The Pearl Harbor Lands

The United States has begun formal action to obtain possession at Pearl Harbor of some 800 acres of land to be used as a naval station by the government. The price at which the petitioner appraises the land is $16,800. A map accompanies the complaint, which shows the location desired for the purpose set forth in the complaint. The land to be condemned is divided, to the best information of the complainant, into the following subdivisions:

B. P. Bishop Estate....	625 acres
B. P. Bishop Estate....	151.6 acres
John H. Estate.....	41.5 acres

Total..... 828.1 acres.

The condemnation will make a decided hole in the best portion of the Oahu Sugar Company's plantation. Ford's Island, the property of the H. Estate, but rented by the Oahu incorporation, will also pass into the hands of the government once more, as it is among the parcels of land that the government is desirous of obtaining.

The contract for the dredging will be let to Clarke & Henry, a San Francisco firm.

At the Mint.

On March 16, there will be a meeting of the directors of the Mint, to discuss the question of coinage, and the size of the equivalent to be poured out for a quarter. The stockholders are requested to meet later on in the new beer garden, back of the Mint, and there express their views on dividends and reserve funds. The President hopes that there will be a full attendance.

HUMPHREYS AND HAWAII.

The little adventurer who through some unknown and mysterious means obtained a judgeship from the President is gaining sympathy from certain anti-missionary quarters on the Mainland. We refer to Judge Humphreys, who would be a pillar in the missionary political clique, and a shining light in the family compact, if he only was permitted to rule supreme in Hawaii. He is doing a great deal of talking in San Francisco and it will be of interest to our readers to read three editorials from the last number of The Argonaut, in each of which Humphreys gains considerable notoriety.

The first one is amusing and reads as follows:

"The quarrel between the government and the United States circuit judge of Hawaii is doubtless by many believed to be a personal matter. But another and similar story comes from the islands concerning the treatment of Judge M. M. Estee, United States district judge. The impression has been sedulously fostered by the Dole government that Circuit Judge Humphreys is a ruffian and a fire-eater. But Judge Estee is too well known in California to have any false impression concerning his character prevail here. Yet he has met with exactly the same contemptuous spirit in his court-room as did Judge Humphreys. When Humphreys sent three leading Dole attorneys to jail for contempt they were at once pardoned by the Dole government. One of them appeared before Judge Estee subsequently, and attempted to run matters in Estee's court with a high hand. Judge Estee rebuked him sharply, threatening him with commitment for contempt, and informed him that if sent to jail by order of the district court he would stay there until released by order from Washington. The Dole attorneys have since modified their tone toward Estee.

"To show how great was the chagrin experienced by the Dole crowd when they got the annexation for which they had worked, Judge Estee, we are told, was refused a court-room. Although he had an order on Governor Dole for suitable accommodations. When met with a refusal to honor the order from the department at Washington, Judge Estee ordered the United States marshal to take possession of a room in the judiciary building and keep the keys. A special agent had to come from Washington and enforce the orders of the federal authorities before the Dole government would recognize the right of United States judges to occupy United States court-room."

The second embodies the following interview with our "smart" judge. It reads:

"The popular feeling is one of general satisfaction that the republic no longer exists and that the conditions that obtained under the Dole oligarchy have passed away. Under that regime a handful of men, not exceeding a dozen, controlled and dominated the islands, and sixty per cent. of the people had not even the franchise. It was strictly a military rule. The offices were parceled out to incompetent members of the families of the government. Under the Territorial form of government all the people have the franchise without property qualifications or test oaths, so abhorrent to free men. The Dole faction hoped to perpetuate under the Territory the conditions which existed during the republic, and their inability to do so has led to the friction which exists between the executive branch, in which the faction is supreme, on the one hand, and the legislative and judicial branches on the other. They have made war upon the legislature and judiciary simply because they can not control them. If the subjects of controversy were put to vote, ninety per cent. of the people would uphold the legislature and the judiciary. The only way that the Dole government can regain their lost power is by having a property qualification placed by Congress upon the right to suffrage, which would eliminate a very large native Hawaiian and white vote as well. To this end charges of corruption are being made by the executive against the other branches of the government, designed to create a purely artificial sentiment against the native Hawaiians. An effort was made at the time the Territory of Hawaii was created by the last Congress to have a property qualification placed upon suffrage in Hawaii, but it failed. The same elements continue the fight. The Dole element maintains a paid lobbyist at Washington the year round. I do not think the effort to disfranchise a large body of peaceful, law-abiding, and fairly intelligent people will meet with any degree of success or favor."

