LYCEUM EXPERIENCES.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton Tells About the Pleasures of Lecturing.

Fighting from Point to Point—Repacking the Platform Dress—A Midnight Lecture on the Miscellaneous—The Autograph Addiction.

Our American system of lyceum bureaus and lecturing has been truly remarkable, both for its thoroughness and stability. Having decided to enter that profession, you choose your bureau, which at once gets out a lithograph of you, collects all the puffs you have ever had, and puts both in a pamphlet, with others of the fraternity, which is sent broadcast through the land. Having secured a list of engagements the bureau writes out your appointments with exact directions how to go, dates, railroad time, etc., which are studied up with wonderful accuracy.

As you pay the bureau ten per cent of what you make it is in their interest to see that you speak every evening, if possible. To this end you travel tight and dry. Neither the bureau that employs you nor the committee that engages you have the slightest interest in your eating, sleeping or resting, so that you step on the platform at the appointed hour, fresh and smiling, charged with enough magnetism to hold the audience. You speak from one to two hours, shake hands with friends for half an hour, then hurry to your hotel, don your traveling attire, repack your platform dress, then chat with friends until it is time for the midnight train, and start for the next point, where you may arrive just in time for the evening performance.

You are not always sure of a sleeping car by any means. Oftentimes in waiting for a train at some cross road you may sit at a station until the small hours of morning, and then take the caboose on a freight train at last. Eight months of such fatigue, with all the social festivities, dinners, suppers, receptions and the extra speaking in schools, colleges, prisons, charitable institutions, and sometimes twice on Sundays, together make a severe strain on any ordinary constitution.

The Bureau used to say there were no more enduring, persevering lecturers than Anne E. Dickinson, Mary A. Livermore, Susan B. Anthony and myself; none that through the entire season so promptly fulfilled all engagements; none that braved the summer's heat, the winter's blasts, the spring and autumn floods with more heroic equanimity. Traveling from Maine to Texas for nearly twenty years, what trials and hardships, what varied, amusing experiences all of us could give!

I remember one cold winter night crossing the Mississippi to McGregor, in Iowa. Our boat, crowded with a whole train of railroad passengers, was blocked by ice midway, and there she stood for hours. The people, crowded and uncomfortable, stood aloof, tired, sleepy, hungry, cross, children crying, women complaining, men uttering ever and anon most emphatic expletives. In the midst of the general hubbub a delegation of gentlemen invited me to entertain the passengers with a speech on woman suffrage, as there were some southern gentlemen on board who desired to discuss the question with me. Always benevolently inclined to enlighten my countrymen on this subject, I readily consented. The boat was called to order, and there, at midnight, in the middle of the Mississippi, after I had fairly presented the question, we held a lively discussion.

It is said that there are no people so good-natured under trying circumstances as the Americans, and the experience of that night proved the truth of the assertion. Our condition was, indeed, exasperating; but there we all stood, laughing, talking, debating the fundamental principles of Republican government, with frozen feet and empty stomachs, for three mortal hours.

The children, one by one, had dropped to sleep; the women, in contemplating their civil and political grievances, forgot their surroundings; and the men, in viewing the faithful pictures of their tyranny and oppression, felt, no doubt, that a brief imprisonment in the bosom of the Great Father of Waters was no more than they deserved.

That was a winter of heavy snow storms in the west, and the railroads were oftentimes blocked. Having an engagement at Maquoketa, Iowa, I stopped at Lyons to take a northern road. Arriving at noon, I found there was no train running. "How far is it to Maquoketa?" I inquired. "Forty miles," said the landlady. "How long would it take to drive there across the country?" I asked. "Between seven and eight hours," he replied.

"How are the roads?" "Almost impassable," cried half a dozen men, listening to our conversation. "But accustomed to magnificent snow drifts in my young days I was not easily frightened. So I inquired if I could get a comfortable sleigh, a span of good horses and a brave driver.

