RECORD RAIN STORM'S WIDESPREAD DAMAGE Japanese Troops At Port Arthur Defeated

STORM STOPS O. R. & L. ROAD TRAFFIC

The storm has played considerable havoc with the railroad system. The last train which went through to Kailua left yesterday at 9:15 a. m. Since then no through train has passed. Yesterday afternoon a passenger train went as far as Waipahu.

Today all railroad traffic was suspended on account of the condition of the roads. Just what damage has been done by the rains is, however, at present, merely a matter of conjecture as nothing is definitely known about it.

The railroad telephone ceased to operate yesterday at 2 p. m. and is not known where the break in the line is.

The ranch telephone line, as well as the Mutual Company's line, are also down, so absolutely no communication can be had with and points on the line beyond Pearl City. As a consequence there are at present two passenger trains and one freight train tied up somewhere on the line. As these trains have now lost their right of way they can not move without orders and these can not reach them on account of the breakdown of the telephones.

Passenger Agent Fred. Smith went out on an extra train this morning to ascertain conditions. The road to Pearl City was found to need only slight repairs. These were made and the line is now clear. The extra train reached as far as Waipahu but here it had to stop since so great an amount of water had flooded the tracks that it was impossible for the train to pass. It returned to the city early this afternoon.

The 2:15 train left this afternoon for Pearl City. No traffic can be carried to points beyond Pearl City before the telephone line has been repaired and the exact amount of the damage is known. Gangs of men have been sent out to fix the line and clear the track.

The steamer Lehua was due to arrive from Molokai ports this morning. At 2 p. m. she had still not turned up. She is probably being delayed by rough weather.

City Bridges and Culverts Washed Out Or Damaged

H. C. Lydecker, Territorial Meteorologist, reported to the Bulletin this morning the following:

Rainfall from 9 a. m., Feb. 10, to 9 a. m., Feb. 11, 7.51 inches. This eclipses the record for Saturday to Sunday, which was 6.22 inches.

Total for the present storm, from Saturday to this morning at 9 a. m., 17.75 inches.

DAMAGE IS LARGE.

From the present calculations, the damage done by the storm which began Saturday and has not yet ended, will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000, a sum that the treasury of the Territory can ill afford at this time.

Reports of the damage done by the continuation of the storm last night, arrived at the office of the Road Department throughout the forenoon and at the noon hour a long list had been made out.

WAIKIKI BRIDGE DOWN.

CAN'T CASH TILL NOVEMBER

All Government warrants under the account of current expenses, which are now being registered owing to the present financial stringency, will run until November next before they are converted into cash.

Treasurer Kepoikal stated this afternoon that this course would have to be pursued in order to safely guide the local ship of finance through the troubled waters of hard times.

In November something over one million dollars will flow into the Territorial treasury from taxes. At that time, about the 20th of the month, registered current expense warrants will be taken up.

Salary warrants are not affected by this arrangement. These are being cashed and will continue to be cashed right along as funds on hand will permit, there being little or no delay in the conversion of these obligations.

When the time approaches for the payment of the current expense warrants now piling up, month by month, there will be an appreciable hole made in the million dollars and odd coming in through taxes.

It was only a few days ago that Treasurer Kepoikal sent out letters of warning to the heads of the various departments, urging them not to incur any more expense than was absolutely necessary in current accounts.

Governor Carter has been communicated with in regard to the best method of procedure in regard to public works now under way, in view of Kepoikal's note and the facts pointed out therein.

Superintendent of Public Works Holmway, as previously stated, has withdrawn laborers from the roads, primarily to handle work occasioned by the storm and, incidentally, to await word from the Governor as to whether these forces shall return to work or quit for the present.

JAPANESE DAILIES

On the strength of the war news that is being received here daily, the Japanese papers of the city that were wont to issue weekly are now getting out dailies on a small scale. The cablegrams as they appear in the morning and afternoon papers are translated, set in Japanese type and then printed on small slips of paper such as those used for ordinary hand bills. They are making money, too, for as soon as the sheets are issued, they are quickly bought by the Japanese who crowd the doors and sidewalks. Newsboys are not necessary in their business.

JUSTICE STORM-BOUND

Judge Robinson held no court today. Proceedings in the Matsumoto assault affair were held up on account of the flood.

Attorney Mott-Smith, who is defending, was weather-bound in Wailaie. The sweeping waters covering the country between his home and town prevented the learned counsel from keeping his judicial appointments.

Judge Robinson put all matters over until Monday morning next.

Practically all work on the waterfront was suspended today owing to the bad weather and the soggy state of the front.

JAPANESE CRUISERS DAMAGED

[Associated Press Special Cable.]
LONDON, England, Feb. 11.—A Reuter cablegram received today reports that four Russian battleships and three cruisers were sunk in the naval battle at Port Arthur Monday night. Two Japanese cruisers were damaged.

Russian Captain Destroyed Ship To Prevent Capture

[Associated Press Special Cable.]
TOKIO, Japan, Feb. 11.—It is reported that the Russian cruiser Varieg was blown up by her captain in the naval battle at Chemulpo. This was done presumably to prevent capture.

JAPAN'S WAR DECLARATION.

[Associated Press Special Cable.]
TOKIO, Japan, Feb. 11.—The Japanese Emperor has issued a formal declaration of war against Russia.

CHAPEL ORGAN RUINED

The fine organ at St. Augustine's chapel, Waikiki, has been completely ruined by the recent storm. The little place of worship, built by Father Valentine himself, was fashioned so that there could be a free play of air through the structure at all times. The rain took advantage of what was intended for the air and so the organ is now out of commission.

Otto Bierbach, of the Honolulu Drug Co., has sold his interest to Captain A. H. Otis and is now in the employ of Pearson & Potter, as bookkeeper.

JAPANESE LEAGUE ISSUES ADDRESS TO ISLAND RESIDENTS

The following address to Japanese residents was issued today:

It is with the deepest regret that we have to announce that the prolonged negotiation for a peaceful settlement of international differences between Japan and Russia has failed, and that Japan is compelled to resort to the arbitrament of war for the solution thereof. It is but proper that the subjects of His Imperial Japanese Majesty, residing within the Territory of Hawaii, and under the protection of the United States of America, should regulate their conduct with due regard to the well-known obligations of a belligerent's subjects, residing within the territory of a neutral friendly Power; and it should be their special care, at this exciting moment, to conduct themselves calmly, quietly, and in moderation in the peaceful intercourse with their employers and with all others.

Should the Home Government call the reserves and landwehr into actual service, both of army and navy, it shall be the high privilege for those residing in Hawaii, and who belong to either class, to immediately respond to the patriotic call of their country and return to Japan. It should be their special care to make preparation to be ready to return in as calm and quiet a manner as in time of peace.

By the advice of H. I. J. M.'s Consul General, Honolulu, T. H.
THE CENTRAL JAPANESE LEAGUE.

