First British Cruiser To Enter Maui Harbor Is Welcomed And Her Officers And Crew Are Made Honored Guests

Trim Vessel Arrives Earlier Than Was Expected But Program Of Entertainment Not Started Till Today

In Kahului harbor today there rides a trim, white, slightly craft, the British cruiser Cape Town. She entered the harbor shortly before 4 o'clock and when eight bells struck she was fast at her moorings and a Maui reception committee had gone aboard. Nearby, yesterday afternoon, just off the Kahului Wharf that is building lay the Sea Gull and eight submarines, looking grim and grey. Today the Kilauea was added to the shipping in port for a little while and the harbor presented a picture of life and activity.

Cruiser Is Sighted

About one o'clock yesterday afternoon the word spread about that the cruiser had been sighted off Hana about noon and would probably be in the Kahului port by 3 o'clock. The reception committee was called to be on Claudine Wharf at 2-45. The cruiser had not stopped to visit Captain Cook's monument. But she was not in sight when the committee reached Kahului and the hour of four was approaching before she loomed up in the East. The Leslie Baldwin went out to meet her with Harbor Master Parker and Collector of the Port Lindsay aboard. She escorted the war craft to her moorings and returned to Claudine Wharf for the committee.

Committee Goes Aboard

Headed by Judge D. H. Case, the committee climbed a ladder from tug to the cruiser's deck and there they were greeted by Lieutenant Cresswell. Judge Case performed the introduction to him and later to the other officers to whom they were conducted while inspecting and receiving the courtesies of the vessel, led by Capt. Albert Rendell who presented the officers to Judge Case. Captain Edward R. Jones was on the bridge until the work of mooring was ended and then received the committee in his quarters. Meanwhile Commander Welch, in charge of the United States submarine fleet in the harbor had come aboard to make his official visit.

Judge Case spoke briefly but to the point in welcome and the visitors were told of the preparations that had been made for them during their stay and for any suggestions of changes they might desire. No changes were suggested and a spirit of acquiescence in all the arrangements was manifested. John McLaren took up the matter of sight seeing trips for the officers, Ralph Wilson and William Walsh the matter of trains to Haiku for the crew, J. Garcia and C. S. Childs the matter of sports and entertainment and D. C. Lindsay the matter of the number of officers who would be able to attend tonight's dinner. Vice-President J. J. Walsh relegated himself to the background and even had the secretary outline the general program as he stood aside.

Entertainment Begins

This morning at 10 o'clock automobiles driven by Maui residents left Claudine Wharf on sightseeing trips in various directions and even earlier trains loaded with members of the crew of the cruiser had started for Haiku. The understanding was that those who desired to see the soccer game would be back at 3-15 and the same would start at 3-30.

Tonight at the Grand Hotel at 7 o'clock a dinner will be tendered the officers of the cruiser and nearly a score of U. S. Naval officers from the craft in Kahului Harbor. Members attending are asked to wear evening dress or dinner coats. Enlisted men will see a basket ball game at the Wailuku gym. In Kahului the Community House is shore headquarters and the use of the Alexander House Gym and tank and bowling alleys and of the Punene tank and courts has been extended to officers and men alike.

More Sightseeing

Tomorrow there is a similar program of sightseeing trips, soccer and air entertainment in the Wailuku gym at night, at 7-30. The Cape Town will depart Thursday morning for Honolulu. The committee to go aboard ship

CABBAGES JUGGLED

Vegetables Turn Into Whiskey

CRABBE GROWS WISE

Because of misguided faith that his bag of cabbages was also a bag of tricks, Antone V. Perreira on January 3 will tell the court about black magic and white mule, and how it may readily be interpreted as a sign of bad luck to try to fool a government agent. At any rate that is the engagement obtained for Antone by E. C. S. Crabbe, prohibition enforcement officer.

As Crabbe explains it rumors had come to him that the activities of certain residents of Paia did not make for sobriety and righteousness. So on Saturday to Paia he went. His first call was at the Spanish camp, where he says he found a first-class, workable still in the possession of Manuel Perreira, by no means to be confused with Antone of the same name, who comes later.

After doing his duty as he saw it in the affairs of Manuel, Crabbe moved on to visit a certain family in the Portuguese community. Here he first met Antone, who it appeared was a week-end guest, and at the time of Crabbe's arrival was doing a sentry-go around a well filled burlap bag. When Crabbe had made known his mission, Antone, without waiting to hear from his host, joined in the debate.

