France Annexes Rurutu--Earthquake in Tonga--In Tow for Auckland--News Notes.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 23.--The Premier's motion to extend the boundaries of the colony, to be moved today, is as follows: 'That, whereas, it is desirable in the best interests of the colony and of the inhabitants of certain islands in the Pacific, hereinafter mentioned, that those islands should be annexed to this colony, this House therefore approves of the alteration of the boundaries of this colony, and consents to extension of the said boundaries so as to include the following islands: Atiu, Mangaia, Mauke, Mitiaro, Rarotonga, Rarotongahave, Manahiki, Palmerston, Penryn, Pukapuka, Rakahanga and Niue (or Savage Island).'

EARTHQUAKE IN TONGA. NUKULAOFA, Sept. 20.--Most of the dwellers in this island were awakened rather rudely from their slumbers at about 6 a. m. on August 21st by a rather severe shock of earthquake. It commenced with a sudden shake, and then a pause of a second or two, followed by a very decided and prolonged quiver.

FIJI AND FEDERATION. The committee of the Federal League, says the Fiji Times of September 5, do not, apparently, intend to let the grass grow under their feet, nor permit the movement to die a natural death. A meeting was held on Thursday afternoon last, and from expressions on all sides it could easily be seen that the members of the committee will leave no stone unturned to forward their project. The sub-committee appointed for that purpose had before the meeting the draft petition which will eventually be forwarded to the Premier and Parliament of New Zealand. It was decided to hold a public meeting in the Mechanics' Institute on Tuesday evening next, 13th instant, to consider the question of Federation with New Zealand.

IN TOW FOR AUCKLAND. AUCKLAND, Sept. 26.--The purser of the mail steamer Mariposa which arrived from Apia on September 25 reports that the hull of the bark Elise was sold on August 28 to Mr. E. A. G. Auckland, by Mr. Rosenberg of Apia for the sum of $2,000, as she lay at Apia, with all faults. This vessel had a very eventful time whilst beating up towards Apia harbor whilst in charge of the pilot, in May last. The vessel missed stays and went on the reef and had a very rough experience, being bumped about on the reef for some time. She was afterwards towed off and taken into Apia harbor, when it was found she was making a considerable quantity of water. Divers were employed to survey the vessel's bottom, and they reported that she had a hole knocked about on the bottom and keel, a considerable number of the plates and frames being bulged in and broken, the rivets and cement broken. A marine inquiry was held, and the vessel was condemned, and her register cancelled. She was afterwards dismantled, and sold by auction, by order of the German Court, the hull bringing $1,400, the rigging, sails, spars, anchors, chains and running gear being sold in separate lots, fetching about $1,000. The late captain proceeded from Apia to San Francisco by the last trip of the Mariposa. The Elise left Apia on the 18th instant in tow of the Union Company's steamer Hauroro, for Auckland, and should arrive early next week.

FRENCH ANNEXATION. TAHITI, Society Islands, Sept. 5.--The natives of Rurutu, one of the Austral group (Tubuai Islands), about 550 miles south of Tahiti, are the owners of two schooners, Manuava and Torua. They complained that they could not trade with the Leeward Islands, or the Tuamotus, as their island was only a protectorate of France, and their vessels under the protectorate flag. They therefore petitioned the French Government to annex the island. The warship Aube, with His Excellency the Governor on board, left Papeete (capital of the Society Islands) on August 23d and returned on the 25th, after having annexed the island to France.

COLONIAL NEWS NOTES. Lord Roberts may pay a visit to New Zealand. Mr. J. H. Upton has finally declined the Auckland Mayoralty. The Female Franchise bill has been rejected by the Victorian Council. The Breeching blacks have been heard from again in New South Wales. Four men have been drowned at Sydney as the result of a yachting accident. The New Zealand Government is about to introduce a bill to confer a certain amount of self-government on the Maori race. The Secret Defence Committee recommends the expenditure of $150,000 on the Auckland forts.

The May Queen-Hauraki mine, New Zealand, has yielded $2,780 worth of gold for the past month. The Premier of New Zealand proposes to use prison labor in planting the waste lands of the country with trees. Mr. Witherford, M. H. R., wants the Government to seriously consider the decline in the New Zealand birthrate. DEATH IN THE BOTTLE. Three Killed by Drink On Hawaii. AZRAEL ENDS A CAROUSE.

Natives at Kailua Attend Prince David's Luau and Continue Imbibing. As a result of a drinking bout prolonged through several days, three people are dead at Kailua, Hawaii, and two others are lying in a precarious state. The deaths have aroused the entire leeward coast of the big island, and whether they were the result of foul play or not will be a matter for the police department to investigate.

On Monday, the 8th, Kaeo went into a sort of comatose condition and so remained until Tuesday evening, when he died. Mr. and Mrs. Burgers, their grown up son and another young man, Makaku, continued at Kaeo's house all day Monday drinking and in the evening young Burgers went home. The next morning (Tuesday) Mr. and Mrs. Burgers went home about 4 a. m. Mrs. Burgers went home about 4 a. m. Mrs. Burgers went into the same comatose condition, dying about 11, before the arrival of a doctor. Mr. Burgers appeared sort of dazed when the doctor arrived, but very little was said to him.

Deputy Attorney General J. W. Cathcart, who returned from Hawaii on the Mauna Loa, stated last evening that he went down to Kailua from Kohala early in the week to investigate the details of the tragedy. "Dr. Lindley," said he, was nonplussed. He was not able to ascertain positively what the cause of death was. At first he thought they were due to alcoholism, but after examining the bodies of some of those who died, he could not state positively whether this was so or not, so he sent the stomach of one of the men who died to Honolulu for examination. The police department will give the whole matter a careful examination.

Tribute to Mr. Cathcart. The people of Kailua, Hawaii, have a great regard for Deputy Attorney General Cathcart, according to letters which have been received from that place by Attorney General Dole. Mr. Cathcart made many friends all through the district during his recent visit there in connection with the work of the Third District Court.

