Greece's Beautiful Isles.

The isles of Greece, the Isles of Greece!

Where burning Sappho loved and sung.

One of these Isles of Greece, Cephalonia, is to be thrice blessed, for by the will of Panagi Vagliani, who died in London the other day, $2,500,000 is left to the island, so that poverty may be forever banished from its shores. This large amount has been placed in the London and Westminster Bank and the interest is to be transferred to Greece every quarter, and is to be devoted to the relief of poor people in Cephalonia.

Panagi Vagliani, the head of the banking and shipping firm of Vagliani Brothers, was the survivor of three remarkable brothers who were born in Lixuri, a small village in Cephalonia. Marie, the oldest brother, who died in St. Petersburg three years ago at the age of ninety years, emigrated to southern Russia when a young boy, and established himself as a loader of grain on the Sea of Azoff. Later he was found by his two younger brothers, Andrea and Panagi. Andrea died in Russia fourteen years ago.

The business established by the oldest brother grew and ere long the Vaglianis were possessors of a large fleet of lighters that operated at various ports along the Sea of Azoff. The brothers prospered and, from loading grain became themselves dealers in grain and breadstuffs. During the Crimean war their business took colossal proportions, and the firm extended its operations, and banking houses in connection with the vast grain and shipping interests were established in St. Petersburg, London, Constantinople and Marseilles.

At one time the Vagliani Brothers owned and operated a fleet of eighty steamers, and were rated to be worth about $50,000,000. Formerly they were the largest exporters of tallow from Russia, and they did an immense business in olive oil, which they imported from Turkey and the Mediterranean.

Panagi Vagliani was for many years the head of the London house, whose offices are in old Broad street, and after the death of his brother Marie he succeeded as head of the firm. He led a very quiet and retired life, made no display of his vast wealth, and was a man of exceedingly frugal habits. He lived quietly in London in a modest house, and saw only a few intimate friends. He died childless, and as he was a widower he left the bulk of his fortune, amounting to $15,000,000 to his nephews.

During his life time, though he spent little himself, he made many generous donations. Among these was one of $1,500,000 francs for the erection of the fine library at Athens, which bears his name. Perhaps his example may have had some influence upon Mr. Carnegie.

Cephalonia is the largest of the Ionian Islands, all of which belong to Greece. It is a few miles west of the mainland, and is about thirty-two miles long and from five to twelve miles in breadth. Its surface is generally mountainous, and its highest peak, called Oros Ainos, is five thousand feet above sea level. Its lofty head was once crowned by a temple of Jupiter, but this has long since crumbled into dust.

There are fertile spots here and

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

We never before knew of banana cuttings. What are they? What we know is that bananas have suckers and it is the suckers that are used as plants.

Practical jokers of the kind practiced by certain white men upon an old native man cannot expect mercy from our District Magistrate, and therefore, the rebuke the Judge gave them yesterday before his court, elsewhere recorded in this issue, is perfectly just and most deserving. But what we are sorry most that Judge Wilcox did not impose a much severer sentence on such practical jokers of the genus haole. And we hope though that when their appeal is brought before the Circuit Court and a jury of their peers, they will all receive their just desserts and no mercy shown them.

According to an interview with Delegate Wilcox, elsewhere recorded herein, the fire claims appropriation will pass the U. S. Congress after it has passed the scrutiny of the watch dog of the Treasury, Representative Cannon, that is, when the justice of the request and demand is made known to satisfy all curiosity. It is to be earnestly hoped that by the next mail, we will hear favorable reports of its passage and approval. Though the certificates of awards for the fire claims are practically ready for distribution among the claimants, nothing is to be done by the Fire Claims Commission until final action is taken upon the bill appropriating one million dollars in Congress. The warrants are all dated July 1st, and made payable August 5th next, but will not be given out for awhile. This course we deem quite proper and opportune, and claimants should rest assured that justice will be done them. E. hoomanawanui.

FROM ST. PAUL'S PARISH.

Archdeacon Restarick, Our Bishop To Be, Heard From.

We have heard directly from our American Bishop to be, in a letter dated June 17th last, and we take the liberty of using certain extracts therefrom.

Speaking of Bishop Willis' departure from here, Archdeacon Restarick, has the following to say: "It must have been sad for those who have known and have loved him so long, to part with such an old friend. I deeply regret that I have never met him and I sincerely hope that he may be blessed and prospered in the distant Islands to which he goes."

"I hope to see you soon and to know you personally. I understand that you are an old Iolani College boy, that school which has done such a good work. I sincerely hope that it may continue to do its work." When he comes we will be most happy to meet and know him personally for ourselves. Yes, we are of Iolani, but since Bishop Willis left here, it is no more. It is being kept on though as a day school and as a nucleus with which to rebuild the old Iolani upon a new foundation of an American institution, if our new Bishop to be will only see to it and take up the work established by the English Mission.

