PRICE FIVE CENTS

SPRECKELS WAR RENEWED; DEAL OFF HEIRS WILL FIGHT HAWAII THE SCENE

John D. and Adolph Order Local Attorneys to Carry on Battle Here

Realty involving more than $500,000, which had apparently been closed for the disposal of all the Spreckels holdings in Honolulu through the Waterhouse Trust Co., it appears will be tied up in litigation for a time at least through the fight still being waged by the four Spreckels brothers for a portion of their father's estate, part of which is located here.

The local law firm of Kinney, Prosser, Anderson & Marx this morning received a significant cable from Morrison, Dunne & Brobeck of San Francisco, attorneys representing John D. and Adolph Spreckels in their fight against Rudolph and Gus Spreckels. The cable reads:

"Take all action necessary to assert the rights of John and Adolph Spreckels under the laws of Hawaii."

According to Attorney Prosser this means that closing up of the various deals under the option acquired by Robert Shingle, will be halted for a time at least, possibly by an injunction, although Mr. Prosser said he did not know what action would be taken.

Homestead Excluded.

The property involved includes all of that covered by the Shingle option, save the Spreckels homestead and lots which were recently sold to Harry F. Lewis for a sum in the neighborhood of $100,000. The other tracts named under the $500,000 option and the sale of which will be completed, include the land at Merchant and Bishop streets and all other holdings of like character.

Back of the move made here is believed to lie a plan whereby through the Spreckels holdings in the Territory of Hawaii, the entire fight for the millions involved can be transferred to the U. S. Supreme Court.

John D. and Adolph Spreckels were recently beaten in the long drawn out litigation on the mainland when the Supreme Court of California ruled in favor of Rudolph and Gus in almost every particular and ordered the property distributed in accordance with the contents of the verdict.

To Continue Battle.

Although the defeated Spreckels were apparently out of the running, it was not believed that they would give

Hawaii Is Put On Temporary Roll Of Bull Moose Party

Hawaii Progressives have won another round of their fight to get representation in the convention at Chicago Monday. This morning George R. Carter, chairman of the Progressives' Provisional committee, received the following cablegram from A. L. C. Atkinson, who was sent to Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 3.—Hawaii, Alaska and the District of Columbia have been put on the temporary roll-call of the convention, but their power to vote has been referred to the convention rules.

ATKINSON.

The convention rules committee of course will not be formed until after the convention is temporarily organized.

JULY PAY FOR ENLISTED MEN

The enlisted men of the army will be given the preference over the officers in the payment of funds now on hand. This was announced at department headquarters this morning, the plan meeting with the approval of General Macomb.

Captain Cooke, the army paymaster, has instructed the various organizations to prepare their pay rolls for both June and July. He will pay the soldiers for July, and note on the rolls, "not paid for June," so that there will be no question of the men getting their back pay when more funds are available. This cable message received by Captain Cooke yesterday indicated that more money would be placed to his credit before long, and the extension of time until August 15, of the temporary appropriation for July, admits of his paying off men who are to be discharged between July 31 and August 15.

MOTHER HELD ON CHARGE OF CHILD-MURDER

Parents of Slain Chinese Baby Formally Accused of Crime

BELIEVED WOMAN COMMITTED DEED

Husband Trying to Shield His Wife, Theory of Prosecution

Chun Wong Chee, the wife of Chun Kim Sut, was arrested and formally charged with the murder of her infant daughter, Kwai Sin, this morning, while Chun Kim Sut was arrested for the same offense on a second degree murder charge.

Both warrants were sworn out by Deputy Sheriff Rose at 10 o'clock this morning as the result of evidence obtained and testimony given at the coroner's inquest which has been in session for the past two nights. An hour later the mother was in custody.

The father was arrested on suspicion three days ago, after the child died under mysterious circumstances at the Kaukeolani Children's Hospital.

After the coroner's jury had been in session Thursday and Friday nights a verdict was brought in, although the perpetrator of the crime was not designated in the jury report. This was followed this morning by warrants charging murder.

Defense Confident.

According to Attorney Charles F. Chillingworth, who is conducting the defense, the prosecution has no evidence against the father, who is a well-known among Honolulu business men as a contractor, and is reputed to be worth $40,000.

The prosecution, which is being handled by Deputy Attorney Fred W. Milverton, claims that the evidence against the pair is of a damaging nature.

SAYS KAKAAKO IS WITH BUSINESS TICKET

"You can depend upon it that our precinct is with the business men's ticket," said one of the Hawaiian-American precinct officers of Kakaako this morning, referring to the story in the morning paper of Supervisor Kruger having formed a combination with Charlie Costa to carry the Kakaako precinct for himself.

Kruger's influence will extend only to about twenty men who are employed in the garbage department of the city. I think that Charlie Costa will find himself playing for a fall, and although he may be playing in with both sides, we boys understand that the business men are not with Murray and Kruger this year. Don't worry. Kruger can not carry our precinct. It will stay with the business men and the regular Republican forces. We have no sympathy with the scheme of Kuhio running as a third party man. Of course, if it should come to a fight each man may follow his own opinions in the final election, but you can bank on it that in the conventions and primary contests our precinct will be with the business men. Our precinct will stay with Charlie Bartlett as against Kruger and Murray."

The liquor interests of Hawaii do not expect to take any part in the coming territorial campaign unless there is a movement on foot to change the present laws.

In other words, the liquor men want the laws left alone, and if they have assurances that the next legislature will make no attempt to amend the statutes relating to liquor, the saloon men, as such, will not be active in the campaign.

The above is the statement of the liquor interests' attitude made to the Star-Bulletin by one of the men who is on the inside of things "insiders" in the liquor business of the territory and one who is active in politics as well. He declares that the importers, wholesalers and retailers, while they may be individually busy in politics as citizens, will not spend money in the campaign unless they see an effort to start legislation hostile to their interests.

"Why that brute must be two years old," said the sheriff but the boy answered calmly, "O no, he's very large for his age you see." And a moment later David and Brownie were racing down Merchant street.

"How old is Brownie?" asked the sheriff as he rose from his chair and started downstairs with the boy in tow.

"He's not six months old yet," answered the boy as they entered the enclosure where all unlicensed dogs over a year old are stowed as soon as they are caught.

At this point the conversation was interrupted by an ungainly mongrel-part Newfoundland—who nearly knocked the pair over through his affectionate charge.

"If any money is spent, the liquor men will not start it," was the statement of this man. "We are satisfied with the present laws, and see the wisdom of working on the present ba-

REPORT KUHIO WON'T RUN AS INDEPENDENT

Delegate Arrives from Hawaii Ending Several Vague Rumors

FIGHT ON FEAR MAY BE ELIMINATED NOW

Said Cupid Willing to Keep the Controversy Out of Fall Campaign

Political circles were stirred this morning by a report, which comes to the Star-Bulletin from an unimpeachable source, that Delegate Kuhio will not run on an independent ticket if the Republican party fails to back him in a fight against Governor Frear, and further, that the delegate is willing to eliminate the controversy from the territorial campaign and the territorial platform.

The delegate reached Honolulu this morning by the Mauna Kea, coming from Hawaii, where he went to attend the Smart-Parker wedding last week. He went to his home at Waikiki shortly after arrival, and the Star-Bulletin was unable to reach him up to this afternoon for confirmation or denial of the report.

It is said that the delegate was misrepresented in an interview purporting to come from him the morning he left for Hawaii. He is quoted now as saying that he will stay in the Republican party and will not insist on carrying his fight on the Governor into the fall campaign.

This report was heard today by the business men's committee which is canvassing the political situation. The committee held a long session this morning, but its work is not concluded, and another session will be held next Tuesday.

While none of the committee will forecast what influence the delegate's attitude, if it is now correctly interpreted, will have on its report, several seem to think such an attitude would clear up the situation. The possibility of an endorsement of Kuhio was mentioned by a Star-Bulletin representative to members of the committee, but without eliciting any definite statement as to whether an endorsement is or is not probable.

The committee is considering scores of men for office. It was stated without reservation today that the committee is not "framing a ticket" and that it wishes to report upon as many good men as possible in order to give the voters plenty of choice between worthy candidates.

One of the vague reports concerning Cupid's activities was disproved this morning with the arrival of the Mauna Kea. Stories have been afloat that Kuhio would make a month's campaign now on Hawaii and Maui and that on Hawaii he has been making many speeches. This is disproved, and it is stated that he did not attend the Kailua meeting a week ago at which he was reported to be a guest.

Kruger's influence will extend only to about twenty men who are employed in the garbage department of the city. I think that Charlie Costa will find himself playing for a fall, and although he may be playing in with both sides, we boys understand that the business men are not with Murray and Kruger this year. Queen Presents Altar Vases To Chapel At Post

Memories of Hawaii's past, before the coming of the soldier, have been linked firmly with the present by a gracious act of Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani, who has presented to the post chapel at Schofield Barracks a pair of massive brass altar vases. This morning the former queen signified her desire to make the gift, and signed her own name to the copy of the inscription that is to be engraved on the vases.

This morning Major Pruden, chaplain of the Second Infantry, whose zealous work resulted in the building of the chapel less than a year ago, called on the queen and talked over the proposed gift. The vases were ordered some time ago, and are now here and ready for the engraver. Her Majesty expressed herself as greatly interested in the religious work that is being carried on at the big army post, and expressed her intention of attending the dedication ceremonies, when the vases are placed on the altar for the first time. This will be about two months hence.

Following is the inscription that will appear on each vessel:

Presented to the Post Chapel, Schofield Barracks, Lehua, H. T.

By Her Majesty Liliuokalani of Hawaii, 1912.

TERRITORY SOLD PART OF HILO'S SEWER SYSTEM

Owing to the fact that the Territorial government has, presumably through inadvertence, sold a portion of the Hilo sewer system, the county and the health officials find themselves up against a very unique situation just at present, says the Hilo Tribune. Furthermore, a much perplexed Japanese merchant finds himself in possession of a section of sewer which he does not in the least want, and which he is trying to get rid of.

A year or two ago, the Territory sold to Hata, the well-known Japanese merchant, the lot opposite the Moehau Park, at the north end of the block. A narrow section of this lot was part of a rough thoroughfare, picturesquely named Nippon Alley, under the soil of which ran a section of the Smithville sewer system, which is about the most overworked sewer in Hilo.

Hata was apparently lost of the fact that the sewer was under the alley, which went into Hata's possession with the rest of the lot. But the sewer was left in place until the other day, when Hata had deep excavations made in order to make room for the cellar for the big concrete building which he intended erecting on the lot. Then the excavators ran into the sewer. It runs right where the cellar is to be. Hata doesn't want a sewer in his cellar, so he told various officials to take it away. If they did not take it away, it seems, he may have a right to do so, as it is, presumably, his sewer, it having passed into his possession with the rest of the lot.

The committee is considering scores of men for office. It was stated without reservation today that the committee is not "framing a ticket" and that it wishes to report upon as many good men as possible in order to give the voters plenty of choice between worthy candidates.

WEEK GIVES PROMISE OF ACTIVITY IN LOCAL SHIPPING

The coming week gives abundant promise of much activity in local shipping circles. The arrival of the United States army transport Thomas from Manila, tomorrow, followed by the armored cruisers South Dakota and California, will mean that much coal will be discharged from the Thomas, while additional fuel will be supplied the United States war vessels.

The Thomas is slated for departure on Monday evening. Monday morning the Ventura, from the Coast, will arrive and this vessel is to continue the voyage to Pago Pago and Sydney at 5 o'clock in the evening of that date. The Wilhelmmina, from San Francisco, is to arrive early Tuesday morning, and the Matson Navigation agency at this port will dispatch the steamer Lurline for San Francisco at 6 o'clock that evening. Thursday should see the arrival of the Pacific Mail liner Mauna Kea from Oriental ports with sixteen hundred tons of cargo for discharge at Alaska wharf. The Japanese liner Shinyo Maru sailed from San Francisco at 1:30 this afternoon and should arrive here early Friday morning en route to Japan and China ports. The Oceanic liner Sonoma is now scheduled to arrive from Sydney on Friday and sail the same day for San Francisco.

Mauna Kea Returned With Hawaii Sheep.

Sheep to the number of 256 head arrived at the port this morning in the interisland steamer Mauna Kea. This vessel returned from Hilo or Honolulu according to report from Purser Phillips in the steamer Mauna Kea. The flagship passed the Kaluiani outside of Hilo, the Kauai at Honome and the Helene and Maui at Koholae. These vessels were discharging cargo and taking on sugar.

TERRITORY WINS NEW TAX FIGHT

News of another victory for the Territory in the tax appeal courts was received this morning by Assistant Attorney General A. G. Smith, in the form of a copy of the decision of the court for Maui on the appeal of the Wailuku Sugar Company.

Attorney Smith, who represented the Territory in this case, won every point, the court setting the valuation of the property for the entire amount assessed it by the Treasurer and district tax assessor, $4,250,000.

The company returned a valuation on $3,250,000, or just $1,000,000 less than the officials decided the property is worth. Later the company offered to compromise on a valuation of $5,500,000, which was rejected.

This is one of the largest advances in property valuations made this year. In property valuations made this year, the charterer Westerner, Gray Harbor, San Francisco, $4,75; steamer Jim Butler, Columbia River, San Francisco, $4,75; steamer Comptor, Williams to San Francisco, $5; steamer Fort Bragg, Columbia River to San Francisco, $5; schooner A. F. Compton, Eureka to Hilo, $7.50; schooner H. D. Hendriksen, Puget Sound to Hawaiian Islands, $7.50.

Hawaiian Sugar Report.

Ola sugar warehouses showed the largest accumulation of sugar on Hawaii, according to a report brought by Purser Phillips in the steamer Mauna Kea, which gives the following assignments awaiting shipment: Aloha 22,550, Waikiki 4000, Hawaii Mill 3100, Hilo Sugar Co. 14,000, Oneida 11,402, Pepeekeo 1600, Honoulu 880, Hakalau 13,700, Laupahoehoe 2000, Kaiwi 11,000, Kukaiwau 7000, Kahuku Mill 10,000, Paauhau 12,000, Kukuiak 600, Kukuhale 800, Punahoa 5321, and Honoupu 7492 sacks.

Sought Tahiti While in Distress.

The schooner Expansion, previously reported as putting into Papeete in distress, is effecting necessary repairs at the Tahitian port, after discharging her cargo. When she put into the harbor the Expansion was leaking at the rate of four inches an hour. While she was being towed in a strong current sent the vessel on to a reef, but she was soon floated. The Expansion had a cargo of lumber from Grey's Harbor for Valparaiso.

San Pedro Talks in Millions.

Lumber shipped into San Pedro by water during the fiscal year just ended reached the total of 627,753,000 feet, an increase of 74,425,000 feet over the preceding fiscal year, according to a report issued by C. W. Pendleton, United States Collector of Customs for the district.

Coasters Meet with Fair Weather.

Fair weather has been the rule throughout the islands, according to reports brought in by purser in late arriving inter-island steamers. The Iwaniwa with 5080 sacks sugar is here from Mahukona. This vessel met with light winds and smooth seas on the voyage. Purser Stein reports 4000 sacks sugar awaiting shipment at Honolulu.

Santa Rita Discharging at Hilo.

The American oil-tanker Santa Rita was reported as discharging the remainder of a shipment of fuel oil at Hilo at the time the steamer Mauna Kea took a departure for Honolulu. The schooner Melrose is reported by Purser Phillips as at the Hawaii port, where a shipment of coast lumber is being unloaded. The Matson Navigation steamer Enterprise is on the

It is expected that the inter-island steamer Wailie will be dispatched for Honokaa and Kukuhale on Monday. Monday morning should bring the arrival of the Oceanic steamship Ventura from San Francisco and en route to Australia.

The transport Thomas to sail for San Francisco on or about five o'clock Monday evening will carry a mail destined for the mainland.

The Matson Navigation steamer Lurline with the molasses tanker Bennington in tow departed for the Maui ports shortly after six o'clock last evening.

The little steamer Niihan, with general cargo and explosives is scheduled to sail for Kauai ports at four o'clock this afternoon. The Niihan will carry no passengers.

A delegation of tourists are booked for departure for Hawaii and the volcano in the inter-island steamer Mauna Kea that is to get away at four o'clock this afternoon.

Between forty and fifty cabin passengers are booked for the coast in the Matson Navigation steamer Lurline to sail for San Francisco at six o'clock Tuesday evening.

KOREA YIELDED MUCH OPIUM

The Chinese servants connected with the stews department of the Pacific Mail liner Korea were removed from that vessel but a few moments before the liner cast off lines at San Francisco for Honolulu.

On arrival at this port, officers in the Korea while professing reticence in the discussion of the large and valuable find of opium on board that vessel finally admitted that one Chinese bar boy and a cook in the galley were hastily escorted from the vessel, to be held at San Francisco pending an investigation.

The Korea was subject to a most complete inspection by local customs officials during the stay of the Pacific liner at the port.

One of the interesting features connected with the valuable find of nearly five thousand dollars worth of the dope was that one hundred and eighty tins were slated for landing at the coast port by means of being concealed in a heap of ashes from the fire room.

It is claimed that the plot to smuggle the poppy juice ashore was only frustrated by the narrowest kind of margin.

DISMISS LIBEL AGAINST MAKURA

In a lengthy, complicated discussion of legal points affecting the case, U. S. District Judge Dole today handed down a decision dismissing the libel brought by George R. Mayne against the steamship Makura, asking $15,000 in damages for the failure of the steamship Moana, owned by the same company, to pick up three actors at Suva and carry them to Honolulu.

The libellant asserts that both vessels are owned by the United Steamship Company, and that on February 1, 1911, he had prepaid transportation on the Moana for three actors that the boat was to take on to Suva. He says he had employed the men at a salary of $1500 a month, to perform in this city, but the agent would not permit them to board the Moana and therefore he lost their services.

WILLIAM J. HARTUNG WEDS MAINLAND GIRL

William Flinn Likely To Be Man Steering "Bull Moose" Fight

Announcement was received here of the marriage today in San Francisco of Miss Sophie de la Nux and William J. Hartung at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. de la Nux.

William J. Hartung is a graduate of the College of Hawaii, receiving his degree this spring. He made a name for himself during the last year of his school life through his research work in cooperation with Prof. Severin as to the Mediterranean fruit fly. He accompanied Prof. Severin to the Coast, announcing that he would not return and it is understood he has a position with one of the Spreckels companies in California.

SUGAR FROM CORN.

Experiments are being conducted in Tucuman, Argentina, with a process of making sugar from cornstarch. It is also announced that a corn-sugar factory will shortly be established in the province of Buenos Aires. Con-sular Reports.

Oral argument of the case legal counsel admitted there was some confusion in the petition as to the liability of the agent or owner for the failure to permit the actors to board the Moana. The court gives the libellant five days in which to correct possible error in the libel in this respect; unless such correction is made in the specified time the entire suit will be dismissed.

At the time the libel was issued the Moana was not in port, but the Makura was, so the libel was issued against the latter ship.

SHERIDAN TRIP

FULL OF THRILLS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—The army transport Sheridan, Captain J. M. Healey, arrived yesterday from Nome with the Sixteenth United States infantry, which has been in the frozen north for more than two years and which now, by way of pleasant contrast, will go into station at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The homeward voyage of the Sheridan was uneventful, but the trip to Nome was one that those who made it will always remember.

For more than a week the Sheridan fought its way through field ice that was dotted with icebergs. The cold was intense and there were four deaths as the result of the low temperature.

So well did Captain Healey, master of the trooper, acquit himself in the battle with the ice that the officers and men who were passengers on the ship joined in the raising of a large purse, the contents of which will be expended in the purchase of a loving cup for the skipper.

