HONOLULU, H. T., JULY 15, 1900. And now Officer Hanrahan threatens to suspend the writ of habeas corpus. What next?

The only surrender that Admiral Dewey ever made, in a real fight, was to the politicians. And more the pity.

There must be no trickery about the registration of voters in Hawaii. The honest people of all parties demand a fair, square and above-board deal.

Let Hawaii have clean politics. This Territory cannot afford to be ranked with the "rotten boroughs" of the mainland, with States like Nevada and Montana.

The white man alone is competent to conduct the intense cultivation of the soil necessary to the growing of small fruits and vegetables, an industry so important to the cities and towns of the Territory.

The Hospital for the incurables is an institution that should commend itself to the generosity of the people. It is doing a great and important work in behalf of humanity, and is in every way worthy the consideration of the benevolent and philanthropic.

The "emblems of peace, sweet political peace," will "rest on Hawaii's capital building" just as soon as "Governor's Cabinets" and star-chamber methods are abandoned and good, straightforward American methods of Territorial administration are substituted.

There are a good many people in town, Mr. High Sheriff, who would like to know why it is that you allow a restaurant on King street to sell liquors without a license, while you raid the blind tigers at Waikiki. Of course, it isn't much, but then, there are a whole lot of people who would like to know, you know.

"What are you going to do about it?" is the taunt that the apologists for Governor Dole's partisan board of registration sneeringly throw at the people. This is adding insult to injury, and little wonder the Democrats and Independents are wearing broad smiles and hopeful hearts they have never known before.

Our French fellow-citizens appropriately celebrated the fall of the Bastille, yesterday. The destruction of this prison was in the nature of a declaration of independence by the people of France and marked a new political era in the nation. The event gave new meaning to the tricolor, so liberally displayed yesterday and added inspiration to the "Marseillaise."

Boards of registration may not carry elections in the matter of casting votes, but in more than one instance in the United States partisan boards of registration and election have subverted the will of the people as honestly expressed at the polls. Hawaii, the baby Territory, cannot afford to be placed in a position where such charges can be made.

White labor is the true labor for these islands. Experiments with black men will prove failures here, as they have in the great San Joaquin Valley of California. There white men have displaced Chinese, Japanese and negroes in the fields, vineyards and orchards, and when there is a shortage of white labor Indians are preferred to the other races.

There are many good men, valuable citizens and of the highest standing in the communities in which they reside, who would make good members of the boards of registration or would fill any other position in the government with credit who are not close personal acquaintances of the Governor. Many a Governor appoints men to office whom he has not the pleasure of knowing personally.

a charter for the city. This instrument could then be discussed from day to day, so that its scope and general character would be known to every resident before its presentation to the lawmaking body, which must grant and affirm it. Perhaps the committee of the three political parties might jointly select a body of charter-framers.

An election scandal in this Territory this fall would be disastrous. It would prejudice the national administration, Congress and the press and people of the mainland against us to such an extent that we might be deprived of needed legislation, especially that essential element thereof usually incorporated in the appropriation bills. A full and free registration, a fair ballot and an honest count is the unswerving and uncompromising demand that the Republican party makes in common with the Democratic and Independent parties.

PERSONAL PARTISANSHIP.

In his interview, published in another column, Governor Dole very frankly admits that he did not consult or inquire of the duly organized political committees before making his appointments for the boards of registration. The Governor, in defending his position, says that he did not know the politics of many of the men appointed, but that he knows them personally. That is one of the objections to the appointments. Not that they are not reputable men, but that they do not represent anything except personal followers of the Governor. In that regard, they are more offensively partisan than if they had been appointed solely on the ground of being Republicans.

The elections in Hawaii this fall will affect and concern all the people. In preparing for them all the people should be represented. The chief cause of complaint against Mr. Dole's administration as President was his adherence to a policy of not recognizing any one excepting his close followers. It has been repeatedly asserted that President Dole's administration was simply an oligarchy, more autocratic in its administration than the monarchy ever dared to be. It is the carrying of this same policy into the administration of affairs now that cause people to condemn the administration.

The Governor can no more afford to do this than he could afford to appoint boards of registration upon the sole ground that they are Republicans. Such action is resented by all fair-minded men. It savors of concentration, something the American people have always fought and always will.