"Oh, yes, madam," was the prompt reply; but you could not stand the fatigue of the journey, and it is bitter cold and the wind will go through you like needles. "I will risk myself if you can give me a fair outfit." "I can give you the best driver and horses in the State," said he, "and will try and make you comfortable, if you are determined to start, but I have my doubts about your getting there."

After a hasty dinner the sleigh was at the door, with a hot oak board for my feet; so, donning a fur sack and a net hood over my bonnet, I stepped into the sleigh, where I was enclosed in two large buffalo robes, the tails tied on either shoulder, effectually barring every entrance to the wind. I was so securely wedged in that moving, or winking even, seemed impracticable.

"There," said the landlady, giving the finishing touches, "if you will sit perfectly still you will come out at Maquoketa, if you ever get there, as warm as you start." The driver in front, well clad, cracked his whip and we were off. We had gone

HONOLULU WATER WORKS.

WATER RATES.—A list of delinquent water rate payers has been with the Department of the Attorney General for action.

After Sept. 15th action to compel payment will be taken not only by suit at law, but also shutting off water and advertising a list of delinquent water rate payers.

ROWING DISCORD.

Word comes from the "rural districts" of the renewed efforts of the Administration native paper to create party strife and distrust, if not hatred, of the foreigner.

Administration of Government is for the people, not for personal emoluments or aggrandisement, nor for an exercise of petty spite against any individual, class or party.

There are spots in this area where the liquid lava has raised up masses of gigantic blocks into a great mound, and make itself the rugged foundation of the ponderous pile.

THE SAN FRANCISCO PETITION.

We will defend the honor of the King and the good repute of Hawaii whenever either are wantonly or unjustly assailed.

The merchants of the Pacific Coast have mostly been our friends and they continue so. If they deem that the interests of Hawaii and San Francisco are reciprocal, it follows that mutual advice, whether it is given or received, comes as from friend to friend.

His Majesty is being wounded and made ridiculous by his seeming friends, and we assume that it is but right and just that his cause be protected by shielding it from their inconsistency and demagoguery.

The Crater of Haleakala.

With the first faint light of the new day the camp is astir, and the outlines of the rugged masses of lava scattered over the crater's floor, the grand slopes and curves of the picturesque cones, and the massive walls behind and opposite the camp—with huge buttresses on their sides and torn and riven boulders crowning their lofty heights—are brought more and more clearly into view as the approaching sun illumines the clear sky.

The loftiest peaks and ridges are of a warm purple tint that passes into brown and black shadows in the deep hollows. As the sun rises these shadows become luminous and the peaks are glorified by a crimson flush and glow while the sky beyond them changes from cold steel-blue to lovely azure.

Our first expedition this day is to the Pa Pua o ka Pele, (the "Pig Pen of Pele") where, in Hawaiian mythology, the fiery goddess Pele punished her pet porkers.

There are spots in this area where the liquid lava has raised up masses of gigantic blocks into a great mound, and make itself the rugged foundation of the ponderous pile.

velvety-black patches of lava-sand, on which grow "silver swords" and tufts of bunch grass.

At the further side of the basin is a chasm, through which—we are told—broke Pele's wild pigs and rushed out and down the great North Gap hotly pursued by the fierce goddess.

After a while we rode on, skirting the basin on one side, and visiting a mammoth cone we passed on our way to our camp. From the point where we all instinctively drew rein, the great hill—over seven hundred feet high—stands framed, as it were, by two massive monuments of basalt whose square outlines form a great gateway to the plains on which the cone stands.

The undulating surface of the black sand between the cones is swept by the winds that blow through the north gap, and the cinders and particles are arranged in bold curves and spirals.

The steep south wall of the crater shows where ancient flows of lava have broken down as the flood of liquid matter rushed out from underneath.

CORRESPONDENCE.

New Hebrides Area.

EDITOR HONOLULU PRESS, Sir: Noticing your reference to the "battle axes" of the New Hebrides, the thought occurred to me that it might be of interest to you and many of your readers to know more about these weapons.

