New EDLF Rules Seek Autonomy

New proposed rules and regulations for the Economic Development Loan Fund which would give its board vast autonomous powers and were signed by Gov. Camacho, have been turned down for technical reasons, it was learned this week.

According to the new EDLF regulations, its 10-member board of directors would be cut to five who would have the sole authority to borrow funds from within the Commonwealth or from foreign countries, issue bonds and to pledge the full faith and credit of the fund.

The new rules which were obtained by the Marianas Variety this week also provide that a board member may only be removed by either three-fourth of the board, or by the governor with the approval of the majority of the board.

A decision is still pending in U.S. District Court which challenges the power of the governor to remove a board member he appointed under the present rules in the case brought by Calistro Izuka who was fired by Gov. Camacho last summer.

Neither Fred Camacho, executive director of the EDLF or the fund's attorney, Joseph Hill, could be reached for comment since both were off-island. Manny A. Sablan, the chairman, who signed the new regulations on Sept. 18, also could not be contacted.

Gov. Camacho signed the new regulations on Oct. 5, even though they apparently would take away any power he has to remove members, as he believes he has now. In the hearing on the Izuka dismissal, the attorney general's office claimed that the governor may remove any board member he has appointed.

The regulations were to be published in the October Commonwealth Register for public comment, but were not accepted. Lulu Alepuyo, the

MVB Head Says Customs Overdoes Searches

The head of the Marianas Visitors Bureau thinks that NMI customs officers are overdoing it when they insist on searching every piece of baggage brought in by airline passengers.

But customs and agricultural officials say they are just complying with quarantine regulations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in their thorough inspections.

"Nowhere in the world have I ever encountered such searches as here," said J.M. Guerrero, executive director of the MVB.

He said that his office contacted customs last week to advise them that the Japan Travel Bureau's 17 regional managers were going to meet in Saipan over the weekend and to search their luggage only at random rather than each piece.

"We tried to help them, to impress them so that they would push tourism here," said Guerrero.

Instead, he said, each piece of luggage was opened and searched, and not on a random basis as is done in most other parts of the world.

Pat Boyer, acting chief of revenue and finance which also handles customs, said that her office received a request to allow MVB people into the baggage area, but that the luggage of every person, including that of the governor and foreign dignitaries has to go through customs inspections.

She said that combining customs and quarantine inspections has created tighter regulations since inspectors now look for illegal plants as well as contraband.

Nick Guerrero, chief of agriculture, said that under a memorandum of understanding with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, its regulations are being followed.

He said his inspectors are on

STRICKEN WHILE IN ROTA

DPS Director, 32, Dies

The body of Jose M. Sablan, the Commonwealth's first director of public safety who died Tuesday, was scheduled to be return to Saipan today.

Sablan, 32, died at about 6 p.m. Tuesday in Guam Memorial Hospital after being stricken in a hotel room in Rota earlier that day.

The body is to be taken to the San Antonio home of his uncle, Vicente Babauta, Sunday, and interment is planned for Monday at Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

Jose Babauta, chief of police, was named director of the Department of Public Safety which includes the police, fire and corrections divisions.

Sablan had gone to Rota Monday afternoon and attended a campaign rally that night at which he spoke briefly. The following morning witnesses said, they had difficulty rousing him in his room at the Pau Pau Hotel. An ambulance took him to Rota's dispensary but no doctor was on duty. A corpsman radioed Saipan for help and a plane chartered from Freedom Air carrying Dr. Larry Moher and head nurse Ana A. Sablan, the director's aunt, arrived about 2 p.m.

Sablan was evacuated to Guam that afternoon and died at Guam Memorial Hospital that evening, apparently from a stroke.

He graduated from John F. Kennedy High School in Guam in 1968 and joined the police force in Saipan that year. He was promoted to sergeant in 1970, became a trial assistant and police lieutenant in 1974,

Beaches Score High, Night Life Low In Poll

Saipan's swimming and beaches rated high with tourists, who had less favorable impressions of the night life and cultural activities.

Most, 79%, are between 21 and 40 years old, single, came with friends and colleagues on package tours and have an education beyond high school.

These were some of the facts learned in the third annual survey conducted for the Marianas Visitors Bureau in a one-month period from July 20 to Aug. 20 by the Travel Journal Institute of Tokyo, Japan's largest travel industry school.

J.M. Guerrero, executive director of MVB, said that while the survey may not be indicative of visitors during the rest of the year, it gave him useful information on marketing techniques for 1982 and other data.

He said that the survey taken from among 139 tourists showed that their income had risen over last year, with 77% earning $10,000 a year or more compared with 1980's 68%. The higher income figure also applied to family earnings during 1981. Seventy-one percent had educations beyond high school, and 53% were females.

Guerrero said that the survey results may be somewhat distorted because they were compiled during the height of the summer which is a family travel period in Japan. But the results showed that 44% of those interviewed said they traveled with friends or colleagues, while only 5% did so last year, Guerrero said.

Of those surveyed, 76% are from Japan, 19.5 from the United States, including 6.5% from Guam, and 4.5% from other countries. Hong Kong was home for 1.5% of the visitors, and Fiji, Korea and Singapore had 0.75 each.

Single persons exceeded marrieds 50.5% to 45.5%. The rest were widowed.

Of the visitors, 80% said it was their first trip to Saipan; and 42% of those planning further travel said they wanted to visit Guam.

Only 3% said their stay exceeded their expectations; 19% said it was better than expected; 57% that it was about what they expected; 20% said they were somewhat disappointed and 1% was very disappointed.

Among Saipan's attractions, 92% said they liked the swimming, beaches and sea; 64% the beautiful tropical nature; 30% the water sports; 28% the shopping; and 20% the historic sites and war memorials.

Less enjoyable they found night tours, 4%; fishing diving and golf, 4% each; Saipanese culture, 6%, and tennis and windsurfing, 1%.

Of the month's visitors only

4% said they were honeymooners, but Guerrero said that this was not typical over a year's period.

The visitors said that 74% came on a package tour and the largest single group, 34% spent $501-$700, with a few less and a larger number spending more.

In addition, they spent an average of $88 on meals; $70 on entertainment; $13 on jewelry; $27 on photo supplies; $55 on liquor and tobacco; $70 on perfume and $125 on souvenirs.

Of the five major hotels, the Hyatt received the most excellent ratings, 32%, and another 46% said it was good. The Inter-Continental received a 5% excellent and 22.5% good rating; the Hafa Adai, 7.5% excellent and 37% good, and the Grand, 4% excellent and 54% good. No ratings were received for the Royal Taga Hotel.

The survey was conducted at the hotels by Hiromi Goto and Kazuko Tabaka, the MVB summer interns from Japan.

Mistrial Ruling Asked

A motion has been filed with Commonwealth Judge Herbert D. Soll to set aside a mistrial ruling in the case of Joaquin P. Villanueva, who had been tried by a jury on a charge of marijuana trafficking. A hearing is scheduled next Wednesday.

The hung jury came about from a misunderstanding between the judge and the jurors.

When informed at noon Saturday by jury foreman Leonard Sine that the six-member panel was hopelessly deadlocked, Soll declared the mistrial.

It was learned only later that while the panel was deadlocked 5-0 to convict Eulogio P. Sablan, it had voted unanimously to convict Villanueva, Prosecutor Rex Kosack said.

He said apparently the jurors thought they had to make a unanimous decision on both defendants when Soll asked about their progress. The jury had deliberated about seven hours on Friday, was sequestered overnight at the Royal Taga Hotel and resumed deliberations on Saturday.

Kosack said that if his motion to set aside the mistrial ruling is denied, he will have to decide whether to seek a new trial.

The defendants were charged with bringing 24 pounds of marijuana from Saipan to Rota concealed in the false bottom of two cartons containing clothing.

Man, 85, Dies Of Beating Injuries

An autopsy conducted Wednesday on an elderly man indicated his death was the result of a beating to the head.

Juan Dowai, 85, was admitted to Dr. Torres Hospital Sept. 27 with cuts and bruises and bleeding head injuries. He died in the hospital last Saturday. The death certificate listed the cause as a homicide due to intra-cranial hemorrhage and cerebral edema.

Rex Kosack, chief of the attorney general's criminal division, said that police could not proceed with their investigation because the victim was unable to talk to them.

He said police arrested one of the victim's sons, Jesus N. Dowai, 32, on suspicion of assault and battery on Sept. 27 but released him a few hours later pending an investigation of the case.

Kosack said his future actions will be determined by the results of the autopsy which is required when deaths result from suspicious circumstances.

Ham Radio Operators Seek New Contact Record In Saipan

Saipan will be one of the most popular places in the world this weekend when amateur radio operators around the world will try to make contact.

It will be the annual DX (long distance) contest during which hams will try to make as many contacts as possible during a 48 hour period. Since Saipan, along with the Netherlands Antilles is one of the rarer and more exotic contact points in the world, the air waves here will be buzzing, according to amateur radio operators.

Three hams from California and three from Japan will work as a team from the home of Byrd Brunemeier, acting director of KSAI and himself a ham operator. He and members of the Saipan Amateur Radio Club will assist the visitors with setting up equipment.

"This place will look like Cape Kennedy," joked Brunemeier, who will make two rooms in his Chalan Piao home available to the guests.

He said there are about 100,000 hams in Japan, many of whom will try to contact Saipan. The visitors will work in shifts and probably will be able to score tens of thousands of contacts, Brunemeier said. Each contract will take no more than 10 or 12 seconds with experienced operators, he explained.

CQ Magazine will compile the contact logs and determine the winner of the event, he said. The contest runs from 10 a.m. Saturday to 10 a.m. Monday.

Australian Shipper Sues Firms For Payment Of Meat Cargos

An Australian shipping company is seeking to recover money that it asserts is owed for two shipments of frozen beef delivered to Saipan.

In the complaint filed in U.S. District Court, Australian Shipping Commission doing business as Australian National Lines, claimed it had paid the owner of the cargo Australian $60,000, and wants to get back that money, plus $8,000 in attorneys fees.

Named as defendants are Oceania Lines, Inc., Mar-Aus Enterprises, Inc. and Saipan Stevedoring Company.

According to the suit, the plaintiff accepted 582 cartons of frozen beef, worth $23,292 for delivery to Saipan on May 23, 1978, and another 1,099 cartons worth $58,115 on July 8, 1978.

Both orders were shipped to Guam and barged by Oceania from there to Saipan, the suit said where they were unloaded on the pier by the stevedore firm. The complaint alleges that the cargo was released to Mar-Aus without receiving the original bill of lading or payment.

The owner of the cargo brought suit against the shipper in Australia and the plaintiff was obliged to pay him $60,000 in Australian money, the suit said.

The plaintiffs are also asking the court to award legal fees and order the condemnation of the barge and its sale to pay for the award.

The suit was filed by the Guam law firm of Franz, Williams, Gruskin and Ashton, in association with Saipan attorney Ramon G. Villagomez.

GOV. CARLOS S. CAMACHO (COMMONWEALTH POPULAR-DEMOCRATIC PARTY)

Our goal is for the election of competent, honest and dedicated people for the several public offices. I am committed 100% to support all the candidates in the Commonwealth Popular-Democratic Party, including our incumbent CNMI Washington Representative and the candidates on Tinian and Rota.

SEN. PETE P. TENORIO (REPUBLICAN PARTY)

Our efforts for this forthcoming election are not towards the defeat of any specific legislator, but strictly towards winning every seat in the Legislature. We are not campaigning against a single individual. We are campaigning to change the present administration and the best way to accomplish this is for all our candidates to win the November election. I am very optimistic that we can achieve this goal and I have every confidence that our citizens will give us their trust and support us in this endeavor.

