THE STEAMSHIP COMBINE.

There is a change for the worst in Honolulu's steamship service with the Coast which is due to the business intrigues of Claus Spreckels. The details appear elsewhere. From them the public will see that we are not longer to have the commercial aid of the big China liners on a competitive basis. The Pacific Mail and Oriental & Occidental Companies have been bought off, apparently with a portion of the money which this Government pays the Oceanic line as a subsidy. That gratuitous outlay from the public funds which was to have bettered communication with the Coast has, in fact, reduced by more than half the service that might be had without it and has bound the Hawaiian business and travelling public to the wheel of an imperious and unconscionable monopoly. Without the subsidy we should have the steamers of all three lines calling here to do their share of the local business. With it we get the vessels of one line and that one owned by the Spreckels family who are in opposition to the very Government that helps keep them in steamship funds. To be sure a few of the trans-Pacific ships will dock, but as they will take no freight and have put a prohibitive tariff on passengers, they might as well, except for the mail facilities they afford, stay away altogether.

Well, what are we going to do about it? The Spreckels-Southern Pacific combine is a strong one but it may, by the use of wisdom and firmness, be overcome. If the STAR had its wish in this matter it would defeat the monopoly by first cutting off the Spreckels' subsidy; second, by offering the money, or a still larger sum, to the China lines for the same kind of service or a better one than Spreckels has been willing to supply; third, if that should not work, to offer a bonus to the great Pacific Coast Steamship Company (Goodall, Perkins & Co., San Francisco, agents), to extend its service to these Islands; fourth, in the event of another failure, to arrange for an independent subsidized line through Traffic Manager Leeds of the big anti-monopoly organization of San Francisco and the coast. In one way or another we believe the Spreckels' coup can be beaten as so many of the king's schemes have been beaten before, from his banking project all the way down to his "Hawaiian republic" proposal and his grand assault-at-arms with a $95,000 due bill.

The people will be with the stalwart and fearless councilmen who will take this matter up and press it to a conclusion in line with the best interests of the Islands.

HAWAIIAN INDEPENDENCE OBSOLETE.

The independence of Hawaii is no longer a living question. No one advocates it. No one thinks of the continuance of an independent Government of Hawaii as a possibility. All parties equally recognize the necessity and force the inevitableness of a strong and efficient protection by the United States. President Cleveland and his Cabinet, Congress and the whole American people are at one on that point. The only alternative now before the authorities at Washington are a strong Protectorate or Annexation. They know perfectly, and Mr. Blount has unquestionably told them, that both foreign complications and internal difficulties forbid the possibility of stable government in Hawaii in any form except under a vigorous protectorate or territorial organization.

Nobody in Hawaii expects or wants independence. The deposed Queen and her adherents who profess so much confidence that Mr. Cleveland will restore her by means of an election, would shrink from restoration as from a yawning chasm, without they had the strongest guarantee that the monarchy would be maintained by the forces of the power that restored it. They know that it would not stand one day after that support was withdrawn. The supporters of the Provisional Government also would feel able to maintain themselves only at great labor and expense without the strong support of the United States. There would be constant apprehension of internal disturbance. The sense of confidence and stability would be lacking in the presence of these heterogeneous and discordant races which compose the people of Hawaii.

So we see that all parties alike would recoil in dismay from the idea that America would not give us at least a protectorate controlling both our internal and our external affairs. Monarchists and Annexationists are fully agreed about that. Neither party hopes for the continued independence of Hawaii. If America should refuse protection, we should be necessitated to seek it elsewhere. But we know that the American Government are fully alive to the necessity of sustaining and protecting the property and interests of Americans in Hawaii. They are also undoubtedly awake to the necessity of securing the commercial domination of the United States in the North Pacific.

The alternatives before the Hawaiian people are then reduced absolutely to these two only—a Protectorate, or Annexation. Which should be our choice, if we can have a choice? What must every man of sense, native or white, English, German or American, or even Canadian, plainly see to be for the interest and the honor of this country? On the one hand is admission to the honorable fellowship of the States and adoption into their great Union as an equal. On the other is subjection and servitude to the dictation and possible oppression of an alien power. Who can doubt which is best for us?

From opposing a change from Royalist to patriotic office holders, on the ground that such a movement would be "inexpedient" and "inopportune," and would result in a "clashing of interests," the morning harlequin now justifies the logic of removals by such a statement as this:

As far as the friends of the present Government are aware, the only men who are at present disregarding their oaths of allegiance and their official duties are those Royalists who have been retained in office on the weak promise that they would support the general welfare and political interests of Hawaii, as outlined by indignant citizens in last January, when the ex-Queen violated the constitutional law of the Islands.

What, hot fellow chameleons, where are we at?

ROYALIST organs have not, by innuendo or otherwise, guessed the name of the lady who has confirmed Mr. Lee's story of the ex-Queen's political intrigues. Therefore the insults which they heap upon the lady whom they suspect become as gratuitous as they are indecent. It is these same papers, by the way, which have denounced all reference to the illegal course of the late sovereign because of her sex. Their high sense of honor in that regard seems to have deserted them when it came to abusing inoffensive women in private life.

THE plebiscite dispatch, which a Royalist paper attributes to the Chronicle, was a copy of the Herald's Washington farrago and appeared with the usual credit to its source. The San Francisco paper was in no way committed by it. It reached the tall tower simply as an item of Herald gossip flitting along the wires. The "news" in the thing was not confirmed by the Chronicle's Washington correspondent, Mr. Bertrand not being the kind of man to be taken in by cock-and-bull stories.

