THE FRAWLEY COMPANY

MAKE THEIR FIRST APPEARANCE AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Crowded House in Witness the Production of "The Wife" - Tomorrow Night's Performance.

The opera house was crowded with the beauty and fashion of Honolulu last night to witness the first performance of the Frawley Company. This troupe has been so well recommended that expectation ran high. It is sufficient to state after seeing their first production that these expectations were in the main realized. In the play given last night it may be said there was no central character, as in Nat Goodwin's "Gilded Fool," but rather a collection of characters which drew and merited equal interest when on the stage. It can truthfully be said of the Frawley Company that it is one of general excellence throughout, judging from last night's performance, and that if the same finished acting and careful attention to details is maintained in future the success of the company should be beyond question.

The four act drama of "The Wife" was written by David Belasco and Henry de Mille. The part of John Rutherford of the United States Senate, the principal character, is a powerful one and was well taken by Mr. Frank Worthing last night, but his good acting was marred by the incongruity of a youthful make up. Miss Blanche Bates, the leading lady of the company, who took the character of Helen Truman, who marries the senator while loving another man, is an actress of no mean ability and is bound to become a popular favorite. Her acting last night left little to be desired. As Matthew Culver, the villain of the play, who in this instance is a scheming politician and an unscrupulous editor who uses his power to blacken the private fame of his political opponent for the honorable office of United States District Attorney, Mr. Wilson Enos ably sustained the reputation which has preceded him. Harry Carson Clarke as Major Homer Q. Putnam, G. A. R., was capital, as was Miss Hope Ross as Kitty Ives. These two characters, with that of Jack Dexter, a Columbia graduate, taken by George W. Leslie, furnished the comedy portion of the play and kept the audience in roars of laughter when on the stage.

The part of Robert Grey was acceptably filled by Mr. T. Daniel Frawley, but hardly afforded opportunity for any special efforts. Miss Lansing Rowan as Lucille Ferrant had a difficult role to fill but was fully equal to the occasion. The other characters, even to the smallest, were well filled and it was readily seen that there are no "sticks" in the company.

In one of the proscenium boxes were Mrs. W. G. Irwin, Mrs. Montague Turner and a party of friends. Mrs. S. G. Wilder in the box opposite was accompanied by Miss Atkinson, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert and Gertrude Wilder. In the box above were the Japanese Consul General and Mrs. Shimamura, Professor Scott and party. In the upper left hand box were Dr. and Mrs. Mousarrat and a party of friends. Scattered through the audience were many prominent diplomatic and government officials.

The full cast is given below.
John Rutherford of the U. S. Senate.....Mr. F. Worthing
Matthew Culver, in politics.....

"The Two Escutcheons," the play to be produced tomorrow night, is a piece fairly bubbling over with comical situations and the funniest up-to-date quips and jokes. It is story of a self made Chicago family and a German aristocrat with a long line of ancestors. The son of the German swell falls in love with the daughter of the Chicago pork-packer, and the two old men have a quarrel and fight, but the young folks have taken the affair into their own hands and married, and so things come to an amicable understanding. This is told with many side issues in scenes and witty lines in dialogue. There is much that is original and unconventional in the handling of the subject of the characters. The play is constantly interesting, highly amusing and witty all through.

TO SEE OYSTERS GROWN.
Scientific Party From the Albatross
Go to Pearl Harbor.

When the Albatross arrived the BULLETIN mentioned her as the vessel of the United States Fish Commission. In the now defunct California Magazine, a former expedition of the Albatross, in these and adjacent waters, formed the subject of several pages of intensely interesting description. At the former visits of the Albatross she was doing surveying for the Pacific cable, but incidentally the fishery experts on board pursued their investigations. An account of some curious fish caught in deep water, which appeared in the BULLETIN of that time, was called a "fake" by smarties. This morning the gentlemen of the Commission attached to the Albatross were conducted to Pearl Harbor by John F. Colburn to inspect his transplant oyster beds there. The party went in the directors' car of the Oahu Railway & Land Company, procured by Mr. Colburn for the purpose through the kindness of Superintendent B. F. Dillingham. A representative of the BULLETIN was kindly invited by Mr. Colburn to join the party.

THE AUTUMN EXHIBITION

WORKS ON VIEW IN VARIOUS LINES OF ART.