FRIEDENTHAL MATINEE

A matinee piano recital has been specially arranged for students and amateurs for Saturday afternoon at 2:30 by Friedenthal. This will take place at Punahou Hall, and seats can now be reserved at Wall, Nichols Co.

Lovers of music will need no urging to attend this last concert, and many of those who heard the eminent artist on Tuesday evening are glad of the opportunity once again.

For the benefit of students, Beethoven's famous "Moonlight Sonata" will be played and other well-known selections will be included in the program. Admission will be 75c and students 50c.

and Territory and codify them. The commission consists of Chief Justice Frear, A. A. Wilder and A. F. Judd.

Water from Kapiolani Park inundated the road between Judge Hart's and F. M. Hatch's places, the water being about two feet deep. This morning it broke under the fence between W. G. Irwin's place and the cable house and rapidly made a trench about six feet deep, through which rushing torrents of water poured into the sea.

Pretty soon it will be next year—Declarator (Ill.) Herald.

The Old Ready-Made versus
The New Ready-To-Wear

Before the advent of
ALFRED BENJAMIN & CO.

30 years ago there were more old ready made clothes than any other kind. The fabrics were inferior; the designs were commonplace; the pieces were thrown together with cheap cotton thread; the whole garment had a hang-dog look that no amount of pressing could get rid of. What little shape it first had was soon lost. At a glance you could tell this ready-made from custom-made—just as you can now.

When BENJAMIN Clothes were first marketed the other fellows shook their heads and predicted failure. "Where is the profit," they asked "in retailing garments that cost as much to tailor as custom-made?" Thirty years of success have shown the wisdom of producing fine clothes at reasonable prices. Today the highest type of ready-for-service apparel bears this famous trade-mark.

THE BUNION LAST.

Plenty of room for enlarged joints, closely fitting elsewhere. This describes, in a few words, shoes made on the Bunion Last.

The foot with a bunion was very much like other feet before the bunion grew. It needs a shoe having more room in certain points, but in others no extra room is required. It has been impossible to obtain a satisfactory fit in a ready made shoe. The nearest approach to it was obtained by buying a shoe which was two or three sizes too long or two wide in order to give the room. Such a shoe felt easy when first worn, but after a time it began to hurt—why? Because it was much too large in instep and heel and allowed the foot to crowd forward into the shoe, cramping and otherwise hurting the toes and joints already tender and inflamed. The "Bunion Shoe" is the only shoe in world that will fit the foot with a bunion or an enlarged joint.

FARMERS SIT IN SECRET

Acting on a communication from Entomologist Perkins, the Board of Agriculture and Forestry at its meeting yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution prohibiting until further notice, the importation into the Territory of bananas from the South Sea.

In a letter from Professor Koebele on the mainland, Professor Perkins was warned of the existence in the South Sea Islands of a disease which is ruining bananas. These facts appeared in the Bulletin several days ago. Matters in relation to the periodical magazine of the Board were briefly discussed and, at the suggestion of Editor Giffard, were deferred to a later meeting. Reports of entomological inspectors were received and read. An executive session followed the short regular meeting.

President L. A. Thurston presided. Executive Officer C. S. Holloway, A. W. Carter, W. M. Giffard and J. D. Dole were also present.

VESSELS STORM-BOUND

Owing to the prevailing storm, no island boats, with the exception of the gasoline schooner Eclipse, which sailed for Anahola, went out yesterday. The steamers Waiialeale and Kaula, both bound for Kaula ports, and the Noeau, bound for Maui and Hawaii ports, were scheduled to sail at 5 p. m. yesterday but, had their sailing time postponed until 5 p. m. today.

The U. S. Army transport Sheridan, which was to have sailed for Manila at 5 p. m. yesterday, was held back as it was thought to be too risky for her to attempt to cross the bar last night. She sailed at about 4:30 o'clock this morning. She apparently had a rough time going out, but managed to get out to sea all right.

GIGNOUX-PIERCE.

Miss Jeanette Pierce and A. J. Gignoux were married last evening at the Kapiolani Park home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Japan's Campaign Is Forecast By The Leading Strategist

Reference has already been made in this paper to the interview of Colonel Oka, the chief strategist of Japan, published in the New York Herald early in January. Colonel Oka was returning from the British army maneuvers by way of New York. His forecast of the time of war's outbreak and the movement of the Japanese fleet was so accurate with the events of the past week that it gives special interest to his remarks on the land campaign and Japan's general plan of action.

When asked regarding Japan's plan of campaign, Colonel Oka is quoted in the Herald:

"Look at the map," said Colonel Oka, as he roughly outlined the coast of China, Korea and Japan. "When war breaks out—and it will be to Japan's advantage to strike the first blow—you will find our transports with troops hurrying from Japan straight away to Chemulpo. We have contracted for plenty of vessels, and there is practically an unlimited supply. The transports will get away to Chemulpo in hot haste under the protection of our war ships. During the winter there is little chance of Russia's Eastern squadron leaving Vladivostok, to unite with her vessels at Port Arthur, and we think with our strength in the narrow strait between Korea and Japan we could prevent a junction at all times.

"Anyway, it is our great idea to bring the Russian navy to battle at an early stage because the land operations depend greatly upon our supremacy at sea. The coast of Japan we regard as quite impregnable. After landing at Chemulpo we shall probably make a great march direct to Harbin, over five hundred miles, which we regard as the key to the strategic situation. The roads from Chemulpo are fortunately good. South of Chemulpo the roads are abominably bad, and that is the reason we should not send the transports by way of Fusan. Other wise, Fusan, being almost Japanese already and quite near to Japan, has many advantages.

"Where will be the first great fight?" Colonel Oka took a pencil and indicated the site marked on the map near Chemulpo.

First Fight Off Chemulpo.

"Many people think," said the Colonel, "that Russia will prefer to keep her ships under cover of her guns at Port Arthur. Japan believes, however, that the transports steaming into Chemulpo, and the knowledge that it will be our intention to carry the fight at the outset into the heart of Manchuria will tempt Admiral Alexieff to action. At any rate, the site off Chemulpo would be his best chance, seeing that his base for repairs and supply is at Port Arthur—little over two hundred miles distant.

"Battleships and cruisers have a nasty habit of becoming lame ducks at the critical moment, and Russia would like to be as near her port as possible. In respect of dock yards, repairs and naval supply, of course we are superior to Russia, and a prolongation of the naval warfare would be to our advantage. If Russia refuses battle off Chemulpo perhaps we shall take the offensive and bombard Port Arthur. We are not at all certain that long range guns are placed at that fortress, and high angle fire would probably ruin the shipping in port."

"Our strength on land," said Colonel Oka, "would consist, in concentration, Russia, on the other hand, with her troops scattered all over Manchuria, with big garrisons at Port Arthur, Dainy, Mukden, Niu-Chwang and Vladivostok, would, we consider, suffer by her decentralization. We think that by a great effort and much self-sacrifice on the part of our troops, the rush upon Harbin, with its immense stores of ammunition, forage and tinned goods, would be a success. Once in occupation we should hold the line at the vital point. To the south would be Port Arthur and Dainy, cut off from their lines of communication. Both places would be at the risk of assault by the Japanese navy outside and the Japanese army on the land side. To raise the siege the garrisons would have to come out and fight in the open.