On its way north the Sheridan called at Fort Seward and at Valdez, where Fort Liscum is located and there discharged part of the Thirtieth Infantry and took on board the officers and men of the Sixteenth that the new arrivals relieved. The transport left Valdez June 18 for Nome and at 6 o'clock p. m. June 20 encountered the first ice.

It was field ice with great bergs here and there. Finding the ice increasing in thickness Captain Healey decided that it was no place for the Sheridan so by backing and filling and maneuvering here and there, he succeeded in shaking off the grip of the ice. In clear water he then headed for the westward. He skirted the ice until off St. Lawrence Island, when he decided to go through the ice.

For six days the Sheridan was in the ice, fighting every minute. During that six days the steamer made just 200 miles and except for an occasional nap Captain Healey was on the bridge day and night. The temperature during this time was about 35 degrees, which was considerably colder than any of the passengers had experienced for some time. A number caught severe colds and four of them, Mrs. Dougherty, a government school teacher, and George L. Mullin, Alwyn Reed and O. M. Groves, subsequently died of pneumonia.

At the end of the sixth day the Sheridan passed through the frozen barrier and arrived at Nome without further incident.

STRANGE CULTS FOLLOWED BY MANY WOMEN OF UNITED STATES

Vedantism Making Powerful Strides, Says Writer of Facts

"Strange Gods of American Women" is the way in which the Literary Digest sums up a review of an article by one American woman, Mrs. Gross Alexander, in which some remarkable facts concerning the subject are given. The paper says:

The churches of America are spending annually more than $20,000,000 for foreign missions; but from the very fields where all this money is gathered, the Eastern religions, again, which these efforts are made, are gathering their harvest also. The East is sending its emissaries to us, and today the tinkling temple-bells of the heathen domes ring out with a decisive jarring sound, not only in the Far East, but in many sections of Christian America." It is the women who are mainly infected, points out Mrs. Gross Alexander in The Methodist Quarterly Review (Nashville, July). "Yoga" classes, which were first made fashionable by the society set, have become in many cities as popular as Browning and Shakespeare classes." Placing the Hindu Scripture above the Bible, many women today are studying these teachings who were formerly Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Catholics, and Jewesses." The present writer quotes from another woman, Mabel Potter Daggett, who has investigated certain centers of Eastern thought, particularly that one located at Green Acre, N. H., where are held annual summer meetings.

Most Recruits Among Women.

"Although the Swami's following includes some men of learning and college Professors who wish to investigate a science brought from the roof of the world, most of its recruits are among women. A greater menace than of image-worship lurks in the teachings of the Hindu Mystics. The casual observer would not discover it. Only those who reach the inner circles become acquainted with the mysteries revealed to the adepts. The descent from Christianity to heathenism is by such easy stages that the novice scarcely realizes she is led. But it is a dangerous study for luring any but the best-balanced minds. In the pursuit of it the listening devotee is offering sacrifices many times at the cost of her mind and soul. Miss Farmer was a familiar figure for years, attending the Green Acre School for which she gave her fortune. But living in the atmosphere of that strange and impenetrable cult unbalanced her mind, and she is now an inmate of the insane asylum in Waverly, Mass. In Chicago a few years ago, Miss Reuss, a Jewess of culture and refinement, was taken screaming and praying from the Madrasan Temple of the Sun, to be incarcerated as a raving maniac in an Illinois asylum. At the death of Mrs. Ole Bull, of Cambridge, Mass., widow of the world-renowned violinist, she bequeathed several hundred thousand dollars to the Vedantist Society. But it was set aside by the courts on the ground of mental incapacity and undue influence. Mrs. May Wright Sewell, the club-woman of national repute, is said to be a physical wreck through the practices of Yoga and the study of occultism. Many more examples could be cited of wrecked minds lost through the pursuit of this philosophy."

Vedantism The Core.

The core of Hinduism that is studied in this country, says Mr. Robert E. Speer, as quoted by the author, "is the Vedanta philosophy, the old pantheism of India read full of new meaning through contact with Western thought and Christianity." "There is always generous room in its pantheon," he adds, "for any new god not already listed. . . . There have been so many interpolations and modifications to suit the peoples of all sections and countries that there is the widest range of thought possible, and no divinity objectionable to Western sensibilities is forced on one." One of the Hindu priests who came to America was Baba Bharati, "formerly a hill hermit from Tibet." After the first five years of his stay in America he made preparations to return for a time in India, and a farewell meeting "was presided over by a former minister of the Gospel." At this meeting Baba Bharati said:

"It has been my privilege these five years past to preach to you your own Christ, even as much as my god Krishna. I came not here to thrust my religion upon you, but to help you to understand your own God and your own religion. If I have talked of Krishna and of the Vedas and Hindu philosophy, it was only to illuminate the teachings of your own Christ, to present him before you in the light of the Vedas, and the x-ray of our scientific philosophers."

The Sun-Worshippers.

This article also deals with another form of Eastern worship practiced in many cities of the United States—namely, "the teachings and practices of sun-worship, under the God Salam Aleikum, the supreme lord of the Zend-Avesta, of whom Zoroaster was the great prophet." Mrs. Daggett is quoted to this effect:

"At least fourteen thousand Americans are joining daily in this worship of the Lord Mazda and the daily adoration of the Sun. There are Mazdazan centers in thirty cities of the United States, as well as in Canada, South America, England, Germany, and Switzerland, and they are all the remarkable growth of the past ten years! It was about 1901 that 'His Humbleness, the Prince of Peace,' appeared in Chicago. His largest tem-

RIDE THEIR CAYUSES INTO HOTEL PARLORS

Pendleton Elks Pull Off Real Wild Western Stunts About Town

PORLTAND, Ore., July 12.—Riding their cayuses into hotel parlors, elevators and saloons, the Pendleton Elks in their costumes of cowpunchers and Indians raised particular Cain last night. All the stunts of a Western cow town were reproduced in the metropolitan caravansaries with the exception of "shootin' up." Guns were kept in holsters.

Whooping like regulation Indians, a bunch of the Pendleton Elks in their war paint followed, the cowboy band on horseback. Then there were other Pendletonians straddling the cayuses. The riders pushed their way through the crowd to the Elks' Temple, and after a couple of false starts the cowboys rode the horses up to the third floor and into the clubrooms. The horses were offered refreshments and then back down the three flights of the cayuses went.

Next the cowboys and Indians invaded the lobby of the Imperial, creating an intense commotion. Again the nags were ridden into the bar, the cowboys swinging low, hanging on the side of the horses by one leg and arm, while the horses ducked their heads. From the Imperial the parade proceeded to the Hotel Portland, and here the riders pranced up the steps to the lobby and showed how to dance the turkey trot. Downstairs to the bar and out again into the crowd.

Determined on showing the horses a good time and giving them a touch of high life, the cowpunchers swept back to the Imperial and rode the animals up to the third floor, where the Pendleton Elks had their headquarters. From this floor the horses were sent back to the lobby by means of the elevator, one horse filling a cage. The Multnomah Hotel was selected next. Indians, horses and riders marched and yelled all the way, and reaching the big establishment, the procession piled in, making a noise like Bedlam broke loose. The horses were taken to the bar and then down the steps to the Arcadian Garden. The cayuses seemed to enjoy drinking from the buckets of beer and the pans filled with seltzer water. The horses sloshed their noses in the fountain, while one Indian waded in to see if he could cool his ardor.

PUTTING NATURAL GAS TO GOOD USE

Many Pittsburgers will recall the skepticism manifested by Eastern capital a quarter of a century ago when it was urged to aid in financing the extension of natural gas in the Pittsburgh district. The Easterners came, they saw the gas blazing in office grates and under mill and factory boilers, they were taken to the "hole in the ground" where the roar of the fluid deadened all other sounds—and then they went back home to tie another knot in their purse strings for fear those crazy gas men would hypnotize them into doing something rash. Even some Pittsburgers began to have doubts when the gas supply ran low on a frosty morning, because they did not know the real trouble was a shortage of funds to drill wells, and not exhaustion of nature's reservoir. Similar misgivings accompanied the developments of the oil fields of Western Pennsylvania.

These memories are revived by happening to glance at the monthly report of field operations compiled by the Derrick of Oil City, which has been publishing for forty years. Its figures for June show that during the past month more than 5010 wells were completed in the fields east of the Mississippi, which added nearly 59,000 barrels of oil to the daily production. Of the total, 491 wells were completed in the territory which produces Pennsylvania grade oil, the highest on the market, and fifty-six of the wells completed in what is graded as the Pennsylvania territory are producers of gas in commercial quantities. The total number of producing gas wells completed last month in the fields east of the Mississippi was 131, against 120 producers, completed in May. The farmers of the prairie States of the Middle West and the cotton planters of the South are now enjoying the benefits of oil and gas which were pioneered by the men of Western Pennsylvania, and capital galore is ready for investment in every legitimate enterprise connected with the industry.—Pittsburg Gazette.

GREAT EDUCATOR ON PRESENT NEED

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 25.—The new and important thing in education today is industrial education, and the wise city is that one which makes provision for the preparation of its citizens for the industrial pursuits."

This statement was made by Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, noted American author and historian and professor of government in Harvard University, in San Francisco yesterday afternoon, shortly after his arrival at the Bellevue Hotel. Dr. Hart came up from Los Angeles, where he has been in attendance at the convention of the National Municipal League, and is accompanied by Mrs. Hart.

Continuing his remarks on education, Dr. Hart said he would not have industrial education secured at the expense of literary culture, for a literary education is also a practical one, but the brickmaker has his place of importance in our industrial and economic life, as well as the engineer and mathematician. Dr. Hart said that this new phase was finding expression in the summer courses and vacation schools of the country, notably in Los Angeles, where training in the industrial crafts is afforded.

Speaking of the new archaeological discoveries that have been made in Mesopotamia and South America as related to history, Dr. Hart said:

"Historical discoveries are of little importance unless they throw some valuable light upon the present living questions. The searching expedition to Peru has reported finding a resemblance between the ancient Peruvian races and the Egyptians of early history, but we do not wish to know about this. Of what value is it? The statues of Khammarabai engraved on stone 4000 years ago, which have been unearthed in the valley of the Euphrates, are of some value, because they show how old are some of the rules of life and conduct, but little else of importance has been discovered by the searchers for ancient remains. What is most important to know is the history we are making today. We have discovered that the present relations of men in making government is more important than the chronicles of those who lived under the ancient Athenian or the feudal system."

Dr. Hart said that he was greatly interested in the new city charter being formulated for Los Angeles. He said Los Angeles would be the largest city in the United States to try out the commission form of city government and Eastern municipalities are watching the Southern city with the closest interest. He approves the provisions now tentatively drafted giving greater room for the extension of governmental powers and for safeguarding the public property. The new charter will mark a great progressive step in municipal government, he said.

This is Dr. Hart's second visit here, having lectured in the University of California eight years ago. At present he is exchange professor for Harvard with four Western colleges—Knox of Galesburg, Ill.; Beloit of Wisconsin, Grinnell of Iowa and the Colorado College of Denver. Dr. Hart stated that the system of exchanging university professors was doing great things in harmonizing human thought and knowledge throughout the world and making the different peoples better acquainted, and pointed to the work accomplished in France, Germany and Japan through the exchange of instructors of these countries with American educators.

BIDS ARE OPENED FOR PEARL HARBOR QUARTERS

Bids were opened in Washington this morning for the construction of the officers' quarters at Pearl Harbor, a job for which there is $67,000 available at the present time. It is understood that two local firms, the Lord-Young Engineering Co., and the Honolulu Planing Mill Co., and a concern which is now operating here, the Spalding Engineers Co., of Portland, have all tendered proposals, which were forwarded some time ago. The plans call for a commandant's house, and five other sets of officers' quarters. The buildings were designed in the office of the navy engineers here, and are especially adapted for the tropics, having broad lanais, cool rooms and plenty of shade. When completed they will be by far the most attractive government living quarters in Hawaii.

WHAT HAWAII HAS THE RIGHT TO EXPECT

Every sincere friend of Hawaii, whether Republican or not, will be gratified if Delegate Kuhio should carry out his reported willingness to drop the fight against Gov. Frear so far as the fall campaign and the fall conventions are concerned.

This controversy has no part in the campaign or in the election. It will be a frightful handicap to Hawaii's fight for efficiency in public office,—a fight well begun and promising splendid results for the future. It will breed factionalism and stir up petty spite and dangerous hatred. It has no bearing on the direct issues, and should be allowed to have no influence on them.

The Delegate is reported to have said that he will not run independently of the Republican party. Hawaii expects party loyalty of the delegate and every other man who calls himself a Republican. There is such a thing as being a Republican and putting aside personal animosities for the greater good of the party and the territory, and that is the kind of spirit the people of this commonwealth have the right to expect of men who seek their votes.

THE TWO CAMPAIGNS

Unless Col. Roosevelt upsets the campaign this fall as he upset the spring and early summer situation, the country will be given the unusual spectacle of two presidential candidates campaigning along much the same lines.

The principal difference in the plans and ideas that Taft and Wilson will put before the country will be in degree. Both will take the tariff as their most immediate issue, though approaching it from slightly different angles.

Taft's campaign will start with a speech or letter discussing the seriousness of the tariff situation to the business and labor of the country. He will endeavor to make it clear that if the Democrats are successful, the country will certainly be treated to a profound upheaval in the effort to apply free-trade and tariff-slashing doctrines to capitalism and business. His attitude will be that if the Republicans win they will not consent to revision of tariff schedules except after full and complete investigations by a tariff board or other body showing just how much reduction can be made and at the same time give to the American manufacturer and laborer the protection that puts him on a different footing from the foreign manufacturer and laborer. The President will stand firmly by his attitude, approved on a number of occasions by Theodore Roosevelt, that a tariff board is the only fair method of revising the tariff and that until there is such a board revision must be delayed.

The Republican position will be that even if the Democrats and Roosevelters combined this fall would unquestionably force a revision of the tariff without the wise restrictions that go with the existence of a tariff board. "It will be pointed out that the Democrats and Progressives already are near enough together to force a tariff bill unless there is a Republican president and a Republican house, one or both, to check the inevitable action on the greatest question before the people. Even if a Republican house cannot be elected the business world and all classes will be told with emphasis that a Republican president is the one thing that stands between continued prosperity and uninterrupted business on one side and business chaos and uncertainty on the other."

The appeal will be substantially the same as McKinley and Mark Hanna made to the country in 1896, when Bryan and his isms threatened to upset things and carried the people with them up to within a few weeks of election day. Led by the President himself, and aided by Republican speakers in every state, the tariff will be forced to the front and the dangers pointed out at every step.

Wilson's campaign will also be for tariff revision, but naturally he cannot hope to win on such a moderate and well-considered scheme of revision as Taft proposed. Wilson must gain strength by appealing to the unsuccessful, the dissatisfied, the restless elements of the voting population, just as any candidate seeking to out another and elect himself must make an appeal. As for Roosevelt's campaign, the tariff issues he will champion may be expected to be not much clearer than they have been in the past few months.

A DUTY FOR CANDIDATES

Looking ahead over the next few months, past the political turmoils of conventions and campaigns, there is a very important session of the legislature approaching.

The last legislature was notable for several good deeds accomplished, among which may be mentioned the sanitation measures and the school appropriations passed. The legislature did not pass a direct primary bill, but its commissions were greater than its omissions.

Sanitation measures are certain to occupy much of the attention of the next legislature. It will have a flying start toward such legislation. Late in the last session a bill appeared calling for local assessment for road improvements. The bill needed whipping into shape and there was not time for this, the consequence being that a worthy piece of legislation was left for future representatives and senators to enact into law. Since then the principle of this measure has been indorsed on both sanitary and financial grounds. The sanitary commission, after months of labor, submitted an important report, in which the building of roads is urged as a remedial measure for Honolulu's ever-menacing preponderance of "wet lands." Various improvement clubs advocate the passage of such a bill as dividing the expense of building roads among those most directly benefited. Most American cities long ago adopted the plan.

Enactment of laws on sanitation will be one of the next legislature's most pressing duties. During August, September and October the men will be chosen who will sit as supervisors and legislators. There will be primaries, conventions, campaigns and elections, each political step eliminating some candidates and setting others forward on the path to office.

It is the plain duty of candidates for both territorial and city and county office to familiarize themselves with the sanitary demands of Honolulu and the territory at large. Particularly in this city is there need for more exact knowledge of insanitary conditions and proposed remedies.

The people have a right to expect candidates asking for suffrage to explain what they are going to do, if elected, to improve Honolulu's sanitation, to better living conditions, to make this city and Hawaii generally more attractive for visitors and for the rest of us who live here.

The Star-Bulletin publishes on page 19 of this issue a forceful interview with Gov. Woodrow Wilson on the commission form of government. Commission government isn't a cure-all for political evils, and whether it would work in Hawaii has still to be proved, but Gov. Wilson's ideas are of value at this time.

If the head of the police department has any idea of point to his record with pride during the campaign this fall, it would be a good plan for the police to stop the repeated burglaries around the city, to trace some of the recent violent deaths to the responsible parties, and to renew the war on the gangs of hoodlums.

Gov. Wilson will not resign his governorship until he knows that he's elected president. Still some of Wilson's enemies have denied that he is Scotch.

The memory of Lorimer will probably not live so long as Lincoln's, but the lesson of his case should remain fresh for many years.

Too bad President David Starr Jordan, who says our navy is four times too large, isn't a member of the "no-battleship" House.

Wouldn't it have been graceful if Col. Roosevelt had volunteered to inform Mr. Taft of the Chicago nomination?

Roosevelt says that he's a "champion of live issues." Among which, of course, is another term for Teddy.

The bull moose and red bandana make an incompatible combination.

MOTHER HELD

ture and will result in conviction. The theory of the prosecution is that the crime was committed by the mother because her exceedingly small feet prevented her from walking and necessitated her crawling on her hands and knees to reach the baby in order to minister to it and that in order to relieve herself of this care, she dashed its brains out against the wall.

According to Attorney Chillingworth, the mother comes from one of the older Chinese families which adheres to the old tradition of foot-binding—recently abolished by edict—and as a result her feet are so small that she is unable to walk. During the day she is to be assisted about, and at night when the rest of the family were asleep, she was compelled to reach the baby by crawling on her hands and knees when it was necessary to give the child attention.

The exact time of the death has not been correctly ascertained on account of the contradictory testimony offered by the father and the two children. It is the theory that when the alleged crime was discovered by the father, he attempted to shield his wife by pretending ignorance, then sickness, and last of all lapses of memory.

Didn't Want Baby.

According to the police, the father some time ago, asked Elijah McKenzie, superintendent of the Beretania Mission, to find some one who would adopt the baby as they did not want it.

The contractor is said to have made this statement to police officials but when asked to reiterate them during the inquest, he refused to answer either way.

At the inquest last night, the father, himself was the principal witness and his testimony was interspersed frequently with objections on the part of Attorney Chillingworth who is handling the case for the defense. Chun Kim Sut pleaded a lapse of memory and asked to go home in order to recollect circumstances in connection with the child's death. Finally he declared that he wouldn't answer any more questions because he didn't want to.

On account of the attitude of the father, the police declare that he is trying to shield his wife from complicity in the affair.

Chun Kim Sut is a wealthy contractor who has built a number of large buildings around town and is the owner of a row of cottages and tenements along Kukui street where he himself resides. He has a good reputation among Honolulu business men and the general sentiment among his associates is that he himself is entirely innocent of complicity in the crime but is trying to shield the guilty persons.

up without a further struggle, and the cable of today bears this out.