The third editorial must have been written when Humphreys found out that annexation of Hawaii to California would not be tolerated. It reads:

"One of the developments of the bitter personal and political quarrel now raging in Honolulu is the movement to annex the islands to California. Annexation seems to be the fashion these later years, but we would advise California to leave it to Uncle Sam. Upon his capacious bosom let both missionary and Kanahele weep. Uncle Sam has so many race troubles in various parts of his dominions that this little one surely can not worry him much. But mixed with California's politics, Hawaii's troubles would burn like a mustard plaster. This is a small community, and that is a still smaller one. We in California had trouble in settling the Chinese question, and now the Eastern States are trying to unsettle it again. If we annex Hawaii, we would have our Chinese question, their Chinese question, their Kanaka question, their missionary question, their Portuguese question, their Porto Rico question, and their leper question. California has troubles of her own. Among others, she has her newspapers.

"In a small way, the experience of California with Hawaii would be like that of Uncle Sam with his new island possessions. During the last three years, practically the entire time of the President of the United States, of Congress, and of most of the departments of the United States Government has been taken up with these mongrel islands. Leaving aside the question of what they cost us, they have taken up so much executive and legislative time that our own rivers and harbors, revenue laws, post-office routes, rural deliveries, post-office buildings, custom house buildings—in short, all manner of things that we need—have been neglected. Were we to annex Hawaii, this interesting group of volcanic pustules would take up the entire time of our legislature, to the exclusion of our own affairs. It would give us one more congressional district, it is true, but inasmuch as the seven congressmen we now possess fail utterly to get a fair amount of federal money back in domestic improvements in return for the good money that California pays into the federal treasury for improving Pearl Harbor, Oahu, and dredging Manila Bay, P. I.—considering all these facts we think California had better struggle along without the additional congressional district and without Hawaii."

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

A Porto Rican case is before the District Court today, in which a young Porto Rican girl charges a man with rape. The absolute ignorance of these semi-civilized people has been well illustrated during the case, and it is not for Judge W. Cox's forbearance and patience the whole pack would have been ordered to go to the "demonstration how-wow" or out of the window. Hawaii is indeed being settled with another race which will neither add glory or prosperity to her, but which will give our children an infinite lot of trouble.

The quicker a test case is made in regard to the constitutionality of the income tax law, the better will it be for the people at large. If our Supreme Court holds that the Dickey law is all right, the treasurer will have an idea of the means which will be at his disposal. The Tax Assessor for Oahu is raising values of real estate in a very proper and radical manner and the property owners are howling mad. If the Assessor sticks to his figures the Treasurer needs not feel uneasy as far as the coffers of the Government are concerned.

An Important Ruling

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, JUNE 18, 1901.

Sir:—The Department acknowledges the receipt of your letter of 31st ultimo in regard to extension of time beyond one-year limit of laborers' return certificates, and asking for a ruling as to whether it is discretionary with the collector to disregard such extension certificates of the Chinese Consul, and to ask for additional evidence of the sickness or other cause of disability alleged as preventing a laborer's return within one year.

In response thereto, your attention is called to the language of Article II of the Convention of December 8, 1894, which provides that—

"Such right of return to the United States may be extended for an additional period, not to exceed one year, in cases where by reason of sickness or other causes of disability beyond his control, such Chinese laborer shall be rendered unable sooner to return—which facts shall be fully reported to the Chinese consul at the port of departure, and by him certified, to the satisfaction of the collector of the port at which such Chinese subject shall land in the United States."

You will observe the language "to the satisfaction of the collector of the port," which language appears to mean that the circumstance alleged as a reason for such extension must be shown both to have actually occurred and to have been such a one as was beyond the control of the Chinaman applying for such extension. It is clearly the province of the collector of customs to demand proof of a nature satisfactory to him in regard to both of these conditions.