A PAPER which called the ball banquet "a sumptuous and elaborate spread made up of the rarest delicacies to be had in the market," and told how "attentive waiters furnished what was desired from an elaborate and varied bill of fare," has no reason to reflect upon the committee of the whole which awarded the catering contract. But perhaps to-day's paper forgot what yesterday's had said—a common phenomenon in amateur journalism.

It is true enough, as a recent commentator says, that the Provisional Government was organized "to exist until terms of union with the United States of America have been negotiated and agreed upon." It is also true that the Government has no purpose to alter that program. If it can't get what it wants now it can wait for it.

It will be observed that "the largest taxpayer in the Hawaiian Islands" gets more than his money back from the Government in the form of a steamship subsidy. Like Joey Bagstock Claus in "Iv, devilish ay," but it must be acknowledged that he is usually found

PEARL CITY WATER.

Table Showing Analyses of Various Artesian Wells.

General Manager Dillingham of the Oahu Land and Railway Company is an enthusiast about the virtues of the water obtained from the company's well at Pearl City, and has recently had it thoroughly analyzed by Professor A. B. Lyons, the Government chemist. The following copy of the analysis, together with comparative table showing the characteristics of the water from ten other prominent sources of supply, has been furnished the STAR:

RESULT OF ANALYSIS OF WATER FROM ARTESIAN WELL AT PEARL CITY.

The water is quite transparent and clear, and free from any odor. It contains only the merest trace of free ammonia, with .06 parts in 1,000,000 of albumenoid ammonia; non-volatile mineral matter, dried at 220° F., 10.03 grains per wine gallon; chloride, 2.48 grains per wine gallon; hardness, 2.87 grains per wine gallon; and specific gravity, 1.0014.

A LITTLE GAME OF DRAW.

He Was a Novice, but He Had a Bit of Leadville Experience.

There was a little game of draw on the other night. Four friends sat around the table. One of them was a novice. He had never played a game of poker in his life, but he was not averse to paying for a little instruction, he said, and besides he had to have something to do whereby to while away what would otherwise be a very stupid night.

He asked all sorts of foolish questions and threw his chips in so recklessly that his three friends were sorry for him. It did seem to be a shame for him to lose so much money, but then he wanted to play, and it wasn't their fault if they held the better hands. Finally a jack pot came around, and the novice, who sat next to the opener, raised the ante to the limit. Some one else saw him and went him a chip or two better. Then the novice tilted her to the limit again, and after he had done so looked over his hand and asked, "What did you say a straight flush would beat?"

The other players gazed. One of them said that it would beat anything in the pack but a royal flush, and the three promptly threw up their hands. The novice smiled blandly as he raked in the big stack of chips. Then he threw his hand down on the table. It was a simple straight, and that was all.

"What did you say that was a straight flush for?" asked one of the others, who had laid down three sevens and a pair of jacks.

"Well," said the novice, "it is, isn't it? They're all red, and they run along in a sequence."

Then the three carefully explained that the cards had to be all of one suit to be a flush, and after much questioning the novice seemed to understand.

The game went along for a time. Hands ran low, and not many chips changed owners. About 11 o'clock there was another jack pot. The novice raised the opener to the limit again, and the next man, who had four, came back at him with another big raise. The other players staid, and the novice raised back. This made a pot with considerably over $100 in it. Everybody staid on the last raise, and the dealer said, "Cards, gentlemen," in a subdued sort of voice.

"Hold on!" blurted the novice, "I want to ask another question. I'm a little mixed on this straight flush business. If I've got five cards of the same suit and they form a sequence, I've got a straight flush, have I not?"

The other players remembered the former jack pot and winked at each other. They hastened to assure the novice that his supposition was correct, and the man with four followed the opener's chip bet with a raise to the limit. The bright smile that came over the novice's face when he learned what a straight flush was had not faded. He was actually anxious to get his chips into the center of the table. He raised back to the limit.

"That's a good bluff," said the man with four, and he tilted back.

The two others who had been trailing with fairly good hands all the time dropped out, and the novice and the man with four bet until there was nearly $500 on the table. Then the man with four grew compassionate and said to the novice, "Now, I don't want to make the learning of this game too expensive for you. Your little bluff went once, but it won't go this time, so I'll just call you."

Then the novice laid down a straight flush in clubs, running from seven to jack, and the man with four fell back in his seat in a helpless condition. When he recovered, he said slowly, "I'll quit this game. Such a doblanned fool as I am, I couldn't learn to play poker in 10,000 years."

"I don't doubt that," replied the novice as he cashed in his chips. "They used to tell me the same thing when I was in Leadville."—Buffalo Express.

A Relative of Napoleon.

An old friend of the Princess Murat contributes a reminiscence article regarding the life of the prince and princess in Florida. She mentions the following incident which occurred in 1860, when Mrs. Murat, having suddenly become ill with symptoms resembling those of paralysis, a voyage to Europe was prescribed by her physicians.

She was received by her husband's relatives (Louis Napoleon and his family) with an affectionate welcome. She related many incidents of the southern Confederacy to the emperor and empress, together with the sacrifices and privations the south was called upon to bear. The princess asked the emperor, if he felt so much for the south, why he had not helped the Confederacy.

