RESISTING IMPROVEMENTS.

We are very glad that our street cars are being so well patronized. We trust their business will continue and increase. We confess we have never been able to see how this enterprise, with the most liberal estimates as to future patronage, could be made to pay, upon any such basis of cost as is commonly reported. However, it is not our money which is involved, and we sincerely hope the investors are not mistaken in their calculations. Great as is the public convenience involved in this enterprise, we are not at all surprised that it should have excited enmity in some quarters, and that this feeling should have vented itself in a way characteristic of low natures. It is impossible to introduce any changes into the world's routine, however beneficial they may be, whether the same affect agriculture, manufactures, the means of locomotion, or anything else, without producing a temporary derangement in which some one shall seem to be the loser. If such people happen to be of the vulgar and backward order, they will show their resentment in vicious and cowardly attempts to injure the persons or property of those who they assume to be their enemies. Such acts are annoying, sometimes worse, but they never seriously affect the final result. The world moves.

APPOINTMENTS AND PROMOTIONS.

A rule is attempted to be laid down by those who appear to worship theories regardless of practical considerations, that all vacancies in the public service should be filled by the appointment of the person next below. Now this mode of proceeding is in many instances right and proper, just to individuals, as well as beneficial to the public. But it is by no means always so, nor even generally, in such conditions as have existed in the public service of this country for the last year and a half.

The appointment of Mr. Foster as Police Justice may be admitted to be an excellent one, though we have never understood that clerks of courts were in the direct line of promotion to the bench. If he makes a good judge, as we have no doubt he will, it will be mainly by reason of his mental and moral qualifications and of a legal education which he did not get in the position he has just vacated. We presume Messrs. Smith and Reist are perfectly qualified for the positions to which they have been respectively advanced. Such being the case their promotion is to be commended. But we deny that any possible length of service in the routine of clerical work will afford any presumptive evidence of either of them being qualified to exercise judicial functions. They may or may not be, but nothing can be proved either one way or the other by any such test. We have nothing to say against Judge Bickerton's record in his present position, but the fact that he had been Police Justice for three or four years, or even ten times as long, could neither make him nor prove him qualified to deal with the higher, more complicated and very different questions which come before the highest legal tribunal in the Kingdom. If he has proved a good judge, let us be thankful, but we suppose the honorable gentleman himself would be quite willing to admit that equally good appointments have often been made direct from the ranks of the profession. According to these theorists, a great injustice was done, and the public service received a vicious blow, when, upon the death of Judge Fernander, Judge Dayton was passed over, and S. B. Dole, Esq., who had never had any judicial experience, was appointed to fill the vacancy. For our own part, although we have a high regard for Judge Dayton, we fail to see either the injustice or the impolicy.

It may be admitted that among those doing ordinary routine work of a similar character, in any of the departments, promotions should be made generally, though by no means invariably, in the regular line of succession. But when we get outside the range of these cases, of which the Clerk's Office of the Supreme Court furnishes a very good example, we shall find this much wanted rule subject to so many and such striking exceptions as to be practically no rule at all. It is a rule which men of ability and success are never found adopting in their own business, except in a very limited and modified way.

As regards most branches of the public business, there is a deal of humbug about the wonderful value of "years of practical training in the service," and the superlative results of "long training in subordinate positions in the same department." Very fine words certainly, but they represent a very moderate amount of fact. In all the ordinary routine positions in the public service, there is nothing mysterious, complicated, or profound. Any man possessed of a fair degree of aptitude and good powers of application can master the details of such work in a short time, and be just as efficient with a few months of experience, as he would in as many years. Another class of positions, considerable in number, and vital in importance, require either special professional training, or the possession of certain personal qualifications, such as energy, organizing power, executive ability, the gift of handling and controlling men, or other special aptitudes of various kinds. These things are born in men, not acquired in offices. Of course these qualities can be greatly developed and improved by practice and experience. But unless the foundation is well laid in the nature of the man, no amount of "long training in subordinate positions" can ever supply the deficiency.

To shove a man along up in a purely routine and matter of course way, simply because the next place above him happens to be vacant is not the best way to encourage merit, or strengthen the public service. Confined to a certain limited range of application, the idea is a good one, and has a tendency to encourage fidelity in subordinate public servants. Crystallized into a machine and worshiped as a fetish, it is as dangerous and demoralizing as other forms of idolatry.

THE SITUATION IN SAMOA.