"We think that the campaign at this point will show how well Japan has learned the latest lessons of the science of war. We recognize, I believe, that the introduction of smokeless powder, long range rifles and machine guns has revolutionized things. The lessons of the Franco-German War, so long the text book and guide in the military academies, and still taught in some Western countries, are pretty well obsolete nowadays. New strategy is required, and tactics must be adapted accordingly. In these respects we hope to show that Japan has kept well abreast of the times."

To Leave Retreat Open.
Many authorities hold that Japan will not be able to resist the Russian army in Manchuria, with its well disciplined soldiers, inured to winter campaigning; their formidable reserves, and a cavalry which is considered by some experts to be a pattern to the cavalry of the world. The possibility of a retreat in force from Harbin has, of course, been contemplated by the War Office at Tokyo, and plans prepared accordingly.

It was the opinion of Colonel Oka that in the case of retreat from the Liaotung district in Southern Manchuria, strong defensive positions would be taken up by the Japanese in the north of Korea. An army well entrenched with a handy sea base at Chemulpo could occupy almost the entire frontier without much difficulty.

In the case of reverses successive positions could be taken up in the Hwang River, and move to the south bringing Russia further from her base and Japan nearer home.

Colonel Oka assured me that Japan ese soldiers fully appreciated the immense advantage enjoyed under existing conditions by the army acting on the defensive. It was shown conclusively by the Boers at Modder River, Magersfontein, Colenso, Stormberg and even at Gaardeberg, despite the surrender of Cronje and his four thousand burghers. The Boers made trenches which were a revelation to the British engineers and proved conclusively that a hole properly dug and concealed is safe not only from rifle fire, but the more deadly shrapnel. There are the rifle pits, continuous and discontinuous, which defy all flanking fire. Those made in irregular, snake-like fashion, though giving sufficient cover to troops and facility for keeping up communication between various units, were found in South Africa quite safe against an enemy which attempted to enfilade.

The advantage of defence would be with the Russians at Harbin, with the Japanese if the fortunes of war compelled a very possible retreat. Both Colonel Oka and Major Furumai are evidently past masters in the art of entrenchment, which now forms one of the most important features of an efficient military education. They had seen illustrations in the military schools, they had seen in England a reproduction on the maneuver field of the exact thing. The Japanese attaché in the South African war had himself called special attention to the leading part they must play in all future campaigns. It is certain that in this respect, at any rate, the Mikado's methods will bring to Eastern warfare methods of entrenchment heretofore confined to the more enlightened West. "The intrenchments," to quote Colonel Oka, "when properly made may be occupied for months."

THURSDAY, FEB. 11, 1904.
And the next day it rained.

This is somewhat of a reminder of boom times when the community was excited over watered stock.

Friends of Russia can find consolation in the record that it took a Bull Run to arouse Northerners to a realization that they had a fight on their hands.

Malibini's communication will be of use when the name of the author is made known to the editor. This paper does not publish anonymous communications even on Tom Fitch.

Judging from some of the dispatches Russia has been defeated before the war is actually in full swing. Russia always was slow to move but it will be numerous weeks before the white flag is seen.

Should the reports of Russia's military strength in Manchuria and Siberia prove true there is no further occasion to wonder why the Russian government was so deeply interested in preserving peace. The grip on Manchuria had more diplomatic than military strength.

From the damage done by the storm in Honolulu, which is reasonably well equipped to withstand heavy weather. It is safe to predict that the destruction wrought in the country districts will reach a figure presenting further financial problems for the Territory. Washouts on regular avenues of traffic must at least be made passable.

Now that the Merchants' Association contemplates taking a hand in the discussion of the Territorial financial situation, there is ample guarantee of absolute freedom from personal or factional issues figuring in future action. Present conditions cannot obtain, and as previously pointed out by this paper, the welfare of every citizen in the Territory demands a clear-cut financial policy on which the community can depend.

An executive session of the Board of Agriculture with Lorrin A. Thurston, proprietor of the Advertiser, in the chair. Perish the thought that this great advocate of publicity in government should be the first to shut the door on the public when he gets a little temporary authority. Was Thurston's Board of Agriculture deliberating on a diplomatic note, the necessity of Hawaii declaring independence and then neutrality in the war between Japan and Russia? As an exponent of publicity in Territorial government business Lorrin A. Thurston's halo is ninety-nine-one-hundredths hot air.

Advantages Hawaii will reap from the Oriental war are not yet apparent. Of the material needed in the war game this Territory can furnish only Japanese, who are needed on the plantations, and their earnings, which are needed to keep a reasonable amount of cash in the islands. Possible good effect on the sugar market is very remote. In general supplies the Territory is now a purchaser and the only prospect of gain is the possibility that the Japanese business houses will be forced to purchase their supplies from American agencies. California and the whole west coast will profit, but Hawaii has a prospect promising to fulfill the old adage that "war is hell."

THE LAND CAMPAIGN.

Japan's speedy work with the Russian navy has set the world thinking what the results are to be on land. The impression generally is that Russia's weight of numbers will be more than the Japanese can overcome for a long sustained campaign. Statistics show that Russia has a war footing of 4,500,000 against the 650,000 of Japan. The relative fighting qualities of the opposing armies have yet to be proved. The Japanese makes more display. The Russian has never shown a lack of courage or fighting ability.

It must be admitted that Russia has a tremendous army and should naturally be expected to crush her smaller adversary by mere force of the slow glacial movement of numbers. The question arises however, Has Russia a sufficient force to use where it is needed? What we don't know of the Russian army movements is often noted. A more strictly censored nation does not exist on earth unless it is Japan. General estimate is the closest the outsider can come to the situation. Expert military correspondents figured, as late as the middle of last month, that Russia had no more than 240,000 fighting men in what is now the war zone, and of these not more than 140,000 were available for active campaigning. Russia requires one army to protect her lines of communication which will not only be the natural center of attack from the Japanese, but for much of their distance in Manchuria require protection from hostile Chinese. Strong garrisons must be maintained at Port Arthur, Vladivostok and other Manchurian and Siberian stations that will be principal objective points of Japanese attack. Withal Russia has a tremendous stretch of territory to protect while its field army is operating. Another uncertain quantity is the efficiency of the Siberian railway. Incidents of period of war preparation have suggested that Russia cannot move her troops and supplies over this road as rapidly as desired under the most favorable conditions.

Little is known of Japan's army movements except that it is or has been in readiness and the necessary ships are available for speedy transportation of men and supplies. Japan's mercantile fleet numbers 1300 steamers available for troop transportation. The distances her forces have to cover are relatively shorter and less dangerous once Russia's naval power is destroyed. Chemulpo is about two days steaming from Japan's base and the Yalu river ports a little over three days. Having once effected a landing at either of these centers Japan has the advantage of closer proximity to its base of supplies and reinforcements.

