PRINCESS CHARMIAN

By ALISON.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

She quotes Mark Twain's contented guide, the "mummy" scene, and the scene about Christopher Columbus. She relates odd adventures of her own abroad; she tells us how she used to go hunting for old curiosities on the Quai Voltaire with Mrs. Purefoy; she recites anecdotes of that old lady which convulse Jack with laughter; and she holds up Chinese monsters for his admiration, and accuses him of being a Goth and a Vandal when he still walks up and down, talking to each other; but his dark and rather commonplace face is full of passionate emotion as he looks down at her, and in her cheeks there is a soft rich color, and in her eyes a happy light, which could have been brought there only by the prospect of a love—simple and unambitious as I am, I know as much as that.

The revelation takes away my breath. But even after Lord Lorraine has mounted his horse and ridden away, I do not wish her to think I have found out for myself what she has not chosen to tell me, nor do I wish to think about it. I am jealous of Lord Lorraine; I refuse to believe that Charmian cares about him—that it is to him the wiles—that she is thinking about him all day long. And I put away the thought so persistently that by and by it ceases to trouble me—would have ceased to trouble me if other things had not driven it completely out of my head.

CHAPTER IV.

"CHARMIAN, I should like to see that picture of yours at the Royal Academy."

"Picture of me, you mean. Why haven't you seen it?"

"Do you never go to London?"—opening her great eyes.

"I know nobody," I laugh, shaking my head. "I should have thought your father would have shown you all the pictures, at any rate."

"No. He never takes me to London. He would not know what to do with me when he went to see his artist friends."

"And don't you know anyone in London with whom you could stay?"

"I know nobody," I laugh, shaking my head. "And I don't want to, either. But I want to see your picture."

"Then we must manage it," Charmian says, who is rich in expedients. "Let me see—this is Thursday. What will your friend Mr. Jack be doing with himself to-morrow?"

"I am sure I don't know—lying here on the grass most likely, complaining of the heat."

She is silent for a moment or two, evolving some scheme in her head.

"I have it!" she exclaims at last. "We'll make an expedition up to London, you and I. I'll give you a treat, Susan, and show you all that's to be seen. Everybody is out of town now that I care about—Aunt Purefoy is at Biarritz, and Lord Lorraine has gone down to Old Knowe, and all the L'Esstranges are in Norway. We'll stop at an hotel, and Mr. Jack can come up to town every day and escort us about. Won't that be fun?"

"But will they like it, Charmian?"

"My dear, they'll never know. We'll go about as usual."

"They are sure to find it out."

"Not they. Why, I've done twice as daring things in Paris, and nobody's been a bit the wiser! They can't be, if we manage it properly. You don't know what a big place London is; you might be in it for a hundred years with people you know, and never meet them. I've heard of a man who lived for twenty years in the next street to his wife, and she never found it out—thought he had been let at sea!"

She laughs; but I can not abate in my exhilaration—just at first—the idea is so novel to me, the difficulties to be encountered in carrying it out seem so great. My father has come to Scotland for three days, but there is Pleasant Owens—what will she say!

"We won't tell her," Charmian laughs. "We'll telegraph to her from town that we shall not be back for a couple of days. She'll think we're putting up with some friends of mine."

"But a telegram would frighten Pleasant out of her wits."

"So much the better. It will be an absolute relief to her to find that we are only staying for a day or two in town."

I shake my head dubiously.

"It would be delightful if it were not so impossible, if the obstacles were not so absolutely insurmountable," Charmian persists. "You won't think anything of them when you allow yourself to look them fairly in the face. What is it, after all, but thousands of people do every day."

"Not people like you, Charmian."

"But nobody will know who I am Susan—that is the fun of it! All my friends are departing themselves in the country or on the Continent—we can do just what we like. And I know just the places to take you to. I can not exactly like the Yankee who said he could 'do London in a day; but I will show you in three days a good deal that is worth seeing. What fun it will be to a sight-seeing person like me to see those great eyes of yours wide with wonder! I shall do nothing but watch you—that will be amusement enough for me."

"The Dor Gallery!" I suggest, drawing a long breath.

"Certainly—if you like."

"And Row Gardens!"

"You shall arrange the programme—it is your treat, Susan. It is to please myself in pleasing you that I am going—I have seen them all."

"But won't it bore you, Charmian?"