Decorated Chais by Several Ladies
—Some of Mr. Hitchcock's Paintings—New Contributors.

Last night the autumn exhibition of the Kilohana Art League was thrown open to the public. It will be open from 10 to 5 o'clock in the day time, and on the evenings of Monday and Friday from 7 to 9, until further notice. The entrance to the art gallery is on Hotel street near Fort.

It was to have been expected that this exhibition should be an advance on anything yet attempted by the League, for the organization has grown numerous since it showed it came to stay, and with the increase its artists have gained in excellence and had their number reinforced. Yet there is a display of meritorious work hanging on the walls which is surely beyond the most sanguine expectations even of those who had formed a fair estimate of the amount of artistic talent owned by these islands. The whole country is credited advisedly, because not only does the leading painter hail from Hilo, but several of the contributing members of the League belong to the outer districts.

Besides paintings on canvas, the collection includes art architecture, wood carving and plaster moulding, decoration of pottery, and sculpture. It would be doing the exhibition much injustice to attempt to mass it all in a single description. Therefore this paper will only deal with a few works in a single issue until the entire exhibition has been covered. Meanwhile all patrons and lovers of art should visit the gallery for themselves, which will give them the satisfaction of judging press criticisms as they appear.

Mr. D. Hitchcock contributes really a giant's share to the display. His masterpiece is, without a dissenting opinion thus far heard, voted to be "The Wave," occupying a central position on the lower end of the hall. There is a tremendous roller moving with as yet unbroken front upon the beach, excepting that its left flank has gone to pieces in an angry charge upon the impregnable rocks. Where it breaks the spray flies white and high, reflecting in brilliant lights the daylight sheen. Stupendous weight is realized in the curving high breast of the wave, and the rich dark green color is intact as the form. The contest of fierce light and fitful shadow on the far ocean horizon, with a shimmering sun wake playing between there and the shore, and a breezy sea atmosphere over all, make this a marine characterization of remarkable power.

Mr. Hitchcock has a picture of the volcano of Kilaua in 1893, which, besides fine treatment of the cooling lava overflow, with disappearing fires, and of the great molten lake in violent eruption, has merit never reached by any previous painter of that subject in the representation of the atmosphere superheated to the verge of incandescence over the fiery mound and fountains. Mauna Loa's mighty dome in the background, with the rugged crater rims occupying the middle distance, confer no slight value to the composition. This is a picture whose historical worth scarcely falls below its high artistic quality, for no eyes will ever again see the reality just as it was when studied by the artist on the heated crags overhanging the awful scene. Another volcanic production of the same artist is a sketch of the mythical Madame Pele rising with frightful mien from the Sailings have been as follows: "Andrew Welch," for Honolulu, Oct. 31st; "Anna," for Mahukona, Oct. 31st; "Roderick Dhu," for Hilo, Nov. 2nd; "Muriel," for Honolulu, Nov. 7th; "Lurline," for Kahului, Nov. 7th.

Interesting Autographs.

Hon. H. M. Whitney by a recent mail sent copies of his "Tourists' Guide Through Hawaii" to Messrs. McKinley and Hobart, the Republican presidential team. By the Australia's mail he received autograph acknowledgments of the gift from both gentlemen, now the President and Vice-President elect of the United States. Mr. McKinley makes the acknowledgment on behalf of his wife, and says he is glad to know that Mr. Whitney was a friend of his brother in Honolulu—the late David McKinley, United States Consul here and later Hawaiian Consul in San Francisco.

THE STUDENTS MAY LAND

ORAL DECISION IN THE HABEAS CORPUS CASE.

Proceedings in the Higher Courts
This Morning—Decision in an Ejection Suit, Etc.

In the Supreme Court this morning, in the habeas corpus case of the Japanese who have been refused landing permits from the steamship Toyo-Maru, Attorney General Smith asked permission to argue the case of Masumoto Michimoshu before proceeding with the others. This was granted and argument was then heard from the Attorney General for the government, and L. A. Thurston for the respondent.