"Huh," he exclaimed, "I suppose you think bag all full of oke. You look." With that he up-ended the bag and displayed cabbages as its only contents.

"Good boy," said Crabbe, "you just stick to a cabbage diet, and life will continue to be one glad, sweet song so far as you are concerned." The man of the house apparently had nothing more harmful about the place than some home brew that seemingly was within requirements of law, but which he readily agreed to destroy because of the bad impression it might give the neighbors.

When the destruction of the brew was in progress Crabbe, he says, saw what he took to be an interchange of signals between Antone and his hostless. Presently Antone, with his cabbages, followed the woman into the house, to emerge shortly by the back door.

"Oh, Antone," called Crabbe, "you stop one minute. Let's take another look-see those cabbages. They may have sprouted or something, you know."

Antone started a flank movement that was not completed, and then Crabbe says the burlap bag disgorged two gallons of excellent whiskey.

Now Antone is out on $200 bail, wishing someone had told him sooner that the day for the successful practice of miracles has passed.

Free Garden Seed Is To Be Had For Asking

From the Territorial board of agriculture and forestry comes the announcement of the receipt from the U. S. department of agriculture of 15,000 packages of garden seeds, for the shipment of which Delegate Baldwin had provided.

Some of the packages contain peas, beet, carrot, lettuce, and tomato seed and other contain beans, beet, carrot lettuce and radish seed.

This seed is now being distributed postage free to all who can make good use of it. Applications for the seed should be addressed to David Haugs, Box 3319, Honolulu.

This is an opportunity for the school and home gardeners of Maui to secure some of their garden seeds with no cost save the postage stamp on the letter application.

consisted of Judge D. H. Case, J. J. Walsh, vice-president of the Maui Chamber of Commerce, J. H. Gray, secretary, C. D. Larkin, treasurer, directors Worth O. Aiken, E. R. Bevins, J. Garcia, D. C. Lindsay, Rev. J. C. Villiers and William Walsh, C. S. Childs of the sports committee, and John McLaren and Ralph Wilson of the transportation committee.

Kahului R. R. To Build New Office

Concret Structure Will Go Up On Site Now Used As Store's Furniture Warehouse Next Year

Kahului Railroad Company is to have concrete building to house its general offices in the port town before the end of the coming year. Preliminary drawings are being prepared by William D'Esmond, architect and those approved he will proceed with the drawing of plans and specifications.

Superintendent William Walsh of the Railroad confirmed yesterday the report that the company was preparing to build and said D'Esmond had been told what was wanted and was at work on the rough drawings. The site selected is the one now occupied by the Kahului Store's furniture warehouse. On either side there will be a park. He said that the railroad's offices had been too cramped for some time past and that the Baldwin Bank had been seeking to enlarge its quarters, also. When the railroad moves its offices out slight changes in interior arrangements will give the bank more commodious quarters.

So far as the use of the upper floor by the Masons is concerned, the new arrangements down stairs need make no difference.

Architect D'Esmond has not yet made sufficient progress for one to determine what the appearance of the building will be, but being of reinforced concrete it will be substantial improvement to Kahului.

Congressman Asserts He Was Shadowed By Daugherty's Men

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Hearings on the Keller charges for the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty proceeded this morning with Keller still absent.

Representative Woodruff of Michigan was a witness and replying to the question of reports that he had been "shadowed" by department of justice men said: "I have reason to believe, not only that I have been shadowed but that my mail was interfered with, my office entered and documents removed from it."

U. S. Navy Hamstrung In the Pacific: Sims

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Rear Admiral Sims, retired, in a speech before a group of financiers and business men, here today, said that from a naval viewpoint the United States was "hamstrung in the Pacific and nailed in the Atlantic." He pointed out the danger due to ignorance, referring at length to Guam, which he said could be converted into a veritable Gibraltar at an expense equal to one-half the cost of a battleship. "We never fortified Guam," he said, "because we never could bring the people to see the necessity." Among other things the admiral criticized the shortage of scouting vessels in the navy.

