CORRESPONDENCE.

Was He Sarcastic.

ED. THE INDEPENDENT:

In the long, tiresome, swashbuckle barragoo of T. McCants Stewart in THE INDEPENDENT of Oct. 22, is the following horse medicine.

"You will find, Mr. Editor that the thoughtful people of this territory will rebuke the slur, which you attempt to place upon such a gentleman as W. C. Achi—a man of refinement and ability, who has done more for the city and for Hawaiians than a million men like your friend could do; a man who has been a success himself, and who has kept others from going down."

In the name of the great Jehovah did McCants Stewart intend the above as a means of opening the door of ridicule against Achi, or was it insult? Perhaps the Advertiser can explain the puzzle. In conclusion I will observe, that Mr. Stewart should send THE INDEPENDENT containing his letter—to Theodore Roosevelt and other such Republicans," that Stewart claims he stamped with in New York for McKinley, as they might feel proud of the association being circulated in Honolulu, by Mr. Stewart and raise a monument in memory of the occasion.

Honors For Sienkiewicz.

Throughout Poland next month ceremonies will be held in honor of the author of "Quo Vadis." In Warsaw the fete will be marked by the presence of the novelist himself. Subscription are now being collected for the presentation of a jubilee gift to Henryk Sienkiewicz. It is sanguinely expected (says the New York Times Saturday Review) that sufficient money will be subscribed to purchase a country estate for "the darling of the Polish nation" on Polish soil.

Apropos of "Quo Vadis," the increased sale of the French translation of that work in Paris can only be accounted for on the ground that it is reflective. The novel first appeared as a serial in La Revue Blanche and Le Mercure de France, while in book-form it is included in a bulky volume of 645 pages. The form and manner of presentation are not such as to recommend the book to the French, but it comes out so well advertised with reports of the prodigious figures representing the sales in other languages—1,000,000 copies in the United States, 40,000 in Italy, 150,000 in Germany—that the book-stops on the boulevards are noting a run on the book. French religious reviews have also taken up the subject, and there is now a report that the original French translation, made by two Poles, is to be superseded by another translation, the work of a well known Frenchman of letters, which will be presented in a more attractive volume.

The subscription in Poland has been so successful that the committee having the matter in charge have decided to purchase for the author the domain of Oblęgorek at Kielce, where the novelist spent his childhood, and which later passed out of his family through the reverses of fortune.

Have your campaign documents delivered by the American Messenger Service, Tel. Main 499.

A TIMELY WARNING.

From the columns of The Evening Bulletin we extract the following short editorial:

Not the least of moral obligations placed upon Governor Dole as a Republican appointee is the carrying of this Territory at the first election for the Republicans. This is recognized among all politicians more particularly those prominent in national affairs. The Governor has the advantage of an organization behind him that has shelved factional differences and placed personal opinions secondary to the success of the party under whose control Hawaii's continued prosperity can only be assured.

With the motives of the Bulletin in publishing the above extract we have nothing to do; but we must thank that paper's editors for furnishing us a text for a few remarks upon which we wish the voters of the Independent and Democratic parties to do some thinking. We are told that a moral obligation rests upon Governor Dole to carry the coming election for the Republican party; that the organization of that party is behind Governor Dole and must sink its personal differences in order that the Governor may meet a moral obligation.

This means that a victory of the Republican party of Hawaii at the polls on the 6th of November will be viewed by President McKinley and the Republican Congress at Washington as an approval by Hawaiians of the annexation of Hawaii. This is what the Bulletin means.

We ask the people of Hawaii who opposed the annexation scheme, and who have only accepted the results of the scheming of Governor Dole and President McKinley because there is nothing else left for them to do, whether they are prepared to cast their ballots in such a way that a Republican victory in these Islands may be taken as giving the stamp of their approval to the outrage of January 17, 1893, and all that has followed that outrage?

Can Democrats in these Islands give the stamp of their approval to the first act in President McKinley's imperial policy and consistently disapprove of his policy in the Philippine Islands? Can Democrats give the stamp of their approval to the imperial policy of President McKinley when such an approval can only mean the censure of ex-President Grover Cleveland for his opposition to the beginning of that policy?