Chief Justice Judd delivered an oral decision discharging the respondent from custody. The decision was not obtainable this afternoon, a copy not having been filed, but it is understood the duties of custom house officials and the police department in the matter are fully defined, so that there will be no clash between these branches of the Government in future cases. The Court held that as the statute made it obligatory on the Collector General or his deputy to make the investigation in these cases he could not take cognizance of the statements made to the Marshal or interpreter Doyle as against the statements of the respondents made to the custom house officials. As the statement of the respondent made to the custom house officials was confirmed by his testimony in court it must be taken as against a different statement obtained by persons unauthorized to make it in the same proceeding.

At the conclusion of the decision, the Attorney-General announced that the Government would make no further contest in the other cases, and all the Japanese were accordingly discharged from custody.

Previous to the rendition of the last order, Mr. Thurston obtained permission to insert the name of Sumimoto Genkichi in the petition, so that he might obtain the benefit of the judgment.

In the old ejection case of Haliaka Squires, Frances E. Jackson and A. P. Jackson, her husband, vs. Gaspar Sylva, judgment for plaintiff has been rendered in the Supreme Court as of the January term of 1892. The decision quieted the title to a lot of land situate in Kawaihapi, district of Waialua, this island. W. R. Castle for plaintiff.

In the case of L. H. Dee vs. J. F. Morgan, decided yesterday, the judgment roll and defendant's bill of costs amounting to $19.17 has been filed.

In the chafe case of The Republic of Hawaii vs. Tam Hoon and Ah Tong, tried this morning, the jury disagreed. E. P. Dole for the prosecution and A. S. Humphreys for defendants.

Arthur Fitzgerald convicted of shooting policeman Ah Fat, was sentenced to two years imprisonment.

This afternoon the case of Maria J. Forbes vs. Anna Gertz et al., an action for debt, is on trial before a foreign jury. Magoon & Edgings for plaintiffs, and the defendant in person. At the suggestion of the court and consent of opposing counsel, attorney E. P. Dole assisted Mrs. Gertz in questioning the jury as to bias or prejudice, etc., in order to facilitate the trial.

Nicely furnished rooms at the Popular House, 154 Fort street, from $1.00 per week up.

NEW YORK GOLD BUGS.

F. C. Jones Talks of Hawaiian Bonds and the Election.

Hon. P. C. Jones of Hawaii, who was a member of Queen Liliuokalani's last Cabinet, afterward Minister of Finance under the Dole Government, and now one of the Council of State, is at the Occidental, according to The Call of November 8th.

Mr. Jones went East some months ago with the view of placing $3,000,000 worth of Government bonds at 4 per cent interest. The Government had been paying 6 per cent, and it was proposed to refund the debt, so that the new arrangement could be made, as Eastern parties stood ready to take the bonds.

When Mr. Jones arrived, however, he found such excitement over the pending election that nobody would invest in anything.

"I found it impossible," said he, "to accomplish anything whatever. It was useless to try, and as a matter of fact I only did try it with one man. Then I gave it up. In New York, Boston and Philadelphia not a capitalist would touch anything. Massachusetts gold bonds had to be placed in London.

"The people on the Atlantic sea-board were hoarding gold. There was such a stringency that no one would listen to anything. But now that the national election is over, it is a different thing, and I am assured that the bonds will be taken soon. My own opinion is now that we are on the edge of a great boom. Large orders were given to manufacturers conditional on the election of Mr. McKinley, and now that he is elected these orders will be filled. I was in New York when the parade of 135,000 men occurred, in which each man wore a gold bug big enough to be seen across the street. It was an imposing scene.

"Speaking of the gold bugs reminds me of when, some time before the election, a manufacturer went to his men and told them that if they could think of any way the factory could run they could go ahead and make all they could out of it. One of them thought of these gold bugs and the men turned to and manufactured them till they had made $25,000. It was a very lucky thing for them.

"I always felt that California would vote right in the election. I am satisfied now that times will not only speedily become prosperous, but that we shall have such a period of prosperity as perhaps we have not known in many years."

What Could He Expect?

About five years ago, in the vicinity of Billingsgate Market, there was a cookshop which was generally patronized by costermongers of the lowest class, who received a marvelous basin of soup in the winter for the small sum of one penny. There was only one thing the shopkeeper had to complain of, and that was being infested with mice.

One day when he was not in the very best of humor a rough-looking coster came running up to the counter and, holding up a good-sized mouse by the tail, exclaimed:

"Look 'ere, guv'nor, I found a bloomin' great mouse in my soup!" "Well, what of it?" bawled out the enraged soup man. "What d'yer expect for yer penny—a bullock?"—Spare Moments.