SEN. HERMAN R. GUERRERO (DEMOCRATIC PARTY)

We are working very hard to make sure our candidates for the Senate and the House of Representatives; however, if the people should elect other persons, we are prepared to cooperate and work closely with them for the betterment of our people. In seeking solutions to our problems, we will seek compromises in reaching agreements with the Legislature and elected leaders.

GOV. CAMACHO

In order to understand all implications of this question, one has to understand the history and background relative to the Commonwealth. The Northern Mariana Islands have been a part of the U.S. strategic Trusteeship in the Pacific for the past 35-36 years; policies that were followed and infrastructure that was developed was determined by the U.S. Government in consultation with the United Nations. It is only since 1978 that we have had a measure of self-government and that we have been trying to develop the private sector of our economy. In this framework, the Covenant which created the Commonwealth in political union with the United States in 1978 was negotiated. The annual payment, the so-called Covenant funds, and any federal programs money that the people of the Northern Marianas receive is a quid pro quo for the eventual use of public land on Tinian and Saipan by the U.S. military for the defense of the United States Mainland. Further, the CNMI political and economic assistance is part of an overall agreement, be it formal or implied, that takes for granted that the CNMI will not allow other nations, especially those against the United States, to come in and control our islands. We do not consider these payments to be welfare. If these islands have a role to play in any contingent defense of the U.S. Mainland, then our people have accepted any potential associated risks by agreeing to the Covenant. As part of the Covenant, it was understood that the Northern Marianas Government will encourage the development of its private sector economy. As you know, we still have a long way to go in this endeavor. Our infrastructure — roads, ports, irrigation systems, water, power, telephone — needs to be strengthened in order to entice off-island private investment to come here and to encourage our own people to risk their savings in order to set up businesses.

All in all, I hope that we can be allowed to work towards increasing self-reliance and a diversified economy, somewhat like that of Hawaii, which has military, tourism, agriculture, fisheries and a certain amount of manufacturing, and that we will not be forced to become a welfare state.

The Commonwealth Popular-Democratic Party platform will be the basic working document embracing all the islands of the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas and allowing for some degree of flexibility and modification, etc. It will be pursued vigorously and with determination toward its accomplishment.

It should also be noted that we will make every effort to work closely and harmoniously with the Third CNMI Legislature.

SEN. TENORIO

Yes, the Commonwealth has become too dependent to U.S. funds, but it is not a simple matter of choice alone that we are financially dependent on U.S. for funding our government operations, CIP, EDLF, and other programs. By virtue of our covenant agreement, the U.S. is committed to extend financial assistance to the Commonwealth. It will be unwise to turn such assistance down: Where could we find the funds to run our government otherwise? Our present resources are limited. Our tax bases are limited. We, therefore, will have to rely on the covenant funds for survival until such time that we could be economically and financially self-sustaining. Till then we will have to face reality and accept our present status.

On the basis of the above, I guess it is accurate to say that the Commonwealth is on its way to becoming a welfare state, particularly if nothing is done during the next four years to generate more local revenue to replace the covenant's funds due for a review and a re-negotiation in 1985.

SEN. GUERRERO

There is somehow a feeling among some segments of our community that it is wrong for our people to receive federal assistance. We disagree with that notion. As Americans, we are entitled, as any American is, to entitlements of benefits in various federal programs. This does not mean, however, we should not rely on our own abilities and resources to create a better way of life for ourselves and future generations. In fact, in view of President Reagan's policies and programs, it is wise and farsighted for the Northern Marianas to begin to wean itself from the federal largess to avoid adverse consequences of cuts in federal programs. With this in mind, our Administration will work hard in the next four years to shift the reliance of our people on government to the private sector for their means of livelihood. This is what we see as the greatest challenge facing our government in the next four years, which challenge can only be met through a union of the government and the private sector under strong and capable political leadership to develop a more self-sufficient and self-reliant economy. Senator Froilan C. Tenorio and I sincerely believe we can provide such leadership better than the other two teams.

Disturbance At Party Rally Probed

The attorney general's office is investigating a police report of a disturbance at the Commonwealth Popular Democratic Party rally in Tanapag last Friday night in which House Speaker Joaquin I. Pangelinan received minor injuries.

According to the police, two separate scuffles took place at the meeting hall.

The first, according to Martin Camacho, the governor's bodyguard, occurred about 11:15 p.m. when a man identified as Victorino Igitol allegedly took the microphone away from Isidro Sablan, and started campaigning against the Popular Democrats. He and his companions left when the amplification system was shut off, the report said.

Sometime later, Camacho reported, a man identified as Fermin Lifofoi, assertedly picked up a rock, but when stopped by the policeman, threw it over the building roof. The bodyguard then told Gov. Camacho who had attended the rally to get into his car to be driven home. He said he was punched in the shoulder and Pangelinan who attempted to assist him, received scratches on his arm.

Police sent the report to Prosecutor Rex Kosack who said his office will investigate the matter to determine if charges will be filed.

Attao Asks Source On Television Ads

The Democratic Party campaign chairman wants to know if Gov. Camacho is using material in his television campaign advertising that was bought with public funds.

In a letter to Attorney General Richard Lassman, Rep. Ben Attao asked him to determine as soon as possible if the governor is using any segment or byproduct of films made with public funds, and if so, if it is proper or legal. If found improper, he asks him to stop such use, and if illegal, to prosecute.

Lassman is off-island this week. Peter V.N. Esser, the acting attorney general, said he will turn Attao's letter over to Lassman since he has dealt with a similar inquiry previously, but that he did not think that any illegality was involved.

TV To Cost More

The cost of watching television will go up in Saipan beginning Dec. 1.

According to a news release from Saipan Cable TV, the basic monthly rate of $15.75, in effect for three years, will go to $16.95.

The cost increase is blamed on higher charges for air freight, copyright fees, operation of motor vehicles and the new pole rental agreement.

Manager Ray Motley said that the cost of renting power poles from public works will increase from $2.50 to $3 each per year for the next two years and then rise to $3.50 for the following four years.

He said the new rental agreement has been prepared by the public works department but has not yet been signed by his company.

Funds Approved For Traffic Safety

U.S. Department of Transportation national highway traffic safety funds for alcohol and police enforcement in the Northern Mariana Islands for fiscal year 1982 have been approved.

"These areas have been designated by NHTSA as having the potential for greatest impact in reducing deaths and injuries," wrote Calvin Burkhardt, regional administrator.

"We are happy to hear that these federal programs will continue in spite of budget cuts in other areas," commented Gov. Camacho.

"Our Public Safety Department will be able to continue its follow-up on motorists driving under the influence of alcohol and other substances, which seems to be the cause of most traffic fatalities on our islands," noted the governor.

"The public will realize that it is dangerous to drink and drive and also that they will be stopped and ticketed and fined. This message has to go out clear and loud as a result of the public education programs to be mounted by the Highway Safety Division of the Department of Public Safety."

YOUNG AUDIENCE — Gov. Camacho spoke to Marianas High School students Wednesday. Rain postponed Sen. Herman R. Guerrero's talk until Monday.

Election Campaign Moves To High School Campus

Although a debate among gubernatorial candidates at Marianas High School never came off, two of them were to speak on campus this week.

Gov. Camacho took his campaign for reelection to the school on Wednesday. Sen. Herman R. Guerrero, who was to have spoken Thursday, was rained out and will appear Monday.

Sen. Pete P. Tenorio was invited to appear last Tuesday, but his aides declined, saying the campaign was too tightly scheduled. But Bill Torres, the faculty advisor of the student council, said another invitation will be issued.

Almost all the 750 students and their teachers attended the talk by Camacho and Lorenzo DLG. Cabrera, his running mate. The speech was followed by a question and answer period. The format was repeated the next day when Guerrero and his running mate, Sen. Froilan C. Tenorio were invited.

Torres said the students and faculty members had planned to have all three candidates debate the same day, but that this was turned down by Jack Aguon, chairman of the Republican Party on grounds that emotions might get out of control, but that he did not object to a single appearance of the senator.

Torres said he then changed the format for separate appearances but that he was told by Aguon last Monday that Tenorio's schedule had been committed and he could not come on Tuesday.

Compact Talks Derailed By Fund Cuts, Paper Says

KOLONIA, PONAPE — The renewed discussions on the compact of free association got off to a fast start, but were untracked by news of a new budget cut proposed by the Reagan Administration, according to the Oct. 15 issue of the National Union, FSM Government newspaper.

The compact was initialed on Oct. 31, 1980 by the FSM, Marshall Islands and Carter administration, and on Nov. 17, 1980 by Palau, but the Reagan administration froze negotiations on subsidiary agreements and ordered review of the compact which ended with the resumption of the talks on Oct. 2 in Maui, Hawaii.

Under Secretary of State James L. Buckley read a message in Maui from President Reagan, stating, this administration is committed to an early termination of the Trusteeship Agreement and wishes to complete the political status negotiations as expeditiously as possible.

Buckley added that "we envision making no changes to any of the documents," and that "despite the very stringent budget-cutting requirements of this administration's economic recovery program, we will propose no reduction of the compact figures."

He said, "Our goal is the creation of a new political status for the people of Micronesia: a status which enables them to emerge from a prolonged period of trusteeship into true self-government, still in close association with the United States, and welcomed into the world community of sovereign states."

FSM President Tosiwo Nakayama responded in his opening statement that "while the delay of the last months has been prolonged and uncomfortable for us, we are greatly encouraged by President Reagan's conclusion that the many years of work which culminated last year in the initialing the compact of free association was not in vain."

Nakayama raised the issue of funding commitments by previous administrations which were being eroded by the Reagan administration.

"When we initialed the compact of free association, thereby agreeing to its terms, it was with an understanding that certain basic trusteeship responsibilities would be completed by the United States prior to termination and through its funding resources," he said.

"For instances, we have agreed with the United States that a national capital of the Federated States of Micronesia would be built on Ponape with construction to begin in 1982," the President said.

"We now learn that funding for this project is in jeopardy," he said, adding "this project is essential to the government of the Federated States of Micronesia."

Nakayama said that less than 50 percent of the first-level CIP (Public Works) program agreed upon to provide a minimum infrastructure necessary for self-government has been completed and approximately 70 percent of the funds has been used.

He said that the FSM also was to continue in a number of federal programs which are now being reduced or eliminated.

"We must reach an agreement that reflects our understanding of the compact as initialed and protects realistically the very basic needs of our people,"

Nakayama said.

Nakayama added, "It is our view that no part of the compact or its associated documents can be used by the United States to authorize or disposal of nuclear wastes of any kind in Oceania."

The U.S. formally presented for the first time a proposal for extended defense denial beyond the compact for 100 years or in perpetuity. The FSM objected, stating it was never part of the U.S. proposal, FSM External Affairs Secretary who is also Chairman of the Future Status and Transition.

This bone of contention was removed when the U.S. withdrew during the final day of the talks, Oct. 9, its request that the FSM delegates consult their people on extended denial to give the U.S. times to review its position.

The talks broke down, Andon Amaraich indicated, when the Micronesia received word from their Washington Representatives that the Interior Department Office of Territories and International Affairs proposed cutting the Fiscal 1981 budget for the Trust Territory by another $8.9 million as part of a new 12 percent budget cut ordered by the Reagan Administration.

U.S. Representatives in the Maui Talks "did not tell us what was happening when we discussed budget problems, until we learned it from Washington," he said.

"The cutbacks in the budget affect our ability to move on with the negotiations," Amaraich said, citing the inability of the Micronesians to schedule meetings and conferences, if their travel funds are reduced by the cuts.

The distribution of the cuts in the TTPI were not itemized, but "most things mentioned were things that the U.S. Government promised to accomplish and everyone knows that," he said.

"It affects the credibility of what they said," Amaraich said.