Each succeeding month has brought us more and more serious information regarding the complications that exist in Samoa. The whole trouble has arisen from the greed and selfishness of the Germans in their desire to acquire illegal possession of the property that rightfully belonged to others. The remarkable fertility of the Samoan Islands renders them a desirable acquisition to any nation, and their geographical position is of prime importance. From a commercial standpoint, they were valuable to the Germans, who control nine-tenths of the trade, and it was not, therefore, surprising that so far a land should be regarded as a fit place for looting. There was an obstacle in the way, however, in the person of the King, Malietoa, who maintained his patriotic spirit, and refused to give away the lands of his forefathers at the dictation of foreigners. Malietoa had been a good King, and was respected by his subjects. He was not the sort of a man that the Germans wanted. They insolently seized and deported him from his native home, setting up the usurper, Tamasese, in his place. Here the Germans have shown a far more barbarous nature than did the unfortunate Malietoa. But they have been fortunately balked in their unlawful desires; not by the so-called civilized nations of the earth, which have looked passively at the German arrogance, but by the loyal followers of the real King and owner of Samoa. These natives have alone protected their own property from a foreign nation's attacks and desires, and their action should bring a blush of shame to the powers of other countries, who have been content to sit and watch a helpless people while being robbed of their belongings. There is but one person who comes out of this disgraceful affair with clean hands, and that is the Captain of the U. S. Adams. He has openly protested against the German aggressiveness, and has been a check upon their actions. He has, moreover, protected, not only the property of American citizens, but also that of the British. It is deplorable to think that, in a civilized age, a so-called civilized nation should be permitted to outrage all laws of decency and justice by attacking and attempting to rob a harmless and peaceful native islander. We are glad to know that the German puppet has been defeated by the faithful followers of the lawful King, who has been so insulted and degraded. If this be not a sufficient lesson for the Germans, then it is high time they were taught another, and by more powerful opponents.—[News Letter.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritious food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government."

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public."

HAWAIIAN ALMANAC &amp; ANNUAL.

An Excellent Issue of this Standard Handbook for 1889.

A perusal of the work named above is convincing that Mr. T. G. Thrum, the compiler and publisher, was justified in announcing it as the best yet published. Besides an enlarged and improved series of directory and reference departments, there are articles by specialists as follows:

"Some Noted Battles of Hawaiian History"—Anonymous.
 "Artesian Wells on Oahu"—Anonymous.
 "Early Constitution of the Judiciary of the Hawaiian Islands"—Hon. A. F. Judd, Chief Justice.
 "Brief History of the Steam Coasting Service of the Hawaiian Islands"—Anonymous.
 "First Water Pipe for Honolulu"—Editor.
 "Retrospect of the Year 1888"—Editor.
 "Introduction of Queen's Land Cane"—C. N. Spencer.
 Necrology of the past year, judicial and other statistics, besides much other matter of value for present and future information, are sandwiched between the more lengthy articles. Custom House statistics are brought up to the end of December last.

The work is, in short, indispensable for the library, counting room, and professional office.

ANCIENT ORDER FORESTERS.

Installation of Officers on Tuesday Evening.
 Court Lunailo, No. 6000, had the following officers for the current term installed yesterday evening, by Thomas Lindsay, Past Chief Ranger, assisted by T. Muldoon:
 D. Douglas, C. R. (re-elected).
 Thos. Muldoon, S. C. R.
 F. Wicke, Treasurer.
 Thos. Lindsay, Secretary.
 A. Guild, S. W.
 M. J. Silva, J. W.
 J. A. M. Osorio, S. B.

HONOLULU RIFLES.

Election of New Officers in Company B.
 Company B, Honolulu Rifles, met at the Armory yesterday evening and elected the following officers:
 Captain, J. H. Fisher.
 First Lieutenant, Alex. Robertson.
 Second Lieutenant, Thos. E. Wall.
 The company considered what to do with the trophy rifle won at the match on the King's Birthday. It was decided to put it up for competition, but to keep it for an ornament in the company's room at the Armory.

Personal.
 Dr. L. F. Alvarez and Mr. E. Halstead, both of Wailua, registered at the Hawaiian Hotel on Tuesday.

Cel. Norris returned from his estate, the Kahuku ranch, Kau, by the W. G. Hall. He says it was very rough at sea.
 Rev. Oliver P. Emerson, Corresponding Secretary elect of the Hawaiian Board of Missions, is expected by the steamer Australia.

Mr. C. L. Hopkins has decided to remain in the position of Deputy Marshal. Both the Marshal and the Attorney-General were desirous of retaining his experienced services.