CABLE MATTERS.

Through the pressure of foreign mail matter, upon a usually full budget of local news yesterday, the refusal of the Government to concede the extension and expansion of Mr. Spalding's cable franchise, urged upon it by Messrs. Foster and Thurston, was not mentioned. This action of the Government is doubtless approved by the bulk of the business opinion of Honolulu. Mr. Hartwell has shown that, if there was to be a new deal, he is entitled to a fair field and no favor. He had carried a cable privilege much nearer success than has Mr. Spalding yet done, having worked on the matter for years, and ultimately secured the passage of a charter through the United States Senate. That was blocked in the House of Representatives. Mr. Hartwell probably sacrificed more time and money in the project than has Mr. Spalding. There is no reason, however, why this country should give any exclusive franchise to either of these gentlemen or to anybody else. Mr. Hartwell in his representations of the situation simply confirms all the arguments against exclusion employed by this journal. Moreover, he says plainly what the BULLETIN hinted, and intended if the discussion had been further necessary, to especially argue, namely, that an exclusive franchise would be in contravention of treaty stipulations with various countries. And he seems to say that therefore the concessions so eagerly sought would be simply of the nature of a scarecrow to frighten away competition long enough to allow the holder thereof to gain prior possession of the field. If a cable is a radiot necessity right away, and the United States or Japan does not push it along quick, then Mr. Dillingham's scheme published in this paper yesterday is better than the handing over the country, body and bones, to any set of speculators. Hawaii can probably lay a cable herself if she just goes to work. Cables are bound to be laid from the United States to both Australia and Japan, and Hawaii will be a station upon them. Perhaps the British cable conference, now again in session, will give us cable communication while we are talking about it, but those other cables are bound to come all the same—or at least that to gain connection with Australia will come this far, and perhaps here connect with the British line. Hawaii is not going on the direct line of the British cable, according to the known plans of that project. That includes a branch from Fanning's Island to Honolulu, however—a formidable work in itself. The British wanted Necker Island, so as to throw us a line with more ease, but the Hawaiian Government—in the deep wisdom of an executive session—claimed and occupied the otherwise useless rock as Hawaiian territory. Then it went begging the United States to allow it to grant cable privileges on Necker Island to the British. It is to be presumed, on the surface, that the Hawaiian Government thought the British lion would be a less dangerous neighbor under the Hawaiian flag than under his own out there in the wet. Probably, however, the real reason for the executive session's display of naval activity in the matter was the same reason as lies at the back of these private importunities for obtaining exclusive cable franchises from Hawaii. That is, to have something to sell that somebody was very anxious to buy. The Hawaiian Government, then, got its desired merchandise just as it had given Mr. Spalding his, and like him tried to sell it, but under treaty relations existing, and for our good, with the United States, had to ask her leave for the transaction. President Cleveland thought it would be a fine thing for Hawaii—just what she was pining for, to get in telegraphic touch with the world. But on the eve of a presidential year, the last thing in the world for politicians in Congress to do was to do anything that might reveal a scintilla of favor for anything that "perfidious Albion" was interested in. So the President's recommendation was rejected, and Hawaii had the unsold goods on her hands. Never mind, we own Necker Island—damn the cable!

There is not the least doubt that President-elect McKinley is friendly to Hawaii, apart from the question of annexation. The question is: Will he be able to restrain his party from doing this country the injury previously done in his name, but not by him in his original bill called thereby, should any attempt in that direction be made? Annexation was promised to its supporters in this country, at this end of the line, in the event of a Republican administration being secured. There is both that and a Republican Congress now assured. All the promise from the other side of the water, however, is that of the declaration in the platform on which Mr. McKinley has been elected, that the United States should "control" these islands. She has controlled them for a long time, and the Republican success does not therefore prefigure any change in the mutual relations existing. It is not here that agitation for annexation is needed, but over there. This country is constitutionally committed to annexation now. What more is needed? Are we to be treated to a new carnival of wind?

Apropos of the concern wisely exhibited by the planters in council for the preservation and propagation of forests, as a means of conserving and increasing the rainfall, is the news from Hilo that a Chicago merchant has been in that region, looking up the feasibility of obtaining our fine hardwoods for cabinet and house finishing. If that trade should start up, an export duty on timber would be in order to check ruinous deforestation. Don't let our beautiful koa and kou go the way of the sandalwood of our predecessors. In the meantime these woods, whose value is best known to ourselves, should be diligently cultivated.

