THE MEDICINE MAN

WHO TRIES TO FRIGHTEN DISEASE AWAY FROM SICK ALASKANS.

The Professional Business of Scaring People—Weeding with an Alarming Dilemma—Cremation and Other Methods of Disposing of the Dead.

The Shaman, or medicine man, is an omnipresent living conundrum to his unsophisticated people. He is a mystery which they can not comprehend, and a terror always, for while he is a handy sort of a personage to have in a community, and is supposed to have power to heal the sick, he is, nevertheless, believed to be in league with the devil. The malign influence of his spells is a constant menace, and no one can tell when or upon whom it may momentarily fall. This is a hard reputation to have, but the Shaman promotes it. He is a self-constituted bugaboo, having duly qualified himself for the role by a course of trying ordeals by fire, water, and other means. It is probably his attested ability to survive inflictions which in ordinary course would cause death, rather than absolute immunity from any physical injury, which inspires his people with a superstitious fear. At the same time he is himself in constant apprehension of some clandestine influence at work to counteract his own. If his incantations and mummeries fail of success, he charges its failure and its blame to whomsoever he chooses. Many an innocent life has expired an alleged interference in days gone by. Happily, his supremacy is now at an end.

THE MEDICINE MAN'S RATTLE. It is the professional business of the Shaman to scare people and to keep them scared. It pays. Whenever he wants money, instead of "holding a man up," he shakes his rattle at him. One shake will impoverish any ordinary Siwash, two will rouse him out. It is the same with bodily ailments. As a medical practitioner he dispenses the use of nostrums and discards all physics. His method is to frighten disease away. When summoned in a case of sickness he rigs himself out in a garb that would scare a hoboblin and increase the pallor of a ghost. An invalid must be in great extremity, indeed, when he will consent to send for a doctor. An appointment with a nightmarer would not require half the nerve. The patient knows just what to expect. He has prepared himself to be frightened by a long course of mental enervation, and he feels that it is merely a toss-up which shall stand the infernal racket the longest, himself or the element. In fact, if he should fall to be frightened at all, the enchantment is nullus—no good—and the doctor withdraws, a mortified and disgruntled Shaman.

Such a dilemma is alarming, but the medicine man is prepared to wrestle with it. He at once dons a frightful headgear of mountain goat horns, with a mask of hideous device, and down his naked spine a row of horns, jet black and polished, extends in abnormal development to the very base. Long pendants made of dried skunk skins and assorted intestines dangle from his head, armbands and anklets equally repulsive encircle his shriveled limbs, and his whole body glows with ochre of green, yellow and red. Armed with a huge wooden rattle and cupstick, he advances into the room with a series of postures and jerks which impressively emphasize his aggressiveness, overpowering the patient and leaving him limp and paralyzed with terror. If, however, the doctor should prove recalcitrant, the Shaman seats himself on the earth in the center of the room with his back to the fire and proceeds to beat the ground with his stick, shaking his rattle and singing with all his might. He seems in this earnest, and if there is anything in the logic of sympathy the patient ought to get well instant. But death too often plays the stronger hand, carrying off the victim and the malady together, much to the disgust of the doctor.

THE DISPOSITION OF THE DEAD. On the Alaska coast the reputable dead are usually cremated, and the bones collected into a box and preserved. The calcined remains are carefully placed in miniature houses of wood, to which the deceased is believed to be attached. The houses are grouped in a common cemetery, as in civilized communities. The sites are chosen with picturesque attraction on a grassy island, shapely ridges of land, and cut into the shore. On a burial about near Methlakla the Indians have fashioned a number of fire trees into artistic patterns. At Sitka there is a long ridge lined with several scores of these miniature receptacles, painted in gaudy colors, and arranged in parallel rows, interspersed with fanciful totem poles in quaint devices on the apex of each one of which is a bear, a raven, or an eagle, denoting the clan to which the deceased belonged. These houses are seldom more than five or six cubes, with a pyramidal roof, sometimes surmounted by a carved image, and are very creditable bits of architecture, considering that the boards have been split with an ax and smoothed with an adze.