Can Hawaiians forget that the landing of the armed forces of the U. S. ship of war Boston on Hawaiian soil in January, 1893, was the act of and had the approval of the Republican Administration of President Harrison? Will Hawaiians give the stamp of their approval to the forcible dethronement of Queen Liliuokalani; to the overthrow of the monarchy of Hawaii; and to the removal of the Hawaiian flag from among the national flags of the world?

Can the members of the "Aloha Aiea" and "Kalahele" patriotic societies forget that their respectful protests against annexation; their petitions for the restoration of their Queen and their flag met with silent contempt at the hands of President McKinley and his administration? If Hawaiians do not forget how can they cast a ballot for any man on the Republican ticket, when such a ballot means the approval of President McKinley's policy toward Hawaii?

Can any true son or daughter of Hawaii forget the imprisonment of their Queen, of Prince Kalanikouale, and the loyal Hawaiians, native and foreign born, who suffered in Oahu prison? Can you, Hawaiians forget that you were robbed of your right to vote; that you were refused the privilege of working on public works for the support of your families unless you subscribed to the annexation roll; that the grief and early death of your beloved Princess Kaiulani was due to the crime against Hawaii of 1893.

Remembering all this Hawaiians, Democrats and Independents, what think you of the impudence of the Republicans who, through The Evening Bulletin, ask you to vote that the actions of Governor Dole and President McKinley in relation to Hawaii shall carry the stamp of your approval.

You can only vote, without shame, for the party whose President, Grover Cleveland, stood by Hawaii and its flag in time of great trouble.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Gleanings of the Doings of All the Parties.

In the rooms of the United Chinese Societies yesterday afternoon a number of Chinese voters about fifty were addressed on the political issues of the day by the following Republicans: George R. Carter, Hon. Sam Parker, Enoch Johnson, W. C. Achi, and Charles B. Wilson. The meeting was presided over by Wong Kwai with William Y. Kwai Fong as Secretary and Interpreter.

The Advertiser is responsible for the following interview with John F. Colburn, which the gentleman says is absolutely correct:

"You can say that Her Majesty, Queen Liliuokalani, having held the high post she once did, would deem it unwise to state her position definitely with reference to the political parties of Hawaii, certainly not with a view of antagonizing the Republican party. Still her natural preference is with Prince David."

So said John F. Colburn, Prince David's adviser, and one of the leading members of the Democratic party, to an Advertiser reporter last night in the course of a stenographic interview. The interview was held in the residence of John Cummins, where the Queen had been a guest at lunch.

"Furthermore," continued Mr. Colburn, "Her Majesty does not want an irresponsible Legislature elected which would impose heavy taxation upon the Territory. The Queen is a property owner and is desirous of having reasonable taxes. She feels that the Hawaiians should keep themselves upon record in the creditable attitude they have taken since the dethronement."

"Actions speak louder than words and blood is thicker than water. Her very relationship to Prince David speaks more than words can express. She is his aunt and the ties of consanguinity are strong in those of the Hawaiian race. If Her Majesty should die intestate this night her entire property would go to Prince David and Prince Cupid."

"That alone is evidence that the Queen has sympathies which natually go out to David. It was in my presence that Her Majesty made the suggestion—and she is in reality its author—that the emblem now used by the Democratic party should be the emblem of Prince David. I refer to the crossed tabu sticks over the royal kahili."

Speaking for himself, the following statement was made by Mr. Colburn as an introductory to his interview:

"If Sam Parker is elected, I believe we are safe, and if Prince David is elected I believe we are still safer."

"We are out of danger when Mr. Wilcox is not elected."

"Her Majesty was a guest at a luncheon given to day at Mr. Cummins residence, such a luncheon as I have participated in for many, many Sundays, and such a luncheon as he has given to his friends for the last forty years. The Queen was aware that Prince David was to leave on the 3:15 train this afternoon to make a campaign tour of this Island."