MISS WALLACE HERE. Lost Money Through Commodore Weaver's Diabonesty. Among the interesting passengers aboard the Alameda yesterday was Miss Hattie Wallace, who is stopping at the Hawaiian Hotel awaiting the steamer Coptic, which is due here from San Francisco on October 17.

Miss Wallace stated last evening to a reporter that she is a loser to the amount of 700 pounds sterling, or about $3,500, for her acquaintance with the suave "Commodore," and in return for her outlay received but seventy pounds sterling, or $350, from the sale of the boat. She intends to leave for Japan, where she will remain for some time before returning to England. Her baggage was sent to Japan from Australia, but at the last moment she decided to come via Honolulu in order to avoid the typhoons which rage in the China and Japan seas at this season of the year.

As to the "Commodore," Miss Wallace knows nothing of his present whereabouts. The story of "Commodore" Weaver is too well known to Honoluluans to bear repetition.

WILL THE ELECTION of an irresponsible Legislature in Hawaii affect the money market here? The question was asked of a prominent banker yesterday. 'That is a difficult question to ask of me now,' said the banker. 'It is difficult to forecast what any Legislature's actions will be. It depends on what class of men are elected. If they are men in themselves irresponsible and elected by an irresponsible class of voters who have not great interests at stake, the stability of the money market would undoubtedly be shaken and our credit hurt.'

ALUMNI DO THE TRICK

Punahou Undergraduates Beaten. SCORE OF GAME 6 TO 0

Interesting Contest on the Gridiron at Oahu College Witnessed by Many.

PUNAHOU ALUMNI and Undergraduates met on the gridiron yesterday afternoon for the initial game of the season. The game was played to try out new material, and the college men are grateful to the Alumni for this opportunity of doing so.

As the teams lined up at 4:30 it was evident that the Alumni team was much the heavier. Castle won the toss and chose the east goal. Fuller kicked off to M. Robinson, who carried the ball back to the 45-yard line. Marcellino gained five yards through the Alumni left tackle. Kaulukou failed to gain. Castle netted three yards through center and then kicked fifteen yards into the opponent's territory. Fuller was thrown for a loss of two yards, and the Alumni surrendered the ball on downs.

Marcellino went through right tackle for four yards and duplicated the trick on the next rush. Kaulukou bucked the line for ten yards. Castle kicked the ball to the opponents. Waterhouse gained four yards through right tackle but Hemenway was thrown for a loss of three yards by Cruzan. Fuller kicked to Castle, who carried the ball back fifteen yards before he was thrown. Judd and Marcellino advanced the ball to the 20-yard line, where it was surrendered on downs.

A. F. Judd lost the ball on a fumble. Castle's kick was blocked. Both sides seemed to be a little short of wind and the rest of the half was devoted to punting, in which the full-backs seemed to be on even terms. Perry's breaking through and blocking one of Fuller's kicks was a feature of the game. Several changes were made in Punahou team. William went in at quarter-back. C. Judd was moved to left end and Walker to left tackle. Plunkett went in at left guard and Myers replaced Kaulukou at right full-back.

Castle kicked to J. Waterhouse, who rushed the ball to the 45-yard line. Punahou hammered the right side of its opponents' line for thirty-five yards, and things looked like a touchdown, but Myers, after making a clean run of fifteen yards, fumbled and the ball went to the Alumni. Slight gains were made around the ends but the Punahou line held firmly and Fuller was forced to kick. Akina gained two yards and Marcellino netted five, but the ball went to the Alumni on downs. Ingalls went around the end for five yards, but the ball went to Punahou on a fumble, near the center of the field. After small gains the ball went to the Alumni. Fuller kicked and the ball was fumbled. G. Judd picked it up and carried it to within six yards of the goal line before he was downed by Castle. Greenwell advanced four yards and M. Robinson, being drawn in on the next play, Ingalls went around his end for a touchdown. Fuller kicked goal.

MEN NOW TRAINING

Teaching Automobile Drivers.

PLANS OF THE COMPANY

Expert Driver Searles Looking After the Education of the Tyros.

The Honolulu Automobile Company is preparing to get its operating corps in readiness for the autos when they arrive from the Coast. Manager L. T. Grant is looking for desirable men, who are sober, careful and possessed of headpieces that do not get excited over such trifles as street jam, close shaves and narrow escapes from accidents. Manager Grant proposes to put on thirty such men and is receiving many applicants for the positions of drivers. Out of these applicants thirty will be selected and put in charge of Fred Searles, an expert driver who was brought down from the Coast to train the inexperienced men in the manifold duties which are required on the seat of an auto. Mr. Searles has already initiated the drivers for several auto stations in the States, and fully understands his work.

Independence Park has been placed at the disposal of the company as a training field and storage place for the vehicles while the power and stable building is being constructed. From this point Mr. Searles will take the green drivers and put them through a course of electrical education and induct them into the mysteries of the controlling levers, steering gear and the many other little levers and rods which cause the vehicle to start, move and stop.

Manager Grant believes that the Beach road will be utilized to a great extent in training the men. It is not much used at present, and presents just such a surface as would be required in training inexperienced men. It is a smooth roadway and has few obstacles. Mr. Searles will take three or four of the brightest men of the thirty in order that they may act as assistants to himself and help in the training of the others. First they will be told the uses of the levers. The start and stop will be the first principles to be learned. Mr. Searles understands these, the turning of corners will be next in order. Then dodging ordinary obstacles such as are usually met on a highway.

The French system of training will not be followed. This consists of placing figures representing pedestrians, policemen, nurses with baby carriages, dogs, and a myriad of other features which are supposed to block up the passage of the street. This system was tried in one city on the Mainland and proved unsuccessful. In Honolulu the men will be put upon the streets as soon as they understand how to operate the machinery. They will be given practical tests.

Should a man show signs of nervousness or lightheadedness his services will be dispensed with before he is given a license as an auto driver.

The schedule of rates has been fixed upon by the board of directors, but will not be made public until the automobiles are ready to be sent out upon the streets. The rates are understood, however, to be practically the same as the horse hacks.

