IS NOW IN KAWAIAHAO

Body of Princess Kaiulani Taken from Aieahau.

Large Number of People at Historic Church Today—Beauty of Decorations—Music for Tomorrow's Services.

Nani wale kau'u home o Aieahau i ka iu, i ka hulu nape o ka lau o ka iu; i ka ulu wehiwehi i ke ala o na pua, Ku'u home, ku'u home, i ka iu.

Shortly after midnight a solemn procession passed under the palms and spreading trees of Aieahau and wended its way slowly toward the Waikiki road and then in to Kawaiahao church. It was the hearsebearing the body of the Princess Kaiulani, preceded by two mounted patrolmen to clear the way, and followed by Governor Cleghorn, the mourning father, and close friends. Kaiulani had left Aieahau, "kau home i ka iu," for the last time.

As the procession neared the main entrance to Kawaiahao, the large concourse of a thousand or more natives gave way and allowed hearse to pass in. The body was received by the Bishop of Honolulu and his clergy. A brief service was held and, as the notes of the organ poured forth mournfully, the satin-covered casket was deposited on the catafalque immediately in front of the pulpit. Everything had been prepared for the reception of the body and the guard, taking their places quietly, began the waving of the o o kahilis over the body of the dead.

The silent watch has kept through the night and at 10 o'clock, the doors of the church were thrown open to the public to view for the last time the face of the beloved Kaiulani.

There has been an increasing procession of natives and foreigners all morning and afternoon there seem to be no indications that this will cease until the clock strikes four.

The church is beautiful today. In the hands of the faithful workers, it has been transformed into a garden of white and green—a fitting bower of rest for the dead Princess.

The coffin rests on the same catafalque as at Aieahau and the pall and feather spread is the same. On the coffin are a couple of mamo leis and a feather kahili given Kaiulani by her aunt a short time ago. The crowns of white carnation and lilies and mamo are the same.

At the corners of the catafalque stand the four white kahilis of state which will be placed in the mausoleum with the body. Surrounding this is a row of large kahilis, a dozen or more, which belonged to Kaiulani's own people. Scattered about among these are smaller kahilis and, at the head are two tabu sticks, considered all important in connection with the dead body of a Hawaiian chief or chiefess. All about, there is a profusion of flowers. The pulpit, the choir and the chancel rail are covered with mamo, palapalai, palms and such delicate flowers as the violet, rose, lily and jessamine, while on the reading desk is a bowl of yellow flowers, the favorite color of Kaiulani.

Setting off the whole scheme of decoration and placed over the aisle close to the coffin, is a graceful arch covered with white tarletan and wound about with the sweet smelling mamo, so loved by all Hawaiians. This piece was done by Mrs. Geo. Herbert with the assistance of Miss Alice Kitchen.

Far up on the wall of the church and to either side of the choir are the flag of Likie, Kaiulani's mother, and that of the Princess, the former to the right and the latter, to the left.

On the pillars of the church are bows of white tarletan with sago palm leaves. The two pillars opposite the body are wreathed with tarletan and mamo. The whole scheme of decoration forms a scene of rare beauty.

The body will lie in state until 4 o'clock this afternoon but Prince David Kawanakoa is authority for the statement that people may call at the church this afternoon and evening. This is done specially for the working Hawaiians who cannot get off until after 4 o'clock.

This evening, the Kawaiahao will sing the kanikans of Kala-kana, Likie and the late Princess, in Kawaiahao Church.

When the body arrived at the church Co. G, Native Hawaiians, posted a guard. The watches will be kept up until the service are over tomorrow.

Below is the order of services for the funeral of Princess Kaiulani, beginning at Kawaiahao church at 2 o'clock p. m. tomorrow:

Organ Prelude—"In Memoriam" . . . Taylor
Wray Taylor.
Sentences—"I am the Resurrection and the Life, etc."
Psalm 30—"I said I will take heed to my ways."
Hymn—"Brief Life is Here Our Portion."
Lesson—"1 Cor. 15: 'Now is Christ Risen, etc.'"
Psalm 23—"The Lord is My Shepherd."
Address—Rev. H. H. Parker.
Solo—"Angels Ever Bright and Fair."
Mrs. Geo. W. Macfarlane.
Hymn—"Safely, Safely, Gathered In."
Organ Postlude—"Dead March in Saul."

At the Mausoleum the hymn, "On the Resurrection Morn," will be sung.