True, the law does not provide for political parties to be represented upon the boards of registration for the reason that it is one of the laws of the republic which Congress allowed to stand until the Legislature should meet, and neither is there any provision in the law which forbade the Governor from consulting the chairmen of the Territorial committees of the various political parties and asking them to submit the names of reputable men in each district for appointment upon the boards of registration. He would not have been bound to appoint the men recommended, but such action would have acted as a guide for the appointments, and in this way the Governor would not only have escaped the opprobrium of having appointed either Republican or Dole partisan boards.

ADVERTISE HONOLULU.

The Republican believes much good could be accomplished for Honolulu and the Territory by judicious advertising of the resources of the city and Territory and its wonderful climatic advantages throughout the States of the Atlantic Coast and the Middle West. Such advertising would be the means of bringing hundreds of visitors here during the winter months, many of whom would make investments, much to the advantage of the city and Territory.

Winter tourist trade of itself is worth striving for, aside from any advantages that may be derived from permanent investments by this class. The United States has grown so rich within the last third of a century that every State, and particularly the Northern and Central States, has a large leisure class. Men of ample wealth to gratify every want and whim. Thousands and tens of thousands of this class seek more congenial climates every winter than the country north of the Ohio river and the old Mason and Dixon line affords. Twenty years ago the bulk of this tourist travel of each winter went to Florida. Then the beauties of the climate of Southern California began to be heralded to the world and soon the tide of travel set in that direction. From 1885 to 1888 Southern California experienced a wild speculative boom, which temporarily did the section much damage, but the wonderful climate was still there, and winter visitors continued to pour in.

The people of Los Angeles, San Diego and all Southern California believed that judicious advertising would do much to regain what had been lost by the boom. The advantages of winter residence in that climate were set forth in the most inviting manner in circulars and pamphlets of every description and scattered broadcast throughout the East and Middle West. The result of this good advertising has been seen by the tens of thousands of winter travelers who have visited Southern California every winter for the last three years. The Santa Fe Railroad's limited train from Chicago to Los Angeles, which was started as an experiment once a week three years ago, was run five days a week last winter, and even with that service, one had to engage accommodations two to three weeks in advance.

Phoenix, Arizona Territory, a new town in the midst of the desert, began reaching out for tourist travel in 1894. A Board of Trade was organized, under which thousands of circulars and pamphlets were prepared and distributed, setting forth the advantages of the dry winter climate of Phoenix. The town has not more than 10,000 population, yet the number of winter visitors last winter and the year before more than equaled the natural population. During the months of January and February there were not less than 5000 visitors in town at any one time.

These people leave thousands of dollars with the local tradesmen during their winter sojourn. They are, for the most part, people of wealth, and are willing to pay liberally for what they want. They stop at the best hotels and boarding houses; they buy many articles indigenous to the country for keepsakes and mementos; they are most liberal patrons of the lively stores and local storekeepers. Someone with a bent for figures has estimated that every winter visitor is good for an expenditure of not less than $150 a month. This for the average, including women and children. Many spend this much a week, so it can readily be seen what the visit of 5000 tourists here for even two months next winter would mean for Honolulu. It would mean the expenditure of $1,500,000 in that period by visitors.

Practically all this sum finds its way into the till of the local merchants and tradesmen. Is it not worth while to spend $5,000 in judicious advertising to bring about this result? The Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and other transcontinental railroads will gladly distribute our advertising matter free throughout the States for the benefits which travel this way would be to them.

Honolulu and Hawaii are new to the people of the United States. Those of wealth who seek mild winter climates are ever on the search for something new. Florida and Southern California, and Arizona and a cruise to the Mediterranean are all old things to them. A cruise to the Paradise of the Pacific, where never-ending summer reigns, would be a novelty and a treat. The luxuriant tropical vegetation, the varied population, the evidences of American thrift, and withal, the blending of the Occident with the Orient would appeal to them as no other place they ever visited in the past has done. Is it not worth trying for this winter tourist trade? We would like to hear from readers upon the subject.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WILL DO ABOUT IT.

"If you don't like it, what are you going to do about it?" When this question is put in its political bearing the best answer is: Make the best of it and get in and drill—not grill.—The Bulletin.

