It was not our intention to insinuate that Mr. A. S. Hartwell had broken any agreement in the Cupid writ of habeas corpus case. As far as the general was personally concerned, he did not oppose the granting of bail to the petitioner. It was simply impossible for the Court to grant bail under the statutes.

In the Collector-General's report to the Minister of Finance it is shown that the importation of California wine is steadily increasing, and that the consumption of Japanese saki has increased nearly 80,000 gallons during the last year. The California exporters of wine cried out, therefore, before they were hurt.

The Minister of Finance has issued his report for the nine months ending December 31st, 1894. According to the report it is seen that the expenditures of the Government for the last two years have exceeded the income by nearly $10,000 a month or about $350 a day. What the end will be is a problem of some interest to the tax-payers. The report does not show how much the Government owes around town.

We publish in another column a letter in which a subscriber takes the INDEPENDENT to task for publishing a communication in which the Hawaiian is criticized. We have received several letters to similar effect. The INDEPENDENT desires to state that its columns are not held exclusive to any sect or party. They are always open to the discussion of questions of interest to the community, and both sides can be heard in this paper.

Observations.

To the man, possibly men, of our nineteen rulers who does any thinking we commend two expressions of a recent writer on peoples and Governments. The one runs thus: "The man who has set himself up as a government. It is an open secret that the nineteen are not in sympathy each with the other; that there are grave differences of opinion between the individuals comprising the nineteen; and, if the Bulletin is to be believed, there is a rift in the Cabinet that makes for discord; that the nineteen believe, in this they may be a unit, that their government is "in danger from its own citizens," otherwise why is the city like a military camp, and why do we hear of armed organizations on Hawaii and Maui where there have been no evidences of armed opposition? The other expression runs thus: "The theory is, that a nation that cannot be held together by love of country, ought not to be pinned together by bayonets." This aphorism might profitably be considered by each of our nineteen rulers and their minority of citizens; but it surely deserves the attention and consideration of the majority. Now let it distinctly be understood that we are not revolutionists, never were, and do not wish to be. We advise a peaceful solution of all of our national differences; but we respectfully ask the nineteen, individually and collectively, how under the ironclad text of the constitution they imposed upon the citizens of these islands any change can be effected? How and who is to cut the knot and lead to a peaceful solution of our differences?

It is in the air, we cannot trace the rumor to a reliable source, that the revenues of our unhappy republic are falling away and that its expenses are increasing. In fact the figures we have are that the revenues so far this year are $150,000 less than for the corresponding term last year, and that the expenses are $50,000 greater. This is burning the candle at both ends. We have either to obtain more revenue, spending less, or go bankrupt. With such a prospect it is hard for a taxpayer to be patient while the government keeps up a military and a police establishment entirely out of proportion to its needs. But the government goes further and keeps up a useless patrol of the waters between and around the islands, in the hope of—what? If to prevent the smuggling of opium why not make a short cut and find out what the Custom House ring knows about the drug. If to prevent the landing of men and arms on the shores of these islands, then why make themselves ridiculous with such a show of force? So far we are told that the first cruise of the Lehua landed an albicore, and the second an ulua, and the third the Port Surveyor. But, putting joking aside, we say seriously that the self-appointed junta that spends our taxes had better take counsel of their own adherents, for the pocket of a P. G. man is as sensitive to a new tax levy as that of a monarchist. Comparisons are odious and just now they are rife in the ranks of both P.G.'s and monarchists as to the relative advantages of both forms of government, with a strong leaning toward the old order of things.

We believe in art, and we believe in the Kilohana Art League, particularly the lady members of it. Heaven bless them. We believe too in Hitchcock (not the marshal); he has undoubted genius. This can be established beyond peradventure by looking at any of his later canvases. But we must protest, now that the cruel war is over, against his effort to perpetuate any of the scenes of the late war. We must indeed, particularly the ludicrous features of it, and there were many, in fact the most of them were mirth-provoking. Of course there were scenes that were and are sad; those we yield to no one in sincere sorrow and regret. The particular canvas of Mr. Hitchcock's to which we refer is the one on exhibition entitled the "Fort at Makapuu." When our young hotspurs broke for the other side of the range of hills that bisect this island, when the rioters were known to be on this side, we admired their caution, and for their sake think it questionable taste to make their masterly prudence the subject of an artist's brush.