Denied further recourse in the California courts, their attorneys have taken advantage of the judicial relations between a Territory and the Federal Government and have seen their way through the holdings here to fight the case through the courts in Hawaii and then appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, which appeal is open to them.

Y. M. C. A. BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT TO BE A FEATURE

Beginning next month, Secretary Super of the Y. M. C. A. will institute a new employment bureau conducted on scientific lines and modeled on the plan of the employment bureau of the Portland Y. M. C. A., which is recognized for its practicability and efficiency.

A. E. Larimer will be at the head of the new bureau, but assistants will be procured as the growth of the bureau needs it, according to the secretary, who discussed his plan this morning.

"We are going to establish it along scientific lines," said Super. "Instead of sending a man anywhere for any kind of a job, we are going to study the applicant and work with him, thereby finding out what kind of work he is most fitted for and can best accomplish.

"In this way we shall be able to do both employer and employee justice and in time will be doing the efficient work in this line that the Portland Y. M. C. A. employment bureau is accomplishing every day."

The Y. M. C. A. secretary is also going to inaugurate several new plans for work among the immigrants who come here on every steamer. An information bureau is to be established and aid will be lent to the newcomers who are ignorant of the city and its ways.

Fred W. Lau, who has been appointed to fill the vacancy made by Dr. Hand, who resigned the physical directorship of the Y. M. C. A. on June 1, is an expert in his line of work according to Secretary Super who has received several letters of congratulation from Coast Y. M. C. A. and business men on his securing the services of Lau for the local association.

The new director, who will assume his duties on September 1, received his Y. M. C. A. training work at the Portland Y. M. C. A. and has made special study of practical hygienic and gymnastic methods. He has been employed by the Santa Barbara Y. M. C. A. for the past two years and has achieved his greatest success in directing the activities of business men's classes.

Lau will take care of the business men's classes here while LeRoy Johnson will direct the boys' classes.

For use in the summer cottage Japanese toweling is the quaintest of new items. It comes about 10 inches wide, and is priced at 15 cents a yard, says the New York Times. The effects are mostly blue patterns on white ground, though an occasional pale green and white piece is to be found. There are five designs shown in the blue and white and each design is complete within the measure of a yard.

Bjorkman-Clark Nuptials.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Colonial Hotel on Thursday afternoon when Miss Edith Clark and Mr. Gustav Bjorkman were united in marriage by the Reverend Leo-pold Kroll. The ceremony was performed under an arbor of pepper branches and white asters. During the ceremony the bridal couple stood beneath a wedding bell of white as-ters tied with white satin ribbon.

The bride wearing a handsome gown of embroidered chiffon over ivory satin was a picture of loveliness, as she descended the steps of the Clark cottage. Her lace veil, set low over her hair, was fastened with tiny roses and pearls. Miss Mary Clark attended her sister as bridesmaid. Mr. Bjorkman was supported by Mr. Percy Deverill. The bridal couple were preceded by Harry Clark, a brother of the bride, and Harold Hayselden, who scattered flowers on their path.

After the wedding, refreshments were served and the happy bride was the first to cut the large wedding cake which was placed beneath an arbor of greens and pink roses.

Mrs. Bjorkman is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark of Plainsfield, New Jersey, and has been visiting in Honolulu since February.

COLLEGE DAYS A RIOT OF FUN AT LIBERTY

Another capacity house greeted the Raymond Teal Musical Comedy Company last night and College Days started off with a giggle and ended with one long scream.

Mr. Teal as usual scored the individual hit of the evening with his black face specialty.

Tonight will be the last two performances of College Days and if you don't take in the fun-producer you miss the last opportunity of seeing the funniest show Honolulu has had since Kolb and Dill.

There will be an entire change of program next Monday night. The Teal Co. will present the "Land of Mana," which will be preceded by a series of first run motion picture which are a strong feature in themselves.

The show starts at 7:30 sharp tonight. Get the habit, come early and avoid the rush.

The Glacier will be shifted to the Ewa side of the Alakea dock at 7 tomorrow morning, so as to make room for the cruiser at the navy slip.

Tomorrow will be a busy day in service circles, the army transport Thomas being expected to arrive at 7 a. m. and leave at 1 p. m. Monday.

The same satisfaction given to patrons by the Baltimore No. 1 is to be the standard for Baltimore No. 2, beginning at 8 o'clock tonight. While music is to be the chief entertainment, there is to be much else to delight the inner man.

The same satisfaction given to patrons by the Baltimore No. 1 is to be the standard for Baltimore No. 2, but in the newer place everything will be on a much larger scale. To attain this standard and merit the statement that it is "the only real" place in the city to eat, no expense is to be spared, according to the promises in the advertisement of the opening. Anyway, the opening is bound to attract a crowd tonight.

COOLING NEWS—NO HELL OR BRIMSTONE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Hell, described in the Scriptures as a "lake of fire and brimstone," was unanimously voted out of existence by the members of his international "Bible Students" Association in session at Glen Echo, near Washington.

The members went further and called upon every minister in the United States to publish in his local newspaper his views or the question and asked editors of all the newspapers to invite the ministers to publish the statements of their belief.

Brig.-Gen. William P. Hall, U. S. A., retired, is the man responsible for today's action in declaring that hell exists only in the imagination of uninformed people. He called on the association officially to repudiate the "fire and brimstone" doctrine. A large majority of delegates coincided with his beliefs.

Gen. Hall declared many professors in leading theological schools did not teach the "hell fire" doctrine and that clergymen privately did not believe it.

WHY HONOLULU HARBOR IS CLEAN; SHARKS KEPT OUT BY CURRENTS

Captain J. R. Macaulay Explains Forces of Nature Which Prevent Port from Earning the Title of "Black Hole of Oahu—How Sewage Is Swept Out to Sea

"Were it not for the existence of four separate and distinct currents of water operating continuously within the harbor, Honolulu would be one of the sickliest ports in the world. The vast amount of sewage and refuse which enters the harbor each day would circulate without an outlet, breeding disease without end." With the above paragraph Captain J. R. Macaulay begins his report on the currents and tides in the harbor which he has made to the Harbor Commissioners.

The noted authority on the physical geography of the sea declares that the only reason that Honolulu harbor is not full of sharks at all times is because of an undercurrent which is so foul that it would mean death to even the scavenger of the seas to feed in it.

Captain Macaulay's report is likely to prove of interest to all those interested in shipping and the study of currents and tides and contains as well a large amount of information for the layman. It is as follows:

By CAPT. J. R. MACAULAY.

Not many years ago a movement was made to change the outlet of Nuuanu stream into Kalihii Bay; but a wise and kind providence still watches over us, and the outlet was not changed because of the lack of money. How fortunate for us that it happened so, otherwise we would today have as a harbor a dead sea, in which no living thing could enter and live for any length of time, a place to keep away from, and if once seen to be remembered, not as the Black Hole of Calcutta, but as the Black Hole of Oahu.

A study of the physical geography of the sea will cause you to wonder at the perfect system of circulation continuously in motion to keep the sea clean and healthy as a human being. It is just so with our harbor; there must be a perfect system of circulation kept up, if not, sickness and death is the result.

I might state that we should consider ourselves specially favored in the location of our harbors on the south side of Oahu, so being placed at right angles from the diurnal rotation of the earth, which rotation affects considerably all straits of harbors facing East or West, causing violent currents to form at their entrance.

To the apparent absence of such rotation is due the easy and slow current entering Honolulu, also Pearl Harbor.

To explain briefly the current entering Honolulu harbor—and the same applies to Kalihii and Pearl Harbor, I will take up the currents:

FIRST CURRENT—The main artery or stream of motion causing a current, is Nuuanu stream flowing continuously through the harbor on its outward course toward the ocean; and as it proceeds, carries with it, according to its momentum, a portion of water attracted toward it by traction, or I may say friction, and it also carries all sorts of flotsam that comes within its reach and deposits the contents far out into the sea, to be taken up by other currents afterward. After performing its short-lived usefulness, it fuses with the larger streams of the ocean. Nuuanu stream is a surface current only, being much lighter than the surface water in the harbor.

SECOND CURRENT—This I will call the "under current." If we except the tides and the partial currents of the sea, such as those that may be created by the wind, we may lay it down as a rule that all the currents of the ocean owe their origin to the difference in specific gravity between sea water at one place and sea water at another, for whenever there is such a difference, there is a difference in favor of the water moving toward the sea.

Third, or Ground Current. This is caused partially, I fully believe, by a difference of saltness, and also by the diurnal rotation of the earth, and I consider this ground current to be our very best sanitary friend. No member of the board of health can be compared to this sanitary friend of ours, that does its work so thoroughly, and sweeps along the bottom of the harbor, cleaning up all matter in its semi-circular course outward toward the sea. This matter is carried without interruption across the harbor and outward until it meets a fourth current running to the westward, and partially obstructed by a coral wall built almost halfway outward of the harbor channel.

Now this westerly current is by far the most powerful current in the vicinity, and sometimes travels at a rate of three miles an hour. It shows utter contempt of the coral wall and crosses into the harbor channel, coming directly into contact with the other currents already mentioned, causing thereby a rotary current, or maelstrom. Within this maelstrom for a short period of time, all matter brought to it by the ground current circles around, eventually being carried outward to sea, never to return.

CHINESE FIRST VOTE IN PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES

By casting a vote at the presidential primary held on the mainland last April, Kim Tong Ho was the first Hawaiian-Chinese to take part in a presidential election. Kim Tong Ho, who is the son of Ho Fon of Bishop and Company, bankers, has just taken his A. B. degree at the University of Wisconsin, and is expected home Wednesday.

While in college, he took an active part in student affairs and was a member of several literary societies besides holding office in numerous Chinese student organizations. Kim took the Chinese question for his thesis subject and received favorable comment upon it.

The main subjects which he studied were money and banking, banking reforms, corporation law and finance, business administration, taxation, business law, municipal problems, state and federal governments, European governments and international law. He specialized in economics and political science.

MAY DELIVER NEW BONDS IN INSTALLMENTS

If the purchasers are willing, the new territorial bond issue on which Treasurer Conkling is working in New York may be delivered in installments, probably in lots of $500,000, three or four months apart. Such is the statement of Governor Frear.

Conkling, in a recent letter, says the market appears dull and inert, the case of Baltimore, which has obtained only 97 for its four per cent. It is understood however that the government contemplates the establishment of a vast number of postal savings banks and that the Hawaiian bonds may be desired as security for savings bank funds, thus enhancing their market value.

RUSH OF MINERS TO FRENCH CREEK FIELDS

News of Rich Strike Cause of Stampede—Claims
Staked

Revelstoke, June 28.—It seems that there will be repeated this year the rush of miners into the famous placer fields on the tributaries of Old Gold Stream, seventy-five miles north of Revelstoke. Prospectors by twos and threes, every night for the past month, have been leaving town for French Creek and McCullough Creek diggings. Many placer claims have been already staked out.

The cause of the stampede is the news of a rich strike of placer gold along an old channel, discovered by three prospectors, who for over a year have been prospecting this channel.

Between the years 1860 and 1865 the old workings on French Creek yielded in the neighborhood of four million dollars to the hundreds of miners and prospectors who worked its rich gravel to bedrock. At that time a typical boom town was established, with a population of from three to four thousand people, with its usual accessories in the shape of saloons, dance halls and billiard rooms. For years past miners and prospectors have been looking for an older channel on French Creek, which was known to exist from the very nature of the ground.

The recent find is believed to be as rich or richer than the workings along the present creek, from which so many millions were extracted in the sixties. For a number of years the well known placer mining man, Mr. E. A. Bradley, has been constantly at work on French Creek, developing and prospecting. He has purchased a steam placer drill, which he is putting on the ground on French Creek, for the purpose of more easily and expeditiously prospecting his claims. Mr. Bradley's boilers, engines and drills had to be taken apart and packed into the mines over forty miles of a trail on pack horses.

Mr. Warren Andrews and Mr. Hart Munro have located beside the Montgomery properties between this property and that owned by Mr. R. A. Miller and associates. The surrounding ground is being staked as fast as men and horses can reach them from Revelstoke, which is the nearest city. French Creek can be reached in one day from Revelstoke by a forced march, the steamer Revelstoke makes two trips each week up the river to Downie Creek, 40 miles, from Downie Creek to French Creek in 30 or 35 miles over a pony trail. There is also a pony trail all the way from Revelstoke to French Creek, and a two-day ride will negotiate this trail.

HILO BELT ROAD BIDS ARE OPENED

Bids for contracts two, five and also for the acreage of road across the lava flow in connection with the extension of the belt road were opened in Hilo Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the loan fund commission.

For contract two, Hakalau is lowest bidder with the figures of $9,587.60. The other figures are as follows: Lord Young Engineering Co., Ltd., $12,770.37; A. A. Wilson, $124,801.35; Arioli Brothers, $126,370.10.

For contract number five, Kaawaui Gulch to Kealakekua Gulch, the Lord Young Engineering Co., Ltd., has a bid of $106,514.35; Arioli Brothers, $116,810.25; Volcano Stables, $116,942.20; A. A. Wilson, $118,687.70.

For Hakalau lava flow goes to C. E. Wright for a bid of $53,160.25 and alternates (a) $52,486.45 and (b) $12,255. The alternates are (a) all earth binding for stone and (b) covering the portions of the road graded by the county. The original proposition was for an asphalt binding.

Engineer Bishop states that he is entirely satisfied with the bids and that the two low bids are below the estimates prepared in his office.

JAMAICA MAKES SUGAR INCREASE

There has been a marked change in the exports of rum and sugar from Jamaica in the last three years, according to Consular Reports. In 1909 the exports of rum amounted to $1,339,496, in 1910 decreased to $655,319, and in 1911 to $412,115. The exports of sugar, however, increased from $577,814 in 1909 to $1,270,890 in 1910, and fell to $1,204,040 last year. The decrease in the production of rum is due in large measure to the imposition of increased customs duties on Jamaican rum by the United Kingdom and Germany, which had a prejudicial effect on its sale abroad and consequently on its production at home. The increased price of sugar has stimulated the production of that staple article; and as several large sugar mills have recently been built in Jamaica, and increased output of sugar may be expected.

EXAMPLE FOR HAWAII.

The Porto Rican coffee trade proposes to establish a roasting plant in New York and endeavor to popularize the island's coffee in the United States. American imports of coffee reach nearly 1,000,000,000 pounds a year, yet imports of Porto Rico coffee last year were only 250,000 pounds. Porto Rico produces 20,000,000 to 45,000,000 pounds of coffee yearly, which are practically all sold in Europe, where it is said to bring excellent prices. However, the American market would prove more advantageous for the Porto Rican coffee grower if a demand for it can be created here. There is a Porto Rican industrial exhibit in New York which includes the island's coffee, and detailed information can be secured on any subject relating thereto by addressing the Porto Rican Bureau of Information, 501 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.—Consular Reports.

WORLD-RIVALS IN GREAT STRUGGLE

Germany and Great Britain Contending for More Than Political Honors—Honolulu Man Shows Magnificent Stakes That Are Played for by Nations

Great Britain and Germany in a struggle of centuries for supremacy.

A Honolulu man, keen student of foreign politics and international relations, has written for the Star-Bulletin the following article, which brings to the surface many underlying causes in the present battle of wits and resources between England's statesmen and those of Germany.

The first part of the article is a thoughtful and scholarly editorial from the San Francisco Chronicle, which the Honolulu writer takes as a basis for his discussion.

ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

As was the case some months ago the latest speech of Winston Churchill, in which he sets forth the conditions under which the naval competition between Great Britain and Germany is to be carried on during the next few years, is calculated to attract world-wide interest.

It had been popularly supposed that recent discussions between Germany and England had resulted in the establishment of relations of mutual confidence which would bring about a curtailment of naval construction on the part of both countries. The temper of the time was supposed to be in favor of such an understanding, and the exchange of visits between London and Berlin was believed to have substituted an atmosphere of confidence for one of suspicion.

That this has been the case would seem to be evident from the statement of the First Lord of the Admiralty in the House of Commons on Monday. Although Mr. Churchill is reported as having spoken "without the least offensiveness," the text of his speech was "build, build untroublingly," and in this he was supported by the former leader of the opposition, Mr. Balfour, who declared that the "cost of the navy must increase as long as insane competition in shipbuilding goes on elsewhere."

Mr. Churchill's speech this week like his last one, may be construed as an invitation to Germany to enter into an arrangement with Great Britain whereby both countries would agree to limit the size of their naval armaments. But it is based on the assumption that Great Britain has a right to maintain, nevertheless, a greater navy than Germany, and to that assumption Germany is probably unwilling to agree.

Baldly, Mr. Churchill's speech is a notice to Germany that the former two-power standard, with its uncertainties and indecisiveness, has been abandoned for the present by the British Government, and that there has been substituted in its place the far more definite standard of a single power—that of Germany—with perhaps, its ally in the Mediterranean, Austria.

This program cannot but be distasteful to Germany, because Germany is growing far more rapidly than Great Britain and her statesmen probably are not in mood to be dictated to or threatened. The present population of Germany is 50 per cent greater than that of the United Kingdom, and in productivity she is infinitely richer.

The last twenty-five or thirty years have seen a relative decline of English prosperity, and English Lords of the Admiralty will, sooner or later, be forced to take account of this fact, in the naval budget which they introduce in Parliament. For a long time there were accidental conditions which favored England in the international economic struggle. These have gradually disappeared. The decay of her agriculture has been accelerated, the progress of her industry and commerce has been slackened, and for the first time in several generations her supremacy in this field is questioned.

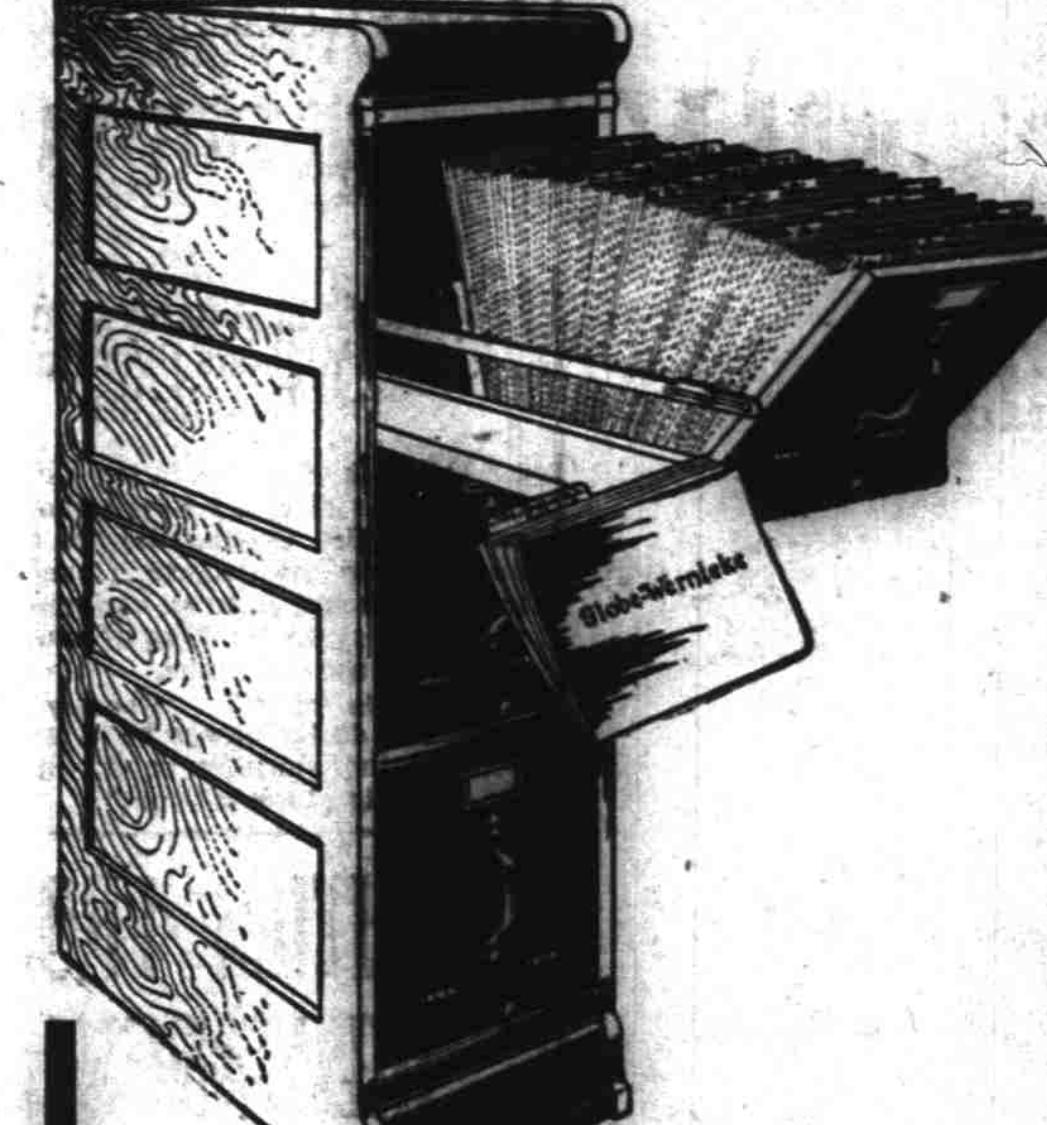

A land of vast, long-hoarded wealth, of thriving but threatened industry, England today seems to be tending toward the condition when she no longer will be able to derive the elements of material power from hard-fought economic victories. Moreover, the advance of German ambition and the duel fought with millions between the navies of the two countries have shifted the maritime supremacy of the British people from an unquestioned commonwealth to that of a disputed fact.