"Your face! Not in the least, my dear."

"Will it cost much?" I ask, after a pause in which I do begin to look the obstacles fairly in the face.

"I have plenty of money, Susan."

"But I must pay my own share, Charmian. I could not go else."

"Then you may stay at home, my dear," Charmian says, picking up the book which has fallen from her knee face downward into the long orchard grass.

"I have a pound papa gave me on my birthday."

"When was your birthday?"

"Friday, last week."

"And you never told me, you shabby little thing! Never mind, this 'pound' to London town shall be your birthday gift from me."

So she writes it, and, as usual, her will swallows up mine. But even yet I do not think it will ever come to pass. I like to think of it, however, as I lean my head back against the gnarled trunk of the apple-tree and gaze at Charmian's profile outlined fairly against the lush-green leaves.

"What has become of Mr. Jack, by-the-way?" she inquires presently. "We have not seen him since the day before yesterday."

"That Eastern fellow frightened him perhaps," I laugh. "Or else he is ashamed of the ignominious way in which he beat a retreat when he heard Lord Lorraine was in the drawing-room."

Charmian's dark cheek reddens a little in color, but whether at the mention of the names of Lord Lorraine I cannot tell.

Arthur Johnstone, Editor and Prop'r.

TUESDAY MAY 11, 1886.

It is astonishing that there could be such a wide difference between the facts of the somewhat notorious Madras case, as set forth in the report of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the alleged facts as they have been repeatedly set forth by the radical Opposition newspapers of Honolulu.

Misrepresentations and illogical conclusions seem to have vied with each other in filling the newspaper columns of journals, which either do not care for, or will not admit the facts of a case when these same facts, if published, would come between their prejudiced political ravings and the truth.

Since this newspaper war about the Madras case commenced we have always been of the opinion that the radical Opposition journals were making an ex parte fight outside of the alleged principle involved, and since we have the official documents laid before us we are convinced that neither the facts nor the truth, as set forth in these documents, warrants the barricade of lies that has been erected before the doors of newspapers and shipping agents from Merchant street to the wharves.

We do not believe that if the evidence contained in these documents was submitted to the public of Honolulu there would be a vote cast, outside of a disgruntled clique, against the action of the Government in the Madras case. The Government has a sufficient number of its own sins to answer for, without being made the "scape-goat" for palpable political lies and misrepresentations.

AMONGST the acts reported back yesterday to the Legislature as printed, was one to amend the existing Sunday Law in this Kingdom. The act starts out by proposing to punish all those who by indecent or unbecoming conduct disturb any assemblage of people met for religious worship; and also forbids the keeping open on that day, of any theatre, circus or other kindred place of amusement.

Then follows the true amendment to the existing law. Section 2, provides for its being lawful for a man to get shaved or have his hair cut on the Sabbath. It also permits his butcher, baker, and milkman to serve him on that day. Further, it legalizes the use of a carriage, railway train, steamer or other means of conveyance, and releases those engaged in work on such means of transport no longer liable to legal prosecution.

In addition to all this, under the new act, we can telephone or telegraph to our friends on that day, or send or receive letters legally. Again, if we are engaged in "acts of mercy" such as caring for dumb animals, or in the putting up of medical prescriptions, or even in riding or driving to Waikiki, or in taking a boat sail, we cannot, under the proposed act, be disturbed. Last, but by no means least, if any there be who wish to employ their time and talents in the "preparing, printing and publishing a daily paper," they can do so on the Sabbath for the following Monday morning without the dread of being brought before Justice Bickerton for so doing.

The above briefly points out what the act that is now under consideration by the Legislature proposes to do, and for the sake of consistency, and to extinguish what is now a "dead letter" on our statute books it is to be hoped that the act will become a law.

YESTERDAY the Attorney-General gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill to levy a personal tax upon all Chinamen now in the country and upon all Chinese arriving here in the future. It is proposed that the tax shall be for the support of sick and indigent Chinese and for returning such Chinese to their own country. We are not in favor of further Chinese immigration into these Islands, but if the notice of this bill properly outlines its contents we shall use our best endeavors to have it defeated. We have not the space, nor is this the proper time to specify our objections, before the bill is actually introduced, but we wish to state that we do not believe either the facts or common justice would warrant the Legislature in passing such a law. It is a fact that these twenty thousand or more Chinese now in this Kingdom have already paid into the treasury some forty or fifty thousand dollars hospital tax, for which, the history of the Chinese in Hawaii shows, they have virtually received but little or no benefit.