"If we go into the negotiations trying to push the compact with these unfinished promises, we will have a rough time depending it," he said.

The FSM asked for a formal agreement on funding commitments to be completed before the compact goes into effect, Amaraich said.

"Whether it is part of the compact (as a subsidiary agreement— or a memorandum of understanding doesn't matter," he said, adding the important thing is to have a reaffirmation of agreements that have not been completed.

"If this is not accomplished, we will have to spend our compact money (on those projects), and that is not fair," he said.

"We said they have to talk about this (funding agreement)

'Soft' Opening Planned For New Prison

A "soft" opening is planned next week for a place designed to house some of the Commonwealth's most hardened people — the new correction institute behind the police station.

The ceremony is scheduled for 3 p.m. next Thursday, but the new $490,000 prison is not expected to be ready for occupancy until December, according to Jose M. Sablan, late director of the Department of Public Safety, who was interviewed the day before his sudden death.

The penitentiary, which uses some of the walls of the old prison, will have 16 cells for adult males, and three each for females and juveniles. Each cell will contain a stainless steel toilet and sink, a single or double bunk, a shelf and a mirror. All metal doors will have an observation window.

Males and juveniles and females will be kept in separate cell blocks and two separate dayrooms and exercise yards. Both yards will have basketball courts.

Although the place will be surrounded by a double fence topped with barbed wire, the only bars inside will be on a door near the entrance to the adult male cells. An inner fence will be 14 feet high and the outer one designed to keep non-prisoners from smuggling contraband as well as added security for the inmates, will be 10 feet high, Sablan said.

The director said he asked that another 100 by 500 foot plot be enclosed so that it can be used for farming. He said he has requested $21,000 to bring in top soil and to build a fence.

"This will minimize the cost of feeding the inmates," he said. Sablan said that he has been promised two pigs and help from agriculturist in instructing prisoners in farming and livestock raising.

Sablan said he expected 12 correction officers will be required to staff three shifts seven days a week, but presently he only has eight. Juveniles will be supervised in the day time by the new Division of Youth Services who will also provide teachers.

The new prison will have such amenities as a library, craft workshops, kitchen and bathrooms for visitors. The latter will be segregated from inmates in a visitors' room which will have a plexiglass window between them. Three visitors and three prisoners will be able to use the room at the same time.

The administrative and visiting parts of the prison will be air-conditioned while the remainder will have a forced air system. Fixed metal louvres will be installed in the cell windows.

An 8,000 gallon water tank is provided to assure emergency supplies, Sablan said.

Although the prison, which is being built by F&M Enterprises, was to be completed by Nov. 3, the company has asked for an extension because of bad weather, the director said he has been informed.

Richard Shewman, director of the Criminal Justice Planning Agency which helped coordinate the planning, said that some electronic surveillance equipment, including television monitors may be installed to bolster security.

He is quite confident that the new prison will stop the escapes which took place in the old one.

"If any prisoners escape it will not be the fault of the building, but of the guards," he said.

There was no indication from the 21 present prisoners if they are anxious to move to new quarters.

HIGH WIRE ACT — Workmen install some of the security fencing at the corrections institute.

INNER COURT — Sablan, Shewman and worker discussed building progress while in main exercise yard which will be equipped with basketball court.

DIVIDED ROOM — Director Jose M. Sablan, and Richard Shewman, right inspected the room where visitors, inmates will be separated by plexiglass.

the look-out for plants that may not be brought into the United States, marijuana, insects and signs of plant disease.

He said that his inspectors are on the alert for the several varieties of insects that damage or destroy plants such as the melon fly which has already attacked fruit in Rota and the Philippine Cucumber beetle that damages cucumbers and melons.

"Nobody should be exempted from inspection, whether big shots or small potatoes," he said.

Ideally, he conceded, if all inspectors on duty were experienced, they would not have to check every arriving passenger, because they could pretty well tell whose baggage to search.

But unfortunately he said since many are new, the only resort is to search everybody's belongings.

On the bright side, said Guerrero, by following the USDA regulations, the Northern Marianas can sell vegetables in Guam or Hawaii without restrictions.

Calvo To Head UN Day Events

Gov. Camacho has appointed Charles M. Calvo, legislative liaison officer, as chairman for United Nations Day, Saturday, Oct. 24. Assisting him as vice-chairperson will be Mrs. Ana S. Teregeyo, executive director of the Commonwealth Arts Council.

"The theme for U.N. Day 1981 is 'The United Nations: Improving the Quality of Life,' according to materials received from Robert Anderson, the U.S.A. 1981 National U.N. Day chairman," said Calvo.

"We hope to put the emphasis this year on classroom activities in our schools and providing information for the news media so that students and the public can appreciate the work performed by the United Nations providing a forum for dialogue and discussion among the 154 diverse nations that are members. The U.N. has taken an active role in the improvement of health and economic development, the maintenance of peace and disarmament, the promotion of human rights and the elimination of discrimination and in other areas."

The President of the U.N. Trusteeship Council, Marrack I. Goulding, has sent a special message and greetings to the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. He states, "One of the essential aims of the International Trusteeship system is that the peoples of the Trust Territories should take full responsibility for realizing their own political, social and economic ideals. I am encouraged to see how much has been achieved in this respect during the past year. . . It is heartening to see that contacts between the people of Micronesia are being maintained and expanded, despite the practical difficulties created by the wide distances separating the various parts of the Trust Territory. . . we wish you all possible good fortune in the years ahead."

Camacho will issue a special proclamation in observance of U.N. Day.

FAA Grants Funds For Airport Work

The Federal Aviation Authority has granted $486,693 to the Mariana Islands Airport Authority for improvements at Saipan's International Airport.

This grant is to be spent for construction of paved shoulders and for parallel and connecting taxiways for airplanes. It will also pay for the installation of apron flood-lighting and the installation of a drainage culvert.

"This is part of the ongoing program to bring our airport up to U.S. standards," Gov. Camacho said.

Parents, Teachers Volunteer Labor

About 19 parents and 8 teachers have volunteered to install printed plywood ceilings in the Chalan Kanoa School's temporary classrooms this Saturday.

Principal Jose B. Aldan said the PTA members volunteered in this effort to lower the temperatures in the 10-year-old buildings. The wood was bought with capital improvement funds.

BOTTOM WORK — Youngsters enjoy slide at Civic Center Beach playground.

Funds Said Aiding Highway Safety

Gov. Camacho said funding by the Department of Transportation has significantly upgraded the Department of Public Health and Education in their work to ensure the safety of motorists, pedestrians and others using the highways and roads.

The $832,903 program was administered by the CNMI Department of Public Safety under Highway Safety Coordinator Bill Hanna.

An important part of the program was the hiring and training of a Saipan traffic team consisting of a lieutenant, a sergeant and eight patrolmen. The team was instructed in the use of radar equipment. Their responsibility is to establish and maintain accident data, to keep accurate citation records, and to enforce all traffic laws on Saipan. Two similar teams consisting of two patrolmen each were established on Rota and Tinian.

In addition, a "Driving Under the Influence" (DUI) team was established on Saipan made up of two police officers who have completed the breathalyzer operations course. A breathalyzer, which can detect alcohol, supplies and spare appts and a police car for program support have been purchased. A Commonwealth-wide alcohol education and publicity program is in the process of being implemented.

Some money was also used for a safety education program in the elementary schools, and safety training classes were conducted for all school bus drivers in the Commonwealth.

Transportation was paid for policemen from Rota and Tinian so that they could participate in the Police Academy training programs. An instructor was hired from Northwestern University Traffic Safety Institute to hold general training classes for local law enforcement personnel.

Some money was set aside to procure safety seat belts, child restraints and distribute them among the people of the Northern Marianas who would install them in their cars. An education program is being implemented to impress upon motorists the importance of using these safety devices.

About $120,000 were used to purchase and install communications equipment for emergency medical service communication on Saipan and between Rota, Tinian and Saipan.

The Department of Public Works was provided with a sign-making machine and the necessary supplies for traffic signs, also supplies for making dividing lines on the roads. Work will commence soon to implement this part of the program.

A traffic law prosecutor who works out of the Attorney General's Office has been hired and he is also assisting in the training of policemen.

An ambulance was bought for Tinian which is expected to arrive shortly. Rota and Saipan already have ambulances from previous year's funding. Money was also made available for training in the use of the ambulances for participants from Saipan, Rota and Tinian. Firemen from all three islands have also received special training, according to Camacho.

Ada Resigns As Director Of CCA

The resignation of Gilbert C. Ada as director of the Department of Community and Cultural Affairs, effective as of Oct. 9, was announced this week by Gov. Camacho.

He said he accepted the resignation "with regret." The governor added that he recognized Ada's accomplishments in various community projects and wanted to convey to him on behalf of the people sincere appreciation for the countless hours of dedicated service and hard work.

In the memo dated Oct. 15, Camacho appointed Ramon B. Santos acting director.

Ada could not be reached for comment.

TROPHY TIME — Gov. Camacho received trophy from Lt. Col. David Price for help in Army recruiting drive. Others from left are M/Sgt. Juan Blaz, Sgt. Major Norbert Ennis, Sfc. David Apatang, Capt. Will Alarilla and Lt. Will Tungol.

Absentee Ballots

The Board of Elections reminds all registered voters from Saipan who will not be on-island on election day, that they may request and cast an absentee ballot at the Board of Elections' office prior to leaving, beginning Oct. 22, from 8 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The deadline for application and casting of absentee ballot is Oct. 31.

2 Sentenced To Prison

Two of the men arrested in connection with 26 thefts from cars at tourists sites were sentenced to prison this week by Commonwealth Judge Robert Moore.

Alex Matagolai, 20, of Tanapag, was given four years in jail. He had pleaded guilty to two counts each of grand larceny and malicious mischief.

Abel N. Rios, was sentenced to two years in prison, with one suspended on two counts of grand larceny.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO KNOW THE TRUTH ★★

Senate aides go payless but get big raises is TENO's political pay-off. The government in not bankrupt but the senate.

TENO is deeply involved in Slot Machines and Casino Gambling. He is an Agent of Bally Label machines on Saipan totalling 250.

TENO is terrified by Honorable Manglona because he knows the weak spots on Senate operations, and greed to win Rota's votes.

TENORIO has list of running mates but undecided on No. 2 spot that it was Senator Benjamin Manglona who made a decision and forced him to pick his first cousin as his running mate.

TENO can not even make decisions in the Senate.

Congresswoman Ogoromo's response to Agulto reminding him not to write personal letters with sending copies to students. Agulto lost out in his bid to control scholarship funds.

AGULTO uses his position at Public Land Corporation as a political tool to get votes. Marianas Variety stated this in detail under the heading "Thank you Agulto for Homestead" but no Thank You.

AGULTO seems to have all the complaints and answers in theory on students concerned over grants issue but he can not deliver them in reality.

GUERRERO did not want the Rota votes counted in the primary which denied their constitutional rights.

GUERRERO travels on Legislative funds, all he worries about are equipment and materials for his construction business and self promotion.

GUERRERO pushed and supported Casino Gambling.

The creation of third ticket for Gov. CAMACHO should give the voters wider selection to elect the best qualified gubernatorial candidate based on: accomplishments, experience, credibility, firm and responsive leadership.

TENO does not have it and certainly GUERRERO is by far unqualified.

OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT V:

Dear Constituents:

As you know, the Second Legislature, due to political division, was not very productive. However, I have done my best to represent Precinct V interests in the House of Representatives and to do what I believe to be in the best interest of the Commonwealth. And where I could, I helped many of you individually. My service is a matter of public record but when some people, with whom I have no quarrel, intentionally say bad things about me or distort my record, I feel compelled to set the record straight.