England has to face the question of her comparative decadence. Unpleasant as it may be for a proud nation to admit it, the fact cannot be blinked. It would be well for the peace of the world if British statesmen would frankly acknowledge the new international adjustments and, instead of threatening Germany by large armaments, curtail her naval expenditures within the limits of her finances.

THE UNDERLYING CAUSES.

The foregoing article, a reprint from the San Francisco Chronicle, although correct in its conception of British-German relations, does not explain the average reader the cause for the serious and strained relations between these two great and closely-related nations.

It appears that the feeling of hatred and distrust has been the result of economic, political and military rivalry. In reading the official and semi-official statements of Great Britain's and Germany's statesmen and press, one is impressed by the fact that the British dwell principally on the "military" side of the question, declaring that Germany's aggressive naval policy is causing the trouble, while the Germans give predominance to the "political" phase, claiming that Great Britain has been and still is threatening and blocking the just ambitions of

Says No Split Whatever in Kaako Precincts Over Political Candidates

"This talk of a split in the Kaako precincts is certain y'a lot of ho' air," comments Joe Cohen, who has tossed his hat into the ring as a candidate for senator and after an absence from politics is again thinking of caucuses, primaries and elections.

"There is no split. Charley Bartlett didn't do the things he is credited with in the morning paper, in fact, the story is absolutely off."

POLITICS FROM HILO ANGLE

HILO, August 2.—From the way in which the political straws are lying at the present time everything points to a campaign of unusual strenuousness and more than usual bitterness. The first rumble has been heard of the local political machine getting under way, and distant mutterings are also to be heard in connection with affairs Territorial: It is doubtful if anything much will be done in connection with the Territorial end until the Republican and Democratic conventions have named their respective candidates for Delegate. This is natural in view of the unrest existing at the present time in Honolulu and the uncertainty regarding the status of Kuhio.

If Kuhio runs as an independent or if he runs as the Republican candidate but under the auspices of the famous "Seventy Eight" club of the last convention 's against the J. P. Cooke-Fear faction it is certain that the Hawaiians will vote solid for him. If, however, there is any kind of compromise, either for "the good of the party" or for "harmony" then the Hawaiians will throw their vote to McCandless.

If the race question is raised the Hawaiians will vote solid for Kuhio. The Democratic strength as far as the Territorial vote is concerned is not strong. This is mainly due to the fact that although he is a large percentage of the voters here who would vote Democratic in view of the fact that most people believe there is to be a Democratic president, the fact of Kuhio being an Hawaiian will hold them in check. Otherwise there is no chance of the Democratic vote being much more than under ordinary conditions.

It should be clearly understood that no matter what happens in connection with local politics and what combinations are made for the purpose of pulling down fat jobs in Territorial politics, it is every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost. The Proposed Fusion.

It is decidedly interesting at this end to read in the Star-Bulletin the remarks of one Joe Fern, mayor of Honolulu, as to what he did during such time as he scindilated his grand-ma gold filled teeth around our Island.

Fern is quoted as saying that the fusion between the Democrats and Home Rulers has been effected and that he spoke at three or four meetings. The amusing part of it is that no fusion has been accomplished and that at the present time although David Ewaliko, for reasons of his own, wants the fusion badly, there is a wide gap to be yet smoothed over.

So far the matter has only reached a stage where the Hilo precinct clubs of each party have been discussing it, committees met on Friday night and a motion endorsing the fusion was finally forced through, but not without strenuous opposition. The matter will now be put to the various precinct clubs throughout the Island and a vote taken. The trouble is that while the Home Rulers can put a full slate up the Democrats cannot.

The attempt made by David Kalauokalani, Sr., to get the Home Rulers here to swing in with the Progressive party seems to be bearing fruit.

The Labor Union.

It appeared at one time, and even now according to the unionists, that the labor union vote might cut some ice. It is only a pipe dream of Ewaliko's however, for the way in which matters have been handled makes the vote one that will not exist.

Ewaliko claims that while the union will send out no ticket it will vote for the men it thinks best irrespective of party. It has since come out that every man joining the union was promised absolute political freedom and also that no attempt at coercion would be made.

This will kill any move on Ewaliko's part as the members intend standing by their parties as against the union. A hundred of them have split from Ewaliko already, in connection with a local row.

WILSON TALKS OF BELT ROAD WORK

Buys Complete Plant to Fill the Contract While in Chicago with Nat'l. Committee

John H. Wilson had his nomination for Democratic national committeeman, which he won here before leaving, confirmed by the national convention in Baltimore. He was present at the meeting of the national committee in Chicago on July 15, at which McCombs was elected chairman. There were only one or two absences. Most of the committee went to Indiana to pay their respects to Governor Thomas Riley Marshall, the vice-presidential candidate, but Mr. Wilson had too much business on hand to go. He was taken up with the purchase of a plant for his belt road contract.

"I will have the most complete road-building plant in the Territory," Mr. Wilson said this morning. He enumerated, as either here or on the way, a steam shovel, a couple of road rollers, a portable crusher, eight spreading wagons, some watering carts, an oil outfit and, lastly, for schooners to ply between Honolulu transportation purposes, a gasoline and the Koolau coast.

Mr. Wilson was busy this morning arranging preliminaries of the contract with Cecil Brown and L. L. McCandles. He expects the completion of his plant by the steamer Honolulan on August 21, immediately after which the gravel will begin to fly on the hard-won contract for section one of the belt road.

- Referee—W. Heilborn.

Billy Heilborn, the well known local sporting man, will referee the McCarthy-Madison fight this afternoon. This was decided last night at a conference between the fighters and the promoter, after a long wrangle over who was to be the third man in the ring.

McCarthy has been standing out for George Ingle, but Madison thought that it wasn't good business, as McCarthy and Ingle were travelling companions on the way down here. Madison wanted Mike Patch, but the latter wasn't over anxious to serve, after his experiences at the last bout.

Heilborn is the compromise candidate. He has had considerable experience as a referee, doing good work here in almost all the bouts that were pulled off between 1900 and 1905. His integrity is undisputed and he knows the Queensbury game from A to Z.

Both McCarthy and Madison are in first rate shape for their set-to, and the same can be said of Kupa and Bauersock, whose mill is attracting hardly less attention than the main event.

The seating arrangements at Athletic Park are capable of seeing everybody, and unobstructed view of the ring, and the fact that the fight is to be held in the open air in the cool of the afternoon should bring out a big crowd.

The ring has been improved somewhat, a padded ledge being built around the outside edge, so that the fighters put on the ropes will not fall off the platform.

The main event should come on about 5, the first prelim being sched- uled for 4.

SAWED OFF SHORT

The first match of the three-game series between the second polo teams of Oahu and the Fifth Cavalry, is scheduled for this afternoon at Schofield Barracks. On paper the teams seem evenly matched, and both at the big post and in local circles there is keen interest shown in the result. Today Oahu will be represented by Dr. Baldwin, Walter Macfarlane, Harold Dillingham and Henry Damon, while the Cavalry four consists of Milliken, Baird, Heffernan and Groninger.

The Myrtle Boat Club is to be the host, tonight at an elaborate dance, to take place in the club house overlooking the harbor. Myrtle entertainments have been notable for their good fellowship and pleasant social features, and this is sure to live up to the standard. Tickets, at $1, are for sale by a limited number of members, who are keeping a close watch on the outgoing pasteboards, thereby assuring a highclass attendance. Those who have tickets for sale are F. A. Beckert, E. Podmore, H. Bailey, A. F. Rollier, A. T. Wisdom, R. K. Chillingworth and L. Hough.

Johnny Kling is trying hard to infuse new blood into the Ward men. Boston has purchased the Giants' option on Arthur Bues, and is hot on the trail of promising youngsters. What the Braves want, in the opinion of the Boston critics, is speed.

Twenty-five games in succession without an error is a stretch of perfect fielding continuity, or continuous perfection, credited to Johnny Evers this season.

"The ball club," says John McGraw, referring to his Giants, "is a stronger all-around club than the Giants that won the world's championship in 1905. It is making a good many more runs than that club did."

MISS EDNA SMITH NEW TENNIS CHAMPION OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Defeats Miss Louise Phillips of Chicago in Well-Played Finals Yesterday at Beretania

Miss Edna Smith, of Quincy, Mass., is the new tennis champion of Hawaii. She won the title yesterday by beating Miss Louise Phillips, the Chicago player, in a match that was replete with flashes of splendid tennis form. Miss Smith really earned her victory, winning many points with clean aces due to clever placing, and not depending on the misplays of her opponent, as is so often the case in ladies' tennis.

The first set went to Miss Phillips 6-4, after some exciting rallies. In the second, Miss Smith took the lead at the start, and placed to such good purpose that she ran the set out 6-1. The final set was a see-saw affair, which was captured by the new champion 9-7.

Neither player slowed up, as the points fell first on one side of the net and then on the other. In fact, it was a better exhibition of the game at the close than at the beginning of the match.

AL PALZER IS GAME ALL THE WAY THROUGH

Albert Palzer's sensational victory over Bomber Wells in New York recently continues to be a live topic.

The fight settled one point beyond question of doubt—the gameness of the American. Before the bout Tom O'Rourke, Palzer's former manager, intimated that the big fellow had a streak of yellow and surely would "dog it" if Wells managed to hurt him. But O'Rourke evidently was wrong, for he saw Palzer come back under fearful punishment and win impressively in three rounds.

If Palzer had been a quitter he would have stopped off his own accord in the first round. Nobody ever saw man so completely outworn in that short space of time. Palzer's nose and mouth were bleeding from one punch, a right hook; his right eye was closed from another straight left-hand jab, and a swing under the point of the jaw flattened him in such a manner that a knock-out seemed imminent. When Palzer got up, his gameness and stamina were put to a grueling test. Wells cut him to pieces and made him stagger blindly all over the ring. The Englishman's attack was about the fiercest ever seen in any heavyweight battle, yet Palzer stuck it out to the end of the round. Wouldn't Quit.

This strenuous spell of three minutes settled the question as to Palzer's courage, for in spite of the battering he increased his aggressiveness in the second and third rounds and finally got to the Briton with blows that might have stopped even Mr. Jack Johnson. At least that is the prevalent belief, although it is freely admitted that Johnson's offensive tactics would make the landing of such great wallop a matter of blind luck. But could Johnson hit any harder than Wells? If so, could he knock Palzer out before the latter had a chance to slug at close quarters? Johnson's weak spot is just above the belt, precisely the place where Palzer planted his victorious right-hand swing. Could Johnson show faster footwork than Wells in keeping away?

There isn't the slightest doubt that Palzer today is more aggressive than Jeffries when he won the title from Fitzsimmons at Coney Island. Sharkey, always a rusher, was smaller, lighter and not so hard a hitter as Palzer. Looking back over the champions, John L. Sullivan seems to have been reproduced in this husky Iowa farmer, who is a natural born fighter with bulldog courage and a knockout punch. Jimmy Wakely, who once managed and backed Sullivan, exclaimed after the Palzer-Wells battle:

Another John L.

"Palzer is another Sullivan. He is a ferocious slugger and a giant in strength. Nobody living can hit him harder than Wells, not even Johnson. He was a bit fat, but his natural fighting ability was immense. If he beats Luther McCarty nothing can stop him from whipping the big smoke for the title. Palzer is bigger and stronger than Johnson and can outslug him. Take it from me!"

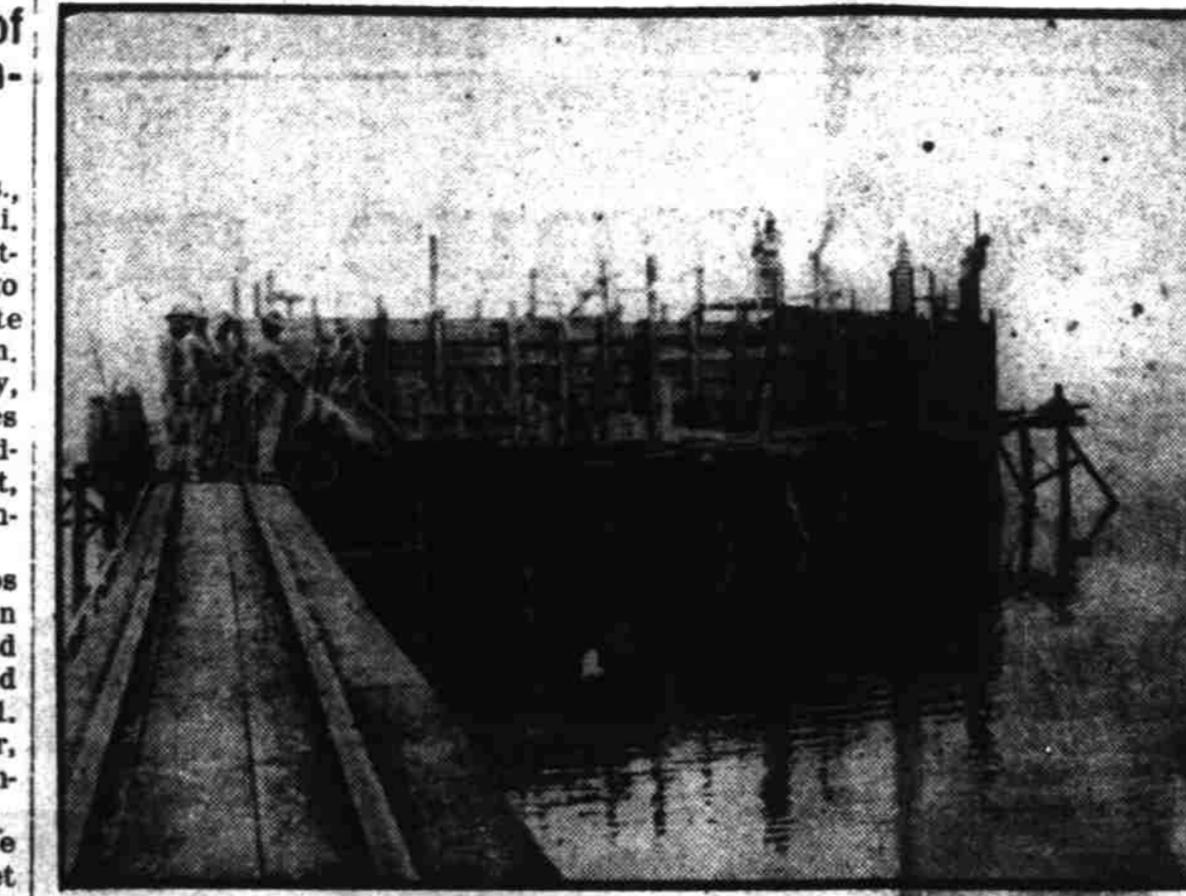

Palzer's next battle will be with Luther McCarty in New York. Palzer declared recently that he would make short work of McCarty. In other words, the Palzer-McCarty scrap will provide a man who will force Johnson into a real fight some time in the fall.

But the humbug seldom makes things hum.

The path to the poorhouse is paved with gold brick.

Fads are all right for those who haven't anything to do but kill time. The first week of the Swat the Fly campaign in North Yakima, Wash., resulted in the death of 6,374,000.

NEW RANGE STARTS HEALTHY BOOM FOR RIFLE-SHOOTING

NEW KAKAOKO RIFLE BUTTS.

Guardsmen and Marines May Shoot Team Match in the Near Future—Rifle Reports

The exact sport of rifle shooting is soon to get a substantial boost in Honolulu. For several weeks past men have been hard at work on the construction of new rifle butts for the National Guard, at the Kakaako range, and with their completion, and the commencement of the outdoor course for the citizen soldiers, it is believed that there will be largely increased interest, and that outside the line of military duty there will be some rifle matches which should provide good sport.

Among the guardsmen there are a number of first class marksmen, but lately there has been little interest in shooting, and it has been hard to drum up any enthusiasm. Then, apparently for no good reason, interest seemed to revive, and as the new range nears completion, there is more shooting talk than has been heard for some time. Already a number of team matches are in the air, while individual rivalry is beginning to assert itself.

The Kakaako range is to be used jointly by the Territorial soldiers and the marine corps battalion at Camp Very. Under this arrangement the National Guard is supplying the materials, and Major Neville's men have been doing the actual work, the result being the finest and most substantial construction of this sort in the Territory.

Marines Versatile.

The work has brought out very strongly the versatility of the marines. When Major Neville looked for the right men to detail for the construction work he found any number of privates and non coms well up in the building trades. There were concrete experts, iron workers, carpenters, and in fact every trade that could possibly have a hand in building concrete rifle butts was represented. This construction corps set to with a will, and the finished product will be ready for the targets in a day or so now.

The new butts which are going up are located in shallow water, the direction of fire being seaward. A substantial foot wharf across the shoals and mud flat connects the targets with the shore, and enables the men who serve them to go to and from the butts without inconvenience. The new butts carry four targets for the 300 yard range, while the old butts further out in the water, are being renovated to take care of the 400 yard shooting. The new targets slide up and down vertically, while the old ones are drawn in horizontally.

Splendid Construction.

EUGENE CORRI SAYS AMERICAN STYLE OF REFEREEING IS BEST

English Authority Thinks That American Plan Is Better Than English System

A controversy as to whether the referee's position should be in or outside the ring is just now agitating English boxing circles. The question is only part of a movement aimed at some wide-spreading reforms. An effort is being made to promulgate an international scale of weights that will be recognized in all countries where boxing is held.

The leading authorities on boxing have given their views for publication. All are in unison regarding the uniform rate scale, but differ on the referee problem. Some decide that the referee is a nuisance in the ring, obstructing the view of the spectators and getting in the way of the boxers. Those taking the opposite side point out that when the referee is outside the ropes he is unable to see a foul blow struck if the precipitously happens to have his back turned on him.