Presumably, this has reference to the dissatisfaction caused by the partisan spirit that was exhibited by Governor Dole in naming the boards of registration for the Territory. Don't you believe for a moment that the people will "drill"; they will "grill," instead, in our opinion, and the apologists for the Governor are making a serious mistake in adopting the old Tweed sneer: "What are you going to do about it?" It was that insolent taunt that led to the downfall of that greatest and most powerful political cabal that ever was organized, and The Republican doubts whether the present administration of Hawaii will thank its friends for transplanting the un-American phrase from the slimy and corrupting political environment of New York to the clearer and healthier atmosphere of Honolulu. In the end, the people always find a way of showing the politicians "What they are going to do about it." The voters are very apt to resent impertinence and sneers on the part of their servants, the officeholders.

"HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU."

[Written for the Republican.] "Here's looking at you!" May the health that I send. O'er the ocean beams to restore to your view From the dim aisles of memory each tried and true friend That in days of "blang syme" were looking at you. "Here's looking at you!" May the Sunlight of Youth Lead a reflex of glory thy joys to renew, And the rough ways of life be merged in the smooth, And aught but good fortune be looking at you. "Here's looking at you!" May never despair Cloud Hope's beacon star shining down through the blue, As you quaff the clear wine, nor the dark face of care. O'er the brim of the beaker be looking at you. "Here's looking at you!" May the mirth-giving spell That licks in the whiskers thy fancy pursue, Till sorrows and sadness have passed their last kiss. And Love, Honor and gladness are looking at you. "Here's looking at you!" As day draws to a close, And the starry-eyed spirit of Summer you woo, May never regret come to mar your repose. Nor "Trade's" haunting phantom be looking at you, O, salute of sorrow! Kiss brother of pain! Best juice of the grape with the pale amber wine! Bid out the dark Present—rejoice me again! My Past is my sorrow! Here's looking at you! Though ocean's sad surges between us, may I never see you, And an alien sky bend o'er me like this. In fancy still with you, though softly alone, I'll drink to old Friendship—Here's looking at you! When friends gather round you and true hands extend, As the pleasure-inspiring points of your brow, Forget not to regret none to the one about friend, For there in the spirit he's looking at you. RALPH STUKAL. Honolulu, July 14, 1900.

THE LOUNGER.

I have been much amused the last week by all this tempest in a teapot over Judge Humphreys of the Circuit Court telling a reporter to get a coat on before coming into the courtroom when court was in session. A great howl went up, and certain alleged funny people tried to poke fun at the Judge for his very proper stand. The fact is that Judge Humphreys was simply enforcing an old rule of the court that has been in existence in Hawaii for the last fifteen or twenty years. Just at the time the incident occurred there was no bailiff in the court to inform the gentleman of his transgression of the rule, hence the Judge did it from the bench. It seems to me that when a case is on trial it is the height of impertinence for a person not connected with the court to approach the clerk or any other officer of the court. That such an act should be committed by a reporter for the press, whether properly clothed or in his shirt sleeves, does not mitigate the offense against the dignity of the administration of justice. In many sections in the States such conduct would be construed into contempt of court and bring the offender into serious trouble. I cannot, for the life of me, see why the dignity that attaches to a court of law should be relaxed simply because it happens to sit in Honolulu.

What an ever-present source of pleasure and delight children are to me. Their childish pranks, and talk, and characteristics delight me above anything else in the world. An incident came to my attention a few days ago that pleased me greatly. A newspaper friend, who is compelled to sleep in the forenoon, owing to his night work, has a next door neighbor who has a bright, cheery-faced little man of two years and eight months. Fortunately, he has one of those careful, thoughtful mothers, who is ever grateful for her child, and his home training is the best. Knowing that her neighbor was compelled to sleep in the morning, she told the child that he must be quiet in his play about the yard in the mornings, and above all, must not make any loud outcry that would wake his sleeping neighbor. A few mornings ago the little man had a neighboring child for a playmate, and while they were playing his little friend suddenly concluded he had some very important information for the mistress of the house, and began shouting at the top of his voice: "Mrs. Brown! Mrs. Brown!" The little man threw up his hand deprecatingly, and with the most worried-looking frown, exclaimed in a low voice: "Don't holla, don't holla." Still his neighbor persisted, and the little man, placing his hand on the noisy one's shoulder and frowning in the most forceful way he could, again repeated his adjuration: "Don't holla." And that is the way he said it, too. He did not say, "Don't holler," as so many children do. One should have seen the little man's face and his expression to fully appreciate the story, but nothing I have heard about children for a long time has gone right to the heart like this action of the little man.