As chairperson of the House Committee on Health, Education and Welfare, I have worked hard, with members of the committee, to help the departments of Public Health and Environmental Services, Education and Community and Cultural Affairs. I have successfully defended against cuts in their budgets and in some instances won hefty budget increases for these departments. My committee also has taken them to task when we feel they have not done their job. I can say, without reservation, that there is no other committee in the Legislature which has built a relationship of mutual trust with agencies under its jurisdiction than the House Committee on Health, Education and Welfare and its respective agencies. I am proud of this record and I am sure the concerned departments are, too.

One of the few major pieces of legislation to be enacted into law by the Second Legislature is House Bill No. 2-85 which establishes the division of youth services in the Department of Community and Cultural Affairs. I authored the legislation and the division is now already helping our young people.

I have introduced several important pieces of legislation. And contrary to a layperson's belief, it takes time to enact legislation. Among these pieces of legislation are bills to establish a comprehensive educational system, to insure equal opportunity for women and minorities, to provide for consumer protection, and to establish a local bureau of investigation to investigate and prosecute crimes by government officials and employees.

Being your representative in the Legislature is a privilege which I take seriously since my election in 1977. I am again seeking reelection and with your blessings and support, I will again serve you and our community in the House of Representatives.

Sincerely,

Felicidad T. Ogumoro

The COMMONWEALTH ENERGY CONSERVATION NEWSLETTER

No. 2

OCTOBER 23, 1981

SAIPAN, CM 96950

The Home Energy Audit

Your house is going to be audited in the 80s. Not by the CNMI Division of Revenue, but by you.

Until you know how much energy you're using now, you can't know how much you can save. And until you know where you're spending it, you can't know where to save it. And the easiest way to find out, is by conducting a simple walk-through energy inspection of your home: A Home Energy Audit.

If your home is air conditioned, walk completely around the house and look for cracks in the walls or joints. Pay special attention where two different materials meet — where the roof joins the wall; where wood or tin joins concrete; and especially where the air conditioner itself is installed.

Any holes or cracks meant to accommodate wiring, pipes, duct-work should be checked to make sure they are not larger than necessary.

To prevent energy leaks, seal all these areas where cool air might escape with caulking. You can also cover screen doors and louvered windows with clear, paper thin plastic sheets to prevent energy leaks.

If your home is not air conditioned, you can landscape around it to insure better air circulation (read landscaping for energy conservation in this newsletter) and you can install roof vents to improve interior circulation of the air. Federal energy standards suggest one square foot of vent for every three hundred feet of ceiling area in order to allow for the proper escape of hot air.

Take a close look at your windows also. If they admit too much direct sunlight, your house is going to be warmer than necessary. Filtering the light with reflective film or natural shading will help reduce daytime heat.

LANDSCAPING FOR CONSERVATION:

Includes: 1. Planting trees that direct the wind; 2. Planting shrubs and shade plants; 3. Building an air-cooling pond.

Landscape For Energy Conservation

Landscaping for Energy Conservation is not a new idea in the Northern Mariana Islands by any means. Before plywood, tin and cement houses were being constructed, it was common knowledge that a comfortable and safe dwelling was one that took advantage of the prevailing winds, the angle of the sun and natural features such as hills, cliffs and shade trees.

Now that energy conservation is again important, we can learn from the past and adapt that knowledge to our current needs.

WORKING WITH YOUR LANDSCAPE: Depending on your location, the natural landscape may help to conserve energy. Plants at ground level evaporate moisture and cool the air. A small pond of water, set between your house and the direction from which the wind blows, will provide a natural air cooling system. You can also build awnings or overhangs above all doors and windows, or you can install reflective film on windows and glass louvers.

Plant vines so that they can grow on the window overhangs and you have an attractive addition to the house as well as several degrees difference in interior temperature.

*TREES AND PLANTS:

Any object which will screen the strength of the sun's rays will reduce the temperature of an area. Fortunately, the least expensive, most efficient, and most estheti-

Energy Saving : Saving $

Since the 1950s in the Northern Mariana Islands, a lot has changed. Fuel for the power plant and for automobiles in the 50s was inexpensive and abundant. We didn't hear much about fuel or energy conservation then.

The 1960s saw more automobiles arriving in our islands, and a considerable population increase. But still, "energy conservation" was not a concern to us. The idea, in fact, probably didn't even occur to most residents.

In the 1970s we read in the Marianas Variety about the Arab oil embargo. Crude oil was raised from $3.41 per barrel in 1973 to an astounding $11.11 per barrel in 1974. And, for the first time in the islands, we heard the term "Energy Crisis."

cally pleasing sun screen is a tree. And if the right tree is chosen, a side benefit to the sun screen is fresh fruit.

Small trees, such as banana, plumeria and papaya, planted in clusters also have the ability to reduce reflected heat from other cement buildings or from pavement near the house.

Tall shrubs, planted densely and close to the house, offer a natural cooling insulation against sun glare. Vines and hanging plants also provide excellent sun screens.

You can construct an inexpensive Lattice ceiling over a patio area, or along the side of the house, which will reflect a great deal of heat once vines are introduced.

The broad foliage of breadfruit and mangoe trees shading a house have the capability of bringing the interior temperature down as much as 20 degrees Fahrenheit on a particularly hot, clear day.

Photovoltaics

Photovoltaics is a technology which works on the principle of converting the sunlight into another usable form of energy. 'Photo' has to do with light while 'Volt' is a unit of electricity. The device used for this change of energy is called a Solar Cell.

Solar Cells are generally made of two very thin layers of silicon each of which is coated with a different material. One of these materials has an excess of electrons which gives it a negative bias while the other material contains a deficiency of electrons giving it a positive bias. The negative layer of Silicon is fastened to the positive layer and electric terminals are fastened to each side of the cell (sandwich). Several of these cells are then connected together by the thin metal strips or terminals to form a panel.

The smallest particle of sunlight is called a Photon, which is a small unit of energy. When a Photon strikes the silicon some of the electrons are dislodged and, because of the electrical bias the electrons move to the negative side of the cell which causes a Voltage or difference of potential between the two layers of the cell.

This electricity can then be drawn through the external circuit when some load is placed on the circuit such as a direct current electric motor which operates some appliance.

Solar cells are connected together to form a desired power rating and are then enclosed sealed in glass or plastic to form a module. Any desired number of modules are then fastened together onto a rigid frame giving the unit a combined power rating. A number of these units when set up and connected into a circuit form an array.

A photovoltaic system sometimes include a storage medium (usually batteries) to provide power at night or during cloudy days when there is insufficient sunlight to operate the system.

Power conditioning equipment must be added to the system if the electrical power from the solar system is to be connected to an electrical grid such as we now use in our homes since the direct current produced by the Solar Cell must be converted into alternating current.

The beauty of the Solar Cell is that it is operated at practically no cost and virtually never wears out. The cost of this equipment is quite high but modern technology will gradually reduce the cost through improved methods of manufacture so that in a few years the cost should be reduced to the point where a small system would be competitive with present power.

Typhoon Power

The condensation-heat energy and subsequent wind energy that a typhoon releases in one day is comparable to the energy released by the explosion of 400 twenty-megaton hydrogen bombs. This energy — if converted to electricity — could supply all the electrical needs of the United States for more than six months.

The CNMI has approximately 24 potential typhoon threats per year. Too bad we can't cash in on some of that super energy.

Biogas Digester Opportunities

Construction of a biogas digester at the Aslito Agriculture Station is nearing completion. When put into operation, the wastes from the station's piggery will be slurried by pipe to the digester and airless decomposition will produce methane gas. The methane gas can then be used directly for cooking, lighting, refrigeration and operate stationary farm equipment, such as, pumps and grinding mills. The gas can also indirectly generate electricity and could be compressed into special gas bottles to power tractors and trucks.

The Energy Office is planning on contracting the construction of three digesters, one each for Saipan, Tinian, and Rota in the upcoming months. If you have a piggery and are interested in having a digester, you should write a letter to the Energy Office for consideration for one of these projects.

The Energy Office will hire a contractor to construct: a concrete floor for a piggery, the digester and oxidation ponds. The farmer in turn will be required to have a maximum of ten sows; adequate water supply; wash wastes twice a day; harvest and dry plankton (for supplemental protein feed for pigs); and use an effluent to irrigate and fertilize garden crops. These demonstration digestors will illustrate their feasibility and encourage other farmers to build their own.

Get Them A Bicycle For Christmas

It's not too early to start thinking about Christmas, and the upcoming dry season when bicycling is ideal on Saipan.

Regardless of the gift these days, you can expect to pay alot, so why not shop for something that will provide healthy exercise as well as alot of joy; why not get bicycles as gifts.

But be careful. Cheaply constructed bikes won't last long, yet they may cost just as much as the good brands.

10-speed bikes are great if you plan to take good care of them, but a single speed bike or a 3-speed might be more practical if you just plan to go short distances and if you want to avoid alot of maintenance.

The CNMI Energy Office will conduct a BICYCLE CLINIC on November 13, 1981. Questions about how to buy a bicycle and which bike is right for you will be answered. For more information, call Ted Oxborrow at 7344.

But we are very fortunate. Our tropical weather does not require us to heat our homes, and much of our "power" costs were subsidized for us through the trusteeship agreement. Thus, the word "crisis" did not hit our islands with the same force that it hit other parts of the Pacific Basin.

As fuel prices increased even more over the following years we were forced for the first time in modern history to examine our energy consumption, and to begin to look for "energy alternatives".

Now, in the 1980s, petroleum products make up our total energy requirement in the Commonwealth. Without imported fuel we will have no water; without imported fuel we will have no communications, no transportation, no refrigeration, no sanitation, etc. And now, in the 1980s, we are beginning to realize how real the "ENERGY CRISIS" is, and how much energy is costing.

Governor Carlos S. Camacho recently signed House Bill 265 (The Emergency Appropriations Act of 1981) into law. $6 million was required to pay for emergency fuel and lubricants for power generation throughout the Commonwealth. The Department of Natural Resources also requested emergency fuel for the operation of farming equipment and equipment for parks and road shoulder maintenance.

Meanwhile, despite frequent increases in fuel costs and despite emergency measures on the part of our government, we continue to individually waste our gas and oil supply at an amazing rate.

And we are paying for it in cash.

In the 1980s you will be hearing more and more about "ENERGY CONSERVATION" and how saving energy can be directly equal to saving money.

As individuals, we do not have to wait for an Island-wide energy conservation policy before we take action on our behalf. We can make the difference in our own energy bills. And when enough of us do so we will make a collective difference in the selfsufficiency of the Commonwealth.

The Commonwealth Energy Conservation Newsletter is designed to provide residents with information about geothermal, solar, nuclear and synthetic fuel sources to be sure, but it is also designed to be of practical use to residents. It is intended to provide you with options that can reduce your energy consumption and therefore your reliance on increasingly expensive supplies of oil and gas.

You will find options ranging from extremely simple steps that cost you nothing yet bring you measurable savings within 30 days, to complex installations that may not pay back for years, but that will immediately add to your comfort and energy-independence.

The 80s promise to be a decade of major technological advancement and growth in the NMI, but the cost of energy will be much higher than ever before in the history of islands whether we harness the wind, split the atom, harvest the rays of the sun or develop energy from the sea.

The bottom line is still the fact that energy resources are no longer as abundant as they were in the past, and what is available will continue to cost more.

Thus saving energy in the 80s is going to mean saving money.

$327,400 In Energy Grants Received

The Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands has received notice that the U.S. Department of Energy Office has awarded the CNMI Energy Office 3 grants totaling $327,400.

The Energy Extension Service program has received $162,800 to provide information and technical assistance to residential users, farming enterprises, and small businesses and establishments throughout the Commonwealth.