KAIULANI.

Plautus, he, in olden story,
Said of those whom Gods loved well,
They, with earth should leave their glory,
And with Gods, above, must dwell.

Whom the Gods love, quick are taken,
From this lowly mundane sphere,
And are placed above, in Heaven,
Far from earthly care or fear.

So our Princess, Kaiulani, Passes from us, far away,
She now dwells in Hawaii's LANI,
With the chiefs of elder day.

There she meets her well-loved mother,
Close within her arms is prest,
Though no earthly crown adorns her,
Heaven awards a golden crest.

Fare thee well, dear Kaiulani,
If forever, fare thee well,
Hawaii mourns her Kaiulani,
Gone above with Gods to dwell.

Honolulu, March 11, 1899. B.

The Orphan.

A complete change of bill takes place this evening. Jim Post will introduce a new one act sketch entitled "Casey's Mishaps," in which the entire company will appear. Boyd and Oro in a specialty will show some clever tumbling. Miss Dora Morry will warble and Miss Ida Francis, the pleasing petit danseuse, will gyrate. Martin's trained dogs in tricks and high leaps, etc., should altogether prove an irresistible attraction.

THE Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS

Important Work Done at Last Night's Meeting.

Mr. Coleman Again Elected Secretary—Delegates to International Convention—Committees Appointed.

At the meeting of directors of the Honolulu Y. M. C. A. last night, a good many interesting items of business were dispatched. Eleven members were elected including one transfer from Boston and one from Los Angeles.

The report of the treasurer showed a deficit of about eight hundred dollars, to be raised this month before the close of the Association year.

A. B. Wood and W. C. Weedon were appointed delegates to the International Convention of Y. M. C. A.'s at Grand Rapids, Mich., May 24-28.

Mr. Weedon and Secretary Coleman were authorized to get a Washington light for the gymnasium for one month's trial.

A letter from the International Committee asked the Association if it would grant full privileges to visiting college association members during vacation. The privilege was granted, and the secretary instructed to answer the committee accordingly.

H. E. Coleman was re-engaged as general secretary for another year. The question of allowing him a longer vacation at time of the convention, with the probability of his going to represent the association and study association work and methods, was suggested for consideration at the next meeting.

A nominating committee was appointed for naming candidates for officers for the ensuing year, to be elected at the annual meeting on Monday, April 3.

Another committee was appointed to arrange special exercises for the thirtieth anniversary meeting of the association on Thursday evening the 13th of April.

Street Blocked.

A dray loaded with a cord and a half of wood, drawn by four mules, and driven by a Japanese, broke down at Beretania and Fort streets a little before noon. Had this happened the vehicle's length back of where it did, the entire Beretania and Nuuanu car system would have been demoralized for there's no saying how long. As it was the Fort street valley car had to be "sawed" past the obstruction across its track. There was nobody in authority within sight to hurry up the removal of the blockade, and the driver sat on the front of his load and simply jabbered. This was the situation for the quarter of an hour a reporter happened to be in the vicinity.

Co. D Objects.

It appears that Co. D men are not as enthusiastic over disbanding as has been represented. Last night a majority of the members of the company met and appointed a committee of five to interview Minister Cooper and request him to reconsider the order for disbanding the company.

Miss Clark's Return.

Miss Andrae Clark, modiste, with B. F. Ehler & Co., will return on the S. S. Australia, prepared to furnish her patrons with the very latest Parisian ideas.

Those in search of a bargain in anything pertaining to dry goods would do well to avail themselves of the opportunity that Egan's "Bargain Month" affords. The entire stock has to be cleared even should it entail a sacrifice. Look in and note the prices marked. See ad on page 2.

A HORSELESS CARRIAGE

It Has Been Ordered By Honolulu Firm.

Of Latest Style and Excellence of Design—Will Seat Two and Will Be Owned by Local Man.

The horseless carriage will soon be seen in the streets of Honolulu. By the China of yesterday Catton, Neill & Co. by their agent F. J. Cross sent an order for a $1200 horseless vehicle to be delivered in Honolulu as soon as possible.

The American Electrical Vehicle Company of Chicago is the concern from which the purchase is made. Mr. Cross holding their agency for the Hawaiian Islands. The carriage is what is known as the "runabout." It will seat two persons, and in a few weeks, a gentleman of Honolulu who is already popular will be the most popular man in town and requests for rides in the new vehicle will be legion.