Eugene Corri, who is recognized as England's leading referee, favors the American system of refereeing. Gilbert Elliott, chairman of the National Sporting Club of London, takes the opposite point of view. Victor Brayer, the French promoter, when asked to give his opinion, said he favored the plan of having three judges outside the ropes to give the decision and a ringmaster inside to see that the men box fairly.

BAMBOO POLE HELPED SMASH THE RECORDS

Less than fifteen years ago a pole vault of 9 feet 6 inches was considered a great performance. This height was a record in many sections of the country. The mark has been boosted gradually until at the present time it is 13 feet 1 inch, held by Robert Gardner, of Yale, who made the mark in a meet of endurance club-swingers.

The improvement in this event may be attributed to the use of the bamboo pole. When pole vaulting first was recognized as a standard event, many poles were used. The vaulters soon tired in repeatedly carrying the heavy poles down the runways and attempting to clear the bar at various heights. After the heavy pole went out of existence, the spruce pole was used and the record was raised still higher.

At this time the coaches, trainers and vaulters began a scientific study of the art of pole vaulting. Everything was done to improve the form of the contestants. After the spruce pole supplanted the one of oak, coaches and trainers began looking for some other kind of wood which was lighter but would carry the weight of the vaulter. The bamboo finally was discovered. It was found that if the pole was tapped in different places it would uphold the weight of a man 185 pounds. Now the bamboo pole is used entirely by good vaulters.

Thirteen Feet Some Height.

At the present time the vaulter has no business taking part in an important meet unless he can clear the bar at twelve feet. The art has reached the stage where it is a common occurrence to see a vaulter measure off a certain running distance and adjust the standards in such a way that nothing will hinder his attempt to get over the bar. Just how high the vaulters will be able to clear the bar is a matter of conjecture, but thirteen feet in the air is a mighty good vault. For those who don't realize how high it is let them climb a tree and look down from that distance. Then they will recognize how difficult it is to get over the bar at such a height.

WHAT INSPIRED JACK JOHNSON

"I'm no millionaire and I've got sense enough to know the 'Old Dame Nature' is going to take the speed and strength away from me. When Labor day comes around Jack Johnson is through with the fighting game, and that goes. What's the use of risking sickness for the sake of a few dollars, more or less?"

"I have two hobbies now, which take up lots of my time," he went on. "One of them is the study of the tubercular germ and how to exterminate it. Some years ago, when his wife was threatened with pulmonary trouble, he made an extensive study of this scourge, with the result that he has formed some positive opinions.

"KING OF CLUBS" GIVES ADVICE

Tom Burrows, who, by swinging Indian clubs continuously for 80 hours, earned the title of champion endurance club-swinging of the world, lays his success largely to the care he has taken of his breathing apparatus, and is a firm believer in "feeding" the lungs all the fresh air that is available, and doing this in a scientific manner.

"Treat your lungs right and they won't go back on you in a pinch," says Burrows. "In a place like Honolulu, where there is plenty of pure air everywhere, everyone should know how to make the most of his advantages. If the average man or woman knew how to breathe, there would be fewer jobs for the doctors and undertakers."

Burrows is going to try to smash his own club-swinging record here next week, and to keep the clubs moving for more than 80 hours without sleep or rest he will need to practise what he preaches about good wind. He has written for the Star-Bulletin a short article on deep breathing and club-swinging for health, which, if followed, can not fail to benefit anyone.

By TOM BURROWS.

I propose in this brief article to treat with a branch of the art of club-swinging which is not so well known as it should be, namely, club movements—not swinging—for the preservation of health, or for obtaining an ideal development and a supple, erect carriage for either sex.

In arranging these exercises I have devoted special attention to freedom and looseness of movement, the strengthening of the different groups of muscles so that each exercise acts on the lower and upper limbs, loins and chest, and to create the power of endurance; and no one will, I think, venture to deny that the quality of endurance is no less valuable in the life of a business man or woman than in a feat of endurance club-swinging.

Full, Deep Breathing.

Deep breathing is different from breathing with one's exercise. It should be performed before your club movements. In a city within a beautiful garden like Honolulu, feed your lungs three times a day with the pure air, outside or with your window open.

(1) Grip clubs in the hand, not by the knob. Stand erect, raise arms to the front, width of shoulders; arms stretched to full extent above the head. Describe a full circle outwards and downwards; at same time rise on toes, breathe freely, ten times.

(2) Rise on toes; at same time carry arms behind as far as possible; rise on toes, gripping clubs firmly. Swing arms to front height of shoulders, at same time raising toes and balancing on heels.

(4) Raise both arms above the head, width of shoulders; heels together, legs straight; bend sideways to the right and left, keeping arms parallel, ten times. This is splendid for external oblique gluteal and hip muscles and the waist for ladies.

(5) Raise arms sideways, at same time raising leg sideways; repeat with other leg. Change. Swing both arms to front above the head, at same time raising leg to front, knees straight; bending body and neck backwards slightly. Repeat with other leg. Five times each position.

STANFORD'S CREW CAPT. THROUGH WITH COLLEGE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, July 25.—John Partridge, captain-in-chief of the Stanford crew, arrived here last evening from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he rowed in the big regatta on June 28. Partridge says he does not intend to register in college for the fall semester. His absence will leave a big gap in the forward ranks of the varsity football team, of which he has been a member for several seasons.

HONOLULU BUILDING UP AT RATE OF $2,500,000 A YEAR

Stock Exchange Shows Gain of $70,000 for Six-Day Period

Taking the past three months for a basis, Honolulu is erecting new buildings at the rate of more than two and a half million dollars a year. In May, June and July the total estimated cost of buildings for which permits were issued was $642,375, which is at the rate of $2,569,492 for twelve months.

Permits for buildings issued in July represented a cost of $286,387, and for repairs, etc., $16,523, a total of $302,910, an against $97,619 and $11,432 respectively, a total of $100,051 in June, or an increase of $18,858 for July. There was an increase of $40,222 for last month over the total for May, which was $282,688.

The total of all permits for the past three months was $674,649, being an average of $224,883 a month, or at the rate of $2,698,596 for twelve months.

Among the buildings permitted in July are a dormitory at Oahu College to cost $28,861 and three dwellings to cost respectively $10,000, $5000 and $4500. In contrast to such habitations are the barracks of cheap construction rapidly crowding many long vacant lots in the older and lower level of the city. The only thing that latter phase of construction from being viewed with utmost consternation is the improvement in general sanitary conditions, such as the extension of sewers and otherwise, as compared with former times in Honolulu. While also the system of detached cottages for cheap domiciles is probably infinitely to be preferred to the big tenement house system that has given so much concern to our sanitarians ever since the great Chinatown fire, still it is a pity if it is impracticable to house the poor in this warm climate without allowing a reasonable amount of breathing space around their habitations, as well as a little ground wherewith they might enhance the joy of life by cultivating flowers and a few things for their tables.

Real Estate.

Real estate is quiet. But few transactions of much size are being recorded. There is a regular but not brisk movement in suburban lots.

Peter C. Jones has sold a residence property at College Hills, containing 20,000 square feet, to Jonathan Shaw for $5000.

Julia H. Afong has sold to Sanchi Ozaki land at Manoa Heights addition, about three acres, for $3650.

Spencer Bickerton is handling the sale of the Spreckels tract at Punahoa for Harry F. Lewis, its recent purchaser.

It is reported that Robert Hind has bought the dairy ranch of Herman Focke on Manoa Heights for something between $25,000 and $50,000.

Judge Henry E. Cooper bought at guardian's sale all the interest of the Ringel minors in Palmyra Island, 800 miles from Hawaii, for $501 and thus completed his title to the whole island.

Mrs. F. S. Lyman on Tuesday, by lands near Diamond Head sold by her to Lewis J. Hodge in April last for $37,500. Hodge had made several payments on account and erected a $2000 house on the premises, and had gone to California, where he was in a sanatorium at last accounts. Mrs. Lyman declares in her recorded notice of re-possession that Hodge had failed to make the payments according to agreement.

Notes.

An offer has been received to underwrite the $400,000 bond issue of the San Carlos Milling Co., organized here to operate a central sugar mill in the Philippines. A meeting of the stockholders will be held after report is received from the manager, Mr. Bell, who is on the ground arranging for a right of way for the company's railroad.

England's notice to withdraw from the Brussels convention, in 1913, reported in a cablegram to Alexander & Baldwin yesterday, is one of the most important items of news for sometime.

The withdrawal of England, it is thought, would be followed by larger purchases of sugar by that country from Russia, which would be liable to depress beet sugar prices.

Bishop & Co., bankers, are extending their offices into the premises now occupied by the Morgan company, and the latter will remove to the former Star building, in Merchant street.

L. B. Kerr & Co. have removed from the Kapiolani building, Alakea street, to the Pantheon block, at Fort and Hotel streets.

Many large orders are being executed by the Honolulu Iron Works, including the conversion of nine-roller to twelve-roller mills of the plants of Wailuku Sugar Co., Pioneer Mill Co. and two in Formosa owned by Japanese.

Other contracts in hand are the construction of a new mill for Koloa Sugar Co. and the erection of a steel building for Kohala Sugar Co.'s mill.

The company has started building chain iron works in Hilo.

Planters on the Island of Hawaii have not the aversion to Russian labor evinced by those on Oahu and Maui.

Consequently Dr. Victor S. Clark, commissioner of immigration, continues his quest for Russian immigrants.

He may proceed from Russia to Bulgaria, from whence a trial family party of twenty is expected here shortly.

An army board to consider the additional defenses required to make the Island of Oahu impregnable is sitting in Honolulu.

It consists of Brig.-Gen. M. M. Macomb, commander, Department of Hawaii; Lieut.-Col. John F. Morrison, Maj. George Blakely and Maj. William P. Wootten.

TITANIC'S CAPTAIN OR HIS
GHOST SEEN BY OLD FRIEND

BALTIMORE, (Md.), July 20.—The statement that Captain E. J. Smith, commander of the ill-fated Titanic, was not drowned, but was seen yesterday morning in Baltimore was made today by Peter Pryal, a retired mariner of this city, who was quartermaster on the steamship Majestic, of the White Star line, thirty years ago, when Captain Smith commanded that vessel.

Pryal said that he had not only seen the captain, but talked with him. Pryal also said that he saw Captain Smith last Wednesday morning, but was skeptical as to his identity and, to confirm his belief that the captain was alive, went to the same spot yesterday morning and again saw the captain.

Saw Captain on Street.

It was while on his way to the office of Dr. Mactier Warfield for treatment for an internal disorder last Wednesday that he swore he first saw approaching him the commander of the Titanic. Attired in a neat-fitting business suit of a light brown color, straw hat and tan shoes, the man carried two suitcases and was staring straight ahead. Pryal approached him and spoke, but received no reply. The man seemed unconscious of his surroundings and continued walking rapidly west out Baltimore street.

Yesterday morning Pryal went in Baltimore and St. Paul streets and stood on the corner for almost an hour. Finally he saw the same man approaching. Walking up to him, he said:

"Captain Smith, how are you?" Then, according to Pryal, the man answered:

"Very well, Pryal, but please don't detain me; I am on business."

Without realizing what he was doing, Pryal followed the man. Several times the latter turned and when he finally saw Pryal behind him rushed into the Calvert building and, according to Pryal, endeavored to lose himself in the crowd. Pryal was behind him, however, and followed him through to the Equitable building and saw him board a car. His pursuer boarded the same car and saw the man get off at the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis station, where he purchased a ticket for Washington.

As he passed through the gates to board the car, he turned to Pryal, smiled, and said:

"Be good, shipmate, until we meet again."

The proof of the political pudding is in the distribution of the plums.

IS DISABLED

(Associated Press Cable)

WASHINGTON, August 2.—Word reached the navy department today that the cruiser South Dakota, of the United States Pacific fleet, has met with an accident, which may delay that vessel's arrival for some time.

According to a wireless dispatch from the commanding officer of the vessel, the South Dakota, bound for Honolulu, broke her starboard tail-shaft last Monday, and is limping into port in Honolulu, on one engine.

The dispatch gives no details of the accident. No one is reported injured.

The Star-Bulletin gave the news of the disabled condition of the South Dakota to the public some days ago.

OROZCO STILL PLANNING.
EL PASO, Texas, August 2.—Great was the rejoicing among the refugees from Mexico tonight when it was learned that congress had appropriated $100,000 to pay their transportation from this city to any point they might designate to the government officials here.

It was learned here tonight that General Orozco, in spite of the many reverses he has met with of late, is again planning to attack the federal forces. This move, it is said, is contemplated, more with a view of forcing intervention, which apparently is the last hope that the rebels now have, of finally winning out.

SOCIETY NOTES OF WASHINGTON

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—Except for the Congressional contingent, and that portion of officialdom which is obliged to remain in town until the close of the present session of Congress, Washington society has practically deserted the Capital. And even in these circles, it is for the most part only the men of the family who are still in town.

In its selection of a summer rendezvous, Washington society has been particularly impartial this year. As usual a goodly contingent crossed the Atlantic, but an equal number remained to while away the heated term at Newport Bar Harbor, Narragansett Pier, and various other of the fashionable resorts along the North Shore.

The season is now well under way at all of these places, and the Washington colony is prominently identified with the social activities of each one.

At Newport Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish began their season of entertaining at Crossways, which they are occupying this season for the first time in three years. The entertainment was dinner and dance, the most brilliant social gathering of the summer. Following the decision of several of the social leaders of the place against Sunday dancing there was no dancing after midnight, Mrs. Fish thus inaugurating the ban.

The Russian Ambassador and Mme. Kakhmeteff, who are leaders in the Washington coterie at Newport, were among the guests at the dinner which preceded the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, who usually spend the entire season at Newport, unless they go abroad, have decided to divide their time between Bar Harbor and Newport this year, and are now at the former place, where they have taken the Balance cottage until late in August, when they will go to Newport. Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean and the latter's mother, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, are already established at Bar Harbor, though they will later visit the Russian Ambassador and Mme. Kakhmeteff, the latter an aunt of young McLean, at Newport. Mr. and Mrs. John R. McLean have also taken a cottage at Newport and will take possession shortly.

Mrs. James F. Barbour and Miss Marguerite Barbour have joined the Washington folk at Narragansett Pier after an extended sojourn at Atlantic City. Yesterday the weather at the pier was so cool that polo coats and wraps were much in evidence.

Washington society at home or abroad was very generally interested in the engagement announced by the former Governor of Minnesota and Mrs. W. R. Merriam of their daughter, Laura, and Congressman Catlin of Missouri. For months such an announcement had been expected by their friends who have been watching the development of the romance between the fascinating young woman and the young legislator. Their marriage will be one of the important social events of the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gelet Gerry have taken a cottage at Bar Harbor for the remainder of the season. They will have with them for the summer, Mrs. Gerry's mother, Mrs. Richard Townsend, who will close her Washington residence on Massachusetts avenue in a day or two.

Congressman and Mrs. John Joseph Kindred have left Washington for their summer home in the Catskills, Alta Vista, Sunset Park, Haines Falls, N. Y. Later in the season Mr. Kindred will accompany a party of congressional friends on a camping trip in the wilds of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, who are now at Bar Harbor, will go to Newport shortly for a visit to the former's uncle and aunt, the Russian Ambassador and Mme. Kakhmeteff.

Rear Admiral Beatty, U. S. N., and Mrs. Beatty will go to Maine the middle of August to spend several weeks in camp. Miss Beatty has gone to Newport to visit Miss Marguerite Carpenter.

Mrs. Fred Dennet, wife of the commissioner of the Land office, and their son, Rodney Dennet, will sail from New York Friday for Antwerp, where they will be met by Mrs. Dorothy Denneet, and continue on to Paris for a stay of some weeks.

Mrs. Dorothy Denneet, who has been attending a French school at Westgate-on-Sea, England, for the last year, will return with her mother in the fall to complete her education in this country.

The Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Huntington Wilson left Washington today for Newport, where they have a cottage for the summer.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., and Miss Jessie Edwards, will leave Washington in a day or two for Niagara Falls, where they will visit Mrs. Edwards' mother, Mrs. Porter, for a few weeks. Later they will go to the North Shore for the late season.

Mrs. George E. Vincent, wife of President Vincent of the University of Minnesota, has been invited by Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the President, to chaperon a party of young people on a tour through Glacier National Park, Montana, in August, according to a news dispatch.

Miss Taft is arranging the party, and the young people who are to be included are Miss Martha Bowers, daughter of the late solicitor general of the United States, Lloyd W. Bowers, and her brother, and also the daughter of President and Mrs. Vincent, Miss Isabel Vincent.

Miss Vincent was a classmate and roommate of Miss Taft at Bryn Mawr College, from which college Miss Taft would have graduated had she not become the associate of her father and mother in extending hospitality at the White House. One of Miss Taft's brothers will also be in the party.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Blanche Rutherford, daughter of the late Gen. Alan Rutherford, U. S. A., and Lieut. John Augustus Brockman, U. S. A., will take place July 17 at Glenallen, the country home of the bride's mother, at Gaithersburg, Md. The bridegroom is now stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., where he will take his bride.

Past Assistant Paymaster F. W. Holt of the United States Navy and Mrs. Holt have gone to Key West, Fla., to which place Mr. Holt was ordered a few weeks ago, having recently returned from Yokohama, Japan. Mrs. Holt is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Thompson of this city.

Secretary George von L. Meyer, who has been ill of typhoid at his summer home at Hamilton, Mass., left last night for Quebec, accompanied by his son, George von L. Meyer, Jr., where they will spend three weeks fishing.

The estate of John Hays Hammond at Gloucester, Mass., will be thrown open to the public next month for an elaborate benefit garden party to be given under the auspices of 28,000 club women of the United States, who aim thereby to raise money for a memorial arch in Washington in honor of the men who died on the Titanic. The Hammond estate has a natural ravine in one part, which will be used as an open-air amphitheater. The whole affair will be fashioned after the "Command" performance given to royalty in England.

President Taft will attend and Mrs. Taft is one of the committee of 10 who have charge of the affair. Mrs. John Hays Hammond secretary. The benefit will probably be repeated at Newport and Bar Harbor a week later.

Mrs. C. D. Hilles, wife of the chairman of the Republican National Committee, has closed her Washington residence, at 2119 Connecticut avenue, for the summer, and, with her children, is established at their summer home, Seatack Lodge, L. I., for the season.

Mr. Hilles, who until recently was Secretary to the President, will join his family for brief visits occasionally during the summer. Mrs. Hilles, who was prominently identified with the social life of the National Capital last winter, also takes an active interest in politics and was one of the most enthusiastic of the feminine spectators at the Republican convention in Chicago in June.

Mrs. Thomas Carter, widow of Senator Carter and her sons, Hugh Carter, and John Carter, are spending the summer at their home, in Montauk.

Col. and Mrs. George Dewey, U. S. A., have postponed their contemplated trip to Europe and have returned from New York.

Capt. Baron Preyschen von und zu Liebenstein, formerly naval attaché of the Austro-Hungarian embassy, has gone to New York and will sail from here Saturday on the George Washington, of the North German Lloyd line, to join Baroness Preyschen, who preceded him abroad several months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran and Mr. and Mrs. Shane Leslie have left the Cockran country place at Port Washington, L. I., for an automobile trip to Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie will sail from Montreal for England within a few days. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie, the latter formerly Miss Mirjorie Ide, daughter of the American minister to Spain, took place at the country home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cockran, early in June.