In the post-script, he expresses the following: "I wish you could be present at my consecration which takes place on July 2 at St. Paul's Church, San Diego."

We are most sorry that we cannot be, for we would like to be there on hand. But we trust that the Divine blessing may be poured upon him at his consecration tomorrow.

HOME AGAIN.

Delegate Wilcox Returns to Honolulu and Discusses Local Affairs.

Hawaii's Delegate to Congress, Robert W. Wilcox, returned home last night in the Zealandia after an absence of nearly eight months at Washington.

THE INDEPENDENT found him at 9 o'clock this morning sitting on the beautiful lanai of his house on the slopes of Punchbowl and surrounded by Mrs. Wilcox, Senator Kalanikaʻola, George Markham and a number of Home Rule leaders and friends.

The Delegate looked well and healthy; the trip across the Pacific and his return to his native clime have done him a world of good and he thinks that after a few days rest he will be his old self again.

Politics, of course, was the subject discussed in that friendly gathering of politicians. When the subject of Fire Claims was broached, Delegate Wilcox smiled and at once launched into a description of the careful scrutiny which the appropriation bill will be subjected to by the old watch dog of the Treasury, Joe Cannon "There is no doubt in my mind, however," continued Mr. Wilcox, "but that the bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the payment of fire claims will be passed. I have received assurances to that effect." "Sam Parker's Ditch bill will not get through this session. The Federal Government is very loth to pass measures which really ought to be considered by the Territorial Legislature, but it will pass this bill all right during the next session. There was a feeling at Washington to recommend that the matter be referred to the Territorial Superintendent of Public Works, but it was not done. The reason? Well, they think that Gov. Dole has too much power already.

"Pain's bill, authorizing him to use electric power for his tramways will also be passed at the next session. A careful investigation has been made and we have shown that although it is plainly a case which ought to be dealt with by the Territorial Legislature, such a thing could not be done owing to Gov. Dole's arbitrary use of his right to veto." Mr. Wilcox feels confident that a Congressional investigation committee will visit the Territory during the coming summer. The following resolution was introduced by Senator Mitchell of Oregon on June 13th.

Resolved, That the Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to investigate, inquire into, and ascertain the general condition of the islands of Hawaii, the administration of the affairs thereof, the area, condition, quality, and value of the public lands, the leasing, selling, or disposing thereof, and to make such recommendations as may be deemed necessary; to investigate and ascertain the area, condition, quality, and value of the crown lands, the rents, issues, or other revenues or proceeds received therefrom since January 17, 1893; whether or not the former Queen of said islands now possesses any legal or equitable right, title, or interest in or to the same; the granting of franchises or other privileges, the question of immigration, the condition of labor therein, and to inquire into and report upon all other necessary matters pertaining to the executive, legislative, judicial, educational, tax, school, financial, and other systems thereof.

For the purposes aforesaid said committee, or a subcommittee thereof, appointed by the chairman, shall have power to send for persons and papers, to visit the islands, to administer oaths, to sit during the recess of Congress; and said committee shall report at the beginning of the next session of Congress the result of its investigations, the expenses of said investigation to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

The resolution was referred to the committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico.

When asked as to the outlook for the next campaign, Mr. Wilcox begged to be excused from expressing any opinion as he had just arrived and was ignorant of the situation. He was emphatic, however, as to the personality of the candidates for the next legislature. "They must be the best men available, honest, intelligent and having the common interest of the Territory at heart. We want men who will give us home rule. Washington wants us to have Home Rule. We must have a Legislature which the Governor will have to respect. Foremost among the campaign battle cries must be: County and City Government. All the Territories have it; Porto Rico has it, and it will be organized in the Philippines. Why not in Hawaii?"

By this time, the broad lanai overlooking the city and the ocean was crowded by many friends and political associates, so the representative of THE INDEPENDENT withdrew after Mr. Wilcox had requested him to give the Delegate's Aloha to the people of this city and Territory. It is done.

Ex Police Captain Dead.

Mr. A. A. Fox, agent for Castle Bros. & Wolf at Santa Cruz, Laguna de Bay, died of cholera Monday evening.

He was born at Salinas, California, and was about 45 years of age. Mr. Fox has a wife who has been living at Honolulu and is expected here on the next boat. The unfortunate victim of the plague was until a short time ago captain of mounted police in Honolulu, where he made an enviable record as an officer and a gentleman.

He has many friends in Manila and the news of his death must come as a painful shock to all who knew him.—Manila American.