The Energy Office under the direction of Mr. George Chan, will carry out this program by developing a large scale demonstration program for farms, residences, and small businesses. Workshops and seminars will be conducted on photovoltaics, solar design, biomass, biogas and wind energy. Solar water heaters, wind generators, charcoal making, alcohol production, integrated farming and passive cooling housing techniques will be demonstrated.

The program has been designed to encourage use of alternative means for producing energy. The emphasis will also be on various methods to save energy.

The Commonwealth Energy Office has also received $123,300 and $44,300 grant awards to carry out energy conservation programs. These efforts focus on direct encouragement at specific energy conservation measures and general public information efforts.

The energy conservation effort includes programs to: encourage mass transit, carpooling, and bicycle riding; develop regulations for energy efficient building design and lighting; require energy efficient procurement practices; household energy audits; and, this year new programs to conduct an international Tropical Energy Efficient Design and a series of workshops on alternative energy technology.

This program will result in the selection of a design which will be suitable for the NMI's climate, reflect local cultural values, utilize appropriate passive cooling techniques, and low cost construction materials. The full set of construction drawing will be made available to the public.

Energy Office Offers Free Tune-up

The CNMI Energy Office wants to know how regular automobile tune-ups can save gas and money. We are offering the free tune up to 6 individuals who will keep records of their mileage and gasoline consumption for the length of the test period of four months. That is, two months prior to tune-up and two months after the tune up.

The test will see how well 3 passenger vehicles, 2 family pickup trucks and 2 commercial pickup truck perform with a regular tune up. The number of miles per gallon of gasoline will then be calculated to show the savings.

Any individual who is interested in this offer should contact the CNMI Energy Office to get the complete details of this offer. There is one catch however. The tune-up will not be paid until all the records are submitted at the end of the test period.

Call the Energy Office at telephone No. 7284 or visit their office on the 4th floor of the Nauru Building.

Home Energy Audits Planned

The CNMI Energy Office has recently completed a survey of all new and renovated buildings in Saipan. This survey will be followed by a walk through energy audit at one out of five of these buildings. The remaining building owners will be given an energy audit workbook which will enable building owners to conduct their own energy audit.

Workshops on how to conduct a home energy audit will be given to students at Marianas High School, Mt. Carmel High School and Hopwood Junior High School. The idea with conducting the workshops for students is to have the students help their parents conserve energy through an audit of each home.

Following the audits, the Energy Office can help the individual to determine the best actions and energy saving measures that he can take to reduce your power bills and energy consumption.

Keep Cool - With Ceiling Fans

Are you hot under the collar? If so, think about installing ceiling fans in your kitchen, bedroom or living room. These fans won't lower the room temperature as much as an air conditioner will, but you will be amazed at how much cooler they will make a room.

The idea, of course, is to create air circulation and to force hot air up and out of the house.

Fans work best where there is already some ventilation, such as open windows and doors, however they will also do a good job in closed areas.

Most household ceiling fans use no more electricity than a 150-watt lightbulb, and that will only cost about 7 cents for about 12 hours.

Think about that and keep your cool!

The Home Energy...

To determine how much you are spending on energy, take a look at your Saipan Utility Agency bills for the past year. Add the bills from July 1980 to July 1981 and then divide by 12 and you will have your average monthly cost for electric energy in your home.

As soon as you start a new Saipan Utility Agency billing period, try the following suggestions for a 30-day period. The result should be a considerably lower electric bill, and you will be able to roughly project your potential annual savings by multiplying the difference (between your new, lower billing and last year's average monthly cost) times 12.

SUGGESTIONS:

- Consciously turn off lights whenever they are not needed.
- Turn your water heater thermostat down to 120 degrees.
- Keep your Air Conditioner on medium when you are at home and on low (or off) when away.

Bicycle Ride Scheduled

The Commonwealth Energy Office will sponsor a public bicycle ride on Wednesday, November 11, 1981 (Veteran's Day).

Ages 10 and above are welcome. The ride will start at 7:30 a.m. at the U.S. Coast Guard Station and will proceed to the Last Japanese Command Post in Marpi. The ride will be police escorted. Call 7344 for more information.

What is a SOLAR WATER STILL?

The adjective solar indicates that something is powered by energy from the sun; water is H₂O, the liquid that we like to drink a lot of; and a still is an apparatus for distilling liquid.

So a solar water still is an apparatus that can produce distilled water using the energy of the sun.

Distilled water is pure water. Safe for babies, excellent for making coffee, necessary for wet cell batteries, good for ice cube making and strongly recommended as an alternative to the tap water currently available on Saipan.

Below is a description of how to build a simple plywood-box solar water still with a piece of ordinary window glass. The interior is coated with a black water-proof sealant. Water is placed in the box and when the box is placed in the sun, the water evaporates and condenses on the angled glass and runs down to where it falls into a gutter. The distilled water runs down the gutter, out of the still and into a collecting container.

Psychologist, Inmates Chose Prison Decor

By Kurt Liepman

Choosing the "right" color scheme for the inside of the new prison took into the recommendations of a psychologist as well as the view of the future residents, according to Richard Shewman, director of the Criminal Justice Planning Council who helped in the coordination.

Dr. Frances Schwaninger-Morse, a psychologist who formerly worked for the Commonwealth, recommended that "warm" colors such as red-yellow might be too stimulating and therefore have a tiring effect on the eyes and irritating effect on the mood. On the other hand, she said, the "cool" blue-green hues will have a depressing effect on the mood and will generate depressive symptoms of lack of motivation. She also advised against browns and greys as too depressing and having a negative, institutionalizing effect.

The psychologist also recommended to have a variety of colors in the furnishings to get away from the institutional effect.

Shewman said that prisoners also were consulted and that the interior walls will be painted in pastels with grey and blue predominating.

One cell at least will have an entirely different color. And that is the "pink" room which will be painted in that hue. Sounds like it's designed for sissies? No, says Shewman. Studies by prison officials on the mainland indicate that the color of pink has a soothing effect on a violent person. According to Corrections Magazine, a number of prison officials have found that putting boisterous prisoners into a pink cell has resulted in calming them down within minutes. But the hue has to be just the right shade of pink. Although the theory is not scientific, Shewman says that there has been enough good experience with pink rooms that it is worth trying here.

Got a letter from our roving, running associate, Jane Dickhudt, who spent her vacation — at least partly, participating in a marathon in her home town, St. Paul, Minnesota. Although she improved her time by 15 minutes from the Guam's women's record of 3 hours and 35 minutes she set last March, it was not fast enough to win against the heavy competition. Jane wrote that she came in sixth in her division, with about 75 females entered in the field of 500, a far vaster crowd than that which participated in the Guam event.

Letters to Editor

'AN INSULT TO INTELLIGENCE'

Dear Editor:

Your last week's issue contained the paid political garbage by governor Carlos Camacho and Senator Herman R. Guerrero regarding the so-called Senate pay raises. It is an insult to the people's intelligence when these two, in desperation to gain votes, start lying and addressing the public as if they're a bunch of idiots; but then what do you expect from a public official, running for the highest office in the government, who considers himself a "monkey"? Could you imagine what he considers us ordinary citizens????

Both Camacho and Guerrero are distorting facts out of proportion regarding Senate salaries just to get at Pete P. Tenorio. Do they really think the people are so stupid to believe that Pete P., at this stage of the game would give outrageous increases, knowing the contracts have to go to the Attorney General's Office (Governor's office) where they could be used against him?? Think about that!!!

FACT: Due to the Governor's political games, the Senate employees have not received from 2 to 4 paychecks since August. The employees' contracts expired on September 30, 1981. Pete P. could have given priority to his political career and ignored the employees' expired contracts until after the election; but that would have resulted in the employees not receiving 2 months salaries. So Pete P., always with the employees welfare in mind, put his political career aside and signed the employees contracts for only one quarter, October 1st to January 8, 1982, when the very same contracts will expire.

In order to make up for the already lost paychecks, the salary due each employee and not received was divided into 7 (seven) increments. These increments were then added to the regular pay period of each employee for the seven remaining pay periods left between now and January 8, 1982, when the contracts will expire. The result being that for the past year all employees receive their normal salary. This was done with the understanding that after January 8, 1982 all salaries would revert to their original pay levels.

Here are a few points for the public to think about:

1 — Pete P. Tenorio is not dumb and would not give outrageous pay increases, especially at this stage of the game. The total Senate budget for FY '81 and '82 is $734,816; the total annual salary for employees is $473,300 plus $144,000 for Senators' salaries and official representation which would leave the Senate

Jane received a medal and also became the subject of a lengthy interview in the daily St. Paul Pioneer Press. The sports writer had this to say in part: "Jane Dickhudt might also have set some kind of record. Despite their reputation for stamina and ability to cover great distances, not many marathoners travel 8,000 miles in order to run 26."

Record or not, we look forward to the return of Jane and Jottings next week.

Geckos are becoming much sought after home companions in Florida where they sell for $10 to $20 each. According to the current issue of Time magazine, one pet shop owner sold 36 of the little lizards in one week, while another had 75 requests for them in four days. The reason? The geckos are said to be a non-poisonous way to rid your home of cockroaches. But before anyone has the bright idea of exporting Saipan geckos, be warned: Florida has a state law that prohibits their importation because it might upset the state's ecology, according to the magazine.

As we enter the final week of election campaigning, everybody, including candidates, supporters, spouses and hangers-on, must be breathing sighs of relief that the end is near. Nothing much else seems to have gotten done or be discussed during the past several weeks while heavy-duty campaigning put everything else on the back-burner.

After next week, the winning and losing candidates can start making plans for their future, as will some of the people whose careers depend on the success or failure of their vote-getting patron.

It will be interesting to find out if having a three-man race for governor has driven up the cost of seeking office. I was told that during the 1977 election the gubernatorial candidates spent about $40,000 to get elected to a $20,000 a year job.

In her humorous book Social Studies, Fran Labowitz writes that Los Angeles has only two modes of transportation, cars and ambulances. Come to think of it, that applies even more to Saipan where ambulances seem to enjoy heavy patronage from accident victims each pay day weekend. Besides, L.A. does have some public transportation.

$117,516 for all operations. The purported pay increases (645,900) plus $144,000 for Senators' salaries and official representation would total up to $789,900 which exceeds the Senate's total budget of $734,816.00.

2 — If Pete didn't renew the contracts, the employees would have gone on without receiving their regular paychecks.

3 — Pete was told this action would be distorted and used against him, but he went ahead and put his political career aside and did what had to be done in order that the Senate employees may receive their missing paychecks — not increases. If Camacho and Guerrero can't even figure out a simple contract, how could they deal with a major government contract, if by some miracle one of them is to take office????

4 — Would Camacho or Guerrero put their political career aside at this time, or any other time, in order to see that employees receive their lost pay checks??? I doubt it; but Pete P. Tenorio would and did!

5 — Did Camacho or Guerrero, in their desperate attempt to gain votes, ever stop to think how their distortion of facts might adversely affect some of these employees and their families?? Obviously not!!!

6 — Contrary to Guerrero's distortion of Public Law 244 which he claims "authorizes the governor to reprogram the funds to bail out activities only within the executive branch and not the Legislature. . .", Public Law 244, Section 3, Sub-section (e) gives the Governor unlimited reprogramming authority for government employees' salaries and fuel only.

I have stated the facts and points to be thought about, but don't just take my word for it, (I am a strong supporter of Pete P. Tenorio), instead I invite the public to please feel free to view my contract and compute it yourself. Maybe someone could figure out for me where and when I can collect my purported salary of $14,000 +, $15,000 +, $17,000 +, by January 8, 1982, as computed by Carlos Camacho and Guerrero. (Note: they couldn't even stick with one figure.)