VICTORIA'S BIRTHDAY.

Fitting Honors Paid to the Venerable British Queen.

The general invitation to the public issued by Mr. A. G. S. Hawes, Her Britannic Majesty's Commissioner and Consul General, to attend a reception at the Consulate General, was very largely responded to. President Dole and Ministers Hatch, King, Damon and Smith, Chief Justice Judd and Justice Frear of the Supreme Court, Judge Whiting of the Circuit Court, Admiral Beardslee, Captain Cotton and officers of the United States cruiser Philadelphia, members of the Diplomatic and Consular Corps and a large number of ladies and gentlemen prominent in social life and in the trade and industry of the country were present.

The reception was in the form of a garden party, being held on the lawn in the rear of the Commissioner's residence on Kinu street. Extensive borders of white and scarlet fabric alternating draped the fences and served as a windbreak. A detached out-tage was used as a reception pavilion. A large awning had been erected over the steps and the front of the building was literally covered with flags of different nations, British ensigns tastefully arranged being the central pieces. Barn and carriage house were also screened with flags, and, in short, gay bunting fluttered all over the grounds. The main house was beautifully decorated. An archway of flags over the driveway leading to the reception area was surmounted with a shield bearing the British arms and the sign of the Consulate-General.

Both the Government band and the band of the United States cruiser Philadelphia were on the ground playing alternately. Their playing of British airs was very delightful.

Mr. Hawes stood at the entrance of the canopy in front of the out-tage to receive the guests. He was attended by Mr. T. Rain Walker, British Vice Consul. As Mr. Dole arrived the Government band played Hawaii Pono, and Mr. Hawes went some distance to receive the President.

Along the rear of the ground tables were extended, laden with refreshments of the choicest cookery. Wine and other beverages were lavishly served according to individual preferences, and toasts to the continued health of the illustrious lady were frequently heard. Eulogiums of the princely hospitality of the Commissioner were general, and the warmest praise was heard on all hands for the magnificent setting he had given the event. It is needless to say that all Britons present were proud to see such loyal honor paid to their beloved and venerable sovereign.

AT INDEPENDENCE PARK.

There was a regular crush in the pavilion at Independence Park in the evening, the occasion being the dance in honor of Queen Victoria's birthday by Captain Cook Lodge, Sons of St. George, and the Scottish Thistle Club. It was a very congenial gathering of young people, with a goodly sprinkling of elderly folks. Commissioner Hawes attended. When he arrived a dance on the floor was suspended and the orchestra played the British national anthem. Mr. F. M. Hatch, Minister of Foreign Affairs, represented the Hawaiian Government at the party. Dancing continued until sometime after midnight, an intermission being taken in the middle of the order for refreshments. These were of a very inviting kind, having been supplied by ladies related to members of the two societies. Draught beer was furnished on the ticket system, and with the collation excellent tea and coffee, also aerated waters, were served.

The committee spared no pains to make all of the company feel at home. Mr. W. F. Reynolds as chairman gave systematic direction to the arrangements before and at the ball, so that there was not the slightest confusion even when the influx of guests was at its highest. Mr. George Harris was chief doorkeeper and would hardly accept any relief even after having been several hours standing in one place. Mr. E. B. Thomas was the efficient floor manager, and there was perfect satisfaction with his mild sway.

Maui Notes.

The Hawaiian sleuth of the seas, the steamer Lehua, arrived in port last Monday from Molokai, so said one of the crew. The admiral asked for the Consuelo, and upon learning that the vessel had not arrived, put to sea the same afternoon. The nonarrival of the Consuelo, which is 18 days out, led some people to think that the Lehua had made a capture, but news from Honolulu this morning upset all chance of a sea yarn.

Through the information of a spy the police raided the residence of Ah Ming in Kahului last Wednesday and captured 12 tins opium, Ah Ming enriched the Hawaiian Treasury to the extent of $150 next day.