The carriage will be of the latest and most improved type and it is anticipated will be the pioneer of many horseless vehicles both for private and public use.

Scindia Sails Thursday.

The collier Scindia will probably get away for Manila, Thursday, March 16. The steamer of 15th may bring other orders but this is doubted. There has been a great deal of delay in the matter of getting the machinery in order or the Scindia would have been out before this. The other day, the gang of fifteen machinists working on the machinery, struck for higher wages. Their regular time of working was eight hours. Some extra work had been done and the men wanted pay for twice the amount of time. This the Scindia refused to do. The machinists finally concluded to go back to work on the old basis.

Rev. H. H. Parker Will Speak.

At the request of Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, Rev. H. H. Parker, pastor of Kawaiahao church, will say a few words at the services over the body of Princess Kaiulani tomorrow.

FOR SATURDAY SADNESS.

BY DIOGENES.

ONE BLESSED certainty — Honolulu and Hilo can never play St. Paul and Minneapolis to each other. That is, it would be a question of Hilo eat up Honolulu, or Honolulu drink up Hilo. But Hilo must keep her eye peeled when Ola grows down toward Keahou harbor, and brings the volcano into the middle of Olaa Central Park.

Try hot lemonade for the grip.

Reformers should have a hand for the weak reader than a fist for the strong.

The Hawaiian sailor who plunges into the surf, amidst cruel rocks, to save a stranger's life is a hero — yes, greater than Hobson.

One thing the Kickapoos cannot supply — an alleviant for the itching palm. If gilded sugar stocks could be produced by beetle and mortar, the peripatetic druggists might quickly stack up the specific and take the town in exchange.

Madame Syndicate — Will you have sugar in your coffee, Mr. Olaa.

Mr. Olaa — If you please, madame. Just one cube, however. I always imagine that too much sugar takes the flavor off our fine Hawaiian coffee.

Wit and humor? The first brings laughter; the second, smiles. Wit carries wisdom in a pellet. Humor conveys it in a lunch basket. Wit for vaudeville — humor for pulpit or platform — both for keeping society from crying over itself. The press can utilize either quality, when and where it may be found, as a foil to the rude facts and the rugged forces with which it has to deal.

If it's the title, not the texture, of a thing that tells, why should not Honolulu have reserve athletic teams called after Yale, Stanford, San Mateo, Vassar, or — on another lay — Standard Oil, Baldwin Locomotive, Blake Pamp, Pears' Soap, etc? There must be an educational stimulus with the former series; and pay for the yelling bleachers with the latter, if the patronymics were up to date in advertising science.

BILLY'S BAD SPELL.

(Exercise in Rhyme for Beginners in English.)

Our Billy caught a nasty cough,
Which kept him home from work.
He took some pills to drive it out,
Made by a druggist clerk.
One box sufficed to pull him through,
And make his breath come straight.
Then going back his task to Jough,
He brought it up to daight.

UNPAID BILLS.

The business world over, honest traders have at times suffered considerable mental perturbation in futile efforts to "get even" with some recalcitrant customer, who, with a persistence worthy of a higher cause, steadfastly refuses to liquidate his just obligations. A local Chinese store-keeper with in easy "cooee" of Jeff's tonorial parlors, has, however, hit on a device, which, while exposing the debtor's name, also helps assuage the ire of the luckless trader. The scheme is no other than the pasting on the shutters of his store a detailed bill of the goods purchased. As to the legality or wisdom of such a course no comment is here offered. Suffice it to say that should the idea "catch on," the rent of local advertising hoardings may be expected to take a sudden rise. Meantime the firm in question might fittingly twang the lyre to the tune of the old ballad, "Dear Heart."

A Hawaiian girl read an academic thesis at commencement exercises in a mainland seminary, upon the eve of her return home to her native land. The theme was Hawaiian table customs. She mentioned live shrimps as a favorite delicacy. A schoolmate of hers was asked next term by the teacher to give an oral summary of the Hawaiian girl's essay. She got on well enough until the teacher interposed sharply, "What's that you say the Hawaiian eat alive." The pupil hesitatingly stammered the reply: "I really forget, but I think it's live tripe."

Between the vituperation of a common scold and the rebuke of a caudid friend there is as much difference to an erring brother, as between the clangor of a bell buoy and the savor of a tugboat to a ship that has missed stays on a lee shore.

