ANNOUNCEMENT.

In order to commence the issue of this paper on the 1st of September, we are compelled to adopt a temporary heading which will be replaced by one of handsome design and finish as soon as the electrotype plate can be obtained from the Coast, when the whole make-up of the paper will be changed and improved.

VETERANS OF THE RAIL.

CONCERNING OLD LOCOMOTIVES.

Now and Where Big Railroad Motors are Manufactured—The Life of an Engine—Like Minerva Bora Complete.

"Trouble," said an old engineer, as he stepped back from the brass railing he was polishing and peered at the elongated reflection of himself on the bright surface, "of course it is trouble to keep a locomotive clear, but then it is trouble to have or for a woman to wear stays. Anywhere one takes pride in his work it is easy to endure a little inconvenience. But this engine can be kept in order with one-half the work required on older machines."

"Why is that?"

"Oh, the tendencies of modern locomotive building is toward fewer better parts. Twenty years ago an engineer spent half his life polishing brasses; now half an hour a day will suffice to keep his engine presentable. Some of the newest locomotives are made with no bright parts, what ever, but this is carrying plainness to an extreme. Superintendents say that such an engine does not live as long as a more ornamental one, and I guess that is the fact. You see an engineer must keep polished surfaces clean, whereas a plain machine is allowed to rust and so starts on the road to the scrapheap, the cemetery of dead rolling stock."

"How long can a locomotive keep out of this cemetery?"

"It's average life is about fifteen years, though there are motors on the Erie Road that were put on in 1835 and 1856. These are a little decrepit, but they do their work yet almost as faithfully as they did twenty-five years ago. Some engines smoke more than others, and smoking in a machine as in men uses up vitality very fast. No, I can't say that these old Erie locomotives are so very old-fashioned. In fact they are not. One of the most curious things about the locomotive is that it was born complete. No invention that I can recall has been the subject of so few improvements. Why, sir, if George Stephenson, the inventor of the first railway motor, were to step from his grave into this cab he could run his train to Philadelphia after five minutes study."

"Why have there been so few improvements?"

"From an engineer's point of view, I should say because the machine is perfect. Seventy-two years ago, long before the first engine was introduced in this country, John Stevens, in applying to the New Jersey Legislature for permission to run steam carriages, said: 'I can see nothing to hinder a steam engine from moving on rails at the rate of 100 miles an hour.' Of course he did not accomplish all that he claimed. The first engine was brought here in 1829 by Horatio Allen, was run on the Delaware and Hudson River Road and proved too heavy. Then our American artisans began work on a locomotive at West Point, N. Y., and in 1830 the "Phoenix," the first built in this country. This proved entirely too small for work, so heavier ones were built, but none ever entered practical service. But in 1832 Governor De Witt Clinton superintended the construction of a successful locomotive named a Terrible, which plied between Schenectady and Albany on the Mohawk and Hudson Road.

"The Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, claims to have built the fourth machine made here. This was used on the Philadelphia and Germantown Railroad in 1833. Four years later the Rogers Works of Paterson, N. J., after two years' labor, completed its first engine."

"And you say these were good motors?"

"Certainly. There have been a few minor improvements on them, not many. They have added a cab for its fellows and a pilot (cow-catcher), increased the driving wheels from one pair to four or six, and in the internal economy altered the multiball boiler and the chimney exhaust. These are the principal improvements, and on the entire locomotive there are very few patents. The old machines made almost as good time as the present average. As for the few patented improvements, builders say the engines can be made almost as well without them. The engine of to-day is a marvel of simplicity and beauty."

"Have all attempts at improvement proved futile?"

"Most of the money spent in radical changes has been wasted. The Fontaine engine, named after its inventor, which was to make eighty miles an hour with one pair of driving wheels placed above the other, has not, it is said, made good its claim, and the Holland naphtha-burning machine, invented by Mr. Conant and intended to burn naphtha and water, is now lying idle in the Erie yards at Paterson. Several trials failed, it is claimed, to induce the internal economy aimed at. These works give employment to 14,000 men and every year add about 2,000 locomotives to the 20,000 now in daily use. At present five men have to work an entire year to complete one of these huge machines. The year just past has been a somewhat dull

THE THINKER AND HIS THING.