And speaking of the pranks of children and studying them, bird life also affords a wonderful field for study. I was sitting on my front porch a few mornings ago when a little ground sparrow alighted under the hydrant in the yard to drink. Water was dripping very slowly from the faucet, first dropping from one side and then the other. The bird would catch a drop of water from one side and then hop across and catch the drop from the opposite side, and this was continued until its thirst was assuaged. But the most amusing incident I have seen in watching birds was when a Minah bird and two sparrows were concerned. The Minah bird had found a piece of bread, and with the usual custom of that proud bird was making a great ado about it, sort of showing off, as it were. It would pick a few crumbs and then stretch up to its full height and strut around a few steps in a look-at-me-now air. Finally, in one of these strutting periods two little sparrows pounced upon the piece of bread and attempted to carry it off. They had removed the bread several feet away from Mr. Minah bird when the latter turned around and looked for his meal. The astonishment was marvellous. Finally, he saw the sparrows and instantly pounced upon them literally with both feet, carrying off the bread in great triumph.

A friend handed me the following yesterday as the true explanation of a recent slobber mystery: Mudeater—Who's James Nell? Toadeater—He's the reincarnation of all the dead and gone great actors, manager-actors, playwrights and stage managers. He is also the possessor of more ability than that of all other living actors squeezed together. Mudeater—Who's Charles Astor Parker? Toadeater—He is the only real thing in the way of a dramatic press agent that ever struck the beach.

"Do you know," said my tobacco-nist, that inside of six months few, if any, Manila cigars will be sold in Honolulu? Not well, that's a fact. When I first went into business I sold eight first-class Manillas for a quarter. Now I am selling three of the same brand for 25 cents. The Manila cigar smokes very freely, is of good flavor, but is very mild, inveterate smokers can puff them for hours all day without feeling that dizziness which comes from the excessive use of Havana or Key West goods. Manila cigars do not so easily like those made from tobacco grown on the Atlantic coast. Smokers, when they are asked to pay 25 cents for three Manillas, won't have them; they prefer three Havanas or three Key Wests, which in strength and satisfaction they give the smoker an equal to eight Manillas.

The demand for Havana cigars is rapidly increasing and the time is coming when, as I have said, Manillas will be a novelty in this market. The same as they are in San Francisco. The price will come the cheap and the satisfaction they give the smoker is equal to eight Manillas. THE MUIR GLAZIER SLOUGHING.

SERIOUS EFFECT OF THE EARTH-QUAKES ON THE ICY MASS.

The Bay Choked With Ice and Approach Within Less Than Five Miles Impossible

SEATTLE, June 26.—The Post-Intelligencer of this morning has the following:

Though its imposing grandeur is still unmarred, countless thousands of tons of ice have sloughed off the face of famed Muir glacier through the erratic action of last September's Alaskan earthquake.

Captain Wallace, as has been his custom for the past sixteen or eighteen years, sought to line up his ship across the face of the glacier, but for the first time in nearly two decades he scored a failure.

"I never saw so much ice," Captain Wallace said last night, discussing the strange phenomenon. "Forty-five miles out from the glacier we encountered stray chunks of float, and they gradually grew thicker and thicker until closer approach to the glacier was impossible.

"To tell the truth, when we were there it seemed so jammed that one cannot even make a prediction when the bay will clear of the congealed obstruction and permit close proximity to the great glacier. I think, however, that the old Muir still retains its facial beauty. We took the glasses and viewed it as best we could at such a distance. The sea front seemed to stand out in bold, perpendicular form, as of yore, but the jagged float ice rose up, so obstructing the sight that one could not get a definite idea of what damage has been wrought.

"I have been running ships to Muir glacier for sixteen or eighteen years, but this was the first time it gave me such a chilly reception. Even the Queen had to stand off at a respectful distance. But the tourists and others aboard expressed themselves as amply repaid by what they saw. Of course we were all curious to get up closer, but that was impossible. By the time we return the bay may be comparatively free, permitting us to get as close to the glacier as formerly, but no one can tell.