Filipinos Oppose Sending Labor Here

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) HONOLULU, Dec. 19.—F. G. Eyton Walker, who has just returned from the Philippines, says the leaders in the islands are opposed to further importation of Filipino laborers into Hawaii because of the labor shortage in the Philippines, which has brought a demand for the importation of Chinese there.

HOUSE PASSES NAVY BILL

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The House today passed the naval appropriations bill, carrying a total of $325,000,000. The bill also bore a request to President Harding to negotiate with the Powers relative to limiting the construction of warcraft of less than 10,000 tons.

Community Trees Begin To Glow

Beginning Of Holiday Season Marked By The Holding Of Eight During Last Three Days Of Week

Tomorrow marks the beginning of the series of Community Christmas trees for the children of Maui. There were held last Friday trees in Kula and Halehaku but the early holding of those trees on the last day of school, made them seem more in the nature of school closing than the Christmas holiday itself.

Information as to the dates, times and places of holding the community trees was secured from the office of Alexander House Settlement this morning and the office looked like a Santa Claus headquarters by reason of the great boxes of toys that have come.

Two trees will be held tomorrow afternoon, Makawao children will have their tree and celebration in the school house at 3 o'clock and Kihei children will gather in the Kihei school house for theirs at 4:30.

On Thursday the Spreckelsville tree and festivities will be held in the movie house at 5 o'clock.

Friday the 23rd is the date that was most generally selected and four communities will have trees that day late in the afternoon and early in the evening.

Wailuku's tree is set for Friday at 6. If the weather looks fair when the time comes for decorating the tree it will be held out of doors near the court house, otherwise it will be held in the Armory. Both last year and year before the weather was such it had to be held in doors.

Waiehe will have its festivities in the old mill at 8:30, plantation time which gives Santa time to motor over from the Wailuku gathering.

Puuuene, like Wailuku, is watching the weather. Its tree will be lighted up at 5 o'clock and if weather permits it will be in the park, otherwise in the armory.

The Haiku tree, also, is scheduled for 6 but the managers of that community celebration are taking no chances on weather and will have the present bearing tree in the theater.

Waikapu selected Saturday and six o'clock is the hour set for it. Varying programs have been arranged and Santa is trying to get to every community Christmas tree and greet his children friends.

Russians Oppose Allied Plans; Turk States Policies

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) LAUSANNE, Dec. 19.—The international conference in session here adjourned today for twenty-four hours without having come to any decisions on the questions before it. The Turks were conciliatory, but the Russians were in opposition to the Allied program.

The Turks propose that the total strength of foreign fleets in the Straits shall not exceed the strength of the most powerful fleet in the Black Sea. The question of ratio now is holding up an agreement.

The Turks have agreed formally to give Christian minorities in all pertaining to life and liberty the same protection enjoyed by the Turkish population, together with free exercise of their religion and the right to establish educational, religious and charitable institutions.

Big Chunks Cut Out Of Budget Islands Schools

Maui County Only Is Given Increase; Board Of Estimate Cuts Deeply Into Hawaii County Demands

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) HONOLULU, Dec. 19.—Cuts of more than half a million dollars were made from the special funds in the tentative budget of the department of public instruction by the board of estimates yesterday. The cutting down was done chiefly in the figures for the County of Hawaii.

In the face of a statement from Territorial officials that the territory faces a minimum tax rate of four percent or $10 on the $1000 the board of estimates was in an economical mood at its meeting to act on the tentative biennial budget for the schools and some county allotments were cut, but that for Maui was increased by $20,000, the only important increase to be made.

New figures give Hawaii $540,470, reduced from $882,400; Maui $270,000, increased from $250,000 and Oahu $1,155,180, unchanged. For new school buildings the Hawaii items are cut from $393,100 to $253,650; Maui increased to $140,000 from $120,000 and Oahu is unchanged at $487,200.

It was announced yesterday that Hawaii faces a minimum tax rate of 4 percent in 1924 if the next legislature should pass the $9,500,000 school budget without material change and necessity of curtailment of costs in the governmental departments has become more than ever evident.

Reward Offered For Capture Of Bandits Either Dead Or Alive

(ASSOCIATED PRESS) DENVER, Dec. 19.—Ten thousand dollars reward has been offered by the city and county for the capture, dead or alive, of the bandits who yesterday held up a guard at the door of the mint and escaped with $200,000 in currency.