One feature will be added which is in force in other cities. The passenger will receive a rebate check from the driver when he pays cash for his ride. The rebate is 30 per cent. If a passenger pays 25 cents for his fare he receives a rebate check entitling him to 2 1/2 cents when presented at the company's office. These are good for presentation for ninety days. A dollar in cash paid to the driver would entitle him to 10 cents rebate. In the course of a month a person using the autos frequently would have enough rebate money coming to him to make it worth his while to ride in the autos.

In the hack will be placed in a neat frame a map of the city showing in different colored links the legal limits or divisions that govern certain rates of fare. Below it in another frame will be the schedule of rates, so that in case of an argument, both passenger and driver will have the evidence at hand to settle their dispute.

Manager Grant intends to adopt a novel system of letting the public know when a hack is engaged or not. In Mexico he ascertained that the automobile companies had the drivers place a little flag of any color on the seat beside them when the vehicle was not engaged. When engaged the flag is drawn in.

No hack stands are to be maintained. The vehicles will remain in the stable and will only be sent out upon a call for them. Each auto will be charged with the full mileage power when sent from the stable. Manager Grant does not intend to take any chances of his vehicles coming to a standstill on the outskirts, and requiring to be towed in. The changing machinery is in the city, and as soon as a roof is over the power building it will be placed in position. A hack is run upon the platform, the old battery removed and a new one substituted in less than five minutes. If a hack has been sent out on a long journey and passes near the power house it is only a matter of a few minutes to re-charge the auto and send it out afresh. The power house and stable are expected to be completed within six weeks and ready for business. Several private autos have been ordered and will probably be stabled with the company at all times.

Several of the autos were expected on the Moana yesterday, but failed to arrive. Twenty of them are now afloat says the manager, and are expected soon.

The Rebuilt Theater Francaise.

All playgoers and Americans who knew the old will be glad to hear that few changes have been made in its reconstruction. The plan designed by the Architect Louis toward 1780 was too admirable to have been tampered with, and practically no modifications have been undergone. The interior aspect and arrangement of the theater have also been preserved as far as possible. The oval-shaped vestibule on the ground floor remains unchanged. The grand staircase will be restored exactly as it was, and the public foyer, where about everybody of distinction has been descending transformation. Its architectural design has been regarded as a sacred trust, and to replace the interior as it originally was, has been carried out to a dot.

THE WAY OF ELECTIONS

Claims of Proportional Representation.

SYSTEMS ARE COMPARED

John Emmeluth Says That the Present Plan is a Poor One for Hawaii.

Editor Advertiser: Permit me space to place before the readers of the Advertiser a few facts in regard to cumulative voting, a matter touched upon in last Tuesday's issue of your paper; also to present the matter of proportional representation, with a view to arousing public interest in this most commendable system of electing state, county or municipal officers.

The first, and as far as I know of, the only election held in this country where the cumulative ballot was used, was that for delegates to the Constitutional Convention of 1894—at a time when, through the mental strain incidental to the occurrences of the preceding year, our leaders were actually afraid to trust their own supporters. Happily, those days are gone and the cumulative ballot with them.

The following excerpts from an article on the subject published in 1898 are still as forceful as then:

ELECTION OF 1894. CUMULATIVE BALLOT CANDIDATES

Candidates	No. of Votes	No. of Cast. Voters.	Pctg. of Quota.
Robertson	1596	449	87
Ables	1409	415	81
Carter	1109	482	94
Vivas	1088	314	63
Fernandes	1082	307	61
Kuniakake	612	286	57
Klemme	610	127	25
King	578	350	70
Kidwell	419	231	45
Cloney	321	78	15
Mitchell	135	45	9

While by the above figures the candidate having the highest number of votes was 8 per cent above the vote quota, he was 32 per cent below the voter quota. Kuniakake, with 42 per cent of voter quota and 54 per cent of voter quota, was the least elected candidate, and Klemme would have been elected in his stead with only 25 per cent of voter quota on the change of three votes. But what knocks the cumulative ballot clean out is the exhibit on the vote for King. He was a man who actually had 70 per cent of voter quota, being in excess of the choice received by three of the elected candidates, and Klemme, with only 25 per cent of voter quota, had 3 per cent more than King in vote quota. In other words, a defeated candidate was the individual choice of more voters than three of the elected candidates, and one candidate the choice of 127 individual voters obtained through the plumping process more votes than one who was the individual choice of 359 voters.

The wastefulness of this process and the iniquitous consequences of its general adoption can be fully realized when one considers that the above statistics are of an election where the factions were practically a unit on the main issue, and the question which naturally presents itself is, What will be the consequences when active partisanship once more comes into play? A few voters hold the club of cumulative plumping and manipulating party nomination can by such methods as are known only to the practical politician, saddle on a community a Legislature that would blow in more money in a single session than the taxpayers could make up in ten years.

I must explain the term "quota" as used above. Six men were to be elected to the Constitutional Convention. Dividing the total number of votes cast by six gives the "vote quota," dividing the number of voters by six gives the "voter quota."

Further criticism of this system would be a waste of words, but note the similarity between the conditions referred to in the closing paragraph and the situation as we have it actually in prospect today.

I believe that at least $5,000 will be "blowed in" by various elements on this island during the present campaign, an average of $1,666 for each man elected, and still the element which Mr. W. O. Smith states was to secure representation through cumulative voting, may be as much misrepresented under the present party system as under cumulative voting.

You quote Mr. Smith as saying, "As to the expediency of removing it from the books, I do not care to express an opinion." No seriously thoughtful man could long doubt the expediency of removing so unrepresentative a system from the Statute. It is as wrong in principle as it is barren of results aimed at in practice.

Let us see what proportional representation would do in a situation such as confronts us today. The facts are, first, that registration for this island is completed with, in round numbers, 6,000 voters on the rolls. There are six Senators and twelve Representatives to be elected. Proportional representation would substitute for the present system of nomination and election the following: Upon completion of registration, the Registrar of Voters would declare the quota of votes necessary to elect each officer in this case it would be one-sixth of 6,000 voters, or 1,000 for each Senator and one-tenth of the same number, or 600 for each Representative.