His reply was: "Cousin Kate, you all had my warmest sympathy and hopes for your success, but on account of slavery I did not dare to send an army to your assistance. Had I done so, I should have had a mob in Paris."

Mrs. Murat spoke of the empress as a person of lovely character, being constantly employed in deeds of benevolence, even visiting the hospitals. The prince imperial she spoke of with much affection, he being then a most interesting youth.—Century.

Then He Went.

He had been visiting her for months, but had never told her, and she didn't want him to. He had come often and staid late, very late, and she could only sigh and hope. He was going away the next day on his vacation, and he thought the last night was the time to spring the momentous question. He kept it to himself, however, until the last thing. It was 11:30 by the clock, and it wasn't a very rapid clock. "Miss Mollie," he said tremulously, "I am going away tomorrow." "Are you?" she said, with the thoughtlessness of girlhood as she gazed wistfully at the clock. "Yes," he replied. "Are you sorry?" "Yes, very sorry," she murmured. "I thought you might go away this evening," then she gazed at the clock wistfully, and he told her good night.—Detroit Tribune.

Steaming on the Missouri.

As the railroads of the present day contest for supremacy in speed and good service, so did the steamboats of 30 and 40 years ago struggle for position in the public eye. The point in contest was always that of speed. In those days trade on the Missouri was prosperous. At least 100 boats ascended the stream every season before July, many of them going as far as Fort Benton, in Montana. A boat that made this trip and returned to St. Louis in two months without a profit of $75,000 did a poor business. Those were the days when freight was freight. No competing vessel cut the rates. The boats ran independently, and when one captain fixed the tariff there was no other boat to be found that would offer cheaper transportation.—Detroit Free Press.

Legacies to an English Orator.

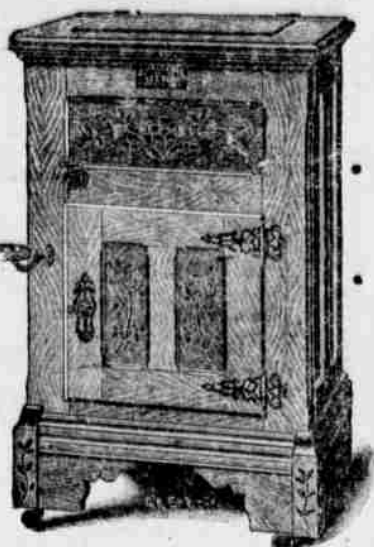

Perhaps the most fortunate politician who ever lived in the matter of legacies was William Pitt, earl of Chatham. In consideration of his services to the country, the Duchess of Marlborough left him a legacy of £10,000. Some years afterward Sir William Pymont died, leaving the great orator a legacy of £3,000 a year. This fortune was quite unexpected, and Pitt never saw his benefactor in his life.—London Tit-Bits.

A Gift That May Be Acquired.

Any woman who wishes to be a social success should cultivate the gift of remembering faces and names. A little attention at the time, a little care to fix an individual by name and feature in the memory, will bring its sevenfold reward. While some lucky people possess the faculty naturally, and others are woefully deficient in this respect, still it can be cultivated, so that study will supply the lack of memory, and the social aspirant may "assume a virtue though she have it not."—New York Tribune.

WHY

NEWSPAPER IS A NECESSITY to every person in the community—man, woman or child—who is able to read and who desires to keep in touch with the spirit of this progressive age and wishes to be posted as to events of interest which are continually happening at home and abroad, on land and sea."

The STAR is a new paper and has introduced Californian methods of journalism into Hawaii, where, before its advent, the Massachusetts newspaper traditions of 1824 held sway. It has three prime objects:

To support the cause of Annexation of Hawaii to the United States and assist all other movements, political, social or religious, which are of benefit to these Islands and their people.

To print all the news of its parish without fear or favor, telling what goes on with freshness and accuracy, suppressing nothing which the public has the right to know.

To make itself indispensable to the family circle
by a wise selection of miscellaneous reading matter.

As a commentator the STAR has never been accused of unworthy motives.

As a reporter the STAR has left no field of local interest ungleaned.

As a friend of good government the STAR has been instant in service and quick to reach results.

As an advertising medium the STAR, from the week of its birth, has been able to reach the best classes of people on all the Islands.

A Pin de Sicle Bride.

Wedding presents are becoming more and more of a tax and are looked upon in these fin de siècle days as just so many commercial assets by bride and bridegroom alike, who are not so much in love but that they can reckon up the probable cost of each gift pretty accurately.

"I want something pretty, but not too costly, as a wedding gift," said a well-known woman of society to one of the head men at —.

"Is it for Miss B., may I ask?" said the jeweler, "for in that case I think I can suit you exactly." And he produced a list written at length and in the bride's own fair writing with everything she wanted in the way of silver distinctly described, from the soup tureen to salt spoons. It left her friends a wide margin of choice from the most expensive present to a simple token of remembrance.

"Would you like to see the presents already selected?" continued the shopman, and leading the way into the adjoining apartment he pointed to several shelves completely covered with the glittering array. "Those are all Miss B.'s presents," he explained. "She seems quite satisfied with them so far and comes every few days to look them over to see what is added."

New York Tribune.

Starch as an Enemy of the Artist.