Bill Nye's Lucid Description of the Mechanism of the Mind.

When a wonderful thing is thought of, what a complex piece of mechanism is the engine we call our thinker, and what a glorious result is the thing itself after it has just been thought! There it lies, warm and fresh from the thinker's brain, full of life, a new laid idea that may change the career of a nation or knock tyranny higher than Gilroy's kite.

What, then, is an idea? Is it not the evanescent germ of the wherefore, floating through space and at last caught up and germinated in the bosom of the intellectual forthwith? do not say that it is, but is it not? Scientific truths are first but theories, afterward demonstrated, tested by time and at last they become the pillars upon which other scientific truths may rest, until altogether they constitute an architectural pile, as strong and as symmetrical as the plaster cast of a duck's foot in the mud.

Thought, however, must be coupled with energy and industry, or it may come to naught. Many thoughts protrude into the most spring air only to be gnawed off by the cut worm of neglect or slowly eaten by the squabbling of little speculation. I once knew a man whose brain was one of the most active of his time, and yet his name is not known beyond the limits of his own school district. When his brain began to act, and as it were to give down, you could almost hear it. He had a fine scholarly mind, and yet his liver was torpid. To show how nature delights to deal with incongruities, I need only say that although this man was a poet and an artist in his mind, he ate pie with a knife and finally died in obscurity. He was not practical with all his greatness, and he reached down to the long vista of his holding up his pantaloons by means of a single nail. How often is this the case. Why should man with the greatest mental endowments be also most prone to gastric eccentricities? And yet it is so. I am that way myself.

Sometimes I am tempted to repine, and to ask: Why should I run all to soul and to brain, and be top heavy with intellect, and yet be the plaything of bilious colic? It is but the natural penalty attached to eminence and intellectual superiority. And yet at times I am almost discontented. I forget the great law of compensation, or wish that nature had endowed me with plain seven-lobed brain and more genial vitals, instead of such a waste of brain along with a stubborn and short-sighted liver.

Thought, however, is a great success. Without it we grope through the world, staggering into the legislature at last, where we sink into oblivion. If we score to develop our thinkers, what do we become? We become anonymous and indefinite. The thinker must be exercised in order to make it grow. Exercise develops the thinker as it does the bicyclist. We soon learn to ride the bicycle if we practice constantly, and so may we train ourselves to straddle the bareback of the frisky young idea, and at last make it subservient to our will. We should early accustom ourselves to think, so that when we arrive at middle age, if we have an idea, it will not give us a nervous shock and lead us into a premature grave. Those who think much at last become thoughtful, and it is surprising to what an extent this is the case, while on the other hand the slothful do not think. We soon learn to think, and the fact that those who roll up their thinkers in a napkin and put them away in the refrigerator, at last become noticeably thoughtful. While at first blush this statement may appear doubtful, careful observation will demonstrate its thorough reliability. Give the thinker plenty of fresh air and exercise, or at last it will most assuredly curl up and die.

OUR SCHOOLS.

The public and private schools of Honolulu will soon open again. During the closing days of last year's work we were present a portion or all of the time at the examinations and exercises of most of the schools.

It is not many years since the first inter-island steambot sailed out of this harbor for Hilo and way ports; travel previous to that being confined entirely to schooners.

The withdrawal of the Japanese from Paia will no doubt be the indirect cause of amendments being made to the Masters and Servants Act, even if it should not result in the present act being repealed entirely.

The law relating to the erection and repairing of buildings, other than those built of fireproof material, within certain limits in this city is often violated in the spirit if not in the letter of the law.

A literary gentleman of Honolulu is writing a book which will be entitled "Advantages of Life." Among many paradoxical things in the book will appear chapters under the following heads: Advantage of being a Fool; Advantage of being an Egotist; Advantage of being Hated; Advantage of being in Debt; Advantage of being a Drunkard; Advantage of being a Bachelor; Advantage of being a Skeptic; and the book will be closed with a lively chapter on the Advantage of Being Dead.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION.