The law would provide that a petition signed by the requisite number of voters will entitle the person petitioned to a place on the ballot. It would also provide that no person can sign more than one petition for the same office at any election. It would provide farther that whenever a petition contains signatures equal to the quota required at the ensuing election, the person petitioned shall be declared elected and the names of voters signing such petition shall be withdrawn from the voting lists for that election unless they have found representation through their petition.

In the present election this would mean that any one having been petitioned by 1,000 voters would be declared elected Senator by petition. In like manner any one petitioned by 600 voters would be declared elected as Representative.

In voting at the polls the same style ballot is used as in the coming election, the only difference being that it is marked numerically 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, according to preference of the voter for the various names on the ticket.

In counting the ballots they are placed on files; there being one file for each candidate. As soon as a file contains the requisite number of ballots the person for whom they are filed is declared elected and the file is removed. Any further ballots having his name as preference are distributed to the one marked next of choice.

When all the ballots are filed the candidate having the least number of ballots on his file is eliminated and his ballots are distributed over the remaining files, this process of elimination on the one hand and election on the other going on until six candidates have each received 1,000 votes for Senator and proportional representation, the only system of voting that will result in a true government of the people, for the people and by the people, is accomplished. If adopted, it would absolutely kill off the politicians, hoodlums and bosses just as sure as though they were pluffed six feet underground. Think of the contrast! What a heddam we are having in trying to get voters to our way of thinking, to say nothing of the pecuniary loss to the general business and campaign "dough," with their pernicious effects on the average voter.

Contrast this condition, I say, with that of proportional methods. Under the latter the business element of the community having special legislation to work through, could the man most capable to present the matter in the Legislature. Under this system, too, each element would find representation in the ratio of their number to the total vote. It would mean in the coming election that there would be about four Hawaiian Representatives and two whites in the Senate, and double each of these in the House; as the relative strength of one or the other increases so would also their representation increase or decrease, a complete triumph of Constitutional government. May God speed the day when our glorious country shall free itself from the shackles of party rule.

JOHN EMMELUTH.

THE TROUBLES OF MISMATED PAIRS

Mrs. Mary A. Brown Sues Malcolm Brown for Divorce—Other Cases.

The troubles of three mismatched pairs were aired in the Circuit Court yesterday when their divorce papers were filed and came before the public as public documents.

Mrs. Mary Alice Brown brought suit for divorce against Malcolm Brown, formerly deputy registrar of conveyances, who disappeared from the Islands about seven years ago. He is a brother of Cecil Brown, Geoffrey Brown and Frank Brown, all of whom are well-known here.

Mrs. Brown states in her libel that she was married to Brown on August 21, 1882, by the Rev. Alex. Mackintosh and that she lived with him until May 30, 1893, when Brown deserted her.

Since that time Brown has not contributed to her support in any respect. She states that there are no children resulting from the union and she asks for absolute divorce.

A libel for divorce was filed by Mrs. Virginia M. Lancaster against her husband Mille Lancaster, the blacksmith. The libel recites that the pair were married in this city on June 20th, 1894, and for several years lived together as man and wife. In the month of September, 1897, Mrs. Lancaster charges her husband treated her with great cruelty, assaulting and beating her until she was forced to take to her bed and was under the care of a physician for the period of four weeks. For the past three years, Mrs. Lancaster goes on, her husband has utterly deserted her and left her to earn her own living as best she might, and she has been compelled to work for her own living to support herself and her child, Irene Blanche Lancaster, who is now five years of age.

She asks absolute divorce, the custody of the child and such permanent alimony as may seem fit to the court. R. D. Mead is her attorney.

Virginia Hendricksen has for five years been mated with Julio Hendricksen but now she has had enough of it and she has brought suit for separation from her husband.

Her petition shows that she married Hendricksen on April 28, 1895, Father Clement performing the ceremony. For a long period past, she goes on, her husband has been in the habit of treating her with great cruelty. He has become a hard rinker, she avers, and while intoxicated ill treats her. On the 6th of October, she adds, Hendricksen drove her and her two children, aged four and two years, out of the house, thereby causing her great suffering. He has likewise accused her of infidelity with one Gardner, and this, she says, is utterly false and has caused her great mental agony.

Hendricksen is a ship carpenter and earns a salary of $27 a week. He has likewise a leasehold and dwelling. She asks for a decree of separation and for $50 a month alimony for the support of herself and her children. L. M. Strauss and A. G. Correa are her attorneys.

DAN SANFORD DEAD.

Succumbs to Injuries Received in Railway Accident.

Dan Sanford, engineer at Honolulu plantation who was quite seriously injured at the plantation on October 1, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at the residence of his brother-in-law, Joseph McGuire, on King street.

Mr. Sanford had received a severe injury to his leg in a railroad accident and was brought to this city for treatment. It seemed for the past few days that he was recovering but his stomach became affected and Thursday night he began to sink and died at 6 o'clock. Mr. Sanford leaves a mother, two sisters and a brother. The funeral will take place from the McGuire home this afternoon. It will be under the direction of Manager Low of Honolulu plantation.

CAME NEAR DYING.

"For three days and nights I suffered as my untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines, but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by Penzance, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents.

CURTAINS FOR THE NEAT HOME

Parisian Hangings are in Popular Favor in the United States During Season Prevaling.

The woman who is getting new curtains for her home this year, or who is getting the old ones worn, is getting the latest in curtain styles. They are being made much handsomer and more artistic than ever before. There is no longer any question of the quality of the material, and that is the first thing to be considered. The real test of a curtain is its appearance, and that is what the woman who is getting new curtains for her home is looking for. The real test of a curtain is its appearance, and that is what the woman who is getting new curtains for her home is looking for.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The graceful costume illustrated was created by Callot for the Deauville races.