"Were the ice in the bays and inlets about the glacier all packed together I should say it would constitute a field five or six miles wide by probably twice that distance in length. No doubt the ice in the bay approach to the glacier extends clear to the bottom, and the water drops off rather abruptly from twenty fathoms to 500 and 600 feet."

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA BLAMEABLE.

Some of the Causes of the Chinese Hatred of Foreigners Shown by a Merchant.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Ernest De Bavler, an exporter of Chinese goods, who left the scenes of the present Boxer outbreak less than two months ago, has arrived in this city on business. Discussing the present situation, he said the Boxer society was formed of malcontents, whose aim was to embarrass the government by any means in their power.

Mr. De Bavler thinks the Empress has been much misrepresented, and declares she is not blindly opposed to reform, but understands the Chinese character, and knows that it is fatal to try to proceed too rapidly. The Emperor was a mere puppet in the hands of a few extreme progressionists. He also says that the people have a great deal of justice in their hatred of foreigners. Religious feeling has practically nothing to do with the case. The people do not care enough about their neighbors' souls to become religious fanatics. Trouble arises only when civil privileges are affected, and the missionaries, with the best intentions in the world, are often at the bottom of it.

"When a local mandarin imposes taxes," continued Mr. De Bavler, "even if they are excessive, the 'heathen' Chinese pay them. The native Christians, however, whenever they imagine themselves ground down by unjust taxation, run with their troubles to the nearest missionary. These missionaries, instead of going to the local mandarin, as they should, talk the matter over with him and make a satisfactory arrangement in that way, almost invariably write to their national ministers at Peking and ask that redress be obtained for the members of their flock. Complaint is made by the minister to the Tsung-li-Yamen, which, in order to avoid friction, ends the matter by calling down the local mandarin and reducing the Christians' taxes. This practice cannot fail to cause envy and jealousy against the native Christians, who are thus, at the intercession of foreign powers, let off from so much of duties to the empire which the other Chinese have to perform, as there is no one to take their part.

"The Chinese taken into the foreign colonies have also been exempted from the native obligations, and this also has increased the mandarin. The point of the whole matter is that all the signers have acted like conquerors, and the Chinese resent this as strongly as our citizens would if the inhabitants of Chinatown were to demand similar privilege from our government."

LI HUNG CHANG'S

GRANDSON'S TALK.

RICHMOND, Va., June 30.—The two grandsons of Li Hung Chang, the celebrated Chinese statesman, arrived in the city this morning at 6 o'clock, and are at the Alhambra. Their names are Tao Yao Sung and Tao Yuk Sung. They came to Richmond with Dr. W. R. Lambuth of Nashville, Tenn., and have been since January at the Vanderbilt University, where they expect to remain for four or five years.

The two young men are not professing Christians, but are intellectually convinced. They, however, hold to the faith of their forefathers. They have followed the American custom of wearing their hair short, and when asked what they would do on their return to the Celestial kingdom, in regard to their locks, they promptly responded they would let them grow. It is a little fairy tale, so they say, that a Chinaman cannot be shorn of his queue and return to his native land.

These two brothers are from the central part of China, Yang Chow, in the most disturbed regions. They expressed themselves as being pleased with America and the people have met. Their English is particularly good, and they understand the language readily. They, with Dr. Lambuth, attended the morning session of the Epworth League conference.

Windfall of Sailors from Unexpected Source Turns Up.

HAWAIIAN SHIP FOR NEW YORK.

TREACHEROUS CURRENTS MET WITH ON THE TRIP TO LYSAN.

The A. G. Ropes and James Rolph Sail With Sugar-The Azelia and Meteor from the Coast With Lumber.

There has come a windfall of sailors to the captain of deep water vessels from an unexpected source. Many of the native dock laborers and sailors from the inter-island steamers and schooners have suddenly concluded that they want to be deep sea sailors and make the trip around the Horn in a sugar ship.

Yesterday the Ropes left for New York with a full crew. Many of the sailors who left in her were in her when she arrived. Five native boys filled the crew, and Captain Chapman went on his way rejoicing.