To the Editor Honolulu Press.—Sir: For fear of being overtaken by an epidemic here, at some future, and perhaps not very distant day, in an article headed "Sanitary Affairs," in the P. C. Advertiser of September 15th, there is a very great effort made to screen the present Board of Health for its incompetency, and as that institution is run for the glory of its President, the master is not forgotten.

VENTURE.

This well-known Trotting Stallion is now standing at the corner of Punchbowl and Queen streets, and breeders, horsemen and stock-owners should take advantage of the opportunity to obtain his blood while they have the chance.

It does not require a great horseman to discover great points of excellence in VENTURE. The ordinary citizen, upon beholding him, will be impressed immediately with the opportunity to obtain his blood while they have the chance.

A great deal of importance has lately been attached to the value of a horse that is being kept for stock purposes, whether he is standard or not, and the President of the National Association of Trotting Horse Breeders to America strongly advises people not to purchase stallions that are not standard bred, and he also advises them to select one not only standard bred, but possible one that is standard bred by his own performance, which is a public record of 230, or better, and even more than this by the performance of his get also.

Now, we will see, for curiosity, how near VENTURE comes to possessing these three qualifications, namely: Breeding, performance and performance of his get.

As to breeding, he is the peer of any horse on earth, and I don't except the great Hermit, who is the most popular stallion in England, and whose service fee is £500, he being the sire of three Derby winners.

As to his own performance, he meets the requirements, having a public record of 217 1/2—270 being the standard of admission.

His get are now just beginning to be appreciated in California, one of which (Vengeance) won a good race quite lately in Sacramento, in straight heats, making a record of 2:14, and is said to be able to trot close to 2:00, when called upon to do so.

With these facts before us, VENTURE looms up as one of the greatest horses, not only in this but in any other country, and the day to pass when people will breed anything but the very best; and while the death of two such great horses at Howell and Bazaar, is greatly deplored by all true horsemen, still it is a great consolation that there is so good a horse as VENTURE to fill their place.

VENTURE is an aged horse, but he is one year younger than Dictator, who was sold on 7th last year in Kentucky for $25,000, on the strength of his being the sire of Jay Eye Two. His stud fee is $500. He is also ten years younger than Volunteer (sire of St. Julien), whose fee is $500. All things taken into consideration, I cannot see why VENTURE is not as desirable a horse to breed from as any of them, or why we is not as worthy of the patronage of the public. Below I will give his pedigree, of which I invite a comparison with that of any other horse in the country:

VENTURE, chestnut horse, 16 hands, foaled in 1864; sired by Belmont, he by American Boy, he by Sea Gull, he by Imp. Expedition.

1st dam, Miss Mouray, by American 2d dam, Miss Lady Mouray, by Ten 3d dam, Invincible, by Whisker 4th dam, Helen, by Hambletonian 5th dam, Susan, by Overton 6th dam, Dromedary, by Dromedary 7th dam, by Old England 8th dam, by Cates Arabians 9th dam, Miss Cates, by Cates 10th dam, Miss Madeline, by son of Greybe 11th dam, by Purline 12th dam, Miss Jones, dam by Woodcock 13th dam, by Crow's Bay Barb 14th dam, Desdemona, dam by Makinias 15th dam, by Brittoner 16th dam, by Dickey Pierson 17th dam, Burton Barb, Mare.

A horse and light wagon belonging to Mr. Freeth bolted yesterday morning from the corner of Hotel and Nuuanu streets down Hotel street.

The officials ought not allow obstructions on the sidewalks. A lot of stone has obstructed half of the sidewalk next to the old Olympic building on Nuuanu street for some time.

Yesterday afternoon, about half-past six o'clock, three Kanakas were driving along Hotel street in a brake.

They say that there is fun brewing in political circles; that the best way out of a Honolulu social scandal is not to get into one.

What dreams are thine, strange mortal from afar, While crooning thy sad Eastern lullaby To the low music of the Broadway car?

What is the spell that holds thee with its charm— The source in which thy melody takes birth? Oh, speak!—But some rude passer jogs my arm.

And brings me, far too swiftly, back to earth. Well, fare thee well! In vain I seek to pry Behind the veil which shrouds thy thought from us!