Baron de Bode, military attaché of the Russian embassy, and his sister, Baroness Elizabeth de Bode, who have taken a cottage at Jamestown for the summer, have arrived at that resort.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, gave a tea at the Hotel de France et Choisel, to Colonial Dames in Paris, before continuing her motor tour in Switzerland this month. Among her guests were the Misses Ewing and Mrs. Thomas, Miss N. Gillette, Mrs. LaBam and daughters, Mrs. John Jamison, Mrs. Aubrey Beattie, Mrs. Cheneau, Mrs. Lawrence, Miss Heath, Countess Spofford-Mackin, Mrs. P. Poura, state regent of Louisiana; Mile. du Bellet, Miss Rodman, Mrs. E. W. Griffin, Mrs. Georgia McMichael, Mrs. Edwin Eric Sharks, Miss Sharks, Miss H. W. Rowland, Baroness von Munchhausen and Mrs. Robinson Wright.

THE NEW HAT TILT

If you wish to be fashionable, mesdames, wear your hat on a gentle slope just touching the right eyebrow and contrive, if you can, not to look rakish, but quite seriously come il faut. If you like, and if the gods or your hairdresser have seen fit to provide you with hair in twists and coils at the back, you may reveal the fact; you may even have fluffy puffs at the side and take the public into your confidence about it. But out of doors you must conceal the fact that there is any hair on top or wandering in waves or kiss curls over your forehead. Not a strand of hair should show in front—which is all very well so long as the hat is on, but if we follow the fashion, pretty sights we shall all look as soon as our hats are removed. One can foresee a revival of the great theatre hat difficulty—Chronicle.

IF ROOSEVELT MEN SEIZE TICKET, TAFT MEN WILL LOSE

Electors in Several States Are Planning to Usurp Republican Lists

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—Charges that the Roosevelt party is trying to steal Republican electors in various States, and in a fair way of making good on the theft, were made at the White House by Republican leaders who conferred with President Taft.

The conference related to the serious situation in Kansas, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, California and other States, where the Roosevelt leaders have things in splendid shape to support Roosevelt men for electors under the cover and guise of Republican electors.

Those who talked with the President and Secretary Hilles were Representatives Burke, Moore and Campbell, the former vice-chairman of the Republican Congressional committee, and Mr. Campbell vitally interested because of the program of the Roosevelters. Republicans Congressional candidates are involved in nearly all the States, and if the Republicans hope to elect a Republican House in November they must get the complications cleared up. Representative McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, had seen the President earlier in the day.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal."

"The cardinal plank in the Roosevelt platform is 'Thou Shalt Not Steal,'" Representative Burke told the President and Mr. Hilles, "but in South Dakota the third party people have already proceeded to attempt to steal the Republican electoral vote of the State, the plainest and most rotten game of theft ever tried in American politics. The same game is being followed in other States, and the worst of it is that in some places, possibly, the regular Republicans will be helpless."

Senator Gamble of South Dakota, who also saw President Taft, denounced the game in his State as steal and told the details. The Republican State committee there met to nominate electors, as provided in the law, and to attend to other business. The committee proceeded to nominate straightout Roosevelt men as electors, to be placed on the ticket as Republicans, and admits that if they are elected in November, although sailing under the name of Republicans, they will vote for Roosevelt. The Taft Republicans, it is stated, have the recourse in that State of putting regular Republican electors on the ticket by petition, and this is likely to be done.

The Kansas Situation.

The conference refuted largely to the situation in Kansas, where the first test of strength between the Roosevelt and Taft men will come August 6, in the primaries to be held that day. These primaries will be for the nomination, as Republicans, of a full State ticket, Congressional candidates, State Legislature and electors. Gov. Stubbs and Senator Brislow are both out for Roosevelt, and claim that if the Roosevelt electors are nominated in the primaries they can and will be put up as Republicans under the heading of Taft as the Republican nominee, but will vote for Roosevelt in the electoral college.

The regular Republicans in Kansas are working like beavers to defeat this scheme, but do not know whether they will succeed. The Taft Republicans have put up a ticket of electors, and the Roosevelt people have done the same thing. The Roosevelt people will sail under the name of Republicans, the Stubbs program being not to bring the new party name into the game, but permit the whole scheme to be worked out under the pretense of Republicans.

Taft Men See Breakers Ahead.

If the Roosevelt electors carry the primaries and go upon the Republican entitling them to a nucleus upon which the carbon ticket the Taft men, under the Kan-crystal can grow.—Harper's Weekly.

STREET SWEEPING AS A FERTILIZER

bulletin has been issued by the Bureau of Soils, U. S. Department of Agriculture, which might be of interest to the Honolulu board of supervisors and to local agriculturist. It is by J. J. Skinner and J. H. Beattie, scientists in soil fertility investigations. There are ten of these scientists employed, among them being Edmund C. Shorey, formerly Territorial chemist and pure food commissioner here.

In their introductory remarks the authors of the present treatise say:

"This Bureau has many requests for information in regard to the value of street dust and street sweepings as fertilizing material, both from truckers and gardeners and from officials of large cities interested in the best means of disposing of city waste."

The debris which is collected from the streets of cities in commonly used as fertilizing material, being sold to near-by gardeners, truckers, and farmers. Its rather low cost making it particularly attractive. The main object of the city official is to dispose of the material, and in some cases it is burned and in others it is hauled to a dumping ground and used as filling material.

"There is some variation in the character of the material collected from the streets of different cities, depending on the nature of the industries, the kind of paving material used, and the character of traffic on their streets, yet on the whole the collections from sweepings are very similar and consist chiefly of animal manure, leaves, dirt and trash, such as paper, fruit skins, particles of coal, etc. The sweepings may contain also finer particles of the paving substance and some oily material dropped from vehicles. This is especially true at the present time, when the use of power vehicles for pleasure and business is so extensive. The effect of the sweepings on crops, especially when used continually year after year on the same field, is a subject of much interest and has caused considerable speculation."

"Declaring he does not see how a genuine progressive can support either Taft or Wilson, Congressman Lafferty, regular Republican nominee for re-election from the Third Oregon district, announced that he would support Colonel Roosevelt for President.

"Nothing short of a complete political revolution," said Lafferty, "will put the public in charge of the machinery of the Government. Roosevelt is the only man willing to lead that revolution, and I firmly believe he will be elected."

"Roosevelt is the greatest man since Gladstone, and I will miss my guess if he is not elected to the Presidency for a second time in November, as he has a right to be under the precedents. The hackneyed remedies of Taft and Wilson, which propose to deal with the burning industrial questions of this great country by filing a few tedious law suits under the Sherman anti-trust law, will be thrown into the discard by the voters when the Roosevelt platform is announced at Chicago, and his campaign gets fully under way."

GROWING DIAMONDS

It has been known for some time that the vapor of mercury has the power of decomposing various compounds the carbon out in a pure state. Amalgams, or mercury alloys of sodium and other metals slowly lose the mercury through evaporation. When such amalgams are placed in contact with hydrocarbons, these are decomposed, liberating the carbon as a shapeless mass and also a few crystals. These, however, are so small and so few as to be of no practical value. A chemical engineer by the name of Von Bolton has undertaken to produce large crystals of carbon by making the mercury decompose carbon compounds under conditions favorable to the growth of crystals.

In a tube about 16 inches long and nearly an inch in diameter he placed a quantity of sodium amalgam containing about 85 per cent mercury. Over the amalgam he placed a layer of sodium silicate, or "water glass," and over this he sprinkled some diamond dust containing a number of very small crystals. Into the tube he then passed a current of ordinary illuminating gas, keeping the whole apparatus on the water bath at the temperature of boiling water. A number of crystals were formed, some of these being large enough to be seen without the aid of a microscope. That these were diamonds is indicated by the fact that they disappeared when heated in oxygen, or fused when heated with sodium carbonate. It may therefore be concluded that hydrocarbons are decomposed by mercury vapor in a day that liberates the carbon not merely as a shapeless mass, but also as crystals, if there is present.

The application of street sweepings to soils will undoubtedly have a beneficial effect and be a factor in building up the land. The possible danger of a harmful effect from the oily substance which it contains must, however, be considered. If the oil could be economically extracted this danger could be averted. The oil could in the debris for the first year or two may not have any effect, but a continuous application to a field year after year may eventually impair its productivity, unless through drainage or other natural agencies the oily material is drained off or changed. In some localities this is probably the case, as the use of such material is still said to be effective, although it has been applied for a number of years. No very definite field information on this point is, however, at hand. In this connection attention must be called to the fact that the presence of an unusual amount of oil in such street sweepings has been the result of automobile traffic, and hence appears only in recent years as an appreciable factor in the use of street sweepings as fertilizer, and it is not improbable that the amount of oil will even further increase in the next few years.

Details of the investigations, with tables showing results, follow, from which it appears that street sweepings make a valuable fertilizer, with the exception that the oil they now generally contain should be eliminated, as it is injurious. Following are the concluding remarks:

"An examination of the figures in the table shows that the sweepings and stable manure had about the same efficiency in causing increased growth. This is true with both the grain and the vegetable crop."

"The oil was also extracted from the sweepings by using ether as the solvent, and the sweepings afterwards tested in soils. This test also showed that the sweepings were practically as good as the stable manure.

"It will be recalled that the effect of the unextracted sweepings was not nearly so good as the effect produced by the stable manure. In other words, after the oil was removed from the street sweepings their action was practically the same as that of the stable manure. That the oil is the deleterious constituent of the sweepings is also borne out by the fact that the oil itself when added to culture solutions in which plants were growing markedly reduced their growth.

"The application of street sweepings to soils will undoubtedly have a beneficial effect and be a factor in building up the land. The possible danger of a harmful effect from the oily substance which it contains must, however, be considered. If the oil could be economically extracted this danger could be averted. The oil could in the debris for the first year or two

KING AND PUNCHBOWL STREETSCALIFORNIA GIRLS LEARN ART OF HAWAIIAN SURF-BOARDING

George Freeth, Former Honolulu, Is Busy with Redondo Nymphs

REDONDO BEACH, July 13.—The exciting Hawaiian sport, surf-boarding, so easy for the native Hawaiian, and so difficult for the American, has been taken up by some of the summer girls here, and judging by their perseverance they mean to master the feat or die in the attempt. These girls are probably the only women in the country who ride the surf board, and but few men have learned the art of handling the board.

Miss Dolly Mings, Miss Birdene Packson and Mrs. Hattie Whitney are the young women, and may be seen almost any morning learning the tricks of the sport under the instruction of George Freeth, the Hawaiian swimming instructor.

Miss Packson, a pretty blonde, who came here recently from San Francisco, describes the surf-board riding as the "best sport" she knows of. She says "you feel just as though you were riding through the air in an aircraft when you ride in on the breakers."

Miss Packson has been swimming but three months, but in that time has learned to do no end of things in the swimming line. She swims well, does high and fancy diving and has become adept at swinging through the air on the rings in the plunge, a feat of which she is most proud, as she is the only girl among the swimmers who does this.

Miss Mings, who holds the Pacific Coast and Southern California woman's championship for fifty yards, is the best and strongest swimmer here and her fancy diving is equalled by none of the other swimmers. Surf-board riding is the latest accomplishment acquired by this attractive little swimmer, who keeps up her swimming winter and summer.

Mrs. Whitney has so far proven the most expert with the surf board, as she has given the most time to it. All of the girls agree that the sport is difficult to learn, but very delightful. Requires Nerve.

George Freeth, the instructor, says: "Surf-board riding requires unlimited nerve, and is much like mastering a bucking broncho. You never know just what will happen. But the only really difficult or dangerous thing about it is when you attempt to ride the board standing, after the manner of the Hawaiians."

When you hear Freeth describe how to ride a surf board you feel as though you could do it, whether you are a swimmer or not, but the girls who have tried it say it is quite different when lying on the board, which appears to be determined to throw one.

At any rate, here are Freeth's methods as described by him: First, when leaving the beach you carry the board until beyond you depth, but hold the board off to one side, headed into the breakers, otherwise the breaker may catch the board and send you sprawling. Second, lie flat on the board with the feet just hooking over the end, and paddle with the arms as if they were oars. At the same time balance the board by pressing down with the chest on whichever side the board should be directed. Third, start to paddle about twenty feet from the breaker, and keep paddling until you have fully caught the breaker. Then slide backward off the board until the end of it strikes between the knees and hips so as to remove the weight from the front of the board to prevent it from running into the sand. As the board rides over the breakers and up to the beach use the feet as a rudder with which to steer it, and as you are carried into shore hold to the board with both hands.

There are just four things to avoid to prevent danger, according to Freeth. "First, the rider must never get between the breaker and the board, or there is danger of being hit by the heavy board. Another thing to watch is that you paddle until fully up to the breaker. Above all things the rider should remember not to slide off the board too far when taking the breaker; that is, the foot of the board should touch the legs of the swimmer between the hips and the knees; otherwise the board might strike the swimmer in the body. The last thing, but most important to remember, is never to let go of the board."

The surf boards used by Freeth and his class of pupils are of redwood and weigh about forty pounds. The dimensions are eight feet long, twenty-four inches in width and two inches thick.

Athletic Girls.

Although not many of the girls at the beach have been brave enough to attempt the surf board yet the majority this year are ambitious swimmers of divers and each one seems to have some particular stunt in aquatics in which she excels. No one seems content merely to jump the breakers and lounge on the sand in a stunning bathing suit. It may be that the girls are eager to vie with the different holders of championships in their swimming stunts, of whom there are several here. Lady Langer, holder of 220, 440 and 880 yard championship for Southern California; Cliff Bowers, Pacific Coast champion diver; Tommy Witt, champion child diver, are all here this year.

Among the girls who do fancy diving stunts, distance or fast swimming are Miss Dolly Connolly, a pretty Redondo Beach High School girl; Miss Pearl Hutchinson of Los Angeles, Miss Norman Bennett and Mrs. T. B. Bassett.

The art of riding the surf board in a standing position, which is done by balancing the body on the board, was revived by Freeth in Honolulu in 1900. Although Hawaiians generally rode the surf board up to that time they rode only by lying on the board, although they knew that their early ancestors had ridden in a standing position. Freeth, who now has one of the old surf boards given him by a native prince which had been handed down from the early days, as a boy persisted in trying to ride the breakers in a standing position as he had heard of from the old natives' stories.

The board given him by the prince was sixteen feet long and about four inches thick and after many falls and calculations, Freeth figured out that his board was too long for the breakers, as it couldn't take the curve of the combers.

He finally worked out the dimensions that are used now in the boards in Hawaii, eight feet long, and twenty-four inches, by four inches thick. Now many of the Hawaiians ride the surf board standing and carry a second person on their shoulders.

SHE GOES TO STUDY EDIBLE FLORA OF THE SOUTH SEAS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The toboggan could be placed under the high cost of living by taking advantage of the unlimited quantity of edible seaweed washed up on the California coast, according to Miss Josephine E. Tilden, professor of botany and algology at the University of Minnesota, now in San Francisco.

Miss Tilden, who although next to the head of her department in the university, scorns the title of professor and declines to receive even the degree of doctor of philosophy, will sail today on the steamer Manuka for Sydney, Aus., and other points in the South Seas, including New Zealand and Tahiti.

The party includes besides Miss Tilden and her mother, Mrs. Henry E. Tilden, two junior students of the University of Minnesota, Stanford King and Frederick Tryon, who are specializing in botany and algology. The party will study the botanical and manufacturing possibilities of the South Sea Islands.

"Algae glace," "kelp soup," or any other euphonious designations for dishes derived from the humble seaweed, might serve to popularize this source of food supply, Miss Tilden believes. She points out that the benefits received would be twofold, widening the variety of foods and introducing a food source which could not be cornered and which would furnish wholesome and inexpensive edibles.

"The occidental nations are behind in this regard," explained Miss Tilden last night. "Japan, for example, has reared a sturdy fighting nation which shows exceptional capabilities for scientific advancement, on a diet consisting largely of seaweeds. Japanese, Chinese and many other nations have made dainty and healthful dishes from the plants of the sea.

"The properties which make beef or all classes of vegetables valuable are found also in seaweeds. Yet with all our study of the high cost of living, this vital, potential food supply has been totally ignored.

"However, our trip, which will include Sydney and points in New Zealand and Tahiti, will not be confined to the study of seaweeds. The islanders have the crude beginnings of many industries of the future. I am going to study these.

"For example, the well known kapa or tapa cloth is colored with some of the most beautiful dyes known in the world. Pinks and browns and other colors may be found in delicate shades. These dyes are purely vegetable, and thus have many advantages over the universal aniline dyes, and, I believe, with scientific manufacture, could be produced more cheaply than the aniline colors.

"The islands make a crude sort of paper; in fact, the kapa cloth is only a kind of paper, from plants on the islands. Many of these could be transplanted to this country, and would furnish an alternative source of paper pulp which might save the forests of the north. Perhaps, and all scientific investigation starts with a 'perhaps,' the kapa cloth could be strengthened sufficiently for making it seawable, and the possibilities of this soft and fairly strong vegetable cloth, which is so cheap, furnish good food for the imagination."

Miss Tilden objects to the pompous titles usually affixed to university professors as inappropriate to women.

"Please don't say much about my scientific studies," pleaded Miss Tilden. "I only happened to take up algology because I have been deeply interested by the ocean since childhood. I don't consider purely scientific studies as the best aim for girls, and strive to make my investigations valuable from the economic standpoint."

MAN CHAINED 20 YEARS

Extraordinary Treatment of Son by Pennsylvanians

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 16.—A prisoner in chains for twenty years, with his parents his jailers, is said to be the strange experience of an insane man who was received as a patient at the Dixonton asylum here Monday night from Indiana, Pa. While the authorities of the asylum will not divulge the man's name, they admit that he was shipped to them in a rough pine box from his home in Indiana county. The patient was accompanied by a county officer and physician. When removed from the box, it is said, the man, who was bound with ropes, was almost exhausted.

Unable to Tell His Age.

Dr. H. A. Hutchinson, superintendent of the asylum, says that the strange appearance of the demented man made it almost impossible to tell his age. His hair and beard were more than a foot long; he wore no clothing, and resembled a wild animal more than a human being.

According to the story related to Dr. Hutchinson by the county official and physician accompanying the patient, the unknown man has been insane twenty years. His condition was kept a secret by his parents, who feared if it became known their son might be taken away from them. The father, clinging to the hope that his son might regain his mental balance, but compelled to protect his family, it is alleged, shackled his son with chains and fastened him securely to the wall of a room in an obscure portion of the house. In that room, it is attested, the youth grew to manhood.

Secret Out When Father Dies.

The secret was carefully guarded by every member of the family and did not leak out until a day or two ago, when the father died. As soon as the county authorities learned the state of affairs they took charge of the demented man. The emergency of caring for a demented person has rarely arisen in Indiana county and the commissioners, it is alleged, were in a quandary as to how they would take their charge to the asylum. The only method known to them, it is asserted, was the method in vogue fifty years ago—shipment in a pine box. This is the explanation given, it is said, for the queen manner in which the demented man was brought to the asylum.

COOL SUMMER DRINKS

During the warm summer months water, tea and lemonade take their accepted places among cool drinks.

Some think the hot tea poured over mint and crushed ice is preferable to that made and chilled before serving, but this is merely a matter of opinion.

The old idea that "anyone can make lemonade," is quickly dispelled by tasting a few of the beverages labeled with its name. To make one good kind of lemonade, grate the peel of four lemons into a cupful of water, add a pound of sugar, and boil this syrup for ten minutes; this should give a little more than a pint of thick syrup. Now add the juice of the lemons and that part of the pulp which can be freed from the pith and skin and three large cupfuls of water to the syrup, and beat it all thoroughly, being careful first to remove all seeds and, after this, the diced pulp of a blood orange and part of a sugared pineapple; chill and serve in glasses full of crushed ice.