Over a year has passed since the soundings were taken across the channels that separate these islands, but as yet nothing of a public nature has transpired. Whether or not the action of the gentlemen who provided the ways and means of taking those soundings, will be followed by the laying of telegraphic wires across the channels.

It is not many years since the first inter-island steambot sailed out of this harbor for Hilo and way ports; travel previous to that being confined entirely to schooners.

THE PAIA LABORERS.

The withdrawal of the Japanese from Paia will no doubt be the indirect cause of amendments being made to the Masters and Servants Act, even if it should not result in the present act being repealed entirely.

Fruit Notes.

Watermelons have been neither plentiful, nor profitable this season. As a rule they have been small and insipid.

A small lot of prickly pears, of the white variety, were on sale a few days ago. This indicates that their season is at hand. This fruit, we doubt not, will be a novelty to many of our readers.

TO-DAY'S ENGAGEMENTS.

Fryer's circus at 8 P. M. Cash sale at auction rooms of E. P. Adams, at 10 A. M. I. O. R. M. at 7:30 P. M. Court at Chambers, Stillman, vs. Trustees Wood's Estate, before Judge Judd, C. J.

A Point in Political Economy.

Mr. J. H. Paty came into this office yesterday morning with a wicked smile in his eye and a club in his hand. "Do you sell Hereford heifers here?" said Mr. Paty, as he hefted his stick. "No, sir, we manufacture items and write up ads. and jokes and things. Can we do anything for you this morning, Mr. Paty?" Mr. Paty looked at us with somewhat of compassion and then demanded in a husky voice: "Did you ever see a Holstein cow that gave 24 gallons of milk a day?" "Well, no," we replied, but when we were young we remember that our father had a scrub cow which he used to make us milk and when we thought to hurry off to see our girl, it seemed Mr. Paty, it really did, as if that cow gave 50 gallons of milk, and even then we didn't milk her dry.

Late Fashion Notes.

Cream color and pure white cannot be tastefully combined in a costume. The milkmaid overskirt and the house maid frock are rivals in woman's favor just now.

LOCAL NEWS. His Honor Chief Justice Judd will return from his vacation trip to-day.

Fish were scarce yesterday in the Fish Market and brought high prices.

A number of native Sunday school children had a picnic beyond Paavaa yesterday.

The trustees of the Queen's Hospital held a meeting this morning at 11 o'clock.

The noon-day prayer meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday was well attended.

By the S. S. Zealandia due to-morrow, we shall be in receipt of dates to the 29th ultimo.

One of the nicest places to get a quiet shave is at the barber shop of M. Avila in Union Lane.

H. B. M. S. Constance, Captain Doughty, may be looked for at any moment from Esuvialat en route to China.

Early next week Major Dane, Mr. Walker, Rev. Mr. Oggel and Rev. George Wallace will make a trip around the island.

"Lighten our darkness we beseech thee, Mr. Contractor." The illuminations about town of late only serve to make darkness visible.

The zeppers played such fantastic tricks that it took three men and a boy to each dirt cart yesterday to keep the light debris from blowing away.

Mr. James Campell left town last Wednesday for Honolulu ranch to look after some cattle in the sea-shore paddocks. He will be back to-day.

By an error in proof-reading a local in yesterday's paper stated that the Hereford heifer sent to Kawaloa ranch was valued at $35. It should have been $350.

It is a curious fact that on the west side of Manoa Valley the mountain apple crop has been ripe for some months, while that of the east side will not be ripe for at least another month.

The circus was but poorly attended last night and although Captain Blyth's offer was a generous one, the natives did not patronize the show, and the Church Fund will get little or nothing.

It is understood that Captain Blyth of Fryer's Circus, has chartered the schooner Enma which will take the circus troupe to Tahiti, thence to Lavuka in the Fiji Islands, thence to Auckland.

The "children" held a sociable last evening at the Bethel Union Church. Amusements were provided for them and after a merry round of play, coffee and cake, toothsome alliteration, followed.