The authorities of Toronto, the second city of Canada, are vigorously prosecuting all classes of fortune tellers. An ancient English law has been taken down from the shelf for the purpose. Practitioners with cards and tea-cups, head and palm readers, also phrenologists, are being rounded up in the police court. Good riddance it may be, but there is no saying to what extremes such a crusade may tend. Reformers should never forget the lesson of the parable of the wheat and the tares.

It's all very well to charge that the war with Spain was produced by a conspiracy of capitalistic traders. All the same, every man with a spoonful of brains knows that the most gigantic conspiracy, which the biggest possible class combination in the country could contrive, wouldn't amount to more than a chip in the porridge when the Maine outrage started boiling the caldron of almost unprecedented national indignation.

What's the matter with minstrelsy? Since "My Honolulu Lady" walked down the road, the screaming and whistling gamin has fallen into silent desuetude. I am told he has taken, with terrible earnestness, to pitching nickels. A stock exchange kindergarten might reclaim him — in all but intercepted musical development. Nothing less than another circus in town will cure him in that regard.

The Washington lawyers laid down the law for Chinese immigration to Hawaii. It was forthwith properly enforced by the officer charged with the duty. Certain former residents of Hawaii did not fit the legal apertures for the admission of Chinese. This was because they were shapely to fit only the portholes left for their admission as returning Hawaiian residents, and the storm ports had been slammed shut over these openings while they were visiting China. The people thus excluded, however, managed to make the head doorkeepers in Washington hear their knocking. Then the same lawyers as before found out that these people had nothing to do with Chinese "immigration" laws, hence these laws did not apply to them. There was no inconsistency here or there The American and the Hawaiian laws overlapped, and they agreed in principle though not in object. Thus, the same class of Chinese now in Hawaii, as those affected in these proceedings, have permits available under the newly applied American law, to enable them to visit their mother land and return to their adopted country.

Almost Blind

Scrofula Affects the Eyes — Little Boy Treated by an Oculist With Relief — But Now He Is Well.

"When my little boy was three months old his eyes became very sore and he was almost blind. I took him to an oculist who treated him for six months, and left him as bad as he was at the beginning. Finally Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I began giving it to him. In less than three weeks he was able to go into the sun without covering his eyes, and today his eyes are perfectly well, and his ears and nose, which were badly affected, are also well. Hood's Sarsaparilla has certainly done wonders for my boy." MRS. JAMES H. PAINTER, Amador, California. Remember

SATURDAY, MARCH 11, 1899.

Cousin Wildman, in an article for Harper's Weekly written before the insurgent outbreak, says that Aguinaldo is a great man, always keeps his promises and will not oppose the United States. Recent developments are such that Cousin Wildman cannot pose as a prophet of the first order.

If Mr. Dole wants to find out how many friends Minister King has just let him make a request for the minister's resignation. That such a move should be given a moment's consideration is nothing to the credit of the chief executive. The BULLETIN is disposed to believe that Mr. Dole must have misunderstood the question that was put to him yesterday.

If the question of "pay" schools among the public schools were brought to an issue in an election we believe there is no question that an overwhelming majority would favor the wiping out of the "pay" feature. The public school where a price is placed on the privilege of each pupil to attend is certainly a misnomer. It is not in keeping with republican institutions and cannot be wiped out too soon. Many of the ablest and most intellectual men and women of our country were the children of parents who were too poor to have paid fifty cents a week for educating their children. There can be no good reason given for putting the children of the poor at a disadvantage with those of the well-to-do. That we have a cosmopolitan community is all the more reason why the schools should be free to all, the only requirement for advancement being the ability of the child.

THE REPUBLICAN MEETING.

Mr. Dole must be in pretty sad political straits when his official organ has to take the Thursday evening meeting of Republicans as an occasion for attacking Mr. Sewall. In many respects the attack is decidedly funny. If among the men who spoke at that meeting, the official organ can point out one Dole advocate, we should be pleased to have our contemporary point out who that man is. If the Advertiser had the decency or courtesy to ask Mr. Sewall what his position in the matter is, it could probably have found out.

The meeting Thursday evening was for an open discussion in connection with representation in the National League of Republican Clubs. Advocates of allowing the matter to remain in abeyance held that auxiliary clubs should not be formed until the regular party organization was established.