Raspberry vinegar is an old-fashioned beverage that is particularly refreshing. Let four quarts of red raspberries stand for twenty-four hours in enough vinegar to cover them. Currants and raspberries have also a place in summer drinks. To a pint of the currant juice add a cupful of black raspberry juice and a quart of water, and boil ten minutes. Serve with only a tablespoonful of crushed ice in each glass.

THE LAWN LUNCHEON

An easy way of making the little daughter's Summer pleasant, is to allow her to give a series of informal lawn luncheons. The first requisite is one of the big umbrellas or canopies of umbrella shape which are mounted upon substantial wooden handles and are usually to be found serving as permanent sun-shelters at seaside resorts. A discarded dining table, freshly painted and shortened as to its legs, will answer as a standard for the big umbrella-canopy and about this should be set from six to eight of the folding chairs which are used chiefly in mountain camps and are the cheapest and most easily carried of all seats. Then buy for the little daughter a set of enameled tin plates, cups and saucers, and knives, a white oilcloth spread and a hundred paper napkins and she will be a perfectly contented hostess, presiding over guests delighted with the environment of the entertainment.

FEMINISM IN CHINA

The leader of the Chinese feminists, Mme. Chang, assisted by other prominent Chinese women is endeavoring to raise sufficient funds to establish a law school for women in Peking where they may receive political education, writes a contributor to the Monitor. If a sum sufficient to cover the cost of erection is forthcoming, it is expected that the government will grant an annual sum for teaching purposes.

SEPARATE TOWEL SKIRTS

Cotton ratioc or crash toweling will probably retain its prestige for some time. The separate skirts of it are really a joy, says a New York Times writer. One wants to get the fine weave of it and have the lines exceedingly well cut and the skirt well fitted, otherwise it is thick and awkward.

Its advantage over linen is that it does not crush or wrinkle, and one could wear it for days without having it pressed. When it is washed one does not have to keep it with such strict care as a linen one, for it folds softly and easily into any place it is put.

If one is traveling or going on week-end visits during the summer its advantage is an admirable one, for every woman knows what a linen suit looks like when it emerges from a dress suit case. These crash skirts are made over a simple four-gored pattern, often with the hand-turned fold or a group of tucks which one sees so much these days at the back of skirts. The front is fastened with large pearl buttons, or if one likes a fanciful touch there is a great variety of quaint buttons from which to choose.

One may wear girdles on thin frocks, but for everyday use the belt is still out of commission. The extensible waist is too graceful and too convenient for women to give it up without a struggle. It is the most shapeable way that we can cover our huge, modern waists, and one need never think whether or not the blouse is tucked up above the waistband.

The two-inch inside belt, which is tightly fitted around the waist, gives the skirt as much snugness and holds it as well in place as the tight waistband of other days.—Christian Science Monitor.

New Ideas For Large Bazaars

New ideas for large schemes for bazaars as a whole, as well as for little novelties which may be introduced, are eagerly watched for. The Ladies Home Journal gives the following:

For a large bazaar at the seashore, or at a country resort where crowds of people are gathered from many sections, the idea of a "carnival of states" is good because there will be a personal interest somewhere for everyone. Many picturesque features may be planned for such an affair. Vermont, for instance, could have a "sugaring-off," with maple sugar dainties and maple ice cream for sale. The grain states, the fruit states and the garden states all offer ideas that may be attractively developed.

An old idea in bazaars may very often be rechristened and taken on an additional attraction with a new name. Have you ever had a "Kwan-Koba"? This is Japanese for "bazaar" and admits of all the prettiness which accompanies Japanese decorations, Japanese entertainment, with flowers and lanterns, kimonos and tea houses, catchy songs and picturesqueness.

A new way of disposing of "grabs," which will be exceedingly pleasing to the children, if it can be arranged, is to provide a tank. Fill this three quarters full of water, and have in it a mechanical boat. Have one person at each end of the tank to manage the boat. The child puts his 5-cent piece on the boat, which goes to the other end of the pond and brings back the little package of mystery on the boat. Every child will want to see the boat go after his package, and it will be an added pleasure to have change sent back in the same way. At a fair where this scheme was tried it appealed to boys of 15 as well as to smaller children.

The "sugar-plum tree" is a good idea for a candy "grab" or for a candy decoration. Make little flowers of old-fashioned chocolates. Pink, white, yellow and red tissue paper may be used for blossoms. Cut from green paper a circle seven inches in diameter and another about five inches and a half. With a small pair of scissors clip the edges in about an eighth of an inch like the edge of a pink. Place the pink circle within the green one, and in the center of the pink one place an old-fashioned chocolate. Twist the papers to look like a little blossom, and, with a piece of narrow green ribbon, tie it to a tree branch planted in a large pot.

As a "mystery" feature did you ever try an "Express Office" Arrange under the counter bundles of all shapes containing fancy work, vegetables,

WITH THE AID OF THE OLD FREEZER

FROZEN CUSTARD

Scald one quart of milk; then stir in two tablespoonsfuls of cornstarch wet with a tablespoonful of cold milk; add one cupful of sugar and cook over hot water for twenty minutes; then pour on the beaten yolks of three eggs and fold into the hot mixture the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Flavor with vanilla and lemon and, after cooling, freeze until firm.

FRUIT PUDDING

Make a custard as for the frozen custard, using two level tablespoonsfuls of cornstarch to thicken it, and reserving the whites of the eggs for a meringue. Have any preferred fruit placed in a cold dish, sweetening it to suit the taste; then pour the hot custard over it, and place where the mixture will become thoroughly chilled. When ready to serve whip the whites of eggs very stiff; add two tablespoonsfuls of sugar during the process, flavor with rose, orange or vanilla, and spread roughly over the top. Sprinkle with chopped nuts if desired extra nice.

RICE ICE CREAM

Wash and boil half a cupful of rice until tender; then press through a sieve and add a pint of scalded milk, bring this mixture to the boiling point and pour it gradually over the beaten yolks of two eggs and one cupful of sugar; add the juice of two sweet oranges and the grated rind of half of one fruit; then chill and freeze to a mush. At this point stir in one pint of whipped cream and continue the paddling until the cream is firm; then pack for two hours.

FROZEN SOUP

This makes a delicious addition to the hot day meal, and by using the bottled bouillons or meat extracts may be easily prepared. If the essence of meat or fowl is to be extracted at home care must be taken to cook the meat the day before, so that the fat may rise and be easily removed. The seasoning must be done when the soup is cooked, then strained and chilled. The savory, paprika, a little onion, parley and salt for meat and chicken soups. Place the liquor in the freezer and turn the crank as for ice cream. Serve in dainty cups or glasses, passing waters with it.

A frozen tomato soup will also be found palatable for the first course at a dinner or luncheon. Add to the other seasonings used in the meat soups six cloves and a tiny bit of bay leaf when cooking the vegetables; chill them freeze. When using the purchased essences follow the formulas that come with each jar or bottle; cool and freeze.

A frozen clam bouillon is especially delicious on a torrid day. Cook the clams for a few minutes in enough water to cover the shells, which must be scrubbed free from sand; then, when the shells have opened, drain off the liquor, remove the meats and place in a pan with enough cold water to cover; boil up twice, then strain; add the two liquors together and season with celery pepper. Chill and freeze. Taste the liquor, and if too strong dilute with cold water, as the flavor must be delicate. Care must be taken also not to have it too weak, as some of the strength freezes out.

WHITE CUSTARD

Scald one pint of milk and add a teaspoonful of butter and half a cupful of sugar mixed with one tablespoonful of arrowroot and a pinch of salt; cook over boiling water until the top is wrinkled; then fold into the hot mixture the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs and a half teaspoonful of extract, almond preferred. Pour into a dish the bottom of which may be covered with fresh fruit jam or coconut. Chill thoroughly.

FROZEN SALAD

Cook tomatoes in just enough water to cover the bottom of a pan; then press the vegetables through a sieve; add to the hot pulp a little extract of onion or grated onions, half a teaspoonful of minced parsley, a teaspoonful of butter, and celery salt and paprika to suit the taste; cool, then freeze as for ice cream. Add a cupful of whipped cream to the mixture when it is mushy, then continue freezing. Spoon into lettuce cups, turning a tablespoonful of French dressing over each service. On each dish place wafers and a ball of cheese rolled in salted nuts.—Ladies' World.

M·T·R CAR COSSIP

FIRST OAKLAND CARS COME FOR VON HAMM-YOUNG COMPANY

Type Is Well-Liked by Connoisseurs and Should Prove Popular

The von Hamm-Young Co. received by the S. S. Korea the first shipment of Oakland cars which have been received in Honolulu. One is a pretty 30 h.p. touring car, with nickel trimmings, equipped with Presto self-starter, demountable rims, high grade mohair top, windshield and other accessories.

The other Oakland is a 40 h.p. touring car, equipped with all the latest equipment and accessories.

Both of these cars have been examined by critical automobile experts and are pronounced the snappiest little cars that have been brought to Honolulu for some time.

The motor of the Oakland, which is of the L. type, responds to the slightest touch, it runs easily and smoothly. The valves are enclosed so as to make the motor as quiet as possible. The action of the clutch is positive, no grabbing or jerking. The transmission gears mesh easily and without noise.

The cars are correct in every particular and show a great deal of power—both the cars received here are ideal cars for use in congested traffic or to be driven by ladies.

The S. S. Korea also brought for the von Hamm-Young Company a shipment of the popular Buicks, three cars of this shipment, all 5-passenger touring cars, were shipped to the Kaimai garage, one having been sold to them by Mr. Fred Carter, another one to Mr. Frank Crawford, and the third one to Mr. J. H. Coney.

Another Buick, a beautiful little model finished in gray and blue, was delivered during the week to Mr. Fred Wickham, and a pretty Model 36 Buick runabout was delivered to Mr. Copeland of Maui.

The von Hamm-Young Company also delivered another one of the always popular 5-passenger Cadillac touring cars to Capt. Thomas, of the barracks, who had placed house."

NEW PACKARD TO BE IN FIELD SOON

The most important and interesting information received by the von Hamm-Young Company for some time is the news from the Packard Motor Car Company that a new 6-cylinder car will shortly be added to the Packard line.

This new 6-cylinder car will be furnished in 5-passenger touring cars, 5-passenger phaetons and 2-passenger runabouts only. It will have a b-cylinder motor, 4-inch bore by 5½-inch stroke, developing 38 horsepower, A. L. M. rating, or approximately 60 brake horsepower.

It will have a wheel base of 134 inches for the touring car and 138 inches for the phaeton. It will be equipped with 36x4½-inch tires front and rear on Q. D. demountable rims.

The gasoline tank will have a capacity of 20 gallons, and will be placed at the rear of the car.

An electric generator will furnish current for charging the storage batteries, which in turn will supply the current for the lights.

This car, which will be known as Model 38, will be equipped with left-hand control, the hand brake and speed change levers being placed at the left side of the driver, which will give the driver an unobstructed passage from the curbside to his seat.

The Model 38 will also be equipped with an electric self-starter, operated from the driver's seat. The Packard Company felt that even though there had been a growing demand for several years for left drive cars, that it was not worth while to make the change until the car was equipped with a positive self-starter, as in the Model 38, because so long as the driver had to crank the car by hand, he always had to step into the street before he could get under way.

Having a positive starter on the Model 38, there is now every reason why the car should be equipped with left drive. The car which has been tried out so far have demonstrated that anyone accustomed to driving a car with right drive, can get into the left drive car, and after a very brief experience, handle the car without any hesitation or difficulty.

The factory price of the Model 38 touring car and phaeton will be $4150.00. This price includes top, windshield, electric generator and all the extra equipment as furnished on the larger 6-cylinder Model 48.

AUTO NOTES

A combination motor chemical and hose truck has been installed at Taunton, Mass.

Springfield (Ohio) councilmen have decided to equip the present apparatus with motors.

The Catonsville (Md.) fire department has received its new six-cylinder 110-horsepower motor fire engine.

The selection of Watertown, Mass., have placed an order for a new motor combination chemical that will cost $5800.

An all-the-year-round European road map for American motorists abroad has just been issued by the foreign touring bureau of the American Automobile Association.

Charles F. Taylor of the Richmond (Va.) fire commission, announces that the board is now considering the motorizing of the entire fire department.

Cheltenham township, Pennsylvania, has equipped its department of safety with a combined motor police patrol, ambulance and emergency fire service machine.

Commissioner of Public Safety H. E. Hessler, of Syracuse, N. Y., has requested the Automobile Club of that city to submit recommendations for changing the present traffic regulations of the city.

The two new automobile hose wagons purchased by the Baltimore (Md.) fire department are now in service. One does duty in the business section of the city, while the other is stationed at Forest Park.

Through its board of governors, the Bridgeport (Conn.) Automobile Club is endeavoring to provide changes in traffic regulations. Complaints have been made that little attention is paid to the rules of the road.

Probably the best proof of the increasing popularity of American cars in Europe—aside from the government's export statistics and the statements sent out from the export departments of the various manufacturers directly concerned—is the frequency with which full-page and half-page

"ads" of the Yankee product appear in English, French and German automobile papers and popular magazines. A single issue of one of the larger German magazines recently carried no less than eight pages of American advertising.

The city council of Mansfield, O., has asked bids for a combination hose and chemical motor truck, to be equipped with two chemical tanks of at least fifty gallons' capacity each, and a body to carry 20000 feet of 2 1/2-inch hose.

The kingdom of Holland boasts of but a single automobile factory, the Industrie Maatschappij Trompenburg, which manufactures all parts of the chassis and builds its own bodies. The cars are marketed under the name Spyker.

During the past ninety days the movement of the rubber market has been comparatively unimportant, averaging about $1.10 a pound for fine "up-river." A motor bus line is soon to be in operation from Hamilton to Caledonia, Ont.

Of all the wood-using industries of Michigan, the makers of automobiles pay the highest price for what they use, according to a report of the wood-using industries of Michigan by H. Maxwell, expert for the public domain commission.

Visitors to the California exposition in 1915 will be able to view the state via motor car. A tour is already being laid out which will cover the interesting portions of the state, and attendants on the exhibition will be able to take it at small cost.

FLUCTUATING SUGAR PRICES IN ENGLAND

As in other countries, the United Kingdom experienced fluctuations in the prices of sugar owing to the drouth which is seriously affecting the beet sugar crop. The cost to the United Kingdom by reason of the increased prices of sugar was estimated at $82,730,000 to $97,330,000. Persistent efforts were made in various parts of the country to demonstrate that the sugar beet could be successfully cultivated. Excellent results were secured in Norfolk, where about 250 acres were planted in sugar beets. Experiments which were conducted on the college farm at Wye were regarded with unusual interest, as they were carried out in conjunction with the Board of Agriculture. The gross yield from the eight different varieties which were planted ranged from 20 tons to 28 tons 16 hundredweight per acre, and the net weight of washed roots was 15 tons 1 hundredweight to 21 tons 12 hundredweight. The sugar in the roots varied from 12.9% to 19.24 per cent. The cost of the crop was $70.56 per acre. An attempt is being made by a combination of British and Dutch interests to secure the building of one or more sugar factories in England in order to develop

1913 Cadillac

Cadillac Touring Car

THE 1913 CADILLAC is the best car that the Cadillac Motor Car Company has ever manufactured. This statement is not based upon theory, but is made after a number of cars have been in use for some time, and subjected to the most severe tests which we have been capable of giving them, and have proven to our entire satisfaction that the foregoing is an absolute fact.

CADILLAC MOTOR CAR COMPANY

Cadillac Roadster

CHASSIS:

Wheel base, 120 inches.

Frame is hung one inch lower than 1912.

Upper ends of front axle spindles equipped with Timken roller bearings to eliminate friction.

Rear side springs 4 inches longer than 1912.

Front springs have greater arch, permitting a greater spring action.

MOTOR:

Bore four and one-half inches, the same as 1912.

Stroke increased to five and three-fourths inches, greatly increasing power.

Size of crankshaft increased to 2 inches in diameter.

All main bearings and connecting rod bearings increased in size; length of rear main bearing 4 inches; length of other four main bearings two and seven-eighths inches each; connecting rod bearings two and one-half inches each.

Cam shaft and generator shaft operated from crank shaft by silent chains instead of gears, making the motor quieter.

Inlet and exhaust valves increased in diameter to two and one-eighth inches.

Valves and valve mechanism enclosed.

Magneto spark automatically controlled by ring governor, making shifting of spark lever for change in road conditions unnecessary.

Carburetor similar to 1912, but improved. One adjustment only. Lubricator integral part of crank case. Holds one and one-half gallons of oil.

SPECIFICATIONS OF THE 1913 CADILLAC

DELCO SYSTEM:

The Delco system has been simplified by the elimination of controlling switch and ampere hour meter. Motor generator operates both as generator and motor on six-volt current. This has been accomplished by using two windings and two commutators on the armature. One winding is for use when the motor generator is used as a generator, and the other winding for use when the motor generator is used as a motor.

Nine-cell battery used instead of the twelve-cell battery.

There is a voltage regulator to regulate the rate of charge to the storage battery and the voltage to the lights. With the voltage regulator the charging rate of the battery depends entirely upon the condition the battery is in. A fully discharged battery is charged at a high rate, and the charging rate decreases as the battery reaches its full charged condition.

Switch on dash of improved design; locked with Yale lock.

RADIATOR:

Efficiency of radiator increased.

HOOD:

Made with vanes in hood sides to increase efficiency of cooling system. Hood fasteners of improved design. Hood held in place by spring tension.

FENDERS:

Front fenders follow lines of wheels, on rear side meeting front ends of running boards nearly horizontally.

Rear fenders follow lines of wheels.

Brake AND CONTROL LEVERS:

Design changed slightly; both levers inside of body.

BODIES:

Improved body designs. Bodies of the following types will be used: touring, torpedo, roadster, six passenger, limousine and coupe. A four-passenger phaeton type of body is being designed at the present time, and may possibly be added to the above list.

Switch for operating lights and magnetic latch in a more convenient position.

LAMPS:

Electric lamps similar in design to 1912. Wires for side lights concealed in lamp brackets.

WHEEL AND TIRES:

36x4½ wheels and tires will be standard equipment.

STANDARD EQUIPMENT:

Mohair top.

Wind shield designed so that lower portion may be tilted in toward driver, affording ventilation, and with rain vision.

Demountable rims.

Warner speedometer.

Hans gasoline gauge.

Full foot rail in tonneau.

Tool kit.

PRICE OF CAR:

Touring, torpedo and roadster, with standard equipment listed above, f. o. b. factory..... $1975.00

Coupe, f. o. b. factory..... 2500.00

Limousine, f. o. b. factory..... 3250.00

We shall build a six-passenger car on the standard chassis. The price has not been decided upon up to the present time. If a four-passenger phaeton is built it will list for $1975.00 fully equipped.

Gov. Wilson on Commission Government

Democratic Candidate For President Tells of His Way to Down Bosses And Bossism in American Cities

WILSON ON BOSSES AND BOSSISM

The American boss is one of the most characteristic and inevitable fruits of American politics. Whatever the kind of boss there will be a boss. We have got to have the machine under present conditions or go out of politics. What troubles us is not that the machine controls the action of the government so much as that we see shadowy shapes behind the machine.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, choice of the Democratic party for President of the United States, is justly regarded as one of the progressive political thinkers of the day. He is an ardent advocate of the commission form of government for cities. In the following interview in the New York Sun, he discusses at length the misgovernment of American cities and the commission government as a remedial measure. Naturally, none of the drawbacks of this form of government are brought out, but it is a lucid exposition of the principles by a strong advocate. Honolulu's civic problems are demanding attention just now, and whether or not one agrees with Gov. Wilson, the following interview is of much interest.