An artist in New York city inveighs bitterly against starch as one of the curses of this nineteenth century. "Not only does it make our clothes unpleasant to wear, but it makes them hideous to look at," bringing out a copy of a Tanagra figurine, he continued: "Now, look at the beauty and simple dignity of that toga and contrast it with the dress of the modern man. That was soft and yielding, the modern shirt, collar, cuffs, hats, shoes, corsets, even the women's gowns, are hard and unbending. The effect of antique dress was grace, the effect of our dress is that of stiffness and discomfort. It is more than an effect—it is a fact. Nobody could be easy or look thoroughly well in our clothes. We want to organize a reform movement against starch."

Use a Straw For Cold Drinks.

"I see," said a prominent doctor yesterday, "that lovers of soda water and cold drinks have at last found a way to partially overcome the deleterious effects of such things being suddenly taken into the stomach on a warm day. They are using straws to drink soda water, and it is a good thing. An overdrinking person rushing up to a soda water fountain and gulping down the frigid concoction that they serve there cannot imagine the harm he is doing to his system. The straw method is a much slower one, and the liquid gets heated up to nearer the temperature of the stomach before it gets there and so does less harm."

Pittsburg Dispatch.

High Ideas in the East.

The Japanese had a high ideal, and the noble words are in their books that "the first duty of the parent is to instruct the child in the way" and "the most efficient teaching is by example." Yet the burden of the teaching was that children owed everything to their parents. And this obedience lasted for life.—"Ethics of Confucius."

The G. A. R. Encampment.

The programme for encampment week at Indianapolis, Ind., which is a national encampment, too many things to crowd into one performance, but the managers intend to show all they advertise. On Monday evening the city will be illuminated by electricity and natural gas. Hundreds of campfires will be lighted in the fields outside the limits, and 200 army bands will respond to the welcome. On Tuesday the Grand Army parade will take place, and it is promised that it shall exceed all other parades in the number of old soldiers marching in the ranks. There is to be a cavalcade of 2,000 horsemen, the largest body of mounted soldiers mustered since the war. The business meeting of the encampment opens on Wednesday at Tomlinson hall, and on that day and the day following, also in the evening of both days, there will be a series of reunions and receptions with over 100,000 visitors to enliven the jubilee.

One of the most striking features of the encampment exhibition will be an elaborate display of natural gas. Indianapolis is supplied by natural gas, brought in several 10 inch pipe lines from the gasfields, about 25 miles distant. The abundance of the supply will enable a display to be made probably unequalled in the history of the gasfield development. A prominent part of this exhibition will be a reproduction of a lighted gas well, one of the grandest night displays it is possible to make. They call it a "gusher," and on that occasion they intend to "let it gush."

The visiting veterans who remember Indianapolis as it was during the war will find that a metropolitan city has replaced the modest country town, named a city by legal courtesy.

He Had Seen the Scarecrow.

One Somerville young man who was spending a fortnight in the country lost all chance of making a favorable impression on the farmer's pretty daughter the very first day he came. Her father came by the front of the house, where the young man was trying to make himself agreeable, and the girl introduced him, saying: "This is my father, Mr. Smythe."

"Oh, yes," responded the young man, turning toward the old man, and slowly holding out his hand. "I saw you standing over in the cornfield a little while ago, when I came up the road."—Somerville Journal.

Rebuke of a Paris.

"The unpunctured female in Massachusetts," says the Boston Herald, "finds Massachusetts a better place to live in than any other part of the country." Did you intend your remark to apply to female cats and chickens and oysters and other such creatures, contemporary or only to "females" of the human species? And if you meant to speak of women, why not call them women!—Charleston News and Courier.

A Fine Arrangement.

First Nurse Girl—Seems to me y'r puttin on a heap o' style drivin in the park with a moneygrammed kerriage, and coachman and footmen too. Does y'r missus lend ye her private rig?
Second Nurse Girl—She sends me to take her pet dog out for an airin'.
"But where's the dog?"
"Under th' seat."—New York Weekly.

An Unkind Inference.

"I asked her which she would prefer to have me do," said the conceited man, "sing to her or talk to her."
"And she said 'talk,' of course."
"No," she said "sing!"
"Oh—I say, now—that was an injustice!"
"What do you mean?"
"Why, you aren't such a bad conversationalist as all that."—Washington Star.

A female codfish will lay 45,000,000 eggs during a single season. Piscatorial authorities say that were it not for the work of the natural enemies of fish they would soon fill all the available space in the seas, rivers and oceans.

Wampole's Tasteless Preparation

OF Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchia troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.

THE HAND OF SPRECKELS

APPEARS IN A STEAMSHIP COMPACT

By Which Honolulu is Practically Left at the Mercy of the Oceanic Line.

Claus Spreckels has been getting in monopolistic work on the Occidental and Oriental and Pacific Mail lines in a way that must have cost him a pretty penny.

When the big vessels commenced to dock here after the dredger made a way for them, the people of Honolulu began to give them passengers and freight. This threatened the Spreckels interests and the ex-Sugar King cast about for a remedy. He found one in the willingness of the China steamship lines to accept a subsidy from him in return for a prohibitive tariff on their part towards Honolulu business. It now costs $25 more to go to San Francisco in the cabin of one of the big liners than it does on a Spreckels steamer, and $5 more for storage passage. The same rate applies on the route this way.

As the case stands the Provisional Government, with its monthly subsidy to the Oceanic line, and the Pacific Mail and O. & O.—Southern Pacific properties—with their new bargain, have put the traveling and freighting interests of Hawaii at Claus Spreckels' mercy. What the effect would be on the pool to cut off the subsidy and offer it to the Southern Pacific for a better service is a matter which may bear investigation. Certainly if anything can be done to induce competition in place of combination the public will be the better for it.