The riddle of thy mystic melody I leave to vex some wiser Edipus.

The telephone system of Honolulu is the lazy man's friend, the busy man's assistant, the lovers' appeal court over the stern parent, the hackman's boon, the reporters' delight, the creditor's excuse, the policeman's aid, the official's apology, the editor's reserve, the firemen's alarm, the public makeshift, and the stockholder's bank.

Yesterday morning about half past eight o'clock, a hackman ran over a Chinese fruit vendor's basket which the owner had left near the curb on Emma street while he had gone into a house to ask "what you wantee?"

Just previous to the departure of the Mariposa, Mr. F. L. Clarke was commissioned by two gentlemen of wealth and culture, returning to their homes in England, to procure and forward to them seeds, cuttings, and notes of all indigenous Hawaiian plants that, in his opinion, would be interesting or valuable to grow under glass in England.

The Band will give a moonlight concert at Emma Square this evening at half past seven. The following is the programme:

The fourth number of O Lupo Italiano appeared yesterday morning, giving full news from Portugal, Madeira and the Azores, a letter from a Portuguese working on Paia Plantation and over two columns of such local facts as are of interest to the Portuguese colony.

The Portuguese correspondent from Paia is logically concise in his description of the manner in which the workmen are treated on that plantation and reduces to very small proportions the right, if they had any, for the Japanese to complain: it must be very satisfactory to Mr. Wolsh, the manager, to see himself sustained by white laborers.

Among the local news, we note that the Portuguese in Honolulu are thinking of organizing a fire company, which would be a good sequel to the other project, announced in the late number of the Luso of forming a Portuguese band.

Something novel in the way of sports will take place here on the first of October next. Mr. James Steiner and Mr. Dan J. Lyons, Charlie McCarthy's handsome clerk, have laid a wager of $50 a side that each can beat the other wheeling a hand-barrow around the island of Oahu.

The race will start from in front of Charlie McCarthy's cigar store at six o'clock on the morning of October 1st. Mr. Steiner will go by way of King street and the Waialua road and Mr. Lyons will trundle his hand wagon by the Paia road.

Both gentlemen will carry their own provisions and an alarm clock to wake them up. The conditions are that each man shall have six hours rest out of every twenty-four hours, and it is understood that there is to be no soldiering on the route.

Arrangements have been made by the Press to report the time made at different points along the route and a diary of the trip will be published when the boys get back, if they are not arrested by the natives and sent to the Insane Asylum. Member Riddell, of the Post Obit Club declares he would not make the trip for $5,000—not a bit of it.

Kailiuanu paid $6 for the pleasure of getting drunk. Hookano (k), charged with assault and battery, was found guilty and fined $7 and $3 to costs.

George Patterson and Billy Moore were fined $5 and costs each for violating Express Rule No. 6. Mrs. Roe, remanded from the 15th inst. on a charge of assault and battery, was fined $7 and $3 to costs.

Ahoi, charged with having opium in possession, pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence until to-day. To A Chinese Laundryman.

What dreams are thine, strange mortal from afar, While crooning thy sad Eastern lullaby To the low music of the Broadway car?

And the street vendor's soul-inspiring cry? Don't thou in fancy sail the Hoang-Ho, Or tread once more its bank with slippers fleet? Rings in thine ears the tom-tom's note of war? As thou sit'st gazing at the dusty street?

Is it a vision of some moon-faced maid Who pines for thee at the antipodes, The sad remembrance of a heart betrayed, Which rings thy bosom to such strains as these? Or, while thy raptured vision seeks the sky, And with thy low, sad chant thy pulses thrill, Hast thou a haunting fear thy shirt won't dry, Or the "bad Mexican" dispute his bill?

What is the spell that holds thee with its charm— The source in which thy melody takes birth? Oh, speak!—But some rude passer jogs my arm.

And brings me, far too swiftly, back to earth. Well, fare thee well! In vain I seek to pry Behind the veil which shrouds thy thought from us!

The riddle of thy mystic melody I leave to vex some wiser Edipus.