The Chapman and Phelps are ready to go. They will finish shipping their crews Monday and get away for New York and San Francisco Tuesday or Wednesday. The Chapman will ship fourteen natives, some of them able-bodied men. They are getting good wages, too, these men who have gone to the captains. Twenty-five dollars advance money and the same amount per month was paid by Captain Chapman. The I. F. Chapman will ship fourteen natives on Monday for the voyage around the Horn and the Erskine M. Phelps will get some for her crew.

The men in the steamer companies are beginning to feel that they are no longer bound by their labor contracts, and many of them are looking for berths in the big ships. It is not probable that any of the foreign vessels leaving here will get natives to ship, as the men have an idea that food is rather scarce. A crowd of native boys were discussing the proposition of shipping on the Chapman. The food question was brought up, and it suddenly dawned upon one of the men that pol would not be furnished them on the voyage. That was a staggerer. An old man, who used to go on the whale ships, then spoke to the crowd, telling them that when he was young many Hawaiians shipped on the vessels, and they got along without the staple diet. Captains of sailing vessels are glad to get the natives. They make good seamen and are easier to handle than the white sailors.

MINEAR'S INSURANCE.

The insurers of the cargo of the Meteor have paid $1,200 to the shippers for the loss. The following statement of Captain Johnson of the wrecked vessel was filed: "On May 1, 1900, bark Meteor struck on Dowsett reef in latitude 25 deg. 34 min. north, longitude 170 deg. 40 min. west. On May 3 the ship's position at noon I found to be latitude 24 deg. 1 min. north, longitude 169 deg. 34 min. west, having experienced a strong current setting to the southward; whelped my course to west by north, half north, which would bring me thirty-three miles south of the atoll reef, but found a current having set me to the north, there being a strong irregular current around those reefs. "At 8 a. m., May 4, I abandoned the ship, there being twelve feet of water in the hold, and the ship lying over at an angle of 29 deg. "On account of having so many passengers on board, it was impossible to save any stores, and at daybreak we launched the boats, and landed on Laysan Island on May 5, at 9:30 p. m."

THE AZELIA.

The tern Azelia brought 478,000 feet of lumber to Lewers & Cooke. Captain Fardelus is accompanied by two charming daughters, who have been attending school in San Diego, the home of the Azelia's skipper. They will tour the islands before returning to the Coast. The Azelia made a fine run of eighteen days from Gray's Harbor, and experienced fine weather the entire voyage. She is owned by Dolber & Co. of San Francisco.

J. B. HAGGIN'S KENTUCKY HOME.

VERSAILLES, Ky., June 30.—J. B. Haggin, the New York multi-millionaire, has begun the erection of a summer home upon his Elmendorf stock farm in Fayette county that will probably be the handsomest private dwelling in central Kentucky.

The house, it is said, will cost considerably more than $100,000, and will be a very imposing structure of old Colonial design. Mr. Haggin is reported to have purchased Melrose Farm this week, and if this is true, he now owns in one tract about three thousand acres of the finest blue grass land in Kentucky, much of it in woodland and beautiful rolling pastures. He is the largest land owner in Fayette county.

THE LOUISIANA LEPER HOME.

Belief That Disease May be Cured in Early Stages. NEW ORLEANS, June 30.—The Louisiana Legislature has decided to give the State Leper Commission the $40,000 it has asked for to enable it to erect a leper home; and the commission here to get the home in order for the reception of the lepers by November, when the lease of the present home occupied by them at Indian Camp, Iberville parish, will expire. The new home, it is understood, will be much more attractive in every respect than the present quarters, an old ruined plantation residence. It will be within easy reach of New Orleans, so that the home can have the benefit of an attending physician who is an expert in leprosy, and will be on the railroad as well as on the river, with a considerable frontage on the latter, so that the home will be practically without neighbors.

Besides having the advantage of an expert physician attend the lepers, it has been decided to separate the inmates, not only as to race and sex, but also as to conditions of disease. It is believed, for instance, that persons to whom leprosy has just manifested itself may be curable, whereas those who have lost limbs are beyond the reach of medicine or treatment. Formerly, on account of accommodation, it was impossible to separate the patients, and they have all been huddled together and it is believed that this has interfered with or prevented the cure of the lighter cases. By this separation it is believed much good can be accomplished. To carry out this purpose, it is intended to erect ten cottages, in each of which will be placed lepers in different stages of the disease.