Mr. E. W. Jordan has bought the premises of Mr. J. N. Wright adjoining the newly-purchased property of J. T. Waterhouse, Jr. and will move thither, after the completion of some needed alterations.

The officers of the Honolulu Library and Reading Room Association met last night but owing to the want of a quorum no business was transacted. The annual meeting of the association takes place next month.

Surveyor Monsarrat is expected home next Saturday from Molokai where he has been surveying the western half of that island. It is announced that he will make a survey of the eastern half of Molokai next year.

The hackmen around town are complaining of very dull times in their business; they say there is but little transient custom, that the hotels are empty and that those who do ride want to ride cheap. It is too bad boys, but every body is in the same boat.

It is become quite the fashion among the young gentlemen of Honolulu to carry a small moustache comb in the vest pocket. Some of them have no earthly use for a comb except as a matter of ornament. It is suggested they wear them behind the ear.

St. Alban's College, under the direction of Mr. A. T. Atkinson, will begin its fall term on next Monday morning. This is one of the best private schools in the Kingdom and under Mr. Atkinson's able management has been made an institution of sterling merit. It deserves a large patronage.

Mr. Fred Oat, the lively short stop of the Honolulu B. B. Club, left yesterday afternoon for Makawao, Maui. Fred says he is going away for a week to recuperate his health, but his first base-man declares that if Fred gets any healthier some of the base-men will be "knocked out."

Yesterday morning a native child was knocked down and badly frightened near the Empire Saloon on Nuuanu street, by a team of horses attached to the buggy of Mr. Wm. Holt. It is a wonder people are not hurt oftener from the way some hackmen and others are allowed to drive.

Several native hack drivers have organized a company called the Honolulu Carriage Company, and have located their office on King street near the Merchant's Exchange. The company proposes to do the fair thing and wish to remind the public that their telephone number is 258.

The Likelike sailed away for Kahului yesterday, with citizens not a few. 'Tis well! We have our scribe aboard and he woteth how to drive his witty pencil after facts. When the Likelike gently caresses the wharf arm, we will welcome her with a prose idyll that will made her very inmates cry us stop.

Yesterday set in with blustering trades. A little after eight o'clock quite a whirl-wind struck Fort street at the corner of Hotel, filling the air in the neighborhood with light debris for some time. It was amusing to watch pedestrians grab at their head gear as they emerged from the lee side of some building.

The old Olympic building on Nuuanu street near the first bridge is being renovated by Mr. J. T. Waterhouse and will soon be fitted up as a Temperance Hotel. Mr. Waterhouse has also rented the two cottages next to the Olympic on the mauka side. These cottages will be nicely fitted up and let to lodgers.

The Young People's Prayer meeting will be held at the Bethel Union Church this evening at half past seven o'clock. The meeting promises to be a very interesting one and a full attendance of members is requested. All young people are welcome to these meetings. General Secretary Fuller of the Y. M. C. A. will lead the meeting.

It is ou dit that a strong room is about to be erected within the new Chinese sanctuary or Club House on King street, in which the Celestial may indulge in the use of the narcotic drug to his heart's content without the interference of the marshal, deputy, captain, station-house keeper or policeman. It can be viewed from the Station-house veranda at present, but after the inauguration of the hall, admission will be limited to members only. Chinese spies and informers will have to look elsewhere for a living.

Those who bath at Waikiki should be careful about staying in the water too long as it is a dangerous indulgence in this climate. Night before last Mr. H. M. Dow of the firm of West, Dow & Co., remained in water at Mr. West's place something over half an hour. Soon after he came out he was prostrated and became insensible, remaining in this condition for some time. Brandy and other restoratives were applied and he finally revived sufficiently to be taken home. Yesterday he was out, but still remains weak and nervous.

The wind: blew a wahine across the street; it chased the mosquitoes a thousand miles out to sea; it made a bellows of the circus tent; it whistled Yankee Doodle on the telephone wires; it made the weather vane dizzy headed; it twisted a dude's legs on Hotel street and exposed the rear elevation of his tailoring; it blew down four pots and sifted dust into the meat safes; it chased a contemporary's reporter down Fort street and blew his item into the bay; it threw dust into Judge Bickerton's eyes and finally blew itself over the reef and disappeared.