THEY HAD BLACK HEARTS.

Scathing Censure by Judge Wilcox on Three Offenders.

B. Hartman, N. G. Campion and Ben Gallagher will undoubtedly remember for a long time to come a certain session of the District Court, at which they were present as defendants. They were charged with assault and battery on D. K. Kawaha, an old native from the country districts of Kauai; according to the testimony which was brought out in Court yesterday they mutilated the old man's gloves, destroyed his headgear, half drowned him with the mineral water, set fire to his clothes with firecrackers, and lastly Hartman is said to have taken the old man's purse containing $33.

Judge Wilcox followed the proceedings very attentively. To the old habits of the District Court, the judge's attitude was characteristic; everyone felt that something was coming, and it did come. He said:

"I don't need much argument from either of you gentlemen, for I have the evidence adduced before me. I don't think there are any extenuating circumstances in favor of Gallagher, as pointed out by the prosecution, for I think he was as guilty as the others. If a man stands up and lets a black-guard injure an old native with miserable, low-lived, dirty tricks, without making an attempt to stop him, he is as guilty as the others, and in this case the evidence shows that Gallagher laughed and clapped his hands and egged the others on. This case takes the cake. I can hardly believe my eyes when I see before me three white men guilty of such an offense. Their skins cover up dirty carcasses. There was not a single gentleman in the crowd. It is the most scurvy trick to set fire to this old man's clothes that I have heard of in years. They also robbed him of his money. Disney, the barkeeper in a saloon, and a man who is supposed to protect his customers, says he has only been here a few weeks, but he does not seem to have learned to tell the truth at any time. His residence in Hawaii has not taught him how to be truthful. I believe he was an untruthful witness.

"I sentence each of you to four months' imprisonment at hard labor. I suppose you will appeal this case to the Circuit Court, and I hope you do, for I want them to hear a case like this. I will require bail in the sum of $200 each."

Each was allowed his freedom on appeal by putting up bail in the sum of $200.

The First Local Mint.

One of the institutions here which has the special attention of tourists as well as the local people is the Mint, which is established on Nuuanu street, opposite Queen Emma Hall. It is interesting to enter the large main working room where general manager McDonough and his corps of assistants are at work. The cool and large lanai is a proper resting place and the vaults, where the "bars" to be minted and beer are kept present a very tasty spectacle. The Mint is open from 5:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. and during those hours the work never ceases. Visitors after looking over the place will find first class refreshments and the purest of liquors.

Island Ports

Greece's Beautiful Isles.

there in the island, but the soil is generally thin and not very productive.
Currants are the staple product of the island, and large quantities of these are exported. Olive oil is also produced in considerable quantities.
The population numbers upward of a hundred thousand.

In ancient times Cephalonia was known by various names. The Greeks called it Samos, but the Latins styled it Tetrapolis. In 189 B. C. the island came under the Roman dominion, and became subject to the Byzantines till the twelfth century. Afterward it fell, successively, to the Normans, Veneti-
ans, Turks and again to the Venetians,
who retained possession of it until 1797.

By the peace of Tilsit, in 1809,
the French obtained the island, but were driven out by the English, under whose protection it remained until 1864, when it was annexed to Greece, of which kingdom it forms a nome.

Under English rule some fine roads
were constructed and the capitol, Ar-gostoli, was rendered more imposing
by the erection of some large public buildings, but the Ionians chafed under foreign rule, and their longing to be annexed to Greece were finally realized.

It was in the little village of Metazata, about seven miles from Argostoli, that Lord Byron took up his abode for some months, upon his expedition to aid the cause of Greek independence. But he was much disgusted by the bickerings and jealous-ies of the leaders of the Greek cause.
"I was a fool," he wrote, "to have come here, but, being here, I must see
what is to be done."

Several of the world's great decisive battles were fought off the shores of the Ionian Islands, and men famous in history have been connected with them—Alexander in youth and Demosthenes in death; Aristotle and Themistocles in banishment; Cicero
and Cato in flight; Antony and Cleopatra in marriage and defeat; August-us in victory; Agrippina in widowhood, and Richard Coeur de Lion on his way to an Austrian prison. On the island of Santa Maura is shown the cliff from which Sappho is said
to have hurled herself into the sea.

Poetical associations of a high interest invest many a cove and head-land, and it was "in the isle that is called Patmos" that St. John beheld
the Revelations.

It is in this insular Greece that one
to-day can get nearest to antiquity
as regards manners and customs. Domestic habits have in many respects undergone little change among the peasantry.

As the people are frugal and live
in very simple fashion, the sum that has been left to Cephalonia will doubtless be sufficient for its purpose,
and the wolf will be forever banished
from its door.