Russia's greatest asset in the land campaign is that its operations for a time at least will be defensive. Granted that Russia has only 100,000 men in its Manchurian army, this force should hold in check the Japanese army of invasion, estimated at 200,000 strong.

CITY BRIDGES DAMAGED

water of last night undermined the earth upon which the supports were standing and precipitated it upon the big water main of the Water Works Department, making traveling across very dangerous indeed. The only way to get across with a carriage is by unhitching the horse and taking each across separately. Even then it is dangerous.

The big water main referred to has burst as a result of the perfect deluge of water that swept down during the night and the whole place is flooded.

CABLE CONDUIT SETTLES.
The cable conduit from the hut at Sans Souci has settled down on account of the undermining of the earth upon which it rested but no damage has been done to the cable itself.

Fortunately, the car track is intact, so that people living on the other side can get to their homes without any trouble.
MAKIKI SUFFERS.
Makiki is the section which was hardest hit by the storm last night, damage being done on every hand. While people slept, their beautiful decorative trees were being felled and their fences being undermined by the silent agency of the water.

Near the Holt home, between Anapuni and Makiki streets, the water simply flooded the place and did great damage in the directions already mentioned, as well as others. It was stated at the Road Department office this morning that one more rain storm like the one of last night would result in a number of barns of the district being undermined and carried away.

MANOA BRIDGE DOWN.
The Manoa bridge on the eastern, or lower, branch of the road will no longer admit of traffic. It was reported at the Road Department office that the whole thing had gone to pieces and it was hanging by one timber only.

BAND STAND CRUSHED.
At the home of T. P. Cummins on King street, in Pawa, a great big tree fell athwart the band stand which has been standing three years and made kindling wood of the structure. In the stand were a table and a number of chairs belonging to the First Precinct Club of the Fourth District, Republican party. Mr. Cummins said he was unable to find anything but a few legs this morning.

STREET UNDERMINED.
A complaint came in from Spencer Avenue, between Alapai and Hackfield streets, to the effect that the rain had made great holes in and undermined many portions of the thoroughfare, making it dangerous to traffic.

The fence at the government washhouse in Iwilei, was rooted up by the water and the foundations of the house itself were more or less undermined. In Aala lane the water was 18 inches deep this morning and Judge Kaulukou, who was anxious to get to town, found it necessary to send a man out to get a hack in order that he might leave.

CHICKEN COOP CHASE.
People standing at the corner of King street and the Walkiki road during the storm last night, witnessed an amusing sight. A heavy volume of water was dashing down the Makiki ditch, and upon the troubled surface came a small chicken coop, filled with chickens. Chinese of the district immediately gave chase, but the outcome of the race has not yet been learned. The water was flowing at a very great rate of speed.

This forenoon, Rapid Transit cars going out King street stopped at the switch opposite the British Consulate and then drags and busses transported the passengers across Piliol street to a position opposite the home of J. S. Walker, where another car was stationed to take them on further.

Kukul street, from Nuanu to River, is a wreck. It is torn up in such a manner as to make traveling over it dangerous.

ROOF BLOWN OFF.

Out at A. W. Carter's place in Kalaiala on Tuesday night last, the wind lifted the heavy corrugated iron roof from the stables of A. W. Carter and carried it for a distance of at least 300 yards.

W. W. Hall states that at his place in Nuanu, on Saturday last until this morning, 17.9 inches of rain had fallen. This he characterized as the largest record for the last thirty years for the month of February.

CONCRETE BRIDGE GONE.

The fine new concrete bridge at Moiliili which was built by Lord & Belsler at a cost of $5000 and which was just completed a short time ago, was disabled by the flowing torrent at about 6:30 o'clock this morning. Although the cement foundations were sunk to a depth of six feet below the bed of the stream, this was not sufficient. The turbulent water worked around the mauka, Ewa corner and finally undermined the foundation, causing it to sink. This threw such a strain on the bridge that the material gave away.

On the mauka side a long crack runs horizontally over the arch, while two large vertical cracks have literally divided the wall into three sections. On the makai side a long, wide crack starts from the Ewa corner and goes in an angle across the arch. The roadbed across the bridge is not cracked but has sunk considerably.

CARS DISCONTINUED.

The Rapid Transit Company has discontinued the running of cars across the bridge. A police officer was stationed there this forenoon to stop all traffic, except pedestrians, as the structure is now considered to be in a very unsafe condition.

OUT AT KAPIOLANI.

The torrents of water which inundated Kapiolani Park caused considerable trouble. The whole park was flooded and loose benches, etc., had to be rescued from the waters and restored to terra firma. The park stables were flooded to such an extent that one of the large feed boxes was carried down the stream. A Chinese stable boy overtook it and seating himself in the box, paddled back by means of a shovel.

CAMP MCKINLEY BAD.

At Camp McKinley the officers fared pretty badly. The floors of their tents are not very high off the ground and some of them were covered with several feet of water, doing some damage. Captain Douglas was especially unfortunate as he had quite a number of effects damaged by water. The only commissioned officers who escaped inconvenience from the storm were the commanding officer and the doctor, who occupy cottages. The men, whose barracks are high up from the ground, suffered no inconvenience.

GUN-SHED DEMOLISHED.

The gun shed of the camp was completely demolished. The rushing torrents split it into two parts, throwing one part to one side and one to the other.

KAIMUKIANS TO WALK.

Kaimuki residents will walk home or live in Honolulu until further notice from the H. R. T. & L. Co. The first car to Kaimuki could not return on account of the big concrete bridge on the Kaimuki side of Moiliili church, sinking. Arrangements were originally made to keep the car on there and operate another one from this end, the bridge not being sufficiently damaged to prevent traffic on foot, but Manager Ballentyne ordered the car to cross the bridge and operate only on the city side.

OFFICERS CALLED HOME

Shiomi, who is connected with the Takakuwa Shoten on Nuanu street, and Rev. Satomi, of the Japanese Temple, are among the prominent Japanese of Honolulu who have been called home by the Japanese Government. Both Shiomi and Satomi are staff captains in the Japanese army and will sail for Japan as soon as possible.

ALSO AT REQUEST OF WASHINGTON

"My professional conduct is being investigated," declared Attorney George A. Davis in Federal court this morning. "and I certainly have a right to object to the witness, Mr. Robert Wylie Davis, making voluntary statements outside of the facts covered by the question of the United States District Attorney. I am charged with malpractice and misconduct; my acts as an attorney are under examination."

"At your own request," stated the District Attorney.

"Not at my own request, alone," said Davis, "but also at the request of the Department of Justice."

Here Mr. Davis drew from an inner pocket copies of the instructions received by U. S. District Attorney R. W. Breckons from the Federal Attorney General's Department.

"Make such investigation a thorough one," quoted the respondent from the paper in his hand. "This is not my request alone, but an instruction from the Department of Justice."

"It does not seem that the investigation will be a thorough one if Mr. Davis continues to object to the admission of evidence," said Breckons, shrugging his shoulders, "however, I will get at it in another way. I will withdraw the question."