Authorities say that the money taken yesterday was all in five dollar bills, that the mint has all the numbers of the bills and it will be impossible for the bandits to circulate them without taking long chances of detection.

Some eye witnesses to yesterday's affair say there were three and some say four men who participated in the robbery. It is believed one of the men was wounded by shots from the guards in the mint as a man was seen crumpled on the running board of the car and was dragged into the vehicle by his companions.

MAKING THE WELCOME TRUE

Yesterday afternoon the trim British cruiser Cape Town rounded the Kahului breakwater and tied up to her moorings in the harbor. By a delegation from the Maui Chamber of Commerce words of welcome were spoken and today it is being exemplified that actions speak louder than words. Maui is trying to give her guests such a pleasant time that they will carry away memories which will long remain fresh in their minds and which they will ever be glad to recall.

None more than naval officers see and come to know the world for their duties carry them to all parts of it. So Maui cannot expect to show them much that is new in industries, in life and in scenery but Maui can and will show them a community which in its solidarity and kindness cannot be duplicated no matter whether one's voyages take one.

Cane fields they may see elsewhere and mills also, though perhaps not such cane fields and mills, canneries they will find elsewhere but not such as these Islands can boast of. Composite and cosmopolitan populations they have frequently met. Scenic wonders are not new to them but the Maui spirit of helpful cooperation and cordial hospitality they will not find excelled.

Two days of association with Maui residents should suffice to give the visitors an insight of Maui and her children and the community is a pleased host as it shows its guests about.

MEETING A HARD SITUATION

In Honolulu the pruning knife is being wielded. Yesterday the board of estimates hewed off more than half a million dollars from the tentative school budget. It is an example of what will have to be done, not in regard to schools alone but in other departments of the territorial government.

The slices taken from the nine and a half million school budget are county allotments and so reduce the rates of certain individual counties where the slices were made, chiefly Hawaii County. Maui County budget was increased by $20,000 but it was one of the smallest at the outset. What will be done to the general school expenses remains to be seen. Clarence Cooke before the Civic Convention said he did not see where and how the budget was to be cut.

The average citizen would rather see savings effected in any branch of the government rather than in curtailment of educational progress but the situation in Hawaii has grown to unwieldy proportions. Surely every child should be assured of a common school education but the situation in Hawaii where the greater number of users of the high schools and the University are children of parents who pay little or no taxes is adding daily to the number of persons who believe that in Hawaii it may be necessary to make a tuition charge for children who seek to pursue their education beyond the eight grammar grades.

Such a project is certain to meet with a strong opposition but when the cost of public education runs away from its ratio to the assessable wealth of the territory it becomes evident that some ways and means must soon be found or taxes will grow to a percent which will make the majority of investments unprofitable in these Islands.

CHRISTMAS GIVING

From a desire that is created by a great spirit of joy on the anniversary of the birth of the Christ and a will to share that joy with others, grew up the custom of Christmas gifts and Christmas festivities. Naturally the custom extends chiefly to the children for it is easiest to give joy and happiness to them and a greater joy is reflected back from their happiness. As childhood is left behind the happiness occasioned by the receiving of gifts lessens while that occasioned by giving grows greater. The exchange of gifts grows to be something of a matter of course, a beautiful custom, yes, but not a season to be looked forward to for what is to be received from others.

So the community Christmas tree idea has grown up. It is the one occasion of the year when the greatest number can be made to feel the joy which Christ's birth and his messages brought to the world. The gifts for the children are small, it is true, but they carry a message of good will and the knowledge that others, great, big grown up folk care about the little tots and care enough about them to remember them. So it is not the value of the gifts that pleases so much but just the fact that they are not neglected, not forgotten and are asked to share in the happiness of Christendom.

When that view of the community Christmas tree is taken the work of preparation ceases to be a trouble and becomes eminently worth while. Just a toy, some candies and some fruits. At any other time few children would go far to get them. At any other time few grown folk would go far to prepare and present them. At any other time they would not go worth while. It is the Christmas spirit that lends them their desirability and their sentimental value where the intrinsic value is so small.

Lighted Christmas trees please the childish eyes but not more than do the lighted faces and the glistening eyes of the youngsters delight the minds and souls of those who go to watch them at the community gatherings.

If enough investigations of Hollywood are conducted, possibly they may find something on the "Movie" community that is as bad or worse than may be found in searching the average populous city.