Those who favored action held that as the National League was an entirely separate body, although auxiliary to the Republican party, and as the representatives of the League in their national convention had requested a representation in Hawaii, it was nothing more than common courtesy for the Republicans here to make known their preference for the officials requested; it was not for the people here to say whether the action of the convention in naming official representatives in Hawaii before consulting the Republicans here was irregular or not. The action had been taken by practically the unanimous consent of the convention and that was sufficient guarantee of good faith.

The advocates of inaction had the votes, they carried their point and there is no disposition to upset the will of the majority.

As the BULLETIN has previously asserted, the argument that Hawaii is likely to gain more favors from Congress by refraining from national politics has little weight except, possibly, to carry a meeting similar to that of Thursday night. The people of this territory are unanimously in favor of a territorial form of government and if Republican and Democratic party lines were formed, the two organizations would unquestionably join forces in memorializing Congress or exerting whatever influence they might have to secure favorable action from Congress. Neither is the statement that we do not know who will be voters under the American organic act a sound argument. There are today in the United States foreigners who have no vote, but affiliate with and work in the ranks of the political parties.

It is true, however, that the counsels of the men, who are voters under the Republic of Hawaii, should be heeded in the matter of wiping out the old organizations and forming new party lines. An election under the Republic will doubtless be held in September. The meeting of Thursday night was the first time the matter has been brought to an issue in a public gathering. The vote was decisive and there is no occasion for ill will among those whose arguments were defeated.

The attitude of the Advertiser is simply the outgrowth of its usual policy of misrepresentation and an attempt to satisfy personal spite.

LONGSTREET DIDN'T HESITATE.

EDITOR EVENING BULLETIN:

In the Advertiser of the 8th inst. one Col. L. Edwin Dudley makes a statement that "Longstreet, the Confederate General, hesitated."

I positively contradict the assertion. Longstreet never hesitated, any more than Napoleon and the Old Guard did. "Yet" as the Colonel is called may have been opposite Longstreet's corps but so far from it that his vision became blurred for some reason. I was in the command and know of what the Colonel pretends to know. He may have seen Mrs. Leary's barn fall but he never saw Longstreet hesitate in a charge. Lee never found it imperative to order his favorite lieutenant in order that he should do his duty quickly. Longstreet was called by the Confederates, "Lee's right bower."

I saw some of the heaviest fighting—Spottsylvania and Antietam, the Wilderness and some fifteen others. Not only did I see the fighting as "Yet" says but I was in all of them. The gallant colonel says "I had to prevaricate about my age in order that they would take me in." He admits he prevaricated then; I believe and know that he prevaricates now.

AN EX-CONFEDERATE VETERAN OF LONGSTREET'S CORPS.

In Terror of Police.

Two little native boys, of perhaps, seven and five years, were running about near the Judiciary building, crying as if their hearts were broken. As they couldn't tell their woes in English, a BULLETIN reporter conducted them to the Agricultural office, where Geo. Lucas Jr. interviewed them. The larger boy sobbed out that he was afraid to go home because his mother told him she would send him to the police station if he ran away again.

James F. Morgan will hold an auction sale of carriages, wagons, Eastern built phaetons, surreys, handcars, etc., at his sales rooms, Queen street, on Saturday, March 13, at 10 a. m., under instructions received from C. Brewer & Co., Ltd. See ad on page 8.

HONOLULU BOYS IN MANILA.

What James White Says About Philippines.

James White, who returned from Manila in the China yesterday, will leave for the Coast in the Doric. After attending to some business there, he will return to Manila to rejoin Eugene Elliott who is now waiting for him. It will be remembered that Messrs. White and Elliott went to Manila together. Mr. White has the following to say of the Honolulu boys in Manila:

"Sam Widdifield is orderly on Major Bell's staff in the Engineers' Corps. He was quite ill at one time and spent forty days in the hospital.

"C. S. Bradford is still in Manila. When I left, he was kicking on account of the continuation of the fights between the Americans and Filipinos. His real estate is now occupied by Uncle Sam's soldiers.

"Louis McGrew is still in Manila. He is very much dissatisfied and wants to get back to Honolulu. Bob Gardner is another who thinks there is no place like Hawaii here. At present he is running a saloon in Manila. Bob had quite a severe spell of sickness.

Gorman who went to Manila with the Vida boys, is tending bar at the "Senate" saloon.

"Jim Sherwood is in Manila. I did not happen to see him.

"Conley, the former mounted patrolman, is with the Minnesotas who have charge of policing the town of Manila.