An Early Alarm.

Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was rung from Engine House No. 4, immediately followed by a general alarm. The fire, which was located in a passageway leading to the rear of Chinese stores on Nuuanu street, opposite the old Hollister premises, was well under way before No. 4's volunteer boys had a stream on from the hydrant near by. Engines 4 and 2 responded promptly but their services were not required as the fire was soon extinguished. Survey Engineer White of the Fire Department then made a thorough search of the place and discovered a lot of rags, shavings, broken bottles, etc., well saturated with kerosene oil, piled up in a corner and partly burned. The fire was from all appearances the work of incendiaryism and will probably be investigated by the Marshal to-day.

A Manslaughter Trial.

The trial of Waialeale, the policeman, for manslaughter by causing the death of a Chinaman at Koolau, in a combat between police and Chinese, was begun yesterday with the probability of continuing throughout today. It is being conducted wholly in Hawaiian and Chinese. Mr. Castle conducting the prosecution and Mr. Kaulikonu the defense. During the taking of testimony the prisoner neatly dressed was vigorously taking notes so that spectators were wondering if his trial was going on in his absence, all in sight before the tribunal seeming to be lawyers and Court officials. The co-defendant, Ahaula, will be tried separately, Mr. Rosa being his counsel.

ELECTRIC KILLING.

Experiments Made With Reference to the New York Law.

A New York despatch of December 5th reports experiments conducted at Edison's laboratory, in order that the new law of that State, requiring capital punishment to be performed by electricity, may be administered in a humane manner. The correspondent telegraphs the following:

On January 1, 1889, the law requiring electrical execution goes into effect, but until to-day the amount and character of the current required to make death certain and instantaneous had not been determined.

The experiments upon dogs last summer by Harold P. Brown, an electrical engineer, were criticized because the weight of the animals killed was less than that of a man, and it was supposed that more of a current would be required to kill a human being on that account.

This afternoon Brown was given an opportunity to make a demonstration before Edwidge T. Gary, author of the Electrical Execution law, and a committee appointed by the Medico-Legal Society to report on the best means of putting the law into effect.

The experiments were made at Edison's laboratory, and the first victim was a calf weighing 124½ pounds. The hair was cut on the forehead and on the spine and behind the forelegs, and sponge-covered plates, moistened with a solution of sulphate of zinc were fastened in place. The resistance of the animal was 3,200 ohms. An alternating current of 700 volts was applied for thirty-five seconds and the animal was dead.

It was at once dissected by Drs. Ingram and Bleyer, but the brain, heart and lungs were found to be in a normal condition and the meat was pronounced to be fit for food.

The second calf weighed 142 pounds and had a resistance of 1,300 ohms. A deadly alternating current at 700 volts pressure was applied for five seconds and produced death.

To settle permanently the weight question, a horse weighing 1,230 pounds was next killed by passing an alternating current at 700 volts from one foreleg to the other. The resistance of this animal was 11,000 ohms.

The experiments proved the alternating current to be the most deadly force known to science and that less than half of the pressure used in this city for electric lighting by this system is sufficient to cause instant death.

HOW SOME KINGS DIED.

Henry I. of gluttony.
 Edward VI. of a decline.
 Charles I. on the scaffold.
 Richard III. was killed in battle.
 Henry VIII. of caruncles, fat and fury.

George III. as he had lived—a madman.
 George IV. of gluttony and drunkenness.
 Henry VII. wasted away as a miser.

James I. of drinking and the effects of vice.
 Charles II. suddenly, it is said of apoplexy.

Edward V. was strangled in the Tower by his uncle, Richard III.

William Rufus died the death of the poor stag which he hunted.
 Henry II. of a broken heart, occasioned by the bad conduct of his children.

George I. from drunkenness, which his physicians called an apoplectic fit.
 William III. of consumptive habits of body and from the stumbling of his horse.

Edward III. of dotage, and Richard II. of starvation—the reverse of George IV.

Henry VI. in prison, by means known then only to his jailer, and now only known in Heaven.

William the Conqueror from enormous fat, from drink, and from the violence of his passions.

George II. died of a rupture of the heart, which the periodicals of that day termed a visitation of God.

Richard Cœur de Lion, like the animal from which his heart was named, died by an arrow from an archer.

Edward II. was barbarously and indecently murdered by ruffians employed by his own wife and her paramour.

Henry V. is said to have died of a "painful affliction prematurely." This is a courtly term for getting rid of a King.