It has been remarked that perhaps the Denver mint bandits may go to Cuba to liquidate on their "investment."

Statements that the physical condition of the school children of Maui as concerns the health of their eyes, ears, noses and throats is much improved over last year and though the school population has increased the number of cases has decreased, reflects great credit on the board of health, its physicians and nurses and the district nurses. Work of health building is surely a big and constructive undertaking.

Fifty degrees below zero! There are many in Hawaii who cannot conceive what that means, the suffering and the discomfort to the poor that results, and so they have no conception of how fortunate they are in this, the ideal climate of the world.

THE HOME IN GOOD TASTE
 By Harold Donaldson Eberlein
 Joint Author of "Practical Book of Interior Decoration," Etc.

No. 62—Queen Anne Settees

The chief points of difference between the settee of Queen Anne's time and the settee of the William and Mary period were the shape of the back and the form of the legs. Where the William and Mary settee showed a shaped back with two or more arches rising up like the humps of a camel, the Queen Anne settee had a lower, straight topped back or a back slightly rounded at the corners, like the settee in the cut. The straight turned legs of the William and Mary settee, connected by shaped stretchers, but more commonly without them.

There was also another point of occasional difference. While many of the Queen Anne settees retained the outward-curved or rolled-over upholstered arms, many others had wooden arms like those of armchairs, as shown in the accompanying cut. Some of the settees were short, like the example in the above illustration, others were long. The wood of which they were usually made was walnut. The example shown has handsomely carved legs and arms, but many of the settees had no carving and depended upon the graceful shaping of their arms and cabriole legs for their beauty. Queen Anne settees supply a favorite type for reproduction.

The Daily Fun Hour

Bonnie Lassie
 This is an old Scotch pastime, similar in some respects to the Danish barnyard game published in this series last summer. All the players but one are seated in a circle. The center player is called either Jamie or Jeannie.
 If a boy, the player in the center is Jamie. He sings the following verse, and all the players join him in the chorus, imitating whatever animal he has named, thus:
 Say, bonnie lassie, will ye gang w' me To the Bonnie, bonnie house o' Rouse—O?
 Say, bonnie lassie, will ye gang w' me To feed my father's cows—O?
 Chorus—(All together.) .....
 With a moo-moo here, and a moo-moo there,
 Here a moo, there a moo,
 Everywhere a moo-moo!

The chosen "lassie" then takes Jamie's place in the center, and as Jeannie she sings:

"Say, bonnie laddie, will ye gang w' me," etc., choosing a different name of the house owner to rhyme with the new animal selected for the chorus, such as, "Bucks—O, ducks—O," ("with a quack, quack," etc.), "Sams—O, lambs—O" ("with a ba-ba-ba," etc.), "Brewster—rooster" "With a cock-a-doodle-do," etc.)

When every player has been the Jamie or Jeannie center-player, the first player calls, "Farmyard—O," and all the players stand up and march around in a circle, singing every imitation in the exact order of the original singing, for example, cows, ducks, lambs, dogs, roosters, pigs, mules, calves, chickens, horses, geese, rabbits, turkeys, etc. At the words in the chorus, "With a bow-wow here and a bow-wow there," etc., the marchers turn and bend side to side.

Pennsylvanians Get Free Coal From River

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(By Associated Press Mail)—The coal problem this winter is one only of strong arm muscles and a vehicle—wheelbarrow, horse and wagon, or motor truck—for some of those Pennsylvanians whose homes are on the banks of streams which flow from the hard coal regions.
River-coal—so-called because it is found in the beds of these rivers—is the solution. The coal, in the form of small particles, finer than the grade known commercially as buckwheat, has been used for years, largely by manufacturing plants, but the fear of shortage this year has increased household consumption, and many persons living along the streams in which it is found are gathering their own supply with the use of a shovel and a cart or automobile for transportation.