In connection with the foregoing a STAR representative called at the office of Hackfeld & Co., agents of the Pacific Mail and Oriental & Occidental steamship lines and inquired what the passenger rates were to-day. He was informed that they were $100 for the cabin and $30 for the steerage. In reply to a question why they had been raised he was told that it was in accordance with orders received from headquarters and beyond that nothing was known. The reporter then asked as to freight rates, and was informed that no freight was being accepted on any terms.

At the office of Wm. G. Irwin & Co. the reporter was informed that no change in the Oceanic line's rates had occurred, either for freight or passengers, and that nothing was known as to future changes.

At the office of Theo. H. Davies & Co., agents of the Vancouver line of steamers, the reporter was informed that that firm were still taking passengers and freight at the old rates. Whether any change would be made in the near future or whether the new line was in with Spreckels or opposed to him could not be ascertained, as the agents had received no orders, and in fact knew nothing of the raise in rates. As a prominent member of the firm remarked, "this is the first intimation we have had of a raise in rates, and ours will not be changed until we receive orders from headquarters."

WILL TALK OVER THE CABLE.

A Canadian Cabinet Minister's Mission in the Colonies.

Before leaving Victoria, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who is now en route to Australia, spoke as follows about cable matters:

"When I get to Australia I will talk over with the Governments there all matters affecting the trade between the two countries, to ascertain their views and give expression to ours. As to any particular proposition, I have none to make; I will simply do what I can to carry out the general policy of the Government, which is to open up trade in every direction possible.

"The cable project will, of course, obtain a large share of attention. Sandford Fleming, C.M.G., who, perhaps, has done more than any other man to promote this enterprise, will accompany me—he is at Vancouver and will come over on the vessel to-morrow—and I hope we will be able to make some definite arrangement. The Dominion Government quite concurs in the idea that to make this cable a success it should run through territory exclusively British, and it is a matter for regret that the recent complication about the connection with French territory has arisen. We quite realize that if the United States obtain possession of Honolulu by annexation or otherwise, it may be impossible to have a line from there run to any other point than San Francisco, in America, but such an occurrence would not be our project, as we would simply have to make our first connection at the Fanning Islands. Of course, to have the cable touch at Honolulu would add much to its value."

CIRCUIT COURT NOTES.

The Case of Brown vs. the Government Goes to the Supreme Court.

The assignees account and petition for discharge in the bankruptcy case of Ah Yet comes up for hearing on Friday. The assignee case of Allen & Robinson vs. G. W. Lincoln and W. C. Peacock, garnishee, will be tried before Judge Whiting on Friday.

The examination of the administrator's final account in the estate of H. N. Jones is set for October 4th, and in the estate of C. W. Hart for October 6th.

In the equity case of Wong Chan vs. Young Ahol, alias Ah Young, and Ah Wai, a bill to declare a trust, Judge Cooper has rendered a decision for plaintiff and has signed a decree commanding the defendants to transfer or convey the lease in question to the plaintiff. J. A. Magoon for plaintiff and W. R. Castle for the defendants. J. M. Poepe, attorney for Aganek Lino, widow of Lino Petero, has filed a petition asking that Kapihola, the grandfather of the minor children, be appointed their guardian.

In the case of C. A. Brown vs. The Hawaiian Government a suit to recover $998.25 for salary as assessor and collector of taxes for the First District of Oahu from the 17th of October 1892 to February 28, 1893, an agreed statement of facts has been filed and the question of law involved reserved for the decision of the Supreme Court.

In the matter of the estate of A. Akahi, on petition to revoke the probate of the will plaintiff has filed a motion asking that the defendants be required to elect on which ground of defense they are willing to abide by. The motion to be heard on October 16th at 10 A. M.

SKIPPED ON THE OCEANIC

LEAVING NUMEROUS CREDITORS BEHIND.

Charles Howard Leaves Honolulu Merchants in the Lurch to the Tune of About $2000.

Some three months since a young man who gave the name of Charles Howard arrived from the Coast and shortly afterwards rented a nice little cottage on Beretania street. He was accompanied by a rather prepossessing blond, who made herself somewhat conspicuous by the loudness of her attire. She showed her German origin plainly, but it was not known until recently that Charles Howard was a German and that his real name was Franz von Berg. In fitting up their newly rented cottage the couple spared no expense, and bought everything they could think of, either useful or ornamental, when they could get credit. The young man represented himself as being quite wealthy, and even asked his grocer, Lewis & Co., to cash a little $12,000 check for him. The firm declined, and having its suspicions aroused, forced a settlement of their bill, amounting to about $50, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Von Berg, or Howard, left on the Oceanic yesterday, the lady purchasing the tickets and procuring the passports, on the plea that her husband was an invalid. Numerous creditors now mourn their losses, among their number being H. F. Wichman, $250; C. E. Williams, $40 cash loaned and a big bill for furniture, Orday & Porter, a large amount for furniture, Lewis & Co., $13 for groceries furnished this week, and numerous others, the total being about $2000. Mrs. Heine of the Fort street House holds a bill of sale on the furniture for $80 due her.

To Consul Glade Howard is said to have represented himself as an ex-officer in the Austrian army, and gave his name as Von Berg.

After the Ball.

The Executive Committee of the Annexation Club met this afternoon and audited the bills incurred for the big ball. Most of the chairmen of sub-committees reported that their expenditures had fallen below their estimates. A comfortable balance will remain in the treasurer's hands.