"This is an investigation of your conduct," said Judge Dole, "and it seems to me that the witness should be allowed to proceed with his statement of what was said or transpired."

"Then I withdraw my objection," said the respondent.

Hearing in the formal charges of unprofessional conduct filed in Federal court by the District Attorney against Geo. A. Davis at the request of the latter and according to instructions from Washington, based on the disbarment proceedings in the Territorial Supreme Court, was commenced this morning at 10 o'clock in the United States District Court.

District Attorney Breckons, unassisted, appears to present the charges and Davis, in person and unaided, is defending his case.

Robert Wylie Davis, nephew to John K. Sumner, was the first witness called by the U. S. District Attorney. He stated that Maria S. Davis, Sumner's sister, was his mother.

The first time witness had anything to do with Geo. A. Davis was about August, 1902.

Said the witness, in part: "The sale of Sumner's reef property to the railway company was about to be negotiated. My mother got news of the contemplated arrangement. She heard that she was to be left out of a division of the proceeds of the sale. Grandnephews and grandnieces, the Ellises, and the church and Sumner himself were to receive the proceeds."

"The Ellises had consulted with me about their engaging counsel for themselves. They said they were the beneficiaries under Sumner's will. 'How about Mrs. Maria Davis?' I said. 'They said she could look after her own interests. I informed my mother of this and she told me to engage counsel for her. Mother claimed, as Sumner's sister, that she had an interest in Sumner's estate.'

"That if Sumner died, she would be an heir?" asked the Court.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"That was all the interest she claimed?" asked Breckons.

Witness answered affirmatively. Attorney Davis asked that the answer be stricken out as a conclusion of law. After some argument the answer was stricken.

Witness proceeded to say that he went to Attorney Davis to engage him as counsel for Maria S. Davis.

"What was said about a fee?"

"I told Mr. Davis that my mother had no money at that time to pay a fee. She would let him know later as to money arrangements. Eventually George Davis agreed to enter into the case."

"Later Attorney Magoon became associated with Mr. Davis in the case. Davis learned the facts in relation to the pending negotiations of sale and informed my mother of the fact that she was to be left out of the division. He advised a suit in guardianship against Sumner. Mother did not like the idea of having her brother declared non compos mentis.

"Later mother was ill and Sumner visited her on Sumner's Island and said he wanted to settle the difficulty between them. He wanted the case called off and stated that mother would not be left out of the division."

Witness Wylie Davis went on to tell what he has told several times before in disbarment cases, of the relations of Maria S. Davis and Sumner and others with counsel in the various Sumner litigations.

On several occasions Attorney Davis objected to the questions of Breckons as leading or irrelevant and to the answers of the witness as not responsive or going outside of the questions.

Respondent wanted Breckons to fix dates, especially as relating to certain agreements between parties. Breckons wanted to get at the facts in his own way.

It was over testimony in relation to a conversation in regard to the case to declare Sumner non compos mentis that the remarks recorded at the beginning of this article occurred. Davis withdrew his objections on several occasions. Counsel now and then exchanged casual compliments.

"Never before have I had the veil of suspicion cast over my conduct!" declared Davis.

"More than once has a veil been thrown over me," answered Breckons, good-naturedly.

At 11:40 Breckons finished with the witness and Davis proceeded to cross-examine.

"Did you not?" or "Did I not?" was the invariable form of question put by respondent. In every instance the witness answered "Yes," except where he modified his affirmative replies by saying he did not clearly recollect or he was not certain but he thought so.

Briefly, the testimony of R. W. Davis on cross-examination was to the following effect:

Attorney Davis was engaged by Maria S. Davis to represent her interests in the Sumner sale of reef property to the O. R. & L. Co., not at his seeking, being engaged by R. Wylie Davis. Geo. Davis prevented the sale of the property for $100,000 and the contemplated division of the money leaving Maria Davis out, by getting out an injunction which was served on the bank which was to have paid over the money. He received no retainer as Mrs. Maria Davis had no money for such a purpose. That was to be settled later. When Sumner promised to give his sister $10,000 and Davis wanted $5000 fee for himself and Magoon & Peters and Mrs. Maria Davis thought the bill too large, Geo. Davis arranged with the railroad company to pay a greater sum for the reef property, so as to cover the $5000 counsel fee. When Maria S. Davis finally received $15,000 from the Sumner money, Geo. Davis got $2500 and Magoon & Peters $2500.

When Sumner's $48,025 was tied up in the bank, in the Robert-Sumner suit, the Ellises representing the opposition as beneficiaries under Sumner's will, Geo. Davis was engaged by Sumner to get the money out of bank. For this Geo. Davis wanted $3000, but finally accepted $2000.

Witness stated that full confidence was reposed in Geo. Davis at the time he was engaged as counsel.

Witness R. Wylie Davis occupied the entire morning, the cross-examination continuing after noon.

Present in the court room were Mrs. R. W. Davis, John K. Sumner, P. H. Burnette and W. S. Ellis, witnesses called by the U. S. District Attorney. Sumner, with blue goggles, rubbers, umbrella, waterproof coat and an everlasting look of interest, sat in the rear and missed no word or gesture of the proceedings.

Mrs. Maria S. Davis, subpoenaed as a witness, sent a doctor's certificate to the effect that she was too ill to attend court. The lady is seventy-seven years of age.

Breckons, armed with the records of the Davis disbarment proceedings in the Territorial Supreme Court, is conducting the case with the same earnestness which he applies to all matters in Federal court. Attorney Davis, fighting for vindication, occasionally displays some warmth.

"I was railroaded through the Supreme Court," he remarked, "there will be no rushing here."

Judge Dole, paying the deepest attention to all that is said, frequently smooths the little rough places that now and again appear between counsel, as such, gently restoring the sometimes threatened peace of the investigation.

Case proceeds this afternoon. It will probably occupy two or three days.

INSURANCE SUIT READY.

Papers will probably be filed this afternoon in the matter of the Insurance Commissioner (A. N. Kepolka) against the Fidelity Insurance Co. for revocation of the license of the latter for alleged non-compliance with regulations under the Insurance Act. Assistant Attorney General W. S. Fleming is completing the preparation of the papers. Allegations are practically the same as those contained in the complaint filed by Geo. Smithies as Deputy Insurance Commissioner, which was thrown out of court as not being brought by anyone with authority.

The falling of the Walkiki bridge endangered the Cable Company's underground land cable, which connects the town office and the station at Sans Souci. The bridge fell right on the cable but the debris was cleared away and the cable was found to be unhurt.