Edward I. is also said to have died of a "natural sickness"—a sickness which would puzzle all the college physicians to denominate.

Henry IV. is said to have died of "fits caused by uneasiness," and uneasiness in palaces in those times was a common complaint.

H. Y. &amp; B. C.

Meeting on Tuesday Evening—Election of Officers Postponed One Month.

There was not so large an attendance as was desired at the annual meeting of the Honolulu Yacht and Boat Club yesterday evening. Mr. Mark P. Robinson, Vice-President, was in the chair. The election of officers was postponed until a special meeting a month thence. A general discussion took place upon the state of the organization, and a committee thereupon was appointed consisting of Messrs. B. Orin, E. H. M. Whitney, Jr., L. J. Levey, W. M. Giffard and M. P. Robinson. This committee will take into consideration the financial and general status of the club and report, with such recommendations as it may adopt, to a special meeting to be held on or before February 5th.

The Tramways Company.

The Tramways Company has received two new cars by the John D. Spreckels, which gives them six in all. Four new cars are yet to arrive from San Francisco, and it is probable that they will all be required to serve the increasing wants of the traveling public. In this connection, it has been suggested that the time by which the cars are started at both ends of the route be that of the Government Survey Office, which is given every day at 12 o'clock noon, Lucas' steam whistle being the exact noon time each day. The starting of the cars at the eastern end of the route has not been as regular as it might be.

Supreme Court—At Chambers.

TUESDAY, JAN. 8.
 Law Division. Before Mr. Justice McCully. Bankruptcy of A. M. Hewett. W. A. Whiting for petitioner. A. M. Hewett on his own petition is adjudged bankrupt. Monday, January 14th, is set for proof of claims and appointment of assignees.

Kahanani vs. Ashford. Crim. con. Rosa for plaintiff; Creighton for defendant. Ordered on defendant's motion that plaintiff give security in the sum of $100 for costs to accrue.

SUPREME COURT.

January Term—Mr. Justice Bickerton Presiding.

TUESDAY, JAN. 8.
 The Court opens at 10 a. m. Hawaiian jurors in attendance. Noon recess from 12 m. till 1:27 p. m.

The King vs. James Bennett. Sentence deferred yesterday. Sentence of lower Court affirmed—eighteen months' imprisonment and $50 fine.

The Princeville Plantation Company vs. Mauiola et al. Ejectment. A. S. Hartwell for plaintiff; A. Rosa for defendants. Decision reserved yesterday on motion to transfer cause on calendar. Motion of plaintiff denied, that of defendant allowed.

G. Aio vs. Wm. Lindsay et al. Assumpsit. Cecil Brown for plaintiff; no appearance of or for defendant. Motion for default and judgment entered.

The King vs. Waialeale and Ahaula. Manslaughter, 2d degree. Deputy Attorney-General Peterson and W. R. Castle for the Crown; J. L. Kaulukou and A. Rosa for the defendants respectively. Waialeale is tried separately before a Hawaiian jury.

TALMAGE'S ELOQUENCE.

Vivid Description of an Evening Service in the Brooklyn Tabernacle.

The first object that strikes the visitor to the Brooklyn Tabernacle is the immense organ. Promptly at 7:15 o'clock the organist runs his fingers over the ivory keys, and plays two or three selections. At the exact moment of 7:30 Doctor Talmage walks on the platform. His black broadcloth frock coat is thrown open. A turned-down collar encircles his neck and a black tie covers his snowy shirt front. He drops into a blue plush chair, and a moment is spent in prayer. Then he adjusts his glasses to his eyes and opens his Bible. The organ peals forth, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." A stout, well-built man steps on a small platform and waves his right hand. In his left he holds a silver cornet. This he puts to his mouth and leads the vast audience in song. There is no choir or quartette in the Tabernacle. The singing is entirely by the congregation. After this Dr. Talmage steps forward. The peal of the organ has hardly died away before he announces his Bible reading. He holds the good book in his right hand, close to his face. His left hand steals around to his back and clutches nervously at his coat-tail. He begins in a well-rounded but not musical voice. The vast audience is hushed in expectancy. The fall of a pin could be heard. Slowly the preacher proceeds. It is the ever delightful story of Ruth that he has selected. He reads sentence after sentence and in a conversational way injects comments until the old story that all the world has laughed and cried over is invested with a new light and a new meaning. After this another hymn and then the collection. As the pennies, dimes and quarters jingle musically together in the collection boxes the cornetist plays again. The great church is by this time full to overflowing. There isn't standing room anywhere. Massive chandeliers light up the building perfectly, and the stained glass windows make a pretty and effective background. Then the sermon begins. The preacher comes down to the front of the platform without notes or even a book in his hand. He doesn't use a table or pulpit. He stands alone. Every eye is on him. He gives out his text in a clear, loud, ringing voice, and repeats it twice. He usually begins the sermon by a hasty word picture of the scene where the text is laid, or by an anecdote. The sermon lasts forty minutes. It is full of vigor and earnestness. Indeed, that is the chief characteristic of Talmage on the platform. He is in earnest. He talks quickly, nervously. He paces up and down the platform, and now tells a story in a low, sweet voice, and again he belches forth like Vesuvius, and makes the chandeliers rattle with the sound of his voice. At times he is intensely humorous. Again, he is so dramatic that the conviction forces itself upon you that if he had taken to the stage instead of the pulpit he would have made a great actor.