The coal is mainly the product of culm or refuse banks in the vicinity of mines further up the streams. It is found in the Lehigh, Schuylkill and Susquehanna rivers down which it has been washed in the years since anthracite mining was begun in Pennsylvania. In many sections of these rivers beds several feet thick have existed, but commercial dredging and pumping operations combined with greater conservation on the part of mining companies is reducing the supply.
Householders who have gathered their own winter fuel from the rivers have found the coal frequently in eddies near the shore, where it has been necessary only to shovel it out. One man, living near the Susquehanna in the vicinity of Harrisburg, has obtained a complete winter supply at only the cost of transportation. Commercially the coal sells for about $3 a ton. Forced draft is required for its use in household furnaces, and when so used it produces, it is said, as much or more heat than the grades commonly sold for household use.
More than a half-million tons of river coal, valued at nearly $700,000 were recovered from the Schuylkill, Susquehanna and Lehigh rivers in commercial operations during 1921, state reports show.

Heir Appears To Put In Claim For Wealth

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay—(By Associated Press Mail)—After a lapse of 72 years an heir to the 6,000,000 pounds fortune left by an Irish peer has appeared in this city in the person of Don Eugenio O'Neill, a Uruguayan subject who is employed by the Agricultural Society of Uruguay.
Mr. O'Neill, who is 68 years of age, was first made aware of the facts of the case by a London friend who read in a newspaper a list of the great fortunes held by the Bank of England in trust for their legitimate heirs. Once in possession of the antecedents of the case, the lucky heir presumptive took steps to set the law in motion to assert his claim to this vast fortune. He has been deluged with letters of congratulation from all his friends, and many others who claim to be, and the only fly in the ointment is the discovery of the existence of other O'Neills in Chile, Portugal, the United States and Argentina to say nothing of a possible claimant from Queensland, Australia.
In spite of this, however, Don Eugenio is convinced that he alone is the rightful heir to this respectable fortune, and the progress of his claim is being watched with much interest in this city.

Havana Restaurants Wearied Of Loafers

HAVANA, CUBA. (By Associated Press Mail)—High rents are successfully supplementing the futile attempt of the law to eliminate the more undesirable features of that ancient Latin institution—the corner cafe loafer. Taking their cue from the high efficiency cigar stores and quick lunch counters of the United States, several Havana cafe owners, who are paying top prices for choice locations, have rid themselves of the drones who crowd their establishments and drive away clients.
They have removed the convenient tables and chairs, enlarged their bars and counters where coffee and other refreshments are served, and adopt other methods to assure quick service and speedy profits. The group of domino players who spent about 50 cents a day and occupied the best table, has been forced to move. The political orator soon tires if he cannot sit down occasionally. The whole tribe of loafers finds it hard to pass a few hours in a cafe where the bar is swabbed continually with a wet cloth, to the detriment of carelessly placed elbows, and white shoes suffer from a constantly moving mop.
While the practice has improved sales and increased profits, nobody yet has endeavored to learn whether the reform has pleased the weaker sex. It is a common belief that the first time a Cuban matron runs the gauntlet in front of any one of the popular downtown cafes without exciting comment from the gallants lounging, she goes home to weep for her lost youth and feminine fascination.

Five polo tours, five new horse shows, a hunt club and a saddle and bridle club with five acres of stables and grounds, are among the more recent additions to pastimes in which equestrianism figures.

The club house of the Saddle and Bridle Club, located on the site occupied by the Pan American exposition, is said to be one of the largest privately owned riding enclosures in the United States. It is of the Tudor style of architecture, the stables surrounding a huge enclosed ring under a glass roof. Polo will be played in the ring during the winter months.

Fewer Troubles Of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Are Observed

Diseases of the eye, ear, throat and nose among the school children of Maui are on the decrease. The number of children in the schools has shown a large gain but there has been no such increase in diseases of the character mentioned as in the number of school pupils. Dr. Charles Barton made the statement yesterday afternoon before leaving for Honolulu. He had been unable to finish his inspection before the closing of the schools for the Christmas holidays came, but he will return to Maui next month, he said, and finish the work.

Drastic treatment and careful, painstaking work on the part of the board of health and district nurses and physicians are the causes attributed by Dr. Barton to the improvement shown and he is warm in praise of their efforts.

In trachoma there is found an increase and a further one is expected, Dr. Barton said. There is a decided increase shown on the mainland at present the cause of which has not been explained but the increase here is slighter. The type of the disease now manifested is milder than ordinary and it is quite amenable to treatment. Here on Maui the increase has not been especially noticeable in the schools as to indicate spread of infection from child to child as in families where one or more had been affected and other members have become infected.

Dr. Barton is preparing to render a detailed report on Maui conditions to Dr. Trotter, head of the Territorial board of health.