LAZARRE

MAY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD

(Based Upon the Mystery Surrounding the Fate of the Dauphin, Son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette)

Copyright, 1901, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

"Bellenger is part of the old story about the dauphin's removal. I heard of him first at Coblenz. And I understand now that he is following you with another dauphin and objecting to you in various delicate ways. Napoleon Bonaparte is master of France, and in the way to be master of Europe, because he has a nice sense of the values of men and the best head for detail that was ever formed in human shape. There is something almost supernatural in his grasp of affairs. He lets nothing escape him. The only mistake he ever made was butchering the young Duke d'Enghien; the courage and clearness of the man wavered at one instant, and, by the way, he borrowed my name for the Duke's incognito during the journey under arrest. England, Russia, Austria and Sweden are combining against Napoleon. He will beat them; for while other men sleep or amuse themselves or let circumstances drive them he is planning success and providing for all possible contingencies. Take a leaf out of the general's book, my boy. No enemy is contemptible. If you want to force the hand of fortune, scheme, scheme all the time—outscheme the other fellow." The marquis rose from the table.

"I am longer winded," he said, "than a man named De Chaumont, who has been importing Bonaparte in season and out of season to reinstate an American emigre, a Mme. de Ferrier."

"Will Bonaparte restore her lands?" I asked, feeling my voice like a rope in my throat.

"Do you know her family?"

"I knew Mme. de Ferrier in America."

"Their estate lies next to mine. And what is the little De Ferrier like since she is grown?"

"A beautiful woman."

"Ah, ah! Bonaparte's plan will then be easy of execution. You may see her this evening here in the Faubourg St. Germain. I believe she is to appear at Mme. de Permon's, where Bonaparte may look in."

My host bolted the doors of his private cabinet and took from the secret part of a wall cupboard the queen's jewel case. We opened it between us. The first thing I noticed was a gold snuffbox set with portraits of the king, the queen and their two children.

How I knew them I cannot tell. Their pictured faces had never been put before my conscious eyes until that moment. Other portraits might have been there. I had no doubt, no hesitation.

I was on my knees before the face I had seen in spasms of remembrance, with oval cheeks and fair hair rolled high, and open neck—my royal mother!

Next I looked at the king, heavier of feature, honest and straight looking, his chin held upward; at the little sister, a smaller miniature of the queen; at the softly molded curves of the child that was myself!

The marquis turned his back.

over there seem to have gone over this matter with great care before their Legislature and before the Governor. It is a difficult thing for us to go over the question in detail here. As the gentleman has suggested, we may run adversely to some local conditions. The committee, I am sure, would be glad to receive any suggestions from the gentleman from Connecticut.

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: I think it is a reasonable supposition that the language of section 2, on page 4 of the bill, would give this company the right to string its wires over private houses, etc. Possibly they would have to pay for such privilege, for of course they could not take private property without compensation.

Wires on House.

Mr. Hamilton: I do not think any company can come along and hitch its wires to my tree or my house without my consent.

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: Why, then, put this provision in the bill?

Mr. Hamilton: I think it is surplusage.

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: Then strike it out.

Mr. Hamilton: There is this difficulty which, as I am informed, the committee has to contend with: Here is a bill passed as a whole by the Hawaiian Legislature and approved by the Governor of Hawaii—

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: If the gentleman will secure me an extension of time, I am willing to yield further, but Before I could speak I rose and put my arms around him. He wheeled, took my hand, stood at a little distance and kissed it.

We said not one word about the portraits, but sat down, with the jewel case again between us.

"These stones and coins are also my sister's memento of the marquis!" He lifted his eyebrows.

"I had ample opportunity, my dear boy, to turn them into the exchequer of the Count of Provence. Before his quarrel with the late czar of Russia he maintained a dozen gentlemen in waiting and perhaps as many ladies, attending to his priests, servants, attendants of attendants and guards."

This treasure might last him two years. If the king of Spain and his majesty of Russia got wind of it and shut off their pensions it would not last so long. I am too thrifty a Frenchman to dissipate the hoards of the state in foreign parts. Yet if you question my taste, I will not say my honesty, Lazarre!"

"I question nothing, monsieur. I ask advice."

"Eh, bien! Then do not be quite as punctilious as the gentleman who got turned out of the debtor side of St. Pelagie into an alley. This will not do," says he. So around he posts to the entrance and asks for admittance again."

"Catch me knocking at St. Pelagie for admittance again!"

"Then my advice is to pay your tailor, if he has done his work acceptably."

"He has done it marvelously, especially in the fitting."

"A Parisian workman finds it no miracle to fit a man from his old clothes. I took the liberty of sending your orders. Having heard my little story, you understand that you owe me nothing but your society and a careful inventory of this trust."

We were a long time examining the contents of the case. There were six bags of coin, all gold louis; many uncut gems, rings for the hand and clusters of various sorts which I knew not how to name, that blazed with a kind of white fire very dazzling. The half-crown was crusted thick with colored stones the like of which I could not have imagined in my dreams. Their names, the marquis told me, were sapphires, emeralds, rubies and large clear diamonds like beads of rain. When everything was carefully returned to the case he asked:

"Shall I still act as your banker?"

I begged him to hide the jewel box again, and he concealed it in the wall.

"We go to the Rue Ste. Croix, Lazarre, which is an impossible place for your friend Bellenger at this time. Do you dance a gavot?"

I told him I could dance the Indian corn dance, and he advised me to reserve this accomplishment.

"Bonaparte's police are keen on any scent, especially the scent of a prince."

company may double it. That is one of the things to which I think the attention of the committee should be called.

Then there is another thing. I have no objection to the exclusive character of the proposition. I believe in that where public property is to be taken and where the streets and highways are to be used for a purpose of this kind. I do not think it should be within the power of anybody who may choose to organize a stock company and take possession of private property for the purposes of that company. To that extent I am a believer in monopoly.

Mr. Robinson of Indiana: This, however, is not an exclusive privilege. Bonding Privilege.

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: But I do not believe that section 12 should be allowed to pass in the form in which it now is, allowing the company to bond its property and its franchise to an unlimited extent, without any proportion whatever to its indebtedness and its capitalization. I think the committee should be very careful to guard that provision.

Mr. Hamilton: What does the gentleman suggest?

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: I should certainly suggest that the bonding power be limited; that at least the capital of the company should be paid in and the company not allowed to bond for more than an equal amount. (To be Continued Tomorrow.)

His practical mind would reject the Temple story, if he ever heard it, and there are enough live Bourbons for him to watch."

"But there is the Count de Chaumont," I suggested.

"He is not a man that would put faith in the Temple story, either, and I understand he is kindly disposed toward you."

"I lived in his house nearly a year," "he is not a bad fellow for the new sort. I feel certain of him. He is coaxing my friendship because of ancient amity between the houses of Du Plessy and De Ferrier."

"Did you say, monsieur, that Bonaparte intends to restore Mme. de Ferrier's lands?"

"They have been given to one of his rising officers."

"Then he will not restore them?"

"Oh, yes, with interest! His plan is to give her the officer for a husband."

CHAPTER XV.

Forgetting—if I had ever heard—how the ancients dreaded the powers above when they had been too fortunate, I went with the marquis in high spirits to the Rue Ste. Croix. There were pots of incense sending little waves of smoke through the rooms, and the people might have peeped a dream. The men were indeed all smooth and trim, but the women had given rein to their fancies.