There are cemeteries elsewhere which are enclosed with neat whitewashed palings, and you often see small jack-staffs with pennants of white and colored cotton cloth standing by the graves. This is where the method of interment has been adopted from the whites, the bodies being placed in the earth and carved slabs set up in lieu of headstones. There are no less than three other modes of sepulture in Alaska—burial in tents and canoes raised on staddles out of reach of animals, aquatic burial beneath the waves, and in canoes turned adrift—Cor. New York Sun.

A post office for letters to foreign parts was established for the benefit of the English merchants in the reign of James I, but the extension of the system to inland letters was left to the successors of Charles I. by proclamation issued in 1653, may be said to have founded the present post office. By this proclamation he commanded "his Postmaster of England for foreign parts to settle a running post or two, to run night and day, between Edinburgh and London, to go thither and come back again in six days, and to take with them all such letters as shall be directed to any post town in or near that road."

Men who live crooked careers are, nevertheless, very often in straitened circumstances—Philadelphia Call.

ADVERTISEMENTS

ARTHUR JOHNSTONE, Editor and Prop'r.

FRIDAY, MAY 28, 1886.

ACCORDING to the notes made by the reporters of the Daily Bulletin, Daily Advertiser, and Daily Press of the business of the Legislative Assembly on Tuesday of this week, it does not appear that Mr. Thurston said "I move as an amendment to this section that the words 'Ministers of the Crown' be added, as under the circumstances I think they are necessary."

ACCORDING to the report of the House Committee on Public Lands several bills prepared and introduced into the House under the Committee's direction will restore to the public domain something over 86,000,000 acres of land stolen by the patriotic citizens of the Republic.

YESTERDAY a petition was presented in the Assembly asking that the subsidy granted the Speckels' line of steamers be discontinued unless they touched regularly at the port of Kalepolepo, Maui.

found in the fact that Kalepolepo exists now only in name. Her former glories are departed; and on the outer walls of the only building now standing on the site of the once proud (?) city may be written, as the Gazette would say, Cetera desunt, i. e. "The rest is wanting."

HAWAIIAN LEGISLATURE.

Hon. member Kekoa presented petitions as follows: That act creating Road Supervisors in chief be repealed. That people who make garments for pay be licensed.

Hon. member Brown presented a petition that an English school be established at Laia-wai. Referred to Committee on Education.

Hon. member Palahao presented a petition that the office of Road Supervisors in Chief be abolished. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Hon. member Dickey presented the following petitions: That $2,000 be appropriated for raising the bridge in Kula, Makawao. That one good Road Supervisor be appointed for each taxation district.

Hon. member Kekoa presented a petition that the office of Road Supervisors in Chief be abolished. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

STANDING COMMITTEES. His Excellency the Minister of the Interior reported as printed the Report of the Attorney General.

RESOLUTIONS. Hon. member Keau read for the first time an act relating to the practice of law in the Police and District Courts.

Hon. member Paha read for the first time an act relating to road making and repairing. Passed to second reading.

Hon. member Kauhane read for the first time a bill authorizing the appointment of three Road Commissioners in each district. Passed to second reading.

Hon. member Amara read for the first time a bill providing for taking of photographs of prisoners sentenced to labor, and to have the sentence printed on the back of shirts and bands of hats. Passed to second reading.

Hon. member Kekoa read a resolution that $10,000 be given in aid of the Hilo Boarding School. Laid on the table to be considered with the Appropriation Bill.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

The House at 11:25 A. M. passed the Order of the Day: third reading of the new liquor law. The bill was read and a motion made to strike out the word "single" in section 16, so as to permit of retail dealers to sell more than one bottle at a time.

Hon. member Castle spoke at length calling attention to the fact that the bill as now amended gave the retail dealer the right to sell as much liquor by the bottle as he chose.

Hon. member Castle disputed the result. He claimed that it required a two-thirds vote to decide a motion to reconsider. This House had no rule on the subject, but as they had adopted a rule that when the rules of this House are silent on any point the rules governing the English Parliament and American Congress shall prevail, they were here bound to adhere to the "two-thirds" vote in this case.

Hon. member Dr. Wright made a motion to amend the bill by inserting after the word "bottle" the words, "and if by the bottle not more than one bottle to any one person in the same day."

Hon. member Brown moved that the House adjourn to 10 o'clock the following morning. The Hon. member stated that the committee appointed for that purpose intended visiting the nursery and parks, and the public buildings this afternoon.