"Schermerhorn, formerly of the People's Express Co. here is very anxious to get back. He has been quite ill. Schermerhorn has grown a heavy beard.

"Harry Murray was out on the firing line when I was in Manila. He would not come into town, stating that he wanted to see all the fighting and the very last of it. However, he was very well and perfectly contented.

"The Stanford University boys, who were given a fine send-off in Honolulu upon their departure for Manila, are all very well. They are all employed in the Custom House. One of the fellows had small pox but he soon got over it.

Mr. White arrived in Manila the day the fighting began (February 4) and was there for just four days, during which time, he saw some hot fighting and had occasion to notice the treachery of the Filipinos.

Hydraulic Pressure of 2000 Tons.

The sprockets for the new 99 Sterling bicycle for the Pacific Cycle Co., are not stamped out of a piece of boiler plate and put in the machine without milling for the chain, but cold forged under hydraulic pressure of 2000 tons; then machined and milled for the chain until actual micrometer measurement of the sprockets will not vary in diameter more than two or three thousandths of an inch, measure them whichever way you will. Scientific tests at some of the greatest mechanical schools in this country have demonstrated that a higher standard of efficiency is obtained with a Sterling bicycle than with any other put in competition with it. And why? Because of a consistent policy which has been followed for years by the manufacturer of the Sterling, that of high-grade workmanship, attention to details of construction, and the use of the best materials to be found for each individual part of the wheel's anatomy.

CUBA'S GARDEN SPOT.

SANTIAGO PROVINCE OFFERS MUCH TO ENERGETIC AMERICANS.

Santiago province, a large slice of which is now held by Uncle Sam, is one of the garden spots of Cuba. The district over which General Shafter holds sway as military governor comprises the eastern tip end of the island and it is probably, with the single exception of the famous tobacco raising region of Vuelta Abajo, the richest and most fertile section of Cuba.

Something like 25,000 young Americans have seen a good deal of Santiago province of late. They have viewed it under somewhat distracting circumstances, it is true, but without doubt many of those young volunteer soldiers have had their eyes open and have noted the business and commercial possibilities of the province. That some of them will eventually find their way back there is a foregone conclusion.
Many will go with capital for investment and it is entirely probable that within the next few years the commercial ties between this end of the Pearl of the Antilles and the United States will be many and firmly knit.

Level headed young men who have fought the Spaniards and who are still wearing army uniforms may in the course of a few years be the owners of plantations, managers of factories or heads of big business concerns with offices in the city which they helped to capture. Many northern soldiers who fought in the Union army during the civil war settled in the south after peace was declared, and there is no reason why many American soldiers should not return to Cuba when the row is all over.

Nowhere on the island could an enterprising Yankee find better openings

TYPICAL CUBAN HOME, SANTIAGO PROVINCE.
than in the eastern end of Santiago.
The rich alluvial soil has made it the chief sugar producing center in Cuba.
The black soil has a varying depth of from 12 to 16 feet. Sugar cane has been growing there without replanting from 10 to 20 years, and two yearly crops of fine cane are raised with a minimum of labor and expense. Coffee does very well. A plantation matures in six years.
Once producing, it is a small gold mine to its owner. Cattle do well and have proved very profitable.

The many possibilities with such a soil and climate do not need description. The province needs intelligent enterprise and push, and it will blossom with crops and prove one of the richest and most productive spots on earth—a new Klondike.

The forests of eastern Cuba are almost unexplored. They cover its mountain sides and abound in the choicest of tropical mahogany, hard cedar, lignum vitae and dyewoods.

The city of Santiago during the rains is almost cut off from the interior, save by a short and unimportant section of railway. It communicates by sea with neighboring ports on the island and ships to the world without sugar, coffee, dye and other woods, iron ore, manganese and fruits. To that outer world she looks for her daily bread, her foodstuffs, canned goods and the articles of everyday life and commerce.
They come to her by water and have so come for nearly four centuries. Until railways develop the interior and communicate with other ports the highway to Santiago will still be by the open sea.

As to business enterprises on a small scale, there are innumerable openings in Cuba for men with a little money, but plenty of good judgment and energy. A few acres in market gardening, for example, with continuous crops from year to year, would perhaps yield the quickest and largest returns for the smallest amount invested. Chicken raising, too, has always been a strangely neglected industry in the West Indies.
Fowls and eggs figure conspicuously every day in the Spanish-American menp, yet nobody in Cuba has ever gone into "the chicken business" with brooders and incubators, as so many do with profit in the United States.