"The hopes of America have been disappointed in American city government. There was a time—you do not have to be very old to remember it—when there was a universal complacency in America about our success in matters of political organization. No American would admit that anywhere in the world there were to be found governments organized more successfully than they were organized in America. But we have got over that complacency. We have had to admit the fact that most of the well-governed cities of the world are on the other side of the water and that many of the worst governed cities of the civilized world are on the side of the water.

"I take it that the problem that we have set ourselves is the problem of responsibility. We want governments which respond to public opinion and we have not been able to get them.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON, OF NEW JERSEY.

A complicated piece of machinery, whose single command shall bring order out of chaos, whose united will shall unify and control the governments we have set up.

"The machine is in one sense an essentially un-American thing, inasmuch as it is in many of its aspects a secret and despotic thing, but I can not agree that it was not a natural growth of American politics. We have got to have the machine under present conditions or go out of business. I do not mean that we have got to have a corrupt machine, but we have got to have a machine, an outside organization, an organization outside of this

"How do you explain it that there is no politics between machines? How do you explain the fact that the same men often give money both to the Democratic and to the Republican machines? Why it all goes back to that absolutely true but cynical remark attributed to a politician in New York city, who said, 'There ain't no politics in politics.' Machines are not divided by principle, they are divided by opportunity.

"I want you to distinguish, as I try to distinguish in my own thoughts, between the machine and party organization and machinery in this country which exists nowhere else. Nowhere else has it been made absolutely necessary that it should exist.

"You have this problem, therefore, are you going to boss your governments or are you going to make it necessary that somebody else should boss them? They have got to be superintended, they have got to be given a unity and coordination of purpose, and the choice is with us as to the source from which these forces will come, because we know that they do not stop with the machine. What troubles us is not that the machine controls the action of our government so much as that we see shadowy shapes behind the machine.

Governor Wilson believes in concentrating authority in a few men and holding them responsible. Speaking of the Walsh bill, which gave any city in New Jersey the right to establish a commission form of government, Governor Wilson said:

"Candidates are not elected by plu-ralities, but are elected by majorities. Necessarily if one man or two is elected he must be elected by a majority—a majority of those who vote. Under the New Jersey plan when there is a vote on the adoption of the commission plan of government at least 30 per cent. of the registered voters of the city must vote in the affirmative in order to adopt it. We have thus tried to avoid the domination of minorities and make everything operative by the majority of votes.

"I am expounding a thing which applies to all conditions of American political life. The thing we are looking for in city government we are looking for in every kind of government in America. The ways of finding it are not the same, but the quest is the same. We are seeking for responsible action in response not to special interests or to parts of public opinion, but to the whole opinion of the nation. We are seeking to base it upon the judgment of common men. The human race is not to be saved by a remnant; the human race is not to be saved by a few instructed persons; it is to be saved by the consciences and purposes of common men. If you can not carry the instinct of the common man with you then you have done nothing to increase the forces or to enhance the hopes of the nation.

"Some 207 cities in the United States have adopted commission government and no city that has ever adopted it, so far as I know, has gone back to the old form. One may ask, is there more to commission government than concentration of organization? There is nothing more. That is the beauty of it. There doesn't have to be anything more. We say to the five men who are elected: 'The way the government under you is constituted is nothing to us. The number of people that are employed by you is nothing to us—at present. The way you organize or reorganize your department is your business, but we are going to hold you responsible for every bit of it, and if it does not work out, then we are going to try somebody else, until we find somebody who knows how to make it work.'

"Some of the cities in New Jersey were not particularly fortunate in their choice of commissioners, but as soon as those commissioners got to work it was shown which cities were fortunate; and there is the 'Pecall'. Under our system of commission government, there is a great advantage in having an opportunity to identify your undesirable commission.

"I have heard men say, 'Do you think that a government so concentrated and simple as that would be desirable in a

Some 207 cities in the United States have adopted commission government and no city that has ever adopted it, so far as I know, has gone back to the old form.

INSIDE STORY OF CALIFORNIA-HAWAIIAN SUGAR REFINERY CLOSE

Details of $200,000-per-Year Deal That Shut Down the Crockett Refinery During Fight for Trade — Hannam Under Probe in Sugar Investigation

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Two hundred thousand dollars a year was the price paid by the sugar trust to close the California-Hawaiian Sugar Company's refinery at Crockett in the years 1903, 1904 and 1905. It was the last of the important sugar concerns that stood in the way of the sugar trust's scheme to elevate prices.

The story of the deal was told yesterday on the witness stand by William H. Hannam, secretary of the Spreckels' sugar corporation, in the equity suit against the sugar trust which is being prosecuted by the United States before Special Examiner Wilson B. Brice in the Postoffice building.

It is a continuation of the Government's suit to dissolve the trust commenced nearly two years ago in New York.

After the story of the California-Hawaiian deal had been reluctantly tried from the lips of Hannam a telegram announced a raise of 50 cents a hundred pounds on sugar sent by him to Henry O. Havemeyer, late head of the sugar trust, was introduced as an exhibit in evidence by James R. Knapp, the assistant United States Attorney who is handling the suit.

How Deal Ended.

For three years the California-Hawaiian company closed its Crockett plant and remained out of the sugar business. Then it resumed its operations. How and why the agreement was repealed will be brought out, it is expected, by the Government's probing in the next few days of the hearing.

A very ingenious method of transferring money was adopted by the Western Sugar Refining Company and the Spreckels Sugar Refining Company, which were then half owned by the sugar trust and put through the deal with the independent company.

The agreement was made with the officers of the independent company. It was agreed that each of the Spreckels' concerns should pay $100,000 a year each.

The money was paid in the form of salary increases to the chief officers of the Spreckels' corporations. Each salary was raised $25,000 a year. The officers did not keep the money; they paid it over to John D. Spreckels.

Spreckels paid it over to Morrison and Cope, his attorneys, and by them it was turned into the hands of Donald Campbell, attorney for the closed-down Hawaiian Company.

Tells of Transfers.

"Under the agreement the California-Hawaiian Company shut down for three years for $200,000 a year, did it not?" questioned Knapp.

"Yes," replied Hannam.

Eventually the payment reached the hands of John D. Spreckels, did it?"

"Yes."

"To whom did he pay it?"

"I think to Judge Cope."

"To whom did Cope pay it?"

"To Donald Y. Campbell."

"He was the attorney for the California-Hawaiian Sugar Company?"

"Yes."

"Did the California-Hawaiian Company cease to operate after that?"

"Yes."

"Was the reason for making the payments this way so that the books would contain no entries that would show the making of the arrangement?"

Hannam hesitated. Knapp pressed him hard for a categorical answer of "yes" or "no." Hannam's embarrassment increased so much that he had to have the question read to him three times. Then he answered "no."

"Were not these payments made because it was desired to maintain as much secrecy as possible?"

"Yes, because they asked us to have it that way," was Hannam's response.

"Is there any book of the Western Sugar Refining Company that truthfully shows the whole of that transaction and the purpose for which it was made?" continued Knapp.

"I think it did. It was a book especially kept for this purpose."

"It was a book kept for the particular purposes of this transaction?"

"Yes."

The book was destroyed in the fire of 1906. Hannam admitted that there had been no entries concerning the transaction in the regular books of the companies and that the special book had been kept by George W. Herrold and he alone had access to it. Hannam did not see it.

After Knapp had concluded this line of investigation he offered in evidence a telegram from Hannam to Havemeyer, head of the American Sugar Refining Company, parent corporation of the trust, which was dated March 6, 1903, and read:

"Effective this afternoon; all grades advanced 50 points; adjusted practically as outlined in my letter March 2."

The larger part of yesterday's hearing was occupied with the introduction of letters and telegrams which passed between Havemeyer and Hannam and Havemeyer and Claus Spreckels, showing how the sugar monopoly squeezed out independent competitors

CITY IN PERU WRECKED BY EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

LIMA (Peru), July 24.—A destructive earthquake occurred this morning at Piura, capital of the department of Piura, the most northerly of the Pacific departments. The shock lasted forty seconds. While advices from that district are meager, it is reported that a number of children were killed and many persons injured. Among the latter was Mr. Blacker, agent of the South American Insurance Company.

The dry bed of a river was torn open and jets of water thrown out.

"The departures of the Japanese from Hawaii have been larger than the arrivals recently, and I think this will be confirmed by almost any one familiar with the situation in Hawaii. We are getting more Portuguese than any other people"—Washington Post.

THE WAY OF A MAN

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1907, by the Oeding Publishing Company

Hearts Hypothecated.

The next morning at the proper hour I started for the Sheraton mansion. This time it was not my old horse Satan that I rode. My mother told me that Satan had been given over under the blanket chattel mortgage and sold at the town's every stable to some purchaser whom she did not know, who had taken the horse out of the country. I rode up the little pitch from the rough road and pulled the gate latch with my riding crop. And then, as though it were by appointment, precisely as I saw her that morning last spring—a hundred years ago it seemed to me—I saw Grace Sheraton coming down the walk toward me, tall, thin. Alas! she did not fill my eye. She was elegantly clad as usual. I had never seen dress of hers. Her daint boots clinked on the gravel. A moccasin would not.

I threw my rein over the hook at the iron arm of the stone gate pillar and, hat in hand, I went to meet her. I was an older man now. I was done with roistering and fighting, and the kissing of country girls all across the land. I did not prison Grace Sheraton against the stone gate pillar now, and kiss her against her will until she became willing. All I did was to lift her hand and kiss her finger tips.

She was changed. I felt that rather than saw it. If anything, she was thinner, her face had a deeper olive tint, her eyes were darker. Her expression was gay, feverish, yet not natural, as she approached. What was it that sat upon her face—melancholy, or fear, or sorrow, or resentment? I was never very bright of mind. I do not know.

"I am glad to see you," she said at length, awkwardly.

"And I to see you, of course." I missed us both lied.

"It is very sad, your home coming thus," she added, at which clew I caught gladly.

"Yes, matters could hardly be worse for us."

"Your mother would not come to us. We asked her. We feel deeply mortified. But now we hope you both will come."

"We are beggars now, Miss Grace." I said. "I need time to look around, to hit upon some plan of life. I must make another home for myself and for—"

"For me?" She faced me squarely now, eye to eye. A smile was on her lips, and it seemed to me a bitter one, but I could not guess what was hidden in her mind. I saw her cheek flush slowly, deeper than was usual with a Sheraton girl.

"For my wife, as soon as that may be," I answered, as red as she.

"I learn that you did not see Colonel Meriwether," she went on politely.

"How did you know it?"

"Through Captain Orme."

"Yes," said I quietly, "I have heard of Captain Orme—much of him, very much." Still I could not read her face.

"He was with us a long time this summer," she resumed presently. "Some two weeks ago he left for Charleston. I think. He has much business about the country."

"Much business," I assented. "In many parts of the country. But most of all with men of the army. So Captain Orme—since we must call him captain and not minister—is so good as to inform you of my private matters."

"Yes." Again she looked at me squarely with defiance. "I know all about it. I know all about that girl."

So there it was. But I kept myself under whip hand still. "I am very glad. It will save me telling you of myself. It is not always that one has the good fortune of such early messengers."

"Go on," she said bitterly; "tell me about her."

"I have no praises to sound for her. I do not wish to speak of this if you prefer to hear it from others than myself."

She only smiled enigmatically, her mouth crooking in some confidence she held with herself, but not with me. "It was natural," she said at last slowly. "Doubtless I would have done as she did. Doubtless any other man would have done precisely as you did. That is the way with men. After all, I suppose the world is the world and that we are as we are. The girl who is closest to a man has the best chance with him. Opportunity is much—very much. Secrecy is everything."

"Why should you not both have done so?" she resumed bitterly. "We are all human."

"Why should we not have done what—what is it that you mean?" I demanded of her.

"Why, there was she engaged to Mr. Bellump, as I am told, and there were you engaged to a certain young lady by the name of Grace Sheraton very far away. And you were conveniently lost—very conveniently—and you found each other's society agreeable. You kept away for some weeks or months, both of you forgetting. It was idyllic—ideal. You were not precisely babes in the woods. You were man and a woman. I presume you enjoyed yourselves after a very possible little fashion. I do not blame you. I say I might have done the same. I should like to know it for time myself—freedom. I do not blame you, only," she said slowly. "In society we do not have freedom. Here it is different. I suppose different laws apply, different customs."

"Miss Grace," said I, "I do not in the least understand you. You are not the same girl I left."

"No, I am not. But that is not my fault. Cannot a woman be free as much as a man? Have I not right as much as you? Have you not been free?"

"One thing only I want to say," I rejoined, "and it is this, which I ought not to say at all. If you mean anything regarding Ellen Meriwether, I have to tell you, or any one, that she is clean-minded, body, soul, heart—as clean as when I saw her first."

"Do you know, I like you for saying that!" she retorted. "I would never marry a man who knew nothing of other women—I don't want a milk sop; and I would not marry a man who would not lie for the sake of a sweet heart. You lie beautifully! Do you know, Jack, I believe you are a bit of a gentleman, after all!

"But tell me, when is the wedding to be?" This last with obvious effort.

"You have not advised me."

"Oh, I beg your pardon. I meant your marriage with Ellen Meriwether. I supposed, of course, you had quite forgotten me."

"Ellen Meriwether is already married," I said to her, with a calmness which surprised myself. But what surprised me most was the change which came upon her face at the words—the flush—the gleam of triumph, of satisfaction. I guessed this much and no more—that she had had certain plans, and that now she had other plans, changed with lightning swiftness, and by reason of my words.

"Lieutenant Lawrence Belknap and Miss Ellen Meriwether were married, I presume, some time after I started for the east." I went on. "But they were never engaged before our return to the settlements. It was all very suddenly arranged."

"How like a story book! So he forgot her little incidents with you—all summer—side by side—day and night! How romantic! I don't know that I could do so much, had I been a man, and myself not guilty of the same incidents. At least, he kept his promise."

"You trust me?" Why, Cowles, you speak as though you did not want us to do it."

"I can't," said I.

"Gh, then—"

"You know our family well enough."

"That's true. But you won't be offended if I suggest to you that there are two sides to this, and two prides. All the country knows of your engagement, and now that you have returned it will be expected that my sister will set the day before long. Of course, we shouldn't want my sister to begin too far down—oh, dash it, Cowles, you know what I mean."

"I presume so," said I to him slowly. "But suppose that your sister should offer to her friends the explanation that the change in my fortunes no longer leaves desirable this alliance with my family?"

"Do you suggest that?"

"I have not done so."

"Has she suggested it?"

"We have not talked of it, yet it might be hard for your sister to share a lot so humble and so uncertain."

"That I presume will be for her to decide," he said slowly.

"By Jove!" he broke out at length, flushing as he turned to me. "It is hard for a fellow to tell sometimes what's right, isn't it? Jack, you remember Jennie Williams, across under Catoctin?"

"I thought you were going to make match of it some time," I said.

"Prettiest girl in the valley," he assented, "but her family is hardly what we could call the best, you know."

"Then why did you go there so often all last year?" I asked him.

"Jack," he said, "it's all through I want to ask you. I ought to marry Jennie Williams, but—"

Now I looked at him full and hard and guessed. Perhaps my face was gray. I was beginning to wonder whether there was one clean thing in all the world.

"Oh, she can marry," went on Harry. "No difficulty about that. She has another beat who loves her to distraction and who doesn't in the least suspect—a decent sort of a fellow, a young farmer of her own class."

"And in your belief that wedding should go on?"

He shifted uneasily.

"When is this wedding to be?" I asked.

"Oh, naturally, very soon," he answered. "I am doing as handsome a thing as I know how by her. Some time it's mighty hard to do the handsomest thing, even mighty hard to know what is the handsomest thing itself."

"Yes," said I. But who was I that I should judge him?

"If you were just where I am," asked Harry Sheraton slowly, "what would you do? I'd like to do what is right, you know."

"Oh, no, you don't, Harry," I broke out. "You want to do what is easiest. If you wanted to do what is right you'd never ask me nor any one else. Don't ask me, because I don't know. Suppose you were in the case of that other young man who loves her? Suppose he did not know, or suppose he did know. What would be right for him?"

"I have your privilege at guessing," he sneered in his easy, mocking way. "Have you never taken a little adventure of this sort yourself?"

"In Virginia we keep the shotgun for men who prowl around houses at the end of the log for him," admitted he grimly. "That's true, sure as you're born."

"When one does not love a girl and sees no happiness in the thought of living with her all his life, what squares that, Harry, in your opinion?"

"I've just asked you," he rejoined. "Why do you ask me? You say one ought to know what is right in his own case without any such asking, and I say that isn't always true. Oh, dash it all, anyway. Why are we made the way we are?"

"I was still an engaged man. Evidently nothing otherwise had been discussed in the Sheraton family councils, if any such had been held. If never suitor in Old Virginia rode up in sorrier case than mine that morning as I came to call upon my fiancee certainly did never one depart in more uncertain frame of mind than mine at this very moment. I presume that young Sheraton felt something of this, for he began awkwardly to speak of matters related thereto.

"It's awfully hard," he began, "to see strangers there in your own house. I know it must be hard. But I say, your father must have plunged heavily on those lands over west in the mountains. I've heard they're very rich in coal and that all that was necessary was simply cash or credit enough to tide the deal over till next year's crops."

"My father always said there was a great fortune in the lands," I replied.

"Yes, I think another year would have seen him through, but that year was not to come for him."

"But couldn't funds be raised somehow, even yet?" I shook my head.

"Well, I'm not so sure," he went on, embarrassed. "My father and I have been talking over these matters, and we concluded to ask you if we might not take a hand in this. At least, we have agreed all along—that in case you know—you and my sister—we have planned definitely that you should live in your old place. We're going to take that over. The redemption time has plenty of margin, and we can't allow those people to come in here and steal one of the old Virginia places in that way. We are going to arrange to hold that for you and my sister, and we thought that perhaps in time something could be worked out of the rest of the property in the same way. That is, unless Colonel Meriwether, your father's partner, shall offer some better solution. I suppose you talked it over with him?"

"I did not talk with him about it at all," said I dully. For many reasons I did not care to repeat all of my story to him. "None the less, it seems very generous of you and your father to take this interest in me. It would be very churlish of me if I did not appreciate it. But I trust nothing has been done as yet."

"You trust me?" Why, Cowles, you speak as though you did not want us to do it."

"I can't," said I.

"Gh, then—"

"You know our family well enough."

"That's true. But you won't be offended if I suggest to you that there are two sides to this, and two prides. All the country knows of your engagement, and now that you have returned it will be expected that my sister will set the day before long. Of course, we shouldn't want my sister to begin too far down—oh, dash it, Cowles, you know what I mean."

"I presume so," said I to him slowly.

"But suppose that your sister should offer to her friends the explanation that the change in my fortunes no longer leaves desirable this alliance with my family?"

"Do you suggest that?"

"I have not done so."

"Has she suggested it?"

"We have not talked of it, yet it might be hard for your sister to share a lot so humble and so uncertain."

"That I presume will be for her to decide," he said slowly.

"By Jove!" he broke out at length, flushing as he turned to me. "It is hard for a fellow to tell sometimes what's right, isn't it? Jack, you remember Jennie Williams, across under Catoctin?"

"I thought you were going to make match of it some time," I said.

"If only the girl in each case would be content by having the handsomest thing done by her," said I bitterly.

CHAPTER XX.

The Uncovering of Gordon Orme.

IT is not necessary for me to state that dinner in the Sheraton hall, with its dull mahogany and its shining silver and glass, was bare better by a nightmare to me, who should have been most happy. At least there remained the topics of politics and war, and never was I more glad to plunge into such matters than upon that evening. In some way the dinner hour passed. Miss Grace pleaded a headache and left us, my mother asked leave, and presently our hostess