With all these coming to light, I can't help but wonder what other government documents have been, and or will be distorted in order to mislead and confuse the public???? Think about that!!!!

/s/ Gloria Worswick Hunter

'COULD NOT STAND HYPOCRICY'

Dear Editor:

You made reference to my calling the three gubernatorial candidates monkeys during the debate sponsored by the Saipan Chamber of Commerce.

I did so because I could not stand the hypocrisy and fakeness of some of the responses made by Governor Camacho and President Tenorio. Let me just cite a few examples:

1. Governor Camacho had the audacity to say that he was a "very religious man" and then in the next breath said it was ok for his family's theater to show "dirty movies" but wrong for shops in front of Hyatt and Intercontinental to show the same. What double standards?

2. Governor though he could embarrass me by asking about some "private tabs" I incurred during a trip I took on his behalf to Taiwan in order to avoid an override of the 1980 budget by the Republican Legislature. The tabs were paid by Charles Kao and I made a full report to the Governor. If the Governor reimbursed Kao with public funds, that is his problem, not mine.

3. Governor Camacho questioned me about my support of casino gambling. True, I supported casino gambling because I was trying to make a deal with the Senate to approve the Governor's nominees. Even if I didn't vote, the Republican still would have approved the legislation to legalize casino gambling and overridden the governor's veto of the legislation. At least, my family did not own any share, unlike the governor's family who did, in any company interested in casino gambling.

4. Governor Camacho said the $7 million deficit was incurred by the former

(In the following question and answer format, some of the most common ailments, colds, coughs, sore throats and flu are discussed.)

By Rex Witworth, M.D.
Public Health Physician

Q. What ailments cause the highest percentage of disability and absence from work in general?

A. Diseases of the respiratory tract. That is to say infections of the nose, sinuses, throat larynx and lungs.

Q. Is there any particular reason for that?

A. In medical matters reasons don't always fit the scientific facts but in this case there is a valid reason.

When we breathe we suck air from the surrounding atmosphere through our nose and mouth down through the throat past the larynx (or voice box) into our bronchial tubes and thence our lungs. Anything and everything suspended in that air comes into our respiratory tract at that time. In the air around breathing animals, including humans there are always drops (very small microscopic size) moisture from the lungs, throat and nose of the people breathing out. These droplets contain viruses and bacteria if the person breathing them out has a "cold" or nose infection, or sore throat or laryngitis or bronchitis or pneumonia (which is an infection of the deepest lung tissues).

Other people breathing the air with these germ laden droplets therein sucks them into their respiratory tract and the germs gain a foothold on the inside lining of the recipient's nose, throat, air passage and lungs. They can then invade the tissues and start an infection which can show up as a cold, sore throat, or cough (which is a sign that the bronchial tubes or lung tissue is inflamed and irritated). They don't always cause disease.

The germs that seem to be most easily spread from person to person in this way Marianas District Government. Who is he kidding? The deficit was caused by his mismanagement of our finances.

5. President Tenorio said that he, not Senator Manglona, was running the show in the Senate? Even Senate staff admits privately that Tenorio is just a figurehead. If Tenorio is actually running the show, how come the Senate cannot pass a CIP appropriation that is fair and equitable for Saipan, Rota and Tinian?

6. President Tenorio lied that he was forced to increase the salaries of the Senate staff because the governor had the authority to reprogram funds to bail out the Senate but failed to do so.

Tenorio knows PL 2-44 does pertain only to the Administration and he should have just simply admitted that he has mismanaged the affairs of the Senate.

It was these responses that prompted me to use the comparison. Monkeys are good at faking so I think the comparison is appropriate.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Herman R. Guerrero

are the very smallest germs called viruses. Virus infections are the cause of most early symptoms of running, itching, irritated noses which we call "cold" — it rarely if ever is really due to being cold or chilled and viruses can hit you at any time if you breathe in enough of them.

Viruses also cause many of the sore throats, coughs and so-called flu symptoms.

Q. You mentioned flu just now — what does flu mean?

A. Flu is really a dumping ground name, not a diagnosis which is used very badly and incorrectly to satisfy people's (including the doctors too, I regret to say) need to always attach labels as if they knew all about the condition. It is attached to almost any illness which causes fevers, headaches, stuffy noses, sore throats, coughs, belly ache, vomiting, diarrhea — and it usually is not one of the true influenza viruses. (Flu is a shortened form of the word influenza which is a Spanish word) for certain epidemics that sweep across nations and now the whole world caused by a limited and definite family of viruses — they are less common fortunately than most other viral respiratory diseases and usually are more dangerous.

So, beware of the diagnosis of flu. It may be a short non-serious illness that you have and it doesn't matter — but it may be something even worse than flu and may need more specific treatment.

True flu is a virus infection — it is very contagious and usually occurs in epidemics with many people involved (similar to our recent pink eye epidemic). It has no specific treatment. i.e.: There is no antibiotic or drug that knocks out the flu virus and all you can do is treat the symptoms and give nursing care and comfort to the sick person until their bodies overcome it themselves. The symptoms are usually cold, cough, sore throat, headache, body, muscle and joint aches, nausea and prostration.

The problem with all virus infections, those that cause colds, sore throats and particularly flu is that they weaken the body's defences against the bigger germs the bacteria — and they can then invade and spread in the body much more easily and quickly than without the virus infection. It is these secondary invaders which are later arrivals that we can knock out a lot of the time with antibiotic and chemotherapeutic agents.

Q

DO YOU THINK ANOTHER
CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION SHOULD BE CALLED TO MAKE CHANGES IN LIGHT OF EXPERIENCES DURING THE PAST 4 YEARS?

Q

DO YOU FAVOR REPLACING
THE GROSS RECEIPTS TAX
WITH A SALES TAX OR ANOTHER TYPE OF
REVENUE MEASURE?

GOV. CAMACHO

I know of no issue that currently needs to be resolved in this way. Unless one is brought to my attention, I do not believe that a constitutional convention is necessary.

SEN. TENORIO

In my opinion, there has not been any serious constitutional issue during the past four years. There are definitely abuses of constitutional provisions by the executive branch, but such should not dictate nor mandate amendments to the constitution. We have more of a problem in enforcement of our constitution, rather than defects within our constitution. However, I would favor the creation of a Constitution Analysis and Review Commission to document possible areas where amendments may be necessary in view of our past years experience before convening a convention.

SEN. GUERRERO

Like any other constitution, our constitution leaves many areas to be implemented by statute. It is our belief that many problems in the last four years that have been blamed on the constitution resulted from personality conflicts and may not exist if other personalities get into government. If we are elected, we believe that many of these problems will cease to exist. However, there is still a need to enact legislation in areas where the constitution is vague or is not self-executing. We strongly believe that as the basic law of the land, the constitution should not be tampered with each time there is a problem and amendments should be made only after all resources at solutions have been exhausted.

GOV. CAMACHO

Since the Commonwealth Advisory Commission on Revenue and Taxation will submit its report in March 1982, it would be premature for me to make a decision as to what kind of tax would be best. I believe that the CNMI Legislature, the business community and the public at large should be involved at this deliberation as much as possible, since this is a very serious decision to make. Once all the facts, the pros and cons, are in, I would certainly not hesitate to provide you with an answer.

SEN. TENORIO

This is a very difficult and complicated question to answer at this time. I will reserve my answer until detailed studies and recommendations from experts are thoroughly reviewed. The Advisory Commission on Revenue and Taxation has retained a consultant and is awaiting his final report.

SEN. GUERRERO

We believe our present tax structure needs an overhaul. However, the whole tax issue is a very complicated matter and we think it is prudent to await the recommendations of the Advisory Tax Commission before making any decision as to what tax system is appropriate for the Commonwealth. We can say, however, that any new tax system must be conducive to business growth and expansion and attractive to foreign investment and will generate adequate revenues to finance public services and government operations.

Money Given For Coastal Program

The Department of Commerce, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has granted a total of $671,592 to the Commonwealth for the purpose of implementing the coastal resources management program.

The funding will allow the development of a coastal permit procedures guide by next June 30, so that standardized, fair and timely methods are used when requests for the leasing of public lands are received. The Coastal Resources Management Office will work closely with the Public Land Corporation and the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Land Management, to ensure that all persons having property surveyed and subdivided are aware of permit requirements. The purpose for these procedures is the protection of the environment and so that buildings are not constructed within 150 feet of the high-water mark or in areas that are subject to periodic flooding. Any other potential environment hazards will also be taken into consideration.

In this connection $77,000 will be used for OTEC/oil port baseline data collection project and a report on coal movement in the Pacific Basin, Gov. Camacho said. These are proposals now pending for the Commonwealth, and we want to know their potential impact on our islands, the governor stated.

A legislative action program will also be undertaken to improve CRM's capability of managing and protecting coastal resources, said CRM Coordinator Jesus Elameto. By June 30, draft legislation controlling the practices of sand mining, fishing with poisons and explosives and the indiscriminate taking of shells and corals will be ready. Also, a draft management plan for the port and industrial "area of particular concern" (APC) will be completed, Camacho said.

A coastal coordinator has been assigned to each of the following government agencies and departments, Commerce and Labor, Natural Resources, Public Works, Marianas Public Land Corporation, Tinian and Rota, to assist in identifying environmental concerns, enhance public access to the shoreline and to minimize adverse impacts. A specific plan for a summer youth project to plant trees to minimize shoreline erosion, to clean shoreline areas and to replace trash barrels and to construct vehicle barriers will be carried out in 1982, the governor said.

"Keep Our Community Moving"

Popular Democratic Don't Just Promise ... They Deliver...

... And we will continue to support the basic philosophy and operation of the new Organization of the Scholarships and Educational Assistance Programs for the Commonwealth. This reorganization took away the sole control of student assistance programs from the Republicans in Rota. It took away also power of the Assistance program from Agulto, who would have wanted to use it for his political gain during this year's election. It would also eliminate the tendency of one Board Member to use the funds to grant scholarships to students on one man's decisions.

Our future Administration will support the new Organization of the Commonwealth Scholarship assistance functions where the funds will be given to all students from Saipan, Rota and Tinian on an uniform basis. We will honor awards to students based on individual needs, academic excellence, and field of studies as they relate to the manpower needs and developments of the Northern Marianas.

Hafa Adai,

CAMACHO-CABRERA know what the need looks like in the Commonwealth. Dr. Carlos Sablan Camacho has been a physician for more than ten years, and the first Commonwealth Governor. Mr. Lorenzo DLG. Cabrera has a long record of continuous service experience in the Marianas. And now they join in an attempt to provide firm, dependable and responsive leadership to our Commonwealth. This is no time for change for sake of change. Keep our Commonwealth moving. Please vote CAMACHO-CABRERA for governor and Lt. Governor in November. . .

CAMACHO-CABRERA

For GOVERNOR

For Lt. GOVERNOR

We are asking all our families, friends and supporters from Saipan, Rota, Tinian and Northern Islands to vote for CAMACHO-CABRERA in this year's election.

COMMITTEE TO RE-ELECT GOVERNOR CAMACHO-CABRERA
FOR Governor and Lt. Governor.

POPULAR DEMOCRATIC PARTY — PRESIDENT'S BRIEFS...

*Court in the Northern Marianas agreed to hear vote suit, and awarded the judgment in favor of Herman R. Guerrero. . . What about the Rota's votes and the the people they represent? Our Party will represent them in this year's election. Everyone must be represented in our Party.

*Water Problem: The Reports are Mixed. . . But do you know who gets the blame? The Governor. . . Everyone should be concerned about water for our people. Don't just blame it on one particular individual. We must share the burden of how to improve our Commonwealth water systems. Our Party pledges to help keep our Commonwealth Moving in this area. . .