Electricity at the Boston Ball.

The brilliancy of the lighting for the Boston ball was the subject of much favorable comment, and credit is due to Captain T. W. Pratt, who had this matter in charge.

The Hawaiian Electric Company spared no pains to carry special heavy conductors from their station to the Executive building and made arrangements with their customers in order to secure necessary margin of power.

E. O. Hall & Son furnished new lamps for the occasion.

Will Read the "Star."

When the cruiser Boston arrives in San Francisco its officers will find awaiting them, in the hands of Pay Director Lyon, a big bundle of yesterday's STAR, containing an account of the parting ball. The last injunction of the officers to this journal was to "write the thing up for heaven's sake, in a way to do it justice." And that's what was done.

The Anonymous at Work.

Hon. A. E. Judd requests the STAR to say that the anonymous individual who is constantly sending him clippings from the Bulletin underscored may save himself further trouble by the assurance that the Bulletin is sent regularly to his house.

Wants Another Ball.

A correspondent of the STAR, who believes in taking time by the forelock, writes us that a big State ball ought to be given at the Executive building on the 17th of January. All in favor of that will signify it by saying aye.

A Deserter Captured.

Officer Tuma captured a deserter from the Boston on Monday night and brought him on board in time to get the ten-dollar reward. The man had been missing since Friday and the officer finally found him under the bed in a Japanese servants' room connected with a prominent residence in town.

HAS NO PLEA TO MAKE.

SO THE COURT ENTERS ONE FOR HIM.

Incidents of the Trial of J. P. Bowen on a Charge of Larceny in the Fourth Degree.

The trial of J. P. Bowen upon a charge of larceny preferred against him by James Dodd came off yesterday and occupied nearly the whole day. It will be remembered that when he was first arraigned on the charge the defendant and his attorney walked out of Court, and that the former walked back again after being arrested under a bench warrant. When the charge was read to him yesterday and he was asked what his plea was he answered, "I haven't any plea to make." The Court then entered a plea of not guilty and ordered the trial to proceed. The charge is for the larceny of three screen doors worth about six bits apiece.

H. A. Widemann testified that he owned the Pantheon Saloon premises in fee simple and had leased them to James Dodd in 1882.

James Dodd testified that he knew the screen doors produced in Court. They belonged to the saloon and he had them built for it ten or eleven years ago. The doors were made while he was a tenant and were inserted into the building and made a part of it. Widemann owns the doors as part of the building. Left the premises in 1886 and came back into possession on June 4, 1893. The doors were in the same position. "To remedy defects in the sanitary arrangements and by Macfarlane's persuasion I had the doors removed and put in the stable yard. Bowen was there at the time. Macfarlane objected to having them left there and I had them put up in the loft. The loft was in my possession under the lease. Missed the doors about two weeks ago when I wanted to put them up again. Next saw them in the Police Station. They are worth about five dollars. Had a dispute with defendant about some of the fixtures and he took some things I claimed. He never claimed the doors."

J. C. Cluney testified that he was Bowen's partner in the billiard saloon and restaurant for three years. Recognized the doors as belonging to the closet in the billiard room. "We never claimed them as our property." B. F. White, another partner of Bowen's, testified to the same effect. Simeona, who owns a handcart, testified that Bowen brought out the doors in the evening of about the 1st day of August and put them on his cart and went with him to his new place of business, where the doors were put up. Bowen stayed while he went for a new load, and when he returned the doors were gone. Toid Ashford on the stairs that I took them under Bowen's orders.

James Hunt testified that he remembered the doors being put up long before Bowen came into the premises. Captain Langley testified that he had made the arrest and had been shown where the doors were by the defendant. J. W. Young testified that he had taken down the doors by Dodd's order. Bowen was there and made no objection.

The prosecution put on several other witnesses in corroboration of the above and rested.

The defense moved for a discharge on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to convict. Motion denied.

For the defense—E. P. Ryan testified that he assisted in the removal of the things and that the screen doors in Court were not the same as those moved from the building, and also detailed conversations with Simeona, Kenney and Ashford.

Halekaka testified that he took the doors and put them on the cart. Bowen was not there at the time.

J. P. Bowen was then put on the stand and gave a mass of testimony about his connection with the saloon, winding up with the acknowledgment that he took the doors, as he believed they were his property under the lease. In rebuttal, C. M. White, Roach, B. T. White, D. H. Davis, T. E. Krouse and J. C. Cluney were put on the stand and testified that the defendant's reputation for truth and veracity in this community was decidedly bad, some of them swearing that they would not believe him under oath.

The case was then continued to this afternoon for argument. W. A. Kinney is assisting the prosecution, and C. W. Ashford appears for the defense.

OVERCOME BY ENTHUSIASM.

Four Men in a Boat, to Say Nothing of the Jag.

"The paths of glory lead but to the grave," but when the traveler by that route enlivens the way with frequent applications of "square face," the path somehow gets mixed and seems to lead but to the lockup. At least that was the experience of boatman No. 3 yesterday, after he had fatigued himself in seeing the B-ston off.

Licensed boatman No. 3 has charge of a small white yacht, the property of T. W. Hobron, and yesterday, seeing that business at the boat landing was slack, he invited several friends, among them a hack-driver, to help him bid aloha to the white cruiser. To even things up he agreed to do the fair thing in assisting to consume large quantities of the rosy.

