Dear Senator Inouye -

Please forgive me for my tardiness in thanking you for your kind note of October 7. It just occurred to me that on that day in 1777, the American army defeated the British forces under General John Burgoyne at Saratoga. That battle turned out to be the turning point of the American Revolution. I had once served as Historian at Saratoga National Historical Park.

But I have strayed from the point.

Thank you again for your confidence and offer of assistance. I only wish that I can do even one-tenth