*Senate Aides Go Payless, is a recent assertion made in the Marianas Variety about Teno's political pay-offs to his employees. The Government is not bankrupt, the Senate is. . . If the Senate employees deserve the raise that Teno awarded them, what about the hard working nurses, police officers, public works personnel, and others who must get raises, too. No, the Government is not playing games, Teno is. . .

*Students concerned over grants, warned Agulto. . . The current operation of Scholarship assistance is not responsive, asserted Agulto. Agulto seems to have all the complaints and the answers in theory, but he can not deliver them in reality. . . Shape up Agulto, stop deceiving the public about such rubbish. Perhaps you should consider staying longer in one job so that you can become credible and consistent. What do you say? . .

*All Retirees received pays regardless of inaction by Commonwealth controlled Senate and Teno. Do you really expect these people to vote for you knowing that you never really intended to assist them? Think about it. . .

*Judge Hefner rejected bid to stop Party name by Senator Herman R. Guerrero. I am bothered by the slogan "the Good Guys". Aren't these the same good guys who did not want the Rota votes counted in the Primary? I know of one good guy who can not even make decisions in the Senate floor during debates on budget and other matters. Other good guy when he travels on Legislative funds, all he worries about are equipment and materials for his construction business, and self promotion. The same good guy pushed and supported Casino Gambling, including participating in overriding the Governor's Veto of the Gaming Commission Act two years ago. Voters of the Northern Marianas, what do you think? . .

Speaker Mitch Pangelinan is a man with experience and ability with deep sense of commitment for betterment of our Commonwealth. Remember Mitch Pangelinan for Representative, ED 6 in November.

*Water Supply to get better, said the Director of Public Works. . . Who is more qualified to talk about water situation in the Marianas than the Public Works personnel? It has become a normal practice for many to become experts on water over-night, including a Hydrologist who has decided to become an expert in Public Lands. Who are you trying to deceive? We need everyone's cooperation for a problem as big as this including what you have to offer, if you indeed have any. . .

*Senator Guerrero listed three social changes necessary during his future administration, namely honoring of contracts; making social adaptations; and fostering of sense of civic pride, and positive attitude and fair play. Mr. Senator do you really know what social change is? In the Variety of September 18, p. 4, you made an assertion that creation of a favorable investment entails changes in legal and social institutions. . . Which one comes first Mr. Senator, Social Consciousness or Economic Development?

*Tenorio has list of running mates, but undecided on No. 2 spot for a long time. Who wants an undecisive Governor to run our affairs, or shall we ask, Mr. Teno, who is going to run the Government for you? Isn't it a fact that you can not even run your own Senate, . . Isn't it true Mr. Teno, that it was Senator Benjamin Manglona who made a decision and forced you to pick your first cousin as your running mate? . .

*What happened to Agulto's backers who pushed him to stay in the gubernatorial race? Apparently they are satisfied to have their man running second to Teno. . . Don't you have a better choice? . .

*The creation of a third ticket for Governor Camacho and his supporters should not complicate the issues. . . It should give the voters wider selection to elect the best qualified candidates based on personal accomplishment, experience in the office of the Governor, credibility with Federal Government and other Pacific Islands Government. . . Teno does not have it and certainly Senator Guerrero is by far personally unqualified for the job. . .

*Camacho did not start a third party. . . His supporters, friends and families ask him to run. . . There must be a major change in the top leadership of the former Democratic Party to avoid corruption, self interest seeking, and incapable leadership. Who wants to trust a Party leader who is corrupt and pro-Casino Gambling. . . Let's face it.

*Teno is deeply involved in Slot Machines and Casino Gambling. . . How do we know? Well he is an Agent of Bally Label machines in Saipan totaling 250. We know Teno is a key figure in Casino out of his voting record on Gaming Commission Legislation.

*Agulto lost out in his bid to control scholarship fund, naturally he can not use it for his political gain during this election year. Incidentally, the students are happier now with the new organization because it is fair and tightly controlled.

*Agulto uses his position at Public Land Corporation as a political tool to get votes. Marianas Variety stated this in detail under the heading "Thank you Agulto for Homestead? . .

*Santos seeks trial by jury. . . Santos case may be heard next month. . . Santos has poor judgment on the management of public funds. . . Santos seeks settlement of improper use of public funds. Mr. Santos, it is up to you, show us your credibility, and we will believe your honesty, and sincerity.

*Isn't it true Mr. Vicente Santos that when you were still a President of the District Legislature, you authorize yourself and your employees 20 and 12 hours respectively of overtime pay for every pay period, even though you and your employees did not perform any extra work? How honest can you be when you know that you're not entitled for over-time. . . Yet you gave this opportunity to your employees in order that you will get the most?

*Agulto has been running in almost every elections. Aren't you tired of running? Aren't you ashamed of your losing streak? It must be discouraging, but then you are desperate. . .

Port Authority Makes Financial Review

The new Commonwealth Ports Authority is making a review of the financial condition of the port to get a clearer picture of what will be involved to make major improvements in its operations and expects to have it completed within 30 days.

That was the word from J.M. Guerrero, chairman of the commission which has been given the responsibility for sea as well as airport facilities in the Commonwealth.

Guerrero said that Pete R. Guerrero and Pete A. Sasamoto, both board members, and Michael A. White, the authority's attorney, are making the study.

He said this will include revenues, payroll, wharfage fees, legal authority and whether the land can be deeded to it by the Marianas Public Land Corporation as was done in the case of the airports in Saipan, Tinian and Rota.

"We want to find out where we are so we can make recommendations on the master plan," Guerrero said.

Other members of the authority are Pete Ogo, Herman Q. Guerrero and Edward T. Villagomez. A seventh position has been vacant since Adelina Celis resigned about two years ago, and Lupe P. Sablan was not confirmed for the position by the Senate.

Carlos S. Shoda, who has served as executive director of the Airport Authority, will now also be in charge of port operations under the change. Until the new authority which is in charge of airports as well as harbors was created, the ports had been under control of the Department of Public Works.

FSM Moneyman Prefer TT Computer

FSM
Information Service

KOLONIA, PONAPE — A group of FSM State and National Finance and Budget directors decided to stay with the Trust Territory computer in Saipan until 1984, when an automated financial management system would be established in Ponape.

The decision, which is subject to approval by the FSM President, Congress and Governors, was made during meetings which began Oct. 12 of the financial management needs study group with Dennis Gilbert and Kenneth Giese of the U.S. Air Force Federal Computer Performance Evaluation and Simulation Center (FEDSIM) in Washington, D.C.

FSM Finance Secretary Al Tuuth said that he wants to eventually separate the new FSM computer from his department "so we can get full support from other departments and states.

"My feeling is that having it under finance will make it appear that it is for financial purposes only and that is not the case," Tuuth said.

The FEDSIM Representatives recommended making the transition to a Ponape computer over a five-year period, staying with the TT computer two years, then switching to the government of Guam computer for service and training before setting up the new computer.

The study group rejected this, because it would tie the FSM to the Gov/Guam "software" system which may be too expensive, if financing is not available, and to IBM equipment.

The FEDSIM representatives agreed to go to Guam and look into other alternatives for training and software in there.

FEDSIM estimated it would cost $9,110,000 in training and equipment to establish a computer in Ponape in 1983 and $3,352,000 to phase it in over five years.

Congress Session To Take Up Budget

FSM

KOLONIA, PONAPE — The national budget for Fiscal Year 1982, National Election Law, usury rates and regulation of non-resident workers are among the many issues that will be considered during the current session of the second regular session of the second congress, according to a congress news release.

Speaker Bethwel Henry informed his colleagues during opening day Oct. 12 he is hopeful they will devote their time to discussing these and other issues such as national disaster relief fund and various appropriation measures for the states during the next 30 days.

"Speaker Henry noted that the FSM Constitutional Government is 'very young' and therefore we must all cooperate so that we can succeed."

The speaker asked members for their cooperation and invited input from other branches of the national government as well as the states and municipal governments.

"I pray for your good health and again, welcome to the challenges of this session," he said.

The first few weeks of the session are expected to be light, devoted mainly to introduction of new measures and holding of public hearings.

with our representatives in Washington and come up with a solution, before we talk about status problems," Amaraich said.

"I hope they get back on track," he said, adding, "this really is going to create problems for the status negotiations."

Acting Deputy High Commissioner Daniel J. High, who stopped over in Ponape en route to Saipan from the Maui meetings, said that the proposed budget cuts are subject to approval by the U.S. Congress.

High said that $3 million for operations and maintenance and $1.9 million for power plant upgrading were left intact, but the $3 million for architect and engineering designs for the new national capital was reduced to $1 million and $1.4 million for renovation of the Truk Hospital and $1 million for renovation of the Palau Hospital were eliminated.

"We took an $800,000 cut at Headquarters (Saipan)," High said, adding that this would speed up the TTPI going out of business and "will require an immediate reevaluation of employee services."

High commended Janet McCoy, the woman designated to be nominated by Reagan to be the new TT High Commissioner, stating, "I like her — I think she is sincerely concerned," and with her connections in the Reagan administration will be helpful to Micronesia."

Mrs. McCoy met with Micronesians delegation in Maui and was well received, High said.

Asked if he is available for the permanent job of Deputy High Commissioner, High said, "I told Mrs. McCoy I would work with her, if she so desires and would be of whatever assistance I can."

"They haven't made any commitment, yet," he said.

captain in 1975 and was named chief of police in 1977 by then Resident Commissioner Erwin D. Canham. With the inauguration of the Commonwealth he was appointed director by Gov. Camacho.

He had attended a number of police courses in the mainland, Hawaii and the U.S. Army Institute at Ft. Bragg, N.C. From 1976-78 he also served on the municipal council.

He is survived by his mother, Carmen Sablan, and two children.

Agriculture Programs Requested

In a letter dated Oct. 19 Gov. Camacho has asked Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block to extend various U.S. Department of Agriculture programs to the Northern Marianas. U.S. Public Law 96-597, Sect. 610 (c) specifies that these programs can be extended to the Commonwealth and adapted to local needs.

Under this law, the CNMI would be eligible for plant and animal disease and pest control programs, agricultural products marketing improvement aid, technical assistance to cooperatives, crop insurance, forestry assistance, soil and watershed protection and flood prevention, he said. These and other programs would fall under the administration of the NMI Department of Natural Resources.

In addition, Camacho said he would like to see the Northern Marianas Community College qualify as a land-grant institution and participate in the programs under the USDA Science and Education Administration.

The governor has also asked that matching fund requirements be waived as has been made possible under other legislation.

Camacho stressed that his administration wants to emphasize the agricultural sector of the CNMI's economic base, but currently many constraints exist which could be ameliorated with the expertise and assistance of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"The United States has the greatest and most efficient agriculture in the world and we hope that we can benefit from the vast knowledge and research that has been conducted. We need expert assistance in organizing our farmers and in marketing our produce. Also, our islands should be reforested with valuable trees for shade, lumber and tropical fruit instead of the ubiquitous tangantangan," the governor said.

Early Trial Asked In Libel Suit

A hearing is scheduled Oct. 30 in U.S. District Court on a motion for a speedy trial filed by attorney William Fitzgerald who is representing Manny A. Sablan in his $400,000 defamation suit against Robert D. Bradshaw.

Sablan claimed the former public auditor libeled him in a letter he wrote to Vice President George Bush. Bradshaw, who recently collected $103,000 settlement from his breach of contract suit against the government, has counter-sued Sablan for $400,000.

Pact For Rota Harbor Funding Signed

An agreement with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to initiate the release $2 million of federal funding for the Rota harbor improvement project has been signed by Gov. Camacho.

The Rota delegation signed a memorandum of understanding with the governor to provide an additional $2.3 million from Rota's share of the Covenant capital improvement funding, according to a press release.