Whirlwinds, waterspouts and many other freaks of nature are common occurrences in a tropical climate, but we learned yesterday for the first time that local whirlwinds are liable to interfere with local industries. Contractor E. B. Thomas informs us that at noon yesterday the elements so disturbed the lime, mortar and bricks at the building of the new Chinese Club House, also the equanimity and equilibrium of the workmen engaged thereon, including the "boss," that work had to be temporarily suspended until nature restored the normal state of hardware and humanity.

Yesterday afternoon, about half-past three o'clock, a young native woman was run away with on the Palama road. It seems that she mounted a young horse against the wishes of her mother and started to ride to her sister's house about a mile out of town. After she reached the main road the horse became unmanageable, took the bit in his teeth and dashed along the road. He was stopped by a Chinese laundry-man who flourished the large white cloth, which covered his basket, in front of the animal's eyes causing him to turn suddenly which threw the native woman to the ground but fortunately without injuring her.

Police Court Items. Gee Sing charged with stealing a horse of one Kaualo in 1881 was remanded until the 8th instant. Kahui, Kaalo, John, Naimale and James Mitchell each contributed $6 toward the judicial expenses of the Kingdom by getting drunk. Sam was fined $6 for attempting to "put a head" on a wahine. Hana (w) charged with having opium in possession was convicted, sentenced to two months' hard labor, and fined $50. She is an old offender. Kanakaole charged with escaping from an officer while under arrest was fined $10 and costs and was sent up for a month's hard labor. Wong Tai Poon was discharged on a charge of nuisance and J. L. Scott on charge of assault and battery.

MANAGER'S NOTICE. All accounts overdue the SATURDAY PRESS are desired to be settled immediately. All unexpired subscriptions or advertisements will be completed by the Daily Honolulu Press. T. G. THURM, MANAGER SATURDAY PRESS.

Light on his airy crest his slender head, His body short, his limbs instantly spread; Muscle on muscle knots his brawny breast, No fear alarms him, no vain shouts molest. Yet his high shoulder, floating full and fair, Sweeps his thick mane and spreads his pomp of hair; Swift works his double jaw, and earth around Rings to his hoarse hoof that wars the ground—(Vigilant).

It does not require a great horse to discover great points of excellence in VENTURE. The ordinary citizen, upon beholding him, will be impressed immediately with his grand make-up, magnificent length, and elegant limb. If he is not the greatest horse that ever came to this country, he is surely one of the greatest, and as a turf performer, he towers far above them all as he does above a sucking colt in status.

A great deal of importance has lately been attached to the value of a horse that is being kept for stock purposes, whether he is standard or not, and the President of the National Association of Trotting Horse Breeders of America, strongly advises people not to purchase stallions that are not standard bred, and he also advises them to select one not only standard bred, but if possible one that is standard by his own performance, which is a public record of 2:30 or better, and even more than this by the performance of his get also. Now, if this rule is rigidly applied it would exclude all such great horses as Elctitioner and the sire of Maud S. and Jay Eye See, etc., for while they have become greatly renowned by the performance of their get, they never were turf performers themselves.

Now, we will see, for curiosity, how near VENTURE comes to possessing these three qualifications, namely: Breeding, performance and performance of his get.

As to breeding, he is the peer of any horse on earth, and I don't expect the great Hermit, who is the most popular stallion in England, and whose service fees in £500, he being the sire of three Derby winners.

As to his own performance, he needs the requirements, having a public record of 2:15 1/2—2:30 being the standard of admission.

His get are now just beginning to be appreciated in California, one of which (Vengance) won a good race quite lately in Sacramento, in straight heats, making a record of 2:34, and is said to be able to trot close to 2:30, when called upon to do so.

With these facts before us, VENTURE looms up as one of the greatest horses, not only in this but in any other country, and the day is past when people will breed anything but the very best; and while the death of two such great horses as Bowser and Banzel is greatly deplored by all true horsemen, still it is a great consolation that there is no good horse as VENTURE to fill their place.