As a further means of enabling the collector of customs at the port of arrival to determine with reasonable certainty these two points, section 7 of the act approved September 13, 1888, to which you refer, provides for an investigation of the truthfulness of the allegations made in such cases by the consular representative of the United States at the port or place from which such laborer departs for the United States, and for a certification by him of his conclusions, which, the act also provides, shall be satisfactory to the collector of customs at the port at which such overdue returning Chinaman seeks a landing.

Respectfully,

M. E. AILES,

Assistant Secretary.

Mr. JOSEPH K. BROWN,
Chinese Inspector, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The Secret is Out.

An Illinois boy was asked to write an essay on Masonry, and here is what he wrote:

"King Solomon was a man who lived so many years in the country that he was the whole push. He was an awfully wise man, and one day two women came to him, each holding to the leg of a baby and nearly pulling it in two, and each claiming it. And King Solomon wasn't feeling right good and he said: 'Why couldn't the brat have been twins and stop this bother!' And he called for his machete and was going to Wyleyze the poor innocent little babe, and give each woman a piece of it, when the real mother of the baby said: 'Stop, Solomon, stay thy hand. Let the old hag have it. If I can't have a whole baby I won't have any.' Then Solomon told her to take the baby and go home and wash its face, for he knew it was hers. He told the other woman to go chase herself. King Solomon built Solomon's Temple and was the father of Masons. He had seven hundred wives and three hundred lady friends, and that's why there are so many Masons in the world. My papa says King Solomon was a warm member, and I think he was hot stuff myself. That is all I know about King Solomon."—Springfield Craftsman.

An Important Decision.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
JUNE 12, 1901.

Sir:—The Department is in receipt of your letter of January 14 last, relative to the application of John D. Gueck & Son, requesting liquidation of drawback entries Nos. 2383 and 3170, covering certain floor plates shipped to Honolulu.

The shipments were made under timely entries and official supervision. Entry No. 2383 covered 664 iron floor plates for exportation ex ship Challenger, which vessel officially cleared from your port on April 14, 1900, and the landing certificate filed states that the merchandise was landed in Honolulu "between September 1 and 25, 1900." Entry No. 3170 covered 29 iron plates entered for exportation ex Southern Pacific Railroad Company, via San Francisco, to Honolulu. This entry was filed April 19, 1900, and the certificate of inspection issued by the collector of customs at San Francisco shows that the merchandise was shipped May 26, 1900.

It appears that the merchandise covered by each entry was shipped from the United States before June 14, 1900, the date of the taking effect of the Territorial Act of April 30, 1900; and the applicants, therefore, claim that drawback should be allowed at your port, notwithstanding the fact that the merchandise arrived at Honolulu after June 14, 1900, and would, in the event of such allowance, be subjected under the provisions of section 483 of the act of July 24, 1897, to a duty equal to the drawback paid on the entry of the merchandise at Honolulu.

In this regard, I have to advise you that the whole question is disposed of adversely to the contention of the applicants, by the decision recently handed down by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Crossman vs. United States, wherein it was held, following De Lima vs. Bidwell, that the Hawaiian Islands ceased to be a foreign country within the meaning of the tariff laws, under the provisions of the joint resolution annexing the Hawaiian Islands to the United States, approved July 7, 1898, (30 U. S. Stat. L. pp. 750-1).

No drawback can, therefore, be allowed in this case. You will be governed accordingly in this and similar cases. Respectfully,

O. L. SPAULDING,

Acting Secretary.

KAPIOLANI TRACT FOR SALE.

The Kapiolani Tract extends from King street to the Beach. A road 60 feet wide will be opened on the east side of the property adjoining the Kamehameha Girls' School; said road will extend to the sea.

Cross-roads will be opened between blocks. Every lot will have a frontage on a road. The elevation varies from forty feet high to ten feet high above sea level.

No swamps around the premises. No freshet will enter the property.

There is an offer to buy a part of the property by a great manufacturing company. The chances are the offer may be accepted. There is every reason to believe that the prices of lots will increase in a short time. The owner of the property will give all chances to purchasers to make money on their investments.

The ground is superior to any tract in the market.

The premises are situated within one mile and a half of the Post Office.

The Government water pipes are laid along the upper portion of the property.

The prices are the cheapest of any tract within two miles from the center of the city.

The terms which will be given to purchasers will be the best ever given by any real estate dealer or broker
during the last twenty years in Honolulu.

For terms or more particulars, apply to