Hon. Paul Isenberg spoke with the genuine words of wisdom which have usually characterized his utterances, when he said in effect that there was no need of this country's going panic-stricken after telegraphic communication with the outside world. Electricity may be a great stimulant to plant growth, but the spark coursing through the bottom of the ocean will not make sugar cane grow in these isles. Even when we have a cable—which we shall have in time soon coming—sugar is likely only to bring the price ruling when it arrives at San Francisco as at present.

Amidst all the rush of competition for steamship traffic across the Pacific—north and south, and east and west—of which Honolulu has had some gratifying realization within the past few years, a report by the Australia's mail announces the greatest project of all. Should the large American line of steamers on a par with the Atlantic leviathans materialize, in all probability Honolulu will not be left out of its schedule of voyages. The long projected enlargement of the harbor would then have to be hastened to completion as a sheer necessity.

It is almost startling to have the planters acknowledge for once, in summing up a year of their operations, that the supply of labor has been equal to the demand. Immigration records on which the ink has only had a day to dry, since that acknowledgment, would indicate that the supply is still keeping all right.

J. T. WATERHOUSE

A ship load of Agateware would be a big lot for one store even in the United States; it's a big lot for Honolulu and more than we received, but what we did get on two sailing vessels would astonish the people if they saw all the articles in one pile. Our stock of Agateware is selected from "Firsts" not "Seconds;" the quality is the best that can be made and we sell it at the price you used to pay for the second quality. This means a saving of 33 1/3 per cent, because the life of a first-class piece of Agateware is a third longer than one of the second class.

When buying for the holiday season there is more pleasure in receiving a useful present than in a bauble. Every housewife loves good China and there is nothing more beautiful than a set of Haviland. We have a complete stock of this ware and sell it in full sets or single pieces so that if you want to fill up a set that has been broken or purchase a dozen plates or a course set you can be accommodated.

W.W. DIMOND'S

A wrinkle, new to Honolulu, is old blue china. It has been the rage in the United States for six months past, and in Europe for as many months before. It's the sort your great grandmothers and their children used; except that modern methods of manufacture and decorating enable the potters to make the pieces thinner and the decorations finer.

Those people who want something finer than may be had in Delft, can be accommodated with "Belleek." This is a much better quality and is decorated in a more artistic manner.

For plain every day use, the Delft is the best, because it is made to wear and to use. We have full sets and single pieces of it, which will soon find their way into the homes of Honolulu. Delft is not a fad; it was used many years ago and was fashionable for a full century before we came on this mundane sphere. Its place was taken by other and Frenchier patterns; now we are back to the old German windmill pictures. Come and see them.

The Ladies' Aid Society Score Another Success.

The lawn party given at Haualea lawn yesterday afternoon and evening was quite a success, in spite of other attractions. The government band furnished music during the afternoon and in the evening the girls of the Kamehameha school rendered several vocal selections. The receipts of the day from the various booths were quite large.

Following are the committees whose efforts contributed to the success of the affair:

Flower—Miss Ripley, with several young ladies assisting.

Lemonade—Mrs. Bryant and Miss Makina.

Candy—Mrs. A. J. Lyle and Mrs. Gallagher.

Ice Cream—Mrs. C. D. Gray and Mrs. McAllister, with several young ladies assisting.

lower regions clad in flaming cements. It is startling rather than sedative in the impression created, and will scarcely be selected to decorate a bed chamber. In landscape and life pictures, Mr. Hitchcock has been wonderfully prolific in the interval since last previous exhibition. They evince the steady development of this artist's genius, and require more notice than space will here afford.

Some generalization must suffice for the rest of this writing. Mrs. H. Kelley and Mrs. Jean M. Foster are new contributors, having but lately come to the islands, although the former, as the daughter born here of Hon. H. M. Whitney, one of the oldest residents, must be claimed as native talent. Both of these ladies enrich the exhibition with many works, to be specified in succeeding descriptions. Misses Anna H. Parke and Miss Millie Beckwith, Mrs. Bella Jones and Mrs. A. B. Tucker, of the former exhibitors, each merit extended mention of their new works. Mrs. E. M. Willis, wife of the Bishop of Honolulu, reveals marked versatility in a variety of subjects, many of them showing a high order of treatment. Mr. Philip H. Dodge makes a specialty of marine views, and several of his works are real gems. They will come in for closer study later. Several other exhibitors furnish material worthy of note, but even to give a list of their productions would exceed presently available limits.

