds she won eight and lost but two.

In inter-sectional playing, honors were even, each side winning and losing eighteen games. Makaweli leading for the South side with seven wins out of nine games. Eleele and Koloa each winning four out of nine, and Homestead getting three out of nine. For the North and East Kilauea led with eight wins out of twelve games. Lihue winning a and losing six and Kawaihau losing eight out of twelve.

(Special to the Garden Island)

KALIHUAI, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Akana and her two charming daughters, Misses Eva and Helen, were hostesses at a typical Hawaiian luau last week at their pretty valley home, the occasion being a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Akana who have been spending there honey-moon with Mrs. Akana.

All Kalihuiwai's young social set was invited and after the delicious Hawaiian delicacies had been disposed of dancing was indulged in to the utmost satisfaction of the merry makers who lingered in the glow of the hostesses hospitality, unmindful of the existence of time, which happened to be nearly 2 a. m. where, amidst numerous expressions of gratitude for the enjoyable time they had and regrets that they must leave, the guests took their departure.

The Chalmers 1912

"During the past few days thousands in the Hawaiian Islands have read the announcement of Chalmers cars for 1912. I have wondered how many of those who have read about and been interested in the 1912 Chalmers cars, appreciate all that must happen before the hundreds of Chalmers in all parts of the country can be ready to make such an announcement," says Frank E. Howes of the Associated Garage, local representative of the Chalmers Motor Company.

"As a matter of fact a score of engineers, as many draughtsmen, and forty or fifty expert mechanics began work more than a year ago on the models for 1912. Since the first of November, 1910, the new models which are now offered for the inspection of the public, have been tested by the experts of the Chalmers engineering department, in all parts of the country—on hills, in sand, in mud and in snow. All this work, extending over months and requiring the services of about 150 men, was merely the preliminary work of giving the public an ever-increasing motor value in proportion to the money spent."

A contract for carrying mail by flying machine has been let by the Postmaster General, the line being between Brooklyn and Long Island City.