Aloha Loddgo, K. of P., ball on next Thursday evening promises to be the finest ever given on Maui. The following gentlemen compose the committees which have the affair in charge.

Reception Committee: I. B. Maynard, D. Quill, E. B. Carley, W. A. McKay, A. Hocking.

Refreshment Committee: G. F. Brittain, C. H. Broad, R. A. Gardner, W. E. Asher, A. Sheppard.

Floor Committee: D. Quill, Dr. J. H. Raymond, L. B. Maynard.

Floor Manager, E. B. Carley. The Japanese colony is holding a grand peace jubilee at Kahului race track. The flag of the Rising Sun can be seen flying in all directions.

A game of baseball is being played this afternoon between the Makawao and West Maui nines. There is talk of forming a baseball league in the near future.

Mrs. N. E. Aars, an old resident of Paia, died very suddenly Thursday morning. The deceased lady was 41 years of age, and leaves a husband and two children to mourn her loss.

The coming session of the Circuit Court will most likely be a short one.

Senator A. L. Hocking is up and around again and will help to receive the ladies at the ball.

Messrs. C. L. Wight and E. D. Tenney arrived by the Claudine this morning from Hawaii. They go to Honolulu by the Claudine this evening.

The harbor is empty. No vessels have yet arrived from the coast. Four or five are due and will arrive within the next few days. Conductor Quill is a great dancer for a young man.

Mr. P. B. Aiken has opened a photograph gallery in Kahului.

Timely Copies

May 20, 1895.

The special session of the Legislature will meet on the 12th of June. The most important question which will be treated by the august body of super wise men is the new land law. It is the intention of the government to open up to settlers the vast lands now owned by the government and it is proposed to dispose of them on the very easiest and best terms. The lands which especially will be offered are of different natures and suitable for different purposes. Grazing and coffee lands, sugar and fruit lands and lots suitable for the small farmer or for residence only will be placed in market. If the government succeeds in establishing a land boom under the suggested term, it will be entitled to great credit and a great step will have been taken in the line of solving the present question of "hard times" now staring the whole community in the face.

But whether the lands to be offered are to be used for the cultivation of coffee or the promotion of guava jelly, one fact remains; it is necessary for the prospective settler to purchase an Aermotor and secure sufficient water for his premises.

We offer the very best and most improved style of Aermotors. The numerous patrons who have tried our Aermotors speak in the highest terms of the results. We have recently placed an Aermotor of the latest pattern at Lunalilo Home, and W. O. Smith, who gave us the order, has only praises for it.

Since we are talking "land" we may as well remind eventual settlers, that we sell the Jones' Lock Wire Fence. This fence is used on all ranches of any importance, and we receive daily orders for more of them. The washers used in the fences which we now offer to our patrons are galvanized. Formerly they were made of iron and did not stand the ravages of wind and rain very well. The galvanized washers are imperturbable to all climatic influences. The Jones' Lock Fence is the best and cheapest fence ever introduced in Hawaii, and well worthy of a trial.

Tenth Inning Required to Decide the Game.

CLEAN AND NEAT BASEBALL.

Saturday's baseball match was a most interesting one throughout. It was between the Unknown and the Star nines, the order of which were as follows:

Unknown—C. Willis 1st b., T. White c.f., G. Woods p., G. Clark 3rd b., T. Pryce s.s., J. Thompson 2d b., C. Aiwohi c., A. Duncan l.f., H. Espinda r.f.

Star—W. Wilder s.s., H. Wilder c., D. McNicholl c.f., J. Ganzel 1st b., E. Wodehouse 2d b., L. Hart p., S. P. Woods 3d b., G. H. Angus i.f., Chan Wilder r.f.

In the opening inning the game did not promise much but a bad time for the Stars, but they played better from then and in the fifth inning made their friends think they had a mortgage on the game. The fielding on both sides was superb, alertness and precision being its qualities. It was not a pitcher and catcher's game, although each battery did creditable work.