The design was carried out in lavender blue pique, but is equally suitable for heavier materials.

The modish skirt shows a slight change in outline from those worn during the summer; it is close about the hips, and has a pretty outward curve on the lower portions; though far from being short or hobby, its train of three or four inches is less than would have been accorded it even two months ago.

The bottom of the skirt is ornamented with lace insertions set in deep scallops; the lace also outlines a panel on the skirt front, which is crossed by flat folds of lavender pique.

This front panel is one of the most pronounced innovations decreed by Paris dressmakers. As the season advances it is more and more in evidence. It appears in lace, braid and embroidery, and already gowns of two materials bid fair to attain a certain vogue, the outer skirt falling over a petticoat front of some rich stuff, like velvet.

The smart little bolero—what a different garment it is from the clumsy coat of the same name assumed by the Oriental woman!—is made of narrow crossway folds of pique, and is encrusted on the sides with Irish guipure lace, over which again are set bias folds of pique simulating a second set of jacket fronts.

Here again is an autumn novelty. Some of the most advanced models designed by great houses show a whole series of jacket fronts lined with silk or gold cloth and lapping each other like the thatch on a cottage.

The front of the bodice is of white mousseline de sole and lace, the narrow belt of black satin. The bolero has a small flat collar of blue and two rows of crystal buttons.

The sleeves, which are of easy fullness, are finished at the top by folds of pique which give an agreeable breadth to the shoulders and suggest another attractive fashion of the season—fluttering little shoulder capes—the coachman's capes of years ago—which are now seen both on coats and chic little tailor gowns, often ending in points at the waist line.

The back of the bodice is altogether of guipure, with bias folds of pique following the outline of the figure.

That hat which accompanies the costume is from Marecot Sœurs. It is of blue felt and is ornamented with an aigrette and with a great chou of gauze.

At the Deauville races several questions were settled.

What Auteuil and Longchamps are to spring and summer fashions that and more the Deauville-Trouville races and the autumn Grand Prix are to those of the fall and winter.

At Trouville especially, the sobriety of toilettes imposed in town does not apply, and therefore one sees gayer and more noticeable attire and more individuality of style, but still keeping within the note of elegance.

It is the place of all places for the introduction of novelties.

Besides the visitors at Trouville, people came this year in automobiles from the different chateaux far and near, and in the rapidly moving "teuf-teufs" and on the grandstand were first exhibited innovations in costume that will be caught up eagerly by dressmakers all the world over.

White wool costumes gleamed everywhere—dainty tailor gowns in magnolia, cyster and lily white veiling, serge and mohair, such as will be worn abroad as long as the last vestige of summer weather remains, even until late in October.

Very simple were these immaculate dresses, exquisitely cut but without other trimming than white silk braid and a narrow barb of lace finishing the white silk vest.

Empire coats were constantly in evidence, the most charming of them in doing away with the distortions which the old-fashioned stays produced.

LATEST IN NIGHT GOWNS.

Empire styles are really the very latest in night robes as well as tea gowns or peignoirs. A mode which is being extensively copied shows the bodice composed of 2½-inch Irish point lace insertions, alternating with lace not quite so wide. The neck is cut square and half low, and is outlined with a strip of the Irish point, which is of open scroll design, leaving a graceful edge touching the neck. The insertion is not headed with lace, but is cut to fit closely. The strips of "point" that form the bodice extend over the hips, and where they terminate is attached the fabric of the skirt, which flows out in demitain. The Empire result is secured by ribbons 2½ inches in width that are attached at the center of the neck in the back.

The ribbon lace runs in and out of the insertions, passes under the arm, loosely encircles the bust and follows up the center of the front, and fastens in loose loops and ends. The skirt is simply finished with a deep hemstitched fold. The sleeves flow away from the arm at the elbow. This is made of cotton materials and soft silk, and is to be designed in nun's veiling and cashmere. The same idea could be carried out in an outing gown, the bodice being made of strips of ribbon on Hamburgs.

LACES ARE TO BE THE RAGE NOW

The Skirt Shapes Will Remain Practically the Same Until the Spring Says Fashion.

There is no question but laces will be much worn both during the fall and the winter. Those who have laid in a good supply of these beautiful trimmings from the bargain sales should therefore be happy. Luxeull, Irish and Cluny are expected to hold leading places, but nothing which is pretty will be at all amiss. The shops, too, are showing woven lace collars and jackets, as well as all-over pieces, so that it looks as though, with a little alteration, last season's lace gowns may be creditably made to do service for another year.

SKIRT SHAPES UNCHANGED.

There seems to be little prospect of a radical change in the shape of skirts until spring. It is authoritatively stated that the round skirt, just touching the ground, will be introduced. The skirt of 1899 style seems to be favored by Americans. It is quite long and shaped to the figure, with a plaiting or scarcely noticeable drapery over the hips and the suggestion of a box plait in the back. It has the seam down the front and on most figures looks very well.

SHORT JACKETS AGAIN.

Jackets will be short, with the mere suggestion of a basque for autumn use. The long coats have not yet seen the end of their career. A softening touch is given to some of the light cloth three-quarter coats by the use of a chou and sash ends of chiffon applied at one or both sides of the coat. In cases where the trimming is used on both sides of the jacket a chiffon band gracefully outlines the waist in the back, where it is sometimes clasped by a buckle of cut steel or pearl.

SHOULDER-DRAPE EFFECT.

With regularity the shoulder-drape effect appears as a mode of trimming house gowns. It is extremely pretty for negligees, tea gowns and matinees, but when introduced on night robes it receives with each advance a cold welcome. A possible objection to the scarf for a nightdress trimming is the invariable "bunchy" feeling about the shoulder. The fichu or scarf mode is a trimming that is followed by women who cling to an individual style of gowning—the simple frock where practically the only ornamentation is the shoulder dressing. The drape is decidedly more pronounced than it was in the spring. In tea-gowns and wraps made of wool materials the scarf is of silk, variously edged. Pointed yokes have the lace edging finishing the lower line, giving the effect of a scarf.