Among the sales thus far have been "A Gray Day," showing Diamond Head, by Mr. Hitchcock; "Hanalei River," by Mrs. Tucker, and several pieces of decorated china by Mrs. Willis.

"Put Me Off At Buffalo."

The title of this wellknown song as well as the song itself emanated from the brain of an employee of the Buffalo Brewing Company. That enterprising firm, believing that a man who could compose so catchily an air must have a large and well balanced brain, straightway raised his salary. This has proven to be a good move on their part as is testified by the excellent qualities of their beer, which is dispensed over the bars of the Cosmopolitan, Pacific and Royal saloons at the rate of two glasses for 25c. It is always fresh and cold and life-sustaining. Or you can get one glass of Buffalo and one of Pabst beer, the fine product of the Milwaukee brewery. Exchangeable checks good at all the above-mentioned resorts are given in change if you only want one drink. "Best beer ever in Honolulu," is the verdict of many of our prominent citizens.

Mortgagee's Notice of Intention to Foreclose and of Sale.

In accordance with the provisions of that certain mortgage made by Joseph Pele and Keamo, his wife, to H. Dimond, dated September 26th, 1884, and duly assigned by H. and J. Waterhouse, executors under the will of H. Dimond, by assignment recorded in said office in Liber 163, page 275, ac., recorded in the Register office, Oahu, in Liber 88, page 368-9, notice is hereby given that said mortgagee intends to foreclose the same for condition broken, to wit: the non-payment of both principal and interest when due. ## CUTTING FREDDY'S HAIR.

Juniper Thought It an Easy Task, but He Was In Error.

"I wish, my dear," said Mrs. Juniper to her husband at the breakfast table, "that you would take Freddy down to your barber and have the child's hair cut."

"Nonsense!" was Juniper's discourteous reply.

"Why nonsense?"

"Because I can cut it myself and save a quarter," replied Mr. Juniper. "Why don't you cut the child's hair? My mother always cut my hair until I was grown."

"I don't care if she did," said Mrs. Juniper serenely, "your phenomenal mother did a great many things that I never expect to do. I never cut any one's hair and I don't intend to begin now. Freddy wouldn't let me if I tried."

"He wouldn't let you?"

"No, and he won't let you either."

"Oh, won't he?" derisively. "I think I see myself defied and defeated by a 4-year-old boy! I'll have that hair cut as neatly as any barber could cut it before that boy is an hour older." And Juniper began at once to make his word good.

"Come, Freddy, boy," he said enjoiningly. "Shall papa cut Freddy's hair? Yes, papa shall."

Juniper checked his elbow as he spoke and Freddy shook his tangled head defiantly.

"Papa's boy mustn't be naughty," said Juniper, chasing after the fleeing boy, catching him and plunking him down hard into a chair. Mrs. Juniper was not in the room; she was hidden behind a half open door, watching proceedings, and this is what she heard.

"Won't papa's boy let papa—keep still! Papa will buy Freddy a—if you don't keep still, papa will have to whip! Don't Freddy want the naughty long hair—sit still, I tell you! Now don't you budge or—keep still, I say! Stop squirming around like a fish!" Now you hold up your head, I tell you! Won't Freddy be nice and have his pretty hair—great Caesar! You made me come within an inch of gouging your eye out."

Freddy yells, and Juniper continues: "Keep still there! Hold up your—Fredrick James Juniper, are you going to mind me? I've set out to cut your hair, and I'll do it or I'll—Jerusalem! Here, Mondy, come quick! Get a pan of water and a rag! I've cut his ear half off, I guess, and I don't care if I have! Kept twisting and squirming and wriggling like an angworm every second! Mop up this blood, and when he's done bleeding put on his things and I'll take him to a barber and have his hair cut. If I have to put him into a straitjacket!"—Detroit Free Press.

Somewhat of a Liar Himself.

Chairman of Committee on Farmers' Jubilee—We want a balloonist that can go right through the clouds.