White, G. Woods and Pryce scored for the Unknowns in the first inning, largely on account of a series of errors committed by the Stars. Thence to the seventh they were held down to their start, and could only make three hits, a single each by pryce and Willis and a double by Clark.

The Stars were held to ciphers until the fifth inning, when they began to bang the ball like fun, S. P. Woods started in with a three base hit, but, when Angus flew to Thompson and Chan Wilder failed to make his first base it looked as if the Stars had to wait another while before scoring.

W. Wilder, hit by the pitcher, was given his first and made a clever sneak to second. H. Wilder now made a clean base hit, bringing home Woods and W. Wilder. McNicholl, getting to first on an error of Thompson, and second on a vain throw home to stop H. Wilder's run, was brought in by a double hit of Ganzel. Wodehouse ended the little picnic by striking out, but the Stars had at a bound taken the lead.

S. P. Woods scored another run for the Stars in the sixth, after making a base hit. He was hurt in a collision with Thompson at second base, and H. Wilder ran for him. Hart previously forfeited his bat by bunting the ball. Angus flew out to White, and Chan Wilder made a base hit, only to be left by W. Wilder striking out.

In the seventh inning Aiwohi went out by a foul to H. Wilder, who had to run fast and far to get it. Then Duncan got first on a dead ball, stole second and was brought home by Willis with a single, Espinda having struck out between them. Willis getting to second on the throw for home made a fine steal of third. It was of no use, for White flew to Wodehouse. The Unknowns were still one behind, but they prevented the Stars from scoring in the seventh, although Harry Wilder got base on balls and Ganzel and Wodehouse by hits. Wilder was put out at the home plate, McNicholl by strikes and Hart by a fly to Thompson.

Then the Unknowns went in and wrested a lead of one from their opponents. Woods got to first on a rather high throw from W. Wilder, which Ganzel touched but could not hold. He stole second and came home on a single by Clark. Pryce was touched out by Hart. Thompson struck a single, bringing Clark home, Aiwohi hit a fly to Wodehouse, and Thompson wisely ran on it and made third man out. Frantic applause greeted the two bells that announced the fresh turn of the battle.

There was only one more chance for the Stars to even up or win the game. They evened it and would have won it, had it not been for Hart's unfortunate out at first. Espinda, Willis and White had been put out in quick succession, the first two by flies to Wodehouse and McNicholl respectively, and the last one, after making a base hit, while trying to steal second.

H. Wilder and McNicholl went quickly out at first, making the chance of a run slender. Yet they had made their four in the fifth with two men out, a fact that was recalled with hopefulness by their sympathizers. Now Ganzel struck a single, and Wodehouse girding himself up in desperation hit a "bute" for two bags over White's head, on which Ganzel ambled home. Hart left the game only a tie then by hitting a liner that was well stopped and thrown to first by Clark.

The tenth inning began amidst the most intense excitement. Friends of both sides in the grand stand were "pulling" for their favorites, and if coaching from that quarter had been of any avail there might have been still another added inning.

G. Woods hit a fly to his namesake, and Clark was speedily retired by Hart's throw to first. Pryce then made two bases by an over-throw from W. Wilder to first. He made a brilliant capture of third, and came tearing home on a wild pitch. Thompson was then "thrown" out at first by Hart.

Another chance for the Stars. Would they be equal to the occasion? S. P. Woods reached first through Thompson's falling. Angus flew in to Duncan's hands. Harry Wilder, running for Woods, was put out at second. C. Wilder hit a single, and W. Wilder got first on a dead ball. H. Wilder ended the agony by accommodating Espinda with a fly. It is needless to say that the enthusiasm of the Unknown and their friends was vociferous, and none could deny that it had good reason to be so. They had won a hard-fought match.

Harry Whitney and Morris Keohokalole umpired the game to the satisfaction of players and spectators, and J. W. Winter kept the score. There was a fair attendance.

Following is the score by innings.

Unknown	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:

Your judgment in allowing "American" to air his views on churches, missionaries and charity is much called in question by many of your best friends and supporters. It would have been better had you referred "American" to the P. C. Advertiser, the proper receptacle for such stuff. Your business enterprise will not flourish so long as you are willing to fill up the columns of your paper with hymns of praise and panegyric in glory of those who have despoiled our country of its liberties and prerogatives in the name of religion, home, and mother. The INDEPENDENT must not—if it is to live—play the part of Good Lord and Bonnie Devil in the same breath; in short, independence must be its motto.