With these improvements it is believed that the hospital will be admirably adapted to the treatment of leprosy in its different stages; and an attempt will be made to enforce the law, which requires the Sheriffs of the several parishes to see that all the lepers are sent to the State Hospital or Home.

Internal Evidence.

From the Chicago Tribune. "I wish I knew what woman wrote this book." "How do you know a woman wrote it at all?" "Its style is so hideously masculine."

You can always tell when a man's wife is away for the summer by seeing him sitting on the porch in his shirt sleeves.

THE LOUNGER.

nearly as many cigars as they did prior to June 11. My trade has fallen off fully a third. But concern pipes? Well, there are only a few in town among dealers."

"Not so many years ago," said a prominent Canadian now visiting Honolulu, to me yesterday, "the average Canadian was a devoted Anglo-maniac, affecting the English mannerisms, notably of speech. This has all been changed now. The one predominant trait of the modern progressive Canadian is that they want to appear as Americans, not that they particularly love America, or the United States, but they recognize that the United States contains the most enterprising citizens in the world. Of course, when my countrymen say they are Americans they do not go farther to explain that they are beyond the northern border of the United States." It must be confessed that they seem to be well within the limitations of their rights when they claim to be Americans.

The butcher is often blamed for the bad work of the cook. Boarding-house-keepers, too, are often slanderers of the meat seller. They buy the cheapest portions of a carcass, and at their tables the butcher for selling horn-steaks in lieu of the July two-inch tenderloin that was ordered, "you know." Poor butcher; poor boarder.

A funny thing occurred the other day at one of the courtrooms, or in chambers or the clerk's office, or somewhere else in the judiciary building. I failed to locate it exactly, but I am assured by a government employe that it occurred. It was all about a law book—one of the volumes of the Federal statutes—somebody wished to consult about the laws on naturalization. The book could not be found, and after searching the various offices in vain, a brilliant idea struck one of the interested persons, and he ordered a clerk to telephone to The Republican office to see if the volume was there.

Then somebody said: "What the blank are you telephoning there for?" The answer came like a flash and with evident sincerity: "Why, they are the only people who seem to be posted on the naturalization law and they must have borrowed the book."

A good Irish friend of mine, one who is an American by adoption, met me on the street yesterday, and after the usual warm greetings of his race, said: "Did you see what this fellow, Stanley, who they call Judge, said the other day? No? Why, he said: 'I am not an American; I'm an Irishman; I'm a subject of Great Britain.' The damned spalpeen, he ain't an Irishman at all, and I'll bet on t' Humph! If he was a real Irishman, he wouldn't be subject of England; he—' I quite agreed with Thomas that the Judge must be sailing under false pretenses in claiming to be an Irishman and an Englishman at the same time."

THE LOUNGER.

LODGE SAYS WE MUST ACT AS WORLD POWER. BOSTON, June 30.—Senator Lodge, who returned from the Philadelphia convention with augmented prestige as an expounder of Republican policy, is out with a vigorous statement urging the duty of the United States Government to take an active interest in the adjustment of affairs in China. Senator Lodge's statement is regarded by the politicians of the East as outlining in some measure the purposes of the administration with respect to the issues that have newly arisen in the Far East. Senator Lodge says in his public statement: "We have China on the far western sphere of the Pacific, but we hold the other side. The people who live on the furthest shore of the Pacific cannot be a matter of indifference to the masters of the western coast of North America."

"Study that Chinese question. It is the great question of the day. The events that are going on to-day in China are big with future results. All the great nations of the world are stirred there. One great nation is planning to seize that empire and close it to the rest of the world. That in our interests, and in the interests of humanity, and the interests of civilization, too, we cannot afford."

"I am not afraid ever to see the United States take her place in the struggle of the great world powers, where she belongs. I do not mean that I want her to meddle in Europe. God forbid! but I do say that the other side of the Pacific is an American interest, and I want to see the United States protect her own throughout the East."

"She can do it. We are no weakling. The blood of youth is in our veins, and we shall triumph over these difficulties as we have triumphed over greater ones in the past."

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running of so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by all dealers and druggists. Benson, Smith & Co., general agents, Hawaiian Territory.