Aeronaut—Well, I guess I can satisfy you. Why, look here! A lot of Kansas farmers have been having bad luck with their wheat crops, and I have taken this contract to go up this summer and rearrange the signs of the zodiac for them. I've got a chunk of concentrated sunlight that I brought down from just southwest of the big dipper that I'd like to show you. But the last time I went up I had my strangest experience.

"What was it? Lasso a comet?"

"No. You see, I got somewhat tangled up among the cowpaths in the milky way, and when I finally found out which way the earth was it had revolved about half way around, and I had to just hoof my parachute in my zenith and hang there till old New Jersey rolled in sight again."

—Truth.

A New Experience.

Mr. Hiram Daly—Has the new cook made up her mind to stay?

Mrs. Hiram Daly—I think so.

Mr. Hiram Daly—Then discharge her at once.

Mrs. Hiram Daly—Discharge her! What for?

Mr. Hiram Daly—We've never had a chance of discharging one yet. I want to see how it feels.—New York Herald.

Important Distinction.

"You've been going to see her three years and don't dare to call her by her first name? Well, you are wasting your time. You're courting the wrong girl."

"No, she's the right girl. I'm afraid the trouble is that I'm the wrong man."—Chicago Tribune.

Information for Tourists.

A passenger by the last Colonial steamer was met on the dock by a Milesian American friend, who resides in Honolulu. As the pair waited to have the newcomer's grip sack scrawled over with chalk marks by the Customs Inspector at the gate the stranger remarked to his friend "Do you have much rain here?" RAINIER me boy, gallons of it, just come up to the Anchor Saloon where they keep it always, clear and cool. We'll just be in time for lunch too and that's the only place in town where they serve it up in proper style with a glass of RAINIER BEER to equilibrate the solids—They went!

ONE OF SYDNEY SMITH'S JOKES.

The Son Was a Sport, but the Father Took Him Down.

The famous Sydney Smith had a son who was interested in horses, dogs and sport. He was a talkative young man and an agreeable companion for those who had tastes similar to his own, but he was out of place at his father's table when distinguished prelates and dignitaries of the church were present. When the father was entertaining guests of this class, he seldom allowed the young man to be present.

One night there was to be a dinner to which the bishop of London and other clergymen of high rank had been invited. The son begged to have the privilege of a place at the table, remarking that he seldom was favored with the chance of making the acquaintance of the great clergy.

His father in reply said that the company would not be interested in stories about horses, dogs, racing and such matters, and that he feared his son would be unable to adapt his conversation to their tastes. The young man promised not to talk, but to listen, and was given permission to be present at the dinner.

He was as good as his word until the company were nearly through dinner, when there was an awkward pause in which no one seemed ready to start a fresh subject. In this crisis the son abruptly turned to the bishop and astonished the company by asking:

"Is your lordship able to tell me what was the condition of Nebuchadnezzar when he came off the grass?"

Sydney Smith, sitting at the head of the table, was horrified by this familiar application of sporting phrases to an incident of religious history, and quickly changed the subject, after remarking grimly to the bishop:

"I have always told my friends that my son possessed what might properly be called a stable mind."

The company laughed over the pun, and the young man, after turning red in the face, relapsed into silence, and made no further attempt to adapt his special knowledge of horses and racing stock to the entertainment of clerical society. The scene between father and son on the following morning is not recorded, but the father evidently enjoyed the joke, and frequently told the incident to his intimate friends.—Youth's Companion.

Terrible Threat.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the gifted tragedian Mr. Pshucks, coming forward to the footlights and speaking in a voice that rose high above the din, "if there is any mere hissing, howling or cat calling, or anything more thrown on the stage from the galleries during the further progress of the performance this evening, as sure as I stand here I shall relate half a dozen or more of Dr. Chauncey M. Depew's freshest and best anecdotes!"

A shudder passed through the audience, and in the midst of a profound, unearthly silence the gifted tragedian proceeded with his lines.—Chicago Tribune.

The Dealer's Privilege.

"But, your honor," shrieked the young lawyer, "you cannot fine my client $500. The law says that $25 is the extreme limit."

"Young man," answered the Oklahoma justice of the peace, "it might just as well be understood that I am doing the deal in this yer game, and I allow I kin raise the limit ef I so see fit."—Cincinnati Enquirer.