Wailuku Warblings. We have had several light showers of rain during the past week; even small favors are thankfully received.

The fire reported to have been seen in the direction of Waikapu from the steamer C. R. Bishop, was probably caused by the burning of cane fields, as no buildings have been burned of late on this portion of Maui.

The building vacated by one, Colbler, who recently departed for San Francisco, has been thoroughly renovated, re-painted and tastefully refitted by Mr. Benjamin Weight, and the gentlemanly young merchant of the Wailuku Bazar has taken possession with his family.

W. H. Dannels & Co. have leased the commodious building on upper Market street formerly occupied by a Chinaman. Carpenters are now at work putting in new shelving and counters, and are generally overhauling the interior; when completed, the new firm will put in a select stock of general merchandise, all new goods, direct from Frisco.

Mr. W. H. Cornwell, the enterprising manager and principle stockholder of the Waikapu plantation, has a project under contemplation, which, if successful will be another evidence of the power resulting from the careful combination and judicious manipulation of brains and capital.

mills of more pretentious proportions on the lower grounds, the cane from the upper fields could be run down in the flumes already constructed. The future growth and commercial importance of Kahului, our principal port of entry, is largely dependent upon the development and successful cultivation of the extensive territory lying back of it.

The new method of making Poi out of Taro Flour has reduced the time from 2 1-2 hours to only 1 hour. The old method of cooking it in a bag has been discarded.

Entertainment at the Y. M. C. A.

A farewell entertainment was tendered Mr. Theo. H. Davies in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening. A large audience had assembled in the spacious hall by the time the entertainment opened, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. Davies with his family leaves for England shortly.

The Wizard of the North.

Prof. Anderson played to a rather smaller house than usual last night, the reception at the Y. M. C. A. hall drawing a number away. The evening's performance embraced several new and interesting experiments which called forth the applause of the audience. The aerial suspension in the second part was finely performed, and was well worth witnessing. The Professor's repertoire of marvelous tricks and illusions seems to be exhaustless, something new being presented each evening.

Successful Little Fair.

A fair for the benefit of Kawaihano Seminary was held in the hall of the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon. It was quite largely attended, and very many of the pretty articles exhibited were disposed of at "fair" prices. There were a number of handkerchief cases and scent bags made from a dress of the late Queen Dwyer Emma and prettily painted with flowers, that were in demand. So were the purses made of acacia seeds and some ferns on cards. Refreshments were to be had and at the conclusion of the fair the managers found that they had realized in the neighborhood of $400, which will materially assist the Seminary for whose benefit the fair was held.

A general invitation is extended

They Say:

That the Legislature had hard work getting an adjournment passed yesterday noon; that the vote on the liquor bill was twice recorded; that the House Committee visited the Makiki-hill nursery yesterday afternoon; that a great deal of indignation was expressed on the streets yesterday at the tone of Mr. Thurston's letter published in yesterday's PRESS; that the Legislature ought to pass a bill prohibiting Chinese vendors from carrying baskets on poles along the sidewalks; that the taro flour griddle cakes are all the go for breakfast; that the new show will beat the "only Millis"; that the latest thing in colors is crushed guava; that the Honolulu Rifles will turn out on Saturday in full force; that a former American Consul is in town; that the new paper-delivery of Oat & Co., is "bang up"; that Mort Oat says the first fellow who objects to it will immediately be accused of high piracy in the literary seas; that the Honolulu watering cart is the largest in the world; that the new Volcano pictures by Tavernier will be placed on exhibition in Honolulu before long; that the treaty is still in abeyance; that the U. S. S. Alert is coming back to Honolulu next year; that the best way to keep a clear political record is not to make a fool of yourself and then attempt to prove you have a large, truthful head; that the lumber placed in front of new buildings ought to have a light placed thereon; that there are several San Francisco merchants in town; that the people of Kalahele want Mr. Spreckels to come over and see them in one of his steamers; that the show gave a new programme last night; that there will be several patriotic speeches at the memorial service next Saturday night; that the lobby held an interesting session yesterday; that "celery, beef and iron" is kept by Luce on Merchant street; that the "Australia" will sail for San Francisco next Tuesday; that the police are having an easy time lately; that Maxwell, the murderer of Preller has got himself into a tight hole; that he will have a hard time to get out; that most of the California fruits which arrived by the Australia were sold before they were landed; that late comers stood no show; that Professor Anderson will give another matinee to-morrow afternoon; and that the poi song is original.