SUBSCRIBER.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:

The admirable letter of your correspondent "American," treating the editorial matter contained in the "Hawaiian," leads me to speculate as to whether the two writers do not owe their differences of opinion to the confused meaning of the term missionary. The editor probably alluding to those persons who came to these islands under the auspices of the A. B. C. F. M. and their descendants, while the correspondent has adopted the local meaning, as applying to any persons who attend the churches and kindred institutions, either as members of the churches or as members of the congregations. It would be far from the truth to assert that all the benign influences in these favored islands are assisted only by the editor's "missionary," or even those who are in sympathy with him. No! any person at all familiar with subscription lists knows that many subscribers to our best institutions are neither communicants of churches nor regular attendants upon their services, often holding widely divergent views on religion. Kindliness has been a marked trait of our people, and let us hope will continue to be, despite political differences.

Comments by Cosmos.

The Planters' Labor & Supply Company are to be congratulated. In a quiet, unostentatious manner the members of that organization have established "The Hawaiian Agricultural Association & Experiment Station," the object of which is—if I am correctly informed—the introduction into our sugar and other agricultural industries of those essential and long required scientific methods, without which no agricultural work can be made a success.

The director of this Association is Dr. Maxwell, an agricultural chemist of lofty attainments and large experience, who comes direct from the Louisiana State Agricultural Bureau, where he has been at work for several years. Dr. Maxwell's assistant is also from Louisiana, and both these gentlemen have been engaged by the P. L. & S. Co. to attend to all agricultural analyses and to give such scientific advice as the purely practical planter may require.

When we consider to what an extent science enters into agricultural pursuits, and how largely the services of scientific men are being availed of in the United States and Europe, it is a matter of surprise to an outsider that the intelligent men connected with the sugar industry of these islands should have for so long been satisfied to go by rule of thumb instead of by the surer rule of science. However, better late than never, they appear to have seen the error of their ways, and have established a laboratory which will doubtless be of as great service, not only to the sugar planting community but to all engaged in agriculture here, as will the advice and assistance of Dr. Maxwell.

Good taste in journalism is like good taste in most other things; more honored in the breach than the observance. I am prompted to this comment by the appearance in one of your evening contemporaries of a threat that the American eagle would screech so loudly on the Fourth of July that even the roar of the British lion would not be heard.

Why anyone in Honolulu should go so far out of his way as to pen a remark of this nature it is difficult to conjecture, as the lion aforesaid has roared only "like any sucking dove" in these islands for many a long day. What the author of the paragraph in question might have said was that the American eagle would prevent the Hawaiian aukua (poor tattered fowl) from being heard from; and this is likely enough. He, with his lonely, friendless and unhappy feelings will submit to the dominance of the foreign bird without a croak.

No roaring of lions was heard at the reception given by the British Commissioner on the 24th. Music, laughter and the popping of corbs were the prominent sounds, and no one could fail to recognise the good will existing in this community towards the hospitable Mr. Hawes, who, with tact and cordiality, did the honors of the day.

The following lines, said to have been picked up outside the government buildings, have been given to me, and in this way I desire to return them to the person to whom they belong:

In Kaikaua's golden days,
When royalty no harm meant,
A zealous monarchist was I,
And so I got preferment.

Against Republic I ne'er mis'd
To make strong protestation,
And damned were those who did insist
On American annexation.

When Hawaii's republic was declared,
To ease a nation's grievance,
With this new wind about I steered,
And swore to its allegiance.

Old principles I quite abjured,
Set conscience at a distance;
And a government billet I secured
By monarchial resistance.

In your issue of 17th inst. I am made to say that Mr. Fleming estimates that the revenue of the Pacific Cable "would exceed the expenditure for the first three years by $75,000." If those figures are mine my pen must have supplied, as the correct estimate is $750,000, which is quite another story.