It is further a fact, that, of all foreign people in these Islands, the Chinese, as a class, have taken as good, if not better care of their sick and indigent, than any other nationality. Until the recent disastrous fire we do not believe a relief subscription paper of any kind has been circulated, outside of Chinatown, for the aid of our Chinese residents either individually or collectively.

There are other facts relating to the Chinese mission work in Hawaii which point out clearly the injustice and lack of necessity of such a bill. When the proper time comes we shall place a full statement of the facts before the Legislature, together with some objections to the measure, springing out of the dictates of right and justice due to the Chinese residing in Hawaii.

HAWAIIAN LEGISLATURE.

NINTH DAY.

The Legislature met, pursuant to adjournment at 2 P. M. Hon. Noble Walker, the President, in the chair. After prayer by the chaplain the minutes of the previous day's session were read and approved.

PETITIONS.

Hon. W. R. Castle from Wailuku presented a petition to have the sub-districts of Nou and Honuaia merged into one taxation district. Ordered to be laid on the table to be considered with a bill to that effect.

Hon. Palohau presented a petition from Hanalei praying that a separate mail bag be made up for Hanalei. Laid on the table to be considered with a bill to that effect.

Hon. C. H. Dickey from Makawao presented a petition asking that parents of three children be exempt from taxation. Also a petition to reduce the expenses of the Government by returning lepers to their homes. Both petitions laid on the table to be considered with bills to be introduced.

Hon. D. H. Nahinu from South Kona presented a petition asking that the Gold Law be repealed, and salaries now paid to Government officials be reduced. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

His Excellency the Minister of the Interior, from the Committee on Printing reported back as printed an act to amend the Sunday law, and an act to amend the law relating to Pawn-broking.

There being no reports from Special committees, the House passed to the consideration of RESOLUTIONS.

Hon. S. B. Dole from Lihue, under leave, read the act of which he had given notice to amend Sections 58 and 59, Chapter 43, of the laws of 1882. Bill ordered to second reading.

His Excellency the Minister of the Interior, by leave, read for the first time a bill to regulate the water rates in Honolulu.

His Excellency the Attorney-General read for the first time an act to regulate the currency of the Hawaiian Kingdom. The proposed act makes the gold coin of the United States legal tender for all sums, and the silver coin of the Kingdom legal tender for all sums up to ten dollars. The act also provides for the redemption of outstanding certificates and the issuance of notes redeemable in gold.

Representative Nahali read for the first time the bill of which he had given notice relating to fisheries.

His Excellency the Attorney-General read for the first time an act for the suppression of gaming by which all games of chance are strictly prohibited, "gaming" more clearly defined, and participants as well as principals punished. The proposed bill provides that the Minister of the Interior shall have power to grant permits for the disposal of works of art, etc., by lottery (or chance) in his discretion.

His Excellency also read for the first time an act regulating the duties on wine, cigars, and cigarettes ($10.00 per m.,) China matting ($1.00 per roll), etc.

Hon. W. R. Castle, from Wailuku, offered a resolution seconded by Hon. C. H. Dickey, that there be appointed a select committee of seven to examine all laws relating to elections and to consolidate the same with such additions or amendments as they thought necessary. In explanation, the introducer stated that a number of the members had given notice of their intention to introduce bills to amend the existing laws relating to elections, and he was of the opinion that if a proper committee examined all the proposed amendments they might frame a bill to cover all the points. Hon. S. B. Dole from Lihue supported the motion. At present the laws concerning elections were very diffuse and it requires considerable study to find out just what the law is.

Hon. Palohau, from Hanalei, objected to the motion. He thought the laws were well enough but that those who administered them were often in fault.

His Excellency the Attorney-General was sorry to hear the member from Hanalei object to the motion. He thought the motion was a good one, and suggested that the committee include a representative from each island.

Hon. Noble H. A. Widemann agreed that the proposed committee would do good work even if they did no more than to bring together in shape the existing laws. The Hon. Noble indicated one or two points which the Committee should consider.

Upon being put to vote the resolution was adopted and the President named Rep. Castle, His Excellency the Attorney-General, and Rep. Kaulukou, Dole, Hayselden, Aho and Wight as the members of the committee.