Unparliamentary Language.

Editor Daily Honolulu Press. SIR: I notice in your to-day's issue the Hon. L. A. Thurston's vindication of himself, against some remarks of yours in a previous issue. It seems to me that no good end can be subserved by these—I was going to say—mischievous vituperations. I understand parliamentary usages about as well as any person of ordinary ability, and I must say that some of the personalities indulged in by this Hawaiian Parliament are neither creditable to the Hon. members who resort to them nor dignified. Had Mr. Thurston thought for a single moment, he must have seen that the words "habitual drunkard" apply to Ministers and people alike for all are equal before the law, and he would, therefore, not have made the personal remark he did,—you would have not had occasion to write on the subject, and he would have had no grounds for his letter to-day. I repeat again, what I am sure is the voice of all right minded people, that stricter attention to Parliamentary rules would save the public from some of the ungracious remarks which are too frequently let fall in what should be a solemn, earnest, and business like Assembly. W. F. REYNOLDS. Honolulu, May 27, 1886.

Police Court Items.

THURSDAY, May 27th. E. C. Marden, charged with assault and battery, and threatening H. M. Kane; fined $6 and $350 costs.

Something we don't know.

We may frequently find people who are dissatisfied, or pretend to be, with everything. Sometimes their cavilling comes to an abrupt conclusion, as the following incident will show. Messrs. Emmet and Branscombe (the celebrated comedians, now in this city) were giving an entertainment in Southampton, England, when a man in the audience made himself especially obnoxious, by continually calling out, "tell us something we don't know." Time after time he said this, and the patience of the artists began to get exhausted. They started a duet and at the close of each verse this fellow regularly bawled out "oh! tell us something we don't know." The climax had come. Down off the stage went the actors; straight they marched over to Mr. Nuisance, and grabbing him securely, they deliberately threw him outside on the road. He fell with a thud, then sitting up, he whispered, "I'm satisfied! I didn't know I could have fallen out of there so mighty quick."

Hawaiian Poi Song.

(Suggested after eating a calabash of Poi made out of TARO FLOUR.) Oh! root nutritious, Oh! food delicious, To thee, my muse shall sing, I'll have no hash In my calabash; Unfit for queen and king. Chorus. Taro, Taro, Thou art my bone and marrow, Poi, Poi, Thou art my life, my joy.

With diligence I made my fence, Including all my farm. With Taro I set In soil quite wet And keep from any harm.

The tropic sun In joyous fun Comes dancing down on thee, I lay like sloth And watch thy growth, Till ripened thou mayst be.

I raise thee then From out this pen To cleanse and trim thee fine. In largest pot I put the lot And boil thee for a time.

I thee then mash In clean calabash With water and savor and spice, Then to my joy For this is Poi I taste and find 'tis nice.

Delicious food For my young brood To grow and thrive and fat on, The young rogues come Full on the run And always eat with hat on.

In ring we squat, Around our pot, To take our fine repast. With hungry haste We seek to taste Each fearing 'till be last.

With dextrous turn, From pot or urn, We raise our "natural spoon." Then, with our lips, Resounding sips, We clear it very soon.

'Twas thus did ate Our Potentate, Our King of long ago. Then why should we Feel less than he When eating poi so.

American Of any man, May do as he may choose. But, as for me, I ne'er could see Why they the Poi refuse.

Let others think Or even blink, At what I've said of Poi. But I maintain Forever the same, It is my living joy.

The best of Poi I here do "say," Is made of TARO FLOUR, And when 'tis done, It is great fun, To eat it by the hour.

CALIFORNIA WINES.

The growth and manufacture of pure wines in California has surprised the most sanguine. Although small manufacturers, through combined ignorance and carelessness, turn out inferior wines, it has been the ambition of to manufacture wines that are absolutely pure, and the only house in California that manufactures pure Champagnes produced by the natural process of fermentation in the bottle.

The importation of MESSRS. ARPAD HARASZTHY & CO.'S wines into this Kingdom, from October 7th, 1885, to March 31st, 1886, being nearly two-thirds of all other manufactures put together, is a guaranty of their popularity, and that they are far superior to any wines manufactured.