There were four in the party, representing as many nationalities, and the embryo jags taken along were yet more numerous. The little yacht skimmed around among the crowd of small craft in the bay, the party, by close attention to business, managing to raise their enthusiasm several notches with each successive tack, until the departing ship was fairly under way, when they reached the stage where silence became impossible. Then they cheered and shouted at the Boston and the tug, and between times gave three cheers to each row boat that succeeded in getting out of their way, until, just as they were in the act of giving three cheers to a coal barge, a sudden puff of wind caught the main sail, and the man holding the sheet ropes being too busy to slack off, the boat capsized.

This was just astern of the bark Detroit and near the schooner Alice Cooke, and Captain Penhallow of the latter vessel sent out a boat and saved the shipwrecked mariners from a watery grave and, what was of much more importance, brought the little yacht back to the dock, where she was made fast. The guests of the doughty sailorman wended their way up town in meditation and wet clothes, and boatman No. 3 was laid out on the Detroit's gang plank to dry, from which peaceful and well-earned repose he was rudely awakened to the sorrows and cares of this life by large policeman, who unceremoniously yanked him into a hack and furnished him with free transportation to the lock-up.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

There will be no ball bills unprovided for.

So sorry that the Holomua didn't like the ball.

The public reception of yesterday's STAR was enthusiastic.

Fred Fisher was fined $5 and costs this morning for being drunk.

The British Minister sent his "regrets" instead of attending the ball.

There has been plenty of rain of late in the Nuuanu valley this side of the reservoir.

Two horses lost their lives at the volcano last week by falling into steam crevices.

Sam Parker's creditors meet to-day at 3 P. M. at the room of the Chamber of Commerce.

The ball committee are in session this afternoon at the rooms of the Annexation Club.

There was a tropical cloudburst in the Nuuanu valley last night, the rain falling like a brick house.

Mr. Grace has put up a handsome target near the Honolulu dairy for the use of his sharpshooting friends.

The case of Kaawaloa, charged with selling liquor without a license, has been set for trial on October 2.

The Oceanic brought 116 Chinese for this port. Two were refused a landing and went on to San Francisco.

Most people put in a few extra hours of sleep last night. Evening calls were not popular in annexation circles.

The Annexation Club Executive Committee are now holding weekly meetings at their quarters in the Finschi block.

On the outward trip of the S. S. Oceanic, August 8th, the vessel was caught between a simoon and a typhoon and had a disagreeable time of it.

The STAR acknowledges the receipt, from Mr. Jocelyn, the new manager of the Palace Ice Cream and Confectionery Parlors, of a box of fresh and toothsome candies.

The steward of the Warrimoo is reported to have seen some of the stolen Skerrett jewelry on the person of a man who took passage to British Columbia.

The funeral of Mrs. Virginia Kahoa Kuahuamano Tolman, who died last night, takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of F. S. Pratt on Punchbowl street.

It is not often one sees a wagon load of oranges unloaded at a drug-store but such was the case at Hobron & Newman's this morning. The oranges came from Kona by the Mikahala and are for use in the soda fountain.

The time of the District Court has been taken up to-day with the trial of six Chinese, charged with assaulting an informer. The evidence for the prosecution is all in, and a motion to discharge was denied. The case is still going on.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

The Tramways Company Must Pay Stamp Duties.

In the case of the Hawaiian Tramways Company against the Minister of Finance the Supreme Court has decided that the car licenses in question are not exempted from stamp duty by any law of this country, and "decide" and adjudge that the annual licenses of the passenger cars of the Hawaiian Tramways Company are assessable with the stamp duty, in accordance with the provisions of chapter CIII, laws of 1892." The decision is written by Chief Justice Judd and is unanimous.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

HAWAIIAN AND BRITISH BARKS ARRIVE.

The Adams' Men Ashore—The Dredger Laid Off—A Native Runs Amuck—An Injured Boy.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning the British bark County of Merioneth was sighted from Diamond Head, and before 8 o'clock Captain Rice had towed her to a berth at the Pacific Mail dock. The County of Merioneth, Captain Parry, is fifty-one days out from Newcastle, and has a cargo of 1611 tons of coal, consigned to the Inter-Island Steamship Company.

The Planter is discharging her cargo of merchandise at Brewer's wharf, where the steel vault work for the new safe deposit business was taken from the hold this morning. Mr. Hobron was on hand to witness the landing of the hardware at such an early hour that many who met him there were under the impression that he had been there all night.

At 8 o'clock this morning the Hawaiian bark Mauna Ala, Captain Smith, was sighted at Koko Head, and was docked at the old custom house wharf at noon. The bark brings a full cargo of hay and grain consigned to the California Feed Company. The passage took twenty-one days, during which time nothing of importance occurred.

Yesterday afternoon, in honor of the Boston's departure, Joku, the pet monkey of the Oceanic, was decked out in a suit of half-and-half—external—blue on one side and red on the other, and executed a dance on the steamer's awning that would have made a professional high kicker green with envy.

Last Saturday night, a native known as Friedberg, after priming himself with liquid courage, ran amuck on the wharf where Captain Fagueros was on duty. There was a lively little mill of the give-and-take description which ended disastrously for Friedberg, as he was locked up.

The dredger stopped active work Saturday, when the shore pipes were disconnected and the pontoons lashed together. This morning the tug took the dredger and pipes to the lower end of the Mail dock, where it is expected they will remain during the next two months.