DRESSY EFFECTS.

For more dressy effects one model commended itself both on account of its daintiness and its chic. It was of white silk crepe de chine over black, veiled with white chiffon. The long, slightly trained skirt was trimmed with lace, above which came a little group of narrow tucks, and then a narrow band of insertion, the skirt being shaped with a rounded yoke. The bodice of lace was made with a transparent yoke, encircled on the shoulders by folds of draped crepe de chine fashioned into a choup at one side, under which long sashlike ends of the crepe de chine fell like stoles almost to the hem of the skirt. This sash was embroidered and trimmed at intervals with lace, which gave it a very rich appearance.

LATE PARISIAN STYLES FOR EARLY AUTUMN WAISTS.

THESE two new blouses we have the newest fashion features. The flannel blouse is a conspicuous part in the styles. The first one is of mauve flannel with a black polka dot with cuffs, collar and revers of the same design. The second one is of black taffeta with a soft creamy white flannel, with trimmings of a contrasting silk canvas. The embroidery is of a charming violet color, which is backed with the line of the violet embroidery and falls over full sleeves which also are of white flannel.

NEW STRAIGHT FRONT.

The new straight front effect in women's bodices is becoming so pronounced that it is creating a certain curved carriage that threatens in time to suggest the hideous Grecian bend of twenty-five years ago. The belt line of the fashionable woman is now anywhere from two to four inches below her waist, sloping down from the back and pulleyed in place by means of hidden hooks and slides that suggest a harness. There is no doubt that the new figure is more graceful than the old hour-glass curves of the feminine form which were produced by an absurd tightening and displacing of the natural form. If the women extremists in dress will only pause in the lengthening of the waist the new fashion will be another radical and sensible change in woman's dress. The new corset allows the body to lean on its own muscles for support and lets out the waist, thereby

A CHARMING DESIGN.

A very pretty dress, made in mousseline de sole of a light and tender shade, is embroidered in a charming design of Louis XV. period on a background of silver spots. This is utilized for a close-fitting tunic, bordered with rare lace applique over a lace flounce, which opens at the side to show the lace tunic. A lace bolero opens over a full underbodice, which has side stroppings that are tied together in a knot in the front. The sleeves are mere apologies—nothing but straps of ribbons. The gown is very pretty in white, with geranium-colored panne for the belt. The plain mousseline de sole skirts, just a flounce of lace at the hem, are worn with a bodice having a lace bolero, which constitutes the entire trimming.

NATTY LITTLE GYMNASIUM COSTUME.

THE GYMNASIUM comes in for its share of Fashion's whims and in this smart gymnasium frock we have a model that is both practical and artistic. The pleated skirt has a plain panel in the front and the blouse has a circular collar and chemise of white flannel. A pretty little touch is given by the two orange bows, one at the waist and the second at the base of the circular collar.

Catching Sharks As a Genuine Sport.

THE MEN who go down to Pearl Harbor to snare the shark will be followed with envy at reading the following... The shark is not generally considered a dangerous animal, but rather a fishy scavenger...

Several sharks of comparatively small size approached the bait, which was jerked out of their way; whereupon they would turn, clumsily wheel about, and try again. Finally, up out of the deep sea came the great man-eater, looking so colossal that one felt that it would be a matter of chance whether it could be brought to terms...

The shark had, either by chance or from knowledge, turned into the outer channel, led directly to the sea, and was momentarily edging into the deeper blue channel which was one of the arteries of the atoll. It became necessary, therefore, to slack away the line as the monster made a terrific lunge...

Then, again, began the work of hauling in, this time up to the stern. When within ten feet of the latter the shark began to swim doggedly along, heading up the channel, and in this position we sat, holding the line while our huge steed towed us within half a mile of the point from which we started, where...

These expedients seemed to urge the shark to further efforts, and on we rushed, headed for the outer sea. It was manifestly impossible to stop the shark, and we had the alternative of being towed an indefinite distance or cutting the rope. Two miles ahead was a fishing-boat; so we decided to continue the struggle until she was reached...

slender bodies writhing and twisting as they were towed along.

The response nearly carried me overboard. Though well prepared for it, I was thrown against the rail upon my knees, and was elbow-deep in water while our boat was being pulled by the shark...

The first rush of the shark, indicating its alarm, was in the nature of a stampede, in which every shark in the vicinity, apparently, joined; so that for a moment a shark brigade, I could distinctly see their forms beneath and on each side of the boat flying along with us.

It was a trick well devised—if, indeed, it was. I had carried out, and had I not been able to slack away the line at once, the boat would have filled. As it was, the water poured in as we sprang to the weather side, now in air. As I let go the line the boat righted and the rope went whirling and hissing out. It was a moment's work to slip it into the notch again, and away we went in the original direction, the boat a third full of water.

After perhaps another mile the bucket and the oars had evidently made themselves felt, and there was a noticeable relaxation. The shark was rising, then, to turn it, if possible, and was climbing its banks, or it was losing its strength. We assumed the latter, and hauled the boat upon it, foot by foot.

emergency, lifting when I could, and my companion coiling the slack amidships, prepared for the rush which we knew might come any moment.

We had been towed perhaps three miles against the obstacles, and finally saw the gleam of white and felt that the finish was near. Giving the word, we both hauled with all our strength, and were repaid by the clank of the chain against the keel—the game was ours. But not yet. The monster rolled over several times; then, feeling the bow against its nose, turned and seized the cut-water in its cavernous mouth and crunched it, driving the serrated teeth into the wood.

To handle such a shark, weighing perhaps fifteen hundred pounds, was no easy matter, as its mere weight was an obstacle to progress. The game had been brought, theoretically, to gaff, but to land it was another proposition.

All this time the line had not been lifted from the slot in the bow, and it was necessary to do this with dispatch and transfer it to the scull-hole in the stern without giving the shark any slack or opportunity to break away.