"The people of Rota, the Rota delegation and I have reached a reasonable and happy conclusion to the matter of the development of the Rota Harbor for the economic enhancement of the people of Rota and of the entire Commonwealth," said Camacho.

"It has been a long and difficult process, occasionally the subject of harsh criticism. This is behind us now, and we look forward to the timely project initiation by the Corps of Engineers. Projects of this magnitude and importance often take many years. I am pleased to note that we have completed planning and funding requirements one and a half years after the project requirements are completed, including environmental studies, land easements, federal coordination, and the selection of the dredge materials disposal site.

Local permits are expected to be issued as a matter of course, the governor's office said.

The project, adjacent to the West Harbor of Rota, involves the deepening and widening of the entrance channel and the turning basin, the installation of navigational aids, and the construction of a dock, and a causeway to Anjota Island.

The plan will allow navigation of the channel by 13 feet draft vessels despite existing cross currents at the harbor entrance, prevailing winds perpendicular to the entrance channel, and seaward rip currents. Construction mobilization is expected to begin within three to six months.

registrar of corporations, rejected them on grounds that a Chamorro translation was not provided as is required.

Under the proposed rules the new board would consist of five members including a representative each from Saipan, Rota and Tinian, the Department of Commerce and Labor and the Planning and Budget Affairs Office. The appointees are supposed to be knowledgeable about business, they specify.

Commerce and Labor, Department of Natural Resources and the Attorney General are now represented on the board as non-voting members but would not serve on the new board as provided in the regulations.

The new directors would be appointed by the governor for three-year terms. They will have the authority to set the rate of compensation, hire and fire employees, contract and pay for studies and pay for travel, the rules state.

According to the rules, the EDLF which each year receives in excess of $3 million from Covenant funds, will reserve $500,000 a year for small loans to farmers and fishermen, and another $250,000 for low interest housing loans.

One source who did not want to be named said that the new regulations will make the EDLF board completely autonomous as far as borrowings and personnel matters, including travel, are concerned since the Finance Department will be by-passed.

The Fund this week employed James Ripple, until earlier this year economic adviser to the government, as a consultant and to make economic and feasibility studies at a reported $40,000 a year contract.

The House of Representatives recently passed a bill to create an Economic Development Bank that would absorb the functions of the EDLF.

Scientists Credited For Chicken Production

We are what we eat and we eat may be as much the product of the test tube as the field and farm.

Take the chicken!

Back in 1930, the typical chicken was a tough, overaged bird. She didn't go to the pot until she stopped laying eggs. People ate an average of only 16 pounds of chicken per year then.

Over the next 50 years, scientists bred a new kind of bird specifically for the dinner table — plump and tender. Agronomists developed higher yielding hybrid corn, resulting in a more plentiful supply of feed for poultry flocks. Nutritionists plotted perfectly balanced feeds complete with essential vitamins.

By 1980, scientists and good farm management had made it possible for one farmer to produce as many as 250,000 broilers a year. What's more, the modern poultry producer can raise this more tender bird to eating size in six to seven weeks compared with the three to four months it took 50 years ago.

The repercussions of the scientists' handiwork have been even greater on the farm than on the dinner table. Though we are eating four times as much chicken as our grandparents did, farmers are actually producing ten times as much chicken. Most of the increase feeds the 100 million more Americans who make up the population today, and the rest — 800 million pounds per year — is exported.

SUPPORT LOCAL ECONOMY BUY LOCAL FOOD

Department of Community & Cultural Affairs

FATS, SWEETS, AND ALCOHOL GROUP

Most foods in this group provide relatively low levels of vitamins, minerals, and protein compared to calories. Vegetable oils generally do supply vitamin E and essential fatty acids. Butter and fortified margarine contribute vitamin A. Other foods in this group are mayonnaise and salad dressings; sugar, honey, syrups, candy, jams, jellies, sweet toppings, sugar-sweetened beverages, and other sweets; alcoholic beverages (wine, beer, liquor, etc.); and unenriched refined flour and baking products.

THE FIVE FOOD GROUPS

VEGETABLE AND FRUIT GROUP

Vegetables and fruits contribute vitamins A and C and also fiber. Peels and edible seeds are especially rich in fiber. Dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables are good sources of vitamin A. Most dark-green vegetables, if not overcooked, are also reliable sources of vitamin C. So are melons, berries, tomatoes, and citrus fruits (oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, lemons, etc.). Dark-green vegetables, in addition, are valued for riboflavin, folacin, iron, and magnesium. Certain greens — collards, kale, mustard, turnip, and dandelion — provide calcium. Nearly all vegetables and fruits are low in fat, and none contain cholesterol.

VEGETABLE FRUIT Group

1 SERVING IS:
1/2 CUP
A SMALL SALAD
A MEDIUM-SIZED POTATO
AN ORANGE
1/2 CANTALOUPE
1/2 GRAPEFRUIT

Have citrus fruit, melon, berries, or tomatoes daily and a dark-green or dark-yellow vegetable frequently. For a good source of fiber, eat unpeeled fruits and vegetables and fruits with edible seeds — berries or grapes.

BREAD AND CEREAL GROUP

Whole-grain and enriched breads and cereals are important sources of B vitamins, iron, and protein. They are a major source of protein in vegetarian diets. Whole-grain products contribute magnesium, folacin, and fiber, in addition.

Foods in the bread and cereal group include all products made with whole grains or enriched flour or meal.

BREAD CEREAL Group

1 SERVING IS:
1 SLICE BREAD
1/2 to 3/4 CUP COOKED CEREAL OR PASTA
1 OUNCE READY-TO-EAT CEREAL

Choose whole-grain products often.

MILK AND CHEESE GROUP

Milk and most milk products are calcium-rich foods. They contribute riboflavin, protein, and vitamins A, B₆, and B₁₂, too. Some of these products are fortified with vitamin D.

This group includes whole, skim, lowfat, evaporated, and nonfat dry milk, buttermilk, yogurt, ice cream, ice milk, cheese, cottage cheese, process cheese foods, and process cheese spreads.

MILK CHEESE Group

SERVINGS:
Adults 2
Children under 9 years old 2-3
Children 9 to 12 years old and Pregnant Women 3
Teens and Nursing Mothers 4
1 SERVING IS:
1 CUP MILK OR YOGURT
1 1/2 OUNCES CHEDDAR OR SWISS CHEESE
2 OUNCES PROCESSED CHEESE FOOD
1 1/2 CUPS ICE CREAM OR ICE MILK
2 CUPS COTTAGE CHEESE

Skim, nonfat, and lowfat milk and milk products provide calcium and keep fat intake down.

MEAT, POULTRY, FISH, AND BEANS GROUP

These foods are valued for protein, phosphorus, iron, zinc, vitamin B₆, and still other vitamins and minerals. Included in this group are beef, veal, lamb, pork, poultry, fish, shellfish (shrimp, oysters, crabs, etc.), dry beans, dry peas, soybeans, lentils, eggs, seeds, nuts, peanuts, and peanut butter.

It's a good idea to vary your choices in this group. Each food has a distinct nutritional advantage. Red meats are good sources of zinc. Liver and egg yolks are valuable sources of vitamin A.

Dry beans, peas, soybeans, and nuts are worthwhile sources of magnesium. All foods of animal origin contain vitamin B₁₂; foods of vegetable origin do not.

MEAT and Poultry Fish BEANS Group

1/2 SERVING IS:
1 to 1 1/2 OUNCES LEAN, BONELESS, COOKED MEAT, POULTRY, OR FISH
1 EGG
1/2 to 3/4 CUP COOKED DRY BEANS, PEAS, LENTILS, OR SOYBEANS
2 TABLESPOONS PEANUT BUTTER
1/4 to 1/2 CUP NUTS, SESAME OR SUNFLOWER SEEDS

Poultry and fish have less fat content than red meats.

Talks Held On FSM 5-Year Plan

KOLONIA, PONAPE — Preliminary discussions on the FSM five-year development plan were held this week between officials from the Office of Planning and Statistics and a United Nations Development Program (UNDP) resident representative in preparation for the plan's submission to the Congress.

Arthur N. Holcombe said details of the plan will be worked out within the next few months. Also discussed were previous assistance provided by UNDP recently including the possibility of further technical assistance in other fields.

Holcombe said UNDP will finance a study on the possible decentralization of the TT Social Security System, the arrangement would be for the social security system to be administered in the various states. His office will pay for all expenses of a specialist who will do the study.

Technical assistance will also be provided in various fields requested by the states to implement the development program, he said.

Holcombe, who has returned to Fiji, said his visit to FSM is part of his periodic review of the activities of the three Micronesian entities and to find "ways in which we can collaborate more in line with the new development plans.

"We try to work with priorities of the national government," he added. Further discussions on assistance and funding from the UNDP will be held at a later date.

Prior to his arrival in Ponaape, Holcombe was in Palau making similar review on their UNDP programs. He also went to Saipan and met with TT Headquarters officials.

Originally from Massachusetts, Holcombe has been working with the United Nations since 1965. He has been in Fiji for 13 months now.

Saipan Swimmers Get Rainy Start In Guam

It was raining fairly hard on Guam at noon Saturday Oct. 17 when warm-ups began for the swim meet sponsored by the Naval Communication Station Seahorses.

The Andersen Marlins had dropped out of the meet leaving NCS, NAS and the Saipan Swim Club competing.

The rain stopped before the first event and the meet proceeded without rain until the end.

It was the first meet of the season for the Saipan swimmers and although it was an exhibition meet all made an determined effort.

NCS took team honors with 40 plus swimmers while Saipan earned second with 22 swimmers. NAS was third with only 6 competing.

Representing their team excellently by taking firsts in all the events they entered were: 8 year old Tricia Palacios, Jonathan Sakovich, 11, and Michael Villagomez, age 13.

Others with individual firsts were Richard Villagomez, Brian Mack, Lawrence Camacho, Greg Camacho, Brent Thompson for the boys, and Jennifer Carter, Esther Milne, Lora Harvey, Karla Izuka, Tiffany Hanna, Sonya Thompson, and Tina Concepcion, for the girls.

Jeanne Sakovich commented the team swam well in its first meet despite being without the proper facilities to prepare. She also added B-Champ championships would be held at the end of Nov. and A-Champ championships would be at the start of December.

Yachtsmen Open Winter Racing

The Over the Reef Yacht Club began its winter racing schedule last Sunday with an enthusiastic turnout, close competition and near perfect weather.

Timekeeper and flagman Chuck Jordan synchronized all watches after Bruce Erickson had set the buoys to begin racing.

In the first race, after Bill Sakovich's false start, Devor Pevic lost his crew member George Haberman when a harness snap failed, sending him overboard after their near perfect start.

Rex Kosack and crew member, wife Karen, mastered the course in 12 min., 30 seconds. The crew of Sakovich and wife Jeanne was second.

In the second race the course was doubled and this time Sakovich finished first, Kosack second.

Controversy arose when Pevic's boat snagged the buoy line to the start and finish marker. When feet hit sand there was a scramble for the 7th edition of Paul Elvstroms Yacht Racing Rules. Final results are still pending.

Brian McMahon in an understatement noted "we had plotted the course wrong." He finished 5th.

In the feature race heavy rains caused a more cautious approach to the markers but at its end once again Kosack's boat was triumphant, George

Haberman and wife Martha second, followed by McMahon and Cindy Brennan, Devor and Michele Pevic, Bill Sakovich and Jeanne, Keith and Judy Augenbaugh and Ben and Cindy Bland and son Ben Jr.

Ben upon hearing someone wanted to learn how to sail said "so do I."

Current club plans are for races each Sunday at the Inter-Con beach