"Knowing that she wanted to accompany Prince David to a point upon the railroad where it was practicable for her to return on the inbound train for Honolulu, arrangements were made by me with the O. R. & L. Co., to convey Her Majesty and party. A private car was placed at the Queen's disposal, and she was accompanied by the Prince, Mrs. James Campbell and daughters, Mr. J. A. Cummins and a large party numbering fifty-five in all. At Waimanalo point the Queen's car was attached to the inbound train and she was brought back to Honolulu with her party, while Prince David and the Democratic speakers went on to Wai'alea."

"I wish to state that the expressions of the Queen last Tuesday evening at Prince David's Waikiki residence and to-day is an intimation that she believes a responsible element should be elected by her people to serve in the Legislature and in Congress."

It was apparent from further statements made by Mr. Colburn that the Queen does not approve of the election of Wilcox or the Independent ticket. The "irresponsible Legislature" and the "irresponsible element" spoken of by Mr. Colburn, meant the Wilcox crowd.

It was a bold move on the part of the Independents to throw J. O. Carter and E. C. Macfarlane overboard, says the Maui News. Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad, and it does seem an act of madness on their part. Perhaps the true explanation is that the Independents feel that they are strong enough to run things without help. Election day will disabuse their minds so far as Maui is concerned, and there are certain indications that Wilcoxism will receive its eternal quietus at the next election.

The Hilo Tribune says: When we recall the predilection that the alleged haole-destroying Bob has shown for making himself invisible in Honolulu's bloodless revolutions we think that perhaps after all the American Executive and Congress might escape his devastating hand, even should he be sent by this Territory to Washington. But even this thought hardly reconciles us to the idea of being represented at the National Capital by the biggest buffoon Hawaii has ever produced, whom even an unbiased critic could hardly classify more flatteringly than as half fool and half rascal.

The island steamer Wai'alea has been chartered by the Democrats for four days. Prince David Kawānanakoa, with a large party of his constituents, will leave for their last ante-election campaign on Thursday evening. They go to Maui and Molokai and expect to return on Sunday.

CHINA DEFIANT.

Peking to be Recaptured.

SHANGHAI, September 26.—A report from a reliable Chinese source states that Li Hung-chang has received secret orders from the Throne directing him to attempt the recapture of Peking and Tientsin.

A force of one hundred thousand men has been promised for the attempt. It is not thought likely that Li Hung-chang will try to carry out the order, but the mere fact of such an order being issued serves to indicate the temper of the Court.—Hongkong Telegraph.

The Pot Is Pau.

Officer J. Hanrahan, who has gained considerable notoriety while in the employ of the Police Department was asked for his resignation by the High Sheriff yesterday. The reason was the insubordination of the officer towards his superior, Robert Parker-Waipa, senior captain, who offered his resignation to the High Sheriff in case the man Hanrahan was retained on the force. We will give the story in full in our next issue.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

Since Annexation there has been a noticeable attempt to make Honolulu an "open town" in regard to the vices of prostitution and secret gambling in spite of the great number of our churches and religious and social societies. It will need the strongest and most honest effort of our police and judiciary to forestall and prevent such contamination as is prevalent in New York as so graphically described by Franklin Matthews in Harper's Weekly of October 13th. We are pleased to see that Judge Wilcox has already sternly taken the matter up in connection with the panders of Iwilei.

Mr. John Ena, one of our foremost Hawaiians and a shrewd financier, has announced himself as solid Republican, according to the Advertiser. The reason Mr. Ena gives for the deserting of his former loyalty to the ali'i of Hawaii, who now are affiliated with the Democratic party is that when he recently visited Ensenada in Mexico one of his numerous American ten dollar gold pieces secured for him "two boxes of fine cigars, a luncheon for self and friend [mean wine not given,] the fee for the several games of billiards most likely won by John, and one or two Mexican relics." Then is Mr. Ena made to say, that he out of that $10 gold piece after paying the above expenses had still $13 Mexican in his pocket when he went on board the steamer. A Mexican silver dollar contains more silver than an American silver dollar does, does, and yet Mr. Ena would be willing any day to take $10 American silver in exchange for a ten dollar gold piece. It proves that the intrinsic value of a coin is of no possible account, as long as the countries which call it legal tender endorse it. Mr. Ena knows that for two shillings he can purchase more merchandise in London than he can for 50 cents in Honolulu. Accepted values and not the simple question of gold and silver should be the basis of the commerce of the world. Mr. Ena is the happy possessor of many gold eagles and if he for each $10 piece can gain the value of $13, in silver or merchandise in Mexico, he would surely return to that Eldorado. Even in a "Jackpot" in Honolulu people make occasionally more than 23 to 10, but we don't think that the fact is a strong argument for monometallism.