Hon. W. R. Castle from Wailuku, presented a resolution to the effect that the committee on printing be instructed to strike out from all bills the clause making the act operative "on and after the date of its passage." Also, to not print acts simply repealing existing acts. The honorable member explained that he wished to save the Government some expense in printing, and that, as by law all acts (unless otherwise provided) took effect, on Oahu ten days, (and on the other islands thirty days), after passage, the clause mentioned was unnecessary, and in the case of acts simply repealing existing acts the members could get what information they required from the statute books.

His Excellency the Attorney-General hoped the motion would be voted down. All the expense that would be saved would be the printing of one or two lines in each bill, and that was not worth considering.

The motion being put it was lost.

His Excellency the Attorney-General gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill to tax all Chinamen now in the country, and all Chinese arriving here, for the support of sick and indigent Chinese, and for the return of such to their native country.

Hon. Rep. Nahale, from N. Kona, offered a resolution that $1,500 be inserted in the Appropriation Bill for the establishment of an English school in the district of Kahaluu, N. Kona. Referred to Committee on Public Instruction.

Hon. Rep. Baker, from Honolulu, gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill requiring that all accounts of the Government shall be kept in the Hawaiian and English languages.

Hon. Rep. Thurston, from Molokai, gave notice of his intention to introduce bills as follows: To amend section 1280 Civil Code, relating to bastards. To amend sections 1286 and 1287 Civil Code, regulating law relating to married women; and to amend law relating to co-partnerships.

Hon. Rep. Nahinu, from S. Kona, gave notice of his intention to introduce the following bills: To regulate restaurants and coffee shops. To increase the duty on coffee imported into the country. To increase license for wholesale and retail liquor stores. To compel tailors to take out licenses. To provide children attending public schools with instruction in trades.

Hon. Rep. Kapachaole from Molokai, offered a resolution that the sum of $1,800 be appropriated for a landing at Kamalo, Molokai. Resolution laid on the table to be considered with the Appropriation Bill.

Hon. Rep. Hayselden from Honolulu obtained leave to read for the first time a bill amending the tax laws. As the bill was a very long one the rules were suspended and the Honorable member read the bill by its title. It proposes to amend Sections 16, 17, 20, 21, 22, 25, 29, 37, 38, 49, 43 and 68 of the tax law.

Hon. Noble Cleghorn moved that the bill be referred to the Committee appointed to consider the amendments to the tax laws, but under the rules the motion was ruled out of order, and the bill passed to printing.

Hon. Rep. Aho, from Lahaina, moved the ORDER OF THE DAY.

This would bring up the consideration of the Appropriation bill, but as it was then after four o'clock His Excellency the Attorney-General moved to adjourn, which being carried the House adjourned to ten o'clock this (Tuesday) morning.

A Seaside Lyric.

Only one of the visitors to the Triumph succumbed to the baleful influence of the tossing waves and paid tribute to old Father Neptune. He sings of it thus:

"A life on the ocean wave" That song is a snare and delusion No one but a green-horn would rave O'er this scene of tumultuous confusion.

The snowy white deck sets me reeling It always is rising or sinking Until o'er me comes a queer feeling (As if I'd been heavily drinking.)

I rush to the side and there scatter, All thoughts of romance to the d—, Together with—well, its no matter—I groan for the land, firm and level.

An Artistic and Appropriate Gift.

At the meeting of the International Postal Congress, recently held at Lisbon, the Hawaiian Government was represented by M. Eugene Borel, Director of the Universal Postal Union, Berne, Switzerland. Mr. Borel received the thanks of the Hawaiian Government for the service he rendered, and being obliged, on account of his official position, to decline the decoration that His Majesty was pleased to send him, it was resolved to send him an appropriate souvenir of the Islands. Accordingly, the Hon. H. M. Whitney, while Postmaster-General, caused to be prepared a handsome album containing portraits and views taken by Mr. Williams, and groups of mosses and ferns. There are forty-one pages, eight of which are portraits of the royal family, twenty-eight of views embracing the Palace and public buildings, Hilo Bay, and other points of interest, arranged by Mr. Whitney. The remaining five pages are filled with groups of ferns and mosses arranged by Mr. F. L. Clarke, there being thirty-five of the finest of our ferns represented, and one page showing the "Silver Sword" plant, the Hawaiian "Eidelweiss," and the singular "white lichen" of Maui. The pages were elegantly bound by Mr. T. G. Thurm in morocco richly gilt and lettered. His Majesty the King wrote a dedication of the album to M. Borel, and the handsome gift was forwarded to that gentleman through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express by the Zealandia last Friday. The volume is very finely gotten up and reflects much credit upon those who had the matter in hand. The book was insured for $200.