Acting Judge Stanley rendered an oral decision yesterday in the case of the late Republic vs. W. H. Lost a Leg and a Bride.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 30.—Stephen Katrumas of Plymouth was to have been married Saturday a week ago to Miss Angele Kosozki of that place, and previous to the ceremony he went to Saranton to invite some friends. On the way from the city to one of the nearby villages he jumped on a passing freight train rather than wait for a street car.

In attempting to board the train he fell under it, and the wheels ran over his right leg above the knee. He was picked up by the crew and taken to the Moses Taylor Hospital, where the leg was amputated, and where he still remains.

Instead of his fiancée weeping, wailing, gnashing his teeth and tearing her hair, she got down to business. She hunted up another man, in the person of Stephen Chantello, and they were married yesterday in the presence of a number of friends.

THE LUMBER COMING FOR SANITARY LAUNDRY.

Sixty-Five New Buildings to be Erected With all the Latest Modern Improvements.

The carrier Dove, which lately left this port for Olympia, will return with 800,000 feet of lumber for the Sanitary Steam Laundry Co., limited. Work on the new buildings will begin as soon as the lumber arrives, and in the mean time the property on the corner of South and Queen streets, consisting of two and a half acres of land, will be filled in under the sanitary regulations of the Board of Health and the sewerage perfected.

The new buildings will consist of thirty-nine two-story stores, which will begin at once, twenty-five five-room cottages and the big laundry building, 140 by 60 feet in size.

Pending the arrival of the lumber for the buildings McCandless Bros. will sink the artesian well in the premises. All of the stores and cottages will be furnished with sanitary plumbing, with all the latest modern improvements. Hot and cold water will be furnished each house and the hot water pipes will run directly from the boilers of the laundry.

The machinery for the new enterprise has all been ordered and the Company expects to have everything ready for business by the first of next December.

WINCHESTER WINS A WILL.

Town Will Receive a Library and New Public Schools.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—As the result of a decision by Judge Gray in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to-day, the city of Winchester, Va., will get $250,000 for a public library and the use of more than $500,000 for twenty years. The opinion affirms the decree of the lower court as to the will of Judge John Handley of the Probate Court of Pennsylvania, who died in Scranton in 1885. His estate was appraised at $1,400,000, but its future value, being in coal and lumber lands, will be much greater. Judge Handley was an ardent lover of the city of Winchester, and in his will he left $250,000 for the library to be known as the John Handley Library, and after making other bequests, left the residue of his estate to the city of Winchester for the erection of schoolhouses and the education of the poor. Cousins of the testator attacked the latter clause of the will, contending that Judge Handley died intestate as to all except the specific bequests and that they should inherit the residue. They urged that the residuary clause was invalid because the city of Winchester, being a municipal corporation, had not the right to take and administer, and because the beneficiary and the objects and purposes of the trust were uncertain.

A Martyr to Stage Realism.

DETROIT, June 30.—Arthur Gruber, who comes from New Lexington, O., where he has a family, has been playing with the Pile Theater Company at the Lyceum Theater for the past eight weeks. Last week he took the part of the gladiator in the production of "Quo Vadis," and appeared in the third act in a wrestling match, being thrown from the back of a man who is six feet in height to the stage. The act has ruined the nerves of the actor and left him in a helpless state. Last Friday night he was so weak that his companion wrestler had to support him on the stage, and he subsequently went to the hospital. He is suffering from a partial loss of speech and is also partially paralyzed from head to foot. He will be laid up a long time.

A Way They Have.

Some people never open the book-case except when they want to prove that the bright thing some friend said was stolen.

War makes a few heroes, but married life makes all the rest.

There generally isn't very much in a man that can carry an umbrella just right for a woman.

When two women discover that they have hats on that are alike they begin to hate each other.

A man with a tie on that his wife thinks he looks well in is most as rare as a woman with shoes on that are big enough.—Acheson Globe.

A lame shoulder is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles, and may be cured by a few applications of Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

While trying to save George Denison, an eight-year-old companion, from drowning in the Floyd River here this afternoon, George Lewis, aged twelve, was also dragged down and died with his friend. At first it was not known who the lads were, and the father of Lewis offered to dive for the bodies. He first brought up Denison, and on diving a second time rose with his own son in his arms. He was nearly crazed with grief when he recognized his child.—Sioux City Journal.