Our hostess was a fair and gracious woman of Greek ancestry, as Bonaparte himself was, and her daughter had been married to his favorite general, the marquis told me.

Bonaparte's youngest sister stood receiving court. She was attired like a Bacchante, with bands of fur in her hair, topped by bunches of gold grapes. Her robe and tunic of muslin fine as air, woven in India, had bands of gold clasped with cameos under the bosom and on the arms. Each woman seemed to have planned outdoing the others in conceits which marked her own fairness.

I looked anxiously down the spacious room without seeing Mme. de Ferrier. The simplicity which made for beauty of houses in France struck me in the white and gold paneling, and the chimney, which lifted its mass of design to the ceiling. I must have been staring at this and thinking of Mme. de Ferrier when my name was called in a lifting and excited fashion:

"Lazarre!"

There was Mme. de Chaumont in the midst of gallants and better prepared to dance a gavot than any other charmer in the room, for her gauze dress, fastened on the shoulders so that it fell not quite off her bosom, reached only to the middle of the calf. This may have been for the protection of rosebuds with which ribbons drawn lengthwise through the skirt were fringed, but it also showed her childlike feet and ankles and made her appear tip-toe like a fairy and more remarkable than any other figure except the barefooted dame. She held a crook massed with ribbons and rosebuds in her hand, rallying the men to her standard by the lively chatter which they like better than wisdom.

Mlle. Annabel gave me her hand to kiss and made room for the Marquis du Plessy and me in her circle. I felt abashed by the looks these courtiers gave me, but the marquis put them readily in the background and delighted in the poppet, taking her quite to himself.

"We hear such wonderful stories about you, Lazarre! Besides, Dr. Chantry came to see us and told us all he knew. Remember, Lazarre belonged to us before you discovered him, monsieur le Marquis du Plessy! He and I are Americans!"

Some women near us commented, as seemed to be the fashion in that society, with a frankness which Indians would have restrained.

"See that girl! The emperor may now imagine what his brother Jerome has done. Her father has brought her, ever from America to marry her, and it will need all his money to accomplish that!"

Annabel shook the rain of misty hair at the sides of her rose pink face and laughed a joyful retort.

"No wonder poor Prince Jerome had to go to America for a wife! Did you ever see such hairy faced frights as these Parisians of the empire! Lazarre fell ill looking at them. He pretends he doesn't see women, monsieur, and goes about with his coat skirts loaded with books. I used to be almost as much afraid of him as I am of you!"

"Ah, mademoiselle, I dread to enter paradise!"

"Why, monsieur?"

"The angels are afraid of me!"

"Not when you smile."

"Teach me that adorable smile of yours."

"Oh, how improving you will be to Lazarre, monsieur! He never paid me a compliment in his life. He never said anything but the truth."

"The lucky dog! What pretty things he had to say!"

Annabel laughed and shook her mist in great enjoyment. I liked to watch her, yet I wondered where Mme. de Ferrier was, and could not bring myself to inquire.

"These horrible incense pots choke me," said Annabel.

"I like them," said the marquis.

"Do you? So do I," she instantly agreed with him.

"Though we get enough incense in church."

"I should think so! Do you like mass?"

"I was brought up on my knees, but I never acquired the real devotee's back."

"Sit on your heels," imparted Annabel in strict confidence. "Try it."

"I will. Ah, mademoiselle, any one who could bring such comfort into religion might make even wedlock endurable!"

Mme. de Ferrier appeared between the curtains of a deep window. "She was talking with Count de Chaumont and an officer in uniform. Her face pulsed a rosiest like that quiver in winter skies which we call northern lights. The clothes she wore, being always subdued by her head and shoulders, were not noticeable like other women's clothes. But I knew as soon as her eyes rested on me that she found me changed."

De Chaumont came a step to meet me, and I felt miraculously equal to him, with some power which was not in me before.

"You accourel, you have fallen into luck!" he said heartily.

"One of our proverbs is, 'A blind pig will find an acorn once in a while.'"

"There isn't a better acorn in the woods or one harder to shake down. How did you do it?"

I gave him a wise smile and held my tongue, knowing well that if I had remained in Ste. Pelagie and the fact ever came to De Chaumont's ears, like other human beings he would have repented my plunging into the world.

FRANCHISE LAWS OF CONNECTICUT COMPARED WITH OUR ELECTRIC BILL

The eighth section of the Congressional discussion on the Hawaiian Electric franchise, published today, gives a discussion of the franchise from the standpoint of Connecticut laws:

Connecticut's Laws.

Mr. Hill of Connecticut: Mr. Speaker, I should be very sorry to see this bill go back to Hawaii without an approval of some kind. I do not think we ought to do it. This company is operating now without any franchise. If the statements of the committee are to be relied on, it is now practically a joint partnership. I do not think so. In looking this over I think this is about the way the thing has come up: Ten years ago the King gave to certain gentlemen the privilege of operating an electric light plant, 2 1/2 per cent of the earnings to be paid to the

HAWAII CHAPTER, NO. 1 REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

Hawaii Chapter, No. 1, Order of Kamehameha, dedicated its new lodge rooms in Foster hall last evening. The attendance of members and friends was very good considering the inclement weather. The program was a short one, consisting of an English address by Wm. H. Coney on the objects and aims of the purely Hawaiian order and a Hawaiian address by Abraham Fernandez. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program.

The lodge rooms were very prettily decorated for the occasion, palms and Hawaiian flags being predominant. The hall itself has been very prettily fitted up and is really one of the neatest places of the kind in the city. The platform is raised but slightly from the floor and is covered with a very pretty pattern of carpet. The stations of the officers about the room are raised to the same height and each is provided with a beautiful koa stand. On the wall back of each officer's station hangs a Hawaiian flag and back of that of the Kaukaunui or Master, are the American and Hawaiian ensigns. The floors are neatly polished and the walls are of snowy whiteness. The ante-rooms are fitted up in a manner similar to that of the main lodge-room, and are most comfortable and cozy. One of these will be used as a kind of a club room where the members may collect whenever they feel so disposed.

Hawaii Chapter, No. 1, now has a membership of over fifty of the most prominent young Hawaiians of the city and the number is steadily increasing. It will not be very long before branches will be formed on all of the other islands.

JAPANESE RAISE MONEY

A meeting of representative Japanese of the city was held last evening at the Japanese school house on Nuuanu street, the idea being to discuss ways and means of aiding relatives and friends now serving in the Japanese army and navy. C. Shioda, manager of the Kei Hin bank, presided. Prominent among those present was Consul-General Miki Saito.

The question of raising a popular fund among the Japanese of Hawaii, to be forwarded to the Japanese government as a gift from the Mikado's faithful subjects in these islands, was discussed. In the end, it was decided that such a fund, if raised, should be merely for the benefit of relatives and friends of the subscribers.

Consul Saito made the statement that the United States would declare her neutrality in the war between Japan and Russia and as the Japanese living in Hawaii are living within a portion of the United States territory, it might not be wise for the Japanese residents to embarrass the Federal government by raising funds within its borders as a direct gift to the Japanese government.