Spreckels Gets Contract.

WELLINGTON, N. Z. Oct. 11.—The House of Representatives to-day approved the Postmaster General's agreement with Messrs. Spreckels to continue for a year the San Francisco mail service. The vessels will run every three weeks, instead of monthly, beginning November 1st. The time from San Francisco to Auckland must not exceed sixteen days.

An amendment favoring a Vancouver service was carried without a division.

A Dangerous Criminal.

Charles Heffernan, who for a number of years has resided in the islands and was locked up in the police station last Thursday on a charge of forgery, escaped in a mysterious manner yesterday morning. An alarm was given and after the utmost exertion of the police force the man was located at Kapalama and taken to the Station House.

High Sheriff Brown requested his Deputy to take the man to Oahu Jail for safe keeping and Mr. Chillingworth, the Deputy High Sheriff, who has formerly befriended the man, sent for a hack and without ordering the escaped criminal to be searched, proceeded on the short journey to the Jail. When nearing the Jail Heffernan made an attempt to step out of the carriage, and drawing a revolver ordered the Deputy High Sheriff, who is a young man, to get out and walk hands up into the dark recess to give the wielder of the pistol a chance to escape.

Chillingworth does not know what fear is. He was unarmed but possessed of a temper which stopped him in place of a weapon. He unhesitatingly rushed at the daring man, threw him down grasping the hammer of the revolver and having a finger jammed by the hammer while the struggling criminal was pulling the trigger.

Heffernan was disarmed lodged in Oahu jail, and to-day charged with several cases of forgery besides a charge of attempting to murder Charles Chillingworth.

At the advice of his attorney Mr. Creighton the defendant waived examination and was committed for trial.

Warring Upon the Cigarette.

There is in parts of the East just now an anti-cigarette craze of type almost virulent. It is inspired of hatred for all tobacco, concern for the bodies and souls of all users of the weed; but particularly, hatred of the cigarette, and fear that the consumer thereof is working out his own undoing. A league has been organized to spread the information that the cigarette is deadly; that while it yellows the fingers, it blights the intellectual parts, stunts the moral, warps the spiritual, and leaves the physical a wreck.

Much nonsense has been written about the cigarette. It is often offensive, to be sure, and that it may be indulged in to an extent markedly injurious can not be denied. So may any other habit that has an effect upon the nerves. To tan the stomach by continual floods of tea, or mar the equanimity of the liver by the taking in of coffee at all times, is not only as possible but far more common. Doubtless many members of the reformatory league, their noses tilted to catch, and so rebuke, the fumes of tobacco, are addicted to excessive use of tea or coffee. The emotion which they think righteousness is simply irritability. Bad temper leads them to attempt to regenerate the social morale, while all they need is a moderation of appetite and a change of drinks. Perhaps they would find an occasional cigarette soothing and beneficial.

The evil of the cigarette is that the article is so easily procured that small boys can get it, and thus acquire the practice of smoking, incessantly and by easy stages carrying them to the stage of cigar and pipe. That the cigarette in itself, employed in moderation, is unhealthy, has not been proved. Doctors write theses about it, but many of them, unless graduated to the more potent cigar, are devoted to it. It might make a small boy sick, but its effect upon the matured system is slight. Therefore the attempt to banish the cigarette, unless effort be confined to the admonition and sparing of youth, strikes the unbiased judgment as childish.