VENTURE is an aged horse, but he is one year younger than Dictator, who was sold only last year in Kentucky for $25,000, on the strength of his being the sire of Jay Eye See. His stud fee is $200. He is also one year younger than Vengance (sire of St. Albans), whose fee is $200. All things taken into consideration, I cannot see why VENTURE is not as desirable a horse to breed from as any of them, or why he is not as worthy of the patronage of the public. Below I will give his pedigree, of which I invite a comparison with that of any other horse in the country.

Daily Honolulu Press.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1885.

PROSPECTUS.

Many maintain that the day of weekly newspapers is past in Honolulu; that the people want their news and food for thought fresh with their coffee every day; and that the people are willing to pay for what they want. At the very nominal figure established as the subscription price of Honolulu Dailies, fifty cents a month, it must be borne in mind that six or seven hundred, or even a thousand subscribers is but a mere bagatelle toward the expense of conducting a newspaper. Our advertising rates are not such as would satisfy our Pacific Coast contemporaries, or in fact any but these who labor for the love of it rather than for profit. This paper will not be run for glory, but will be conducted on a sound financial basis and value received will be given to its patrons in every case. We believe that the independent elements in the community will appreciate and properly support a daily morning paper that is outspoken and independent in its utterances.

The DAILY HONOLULU PRESS will be published every morning, Sunday's excepted, for the proprietors, Messrs. L. T. Valentine and Arthur Johnstone. Mr. Valentine will be the responsible business manager and Mr. Johnstone will be the responsible editor of the paper. It will be the aim of the management to make the HONOLULU PRESS a newspaper in every sense of the word. The paper will contain twenty-eight columns including a daily average of from six to eight columns of local news, editorial matter and short witty articles of general interest to the residents of the Hawaiian Islands. It will be made distinctively a family newspaper, and will endeavor to reach the interests of all classes of citizens without introducing the objectionable features of the newspapers of large cities.

The editorial department will be conducted in a candid, manly and impartial manner, and while political theories and public actions will be carefully probed, and, in many cases, severely criticized, the utterances of the paper will be jealously guarded and not allowed to degenerate into abuse or personal detraction. In the main, editorial articles will be short and always to the point; but in cases where the facts warrant and public opinion demands, fuller expositions of living issues will be given.

Our local department will contain everything of interest to the general readers of the islands and will include local notes from the other islands and general correspondence on local topics. This department will be made spicy and readable, and will, from time to time be interspersed with humorous local episodes. Full reports of all public events and social entertainments will be given and a just equivoque will be established among our various social elements for special news. The shipping department will be made full and correct and special arrangements will be made for weekly corrected lists of foreign shipping. Full shipping notes of our inter-island traffic will be given, and the interests and convenience of shippers will be carefully studied and provided for.

Our advertising department will be conducted on liberal business principles in such a manner that the ends of patrons may be reached by placing their wants and desires before a majority of the reading public. Promptness and correctness in this department will be assured. Arrangements have been made with the proprietors of the Saturday Press to carry out all unexpired advertising contracts and subscriptions, which will faithfully done. Collections will be made monthly and all bills against this paper will be paid monthly upon presentation to the business manager.

In conclusion, the chief aim of the HONOLULU PRESS will be to foster and protect Hawaiian interests while especial attention will be given to individual industries and plantation enterprises. We expect to merit the support of the community and respectfully ask the privilege of a fair trial.

A certain Profane owl who set up late o' nights, and kept a large collection of Straws for the purpose of ascertaining the Direction of the Wind, was asked by the Fox whether his Party could not gain Possession of the Public Treasury.

"Your Question," said the Profane Owl, winking his left Eye, "reminds me of the Horse who said that he could trot a Mile in a Minute if it were not that the Distance was too great for the Time. I see only one reason why you cannot succeed"

"What is that?" said the Fox.

"The other Party has too 'Tain many Votes," replied the Owl.

MORAL.—The Census should be taken after the Process of Incubation has been completed. A Fox who wagers 4 to 3 against a foregone conclusion is apt to lose his Friends' Money.