Then, again, began the work of hauling in, this time up to the stern. When within ten feet of the latter the shark began to swim doggedly along, heading up the channel, and in this position we sat, holding the line while our huge steed towed us within half a mile of the point from which we started, where...

after having hauled us in all perhaps five miles, including circles and rushes. It gave signs of weakness; its struggles almost ceased except for an occasional lunge, and from here it was towed in; yet this occupied nearly two hours, owing to its repeated lapses from the quiescent state.

Reaching the beach the line was tossed ashore, and two score men pulled the shark up on the sands, where it was found to measure between thirteen and fourteen feet in length; but it was the girth of the monster which made the greatest impression upon the observer. It was impossible to weigh the huge creature, but few of those who saw it placed the weight at less than fifteen hundred pounds, and every ounce of it was game.

On the Californian coast the Bonita shark abounds, and in the neighborhood of Santa Catalina they afford great sport. Occasionally a white-oil shark is captured. I have taken the Bonita over six feet in length on a fourteen-ounce rod and a twenty-one pound tarpon line.

IOLANI COLLEGE BOYS.

Sporting Editor Advertiser:—The meeting to be held to-day at Punahou under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association will mark an epoch in the history of athletics in these Islands.

At the present time an increasing interest is apparent in every department of athletics and there are evidences to show that this is not spasmodic or transitory. The effort to establish an annual amateur athletic contest comes at an opportune moment and well deserves the support of everyone desirous of promoting the best interests of school life.

In these days of high pressure there is a general tendency to forget the great value of field exercises, but it is an incontrovertible fact that school life cannot satisfy the requirements of the full development of youth unless adequate provision be made for outdoor sport.

The Iolani boys are looking very fit after their long training but as has already been said they do not expect to do great things this year and will rest content if their efforts lay the foundation for greater results in the future.

Interest in the athletic meeting, entailing the special training of many of the team, has for a time forced Association football into the background. The Iolani eleven has therefore had to content itself with one or two occasional practices.

HEALANI CLUB RACES.

The Healanl club race will take place on Sunday, October 28th, at 10 a. m. It was originally intended that the race should be between crews captained by Dan Ranear and Paul Jarrett and rowed in barges.

and JOSEPH VIERRA.

EXCEPTIONS FROM CIRCUIT COURT, FOURTH CIRCUIT.

SUBMITTED SEPTEMBER 25, 1900. DECIDED OCTOBER 8, 1900.

FREAR, C.J., PERRY, J., and J. A. MAGOON, Esq., OF THE BAR
IN PLACE OF GALBRAITH, J., DISQUALIFIED.

An exhibit filed at the trial in the lower court, held, not to have been sufficiently referred to in the bill of exceptions so as to make it a part of said bill.

L. and M. executed a deed of certain property therein described to S. L. F., K. and N., the operative words used being, "We make, give, sell and convey absolutely and release absolutely, and by this instrument we make, give, sell and convey absolutely and entirely release unto our beloved sons L. F., their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever, and to K. and N. our beloved daughters, their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever." A later clause in the deed reads as follows: "Nevertheless, all the property conveyed by this instrument remains in our hands, and in our possession, and care, and we are to collect all the receipts, and take them for our benefit, and at the decease of one of us, the (rights) power of this instrument goes to the other of us, until the death of both of us; then the pieces of land, revenues, benefits, rents and all other profits, will go to our beloved children, Lo, Felix, Keannuene and Nune, as set forth above in this instrument."

Held, that a present interest passed to the grantees named, subject only to a life estate reserved by the grantors to themselves.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY PERRY, J.

This is an action of ejectment brought by the plaintiff to establish her claim to an undivided interest in certain land situate in the District of South Hilo, Hawaii, and more particularly described in the declaration. By consent of the parties, the cause was tried in vacation and without the intervention of a jury, and on the first of May last the court rendered its decision, ordering judgment for the plaintiff for an undivided one-sixth interest in the land and for \$66.66 $\frac{2}{3}$ damages. The defendants thereupon moved for a new trial on the grounds (1) that the decision was contrary to the law and to the weight of the evidence and (2) that the decision was not warranted or supported by the evidence. The motion was overruled and defendants excepted.

The "assignment of errors" on file herein and the bill of exceptions set forth a number of alleged errors and exceptions, but all except the following have been practically abandoned: "(1) That the court erred in holding that the deed, marked Exhibit E, passed a present estate to Felix after having found that said deed created an estate in futuro. (2) That the court erred in finding that any estate passed to Felix at the date of the execution of said deed. (3) That the court erred in finding that said deed passed title to one-third of said land to Felix after finding that he was one of the four grantees named therein. (4) That the court erred in finding that the plaintiff was entitled to one-sixth of the rental value of said land for two years. (5) That the court erred in finding for the plaintiff and in rendering judgment in her favor for any part of the land or for any sum as damages." On the 27th day of January, 1879, one Lonoai Lo, who at that time held the title to the land now in controversy, jointly with his wife, Makauli, executed a deed thereof, the grantees named therein being their four children, Solomon Lo (k), Felix (k), Keannuene (w) and Nune (w). It is this deed which is referred to in the exceptions as Exhibit E, and in the construction of which, it is alleged by the appellants, the court below erred.

This deed has not been made a part of the bill of exceptions or of the record in this court, and therefore cannot be considered by us on the exceptions. The only reference to the deed contained in the bill, is to be found in the statement of the proceedings had at the original trial and is as follows: "Mr. Smith. 'We now offer in evidence deed Lonoai Lo to Lo, Felix and Nune.' Admitted, marked Exhibit E. This deed was requested of defendant by plaintiff, produced by defendants and introduced by plaintiff." This is insufficient to make the deed a part of the bill. Without the deed it is impossible for us to say that the court below erred in its construction of the instrument, and since the burden is on the appellants to sustain their allegation of error, the exceptions for this reason alone should be overruled.