Nave then, the league, strenuously operative in good Chicago, has inscribed on its banner "The Cigarette Must Go." With a fervor almost political in intensity it points with pride at the legend, after having duly viewed with alarm. An effect of this has been that many firms have interdicted the use of cigarettes by employees. In the list, so far embracing sixty-six, there appear railroad companies, banks, brokers, manufacturers, express and packing companies, and merchants. The league is sending out blanks to employers, asking them not to give positions to cigarette smokers. All of which, with due regard for the goodness of the motive, strikes the unbiased as wanton meddling. When a man seeking work is asked if he smokes cigarettes, he is apt to be conscious of an impulse to reply that it is none of the inquirer's business. Else, if bread and butter depend on the outcome, he is tempted to lie; yielding to which temptation he commits a greater sin than by the act of smoking.

There are many situations during the occupancy of which smoking would be manifestly out of place. A clerk waiting upon a customer, an accountant whose time is paid for would have no right to smoke and no impulse to do so. After office hours, however, the question of smoking or not smoking is his own to decide, and the attempt to answer it for him is an impertinence. If he is a gentleman he will not puff in the faces of others; if he is careful of appearances he will not let his finger assume a saffron hue; and if he have sense he will not smoke to an injurious extent. The cigarette is not the deadly thing so often pictured; too many people, especially of Spanish origin, dying of old age, expend their latest breath in drawing upon it, to permit the theory to stand. Nevertheless, the league is enjoying itself.—The Argonaut.

The Tientsin Looting.

The following letters from Tientsin have been placed at the disposal of the Ostasiatische Lloyd, and we translate:

Tientsin, July 16th.

Immediately after the occupation of the Native City, people who during the bombardment were only to be found in the deepest cellars (of the settlement) were seen to go into the town and come back heavily laden with booty of all kinds, especially with silver sycee. Nevertheless their delight did not last long. Capt. Bayly, the English Commander in the town, quickly relieved the robbers.

Not one of these people had stirred a hand at the time the position was dangerous for all, but that did not prevent them taking part in the looting or collecting a large amount of booty. All the money and silver taken from these robbers goes to the war fund. [Presumably this means the general prize fund—Ed. K. C.]

Their despoliation was very simple. Before they knew where they were Bayly appeared with the words "everybody in this place is arrested." The doors were then guarded and a thorough domiciliary search made. One English correspondent was especially disappointed, as he had with great difficulty brought together sycee to the value of 28,000 taels. Today a court-martial is sitting in regard to this affair. Otherwise I have not much to report. Fires are burning everywhere.

Already part of the Native City is in flames. The atmosphere is terrible, with the exceptional heat and the foul stench of corpses and the clouds of smoke. In our office desolation reigns. I cannot open my safes, as the handles have been knocked off and the safes upset. All the German firms in the French settlement have, after consultation with the German consul, sent through him a communication to the French consul-general in which they claim indemnity.

Tientsin, July 17th.

I wrote to you yesterday morning, and have now to make the serious communication that in the meanwhile our whole house has been completely plundered by Russian and French soldiers and all the furniture ruthlessly demolished. All the safes have been broken open, and I am trying now to save at least the boots. From the French consul no help could be got, and the German and Russian consuls could do nothing.

Consul Dr. Zimmermann has viewed the wrecked buildings and has personally visited the Comte du Chaylard who assured him that the claims of the German firms, if they were countersigned by the German consul, would be represented by him to his government in the same way as if the claims came from French firms.

The Ostasiatische Lloyd, in reproducing these two letters, says: After the taking of the Native City of Tientsin, which is inhabited by more than a million of people, the French, English, American and Russian authorities officially (officially) permitted their troops to plunder the town for half a day. It is to be especially mentioned that in the looting now taking place no Germans have participated. To what extent the looting was carried out will hardly be credited.

For days not only the Native City was plundered, but also every house in the European settlement. But the worst part of these shameless and uncivilized proceedings is that quite a number of civilians participated, and amongst them members of the so called best society of Tientsin. To reproduce the verbal reports that have been brought here by eye-witnesses is impossible.—Kobe Chron.