"What words did the Master use when the winds and waves lashed Galilee into a fury?" he shouts. He steps back a half-dozen feet, and for a moment there is silence. Then he comes rushing down the platform like a tornado until he reaches the very edge. His hands are uplifted. He turns his face to the ceiling until his mouth is on a straight line with his ears, and in a pleading voice says, softly, musically: "Peace!" Quick as a flash his hands come down. His face has lost its sweetness. His voice is changed and harsh, and the sentence is completed by an awful and intensely dramatic yell: "Be still!" It is the voice of authority. Galilee is stilled. There are "Ohs" in the audience, and a man in a pew in front of me leans over to his companion and whispers: "I never understood the meaning of that sentence before."

The vast audience never loses interest. It is an audience made up of fully two-thirds of men between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-five. They belong to all walks of life. Some are students, others are actors and playwrights, young ministers, bankers, brokers, lawyers, and storekeepers. They laugh at the anecdotes, and they cry and they listen reverently, tenderly, to the mainly pleading to come to Jesus.

The preacher knows every lute string in the human heart. He draws magnificent pictures in words, but he never forgets to send home solid truths. It is like a panorama. The curtain is rising and falling on resplendent pictures. They dazzle the listeners. The eye is soothed and the ear charmed.

The big clock in the rear of the church points to nine. Not a soul moves. The sermon is nearly over. Look! the last picture is shown! It is Gethsemane!

There is the Mountain, the Cross and the Saviour of Men!—Foster Coates, in N. Y. Mail and Express.

—Jay Gould is reported to have said that the speculators have made a plaything of his health for years, and that he could shake Wall street to its foundation by simply standing on the steps of the Stock Exchange building striking his forehead with his hand and giving a groan or two.

—Cheese Omelet.—Grate an ounce of rich old cheese quite fine, sprinkle or sift it over the beaten egg, stir in lightly, together with a teaspoonful of chopped parsley or green sage, thyme, or sweet marjoram, and cook as directed for other omelets.

Silver, generally a very desirable metal, is a source of great annoyance in the manufacture of white lead, for it present in an appreciable quantity, it spoils the color of the finished product, owing to the well known blackening effect of light upon the salts of silver.—Globe Democrat.

SHURMAN AT IT AGAIN.

The members of the Lynn Cycle Club took a trip down to Portland. The party comprised J. H. Young, J. H. Shurman, A. B. Carley, E. G. Borgoltz, J. F. Allen, J. F. Dow, J.
H. Littlefield, A. W. Lewis and A. Wiswell. On their arrival in Portland, and after a good breakfast at the Preble House, the Portland Wheel Club took the visitors in hand for a run to Fronts Neck, a distance of some fourteen miles. On the way out the party passed Sparwick Hill, an eminence that has never been climbed by a cyclist. To the surprise of the Down Easters, Shurman announced that he would ride up the hill if any one of the Portland men would ride down. This was very promptly agreed to, as the local men to the amazement of the Lynn men made the locals anxious to see what the visitor could do with the Park Street Hill, a terror to Portland wheelmen, and one that has never been climbed more than twice in succession. So on Monday the party repaired to the hill, and after Carley, Allen and Littlefield had climbed it once and cried enough, Shurman went at it and went up and down six times without a dismount. To say that the Portland men were dumfounded is putting it mildly. Shurman rode his Springfield Roadster. (Will some Portland reader kindly give us the grades of the Sparwick and Park Street Hills, and oblige? Ed. Bicycle World.)