They Say:

That the members of the Legislature had a splendid time on shipboard yesterday morning; that the facts as set forth in the "Madras" case do not sanction the newspaper abuse that has been untruthfully and illogically written about it; that the only way out of the dilemma is to prove that the official documents in the case are false or that they are forgeries; that the season of private picnics has commenced; that three picnic parties are preparing to enjoy themselves next Sunday; that fern albums are now all the rage among young people; that the printers are all busy on Government work; that the citizens who contemplate building on the burnt district can get full information as to boundaries at the Government building; that nearly $100,000 worth of contracts for new buildings have already been let; that the flower painting by Mr. Charles Furneaux in Thurm's store window is worth looking at; that the streets are showing the sad effects of the rain in some parts of town; that the hand boys sang a song the other night at the Palace that was not on the programme; that the same naughty band boys played four extra pieces of music the same evening; that the Legislature did not meet until two o'clock yesterday afternoon; that the opinion is rife that Mr. Hastie showed very poor judgment in coming ashore last Sunday; that Jimmie Williams took a splendid picture of the King and Staff the day the Legislature opened; that there will be some fine music at the combined concert this evening; that there were several well known missionaries went through to the Coast from the Colonies last Sunday per the Mariposa; that Kerr will receive some stylish goods by the Alameda; that the building of brick stores in the burnt district will commence in earnest next week; that the "Myrtle boys" will have a grand time "Thursday evening"; that the Eclipse Boat Club is picking up; that the bark Forest Queen will take a mail for the Coast to-day; that the Heroine and Satellite will race to Hong Kong; that the Heroine will arrive there first; and that the electric light on the Triumph is a mystery to the natives.

Visit of His Majesty the King and the Members of the Hawaiian Legislature to H. B. M. S. Ship Triumph.

In accordance with the invitation of Rear Admiral Seymour, the members of the Legislature paid a visit to H. B. M. S. Ship Triumph yesterday morning. Shortly after 10 o'clock the ship's barges in tow of the steam launch arrived at Brewer's wharf in charge of Lieut. Anson. The following members were taken on board: Messrs. Dickey, Wight, Nahale, Kapahaole, Kaukau, Kaai, Kauai, Richardson, Kalua, Kahi and Lilikalani, Noble Junius Kaee, Sergeant-at-Arms Nowlein, and Messenger Kalanipoo, with the representatives of the press filled two barges, while His Majesty the King accompanied by Col. C. H. Judd, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, and Major Boyd, together with H. M.'s Commissioner, Major Wodehouse went off in a steam pinnace in charge of Flag Lieut. Garforth.

As soon as the barge containing the King was seen to have cleared the entrance to the harbor, on her approach to the Triumph, yards were manned, the royal standard displayed at the main and the Hawaiian national flag at the fore, and a royal salute was fired. His Majesty and the other invited guests were received on the quarter deck by Rear Admiral Seymour and his officers, and after a brief chat were escorted throughout the vessel, the Admiral pointing out to the King the various objects of interest. The battery of huge guns in the casemated portion of the vessel were much admired as were the Whitehead torpedos, the Gatling guns and other smaller weapons offensive and defensive.

The guns crews were exercised in the main battery, as were the marines on the main deck in bayonet drill. An exhibition was given of the workings of the Whitehead torpedo, which was launched from its firing tube and sped through the water at the rate of 24 knots an hour for a buoy set for the purpose. Every part of the ship was inspected by the visitors and all were impressed with the appearance of order and neatness displayed. The crew are men of fine physique and well drilled, their handling of the big guns being very rapid and accurate.

After a very pleasant visit of two hours the barges were announced as being in waiting and the members of the Legislature took their leave of Admiral Seymour. They were followed by His Majesty and his Staff. Upon leaving the vessel the yards were again manned and a royal salute fired.

The day was a very fine one, the sea smooth, and all expressed themselves much pleased with their visit to the Triumph.