The possibilities of mining in Santiago province cannot yet be accurately computed. Several large and wealthy companies have been operating to some extent in iron and copper and report that the mines are practically exhaust-less.

The labor market which will be opened up by the development of the surrendered territory will necessarily be limited, but skilled mechanics of certain classes will be in demand. Machinists, electricians and engineers will find it a rich field. On the big sugar plantations much machinery is used, and more will be installed as soon as American push gets a chance. Yes, Santiago is bound to come to the front.

FLAW IN "FREE" SCHOOLS

A Parent Demurs Strongly Against the Dunning by Teachers.

The Paltry Fifty Cents No Guarantee of "Select" Quality of Schools—Plea for Free Schools Indead.

EDITOR EVENING BULLETIN:—
Kindly allow me space for a few words.

This question of "free" or "pay" schools is a matter of more importance than is generally given to it—in fact it is no doubt accepted by many as being all important that the schools be "pay."

Now I, as a citizen and one whom it affects quite materially, would like to know one good reason for requiring public or free school to be "pay" schools and children be dunned by the teacher and then be held up to ridicule before their companions, as if in disgrace, just because the father is unable on account of numerous other taxes, to produce two or three dollars per week school tax. And I would state that some of the teachers brought up in the United States and other enlightened countries where "pay" schools would be considered almost equal to barbarism, seem to take an internal delight in reminding the children they did not have as much wealth as some other children and therefore were interlopers and did not belong to his set. If they do not actually express themselves in exact language as above, their everlasting dunning the children and their manner speak it as well as words.

I would like to ask them are they teachers or are they bill collectors? Perhaps they are both, but would show their true free born and free school spirit by making known their objections, at least for the "collection business." Some of the teachers (very much to their credit) say they never feel so mean and ashamed of themselves as when asking for pay from the pupils attending a public school. They are not used to it or were not when coming here, and had they been compelled to pay to attend the public schools when they were pupils might never have been teachers at the present time.

One teacher taught in this city four years and never once asked a pupil to bring money for tuition and never would have if he had taught ten times as long. If the pupils brought money well and good, but if not well and good. Is the government so poor it cannot pay "public school" teachers without requiring a tuition fee from parents? If so, why not raise the tax a small fraction and give the rising generation a chance.

Some may say they want the school select. Well, I would like to ask if the public schools are not select in Boston and every other city in the U. S.? Oh, you will say, they do not have so cosmopolitan a population as we have here in Honolulu. Then I would ask, if the whole population of the Hawaiian Islands were annexed to Boston or any city half its size, would they start in and adopt pay schools? No, their requirements for membership to public schools are such that there would be no danger of admitting anyone to any school who was not in every respect eligible, as they do at present with the very great undesirable population they already contain.

The best schools in the United States—that means with the best and highest salaried teachers—are the city public schools, and the regulations and requirements are such that there is no possibility of the pupils of the best people coming in contact with their inferiors. They may be schoolmates of poorer people's children it is true, but are never required to mix with inferiors, for if those pupils of poorer people are not up to the standard required for a certain room or class they don't reach it.

Now let me tell you if it were not for the standard or requirements these pupils of better-to-do people would be compelled to associate more or less with an undesirable element. Certainly a little miserable 50c. per week would prevent it, for many an undesirable companion can furnish 50c. per week much more readily than many poor but honest men. Show me an undesirable boy or girl that your child would not have to associate with if he or she can produce the 50c. per week.

The American bark R P Rithet, Calhoun master, arrived in port yesterday afternoon. Good weather was experienced, the Rithet making the trip from San Francisco in 13 days.

The American schooner Eva, Ramselins master, arrived in port this morning, about 15 days from Eureka. Pleasant weather throughout the trip was experienced. The captain is accompanied by his wife, sister and child.

From reports brought by the China yesterday, there has been some very rough weather along the China and Japan coast of late. In making the trip from Shanghai to Nagasaki, the China got the tail end of a typhoon. It was in this storm that one of the Empress Line boats was caught. She was 24 hours late making the trip from Kobe to Yokohama and when she did arrive it was in a damaged condition. Two steamers making the same trip, were five days late and it was supposed that they were wrecked. The French mail steamer put out from Kobe but returned to port and waited for the storm to spend its fury.