The boy who was run down yesterday by the four drunken men in the soap seems to have mysteriously disappeared, as no one could be found this morning who had seen him since the accident. It is said he received a very ugly scalp wound.

The four-mastered schooner American, lying off the harbor entrance, at present flying a consular Hawaiian flag, will probably receive her papers of registration this afternoon, and sail to-morrow.

The steamship Miowera advertised to arrive here on Monday, Oct. 2, will, it is said, not call at Brisbane this trip, and consequently will arrive here Sunday.

This morning the men of the Adams indulged in another battalion drill near the mail dock. The same officers conducted the drill as did the last time.

The repairs to the Pacific Mail dock are nearly completed and a new plank floor is being laid.

The steamer Aikoku Maru sails for Yokohama on Monday, October 2nd.

The steamship Oceanic sailed yesterday afternoon at 4:30 for the Coast.

The steamship Alameda will be due to-morrow from the Coast.

The steamer Mikahala arrived yesterday afternoon.

Robert Louis Stevenson will give an informal talk to the Thistle Club at its quarters on Merchant street this evening.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Lucca Della Robbia was the inventor of a method of hardening terra cotta, the secret of which died with him. His famous groups were all executed in terra cotta, which he made as hard as stone.

Adelina Patti is coming over for another "farewell tour of America." She has arranged to sail October 28th on the Lucania. She has undertaken to appear at forty concerts, for which, it is said she is to receive to sum of £40,000. Her first appearance will be on November 9th in New York.

At last an easy employment has been found for women which men ungraciously argue is altogether feminine and natural as well as remunerative. The new vocation comes from China, where half a crown an hour is paid to elderly ladies who visit the houses of the affluent and detail choice bits of scandal. They have a special insignia of office and are heralded by the beating of a drum.

A memorial bearing over 103,000 signatures of Irish women of all classes has been sent to the Queen. The memorialists express their sorrow at the possibility of the severance of Ireland from the Government of Great Britain by the establishment of a separate Parliament, and express the belief that the Home Rule bill, if passed into law, would endanger the true liberties of the Irish people, and prove oppressive and unjust to her Majesty's loyal subjects in that country.

Mlle. Jeanne Chauvin, the first French dress of law, has held since January 1 last the post of professor of law in the girls' colleges of Paris. By a special order of M. Gréard, vice-rector of the Academy of Paris, professors are prohibited from placing in the hands of their pupils copies of the code itself, so that the young neophytes whom Mlle. Chauvin initiates into the civil and criminal code have only their teacher's oral lessons to go upon.

The wife and little daughter of M. Paul Bonnetain, the French explorer, journeyed with him to Senegal and as far as the Niger on his recent trip. The youthful travelers intend to spend the summer in Algeria, and both husband and wife will set to work on a book. Mme. Bonnetain's account of her travels—"Une Parisienne au Soudan"—promises to be an interesting story of a decidedly unconventional and daring expedition.

Brought the Court to Time.

Magistrate Ladner was seated in state behind the tall railing in his Calumet street office, his dignified clerk at one elbow, his dreaded constable at the other, when a well-dressed man entered, mounted the step below the railing, leaned over, crept, and observed: "Judge, I wish you'd commit me to the House of Correction."

"Too late," answered his Honor curtly. "Drop around to-morrow morning."

The magistrate was thus brief because the request was no new one. Scores of tramps apply to the police justices for lodging and board on the Pennypack. But Ladner's visitor was not to be discouraged.

"My name, Judge, said he, 'is Silas Elkinton; I live at 252 Gratz street. I've been drinking too much and eating too little. I'm all broken up and haven't a cent. Won't you give me a chance to brace up?"

"You can have it to-morrow," was the reply. "The b at has gone up the river, and I don't commit in the afternoon to suit the convenience of any man that wants to go to jail."

"I'm desperate," rejoined Elkinton. "If you don't commit me now I'll smash somebody's window; then you'll have to do it."

"Go ahead," said Ladner, for the man did not look a person to carry out the threat.

"You won't commit me?"

"No."

Smash! Silas Elkinton's fist went through Magistrate Ladner's door pane—price $1.75—right under the awful constable's very nose.

"Now," said the visitor, "I'll bet you'll commit me."

"You've thrown me," the Magistrate rejoined, red-hot. "I'll commit you for a year."

"You are more than kind," said Elkinton, and the constable marched him off to Moyamensing and a square meal.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Like Father, Like Son.

A young man returned home a few days ago from a trip to South Africa for his health, and in narrating his adventures to his father he told him he had bought a silver mine for $500.

"I knew they'd swindle you," exclaimed the old man. "So you were fool enough to buy a humbug mine?"

"Yes; but I don't lose anything. I formed a company and sold half the stock to a Londoner for $500."

"Y—you did?" gasped the old man, as he turned white.

"I know you are," coolly observed the young man, as he crossed his legs and tried to appear very much at home.—London Tid Bits.

Political Items.

It is alleged that quite a number of Democrats who did not even vote for the regular tickets are applying to Cleveland for office. Possibly they reason as did a very unreliable old darkey down in Texas. After the election he walked boldly up to the successful candidate and said:

"Boss, I wants yer terlen' me $40 fur services rendered you durin' de election."

"But you worked and voted for the other ticket."

"Dat's jess hit, boss. 'Ise so unpopular dat if I had worked for yer side yer would had been beaten two ter one. A pos'office will suit me, boss."

Wampole's Tasteless Preparation OF Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchia troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.