In the end, it was decided to raise money to go to relatives and friends of the subscribers.

MIKADO SAYS WAR.

Last evening Japanese Consul Miki Saito received the following cablegram from the Japanese Minister at Washington:

Washington, Feb. 10, 1904.
His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, declared war against Russia on the 10th of February, 1904.

TAKAHIRA.
In leaving his residuary estate to his sons only, Mr. A. Holmes, a Bingley (England) brewer, said he did so not because his sons were dearer to him than his daughters, but because he considered that men have a harder struggle in life.

INCURABLE.

That is What the Books Say of Chronic Kidney Disease, But the New Fulton Compound Have a Record of 87% of Recoveries Among Chronic Cases Incurable by All Other Medicines.

Druggists know that kidney disease has been on eight or ten months has become chronic and that it is then regarded by physicians as incurable and that up to the advent of the Fulton Compound that nothing on their shelves would touch it. It is a proven fact that nearly nine-tenths of all cases are now curable, and druggists themselves are taking the new Compound. One of the recoveries was from Consul Saito, the pioneer druggist of 622 Pacific street, San Francisco, and he gave it to a dozen others who recovered. Here is another interesting recovery. (We copy from the Sacramento News of November 16, 1903.)
"After a serious illness of over a year Judge J. K. Allen of this city has recovered and reports himself most fortunate in successfully battling with what is generally regarded as a fatal malady, Bright's Disease of the kidneys. In speaking of his case Judge Allen said: 'I believe that the treatment given me by my physician was in accordance with the best medical science and it is entirely eliminated. My appetite is good, I have gained seventeen pounds in weight and will be pleased to describe my experience to anyone who may call or write.'"
—Sacramento News, Nov. 16, 1903.
The editor of the News himself was the friend who told Judge Allen of the Fulton Compound. They are the only things known that cure kidney disease after as well as before they become chronic, which happens about the tenth month. Equally efficient in dropsy, gout, rheumatism from uric acid and bladder trouble, Patient's Royal Compound for Bright's and Kidney Diseases, etc., 61, for Diabetes, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000.

Their Homes Flooded By Kallih Stream Families Seek Refuge

A man standing perched on the rail of the veranda of his house, holding to a post with one hand while he leaned out and, with the other hand, wielded a long-handled hoe in an effort to fish a floating rocking-chair out of the muddy flood which had invaded his premises during his absence downtown and, sweeping through from the rear of the cottage, had washed several lighter articles of furniture out through the front portal, where they piled up on the veranda or went assailing with the stream that was over the fences and mixing things up generally in the garden.

Such was one of the many unusual sights to be observed in the low-lying district near the old tramcar stables on King street, where the Kallih stream yesterday afternoon and evening had become a torrent, from the heavy rains, rushing madly across the road and Rapid Transit track, carrying taro patches and rice fields, over a much-churned mixture of ruined vegetation, on to the sea.

At least a dozen small cottages, inhabited chiefly by Hawaiians and Portuguese, were surrounded by water. The flood covered the yards to a depth of several feet and washed over verandas and into rooms, covering floors and, in some cases, floating furniture, driving the people out of doors to wade through the flood to the homes of friends and neighbors, situated above the level of the deluge.

The stream, proper, is supposed to flow between a couple of two-story store and lodging frame buildings which face King street. Here is a culvert over which passes the Rapid Transit track.

Yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, the water was rushing through the stores of these two structures in an angry stream. The stores were abandoned, except where a Japanese or Chinese had taken up his position on a counter and was reaching around in the wet to save goods that had not

A RAPID TRANSIT EPISODE.

This morning about half past ten, a tall lady with a half-sized husband, boarded a King street car, the lady was wearing her husband on her right hand, when they entered the husband looked up, and said to his wife: "You're tall enough to reach a strap, but what can I hold," she said, "If I was as short as you are, I'd hold my tongue," so he took hold of his tongue, the car started and he fell down, whereupon his dutiful spouse bolted. "What's the matter, can't you stand up?" Said hubby, "They both slipped." "Both what," said the wife. "Both my feet and my tongue," said the little husband, but let's get off the car and go and see Bath the plumber and have a look at that new line of Douglas Patent Closets that have just arrived. His telephone is 61 Main.

CROKER HAS SHAVED.

London, January 23.—Richard Croker has shaved off his beard and moustache, very considerably altering his appearance. The neighbors at Letcombe and Wantage are much mystified at Mr. Croker's action in making so marked a change in his physiognomy. The retired Tammany chieftain is expecting an intimate friend from New York and on the arrival of his guest both will cross to Ireland and stay a few days at French House, Curragh, the new training establishment Mr. Croker recently bought. Not having achieved the amount of success he had expected on the English turf, Mr. Croker has transferred practically all of his racing stud to Ireland.

New York, Jan. 30.—Radium is reported to have removed a cancer which had spread over the entire right cheek of William Hoffman, 62 years old, of Newark, N. J. When he came here for treatment several specialists expressed the belief that the growth could be removed only by cutting away nearly all the flesh on one side of his head.

Hoffman's nephew, a physician, procured a tube containing a tiny portion of radium and experimented by placing it in the patient's mouth. He reports that Hoffman complained of burning sensation in the cheek, which became unendurable after about forty minutes. The swelling began to go down immediately and the growth began to disappear after the treatment had been continued a few days. A stronger tube was procured from Paris and at the end of six weeks the cancer is said to have disappeared, leaving the cheek in its normal state.

Fashionable dogs in Paris, which for some time have worn overcoats with pockets for their little handkerchiefs, are now provided with goggles for their eyes when taken motoring.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon, there being a goodly number present. E. F. Bishop of Brewer & Co. and H. E. Wally of Bishop & Co. were elected to membership. Wm. Haywood was reappointed the Washington representative of the Chamber of Commerce for another year. F. J. Lowrey succeeded J. P. Cooke on several committees, which makes him chairman of the Committee on Agriculture.

R. A. Kearns sent in a letter asking to be appointed secretary for the Chamber. The matter was referred to the president.

The reports of the Hawaii Promotion Committee were read. This showed that over $11,000 provided by the Government had been expended. There was about $5,000 provided by the Chamber on deposit in the Bank of Hawaii.

The secretary's report was not read. On motion of E. D. Tenney it was referred to a committee for inspection. The report deals with the organization of the Promotion Committee and its work in endeavoring to get tourists, etc.

A communication was received from the Navy League of New York City, enclosing posters and literature on the organization, asking the Chamber to organize a branch in Honolulu. The object is to aid in the upbuilding of the Navy of the United States. The matter was referred to the Committee of Harbor and Marine Matters.

E. D. Tenney brought up the matter of the effect of the Japan-Russia war on Hawaii commercially. He thought the matter should be referred to a committee to keep in touch with the situation.

It was pointed out by some of the members that the present news of victory for Japan would create a feeling of unrest among the Japanese plantation laborers, thus affecting the labor supply.

C. M. Cooke informed the Chamber