We have however, examined the deed, the material portions of which are as follows:

"Know all men by these presents; that I Lonoai Lo, and Makauli my wife of Hilo, Hawaii, Hawaiian Islands, for the consideration of one dollar paid into our hands by Lo, Felix, our greatly loved sons and Keannuene, Nune our beloved daughters, the receipt whereof of this dollar is acknowledged by this instrument:

Therefore we make, give, sell, and convey absolutely, and release absolutely, and by this instrument, we make, give, sell, and convey absolutely, and entirely release unto our beloved sons Lo, Felix, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns forever, and to Keannuene and Nune our beloved daughters, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns forever; but, if they marry husbands, at the time one of them marries a husband, or both of them have husbands, all their title right and interest go to Lo and Felix. * * * * *

Nevertheless, all the property conveyed by this instrument remains in our hands, and in our possession, and care, and we are to collect all the receipts, and the things growing on the pieces of land described above, and take them for our benefit, and at the decease of one of us, the (rights) power of this instrument goes to the other of us, until the death of both of us; then the pieces of land, revenues, benefits, rents and all other profits, will go to our beloved children, Lo, Felix, Keannuene and Nune as set forth above in this instrument."

Keannuene died during the life-time of the grantors, Lonoai deceased next, then Felix, who left surviving him a widow, Amalu, and lastly Makauli. In 1898 Amalu conveyed all of her interest in the land to the plaintiff. Defendants, on the other hand, have acquired by purchase all of the interest of Solomon Lo and Nune in the property.

On behalf of the defendants it is contended that the deed passed no present interest in the land to the children, but merely defined an estate in them to take effect and commence in futuro, and that Felix, under whom the plaintiff claims, having died in the lifetime of one of the grantors, no title ever became vested in him; and further that such an estate in futuro is void.

In our opinion, it was clearly the intention of the grantors to convey to their children in and by the deed, which was to take effect upon its delivery, a present interest in the land, and not an estate to commence in futuro, merely reserving to themselves the right to use and enjoy the same during the remainder of their lives, in other words, while the interest in the land, a vested remainder—was to pass at once to the children, possession and enjoyment of the land was not to be had by them until a future time, to wit, that of the deaths of the grantors. This intention is sufficiently expressed in the deed; nor is there any rule of law in force in this country which prevents the carrying out of that intention. For cases in which deeds similar to the one under consideration have been recognized as valid and effective to carry out the intention of the grantors, see Cates v. Cates, 135 Ind. 272; Phillips v. Thomas Lumber Co., 22 S. W. (Ky.) 652; White v. Hopkins, 4 S. E. (Ga.) 863; Schackleton v. Sebree, 86 Ill. 616, 620; and Pukaiakea et al. v. Hiuu, 5 Haw. 484.

Upon Keannuene's death, then, unmarried and without issue, her one-fourth interest passed to her father and mother in equal shares, i. e., one-eighth to each. Lonoai's one-eighth, on his death, descended to Solomon, Felix and Nune, one twenty-fourth to each. Felix thus became the owner of one-fourth plus one twenty-fourth, or seven-twenty-fourths. One-half of this, or seven-twenty-fourths, passed upon the death of Felix, without issue, his mother surviving him, to his widow, Amalu, and thus to the plaintiff. This is the interest, and no more, which she is entitled to recover. She concedes error in this respect in the judgment entered in the court below and offers to file a remittitur for the excess, one-fourty-eighth, and for all the damages. Such remittitur may be filed.

The exceptions are overruled, and the case is remanded to the Circuit Court of the Fourth Circuit for such further proceedings as may be proper.

YOUNG MEN'S RESEARCH CLUB

Meeting Last Night With McKinley and Bryan as Topics of Discussion.

The first fall meeting of the Young Men's Research Club was held last night at the home of A. B. Wood on Nuuanu avenue.

After a casual review of the political situation in general and a relation of interviews with all sorts of people met in his travels, Mr. Kincaid gave a most interesting description of Bryan at home.

Mr. Kincaid has an intimate friend, Chancellor McDowell of the University situated in Lincoln where Mr. Bryan's home is.

The pastor of Central Union Church said that he thought Mr. Bryan was thoroughly honest, of great capacity and he believed that if it were not for the 16 to 1 plank in the Democratic platform Bryan would have a walkover in the coming election.

As it is he thought that McKinley would win surely.

William Haywood former Consul General from the United States and now Collector of Internal Revenue spoke about the different Presidents of the United States whom he had met and particularly of McKinley.

Haywood told a curious anecdote of his childhood. When but seven years old his little cousin from New York coming to visit him in Washington, and expressing a wish to meet "a President," Haywood escorted her to the White House and meeting no opposition rambled through the rooms of the great building until they happened into the very apartment where President Grant was sitting with his cabinet discussing affairs of State.

Grant, always a child lover, stopped business and took the prankish pair on his knees where he asked them their quest.

Haywood, continuing, spoke of the other Presidents and remarked that Harrison was the only one of those with whom he had come in contact who lacked in tact and courtesy.

Of McKinley Mr. Haywood related many incidents. Haywood was brought up in Washington, got his first appointment in the State Department at 21 years of age and had been continuously in the Government's service since.

He knew McKinley pretty well and admired him greatly. He said that few people appreciated the hard work done by a President, and especially by a war President like McKinley.

Some folks had an idea that McKinley loafed around and talked with people all day or took a ride in the open.

The fact was that McKinley labored like a slave and his hours were taken up by business visitors and the routine of duty so that he seldom had a moment to himself.

Clinton J. Hutchins spoke of attending both the late political conventions and gave his impressions of the leaders in them. Being a Democrat he was full of Mr. Bryan and stated freely his ability and influence.

Others who spoke were Henry Waterhouse, Professor Crawley and Mr. Avery. Frank Atherton was elected secretary to succeed E. M. Boyd, and B. F. Beardmore took Mr. Atherton's place on the executive committee.

A committee of prominent Washingtonians called on the president last week and submitted to him tentative plans for the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the establishment of the seat of government at Washington in December. It is proposed to hold elaborate ceremonies at the capitol and White House. The project for the enlargement of the executive mansion will be made a prominent feature of the occasion.
